Reject Increase In Speed Limits

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate Roads Committee today turned thumbs down on proposals to increase speeds on North Carolina's highways. The committee killed bills which would (1) boost the speed limit for heavy trucks from 45 miles per hour to 55, and (2) allow the Highway Commission and the motor vehicles commissioner to fix speed zones of up to 65 miles per hour for autos and light trucks on sections of the state's highways. The Senate and House Education Committee, meanwhile embarked on a thorough-going study of the state's public school laws. At a joint meeting the committee heard explanations from members of a study commission which proposed a complete revision of the school laws to bring them up to date and to eliminate conflicting and obsolete provisions. The Senate Roads group killed the two speed bills quickly after their sponsors defended them and Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt opposed them. Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance, sponsor of the bill to boost truck speeds, said his measure was intended to promote highway safety by making the flow of traffic more uniform. He said truck drivers told him if they observed the 45-mile limit going down hill they were bound to go much slower going up hill. He said this caused light traffic to pile up behind the trucks, causing drivers to get impatient and start taking chances in order to get around the trucks. Scheidt said this was an "invalid argument", that it wasn't the trucks going 45 miles an hour which slowed traffic but the ones that crept up a hill at 10 miles an hour and then zoomed on the down grade so motorists could not pass either up or down hill. "I'd be very much opposed" to increasing truck speeds, said Scheidt. He reminded the committee members the trucks carried heavy loads and they would be assuming a "serious responsibility" if they boosted the speeds. Sen. Charles H. Reynolds of Rutherfordton moved for an unfavorable report on the bill and it was unanimously carried. Sen. E. Avery Hightower of Anson spoke in support of his bill to allow the Highway Commission and motor vehicles commissioner to fix speeds up to 65 on highway sections where they considered it safe. Hightower said there is "no logic" in having 55 as the top speed throughout the state because some roads are much safer than others. Sen. J. C. Eagles Jr. of Wilson asked Scheidt if there was any section of highway in the state for which he would recommend a speed of 65 miles an hour. Scheidt said there was not. Sen. Clarence Stone of Rockingham then moved to kill the bill. His motion also carried unanimously.

Says 28 H-Bombs Can Jeopardize 50 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—A developer of America's first atom bomb believes 28 well-placed H-bomb hits could jeopardize the lives of 50 million U.S. citizens with deadly radioactive fallout. Dr. Ralph E. Lapp said the strategic bombings could "atomize" and cover with radioactive fallout a vast region containing two thirds of the nation's industrial might. The atomic scientist said one hydrogen bomb—if exploded close to the ground—could cover with a 10,000 square mile, comparable to the state of Maryland. He said the single H-bomb explosion would create a sun-hot fireball three to four miles wide while devastating a large area. Writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientist, he said a person caught in an H-bomb area can do only one thing—go underground in a shelter and remain there for a day or two. People in "the shadow of the atomic cloud," he said, can't run away from it. A person caught in an atomic dust cloud less than a day old would receive twice the amount of radiation needed to kill, he said.

FBI Agent Speaks At Pitt District Boy Scout Banquet

Pictured above are participants in the annual Boy Scout Week banquet held last night for the Pitt District. Approximately 400 scouts, their parents, and adult leaders gathered at the Moose Lodge last night for the annual Pitt District Boy Scout Week banquet. The Cubs, Scouts and Explorers heard W. H. Gibson, special Federal Bureau of Investigation agent from Kingston, tell of the work of the national law enforcement agency. Gibson said FBI agents work under various conditions and many times in disguise. "We aren't supermen, but just plain people," the FBI agent re-

Cold Wave

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Thoughts of springtime in North Carolina were quickly tabled today by a midday Weather Bureau forecast of a cold wave on its way. The forecast called for showers and mild on the Coastal Plain this afternoon, with rain, changing to light snow in the mountains and snow flurries in the Piedmont, turning much colder in the afternoon. Tonight will be windy and much colder, with diminishing snow flurries. Temperatures will drop to 5 to 10 above zero in the mountains, 10 to 15 in the Piedmont and 15 to 20 in the Coastal Plain. Tomorrow will be fair and very cold. Temperatures will average four to seven degrees below normal for the next five days, turning warmer Monday and colder again Tuesday. Rainfall will average about one-fifth of an inch about Monday night and again Wednesday. The reminder that winter was still here came on the heels of yesterday's high readings in the 60s and lows this morning generally in the 40s and 50s.

Dollar Day Event Results Praised

"It was the best February Dollar Day we have ever had," Daniel Saleed, chairman of the Trade Promotion Committee of the Merchants Association, which sponsors the semi-annual sales event, expressed this morning the feeling of the city's leading merchants that yesterday's Dollar Day was a big success. "The town opened its arms to the public," Saleed commented, "and we believe the people were very satisfied with the values they received." He estimated that approximately 15,000 shoppers visited the city for the sale. Saleed noted that Dollar Day is the most successful trade promotion event put on by the Greenville merchants, and that it is the biggest Dollar Day sponsored in North Carolina. Serving with Saleed on the Trade Promotion Committee, which is in charge of Dollar Day, are James L. Harris Jr., George Lautares, R. W. Davenport, H. F. Steinbeck, Brooks Beddingfield, Jack Whitchard, B. B. Drum and B. D. Johnston.

Didn't Believe Cyanide Claim

BANCROFT, Mich. (AP)—George L. Lauer, 60, walked into a tavern yesterday and announced he had swallowed cyanide and was dying. Believing him to be joking, the waitress told him: "Go outside, George. Don't die in here." Lauer walked out the door collapsed and died a short time later in a hospital in nearby Durand. The chairman, Timothy V. Hartnett, said the committee, organized and financed by large tobacco companies, is continuing research into the tobacco-health relationship. Two other articles in the Journal also discussed the effects of smoking on the heart. One report, authored by three physicians, found that changes in blood pressure and the heart rate followed the smoking of cigarettes. The authors—Drs. Henry L. Russek and Virgil J. Dorset of Staten Island, N. Y., and Dr. Burton L. Zohman of Brooklyn—suggested that smoking is bad for coronary disease patients because of other effects, such as increases in heart rate and blood pressure. They said their findings did not prove the smoking presents a "direct danger" to patients through constriction of heart arteries. Dr. Isidore E. Buff of Charleston, W. Va., wrote the other article about the effects of cigarette smoking. He said a series of tests showed abnormal changes in 10 per cent of the 400 normal persons following smoking.

Won't Sell Her Humble Home

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Laura Belle Franklin has lived in her humble little house on South Broadway near downtown Knoxville all her life, and she can't see why $40,000 should make her move now. The aging Negro's story was told yesterday by her brother, Napoleon, who successfully appealed an increased tax assessment on the property—acquired by their father during the War Between the States. This was the tale Napoleon told the Tax Commission. A leading department store has begun work on a new building beside the elderly woman's home, and store officials have pleaded with her to sell out. The store plans to erect a wall on three sides of the property, so the house will be in a virtual hole. The price is considered right: $40,000. But a brother, a janitor said his sister won't agree to sell "because she lives there. Doesn't want to move and won't change her mind. She won't talk to anybody and we are not going to make her move." A city official had this to say: "I think they are please in not wanting to sell. Values mean many different things to different people."

Dungaree Youth Quits School

WHEATON, Md. (AP)—Without giving a specific reason, 17-year-old Paul McQuain—whose attire drew the wrath of school officials—has withdrawn from Wheaton High School. McQuain, a junior, was sent home in January and told to come back in the tight-fitting dungarees he was wearing. He returned to school only once wearing conventional clothing, to take midterm exams. Principal Elwood B. Mason said two counselors tried without success to persuade the boy to remain in school. Lawbreakers have used acid, and have even tried grafting skin on their fingertips in an effort to erase the tell-tale prints. Cites Cases Gibson cited famous criminal cases in which fingerprints have been the clue which led to apprehension of the culprit. Turning to the criminal investigation laboratory operated by the FBI, Gibson stated that many times letters containing invisible ink have been used to communicate. (Continued on page ten)

Tachen Exodus Is Almost Complete; 'One Shot Affair'

By FRED HAMPSON TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist soldiers dynamited and put the torch to trenches, pill boxes and buildings today and U.S. Navy officers said the evacuation of the Tachen Islands was in its final phase. February gale winds that had slowed the operation to a crawl died its steady leading continued. Officers said the armada probably would wind up its job and sail by Saturday. The Nationalist Defense Ministry said it felt the withdrawal was ending its steady stage with most major fortifications blown up and equipment and troops ready for shipping. It said this was a critical period although there was no indication the Communists meant to attack. An correspondent Forrest Edwards, aboard a U.S. aircraft carrier, reported indications on his ship that the troop withdrawal is a one-shot affair. Nationalist troops, guns and equipment will be loaded and the whole armada, including the protective warships, will make the trip to Formosa together, Edwards said. Carriers and pilots were prepared to shift their jet and propeller-driven air cover umbrella from the Tachens to the ocean lanes to Formosa he reported. "It seems certain that the evacuation fleet will have air cover from the time it leaves the islands until it gets to Formosa," he quoted a Navy briefing officer. "We are ready to shift cover whenever ordered." The carrier Princeton, especially adapted for antisubmarine warfare has been assigned a special protective mission as the evacuation sails for Formosa. It seemed almost certain that other carriers would provide air cover and antisubmarine patrols while evacuation ships are still near the Tachens. The two Tachens and the Yu Shan group to the northeast and Pishan to the southwest have been stripped of all civilians. Nationalist troops in number remain only on Upper Tachen. Work details remained on Lower Tachen. The other islands were abandoned. The U.S. attack transport Washburn arrived here today with 1,185 Nationalist troops, the vanguard of Chiang Kai-shek's U.S.-trained 46th Division, and 520 tons of ammunition. Trains shuttled the troops off for south Formosa military camps.

Suspect Smoking Damages Heart

CHICAGO (AP)—There appears definite evidence, says the Journal of the American Medical Assn., that smoking can damage the heart muscle. An editorial in the AMA Journal published yesterday said: "There seems now to be definite evidence that smoking, even though it may not directly affect the coronary arteries, can have a damaging effect on the myocardium (muscular part of the heart wall)." "No patient with coronary disease should incur the added risk to his heart imposed by smoking without first discussing thoroughly the problem with his physician." In New York, the chairman of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee commented that his group is "convinced the vast majority of the American public are in relation to their health need much more thorough and complete investigation than has been made up to now." The chairman, Timothy V. Hartnett, said the committee, organized and financed by large tobacco companies, is continuing research into the tobacco-health relationship. Two other articles in the Journal also discussed the effects of smoking on the heart. One report, authored by three physicians, found that changes in blood pressure and the heart rate followed the smoking of cigarettes. The authors—Drs. Henry L. Russek and Virgil J. Dorset of Staten Island, N. Y., and Dr. Burton L. Zohman of Brooklyn—suggested that smoking is bad for coronary disease patients because of other effects, such as increases in heart rate and blood pressure. They said their findings did not prove the smoking presents a "direct danger" to patients through constriction of heart arteries. Dr. Isidore E. Buff of Charleston, W. Newcomer Bids For Shaky Seat

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Pflimlin, member of 13 postwar French governments, has devoted himself manfully to West German rearmament of today to line up enough support to become France's new premier. Assembly circles voiced a friendly reaction to his candidacy last night and observers gave the 46-year-old Alsatian lawyer a better than an even chance of marshaling sufficient backing to get the job. Pflimlin, a member of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement (MRP), has devoted himself manfully to domestic affairs in his various Cabinet posts and is little known outside France. He served as agriculture minister in eight cabinets and also has headed the ministries of health, national economy, commerce and overseas territories. After Antoine Pinay gave up the ghost yesterday, President Rene Coty's next logical choice was a member of the MRP. The party was one of Pierre Mendes-France's bitterest opponents during his stormy premiership and also doomed Pinay's chances by refusing to give him solid support. Backers of the two men might retaliate by opposing any member of the Catholic group. In Pflimlin's favor was his stand on the Paris treaties for German rearmament, whose ratification by Parliament's upper house will be one of the main problems awaiting any new premier. The MRP had ordered its members to oppose the treaties, but Pflimlin defied party orders and voted for them.

No Duck-Stealer He; Just A Pet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The elderly man said he wasn't the fellow who had been stealing ducks recently from Spreckels Lake in Golden Gate Park. He told officer Victor Wilcox he was just bringing his pet duck Elmer down for his daily swim. The man put Elmer's box down by the water's edge. After Elmer swam far out, the man took a breath and belted, "Elmer-mmerr!" Straight back to shore and into the box went Elmer. Then the man asked Wilcox: "Well?"

Warns Of Danger In Rising Debts

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Sen. Martin (R-Pa.) warned here last night that there is danger in rising public and private debt. "Uncontrolled debt, rising higher and higher year after year," he said, "places a crushing burden on the economic structure of our country and points the way to financial collapse." He told a Lincoln Day dinner audience that public and private debt has risen above 600 billion dollars.

U.S. Officials Convinced More 'Trouble' Ahead New Soviet Shakeups Seen

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Top American officials are reported convinced on the basis of careful analysis that there will eventually be more trouble among the little group of men with rules Russia. The demotion of Georgi M. Malenkov his replacement as premier by Nikolai A. Bulganin, the emergence of Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev as the strong man of Moscow are regarded as the beginning of a third phase in the struggle for power. The struggle dates, of course, from Joseph Stalin's death in March 1953. It reached its first climax with the purging of secret police boss Lavrenty P. Beria. Most officials concerned with analyzing Soviet government behavior agree on several conclusions about the shakeup which started the world Tuesday: 1. The massive Soviet system needs a dictator for its most effective operations and tends to produce a dictator when it does not have one. 2. There is more evidence than ever that since Stalin's death the dozen men who boss the Communist system have been caught up in personal rivalries and that these struggles will continue until a new dictator clearly appears. 3. While Khrushchev is the strong man now, his power cannot yet be considered to be firmly established. 4. The Soviet army has gained in the appearance of political strength and authority but whether it has real weight is uncertain. 5. The Old Bolsheviks are the most powerful group in the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union. They are the men who worked with Stalin from the days of the Russian Revolution. They include Bulganin, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, President Klement Voroshilov, Lazar Kaganovich and A. I. Mikoyan. Mikoyan recently lost his Soviet government ministry but so far his known remains in the inner party circle. There is some tendency among U.S. specialists to believe it was the Old Bolsheviks who got Malenkov. The assumption is they did not like his "soft" foreign policy line or his domestic policies which had failed to stimulate industrial and agricultural production. Some government officials are convinced that the army is on the upgrade, that Eisenhower's one-time comrade in arms Georgi K. Zhukov is the key military figure as minister of defense. Other officials, including most of those who have spent a lot of time studying Russia, have decided there is no evidence of a real army upsurge. They say the Communist party controls the army at so many levels that the army is not actually an independent instrument of power.

Utility's Head Concedes Major Problems Hail Nuclear Plant Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional atomic energy specialists today hailed as highly significant the plan of Consolidated Edison Co. of New York to build the nation's first privately financed nuclear power plant. H. R. Searing, president of the big utility which serves the New York metropolitan area, made the announcement to the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee yesterday. The plant, to cost an estimated $30 to 40 million dollars, is to be built five miles south of Peekskill, N. Y., on the Hudson River. Searing estimated it would be a year before construction begins and at least four years before the plant is in service. It would produce about 125,000 kilowatts of electricity—large enough to serve a city of 250,000. Searing said his firm should be ready to apply for a license before April 1. The nation's first commercial nuclear power plant is now under construction at Shippingport, Pa., near Pittsburgh as a joint project of the Duquesne Light Co. and the Atomic Energy Commission. Searing conceded his company's plans for a privately financed plant leave numerous problems to be solved. But he declared, "Our chief objective has been to get something done for we firmly believe that only by actual construction of projects can the art be placed on a commercial basis." Searing said Babcock and Wilcox, boiler manufacturing concern, was designing the reactor. Consolidated Edison believes best suited to its purposes. He said it should be "reasonably competitive with conventional plants in our area." Sen. Anderson (D-NM), chairman of the joint committee, said Searing's statement was "very, very important," and added: "It shows that if the (atomic energy) commission will just take the wraps off, there'll be plenty of fellows waiting to jump in." Anderson said the announcement shows the AEC was mistaken in views presented to the committee last week. Kenneth D. Nichols, AEC general manager, said the agency thought no private company was willing at this point to put up its own money to build an atomic power reactor. For that reason he said the commission has gone ahead with its program under which the government would put up a share of the cost.

Publisher Objects To Demand Of Grand Jury Faces Jail Over Matusow Book Data

NEW YORK (AP)—Publisher Albert E. Kahn, facing jail on a contempt charge over data pertaining to a book written by former Communist Harvey Matusow, has been given until late today to produce the material before a federal grand jury. Federal Judge John W. Clancy agreed yesterday to postpone the start of a six-month sentence for Kahn if he produced the records wanted by the grand jury. It was believed that if Kahn complies with the court order the jail sentence will be rescinded. Later yesterday, Kahn showed newsmen a 171-page document, purportedly a transcript of tape recordings of discussions with Matusow last November before the actual writing of the book "False Witness" began. The document, quoted Matusow, 28-year-old former FBI informer, to the effect that he had produced various congressional bodies such as the House Committee on Un-American Activities, as well as in court. Matusow was further quoted as saying he used fraudulent propaganda over the years to create the impression that Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) and other Democrats were Communist sympathizers. Matusow, according to the document, told his publishers he had accused Owen Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern affairs specialist, of being a "Red" although he didn't know who Lattimore was. The publishing firm of Cameron and Kahn, Inc., also said yesterday they have wired Sen. Elgore (D-WVa.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, offering to give the committee all relative material on the case. The publishers said they considered the grand jury demand "tantamount to an attempt to seize the book to suppress its publication." They said they "declined to make any of the data exclusively available to a secret proceeding initiated by the Justice Department since members of the Justice Department are seriously implicated in some of the charges and admissions made in Matusow's book." The Justice Department investigated the grand jury action concerning the publishers of Matusow's book. In another federal court action yesterday, Matusow himself was a figure in a motion for a new trial by the 13 second-string Communists. Twelve of them started serving prison terms last month. Matusow has said he bore false witness against some of the 13. Introduced into evidence by defense counsel Harry Sacher was a letter written by Matusow to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) dated Aug. 23, 1953. The letter follows: "Dear Joe: "When I testified at the trial of the 13 Communist leaders in New York, the defense attorney said, 'You would do anything for a buck.' I denied things I love and believe in... being dishonest with them, for I was afraid if I were honest I would be hurt by them. I was wrong." Sacher asked Matusow if his testimony at the trial of the 13 was "honest." Matusow replied, "No." Matusow replied.

Suit Charges Arms Monopoly

DENVER (AP)—A Denver businessman filed suit in U. S. District Court yesterday charging a monopoly in the small arms ammunition field and demanding $475,000 damages. Phil J. Francis, who runs a downtown store, stated he has been without a stock of such ammunition for a year because he refused to sign a fair trade agreement with the two firms involved. The companies are Olin Matheson Chemical Corp. of Virginia and Remington Arms Co., a Delaware firm.

Four Greenville Men Sentenced To 12 Months Each For Larceny

Four Greenville Negroes this morning were sentenced to six months on the roads for each of 14 counts of larceny of soy beans against them. Judge Charles H. Wheebec found the four men guilty of larceny of some 6,000 pounds of soy beans belonging to R. E. Rogers of Greenville, stored in a local warehouse. The thefts took place between January 11 and February 2. Raps Receivers In sentencing the men to the roads, Judge Wheebec rapped individuals who purchase farm produce or other articles without ascertaining ownership of the property which they purchase. "The court firmly believes," Judge Wheebec declared, "there would be no such thing as thieves if there were no fences for receiving stolen property. As long as people will buy beans without knowing where they come from it will offer a temptation to others to steal beans and sell them. If buyers would find out who is selling the beans it would cut down on bean stealing." 12 Months Each Judge Wheebec found the four defendants guilty of each of the 14 counts of larceny against them.

Report Young Boys Seen Running From Fire Site

Police are investigating a report that several young boys ran from an old hurricane-damaged house, which burned yesterday, shortly after the blaze broke out. A fire truck from the West End Sub-Station answered a call to the blaze yesterday afternoon after the ancient building caught fire. It was located at the intersection of Memorial Drive and the Stantonsburg Road. Fire fighters said they re-filled the tank of the sub-station truck four times as they played water on the burning building. The old frame house was partially demolished when Hurricane Hazel hit this section last fall. The roof of the building was blown off by the storm and deposited on the ground. Firemen called police in to investigate after workmen laying a tobacco bed in the area reported that they saw two small boys run away from the house shortly after the fire broke out. A police report said a number of youngsters have been questioned in connection with the fire. Investigation is continuing. The old building burned to the ground.

Christian Science Society
Healing through spiritual means as practiced by Christ Jesus will be a topic dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "SOUL," a word which, when capitalized, is used in Christian Science as one of the synonyms for God. The Bible selections include: "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them." Matthew 15:30

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following: "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

Stork Shower Given Mrs. Martin
BETHEL—On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, Mrs. James Womack, Mrs. Joe Butterworth and Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst honored Mrs. F. Curtis Martin at a surprise stork shower and bride dessert in the home of the former. Lovely pastel bouquets of flowers were used in the spacious and lovely home.

The individual tables were centered with miniature vases of pink and blue flowers.
The honoree's place was marked with a unique nosegay of rattlers, pins, bottles and other baby articles. The many nice and useful gifts were placed in a pink dotted swiss umbrella tied with pastel ribbons and flowers.

Upon arrival of the last guest, ice cream embossed with blue baby carriages, individual cakes, peanuts in flannel diapers were served.
Four tables were then placed for bride. At the end of play, high score prizes of Valentine boxes of candy were awarded to Mrs. Tom Andrews Jr. for the club and for the visitors, Mrs. Dave Speir.

The record temperature for one Maine weather station is 106 degrees Fahrenheit compared to the record of one Florida station—96.

Dr. Williamson Is Guest Speaker For Literature Dept.

Mrs. H. G. Haney and Mrs. Paul Ricks entertained the Literature Department of the Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Haney on Tuesday afternoon, February 8. Delicious refreshments were served before the meeting. Mrs. Jesse Moyer, Chairman, welcomed the guests, Dr. Eva Williamson, Mrs. Nannie E. Evans and Mrs. Herschel Williams. Attention was called to the "Round The World Cruise in Arts and Crafts" which exhibition will be in the art gallery throughout February and is well worth visiting. Mrs. F. P. Brooks announced that the next meeting will be held at her home February 22, with Mrs. M. P. Duval assisting, and a travel talk given by Mrs. J. H. Corey.

Mrs. Haney very graciously introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Eva Williamson. Dr. Williamson gave an inspiring review of Herman Hagedorn's "Prophet in the Wilderness," a heart-warming story of the life of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Man of our Century, one of the great men of the modern world. Dr. Schweitzer gave up a brilliant career to devote his life to work among the natives of French Equatorial Africa where he has spent over forty years. His great respect for life is shown in the story of his struggles under the most primitive conditions to lift the burden of disease from the natives deep in the wilderness where he established his hospital. At 38 when Dr. Schweitzer received his degree as Doctor of Medicine he was already in great demand as lecturer, preacher, organ recitalist, and organ consultant, besides being a noted writer.

Year Books Received By U.D.C. Members

The George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met with Mrs. H. T. Smith and Miss Mary Thomas Smith Thursday afternoon, February 10. The home was lovely throughout with attractive arrangements of gladiolus.
The hostesses welcomed each member and the following guests: Mrs. B. H. Dunnington, UDC State President; her sisters, Mrs. Troy Rouse and Miss Veneta Cox; Mrs. Alice Keel; and Mrs. Tobias of Washington, D. C.
The president, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, presided over a brief business session during which plans for the district meeting to be held in Kingston, March, were given. The program committee composed of Miss Smith, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, and Mrs. John Wooten, passed out the new year books and complimented Mrs. J. G. Lautares for the attractive covers. Miss Smith also presented each one present with an album of "Treasured Recollections from War Between the States Days" to be made with the methods and ingredients of today.
Mrs. J. T. Gaylord gave a short sketch of Sidney Lanier, this month being his birthday.

Mrs. Hollingsworth introduced Mrs. St. Amund who gave a very informative and instructive talk on vital facts concerning the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She also complimented this chapter on its outstanding record, its attractive year books, and for the prize given each year, in honor of Mrs. J. L. Fleming, for the best paper written on records found on tomb stones of Confederate soldiers.
During the social hour which followed a delicious salad course with cookies, candy and coffee were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Keel.
Entertains Bridge Club
BETHEL—Mrs. B. F. Manning entertained her bridge club at her home on Tuesday night at 7:30. The home was decorated with lovely planters of greenery.
Between the second and third progressions, the hostess served potato chips, chicken salad pastry shells, caramel squares, open-faced sandwiches on a hostess plate, pickles, with coffee and Coca-Colas.
Those who attended were Mesdames Don Carson Jr., Van Taylor Jr., Eugene Carson, Robert Weeks James Crandell, Bob Young, Ralph Carson, and Brantley Chesson.
When the scores were added, high score prize was awarded to Mrs. Dor Carson.
Hosts to Couples Club
BETHEL—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis entertained the couples club on Monday night. Potted plants and greenery were used to decorate the home.
Between the second and third progressions, the hostess served a congealed salad, pimento cheese sandwiches, candy, pickles, club crackers and cokes were enjoyed by the guests.
When the scores were added, high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ralph Highsmith and Wadie Ward. Others who played were Mr. Highsmith, Mrs. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. X. E. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Jackson, Mr. Leland Andrews and the hosts.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 11, 1925

Raleigh—Representative Madison created a mild sensation today when he sent forward a bill, independent of the revenue act, which would impose a sliding scale sales tax on cigars, cigarettes, candy, lip sticks, beauty clays, lotions and a number of other articles. He stated that between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 would be added to the state's revenue through this tax. Senator Harris of Wake introduced a bill designed to limit the employment of children under 16 years of age to 48 hours a week.

Educational Talk On E. C. C. Heard At Semi-Centi Club

The Semi-Centi Book Club met at the home of Mrs. James Lafferty Tuesday evening.
Mrs. Hudson, president, opened the meeting. The minutes were read, books exchanged and the program was turned over to Mr. James Butler.
Mr. Butler gave a very interesting, educational and inspiring talk on East Carolina College and its effect and influence on the home life of Greenville people.
The guests were then invited into the dining room where punch, Valentine shaped cookies and sandwiches were served. The table was decorated with red and white carnations and the Valentine motif.
Guests for the evening were Mesdames A. Hartwell-Campbell, Joe Stone Curtis Perkins, Herschel Williams, Brooks Beddingfield, Nick Scharmonovich, Tyson Bilbro, Charles Risher and Mr. James Butler.

Music Is Topic For Study Of Falkland Faculty

The faculty of the Falkland School held their third professional meeting on Tuesday afternoon.
Music was the topic for study at this time. Mrs. Lillian Lawrence and Mrs. Kay Phillips had charge of the program. They discussed ways in which the teachers might familiarize their children with the material before they attend the East Carolina Orchestra Concert. Records were played, portraying the different kinds of instruments, that could be used effectively to familiarize the children with the instruments. Large pictures of the instruments were shown. Several recordings of music that will be on the concert program were played to show how they could be used in preparation for the concert.

Baptist Circles Have Monthly Meet

BETHEL—The regular monthly meeting of the Gladys Keith Circle met on Monday with Mrs. Dora Andrews and Mrs. Willie Barnhill as co-hostesses. Mrs. W. W. Taylor gave a short prayer.
Mrs. C. E. Brown, president, called the meeting to order. The secretary, Mrs. Barnhill, read the minutes after which the community mission chairman gave her report. It was reported that a baby shower had been sent to Mrs. Fred Moring and the family of the late Jim Davenport had been remembered. Cards were sent to a list of those who were sick.

Mrs. L. L. Whitehurst read a few verses from Luke and made a few remarks on "Missions." She then presented Mrs. S. D. Dewar who gave a talk on "The Life of Ann Judson." It was the story of a missionary who married a Baptist preacher and of the hardships which they endured.
Mrs. E. L. Mayo then gave a closing prayer.
The hostesses served chicken salad sandwiches with coffee to eight members and four visitors. The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. L. L. Whitehurst.

The Alda Grayson Circle met on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Alton Carson.
Mrs. J. C. Smith presided at the meeting. Mrs. R. I. Taylor Jr. read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll with 11 members present. Regular business was discussed and transacted.
The program chairman was Mrs. Will Grimes who chose as her topic the first chapter of the study book "Dauntless Women." She gave a most interesting discussion on the hardships of Ann Judson, missionary to India.
The prayer was given by Mrs. John Mayo.
During the social hour, delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the group.

E. C. C. Students Present Program For Music Club

BETHEL—Mesdames J. L. Brown, W. J. Smith, D. O. Speir and D. C. Carson Sr. were joint hostesses to the Music Club on Tuesday night at 8:00. The meeting took place in the home of Mrs. Brown, using a Valentine motif in the decorations.
Due to the absence of the president, Miss Camille Steton presided at the business session. The secretary, Mrs. J. D. Hemingway gave her reports with 20 members and three visitors present. A discussion concerning an Easter cantata was held but no definite plans were made.

The program chairman, Mrs. Smith, then presented three East Carolina College students who presented the program. The students were Irving Ennis of Goldsboro, Joan McKenzie, a piano major from Wilmington, and June Crews, a voice major from Creedmore.

Mr. Ennis, a tenor, sang the following as his solo selections: "Wierder You Walk" by Handel, "Vergin Tutia Amor" by Durante, "Verborgenheit" by Wolf, "My Friends" by Molote, three Shakespeare songs arranged by Quilter, "Come Away Death," "O Mistress Mine" and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind." Miss McKenzie accompanied him at the piano and Miss Crews assisted her. The group thoroughly enjoyed the program by the visitors.

The guests were invited into the dining room where the table was centered with an original arrangement of red and white gladiolus. At either end of the table Mrs. C. P. Womack served ice cream and Miss Steton poured coffee. Other refreshments consisted of individual cakes, nuts and candy.

Pitt Pupils Will Hear Orchestra

Pupils in elementary schools in the city of Greenville and in Pitt County will be honor guests at two concerts to be presented next week by the East Carolina Orchestra. The programs will be sponsored by the department of music of East Carolina College.

Pupils in county schools will attend a concert Tuesday, February 15. Those enrolled in city schools of Greenville will hear the orchestra Friday, February 18. Each concert will take place at 1:30 p. m. in the Wright auditorium on the college campus.

Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, director of the East Carolina College department of music, will conduct the orchestra, which includes in its personnel sixty selected musicians from the college and from various other localities in Eastern North Carolina.

Programs for the two concerts are now being rehearsed by the orchestra. Selections have been chosen to meet the tastes of audiences of young people.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
We're trying a new wrinkle today—dividing the column up into small items, so you can read it easier, and maybe stick with it to the end. We asked Our Boss, Your Editor, about it—he went along, adding one more suggestion, much to our grief—that we should please make the column shorter. So here goes, for better—and shorter—Books and Stuff.

Faulkner Again
Last week William Faulkner, Pulitzer Prize recipient and this year's National Book Award winner for his novel, "A Fable," made a speech at the annual NBA banquet when the awards were presented. Here's an excerpt which we think is worth reprinting. From this week's N. Y. Times Magazine, Faulkner speaking:
"Success is too easy. In our country a young man can gain it with no more than a little industry. He can gain it so quickly and easily that he has not had time to learn the humility to handle it with, or even to discover, realize, that he will need humility."

And Now Walt Whitman
Just published by Macmillan is "The Solitary Singer," newest and some say best biography of Walt Whitman, by Gay Wilson Allen, a professor of American Literature at New York University. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the publication of Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" in its first edition—the most famous of his works. So it's a good time for another biography of the poet whom Thoreau called "apparently the greatest democrat the world has seen."

On The Blue And The Gray
Harriet Kane, author of "Bride of Fortune" and "The Lady of Arlington," has an interesting piece in the Times about why people and writers are again turning with such enthusiasm to the War Between the States as a subject for novels and non-fiction books. They're coming out all over the place—several have been reviewed here—and range all over the South, like such titles as "Rebel Rose," by Isabel Ross, concerning a Confederate lady spy; "Bohemian Brigade," by L. M. Starr, about Civil War newspaper correspondents; and the new book about a great southern general, "They Called Him Stonewall," by Burke Davis. Not to mention two books about Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, several about Honest Abe himself—including Carl Sandburg's condensation of his great biography—and a brand new one from deep in the heart of Texas, "Sam Houston: The Great Designer," by Llerena Friend, about Houston's fight to get Texas into the Union—which he won—and his fight to make it stay in, which he lost.

Notable New Books
"Notable Books of 1954" is a list of books just issued by the Public Libraries Division of the American Library Association. Of the thirty-five named, several were of interest to Southerners. Hamilton Basso's "The View From Pompey's Head" was the top novel—and incidentally it heads this week's best seller list for the fourth successive time. It's about a displaced Southerner, if you remember, who goes back to his home town and has some interesting experiences. It was recommended to damyankees by a northern newspaper because of "its acute insight into what makes Southerners think and act as they do." So there you are—just ask Basso, if you wonder why you're the way you are.

Literary Note
We learned with pleasure that the magazines and the educators are getting together to fight America's worst enemy—or one of the worst anyway—illiteracy. The National Education Association and the Magazine Publishers Association have just announced that they've formed a joint committee "to reinforce one another in the job of creating a more literate America." Roy Larsen, director of Time, Inc., will head up the new effort, and we hope they succeed—as of right now, there are an awful lot of illiterate people around, and they're not being made much less illiterate by what they read in some of the magazines. The Saturday Evening Post being excepted, of course—the second of two instalments of Jim Piersall's story, called "They Said I Was Crazy—And I Way," as told to Al Hirshberg, came out in last week's issue.

Future Event for Cooks
Coming off the presses, soon, for those interested in cooking—and eating—and who isn't?—"Classical Recipes of the World," by Henry Smith, containing information on how to prepare 4000 different "classical" dishes from many countries, from gefilte fish to corned beef hash—plus a historical culinary calendar listing dishes suitable for important anniversaries—like cherry pie for Washington's birthday. Which—as always—leaves us with frankfurters, sauerkraut, and no more space—till next week.

SAFETY MEASURE
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Thieves entered the Reams Coal Co. and took the burglar alarm—nothing else.

New Club Officers Installed

Officers of the Newcomer Club were installed yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Woman's Club. Present for the installation ceremonies were, seated left to right: Miss Cynthia Mendenhall, publicity chairman; Mrs. H. Kelly Crockett, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. James S. Methodist Circles Meet In Bethel

BETHEL — The Mary Lambeth Circle of the W.S.C.S. met on Monday night at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Elizabeth Benton. There were seventeen members present.

Mrs. R. B. Edmondson opened the meeting by reading several quotations from the Bible. She made a few remarks concerning these and closed with a short prayer.

Mrs. A. M. McWhorter then gave the program taken from the study book "Under Three Flags". She used maps showing the location of India and Pakistan which were discussed. She also talked on the superstitions and hazards of the missionaries to these countries and brought out how these people resented the American because of misdealings in the past. Christianity is the only hope which will overcome these superstitions.

Regular routine business was transacted with the president, Mrs. L. G. Manning, presiding and the secretary, Mrs. C. M. Burton, reading her reports. The group was reminded that the district president, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be here at the meeting on February 21. All members are urged to be present.

The spiritual life leader, Mrs. W. E. House, chose as her scripture reading, John 3:14 and closed with a prayer.

Mrs. Wayne Rogerson gave the first two chapters of the new study book, "Under Three Flags". She presented a most interesting discussion on the independence and hardships of poverty in the countries of India and Pakistan. She also stated that there were over 225 languages which was a big handicap in obtaining their freedom.

During the business session, Mrs. Perry, the president, distributed pamphlets to read before the next meeting. Other routine business was discussed including the report from the secretary, Mrs. Rogerson.

The hostess served a congealed salad, cookies, pickled peaches, nuts, club crackers and coffee to eleven members and one visitor.

day afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. F. C. Martin. There were nineteen members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Robert Davis began her devotion by reading the third chapter of Revelation. Her topic was "Prayer and What It Could Mean for World Peace". She also read an article from the Reader's Digest and closed with a short prayer.

Mrs. D. T. House, who was in charge of the program, presented Tommy House. He discussed the many problems which confront the countries of India and Pakistan taken from the book, "Under Three Flags". He brought out the words which these people have a remarkable that to obtain their independence Christian faith is to be taught to overcome the ignorance of superstitions.

During the business meeting, old and new business was transacted with Mrs. R. L. Goodall presiding. The circle benediction was pronounced.

The refreshments for the afternoon carried out the Valentine idea with a delicious salad plate.

Speech Contest Winner Addresses Jaycee Meet

Miss Patsy Baker of Greenville, county winner of the Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by the local Jaycees, addressed the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last night.

The world now stands at the crossroads between democracy and communism, the Greenville High student asserted. Democracy, she declared, exists for the common man and for the individual. It is the expression of faith of free men, and marks man's greatest advancement toward the goal of freedom toward which men have been striving for 6,000 years.

Democracy, she said, begins at home and must be felt in the heart before it shows in one's life. Bill Corbett, chairman of the committee on Americanism week, which begins February 12, introduced the speaker.

Two representatives of the Air Force appeared before the Jaycees last night and discussed briefly plans for establishing a ground observer post in Greenville. Sgt. Gray, who outlined plans for the local post, said it would require 175 volunteers to man the post around the clock with each volunteer observer working two hours a week. The purpose of ground observer posts, he said, is to supplement the radar network.

Grads Will Hear Rev. Richard Lee

FARMVILLE — Rev. Richard Henry Lee, rector of the Church of the Ascension, Amherst, Va., and chaplain to Episcopalians at Sweet Briar College, will deliver the commencement sermon at Farmville High School this year.

The service will be held at the school on May 22, at 8 p.m. Sam D. Bundy is principal of the school. State Supt. of Public Instruction Charles F. Carroll will deliver the commencement address May 23 at 8 p.m.

Accidents killed more than 90,000 people in the United States in 1954.

Grocers To Meet Monday Night

Greenville Independent Grocers will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Silo Grill for a dutch supper, president Durward M. Harris has announced.

At this time a committee report on advertising and other means of promoting the local independent grocers will be presented to the group for its approval.

It Was Not An Easy Task

All obstacles which cropped up in the path of efforts to secure the new bridge and bypass at Greenville apparently have now been swept away. There remain only a few minor details to be completed before the project is ready for a March letting.

The assurance of highway officials that the project will bet let in March is good news for the people of Pitt County who have watched closely the developments in the project for the past several months. The assurance brings a great deal of satisfaction of local officials, highway officials and local citizens who have so diligently coped with every impediment which has threatened the undertaking. They have exerted every effort to transform the dream of the bypass and bridge into reality.

It has not been a simple matter to iron out the many problems which were encountered. It has taken long hours of planning, many miles of travel and a great deal of patience on the part of the leaders of the movement to attain the goal which is now in sight. It has likewise taken a great deal of diplomacy and resolute determination.

Had it not been for the untiring efforts and the devotion of the men who have spearheaded the project for the local people, the new bypass and bridge would still be a dream in the distant future. Pitt County and Greenville are indeed fortunate to have among its citizenry officials and citizens who are willing, when the chips are down, to expend whatever amount of time and effort necessary to carry to completion a project for the common good.

A Statement Of Principle

Newspapers throughout North Carolina have recently rededicated themselves to a set of principles adopted unanimously by the 195 daily and non-daily newspapers which make up the North Carolina Press Association.

The principles are not new. They are as old as the freedom of the press and newspapers themselves. Newspapers which are worth their salt have abided by these principles throughout their period of publication.

As a constant reminder to newspapers and newspaper folk, of the responsibility of the press, the newspapers of North Carolina have set down in writing, the long-standing principles which guide a responsible free press.

Throughout its 73 years of publication, The Reflector has constantly endeavored to live up to these high principles of a responsible free press. The Reflector rededicates itself to these principles which have now been set down in writing.

THE NEWSPAPERS OF NORTH CAROLINA, conscious of their obligations, and mindful of their own human imperfections, rededicate themselves to these principles which guide a responsible press in a free society.

Strength for the Day

THE MATERIAL IS IMPORTANT
Do you have any moral standards?
Oh yes, you reply, I have some very definite moral standards. Such being the case, the next question is, Are these moral standards made of steel or of rubber—or perhaps of butter?

Some people have mighty good theories which they never for a moment think of putting into operation when comfort or profit or passion is at stake. Many people have an adaptable type of moral standard which can assume one form in one circle of society and an entirely different form in another. Some moral standards bend like rubber, and others melt like butter when the heat of public criticism is turned on. Stand for something! Everybody will think more of you if you do. Even the ones who laugh at you will secretly admire you. You may have heard this expression: "Stand for something or pretty soon you will stand for anything." Not a bad description of how some people's moral standards give way before the assaults of every tempting circumstance. This expression sums up pretty well the basis on which some hostesses entertain some business men operate, some students seek after popularity and office.

Steel, rubber, and butter. What about the substance of your ideals? Do you have any? and if so, what are they made of?

Atom Bound To Enter Politics

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has been assailed by a few political and scientific spokesmen for having plunged the atomic energy problem into politics, or vice versa. His critics include such contrasting figures as Albert Einstein, who first proposed the atomic experiment to F.D.R., and Albert Gore, the New Dealish Senator from Tennessee.

The basis for the accusation is White House support of the Dixon-Yates-TVA-AEC contract, which has involved the Atomic Energy Commission in partisan controversy on Capitol Hill. The opposition also charges that, in appointing new AEC personnel and in approving contracts for experimentation in peacetime application of nuclear power, it tends to favor private rather than public interests.

In short, the atom, including the bomb itself, has at last exploded into politics and economics—and into everyday reality. What amuses the more knowledgeable experts is that this evolution should evoke any surprise or criticism. They point out that Eisenhower cannot be held responsible for this nonmilitary explosion.

ATOM AND POLITICS—It was an inevitable relationship, just as the invention of electricity, the automobile, radio and television produced new and difficult politico-economic problems.

In short, the atom can no more be kept out of or above politics than the tariff or pork-barrel rivers and harbors projects. That is, not unless these radioactive particles, taken medicinally, can do what no other human discovery has ever done—create an entirely new breed of nonpolitical politicians.

The people surprised and shocked by this development, according to the more realistic viewpoint, resemble J. Robert Oppenheimer. He admitted that he lived in such a remote and dreamlike world that he never read a newspaper until long after World War I had engulfed the universe.

DOMINANT DISCUSSIONS—These politico-scientific critics need only to attend current conferences at the White House, the State Department or FREEDOM OF THE PRESS exists in a democracy, not for the power or profit or pleasure of any individual, but for the common good. The right of the people to now cannot be denied or diminished without endangering democracy itself. It is the obligation of the press to provide accurate, timely and complete information about all developments which affect the people's political, economic or social well-being. Given the facts, the people usually will reach wise decisions.

THE TRUSTEESHIP OF A FREE PRESS is the final responsibility of the publisher. He may share it, but he cannot escape it. The good publisher provides the necessary money and space for adequate coverage of the essential news and employs personnel of integrity, ability and sound judgment. He exalts accuracy above every other consideration, and insists upon prompt, full and even generous correction when errors occur.

EVERY CITIZEN DESERVES THE STIMULUS of a strong editorial page, on which the editor voices his own well-informed opinion, clearly and forcefully; yet willingly provides space for contrary opinion. The good editor often takes sides, but without arrogance or intolerance. He champions boldly the rights of the people, sometimes against government itself. He provides leadership, particularly in his own community. He has a special responsibility to defend the weak, to prod the public conscience, and to speak out against the injustices of which a majority can sometimes be guilty.

THE PRIMARY FUNCTION OF A NEWSPAPER is to report the news. The good reporter strives constantly to find and write the truth. This task, no matter how difficult, is his unescapable responsibility.

TO BE TRUE, a story, together with its headlines, must be honest. To be honest, it must be fair. To be fair, it must be accurate and complete.

HONESTY DEMANDS OBJECTIVITY, the submergence of prejudice and personal conviction. Fairness demands regard for the rights of others. Accuracy demands courage, painstaking care, and persistence to assure a total picture as true as its individual facts.

THE FINAL TEST OF EVERY STORY, every headline, every editorial, every newspaper is: IS IT HONEST?
IS IT FAIR?
IS IT ACCURATE?

TO THE END that they can more frequently answer these questions in the affirmative, the newspapers of North Carolina adopt this statement of principle.

Selected Shorts
EL DORADO, KANS., TIMES: "A dime out of every tax dollar goes to pay interest charges alone (low interest, too) on the national debt. Maybe some of the rank and file folk ought to worry a bit about that debt, and what it means to all of us as a bounden obligation and inflationary influence, as well as Treasury officials and a few others."

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., YE TOWNE CRAYER: "There is nothing wrong with the abundant life which has become prevalent in this country in the past decade or so, but with it has come a feeling on the part of many that the world owes them a living and that somehow they will be taken care of."

PAMPAS, TEXAS, DAILY NEWS: "Government schools must of necessity work toward mediocrity, regimentation, and mendacity. It is only in the independent school where opportunity still remains for the individual to dare to be what he is, himself."

Currently, were it not for the fact that the Seventh Fleet off Formosa is equipped with atomic bombs, Mao Tse-tung might launch an immediate invasion of islands which we have pledged ourselves to defend. For good or for bad, our atomic power influences both military and foreign policy more violently and radically than any other force in world history.

REDUCING GROUND FORCES—The atomic presence likewise determines the size and nature of our national defense establishment. It underlies the White House decision to reduce ground forces while building up air, naval and atomic weapons.

It is Eisenhower's belief that this trend will provide "more bang with a buck," thus permitting a reduction in the overall cost of national defense. Naturally, this prospect will affect such political and partisan questions as taxes, deficits, the budget, inflation and the cost of bread and butter.

YARDSTICK COMPETITION—Finally, when industrial use of atomic energy becomes feasible five or six years hence there will be a resounding debate between liberals and conservatives. As previously with water power, the New Dealers already insist on government ownership of generating plants, or at least the so-called "yardstick competition."

The Eisenhowerites or their successors will demand that, like other forms of energy, the atomic force be incorporated within the going, private enterprise system.

What Will It Be Like?

Somebody Told Me

Waiting To Be A Contestant

Every time her phone rings Mrs. Dot Miller jumps. She decided that she had a secret and wanted to appear on Garry Moore's CBS television show, "I've Got A Secret."

So Dot wrote in to the program, sending a picture and giving her secret (which escapes me right now).

It wasn't long before the telephone rang and it was CBS-TV on the other end. Did they want her to appear? Not yet. The man quickly explained that the same producers handled "I've Got A Secret" and "Two for the Money."

But first they wanted her to think up several incidents that had happened to her that might make conversation on the show.

Surprised? He was. Herb is so casual that he had me convinced that he just accidentally stumbled into funny questions to ask the contestants.

Dot thought of several incidents that might fit what the man wanted and called him back yesterday. He didn't give her a definite answer, but seemed to like the stories and told her not to be surprised if she was called any time and asked to come and appear on the show.

"We line up contestants a long time in advance," he said. All of the planning that the necessary shows that an audience-participation show is not just thrown together.

Dot told the man in New York that she's stout, has been kidded about it all of her life and rather enjoys it. If Herb can't make fun out of that he isn't the performer I think he is.

Dot is a little more specific. She talked about the Crosley car she drove during her school days and how everybody marveled at how she popped in and out of that little car. While she was in nurse training, there were five other girls in the small car with her (all were wearing shorts) when the car stalled on Five Points.

It so happened that there were two preachers walking by at the time, so they ignored (it says here) the fact that the girls were in shorts while giving them a push. It's my opinion that Dot has a good chance to land on the show. But if Herb talks about her size and a Crosley automobile you can see that it would not be an accident.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

MONEY AND THE SCHOOLS (Rocky Mount Telegram)

The attendance of some 1,100 Nash and Edgecombe citizens at the "Emergency School Meeting" in Rocky Mount's Senior High School auditorium Monday evening is a remarkable demonstration of public interest in our schools. It is also a tribute to the splendid job done by Ray Wilkinson, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Education Committee and his fellow Jaycees who sponsored the program.

The legislators and citizens who attended that meeting had their eyes opened to the "creeping crisis" in education brought on by the rapidly increasing population and outlined recently in this space. State and local education officials were given solid proof of public support of the schools.

Dr. Amos T. Adams, editor of North Carolina's magazine "Education" came right to the point and struck the evening's keynote with the statement that nothing can be accomplished without money. The resolution which was unanimously adopted by those in attendance underlined this fact by calling for sufficient appropriations to adequately provide for: 1, qualified attendance personnel; 2, additional teachers; 3, operational school costs; and 4, teacher salary increases.

The present made it clear that they are willing to pay what is necessary to provide adequate schools for the State's oncoming generations.

This newspaper wishes to sound a word of warning on this matter of school money. Revenue hungry legislators may try to trade on the public's school support in order to raise money for other expenditures. There is already talk in the backrooms of Raleigh about large sales-tax increases, on the theory that the consumers are not as vocal or well organized as other prospective tax victims: the insurance firms, tobacco and soda pop lobbies. To quiet any public protest even unorganized, the boys in Raleigh are talking of earmarking certain sales tax increases "for schools." In other words, tie the schools to the sales tax increases or perhaps other tax increases.

This is all right if the additional funds go for additional school needs, but the school system should not be made to bear all the burden of blame for additional taxes lest a long-suffering public in time decide the game isn't worth the candle.

Around Capitol Square

Different Approaches, But Same Findings On Water

NUMBER ONE — Luther Hodges, Governor of North Carolina; David S. Weaver, director of agricultural extension at State College, and Ben E. Douglas, director of conservation and development, told a joint meeting of the Senate and House committees on conservation and development that water is the number one problem facing the General Assembly and the people.

The three men approached the subject from slightly different angles, but conclusions were almost identical. The water problem is not so immediate or obvious as some others, but in total impact upon the economy of the State it is the most important.

Governor Hodges led off the discussion with the statement that water is the key to the whole development program of the State and unless the General Assembly and the public face the problem with vision and courage we are in for serious trouble. He voiced the belief that within the membership of the Legislature and the study commissions which have been working on the subject there is enough general interest and specific brain power to solve it. He urged that the legislators seriously and prayerfully consider making a start toward solution.

He recognizes that any step toward water control will be almost revolutionary, running counter to century-old concepts of riparian rights. One of the immediate needs is a broadly based educational program so that the people might be informed about the seriousness of the situation and the rights of others in water which originates on their lands. He said the current problems of water shortages arise out of changes in the use of water rather than because of any reduction in supply. Air conditioning and land irrigation are two items of recent development contributing to complications in the legal aspects of the water problem.

DIVERSITY — The extremes of soil irrigation and building air conditioning illustrate the wide range of new problems arising under modern living conditions. They serve, too, to emphasize the lack of legislation respecting the use of water.

Dr. David Weaver, chairman of the special water resources advisory commission appointed by Governor Umstead and continued by Governor Hodges, noted the difference between strict laws governing land and almost no laws governing water. All life, he said, lives in the environment of four factors, soil, water, air and light sunshine. For many modern living conditions have been rigid regulations concerning the ownership and use of land, and real estate title records are preserved in governmental archives more carefully than any others. There have been very few laws regulating use of water, still fewer about air and sunshine—although these may be needed before many more years have passed.

Water is completely mobile, he said. It is always moving. It comes down in rain and goes up through evaporation, flows down by gravity or is absorbed through roots of plants. This mobility makes control difficult, and also makes it necessary. The real problem is to conserve and distribute the water to meet the needs of agriculture and industry and animal-human life. Ben Douglas, speaking for the department of conservation and development, admitted he was looking through the spectacles of industry as Weaver was looking from the viewpoint of agriculture. He said he thought his department had done a good job in attracting new industry to North Carolina, and that water resources was an important item. He concurred in a statement by the Governor that water was more important than tax schedules when industrialists begin to look around for new locations.

CONFLICT — The conflicting interests (perhaps "contrasting" would be a better word) in this whole question was pretty well illustrated by viewpoints of Governor Hodges, Dr. Weaver and Director Douglas.

The Governor said he was trying to look at the whole picture of water usage—agriculture, industry, recreation. The Weaver commission report recognized the importance of water in all phases of the economy but emphasized mainly its essential contribution to life—vegetable and animal, including human. Douglas and the C&D group admittedly put major emphasis upon the significance of water for industrial progress.

There is not actual conflict among these viewpoints, but there is noticeable contrast in enthusiasm for certain phases. These contrasts may be sufficient to prevent effective legislation at this time. If of fairly common knowledge that Governor Umstead's appointment of a special advisory water resources committee was considered by the C&D De-

Business Today

Ideas On Economies

By ELMER ROESSNER

Automobile dealers are pretty cool about these days. While gross receipts are high, they have been allowing so much on trade-ins that their nets are low. So, ways to save money came in for considerable discussion at the recent National Automobile dealers convention.

One talk was of special interest because the points made can be applied to so many other business operations outside the auto field. It was by Irvin Cochran, of Champaign, Ill. Some of his points are:

If a dealer is netting 5 per cent on sales saving $100 in expenses is as good as making a $2,000 sale.

Give employees definite goals. Don't say, "I think our shop towel laundry is too high. We've got to cut it down." Say rather, "Last month our shop towel laundry and losses cost us $80. Can you tell me why? How can we control it without affecting our service?"

Consider offering bonuses for savings. "Letting your people know what expenses you have and how they can help avoid unnecessary expenses can be very helpful. Be sure to make it known that you don't want anything done to affect safety, cleanliness, quality of work or customer satisfaction."

So-called fixed expenses may not be as fixed as you may think. In most dealerships, the shop supplies account is a catch-all account. Actually, it should include only those items which are so general they cannot be charged to a particular job. In the paint and body shop, where a specific charge can be made to each job, paint materials, solder, masking tape, etc., should be charged to an inventory account as purchased, then charged out to individual jobs as used. "If you use high-priced finish creams cleaners and polishes, these should not be considered as expense items or consumables, but as a parts sale and so charged on the work order." Even at higher prices, small sizes in shop supplies may be cheaper. They are more convenient, can be charged out completely, are less subject to deterioration and take less bench space.

Miscellaneous bolts and nuts, cotter keys and washers, and similar items are another minor leak. These have gone up in price and should now be charged out as any other part on a job.

"We have made significant savings in electric lights by the use of red pilot lights conspicuously placed in the shop to show when basement lights, outdoor flood lights and appliances have been left on needlessly."

There's scarcely an idea there that can't be applied to a beauty shop, department store, foundry, puppet factory or what have you?

SBA TELL HOW TO EMPLOY INDEPENDENT LABORATORY

No technical problem of a small manufacturer is too insignificant for independent laboratory attention, says the Small Business Administration. To tell small manufacturers how to go about employing the services of a laboratory it has published a four-page leaflet. It is titled "HOW TO EMPLOY INDEPENDENT LABORATORY SERVICES."

Although hardware sales in December rose to 3 per cent above year-ago figures, retailers' sales for the year were still 1 per cent under 1953, the National Retail Hardware Association reports.

They Err In Glamor Job Goals

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the nation's highest-paid delivery boys thinks too many young men today are trying to win success the wrong way.

"They want a glamor job—a position with a title," said Alfred L. Hammell.

Hammell is the delivery boy who heads the giant Railway Express Agency. Largely self-educated, although one college has conferred a doctorate in business degree on him, he began at the bottom 45 years ago as a freight handler.

Today the firm he directs as president has about 45,000 employees, rings up some 400 million dollars a year in business, 90 million air and rail shipments to 23,000 American communities.

"It's a big mistake for young men to look only for the glamor jobs," he said. "Anybody who is afraid to get his hands dirty isn't likely to go very far."

"The jobs that have the least glamor on the surface often afford you the opportunity to get the most know-how of the business you're in."

Hammell got the glamor devil out of his own system young.

"At 18 I set out prospecting for gold on an old mining claim of my father's in California," he recalled. "I spent 18 months chasing a rainbow that had no end. In that time I found $1,000 worth of gold—but it all went for beans, bacon and dynamite."

Hammell then sought employment with the old Wells Fargo Express Company in San Francisco.

"You looking for a job or a position?" inquired the depot agent.

"Lucky, I told him I wanted a job," said Hammell. "If I had said I was looking for a position — I found out later—I'd have been right back out on the street."

"The pay was only $60 a month and a 60-hour week, but I was fortunate to have been like that man. He let me try my hand at everything, when I wasn't busy lifting freight. I got a good all-round smattering of the business."

Hammell rose step by step in the organization, moved himself and his family to 11 cities before becoming president 6 years ago. He feels young men are sometimes too reluctant to pull up roots and go wherever their job calls them.

"It's important not to be too particular about what your job assignment is, or where it takes you," he remarked. "Any new assignment gives you a chance to learn more about your business."

Hammell, a gruffly genial, 340-pound, enjoys rough—and ready—battling. Right now he's waging war with the U. S. Post Office. It currently handles parcel post packages weighing up to 70 pounds. He wants it to go back to its old limit of 11 pounds.

"The Post Office today is in the freight business and losing money," he said. "We're in the position of a free enterprise competing against a government tax subsidy."

At issue is millions of dollars in freight volume now sent at parcel post rates by mail order houses — a practice which directs the movement of shipments ranging from a package of live lady bugs to entire freight train loads of fresh strawberries.

"We handle a surprising volume of white mice," he said. "And around Christmas we're bringing in 50 gift burros a day to the metropolitan area from Mexico."

Race horses, fish, bees, elephants and wild animals now travel by express. Milking cows and goats in transit are in the position of live export agents.

Hammell keeps an ear close to the telephone on his desk, and prides himself that nobody has to go through a dozen secretaries to reach his ear.

So if someone shipped you a tropical fish, and it arrived with one of its fins bent, just dial Murray Hill 6-7900—and ask for Mr. Hammell. He may not know how to bend the fin back in shape himself, but he probably can find someone who can.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 8:1-21; 10:7-16; Acts 16:19-34; II Corinthians 5:17.

A Pharisee and ruler of the Jews came to Jesus by night, saying, "Rabbi, we know that Thou art a teacher come from God; for no man can do these miracles that Thou doest except God be with him."

Paul and Silas were taken before the magistrates in Philippi. They were beaten and thrown into prison. That night, as they were singing hymns, came a great earthquake that shook the prison foundations and opened the doors.

The jailer, thinking his prisoners had escaped, was about to kill himself, but Paul cried to him not to harm himself, as all the prisoners were there. The jailer asked them then, "What must I do to be saved?"

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ," Paul answered the jailer. The man then took them to his house, bound up their wounds, and, believing, was saved, he and all his house.

MEMORY VERSE—John 10:10.

New Life in Christ

JESUS CAME THAT WE MIGHT HAVE LIFE, AND HAVE IT ABUNDANTLY

Scripture—John 3:1-21; 10:7-16; Acts 16:19-34; II Corinthians 5:17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WHAT is "abundant life"? We are not enjoying it when we are ill. In deep sorrow we do not have this kind of life. Men and women in prison are not free to feel this abundant life. Jesus brings all men and women this full life when they accept Him for their Savior and are born again into a new freedom and joy. This is today's lesson.

The first reference is to the story of Jesus and Nicodemus, a learned man and a member of the Sanhedrin. In spite of his position in the community and his knowledge of the Scriptures, he must have felt that there was something lacking in his life. He knew of Jesus and evidently admired Him, and so he came secretly, at night, to talk with Him.

Nicodemus addressed the Master courteously, saying, "Rabbi, we know that Thou art a teacher come from God; for no man can do these miracles that Thou doest, except God be with him."

Jesus' answer puzzled him, for He said that "except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God."

and thrown into prison. Not only were they deprived of their freedom, but they were further humiliated by having their feet put in the stocks. The jailer was also given strict orders to keep them there safely.

How would you feel if when you had committed no crime, but only good, you found yourself badly beaten and thrown into jail with your feet in the stocks, or chained, with your wounds untreated, not even washed clean?

The two apostles did not act as we might have done under those circumstances. At midnight they prayed and sang hymns of praise to God. The other prisoners present, used to cursing or bemoaning, listened astonished, we may surmise.

Then something startling happened. A great earthquake rocked the prison to its foundations, the fastenings flew off the doors, which were opened. The jailer awakened, rushed to the prison with sword in hand, thinking his prisoners had escaped, and ready to kill himself because his life would be forfeited anyhow as punishment for the loss of his charges.

Paul called to him not to harm himself, as they were all there.

Then this Roman jailer had his rebirth. Perhaps he had heard the prayers and singing. He brought a light, and "fell down before Paul and Silas, saying, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

Then he took them "and washed their stripes and was baptized, he and all his." And he set food before them and rejoiced, believing in God.

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things have passed away; behold, all things are become new."

When you accept Christ, as this jailer did, you are new, even if you have been a deep sinner, even a criminal. You begin to live as nearly as possible as Christ would have you.

If faced with a problem, you ask God what He would have you do; what would Jesus have done in your place? and you have an entirely new attitude toward life and all with whom you come in contact. This is the abundant life.

President Happy With Bird Bag

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower, happy over a modest start, tries his hunting luck again today in a quest for south Georgia quail.

The chief executive arrived here shortly before dark yesterday and brought down two birds in an hour's shooting. So did his host Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. They were 10 under the daily limit of 12.

Aides said Eisenhower was pleased when he managed to bag a couple of birds before darkness brought him back to Humphrey's plantation estate, a 600-acre known as Milestone. The President had said with a grin as he got out aboard a mule-drawn hunter's roadster: "Well, if we don't find 'em in about 15 minutes, it'll be a bad day."

The President and Humphrey, their wives and Mrs. Eisenhower's mother Mrs. John B. Doud flew from Washington to Spence Air Base at Moultrie, Ga., 35 miles to the northeast. Also along was Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker and an old golfing pal of Eisenhower.

The party traveled to Thomasville by motor car, and the President—even though it was close to the dinner hour—changed from business clothes quickly and set out for quail.

When he drove into the Humphrey estate, two teams of white mules already were hitched to a pair of rubber-tired, red-wheeled hunting roadsters. And the bird dogs were all set—yelping impatiently in the cages at the rear of the roadsters.

Negro beaters, attired in white coats and red-trimmed white caps, were mounted on horses, ready to get going.

Within 15 minutes after his arrival Eisenhower was ready for the hunt. He wore a salt-and-pepper tweed cap, a rust color suede jacket, suede padded hunting trousers, and heavy leather boots. Cradled in his arm was a 20-gauge double-barreled shotgun.

But Humphrey wasn't quite so fast as Eisenhower had some fun waiting for him.

"One thing about being in the Army, you learn to dress fast," the President chuckled. "I'll have to jump on the secretary when he gets out. He's holding us up."

Humphrey turned up about five minutes later carrying several boxes of shot. Eisenhower smiled and asked: "You're not going to shoot all that tonight, are you?"

Humphrey said he had brought some of the ammunition along for Roberts, but the President laughingly made it plain he wasn't going to be held up any longer.

"Oh, it'll take him two hours to get out here," he said. "Let's go." Eisenhower plans to fly back to Washington Saturday afternoon.

HOT MOTOR FOR COLD MORNINGS

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—A kitchen push-button gives Capt. Kenneth R. Kurtzman a hot car on cold mornings.

Kurtzman has rigged 40 feet of TV antenna wire from the kitchen of his home to the garage. The wire carries current which trips the ignition and starts the car motor while the captain eats his breakfast.

He calls his invention "MATO"—morning-assisted-take-off. It cost him about $3.

SECONDARY USE
CRANFORD, England (AP)—Cranford's chief of police put a guard yesterday over the lights in a new highway tunnel here. Neighborhood kids had discovered the globe were just the right size for space helmets.

Title-Bound Phants Host To Roanoke Rapids Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's league-leading Phantoms, shooting for their tenth consecutive conference win of the year, meet the cellar team in the Northeastern Athletic Conference tonight in the Phantom gymnasium.

The Phantoms and the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets met Monday night in Roanoke Rapids and the result was the highest point total the Phantoms have recorded as far as the records show. The G-men shot their way to a 105-49 victory, reaching the century mark for the third time this season.

The Green Phantoms send the state's highest scoring basketball five into the game with their loop foe. The G-men have a tremendous scoring average of 82.7 points per game in conference activity while they have limited their foes to an average of 48.1 points per game in their loop. In overall games the Phantoms have averaged 77.4 points per game for their 15 games. In these 15 games their opponents have hit the hoops for an average rate of 48.7 points per game.

Harold Edwards is leading the team in scoring with an average of 17.9. Bob Howell is second in the scoring parade with a figure of 16 points per game. Pat Sawyer (12.7) and Tommie Saied (10.3) are other Phantoms hitting in the double figures.

Edgar Moore is the only member of the Phantom starting five not hitting in the double figures. The senior sharpshooter is averaging a steady 7.8 points per game and is the third leading rebounder on the squad. Ike Riddick and Clark Noble both are hitting at 5.1 points per game.

In Roanoke Rapids, the Greenies will be facing the only team in the conference that has not won at least one game. The Yellow Jackets have had a hapless season but are better than their record indicates. Coach Bo Farley's cagers have three more games to go before the conference tourney. After tonight's game the G-men meet Jacksonville in the Greenville gym Tuesday night and then go to Kinston for the conference wind-up with the powerful Kinston Red Devils. That game will more than likely determine the conference champion for regular season play. If the Phantoms win they will be crowned regular season champ, but if they lose the two teams will be tied for the top spot.

Tonight's action starts at 6:30 with a jayvee game on tap at that time. The varsity game gets under way at eight o'clock. The Greenie jayvees have won four of five games this season with the Roanoke Rapids juniors as one of the victims.

ECC Gets Chance To Unseat Elon Here Tomorrow Night

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina's Pirates can knock Elon College from the three-way tie for second place and further pad their chances for the No. 1 position if they beat the Christians here tomorrow night.

That's a big if, though. Elon was the first North State Conference member to whip East Carolina's defending champions. The defeat was administered at Burlington in January by the tune of 76-64.

Elon, ECC and ACC are all jammed in second place behind Lenoir Rhyne. All three own identical 10-3 marks and have three games remaining on their schedules.

The Pirates will have to put the wraps on Elon's dandy threesome of Dave Maddox and Ed Juratic if they hope to win. The former is 6-4 and Juratic, a former N.C. State player, stands 6-6. Maddox scored 23 points against the Bucs in the first meeting. It was Juratic, though, who broke the locals' backs with great rebounding and defensive maneuvers. He also found time to bucket 15 points.

Coach Doc Mathis' bunch really emphasizes defense, although their own high scoring totals wouldn't indicate it. Mathis is well-known for his ability to defense against high-geared offenses. He has been responsible for more than one upset with his leak-proof zones.

There are others who make the Elon machine click. Earl Stone, a 6-foot-6 center, scored 15 points against ECC before and is averaging well above that figure now. Don Packard, a senior member, poured in 12 points. He is a good floor man and shoots well from outside. Ray Whitely, another senior, is the playmaker of the team.

Coach Mathis has many reserves at his command. Of these, Clay Brown, Bob Walker, Hank Hamrick and Bob Timmons will see the most action.

Coach Howard Porter's outfit will put their 34-game homecourt winning streak on the line again. They have preserved it from some of the finest teams about and the Christians fit in that category, too.

J. C. Thomas, who has averaged 20.5 points in the last six games, will be counted on to lead the Bucs. Don Harris, the team's leading scorer, will collaborate with Thomas to give the home team their usual one-two punch. The other starters are Nick Nichols, who is averaging 14.6 a game, Guy Men-

Endorse Army Entry In Post-Season Bowl Play

By ORLO ROBERTSON

WEST POINT, N. Y., (AP)—Army's participation in postseason football games, probably the Sugar or the Cotton bowls, had the backing today of the U. S. Military Academy's Board of Visitors.

The board, an 18-man group composed of members of Congress, the military and civilians, is strictly an advisory organization but its recommendations carry weight in forming policies.

At the board's annual meeting last night at the point, Rep Hebert (D-La.) made the motion to permit post season games. It was seconded by Representatives Teague (D-Tex.) and Johnson (R-Calif.) and met with unanimous approval from the board, headed by Dr. James Baxter III, president of Williams College.

"To all intents and purposes the way has been cleared for the acceptance of a bowl bid by the Army," said Hebert. He said his motion had the backing of Secretary of Defense Wilson and, while not binding on academy authorities, it will be given serious consideration.

Lt. Gen. B. M. Bryan, superintendent of the academy and former Army garrison star, and Head Coach Earl Blaik both were advised of the board's action. Neither was available for comment.

Although the board's recommendation approved any bowl game, the Cadets probably would be limited to either the Sugar or Cotton Bowl. They are the major bowls not entirely tied up with individual conferences.

Navy broke the ice on bowl games when it sent its team to the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1, where the Middies defeated Mississippi 21-0.

Real Log - Jam If UNC Scores Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A log jamming four-way tie for first place will turn up in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race tonight — if North Carolina can whip Virginia.

The race now is deadlocked in a three-way tie among Maryland, North Carolina State and Duke, all with 8-2 circuit records.

Tonight's North Carolina-Virginia fracas, to be played at Greensboro also is noteworthy in that the Cavaliers' Buzzy Wilkinson will be shooting for his 2,000th point in three years of varsity competition.

Wilkinson, now second nationally in the 1954-55 averages with 31.9 points scored per game needs 24 points to hit the 2,000 circle. The record is held by Furman's Frank Selvy who scored 2,538 points in three years. Selvy graduated last year and now is playing with the pros.

Virginia lost to North Carolina in their first meeting, 96-87, but Wilkinson scored 33 points in ACC games since then. Wilkinson scored 35 against Duke, 38 to 34 points in two games with N.C. State and 32 against Wake Forest.

Should Wilkinson hit the 2,000 mark tonight, he will be the second major college player to ever turn the trick. The flashy Virginian scored 521 points his sophomore year, 814 points last year and has hit 641 this season. He ended last season with the third highest average.

One other conference game tonight sends South Carolina to Wake Forest. The Deacons will be led by center Dickie Henric, now third-ranked nationally with a 29.5 point-per-game average.

The Gamecocks won their last outing, 83-77, over Miami Fla. Saturday while Wake should be on the rebound following its last minute 75-73 loss to Duke Wednesday.

Lanky 6-6 center Lee Collins has proved to be South Carolina's big gun. Collins scored 81 points against Miami and now has a 16-point game average.

Only one game involving an ACC team was played last night, that an exhibition between Clemson and the Peizer semi-pros. Peizer won, 81-69.

The big effort last night came from Lenoir Rhyne's Raeford Wells who flipped in 55 points as the Bears dumped Guilford, 113-77, in a North State Conference game.

The 55 points tied the state's collegiate scoring record, set only Wednesday night by North Carolina State's Ronnie Shavlik. Wells bagged 14 field goals and 27 free throws. He missed seven free throw attempts, one of which could have meant a new record.

Shavlik collected his 55 points against William and Mary. He hit 22 field goals and 11 free throws. Wells' total also is a new high in the North State Conference.

Dick Groat Ends Army Service; Talks Baseball

FT. BELVOIR, Va. (AP)—Dick Groat, one of the nation's better all-around athletes, became a civilian again today after a two-year career with the Army's Engineer Corps based here.

Before entering service, the 24-year-old Duke University graduate from Swissvale, Pa., starred with the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club and the Fort Wayne National Basketball Assn. team.

As a rookie, Groat led Pittsburgh hitters in 1952 with an average of .285 in 109 games as the Pirates' No. 1 shortstop. With Fort Wayne, he averaged 13 points a game in 1952.

Asked about his future, Groat said: "It all depends on the coming baseball season. If I have a good year, I may give up basketball." He plans to report to the Pirates' spring training camp.

Groat has been averaging 35 points a game with Ft. Belvoir's basketball team this season. He hit 377 in two years as an Army baseball player.

Saxton Fighting Non-Title Bout

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Welterweight Champion Johnny Saxton goes against Ronnie Delaney in the latter's home town tonight in his second match since grabbing the title from Kid Gavilan last Oct. 20.

Tonight's affair, at 10 rounds, will not involve the crown. Saxton's last action was on Dec. 2, when he took a nontitle victory over Ramon Fuentes.

The contract calls for Delaney to weigh within one pound of 148. Saxton's record is 46 wins, two losses and two draws. Delaney has won 47, dropped one, and tied three. Neither boxer has been stopped.

Top Lightweight Fights Welter In Boston Garden

BOSTON (AP)—Lightweight boxing king Jimmy Carter meets Boston's newest favorite, welterweight Tony DeMarco, in a non-title 10-rounder tonight at Boston Garden.

The 23-year-old DeMarco ranks as No. 6 contender for Johnny Saxton's welter crown and boasts a 15-bout winning streak, 11 by knockouts.

Tony will have the pull in the weights, about 143 to Carter's 137, but gives away speed and experience to the cagey champion from New York.

Carter, eight years older than DeMarco has been off his feet only twice in 103 fights and is without a doubt the best opponent the Bostonian has faced. Tony includes a decision over ex-lightweight champion, Paddy DeMarco, no relation in his victory string.

Newest Phenom Surpasses Selvy

NEW YORK (AP)—Out of Grambling College (La.) comes news of the nation's newest scoring phenom 6-9 Bob Hopkins.

Though only a junior, Hopkins has already surpassed the standards set by Furman's Frank Selvy for major college players and Seattle's Johnny O'Brien for those

THREE NORTH STATE TEAMS TIED FOR THIRD PLACE
This week has been an erratic one for the North State Conference's so-called favorites, especially for the charges of Coach Jack McComas at Atlantic Christian.

Last night, they suffered their third straight setback in a row. Francis Hoover's giant-killing Appalachian Mountaineers knocked them off 105-97 in the biggest upset of the season. The loss toppled the Bulldogs from the pedestal as leaders of the conference. Their 10-3 record is good enough only for a three-way tie with East Carolina and Elon.

The Bulldogs experienced their first league defeat at the hands of the defending champions, East Carolina, yesterday a week ago. Lenoir Rhyne caught the Bulldogs in Hickory and clipped their tails for the second loss.

It marks the first time that ACC has slipped from first place in the race. They took the lead at the season's outset and had held it against all challengers until . . .

But they're not out of danger yet. Elon's Christians, winners over Guilford Tuesday night, have the Bulldogs in their backyard next week and have the guns to turn the tables again.

East Carolina, on the basis of their win over Catawba last night, are very much in the running for the No. 1 spot after this week's shake-down. They meet Elon here tomorrow night in what could be the stepping stone to sole possession of the No. 2 position. But the Pirates have to get past ACC in Wilson next Saturday night.

Lenoir Rhyne is heading the league now with a 10-2 record but they must play Elon in Burlington before tournament time.

There are possibilities of changes in the standings before the campaign terminates. The games remaining are of the sudden death type where the outcome of one can make or break the top four contenders. It looks like this may be one of the most thrilling finishes in North State Conference history.

PITT COUNTY CONFERENCE TOURNEY

GETS UNDERWAY THURSDAY
E. F. Johnson, who doubles as president of the conference and coach of Ayden High's girls, has disclosed plans of the league's annual tournament which begins Thursday night.

On that night, three games will be played in Ayden and three in Farmville to get the opening rounds underway. The tournament will stretch over six days with the finals taking place a week from Wednesday in East Carolina College Memorial Gym.

All the loop's members, except the first second and seventh placed teams, participate in the first rounds on Thursday. Who these teams are and the pairings won't be decided until Monday when the pairings committee meet in Ayden.

On Friday night of next week the conclusion of the opening round and part of the second will be played. On Saturday the remainder of second and the third round will be completed and the tournament will move into the semi-finals at the College. On the above dates the games will be played at Farmville.

In the semi-finals, there will be only two games a night, one boys and one girls game. Wednesday night's tilts will conclude the tournament.

Many trophies will be awarded, according to Johnson. Awards will go to the champions and the runners-up and also to the player exhibiting the most sportsmanship. Individual medals will be presented to the members of the teams playing in the finals. All presentations will be made by D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools.

The All-Conference teams, which will be selected by the league coaches before the tournament, will be announced on the final night. They also will receive tokens of merit.

Winterville's boys and Bethel's girls are defending champions in their respective divisions. "The tournament should be even better than last year," Johnson pointed out, "because there seems to be better overall balance among the teams. The so-called second division teams are capable of upsetting the leaders and the weeding out will probably reveal this fact."

SPORTS SHOTS FROM HERE AND THERE

Willie Mays walloped a homer and two singles and Ruben Gomez hurled a three hitter as Santurce crushed Caguas, 13-1, to nab a 3-1 lead in the Puerto Rican League playoffs. Santurce won the final game yesterday and will play in the Caribbean World Series in Caracas, Venezuela.

Pfe, Wilmer Morton of Stockton, Calif., was the victim of holdup recently and he was relieved of the $46,000 stashed in his wallet. He said he got the money for signing with the Cleveland Indians. Morton is a righthanded pitcher, and said he got $65,000 for his John Henry.

Tobacco Road Will Lead To Raleigh Next Week

By C. A. UPCHURCH Jr.

RALEIGH—Farmers are expected to flock into Raleigh—perhaps by the hundreds—next Wednesday when the Joint Finance Committee of the General Assembly holds a public hearing on the revenue bill's proposals to tax cigarettes, cigars and smoking tobacco. Both Wednesday and Thursday have been set aside for hearings on this item in the budget revenue bill.

Much of the light on the proposal will be waged by spokesmen for the State Farm Bureau Federation which is on record against the new taxes reportedly despite the advice of its executive vice president, Flake Shaw of Greensboro and Rep. Alonzo Edwards of Greene, long a leader in the Federation.

Although the State Grange reportedly has taken no stand on the issue, it is expected to be represented at the hearing by its State Master, Harry Caldwell of Greensboro.

The tobacco taxes recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission and Governor Hodges would levy a two cents per pack tax on cigarettes, a cent on each cigar and a cent on each 10 cents of the sales price of smoking tobacco. The three levies would raise an estimated $8,945,000 annually in new revenue, the largest slice of the $26,000,000 sought in new taxes for each of the next two fiscal years.

At the time the Farm Bureau took a stand against the tobacco taxes, Shaw raised the possibility that farmers would be brought to Raleigh by the bus-load to oppose them.

In the past years, the Grange reportedly has taken a stand ostensibly in favor of removing all sales tax exemptions, realizing that additional revenue would ultimately have to be raised. Whether the Grange meant to advocate putting the three per cent sales tax on feed, seed, fertilizer and insecticides, now exempt, is not clear. Additional revenue raised by taxing these commodities would be estimated $5,000,000 yearly, granting the farmers would be relieved of paying the

Competition Is Felt By Some T V Stars

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Increased competition is chopping down the popularity ratings of television's top stars.

The competition is coming in two ways: In many areas that formerly had only one station, viewers had to watch whatever it carried or turn off the set. Now they have more stations—and more choice. The other is the tendency by each network to throw its strong programs against the opposition's best.

Gone are the days when Milton Berle or I Love Lucy could expect to be tuned in by 65 or 70 per cent of the TV sets in range.

The ratings on Lucy, for example, with strong Monday night opposition from Medie, has been running 4 1/2 to 14 percentage points behind last season, when the Dennis Day show was the chief rival.

Berle ran eighth in the latest Nielsen rating with an estimated 44 per cent of TV sets tuned in. He was fourth with $2.7 per cent a year ago.

Another example is Dragnet with 44.3 against $6.3 a year ago.

A big factor could be, of course, that some shows aren't as good as a year ago or that viewers are tiring of them. Nonetheless, the ratings necessary to win places in the top 10 have been substantially below last season.

Among newcomers to the charmed circle are George Gobel,

Disneyland and an occasional color extravaganza.

Making films for TV is becoming big business. Sponsor Magazine estimates TV films made for distribution directly to stations will gross $6 million dollars this year, and old movies shown originally for theaters will gross 20 million more. The totals do not include TV films made for network showing, such as I Love Lucy and Medie.

Two-Gun Huang Has 100 Orphans

KEELUNG, Formosa (AP)—Two-Gun Huang Pa-mei has reached this Formosan port, minus her famous shooting irons but loaded with 100 orphans from the Tachen Islands.

The former guerrilla and pirate leader, famed for resistance first against the Japanese and later against the Communists, seemed bouncy and energetic despite her 48 years.

"I have laid down my weapons," she said. "I am too old to fight."

The children are orphans of parents killed by the Communists.

Huang Pa-mei (the name means "Eighth Sister Huang") was once known as the "Queen of the Pirates" along the coast south of Shanghai. The widow of a pirate, she turned her band of buccaners and their stealthy armed junks against the Japanese early in World War II and earned a Nationalist pardon for her pirate days.

After the Reds gained control of the mainland, she turned the popeyed prows of her Tachen junks against the Communists, ambushing a flotilla of nine Communist junks in Hangchow Bay.

She captured one and turned its crew over to the Nationalists.

She visited Formosa in 1952 and then returned to the Tachens to lead guerrillas against the Reds.

Later regular Chinese Nationalist forces took over the defense of the islands, and Two-Gun Huang laid her pistols down and took up the orphaned children of fellow guerrillas. Now she says, "I want to rehabilitate my orphans and take care of them."

Two Elephants In Uncle's Will

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Wesley C. Richards, 29, a bartender, was wondering today what to do with two elephants he said an uncle, W. C. Richards, a Pensacola, Fla., animal importer, had left him in his will. Richards said property worth several hundred thousand dollars had been left to his brother but "I guess my uncle didn't like me much."

Trial Recommended On Murder Plot Charges

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP)—A special congressional investigating commission has recommended that former President Jose Ramon Guizado be tried on charges of complicity in the assassination of his predecessor Jose Antonio Remon.

The National Assembly is expected to debate the recommendation next Wednesday. It must decide whether to try Guizado or quash the accusation. If tried and convicted, he could be sentenced to a prison term of from 10 to 20 years.

The commission's report, said to the Assembly last night, said Guizado was implicated by his own testimony and that of others questioned, including his own son.

Jose Ramon Guizado Jr. and two of his business partners are among 13 other persons held in connection with the Jan. 2 slaying of Remon.

A 43-year-old Panamanian lawyer, Ruben Miro, has admitted the actual machine-gunning. He said in his confession he had discussed the killing previously with Guizado and was promised the Cabinet post of government and justice minister.

Guizado termed the accusations "senseless" but the Assembly impeached him Jan. 15, installing

Looks To Start Of New Political Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) said today there is "good reason to believe" that projected merger of the AFL and CIO marks "the birth of a political effort comparable to that which produced the British Labor party."

Bender praised the planned labor merger on another score. He said it should "definitely end costly jurisdictional disputes."

A member of the Senate Labor Committee, Bender disagreed with Henry G. Ritter, president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, who said the merger could lead to "dangerous monopoly" from an economic standpoint.

CIO President Walter Reuther said in an interview there was "no basis" for Ritter's charge, and added:

"The people who now make that charge are the very same people who have always tried to block any kind of labor organization at all."

Senators Ives (R-NY) and Douglas (D-IL), both members of the Labor Committee, also said in separate interviews they found no basis for Ritter's statement.

Bender said:

"This could be the biggest labor organization in the world and its influence for good could be unlimited. But by the same token, its potential influence for control of one or the other political parties is a factor to be reckoned with in American political history."

Statistics indicate that the warm "January thaw" period in the United States is marked by unusually low temperatures in Europe.

Second Vice President Ricardo Arias Espinosa as the nation's third chief executive in two weeks. The Assembly ordered Guizado, who had been first vice president under Remon, held incommunicado in the national guard jail pending the investigation.

The report contained no startling revelations. It quoted portions of Guizado's testimony in which the former president denied ever discussing the assassination of Remon with Miro.

During one interrogation session, however, it said Guizado admitted Miro once discussed with him a coup to overthrow President Alcibades Arsemena, who held office from 1951 to 1952. At that time, Guizado also was vice president.

The report also quoted Guizado's son as testifying that his father told him on an unspecified date that Miro had alerted him to be ready to take over the presidency around Dec. 15. The younger Guizado said his father told him he had ordered Miro out of his office.

Dr. Messick To Attend Chicago AACT Session

East Carolina College President John D. Messick will go to Chicago February 24 to attend the seventh annual conference of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE).

The Greenville educator will serve as recorder at a conference session on "Teacher Competence."

AACTE is a national voluntary organization of 282 colleges and universities as members. These institutions are responsible for the preparation of approximately half of the teachers who have chosen careers in the public schools of the nation. Some 700 presidents, deans and professors of teachers colleges and university schools of education are expected to attend the three-day conference in Chicago.

'Mislaid' Truck And Its Cargo

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Detective Sgt. J. W. Wingate, stuck with a truckload of cabbage bought 700 pounds of ice to keep it from spoiling and hopes he gets his money back.

The owner of the truck, C. W. Benson, of Wilmington, N. C., telegraphed police yesterday that his driver phoned long distance saying he "mislaid" the truck and ran up a big taxi bill trying to find it.

Wingate found the truck and its perishable cargo where it had been parked on a side street, since Wednesday. The detective bought the ice and hopes the substitute driver arrives before it melts—and with the money to repay him.

Real Chef Will Cook For Jail

OMAHA (AP)—"It will be good." That's what Joseph T. Taylor, 67, said of the food he will serve as cook at the Douglas County Jail here.

"I've served some pretty strict people," said Taylor, "and I had no complaints."

Then he named former Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Warren Harding and Harry Truman as among those he cooked for. That was during the 47 years he was a railroad chef, he said.

ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
He pressed her arm and went over to a chair. "How about that breakfast? Maybe I can get a couple of hours' sleep—but I'm starved. While you all partied, I was—the road's out at Bell's. Good thing Mirandy didn't want to go out to the ranch last night. Did you hear any more of her?"

"Oh, no."

"Good. I went out that way, but the water was hub deep—I came back through the canyon. It was pretty bad. If the rain keeps up I won't be able to get through again for a few days. . . ."

"Now, if you had a horse . . ."

Murphy, slyly.

"One can always get a horse, Murphy. But I'd try it first with a Jeep. Sometimes, though, our roads get so bad even a Jeep won't go through. That's in the winter, when snow piles into the canyon roads."

"Let me tell you how I feel about the Nienaber baby," Fred said, taking a plate of bacon and eggs from Katie. "I knew that baby had to live . . ."

"You'd have been in a nasty spot if it had died on you," Murphy agreed.

"There was that yes." He went on with his earnest attempt to explain to Murphy how much more than a single baby this infant seemed to be.

Murphy yawned. "You're right, I guess, Fred," he said, in a bored tone. "I don't, of course, see eye to eye with you on such things. Yesterday afternoon—when you took me to that house where the baby had been killed—I could see you planning for those parents to have another child."

"That's right," Fred agreed. "Otherwise, they'll be bitter at Judy."

"Why not? The little devil . . ."

"She is not a little devil. She is a five-year-old child who had been hurt, and who expressed that hurt in a violent fashion. I'm not saying she was right. I am saying that something still can be made of her life, she's hurt, . . . Teach her and protect her."

"Heavens, the law won't punish a five-year-old child!"

Fred sighed. "In a town this size, Murphy, the law is only one voice of judgment. Talk outshouts it every time. The law says Judy is not guilty of murder. Talk would immediately declare that she was. The law would set a limited term of payment. Talk never does. Talk, if allowed free expression, would condemn that little girl to a life of guilt to a life-term of accusation, and perhaps result in a further expression of her hurt anger—No, Murphy, I must do what I can to save Judy's future. She is not to blame for what has happened. Her parents, I think see where they failed both children. If enough of their friends can see their part in the tragedy, then Judy will have pity, and love, and forgiveness. Not continued censure. Do you see?"

"In a glass darkly."

"I am glad that that much. My whole purpose is to save lives, you know, not to ruin them."

Katie clashed a spoon against metal, the small, harsh sound giving expression to her irritation. Was Murphy daring to laugh at Fred? Really laugh? He was, of course, using every means he could to persuade Fred to leave the valley, to go back to the city to work with Murphy. But why? What was his real reason? His deep-seated one? It was that purpose of which Katie was wary, and afraid.

Oh dear! She wished life could go along smoothly, just her and her house, Fred and his work—a party now and then—church on Sunday and an afternoon of fishing—

But people were always muddling the serene waters of that life. Ludmilla and her well-meaning interference, Murphy and his meddling which was obviously not well-meaning—

Those things she feared. People, motives beyond her understanding, forces beyond her control.

"Fred," she said gently. "It's not quite seven. Couldn't you go to bed for a few hours?"

He looked up, and she thought he would agree—but at that minute there came the tiniest ring on the front doorbell. He rose and went into the hall—Katie heard him speak, and a woman's voice in reply. Then, almost at once, he brought Linda Kyle back to the kitchen.

Linda, wrapped in a yellow fleecy coat, her dark hair smooth—she greeted Katie warmly, and nodded to Murphy. "I saw Fred's car—I wanted to know about the Nienabers—he says he brought the baby. Oh!"

Fred lay the blanket back, and Linda watched the baby in fascination while Fred again told the story of his night. Clara he said, was in fair condition. As soon as possible, however he meant to take her to the sanitarium on an emergency basis. He'd make a bed in the station wagon, and Murphy could drive her down.

"Who? Me?" asked Murphy in alarm.

"That, or take over my job here for a day."

Murphy started for the door. "Where are you going?" Fred asked him.

"Back to bed. I can see I'll need my strength."

Fred laughed, and waved him on.

"I could have taken the baby to the hospital," he explained to Linda. "But our bassinets there are full, and I calmed Clara by promising her that my wife would take care of her baby."

"She couldn't know how dumb a wife you have," laughed Katie.

"You see, right then," Fred explained, "I had to do everything I could to reassure her."

"Of course you did," said Linda warmly. "But, Fred . . ."

"What now?"

"Mrs. Nienaber knows me, and trusts me. I wonder if I can take care of the baby?"

"I don't mind doing it," said Katie earnestly. "I'll have to learn but—"

"So would I," said Linda. "Oh, Katie, won't you let me have him?"

"But—you already have so much, Linda. Your husband sick . . ."

Linda's hands twisted together. "My husband is sick," she said tearfully. "He is in his room, with two nurses to take care of him. Anna prepares their meals. Frank serves them. I—have nothing to do. Theo is better, but even so I do not go to his bedside. The nurses think I disturb him."

"In an illness like Theo's," Fred said consolingly, "waiting is always the hardest part."

She smiled at him. "I know that, Fred. But—the baby would give me something to do with my own hands. Anna could advise me—and I would be so good to it!"

"Him," corrected Katie.

"Yes," Linda laughed. "Does he have a name?"

"Not yet. They mentioned Wolf-gang, but I told them a good American name would be better. He will live in America—we all have high hopes for this baby you know."

"Of course I know. That's another reason why I'd like to help. Let me keep him until Clara is well—"

"That may be a couple of years, Linda."

"And what of it? It's little enough to do for you, Fred, and what I know is in your mind." She was thinking of their talks about the Nienabers, their talks about the valley. Fred knew that, though Katie could not.

Katie stood by, hot with a sudden and strange anger, and watched Linda—and Fred—go off with the baby.

Where's the smart place to put your savings?

Today millions of Americans will tell you that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association. They'll give you three good reasons why this is so . . .

1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.

So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.

And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.

Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it a mighty good place to do business!

 - Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
 - Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts . . . fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
 - No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

Always remember: Octane alone is not enough! Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you mile after mile.

That's why, instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place; removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, at the refinery, to bring you new NO-NOX.

Just look at the plates in the photo above, and see what a difference Gulf super-refining makes!

This is GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

- We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.
- It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest—in power, in performance, in engine protection.
- This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly higher today following two strong sessions in which new all-time high peaks were established.

The higher trend was established at the opening, but by early afternoon there were enough minus signs in the list to create a slightly irregular pattern.

Gains went to around 3 points at the outside while losses usually were held below a point.

Business was at a subdued pace as prices receded from their best. Yesterday's total was 3,600,000 shares with the market strong.

Here's the way major groups appeared:

Steels mixed, motors lower, rubbers mixed, aircrafts mixed, radio-television higher, utilities higher, coppers lower, chemicals higher, railroads higher, oils higher, airlines lower, motion pictures mixed.

Consolidated Edison was strong, as it has been most of the week, on news that it is going into the atomic-electric business with private financing.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 higher. Tops of 17.00 at Castle Hayne, Fayetteville, Kenlyville and Rich Square; 16.75 at Micro, Woodland, New Bern, Beul, Wilson, Freeman, Siler City, Kinston, Benson and Clinton; 16.50 at Jacksonville, Plymouth, Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton, Elizabethtown, Whiteville, Tabor City, Shallotte, Clarkton, Dunn, Newton Grove, Fair Bluff, Warsaw, Bailey, Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Lumberton and Washington.

Air Reserve Unit Transferred To New Squadron

The local Air Force Reserve Flight "D" has been transferred from the 9447th Air Reserve Squadron to the 9948th Air Reserve Squadron. It was announced at a meeting of the flight last night.

The flight will be assigned to the new squadron which has its headquarters in Rocky Mount. The change took place after the 9447th headquarters was moved from Washington to Stallings Air Force Base in Kinston.

All squadrons in this area are assigned to the Raleigh group.

It was reported that last night's attendance for the reserve meet was the best in several months. Some 18 men and officers attended the meeting.

Captain Leonard Briley resumed command of the unit last night after being away on the tobacco market for some time. In his absence 1st Lieutenant John Highsmith has served as acting commander.

At the meet Major Bob Michaels was appointed plans and training officer. 1st Lieutenant Milton Williamson, legal officer, Charlie Crone, assistant public information officer and Sergeant Frank Brown were appointed non-commissioned officer in charge of finances.

The group discussed the possibility of being recalled to active duty and it was brought out that recall would require presidential action.

Tags Required By February 15

AYDEN—Town license tags must be displayed on local autos before February 15 to avoid the paying of penalties, Chief of Police J. A. Jones said today.

The chief said the license can be obtained from the town office. Price of the tag is $1.

FBI Agent . . .

been used for criminal intent. During the war years, he said, letters were intercepted and treated at the laboratory and diagrams were found to be drawn on the paper.

The agent noted that the laboratory is able to trace and identify criminals by strands of hair. Through modern scientific tests the criminologists can tell from the strand of hair the race and age of the person. Technicians are able to tell the make, model and year of autos from chips of paint from its finish, he declared.

The FBI laboratory has traced criminals through their handwriting and through stationery, Gibson told the scouts and their parents.

"In spite of all our efforts crime is still on the increase," Gibson declared. "We are grateful to scouts for what they stand for in their oath and laws."

"Very few boys who have been scouts ever commit serious crimes. This can be attributed to the training which they have received."

He stated that the 1,200,000 major crimes committed in 1954 was the largest number ever.

Charges Parents

He charged parents with the responsibility of training boys.

"Juvenile delinquency will never be eliminated until adult delinquency is eliminated," the Kinston agent emphasized. "Make footsteps in the sands of time worthy for your boy to follow. Install in them the laws of God and they will follow the laws of men."

The banquet last night was one of the highlights of the local observance of Boy Scout Week.

Attendance award for the troop having the most members, parents and adult leaders present went to Ayden Troop 34 which won the award for the third consecutive year.

The prize was presented by W. O. Ormond, vice chairman of the committee for organization and extension.

Leading group singing last night was Lester Dollar, Pitt District executive. The invocation was pronounced by Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of the Memorial Baptist Church. A welcome was extended by Ercell S. Webb, district vice-chairman, and members of the cub packs, scout troops, explorer posts, and their unit leaders were recognized by John Behr, district commissioner. Jim Mallory, chairman of the camping and activities committee reported on summer camps.

Gibson was introduced by Ercell S. Webb, district vice-chairman. Campore Chairman Sherman Parks reported on the East Carolina Council campore to be held in Washington on April 22, 23 and 24.

Local Library Is Popular Place

Evidence of the use Greenville citizens make of the Sheppard Memorial Library is present in this picture, as nearly all the available spaces for study and reading are filled. This time of year is always a busy one for the library, however, as local high school students are preparing their source themes. Head librarian Elizabeth Copeland said the rooms "have been filled like this for weeks." (Reflector Photo by Edwina Haymes)

Church Census Report Is 85 Percent Complete

A total of 7,491 census cards have been returned by workers in the city-wide church survey, which is not yet complete.

Chairman of the Census Committee, the Rev. L. Grady Burgess, reported this morning that the coverage is approximately 85 percent complete. He said only about 400 homes out of the 2,641 white homes listed remain to be covered, and just 43 of the 208 cards sent out in the second assignment last Sunday are still to be returned.

Some of the workers are still trying to complete these assignments, Rev. Burgess said, and the census cards will be coming in for some time, so final figures will not be available for several days yet.

The cards which have been received have been processed into their denominational classifications and are at the office of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Pastors are requested by the Rev. Robert McKenzie, Census Committee secretary, who is in charge of the distribution of the cards, to come by the church office and pick them up.

Farmville School Keeps Standing In Association

FARMVILLE—Farmville High School has retained its membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools for the school year 1954-55.

Principal Sam D. Bundy announced that he was notified by Dr. A. B. Combs, state chairman for North Carolina, on a recent visit to the school that Farmville's membership was without qualification, and that no warning was necessary in any item or department.

The Farmville school has held continuous membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools for 15 years. Bundy said Farmville High is one of only 89 high schools with current membership in this accrediting association. Fifty per cent of the teaching personnel in Farmville High School now hold master's degrees with graduate certificates, according to the records.

Magic Show To Benefit Blind

A second performance of the "Calvacade of Mystery" magic show is to be presented tonight at the Moose Temple. The performance starts at 8:15.

Proceeds from the show, which is being sponsored jointly by the Moose Lodge and the Lions Club are to go to the Lions Club to be used in its program for the blind in the county.

Star of the magic show is Carlo, Doctor of Magic. He is a veteran performer and many of his feats of magic are said to have never been duplicated.

Cars Damaged In Traffic Mishap

A vehicle operated by Charles H. McGowan, 403 E. 8th Street, was involved in a collision on Cotanche St. yesterday with a parked car owned by Mrs. Annie B. Manning, Route 3, Greenville.

The owner of the parked car opened the door of her car to get out which led to the accident, according to investigating police.

Damage to both cars was an estimated $265. No personal injuries were reported.

Last Rites Saturday For Mrs. Feley Buck

Mrs. Feley Buck, 66, died at her home near Vanceboro at 2:30 o'clock Friday morning. She had been in failing health for several years.

Funeral services will be conducted at Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial will be in the Hardy Cemetery near Chiood School.

Mrs. Buck was a native of Pitt County and spent most of her early life in the Black Jack community.

Surviving are three sons, William; Buck of Hackney Sliding and Leroy and Hubert Buck of the home; four grandchildren; a brother, Burton Buck of the home; and two sisters, Miss Queenie Buck of Shelmerdine and Mrs. Mollie Fornes of Vanceboro.

March Of Dimes Tally Incomplete

March of Dimes collections for Pitt County as of February 10 totaled $12,339.61, some $2,660 short of the $15,000 goal which had been set for the campaign.

However, Miss Evelyn Beasley, county campaign director, reports final returns have not been completed as there are a number of county schools and home demonstration clubs that have not yet turned in their collections.

"Although the Mothers' March and some special collections were very successful, community collections were disappointing," Miss Beasley said. "Many chairmen reported that they found several sources where 1955 donations were cut as much as 50 percent."

She also noted that some Greenville city school collections fell short of 1954 receipts.

The chairman stated it is hoped that some organizations, schools and communities can make additional donations to help the chapter reach its "much-needed goal" before final receipts are closed out.

Church Workers Report Tuesday

A meeting of Negro church census workers to make their reports will be held Tuesday evening at the A. M. E. Zion Church, the Rev. J. A. Nimmo, president of the Greenville Ministers Alliance, has announced.

Rev. Nimmo reported today that due to the inclement weather last Sunday the survey of the Negro areas of the city is largely incomplete, though thus far approximately 2,000 homes have been listed in those sections of Greenville.

Colored News

Les Gaylenettes Social Club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Helen Tucker. The four week sewing contest was closed and articles made during that period were displayed and judged by Miss Staplefoot, home economics teacher of Eppes High School. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Jean Dawson; second prize to Mrs. Ruby Taylor, and third prize to Mrs. Thelma Jones.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jean Willoughby on Madison Street.

Billy Edwards of Raleigh spent the weekend with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Edwards.

Mrs. Joe Tripp entertained at two tables of bridge for her club members on Friday night.

At the end of play a salad set was given Mrs. Clarence Hart, high, while an apron was given Mrs. Bonnie Ruth McCormick, runner-up. Low, mixing bowls were given Mrs. Chester Hart.

The hostess served a sweet course to the following: Mesdames Hart, McCormick, Hart, "Mac" Edwards, Raymond Cox, Leslie Stocks, and Lowell Speight of Winterville.

BEING QUESTIONED FOR MURDER AND ROBBERY
WHILE TAKING STATEMENTS FROM PRISONERS, DON'T GIVE THEM THE OPPORTUNITY TO TAKE YOUR GUN.

IT LOOKS REAL, ALL RIGHT

WORKING FROM A HIGH SCHOOL YEAR BOOK AND WITH SUGGESTIONS FROM SPARKLE AND LITTLE WINGY, JUNIOR COMPLETES HIS MODEL OF RUGHEAD. THE LITTLE GIRLS OKAYED IT—SAID IT LOOKED JUST LIKE HIM.

WE'LL SEND A PHOTO TO THE PRINTER TO BE PUT IN OUR DAILY BULLETIN, EH, CHIEF?

WE'LL WANT ABOUT 10000

BESIDES SENDING HIS PICTURE TO POLICE CHIEFS, WHY NOT HAVE PATROLMEN PASS OUT 40 OR 50 TO FILLING STATIONS AND BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE DISTRICTS?

GREAT IDEA, SAM.

JUNIOR, I WANT TO COMPLIMENT YOU—A GREAT JOB.

THANK YOU, CHIEF.

HEY, KID, HOW ABOUT HEADING HOME?

TRACY, WHY DO I HAVE TO GO TO SCHOOL ALL THE TIME? I WANT TO GET INTO POLICE WORK—STEADY.

HOLD IT! REMEMBER EDUCATION COMES FIRST. IT'S A MUST—NO MATTER WHAT YOU DO.

THEY ALWAYS SAY START YOUR CAREER YOUNG. WELL, I'M YOUNG AND I'M READY.

NO—YOU JUST THINK YOU'RE READY. I'LL SHOW YOU. LOOK AT THE GUY DOZING AND TELL ME WHAT YOU SEE.

HE'S JUST A BUM—THAT'S ALL—FROM SKID ROW!

NO, YOU'RE WRONG, KID—YOU'RE NOT OBSERVING. TRUE, THAT WEEK'S GROWTH OF BEARD WOULD INDICATE HE'S NOT WORKING.

BUT CHANCES ARE HE'S AN EX-CONVICT. 'CONS' GET THE HABIT OF SPLITTING MATCHES TO CONSERVE THEIR SUPPLY. ALSO, HE'S SUN-TANNED. CONSEQUENTLY HE'S FROM, OUT OF TOWN, BECAUSE IT'S WINTER HERE.

ONE MATCH MAKES TWO

HALF A MATCH

THE BAND OF LIGHT SKIN SHOWS HE WORE A WRIST WATCH, WHICH HE PROBABLY HAS PAWNED OR SOLD—HE NEEDS MONEY.
