Shakeup Bringing No U. S. Changes

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the shakeup in the Soviet high command reflects internal dissipation in Russia.

Eisenhower said it is going according to plan and should be completed soon. Referring to Communist anti-aircraft fire that brought down the U.S. Navy plane yesterday in the Tachens area, Eisenhower said it was the plane that, as he put it, got a little lost—wandered off into a bad area.

The President said at a news conference the shakeup will bring no change in basic United States policy aimed at achieving a just and lasting peace. And, the President said, he does not believe the developments necessarily mean that Russia has launched on a calculated tougher policy toward the United States.

But, he added, the Russians will say anything which suits their purposes and the United States must remain alert. Eisenhower recalled that he became acquainted with Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov during World War II and knew him as a competent soldier—a well trained military leader.

But Eisenhower said he could scarcely interpret what the appointment of Zhukov as Soviet defense minister means so far as the possibility of world peace is concerned. Most questions at the President's well attended news conference—there were 230 newsmen present—dealt with the reshuffle in the Soviet government.

The questions developed these points: ATOMIC WEAPONS—Eisenhower said there certainly is no proof Russia has surpassed the United States in development of the hydrogen bomb and other atomic weapons. This was in response to a request for comment on Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's assertion yesterday that hydrogen bomb development by Russia has been so successful that it could make the United States appear backward in that field.

Eisenhower said it would be a remarkable feat if the Soviets have achieved superiority after starting behind the United States. He added the matter was not worth speculation. FORMOSA—The chief executive said it would be idle to speculate on the possibility of a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait inasmuch as Red China rejected a United Nations bid to discuss the matter and instead issued a very bellicose statement.

As for evacuation of the Chinese Nationalist Tachen Islands under protection of the U. S. 7th Fleet, Eisenhower went on to say that any man who has served his government in high places certainly should be of some value to his country. He said he believes former Presidents are always available for whatever service they can perform.

But, Eisenhower added, he would have no real objection to enactment of such legislation if some people feel there should be some formal action on the matter.

Malenkov Assigned To Relatively Minor Post In Government

Zhukov Named New Soviet Defense Chief

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi K. Zhukov, top Soviet military hero and a warm wartime acquaintance of President Eisenhower, was appointed the new defense minister of the Soviet Union today. Immediately after the announcement, the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) was informed that Georgi K. Malenkov, who resigned yesterday as premier, has been named a deputy premier and minister of power stations.

He spoke just before the appointments of Malenkov and Zhukov were announced. Both appointments were unanimously approved by a show of hands of the 1,300-member Parliament's joint session in the great Kremlin Palace. Bulganin occupied the defense ministry post until this afternoon when he asked Parliament to relieve him.

Today's sessions spotlighted another outstanding Soviet war hero, Marshal Ivan S. Konev, who headed the tribunal that condemned the secret police chief, L. P. Beria, to death in December, 1953. In an address to the cheering Parliament, he asserted that the U.S.S.R.'s armed forces have "all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of aggressors."

Zhukov has been a first deputy minister of defense. He emerged to great prominence since the death of Stalin, after a period in virtual eclipse after the end of World War II. A glittering hero of Berlin, Zhukov is known and respected throughout the Soviet Union and his name is well known throughout the non-Communist world. He has been considered a rising influence in the Soviet Union ever since the death of Stalin.

Malenkov succeeds A. S. Pavlenko in the new ministry. Pavlenko was dismissed. Malenkov's appointment emphasizes the determination of this regime to carry out its heavy industry and defense industry programs rather than concentrate on the production of consumer goods, a program first promulgated by Malenkov in August, 1953. Great applause greeted the changes.

The changes gave added significance to the words of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov who yesterday in a 2½-hour speech, laid down a tough Soviet foreign policy which denounced the United States as an aggressor nation and warned that the Soviet Union had made strides in hydrogen bomb production which made the United States look laggard. "Our army represents a mighty force which fully answers the demands and characteristics of modern war," he continued. "If the imperialists dare to attack our motherland, the Soviet armed forces have at their disposal all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of the aggressors."

Bulletin

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Negotiating committees for the AFL and CIO today agreed to a historic merger of their rival labor union groups into a single powerful federation. The agreement to end the 20-year-old split within organized labor was reached by two three-member subcommittees representing the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The merger pact is due to be ratified this afternoon by ten-member committees of each organization.

A bulldozer was pushing on a tree seven or eight inches in diameter and the tree apparently came back over the blade striking Harding on the chin. The force of the blow caused the back of his head to strike the bulldozer, fracturing his skull. Harding apparently died almost instantly, Tyson, who investigated along with Coroner Griffin Rouse, reported.

Working with Harding at the time was H. N. Dunbar, also of Washington, who said he was working about 100 yards away when the accident occurred. Dunbar said he saw Harding lying on the seat of the bulldozer and rushed over to him. However, Dunbar stated, Harding died about the time he reached him. Tyson declared that the tree evidently knocked the machine out of gear, as it was idling when Dunbar reached the bulldozer.

The pair were working for J. S. Hill Construction Company of Washington. Coroner Rouse ruled the death accidental and said no inquest will be held.

Antiaircraft Guns Hit Bomber Off Tachens; Crew Rescued

Chinese Shoot Down Navy Plane

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Communist antiaircraft batteries today shot down a U.S. Navy AD Skyraider in the first serious incident reported in the Tachen Islands evacuation of Chinese Nationalists.

The Navy said the carrier-based plane had "mishandled" and possibly had flown over the Red Chinese mainland. The pilot ditched four miles west of the Tachens. He and two crew members were picked up by a Nationalist ship. They suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

An officer aboard the amphibious flagship USS Estes said the Navy does not consider the incident "a hostile act" because "the AD apparently made too wide a turn and was off-limits."

The pilot was Lt. J.G. W. J. O'Heren of Decatur, Ill., and Coronado, Calif. His crewmen were Chief Aviation Technician A. J. Cheliewski of Casper, Wyo., and Imperial Beach, Calif.; and Aviation Machinist Mate R. E. Drennan of San Diego.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Navy completed loading the last organized group of civilian evacuees on South Tachen early today and began taking Nationalist soldiers off the islands. Officers said 13,900 civilians had been removed. A few scattered groups in the hills will be embarked as soon as possible.

At Keelung, a north Formosan port, 3,753 Tachen islanders departed and headed for resettlement centers. They are the first evacuees to reach Formosa from the threatened islands 200 miles north since the U.S. 7th Fleet moved in to cover the operation.

Refugees spilled ashore on the docks. Their faces mirrored homesickness for the two bleak islands which the Red Chinese coveted. U. S. sailors shepherded them ashore. They carried 40 sick and wounded Nationalists off the ship in stretchers. American and Nationalist volunteers greeted the refugees. They handed out food, tea, soap, towels and wash basins.

Most of the 15,000 or more civilians on the Tachens were loaded on ships before last midnight, the Defense Ministry said. Behind them they left about 15,000 Nationalist troops and guerrillas who blasted and burned defense works. The Communists would get only scorched earth on the Tachens.

Ralph Boyce of the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration, who returned from the Tachens, said only one islander, an opium peddler, wanted to remain behind. Refugees streaming into Keelung carried small bundles of treasured possessions on their backs. Twenty-six school buildings were turned into temporary shelters. Trains and trucks will shuttle the refugees into resettlement centers and eventually into new homes.

Boyce estimated the cost of resettlement would exceed six million dollars. One man of about 40 carried a bundle of household possessions on his back along with his father, who looked about 80. The old mother could still walk and she toted quite a load. The wife also had a load of possessions and one child. Two small children followed each carrying a back load. The kids were poptey. Each dutifully waved a little red flag containing a political slogan. They were sprinkled with DDT, which accented the age and patches of their clothing.

Scouts Urge Bond Issue For Swimming Pools

The Boy Scout city council which took over the city yesterday afternoon would call for a bond issue to provide swimming pools for local citizens. The youthful council voted unanimously to approve that measure yesterday afternoon as it met with the assistance of Mayor Pro-tem Gene West and Councilmen Westly Harvey and J. A. Collins.

Also approved was the repair of sidewalks at Third and Reade Streets. The group discussed the banning of trucks from Reade Street in front of the high school and asked City Manager James S. Hughes if that could be done. Hughes told the group that a recent police department survey had shown a large portion of the trucks were making local deliveries and must use that route due to the one-way street system.

Council members discussed the showers in the city jail. They pointed out that drains are in the center of the floor and water runs over the entire floor. They also discussed the need for more Yield Right-of-Way signs at local street intersections. The boys' city council meeting climaxed an afternoon in which Boy Scouts took over offices of city officials as a part of an observance of Boy Scout Week.

"I think it was a very good thing for them," Councilman J. A. Collins commented this morning. "They learned more about government affairs that way than they would from books." Collins said he was glad to work with the scouts on the project. "I noticed the boys seemed to be interested in some of the things that no doubt need to be done around Greenville," the councilman declared.

Serving as mayor for yesterday's event was Gene Brown of Sea Explorer Ship 1. The council members were: George White, Troop 20; Charles Howe, Troop 36; Pete Eason, Troop 205; and John Carr Dixon, Troop 124.

Angus Duff of Post 30 was superintendent of public works yesterday afternoon; Preston Jarvis of Ship 1 was city manager; Robert Taft, Troop 30; police chief; Billy Forrest, Troop 33; city clerk; Bill Moore, Troop 205, fish chief of Post 30 sat on the bench with Judge Charles H. Wiedbe to serve as city judge.

Working with Harding at the time was H. N. Dunbar, also of Washington, who said he was working about 100 yards away when the accident occurred. Dunbar said he saw Harding lying on the seat of the bulldozer and rushed over to him. However, Dunbar stated, Harding died about the time he reached him. Tyson declared that the tree evidently knocked the machine out of gear, as it was idling when Dunbar reached the bulldozer.

Bulldozed Tree Falls And Kills Washington Man

A Washington man was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when a tree crashed over the blade of the bulldozer which he was operating and hit him in the face. Killed in the accident was Orrin Wilbur Harding of 210 East Eighth Street, Washington. He was married and has one child.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Harding was operating a bulldozer clearing land on the Blount Dairy Farm near Bethel when the accident occurred. The machine was pushing on a tree seven or eight inches in diameter and the tree apparently came back over the blade striking Harding on the chin. The force of the blow caused the back of his head to strike the bulldozer, fracturing his skull.

Harding apparently died almost instantly, Tyson, who investigated along with Coroner Griffin Rouse, reported. Working with Harding at the time was H. N. Observers Believe Malenkov Will Die

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Some American officials who study the ways of the Kremlin believe that Georgi Malenkov, who lost his job yesterday, is destined also to lose his life. They held to this view despite surface indications from Moscow that the resigned Premier remains on good terms with Soviet rulers and plans to take on another government post.

These officials see it as only a question of time until Malenkov is done away with. This would be in the tradition of Joseph Stalin, whose way of doing things apparently is back in vogue in the Kremlin. The struggle for Stalin's mantle goes on just the same, as American sources see it. They figure Nikita S. Khrushchev, the tough

Many Attend Ground Observer Meet

Tentative plans for organizing a Greenville Ground Observer Corps were discussed last night in a meeting of local citizens in the city hall. It was concluded that at least 200 volunteers will be needed to keep the corps on a 24-hour a day basis. Pitt County Civil Defense Director J.H. Rose said that a quota of volunteers from various civic organizations will be set in the near future. The headquarters for the Greenville Ground Observer Corps will be in the Pitt County American Legion Building near the airport. A film was shown to the group last night depicting methods of civil defense against enemy bombs.

Rose said that Ground Observer Corps units are being organized in Greenville and Grimesland to supplement those already organized in Grifton, Bethel, Farmville, Falkland, Ayden, and Stokes. A superintendent of the Greenville unit will be named in the near future.

Utilities Begin Renovating Of Water Tanks, Reports Bloxam

Work of sealing and re-painting the interiors of the city's water tanks was recently begun, Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam reported last night. The Utilities Commission last night. Bloxam said that workmen are presently renovating the Chestnut Street tank and had found it to be in very poor shape. He said a portion of the tank seams had to be re-welded and a large amount of rust was removed from the tank. "We are going ahead with the re-lining of the tanks," he declared.

Bloxam pointed out that the hurricane has shown the street lighting system in Vanceboro was in poor condition and the system has been completely re-vamped since that time. A meeting of utilities superintendents was held recently, Bloxam reported and the superintendents were given an opportunity to air the problems which they encountered.

Forwarded for induction in the regular call were volunteers Robert Eugene Stocks, Greenville, both white; and Willie Gold Wooten, Macclesfield; Willie Zell Corprew, Greenville; and Joe Lacy Randolph, Jr., Greenville, Negroes. William Marvin Boyd, white, of Greenville, was forwarded for induction as a draftee. Pre-induction delinquents who will be ordered for induction in March are Gus Wells, Jr., Greenville; William Arthur Perkins, Greenville Rt. 4; Allen Lee Harris, Greenville Rt. 1; Willie Lee Foreman, Greenville; and Baltimore, Md.; Milton Howard, Bethel; Leroy Junior Sutton, Greenville Rt. 5; James Earl Champron, Ayden; Jessie James Cherry, Greenville Rt. 5; Alfred B. Wiggins, Winterville Rt. 1 and Baltimore, Md.; James O. Little, Greenville Rt. 4 and Peterson, N.J.; and Earl Spain, Greenville and Baltimore, Md. Officials at the local Selective Service office reported there have been an unusually large number of delinquents recently, but this was attributed to the fact that men in 4-F classification are now being called for examination, and a large number have failed to notify the board of address changes. It was revealed that since September, 17 delinquents have been reported to the district U.S. attorney for investigation by the FBI.

The boy city council posed for pictures yesterday afternoon shortly before they met for their first and only session. Looking on are regular council members. The boy council members are, from left to right: John C. Dixon, Mayor Gene Brown, George White, Pete Eason and Charles Howe. Looking on are Councilman J. A. Collins, Mayor Pro-tem, Gene Taylor.

Dr. Binkley To Talk At ECC

Dr. O. T. Binkley, professor of sociology and ethics at Southeastern Seminary, Wake Forest, was guest speaker before faculty and student organizations at East Carolina College Monday of this week.

At an afternoon meeting he spoke to members of the Baptist Student Union on "The Good Life in College." Addressing members of the Faculty Lecture Club, he discussed Monday night "The Teacher as a Moral Leader."

The teacher, he told faculty members and their guests, stands "on the front line" of intelligence and conscience and articulates the moral norms and ideals by which human conduct is guided and tested.

Through the influence of the teacher, he continued, fear-motivated behavior can be replaced by goal-motivated behavior. This shift in emphasis, he said, invites an attitude of trust and faith in the power of truth and the potentialities of the common man.

Dr. Binkley told the Baptist students that in seeking the good life, "Nothing can take the place of honest, systematic hard work." It is of great importance to the student, he continued, to have an appreciation for friendship and fellowship and a respect for the worth of the individual. He stressed the need of a vital religious faith.

In Memoriam
In Memory of My Son, Larry M. Allen, Who Died February 9, 1947

Dear God, eight years ago today you took my only son away. I know he is at rest; dear God you knew best. He was here on earth just thirty-seven years. Now, dear God, he is out of his troubles and tears. Some day I hope to meet him face to face, and we shall know as we are known. Dear God, I miss him in every way, and his memory is with me every day. Dear son, you left me with a broken heart. Someday, I hope we will be together, where we will never part. Son, you were a good boy, and often filled my heart with joy; but the Lord knew best and took you home to rest.

Struggle For Power Still Evident

The internal struggle for power still goes on in the Kremlin. Malenkov's sudden resignation and the appointment of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin as premier of the Soviet Union has caught the world by surprise—probably equally as much as would the resignation of President Eisenhower or the abdication of Queen Elizabeth. It is difficult to read between the lines of Kremlin politics, but several factors come to the fore in pondering the new Soviet situation and its repercussions on the free world. In the first place why did Malenkov resign? The reasons given in his address to the Supreme Soviet have a hollow sound. It is our guess he was pushed, but apparently by new tactics which show a striking departure from the routine extermination long practiced in the Kremlin. Evidently Malenkov's hold on the Kremlin was not as strong as most of the world thought when he came to power 12 hours after Stalin's death. Evidently his removal of Beria caused a temporary alliance of Malenkov enemies in the Kremlin who have now brought out his downfall. Another surprising thing is that the number one Communist in Russia, Khrushchev, was not made premier. He has risen rapidly to occupy the top place in the Soviet controlled press in recent months and is recognized as the controlling power in the Communist party. Is Bulganin to be a front man for Khrushchev? Under the new leadership Russia may be expected to increase its emphasis on the military and at the same time intensify its program of expansion into territories still outside communist domination. Bulganin has headed the powerful Russian military program for more than a decade and may be expected to continue to push for greater military might of the Soviet Union. We can see nothing in the change in Kremlin leadership which indicates a more peaceful policy of Russia toward the free world, or an easing of international tension. If anything, the new Kremlin rulers appear to us more belligerently inclined than was the case under the Malenkov regime. The most encouraging sign we can see in the sudden change is the clear indication the struggle for power still rages in the Kremlin, and that internal struggle may eventually bring about the ultimate overthrow of the Russian warlords.

A Windfall For Speeders Proposed

A bill now before the legislature threatens to scuttle at least a portion of the effective psychological warfare the State Highway Patrol and other law enforcement groups have been waging against speeding motorists. Passage of the bill might open the flood gates to tie up officers in unnecessary red tape it could practically paralyze the overall safety program. The bill introduced by Reps. Thomas White of Lenoir and Thomas Turner of Guilford provides that evidence obtained by the use of radar and other speed checking devices could not be used in court unless "it shall have been established by expert testimony." That such a device was at the time of its use properly installed; that it was in good operating condition; and that it was being operated by an "experienced skilled and trained person." Such legislation would give attorneys a wide scope of argument in defending clients charged with speeding. They could argue at great length about installation of the device, the merits of its operating condition, and the degree of experience of the operator, without ever getting around to the important question of whether the defendant was actually violating the speed laws of the state. Frankly, we can see no advantage in this proposed legislation so far as the welfare of the people of the state is concerned. Considering the widespread use of speed checking devices in North Carolina, there have been mighty few complaints about the accuracy of the devices, and the integrity of the men operating them. Officers who operate speed checking devices are seeking to apprehend people who are violating the speed laws—not drag innocent victims into the already crowded courts. In our opinion the Department of Motor Vehicles keeps a close vigil on its speed checking devices for the protection of motorists. It would certainly be ill advised to set up an entanglement of legalistic red tape which would serve more the interests of the speed violators than it would the welfare of the people of the state as a whole.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
"AUTHORITIES"
Do you put great confidence in authorities? If so, forget it. All gods have clay feet. There is not a wise man in the whole history of the human race who did not make certain egregious and incredible mistakes. Edison was certainly one of the greatest geniuses the race has produced. Yet, Edison looked at the phonograph as a toy and declared that it could never have any real and lasting value. Certain men in his day insisted that electricity might be used as power for street cars. He told them to forget the idea for it was not feasible. He lived, of course, to see electricity employed in this and in hundreds of other ways, but in the beginning, he had no faith in such procedure.

We are all at the mercy of specialists. When we fall ill, we have to put ourselves in the hands of physicians, and they probably make the same percentage of mistakes that everybody else does. In legal matters we have to trust lawyers who sometimes stumble and fall over the tiniest legal matters. We read the forecasts of business advisers, who get great sums of money for predictions which usually rate a low batting average. Specialists are necessary, but let us never get the idea that they are infallible. We have to do our own thinking on every subject. God gave us our brains with the expectation that we would use them.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The startling shifts in major American diplomatic and military strategy within the last few years have provoked a somewhat staid Congressional investigation behind the closed doors of Capitol Hill Committee rooms. Although no partisan spirit motivates these inquiries, the indirect and inevitable target is President D. Eisenhower. Key legislators charged with supervision of national defense problems and preparation cannot make head nor tail of the confusion and inconsistency which, in their opinion, have characterized our world program, especially in the Far East. Indeed, foreign representatives along Washington's diplomatic row are equally bewildered.

CLOSED-DOOR QUIZ—For security reasons, there will be no single, sensational and open investigation that will reveal publicly the doubts and divisions and differences that beset the Pentagon, Congress and our Allies. That would give aid and comfort to the enemy. But the appropriate House-Senate committees dealing with these subjects are quizzing top military and diplomatic experts off the record. Under Eisenhower's non-secrecy policy, which unsaid General Matthew B. Ridgway's lips in opposition to reduction of ground forces, they are getting honest and frank answers, perhaps for the first time in many years.

Policy Shifts Draw Criticism

Confusing Advice

CONFUSING ADVICE—The committee members are asking the same questions which must puzzle every newspaper reader—namely, why have the so-called top-level strategists given such conflicting and confusing advice to Congress and the White House, especially on the Far Eastern problem? Here are only a few of the vagaries which beset and upset Capitol Hill. Only five years ago, then President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson wrote off Chiang Kai-shek as a hopeless and discredited leader. They withdrew all aid from him after the Marshall mission, thereby enabling the Communists to force him to evacuate to Formosa. Now, Chiang and Formosa have become so important that he may go to war to defend him and his island refuge. FIVE YEARS AGO—When Chiang established his regime on Formosa, Truman said early in January, 1950: "The United States will not provide military aid to the Chinese forces on Formosa." A week later, Acheson publicly proclaimed that our Far Eastern defense line ran through the Japanese Ryukyus and Philippine Islands. He omitted Korea and Formosa. But when this invitation led to the North Korean Communists' attack on South Korea six months later, Truman committed the U. S. to a "police action" which resulted in a major conflict, with U. S. 140,000 casualties. Truman also ordered the Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa against a similar invasion by the Chinese Communists. Now, despite the earlier depreciation of Formosa as essential to our security, the U. S. may defend islands which lie within artillery range of the Chinese mainland—Guamoy and Matsuo and the Tachens. Even though there has been a change in Administration, the policy makers and advisers have carried on at the Pentagon and State. Indeed, Dulles served Truman. ARMY REDUCTION—In a major address, Dulles proclaimed the new strategy of "massive retaliation" by air, naval and atomic power. But when he, three members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council urged application of this policy in Indo-China, Eisenhower disagreed. He accepted the contrary advice of General Ridgway, who insisted that ground troops would be needed. As a result of Communist aggression and semi-defeats in Korea and Indo-China, the U. S. has extended and enlarged its commitments. Many of these pledges cover areas where air and naval power alone cannot achieve complete victory. And yet, over Ridgway's protest, Eisenhower proposes that the ground arm be cut by 145,000 men. It is admitted that use of atomic weapons against an Asian people—Red China—will turn that continent's 600,000,000 people into a hostile and anti-American camp. Even conventional bombing might have the same effect. But nobody knows, certainly not Congress, what our strategy and tactics will be. But they intend to find out!

Why Borrow Money?

Somebody Told Me

Lots Of Talk, But Efficient

The other day I was talking to a friend who works in a group of women. My first question was: "How does it feel to work around such pleasant scenery?" He had to admit that it was great, but the problems that arise sometimes tend to reduce the delightful scenery. Mainly it's talking instead of working. "You can put a woman to work by herself and she'll do wonders. Then, bring in another woman and they work half the time and talk the other half." But this gentleman stood up for the general efficiency. "There are some who can talk and still turn out an amazing amount of work." Televiewing: Since my favorite of the short-wave radio bands go dead early in the evening I have been guided to the TV set of late more than ever before. Last night I was enjoying Mr. District Attorney fine until they found the criminal by looking through all the pictures on file. Steve Wilson in Big Town used the same method last week and I don't think the D. A. should be copying a newspaperman. Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town is back up to par after a slump. Of course Ed still holds the rating of the top variety show and de-servingly so. Did you see the Elgin Hour last night and the Westinghouse Studio on Monday? That was a double dose of almost too much suspense for two nights in a row. Those shows, along with Climax, the U. S. Steel Hour are among the top on the air in my opinion. Best of Broadway? Fine, sometimes. But never have I been as disappointed as I was in "The Show-Off" with Jackie Gleason. Best of Broadway last week.

Shows of Stars is also a big disappointment to me. Of course everybody likes Disneyland. My only comment is that Walt did the public wrong by staying off TV for so long. Remember Herbert Rogers of Greenville? He's now a Major in Germany and has been there for some time. Monday I hooked him up with his folks here in Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Rogers. If you have relatives that you want to talk to, particularly in Europe, Newfoundland, (I hooked Lt. Charles Watson there last week) North Africa, or the Azores, let me know. They must be with in reach of a military base for the connection to be possible. It's fun to make the connections but naturally it's impossible if I don't know the folks are there. And I thank you. child in the other. She received only a few years in prison as punishment for maiming the girl for life. Much more than that would have been more in keeping with the crime committed, and the Oklahoma woman, who frankly admits her fiendish act, ought to receive all the law allows. If possible, something should be done to put a stop to this orgy of taking advantage of helpless little children. Should it be necessary to make an example of some of the criminals, then let it come to that. There is no sympathy for an adult guilty of such mayhem. Rather it is a matter of pity. There are few things that arouse resentment on the part of the average person more than to see an adult abuse children so weak and so small they cannot defend themselves. Such offenders rarely take on those their size who are able to strike back.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

FICKING ON HELPLESS VICTIMS
(Henderson Dispatch)
The orgy of assaults and mutilations of little children by their kin is getting to be alarming, even as it is disgusting—or worse. Men and women, and especially the latter, pick upon helpless little victims in gratifying their passions of anger when the tiny tots cross their paths and do not respond to their whims and wishes as they desire. It is quite possible that there may be a strain of insanity, or mental unbalance to say the least, in any adult who persecutes a child wholly within his power and control. The five-year-old youngster in Oklahoma was too small to resist his aunt when she stuck holes through his mouth and throat and broke nineteen of his ribs, and then tortured him with an electric iron, causing his death several days later. It does the dead lad no good for her to say that it was "really the devil," not the boy, that she was beating. Probably she should have said it was the devil in her that motivated such cruelty, which in lesser measure was also visited upon the child's three-year-old brother. Crowds around the court room where the accused and her husband were being arraigned on murder charges shouted for "that woman, we have a rope ready." No one, of course, unless sharing some of the woman's unbalance, would sanction anything of the sort, but it indicates the resentment that rises in the breasts of those who are outraged by adults venting their anger upon helpless children. This Oklahoma affair recalls an incident closer home, at Greensboro, where last fall a woman, in a fit of anger, gouged the eye of her young step-daughter and almost blinded the child in the other. She received only a few years in prison as punishment for maiming the girl for life. Much more than that would have been more in keeping with the crime committed, and the Oklahoma woman, who frankly admits her fiendish act, ought to receive all the law allows. If possible, something should be done to put a stop to this orgy of taking advantage of helpless little children. Should it be necessary to make an example of some of the criminals, then let it come to that. There is no sympathy for an adult guilty of such mayhem. Rather it is a matter of pity. Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
DEMOCRATS—The Jefferson-Jackson dinner staged by North Carolina Democrats here Saturday night was highly successful, so far as the record will show. There were about as many diners as usual, filling both big rooms at the Sir Walter and the money-take will run something above $20,000 after all expenses are paid. There were not as many non-dining visitors around the hotel lobbies, nor did there seem as much enthusiasm as has prevailed in other years. Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico made the kind of speech he was expected to make, and delivered it well. He has been one of the staunchest advocates of the Brannon and Benson flexible party policy in farm price supports and that idea is not popular in North Carolina. The Senator was highly entertaining in lighter phases of his talk. Such comments as "the Republicans are making their annual appeal to Harry Byrd to let them raise the debt limit." Very few of the dinner guests came to hear a speech. They came to see friends from other parts of the State whom they see only at the big dinner affairs and the biennial State convention. These events are homecoming occasions for the congressional delegation and others in Washington. Rep. Graham A. Barden was detained in Washington preparing a case to present to the ICC this week on the Havelock-Camp Lejeune railroad, and Rep. Charles Raper Jones was consorting with his Republican buddies in Charlotte. The others were in Raleigh and having a good time. John Lang, secretary to Rep. Charles B. Deane, said he was much concerned about developments in Portsmouth and "we might be in a full size war when we get back to Washington—but we're in North Carolina now and very happy to be home." WEATHER—Rep. and Mrs. Thurmond Chatham flew down in their own plane Saturday morning, but made the return trip by train. Numbers of others after the dinner found themselves stranded by weather and remained over until Sunday. HODGES—Governor Hodges looked out over the dinner audience and said we have here a striking group of people who believe in the principles of democracy. He commended the two Senators and twelve Representatives in the Congress—one of the few instances of this nature in which the tenth district Republican representative was not specifically excluded from the roll call of the faithful. He paid high tribute to members of the current Legislature as being most dedicated to their jobs of any in modern times. "Let's put first things first," he said, "economy where possible, but progress all the time. Let's do a good job of governing." Future: Majority of the folks attending the dinner seemed not too much concerned about immediate problems They do not want additional taxes, and many of them are assuming that the Legislature will not levy new taxes. There was apparently far less worry over the segregation problem than prevailed last fall. It has been so long since any material changes were made in the tax base and in racial relations that many people apparently ignore the probability that drastic changes are imminent. The main topic of discussion was not economics or social reform, but just plain politics—personal politics. How is Governor Hodges getting along? Is he running for a full term as Governor? Who is likely to run against him? As much as possible the people seem disposed to put off other questions until these are answered, and to have the issues of new taxes and government reorganization more clearly submitted in the next primary. LEGISLATORS—Many of the legislators went home Friday afternoon as usual, some came back for the dinner Saturday, but a good many remained over the weekend. Most of the Republican members went to Charlotte for the Young Republican Clubs rally. Those who stayed around the Sir Walter found themselves right lonesome in the crowd of Democrats. There was some talk of getting Sergeant of Arms Wayland Sprull to eject Rep. Bill McShane from the lobby. The Henderson Republican said he was on his way out right then to go to a good meeting in Charlotte.

Usual Level Of Enthusiasm Missing At Demo Session

Wives And Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
There are many proprietors of small businesses who would never eat lunch if their wives didn't watch the store for an hour a day. And Don Gabbert, vice-president of the National Appliance and Radio-TV Dealers Association, told a session of wives how to help their husbands in the appliance business. "You should be prepared to tell him about the dreaming and the planning that women live through before they announce their interests in buying any new appliance," he said. "You should attempt to keep up to date through various magazines, newspaper ads and TV programs to learn and understand the appeal that is being made to sell a refrigerator or a range today. You can then develop your questioning conversation about his business to include comments on the latest product improvements and techniques in selling. He may discover he has been so busy training salesmen and taking inventory that he is not up to date on his very own product. Help him be a wise, alert dealer so that he will be prepared when the next wholesale man calls at his store." Very good. And have a hot meal ready when he comes home at night. As a matter of fact, thousands of wives are already doing that and more in appliance and other lines. The wives who keep the books of small firms at home at night are legion. So at the two or two of selling during rush hours, the wives who bake cakes and perform other friendly acts for employees so they won't quit for a better paying job, and wives who keep plugging their husbands' businesses at church and club meetings. The veil of sanctimony around many women in charitable organizations, only lightly covers a bit of conniving to help the old man's sales. And many women shoppers, senders away for catalogues and fillers out of coupons are only trying to gather information for spouses' stores. Ranking with them are the girls who go back to work, or dip into their inheritances, to tide husbands over rocky periods. AN OUTMODED GROUP? DEBATE TOUCHED OFF The question of whether chambers of commerce in medium size cities have reached the point of diminishing returns, raised by Max Hess, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce, and the executives in many other cities. Mr. Hess is due for some abuse—which he undoubtedly expected—and also some praise. He resigned after 55 years of continuous membership because he said that no one civic body can represent all the varied interests in a city of 100,000. A chamber, he said, cannot coordinate the needs and services of both large and small stores in different sections, and the compromise it is forced to adopt can be disservice to the members. He urged the formation of small groups devoted to problems common to all members. GAS INDUSTRY SALES GAIN 8 PER CENT IN YEAR The industry did pretty nicely last year, the American Gas Association reports. Total sales of the gas utility and pipeline industry to ultimate consumers totaled 61,124,000,000 therms, an increase of 8.4 per cent over 1953.

Training As Scout Saved Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The Boy Scout movement in America is now 45 years old. And more boys than ever are now trying daily to do a good deed in a naughty world, a goal we grownups often chuckle over but actually admire greatly. The Boy Scouts now have 3,700,000 members. The organization has grown ever year since its founding in 1910, increased 72 per cent the last five years alone. But as the general population is aging rapidly, there are still plenty of elderly ladies for Scouts to help cross a busy street intersection. I am one of the more than 24 million Americans who have taken the Boy Scout oath. "On my honor I will do my best to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight." At least that is the way I remember the oath. And on my honor today I certainly have to admit to a number of shoddy falls from grace in keeping that pledge over the years. But I don't hold with the few remaining minor league cynics who think the Boy Scout movement is a waste of time and its ideals are childish. On the other hand it isn't necessary for me to defend it as a key organization in the fight against juvenile delinquency. Its record proves that. My reason for admiring the Boy Scouts is simple. It is one of basic human gratitude. What I learned as a Scout later saved my life. At 14, having graduated from tenderfoot and second class rank, I went to a two-week summer Scout camp determined to earn many merit badges as I could. For some reason I wanted above all to win a merit badge in swimming, although I could dog paddle only about 10 feet at the time. Every morning I could escape the camp routine I spent in the river. A scout teacher taught me swimming strokes. The day before the encampment ended I won my merit badge. Among other things I had to dive from a raft, retrieve from the river bottom a heavy iron sledge hammer equivalent to the weight of a 200-pound drowning man, and bring it back to the raft. Then, without rest, I had to swim 100 yards. Never since then have I swam that far. Soon after leaving the encampment, I quit going to Scout meetings. For one thing, I belonged to the Eagle Patrol, and the Scout manual said our cry was "kree." No matter how I yelled "kree," I didn't feel like an eagle. Furthermore (since I guess I'm on my honor again) I got interested in girls. Looking back now, I realize this was one of those mistakes that change a man's life-time. But 17 years later I was in a boat in the third assault wave of Gen. George S. Patton's Western Front Force as it hit the coast of French Morocco Nov. 8, 1942. Our landing craft missed the beach and ran full force into a coral outcropping. As the boat began to capsize, the lieutenant yelled: "Everybody overboard." "A moment later I was over my head in water. The surf weighted my boots, pack and clothing like lead, and seemed to claw me under. Twice I swam to the coral rock, but it was crowded with old soldiers from the front of the boat, and the waves washed me away. The third time, utterly worn out, I made it. But the soldier ahead of me had to lend me a hand to help get me up on the rock. Two days later I went to a burial service near the spot where we had landed. Many of the pale-faced boys lying there in full combat dress were soldiers who had drowned coming ashore, unable to defend themselves against one of man's oldest foes—water. They never got to fight because they had never learned to swim. Now when I see a funny cartoon about the tribulations of the Little Scouts and their fat Scoutmaster I can enjoy it as much as the next fellow. Fun is still fun. But if anybody tries to tell me that the Boy Scout movement isn't a wonderful thing—well, he's talking to a man who feels he owes his present existence to it. Happy birthday, Scouts!

Sheppard Denied Freedom On Bail

CLEVELAND (P)—Osteopath Samuel Sheppard's chances of obtaining freedom on bail during an appeal of his wife-murder conviction appeared doubtful today. Three Court of Appeals judges, who previously had denied Sheppard bail:

1. Refused to send the bail question to the Ohio Supreme Court, and 2. Indicated they would deny bail again, even if assured by the state's high court that Sheppard legally could be released. Only an appellate court or a trial judge can grant bail under Ohio law. The ruling yesterday was on a motion by defense attorney William J. Corrigan that the bail question be certified to the Supreme Court. Corrigan argued the Appellate Court's previous denial of bail conflicted with rulings by other appeals courts in similar cases. Pending the appeal on his second-degree murder conviction, the handsome, 31-year-old doctor is being kept in a cell at county jail. Sheppard was found guilty of fatally bludgeoning his pregnant, 31-year-old wife Marilyn last July 4. He is under a life imprisonment sentence, making him eligible for parole after 10 years. Corrigan said he intends to go to the Supreme Court with the bail question.

Seeks $50,000 From Belk Store

COLUMBIA (P)—A Columbia man who said he was falsely accused of stealing a pair of socks has filed a $50,000 suit against Belk's Department Store here on grounds he was "unlawfully arrested, detained and imprisoned."

George E. Sparkman said he was "held up to great ridicule and scorned" by a crowd that gathered to watch officers question him. According to Sparkman, he was picked up after being accused of stealing a pair of socks he was carrying in his pocket. He said he was released after an examination showed the socks were not the store's property.

By WAYNE OLIVER NEW YORK (P)—A youngster by the name of Jack Benny who takes television in a breeze must confound some of the older comics who are in and out of hospitals with video fatigue. Nearly 23 years after he first took to the air, Jack continues a weekly radio show that currently is No. 1 in the ratings and takes a turn on TV every second week.

While many comics are considering a comeback in the frequency of their appearances, Benny is pondering the possibility of stepping his video visits up to one a week next season. His contemporaries must wonder if he isn't serious after all about being only 39.

CAP Unit Hears Judge Whedbee Here Last Night

Aviation has made tremendous progress since the Wright brothers and it will continue, Judge Charles H. Whedbee told members of the Civil Air Patrol last night. The Municipal Court judge told the group that aircraft may someday replace the automobile and if it does new air traffic rules and regulations concerning trespassing in the air over farms and homes may have to be considered because the country is definitely air minded.

Major Dan Lilly, regional wing commander from Kinston also visited the group and made brief remarks. A film on the construction and flight characteristics of the new B-47 jet bomber were also shown. There are 319,000 blind Americans.

Pirates Invade Salisbury To Meet Catawba Cagers

BY BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina's Pirates travel to Salisbury tonight to meet the up-and-coming Indians of Catawba in a North State Conference game.

The meeting will be a re-play of the Pirates' 67-46 win here back on December 10. Since then, though, the Indians of Coach Earl Ruth have improved greatly and just last week beat Western Carolina and High Point in conference games.

Catawba's league record is 3-8 and overall standing 6-13. They are in seventh place with the possibility of advancing should they upset East Carolina tonight.

With Lenoir Rhyne's 100 to 98 upset of Atlantic Christian last night, the top four places are so jammed that only one game separates the Pirates and Elion's Christians from the co-leaders, ACC and Lenoir Rhyne.

So, although tonight's game does not carry much prestige, a lot will be at stake. The Indians will endeavor to retain their winning ways and Coach Howard Porter's Buc's want very much to end their season like last year—No. 1.

Catawba's heaviest artillery consists of forwards Buddy Yancey and Charlie Summy, along with peppery little Jackie Lyndon. Summy is the team's leading scorer, and Yancey the leading rebounder. The tallest Indian is Jim Bryant, a freshman who stands 6-6. When the Indians played here before, their leading playmaker was Lyndon with 10 points.

Catawba's small gymnasium gives the Indians a 20-point pre-game advantage. East Carolina only whipped them by 21 points before and if they are "on," it could be a long evening for the Pirates.

Don Harris and J. C. Thomas will combine talents to lead the locals. The former is leading the Buc scoring with a 19.4 average. He has scored 334 points in 18 games. Thomas has a 15 point average with 270 points. Nick Nichols, who will team with Harris at the forwards, has poured in 262 points, 94 of which came on free throws, for a 14.6 average.

Guy Mendenhall, rangy freshman center, earned the starting pivot role with his outstanding performance against McCrary Monday night. He has tallied 131 points, mostly as a substitute. Cecil Heath, the Pirates' captain and playmaker, will anchor one of the guards with Thomas. Heath has 102 points in 13 games.

Coaches Porter and Earl Smith pulled out early this morning with a contingent of 14. Other players making the trip besides the aforementioned are Jerry Bosquet, Marion Holmes, Waverly Akins, Waddell Solomon, Maurice Everette and William McArthur.

ECC Football Team Will Play 9-Game Schedule

The 1955 football schedule of East Carolina College lists nine games, five in College Stadium in Greenville and four away from home.

The schedule was announced by Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, ECC athletics director. With the home game dates already decided, the sale of Pirate Club membership season tickets has begun.

For the second consecutive year, the Norfolk Naval Air Station opens the season with the East Carolina Pirates on September 10, and the next week will find the Pirates north of the Mason-Dixon line for a return engagement with West Chester Teachers College of Pennsylvania on September 17.

First North State Conference game will bring the Lenoir Rhyne Bears to College Stadium here for a tangle with the Pirates on September 24. Homecoming game for East Carolina will be with Elion on October 8.

The complete schedule: Sept. 10, Norfolk Naval Air, here; Sept. 17, West Chester State Teachers College, West Chester, Pa.; Sept. 24, Lenoir Rhyne College, here; Oct. 8, Elion College, here; Oct. 15, Western Carolina College, Cullowhee; Oct. 22, East Tennessee State College, Johnson City, Tenn.; Oct. 29, Appalachian State Teachers College, here; Nov. 5, University of Tampa, here.

The season tickets to Pirate Club members will be $12.50 each and orders may be sent to either the Athletic Office or the Alumni Office, East Carolina College.

Phantoms Put Longer String On Line As They Play Jackets

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's Phantoms, who have several long unbroken strings going, put those records on the line Friday night in Greenville High School gymnasium against the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets.

The Greenies have won nine consecutive games this year in North-eastern Conference play and are the only undefeated team in the conference. The G-men have also won 17 consecutive ball games in conference play over a period of two years.

Coach Bo Farley's courageous cagers have won 16 consecutive home games over the past two seasons. The Yellow Jackets will be trying to snap these records Friday night when they play the G-men. The chances of an upset are slim, however, as the Phantoms showed their superiority with a 105-49 win over the Jackets Monday night.

The Greenies should be much stronger Friday night than they were Monday. Tommie Saleed, the slender sharp shooting sensation, is back in school and ready to start practice again. Saleed missed two games with an attack of flu but is well from that attack now. Saleed is averaging 10.4 points per game.

Three other G-men are averaging in the double figures besides Saleed. Pat Sawyer is scoring at an average of 12.7 points per game. Bob Howell is hitting at an even 16 points per game and Harold Edwards is leading the team with a 17.9 average. Edgar Moore, the fifth man in the starting line-up, is hitting the hoops at the rate of 7.8 points per game. Ike Riddick and Clark Noble are both hitting at 5.1 figures with a good week in scoring for the last two games.

Last season the Greenies really romped over the Roanoke team in Greenville for their only 100 plus performance. This year they have reached the century mark three times and once scored 98 points.

This Greenville do not have much more to go in the season now. After Friday's game the Phantoms meet Jacksonville in Greenville on Tuesday and travel to Kinston to meet the Red Devils on Friday.

Three more games are all that are on the regular season slate.

The Jacksonville pulled a big surprise last night in Jacksonville when they came within four points of dumping the Kinston team. Jacksonville led by three points going into the final period but Kinston outscored them 12-5 and won 44-40.

Greenville will have to beat Kinston in their final game to make sure they get at least a playoff for the right to represent the conference in the state playoffs.

SPORTS SHOTS by Bruce Phillips

BUCS HAVE ANOTHER STIFF FOOTBALL SCHEDULE IN 1955

East Carolina's football card for next season lists return engagements with all opponents met during the past campaign. The schedule will prove rougher though, because the toughest assignments are on the road. Head Coach Jack Boone will direct his team on foreign fields at West Chester, Pa. against West Chester; at Johnson City, Tenn. against East Tennessee State; at Salisbury against Clyde Biggers' Catawba Indians; and at Cullowhee against Western Carolina.

Of the nine games booked, five are to be played in College Stadium. The Pirates will have Elion here on Oct. 8 and a chance to avenge their first North State Conference set back last season. Biggest game as far as attendance is concerned will be the Appalachian and Tampa tilts. The Mountaineers will put their title on the line here Oct. 29 and Tampa's Spartans will make their first appearance in Greenville on Nov. 5.

East Carolina will again open with Norfolk Navy, a strong service outfit. The Tars will be here September 10 which is the earliest college opening date of state teams.

None of the foes on the schedule are to suffer much via graduation, with exception of Appalachian. So next season will not afford the Pirates any letup in their quest for revenge against West Chester, Elion, Tampa and Appalachian, all of which handed the 1954 Buc's lickings.

NORTH STATE RACE MOVES INTO HOME STRETCH

With only a week and a half of action remaining in North State Conference play games from here out count more severely in the final standings.

The Atlantic Christian-Lenoir Rhyne game which was played last night further jammed the top four teams. Lenoir won 109-98. The East Carolina-Elion tilt this Saturday night here will determine the Nos. 3 and 4 places in the final tabulation.

Atlantic Christian and Lenoir Rhyne presently stand abreast the race with identical 10-2 records. Lenoir Rhyne has won its last 11 games without a loss. East Carolina and Elion are identically 9-3.

There is a chance for Elion or East Carolina to slip in ahead of either ACC or Lenoir Rhyne. Bad performances against so-called second division clubs last week, though, slighted either's hopes of winding up No. 1. Appalachian met three of the top four teams—East Carolina, Elion and Lenoir Rhyne. The Apps won two of these three, whipping Elion and Lenoir Rhyne.

To conclude regular season play, Lenoir Rhyne meets two of the top four, including last night's battle with ACC. They also play Elion next week. Guilford and Catawba at home and High Point away. ACC on the other hand, must play two of the top four, also including last night's LR tilt. They play Elion in Burlington next week, plus Appalachian and Catawba on the road. Elion and Appalachian are proven giant-killers on their homecourts.

Elion's Christians met Guilford last night, and encounter Atlantic Christian, High Point and ECC before they pack for the journey. The Pirates play Catawba tonight, Elion here Saturday and ACC there next Saturday.

SPORTS SHOTS FROM HERE AND THERE

Coach Ed. Warren of the Belvoir-Falkland boys basketball team, writes: "I have a boy on my high school team that, in my opinion, is a very good college prospect. His name is Doug Parker. He stands six-one and is our leading scorer. He led our team to its win over Bethel High School last Friday night which marked the first time that Belvoir has beaten Bethel's boys since the Pitt County Conference was organized. Parker is averaging 22 points per game and getting 15 rebounds a night."

Coach Jack Boone announced today that the annual Purple-Gold inter-squad game will be held Saturday week on Feb. 9. The game will start at 2:30 p.m. to give sports fans a chance to see a preview of the 1955 gridgers and time enough to get to Wilson for the ACC-ECC basketball clash. Boone also said that the roster for the game will be announced soon and carried in The Daily Reflector.

East Carolina's swimming team has a meet this Saturday afternoon in the college pool. Coach Ray Martinez' tankmen swim the Wm. and Mary Extension School. John Precha, high-scoring center for Appalachian, is also a professional baseball player. He reports to the Cubs the first of March. . . . nuff said!

N. C. State Defeats Virginia To Regain Conference Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State, with six players scoring in the double figures defeated Virginia 114-97 last night and climbed into a first place Atlantic Coast Conference tie with Maryland as expected.

State and Maryland have 8-3 conference records.

But tonight both may have to move over a bit to make room for Duke and a three-way first place tie. Duke tackles Wake Forest and is the favorite.

State plays William and Mary of the Southern Conference at Norfolk tonight but the outcome will not affect the Wolfpack conference standing.

Virginia's Buzz Wilkinson poured in 34 points and took honors for last night's game.

The Wolfpack was forced to abandon pregame plans in order to beat the Cavaliers. Virginia held an eight point advantage after eight minutes of play.

Cliff Dwyer then went into the lineup to assist Ron Shavlik a hand and John Maglio helped to step up the Wolfpack's fastbreak attack.

Soon the Wolfpack had charge of the boards and the game. Shavlik had 25 points, high for state. Dwyer had 19 and Dave Gotkin 18.

Virginia counted her eighth loss in 11 conference outings.

At College Park, Maryland lost a bitterly-fought 73-67 game to George Washington.

Joe Petcavich had 33 to lead the sixth-ranked Colonial.

The 6-5 Petcavich, a Carbondale, Pa., junior, displayed spectacular ability in enabling George Washington to run its winning streak to seven. At one stretch he scored 12 successive points to put his team ahead in the first half. But it was his uncanny foul shooting that sewed up the game. He sank his last 10 foul shots at key spots, with the game tied much of the way through the last half.

In other games Elion, leading all the way, downed Guilford 93-69 for its 10th North State Conference win of the season.

Bill Atkins, top scorer in the conference, had 21 points while Dave Maddox had 18 for Guilford.

Lenoir Rhyne climbed into a first place North State tie with Atlantic Christian by defeating the Christians 109-98. It was the Bears 14th straight victory and left both teams with 10-2 marks. John Marley of ACC scored 32 and Rasford Wells of Lenoir Rhyne had 29.

High Point College, hitting on 50 per cent of its shots in the first half, beat the Enka Rayonites 94-77. Elerbe Neal had 39 for the losers and guard Bob Davidson had 20 for High Point.

Atlantic Christian faces Appalachian tonight. East Carolina is at Catawba, High Point at Western Carolina and Presbyterian at Mercer.

LSU Is Hunting New Grid Coach

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State University began a search for a new football coach today, seeking a decision on whether to hire a nationally-known successor to coaches Caynell Tinsley.

The decision was expected at least indirectly during the first meeting of a special committee directing the hunt.

Committee members said privately they did not expect to receive applications at the session. They said business would center around organizing the committee, setting up procedure for interviewing candidates and deciding whether to combine the posts of athletic director and coach.

Athletic Director T. F. Heard was retired by the Board of Supervisors Saturday at the same time the board fired Tinsley.

A source close to the school said a decision on combining the two jobs would determine whether LSU would seek Tinsley's successor from the ranks of nationally-known coaches.

Tinsley's salary was reported at $12,500 yearly and Heard's at $9,800. The source said if the jobs were kept separate LSU probably would be unwilling to meet the salary demands of a higher-priced coach. Combining the posts would put the salary in the bracket a major coach would expect.

The decision of the special committee is expected to govern the action of the Board of Supervisors, which has the final word.

Continued separation of the two jobs would place Stanley Galloway of Southeastern Louisiana College in a favorable position. Sources close to LSU said the school had sought him previously for Tinsley's staff. His Southeastern team was undefeated and untied last year.

Teague Award Goes To Two N. C. Golfers

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP)—Golfers Billy Joe Patton of Morganton and Marjorie Burns of Greensboro have been selected as outstanding amateur athletes in the Carolinas for 1954.

Their selection in a poll of Carolina newsmen to receive the Lewis E. Teague Memorial Award was announced today by Mrs. Ethel M. Fisher of High Point, chairman of the Awards Committee of the Carolinas Assn. of the Amateur Athletic Union of the U.S.

The awards will be presented at a banquet, probably next month, at a city yet to be selected.

Patton, 32-year-old lumber salesman, long has been regarded one of the South's top players. Last year he ranked in national prominence by finishing only one stroke back of Ben Hogan and Sam Snead in the Masters classic and going on from there to win the North and South Amateur and finish as No. 1 amateur in the U.S.

Open. He recently was named to the U.S. Walker Cup team which will play the British team in May at Scotland. New York writers recently awarded him their Gold Tee for a major contribution to the game in 1954.

Following his Masters performance, spiced by a hole in one, he played at Augusta with President Eisenhower.

Miss Burns enjoyed her finest year in 1954. She was runner-up in the Southern Amateur in a strong field and followed up that performance by winning the North Carolina Amateur and Charlotte Invitational, each for the third time, and the Carolinas Amateur.

Patton easily outdistanced the field in the voting. Dick Heric, Wake Forest basketball star, was runner-up. A close second to Miss Burns was Eckie Jordan, Winston-Salem Hanes basketball and softball ace, who won the 1951 award. Kitten Barringer, Greensboro swimmer, was a close third.

Ladies' PGA To Step Up Public Relations Drive

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The Ladies Professional Golfers Assn. has added Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., to its ranks and adopted three rules to better its public relations.

Miss Ziske—1954 North South champion, Wisconsin State Amateur champion for 1952 and 1954 and low amateur at the Tam O'Shanter last year—entered the $5,000 St. Petersburg Open which starts tomorrow.

The LPGA meeting last night voted that players will wear numbers on their dresses in tournaments so they may be more easily identified.

The LPGA also adopted rules that each member must make one public appearance per week if she is asked to do so, and that players in tournaments must sign appearance agreements 30 days in advance and that once signed they will not pick up in the middle of the tournament.

Belvoir Boys And Grifton Girls Win Cage Games

GRIFTON—Belvoir and Grifton halved a Pitt County Conference doubleheader here last night, the home girls winning 58-51 and the visiting boys winning 49-39.

Dawn Smith bucketed 31 points to pave the way for Grifton's girls. She received a lot of help from Peggy Cannon who contributed 23.

The leading marksman for Belvoir was Marlene Clark with 18. Joan Parker and Shirley Peaden had 17 and 16 respectively.

Grifton took the lead early and was never headed. They outscored the visitors in every quarter except the last when both teams collected 11 apiece.

Don Harris, Doug Parker and D. B. Daniels got together in the nightcap to avenge the girls' loss. Warren's 18 points was high for the game. Daniels and Parker tallied 14 and 12 respectively. Worth Craft was the whole show for the losers. He knocked in 16 points and played well on defense.

After a close first quarter, Belvoir pulled out front 22-11 at halftime. The winner scored 16 points in the third period while Grifton was getting only nine. The home team rallied to score 19 points in the final period but the margin was too much to overcome.

Dupas Calls For Ryff Rematch

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Third-ranked lightweight Ralph Dupas of New Orleans today clamored for a rematch with unbeaten Frankie Ryff to reverse the only serious blot on his record and force a chance at champion Jimmy Carter.

The 19-year-old Dupas routed seventh-ranked Ritchie (Kid) Howard of Canada on a unanimous 10-round decision last night to brush aside the last remaining obstacle to a rematch with Ryff, the Brooklyn sensation who dethroned Dupas in New York last September.

Dupas probably will move up in the new ratings since former champion Paddy DeMarco rated No. 1 by The Ring magazine in its march issue, was knocked out last week by France's Seaphin Ferrar.

The regulars are scheduled to be brought to Formosa while there have been reports the Tachens' guerrillas would be taken by Nationalist islands off the China mainland. Highway Patrol Head Advises No 'Whammy' Curb

RALEIGH (AP) — The head of the Highway Patrol says it would be "a terrific blow to law enforcement" if the Legislature should approve a bill introduced yesterday to put restrictions on the patrol's speed-detecting "whammies."

Col. J. R. Smith, patrol commander, said the electronic equipment is "very vital in the law enforcement work of the patrol." Traffic fatalities were reduced by 10 per cent last year, Smith said, when the speed-detecting devices were used more extensively than ever before.

Reps. Thomas White of Lenoir and Tom Turner of Guilford introduced a bill to put the following restrictions on use of the patrol's radar speed timers and speed time clocks:

- (1) The patrol would have to prove in each case that the whammies were properly installed, in good condition and operated by skilled personnel.
- (2) Whammy operators would have to be "in full view" of motorists, and
- (3) Speeders caught by the whammies would be given a tolerance of 5 per cent.

White said his bill would "take patrolmen from behind bushes and buildings. . . it will put patrolmen on the highway where they will be seen. . . The patrol will revert to its original function of preventing speeding."

Meanwhile a bill was introduced yesterday by Rep. D. G. Bell of Carteret County which would repeal all commercial fishing. Net licenses and amend the law relating to taxing commercial fishing boats by lengths. Under Bell's proposal, commercial fishermen would not have to list nets or pay taxes on nets. The tax brings in about $7,500 a year, Bell estimated, but "it is a difficult tax to collect and probably costs as much to collect as it yields."

Not Only Pretty Fixtures, But Standards, Too

C. E. Williams discussed a problem in his plumbing business at a meeting of the Greenville Appliance Dealers Association last night at the Silo Restaurant.

Williams told the dealers that plumbing is not the art of installing pretty fittings and pipes, but the operation must be considered from the standpoint of health. He said standards set up by the board of health, the city and the county, must be complied with, and he noted that only licensed plumbers are permitted to make water taps into the city water.

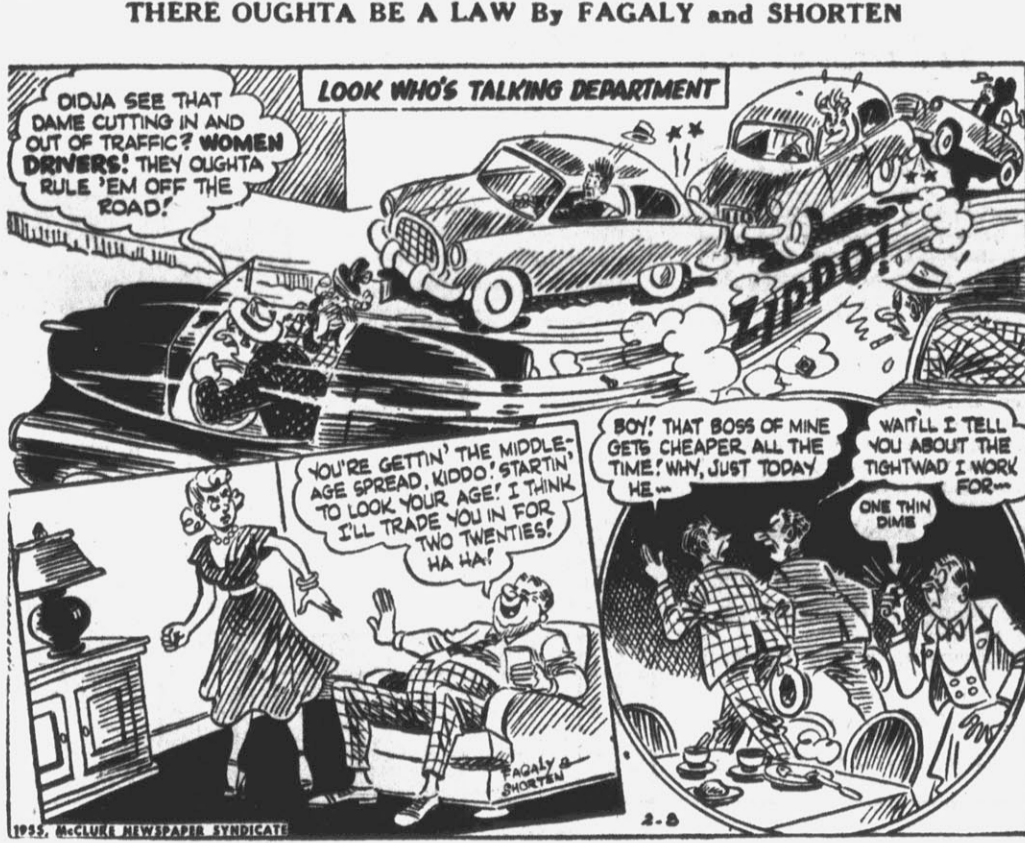

Williams made recommendations for installations which would prove satisfactory to both the appliance dealer and the consumer.

Jesse Laughnighouse will speak on a problem in his business at the next meeting of the association March 8.

meeting, with the invocation delivered by the Rev. Robert Emerson Davis of Trinity Episcopal Church who serves as chairman of the Scotland Neck chapter. At this session reports of Red Cross services will be given.

Luncheon will be served in the cafe garden with Henry L. Bridges, member of the board of directors of the Wake County Red Cross Chapter, presiding. Blessing will be said by the Rev. Thomas Smythe, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Rocky Mount.

Progress Reported On Negro School Program

Pitt County Board of Education in a short session Monday reported on the progress of a Negro school improvement program, granted additional sick leave to three Negro teachers, and approved the sale of a vacant Negro school lot.

The Board, at the request of a delegation of five from the Pitt County Training School, disclosed that preliminary plans for a new 10-classroom wing at that school were submitted about ten days ago to the State Director of Schoolhouse Planning, John L. Cameron, and local architect James W. Griffith, Jr. is now working on a number of changes recommended by Cameron.

When these changes are made the plans will be again submitted to the State Director, and it is the hope of the Board that they will be approved so the architect may go ahead with the full plans and specifications for the school addition.

An additional 20-day leave of absence was granted to three Negro teachers who are ill. They are Ada M. Suggs of the Fountain school; Martha F. Boyd of the Simpson school; and Virginia M. Monk of the Nichols school.

Final action of the Board at its regular meeting was approval of the sale of the vacant lot which is no longer needed for school purposes by the Fountain Negro school. The lot was sold to H. T. Trevathan for $200.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Fred stood behind his mother, and as she talked he had been studying the absorbed faces of his friends. Here in his parlor, with rain washing down the windows, the fire rosy on his hearth, he saw again his plan for this community, his overall dream for it. Here he could work, and see the results of that work laid out before him, good and bad. Success and failure. Today's tragedy in the White House was a failure. He should have talked more sternly to Frank and Lucille. They'd spoiled Judy unmercifully until their handsome little boy was born and then turned all their attention to the baby. Small wonder, then that...

Well, he must save what he could. The parents must not be resentful against Judy; they were more at fault than the child. The three of them must be coaxed out from under the shadow of tragedy. Yes, in this valley there was work for Fred to do, work that was well worth while...

Katie went to the kitchen for hot nuts; she heard the phone ring, once. Someone must have quickly answered, for by the time she could get to the side hall, Fred was guiding Linda Kyle out through the door urging her to wait on the step until he brought the car down the drive. Before the door closed, Katie saw his sweet, encouraging smile. "What happened?" she asked Murphy, who also was watching the departure. "Was Linda sent for?" Murphy nodded, he brought her. "She is a very beautiful woman. Exciting by her very stillness. I think Katie, I'll take back what I said about Fred's being immune. "If you're trying to say—"

"She's fine too. You make me some coffee, Richard. I will have to start back soon. I'll take the baby with me." "Oh, doctor..." "Richard! I have talked of this twice to you and I have explained why the baby must not stay with his mother." "But for one night, maybe..." "Not for one minute longer than I can help. The bacilli, Richard, are anxious to find a resting place. He was busy attending to the baby. When he finished, he wrapped the infant warmly in blankets—a hand-knit one on top—and turned again to the mother, who was partially conscious. He took a damp cloth and gently wiped Clara's face, smoothed her hair, and lifted her diminished body and carried her to the bed. He put on his raincoat, gathered the bundled baby expertly into one arm and held the infant so that his mother could see. "I did a fine job, Clara. He is slow, but you are all right. In a day or two we shall move you to the hospital where your lungs will heal. Meanwhile, good people will take care of your little son. I have been reminding Richard that I must take him away at once. Do not cry! You want him to grow to be a fine man do you not? He stays here..."

"Who will nurse him?" Clara's hand fluttered to her breast. "Not you, Clara. Should you let him nurse but one time, I can promise that he would contract tuberculosis; meningitis and die within six weeks. Now! Which shall it be?" "When I get well..." "When you get well, he is yours. I promise you, Clara. Tears welled into her eyes. "It is hard..." "It is very hard," Fred agreed. "But I'm glad that in this country there are people to help you." "Yes, Herr Doktor. But the baby—who..." "If I take him to my own wife..." "Yes," sighed the mother. "She must be a good woman." (To Be Continued) Copyright 1954, by Elizabeth Seifert. Ghostly Music Was Just Freak

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John DeMarcus was sent by the Knoxville Utilities Board to the New Grey Cemetery to find a water leak. Placing his sensitive amplifier among the tombstones, he picked up not the gurgle of encroaching water but music, music, music. Ghostly bebop? No, said DeMarcus, just a freak of radio reception. But he added: "I'll tell you this, if the front of one of those tombstones had lighted up with a television picture, I'd have been long gone."

Low Price For Cigarettes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A man was selling cigarettes on the streets for 20 cents a pack — five under the going rate — and a detective asked him where he got them. "I put quarters in a cigarette machine," the man replied. After questioning him at city jail, Detective Chief Bernard Waggoner said he couldn't find where the smokes came from but observed "If he can make money by buying them for a quarter and selling them for 20 cents he ought to be in Washington."

If Reds Believe Chiang, Truce Hopes Are Gone

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Red Chinese take Chiang Kai-shek's latest war talk seriously, it makes hash of President Eisenhower's expressed hope for a cease-fire around Formosa. They may take it for what it was: face saving. At the very moment his forces were retreating from the Tachen Islands yesterday, Chiang talked of "counterattack" to "recover the mainland."

The Reds could make propaganda of the statement by accusing Eisenhower of double talk for saying he wanted a cease-fire while Chiang was threatening an invasion of the mainland. But the Communists know Chiang couldn't hope to invade the mainland successfully without American help and at this moment the United States is trying to herd Chiang's forces back toward Formosa, not forward to the mainland.

Chiang's verbal belligerence is in sharp contrast to the change in the tone of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, if not in the policy itself. The administration has moved from talk of "liberation" to talk of "coexistence" and "stalemate."

In January 1953 Secretary of State Dulles was talking of "liberation" for the satellite countries, not by war but by "moral pressures" and propaganda. In January 1954 he talked of "massive retaliation" against Red attack. This didn't sit well with American allies who could foresee an atomic war. Dulles has not used words like "liberation" and "massive retaliation" for months.

Meanwhile, in August 1953 Soviet Premier Malenkov suggested "peaceful coexistence" between East and West. Eleven months later in June 1954, after a conference, Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill both talked of peaceful coexistence. Churchill urged a "try" at it. Eisenhower said it was the hope of the world. On Jan. 6, 1955, Eisenhower was talking of "stalemate" in a message to Congress and in a news conference on Feb. 2 he mentioned it again. He explained "stalemate" as a situation in which "neither side is getting what it desires" but both sides are smart enough not to try to get it by force of arms. And on Feb. 4 Thurston B. Morton, assistant secretary of state, spoke of "the facts of life in international affairs." He said: "The first is a continuing recognition that there are certain international problems for which no present solutions... exist. The technique... boils down to an effort to keep the controversy deactivated until a solution can be developed or the dispute dies of old age." The second element is the realization... there are definite limits on America's capacity to act.

Eisenhower promised to act if Formosa was attacked but meanwhile he is looking for a peaceful solution, such as a cease-fire. If there was a cease-fire the Formosa problem might die of old age, and so might Chiang.

Prime Prospect For A Future In Filmland

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A handsome 20-year-old named Jody McCrea has a better than average start in his ambition to be an actor. His father is Joel McCrea and his mother is Frances Dee. "The kid's okay," says Joel, in an appraisal as unprejudiced as you could expect from a father. "He has inherited something from each of us. He has his father's curiosity about things. He wants to know how everything on a movie set works and what it's for. He's constantly asking me questions. That's good."

"And he has his mother's capacity for hard work. He is taking a full course at UCLA, including Army officer's training, and is appearing every night in The Rose Tattoo at a theater in Hollywood. That's a pretty tough schedule for a kid but he loves it. And he manages to maintain a B average in his school work."

Joel was on a sound stage where he was recording dialogue for the recently completed "Wichita" for Allied Artists. Jody is also in the film.

"We were going to have him play my brother in the picture," the actor explained. "But we were doing it just at the time when Jody was in final examinations at UCLA. I told him they were more important; other pictures will come along. So he just did a small role in the picture."

Jody showed up, and he impressed me as a prime prospect for the movies. He's a tall lad, with his father's handsomeness and his mother's dark, thoughtful eyes. Has he always wanted to be an actor? "No," he said. "I always thought I was going to be a rancher. But about three or four years ago I started thinking about acting. It appealed to me and I thought I would have a better than average chance in it because of my parents."

He has been pursuing it ever since, appearing in school plays and soaking up all the information he can.

Hurricanes are most apt to occur in September, although there are many of them in other months.

NEW YORK (N - NCDA)— Construction of the nation's first nuclear reactor entirely owned and operated by private industry is planned for the New York metropolitan area.

Invitations to join the project have been sent to about 10 large companies in the fields of electronics, petroleum, food, pharmaceuticals and chemical products, ceramics, rubber, metals, textiles, agriculture, machinery and others.

Plans for the reactor, to use radiation for confidential experiments by the cooperating companies, were announced yesterday by the American Machine & Foundry Co.

Gen. Walter Bedell Smith (ret.), vice chairman of the company's Board of Directors, said in a statement:

"We envision the development of new and important commercial products and the improvement and extension of a great number of industrial processes."

Among the expected uses of the project are sterilizing and preserving foods and agricultural products, processing drugs, producing plastics and making measurements.

Bid-Letting Will Include Projects In City, County

Among bids to be let by the State Highway Commission on February 12 will be a project calling for 0.38 miles of paving and curb and gutter on Fourteenth Street between East Rock Spring Road and Elm Street.

The project was among some 25 involving 246,999 miles of road improvements in 23 counties.

The bid letting will be held February 23 in Raleigh and the Highway Commissioners will meet the following Thursday to review the low bids received before the work is actually let.

A second project to involve Pitt County will call for the rebuilding of two bridges and nine culvert extensions between Snow Hill and the Edgecombe County line on U. S. 258.

Merchandise Is Stolen From Car

Police are investigating the theft of a plastic bag containing merchandise valued at $25 from an automobile parked in front of a department store on Evans Street.

The theft occurred yesterday while a shopper, Sarah Gay, Greenville, was in the department store. The car was reportedly left unoccupied.

Merchandise missing includes a pen and pencil set, scissors, and a book.

RALEIGH (N - NCDA)— The General Assembly's Joint Appropriations and Finance Committees braced for another round of hearings today on proposed spending and taxation for the next biennium.

Representatives of the automobile and light truck industry were set to present arguments to the Finance Committee against a proposal to remove the $15 maximum tax on a single article under the sales tax.

Meanwhile, the Appropriations Committee was due to receive the spending requests from the State Prisons Department, from representatives of several orphanages which receive state assistance, and from the Board of Corrections and Training, which administers the state's reform schools and juvenile offenders.

The Appropriations Committee was told yesterday that an increased appropriation of $3,491,000 is needed to meet the "critical needs" of the Consolidated University of North Carolina during the next two fiscal years.

This amount is above that recommended by Gov. Hodges and the Budget Commission. Actually, University President Gordon Gray requested an increase of $5,416,126 but said the lower figure was money "for matters of greater urgency."

Gray listed the "more urgent" needs as follows: State College, $559,738; the University of Chapel Hill, $572,526; Woman's College, $546,004; Memorial Hospital, $702,114; and the Division of Health Affairs, $70,698.

At a hearing before the Finance Committee yesterday, farm implement dealers in the state outlined their objections to the proposal to lift the sales tax ceiling on any one item. The state's 3 per cent sales tax can be applied only up to $500 on any one article.

During the hearing, Rep. William B. Rodman of Beaufort, House finance chairman, advised committee members who the present tax proposals to put their proposals into bills so persons and groups whose pocketbooks will be affected can be heard.

Rodman reminded them that "time is running out. The session, he pointed out, is in its sixth week. The committee received some suggestions on tax proposals. Rep. Edwin S. Pou of Wake said he was thinking about presenting in the form of a bill a sales tax proposal based on the South Carolina schedule. This would place a limit of $25 on a single article selling for $1,500 or less, $40 for $1,500 to $3,000 and $75 for $3,000 or more.

Rep. James B. Vogler of Mecklenburg asked those appearing before the committee how they would feel about retaining the 3 per cent tax up to $500, and 1 per cent on all over that.

Rodman told the committee that Vogler's suggestion would bring in $2,600,000 per year and Pou's about $1 1/2 million.

Teachers Heard Dr. Pingel In Recent Session

Dr. Pingel gave a number of constructive aids in the teaching of creative writing. She urged the teachers to deal with concrete ideas and experiences, and to let the students work in groups.

She said all five senses should be stimulated before teaching description, and it is wise to use visual aids to focus the students' thoughts. She also noted that grammar can be taught creatively.

School Tax Boost Election In Falkland On Saturday

Filed Apointive Posts In Scouts' City Government

Special election to raise taxes in the Belvoir-Falkland school district will be held Saturday in the Falkland Town Hall.

The election will determine whether or not taxes will be raised ten cents on each $100 property valuation. If approved this will bring the school tax per $100 property valuation to 32 cents in that district.

Polls will open at 6:30 a.m. and remain open until 6:30 p.m. Each person who is duly registered and who is otherwise qualified to vote may vote in this election.

New registration has been required for the election, and the registration books were kept open from January 15 until January 29 for this purpose. Edward Mayo is serving as registrar for the election, and Floyd Harris and J. E. Watson as judges.

Purpose of the supplementary tax, according to the petition submitted by the Belvoir-Falkland School District Committee, is to enable the schools to be operated at a higher standard than that provided by State support by employing a public school music teacher or additional vocational teachers, or both.

The petition for election has been approved by the Pitt County Board of Education, the County Board of Commissioners and the North Carolina State Board of Education.

Expect Passage GI School Bill

WASHINGTON (N - NCDA)—The Senate appeared virtually certain to approve today a House-passed measure to allow persons who were in service before Feb. 1 to continue piling up GI education credits.

The bill — which won 366-0 approval in the House last month — was expected to whip through the Senate after little debate.

Nearly 1 1/2 million servicemen and women would benefit to the tune of about 390 million dollars in postdischarge schooling benefits over the next 10 years.

The bill was introduced after President Eisenhower issued a proclamation last month setting Jan. 31 as the cutoff date for various wartime veterans' benefits.

This order meant that a person already in service before Jan. 31 would not be able to accrue his GI educational credits beyond that date. These benefits are figured on the basis of 1 1/2 days of schooling for each day served, up to a maximum of 36 months of free education.

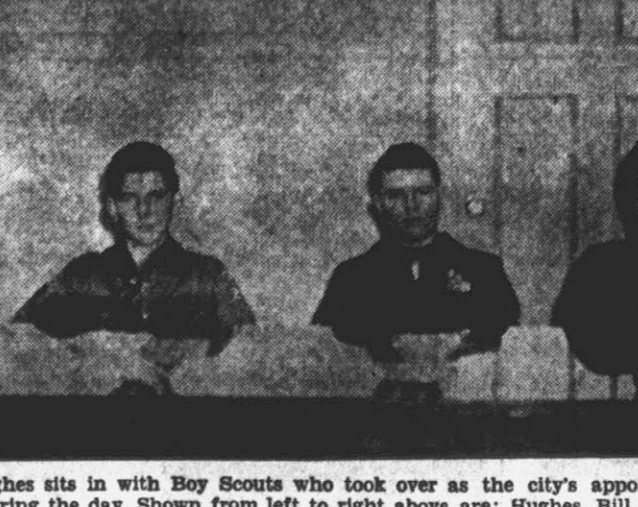

The President has let it be known he would go along with legislation to keep schooling benefits alive for those in uniform before Feb. 1.

Newton To Face Four Warrants

Corporal C. E. Whitfield swore out four warrants yesterday against Linwood Earl Newton of Farmville.

In the four warrants the highway patrolman charged Newton with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, resisting arrest, driving drunk, and careless and reckless driving.

The charges grew out of a struggle between the patrolman and Newton on January 15 as Whitfield was bringing Newton in to be charged with drunken driving.

During the course of the battle the patrol car being operated by Whitfield ran off the road and into a ditch on the Farmville highway and both Newton and the patrolman were shot by the same bullet from Whitfield's pistol.

Whitfield was recently released from the hospital and ventured out for the first time yesterday. He suffered a concussion, a bullet wound in the arm, and cuts and abrasions in the thigh.

Newton was shot through the stomach and liver and has remained in critical condition since the day of the fight. He remained at Pitt Memorial Hospital for some time where several operations were performed in an attempt to save his life. Later he was transferred to Duke Hospital in Durham where he still remains in a critical condition.

Duke Hospital reported this morning that Newton's condition is somewhat improved but said his condition is still "poor."

Solicitor Eli Bloom said Newton will be tried on three of the charges in Municipal Court when he is able to stand trial. On the fourth charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, Newton will be given a preliminary hearing before Judge Charles H. Whebebe and, if probable cause is found, he will be bound over to Superior Court.
