Tense Hours Of Decision

It is folly to kid ourselves. The United States is closer to war today than at any time since the Red Chinese swarmed into North Korea late in 1950.

The tense situation between the United States and Red China in the Far East could touch off World War III at almost any moment. The ultimate decision between war of the continued uneasy peace is now up to Red China.

If the U. S. Seventh fleet is attacked in its evacuation of Chinese Nationalist troops from the Tachens, the American ships and planes in that areas will protect themselves. It is reasonable to assume that the

Congressman Bonner's Stand Is To Be Admired

Congressman Herbert Bonner's rebuff of federal departmental officials for requesting a secret session of his House Committee when they had no secret information to divulge is certainly to be admired.

The people of the First Congressional District can be justly proud of their representative for speaking out so boldly for the right of the people to full governmental information when such information will not jeopardize the national security. Congressman Bonner's statement came at a time when it is becoming more and more routine for legislative groups to conduct the peoples' business behind closed doors rather than in the open.

Congressman Bonner pointed out in no uncertain terms that meetings of his committee would be open unless there is some specific reason relating to national security for calling a closed session. He went further to warn officials before his committee not to ask for closed sessions simply to hide from the citizens of the nation information which had no direct bearing on the nation's security.

The attitude of Congressman Bonner bespeaks the firmness of his conviction that the people have every right to know how their representatives in government are conducting the peoples' business. It is a conviction which more and more elected officials must possess if the channels of public information are to remain open and the peoples' right to know is to be preserved.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NOT SUFFICIENT WITNESSES

Stories brought back by men who were prisoners of the Japanese in the last war are so grotesque and horrifying as almost to pass belief.

As we ponder the awfulness of war, and especially of war between Christian and non-Christian nations, we are brought face to face with the fact that many centuries the Christian Church has been neglecting a responsibility very definitely laid upon it by its Founder. His command was that we go forth and witness to our faith to the ends of the world.

The noble missionaries who went out from Rome, and later from Ireland and the north countries, did carry Christianity to Europe. But there the witness largely stopped. When William Carey, 150 years ago, tried to call the attention of the Church to its missionary duty, he was scoffed at and reviled.

A Japanese labor camp or a modern Chinese prison was or is a horrible and dreadful thing because the nations that run them are not Christian. The cruelty of Oriental prison camps is, among other things, the retaliation which has come upon a Christian world order which plunged into the Orient to exploit but did not go there in sufficient force to witness to Christian faith and to its belief in democracy.

National Whirligig

Sen. Kefauver Outmaneuvered

WASHINGTON—Senator Estes Kefauver's annual attempt to win headlines and 1956 Presidential delegates by sensational crime forays has met determined opposition from Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., and J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director. They have already outmaneuvered the ambitious Senator from Tennessee.

Senator Kefauver had prepared a measure to bar interstate transmission of gambling information on sports contests, aiming to break telegraphic communication between race tracks and bookies.

He has been introducing the bill ever since his sensational televised investigations of 1951, but it had been pigeonholed by Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio, the lackadaisical chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee under Republican rule.

CRIME DETERRENTS—Kefauver felt assured of more favorable treatment and action from the new Democratic chairman Senator Warren G. Magnuson of Washington. Both a liberal and not averse to publicity, Magnuson was counted on to promote new headline-making hearings into operations of the politico-criminals underworld.

U. S. forces will not leave untouched the island and mainland bases from which Red Chinese planes operate should they attack the Seventh Fleet. The bombing of Red China bases by American planes probably would be a certainty.

What the Kremlin would do in case of such an eventuality can not be accurately predicted. The Russians may sit quietly, furnishing war material to the Red Chinese and let them battle the U. S. forces. On the other hand the Kremlin might see U. S. preoccupation with the Chinese as the opportune time to strike westward in Europe.

The international situation has experienced varying degrees of crisis in the past several years. In our estimation, the tense situation which now exists is the most critical in the past half decade. Not only the Armed Forces, but also the civilian population of the United States must stand ready should the catastrophe of World War III suddenly break upon us.

Are We Falling Down On The Job?

A situation cited recently in neighboring Beaufort County should attract the attention of people in other counties throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Participating in a panel discussion, Bill Patterson, manager of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, asserted that more than 500 graduates from Beaufort County high schools annually leave their native county and go elsewhere to seek employment. The reason, he said, is insufficient employment opportunities to keep them in their native county.

Where do these youngsters go? Some of them may come to Pitt County or other counties which border on Beaufort, but it is likely that many of these Beaufort County youngsters leave the eastern section of the state or go into other states where employment opportunities are more plentiful.

We don't know how many graduates of Pitt County high schools leave Pitt each year seeking employment elsewhere, but it is our guess that most counties in this section of the state suffer similar annual losses in young people.

The youth of any community is its greatest asset. Each county spends thousands upon thousands of dollars annually to provide good education for its youngsters in an effort to prepare them to earn a livelihood and likewise to take up the burdens of good citizenship in the community. If these youngsters—or a substantial portion of them—have to go elsewhere in search of employment, the individual county has lost a valuable asset.

In our constant endeavor to provide the youth of Eastern North Carolina with a better educational background, perhaps we are not placing sufficient emphasis upon efforts to provide them an opportunity to put their knowledge and abilities to work in the native areas when they are ready to join the ranks of the gainfully employed.

Somebody Told Me

Paragraphs And 'My Barber'

William Feather, one of my favorite writers from Cleveland, puts out a monthly publication of paragraphs. When the regular issue came in yesterday, there were several that struck me just right:

Women lie about their age and men lie about their income.

She asks you what you want for dinner and you say ham, niblet corn, and potato salad. So you get a 12 pound ham and 12 cans of corn and enough salad to keep a Boy Scout troop alive—and that is what you eat for a week.

My barber looks like Frank Parker, the man who works for Godfrey. One morning, while Godfrey was especially boring, I took a long look at Parker and Tony Marvin and made a mental note of their hairdos. I told my man that I wished he would cut my hair around the temples the way Parker and Marvin have their hair cut. He muttered something profane, but when he was through I liked the cut, probably the seven hundredth he has done for me.

I told McGreevy, that's his name, that customers of barbers and tailors ought to clip pictures from ads and news photographs, showing how they would like to look. How can I tell you how to cut my hair, I wanted to know. Why don't you have charts on the wall, replacing those calendars showing half-dressed women?

I didn't try to dip too deep into Mac's mind, but I suppose he was thinking, as my tailor probably does, how can I make this awful man look like Tony Marvin or Gregory Peck? Mac did confess during this ordeal that at one time in his career, and even now, he is called on to cut the hair of professional actors. These personalities would come to Baltimore and telephone him for an appointment. How come they knew you? I asked.

He said theatrical people pass along information. On tour they know where to eat and sleep where to get laundry done, clothes cleaned and pressed, and who is a good dentist, throat doctor, masseur, bartender, manicurist, and seamstress.

At a time when the price of a haircut was fifty cents, these celebrated spendthrifts would pay Mac $250. Small wonder he is a rich man and won't cut hair except by appointment.

And I thank William.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE AMERICAN MIND IS MADE UP (Hertford County Herald) Quick and almost unanimous action by Congress in approving the Formosan resolution, giving President Eisenhower the right and power to use the military if need be to halt further Communist aggression in the Formosan straits, reflects the thinking of an overwhelming majority of the American people.

The American mind has been made up since the days of Uncle Sam, in Korea that the military might of the United States should be used if need be to defend and protect whatever regions are necessary to prevent further encroachment of Communism upon the free countries of the world.

When to call a halt, how far to go, what areas to protect and defend, and the extent of our military operations are matters that may cause some division of opinion here at home. Republicans and Democrats may argue over them during political campaigns, but when the chips are down and decisions must be made, there is only one mind—to hold our ground and, if need be, aggressively prosecute military campaigns to rout the enemy and push them back to their own area.

As we have said before, there is no war party in the United States; and no political party has a mortgage on peace. Of course, President Eisenhower, as commander-in-chief, has the almost solid backing of his fellow countrymen in his Formosan strategy, just as did President Truman when he ordered troops into South Korea.

Republicans and Democrats may argue over them during political campaigns, but when the chips are down and decisions must be made, there is only one mind—to hold our ground and, if need be, aggressively prosecute military campaigns to rout the enemy and push them back to their own area.

Around Capitol Square

COMPARATIVE — There are varying opinions among oldtimers around legislative halls as to relative progress of the current session of the General Assembly as compared with records in previous years. In numbers of bills introduced the Senate is ahead of the 1953 record. The House is a good bit behind.

At the end of the third full week last Saturday there were 84 Senate bills on the list, compared with 66 two years ago, and 107 House bills, compared with 143. Casual analysis of the contents and purport of the current crop of embryo laws suggests the conclusion that a larger percentage of them represent major controversial issues than were in the mill at the approximate date in 1953.

Main difficulty encountered in making accurate comparison as to progress is the fact that both sessions faced unprecedented situations. Not only is it impossible accurately to compare one with the other, but neither can be compared with any previous Legislature.

HANDICAP—Normally the first Legislature of a Governor's term looks to the chief executive for specific guidance in effectuating his administration program. Governor William Umstead carried a general course in his inaugural address, and called upon the Assembly to follow. Two days later he was knocked out with a heart attack that prevented his personal appearance at his office or around the capitol throughout the entire session. That was an unprecedented situation, causing inevitable delay and some confusion in getting the program underway. Many observers still voice amazement that the delay and confusion had as little impact as they did upon the legislative processes.

UNIQUE—Traditionally the second or mid-term Legislature of a Governor's term devotes attention to completing the program and projecting ideas to be carried over under a new executive to be elected the following year. The unique situation facing this General Assembly is that although in the middle of a four year administration it has a new Governor with prospect that he may be re-elected and be in office through two more sessions of the Legislature. That situation came about by reason of the death of Governor William Umstead and accession of Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges to the top office less than sixty days before the Assembly convened.

Plan End Of Cookery

By ELMER ROESSNER
The rise in sales of frozen cooked foods has been phenomenal. But many in the food industry think we haven't seen anything yet. Sales of all kinds of frozen foods rose a total of 16 per cent last year. Most of the gain was in cooked varieties. There were 100,000,000 pot pies alone sold in 1954 and sales of 150,000,000 are expected this year.

Two giant companies are now freezing soups for the market and several other packers are reported to be working on similar items. The amazing success of chicken-and-trimmings dinners frozen on a disposable plate also has several big companies planning more complete, frosted meals. Pizzas, blintzes, egg rolls, enchiladas, scungull and numerous other one-eclectic dishes are now found in many frozen food displays. Joseph Gaudio, president of the National Wholesale Frozen Food Distributors, estimates that 20 per cent of the nation's chicken production and 30 per cent of its seafood is now sold cold.

Expansion plans in the industry are based on the belief that in a few years cooking meals in homes will be almost as rare as baking bread. "Why," leaders ask, "should a housewife spend hours cooking any more than her husband should spend time killing and plucking a chicken for dinner?"

There are other reasons. Women are tending to marry earlier, many before they have had a chance to learn to cook. More girls train for office jobs than for "domestic science," and many "hold jobs after marriage. Even if they did learn to cook, chefs employed by the big food freezers can do it better.

If the trend persists, it will have major effects on many businesses. Markets will devote vastly more space to frozen foods, and stores handling frozen foods exclusively will multiply.

Demand for electric broilers, frying pans and stew pans will rise to the levels of electric coffee pots and toasters. Demand for frozen food display cabinets, and for refrigerators with larger frozen food storage places will also increase.

Size and equipment of kitchens will change in newer homes. All that will be necessary will be a refrigerator, space for toasting a salad, and shelves for appliances for heating frozen foods.

NEW START UP
AN OLD BREAK
Two elements of this forecast are not new. During the war, complete frozen meals and infrared ovens for heating them were developed for the Navy and put on the civilian market after VE Day. At the same time, frozen food stores and frozen food wagon routes appeared in most sections of the country.

But there was no sweeping success in the field until recently—or until television improved so much that housewives wanted less cooking and more time for viewing and harking.

ISOTOPIES SHOW HOW FAST TOOLS WEAR OUT
The Department of Commerce's Office of Technical Services has developed a way to tell how fast cutting tools wear out.

The tools were made radioactive at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, then put to use on various metals. The rate of wear was accurately determined by testing the radioactivity of the chips, and far easier than by microscopic measurement.

Details are told in a report, "Machining Studies by Radiometric Methods," 75 cents from the OTS, D. of C., Washington 25, D. C.

A 50-Year-Veteran Remembers

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—You can take an old sergeant out of the Army, but you can't take the old Army out of a sergeant.

It's that way with Marty Maher, who retired in 1946 after 50 years of service at West Point. One of the best loved men in the history of the U. S. Military Academy, at 78 the white-thatched old sergeant still goes back every day of the week except Sunday to visit "The Point."

"I just go around seeing my friends that know me well," said Marty. "A man must keep in touch with his friends.

"To my mind there is no man ever lived enjoyed himself as much as I did there, and I'm still having the damndest time of my life. Working with the boys so long has kept me young."

Marty admits now, "I was a wild boy myself when I came here from Tipperary." That was in 1896, he was only 20, and his first job at West Point was as a mess hall waiter.

"I got $13 a month pay—with breakage taken out," he recalled, "and one day I fell with my arms full of dishes and it cost me a couple of months pay.

"As soon as I could I enlisted, because I liked the brass buttons very much."

Thirty years later he retired as a sergeant, but merely went home and changed his clothes and came right back as civilian superintendent of the West Point gym. That was in 1928. When he finally retired in 1946, the cadets paraded before him in special review and gave him a gold watch. Marty's blue eyes still get misty when he talks of that day.

Over the decades Marty, and his late wife, who reared no children of their own, became father and mother confessor to the cadet corps, helped hundreds of future colonels and generals to iron out their youthful troubles.

A roll call of Marty's memories is a roll call of 50 years of West Point athletic history. His book of memoirs, "Bringing Up The Brass," has been made into a film, "The Long Gray Line," starring Tyrone Power as Marty, by Columbia Pictures. It is probably the only movie ever made about a sergeant in the Quartermaster Corps—a soldier who made his name in peacetime and never fired a gun in anger.

Marty became famous at West Point as a swimming teacher who had never learned to swim himself. Carrying out a strictly dry land technique, Maher, who has a low opinion of water under any circumstances, taught hundreds of cadets to swim over a 35-year period.

Only once did he violate his prejudice against water, and then he was forced to.

"In 1911 a captain who was trying to get me busted ordered me to undress and go into the pool," he said. "I went into the dressing room and put my head between my hands and cried.

"Then I told myself, 'If you just do what you teach others, you shouldn't drown.' I went into the pool, swam across it, then down to the other end, and climbed out. And I did it without getting my chin wet."

Marty remembers the time when Cadet Douglas MacArthur, ordered to do knee bends during a hazing, resolutely kept at it without complaint until he fainted; when Cadet Omar Nelson Bradley could throw a ball from anywhere in left field unerringly to home plate; when Cadet Mark Clark was nicknamed "Contract" because of his success in smuggling food tidbits into the barracks; and when "I told the only lie in my life" to Cadet Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"He had hurt his knee in football and I took care of it for him," said Marty. "I told him the knee would be all right in two or three weeks, but I knew it wouldn't. He got his 'A,' but he never got to play again."

ECC To Dedicate New Library March 8

JOYNER LIBRARY, of East Carolina College

East Carolina College will hold dedication ceremonies for its new Joyner Library March 8, college President John D. Messick has announced.

Lawrence Quincy Mumford, Librarian of Congress and President of the American Library Association, will be principal speaker at exercises scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. Born in Ayden, N. C., he is a native of Pitt County, in which East Carolina College is located.

The Joyner Library, completed last spring and put to use at the beginning of the summer session 1954, is named in honor of the late Dr. J. Y. Joyner of La Grange, a beloved North Carolina educator and for a number of years state superintendent of public instruction in this state.

A portrait of Dr. Joyner, a gift to the college from members of his family, will be presented during the dedication program. The portrait is the work of Mrs. Mildred McMullan Rumley of Washington, N. C.

Mr. Mumford, who will make the address of dedication March 8, became Librarian of Congress in August, 1954, and is serving as President of the American Library Association for 1954-1955.

He received his education at Duke University, from which he holds both the bachelor's and the master's degrees, and at the School of Library Science at Columbia University.

His experience includes positions in the libraries at Duke and Columbia universities, in the New York Public Library, and in the Cleveland, Ohio, Public Library, where he served as director from 1950 to 1954. He has been a lecturer and faculty advisor at Western Reserve University's School of Library Science since 1946.

The Joyner Library at East Carolina College, designed by Architect Eric G. Fannagan of Henderson, is a handsome T-shaped building modern in design and construction of red brick. A porch with four white limestone columns and large windows of the awning type contribute to the beauty and dignity of the exterior.

Spacious reading rooms, stacks which will accommodate a collection of 17,000 books, classrooms for the teaching of library science, an audio-visual center, a projection room for the showing of films, a broadcasting studio, and other accommodations desirable in a well-planned library are included in the new building.

More than 25 per cent of the nation's 18-to-21-year olds now attend college.

Higher Wages, But Fewer Jobs In Sight

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Higher wages but fewer jobs is the forecast for 1955 received by AFL leaders today as they opened top-level winter meetings.

The AFL Executive Council, 17-member policy-making group of the big labor organization, studied a report prepared by AFL economists predicting that unions will win substantial wage boosts this year.

The report, at the same time, expressed fear that unemployment will average about 4,000,000 throughout the year, or a million higher than the 3,000,000 jobless average of 1954.

An above normal increase among the available workers, partly due to scheduled reductions in the military forces, plus new productive efficiencies, were listed as reasons for the expected hike in the number of unemployed.

The AFL council was expected to endorse several steps designed to bolster the economy and help reduce unemployment. One favorite AFL antidote is higher exemptions to reduce income tax payments among wage earners. Another is to increase the present 75 cents an hour federal minimum wage.

The 1955 economic outlook put before the council said that wage increases, which it claims unions will seek and get in 1955, will help buoy consumer purchasing power.

"The net result," the report said, "will mean a rise in consumer expenditures. However, under present prospects, the increase will fall far short of the amount necessary to develop a high employment economy similar to 1953."

The report said government expenditures and business outlays for new plants and equipment are expected to decline, and the work force may expand by 900,000 as more young men are released from the armed services.

Escapee Caught Ride With Cop

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Sidney Wallace Pittman, three-time convict, caught a ride with a Dallas policeman soon after an escape from the Tarrant County Jail, Sheriff Harlon Wright said today.

Policeman W. P. Moyers of Dallas picked Pittman up near Grand Prairie, Tex., west of here, and drove him to the Waco highway in Dallas, Wright said.

When Moyers went on duty yesterday he discovered the hitchhiker had sawed his way out of jail, lowered himself five stories on an improvised rope and disappeared.

Moyers said the fugitive gave him his correct name and said he was "going to Waco."

Ed Wynn's Wife To Seek Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A divorce complaint against comedian Ed Wynn, 68, by his third wife, the former Dorothy Elizabeth Nesbitt, 44, of New York, is ready for filing today.

Her attorney said she signed the complaint, alleging extreme cruelty, yesterday. The lawyer said they had made a property agreement. The Wynns were married in Las Vegas, Nev., July 31, 1946.

Judge Rewards A Virtuous Man

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A prospective juror escaped service because he told the judge he wanted to sit with his sick mother-in-law.

"When a man wants to do something for his mother-in-law," commented Judge Otis T. Dunagan, "I will not keep him tied up here on jury service."

Appalachian Upsets East Carolina, 88-84

Pirates Drop To Third Place In Loop Standings

Appalachian pulled the surprise of the week last night when they knocked East Carolina's Pirates out of second place in the North State Conference, upsetting the Pirates 88-84 at Boone.

The Pirates have now dropped into third place in loop activity with a 4-3 mark while the Appa have a 4-5 record.

J. C. Thomas and freshman Carvel (Nick) Nichols were hitting right and left for the Pirates but the Appa were red-hot and not to be denied last night. Center Jim Freycha wound up with 22 points for the high scoring Appalachian team. James Abernathy had 21 and three other members of the team had 10 points each.

Thomas poured in 27 points for the Pirates and Nichols had 21. Forward Don Harris was held to 13 points by the App defense in one of his lowest totals of the season.

The next game for the Bucs will be in ECC gymnasium Thursday night against the league-leading Atlantic Christian Bulldogs.

High Scoring Phants Shoot For Number Seven Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Bo Farley's fabulous Phantoms shoot for win number seven tonight in conference play against old rival Washington, in the Pam-Pack gymnasium. The Pam-Pack were overrun by the Phantoms to the tune of 82-32 in their last meeting early in January.

The Washington club, which eked out a one point victory over Elizabeth City in their last outing, is not expected to be able to score many points off the Greene team. The Washington group, however, could hold the score of both teams down quite easily.

Frenchman Stops Paddy DeMarco

PARIS (AP)—French Lightweight Champion Seraphin Ferrer is making a name for himself in the United States following his surprise knockout of former World Champion Paddy DeMarco, but he's in no hurry to cross the Atlantic.

The 4-year-old, undefeated Ferrer, winner of 16 fights since turning pro two years ago, said he would like to pick up a little more experience and the European 135 pound title before he tackles the admittedly sterner tests of the U.S. ring.

As for DeMarco, he would like the Frenchman to make the trip soon and is even willing to pay Ferrer's fare to get him into a ring in his own country.

Ferrer stopped the 27-year-old American in 2:30 of the fifth round of his scheduled 10 at the Palais des Sports last night.

DeMarco, who won and lost the world lightweight title to Jimmy Carter went down from a right to the chin. He got off the canvas at the count of five and grasped the ropes with his left hand but was far from steady. The referee continued the count as DeMarco held on and at each count waved his hand in DeMarco's direction with fingers indicating the count.

Vicente Napoli, the American's manager, claimed DeMarco was ready to go at the count of nine but was confused by European rules.

"I will never sign him to fight in France again," said Napoli. "But I will fight in any part of the United States, winner take all and I will pay his round trip fare. Nobody told us anything about holding out to the ropes. In the States, the fighter can hold to the ropes until the count of nine. Paddy looked at me and I told him to stay down until the count of nine but the referee had counted him out before I knew it. Paddy had all his senses and was ready to fight."

In the past the Pack has been a sort of ball control team, especially on the huge Washington court. Tonight Coach Bill Sweet's group is just liable to use that old tactic in hoping for an upset.

The Greenies are a fast breaking team and the Pack doesn't like to move fast. When the two teams played in Greenville, the Greenies forced Washington to play like they wanted them to and the outcome was a riot. On their own home court the Pack may realize their predicament and hold the ball against Coach Farley's powerhouse.

In yesterday's workout Coach Farley worked his squad against just such stalling tactics. The second team looked very impressive at first working the ball through the first team, but then the regular boys got the hang of the thing. Greenville will take the state's leading scoring percentage into the game. In all games the high-scoring hot shots have averaged 75.9 points per game. In conference play alone the average is 81.5 against their opponents 49.3. The top five players are all averaging over eight points per game. Harold Edwards, Bob Howell, Tommie Saled and Pat Sawyer are all hitting in the double figures with Edgar Moore (8.1) right behind the others. Clark Noble and Ike Riddick are not averaging as highly as the first five but they are just as valuable.

Riddick, who missed the last ball game because of sickness, was back in school yesterday and practiced lightly and will dress for the game tonight although he will not be at top shape. The junior sharpshooter was weak yesterday and certainly won't be able to go strongly tonight.

The javee game, which is a preliminary to the varsity coach, should be interesting. Coach Bill Kittrell's team is hoping for a revenge win against the Pam-Pack. Coach Kittrell's team now has a 2-4 conference record.

Fulmer Moving Up; Zulueta Gets Draw

NEW YORK (AP)—Step by step, Gene (Cyclone) Fulmer, unbeaten Salt Lake City middleweight, is moving toward the top 10 in the 160-pound division.

The 25-year-old Fulmer added his 27th straight victory last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway by soundly drubbing Marcel Assire, who was making his first start since his arrival from France.

Fulmer, who whipped German Peter Mueller in his last local appearance Nov. 15, should be ready to move in faster company now.

Teddy Brenner, the Parkway matchmaker, has offered him a Paddy Young match Feb. 14 and Fulmer is willing. Harry Sticklers, Young's manager, will decide in a day or so if he wants the match.

Fulmer scored a near shutout, winning 10-0 on the card of Judge Americo Schiavone 9-1 on Referee Al Ber's ballot and 8-1 on Judge Charley Rosen's scorecard. The AP had it 9-1. A crowd of 1,165 saw the bout, which the state's press viewed locally but was beamed to other cities. Fulmer, the 3 to 1 favorite, weighed 156, Assire 160 pounds.

Orlando Zulueta, another 3 to 1 favorite, was held to a 10-round draw by 22-year-old Danny Jo Perez of New York at New York's St. Nicholas Arena where an estimated 1,000 paid $1.00.

Referee Larry Napp an American League umpire in the summertime, called it 6-3-1 for Zulueta, but Judge Harold Barnes had Perez on top 5-4-1. Judge Arthur Susskind scored the match even, 5-5, with five points for each. The AP card had Perez ahead 6-4.

Zulueta's talented left eye opened a cut over Perez' left eye in the second and it bled the rest of the night. From time to time, especially in the second round, Perez shook up Zulueta with solid right hand punches, over the jab.

The clever Cuban, who has had 83 fights, made Perez miss repeatedly but his legs wouldn't move him out of the way when Danny Jo crowded inside in the late rounds. Zulueta weighed 140 pounds. It was the youngster's 20th pro start.

Kentucky Keeps Poll Position; N.C. State Skids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky's Wildcats were atop the Associated Press basketball poll for the seventh successive week today, but there's likely to be some changes made by next election time.

On the basis of games played through last Saturday Kentucky edged San Francisco's Dons 1,031 to 953 points. But more significant was that the Wildcats received only 15 more first-place votes—48 to 33—than the West Coast five, now working on a winning streak of 12 games.

And if everything continues to go smoothly for San Francisco, Kentucky's lofty spot could well be in jeopardy when the nation's sports writers and sportscasters cast their votes again next Monday. For Kentucky lost its second of the season last night and once again it was Georgia Tech that turned the trick, 65-59. That left the Wildcats with a 12-2 season's mark compared to 14-1 for San Francisco.

LaSalle moved up from fifth to third in today's poll but still was far back of the Dons with 541 points. Duquesne, which beat Niagara last night for a 10-3 record against league rivals, was right at the Explorers' heels with 532 after being idle all last week.

Utah, with a long lead in the Skyline Conference race, advanced from seventh to fifth. The Utes were followed by North Carolina State, George Washington, UCLA, Marquette and Illinois. N.C. State skidded chiefly because of its second defeat of the season by Villanova.

The top teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Kentucky (48)
2. San Francisco (33)
3. LaSalle (2)
4. Duquesne (1)
5. Utah (4)
6. N. C. State (4)
7. G. Washington (7)
8. U.C.L.A. (2)
9. Marquette (10)
10. Illinois (2)
11. Minnesota (1)
12. Maryland (2)
13. Alabama (3)
14. Holy Cross (5)
15. DePaul (2)
16. Niagara (2)
17. Missouri (tie)
18. Villanova (1)
19. Oregon State (12-6)
20. Vanderbilt (10-3)

The old adage has it that "Youth must be served." As a general rule this may be so. But there are plenty of exceptions to the rule on the race track.

Pet Bully, named by Jockey Willie Hartack as the best thoroughbred he ever rode, didn't really come into his own until last year as a six-year-old. During the 1954 season, Pet Bully started 14 times, won nine races, finished second twice and third once. His outstanding triumphs came in the Washington Park Handicap, the Woodward Mile and the Fall Highweight while he was piling up a total of $240,875.54 for 1954.

Pet Bully had a good excuse for his late arrival to the roster of stake winners. He broke a bone in his foot as a two-year-old and did not race as a three-year-old. Returning to the races as a four-year-old Pet Bully won eight of sixteen starts, six of these were stake races. Stymie is, of course, the classic example of a race horse finding himself late in his career. The famous $1,600 claimer who went on to win $918,845 did not win a stake race until he was four. The justly famed "Cinderella Horse" won 35 races, including 25 stake events, in 131 starts. Nicky W. was ten years old when she won her first stake event in 1953, the Shaker Handicap at Randall Park. The durable mare went to the post 108 times that year, winning thirty races and finishing in the money on thirty-two other occasions to earn $64,000, an age when most thoroughbreds have long been enjoying retirement.

Report Williams Ready To Return To Red Sox Job

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams is ready to return to baseball and his role as hitting star of the Boston Red Sox according to the Boston Post.

The Post today reports under a Miami, Fla., dateline, that Williams' business manager, Fred Corcoran, indicates Ted will report to spring training with the Sox if he gets some coaxing from Club Owner Tom Yawkey and General Manager Joe Cronin.

Williams announced his retirement during the 1954 season effective when the season was over.

The Post story says that Corcoran "after a long conference with the slugger at a hotel on Miami Beach, announced to friends that Ted will be in action when the Sox arrive at Fenway late next month for spring training."

Remarkd Cronin at his Boston home:

"We've mailed Ted a contract but haven't heard from him as yet."

Home Run Baker In Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Home Run Baker, who won his nickname by hitting homers off Rube Marquard and Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants in the 1911 World Series, and Ray Schalk, the little "Iron Man" of the Chicago White Sox who caught 1,760 games in the majors, are the latest additions to baseball's Hall of Fame.

"The two old timers, both inactive as players during the last 25 years, were selected by the special 11-man veterans' committee Sunday, but results were not announced until last night.

Joe DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Dazzy Vance and Gabby Hartnett were elected to membership last week by the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Assn. who were restricted to men active in the last 25 years but retired for at least five years.

As a result of the double election the total membership has been increased to 79. The latest additions will be inducted formally at Cooperstown, N.Y., ceremonies July 25.

Wolfpack Meets Cavaliers Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State, still a bit grumpy from its 107-96 defeat to Villanova last Saturday, plays host to the touring Virginia Cavaliers tonight in the first Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game since Jan. 18.

State, with a 5-2 conference record, has everything to gain and a lot to lose. Now in fourth place in the league standings, victories over Virginia tonight and Clemson Saturday would leave the Wolfpack within striking distance of first place now held by North Carolina.

Playing on its own floor should help State in both games, but not so be overlooked is Virginia's Buzz Wilkerson, one of the nation's top scorers, and the key man in the Cavalier attack.

Two other games involving Atlantic Coast teams are scheduled tonight. Wake Forest plays the Phillips Oilers at Greensboro, N.C., and Clemson, last in the conference with a 0-8 mark, invades Presbyterian.

A 15-day layoff for mid-year exams proved disastrous for Duke which lost a 92-73 game to seventh ranked George Washington at Arlington, Va., last night.

Nervous Wildcats Drop To Tech A Second Time

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Sudden lightning, in the form of Georgia Tech, struck down mighty Kentucky twice in less than a month, and the fallan Wildcats must be wondering today if they're heading into any more dangerous zones.

Georgia Tech whipped the Wildcats, No. 1 team in the country, again last night, 65-59. From all appearances, Kentucky suffered a bad case of nerves.

Tech is the only team this year to beat the Wildcats, who have won 12.

What made things even worse was that this was a Southeastern Conference game and could cost Kentucky the title. However, Florida helped some by handing Alabama a 51-47 first league defeat 76-74. "I don't know what to say," said amazed Georgia Tech Coach John Hyder. "My kids played a whole ball game. We had them from the start. Kentucky arranged for films of the game to show everybody on television and I'm grateful to them. We've got a pretty good basketball team, I have to admit."

Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp observed that "it just goes to show you what a team can do when it makes up its mind to win. The free throws beat us."

The Wildcats missed every foul try in the first half and didn't score with one until Jerry Bird found the range after 7½ minutes of the second half. Kentucky made only five three throws to Tech's 25.

The Engineers gave another "iron man" performance. Bill Cohen, Dick Lenhol, Gary Phillips, went all the way. Helms was Joe Helms and Bobby Kimmel high man with 24 points.

In other Southeastern Conference games, Auburn edged Georgia 78-76 in a game that was tied several times, Tulane whipped Mississippi State 69-60, and Mississippi beat Louisiana State 89-69. Richmond came through when it

UNC Grid Hopes Suffer Big Blow

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's football hopes for next season suffered a blow yesterday with the announcement that Don Klochak, star sophomore fullback last season, has dropped out of school.

Head Coach George Barclay said Klochak, a 218-pounder, quit because of scholastic difficulties and has returned to his home at Fairhope, Fla. Klochak saw a great deal of action last season and was expected to be a mainstay for the Tar Heels next season.

Barclay also said there was some doubt now if Marshall Newman, last year's starting fullback, will play next season. Barclay said Newman may pass up his final year of eligibility to enter medical school.

Justice Dept. Moving Swiftly To Try IBC On 'Trust' Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department moved at top speed today to bring the International Boxing Club to trial as a monopoly that violates the antitrust laws.

The trial will take place in New York City and a spokesman for the Justice Department's Antitrust Division there said it probably would be sometime before the end of the calendar year, July 1.

The Supreme Court yesterday refused to grant boxing exemption from antitrust laws as it did baseball.

The government filed an antitrust suit against the IBC, headed by Jim Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, in March 1952, but it was thrown out by Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan of New York, who based his decision on the baseball case.

The Supreme Court decision was by a 6-2 vote with Chief Justice Earl Warren writing the majority opinion. He noted that baseball first was exempted from antitrust laws in 1922 by the Supreme Court. In 1953 the court held that Congress, by failing to pass legislation specifically bringing baseball under the antitrust laws, had indicated it wanted baseball exempt.

But no such situation prevailed for boxing, the opinion continued. If it is to be exempt, "the issue is for Congress to resolve, not this court."

The baseball decision, it said, cannot be interpreted as "a sweeping grant of immunity to every business based on the live presence of local exhibitions, regardless of how extensive its interstate phases may be."

The minority opinion, written by Justice Felix Frankfurter, said it would "baffle the subtlest ingenuity to find a single differentiating factor between other sporting exhibitions, whether boxing, or football or tennis and baseball insofar as conduct of the sport is relevant to the question of antitrust prosecution."

Norris issued a statement saying that the decision merely means that the government must prove its monopoly charges.

"We are confident," he said, "that the court will vindicate our position that in presenting seven or eight championship bouts a year we do not operate an illegal monopoly within the meaning of the Sherman Act."

The government position is that Norris and Wirtz, along with the Madison Square Garden Corp., have been conspiring since 1949 to monopolize the promotion, exhibition, broadcasting and televising of big-time fights.

In the suit which was dismissed, the Justice Department explained its stand this way:

"The utilization by the defendants (IBC) of exclusive contracts with boxers to tie up all major champions and contenders, together with exclusive control of the principal arenas, preventing other promoters from competing in promotion of championship bouts.

"We are seeking to terminate all such exclusive arrangements and to sever all interlocking financial interests among the defendants which contribute to a continuation of their monopoly."

Last year the 10 world championship fights in the United States were promoted either wholly by the IBC or by the IBC in partnership with promoters in other cities. The government contends that since 1949, when Norris and Wirtz moved to the boxing picture, only two of the 21 championship fights held in this country were promoted by groups other than the IBC.

MATERNITY BLOUSE . . . Make it from an old shirt.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Hubby's shirt seems to be standard equipment for young mothers-to-be these days. The pretty maternity overblouses are slipped on for dinner, movies or cocktail parties. But the sturdy, washable shirt, does daytime duty for household chores.

A girl's morale is important, however, even when she's alone in the house, and a man's shirt is not noted for chic. Local sewing center experts offer a few tips on how to dress up the male shirt to make it attractive and feminine, without sacrificing its practical virtues.

First thing to do is cut off the tail to a becoming length. Put in a neat hem and border with a strip of bias binding.

Even though the sleeves are too long, you can achieve a becoming detail without major alterations. Simply put a couple of rows of binding on the cuff and push up the cuffs to the elbow for a pretty lantern-sleeve silhouette.

Now for the collar. Just take it off, and stitch around the opened seam at the binding. You can

Three Proudgers Talk Up 'War And Peace' Movie

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the hardest things to find today is a movie producer who is not going to make "War and Peace."

No less than three major movie makers have announced plans to film the Tolstoy classic, first published in English in 1886. It's too early to predict which will get it on the screen first. So far all Hollywood has to go on is the manner in which each has announced his plans to the press.

On that basis, the nod must go to Broadway producer Mike Todd who smokes seven-inch cigars.

First to announce plans for the 1,300-page novel was David O. Selznick. His announcement came in the form of a mere release mailed to the press.

More impressive was the announcement last week of Dino De Laurentis, the Italian producer. De Laurentis only chatted informally with Hollywood reporters but, after all, he did cross an ocean to do so.

Todd, however, lived up to the traditional Hollywood way of life at a news conference yesterday.

The setting was the palatial mansion of Joseph M. Schenck, board chairman of 20th Century-Fox.

Besides Schenck, Todd also brought along Robert E. Sherwood, the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright, who will do the screen play, and Fred Zinneman, Academy Award-winning director, who will direct for Todd.

And if that wasn't impressive enough, Todd told how he had arranged with Marshal Tito's government to film all outdoor scenes in Yugoslavia.

"Those slavish faces," Todd rhapsodized. "They're wonderful. The government has promised us 25,000 to 30,000 or more of its troops to work in the battle scenes."

Todd said he hopes to be shooting by fall with a minimum budget of 7 1/2 million dollars.

Church Leader Asserts Youth Needs New Zeal

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The spiritual leader of 4 1/2 million U.S. Lutherans said today the church must inspire the nation's youth with a new zeal to defend American liberties.

"The perpetuation of our freedoms," said Dr. Oscar A. Benson, of Minneapolis, "will ultimately depend not so much on patriotic oratory in and out of Congress as on the attitudes we develop in the hearts of our youth."

"In a time when freedom of speech and even freedom of thought are jeopardized by those who have the power to intimidate and to apply social and economic pressures," he continued, "it may be that the church remains as the staunchest defender of our American liberties."

Benson's comments came in a report prepared for the opening session of the annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council, a union of eight Lutheran church bodies. Benson is president of both the council and one of the eight units — the Augustana Lutheran Church.

A church mission of "supreme importance," Benson said, is to spread the "Gospel to the campus through student service and to the military personnel through our chaplains."

He also asked the council to broaden Lutheran services to youth by setting up a "division of men's and boys' work" and perhaps a "bureau of scouting."

In another report, Dr. Paul C. Empe, of New York, said Lutheran World Action, the council's annual financial appeal, "raised more than 109 per cent of its 1954 goal of $2,600,000, with receipts totaling $2,835,218."

Empe, executive director, said the LWA goal for 1955 is $2,982,000. He asked approval of goals of $3,172,000 for 1956 and $3,250,000 for 1957.

Safety Message In Color Scheme

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Post Office vehicles in Philadelphia will get a color scheme combining patriotism and safety.

Postmaster Raymond A. Thomas said the upper parts of trucks will be painted white, the lower parts blue with a bright red separation line.

The postmaster said tests have shown the present olive color is difficult to see. The new decor, he said, was picked to reduce accidents.

Wasn't Driving In Auto Accident

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Antonio D. Trujillo 17, admitted it was his car that smashed into the front of a downtown store but claims he wasn't there at the time. Trujillo said he turned a corner and fell out of the vehicle, which continued on down the street. Finally, he said, it jumped the curb and hit the store.

Officials say Trujillo will be called into court to explain the incident more fully.

'Kind' Man Gets Suspended Term

DALLAS (AP) — A man who said he was "too kindhearted" to foreclose on friends was given a six-month suspended sentence in federal court here for processing fictitious FHA loans.

William J. Silwell, former official of the Cleburne (Tex.) Savings & Loan Assn., said he used imaginary names in making applications for FHA home loan repairs so that home owners could get money to meet payments.

"I grew up on a farm as one of 10 children and knew the sacrifice of hard drought years," he told the court.

The government said 20 such loans totaling $10,500 were involved.

Rescues Sister From Gas Fumes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Nancy Baird, 6-year-old polio victim, was overcome by escaping coal gas last night while asleep upstairs but an alert older sister detected the fumes and saved her life.

Five other children in the family were downstairs watching television at the time. Diana Baird, 14, smelled gas. She called the Fire Department and rescuers revived Nancy. After an examination at Frank Square Hospital, she was

Christian Science Speaker Asserts Spiritual Answers Proved Practical

"The remedy of mankind's insecurity is basically spiritual—not financial, social or physical," John S. Sammons of Chicago, said in a Christian Science lecture here last Friday night.

"Spiritual answers to problems of health, finances, and human brotherhood were proved practical by Christ Jesus 2,000 years ago, and are being demonstrated by Christ-for Security." He was introduced by Mrs. Sue Hyman Bowden, Second Reader in the Greenville Society.

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — A burglar broke into Bernard A. Dodge's home yesterday and took about $30. Later, police found a half-pound box of chocolates in a heart-shaped valentine box at the scene of the theft. Dodge said the candy didn't belong to him.

Falling Airplane Part Struck Boy

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Five-year-old Daniel Pohlbel is in a hospital here today with two gashes in his head from a two-pound metal part that fell from a B25 and plummeted through the roof of his Dayton home.

Officials at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said the 12-inch bar was one used to close the cover over the plane's retracted wheel. It flew through the roof of the Pohlbel home and struck Daniel as he was watching television.

Doctor at the Crossroads

ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Fred laughed, and held his coffee cup toward Katie. "So! I shall tell you a few things. Let me see—I think the biggest item is the great number of things a doctor learns working in a place like this."

"Huh?" said Murphy in surprise. "In a dump like this?"

"It is no dump!" Fred spoke with heat.

"Sorry. But I still can't see, Fritz, what there is to learn here. Unless you mean gossip, or a graduate course in the facts of life."

"No, sir! I do not mean that. But—Why, Murphy, you don't know, or even begin to study, medicine until you've been alone in your own office, a hundred miles away from any other medic. Maybe with two feet of snow blocking the roads, and you get an illness you can't readily identify, or a basal skull injury—a baby dying from some intestinal obstruction—a man spouting blood from his nose and ears and mouth. That's where you get right down to the basic fact that, for all your years in medical school, and your internships, you don't know nothing! And unless you want to lose a case, you'd better learn something fast!"

"And do you learn it?"

"In a lot of cases, I do. And when I don't, I get most awful busy and find out enough so that I'll be able to handle the thing the next time it comes up."

The phone rang, summoning Fred abruptly from the house to the scene of a highway accident.

Alone with Murphy in her cool living room, Katie said:

"You don't understand about Fred, Murphy. Take that hand he's caring for right now. The case won't be written up in any medical journal or discussed in a staff meeting—but Fred's working like the very dickens to save the usefulness of that hand. He'll get his reward every time he goes into Perkins' and sees that young man back at work. That's the only kind of reward he wants—and the only pressure, right at this minute, to be sure he saves the tendons and muscles and nerves of that hand."

She glanced at Murphy, and saw his black eyes thoughtful.

"Fred would do the same kind of work wherever he practiced. Where another man would slump without competition, Fritz . . . She broke off blushing. "I shouldn't call him that," she murmured.

"You're terribly in love with him, aren't you?" Murphy asked gently.

"Yes," she said softly.

A muscle flickered in his heavy jaw. "You're a very smart girl, Katie."

She looked at him in sharp surprise. "Me?" she asked, so incredulously that he laughed.

"Yes, you! When Fred met me this morning, I told him I was anxious to see what you were like now. I was not prepared to find you so clever, Katie, that you have not changed one bit."

"You call that clever?" Katie Beier was a modest, even timid, young woman. At least half of this characteristic was due to a merciless and constant appraisal of her own assets and liabilities.

"Of course it is clever," Murphy assured her. "Fred married you because you were a certain sort of girl. By remaining that sort you hold him against all comers. So it is clever."

Katie was puzzled and showed it. "Murphy, are you saying something nasty to me—or about me?"

He laughed aloud in delight. "You're wonderful, Katie. I wish more women would use the direct approach."

"I use it because I don't know any other kind. But you must tell me what you're talking about!"

"A doctor is a doctor usually because he is interested in the work. But, no more than a bricklayer, is he free from outside influences which tend to split up his single-minded attention. But our Fred is immune, and I know why."

"You have to speak more plainly than that, Murphy, for me."

He looked at her meaningfully. Her hair was smooth, her blue frock neat and pretty. You know why I am a guest in your house?"

"Of course. Fred called you about Theo Kyle."

"Do you think he had a stroke?" Katie's eyes widened. "I know that he must be desperately ill . . ."

"Or, you think, Fred would not have called me, is that it?"

She clasped her hands together in some distress. "I don't know, Murphy. Fred doesn't discuss cases with me."

"Do you know the Kyles?"

"Of course I know them. Linda especially. Theo doesn't—a n't—gone about much socially. And he's older, you know."

"Did it ever occur to you that Fred sent for me because he was finding himself the hero of a drama by Bernard Shaw?"

The gray-green eyes darkened. "Which drama?" she asked softly.

Murphy shrugged. "There's one that fits. I was only hoping that Shaw would put it to you better than I could." His black eyes keenly watched Katie.

"The Doctor's . . ." whispered Katie. "But, Murphy! Fritz isn't—Fred and Linda are not—"

"No darling not!" he said swiftly, and earnestly. "I was just saying that the Linda Kyle setup would present possibilities if our Fritz were not so well protected by his beautiful wife against that sort of temptation."

Katie blushed rosily, and her hands fluttered against the blue cloth of her skirt. "Are you trying to tell me," she asked breathlessly, "that Fred wanted you to take over and solve the dilemma he might be in?"

"If you need it lined out—" He shrugged.

"I expect I do," she said with her childish frankness.

"Then I am going to tell you plainly that I think you should do something about Fred."

"Me?"

"Yes, you, Katie. You're his wife, aren't you?"

He watched the delicious color again stain her cheeks. "And," he continued smoothly, "I am sure you are a good wife—up to a point."

"I want to be a good wife, up to all points," she said earnestly. "I'm sure you do, darling. But, of course, you're young. And your father raised you. Your mother died when you were a child. That's true isn't it?"

"Yes, when I was eight, I remember her—but, of course, my father did everything to take her place."

"Except to teach you certain things that only women know."

"If only women know them, how are you so well-informed?" she challenged him. Katie had known Murphy quite as long as he had known her.

He grinned at her. "I'm gifted."

"Oh, Murphy . . ."

"But I do know one thing, Katie, that I think you have missed." He spoke earnestly, and Murphy was never more charming than when he was sincere. Or seemed to be.

"There is an obligation upon every good wife; the obligation of getting behind her indolent husband and pushing him to do the things he should do."

"I do not think anyone could call Fred indolent," said Katie, bristling.

How the 1955 Mercury makes sense out of high horsepower

NEW 1955 MERCURY PUTS HIGH HORSEPOWER TO WORK AT NORMAL DRIVING SPEEDS WITH NEW SUPER-TORQUE V-8 ENGINE, DUAL EXHAUST, 4-BARREL CARBURETOR

Mercury gives you high horsepower you can use in all performance ranges—not just brag about.

More important than high horsepower alone is pickup, passing, hill-climbing power—more power for your everyday driving.

Everything about Mercury's new and advanced SUPER-TORQUE V-8 engine is designed to give you more usable power with super pickup in every speed range.

It's a short-stroke, low-friction design, with high-turbulence combustion chambers, full-vacuum automatic spark control—all specially engineered to squeeze more power out of every drop of gas.

And there are Mercury exclusives like:

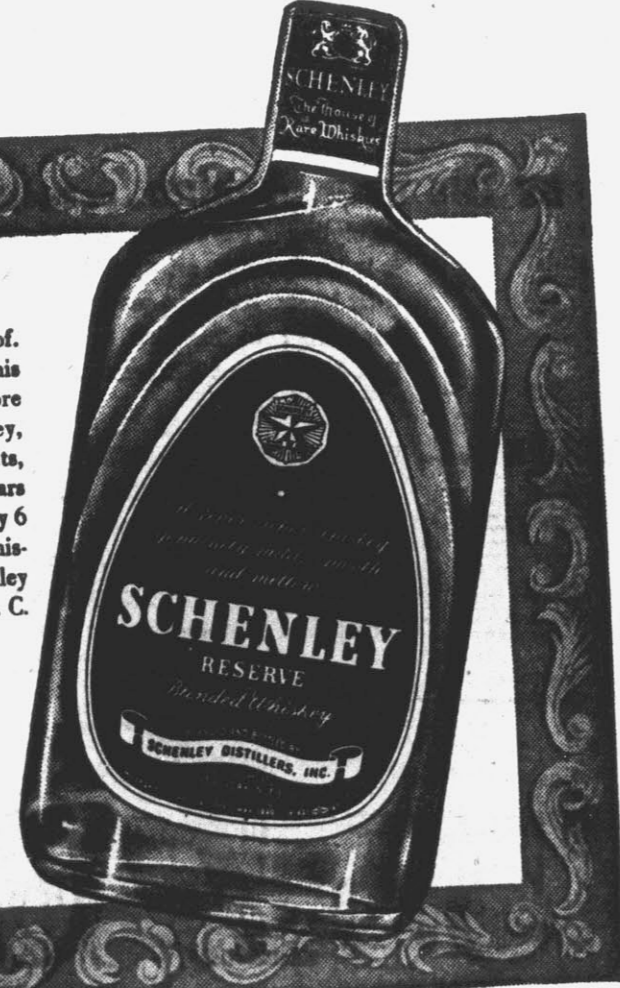

- A 4-barrel vacuum-operated carburetor for instant response. Only Mercury in its field offers it as standard equipment on every model.
- A dual-exhaust system on all Montclairs and Montereyes to cut power loss, and add more efficiency and economy. Only Mercury in its price class has it as standard equipment.
- High-compression spark plugs—a revolutionary new design—for peak performance at all speeds without overheating or fouling. Only Mercury has them in its field.

They all add up to a new kind of high-horsepower performance by Mercury—the car that's always used V-8 engines—built over 2,000,000 of them. We invite you to try the new 198-hp Montclairs, the 188-hp Montereyes and Customs. Just stop in at our showrooms.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced today but not without considerable hesitation and setbacks from profit-taking.

Yesterday the market attained a new 1955 high, the best level since the all-time peaks of 1929, and today it continued on ahead.

There were many wide movers in the list, most of them impelled by split proposals. A number of gains went to between 2 and 5 points. Losses occasionally extended to around a point.

Trading was in the vicinity of yesterday's 3 1/2 million shares.

Most steels were higher along with rubbers, oils, airlines, building materials, and utilities.

Aircrafts, that did well at first, turned highly mixed later. Also mixed were radio-televisions, chemicals, and coppers. The motors were steady. Railroads leaned lower.

Minneapolis Honeywell regular shot ahead between 4 and 5 points right after directors proposed a two-for-one split.

Armco Steel rushed up between 3 and 4 on the strength of a two-for-one split proposal and a higher dividend.

Armstrong Cork jumped up 5 points at the opening on a proposal for a three-for-one split and a higher dividend.

Pittsburgh Steel dropped back between 1 and 2 points when directors deferred action on a dividend.

American Bosch, yesterday's top trader up 1 1/2, opened unchanged at 18 1/2 on 10,000 shares, and within a short time it receded from that price.

Chance Vought Aircraft, yesterday's third most active issue up 4 1/2, started today on 10,000 shares up 4 1/2 at 48.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady farm price 25, f.o.b. plant price, few at 27; Raleigh eggs steady. A large 38-40.

Asheville fryers and broilers steady, farm price 25; f.o.b. plant 26 1/4; eggs steady, A large 38-40.

Last Tax-Filing Day For Period

Today is the last day of the official tax period, and as of early this morning County Auditor Reginald Gray reports that approximately 6,000 out of 6,300 Greenville Township property owners have listed their property in the court house.

The county said that 411 property owners listed their holdings in the courthouse yesterday.

Of the approximately 300 citizens in Greenville Township who have not yet listed, most of them are expected to come in today and do their listing. Gray also pointed out that a large number of the 300 who have not yet listed, have done their listing in another township, or have moved out of the county.

The other townships in Pitt County "are in good shape", Gray continued. He said there was a "considerable last day rush" in Farmville.

Zoning Adjustment Board Hears Three Appeals By Local Property Owners

The Zoning Adjustment Board last night considered three appeal cases from local property owners.

Representatives of the Free Will Baptist Church at 11th and Forbes Street came before the board and requested permission to build an addition to the church which would come closer to the property line than the law permits for a residential area. The law provides that new buildings in a residential zone should be at least eight feet from property lines.

The church is located only 20 feet from an area which is now classified as a business zone. New buildings or additions in a business zone may be built up to the property line.

The Adjustment Board recommended that church representatives go before the Zoning Board and request that the 20 feet in question be re-zoned as a business area, thus permitting the church building to come within eight feet of the line. If approved, the Zoning Board would recommend the matter to the City Council for final approval.

Church representatives at the meeting indicated that they would bring the matter before the next meeting of the Zoning Board, which convenes the fourth Tuesday of each month.

The Zoning Board turned down a request from L. A. Smith to build an addition to his pickling plant located on Myrtle Ave. near Manhattan Ave.

That area is now zoned as a residential area. Smith proposed joining two commercial buildings together and brick veneering a portion. The board explained to Smith that it does not have authority under the law to re-zone the area, and referred him to the City Manager and the City Council for further advice.

Esther and Lucille Rich, both Negro, requested permission to build a new home less than eight feet from the property line. The proposed building would be constructed on a vacant lot in a residential section on Tyson Street near 5th Street.

The board passed a motion that the "side yards" surrounding the proposed house be the average on the block for other homes. Building Inspector George Gardner expressed the belief that the average distance for homes on that block would be less than eight feet from the property line.
