American And Indian To Head Conference Plans Laid For Atom Talk

By WILLIAM N. OATIS, UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—An American and an Indian will be top men at the first world scientific conference of atom-for-peace in Geneva next August. The U.N.-sponsored parley will disclose scientists' estimates of the prospects for nuclear power in the next 25 to 50 years. The American, Walter Gordon Whitman, 59, of Concord, Mass., will be the secretary general, in charge of arrangements. He is a pioneer researcher in aircraft propulsion for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, member of the AEC's General Advisory Committee and director of the Defense Department's research board.

Vertical Takeoff Plane Is Unveiled

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The Bell Aircraft Corp. today unveiled a jet-powered vertical takeoff and landing aircraft its executive feels could revolutionize military aviation as well as some forms of the air transport industry. Lawrence D. Bell, founder and president of the company, said he felt the plane was "the most significant single development in aircraft flight since the Wright brothers' first airplane."

Lost Fight To Keep Free Of Federal Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rebellion Harrison County, struggling four years to stay free of federal aid, has lost its fight. The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday ruled the county must participate in a federal aid program for Ohio's totally and permanently disabled.

Five-Year-Old Is Beaten To Death

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Lloyd George Stanley Jr., 5, cruelly burned and beaten, died early today in a murder charge. He was killed by a car which was driven by a man who admitted the beating. The boy was hospitalized nine days ago. He lapsed into a coma yesterday. His estranged parents, reunited by the tragedy, were at his bedside when death came at 2:30 a. m. County Atty. Raymond Burger said murder charges were filed against the aunt, Mrs. Virginia Thompson, 29, and her husband, Lawrence, 32. He said the husband had been charged because he failed to come to the boy's aid. Burger said the beating of young Lloyd, and his 3-year-old brother, James Edward, was the most brutal crime of his prosecution career and announced he would seek the death penalty for Mrs. Thompson when she comes to trial. James Edward remains in a hospital here. He is expected to recover but doctors said he would probably require plastic surgery. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George Stanley Sr., said Mrs. Thompson begged permission to care for the boys and a daughter when the Stanleys became estranged late last year.

City Council Approves Spaces For Patrons Library Parking Lot Killed

Four 15-minute parking spaces will be placed in front of Sheppard Memorial Library and one hour parking spaces are to be provided on the remainder of the spaces at the library. The City Council authorized the new parking set-up for the benefit of library patrons last night after hearing two representatives of the library board and other citizens speak out on the parking problem at the council meeting last night. The new parking rules for the street zone in front of the city library were approved by the council after that body passed a motion by Mayor W. L. Whedbee that the council take no action in providing parking spaces on the library grounds. Action was taken by the council after they heard S. B. Underwood Jr., library board member and local attorney, tell them that the library property was needed to the city by the school board on condition that the entire site be used for library purposes and that Harper Donnellon Sheppard, donor of the building, gave an additional sum for the library when he saw the spot picked by the city fathers for the library. Underwood read from the back minutes of the library board's meeting a letter in which Sheppard stated that the original amount given for the construction of the library could be exceeded to make the building "handsome enough to grace the little park which will surround it." Lester Turnage spoke in favor of the same parking on the property for library patrons. He told of going to the library and not being able to park due to the filled parking spaces on the street. Chairman of the Library Board Ty Wagner said that he was somewhat disappointed in the appearance of the library property but that plans are being made to improve the appearance. Wagner stated that he had had a number of calls in opposition to parking on the property. Councilman Gene West told the group that "people had been misinformed" concerning the library parking and were "grabbing at brom straw." He said the council was only considering offering to construct parking spaces on the property for library patrons "if the library board wanted it." Councilman Wesley Harvey stated that he had considered the matter settled months ago. The motion to provide the four 15-minute parking spaces and one hour meters on the remainder of the spaces in front of the library was made by J. A. Collins. The parking regulations are to be enforced from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. The issue was raised at last month's meeting of the council when a letter was received from the library board requesting that spaces in front of the library be marked "for library patrons only." However, the council was told that such a parking regulation could not be legally enforced. The city fathers deferred action on the matter at the last meeting but decided to meet with the Library Board at their January meeting. The council was unable to meet at that time because of a conflicting meeting. Also speaking out against parking on the library property were Frank Wooten and J. W. H. Roberts. Laborite Hints British Defense Planes No Good. LONDON (AP)—Britain's government denied an opposition charge yesterday that defective fighter planes and a lagging guided missile program have left Britain with "no air defense whatever." Laborite Woodrow Wyatt touched off the exchange in the House of Commons, demanding, "When is it expected that defects in the Hunter fighter which causes engines to stall when guns are fired, will be cured?" George Ward, undersecretary of state for war, admitted that the Royal Air Force Hunter—only faster-than-sound jet fighter available to the RAF in squadron strength—has developed "bugs" in simulated combat. "It may be necessary to make certain modifications," Ward said, "but as it is the Hunter is a formidable aircraft and could go into action tomorrow."

New Director Of VA Medicine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. William S. Middleton, 65, dean of the University of Wisconsin Medical School will become chief medical director of the Veterans Administration March 1 succeeding Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone. Administrator Harvey V. Hixley announced Middleton's appointment yesterday and said Adm. Boone chose to retire because of his health when his four-year term expires Feb. 28. He also is 65. Middleton, named to a four-year term at $16,800 a year, is now a member of the National VA Medical Advisory Committee on Education and has served in various consulting capacities to the VA since 1922.

Snows Baffle Postal Officials

DRIGGS, Idaho (AP)—Postal authorities are planning to switch mail deliveries from trains to highway vehicles on a route that passes through here. They were scheduled to tell Driggs residents yesterday why the move means better service for them. A crowd waited for several hours but the postal officials never showed up. Seems the roads, in the wake of a snowstorm, were too bad for travel. next door. Willie Edwards Harper, who also testified at the inquest, said he was coming up a hill walking in the direction of the store, heard a commotion among the group, and later saw Langley struck down by the shotgun blast. He said persons inside the store were playing cards shortly before the shooting. Harper indicated that Darden was about eight feet away from the victim when the shot was fired. Darden stated at the inquest that immediately after he shooting he placed the gun on the front porch "and went and called the police." Darden also said that the single barrel shotgun used in the slaying was the same one he had used earlier in the day to go hunting in the woods. The fatal shooting occurred some time between eight and nine o'clock last Friday night. It was explained to Darden at the inquest last night that under the law he was not obliged to testify at the hearing, but he could if he chose to. Darden replied that he wanted to testify, and his story was substantially the same as the other witnesses expressed no opinion as to whether Darden knew the gun was cocked. Witnesses at the hearing in addition to Darden and Harper were Charles L. Dickson and Willie R. Worsley, all of whom are Negro.

Vote Extending Draft Four Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved 32-0 a bill extending the draft for four more years. The House is expected to consider it next week. The committee voted for two changes in the present law but kept intact basic requirements that young men of 18½ years are subject to induction for two years active service followed by six years obligation for reserve duty. Under the committee-approved changes: 1. Any young man joining the National Guard before he is 18½ and serving continuously until age 26 could not be drafted. The law passed in 1951 now makes him liable for the draft until he is 35 years old. 2. Anyone who served after Sept. 16, 1949 for six months or more in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines or Coast Guard, or 24 months in the Public Health Service, would not be liable for induction except in event of a declaration of war or a national emergency declared by Congress. John R. Blandford, committee counsel, said the purpose of the second amendment is to make sure that young men who serve in the armed forces but are discharged with less than two years service will not be called for a second tour in peacetime. Blandford said that at one time there were about 144,000 servicemen serving their second tour of duty. GIRLS SCARCE. CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX. (AP)—Marcus L. Norvell Jr. really had reason to be proud when his daughter was born. She was the first girl born on his side of the family in 77 years.

Grand Jury Action Recommended After Inquest

The Coroner's Jury last night recommended that James (alias Booker T.) Darden be held for grand jury action in the shotgun slaying of his step-father, Richmond Langley. The shooting occurred last Friday night in a "jukebox joint" on Taylor Street just outside the city limits. A family squabble between the step-son and step-father developed in the small store. Langley withdrew to secure his 12 gauge, single barrel shotgun, and several minutes later came back to the group then standing outside the front door. Someone asked Langley what he was going to do with the gun, and Darden said Langley replied, "I'm going to kill Booker T." and then brandished the gun threateningly in various directions. Darden testified that his step-father then "came after me, and say again he was going to go to kill me." Darden said he grabbed the gun away from his step-father and withdrew a short distance away and "was planning to open it and take the shell out." "I didn't know the gun was cocked," Darden continued. "Not knowing it was 'cocked' Darden said the gun accidentally went off. The blast hit Langley in the center of his chest. The victim staggered across the yard and fell to the ground in front of the house

Passion Play Trials Begin Friday Night

The first series of tryouts and rehearsals for the Passion Play to be presented here in April will be held Friday night at 7 o'clock at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Presented under the auspices of the St. James Methodist Church, the play will be under the direction of Dr. J. A. Withey and Dr. Kenneth Cutbert, who directed the presentation last year.

W. H. Watson, chairman of the play, urged local citizens who are interested in participating in the production this year to be present for the tryouts and rehearsal Friday evening. Last year a cast of more than 60 local people and a choir of more than 30 appeared in the Passion Play which was presented here for four evenings prior to Easter.

The play chairman pointed out that a number of roles were filled by members of St. James Church last year, but many other roles in the play were filled by members of other local churches.

"It is hoped that this year's performance will excel last year's show," Watson said, "and according to all reports it seems that such will be the case." He added that the presentation will be essentially the same as last year, with some minor changes designed to shorten the length of the performance.

Last year, Watson said, the committee in its long range planning felt that this play could develop into an annual affair which "might become the trade-mark of Greenville such as the Lost Colony is the leading attraction at Manteo." Although play is sponsored by the St. James Methodist Church, Watson said, "persons of all denominations are cordially invited to take part in this production."

The Passion Play is an adaptation based upon the German production given at Oberammergau. The adaptation was made by Dr. Withey, professor of dramatic arts at East Carolina College, who will direct the play.

At the present time, the chairman said, plans call for the presentation of the Passion Play on April 6, 7 and 8 in the Wright auditorium on the East Carolina campus.

Patrolman Perry Speaks To P.T.A. On 'Highway Safety'

FALKLAND—The monthly meeting of the Falkland P.T.A. was held on January 26th in the school auditorium. The president, Mrs. J. R. Peaden, called the meeting to order. Mrs. J. W. Watson gave a challenging devotional on "Faith and Patience." She commented on the fruitful rewards that come to those who practice these virtues in everyday life.

After the completion of the business session, Patrolman Dalton Perry spoke on "Highway Safety." He stressed the driving practices that should be used by the drivers of privately owned cars as well as reviewing the safety regulations for bus transportation. His statements were further emphasized by the showing of pictures of accidents which occurred in Pitt County as a result of nonconformity to driving regulations. Parents were urged to be good examples for their youngsters who will be the future drivers of North Carolina.

Mrs. J. R. Peaden asked members and friends of the P.T.A. to attend the study course on "The Pre-Adolescent Child" which will be held at the school on Feb. 6th at 7:30 p.m. Miss Blanche Haley, Field Secretary of North Carolina P.T.A., will conduct the workshop.

The attendance banner was won by the first grade.

Dean Writes On Art In Schools

"Art appreciation for all pupils" is an educationally sound objective for instruction in art in the public schools, according to a current article by Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College.

Writing in the February issue of the nationally circulated "American School Board Journal: A Periodical of School Administration," Dr. Jenkins discusses justifiable aims of the art program in public schools and certain dangers that may arise in its administration.

The superintendent, he says, "can encourage an emphasis on fine arts in the form of drawing or picture study. Next, he can lean strongly toward industrial art with an emphasis on drawing and commercial design. His third choice is a combination of the other two."

Champions of the fine arts, he says, have frequently been guilty of giving undue attention to the few pupils who are gifted or artistically inclined. Those interested in industrial arts, on the other hand, have sometimes stressed creative activity and neglected appreciation.

"The major objective of public school art," Dr. Jenkins says, "should be appreciation of art and exploration of the possibilities in art for the development of a worthy recreational pursuit. In a few limited instances art may be used for vocational guidance purposes. It is here that the talented pupils may consider art from an exploratory viewpoint and as a foundation for entering upon professional study."

Service Fraternity Installs Eleven New Members This Week

Eleven men students became members of East Carolina College's Kappa Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, this week.

Chapter President Kenneth Bordeaux of Mount Olive and Vice President James L. Winstead, Jr., of Tabor City conducted the installation ceremony. Alumni Secretary James W. Butler, chairman of the chapter's advisory committee, assisted these officers; and, speaking to chapter members, pointed out areas of service of the fraternity, both on the campus and in home communities of members.

New members of the fraternity are Harman R. Harrelson and James David Hance, Brunswick; Carl L. Sanders, Jr., Wilmington; John D. Epperson, New Bern; Battleboro; Thomas M. Adams, Parmele; Donald Nelson Moore, Whiteville; Robert G. Penney, Elion College; Jack F. Wynne, Bethel; Marion Eugene Ratliff, Morven; and Robert Thomas Crumpler, Goldsboro.

Former Pastor Is Speaker At Men's Club Meeting

BETHEL—The regular monthly meeting of the Methodist Men's Club met on Monday night in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The Mary Lambeth Circle of the WSCS served a delicious ham supper to the men.

The meeting was opened with Mr. Dave Speir reading a scripture and making a few remarks on "The Power of Positive Thinking" which was taken from Norman Vincent Peale's book. He closed with a timely prayer.

Mr. J. C. Wynne, Jr. introduced the guest speaker for the night who was Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville and a former pastor of this church. He chose as his topic "The Importance of the Individual" which was very interesting. It was a discussion that each person is important and the group thoroughly enjoyed his speech.

During the short business session Mr. Wynne, president, presided and the secretary, Tom Andrews, Jr., gave his report and called the roll with 51 present. The members of the club were urged to attend the Men's Club to be held in Rocky Mount on February 10.

Valentine Motif Used At Round Table Meet

Mrs. W. W. Howell was gracious hostess for members of the Round Table and special guests, Miss Eunice McGee and Mrs. J. E. Phelps, on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Rock Spring Road.

During the business session following the report of the civic committee a discussion relative to parking on the city library grounds was held. Members voted unanimously to stand opposed to any arrangement for parking on the library grounds. Sentiment was that the grounds be kept attractive in deference to the gracious gift of the donor of the library building in memory of his father. The president instructed the corresponding secretary to write notes to the proper persons stating these views.

The program was given by Miss Eunice McGee who recently had a wonderful trip through Canada to Alaska. Her talk, interspersed with the showing of colored slides, dealt with the train and boat travel. The interesting people and places visited, descriptions of the scenic Canadian Pacific route, the beautiful awe-inspiring Rocky Mountains, the boat trip through the inland waterway, the gorgeous flowers, the points of interest in Alaska, were told in such an interesting way that those who listened were indeed real armchair travelers.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Phelps and Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne, served a delicious salad plate featuring Valentine decorations.

W. Frank Burton, Archivist Speaks To Historical Society

FARMVILLE — W. Frank Burton, Archivist, with the State Department of Archives and History in Raleigh, spoke to the members of the Pitt County Historical Society at its regular quarterly meeting Thursday night in the Sheppard Memorial Library in Greenville. He is in charge of the restoration, preservation and orderly and proper storage of State, County and other records. This is the primary function and to make them accessible to the public.

Mr. Burton was introduced by Dr. Howard B. Clay, of the East Carolina Faculty, and began his talk with a tribute to those who have kept old records for posterity and stressed the importance of preserving all old papers. He said the department was formed in 1903 and is the second oldest in the United States and has preserved old State and County records as well as some and better than most departments, stating that the division has almost complete older records from twenty-four counties, and told of the ones from Pitt County. He and Mr. D. L. Corbett spent Thursday in the Court House with Mrs. Blair Wheelock selecting other county records to be restored.

He said Gov. Tryon was very interested in preserving the State records and moved them from capitol to capitol under armed guard, and that Gov. Zeb Vance was the first Governor to use the word Archives for the department of preserving the official records. The General Assembly so interested pressed a bill to build a fire proof building and allotted a sum of money for this.

Deterioration of manuscripts are due to moisture, insects, high temperature, light, and perspiration from hands in handling. Fire is a great enemy so all valuable papers should be kept in vaults in air conditioned rooms.

He explained the methods used now in preserving records and those in 1918. Insects eat the glue that was used then so now a new process is used by the department first thoroughly fumigating the papers.

He urged the preservation of old manuscripts, ledger items, church histories, businesses, old wills, deeds, any old papers of historic interest.

Judge C. V. Cannon, President of

Anniversary Program of the Christian Church in Farmville

Several copies of the Farmville Enterprise containing the first installment of an article written by Miss Jesse Rountree Moye, giving the history of the Pitt County Association were distributed. They were donated by J. B. Hookaday, Editor of the Enterprise. A dinner meeting will be held at the Alumni building at East Carolina College on April 28th.

Mrs. J. I. Morgan, Farmville, and Mrs. A. M. McWhorter of Bethel were welcomed as guests.

Judge James Is Heard By Club

Judge Dink James was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Ballards Home Demonstration Club last night in the community building.

Members had their husbands as guests for the covered dish supper. Judge James spoke on a subject of interest to both groups, "Wills and Inheritances." His appearance was sponsored by the Pitt County Bar Association which is cooperating with the county Home Demonstration office in its program for this month by furnishing lawyers to address each meeting.

Local Farm Agent Sam C. Winchester also talked to the group on social security for farm workers.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Lillie Little, county Home Agent.

Mrs. James Moore, club vice-president, presided at the meeting and welcomed the guests. Devotional was given by Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

Following the talks, Mrs. Lloyd Allen directed the group in recreation.

Claims Captors Went Too Far

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Bobby Jack Howard, 29, charged with robbing the Farmers State Bank at Meridian, Tex., of $3,800 Monday, is a little irked about one thing.

After his capture at the home of an uncle in a rugged central Texas area, officers recovered about $3,000 in cash from Howard's pockets.

Five dollars of it, Howard said sourly yesterday, belonged to him.

Color Scenic Slides Of Europe Shown At Sans Souci Meeting

The Sans Souci Book Club met at 3:30 p.m. last Tuesday with Mrs. W. L. Best at her home on Evans Street. Throughout the house were lovely colorful arrangements of gladioli and ferns.

Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, president, called the meeting to order and welcomed the following visitors, Mrs. Katherine Adams, Mrs. Lottie Butner, Mrs. P. T. Anthony, Mrs. W. M. Howard, Mrs. Mazie Phelps, Mrs. Will Pettigrew, and Mrs. F. B. Cuthbert.

After the roll call and minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. F. M. Wooten, the club discussed the beautification of the Sheppard Memorial Library grounds. At the end of the discussion the club expressed the desire to go on record as supporting the efforts of the library board to keep the grounds as a place of beauty for Greenville.

Mrs. Best introduced Dr. Bessie McNeil, chairman of the Home Economics Department at East Carolina College, who showed colorful and interesting slides of scenes she visited on a recent trip to Europe.

The first part of Dr. McNeil's program was devoted to scenes from Guernsey Island from where her ancestors came. The slides of St. Peter port and war memorials which are typical of Europe were outstanding. Also the scenes of the markets and gardens and Victor Hugo's home were of special interest.

In her talk that accompanied the showing of the slides, Dr. McNeil emphasized the homes on Guernsey Island touching on family life during the last war.

The second half of the program was devoted to pictures of homes and families of former German educators who had visited East Carolina College campus a couple of years ago. Dr. McNeil described in detail the various German foods served in their homes.

Dr. McNeil's pictures were of unusual clarity and her interesting commentaries which accompanied the showing of the slides made for a most enjoyable and profitable program.

Following the program Mrs. Best served a delicious and bountiful chicken salad plate with rolls, relishes, coffee and fruit cake. Mrs. Best was assisted in serving her guests by her granddaughter Miss Ann Hamric.

Twelve-Year-Old Cut In Boasting

TOKYO (AP) — Akira Ito, 12-year-old son of a Communist leader now in the underground, brandished a knife in his grammar school class today and boasted: "I'll show you how to commit hara-kiri."

He stumbled. The knife pierced his stomach. He is in critical condition at a Tokyo hospital.

Delays Planned Formosa Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh has delayed for the time being his return to Formosa and is remaining in Washington during the unfolding of the critical Formosa question.

There was no verification of Taipei reports that Yeh is in consultation with the State Department on a declaration concerning the defense of the Matsu and Quemoy islands off the Chinese mainland.

Problem Demands Careful Consideration

A sound, comprehensive set of regulations governing set-back lines on property throughout the city of Greenville is needed at the present time and will be needed even more acutely in years to come.

Accident Prevention Needs More Attention

Most people are conscious of the staggering toll which traffic accidents annually take in the United States. Other accidents, which also take thousands of lives in less dramatic ways, somehow get little attention from the general public.

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of 40 per cent of the 91,000 people who died accidentally in this country during 1954. The other 55,000 people who met with accidental death were killed in their homes, on their farms, at work, and in various other places and ways not related to traffic.

Traffic accidents get a great deal of the public's attention through traffic safety campaigns which are constantly in progress in communities throughout the nation. Other forms of accidents—except perhaps in industry—receive far less public attention than their relative importance in the overall accident picture seems to justify.

Home accidents, for example, took 28,000 lives last year, work accidents 14,000, public accidents (other than traffic) 16,000 lives.

It is encouraging that the total number of accidental deaths last year decreased four per cent over 1953, but from the astounding accidental death toll throughout the nation, it is apparent that greater emphasis must be placed on accident prevention of all kinds.

In addition to continued emphasis on highway safety greater emphasis must be placed on the prevention of other forms of accidents as well.

Strength for the Day

NO NEW TRUTH
There are some people who have a perfect passion for anything new or novel. They will surrender an old belief any day for a new one. Nothing gives them such delight as to find that their creed is outworn and that something which promises to make life really happy and adequate has recently come upon the market.

As a matter of fact, all new manifestations of truth grow out of truths which are old and well-established, just as every new branch of a tree grows out of a larger branch which in turn stems from the trunk of the tree. There is no such thing as new truth. What we call new truth is old truth that men have only recently discovered. The way to satisfy ourselves that the recent discovery is truth indeed, is by seeing whether or not it fits into old truths that have stood the test of time.

Jan Struthers has said, "You cannot successfully navigate the future unless you keep always framed beside it a small, clear image of the past." Every great thinker in history has built on the truths discovered by his predecessors. If a newly discovered truth appears to be unrelated to all truth formerly disclosed, a scientist either suspects that he is mistaken or begins to search for the link of evidence he has overlooked. He knows that if a thing is really true, it is organically related to all the truth of the universe.

Gen. MacArthur Proven Right?

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Formosa might not now be a powder keg of war, if General Douglas MacArthur's aggressive strategy for complete destruction of North Korean and Chinese Communist forces had been approved by former President Harry S. Truman, Dean Acheson and our United Nations Allies, especially Great Britain. Korea would be a unified nation under western auspices, and Indo-China might be free instead of a Communist captive.

This is the final and considered judgment of five top commanders in the Korean conflict, who have told their tragic story to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which was headed by Senator William Jenner. The way to satisfy ourselves that the Jenner report is relevant today, in view of some Pentagon criticism of the restraint which President Eisenhower has imposed on our Seventh Fleet and Chiang Kai-shek.

While sharing Ike's desire to avoid an expanded war, they feel that the Korean experience showed the danger of tipping off the Communists on our war plans, or of revealing what areas we regard as essential to our national security.

OUTSPOKEN COMMANDERS—The witnesses who testified on Korean details for the first time are outspoken and nonpolitical figures. None has any special fondness for MacArthur, who has always been more envied than loved in military circles. So, their testimony has the ring of unpleasant truth.

These historians in uniform, who were leaders of our forces after MacArthur's recall by Truman, are Generals Mark Clark, George E. Stratemeyer, James A. Van Fleet, Edmond M. Almond and Admiral Charles Turner Joy.

There is bitter irony in the belatedness of their revelations. If they could have relayed these facts when they were fighting under President and diplomatic handicaps, Mao Tse-tung might now be a deposed and discredited figure, seeking refuge in Moscow.

Incidentally, the Jenner report agreeing with the certainly no longer a country town in terms of long-range city planning. It is rapidly growing into a city of appreciable size. During the decade from 1940 to 1950 its population increased more than one-third. There is every indication that the growth in the current decade will at least be equal in terms of percentages.

As the population of Greenville has grown, the demand on its physical facilities has grown. In recent years Greenville has experienced numerous problems with its narrow streets which were more than adequate 20 years ago, but leave something to be desired with the present flow of automotive traffic. The business sections of the city are gradually encroaching upon adjoining residential districts as population growth demands more business places.

As we understand the thinking behind the proposal for the establishment of set-back lines on property throughout the city, it is to insure that in the future as the business district expands into new areas there will be sufficient room to provide adequate streets and other facilities which may be needed. At the same time, the set-back lines—if established now—may afford the possibility of improving needed facilities in the business section which is already established.

Long range planning is a tough job. It calls for sound thinking and careful calculation of anticipated needs of the city in years to come.

The adoption of a second, farsighted set of regulations governing set-back lines for buildings will prove a tremendous asset to the city as it continues to grow. A hastily composed, ill-considered set of regulations, however, is likely to arouse from the public such vigorous opposition that it will actually delay the attainment of the goal which is being sought.

The Reflector urges city officials to give their best thought and most careful consideration to this aspect of long range planning they are now exploring. Their final proposals can prove a great asset to the future of the city; or they can backfire and become a stumbling block to this and other aspects of long range planning for Greenville.

ONE JOB, TWO WORKMEN
WASHINGTON—What's the difference between big business and small business? Experts disagree, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. A firm employing 1,000 workers might be considered "big" in some industries, "small" in others.

The fact is, says the Chamber, that business, big and small, has many problems in common. Taxes, for example, and government regulation. That is why the Chamber is convinced it is illogical to maintain two government agencies serving business—the Department of Commerce and the Small Business Administration. They're bound to duplicate each other.

But there's another, more marked anomaly. Small business, under any reasonable definition, accounts for more than 90 per cent of our four million enterprises and for nearly half the value of all goods and services. If SBA is to continue to serve this huge area of our economy, the Chamber says, it may well become another federal "empire." Meanwhile, the Department of Commerce, the cabinet-level agency, created by Congress to serve ALL business, will be restricted.

SHOCKED—Members of the House J-1 Committee confessed they were surprised and shocked at revelations of sex perversion in the larger population centers which occasioned the introduction of a bill to tighten control over sexual psychopaths.

The measure, HB-48, was introduced by Rep. Arthur Goodman of Mecklenburg at request of law enforcement agencies at Charlotte. It is patterned largely upon the military code and laws dealing with the same subject in California and New York. Neil Forney, a detective on the Charlotte police force assigned to juvenile and sex cases, appeared to relate conditions which led to preparation of the bill in an effort to fill wide gaps in the present statutes.

The sordid details, which Rep. Goodnow knew about beforehand, were such that he suggested that the committee clerk and another young woman attached to the office of the State Bar, Inc., where the committee was sitting, be excused from the room.

Forney told stories of elderly men and some women fondling children under twelve and exciting sexual impulses. In many instances the offenders are otherwise respectable and law-abiding citizens, and in most cases they did not realize they were committing a criminal offense. Technically, they were not, because there is presently no statute specifically forbidding the acts complained of.

One of the surprises for the committee was Forney's breakdown of offenders into an average, which was a married man in late thirties or early forties, with at least one child, holding a responsible position, with a good reputation and frequently an active church worker. Some of the offenders were sulky and rebellious when caught. Many of them pleaded for help saying they could not resist the temptation to act as they did.

The problem was picturesquely stated and readily appreciated. Its solution is far more difficult and the members of the committee did not want to take speedy action. For most of the offenses listed conviction carries a mandatory sentence of five to sixty years in prison. Many times law enforcement officers, juries and judges are reluctant to convict with such severe penalty involved. Other times, of course, the nature of the offense makes even the prescribed penalty too light.

But, as Forney pointed out, prison sentences do not contribute to real solution. The prisoners are integrated with other inmates and prison administration does not have facilities for adequate supervision. Majority of the offenders need protection, rather than punishment—protection for themselves and for the public against their repeated offenses. At least a third of them need psychiatric treatment.

BURDENSOME—That poses another question of hospital facilities to care for them. In Mecklenburg county alone during 1953 and 1954 187 persons were convicted of sex offenses involving children. Forney said he estimated 60 to 65 of these were positively sexual psychopaths.

George Uzell of Rowan, chairman of the committee, announced that Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange, who is also chairman of the State Board of Hospital Control having jurisdiction over the mental hospitals, had asked to be

'Odds And Ends' For Today

Do you have soft drink bottles piled up knee deep in the garage or pantry? Here's a suggestion to get them returned. Offer the wife $1 for every one she takes back but don't specify what kind of a dollar.

This worked like a charm on Wife Rachel, but there was a slight backfire when I specified the grocery money was how the payment would come.

Ever read those perfect squeals in the Saturday Evening Post? Had one pulled on me yesterday by Roy Phelps. No doubt every TV serviceman is asked a hundred questions a day by the guy who's trying to beat the game by fixing his own TV set. It puts the TV repairman in the position of biting the hand that doesn't feed him.

First of all I described the action of the set. Roy said, "Is it a (he named the brand)?"

"Yes."
"Does the sound go out when the picture falls out?"
"Yes."
"Do this happen intermittently?"

"Yes, that's it."
"Can you cut it off for a while and then turn it back on and then it works OK for a while."
"Yep."
"And it rolls a little?"
"O Boy! You've got it."
"And then Roy let me have it: 'I don't know what's wrong with it.'"

North Carolina is well represented in this week's Time. The education section included a story with color pictures on Duke University worthy of your observation.

In the "People" section Actor Paul Douglas made Time in his statements about the South, especially Greensboro. As local papers reported when he was in N. C. playing "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," Douglas said the South stinks.

As his tour of the South continued, Paul seemed to try to cover up the statements.

When he got to Atlanta he said he had heard that "the people of Atlanta are very friendly."
And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE NEED FOR BASIC CONSTITUTIONAL REFORMS

(Dunham Morning Herald)
Governor Hodges' current interest in the Highway Commission and its present relationship to State government, and his apparent conviction that there ought to be some changes made, remind us that there are some other changes of a more fundamental nature to which the people of North Carolina ought to be giving some thought.

We are not thinking here of the surface improvements recommended by various commissions to study the reorganization of the State government, but of a thoroughgoing readjustment of basic state functions which could come about only through a revision of the State Constitution.

North Carolina is a conspicuous example of a State government which has missed the advantages of the balance of powers provided for in the Constitution of the United States. While we revere the United States Constitution, we have never seen fit to extend some of its basic and most valued provisions to the State of North Carolina. The Governor of North Carolina is unique in that he has no veto over the acts of the legislature. This, of course, goes back to the fear in North Carolina of executive power which grew out of the abuse of such power by colonial governors. North Carolina sought to avoid that by refusing to extend to its governor the power that a chief executive of a State should have and at the same time it laid the groundwork for great legislative power unchecked by anybody or by any office, all the more dangerous when there is the disposition to use it in secret.

Committee Shocked By Sordid Report On Larger Cities

By LYNN NISBET

George Uzell of Rowan, chairman of the committee, announced that Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange, who is also chairman of the State Board of Hospital Control having jurisdiction over the mental hospitals, had asked to be heard on the point of hospitalization. He had expressed the fear that the bill as drawn might impose such heavy impact of sexual psychopaths upon the hospitals that they would be unable to perform their regular functions of caring for and treating victims of other types of mental illness. The requested hearing was tentatively set for Tuesday morning of next week, February 8th.

RELATED—The committee had a few minutes earlier approved a Senate bill providing for search warrants when there was suspicion that narcotics drugs were on the premises. This bill simply added narcotics to the already lengthy list of contraband subject to search and seizure—such as liquor, gambling devices, stolen property, etc.

Someone asked Detective Forney if there was any direct relation between alcohol and narcotics and sex crimes. He said that when participants in the offense were both adults there was very definite relationship; when an adult and a small child were involved there was much less evidence of alcohol or drugs. Many of the offenders in these cases just claimed they loved children.

EXCLUDED—There was no formal opposition to excluding the committee clerk from the room while the discussion was going on, nor to another proposal that the full house membership "except the lady member" be briefed in the same way. There was, however, some off-side comment to the effect that such matters are essential parts of the jobs assumed by the clerks and legislators, and there is no reason for polite squeamishness. The committee-man suggested that the women probably had larger concern about this problem than the men, and not only had the right but had a definite obligation to hear the story and face up to the issue.

The one woman representative, Mrs. Grace Taylor Rodenbough of Stokes, would be the last person in the whole assembly to seek "protection" from information essential to forming an opinion about the wisdom or propriety of any proposed law.

Discount House Talk

By ELMER ROESSNER

Wonder how many merchants have talked to their employees about discount houses? There is little or no salesmanship in the average discount house. And, for that matter, there is rarely credit, free delivery, exchange privileges or guarantees, either. The customer comes in and asks for what he wants. Often the customer is another store (to make sure he won't get an obsolete model instead) and the list price (to make sure he is getting a discount).

The discount-house clerk indicates the article and quotes the price. The customer says yes or no, and the deal is closed or dropped.

Once in a while a floor man will suggest another model, or offer to order articles out of stock. But for the most part, there isn't time for creative selling. There are so few floor men per customer.

There are fewer employees behind the scenes, too. No customers' credit interviewers, bookkeepers, file clerks or managers. Few if any display people. No sign-makers. A receiving department, but no shipping department, no delivery department, no truckers. No wrappers. Most goods are handed to buyers in cartons; when wrapping is necessary, the clerk does it. Oh, some discount houses have some of these departments and employees. But we're talking about the average house.

The basic reason for this is that discount houses can save only a little on merchandise. To offer lower prices, they must save on wages.

If merchants could get this idea over to their employees, the employees might realize that the rise of discount selling means fewer jobs and if their store "goes discount" many of their own jobs would go too.

If they understood this, they might go to great lengths to make shoppers feel at home in conventional stores. Salespersons might make extraordinary efforts to be courteous—and to increase their sales. And those behind the scenes might improve their services to customers, and make sure all friends and relatives shop in their store.

COMMUTING CUT DOWN TO A SINGLE STEP
Millions of persons who spend hours commuting envy those businessmen who will get apartments in a 15-story building planned in Chicago.

Floors of apartments and offices will be alternated. Each apartment will be connected to an office below it by a private stairway. Apartments and offices will be rented in single units. Thus no tenant will be more than a short distance from his own office.

The impresarios—Arthur Rubloff & Co.—expect most tenants will be professional men, artists, photographers, decorators, etc. The main floor will have stenographic, phone answering and other services, and a restaurant and cocktail lounge.

100,000,000 ACRES—ALL NEEDING IRON MARKERS
There are still 100,000,000 acres of government land still needing surveying, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. The government once held a billion acres, but most of it has been granted or sold.

The steel industry gets comfort in the situation. Steelways magazine suggests. Sticks and stones of old-time surveys tend to disappear, and the government now uses a galvanized wrought-iron pipe with a brass cap for identifying data. These markers have flanges for anchorage and life-spans of 100 years.

Lots Of Money Around Today

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Money stinks. Not all kinds of money, of course. Just old dirty, beat-up money—the kind a man would hesitate even to give to a relative.

This worn out currency is accumulated by the Federal Reserve banks before it is destroyed.

One of our biggest problems recently was designing a conditioning for two Federal Reserve vaults, said John Mosler, executive vice president of the 107-year-old Mosler Safe Co. "They had to have fresh air ducts to take away the money fumes."

"Most people like the smell of crisp new money. But the smell of stacked old money will knock a horse over."

Getting rid of this repulsive fragrance is only one of the troubles with old money. It is also hard to get rid of the money itself. You may find money easily burns a hole in your own pocket, but the government has found it so difficult to destroy bundles of old bills that it now has a money shredder to chop it up before it is put to the torch.

There is so much cash in America today that the care and proper protection of it has boomed the safe-and-vault business into a 50-to-60-million-dollar-a-year industry.

It has also developed several new gimmicks to make the chore of depositing or withdrawing money easier for bank customers.

"Banking today is a highly competitive business," said Mosler. "Bankers, after all, are salesmen—they sell money for a price. And since they generally have the same price for it, they are learning they have to offer special services to get new business."

One of the new devices is the "snorkel" for drive-up banking. The snorkel sits at the curb outside the bank and looks like an automatic vending machine. The motorists drive up, reach out and put the deposit or the check they want cashed into an elevator tray which descends to the teller, who is beneath the pavement but can see the depositor through an overhead mirror. He completes the transaction by sending up the bankbook or cash in another elevator tray.

Another device is the pedestrian window, built in the walls of the bank. A shopper can do business without ever entering the building. The pedestrian windows are proving highly popular with housewives who find it hard to push their baby buggies through a revolving door, or don't feel they are dressed well enough to go into the bank.

"Women now are doing more and more banking," said Mosler. "And they are dictating many of the changes."

The latest wrinkle is "skycap banking." A suburban St. Louis bank soon will inaugurate this. The bank is built on a hillside and has two snorkel machines on the roof. Motorists will be able to drive from the hill onto the roof, make a deposit, and roll down the other side on a ramp.

"Putting snorkels on the roofs makes the customer feel even safer from bandits," said Mosler, adding:

"Even helicopters could be used, and has anybody ever held up a helicopter? Helicopter banking lies in the future, but it will come."

Many people now have safes in their homes—one lady asked for a pink safe with a carved gold knob to fit the decor of her boudoir. But a surprising number, who for one reason or another want to keep their wealth away from prying eyes, actually have real bank vaults built into their homes.

"Most of them are art or jewel collectors," Mosler said tactfully.

ADVERTISING SETS RECORD WITH $8 BILLION IN 1954

Total investment in advertising last year reached a new peak of $8,145,100,000, Printers' Ink reports. Of this, 59.1 per cent was national, the rest local. Newspapers got the biggest share, 32.8 per cent of the total, a gain of 1 per cent over 1953. Television, with less than a third as much, showed the largest gain, 33.5 per cent, partly due to the rise in the number of stations.

String Of Crimes Believed Broken

BOSTON — Police expressed belief today they have cracked a string of robberies from Florida to Massachusetts with the arrest of four men after a wild melee last night in a Roxbury District apartment. They said at least one of the men frankly disclosed at least a dozen robberies and plans for several others, including one which would have netted them between $20,000 and $40,000. One of the men and a detective were injured during a fight with fists and pistol butts at the time of the arrest. The four men, all booked on suspicion of armed robbery, are: Gilbert Dyer 24, of Syracuse, N. Y.; John J. Gunkel 20, of Lewisburg, Tenn.; and William J. Lamoreaux 23, of Boston. They were arrested in the Lamoreaux apartment. Police said they are seeking a fifth man, identified as John W. Brigham, 31, of Bennettsville, S. C. Detectives said Gunkel told them "Down in Florida we pulled about six holdups in motels and taxi drivers. We also held up a fellow down there, Lewis Ames, who was Dave Garroway's assistant on TV. "When we got to Columbia, S. C., we pulled a job there. At Raleigh, N.C. we robbed a grocery store and got $1,500. We didn't pull any more jobs until we got to New York. We stole a car at Columbia University and ditched a car we had stolen in Florida. "Then we came to Boston."

Potato Council To Fight Decline

WASHINGTON — The potato soon will be starred in a nationwide promotion campaign as an overlooked health jewel in the nation's diet. Confronted by a decline in consumption during the past 25 years, the National Potato Council has decided to wage an educational and advertising campaign to put more potatoes on American dinner tables. Executive Secretary William Case says that on the basis of dietary studies, the council is convinced that potatoes have been made the victim of a "slanderous bugaboo" to the effect that they are fattening and consequently should be eaten sparingly. Under the council's plan spuds will be billed as an energy food that can and should be used—especially by active and growing teen-agers—as a balancing item with highly concentrated foods—such as meats, starches and sweets—usually found in today's diet. Case said the council, which represents growers in all major commercial producing areas, plans to raise funds for the campaign through assessments on growers. The Agriculture Department reports that potato consumption has declined 20 per cent since the 1930s. It now averages 104 pounds per person a year.

Wyatt Brown Is Guest Speaker For End of Century Club

The End of the Century Book Club was most delightfully entertained on Tuesday, February 1st, by Mrs. J. L. Hassell, Sr. and Mrs. J. L. Hassell, Jr. at the home of the former. A most delicious luncheon was served to members and guests. Guests were Mrs. Randolph Griffin of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Wendell Smiley and Dr. Mildred Southwick. Mrs. R. C. Stokes introduced Mr. Wyatt Brown who spoke on the Mayflower Award and the Sir Walter Raleigh Award. He explained that the Sir Walter Raleigh Award is new and is presented for fiction. This past year, nineteen fifty-four, it went to Ovid Williams Pierce for his novel "The Plantation." The Mayflower cup for non-fiction went to co-authors Albert R. Newsome and Hugh T. Laffer for their history "North Carolina - The History of A Southern State." Mr. Brown gave short resume of what these books contained along with the background of its authors. In conclusion he opened the meeting for questions and discussion. Young children have fewer colds than people in their teens, available statistics indicate.

College Students Present Program For Clio Club

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Rose Fambrough and Miss Jane Hadley were gracious hostesses to the Clio Book Club at their home on Evans Street. Narcissi and glads were attractively arranged throughout the house. Mrs. Luther Moore, club president, held a short business meeting. The secretary was asked to write a note to the Mayor, the City Manager and the Councilmen, stating the club went on record as opposing the city using any part of the library grounds as a parking area. Miss Hadley introduced Miss Janet Watson, Miss Jeanne Prichard and Mr. Erwin Ennis, three very talented music students from the college, who entertained the club with a most enjoyable musical program. At the end of the musical program books were exchanged and a delicious salad course was served. Mrs. Fambrough and Miss Hadley had as their guests Mrs. W. F. Young of Wilson, Mrs. Ty Wagner, Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. Hogan Gaskins, Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Mrs. C. J. Goodman and Mrs. K. B. Pace.

Owe Freedom To Prolonged Feud

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. — A Negro couple arrested on whisky and traffic charges today owed their freedom to the long-standing dispute between Sheriff L. L. Guy and the Cumberland County commissioners. McThay Brumfield Jr., 21, a Ft. Bragg paratrooper and his wife, Saria, were arrested yesterday on charges of drunken driving and disorderly conduct, respectively. The arresting officers were Constable Fred Baxley and Rural Policemen J. E. Tyson and J. A. West. Jailer Norman Butler, after talking to Sheriff Guy by telephone, refused to admit them to the jail. Guy said he would jail them only if the commitment papers were signed by Baxley. He refused to recognize the authority of Tyson and West to make arrests, since he had dismissed them Jan. 3. The Board of Commissioners later rehired them as rural policemen. The accused couple waited around about 30 minutes, then walked out. In the Channel Islands, near England, a variety of cabbage plant is grown which reaches a height of 10 to 16 feet with a strong stem which is used for rafters in thatched cottages.

Two Sentenced For Revolt Plot

GUATEMALA — Two army men were sentenced to death yesterday by the Army War Council as ringleaders in the attempt to overthrow the government of President Carlos Castillo Armas Jan. 20. Both the men, Capt. Fernando Montes de Oca and Cpl. Enrique Franco Pineda, pleaded innocent. Nine other defendants were acquitted. Another 453 are still jailed in connection with the uprising.

Provoov To Seek Prison Release

BALTIMORE — John David Provoov, 37, former Army sergeant accused of treason in wartime by aiding the Japanese after the fall of Corregidor was due in federal court today in an attempt to obtain his release from the charges. Provoov's lawyers have filed a habeas corpus petition, contending the lapse of time—nearly 13 years—since some of the alleged treasonable acts, bars prosecution in view of constitutional provisions for a speedy trial. Provoov is scheduled to be retried here March 14. The onetime San Francisco bank clerk was sentenced to life imprisonment in New York federal court in 1952. A federal appeals court reversed the conviction, saying the trial should have been held in Maryland.

WAR VICTIMS

ROVIGO, Italy — A wartime mortar shell found in a meadow exploded yesterday, killing one child and seriously injuring four others. There are more than 25,000 species of lice that eat feathers.

Otherwise, She Finds Them Nice

LOS ANGELES — Princess Irene Mdivani has come up with a succinct appraisal of American women. The White Russian princess formerly headed the Paris house of Schiaparelli. She said yesterday: "The American woman drinks too much milk. She is too preoccupied with her bust measurement. She dresses unwisely to please herself rather than a man, and she worries too much about staying young. Otherwise, she's quite nice."

Bishop Urges No Discrimination

DETROIT — The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Michigan Episcopal diocese, has called on churches in the diocese to accept members of "every racial and cultural background." At the annual diocesan convention, he urged the churches to do "on the basis of love" what the U.S. Supreme Court did "on the basis of law and justice." He referred to the court's ruling last year against segregated schools.

ACCIDENT CAUSE?

CHICAGO — Sirens have been ordered disconnected on 80 traffic patrol cars to induce policemen to drive more carefully and thus reduce accidents.

Bucs, Bulldogs In Awaired Contest

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

More than 2,000 fans will crowd into Memorial Gymnasium tonight to witness the long-awaited battle between two natural basketball enemies, East Carolina and Atlantic Christian.

Another chapter in one of the North State's oldest rivalries will be written. From the season's beginning, aspirant coaches have looked to this meeting and have brought their teams along with tonight's game in mind.

The setting is near-perfect. The No. 1 team in the league is playing the No. 3 club. Atlantic Christian will have the opportunity to strengthen their hold on first place and East Carolina can cement a spot in first division.

32-Game Skin
Coach Howard Porter's teams haven't lost a game on their home-court since the dedication of the gymnasium in January of 1953. The Tar Heels of North Carolina whipped the Pirates in the ceremony game but East Carolina has since won 32 straight. The Bulldogs hope to end that streak.

But during the past six seasons, the Pirates have held complete dominance over them. Atlantic Christian has not beaten the Pirates since 1949. They edged the locals 52-49 in Wilson that year but East Carolina whipped them 52-51 in Greenville several weeks later. The homecourt victory started a skin of 10 successive wins which carry down to tonight's game.

EC Best In 1953-54
The two met thrice last season. East Carolina took all three. The Bucs won handily in Greenville and took a narrow victory in Elm City. In the finals of the tournament, Bobby Hodges and Charlie Huffman drove the Purple and Gold home in fine fashion. The triumph gave East Carolina its first North State basketball crown.

Atlantic Christian brings an undiminished 9-0 loop mark into the game and East Carolina puts an 8-3 record on the line. The Bulldogs have beaten every member of the league at least once whereas the Pirates have dropped contests to Elon, Lenoir Rhyne and Appalachian.

ACC Rany
The Bulldogs are a cloud-scraping bunch and will have a terrific height advantage on the Bucs. John Marley, at 6-11, will oppose Waverly Atkins, only 6-3, in the pivot. Coach Howard Porter could go with Guy Mendenhall is a first-year man and is some sixty pounds lighter than Marley.

Coach Jack McComas' firststring forwards are Jerry Williams and Jim Peebles. Williams is 6-3 and Peebles 6-2. Both are good shooters and defensive men. Williams is the team's leading scorer with an average close to 20 points.

Ronald Percise and Billy Widgen man the guards. Percise, a veteran, is a sure-shot with a two-hander and good playmaker. Widgen is a great shot on the run and starts quick. Billy Tomlinson and Charlie Hester are reserves who will see plenty of action. The former all-time wrecked the Pirates in the Elm City clash last season with his uncanny marksmanship from outside.

Board Strength
Where the Bulldogs are going to hurt the home club most is under the backboards. Reserve Bill Beacham stands 6-8 and plays either forward or center. Kim Buchanan, who recently joined the Bulldogs after Army duty, is a 6-7 giant and possesses exceptional scoring touch. McComas may start both of these boys tonight to dominate the rebounding.

Carvel (Nick) Nichols, a freshman standout, will get the call on Williams. The Leaksville blond is the Pirates' third highest scorer and leading rebounder. Don Harris, who is averaging 21.5, will be assigned Peebles and possibly Beacham. J. C. Thomas will attempt to hold down Widgen. Thomas built a fence around the Newport sophomore in last season's meetings. Cecil Heath can count on guarding the Shifty Percise.

Coach Porter obviously intends to run against the taller visitors. In this system, the substitutes can expect to get into the action. Fred James and Maurice Everette, a pair of scrapping guards, will play a lot. Others who may see duty are Marion Hain, Jerry Bosquet, William McArthur, and Waddell Solomon.

Much will be at stake besides records and averages. East Carolina took the Bohunk Trophy, symbol of superiority in sports between the two schools, in baseball last spring and Atlantic Christian would like nothing better than to take it home.

BROWN BOMBER WORKS AGAIN: — Ex-heavyweight Joe Louis draws a bead as he spars with his protege, Paul Andrews, right, during a workout in Chicago. Louis looked surprisingly strong and carried his 240 pounds with dignity in his 2 rounds with Andrews. It was one of the few times Louis has climbed into a ring for action since his last fight. But he feels he can best teach Andrews, an ex-paratrooper from Buffalo, by getting into the ring with him. (AP Wirephoto)

Allie Reynolds Leaving Baseball; Doc's Advice

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Allie Reynolds, 37, says he has pitched his last major league baseball game. The decision to retire after 12 years in the big time comes as a result of a back injury and his doctor's advice.

In eight years with the New York Yankees, the big right-hander established himself as one of baseball's all-time pitching greats. His lifetime record is 184 victories and 104 defeats. Reynolds, always the "money" hurler, won seven World Series games for the Yanks and dropped only two.

In 1953, he suffered a severe back injury when the Yankee bus crashed into an overpass in Philadelphia. He was out of action for six weeks and the injury has been bothersome ever since. His doctor recently warned him against aggravating the injury and said major surgery might be required if his career continued. That's when Reynolds decided to quit. He announced his retirement last night.

"Some may think you approach something like this with a detached attitude," he commented. "But when you get around to it, the old, close ties are awfully hard to cut. From a standpoint of years I had lots of good pitching left. There's nothing wrong with the arm. I can throw as hard as ever. But you look at it a lot of different ways. I can't risk permanent injury at my age. I never had any intention of keeping on as anything less than a whole ballplayer and certainly I'd never do anything to hurt the Yankees' chances."

In Glendale, Calif., Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, didn't know that Reynolds was quitting. "If it's true I can only say that he'll be mighty hard to replace," he said.

In 1951, the Super Chief — so-called because of his blazing fast ball and his Indian heritage — hurled two no-hitters, against the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox.

Reynolds came up to the majors with Cleveland late in 1942 and stayed with them through 1946. The Yanks landed him in a deal for Joe Gordon and he broke into a New York uniform in 1947 with 19 wins. He never dropped below the 13-win mark. Last year, when he was mostly in the bullpen, he won 13 and lost 4.

Reynolds said he was leaving because he felt basketball had become over-emphasized at Kentucky.

"It isn't regarded as a game but as a matter of life or death to war," Puckett said.

Puckett was the only member of the team who failed to report for practice yesterday after Rupp, re-

Deacs Take 96-90 Win Over Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Wake Forest Deacons defeated Virginia, 96-90, in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game last night in a nip-and-tuck thriller which saw three men on each team score more than 20 points each. Cavalier Buzzy Wilkinson led with 32 points.

It was the only conference game scheduled. The only ACC team in action tonight is South Carolina, which entertains The Citadel.

Virginia's Tom McCarty and Bill Miller scored 24 and 22 points respectively, while Wake Forest's center Dickie Henric racked up 27 points and forward Lowell Davis had 26. Guard Tom Murdock had 22.

The score was tied at 88 just four minutes before the game ended then Wake Forest went ahead 92-90 and built up the final margin in the last two minutes.

Wake Forest led all the way, except when Buzzy Wilkinson scored the tie, in the second half. It was the Deacons' third conference victory against three losses. Virginia has a 3-7 conference mark.

Catawba defeated Guilford, 73-66, for its second North State Conference victory of the season. The win put Catawba in a seventh place tie with Guilford with a 2-8 record. Bill Atkins, leading North State scorer, led with 23 points for Guilford. Forward Warren Summy had 17 for Catawba.

In another North State game, Atlantic Christian racked up its ninth straight victory in defeating High Point College, 89-75. The Christians pulled away from an early High Point lead and held a 44-35 halftime advantage. Atlantic Christian meets a real test tonight at East Carolina College.

At Cullowhee, Lenoir Rhyne defeated Western Carolina, 62-53, led by Raeford Well with 26 points.

In other games tonight, Newberry is at the College of Charleston, Furman at George Washington, and Elon at Appalachian.

Farmville, Ayden Cagers Cling To Top Of Standings

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

As the Pitt County Basketball Conference moves into the home stretch, a look at the standings finds Coach Sam Stell's Farmville girls and Coach Stewart Tripp's boys leading their respective divisions through games of Monday night.

The Farmville lassies strengthened their lead with a 32-28 victory over third-placed Bethel last week. The win brought their won-lost mark within the conference to 9-1. The leaders have five games remaining on their schedule, one of which is a loop game.

The second-placed girls team is Winterville. Farmville has beaten Coach Paul Clark's Winterville ladies twice this season, 39-32 and 49-41. These are the only losses Farmville has suffered in the conference. They own a 10-2 standing. Winterville has four games remaining, three of which are league meets. They play Chocoma tomorrow night, Ayden on Feb. 11 and close out the season with Chicob Feb. 15.

Bethel In Running
Bethel's girls, tutored by Coach William Berry, were the league leaders at the beginning of the season but dropped back during mid-season. They are still in the running for loop honors with their 9-3 record. Bethel lost games to Winterville, 52-39; Farmville, 55-54; and Chocoma again, 32-28. They have five more games to play, three of which are within the conference. They entertain Belvoir, Grimesland, Robersonville and Jamesville at home and play Stokes-Pactolus away.

Chicob's girls are also experiencing a fine season. They have won seven, lost three and tied one. Their 7-3 mark is good enough for fourth place. They are in position to also move up should one of the other teams falter in the stretch. Chicob has three more games, all of which are conference tilts. They play Winterville, Ayden, Belvoir and Winterville again.

After the top four, the won-lost marks slip below the 500 grading. Neither Stokes-Pactolus, Belvoir, Grimesland, Grifton or Ayden have a chance for first division.

Ayden And Winterville
Ayden and Winterville are crammed at the top of the boys bracket with Bethel and Stokes-Pactolus just one step behind. Ayden's mark is 7-2, Winterville's 9-3, Bethel's 7-4 and Stokes-Pactolus's 7-5.

Coach Tripp's league-leaders are making up for their winless girls team with one of their best seasons. The Tornadoes dropped their opener to Belvoir 49-50 and an early game to Bethel 48-50 but have since ridden to seven victories. They have four opportunities to strengthen their hold on first place in league games with Grifton, Chicob, Winterville and Stokes. The Feb. 11 meeting with Winterville in Winterville will be the acid test.

Coach Blaney Moye's Winterville boys are considered the best-balanced team in the loop. They were favored to win on nights of defeat. Farmville and Bethel are two clubs that beat them, Farmville by 64-63, and Bethel by 60-43.

Coach Walter Latham's bunch at Bethel has lost only four contests. Grimesland, Winterville, Stokes-Pactolus and Farmville beat them. With first division so tight, Bethel has a good chance of advancing should they take their final three conference games.

Stokes-Pactolus has continued to win throughout the season and holds firmly on to fourth place. Coach Arthur Bempsey's boys have only two more chances to better their standing. They play Bethel and Ayden before the season ends.

As in the feminine bracket, the first four teams are the only teams classed as threats. Grimesland is playing 500 ball but the other four teams have loser's records.

The standings through Monday night:

Girls
	Won Lost
Farmville	9 1
Winterville	10 2
Bethel	9 3
Chicob	7 3
Stokes-Pactolus	5 7
Belvoir	4 8
Grimesland	3 7
Grifton	3 7
Ayden	0 9

Boys
	Won Lost
Ayden	7 2
Winterville	9 3
Bethel	7 4
Stokes-Pactolus	7 5
Grimesland	5 5
Belvoir	6 7
Farmville	4 6
Grifton	3 7
Chicob	0 11

G-Men Play Elizabeth City Friday Night; Team 'Ready'

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Undeclared in seven loop contests the Greenville Phantoms put their long conference record on the line tomorrow night when they tangle with the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets on the Jackets' home court.

In the other meeting between the two schools the Greensies put their high-scoring offense into full steam and trounced the Jackets by 104-56. Tomorrow night the G-men will be playing on a foreign court, however, and won't be expected to reach those astronomical figures, again.

So far in the seven conference games the G-men have played this year, they have scored in the 70's three times, in the 80's three times, and over the century mark one time. The highest total by their opponents was the 64 scored by Kingston.

The Green Phantoms may not be at top strength for the Elizabeth City encounter. Pat Sawyer, veteran guard, missed school yesterday and has a severe cold that might develop into the flu. Sawyer played much of the last half against Washington Tuesday night with a severe headache. Tommie Saled, the crackjacker set shot artist, had a painful toe injury in the Washington game and it makes it hard for him to get around at top speed.

Saled, who was in a slump for about four games, snapped out with a 21 point performance in New Bern last week. Saled popped in 10 points Tuesday night against Washington to preserve his average of over ten points per game.

The other starters are just about at top strength. Edgar Moore is much stronger now after a spell of weakness following his sickness. Bob Howell and Harold Edwards are both at top strength. Ike Riddick was hitting well yesterday in practice and has seemingly recovered from his cold. Another substitute, Billy Johnson who has an eight points per game average, is back in school after a long sickness and is getting ready to go again.

The rest of the team seems all right and ready for action. The Greensies will put their seven consecutive conference wins this season and their string of 15 straight conference wins over the past two seasons up for the Jackets. It would take quite an upset for the Yellow Jackets to snap that string, but upsets like that are what make the round ball sport so popular.

Santee Wants A 'Hit-Run' Affair

NEW YORK (AP)— Wes Santee wants to make a "hit and run" affair of his 1,500-meter race in the Pan-American Games at Mexico City next month.

"If I'm chosen for the American team—and I'll be shocked if I'm not—I'll ask to be allowed to fly down the night before the trials and again the night before the main race and then get right out again," the Kansas miler said.

"Because of the altitude—it's around 7,500 feet above sea level, I think—I wouldn't want to do any preliminary training there."

America's premier miler, whose time of 3:42.8 was certified this week as the world record for the 1,500 meters, is in New York to continue his assault on the indoor mile mark. He set the record with 4:03.8 last Saturday in Boston and will try to lower it in the Millrose Games Saturday at Madison Square Garden.

"Olympic officials have asked me about the prospect of doubling up in Mexico," he said. "I told them no. I said I would run only in the 1,500 meters."

Methodists Urged To Voice Support Of United Nations

By RICHARD GORRELL
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Methodists from nine Southeastern states today were urged to make their voices heard in Washington in support of the United Nations.

Miss Thelma Stevens, executive secretary of Christian social relations and local church activities, woman's division of the Methodist Board of Missions, told the quadrennial convocation of the Southeastern Jurisdiction:

"The United Nations has not been able to end the cold war or break the disarmament deadlock. This power resides in Washington and Moscow.

"But the U.N. Disarmament Commission is at work. It created unanimously the 'Atoms for Peace' plan.

"We can make our voices heard in Washington in support of the United Nations and its agencies. . . Today the word 'peace' is in desuetude because it has become a propaganda word of the Communists, she said. . . And, as in many other ways, we, who call ourselves Christians, have fallen into the trap, and instead of generating a climate of freedom from fear—where communism cannot grow—we use too often the tools of communism itself in our efforts to destroy it," she declared.

Christian churches she said, have not capitalized on the New Testament gospel of peace, which has "the power to still the hydrogen bomb."

Bishop Frederick B. Newell of New York told this morning's session of the convocation that the church is being challenged as it has not been since the early days of western migration by the growing and increasingly complex city life.

"The church is entering a future in church programming," he said, "where new techniques will be called for, including more personal counseling by better trained ministers, more pastoral visitation, more opportunities for self-expression to offset the stagnation of this over television-minded age."

The church in the city is entering the most fruitful and serviceable period of its history, he said. "The challenge is greater than any it has ever faced," he added. The convocation ends its three-day run tonight with an address by Dr. Umphrey Lee, chancellor of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

This afternoon, the delegates were split into seminars on evangelism, education missions and finance.

Yesterday, the jurisdiction's College of Bishops, in a surprise move issued a statement defending the retention of racial division within the church's administrative system.

The statement was issued apparently to allay fears of some Methodists that the jurisdictional system would be abolished.

The church has five geographical jurisdictions and one nationwide Negro jurisdiction.

The bishops said that some Methodists have expressed concern over the possibility of abolition of the present jurisdictional structure. The college said it knew of no such plans and added: "There is some current discussion relating especially to the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction. It is evident to us that the Central Jurisdiction has afforded our Negro membership opportunities and privileges they had not hitherto enjoyed.

"On account of it, they have been called to places of leadership and have been accorded large representation in councils of the church.

"The abolition of the Central Jurisdiction would reduce our Negro membership to a small minority scattered over five jurisdictions, with less participation in the church's life and program. This in our judgment would not be progress."

The bishops said they believe that with the exercise of patience and good will "the races that live side by side in the Southland will of their own accord adjust their relationships in the spirit of Christian brotherhood."

Last night the convocation heard Mrs. Paul Arrington of Jackson, Miss., declare that "Christianity is more deeply rooted throughout the world than ever before."

She said that Afghanistan and Tibet are the only two countries which do not have an organized and visible Christian Church.

Mrs. Arrington, vice president of the woman's division of Christian service of the Methodist Board of Missions said that communism is the church's chief foe today.

"Communism," she declared, "can never be destroyed by atomic weapons, but it can be subdued by an active and vital faith in Jesus

Gets Permission To Climb Peak
ORANGE, Calif. (AP)—An expedition will ascend the slopes of Lhotse, world's second highest unclimbed peak. An American mountaineer, Norman G. Dyhrenfurth, said yesterday he has been granted permission by Nepal to lead his expedition up the 27,890-foot mountain, neighbor of Everest in the Himalayas. He will assemble the group March 15 in Switzerland.

Christ and his teachings." Bishop John Wesley Lord of Boston warned, "Youth is being driven from the church by double talk and evasion in the pulpits regarding issues that religion must squarely face."

He said that Christian youth "is embarrassed when the church rejects or condemns scientific truth. Science is the handmaiden of religion."

Bishop Costen J. Harrel of Charlotte said that Methodist churches now have achieved a uniform organization, which, he said, is a great gain.

Robert G. Mayfield of Chicago, executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Lay Activities, told the group that too many church members are more dollar conscious than soul conscious.

"We have been more intent on balancing the church budget than in seeing that our members have a Christian attitude toward their material possessions," he declared.

Faster Divorce Proposal Killed In Senate Debate

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal to shorten the waiting time for divorces in North Carolina was killed by the Senate yesterday after brief debate.

The action was one of the highlights of a busy legislative day that saw 23 bills introduced in the House and four in the Senate.

The divorce bill introduced by Sen. E. L. Owens of Washington would have reduced the waiting period for divorces on grounds of separation from two years to one year.

Sen. Adam J. Whitley of Johnston, one of about a dozen senators who spoke in opposition to the measure, said, "The marriage vows and the home are the most sacred things on earth. It would be bad policy to narrow the separation period."

Sen. Cameron Weeks of Edgecombe defended the proposal, terming it a fine thing. He said that in 80 to 90 per cent of the divorce cases now the couples have not been separated for two years.

Major bills to hit the legislative hopper included:

1. A proposal to set up a new system for investigating suspicious, unusual or unnatural deaths. The bill, introduced by Rep. Addison Hewlett of New Hanover and E. K. Powe of Durham would completely revise state law relating to postmortem probes. The proposal was worked out by Dr. Wiley D. Forbus of Duke University and a citizens committee. It provides for county medical examiners to make the investigations.

2. Legislation to regulate the sale and use of barbiturate drugs. Introduced by Reps. E. K. Powe of Durham, Ed M. O'Herron of Mecklenburg and others, the measure would make it unlawful for barbiturates to be delivered except by pharmacists on prescription and by doctors in their practice.

3. Bills introduced in the House and Senate which would amend the state's lien law for old age assistance recipients. Counties would be allowed to deduct costs of collecting liens before the funds are divided by the county, state and federal governments. In 1953, a lien law was enacted requiring persons receiving old age assistance to give a lien on any real estate they owned.

REAL EXPERIENCE
GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Under "experience," one of 21 applicants for the job of Grand Haven chief of police wrote: "never served on a police force but I have ridden to work with a policeman for several months."

'Third Degree' Over Trash Can

DETROIT (AP) — For lack of an adequate rubbish can, Mrs. Shirley Ann Duckett, 24, was haled into a police station yesterday.

"They shot questions at me like it was the third degree," Mrs. Duckett protested. "Just like I'd committed some sort of a crime."

She said police fingerprinted her, asked her if her parents were born in the United States, if she or her husband ever had been arrested, requested her height and weight and made her sign her name.

Then they threatened to lock her up, she said, until her scheduled court appearance today. Her three young daughters accompanied her to headquarters in a police cruiser. Police said Mrs. Duckett was warned last July to get an adequate rubbish can and to maintain her half of the alley in a sanitary manner. She was ticketed in November and the warrant was signed in January.

'Revolutionary' Airplane Design Said Given Test

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Courier-Express says the Bell Aircraft Corp. will soon unwrap a revolutionary airplane that can take off and land vertically and fly with jet speed.

Bell, the newspaper said, developed the plane at its Niagara Falls plant and has already put it through a number of test flights.

Designated the VTOL, the plane differs from other vertical takeoff planes in that it is (1) powered by jet engines and (2) lands and takes off from a normal flying position, rather than from a "tail-sitting" position.

It is powered by two Fairchild J44 turbojet engines mounted on the fuselage just under the wing, the newspaper said. The engines are swiveled at takeoff so the jets blast at the ground vertically. Once airborne, the engines are rotated close to 90 degrees to permit forward movement.

Some Crop Price Ranges Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report showed today that despite a general decline in farm product prices in 1954, returns farmers received for many commodities averaged higher than in 1953.

Farm prices as a whole averaged 5 per cent lower in 1954 than in 1953. But average prices received for wheat, cotton, corn, peanuts, crude pine gum, soybeans, hay seed crops, hogs, potatoes, hops, grapefruit and pecans were higher than in 1953.

Restaurant To Open Saturday

The Greenville area will soon have a new quality restaurant.

At 11 o'clock Saturday morning, January 5, the new Silo Restaurant will open for business on the Ayden-Wirtville highway.

The new restaurant, operated by Wilbur Hardee, will be located about 200 yards from the old Silo Grill, which will continue to offer curb service to customers.

The restaurant will have a large area for parking cars, and has several private dining rooms which can accommodate up to 100 persons at one sitting. The main dining room, which will be open for everyday trade, can accommodate up to 180 persons.

A lounge and reception room is located at the front of the building.

The restaurant operator, who has been in the restaurant business for 16 years in Greenville, states that "chicken in the rough" will be one of the features of his daily menu.

Funeral Friday For R. B. Page

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Rinaldo Burrus Page Sr., 64, owner and publisher of the Star-News newspapers, will be buried here tomorrow.

He died after several months' sickness at Duke Hospital in Durham yesterday. The funeral will be at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church.

Page, first chairman of the North Carolina Ports Authority, had been a publisher since 1927. He started his newspaper career on the Columbus, Ga., Ledger, owned by his father. After World War I he entered the publishing and real estate business at Palm Beach, Fla., later moving to Sarasota where he was business manager of the Herald.

He became president and publisher of the Wilmington Morning Star when the R. W. Page Corp. bought the firm in 1927. In 1929 the corporation purchased the News-Dispatch and Page became president of the combined enterprise.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Daisy Givens Page, a son, Rinaldo Page Jr., co-publisher of the Wilmington papers, and a daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Kidd.

New Government For Jamaicans

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—A new government headed by Norman Washington Manley, leader of the leftist Peoples' National party, held power in this British colony today.

Manley's appointment as chief minister—a foregone conclusion following the PNP's parliamentary election victory three weeks ago—was formally announced yesterday by Gov. Sir Hugh Foot before a joint session of the House of Representatives and the island's Legislative Council.

Manley told the House his chief goals were self-government for Jamaica and a federation of the West Indies.

Investment Talk Is Proven True

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Armin H. Schmidt, $60-a-week shipping clerk whose talk about investments and retirement was taken as a joke by fellow employees, left an estate worth more than $300,000.

Probate Court inventory filed yesterday listed the estate's value at $60,251 but it included 10,085 shares of stock carried at only $1-a share. Some are worth more than $100 each.

Schmidt, 54, retired last August and died Nov. 21. Three fourths of the estate goes to his daughter with the remainder left in trust for his widow.

Show Business Said 'Open To Anybody'

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Anybody can get into show business nowadays, says Elaine Perry, a Broadway producer who has amazed old pros by scoring two hits in two years.

Her current drama "Anastasia" has just been sold to the movies for $350,000, a fact which she regards with understandable satisfaction.

"It will help pay off the original investment, and assure all the investors," she says soberly. "You know, it's a big responsibility for a producer to know that a lot of people have put money into a show. You feel you just have to make it a success."

"It used to be that the big producers put up all the money themselves and would not allow outside investors. But the tax situation and the rising cost of production has changed all that. Today hundreds of people have a piece of practically every show that opens—and they are people who often know nothing about show business, but like the excitement of being in on a show. Anybody can be a Broadway angel these days if he has an adventurous spirit."

Elaine, one of the few women producers on Broadway is the daughter of the late Antoinette Perry, one of the theater's most noted women directors, and the sister of Margaret Perry, well known as an actress, author and director. So it never occurred to her to go into any other endeavor except the theater.

She started as an actress as soon as she was graduated from high school, appearing in several Brock Pemberton productions. Her first show under her own banner was "Touchstone," a flop. Her next "The Paradise Question," she decided a solid success, "The King of Hearts." This season "Anastasia," which she describes as "real drama with lots of schmaltz," is considered a top nonmusical hit on Broadway.

Uniform Course Of Instruction

NEW YORK (AP)—A uniform course of Jewish religious instruction has been provided for Jewish servicemen and their families at military bases in this country and abroad.

Rabbi Joseph H. Lookstein, chairman of the Jewish Chaplaincy Commission of the National Jewish Welfare Board, said yesterday it is the first standardized religious curriculum ever worked out for Jews in the armed forces and their dependents.

Rabbi Lookstein said the purpose of the course is to "promote order in religious training" for Jews away from home.

Altercation Is Ended By Death

MARSHALL, N. C. (AP)—One man was shot to death and another cut severely in an altercation in the Spring Creek section of Madison County last night.

Sheriff E. Y. Ponder said Jack Moore, 40, died instantly from a shotgun charge, fired at close range which struck him in the left chest and arm.

Ferdie Ledford, 62, was admitted to Swannanoa VA Hospital suffering from severe knife wounds on the arms, legs and back. Ponder said Ledford has been charged with murder.

The two men were alone at the Ledford home at the time of the altercation.

Three Injured In Highway Mishap

Three persons were injured when a car crashed into a truck at the intersection of a rural paved road and N. C. 11 in front of the Highway Commission shops last night.

Injured were John Ivey Allen, 102 Raleigh Avenue who received head injuries; Linwood Harris, 324 East Tenth Street, Washington, head injuries; and John Banks, 1200 Glen Arthur Avenue, cuts and abrasions.

Investigating Patrolman James W. Boykin said a car driven by Allen apparently ran through a stop sign at the intersection and crashed into a truck driven by Harbert H. Dawson, Jr. of New Bern.

Boykin said Allen is being charged with failure to stop for a stop sign. The patrolman said the car is a total loss and damage to the truck, which was headed south on N. C. 11, amounted to $300.

Eskimos Have Walrus Trouble

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Seal-hunting Eskimos at Point Barrow on the northern tip of North America have been having walrus trouble.

An Eskimo correspondent of the Fairbanks News-Miner reported it this way:

"Today Ernest Kignak and few others saw a walrus. Day after day men would go out and most every man would come home empty. Walrus is an enemy to seals, that's why the seals don't hang around, no matter how good the ice could be. The people here wish to see this walrus go away or be killed. A very same thing had happened to this village one time in 1939. People would be short of seals then too."

All the cars and trucks exported from New York harbor each year, placed end to end, would stretch from New York City to Indianapolis, Ind.

Farmville Board Votes Resurface Fifteen Blocks

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board of Commissioners in their Tuesday night meeting authorized the resurfacing of fifteen blocks in town at the estimated cost of $18,000.

The board also authorized the calling for bids on a new three-quarter ton hose truck for the fire department. The new truck is to be housed in the sub-station in the colored section of town.

The Town Engineer was told by the board to proceed with the laying off and planning of the new colored cemetery. The project would include the planning of new streets, and making arrangements for the drainage of the property. The town plans to have the project completed within 60 days.

80-Year-Old Put Up A Good Fight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joseph Semrau of Milwaukee puts up a mighty good fight for a man 82 years old.

Police said he routed two youths about 18 who tried to strong arm him. He told them to look for a youth with a black eye "because one of my punches landed square in his face."

Semrau had cuts and bruises but retained his money.

Recent Tax Listing Said 'Best' In Several Years

Now that the tax-listing period is over in Greenville, with only a few late stragglers coming in to do their listing, County Tax Supervisor Reginald Gray declared this morning that this year's tax-listing period was one of the most successfully-conducted in many years.

The county tax supervisor was in Raleigh yesterday and appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee No. 2 in connection with proposed changes in certain tax-listing laws.

Gray appeared before the Senate committee along with other representatives of the County Tax Supervisors Association, to explain details of the proposed bills.

All of the proposed changes are minor ones, Gray said.

One of the proposed changes would provide for the appointment of an assistant tax supervisor in each county in the state. The post is not now provided for in law.

Another proposed change would provide that rural fire department property would be exempted from county taxation. A third proposed change would involve appropriation of funds to be used for travel expenses when tax-listing representatives are traveling on business for the board of equalization.

WATCH THAT DOG!

OMAHA (AP)—The woman told the police desk sergeant "there's a prowler in my back yard, my dogs here in the house are barking like crazy." The sergeant suggested she might turn the dogs loose to deal with the situation. He drew the snappy reply "Oh, I couldn't let my babies get hurt!"

Clothing Issue Is Like Bad Penny

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Four years ago, Sgt. Victor Wensloff of the Marines Sixth Regiment, lettered his name and serial number, 986441, on the waistbands of his winter clothing. When the regiment returned from the Mediterranean some time later, the winter issue was turned in.

Now stationed at the Marine recruiting station here Wensloff opened a shipment of winter clothing he had ordered.

There neatly folded on the top of the first box, was a pair of long underdrawers. Printed across the waistband was: Sgt. Victor Wensloff, 986441.

Few And Poor Gardens In N. C. Appears To Be Rule

By Mrs. Lillie Little
Pitt County Home Demonstration Agent

About this time of year we usually find garden enthusiasts eagerly thumbing through seed catalogues. Many of us probably take it for granted that everybody who lives on a farm has a garden. This is far from true.

According to the latest information, farm census figures show that in North Carolina nearly 50,000 farms (or about one-fifth), have no gardens. Few and poor gardens appear to be a state-wide problem. Pitt County is no exception.

Here in our own county we have some of the most productive soil in the state and an ideal climate, yet we find the can opener being overworked.

Many say they have a garden. But is it a year-round garden? Is there enough variety in the vegetables planted? Do we plant enough to furnish our families during the growing season and to conserve? If the answer to all these questions is "yes," you are an exception.

Mr. John Harris, our horticultural specialist from State College estimates an acre of garden properly cultivated is worth $600-$1,000. He says a family should save one-tenth an acre of garden per member of the family.

Thus the returns from a garden plot, on an acre for acre basis, are higher than practically any other crop grown. Yet many families in Pitt plant cash crops—tobacco, usually—up to the door and eat out of tin cans the year round. We hear all kinds of excuses for it. But is this good planning?

The outlook for 1955 is for a continued rise in most food costs; so a good garden is one way farm families can cut costs and have money to spend for other things.

A vegetable garden will furnish better quality vegetables than can be bought on the market. When they are garden-fresh and vine-ripened they taste better and have more food value. Regardless of income people eat more vegetables when home-grown than when bought.

We have several bulletins in our office that would be most helpful in giving the latest scientific gardening information. The Farm and Home Garden manual is one every gardener needs. It is also wise to check the bulletin on Recommended Varieties for 1955 before buying seed. Either of these is available for the asking.

Potatoes, corn, string beans, peas and the other familiar vegetables still need to be planted. In addition, I would like to urge a trial of some of the newer ones. Make a resolution to try at least one, anyway. Some of these vegetables are winter squash, broccoli, asparagus, kohlrabi, cauliflower or brussels sprouts. They are all recommended for our area.

I would also like to urge everyone to form a habit of buying one of the not-too-familiar vegetables each week. In the market basket may be included parsnips, endive, chinese cabbage, red cabbage, savoy cabbage, brussels sprouts, egg plant, rhubarb and French artichokes. These are all good and will serve to give menu variety.

Monkey Business Taxed To Death

SINGAPORE (AP)—There's no more "monkey business" in Singapore.

Once thousands of monkeys passed through, often in air freighters, destined for England and the United States for scientific work. Most of them came from Java.

But now the monkey tax is too high. It costs a dollar for an entry permit for each monkey and another dollar to export it.

Now scientists overseas are getting their monkeys from India.

What Americans call "moose" is known in earlier British usage as "elk" and what Americans call "elk" the British call "red deer."

Girl Scouts List 656 Registered In Pitt Troops

There was a total of 656 Girl Scouts registered in 37 troops throughout Pitt County during 1954, according to the annual report recently released by the Pitt County Girl Scout Council.

Especially noted in the report is the change which occurred in the Council's name as the Girl Scout program was expanded last year to include other communities besides Greenville. Consequently, the Greenville Girl Scout Council, Inc. became the Pitt County Girl Scout Council, Inc. with a corresponding jurisdiction.

Towns other than Greenville which are participating in the program are Ayden, Bethel, Farmville, Grifton, and Winterville. There are 17 white troops in Greenville, seven in Farmville, two in Grifton, two in Bethel and one in Ayden. There are also seven Negro troops in Greenville and one in Winterville.

Troop Membership
Membership in the Greenville white troops totals 274; Farmville, 120; Grifton, 54; Bethel, 46; and Ayden, 26. Negro membership totals 114 in Greenville and 22 in Winterville.

Activities of the Scouts during the past year included the annual cookie sale which was held in March under the management of Mrs. W. L. Harrington. This sale netted more than $500, the report discloses. In the past profits were earmarked for a Greenville "Little House" for Girl Scouts, but since the formation of an area council, all cookie sale profits went for the support of the Camp Hardee, which benefits all the troops in the area.

Nearly every Saturday during the spring and fall a Brownie or Scout troop visited Camp Hardee, and several troops stayed overnight. A number of these visits were made so the girls could work on their nature and out-of-doors badges.

The regular camping season was reported "highly successful and enjoyable" for campers and staff alike. A total of 140 girls were accommodated during the three periods of two-weeks each. Waterfront facilities were improved, and increasing emphasis was placed on camp craft and nature study.

Scout Training Course
Preceding the organization of troops in the fall, the Council's Executive Director, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, assisted by Mrs. A. A. Hines, conducted a 16-hour training course for Brownie and Scout leaders. This course covered every phase of the Girl Scout program and was given in Greenville and in Farmville.

Girl Scouts and Brownies contributed to the happiness of numerous families in Pitt County at Christmas when they distributed food, clothing and toys to the needy.

The last week in October the Girl Scout troops celebrated the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of the organization, by attending the church of their choice with their leaders.

Several troops are now selling coat hangers and old newspapers to raise money for the Juliette Low Memorial Fund. This is a national project to restore the birthplace of the founder of the Girl Scout movement in this country.

Many Taxpayers Ignore Postponed Filing Date

By FRANK O'BRIEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—There's an air of quiet satisfaction at revenue service headquarters for an unusual reason: a lot of people apparently have not caught on to one provision of the new tax law.

A number of taxpayers evidently think the income tax filing deadline is still March 15, as it was for 40 years. But the 1954 tax law moved the date to April 15, effective this year.

Since this change was widely publicized, the revenue service had glumly expected a dull January followed by a mounting crush of calls for help in making out returns during February, March and early April.

It just isn't developing that way. A headquarters telephone check of some major tax filing points today disclosed that business is as good this January as a year before—better in some places.

And a check of one long line of taxpayers waiting for advice in the Washington area disclosed that something like 80 to 90 per cent of the people in the line thought the income tax deadline was still March 15.

The revenue service is continuing last year's drive to give priority to returns calling for a refund.

Also last year's program of giving an especially close look at returns calling for big refunds is being repeated. Officials never have said where they drew the line between "big" and "small" refunds, but it was reported to have been at or near $200 last year, with all refund claims over that amount being set aside for special scrutiny. The line may have been dropped to around $150 this year, but officials would neither confirm nor deny this report.

Frankie Laine Probably A Hit In Australia, Too

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frankie Laine starts today for Australia, where he'll probably add another chapter to his amazing success.

Laine has long baffled the experts. Even his own mother wouldn't term him handsome. He has a figure that resembles a barrel. He half sings, half shouts his songs in a voice that seems to some of his critics more suited for calling hogs. When he performs, he waves his arms like an aviated windmill.

Yet he manages to draw a comfy half-million dollars a year and charm enthusiastic followers from Dawn Under to Scotland. How does he do it? I have always claimed that he is one of the last of the minstrels. He seems to be cut from the Al Jolson tradition of songster. Though he lacks vocal finesse, he more than makes up for it with enthusiasm and a superb lyric sense.

And sincerity. He can put his heart into weird pieces like "Mule Train" and "Wild Goose" and make you believe them.

It fitted with Frankie before his Australia hop. He was finishing up another of his Columbia musicals, "Bring Your Smile Along."

Frankie (born Frank Paul Lovicchio) discussed his contract with Columbia Records, which is one of the most envied in the business. He gets paid at least $50,000 a year for 10 years, and his accrued royalties continue five years after that. He makes a minimum of 16 sides per year, plus an album. One of the stipulations of the deal is that he must go out and perform before the public at least 26 weeks a year.

"The company knows the value of keeping your name alive with the public," he said. "It's all right with me. One TV show is counted as a week's work, so I can do a few guest spots, a couple of Las Vegas dates and some other night club and theater engagements and I'll have had it for the year."

His success in the record field has been phenomenal. Bing Crosby has sold more records in his long career. But no singer—not even young Eddie Fisher—has sold so many platters in such a short span. Laine has been a record star only since 1947, but his discs have been estimated at 25 million.

Steady Rise Of Russian Industrial Production Has Vast Significance

By TOM WHITNEY
AP Foreign Staff
NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest news story from Russia rarely breaks into the headlines. It's the fact that the Soviet Union continues year after year to register big gains in industry. Production of machinery—capital goods and war material—is zooming upward.

Figures make dry reading. But they are much more likely to tell the final story of war or peace and who wins out in the race for world leadership than conflicts within the Kremlin.

Kremlin leaders agree on one thing—that the industrial building of the U.S.S.R. must be pushed. Only last night the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party published a new decree reminding the party that its "major duty" is the "further increase of heavy industry."

Here's how the Soviets compared in 1954 with the United States in production of four major industrial commodities generally regarded as reflecting overall economic strength of nations:

Commodity	U.S.S.R.	U.S.
Steel	41	80
Coal	346	373
Petroleum	58	312
Electric power	148	544

(Steel, coal and petroleum measured in millions of metric tons, electric power in billions of kilowatt hours.)

Except for coal, U.S. production of these basic items is from two to five times that of the U.S.S.R. but the U.S. margin used to be much higher in some items.

In coal, not only a basic fuel but also a raw material for the chemical and metallurgical industries the story is quite different. Because American coal production has dropped sharply during recent years, the U.S.S.R. is about to capture first place in the world unless there's a quick upswing in U.S. output.

The Soviet leadership has many serious problems in its economy, particularly in agriculture. But none was serious enough to prevent the Soviet Union from increasing steel output in 1954 by more than 3 million tons coal by 26 million, cement by 3 million, petroleum by 6 million tons and electric power by 15 billion kilowatt hours.

During this same year U.S. steel production fell off by about 20 million metric tons, coal by about 60 million and petroleum about 6 million tons.

In electric power, however, the United States output increased more than twice as much as that of the U.S.S.R.—by 31 billion kilowatt hours. Since power production is considered the most significant single index of industrial development this demonstrates that America is not by any means sliding backwards economically.

While giving priority to heavy industry—capital goods, war goods, fuels and the like, the Kremlin also has increased output of many industrial consumer goods.

Competition Is Causing Mergers In Bigger Banks

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Bank mergers are scrambling the lineup of the 18 in the nation that have deposits in excess of one billion dollars.

And by the end of this year mergers now being discussed among the top 18 will lower the total, unless weddings of other banks just under the billion-dollar class produce newcomers to the list.

Merger talk is uppermost in the minds of bank stockholders at most of the annual meetings. Competition is the reason in most cases.

The money in banking is now in the financial districts have come to believe. So old-style "Wall Street type" banks are acquiring branches by merging with others that already have large branch systems scattered through the cities or suburbs.

That is the reason given by Chase National Bank of New York No. 3 in the list of the 18 largest in asking stockholders to approve a merger with the Bank of the Manhattan Co., No. 15 of the giants. After the wedding, Chase Manhattan will move into No. 2 spot, replacing National City Bank of New York, unless that bank makes some such move of its own.

San Francisco's Bank of America will retain its top position — it had more than eight billion dollars in deposits at the end of 1954 — partly because California law permits it to have branches throughout the state, while New York law won't let Gotham banks have branches beyond New York's city limits.

Neighborhood branches reach their new importance because: (1) depositors won't bother with city traffic to bank at downtown institutions; (2) the shift in income levels has made new and less concentrated groups of persons using banks; (3) growth of use of credit for consumer purchasing has opened a lucrative and highly competitive field for commercial banks as well as finance companies; (4) banks look for a higher volume of loans this year to business, big and small and many business firms now patronize the branches instead of doing their borrowing in Wall Street or Montgomery Street.

Giving Money Is Thankless Task

CHICAGO (AP)—Leonard Anderson, 78, says giving away money is a thankless job. He handles unclaimed equities for a life insurance company. His detective-like chore is to track down people who have money coming from the firm and don't know it.

He has turned up 465 such people and paid them amounts from 87 cents to $200. Only about five per cent have bothered to thank him for his trouble, he says.

Two Caves Built For Atom Work

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Two stone and steel caves have been built at the University of Michigan for 20th century caverns: those who work with the atom and its energy.

Two rooms, with concrete ceilings four feet thick, have doors weighing nine tons each, windows three feet thick. The whole structure is lined with three-eighths of an inch of steel plate. The rooms are dwarfed by a parent structure, which will house a million dollar atomic reactor. From the reactor and Atomic Energy Commission plants will come radioactive materials for experiments.

Scientists will stand outside the caves, where radiation will be weaker than that of an illuminated wrist watch dial. They will maneuver mechanical arms, so delicately contrived they can write or peel a banana—or handle "hot" atomic pots and pans and test tubes. In house-cleaning after tests the mechanical arms will sweep scraps into lead containers to be carried away and deposited in a safe place. The walls will be washed down with hoses to remove other radioactivity. A special paint will make the job easier.

Two Top Citizens Of Japan Drift To Policy Break

By ROBERT FUSON
TOKYO (AP)—Japan's two top citizens are drifting toward an open break unless someone can get them to agree on how to make peace with Russia.

Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama wants to end the stalemate which still exists between Japan and Russia and then talk about the peace terms.

Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, who signed the surrender aboard the Missouri in 1945 and recalls that Russia struck his country just five days before the end of the war, wants to talk first and sign later.

Unofficial peace talks between Russia and Japan have been going on for the past three months in various world capitals. The most important of these meetings was in Paris between the Japanese and Polish ambassadors to France.

But now the Soviet Embassy in Tokyo, not recognized since the Russians refused to sign the San Francisco Peace Treaty in 1951, has undergone a renovation inside, new paint outside. It has all the earmarks of looking forward to welcoming a new ambassador.

Shigemitsu wants to have an understanding first on such differences as the rightful ownership of the Habomai Islands, which Russia claims, fishing rights in the North Pacific and, last, but not least, the fate of 57,600 Japanese prisoners of war in Russian hands.

Hatoyama and Shigemitsu came to power in December as joint leaders of the newly formed Democratic party of Japan. Their teamwork hastened a feeling of Japanese nationalism throughout the country. Among other things, both leaders promised restoration of normal relations with Russia and Communist China.

But last Saturday, when Hatoyama announced publicly that he had received a note from the head of the unofficial Soviet mission to Japan proposing peace talks, Shigemitsu hit the ceiling.

Japan's Foreign Office had received the same note the previous Tuesday and was trying to keep it secret, pointing out to the Russians there were a few facts of life to be discussed first.

American observers are wondering at the timing of the Russian offer.

Article 26 of the San Francisco Treaty stipulated that Japan was under obligation to sign similar treaties, before April 28, 1955, with every other former enemy nation who had been a signer of the United Nations declaration of Jan. 1, 1952.

Inasmuch as the peace treaty of San Francisco gave the Kurile Islands to Russia in the form of Japan renouncing her claims to them, perhaps the Soviets are beginning to believe the San Francisco Peace Treaty wasn't such a bad idea at that.

Americans in Japan are beginning to believe that Russia wants to get the Kurile Islands sealed signed and delivered by a separate treaty before the deadline. Otherwise, there is the possibility that Japan, under another prime minister than Hatoyama might remember the Kuriles once belonged to Japan and would want them back.

Dinah Can Sell Her Own Records

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Sunny dispositioned Dinah Shore is her own best song pluggier.

The honey-haired songstress reports that when she sings a number on TV or radio that she has done on a phonograph record, the record sales pick up immediately.

It's only fair that her NBC broadcasts should help the record sales for it was through phonograph records that she got her first big break in the entertainment world.

After finishing at Vanderbilt University in the late '30s, she got a job on a local radio station in New York. But she had no luck with the networks until Xavier Cugat had her make some recordings with him for RCA Victor. The record company immediately signed her to a recording contract and NBC hired her as a sort of fill-in performer.

She quickly became one of the network's most popular singers and soon was on Eddie Cantor's show, where she stayed for three years.

Hollywood called. But Dinah continued her recording and radio work and for the past three years has had her own 15-minute TV show on NBC Tuesdays and Thursdays. Her radio shows currently are on Wednesday and Fridays. Under her contract she does 24 record sides a year.

George, A Duck, Thinks Like Dog

SEATTLE (AP)—George is a duck who apparently thinks he's a dog. He joined the David Dugan family last summer. Where he came from, they do not know. And Smokey, the Dugan spaniel, possibly flattered at his success in winning friends and influencing mallards, is willing to go along with the duck's delusion. They pal around together, even teaming up to chase cats and cars.

There is a complication, though. "They fight like everything at meal time," Mrs. Dugan explains. "George likes meat."

The Persian cat which originated in what is modern Iran has become relatively scarce in that country says the National Geographic Society.

10-Year-Old Has Art World Agog

PARIS (AP)—Crowds of art lovers are milling about a gallery on Paris' fashionable Rue Faubourg St. Honoré to view with "ohs" and "ahs" the oils of a completely unheard-of painter who is 10 years old.

Thierry Vaubourgoin is the youngest artist to have a one-man show within the memory of gallery goers here. There are 45 of his paintings in the Alex Cazelles Gallery.

He paints when he feels like it. His father is a director of an orchestra of the French radio network. His mother is a violinist.

Thierry, a frail, straw-haired boy, began drawing six years ago. He took up oils three years later and has had no formal instruction.

Most of the paintings are still life. The gallery manager thinks a painting of a dish of pears, soft gold against a subdued background, and a plate of silvery, blood-stained fish are among Thierry's best works. He did them in his "early period" — in 1952.

Not all the paintings on exhibit are for sale. But 10 were sold — at $57 to $110.

England passed a law in 1867 providing that lemon juice must be given to sailors daily during long voyages.

HOTTEST BUICK IN HISTORY
No wonder you see so many 1955 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever in history—topping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three."

You can take it over for only $2,343.88* delivered locally!

MOST PEOPLE still don't believe it. But it is true.

And when you look into the facts, you'll find these two solid truths:

Buick is one of the "Big Three" in sales volume—and hotter this year than ever before. And Buick is one of the "Big Three" when it comes to prices which make such popularity possible. The price we show here proves it.

So why not get what a Buick has to offer, if you are in the market for a new car?

You find that the dollars you pay for Buick buy you a lot more automobile—and the sheer satisfaction that comes with bossing a brawny traveler of this caliber.

You find it in the record-high V8 power that gives life to this spirited performer. You find it in the soft and level and cruiser-steady ride that comes of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability. You find it in the extra roominess, the extra frame strength, the extra tread width, the extra silencing—all part and parcel of every Buick.

We could tell you about the little things, too. Things usually charged for as "extras" in other cars, but yours as standard equipment at no extra cost in every Buick. Things like direction signals, oil-bath air cleaner, full-flow oil filter, automatic lighting in glove and trunk compartments—and so on.

But—you get the idea. This is a buy, this '55 Buick—a great buy—and a thriller from the instant you press its gas pedal. Come in this week and check things for yourself, won't you?

*2 door, 4-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 48, illustrated. Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities. Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as Heater & Defroster... $81.70; Radio & Antenna... $92.50.

Suddenly, Africa's Peoples Calling For A New Life And Revolt Stirs

By PRESTON GROVER
ALGIERS, French North Africa—Flying from ancient Carthage westward across North Africa gave me time to read "King Solomon's Mines," that fable of lost people and a lost diamond hoard—a story which to many people represents mysterious Africa.

Strangely, the mystery is still there the mystery of people who have brushed aside succeeding waves of civilization for more than 2,000 years and still held to their ancient ways.

Only in the past 30 years have they really caught on to this new way of life. Now suddenly they want it. Not all of them, but many. And they want it right now.

It was in the early '30s that the change seems to have come. France, which holds almost this whole northwest quadrant of Africa, felt it first in Algeria, where Moslem children began seriously asking to go to public schools.

The demand for a new life, for the kind of life the French have largely reserved for themselves in North Africa, has become a movement, an uprising.

And this winter and coming spring may see a sharp turning, for the pressure on France in North Africa has never been greater—and France has never been so badly prepared to deal with it.

In Tunisia, on the east and Morocco on the west are at crisis point. Negotiations are bearing completion to give Tunisia "internal autonomy" promised it last July by Premier Pierre Mendes-France. Negotiations dragged on more than five months.

In Morocco, there is a near standstill, with city-bred nationalists demanding more sovereignty than France wants to give. Terrorists are steadily raising the pressure for action.

In between Tunisia and Morocco lies Algeria, much bigger in area than both the other together, but it is mostly desert or semidesert. It includes part of the Sahara. Its richest areas are along the seacoast.

Tunisia and Morocco are protectorates. They once were independent, or relatively so. Algeria, on the other hand is a colony with France has declared to be a part of herself.

France has tried in one way or another to absorb this whole region of North Africa into her way of life and she has made a surprising amount of progress. But the odds were against her. There never were enough Frenchmen.

After all, the present population of French North Africa is more than 20 million people. That is almost equal to half the population of France itself. And the population in these three areas is increasing infinitely faster than in France.

Many among the populations in waterfront cities have accepted the French way of life just as they have sponged up a part of whatever civilization came their way.

In Algeria more progress has been made than elsewhere in bringing the country forward. There are more schools. Thirty per cent of the police force is Mohammedan.

There is nothing like that in Tunisia or Morocco. There the police are French. One of the bitterest points of dispute in the Tunisian negotiations was how much police authority to transfer to Tunisians.

Despite Reputation, Reds Not So Smart; They Have Fumbled

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—The Communists, credited with being cunning characters, probably kick themselves for a pair of colossal blunders: their handling of Formosa and Korea. They did it the hard way, and backwards.

For 10 months in 1950 they evidently could have taken Formosa without American opposition. Instead, they tackled South Korea. They might have had both if they had worked in reverse. They wound up with neither.

Five years ago Formosa was wide open to the Red Chinese. They had driven Chiang Kai-shek there from the mainland. And President Truman said on Jan. 5, 1950, the United States would not defend Chiang.

Chiang was in poor shape to defend himself. American diplomats predicted the fall of the island. The way seemed clear. Why then didn't the Chinese Communists cross the 100 miles of water separating Formosa from the mainland?

Since they had just taken over the mainland, they may have thought they had some homework to do first. Perhaps they felt they lacked enough equipment for an invasion of Formosa. Or perhaps they felt they could take the time.

The United States in the first half of 1950 was militarily weak, cutting its armed forces even more, and showing no signs or intentions of getting stronger or into a fight for Formosa. The Reds let six months pass.

The North Korean Communists invaded South Korea in June 1950. Truman, no doubt to the surprise of the Reds, put the United States into the war and threw the 7th Fleet into defense of Formosa. It has been there since.

In the intervening five years the American mood changed. The United States decided to keep Formosa from the Communists. The defense of Formosa now is stronger than any time since World War II. The Reds had missed their main chance.

If they had taken Formosa before grabbing for Korea, they might have been solidly in the island. And, because of their strategic position on Formosa, the United States might not have intervened in Korea. That's a guess, anyway.

Why did the Red Chinese and the Russians let the Korean Communists try to take South Korea before further known as the R. N. Williams land, and being the identical parcel of real estate conveyed to Chaney W. King by that certain deed of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book V-11, at page 226.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 3:16—"For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life." (RSV)

I hesitate to suggest my favorite Bible verse. It is a bit as if some one asked me to name my favorite son or daughter. There are four of them and each has an equal place in my affections. Bible verses are a bit like that to me.

Perhaps John 3:16 stands at the top of the list. No other verse seems to embody so much of the evangel. This verse, sometimes called, "The Gospel in a Nutshell" certainly is at the heart of the Gospel message. God's infinite love, His supreme gift to man, His inclusive invitation to eternal life, and His promise of our redemption through Christ, are the basic foundations on which our salvation rests.

It is for these and other reasons that I cherish John 3:16, as containing a gold nugget of spiritual truth of par excellence value.

WHICH DO YOU BUY?

The "Market" or individual stocks? The latter, of course, yet many people often forego income, or pass up excellent growth opportunities because they think the "market" is too high.

Whether the market is high or low is a relative thing measured by averages. There are always values to be had. Careful selection is the important factor.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving And Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Greenville, N. C. Sunday only, Feb. 6, 1955.

These private individual demonstrations will be held at the Proctor Hotel on Sunday only, Feb. 6, 2 p.m. till 9 p.m.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 3—In an interview here today, D. Russell Collins, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Collins Hair and Scalp Experts, Inc., said, "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so-called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

"The Collins firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offers a guarantee," Collins said.

Once a person avails themselves to the Collins treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee. "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress in the very first 30 days your money will be returned."

Hopeless Cases Discouraged
First the Collins specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in this lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin or colorless, the Collins firm can perform wonders.

Everyone is given a complete, private examination to determine the condition of his scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

Free Examinations
This examination is very thorough and highly technical. It requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination he is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, he makes regular reports to the Collins firm in Oklahoma City, and a trichologist will return to check his progress periodically.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, the Collins firm is sending specialists to various cities throughout the United States to conduct examinations and start home treatment.

No Cure-All
"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness," Collins emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to me a miracle."

There is one thing Collins wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

Hair For Lifetime
"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Collins said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules."

How's Your Hair?
If it worries you call Trichologist Lynn Jones at the Proctor Hotel in Greenville, N. C., on Sunday only, Feb. 6, 2 p.m. till 9 p.m. The public is invited. You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

The house covers 2,600 square feet, including two-car garage.

Striking Differences Are Found In African Natives

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Some striking physical differences between the white and black men of South Africa were reported today by an English bone surgeon who works among miners in the fabulous gold country near Johannesburg.
 These differences do not signify the superiority of one racial group over another but they mean that a doctor has to be on the lookout for variations in physique as he works across color lines, the surgeon said.
 In several respects the black men or Bantu are better built for the heavy, hot work in the mines than the whites, Dr. G. T. du Toit told the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.
 Dr. du Toit works for an industry-wide gold-mining organization which uses about 400,000 Bantu and about 40,000 whites.
 One outstanding difference, the surgeon reported, is in knee structure. The Bantu knee is better for sprinting, he said, because it is something more primitive than the white man's knee, which is superior for standing.
 This difference, Dr. du Toit reported, is due to the fact that the Bantu leg does not straighten out completely when it is put forward in walking or running, but remains slightly flexed. The white leg, he added, straightens out even beyond a straight line, with the knee acting like a hinge that allows a door to open a little too far. The white knee locks and unlocks from this position at each step. This causes a delay that makes the white man run slower than the black, Dr. du Toit asserted.

Salt Mines Are Good Hideouts

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Natural bomb shelters, bigger than the tallest skyscrapers, lie far underground in various parts of Michigan and could be put to use in the event of an atomic attack.
 The state conservation department is studying parts of the state where large beds of salt are surrounded by formations of hard rock. Officials say the salt could be mined or washed away, leaving large caverns suitable for bomb-proof storehouses.
 One of the largest of these caverns is an old salt mine under the southeast section of Detroit. It lies 250 feet beneath the surface and contains 250 million cubic feet of white salt. If converted to storeroom use, it could hold more stores than a building a block square and 100 feet higher than the Empire State building.

Alaska's Defense Plan Pegged To Key Points

By ELTON FAY
ELMENDORF AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska (AP)—An enemy attacking this northern stepping stone to the United States would face a tough tussle for big military bases and cities but he couldn't draw American forces into strategic, over remote areas, top military commanders say.
 This plan of defense of Alaska's tremendous territory — its more than twice the size of Texas — was laid out in a news conference held here by Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, commander in chief, Alaskan Defense Command. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. George R. Acheson, chief of the Alaskan Air Command, and Maj. Gen. James F. Collins, commander of Army troops.
 "People ask," Atkinson said, "what we would do if an enemy landed at some place like a little spit over on the coast."
 "In the first place, he said, "the enemy wouldn't be interested, and if he was we would just leave him there."
 Acheson said the military's mission is "not to defend all of Alaska, but to keep big installations and important centers out of enemy hands."
 Big Alaskan installations mentioned were Elmendorf, Ladd and Fairbanks. Atkinson said that Fairbanks listed as "important centers."
 Atkinson was asked if he believed there was a possibility of attack by Russians on the ground as well as in the air.
 "I don't think there would be any big land campaigns," he replied. "I do not rule out the possibility of at least limited airborne operations. As a matter of fact, that is the only way he could get in except for the possibility of attempting amphibious operations in a few spots."
 He expressed doubt there would be more major defense construction in Alaska except for the possibility of fighter plane strips.
 Acheson said the approaching advent of guided missiles tends to rule out fields too far forward.
 Gen. Collins said plans are being worked on for locating Nike anti-aircraft guided missile sites in Alaska but that no construction has been started.
 The Army commander expressed the belief Alaska now is garrisoned by adequate military forces and "if the situation developed we could get more in a hurry from the United States by air."

Bozo Distracted Attack By Bull

ROHRERSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Bozo, a 3-year-old collie, went to the rescue of his master Frank L. Beard 57, who had been knocked to the ground by a bull.
 As the bull pawed at Beard, Bozo nipped at the animal's legs and head. The distraction enabled the farmer to crawl to safety through a gate. He was treated for bruises. Bozo was not hurt.

'Grand Slam' In Electrical Fuse

BRIDGEPORT, Neb. (AP)—Farmer Leland Baker backed his car into a power pole and knocked a transformer fuse out of position. Then he climbed the pole, grabbed the fuse handle and slammed it back. He, too, was slammed — by 7,200 volts. He was knocked from the pole into a soil pile of sand, escaping with a bad burn.
 Power company firemen said it was the kind of a fuse they reached "only with an eight foot pole, an insulated one used to shut such fuses."

BLAZING ROCK: — Wind-whipped flames rage out of control in this downtown block of Luverne, Ala. Firemen who fought the inferno for 3 hours estimated damage at about $600,000. One woman is believed to have perished in the fire. The local hotel, a bank and several other business places were gutted. (AP Wirephoto).

Police And Rangers Hunt For An Explosives Cache

HOUSTON, Tex. — Texas Rangers and Houston police continued a search today for an explosives cache from which an ex-convict says the nitroglycerine bomb which killed Helen Harris Weaver was made.

Mrs. Weaver, 51, a wealthy San Angelo, Tex., ranchwoman, was blasted to death Jan. 19 when she stepped on the starter of her husband's automobile.

Police Chief Jack Heard said last night "We now know who set the bomb" that killed Mrs. Weaver. He said Andrew H. Nelson, 45-year-old ex-convict, told officers that he instructed a man on how to rig the nitro bomb.

Heard said Nelson declared this man went to San Angelo the night before Mrs. Weaver was killed, rigged the bomb in Weaver's automobile and was back in Houston by the time the explosive was detonated.

A former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver's—Harry L. Washburn, 38, of Houston—is under a murder charge in her death and held in the Tom Green County jail at San Angelo. He says he was in Houston when the bomb went off.

Shortly after Heard's announcement last night, police and Texas Rangers took Nelson on a wide tour of the area between Houston and Rosenberg in search of the spot he says he and the man hid explosives and bomb-making material. Heard said if wire and caps were found they would be compared with material found in the wrecked Weaver automobile.

Officers said Nelson, under a burglary charge, was first linked with the Weaver case by tips supplied Detective H. K. Thompson and Heard.

Officers said Nelson was identified in Rosenberg by Allen Titel,

Police Capt. Cecil Priest said Titel also identified from a photograph the man whom Nelson said accompanied him when he bought the bomb material. The second man, Titel told officers, helped load the explosives in a 1952 Ford. Washburn was charged after two men told police he gave them money, guns and a car last March and told them to kill Harry E. Weaver, the slain ranchwoman's husband.

The pair quoted Washburn as saying, "I'll do it myself, then, after they refused to carry out the plan.

Earlier Start For Vote-Getting Drive

By NORMAN WALKER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — With both political parties planning a shorter presidential campaign in 1956, AFL leaders expect an earlier start in trying to whip up political interest among workers.

Union chiefs of the 10-million-member AFL plan to devote today's session of their winter meetings to mapping strategy for next year's election campaign. James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Education, the AFL's political arm, said that if the two parties hold 1956 nominating conventions in August as indicated, instead of July as in 1952, the AFL will step up its vote-getting drive.

McDevitt said the AFL collected and spent its largest political funds in history in the last election. He did not say how much, but the AFL has adopted a plan of assessing unions and collecting contributions from members on an annual basis, rather than only in election years.

Under the law, the contributions can be used to help candidates, but the union treasury assessment may be used only to "educate" union members on political issues. That the AFL is still inclined toward the Democratic party was evident in comments made yesterday by AFL President George Meany to reporters. Asked how he felt about President Eisenhower's administration, Meany replied: "I feel the administration is definitely pro-business to the extent that the welfare of the great mass of workers of this country is being completely ignored, any statements of the President to the contrary notwithstanding."

CHICAGO — Billy Jennings, 6, of Trumbull, Conn., has been chosen 1955 Easter Seal Child by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. It's his picture you'll see on posters and billboards in the society's fund drive March 10 through April 10.

Queried Again In Rubinstein Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Estelle Gardner, 26, brunette model who was a guest in financier Serge Rubinstein's 5th Avenue mansion a few hours before he was slain, has been questioned for a third time in police efforts to solve the mystery murder.

She was questioned last night after cab driver Abe Lewis told police he had picked up a woman fare near the Rubinstein home shortly before 2 a.m. last Thursday. This is the time the model said she left the millionaire playboy after having a goodnight drink with him.

But Lewis could not identify Miss Gardner as his fare. Between 2 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. when Rubinstein's pajama-clad body was found in his bedroom by the family butler, the murderer or murderers gained access to the locked and barred house and gagged, trussed and strangled the 46-year-old World War II draft dodger.

Stanley T. Stanley, a broker friend, yesterday denied he had furnished police with a list of 10 of the slain man's business foes for possible questioning.

Police say they have checked through about three quarters of 1,000 names appearing in half a dozen address books kept by Rubinstein.

DYNAMITE MISSING
KONOSU, Japan (AP) — Police are looking for 300 sticks of dynamite missing from a load of 1,800 sticks that spilled from an overturned truck. Passers-by picked up some of them. Police are worried because they resemble kairo sticks, a fuel which Japanese use in portable warmers.

One recent study shows that the average American man walks nine miles a day and the average woman 10.

Young Formosans Train Hard In Chiang's Army

By JIM BECKER
TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Motorcades of young Chinese Nationalist army draftees snake through the streets of this capital city daily on their way to rugged infantry training.

The automobiles bearing the young draftees—90 per cent of them native Formosans—are festooned with bright banners calling for a staunch defense of Formosa. The draftees pitch out crackling strings of firecrackers.

After their big sendoff, the men are loaded on trains and taken to Nationalist training camps, where their terms of service range from 3 to 10 months. Younger soldiers get the longer terms.

Draft age is 18 to 44 but the vast majority of draftees appear to be the minimum age.

The Nationalists say 100,000 men have been drafted for this service in the last five years. After their training is complete, the men are released but are kept in the army reserve.

Training in many units is crisp and efficient. Chinese Army units are organized from battalion down almost exactly like American units, and are equipped with the same weapons and vehicles.

The troops wear the dull green fatigue uniforms of U.S. soldiers but the suits are altered to the high-neck Chinese style for both officers and men. Training is heavy on camouflage.

The training of many units is checked by a rough week in the field on night and day maneuvers.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache, feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to food or wrong diet may cause frequent urination or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the thousands of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market displayed a lower trend today with selective demand creating a somewhat irregular appearance.

Gains and losses spread over a 2-point range with few exceptions.

Trading was at a moderate pace well under yesterday's $210,000 when the market was declining.

In a lower category were steels, oils, and electrical equipments. Railroads were a trifle higher on balance. And gains were shown in radio-televisions, rubbers, and mail order shares. Other divisions were mixed including motors, coppers, and aircrafts.

Bell Aircraft unveiled its new vertical take-off jet plane, and that started an immediate scramble for stock of the company. Trading was well into the second hour before the stock opened for trading on a block of 20,000 shares up 1 1/2 at 29 1/2. It soon stretched its gain to 4 points.

There was considerable activity in Mack Trucks at higher prices including a block of 3,500 shares up 1 1/2 at 23.

Northwest Airlines which got government approval for Pacific routes but not on a permanent basis, sold lower including a block of 2,200 shares off 3/4 at 18 1/2.

Mendes-France In Grave Danger

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government was in grave danger tonight.

Radical Socialist Rene Mayer told Mendes-France, a fellow party member, that he would vote against him in the present debate on the Premier's North African policy.

Mayer's decision probably means the crumbling of Mendes-France's majority in the National Assembly and the downfall of his government.

Mayer spoke to a hushed Assembly at the start of the second day of debate on the North African question. He was applauded frequently by what appeared to be more than half of the approximately 350 deputies present, joining in the applause seemed to be many followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who also has supported Mendes-France in the past.

Maver in the dramatic conclusion of his hour-long speech, addressed the Premier directly and said "In the past you have often asked for a renewal of confidence. In this case I cannot renew mine."

Sees Automatic Entry In Fight

SEOUL (AP)—Defense Minister Sohn Won Il today said South Korea's armed forces might automatically join the United States in case of a shooting war with Communist China.

He told a news conference that such action would be justified by the recently ratified U.S.-South Korean Mutual Security Treaty in which both countries agree to come to each other's aid in time of attack.

Senate Approves Right Of Arrest

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a measure to allow peace officers to make arrests without warrants in misdemeanor cases and approved a resolution calling for a study of the problem of senatorial redistricting.

The Senate resolution on redistricting, which does not need House action to be effective, provides for the appointment by Senate President Luther Barnhardt of a commission of nine senators to study the redistricting problem and to report in 45 days.

Sen. E. L. Owens of Washington County opposed the resolution, saying, "This is a bad bill" because "all county rights can be involved."

Sen. Cameron S. Weeks of Edgecombe, however pointed out that the resolution as amended does not call for the commission to propose redistricting legislation—merely to make a report on the subject.

"It doesn't say we're going to redistrict," he said, "and it doesn't say we're not going to redistrict."

The State Constitution says that both Senate and House shall reallocate their seats after every federal census, but this has not been done since the 1950 census. In the general election last November the voters defeated a proposed constitutional amendment under which no county could ever have more than one senator regardless of how much its population grows. If the state were redistricted according to present population levels some of the state's larger counties would be entitled to more than one senator. Under the present districting no county has more than one of the state's 50 seats.

would be deployed toward Formosa or north toward Manchuria in case of such a war, Sohn said.

Truman Points To 'Alternative'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former President Truman, urging the world to work for the brotherhood of man, said last night, "If peace doesn't come, there will be no world left."

"We are facing the greatest age in history," Truman said. "We must meet it. All we need to do is meet the situation with which we are faced, and we should meet it on the principles of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

"If peace doesn't come, there will be no world left. You are listening to one who knows what he is talking about and I say that advisedly."

Truman, later in his speech, said he had reference to the use of atomic energy. He was the main speaker at a testimonial dinner honoring the Rev. Dr. Harold L. Reader, a fellow 33rd degree Scottish Rites Mason.

Talking with reporters after the dinner, Truman wouldn't comment on the Formosan situation "as a matter of policy," but said reporters could see he didn't appear worried about the Pacific.

"The man in the White House has my sincere sympathy," he said.

Court Lists 194 Cases In January

Greenville Municipal Recorder's Court Clerk E. Johnston DeLoach reports for January to City Council show that the court disposed of 194 cases, and 141 of the defendants pleaded guilty or were convicted.

The report shows that there were 16 acquittals; cases dismissed, combined or not prossed, 15; cases sent to Superior Court, 14; and cases in which defendants were called and failed to answer, eight.

Fifteen defendants were given time to pay fines and costs in the amount of $251.40.

Five defendants also had been given time to pay fines and costs $79.30 paid in full, the report shows.

Disbursements of the court for January; Paid to City Clerk H. H. Duncan (court costs), $1,345.60; paid to Pitt county auditor (court fines), $444; paid to N. C. State Treasurer, $538; paid to Pitt County Peace Officers Association, $119, and $5 paid for witness fees in case No. 9752. Total—$2,151.60.

Tiny Tube Could Replace Costly Coaxial Cable

NEW YORK (AP)—Bell Telephone scientists are working on a small, hollow metal tube which will radiatively step up transmission of television impulses and telephone calls over long distances.

Bell Laboratories announced yesterday that successful experiments have been used employing a flexible metallic tube about two inches in diameter and with a hollow center.

"The tube itself is not solid metal but is made of thin, tightly coiled copper wire wrapped inside a flexible coating that holds the wire in place.

The present coaxial cable has a copper wire running down the center. The new wave-guide transmission, experiments show would carry many times the capacity of present coaxial cables and microwave radio relay systems.

REPORT CARDS SOUGHT

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP)—A group of Grand Haven parents has petitioned the school board to return to the report card system for pupils in elementary grades. Report cards were abandoned in favor of a parent-teacher conference system. The petitioners said they wanted to see how Junior was doing—on paper.

Sees No Chance For Red Ideology In Latin America

DALLAS (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower says communism hasn't a chance in Latin America as long as its people "can achieve their just economic aspirations."

How the United States is helping along this line is expected to take up much of a speech tonight by Dr. Eisenhower, adviser to his brother, the President, on Latin America before the Dulles Council on World Affairs.

The talk has been billed as a major review of U.S. policy in Latin America.

Dr. Eisenhower said at a news conference that he was satisfied with the ways his proposals have been received.

C-of-C Committees In 1955 Listed By Moseley

A list of committee appointments for 1955 has just been announced by Chamber of Commerce president Bancroft F. Moseley.

Moseley has named 88 of the Chamber's 329 members to ten committees, and letters have been sent out to these members advising them of their appointments and their duties, and including a roster of those on each committee.

In his letter Moseley states each committee member was selected on the basis of his "interest in the future of Greenville, ability to do things and get a job done, and willingness to devote time and effort needed for accomplishment."

Members of the Executive Committee are J. B. Kittrell Jr., B. E. Sugg Jr., vice presidents of the Chamber of Commerce; W. H. Woolard Jr., treasurer; Charles O. E. Horne Jr., W. H. Taft, and J. E. Waldrop. Moseley serves as chairman of this committee.

Members of the Finance Committee, which prepares a budget and supervises finances for the organization, are W. H. Woolard Jr., chairman; W. W. Speight, vice chairman; Morris Brody, James L. Harris and Bert T. Tumbell.

Members of the eight project committees include: Agriculture: Daniel R. Saleed, chairman; Hugh C. Winslow, vice chairman; A. R. Barrett, Elton H. Byrum, B. B. Drum, W. C. Eagles, C. J. Goodman, F. P. Expects Trouble From Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said last night that Communist China, even if it agrees to discuss a Formosa cease-fire, may "at the same time" launch attacks on some Nationalist-held islands off China.

Knowland, the Republican Senate leader, told a GOP rally at nearby Potomac, Md., that "the mere fact they negotiate is no guarantee that they may not use the same time to cause us trouble."

He said the Communists have often accompanied diplomatic talks with military action in the affected areas.

The United Nations Security Council has asked Red China to discuss a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait, and some administration leaders believe that country may accept.

Knowland told the GOP rally the Chinese Reds "will not be satisfied with any such price" as the yielding of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces.

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday that American plans for Quemoy and Matsu are tactical details about which the government cannot afford to be too specific.

Asked specifically about Chiang's request for a public reassurance that the two island groups would be defended, the President said his representatives and those of Chiang are in constant contact "and not always do our views exactly coincide."

Until the end of feudalism in Japan the art of jiu-jitsu, was taught only to the nobility and guarded as a secret from other groups.

Enlistments In January Hit High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military services got more than 60,000 voluntary enlistments in January, the largest number to join up in any month since the end of the Korea War.

Preliminary enlistment figures made available by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps today showed a total of 60,339 against a January 1954 total of 38,392 and a figure of 22,383 for December.

The services attributed this big spurt in enlistment in part to an announcement in December that special GI benefits offered during the war in Korea would end for any man not in uniform by the end of January.

Officers said also that the measures already taken and urged by the administration to attract career military men have had some effect on inducing youths to sign up before they were drafted.

The Army last month enlisted an estimated 25,000 men. This compared with a monthly range in 1954 of from 5,000 to 10,500. The Navy exceeded its January quota of 15,500. Last year its highest monthly enlistment was 12,000 and its lowest 3,800. The Air Force in January enlisted 17,914 against a 1954 average of less than 13,000 each month.

The Marine Corps also exceeded its quota of 1,925, but failed to exceed the monthly average of last year, when the Corps was still increasing its size. The Marine Corps, like the Army and Navy is now due to drop back in total numbers under President Eisenhower's revised goals.

House Wildlife Group Has Hearing; No Action

RALEIGH (AP)—The House Wildlife Committee held a hearing but took no action today on bills which would restore short term, nonresident fishing licenses to $1.10 per day or $2.60 for five days.

Two bills were before the committee. One by Rep. Joe Fowler Jr. of Surry would not apply to trout streams while the other, by Rep. Kelly Bennett of Swain, would.

In 1953 the Legislature passed a Fowler bill which jacked up the rate nonresidents would have to pay to $6.10 with no short term provisions.

Fowler told the packed committee room it costs the Wildlife Resources Commission 44 cents to raise a trout or about $2.04 per pound. The fish don't replenish themselves in Tar Heel streams, so the money obtained from fishing license fees goes to raising them.

Dr. Bennett, from the tourist conscious far west, said that since 1953 the area had been hard hit dollarwise because out of states who previously came to fish no longer came because of the high license fees.

Bennett also declared it was not his intention to divert the license fees which would be obtained under his bill to the Conservation and Development Department instead of the self-supporting Wildlife Commission.

Fowler read a letter from an unidentified member of the attorney general's staff who had helped draw up Bennett's bill. The letter suggested amending the bill to make it clear that there would be no diversion of money if the bill were enacted. Bennett was in agreement.

Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson, who said he supported Bennett's measure said he knew of two cars containing three couples each which did not stop at Lake Fontana recently because of the present nonresident fishing license fee. He said putting up two codes of conduct, one for trout and another for other fish, would be confusing. Fred Frick of Hickory, leading a delegation from Catawba County and a founder of the State Wildlife Federation, presented a petition which he said had 1,166 signatures obtained since yesterday supporting Fowler's bill. "Give us a week and we can get 10,000," he told the committee.

John R. McLaughlin of Statesville who was head of the Inland Fisheries Division of the Conservation and Development Department before the Wildlife Commission was created in 1947, also spoke in favor of Fowler's measure.

He said, "We want tourists. We want to give them the right hand of fellowship. . . . But we don't want fishing license money to go to the Conservation and Development Department. Wildlife Commission license fees, if the money is not diverted, are matched approximately 4 to 1 by the federal government."

Others who spoke in favor of Fowler's bill were Phil Ellis of Raleigh, secretary-treasurer of the N.C. Outdoor Writers Assn. and Chester Davis, Winston-Salem newspaper man who is a vice president of the organization and president of the Forsyth Wildlife Club.

Supporting Bennett's measure were M. M. Nelson, executive secretary of the N.C. Restaurant Assn., and Mrs. Maude S. Morrow, executive secretary of the State Motel Assn.

Red Letter Day

Yesterday was one of those rare days in the annals of the Greenville Police Department, with no arrests or charges made within the city limits for the entire 24-hour period.

Yesterday was also the first day in at least two months that no arrests or charges were made against individuals. Such red letter days usually occur only 6 or 7 times a year.
