Plan Setting Up Ground Observer Post Here; Need 175 Volunteers

Air Force Filter Center Representatives Here To Explain Operation

By EDWINA HAYMES Reflecter Staff Writer Two representatives from the Air Force filter center in Durham were here today to begin making arrangements for a ground observation post to be set up in Greenville.

Locally, Lester E. Turnage will be in charge of this project. He was appointed by civil defense chairman J. H. Rose.

A-1C Glenn Campbell and A-2C Walter Graham of the Air Force Ground Observer Corps made preliminary preparations for the setting up of the local observation post in their visit here today.

Campbell said the post here will probably be located at the airport and operations will begin as soon as it can be set up.

He noted that approximately 175 volunteers will be needed to man the post efficiently 24 hours a day for an indefinite period of time.

There will be a training program for local observers, he said.

Campbell explained the operation of the post, and said local calls will come in to the Durham filter center, which is also manned by civilians, and here the type of aircraft and its speed will be plotted.

The call will then be relayed to Marietta, Ga. where it will be plotted on a board covering seven southeastern states.

Flight plans of all aircraft in that area will be checked, and if the reported plane has no flight plan interceptor planes will be sent up to investigate.

The sergeant noted that this procedure is a supplement to the radar system, and is needed because "radar is ineffective at times due to mechanical difficulties, such as the curvature of the earth. In addition, radar won't go through buildings and trees."

He said it is felt necessary to have a ground observer post in Greenville because for effective coverage "there should be a post every eight miles. Two or more calls from the same area are needed to accurately plot aircraft," he declared.

This post is to complete the number designated for Pitt County, though the sergeant said one might be set up later at Grimesland.

Western, eastern and northern states, along with Alaska and Canada, have been on 24-hour observation duty for the past two years, Campbell reported, with the posts in Canada mandatory.

To Invite Talks

LONDON (AP)—Official British informants said today Britain and the United States have agreed to invite Communist China to a United Nations Security Council meeting for discussion of a cease-fire in the China fighting.

These responsible informants said New Zealand, in agreement with Britain and the United States, will ask the Security Council to meet Monday to consider extending the invitation to the Peking regime.

The United States and Nationalist China were reported ready to participate in the discussions with the Chinese Reds.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is expected to ask India's Prime Minister Nehru to use his influence with the Chinese Reds to get them to accept the invitation. Nehru is due here Saturday to attend the Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference opening in London Monday.

Committee OKs Deferring Date For N.C. Taxes

RALEIGH (AP)—The Joint Finance Committee yesterday approved three House bills which would postpone from March 15 to April 15 the deadline for filing state income, intangible and gift tax returns.

The April 15 date would conform with the new deadline for filing federal returns.

The committee action was one of the highlights of a busy legislative day that saw the introduction of several new bills in both houses and the appointment of nine more committees by House Speaker Larry Moore.

Moore already had appointed nine committees. He is expected to name additional committees to bring the House total to more than 40.

In making his new committee assignments, Moore named the following chairmen: Agriculture Committee, Rep. A. C. Edwards, Greene; Senatorial Districts, Rep. Robert M. Carr, Duplin; Manufacturers and Labor, Rep. Charles K. Bryant Sr., Gaston; Insurance, Rep. B. T. Falls, Cleveland; Banks and Banking, Rep. Edward F. Yarborough, Franklin; Military Affairs, Rep. Phillip R. Whitley, Wake; Veterans Legislation, Rep. B. I. Satterfield, Person; Expenditures of the House, Rep. Carson Gregory, Harnett; and Engrossed Bills, Rep. F. L. Goble, Forsyth.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two-year-old Richard Padgett Jr. was kept overnight in Beth-el Hospital after falling 11 stories from the window of his Brooklyn apartment yesterday and landing on a grassy plot. The hospital said that aside from a couple of minor scalp cuts they could find nothing wrong with him.

U. S. Source Favors Giving Evacuation Commander Power To Hit Back At Reds

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—A U.S. source said today he thought American support would be extended to the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, and conceded that agreement in principle had been reached on evacuation of the Red-threatened Tachen Islands.

He said in event of a clash with the Communists he was in favor of giving the commander opposing them full power "without any privileged sanctuaries."

The Tachens are 200 miles north of Formosa and about 20 miles off the Red mainland. They are under direct threat of Red artillery on newly captured Yikiangshan Island and have been under heavy air bombardment.

The Matsu group is 100 miles northwest of Formosa and 20 miles off the coast. Quemoy, the main Nationalist offshore outpost, is 120 miles across the Formosa Strait from Formosa and seven miles from the Red port of Amoy.

Final decision on withdrawal from the Tachens apparently awaits congressional approval of President Eisenhower's fight-if-we-must Formosa policy.

Sabrejets of the U.S. 18th Fighter Bomber Wing have been transferred from Okinawa and the Philippines to Formosa to support the U.S. 7th Fleet, already in the area on combat alert.

But U.S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin said today he does not feel there is great danger of an important conflict breaking out if the United States maintains its firm attitude without being provocative.

"I believe the stronger attitude we take without being provocative—and we will not be—the better chance we have of avoiding war," Rankin told a news conference.

(In Tokyo, an American source said U.S. aircraft in the Far East have been deployed to strike the Communists from Alaska to the Philippines at a moment's notice if the Reds start a real war over the Formosa crisis.)

"We are as alert as we can be, and we will not let the Reds get away with this minute," the source declared.

At air bases on Formosa there were veteran U.S. combat pilots. They were calm, unworried and confident, they can deliver.

Big transport planes flew in tons of heavy equipment to support the fighter-bombers and their crews.

While the U.S. beefed up its forces in the Formosa area, Nationalist warplanes attacked Red shipping and Communist island outposts near the Tachens.

Nationalist headquarters claimed direct hits on a 1,500-ton Red warship 85 miles northeast of the Tachens. Headquarters also claimed excellent results in raids on Red-held Toumen and Yikiangshan Islands.

The American official in Taipei who said he thought Quemoy and Matsu would be taken under the U.S. wing, said the development of Communist air power had changed the positions of the Tachen Islands in recent years.

But, he said, the Reds were not in a position to assume command of the air over Quemoy and Matsu. The most they could do, he said, was to help from the United States would be able to maintain its present superiority.

Formosa Plan Approval Certain, But Want to Talk Senate Seeking Vote Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders pressed today for quick approval of President Eisenhower's Formosa defense policy, but critics indicated they wanted to do some more talking.

"I think the vote must come today," said Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader.

He thus took the same line as that voiced yesterday by Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

George told the Senate it should not use "trifling amendments" or long delays to rob the resolution of its psychological impact.

The resolution which would give advance approval to the measures Eisenhower deems necessary to protect Formosa and the Pescadore Islands, passed the House Tuesday 409-3.

That the Senate will also approve was conceded by almost everyone.

Sen. Clements (D-Ky.), acting majority leader, said he would hold the Senate in session tonight or order a Saturday session if that would bring a final vote.

They incline to the view that Red Chinese leaders, no matter how violently they may dislike seeing the Nationalists escape capture with U.S. help, realize they do not have sufficient airpower to prevent it.

Further, they say the Reds know they might be risking American bombing of Chinese mainland targets if they dared attack any part of the 7th Fleet.

This view—that the Reds will do nothing to interfere—appears to have prevailed. However, it was learned that some responsible officials hold the opposite view and believe there is considerable risk involved.

This minority believes the Red Chinese might well launch some kind of air attacks for two reasons:

1. To demonstrate to the world that Chinese Reds will not tolerate interference in what they regard as a civil war against Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

2. To try to frighten American leaders away from giving similar air and naval protection to Nationalist forces in the future.

Red China is known to have five airfields on the China mainland within easy flying range of the Tachens.

The U.S. 18th Fighter-Bomber Wing flew into Formosa yesterday. There are in the area five American aircraft carriers, either in waters near Formosa or en route there from other bases.

Most See No Major Interference By Reds Experts Differ Over 'Risk'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government officials who try to puzzle out enemy intentions differ over how great is the risk that Chinese Communist warplanes will attack U.S. ships in any evacuation of Nationalist-held islands off China.

The question has arisen in connection with the drafting of plans to provide American air and sea protection and transportation for U.S. ships in any evacuation of the Tachen group 200 miles north of Formosa and about 12 miles off the Red coast.

Most authorities concerned with the problem believe the Chinese Reds are not likely to interfere on a major scale. These officials reason that the Reds will be satisfied to take over the Tachens.

They incline to the view that Red Chinese leaders, no matter how violently they may dislike seeing the Nationalists escape capture with U.S. help, realize they do not have sufficient airpower to prevent it.

Investigate Two Reports Fishing Vessels Bombed

SEALEVEL, N.C. (AP)—Cherry Point Marine Air Station officials said today they are investigating reports of two bombing incidents involving military planes and civilian fishing boats.

A small oyster boat was sunk Tuesday after a smoke bomb struck it. The skipper of a fishing boat said yesterday a bomb was dropped near his craft in Pamlico Sound.

Both incidents occurred near a Marine bombing target range on the mainland.

The Baracuda, an oyster boat owned and operated by Leonard Goodwin 28, of Sea Level sank in eight feet of water in Pamlico Sound near Little Swan Island Tuesday after it was struck, apparently by a smoke bomb carried by a military aircraft.

Goodwin was rescued after he spent 22 hours atop the pilot house of his craft in freezing weather.

The most incident was reported yesterday by James Styron of Sea Level. He said he was in a channel on the Pamlico Sound side of Drum Inlet about noon Wednesday when a plane dived at his boat, releasing a bomb which struck and exploded in the water about 150 yards off his port bow.

The bomb was dropped, Styron related, after the plane dived at his boat, circled him, then dived again. Charles Edwards, mate on the Q100, a patrol boat, said he and two others witnessed the incident involving Styron.

Edwards said he and two companions Virgil Hamilton and Billy Robinson, all of Atlantic were standing at Smith's Dock at Atlantic, when he saw the splash as the bomb exploded and the smoke that followed. The dock is about a 1 1/2 miles from where Styron's boat was located.

The Cherry Point Marine Air Station has a bombing target range on the mainland about three miles north of Atlantic and across Core's Sound from Drum Inlet.

Ben E. Fountain Resigns Today

ROCKY MOUNT (AP)—State Rep. Ben E. Fountain of Edgecombe resigned from the General Assembly today because of illness.

Fountain, who was in his seventh term as a House member, entered a Chapel Hill hospital Wednesday for treatment of what his family called nervous exhaustion. His condition was not considered serious, but his physician advised him that his recovery probably would require his resignation from the General Assembly.

Faster Divorces And Highway Speed Limit Proposed In Bills

RALEIGH (AP)—Bills which would make it easier to seek a divorce, increase the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, and take trial of certain motor violations out of the hands of justices of the peace were introduced in the Senate today.

A measure introduced by Sen. Edward L. Owens of Washington would reduce the period of separation before you could seek a divorce in North Carolina from two years to one.

"The time has come for us to get in line with other states," the senator said. "Getting a divorce for the wealthy man is relatively easy. He can go to another state. The poor man can't."

House Approves Bill To Continue GI Schooling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unanimous House approval boosted today the chances for quick Senate passage of a bill to continue schooling rights for men in the armed services by Jan. 31.

The House passed the measure 366-0 yesterday and sent it to the Senate. Chairman Hill (D-Ala.) of the Senate Labor Committee said he plans hearings on the bill for next week.

The measure would assure up to 36 months of government-financed education for those in service by Jan. 31. After discharge, they will be entitled to 1 1/2 days of educational benefits for each day of service up to that maximum. It is expected to add about 350 million dollars to the cost of veterans' care.

HAVANA (AP)—A bomb explosion shattered plate glass windows last night in the center of Havana's commercial district. No injuries were reported.

Thomson is introducing a bill permitting cars, regular passenger carrying vehicles and small trucks to travel 65 miles per hour on highways, where such speed is "reasonable and safe."

The high speed zone would have to be approved by the Motor Vehicles Department and adequately marked by the Highway Commission.

Hightower said he had not conferred with either agency prior to introducing the bill.

At present you may not drive over 55 miles per hour in North Carolina.

Other Hightower measures would make misdemeanors the passing of a vehicle on a hill or curve, or not properly yielding the right of way. These violations are now tried by J.P.s, said Hightower, and fines are limited to maximums of $50 or 30 days in prison.

He said the right of way bill would apply to a driver who stops at a stop sign and then starts up in the face of moving traffic, instead of letting the moving vehicle pass first.

Another Hightower bill would permit law enforcement officers to increase their benefits by making up back payments to the fund.

Hightower explained that many officers, who are not protected by civil service, fall to join the retirement fund until they have been officers for a number of years.

The bill permits them to make up back payments for the time for which they were eligible, at a 4 per cent interest cost on the back payments.

A bill by Sen. Wills Hancock of Greenville would create a North Carolina Distinguished Service Medal and authorize its award to civilians and National Guard personnel. Also, the governor could confer brevet rank upon retired officers and enlisted men of the National Guard.

Hancock noted that North Carolina recently took over control of the National Guard's 310th Division. Retired guardsmen of at least 10 years service would be eligible for the honorary brevet rank.

The brevet would be one rank higher than that held by the honored person, but in no case higher than that of lieutenant general.

A bill introduced by Sen. Adam Whitley of Johnston and others would make it more difficult for insurance companies to cancel the renewal of hospitalization, accident and health policies. The measure was the same as one introduced in the House yesterday by Rep. Clifton Blue of Moore and others.

Thomas Adams Sentenced To 25-30 Years Slayer Given Prison Term

By ROBERT SMITH Reflecter Staff Writer Thomas Adams, a Negro farm hand, was sentenced to 25-30 years in State Prison yesterday afternoon in the shotgun slaying of his girl friend, Retha Solomon Edwards, in a farm house near Ayden shortly before Christmas.

Adams pleaded guilty to second-degree murder, which was accepted by the state.

The trial in Superior Court yesterday afternoon lasted less than an hour.

The testimony of an eyewitness to the shooting, Willie B. Fleming, was not challenged by the defense. Fleming testified that Adams said to his girl friend, "Ree, I'm going to kill you. And then later: 'Ree, shake my hand for the last time.'"

Miss Edwards, who had been complaining that she was cold, was laying across a bed during the conversation, and finally pulled the covers over her head.

A commotion ensued a few minutes later. Adams secured a shotgun, and the fatal blast was fired, according to Fleming.

About ten minutes later Ayden police arrived at the scene. Adams told Police Chief J. A. Jones, "Ree was coming at me with a knife and that was all I could do."

At the trial Fleming testified that he had not noticed a butcher knife when he saw Adams' hand when she was shot.

A butcher knife was found under the body at the scene of the shooting.

Police Chief Jones said that Adams changed his story about the butcher knife several times, and finally admitted that he secured the knife from the kitchen cabinet after the slaying and placed it under the body.

After the shooting Fleming said he told Adams, "Tom, you killed Retha."

Fleming said that Adams did not attempt to run away after the shooting.

In response to a question from the counsel for the defense, Fleming said that it had not occurred to him that Adams might turn on him with the shotgun.

Fleming further testified that he thought that Adams and Miss Edwards were married.

Chief Jones said that Miss Edwards came to the farmhouse at daybreak, that she had been drinking, and on arrival went to bed complaining that she was cold. Jones added that she had been in Ayden Recorder's Court on numerous occasions for drunkenness, and said that he had heard that Adams and Miss Edwards had planned to get married.

Counsel for the defense, Milton Williamson, told the court that a doctor had told Adams that he might not live because of attacks of epilepsy.

The action of the legislative committee in tabling the bill which would reduce the time limit of separation necessary to procure a divorce to two years instead of five should receive the hearty approval and endorsement of the people of this state. The hostess served a delicious dessert course with coffee and nuts, after which followed a brief business session presided over by the president, Mrs. George Martin.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Ray Minges Mrs. Wiley Forbes, and Miss Anne McMullan, all of this city.

Miss McMullan, speaker for the afternoon, gave a most interesting talk on the educational efforts, in our state, to create the literacy that stimulated literary attainments. She began by mentioning the establishment of many North Carolina colleges, such as the University of North Carolina, Duke, Davidson, Wake Forest, as well as Salem College, Greensboro Female Academy, St. Mary's, Baptist Chowan and others.

Miss McMullan then highlighted a number of North Carolina's most notable writers, mentioning first two of the greatest short story writers, O. Henry and Steele. A number of other great American writers from North Carolina are Thomas Wolfe, Thomas Dickson, Walter Hines Page, Gerald Johnson, Arch Henderson, Jonathan and Josephus Daniels, and Richard Walzer. A few notables who have adopted North Carolina as their native state are Carl Sandburg, Inglis Fletcher, Josephine Niggett, Betty Smith, James Boyd and Frank Slaughter.

Miss McMullan presented her informative paper in a most able manner, and it was enjoyed by all. Books were then distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Henderson was born and reared in Western North Carolina, coming to Pitt County about 30 years ago. He was first married to Lizzie Moore. Surviving this marriage are six daughters. He was later married to Frances Dall of Pitt County, who died in 1942. ### Functions Of Juvenile Court Discussed At P.T.A. Meeting

The Wahi-Coates School P. T. A. met Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 Mrs. Jonathan Overton presided. Mrs. Leo Starling gave a most inspiring devotional, using as her text John 8:12. She also sketched a lovely lighthouse scene while Philip Bliss' hymn "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" was sung.

Mrs. E. W. Larkin Jr. read the treasurer's report and the minutes of the last meeting.

Mrs. Tyson Bilbro reported that a sofa had been purchased for the teachers' lounge.

Miss Frances Wahl introduced Mrs. David Proctor and Mr. Warren Carroll who in turn presented an interesting program. Mrs. Proctor discussed the local juvenile court and its functions. She said the average age of the defendants was 11 years; and that in the past three years the number of cases brought before the court had declined. Mrs. Proctor stressed the fact that no child was brought into court until every attempt had been made to correct his problem.

Mr. Carroll presented a recreational program as a solution to the problem. He recommended a program which would satisfy the desire for adventure and excitement; and one which would develop physical and mental health.

He gave each member present a complete weekly program of the Greenville Recreation Department with its planned activities for all age groups from six to sixty-five.

A film was shown concerning the fight against polio, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Helen Wolfe's first grade won the attendance award.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We have a personal plug this week: In the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post you will find that the lead article is entitled "They Called Me Crazy—and I Was," written by Jimmy Pier. As told to Al Hirschberg—who happens to be your columnist's very own brother. "We hope you enjoy the article, which we think—naturally—is a very good one. It's about Piersall's fight to return to sanity after his nervous breakdown while he was a member of the Boston Red Sox—a dramatic and heart-rending story with, we were glad to see, a happy ending, since Piersall once more is in there swinging as a major league ball player.

While we're on magazines, we want to apologize for missing an article in the December issue of Harper's about a subject that is very important in this area—Tobacco. It's by a medical doctor in good standing, who explains why he is not going to give up smoking, since he is not convinced that smoking cigarettes does as much harm to him as recent propaganda has indicated. It's nice to find a doctor on our side, for a change.

The rather amazing article in Esquire Magazine a few months back which we've mentioned before, will soon be expanded into a book, to be called "The Murder of the Man Who Was William Shakespeare," by Calvin Hoffman. . . Hoffman's idea, if you remember, is that Shakespeare was Christopher Marlowe, who was supposed to have been stabbed in a tavern brawl in 1593. . . Talin so, says Hoffman, Marlowe lived on to a ripe old age, wrote "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "Lea," and all the rest of Shakespeare's plays without saying a word about it, reaping the profits but none of the glory. . . An interesting idea, though we will still take Shakespeare—who said, after all, "The play's the thing, and not the man who wrote it" that's important.

Jumping from the dead past to the live—we hope—future, here are a few new titles scheduled for publication soon: The Literary Guild has just announced that its April selection will be "Coromandel" by John Masters, author of last year's best seller, "Bhowani Junction." The new one is also about India—in fact, John Masters has indicated that he intends to write a complete history of the British in India from 1600 to 1947, in a series of thirty-five novels, no less. "Coromandel" is number two, if our count is right. Two down and 33 to go for Masters. . . Next week Simone de Beauvoir's long-heralded "All Men Are Mortal" is coming out. . . Miss de Beauvoir won France's biggest literary prize last year, the Prix Goncourt, for "The Mandarins," just published in France and coming here in 1956. . .

On February 10, Viking and Dell will release in hard and soft covers, simultaneously, "Now Is the Time," by Lillian Smith. It's about that delicate subject, desegregation, and concerning it, Miss Smith says, ". . . in the hope that readers will be persuaded to see that now is the time to give up segregation, I have written a book

But nevertheless, the reader of this book will be well informed of the patriotism of our good Rebel ancestors that fought at Camden Kings Mountain, Cowpens and many other Southern battles.

From the battle at Lexington until Cornwallis' final surrender to Washington at Yorktown, you will find a thrill on every page of THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR; and long after dust has settled on this book in the bookstore, its content will haunt your memory.

The plans for the new educational department for Red Oak Church have arrived and have been on display all the week. They will be on display at the church next Sunday so that all who are interested may examine them and on the first Sunday night in February there will be a call meeting of all church members and interested friends to vote on whether to proceed or not with the plans. An architect from Indianapolis visited the church in early December and after looking the situation over and discussing it with members of the building committee, he sent the plans for a building that would meet the needs of our growing congregation over a period of ten years. It is hoped that all of our members will see the plans and be thinking about them before the February meeting.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family of Mr. C. W. Bright, who died last Sunday. Mr. Bright was a most faithful and active member of our church and he will be greatly missed.

From the battle at Lexington until Cornwallis' final surrender to Washington at Yorktown, you will find a thrill on every page of THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR; and long after dust has settled on this book in the bookstore, its content will haunt your memory.

Girl Scouts Learn Outdoor Cooking

These young ladies of Girl Scout Troop 10 at West Greenville School recently spent one of their meetings working on their outdoor cooking badges. They made buddy burners and frying pans of tin cans. Burners were made of smaller cans filled with paper and paraffin. The girls will meet again soon and cook with these utensils. From left to right they are: Patricia Wright, Patsy Howell and Virginia Guice making the inside of the burners; Kathryn Winchester and Linda Hunning, making buddy burners; Susan Willis, JoAnne Parks and Margaret Reid, making frying pans. Not pictured are Nell Davis and Betty Evans. Betty, along with JoAnne Parks, is a curbed bar scout who assists in the troop leadership. Mrs. Sherman Parks is the leader, assisted by Mr. Parks, Mrs. Sam Winchester, one of the troop committee members, also helped in this project.

Forty-Year Bond Issue Is Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury has announced it will issue a 40 year bond Feb. 1 a move officially signaling confidence that the business downturn has ended.

Announcement of the ultra-long term issue—the longest since the 50-year bond of 1911 to pay for the Panama Canal—came last yesterday.

The interest rate will be 3 percent, the same rate lenders got 44 years ago for the Panama Canal issue.

It was one fourth per cent below the rate on a 30-year bond the Treasury issued in April 1953 at the first—and until now only—single long stride in the Eisenhower administration's announced policy of putting more of the public debt into long-term issues.

The objective of this policy is to take chunks of the public debt out of financial play for long periods, giving greater freedom to business investment and the federal monetary policy operations.

Wins Honor Second Time

Norman R. Wooten of Greenville has been named "Man of the Year" for the second consecutive year by the N. C. State Automobile Association for leading the entire organization in production for 1954.

For his accomplishment Wooten was presented a trophy and cash award in Charlotte by John G. Frazier, Jr. president.

Wooten received a standing ovation from the motor club's entire personnel that assembled for the beginning of the New Year.

The presentation was made by Lewis B. Scruggs of Rocky Mount, division sales manager, who was introduced by Thomas B. Watkins, executive vice president.

Frazier characterized Wooten as a salesman of "exceptional ability and character. To capture this coveted position for two years in a row is indeed indicative of this man's capabilities."

Wooten joined the N. C. State A. A., the south's largest motor club, in 1947. He was born in Snow Hill and before coming with the N. C. A. A. had worked in Farmville and with an insurance company in Greenville.

He says, "Oh, sure, I get run out of some places. But I always go back the next day to explain and give the waiter a buck tip."

Feder is a packing company director.

Towed Fire To Fire Hydrants

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Fire broke out aboard a barge loaded with sugar and hemp on the Mississippi River at the East St. Louis terminal. But fire hydrants weren't available on that side of the river.

So a Coast Guard cutter and a tug boat pulled the barge to the west side where firemen—waiting for the fire to arrive—put it out.

"Pay-As-You-Go" Is Change In Policy

Governor Hodges' declaration that the state should operate on a "pay-as-you-go" basis for the next two years will bring cheers from some North Carolinians and indignant outcries from others.

The governor's virtual assurance that he will oppose any state bond issues for the next biennium is a drastic reversal from the policy of governors in the past decade. It must be realized, however, that the days of huge surpluses of state funds and sharp rises in state revenue from year to year appear, for the moment at least, a thing of the past.

It is obvious that all requests from state departments, agencies and institutions

Look Who Is Playing With Matches

While nervous tensions rise over the possibility of peace or war in the Far East it is no comfort to realize American foreign policy is leaving the decision to Communist China.

The President's request for Congress to underwrite his plan for emphatic defensive operations illustrate the degree of hostility between the Peiping regime and our government.

If it is true (and we have no way of knowing or thinking otherwise) that the security of Formosa is closely linked to that of our own security, then the administration had little choice but to so state, and act accordingly.

The subsequent concern does not rest on uncertainty over what the United States will do but on what China will do. Power to decide for peace or war has been left in the hands of Chou En-Lai and his followers.

Therein lies the pity of it all. We would not let children play with matches or loaded firearms, but circumstances have so placed an awful responsibility on a regime which has everything to gain and little to lose in unleashing the greatest enemy of civilization.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TWISTED TREES AND NATURES

Recently I had the opportunity of looking on a crude architectural drawing of an old sailing ship. It involved the intricate plying together of huge timbers. I was led to ask someone how the builders got the curved pieces of lumber with which to fashion the hull.

My informant told me—and I hope he was right—that for the most part the builders of some generation used the lumber of twisted trees for the hulls. They went out into the forests and marked tall straight trees for masts and others for beams; but they also marked some of the twisted trees for hulls.

If this is the proper explanation, then it teaches a mighty and significant lesson. Even the twisted and distorted have their place in life. Psychologists are beginning to tell us that a completely integrated personality is not only extremely rare but that some of the most useful people are, and always have been, a bit on the twisted side. Out of the most intense frustration has come some of life's greatest poetry. Out of struggle against handicaps has often arisen the noblest quality of courage. The dogged determination which lands man on top of the assaulting circumstances of life instead of under them, has turned many a weakling into a giant.

God even has use for the quirks and twists of our minds and temperaments.

National Whirligig

Rift Over Demo Party Tactics

WASHINGTON—The amateurish strategy and management of the Democratic National Committee under Stevenson-Butler-Fritchey auspices has precipitated virtually open estrangement between the Party organization and Democratic veterans in Capitol Hill, including leading figures in the Senate and House.

In the opinion of critics, but nonquoting Senators and Representatives, who represent votes rather than ideologies, the Downtown headquarters is being run by a quaint mixture of "eggheads, college boys and professors," who have never had to pound the pavement or ring doorbells to get elected to local or national office.

RESENT A.D.A. INFLUENCE—"The Hill" Democrats also resent the influence which Americans for Democratic Action apparently exerts on the ideas, methods and publicity practices of the national organization's new officials, A.D.A., which was founded to perpetuate F.D.R.'s social, economic and political ideas, is now dominated by ultra-liberal and labor factions ranging from Harvard Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. to Walter Reuther and David Dubinsky.

Its Senate spokesmen, whose extreme demands on legislation threaten to disrupt the Rayburn-Johnson harmony program, are few but vocal. They include Senators Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, James E. Murray of Montana and Wayne L. Morse of Oregon the Republican defectorist.

It is no secret that the National Committee and the A.D.A. are Stevenson-for-President advocates. This recognition does not make them popular with such prospective candidates as Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, or the numerous Democratic Governors frequently mentioned for this honor.

PRO-STEVENSON FACTION—National Committee figures are proceeding on the assumption that cannot be met out of revenues for the next two years. Requests already have mounted to six and one-half million dollars over the recommendations of the governor and Advisory Budget Commission—and they said we would have to increase taxes to meet the expenditures which were recommended.

In the past few years, bond issues have been authorized to bridge the gap between revenues and the needs for expenditures. There are sure to be demands that the same policy be followed for the next biennium.

The progress North Carolina has enjoyed in the past few years in its improvement in schools, hospital facilities, institutions, roads and other categories has not been achieved on a pay-as-you-go basis. It has been achieved largely through the issuance of large quantities of state bonds for these various purposes. During this time of greatest prosperity when state revenues have reached record peaks, the state's indebtedness likewise has mounted.

The Reflector is inclined to agree with Gov. Hodges' assertion that the coming biennium should see the state follow a pay-as-you-go pattern while it takes a careful look at its financial situation and the economic conditions throughout the state.

A Viewpoint Which Cannot Be Discounted

"It's postdating a declaration of war. . ." Those words of Rep. Graham Barden of North Carolina should stimulate the thoughts of the American people as they ponder the action taken in Congress which gives President Eisenhower the authority to declare war if necessary to save Formosa.

The Reflector does not wholly agree with Barden's stand on the issue. Yet we feel that Rep. Barden is more to be admired than to be condemned for his stand in the face of the 409 members of the House who voted for the measure. The right to declare war is vested in Congress. The responsibility for declaring war on the part of the United States is likewise that of Congress. Even in these modern days of swift movement and rapidly fluctuating international situations, is it wise for Congress to delegate this profound authority in the hands of any one man?

Commenting on his opposition vote, Rep. Barden declared:

"I know this is an authorization for somebody else—the President—to start a war. He already has the authority to use the armed forces. No person in his right mind relishes the responsibility of a declaration of war. But if it needs to be done, then Congress should do it. I don't like the idea of shirking responsibility and passing the buck to the President, as I think this does."

Although Rep. Barden was in the minority of the House members who voted against the measure, the people of the nation may profit from pondering his statement in connection with his stand.

The Forgotten Victims

Somebody Told Me Something About Bill Cullen

Whether you like Bill Cullen on TV or not, you certainly see plenty of him if you watch WNCN. I think it's seven shows a week that Bill appears on, including radio and TV, which involves flying from New York to Hollywood weekly.

Having seen so much of Bill I got in an argument with Jules Rosman at WNCN about Bill's age. It was my contention that Bill is closer to 20 than he is to 30. So to settle the matter I wrote CBS. Fortunately, Jules wouldn't bet; I would have lost for Bill is 34.

Along with the age I picked up other interesting information about him. Early in life he was stricken with polio. Doctors said he might never walk again. But Bill managed to overcome the disease and its after-effects. Misfortune hit Bill again when he was a junior in high school at Pittsburgh. An automobile hospitalized him for nine months. Evidently he was impressed by the role of the doctor during those nine months in the hospital because he decided to become a doctor instead of an actor. So Bill entered the University of Pittsburgh as a pre-medical student. His funds started to give out, so he went to work in a garage where he kept other employees in stitches with imitations of radio announcers. In 1939 he became an assistant disk jockey on a small Pittsburgh station. "I thought it was easy work, the epitome of glamour and that I'd make a mad fortune," he recalls. He then got a job as announcer on a major radio station and later was M.C. of a variety show in Pittsburgh. Meanwhile, he got a B.A. degree in fine arts at the University of Pittsburgh. Cullen then shifted to sportscasting. This led him to New York. He joined the CBS radio announcing staff in April, 1943, and got his first break when M.C. of "Winner Take All" got sick and he was given the assignment. From there on his assignments mounted. He will be a member of the Civilian Air Defense, serving as a patrol pilot in Allegheny County, Pa. For some time, he was president of his own private plane service, Appointment Airlines. He has 4,000 flying hours to his credit. He lives in Manhattan, is married to Carol Ames, former singer. He doesn't care much about travel unless it's by his own plane with Bill Cullen piloting. And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS.

POLITICAL REDISTRICTING (Washington Daily News) The 1951 and 1953 sessions of the North Carolina assembly failed to bring about legislative redistricting in the state. The 1955 General Assembly has this problem squarely before it today. And before the session adjourns it is quite likely that some redistricting will be done. When it is done, it'll be the small counties or the counties with sparse population which suffer most.

the people of North Carolina at the last election which would allow senatorial redistricting on the basis of population. The people gave approval to such an amendment. Even here in our own part of the state which will be hurt most, our people voted for the amendment in surprisingly large numbers. If we understand correctly now this General Assembly will set about the business of redistricting senatorial districts to meet the expression contained in the amendment. Thus whereas Mecklenburg and Guilford counties now have one senator, in all probability they will have two next time. Some other more populous counties may also have two.

If changes are made here in our district, in all likelihood we'll have another county added to our district or we might have the district split into two districts each with one senator. Of course it is entirely possible that there will be no changes in our district. And we are not saying that there will be. We're merely pointing out the possibilities. It might be that in the 1957 General Assembly that the four counties of Beaufort, Hyde, Pamlico, and Martin will have one senator and be a senatorial district. Or it may be that two more counties will be added to what is now the Second District and we'll keep two senators for the district. Regardless of what is worked out, it means that one or two senators will have to represent several political units with varying political tendencies and interests. And that situation makes it much more difficult on the individual representing the people in the senate. Anyway, we'll have to wait and see what is done.

So there is no real problem in regard to the lower house. But the senate has 80 members. Heretofore no county has had more than one senator and in the present session that rule holds true. An amendment was offered to

By LYNN NISBET
RULES — Rules adopted by the Senate Wednesday morning, upon recommendation of the Rules Committee are essentially the same as House rules adopted last week with respect to executive committee meetings. Most people regard them as slightly more liberal, in that they spell out more specifically that no final action can be taken on any measure or thing in either a full or a subcommittee meeting while in executive session. The House rule provides that final action cannot be taken except in open session, with some chance of disagreement as to whether that applies to subcommittee as well as full groups.

In the event the Senate Rules do not provide for or cover any point of order raised by any Senator, the rules of the United States House of Congress shall govern. (That rule has been in the book for years and has always been interpreted to mean the rules of the National House of Representatives, although the U.S. Senate is just as much a "House of Congress.")

COMPROMISE — The text of the Senate rules represents a compromise between two extreme viewpoints and a moderate middle ground position. One group wanted to prohibit any closed sessions at any time; a third group thought that since Rule 76 was in the book there was no need for any specific reference to executive sessions. The rules of the U.S. House of Representatives provide for executive sessions of all committees, sometime by order of the chairman and sometime by vote of the members.

Pre-Easter Campaign

By ELMER ROESSNER
It will take a lot of well-planned strategy and hard work for retailers to get the most out of the pre-Easter season this year. Fortunately, sales are on an upswing now. Department store sales in the first two weeks of this year were 12 per cent higher than in the same weeks in 1954. In the Atlanta Federal Reserve district they were 17 per cent higher and in the week ended February 15, they were 29 per cent higher in the Richmond District and 26 per cent higher in New England.

five should get things moving on time. RUBBER TILE INDUSTRY EXPECTS 15 PER CENT SALES RISE
With the help of doers-it-themselves (or are they do-it-yourselfers?) the Rubber Manufacturers Association expects to sell 15 per cent more rubber flooring tiles this year than the 100,000,000 square feet sold last year. The industry is counting on doers to lay more rubber floors — it has issued complete instructions to help them—but it is also hoping that they will use a lot of rubber tile to match their flooring with rubber tile tops to cocktail tables, playroom tables, shelves, walls, stools and other accessories. Because rubber is easy to cut, it is promoting the practice of making original designs by inlaying tile of one color into a tile background of another.

Easter falls on April 10, eight days earlier than last year. That's neither a late nor early date, since it must occur between March 22 and April 25. But this year the final installment on Federal income taxes becomes due on April 15. That's going to tie up the green stuffing of a lot of wallets in early April.

FROM CALENDAR, SAYS A. A.
The calendar year is seldom the best choice for a company's fiscal year, the American Institute of Accountants is saying in a new pamphlet. The natural business year of any company, it explains, covers an annual cycle of activity ending when inventories, receivables and loans from banks are lowest. Advantages of a fiscal year ending then are:

The obvious strategy for merchants is to advance pre-Easter promotions as much as possible—and hope for a mild early spring. Pushing promotions ahead requires early receipt of stocks. That calls for early ordering, and for early clearance of present stocks. Those retailers who have not yet done so may find it good to draw up a timetable immediately, setting down dates for peaking pre-Easter promotions and working backwards to determine the dates in which various shipments must be in. Income tax dates by which other stock—except staples, should be cleared. There are a few other details, such as speeding up ticketing, displays and signing; recruiting extra personnel; reviewing night opening schedules, putting extra accomplishments into fashion shows, etc. But with the help of his jawbone—if not a bull whip—a good execu-

He Can Speak Twenty Languages

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — When Charles Berlitz was three years old he had learned four languages—and was trying to make up a new one of his own.

The schools, which specialize in teaching a spoken vocabulary of a foreign language in a short time are widely used by major international business firms and governments.

His grandfather, father, mother and cousin each spoke to him in a different language—German, Spanish, French and English. "I had the idea that every grownup had a different language all his own," he recalled, "and the family had to discourage me from trying to develop one for myself."

"A private student by working two hours a day can learn a language in about three months," Berlitz said. "Our basic course includes about 1,200 words, but you can more than get by with a knowledge of 800 words. You'd be amazed how many people get along in English and use only 500 words."

When Charles was ready for school his grandfather, Maximilian Berlitz founder of the Berlitz Schools, decided it was time the boy started studying languages seriously. The old gentleman, who started his career as a clockmaker and never attended college himself, had mastered 50 languages. "From the age of 8 on I was taught a new language — either European or Oriental — every year," Charles said.

Interest in speaking foreign languages has never been greater in the United States. Berlitz estimates that some 3,000,000 Americans have learned in recent years to speak a language other than English. "Spanish is still the favorite, followed by French," he said. "Right after the war many people wanted to learn Russian. Now more are interested in German."

Today at 40 he is author of a textbook in Swahili and speaks 20 languages ranging from Arabic to Zulu. "Hardly a drop in the bucket," he said mildly, "when you consider there are some 1,200 languages, and 800 dialects in the world."

"The Spanish have a proverb: 'When God wished to punish the devil, he sentenced him for six years to do nothing but study Basque.' 'But the hardest language to learn to speak without a noticeable accent is English, because it has few rules of accent. The Basque system, ordinary teachers only about 50 international languages but prides itself that if the need develops, it can find here in the melting pot of the world teachers for almost any tongue."

"Missionaries and explorers want to learn it—we've had a number of calls for it," he explained. "There's nothing written in it. It's purely a spoken language."

"Sooner or later, we may even have to do something about languages on other planets," said Berlitz and added wryly: "We only hope they speak vocally—and not through antennae."

Some Contrast In Senate And House Secrecy Rulings

job for which its members were elected—the consideration of proposed laws for the benefit of North Carolina. The House adopted rules after two weeks, the Senate after three weeks of the session. However, it would be erroneous to say that either branch had operated without rules, because in the first hour after convening on January 5 both the Senate and the House accepted the rules of the 1953 session as applicable until the 1955 session should adopt its own rules. That has now been done, all Senate committees have been appointed and all House committees of great importance with relation to pending bills have been announced. Joint Appropriations and Finance Committee sessions are getting into the budget bills, and other groups are meeting daily to consider general legislation.

SECURITY — There has been no occasion during this session to invoke the so-called "secrecy" provisions of the rules, and opinion is general among legislators and observers that they will be infrequently invoked later. The moderatists apparently are in control of the Legislature. And there is growing evidence that legislators, news reporters and visitors representing the non-vocative public are more concerned that some news stories would indicate about getting the State's business done as expeditiously and openly as possible. Newsmen covering this Legislature have contended and still insist, that the reason why certain things are done are just as important as the fact of those things being done. Therefore, the provision in the rules that final action cannot be taken except in open session does not quite satisfy them. On the other hand, some members of the Legislature resent news story and editorial references to the fact that the Congress has not held an executive session in 25 years, while North Carolina General Assembly committees meet behind closed doors.

The fact is that the North

God said "Let us make man in Our image, after Our likeness." So God created man in His own image; male and female created He them; and gave them command over every living thing that moveth on the earth.

God blessed Adam and Eve, and said unto them, be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth and subdue it. I have given you every herb bearing seed and every tree bearing fruit. To you it shall be for meat.

Jesus said, Love your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest; for He is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

"We see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for suffering of death, crowned with glory and honor; that He, by the grace of God should taste death for every man."

How One Word Lead To Another Over Formosa

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Formosa is one of the finest examples of how one word leads to another until there's a mess.

From the time they drove Chiang Kai-shek and his Nationalists off the mainland to Formosa in 1949, the Red Chinese have vowed to take Formosa. They claim to be the only true rulers of China and demand Formosa as part of it.

Chiang too claims to be the only ruler of China. He was helpless on Formosa until the United States gave him military help and sent the 7th Fleet to protect him. Then he began talking of invading the mainland.

He couldn't do it without American help. And reports from the Far East indicate the Red Chinese don't have the equipment to invade Formosa—across the 100-mile Formosa Straits—while the 7th Fleet stands in the way.

Both sides were still glaring at each other when last fall the Red Chinese announced they held captive as "spies" 11 American airmen. This country was indignant. The United Nations sent its secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold, to Peiping to seek a solution.

To nobody's satisfaction, he returned to New York three weeks ago with almost nothing to say except he hoped his mission would prove a success if there was "restraint on all sides."

Just about then the Red Chinese attacked the Chiang-held island of Yikiangshan, which they captured without hindrance from the 7th Fleet, and the Tachens, which they haven't taken yet. Both are close to the mainland 200 miles from Formosa.

It was as if they were saying to themselves: "We want the islands. The Americans want the fliers. Hammarskjold told them to show restraint. Since we hold the fliers, we're in a good spot to test their restraint."

Shortly afterwards President Eisenhower announced that he had authorized the U.S. Navy to send the 7th Fleet to Formosa.

It was as if they were saying to themselves: "We want the islands. The Americans want the fliers. Hammarskjold told them to show restraint. Since we hold the fliers, we're in a good spot to test their restraint."

Shortly afterwards President Eisenhower announced that he had authorized the U.S. Navy to send the 7th Fleet to Formosa.

It was as if they were saying to themselves: "We want the islands. The Americans want the fliers. Hammarskjold told them to show restraint. Since we hold the fliers, we're in a good spot to test their restraint."

shower and Secretary of State Dulles brushed off Yikiangshan and the Tachens as unessential to Formosa's defense. This didn't please some Americans. Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said the Reds were being allowed to take their "first nibble."

Last Monday Eisenhower sent to Congress a stirring message which, however, did not greatly clarify American policy on defending Chiang. Previously Eisenhower said—and it must be assumed he had the authority to carry it out—this country would defend Formosa and the nearby islands of Taiwan.

In his message he asked Congress to give him approval to defend Formosa, the Pescadores and "closely related localities," a statement which still left vague precisely what would be done about the outlying islands.

Congressional approval would dramatically show the world American unity behind Eisenhower. Thus America would save face in the Orient and presumably so could the Red Chinese, if they were allowed to take the Tachens.

But then Chou En-lai, Red Chinese foreign minister, said his country would still take Formosa and told the United States to clear out. Eisenhower suggested maybe the U.N. could get a cease-fire. Chou rejected that too.

GOD MADE MAN IN HIS OWN IMAGE

Scripture—Genesis 1:26-31; 2:1-6; Matthew 6:9-10; Mark 7:21-23; Luke 8:35-36; Romans 3:23; Hebrews 2:6-18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL MAN BEGAN life on this earth, according to the Biblical account of creation, in the Garden of Eden, which is thought to have been somewhere in the Middle East, probably in what is now known as Iraq, our lesson tells us.

How beautiful the Garden of Eden was may be partly made real to the children by the Memory Verse illustration and any other pictures the teacher may be able to gather together to show them. It is newly created. Everything is fresh and exquisite in color and setting. Everything is at peace; there is no fighting or quarreling among the inhabitants of the Garden; there is nothing but beauty and happiness.

"And God said, Let us make man in Our image, after Our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

"So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them."

"And God blessed them, and God said, unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth."

The God told Adam and Eve that He had given them "every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in which is the fruit of a tree, yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat."

What dignity and power did the Lord give these two people whom He had created and prepared everything to make their lives happy and contented. And then, at the first temptation that met them they fell, disobeying God, and throwing away all the blessings bestowed on them.

Driven from their beautiful home with all its blessings, they went out to earn their living by hard work. So sin came to the world.

But one in a certain place testified, saying, What is man, that Thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that Thou visitest him?"

"Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; Thou crownedst him with glory and honor, and didst set him over the works of Thy hands."

"But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels, crowned with glory and honor; that He by the grace of God should taste death for every man." Christ was made "a little lower than the angels," that for us He might live as a man, be tempted, "like as we are," and suffer death to save us.

Catamounts And ECC Clash Here

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina, the North State's second place team, and Western Carolina, cellar-dwellers of the league, square off tonight in Memorial Gym here.

The contest will be a rematch of the early 80-67 win registered by the Bucs in the cold hills of Cullowhee. The outcome could mean a change in the standings for either team. The Bucs could drop a notch and the Catamounts move out of the cellar or an East Carolina win could almost cement the runner-up spot.

The battles between these sister schools are always eagerly anticipated. Last season, the Catamounts of Coach Jim Grider were the only conference representative to lick the Pirates. The loss came on WCC's home court and stopped a 16-game winning streak.

Whether or not the Pirates' hearts held any more contempt after whipping the Catamounts in January 17 will be learned this evening. Western Carolina gave the locals a big scare before conceding in their previous clash. The Pirates held a slim 35-31 halftime lead and were pushed until the final 10 minutes. Grider has experienced tough luck this season about losing ball players. He lost his entire first team with exception of Herman Shamel before the season commenced. They were lost either through the draft or scholastic failure.

He has patched up a pretty good outfit, though, with Shamel, the backbone of the group. Newcomers Tony Migalio and Bobby Holcombe are an explosive couple. Migalio, a fast man on the break, scored 19 points against East Carolina before Holcombe, who plays guard, tallied 10, all from the outside. Shamel is short as centers go (6-4) but can drive hard and has quick hands. He dunked 20 points at Cullowhee.

With Captain Cecil Heath's return to the team after two weeks' slump, particularly in a scoring absence, the Pirates resume top strength. J. C. Thomas, the team's second highest scorer, will anchor the guard spot across from Heath. These two provide the home forces with a veteran backbone duo. Freshman Freddie James and Maurice Everett can expect early duty in reserve.

Don Harris, who owns a 22.4 scoring average for 13 games, will run at his forward position. Before the last game with Guilford, the stylish sophomore had been in a scoring slump, particularly at the free throw line. His 24 points against the Quakers may have hidden him of it.

Nick Nichols of Tri-City will start at the other forward post. He is currently the team's third highest scorer and leading rebounder.

As a senior, Nichols can start either a senior or first-year man. Waverly Akins of Fuquay Springs has opened the last two games here and been impressive. The freshman, Guy Mendenhall, was the frontline pivot before the last western road trip. He has improved of late and may get the center job.

The game is to get underway at 8 p. m. and will be the last home game until next Thursday night when East Carolina and Atlantic Christian play here.

Sharp Shooter . . . . . by Pap

The big man does have many advantages in the game of basketball. But it is very unlikely that the time will come when the court goons will so completely dominate the game that there will be no place for the little man. Great height and tremendous reach are a big help but small players match these physical advantages with speed, slick ball-handling and accurate outside shooting. The ideal basketball team has height for rebounding and inside shooting plus the alert play-making and outside shooting of fast smaller men.

One small player who refuses to give up to the towering giants is Robin Freeman, Ohio State's junior sharp-shooter. Freeman stands an inch under the six-foot mark and weighs only 155 pounds, yet he has been pacing the country's collegiate scorers with a game average of 35 points. As a high school player at Hughes High School in Cincinnati, Freeman averaged 39 points per game in his senior year. He's a guard on the Buckeye team, and a fine play-maker as well as a great shooter.

Coach Adolph Rupp isn't likely to ever forget one little basketball player—a 5-foot-9 youngster from Georgia Tech named Joe Helms. It was little Joe who stole the ball from Kentucky and popped in the basket that ended the Wildcats' winning streak of 32 games as well as their home court record of 129 consecutive wins. It could be the greatest upset in basketball history, and a "little guy" turned the trick.

Phants Play Old Nemesis Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

With five straight conference wins at their back, the league leading Greenville Phantoms tangle with an old nemesis, the New Bern Bears, tonight in New Bern in quest of their second win over the Bears this year.

In an earlier meeting in Greenville the G-men routed the Bears to the tune of 74-49. In the first game the Phantoms got off to a slow start, scoring ten points in the first eight minutes, then came back to pour it on in the final three periods.

The Bears do not have much scoring strength and do not have an abundance of height. In their own court, the New Bern army, they are hard to beat, however. Last season it was on that same armory floor that the Bears upset the G-men by five points. Tonight it is figured the Bears will be just a little bit out of their class to pull another upset.

The G-men will take their 81 point conference average into the battle in hopes of gaining win number six. Another string will be going for the Green Phantoms. They have now won 13 consecutive conference games over the past two seasons. They finished up last season with five straight wins, then won three conference tournament games, and have added five more to the string this season. New Bern was the last team to beat Coach Parley's hot shots.

The Phantoms will enter the game with three players scoring in the double figures. Harold Edwards has an 18.2 scoring average to lead the group. Bob Howell is hitting the hoops at the average rate of 14.4 points per game and Pat Sawyer is averaging 14 points per game.

The other two members of the top five have high ranking averages also. Tommie Saled averages 9.2 per contest and Edgar Moore averages 7.5 per game. Billy Johnson, a sub who has played in only three games, has 24 points in those three games and owns an eight point scoring average. Ike Riddick, the sixth member of the starting group, is averaging just over four points per game.

Tonight's contest will be the first of three straight out-of-town games for the Farley-men. Tuesday they travel to Washington and Friday they go to Elizabeth City.

The two junior varsity teams from both schools will meet in a preliminary game. The jayves of Coach Bill Kittrell have been rapidly improving and are out to revenge a defeat the Cubs handed their earlier in the year. Coach Kittrell's squad has a 2-3 record so far for the year.

Organizers Talk Semi-Pro Plans

Greenville's semi-pro baseball organizers met last night at the Sandwich King Restaurant and began serious and detailed work on bringing a baseball team into Greenville next season.

In an important move the team announced Pete Carraway field manager for the team. The General Manager and other officers have not been chosen as yet. Carraway is a sports enthusiast with a long baseball career behind him.

After Carraway was chosen the group sent out several committees to begin work. One committee will work on Guy Smith Stadium in order to fix it for the coming season. Another group will start the drive to gather the necessary funds to operate a semi-pro club.

About 25 potential players were at the meeting last night besides some officials of the club. The players were told of the work done so far and the equipment that has been purchased. The team already has all of the catching equipment and 19 uniforms for the players.

Anyone desiring information on the team should contact Pete Carraway or Floyd Nichols. Another meeting will be February 16 at the Sandwhich King. Anyone interested in the team is invited to attend.

Palmer Has Lead At Thunderbird

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Palmer of North Carolina, second high money winner on the 1955 winter tournament trail, led the way into the second round of the $10,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament today.

The 36-year-old star from Charlotte whacked out a 10-under par 62 in the first round and with one exception, held a four-stroke advantage starting out this morning.

The exception was tall Shelley Mayfield of Chicopee, Mass., who knocked out seven birdies on the back nine yesterday and ended the round with a 63.

Play is at the Thunderbird Country Club, a course stretched out to about 6,700 yards, with par 36-35-72.

Tied at 66 were Peter Thomson, the British Open champion from Australia, Wally Ulrich, Jim Turney and Mike Souchak the latter a fellow North Carolinian of Palmer.

The 67 bracket was filled with eight players, including such prominent faces as the semiretired Byron Nelson, Lloyd Mangrum, Dutch Harrison and the pretournament choice Gene Littler.

Freddie Haas of New Orleans, who won the 1954 Thunderbird tournament, had to settle for a 70.

Palmer has been a threat in all three of the previous tournaments. He picked up $1,300 for a fourth place tie in the Los Angeles Open, $1,800 for second behind Tommy Bolt in the San Diego Open last Sunday, and $100 for his efforts in the Bing Crosby tournament.

Palmer did not miss a green yesterday. He took only 67 putts, the best in the field. He made eight feet, but one dropped in from 20 and another from 18 feet. Each professional was paired with three club amateurs for the 36-hole pro-am. Seven teams were tied with a best ball 66. Pro leads of the pro-am teams included Nelson, Bolt, Fred Wampler, Palmer, J. R. Jacobs of England, Marly Furgol and Bob Rosburg.

Lull Continues In N. C. Basketball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tonight's one-game schedule for North Carolina basketball teams is the lull before an eight-game string that breaks tomorrow.

Western Carolina is at East Carolina in a North State Conference tilt, the only game in the state.

But tomorrow night the schedule is highlighted by Villanova's invasion of North Carolina State, a game that should produce fireworks aplenty.

For it was Villanova that handed State a 91-78 defeat Jan. 1, the first of the year for the Wolfpack. Since then Coach Everett Case's team has lost two more.

After a two-week layoff, Wake Forest travels to Richmond tomorrow. Other Saturday games are College of Charleston at Davidson, Farris Island at Belmont Abbey, Western Carolina at Appalachian, High Point at Lenoir Rhyne and Elon at Catawba. The last four are North State Conference games.

There were no games scheduled in the state last night.

Milwaukee Really Is Pennant-Hungry

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Take note, Leo Durocher and Walter Alston, the pitcher-rich Milwaukee Braves have more on the way.

As if a pitching staff headed by Warren Spahn, Groe Conley, Lew Burdette, Chet Nichols and Bob Buhl, not to mention Jim (No-Hit) Wilson, isn't enough, the pennant hungry Braves have brought up 11 new pitchers including a 2-game winner, two 18-game winners, a knockout leader and another no-hit performer.

The Braves did not confine their search for pitchers alone. Their rookie crop includes five players with 300 or better batting averages, three with 20 or more home runs, and two who topped 100 runs batted in.

The most impressive record is owned by a Humberto Robinson, 24-year-old native of Colon, Panama, who led the Sally League pitchers with a 2-4 won-lost record and a 2.41 ERA. Robinson, a 6-1, 150-pound righthander, also fanned 243 batters in 276 innings. Righthanders Paul Cave, 21, and Bob Trumble, 24, won 18 games each for the same Jacksonville club. Cave striking out 150 and Trumble 195.

Ray Crone, a 23-year-old righthander, had a 7-3 record at Toledo before he was brought up in the tail end of the season. One of his victims was a 3-0, no hit pitcher against St. Paul. Glenn Thompson, 28-year-old righthander with a 10-11 record, set a Southern Assn. strikeout record, fanning 19 New Orleans batters last Aug. 26.

Two righthanders, who scouts say can't miss making the Braves' staff as relief specialists, are Don McMahon and Roberto Vargas. McMahon, 24, had an 8-5 record at Atlanta and fanned 90 batters in 91 innings. Vargas, drafted from the Cleveland organization, was a 12-13 performer at Reading but sported a 2.92 earned run average. He currently boasts a 10-6 record with Caguas of the Puerto Rican League.

McMahon was recommended by

George Johnson And Fuentes In Prestige Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — George Johnson of Trenton, N.J., and Ramon Fuentes, of Los Angeles, try to climb over each other to better days in boxing tonight in their 10-round nationally televised bout at Convention Hall.

The 23-year-old Johnson, who spent most of 1954 in a sick bed with an appendectomy and tonsil trouble, is repaired in top shape and hopes to improve on his ranking as the 10th best middleweight.

With a record of 28 wins, 21 by knockout, and 5 losses, Johnson hopes to use Fuentes as an eraser to get rid of the stigma of his last night when he lost to Charley Salas at Miami Beach after entering the ring as a 3-1 favorite. His principal claim to fame is a TKO victory over Moses Ward.

Fuentes, 29, is rated fourth in the pack of welterweights trying to get into the ring with champion Johnny Saxton or leading contender Carmen Basilio. He has a record of 31 victories, 4 losses and 1 draw.

NBC will telecast the bout at 10 p. m. EST.

SPORTS SHOTS

by Bruce Phillips

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK AT EAST CAROLINA APPEARS BRIGHT

Although only three regulars return from the 1954 team, Head Coach Jack Boone has the making of an improved eleven next season. Since January 10, Boone, with the able assistance of Jim Mallory has been putting 54 candidates through winter grid rehearsals. The one-day drills are scheduled to continue until February 18 when the annual Blue-White game will be played.

Quarterback Dick Cherry has already taken the role of inspirator and showing the old properties that won him Little All-America nomination in 1953. The little T-magician has two more years of eligibility and, barring injuries, should reach untold heights for a small college player. He tosses 19 touchdown passes his sophomore year and made All-Conference and All-State teams with ease.

Among Boone's repository is All-Conference Louis Hallow, 220-pound center, Harold O'Kelly, hard-running fullback, Raymond (Bull) Overton and Charles Smith, two rough-and-tumble tackles. These, along with Cherry and several other stalwarts, will form the nucleus of next season's club.

Several members of this past year's freshman team are making strong bids for playing time and will be close behind the first line men. Dick Monds of Dunn, a rugged guard, is one of the likies. Currently he is running first string guard with sophomore Paul Popov. Jerry Brooks, a 230 pounder, is a tough character at tackle and may land a starting spot. Ken Burgess, small but compact, is a standout among the guards. Carl Rhodes is also showing up impressively there.

Next years schedule is practically complete with most opponents of last season's card booked for the coming campaign. Lenoir Rhyne, Elon Appalachian and Tampa are already under contract to appear in College Stadium next fall.

If a guardian shield could be cast about Cherry and his comrades between now and next September, the chances of another great football season for East Carolina would be almost indubitable.

CAGE WEATHER BUT BASEBALL TALK—MOST REMEMBERED PLAYS

Freddie Hutchinson of Detroit thinks a deflected ball that started a triple play was the greatest he ever saw. It happened in 1946 when Hal Newhouse won 26 games for Detroit. Newhouse was pitching a shutout against Washington when the Senators filled the bases. Gil Torres hit a line drive directly at Newhouse's face. Hal put up his bare left hand and the ball caromed off to Eddie Mayo, who was playing second base. Mayo was breaking toward the ball and it went into his glove for one out. Mayo stepped on second base for the second out and threw to first base to complete the triple play. Newhouse won the game, 1-0.

Fred Haney recalls the time in Washington in 1924 when he was playing for Detroit. Billy Evans was the plate umpire. Johnny Basler was an second and Haney on first. Ty Cobb hit the ball to right center. From where he was standing Haney could see the ball wouldn't be caught. Basler wasn't in such good position and held up hesitating in the baseline. Haney caught up with him at third base and followed right behind to home plate. Basler slid in on the inside of the plate and Haney slid in on the outside. With one motion catcher Val Pichich tagged both of them and Evans yelled: "You're out and you're out!" They were, too.

U. S. Netters Take Aussie Doubles Title

By GORDON TAIT
ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas followed up their Davis Cup triumph today by becoming the first American team to win the Australian national doubles tennis championship in 22 years.

Playing in 88-degree heat, they whipped Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall 6-3, 6-2, 2-6, 3-6, 6-1. They overpowered the Aussies with a faultless display in the final set.

Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill of California were the last American team to win the Australian doubles, in 1933.

The brilliant play of Trabert and Seixas in the fifth set offset a rally by Hoad and Rosewall that squared the match after they had lost the first two sets.

So deadly was the Americans' execution that the final set was over in 12 minutes. They yielded only three points while taking a 5-0 lead.

After Hoad won his service for the Aussies' only game of the set, the Americans gained two match points at 40-15 with Seixas serving. The Aussies went to deuce but the Americans took the advantage on a Seixas bullet serve that Hoad was unable to return. Hoad then netted a volley to give the Americans set and match point.

Trabert, only U.S. survivor in the singles, battles Rosewall in the semifinals tomorrow. Seixas was eliminated from the singles by Hoad in a quarterfinal match.

Doctor at the CROSSROADS

ELIZABETH SEIFERT

Dr. Fred Beier had come from St. Louis to the little town of Jennings, Missouri, where he served as a general practitioner. He was happy in his work here, happy with Katie, his wife. But, now, at the end of three years, Katie sensed danger to their marriage. Sensed it in the person of Linda Kyle, a gracious young matron whose genuine kindness to people in distress had won her a place in the doctor's affections. The people of Jennings realized that young Beier was a good doctor, and he was grateful to them for their support. They'd given him a hospital of sorts, an old house, remodeled and converted into a clinic. One evening Dr. Beier was suddenly summoned to the home of Linda Kyle. Here he found her elderly husband stricken, dying, perhaps. He decided to call his old friend, J. H. Hudson, in consultation. So he phoned the great Doctor Hudson in St. Louis, arranging for him to come at once to Jennings.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
Fred turned to look critically at Murphy.
"What's wrong?" asked Dr. Hudson.
"Nothing. I was just taking in your city smell."

"But you do smell of the city, and of the big specialist which you are."
Murphy settled back in the seat. "I'm sorry I can't say the same of you," he drawled.
Fred might have added that Murphy also reeked of personal charm. He did, and consciously his homely face, his darkly intent eyes, his manner of speech—all ways a little brusquely frank—the shock of his apparent frankness serving to conceal the purpose which so often lay behind his words or actions.
"Now this slender, dark man took a tortoise-shell case from his coat pocket, snapped it open and held it toward Fred. The cigarettes were long and equipped with filters. Fred shook his head.
"Don't tell me you still smoke jimson-weed?"
"I haven't changed one bit," Fred agreed.
"I hope—but doubt—that that includes your research project." Fred laughed. "It does."
Murphy's voice twanged. "Specializing in it, no doubt?"
"Oh, yes. I am, as well as an internist, a surgeon, and an obstetrician. A pediatrician—psychiatrist—"
"Dentist and oculist?"
"And laboratory technician."

"In other words, a g.p."
"That's it."
"The vanishing American."
"If so, you slickers are to blame."
"Now, Fritz, you must look at the matter as it is—"
"You're the one who needs to look, Murph! I'm in it up to here!" His free hand touched his forehead. "I know better than you what a country g.p. is and does. I am one. Like my brothers I work an eight-day week, and I wouldn't know what to do with a vacation if I ever had one. For that matter, I don't always know what to do with a spare hour or so when one comes up. I usually spend it worrying over some special patient, or trying to decide whether to read the oldest or the newest of my stack of accumulated medical journals."
"But not how to spend your money."
"No, I don't worry about that. I agree that working in a dozen fields doesn't compensate me as your specializing in one does you, but I have some intangibles which you may not be able to claim."
"Such as?"
"The affection of my patients. The high place I hold in this community. And the fact that I am my own boss."
"Hm-mm-m," said Murphy. "Is that good?"
"It's good! Besides, unlike a lot of rural g.p.'s, I have my own hospital. Right there before you."
Murphy got out of the station wagon, and stood looking at the little buff and brown building.
"Come inside," said Fred. "Let me show it to you."
"My bags . . . ?"
"Leave 'em in the car. And don't mention locking it. There isn't a man in the Valley would steal anything out of my car."
Murphy raised his eyebrows, then shrugged assent. "Well, you being you I'll believe you."
Fred displayed his hospital with little explanation and no apology. It was clean and efficient. Murphy was fully competent to judge its merits, its equipment. Wards operating room, small lab, the kitchen—
"And you're proud of this?" was his concluding comment.
"I'm proud of it," Fred affirmed. "I'll say again that here I am my own boss. In my turn, may I ask you a question?"
"Sure. Why not?"
"It isn't a polite one."
"Mine was?"
Fred could have told their wondering friends that he and Murphy thoroughly understood one another. "I was going to ask you," said Fred now, "what you could show me along the line of your hospital, and your independence?"
Murphy shrugged. "Well, Fritz," he said with an attempt at modesty, "you know . . ."
"I do know!" said Fred swiftly. "You are on the staff of three hospitals in St. Louis. Three big hospitals. I also know why you are on those staffs."
Murphy's black eyes snapped. "Because," Fred continued smoothly, "you are still in Funderburk's office. Wait a minute—I am well aware that Funderburk tops his field. I worked under him, too remember. I know what an exceedingly big wheel he is in the hospitals and that they include his assistant on their staffs. I know how you trot along always in his shadow how you carry out his decisions—"
"I'm a fairly busy man on my own, Fritz," said Murphy huffily. "Of course you're busy. You even make your own decisions—always being sure, of course, that Funderburk would approve."

"I've every right to resent that, Fred!"
Fred smiled and shook his head. "Oh, not with me, Murph! Because I know what I'm talking about."
Murphy shrugged. "If you have that opinion of me, why did you call me clear out here into the hills for a consultation? Why didn't you get Funderburk?"
"Because he wouldn't have come. And you've learned a lot from him; you've nicely handled patients for me before. You've been working exclusively with the brain. And I'm not saying that you couldn't be a doctor in your own right; I'm just reminding you that I know the sort of doctor you are being, because I myself tried your way."

"And giving it up was the great mistake of your life, Fritz."
It was Fred's turn to shrug. "Not from my point of view. I'm busy. I like my work—and that's about all I want of life."
"The most awful thing about that statement," said Murphy with concern, "is that you mean it!"

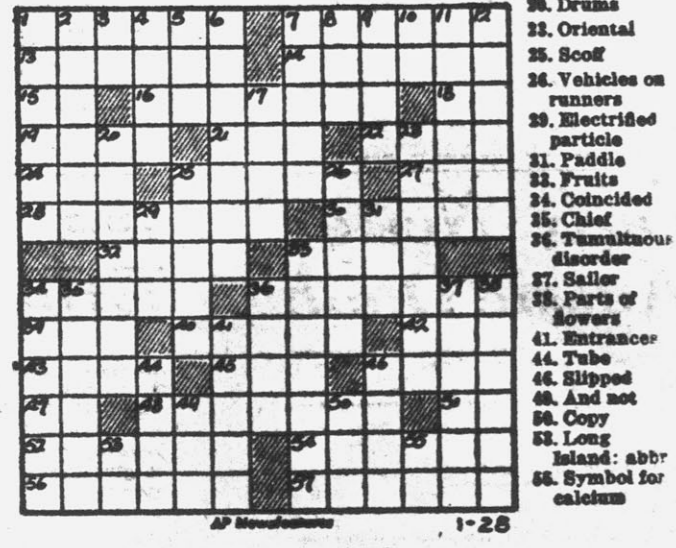

"I do. Now—about this case—"

Thank You for Helping Security Achieve the "Impossible"

In 1954, Security Life and Trust Company passed the HALF-BILLION DOLLAR Mark of life insurance in force . . . a total that only 10% of all life insurance companies have reached.

"Impossible?" Such a goal seemed impossible back in 1920 when Security started in business. It even looked so five years ago when the insurance in force totaled 232 million dollars. And yet, in 5 years Security's insurance in force has more than doubled . . . an unprecedented achievement.

Now that Security has accomplished what seemed impossible, we are more grateful than proud . . . grateful for the combination of people and circumstances responsible for this unusual progress. So, we say "Thanks!"

Thanks to our friends and policyowners for their confidence and loyalty. Thousands availed themselves of Security's maximum protection at minimum net cost individual policies, complete Group Coverage and Home Protection Plan. Your support greatly helped in this growth and development, as well as in the maintenance of a prominent position among all Life Insurance Companies from the standpoint of management and financial stability. Of the more than 877 companies doing business in the United States and Canada, Security is one of the 78 long enjoying unqualified recommendation by an independent analyst of life insurance companies.

Thanks to our representatives for their loyal co-operation. Through able and intelligent sales planning in a highly competitive field, Security Representatives enabled the Company to show remarkable progress. In 1953, Security recorded a greater net gain of ordinary life insurance in force in its home state of North Carolina than any of the other 102 companies operating there.

Thanks to industry in the Southeast for sound and healthy progress. As industry provided greater income for more people, more families were able to achieve greater financial independence through adequate life insurance coverage.

Thanks to all the citizens in the Southeast who have fostered industrial growth. Your ambition and energy have helped this section of the country surpass all others in expanding old and attracting new industries. This progressive spirit is one of the reasons Security Life and Trust Company is paying 4% compound interest on dividends left to accumulate.

Thanks to America for encouraging free enterprise. This has made it possible for the humblest individual, as well as small and large firms, to progress as far as initiative, imagination and industry permit.

They Don't Like To Say It's Filmed TV

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Are you irritated when the announcer tells you the program you're hearing or watching is canned? Irritated not that it's canned but being told about it?

If so, the National Assn. of Radio and Television Broadcasters is out to help you.

Except for a few types of programs, such as news and speeches, the trade association would drop all announcements as to whether what you heard was from a recording or what you saw was on film.

"Indeed," says the NARTB in a petition to the Federal Communications Commission, "The intrusion into a carefully constructed program of announcements or recordings of transcriptions is capable many times of real distraction from program continuity and enjoyment and can constitute a real irritant to the listener or viewer."

It's good to know what's been disturbing our enjoyment of these delightful commercials and plugs.

interrupted occasionally for programs. It's the bother of being told they were mechanically reproduced.

In effect, of course, what NARTB is saying is that you and I don't care whether what we're seeing may have been filmed weeks ago, or what we're hearing may have been recorded a couple of years back.

"Certainly," the petition says, "The time, energy, ingenuity and expenditure implicit in the production of a high quality program and the production of a high quality program should not be allowed to be dissipated through the announcements of no affirmative value . . ."

The NARTB has a code limiting commercials to a total of three minutes per half-hour show at night, and the sponsors generally keep from spreading them over four or five spots in the program. That's fine, even considering that performers often manage to get in 8 or 10 product plugs in addition to not only their sponsor's, but other people's.

Capitol Square

Carolina General Assembly has not had an executive session in more than 100 years, and its committees have had more frequent "secret" sessions than have committees of the Congress. While the House and Senate rules both broaden the scope of specific authority for executive committee sessions over the 1933 statute, which has been repealed, they also specifically prohibit "action in any committee except in open meeting. Furthermore, removal of the "secrecy law" from the statutes takes North Carolina out of its unenviable position of being the only state with such definite secret sessions by authority of law even though the same purpose is served by the rule books.

AFL Preparing To Capitalize On Road Building

MIAMI BEACH Fla. (AP)—Heads of all AFL construction unions mapped a campaign today to obtain as much work as possible for their union members under the proposed 100-billion-dollar highway building program.

The ambitious 10-year super-highway construction plan has been recommended to President Eisenhower by a civilian study commission headed by retired Gen. Lucius Clay. The President is expected to send the proposal to Congress soon.

Leaders of the AFL Building and Construction Trades Department, composed of a score of unions claiming more than two million members, are framing strategy during winter meetings here to assure as complete unionizing of the road projects as possible.

The plan, if authorized by Congress and implemented by state matching funds, will probably be the biggest single construction program in the nation for years to come.

The Executive Board of the 1,300,000-member AFL Teamsters Union, meeting meanwhile in a separate session at nearby Miami Beach hotel, planned to decide on other charges brought against Union President Dave Beck by Martin O. Crouse, former recording secretary of a Yakima, Wash., teamsters local.

Crouse here yesterday to plead his charges in person to the executive board, left to return to the West Coast without waiting for the board's decision. He charged Beck had violated Teamster Union constitutional bans by lending more than a million dollars in union funds to the Pruehauf Trailer Co. Beck, claiming the loan was within the constitution, appeared unworried that the board would uphold Crouse.

Wants Insurance Paid In Silver

SEATTLE (AP)—If the West Coast Life Insurance Co. pays off Boris A. Krenov with 2,000 heavy silver dollars he won't have a kick in the world coming.

He asked for it. And a judge ruled, in effect, he should have it. Krenov was agent for the company in Shanghai in 1933 when he took out a 20-year $80,000 endowment policy.

In 1941, he changed it to a paid-up policy, worth $36,000 at maturity in 1953. After World War II ended he showed up in San Francisco and paid up his back premiums, using several thousand paper Chinese dollars which it was said in court cost him $15.

When his policy matured he demanded payment in silver because a clause in the policy said, "Benefits shall be paid in Shanghai currency of the present (1953) weight and fineness."

The company demurred. The clause, it contended, was nullified when the Chinese Nationalist government had a possession of silver dollars punishable by "permanent decapitation."

Judge Henry Clay Agnew held with Krenov, now a Boeing Airplane Co. engineer, and said Krenov could collect on the value of the silver content of 36,000 Chinese silver dollars, vintage 1933. That's about $23,000, Krenov's attorney said.

Chinese Minister Will Speak In Local Churches

Andrew Gih, one of China's great Christian ministers, will speak in Greenville Sunday. Head of "Evangelize China" Fellowship, Dr. Gih will bring greetings from Christians on Formosa, island stronghold of Free China, as well as from Chinese Christians now behind the Red "Bamboo Curtain," and throughout Southeast Asia.

Son of a Confucian scholar, Gih was converted to Christianity and entered full-time Christian work in Shanghai, China in 1925. In China during World War II, Dr. and Mrs. Gih cared for two orphanages and one seminary, often narrowly escaping death. Between the surges of Japan and the completion of Communist conquest of the China mainland, Dr. Gih was given opportunity to preach in more than thirty Chinese universities. "Evangelize China" Fellowship, of which he is founder and president, carries on Christian evangelistic work on Formosa, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Hangchow, Macau, Singapore, and Indonesia. It is an all-Chinese Christian organization, not connected with any American denomination.

To Speak Here While in Greenville, Dr. Gih will speak four times. He will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the St. James Methodist Church, meeting in Third Street School. At 2:30 he will speak on "The Circuit Rider" over Television Station WNCT. At 6 o'clock a city-wide youth rally sponsored by Greenville Intercultural Youth Council will hear Dr. Gih. At 7:30 p.m. he will preach at the Evening Worship Service of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Now about mid-way through an eight month's tour of the United States and Canada, Dr. Gih is speaking in churches of many denominations, telling the story of the great opportunity now confronting the Christian Church to evangelize twenty-five million Chinese outside of the mainland of China open to the Gospel.

Proposes Loan Approach To Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "loan" approach to foreign aid was proposed today by Rep. Passman (D-La.), head of the House Appropriations subcommittee which will handle bills carrying foreign aid funds.

Passman, who has consistently opposed the foreign aid program as a "giveaway," announced today he hopes to bring new approach to foreign aid.

What he will propose, he said, is that nations receiving U. S. aid set up a currency credit against which this country may draw at some future time.

"I would like to see this shifted from a giveaway program to a loan program," he told a reporter.

Celebrate Their Day Together

DENISON, Iowa (AP)—Actress Donna Reed and her ailing 91-year-old grandmother held a joint birthday celebration today.

The actress, on her way from New York to California, stopped off for a five-day visit at her parents' farm home near here.

Predicts Atomic Plane In 5 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Durham (D-N.C.) predicted today that a practical atom-powered airplane will be developed "within five years." Such a plane, he said, could fly indefinitely without landing.

Durham made the statement in commenting on Gen. Nathan F. Twining's statement yesterday that advances thus far have convinced the Air Force a practical nuclear-powered military plane is possible.

Twining, Air Force chief of staff, told the House Armed Services Committee, "We have hopes this will be a truly intercontinental weapon freeing us from the dependence" on overseas bases and supply lines.

Durham, a member of that committee and top Democrat on the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said the successful development of the atom-powered submarine Nautilus had spurred progress on the A-plane. The nautilus is now making test runs.

The congressman said in an interview that a major remaining problem for an A-plane is how to control the terrific heat generated by atomic energy, and that others include reducing the weight and size of the craft.

"I am confident we'll whip these problems, just as we did in building the Nautilus," he said. "In my opinion the plane will be developed within the next five years."

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ode Wright, 35, got away with everything but the kitchen sink—and was caught when he came back for that.

Wright had entered the home of Willie Turner and removed every bit of furniture and personal property except the sink testimony in Criminal Court showed yesterday. Then he came back for the sink, and Turner discovered him there kneeling down with pipe wrench in hand.

A jury convicted Wright of house-breaking.

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—The witness couldn't come to the court and the court couldn't wait for the witness. So the two got together on the telephone.

Attorneys trying a $54,511.12 suit in U. S. District Court needed the testimony of William Hill, III in his Grinnell, Kan., home. Hill's testimony was taken in direct and cross examination and recorded by an official court reporter.

Telephone company officials who installed the 5-telephone setup, said this was the first use of a conference call in court litigation in the western part of the country.

Shed 123 Pounds In Year Of Diet

CHICAGO (AP)—A farm woman who shed 123 pounds of excess fat in one year by dieting was crowned champion weight loser today by TOPS, a national women's reducing organization.

Mrs. Esther Conrad, 60, of Appleton, Wis., cut her weight from 315 pounds to 192. Her dress size narrowed from 56 to 42.

She said she got her biggest thrill when her 5-year-old granddaughter climbed into her lap recently and said:

"Grandma, you've got such a nice big lap. The other one always slid off."

TOPS stands for Taking Off Pounds Scientifically. Mrs. Conrad received the award at the organization's third annual meeting at headquarters of the American Medical Assn.

The group, started six years ago by Mrs. Esther Mann, Milwaukee, has helped some 10,000 women lose unnecessary fat. Members lose weight merely by restricting the number of calories in their diet. The weight is lost under a doctor's supervision.

Mrs. Conrad said she suffered from high blood pressure, diabetes, arthritis and severe backache before dieting, and added:

"Now that I have taken off this weight I feel wonderful, have no arthritis or high blood pressure and no more backache. My health is better than it has been in 15 years. My doctor and my friends tell me I look 30 years younger, and I certainly feel it."

Look under the hood!

How to tell if it's a modern short-stroke engine: check the specifications of bore and stroke. In a short-stroke engine the "stroke" is as short as, or shorter than the "bore."

Make sure you get Money-Saving short-stroke power. Only FORD has it in every truck!

THIS YEAR, the truck industry is beginning to follow Ford's lead to modern short-stroke V-8 engines. Shorter stroke prolongs piston ring life up to 53%. Engines last longer! You get more usable power. You can save up to one gallon of gas in seven!

But here's the big thing to remember: FORD and only Ford gives you a short-stroke engine in every size truck from Pickups to tandems—available now! Ford, most experienced builder of V-8's in the business, has four short-stroke V-8's and the industry's most modern short-stroke Six.

So, before you buy any new truck this year—look under the hood! Go modern! Go short-stroke! Go Ford Truck—the Money Maker!

New Ford Trucks for '55 give you modern short-stroke power in every one of over 190 models! Shown: new F-600, GVW 16,000 lbs., with choice of three short-stroke engines!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced today with steels and aircrafts providing the bulk of the strength.

Actually the list displayed a lot of irregularity in its over-all move ahead with many lower sections in evidence.

The best gains were in a range of 1 to around 4 points higher. Losses with few exceptions were small.

Trading was at a moderate pace well below the 3 1/2 million shares traded in yesterday's higher market.

Bethlehem Steel, which fell 3 3/4 yesterday in disappointment when a split proposal failed to materialize, was up between 1 and 2 points today. Other steels were modestly higher.

United Aircraft was ahead between 4 and 5 points and others in that section were strong. The aircrafts had the benefit of a prediction of atomic powered bombers.

Katy Railroad Preferred was strong on news that its recapitalization plan will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission next week.

General Dynamics forged ahead on a 100 per cent stock dividend and a higher cash payment.

CBS "A" & "B" stocks were lower on the proposal for a three-for-one split.

Russia Asked To Restrain Peiping

MOSCOW (AP)—Britain asked the Soviet Union today to try to restrain the government of Communist China and bring about a cease-fire over Formosa lest that dispute break into general war.

Sir William Hayter, the British ambassador, talked at the Kremlin for 30 minutes with V. M. Molotov, the Soviet foreign minister. The British Embassy said Hayter acted with the advance knowledge of the U. S. State Department.

The British ambassador sought to enlist Soviet support for a New Zealand move backed by Britain, in the United Nations Security Council. This proposal aims to bring about a cease-fire, and is understood to include a proposal to invite the Chinese Communists to attend a Security Council meeting to discuss a Formosan peace.

The British Embassy said the ambassador had told Molotov Britain "hopes to have the cooperation of the Soviet government in the Security Council and that in particular Her Majesty's government hopes that the Soviet government will urge the Chinese People's government most strongly that they will accept the invitation to attend meetings of the United Nations Security Council when such an invitation is made."

Phone-Caller Set Of Rumors Of Planted A-Bombs

By the Associated Press

An anonymous phone caller last night set off a chain reaction of rumors regarding "planted" atom bombs in several Eastern cities that had police, the FBI and civil defense authorities checking fruitlessly well past the "deadline" of midnight.

The caller contacted the FBI in Philadelphia yesterday afternoon, identified himself as a "foreign agent" and said A-bombs would explode at midnight in buildings in Philadelphia, New York and Washington.

Precautionary checks were made, but William Peier, aide to New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, said the official view was that the caller was a crackpot.

The rumors reached to the Midwest, with a Kentucky CD officer saying his group had been told to stand by.

In Washington, however, the White House said there had been no civil defense alert and that no atomic devices were found.

Woman Found Imbedded In Ice

HINTON, W.Va. (AP)—The body of a Virginia woman was removed from four-inch thick ice in Blue Stone Lake today by the Hinton rescue squad after an hour of hacking and chipping.

Sheriff E. L. Hellemis, who directed the grim removal, identified the victim as Mrs. Jackie Hinty Huddle, 28, of Bluefield, Va.

Hellemis said she apparently leaped from the 180-foot high bridge which spans the lake between here and Princeton. When she was first seen by a passer-by, Mrs. Huddle's feet and legs were protruding through the ice.

The remainder of her body was imbedded solidly in the ice.

Credit Women Finish Series Of Etiquette Course Lessons

"Friendship and Fellowship," with emphasis on the etiquette of entertaining, was the subject of the final lesson in the Dixie Council Etiquette Course for Credit Women's Breakfast Club members taught by Mrs. Toland Boykin when the local club and its guests met last night in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Featured in the lesson by Mrs. Boykin, local bridal consultant and authority on etiquette, were secrets of successful entertaining, with demonstrations in table settings for breakfast, informal luncheon and formal dinner. In her demonstrations Mrs. Boykin stressed table decorations, proper use of silverware, proper china, crystal and linens, and some "do's and don'ts" on table manners.

In her introductory remarks, Mrs. Boykin noted that "friends of entertaining go together naturally, and it is easy to entertain with poise, grace and charm if the hostess is sure of herself and knows the rules."

Secret Is 'Have Fun'

She pointed out that nearly all rules of etiquette are elastic and may be stretched on occasion, but "the basic secret of entertaining is to have fun at your own party."

"The keynote of any entertaining," she declared, "is naturalness, as true fellowship and hospitality is of the heart and not of the purse. Hospitality does not attempt to give what it does not have, but rather to share what it has."

Mrs. Boykin then demonstrated correct table settings for various occasions. For the formal dinner she chose an ivory handmailed Madiera Cloth, with napkins to match, and centered the table with an arrangement of orchid snapdragons and yellow Shasta mums in a Paul Revere bowl, flanked by yellow candles in three-branched silver candelabra. The china was Harvest by Lenox, the silver Old Master by Towle, and the crystal Wheat by Fostoria.

Luncheon Table Setting

On her informal luncheon table Mrs. Boykin used pearl grey linen mats with matching napkins, Cascade china by Noritake, Wilmington crystal by Fostoria. Centering the table was a dried arrangement of orchid and fuchsia stock.

The breakfast table was laid with beige mats and brown napkins, Calico Leaves china by Peter Reed and Barton and Cinnamon Terris Dancing Flowers silver by Reed and Barton and cinnamon crystal by Fostoria. Centering the table was a dried arrangement of light and dark yellow flowers and fruit.

Mrs. Boykin also demonstrated serving pieces of flatware and hollowware, noting their uses and giving suggestions for utilizing all serving pieces.

Receiving Gifts

At the conclusion of the lesson Mrs. Elliott Johnson, program chairman, presented Mrs. Boykin with the floral centerpiece as a gift from Best Jewelry Company, and a silver gravy boat as gift of appreciation from the club.

Articles used in the table demonstrations were loaned through the courtesy of Best and Bell-Tyler Company. Mrs. Boykin also expressed appreciation for use of the church for the meeting.

A social hour followed the lesson with Mrs. Boykin, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Thomas Coghill, club president, serving as hostesses for the evening.

This combined lesson on friendship and fellowship and the etiquette demonstration completed the state and Dixie Council projects begun by the local club in June of last year. In addition to this portion of the program, the state project included a study of securities, investments and wills. J. Howard Mose of Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. served as instructor on securities and investments, while M. E. Cavendish, local attorney, taught the lessons on wills.

Teaches Other Lessons

Other lessons taught by Mrs. Boykin in the project on etiquette included "Introductions, Social and Business, and the Proper Response" and "Voice and Good Grooming."

Through the courtesy of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph company a film showing correct telephone technique and giving a number of suggestions on efficiently and courteously transacting business by telephone, thereby creating good will for the business firm provided the third lesson.

The club decided also to supplement the required lessons with a question box in which each member submitted her own personal unsigned etiquette problems, with these questions to constitute a lesson. The questions were answered by Mrs. Boykin.

At the next breakfast meeting of the club, February 12, members will begin a study of the Credit Women's Manual, the eighth International Educational Course, consisting of ten lessons.

A course on friendship and fellowship was taught by Mrs. Toland Boykin when the Credit Women's Breakfast Club met last night in the Fellowship Hall at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Mrs. Boykin emphasized entertaining as a part of fellowship, and following her talk, she demonstrated various table settings including formal dinner, informal luncheon and breakfast. Mrs. Boykin also pointed out to the club members and their guests numerous uses for various serving pieces, and gave them tips on correct table manners. This lesson completed the Dixie Council Etiquette Course required of Breakfast Clubbers. All the etiquette lessons were taught by Mrs. Boykin. Reflector Photo by Edwina Haymes.

The Crime Prevention Week Committee of the Greenville Exchange Club at a meeting last night, formulated plans for observing "Crime Prevention Week" February 13-19.

Exchange Club President E. O. Parkinson is state chairman and David Hardee is local chairman for the observance of "Crime Prevention Week."

Exchange members of the committee at the meeting last night, in addition to Parkinson and Hardee, were Howard Moye, R. S. Moye, Wesley Harvey, Leon Moore Jr., Mil-
