Continue Bible Study
The Women of Jarvis Memorial and St. James Methodist Churches continued their Bible study Tuesday evening in Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial.

Supper was served at 6 o'clock and the class began at 6:30. Miss (Mamie) Chandler is teaching the class, using for her subject "Jesus Teaching Concerning Women." This is a most inspirational and deeply spiritual occasion for those attending.

Dinner Party Is Given To Honor Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE - Tuesday, Feb. 22nd, was the 80th birthday of Mrs. Maggie Rogerson, one of Robersonville's most beloved citizens. Mrs. Earl VanNortwick honored her mother with a dinner on the Sunday nearest the anniversary of her birth. On the twentieth, she entertained Miss Bessie VanNortwick, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Cooper and their three children of Windsor, Mrs. Lide Congleton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Briley and family, Mr. Stewart VanNortwick, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley B. Rogerson, Miss Betty Ann Wiley and Marge at a delicious chicken and ham dinner. The large cake with pink and blue decorations over white icing was inscribed "Happy Birthday." After enjoying a bountiful meal, each relative remembered the honoree with a useful gift.

Until her health and failing eyesight were a handicap, Mrs. Rogerson was a good neighbor as anyone ever had. She was never too tired or too busy to be of service in sickness or sorrow and she considered it a pleasure to sew or crochet for a weary young mother. It is hoped this dear lady will have many years of happiness.

Hostess Entertains Bridge Club

ROBERSONVILLE - When Mrs. William W. Taylor Sr. was hostess to the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club, her home on Railroad Street was decorated with beautiful red roses. The guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Taylor who invited them into the living room. A table for cards was set in each front room. The eight players drew for partners at three o'clock and the game started immediately. After the third progression the tallied scores gave Mrs. A. F. Barnhill the club prize and Mrs. Pearl Everett the guest prize. The hostess served ice cream soda and pound cake to the following club members: Mesdames George Ross, R. E. Grimes, W. R. Jenkins, Katie Mae Barnhill and three guests, Mrs. Clayton Davenport, Mrs. Elliott Taylor and Mrs. Pearl Everett.

Alexander Tilghman Funeral Held Today

Mr. Alexander S. Tilghman, 71, died in a Kingston hospital at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. He had been in failing health for several years and critically ill for the past three days.

Funeral services were conducted at the Rainbow Free Will Baptist Church at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. D. J. Little of Greenville, and burial was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Tilghman was born and reared near Rockertown. He was married to Mary Jackson of Maury and she died in 1924. He was later married to Mrs. Lonnie Jones of Grifton and she died in 1950. For the past several years he had made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Hugh Wainright, of near Kingston. Surviving are three sons: Jesse and Ernest Tilghman of Fushion, N. C., and Johnnie Tilghman of near Snow Hill; four daughters: Mrs. Hugh Wainright of near Kingston, Mrs. Gladys Thomas of Kingston, Mrs. N. E. Moore and Mrs. Lena Augustine of Tuscora, N. C.; 21 grandchildren, and 31 great-grandchildren.

Former Missionary To China Is Speaker For Lector Club

On Tuesday, February 15th, Mrs. Kenneth Phillips entertained as special guests for the afternoon Miss Venetia Cox, Mrs. Robert Moyer and members of the Lector Club. Upon arrival the hostess served delicious cherry tart, coffee and nuts, using the traditional colors of red and white to express the Valentine motif.

Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, club president, presided. The minutes were read and approved and the roll called by the secretary, Mrs. Burney Warren Jr. Old and new business was discussed, at which time Mrs. Flanagan asked for a report from the Nominating Committee. The following slate for new officers was submitted and favorably accepted: President, Mrs. Howard Waldrop; vice-president, Mrs. Travis Flanagan; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Flanagan; secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Phillips; librarian, Mrs. John Collins Jr. Newly-elected officers will assume their respective duties at the first meeting in March.

New Church To Hold Special Rites Sunday

The Rev. Hiram H. King, district superintendent of the New Bern Methodist District, is to conduct the 11 o'clock services next Sunday which will officially open the new St. James Methodist Church.

The morning services will follow the regular Sunday School sessions at 9:45 which will also be held in the new building on Forest Circle. The district superintendent will also conduct a brief quarterly conference at 12 noon.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR February 23, 1925
Miss Margaret Fleming was hostess Friday evening at a five course dinner having as honor guests Miss Nancy Lay of Beaufort and Mr. Charlie White. Covers were laid for ten. The dining room was beautifully decorated, suggestive of the Valentine season, with the color scheme of red and yellow predominating. The courses were served in keeping with the color scheme.

Veteran French Diplomat Dies

PARIS (AP) - Paul Claudel, 86, veteran French diplomat and a noted poet, died early today after a heart attack. Claudel had close ties with the United States. He began his diplomatic career as vice consul in New York in 1893 and served as French ambassador in Washington from 1927 to 1933.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs in housekeeping is to keep tile and asphalt tile floors waxed and cleaned. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub all you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler's on the third floor.

Mrs. Klingenschmitt Recent Speaker For FTA Chapter Here

Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt, second grade teacher at the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, spoke to the Junius H. Rose chapter of the Future Teachers of America February 18. Mrs. Klingenschmitt stressed several points concerning the child in grades one through three.

The trip was from Chennan to Burma for a summer holiday. The time is July-August 1941. Using a truck from the school, she and 11 others started down the almost impassable Burma Road, loaded with wash basins, cots and bed linen, and anything else they may have needed while on the trip. Enroute they prepared their own meals in Chinese tea-shops and slept anywhere a roof could be found. After five days they reached the border, then left by train for Rangoon. Their days were filled with sightseeing and shopping. Their shopping consisted mostly of canned foods to take home with them.

Last Rites Held For Miss Nancy Lay White

Miss Nancy Lay White, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White of Greenville, died in St. Luke's Hospital in New Bern at 1:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon following a brief illness.

Funeral services were conducted at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Greenville at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning by the pastor, the Rev. Wallace I. Wolverton. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Officers Elected By Fraternity At ECC

Richard E. Ivey of Roanoke Rapids, a junior at East Carolina College, has been elected president of Sigma Rho Phi, service fraternity at the college, and will begin his duties at the opening of the spring quarter March 2.

Methodist Men Of Grifton Receive Their Club Charter Sunday

Mrs. John Oglesby presented an organ prelude after which an invocation was said by the pastor, Rev. R. C. Mooney Jr. The responsive reading was led by Arthur Bennholtz. C. L. McClaine led the singing of hymns.

Club president Norman Reis presented Mr. Smith who made a brief talk on "Partnership." In his talk he reminded listeners they have a silent partner who is ready to assist in all they do. "He does his part, but we are as prompt in looking after our part," he questioned. After the service, members and their wives enjoyed a social hour.

It's Not Your Mailman's Fault

While Congress is discussing the possibility of raising postal rates it might give some consideration to the deterioration of the mail service that has taken place especially in this section during the past several months.

Almost every day we receive complaints from rural patrons served by the various post offices throughout the county. These patrons can hardly believe it when they are told that practically all mail from the Greenville post office must first go to Rocky Mount before finding its way over a somewhat circuitous route back to the Pitt County post offices and rural routes.

When the patrons ask why such a thing must happen the only answer is that someone back some bureaucrat in Washington figured out on paper that by cutting off half the star routes in this section of the state and setting up a centralization point in Rocky Mount the post office department could save a few dollars annually and the post office and rural patrons would receive just as good service as before the change was effected. Such a scheme was evidently workable on paper only, for since the change was put into effect last August there have been almost constant delays in receipt of mail on the rural routes throughout this section.

Mail addressed to Grimesland, posted in Greenville in the afternoon must go first to Rocky Mount, thence to Washington (N.C.) and then back to Grimesland the next day having traveled well over a hundred miles to reach a point eleven miles from the point of origin. To further emphasize the nonsense of the whole arrangement there is an early morning star route that goes from Greenville direct to Washington and points beyond, that could get the mail from Greenville to Grimesland quicker and with a haul of only eleven miles. But this star route does not make a stop as it passes through Grimesland. A similar situation exists on mail from Kinston and points south and west for delivery in Winterville. There is a star route from Kinston north that passes through Winterville early each morning but this carrier does not stop in Winterville.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FOVEYRY AND WEALTH
When are we poor?
Several of my readers have written recently about this matter of being poor. Most of us, no doubt, would say we are poor a great deal of the time—especially right after Christmas, after we have had news regarding income tax, or after we have married off a daughter. But poverty is a relative matter and the word itself has a relative meaning.
A man with a yearly income of $100,000 who spends $101,000 is poor; a man who makes $50 a week and manages to live on $48 is not poor. We know many people worth millions—that is, millions of dollars—yet they are poor; for they have no happiness. They seek after happiness continually by keeping on the "go" all the time, or drinking as much liquor as they can gulp down—and they end up suffering physically from frequent headaches and spiritually from frustrations and a troubled conscience. Some of the richest people we know are living on small annuities or pensions. It is amazing how far a dollar goes if the spender has the right attitude toward himself, his fellows, his financial circumstances, and his God.
Poverty and riches are both relative matters. Furthermore, they are spiritual matters rather than financial. Foveyry and wealth consist in what we are rather than in what we have.

National Whirligig

Not A Mere Personal Dream

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Secretary John Foster Dulles' belief that Russia's new rulers will reform and behave under the pressures of responsibility is not a mere personal dream. It represents the result of careful analysis of the Kremlin bosses by government experts and outside advisers, including Republican and Democratic diplomats and economists.
Fortifying the Dulles' expectations is the generally conservative trend which history shows that revolutions similar to the Soviet's have assumed, particularly in this country, in France and elsewhere. Once the second and third generation of politicians come to power, according to these observations, they tend to grow more normal and restrained.
Napoleon Bonaparte, in the field of domestic reform, gave France a sound social, legal and economic system. The Jeffersonians adopted many of the major Federalists' policies which they had previously condemned as dictatorial. The exercise of power usually has a chastening effect.
SOVIET'S AGRICULTURAL PAINS—Russia, it is pointed out, is now under the control of "second generation" men, and some of the emerging figures may be classified as "third generation" characters in the world drama. The brutal methods of Lenin and Stalin, in Dulles' viewpoint, may be replaced by greater emphasis on improving internal conditions.
Russia is undergoing severe industrial and agricultural pains, and these were the principal reasons for George Malenkov's deathless demotion, in contrast to Lavrenti Beria's execution. The satellites likewise suffer from abnormal shortages.
The hard-boiled army men now at the top know that the Soviet or China cannot sustain a long, atomic war. They get a clearer picture of low standards from their camp contacts with the millions of men in uniform, whose mail brought letters of hardships at home. They are relied upon by Washington to restrain narrow, emotional civilian commissars. Without continued Army backing, no regime in Russia can endure.
TEST TO COME—Indeed, the Formosa crisis may turn out to be a long-term favorable development. Despite Premier Bulganin's and Foreign Minister Molotov's blustering, which was designed to offset evidence of domestic difficulties and dissension, the Reds have behaved more reasonably lately than in past controversies.

American students of Russian affairs consider it remarkable that Moscow did not take advantage of the Korean, Indo-China and Formosa crisis to precipitate an armed conflict, especially as the United States might have had to fight alone on distant and unfavorable battlefields. Their future behavior with regard to a Formosa settlement should, of course, provide a fairly prompt test of the new Eisenhower-Dulles theory.

RED CHINESE FIERY TALK HELPED US—The Far Eastern clash has also frightened neutrals for fear that Red China may set off a global conflagration. India's Premier Nehru has been shocked into a more realistic posture. He has begged Moscow to keep Mao Tse-tung in leash, which may explain why the Red Chinese did not try to interfere with our evacuation of Nationalist troops and civilians from the Tachen Islands.
Peiping's verbally bellicose position has brought new Allies to our side—Pakistan and Iran in the Middle East, a strengthened SEATO in Southeast Asia. It has led the Churchill Government to endorse the Formosa defense program. There is greater unity between Washington and London than in many days.

It has induced even the querulous Chiang Kaishek must be represented at any Formosa peace talks, inside or outside the United Nations. At home, the threat has resulted in a closer and more satisfactory nonpartisan foreign policy than at any time since the selfless days of World War II.
These developments, it is presumed, have not failed to influence the new dynasty in the Kremlin. In any event, these are the principal considerations behind Secretary Dulles' cautious optimism and encouraging words.

ville. So the Winterville mail is dropped off at Ayden, three miles south of Winterville, and remains all day until a star route from Greenville to Kinston in the late afternoon picks up the delayed Winterville mail at Ayden on its return trip and drops it off at Winterville.
All this new plan of operation is causing untold congestion in Rocky Mount and sometimes mail from Greenville addressed to points in Pitt County is several days reaching its destination. The congestion gets so heavy at times that the trucks that bring mail from Rocky Mount are forced to leave as much as they bring because their vehicles cannot handle the loads.
To us, none of this new scheme makes sense, but we pass these examples of the service on to our readers in order that they might know what is causing the delay in receipt of their mail.
If you are not satisfied with the service you are getting, there is but one way to correct it. Write your congressman, give him the facts backed up by samples of the delayed mail. If enough patrons complain to our congressman there is a possibility that he may be able to do something about the situation, but there is little or nothing that we can do about it by cursing the local mail man because, its none of his doings and, he can't deliver your mail to you until he gets it.

Important Question For Pitt County

Pitt County is on the spot in the General Assembly's consideration of reapportionment of House and Senate representation among the counties of the state.

If the reapportionment measure is blocked this year—as it was in 1951 and 1953—Pitt will retain its two representatives and one senator. If the controversial measures are passed, Pitt County will have only one representative in the House in the 1957 session, and it will share a senator with at least one other county.

It would be only natural for Pitt County, from a selfish standpoint to oppose the reapportionment measure since it is one of only two counties which would lose representation in the House by the action. It would likewise be difficult for Pitt to share a senator with another county after having a senator to itself for so long a time.

Yet, in the long run, would we not be doing ourselves and the other citizens of the state an injustice to seek to block reapportionment of representation in the State legislature for our own selfish motives?

The Reflector wants Pitt County to have all the representation in the General Assembly to which it is legally entitled. Yet we doubt the wisdom of Pitt County's joining, for its own selfish reasons, with other forces seeking to block the reapportionment of representation in the state legislature.

turn out to be a long-term favorable development. Despite Premier Bulganin's and Foreign Minister Molotov's blustering, which was designed to offset evidence of domestic difficulties and dissension, the Reds have behaved more reasonably lately than in past controversies.

India's Premier Nehru has been shocked into a more realistic posture. He has begged Moscow to keep Mao Tse-tung in leash, which may explain why the Red Chinese did not try to interfere with our evacuation of Nationalist troops and civilians from the Tachen Islands.

Peiping's verbally bellicose position has brought new Allies to our side—Pakistan and Iran in the Middle East, a strengthened SEATO in Southeast Asia. It has led the Churchill Government to endorse the Formosa defense program. There is greater unity between Washington and London than in many days.

It has induced even the querulous Chiang Kaishek must be represented at any Formosa peace talks, inside or outside the United Nations. At home, the threat has resulted in a closer and more satisfactory nonpartisan foreign policy than at any time since the selfless days of World War II.
These developments, it is presumed, have not failed to influence the new dynasty in the Kremlin. In any event, these are the principal considerations behind Secretary Dulles' cautious optimism and encouraging words.

Somebody Told Me

Coast-To-Coast On A TV Show

Dot Miller will appear Saturday night coast-to-coast on Old Gold's show, Two for the Money! Dot is the third Greenville personality to appear coast-to-coast: Mavis Allen sang on Bert Parks' Break the Bank, and Dr. Karl Pace was recognized when he wore the national family doctor of the year award and spoke from the national convention in Florida.
Dot wrote in to Garry Moore's I've Got a Secret, but the same producers handle Two for the Money and Dot's letter appealed to them.
Phone calls and telegrams that have followed would probably pay half of the expenses of the trip. Dot has talked to several different members of the staff (one for a solid hour) and Herb Shriner himself for about 20 minutes. Herb will be in Florida this weekend and Fred Allen will handle the show.

The conversations have varied, but mainly it has been a matter of the staff becoming acquainted with Dot, asking her questions about herself and about Greenville. Herb talked mostly about cooking.
Husband Joe, engineer and draftsman for Rivers and Rivers, will go with Dot and their 11-month-old daughter will be in the hands of a capable baby sitter.
Dot has no idea who her partner will be. Is she excited? Naturally, but says she's cool and calm at the same time.
She thinks there will be something about Greenville mentioned on the show. One of the staff members wanted to know the Mayor's name, and suggested that Dot ask him to be watching the show.
They inquired about the town,

what grows here (can you imagine that question?), what industries are here and they asked Dot various questions about the college.
"Do you think Greenville will be watching?" they asked. Dot was quick to explain that we have little choice, which got a laugh from the staff member.
Joe and Dot will fly from New Bern on Thursday (she has to be there Friday at 4:00 p.m.) and will remain until Tuesday following the show. "I never have been to New York and I want to see things!" she says.
It's truly amazing to me how much preparation goes into a TV show. To line up one contestant for such a show, think of the planning. Multiply that in all directions and you have a barrel of work.
And I thank you,

What Other Editors Are Thinking

TOBACCO TAX APPEARS LICKED
(Henderson Dispatch)
Members of the State legislature will not turn deaf ears to five hundred farmers protesting a heavy tax on tobacco products. That is the number estimated to have descended upon Raleigh Thursday to resist the proposed two cents per pack excise on cigarettes and proportionate levies on other types of processed leaf. They were preceded on Wednesday by spokesmen for the warehouse, export and manufacturing branches of the industry. All in all, they appear to have made a lasting impression, and consensus around Raleigh seems to be that the tobacco tax is licked.
When grower spokesmen told the Joint Finance Committee that they preferred an across-the-board two percent sales tax in lieu of a levy on tobacco they may have paved the way for that type of increase. Reports are that sentiment for it is in the ascendancy. There is every indication that higher taxes are on the way, and will be laid at several points.
It is rather surprising, if not amazing, that all the talk centering around new taxes and practically none on holding spending at present levels. The spenders evidently have sold the legislature on their demands.
There may be some activities that rate modest budget increases, but in our judgment they are few. We are convinced that along the next two years on substantially the same amount of cash they had for the current biennium. At hearings before the appropriations committee, however, requests over and above recommendations of the Advisory Budget Commission reportedly ran to around $45 to $50 million. We simply do not accept such requests as essential. The legislature, of course, will not grant all of that. But a considerable portion of it will likely get by that, of course means higher taxes if the budget is to be balanced—as it should be. But the balance ought to be attained not by higher taxes but by holding appropriations to a reasonable level.

If tobacco growers and representatives of the industry generally have actually beaten the tobacco tax, it stands to reason that a similar demonstration on the part of citizens could prevent the huge increases generally that have been demanded. There is no probability of any such manifestation of opposition, however. Result is going to be additional levies.
Nor is that all. These same State agencies will be back two years hence for still further hikes in their spending allotments. The trend will not ever be stopped until the public becomes sufficiently aroused to force such action by the legislature. And there is no visible evidence now of such a development.

State Utilities Commission Continues Have 2 Vacancies

By LYNN NISBET
UTILITIES — There are two vacancies on the Utilities Commission. One is "legal", occasioned by resignation of Sam O. Worthington to take his seat in the General Assembly of the Utilities Commission, or its predecessor the Corporation Commission, prior to the Scott-sponsored reorganization in 1949. Membership then was increased to five and the commission was accorded more comprehensive quasi-judicial functions in addition to its traditional administrative-regulatory powers.
Governor Hodges has told newsmen he is thinking about asking that membership be reduced to three, with no reduction in authority or scope, and probably an expanded clerical and technical staff. There has been considerable discussion in business circles of a plan for a three-member commission with authority and compensation comparable to Superior Court Judges and appointed for eight years overlapping terms.

Within the past few days there have been rumors that legislation is being drafted to establish a three-member commission to be elected by the people after nomination in partisan primaries. The Raleigh telegraph has it this plan is being advocated by lawyers who have practiced before the commission and who aspire to membership on it.
SHORT BALLOT — The idea has political appeal as being more democratic and as a further step away from the so-called "short ballot" system used in many States. North Carolina has frowned upon the plan of granting too much appointive power to the Governor. Many States have an appointive judiciary named either by the General Assembly or by the Governor with or without requirement for legislative confirmation. North Carolina has always elected Superior Court Justices and one Superior Court Judge, the Governor has authority to fill vacancies only until the next succeeding general election.
Some States elect only the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Attorney General and the Auditor, leaving all other administrative offices for executive appointment. In North Carolina the people elect in statewide voting the Supreme Court Justices, all regular Superior Court Judges; the Governor and Lieutenant Governor; the Attorney General; the Secretary of State; State Auditor; State Treasurer; State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commissioners of Agriculture, Insurance and Labor.

For many years members of the Corporation Commission (lineal ancestor of the Utilities Commission) were elected, and for a time the Commissioner of Revenue was an elected office. There has been suggestion that the rights of the people to elect should be extended to restore revenue and utilities commissioners to the list, and also include such positions as Director of Conservation and Development, State Highway Commissioner (chairman), State Health Officer and members of the Industrial Commission.
The trend, however, is toward fewer elective and more appointive officials, particularly in the areas where special technical services are essential.
APPOINTMENTS — The fact is that while every member of the Supreme Court and every member of the Council of State has been duly elected by the people, most of them first came to the office by appointment.
Chief Justice M.V. Barnhill was first appointed as Associate Justice and later as Chief Justice, subsequently elected to both posts. Associate Justices Jeff D. Johnson, Emery B. Denny, William H. Bobbitt and Carlisle Higgins went on the high court by appointment, although all have been since duly elected by the people. Associate Justices Jeff D. Johnson Jr. and R. Hunt Parker first went on the high court by election—and only Parker won the seat by nomination in a Democratic primary. Johnson

Builders Catching Up

By ELMER ROESSNER
Uneasiness has developed in some parts of the home building industry because the number of new families has fallen behind the number of new houses and apartments.
Last year there were 1,250,000 housing units started and 619,000 new households formed.
The difference of 636,000 can be accounted for by households "undoubling up," destruction of old units by fire, slum clearance, highways, etc. and vacancies.
This year, there will be an estimated 1,200,000 to 1,300,000 dwelling units started and slightly more than 600,000 new household units. That would look as if the builders would have to throw in free weddings to keep new houses renting or selling.
Now 600,000 more units than families at the home eventually lead to a lot of vacancies. Abundance of vacancies will lead to lower prices, reduced rents and less building.

cent of the areas, and lower in 9 per cent.
On the whole, the figures suggest that builders are catching up with the housing shortage. But they are not passing it fast enough to make sizable cuts in rents or selling prices of new homes.
In proposing a new code of floorcovering dealers the New York Better Business Bureau included this rule: "The asterisk or any other reference symbol should not be used as a method of contradicting any description or statement which by itself is misleading."
It is truly amazing that the BBB should have to tell retailers—figuratively—to come in out of the rain.
It was once considered clever to announce a price and, with the use of asterisks, say in small type: "Some higher," "Plus tax, warranty, interest and extras," "Less chassis," "Slightly higher East and West of the Rockies," or "for 1939 models only."
But in most people these amendments create suspicion, disgust, apprehension or antagonism. The BBB rule protects stupid retailers as much as it protects stupid customers.
WEEK-END SHOPPING CAN BE MOVED UP
There are still some "Saturday night" towns in the United States—towns in which outlying residents, mostly farmers, come to town only on Saturdays for entertainment and shopping. In these towns merchants have longer weeks, more overtime and less fun for themselves.
Jackson Ill., has demonstrated that customers can be switched to Friday nights. Merchants used an intense advertising campaign, good bargains parties and plenty of hoopla to popularize Friday nights. Shoppers like it.

But there is one bit of evidence that indicates the number of families double-dipping is that the number of dwellings being destroyed are considerably more than previously estimated. Or it could be that government estimates on new households are understated. (Suppose anybody is living together without letting Uncle Sam know?)
The evidence is a survey by the National Association of Real Estate Boards that indicates there has been very little rise in the vacancy rates. Based on reports from 274 boards, the Association found that:
1.—There are 2 per cent fewer vacancies in rental units in 78 per cent of the cities.
That, of course, indicates that there are more than 2 per cent vacancies in a fifth of the cities. Nine boards estimate vacancies at 10 per cent or more.
2.—Rents in garden-type apartments were unchanged in 78 per cent of the cities.

For instance, consider the provisions setting up the executive branch of the household government:
"The president will be female and the mother of any children in the household. The president will be the individual who discharges the duties of secretary of the interior, dietician, arbitrator, secretary of the treasury and myriad other duties too numerous to mention.
"Let's not beat about the bush—the housewife is the executive branch."
And consider this article from the bill of rights:
"Money without misery: Households are not required to bring home unopened pay envelopes. However, sufficient money to more than meet all requirements should be provided without complaint. The amount necessary should be decided by discussion between husband and housewife—subject to final decision by the latter."
Those are just samples. The constitution goes on and on in the same vein.
But men, if you ratify the constitution, you've got her promised to be "cook, chauffeur, arbitrator, launderer, treasurer, administrator, purchasing agent, nurse, janitor, seamstress, tutor, decorator and secretary." It's all there in black and white.

Abused Husbands, Take Warning

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. William F. Taub is a sympathetic young mother of two children and ordinarily good-humored. But she is also the founder of an organization which bodes no good for the future of man in his own home.
She has started something called the Society for the Protection of Abused Housewives (SPA) which gives just about all the family ruling authority to the wife. A constitution names her president of the household and bristles with her rights.
Mrs. Taub offers copies of the constitution and membership cards in the SPA to any woman who sends $50 cents.
She says her 29-year-old son, Paul, is really the reason for the SPA. He kept her so harried and busy that she decided something must be done, so she took all ruling authority away from mankind.
"The SPA's not an organized group—no meetings," she said. "But we find that the time it takes to get the constitution and find the section covering the current dispute is just about long enough to let us cool off and avert an argument, unattached—other words, male-observer who reads the constitution will find it is heavily rigged in favor of the woman. Under it, the man wouldn't stand a chance."

what grows here (can you imagine that question?), what industries are here and they asked Dot various questions about the college.

Linda Cook And Daniel Odum Exchange Vows In El Centro, Cal.

EL CENTRO, Calif.—In a beautiful candlelight ceremony Miss Linda Jo Cook became the bride of Daniel C. Odum Saturday evening, January 29, at the First Memorial Church of El Centro.

Rev. Arthur Nugh officiated at the double ring service performed in the presence of a large group of friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade S. Cook, 1058 Hamilton Ave., El Centro, long-time Valley residents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Odum of Raleigh and Greenville, N. C.

The altar was banked with arrangements of vari-colored and white mums and white stock with heather and the pews were marked with bows of white satin.

Mr. William D. Sanford and Mr. John Tyler were in Eureka Saturday.

Mrs. Delbert Ray James and her three children spent the weekend with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John James. Sunday enroute home from Florida, Mr. D. R. James visited these relatives before taking his family to Norfolk.

Mrs. Lee House is a patient at Martin General Hospital, Williamston.

Mrs. Eugene Waterman sang "All For You" and "Tell Me Why" and the Ascription to The Lord's Prayer following the prayer by Rev. Nugh.

A reception for wedding guests was given by the bride's parents in the Social Hall of the church.

Mrs. Cook wore an afternoon gown

Lighting the white tapers on the altar were Ruth Mackey and Dick Barrick.

The bride was gowned in candlelight slipper satin fashioned with sweeping skirt and fitted bodice with a rib-length bolero of lace with collar and long sleeves. Her illusion veil fell from a cap of edged in pearls. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Judy Cook was her sister's maid of honor and she wore a semi-formal gown of pink velveteen with matching headress. Miss Betty Barrick was bridesmaid and her gown of turquoise was identical to that of the maid of honor's. They carried velveteen muffs to match their dresses. Clusters of pink roses were pinned to the muffs.

Norman E. Clark, NAAS, best man, and Donald S. Leja attended the bridegroom and ushers were Ronald Lucas, Lorin Bennett and Floyd Tideman.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by James B. Fisher who also played organ interludes preceding the ceremony.

Mrs. James M. Perry of Durham accompanied her sister, Mrs. Claude Greene Sr. and Mr. Greene to Jacksonville, Fla. where they visited relatives. They returned Friday after a 10-day vacation.

Teen-age Turnout

This past week-end turned out to be a wonderful one for G.H.S. students. The Greenville Phantoms beat the Kinston Red Devils in their game Friday night. A huge number of Greenville fans were there to support their team. Listening to all the yelling one would have thought that the Greenville fans and the Kinston fans were having a contest to see who could yell the loudest. The scene after the game was one of mixed emotions. The Kinston fans filed out in a funeral march, some with long faces and some actually sobbing. As for the Greenville fans they were grinning from "ear to ear." Their cheers mounted as the team hoisted two of the players on their shoulders to cut down the nets.

Bright and early Saturday morning the cheerleaders returned to Kinston. They weren't returning to console the poor Red Devils, but to attend the cheerleaders' conference sponsored by the Kinston cheerleaders. After preliminary business and an open forum discussion, the various squads competed for a trophy. Both New Bern's varsity and junior varsity squads won a trophy. Runner-up honors went to Greenville's varsity squad and Washington's junior varsity.

Rose Calls Assembly

Superintendent J. H. Rose called an assembly of the entire student body Monday morning during third period. It was held to honor the basketball team and Coach Farley. The team sat on the stage along with several prominent citizens who made short speeches befitting the occasion. They were Mr. Joe Taft, vice-chairman of the school board; Mr. Gene West, mayor pro-tem; Mr. Jim Ficklen Sr., Mr. J. T. Cheatham, Mr. George Lautares, Mr. J. H. Waldrop, and Mr. Rose. The cheerleaders were called on the stage to lead the school in the school song. The band, under the direction of Mr. James E. Rodgers, played for the assembly. Mr. Rose called on Mr. Farley to introduce each member of the team for the benefit of the guests. The team and the student body appreciated the recognition given them by these prominent citizens. The spirits of the students rose to a high peak when Mr. Rose dismissed school early for lunch.

Dowd Attends Convention

Principal O. E. Dowd is attending the annual convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals in Atlantic City, N. J. He is attending many of the exhibits to get ideas for the furnishings of the new high school. Mr. Ward James is acting as principal during Mr. Dowd's absence.

Seniors Finish Source Themes

With sighs of relief, seniors handed in their source themes today. Many seniors remarked that it would be nice to get back into the normal habits of life again. This includes sleeping, eating, watching television, going to the movies, and to ball games. (The hard-working seniors were forced to give up all these things while slaving over a little piece of work for Mr. James.)

ECC Alumni Schedule Calender Of Meetings

Alumni of East Carolina College living in Wilson heard a talk by Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of the college at a meeting held there Tuesday night of this week. Mr. Butler is also scheduled as speaker at chapter meetings in Roxboro Thursday, February 24, and in Charlotte Saturday, March 11.

Plans are now being completed for an alumni breakfast at the North Carolina Education Association Convention in Asheville, March 25. Mr. Butler has announced.

Mrs. E. Thornton Meeks, vice president of the college Alumni Association, conducted the meeting in Wilson Tuesday. Mrs. Ethel Vick Crawley, a former association president, also participated in the program. Both are residents of Wilson.

In Roxboro local arrangements for the alumni meeting are in charge of Mrs. F. Egerton Baker, Baxter Ridenhour of Durham, association director of the Raleigh-Durham district, will appear as speaker on the program.

The annual meeting of the South Piedmont district will be held in Charlotte March 11 at 12:30 p.m. in Effrid's private dining room. Mrs. J. B. Davis of Charlotte, district director, is in charge of arrangements.

East Carolina College alumni will hold their annual breakfast assembly at the Pine Room of the S and W Cafeteria in Asheville, March 25, as a social event of the NCEA meeting. Meeting with alumni at this time will be a group of faculty members and administrative officers of the college.

BOMB BLASTS

SANTIAGO Cuba (AP)—Five bombs exploded in various parts of this city last night. A 60-year-old man was killed and his 18-year-old granddaughter injured when a bomb placed in a window of their home went off. Reason for the blasts was not immediately determined. Police arrested several members of opposition political parties.

Farmville Boys And Belvoir Girls Eliminated

Final Round In County Tourney Slated Tonight

Last Night's Results
Winterville (girls) 70, Belvoir 59
Stokes-Pactolus (boys) 50, Farmville 48

Tonight's Games
Farmville (girls) vs. Winterville, 7:30
Stokes-Pactolus (boys) vs. Bethel, 9:00

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Stokes-Pactolus took over in the fourth quarter last night and then held back a strong Farmville rally to whip the Red Devils 50-48 and gain entry into the finals of the Pitt County Tournament tonight in ECC gym. Bethel, which won its game with Ayden Monday night, will meet the Stokes gang for the championship at nine o'clock.

In girls activity last night the Winterville lassies outscored Belvoir 70-59 with Jean Little accounting for 43 of those points for Winterville. Winterville now plays the Farmville girls for the championship tonight at 7:30.

Girls Game
In the girls game last night Winterville jumped off into a quick margin and led 17-9 after the first quarter. In the second quarter Coach Snag Clark's team had built up a 34-14 margin. From there the Belvoir girls got hot and roared back to trail by only 20-26 at halftime. In the last half the Winterville gang slowly increased its margin with the terrific Little scoring most of the points. Barbara Evans also scored 20 for Winterville. Jane Parker led Belvoir with 27 points for the night.

Boys Game
The boys contest was a very slow, drag-out affair with neither team showing a good scoring attack. Stokes-Pactolus completely dominated the rebounding in the first half but could not score from it and Farmville had a 21-17 advantage at halftime. After the intermission both teams kept up their sporadic scoring during the third quarter. After three periods had been played the score was all knotted up at 50-50.

The two teams finally broke out of their scoring lapses with some shooting in the final stanza. Farmville was behind by seven points with three minutes to go. Jack Parrish and Milton Worthington sparked a comeback try but the rally fell short as Farmville repeatedly missed easy shots. It evidently wasn't the night for Coach Charles Tucker's crew who are capable of much better playing.

Carroll Wooten led the scoring for Farmville with 14 points. B. Perkins had 17 to take scoring honors for the night for Stokes.

The finals take place tonight with two games on tap. The girls final starts at 7:30 and the boys championship game takes over at nine o'clock. The games will be played in ECC gym in Greenville.

Score by quarters:
Winterville girls 17 12 23 18-70
Belvoir 9 17 21 13-59
Farmville (boys) 11 10 9 18-48
Stokes-Pactolus 9 8 13 20-50

Defending Champion GHS Sits Out Tourney Opener

The defending champion Greenville Phantoms will sit back and watch the other six teams fight it out for a crack at the tournament throne tomorrow night, then will move into action Friday against the winner of Thursday's Elizabeth City-New Bern winner.

The Green Phantoms, who swept through three tournament games with ease last season, are favored to repeat as champions this year but their is plenty of tough opposition. Most of the competition will come from the numbers two and three seeded teams. Kinston, number two in conference play, almost upset the Phantoms in Kingston last Friday and Jacksonville, seeded number three, can cause Kinston a lot of trouble as they did earlier in the year. The other four teams are not given much of a chance although New Bern is the strongest of the four.

Greenville Has Long Streaks
The Green Phantoms have several long winning streaks that will be on their side. The G-men have won twenty consecutive conference games over the past two years, and have won 18 consecutive games against high school competition in Greenville. The G-men went through this season with the best record of any team in the conference. They won all twelve conference contests and finished with a 17-1 mark in all activity. The only loss was to Rocky Mount by one point in Rocky Mount in the last few seconds of the game.

The tournament has particular bearing this season. In years past the winner of the conference play was the loop champion and went to the state tourney. This year their must be a playoff between the winner of the tourney and the winner of the conference. If the Greensies win the tourney then they will move onto Sanford and the state tourney. The tournament starts Thursday at 6:30 for the first game. Three games are on tap Thursday with the three winners and Greenville meeting in the semi-final round Friday. Saturday night there will be a consolation game at 7:30 before the regular championship contest.

Tournament highlights after the final game will have the awarding of medals to the winning and runner-up players, the announcement of the all-tournament team, and the awarding of the trophies to the top three teams.

Maureen Connolly Gives Up Tennis; Will Be Wed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Maureen Connolly suddenly gave up plans for a tennis comeback last night and said she would get married in June.

The 20-year-old, brown-eyed miss, who at 19 has captured most of the world's tennis crowns and still holds some of them, said the man is Norman Brinker, 23. They had been engaged since November 1953, but marriage plans had been indefinitely postponed.

The announcement surprised even close friends who had watched the determined girl's preparations for a return to her meteoric tennis career, which was interrupted by a horse riding injury to her right leg last July.

"I just don't enjoy tennis anymore," said Miss Connolly. "I've lost that old spark, the drive one must sustain to go through a long season's campaign like I have for several years."

"I don't have that keen interest for tennis, a tour would be no good."

She said that after she was settled in domestic life she might try to regain her national championship, and possibly make a short tour of Europe.

"But as for tennis in my future,

I look forward towards the teaching end," she said.

Until last night's announcement, Miss Connolly's dominating ambition had appeared to be the regaining of the U. S. women's crown. She won that coveted title when she was only 16 and held it for three straight years. The riding accident prevented defense of it last September and it was won by Doris Hart of Florida.

Miss Connolly began her tennis career when she was 10. At 14 she captured her first national junior crown. When she won her first U. S. women's singles title in 1951, she was the youngest player ever to hold the crown. The next year she captured the All-England Championships at Wimbledon in her first attempt. She retained the Wimbledon title the next two years.

Brinker, good-looking native of Colorado who was retained in New Mexico, was released from Navy service the first of the year and has enrolled as a sophomore student in business administration at San Diego State College. They became acquainted through their common interest in horses while he was on Navy duty here.

East Carolina Is Again Picked For NAIA Playoffs

For the third straight year, East Carolina College is to be one of the participants in the NAIA District 26 playoffs. It was announced by district chairman, James Hamilton, basketball mentor at Lenoir Rhyne College.

Hickory and Kinston have been selected for the opening dates of the action which will begin Monday, February 28.

Lenoir Rhyne, winner of the North State loop regular season crown, is one of the three other teams to participate.

Action will begin Monday night with the final contest being played on Wednesday night in an undetermined spot. The Bears will play host to one outfit in Hickory while the Pirates will meet the other team in Kinston.

The winner of the North State Tournament at Lexington is assured of one berth. Should Lenoir Rhyne or ECC win the tourney, Atlantic Christian would receive a bid due to their second place rank in the regular season standings. Presbyterian also looms as a possibility should they cop the Little Four tournament at Spartanburg.

East Carolina qualified for the playoffs by virtue of their superior record against NAIA foes while the Bears automatically qualified on their first place rating in the North State loop.

Lenoir Rhyne ended the regular campaign with a 19-4 record and 14-2 in the conference. East Carolina posted a 18-6 mark and a 12-4 loop record.

The winner of the District 26 playoffs will travel to Kansas City to compete for the national crown. Last season, East Carolina copped the District 26 honors but bowed out in the first round at Kansas City.

Salute Seixas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National amateur tennis champion Vic Seixas gets a welcome home parade today from Philadelphia for his part in bringing the Davis Cup back to the United States.

Scheduled in Seixas' honor was a parade featuring civic, business and sports leaders, Fairmount Park mounted guards, police and firemen's bands and a lengthy motorcade.

Seixas defeated Australian Ken Rosewall and teamed with Tony Trabert to take a doubles match as the U.S. won the cup 3-2. Seixas was named by the University of North Carolina.

Trabert Says He Plans Sweep Of Summer Events

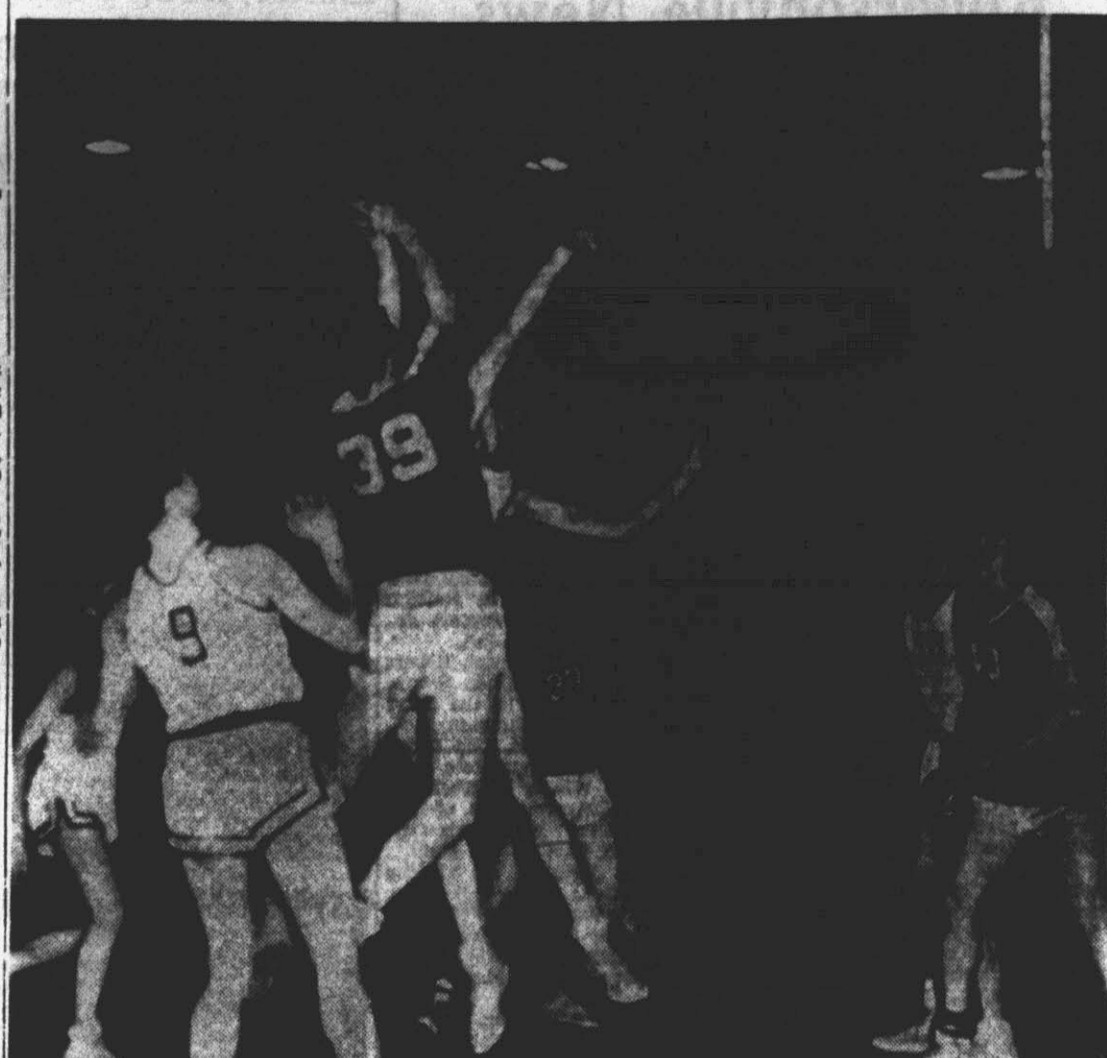

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Trabert, new national indoor tennis king, reiterated his aim today to score a sweep of the big summer events and go for the professional pot of gold.

"My plans?" the 24-year-old husky from Cincinnati parried a question. "I'll play tennis all summer. I hope to win at Wimbledon and at Forest Hills, help defend the Davis Cup and then, if I'm made an offer, turn pro."

Thick-shouldered Tony looked capable of carrying out his ambitious program as he whipped his Davis Cup teammate Hamilton Richardson in the indoor finals yesterday at the 7th Regiment Armory. The scores were 11-13, 7-5, 9-7, 6-3.

From a spectator standpoint it was an extremely flat and lifeless match, full of quick kills and with few rallies, but Trabert emerged as a man again on top of his game. "He looks more like the Trabert of 1953 than any time I've seen him," said Bill Talbert, U.S. Davis Cup captain.

New Managers, But Same Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Six new managers face the gun in the American League this season, but it looks like another race between the same old rivals, Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians and Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees who finished one-two or two-one for the last four years.

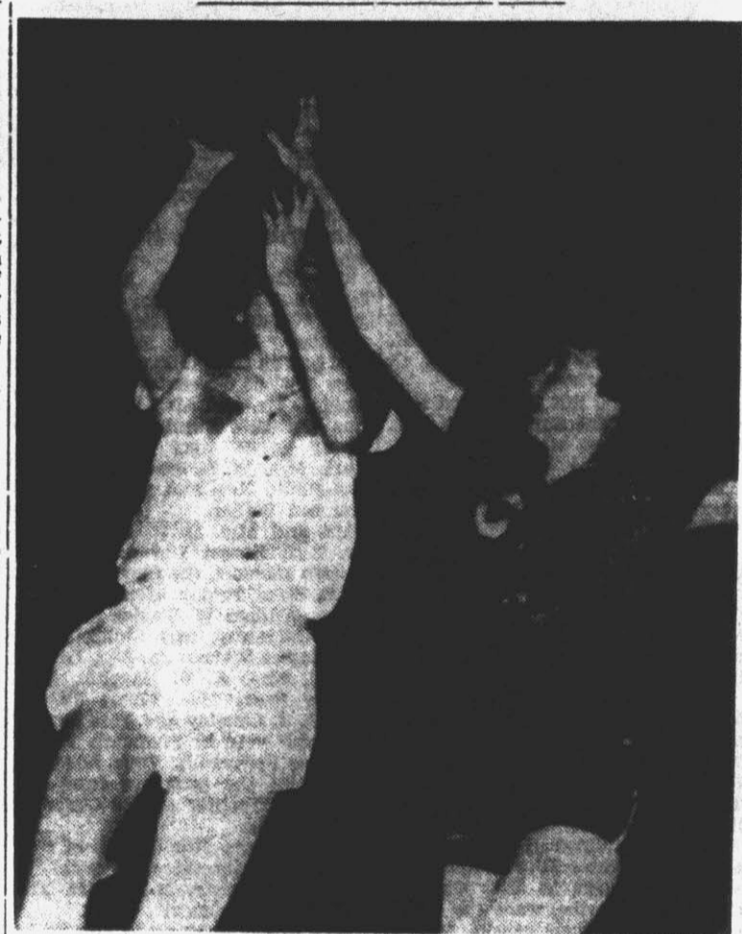

With Ralph Kiner acquired from the Chicago Cubs, added to the slugging array that helped the Indians win 111 games last year, and rookie Herb Score on the pitching staff Cleveland is the likely favorite to repeat.

Despite the retirement of Allie Reynolds, many think the Yanks traded themselves into another pennant when they lured pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen and shortstop Billy Hunter from Baltimore in the biggest deal of the winter. Stengel already has the makings of a young staff in Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Tom Morgan plus Eddie Lopat, only survivor of the Yanks' "Big Three" of other years.

Marty Marion, who takes over the head job at Chicago, has added first baseman Walt Dropo, outfielders Bob Nieman and Lloyd Merriman and catcher Clint Courtney from other big league clubs. Minnie Miñoso remains the big noise at bat with Billy Pierce, Bob Keegan, Virgil Trucks, Sandy Consuegra and Jack Harshman to handle the pitching.

Moving to Detroit, Bucky Harris will find a young, improving outfield of Bill Tuttle, Al Kaline and probably J. W. Porter or Bubba Phillips. A trade with the White Sox brought first baseman Ferris Fain to the Tigers to round out the infield of Fred Hatfield, Harvey Kuenn and Ray Boone. Ned Garver, Billy Hoefl and Steve Gromek are the big men of the pitching staff and an improvement on last year's fifth place finish is indicated.

Boston, of course is still cliff hanging waiting for Ted Williams to make up his mind—positively—about his retirement. Jackie Jensen and Jim Piersall are set as the other outfielders but the infield must be worked out by new manager Pinky Higgins. At Washington, Chuck Dressen Winterville's Jean Little drives past Belvoir's Windham for two points in action from the semi-final rounds of the Pitt County Tournament last night. She scored 42 points for the night. Winterville won, 70-50, to advance to the finals tonight.

will discover he has sound pitching in Bob Porterfield, Chuck Stobbs, Maury McDermott, Dean Stone, Johnny Schmitz and Frank Shea and an outfield that can "go get 'em" but has not much power.

Baltimore's hope under Paul Richards is for some of the ex-Yanks to come through. Hal Smith already is being hailed as the No. 1 catcher before training starts. Gene Woodling is sure to play left field. The rest of the positions probably will be platooned. Joe Coleman is the ace of the pitching staff which includes Harry Byrd, Jim McDonald and Duane Pilette.

Despite the shift from Philadelphia to Kansas City and a change of managers, the A's still are in sad shape. The only players mentioned by other clubs when deals were mentioned were third baseman Jim Finigan and pitcher Arfield Portocarrero.

Dr. F. R. Darkis To Address Area Chemical Society

Dr. Frederick R. Darkis, Director of Research, Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, will address chemists and chemical engineers of the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society at the February meeting to be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Hotel Kinston in Kinston. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 at the Hotel Kinston.

In his talk on "The Chemistry of Cigarette Tobacco", Dr. Darkis will discuss the chemical composition of flue-cured bright leaf, Burley, Maryland, air-cured, and Turkish sun-dried tobaccos and some of the chemical changes that occur as a result of aging and processing. Presiding will be Dr. E. R. Kane, of Kinston, Chairman of the Eastern North Carolina Section. Interested members of the public are invited to attend this meeting.

Dr. Darkis received his B.S. degree in 1922 and was awarded the degree of Ph.D. in Chemistry in 1928 from the University of Maryland. After brief periods in the State Control Laboratories of Maryland and the Florida Citrus Experiment Station, he joined the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company in 1928 where his principal researches have consisted of chemical agronomic and pathological studies of tobacco.

At Duke University from 1933-1947 he was in charge of the program of chemical and agronomic research on tobacco carried out by that institution. This work was associated with the correlation of quality in tobacco to its chemical composition, determination of agronomic conditions under which good quality Turkish type tobaccos could be grown in the Southeastern United States and some of the chemical changes that occur in tobacco during aging. He returned to Liggett and Myers as Research Director in 1948. Dr. Darkis is a member of the Tobacco Advisory Committee to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Probe Motive In Patterson Death

Forest Rangers Combat Rush Of Woods Fires

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Prosecuting attorneys turned back to the motive for A. L. Patterson's murder today with silence on persistent reports of surprise witnesses coming up against Albert Fuller.

Chief prosecutor Cecil Deason placed a blackout on the identity of those who will be called to the stand before the state rests its case probably late this week.

Deason told newsmen merely that he would offer fresh testimony today about vice and racketeering that flourished in Phenix City before the crusading crime fighter was slain June 18, and about Patterson's vow to drive out the racketeers.

Meanwhile, a state toxicologist who made ballistic tests on the bullets taken from Patterson's body faced continued cross-examination by defense attorneys.

Toxicologist W. L. Sowell told the jury yesterday that although two types of .38-caliber slugs — one a snub-nosed bullet, the other copper coated — were recovered from Patterson's body, tests indicated they were fired from the same gun.

He also said one of the bullets was identical in texture with another of the same type found at Fuller's home. Fuller was chief deputy sheriff at crime-ridden Phenix City when the 49-year-old former state senator was shot down after winning the Democratic nomination for attorney general of Alabama.

Pitt County Forest Rangers fought woods fires in widely separated areas and involving 119 acres of timber from Monday night until nearly midnight Tuesday.

The North Carolina Forestry Tower, near the Greenville Television Station, reported that the first woods fire was in the Stokestown community Monday night. Forest Rangers believed that this blaze was under control, but it broke out again Tuesday morning. It involved 30 acres on the Bates timber tract on the H. C. Strong and Jimmy Everett lands.

Fire broke out Tuesday morning on the J. B. Speight land, shutting the Farmville highway near Greenville, and damaged seven acres of timber. Forest Rangers promptly brought this blaze under control. County Forest Ranger N. H. (Kid) Tyson stated.

Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock a woods fire broke out on the A. L. Garris land in the Worthington Cross Roads community and damaged seven acres of timber. This blaze was under control later in the day.

The Forestry Department used all of its heavy woods fire-fighting equipment Tuesday night when the woods fire involving 75 acres was threatening on the Henry Sugg farm in the Hanrahan community. Forest Rangers had this fire under control by 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Forest Rangers were on continuous duty for nearly 48 hours and yesterday they continued to fight fires without dinner yesterday and supper last night.

"Monday's and Tuesday's woods fires were the worst in Pitt County since early last fall", Ranger Tyson stated today. He reminded that the North Carolina law provides that landowners planning to burn brush shall notify adjoining landowners in plenty of time when they plan to burn.

Princess Dines Open-Air Style

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Dressed in a native Jamaican costume, Princess Margaret ate charcoal broiled steak at a huge open air barbecue last night in Mandeville, 55 miles up in the mountains from Kingston.

The princess, here on a tour of the British West Indies, sat on a platform built on a small slope overlooking a grassy field dotted with tables. With her on the platform were officials of a Jamaican Aluminum Co., who gave the barbecue.

Three large bonfires crackled at strategic points throughout the field. About 500 guests attended the affair.

The princess wore a black blouse and a white skirt embroidered with Jamaican figures. She carried a white Angora sweater in case the mountain air became too chill. The men in her party wore bright sport shirts.

The royal party rode back to Kingston after the barbecue on a one-car diesel trolley, freshly painted for the special trip. It covered the 55 miles in 75 minutes.

Dies Following Long Exposure

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Frank Shields, 50, of Painesville, Ohio, who was trapped in his car for 17 hours after it crashed in a snowstorm, died yesterday of pneumonia and internal injuries.

Shields' auto hit a tree Feb. 10 and overturned. Snow quickly covered it and it appeared to be a large boulder to passing motorists. A farmer found Shields and took him to a hospital.

Joins Staff Of AFROTC Unit

Capt. Jean M. Crane has joined the staff of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College as assistant professor of air science.

A native of Illinois, he attended Illinois Wesleyan University for two years and received the B.S. degree in education at the University of Illinois in 1951. He is a member of the Pi Gamma Mu and Kappa Delta Pi fraternities.

Now on active duty with the U.S. Air Force, Capt. Crane is a senior pilot and has served as Wing Plans Officer and Wing Flight Safety Officer.

Capt. and Mrs. Crane and their daughter Debra Diane are making their home in Greenville during his tour of duty here.

Ayden Men Share Company Honors

AYDEN—The Home Security Life Insurance Company of Durham has recently announced that M. B. Harper and W. L. McLawhon of Ayden have qualified for membership in the 100 Thousand Dollar Club.

They will receive membership pins when the company convenes its annual convention, which will be held this year at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach.

Mistrial Ruled In Damage Suit

The trial jury in Superior Civil Court stayed out the entire day here yesterday without reaching a verdict in a $219 automobile damage suit. Judge Walter J. Bone temporarily resolved the issue by declaring a mistrial.

One source stated that the jury was divided seven to five on the issue, though it was not indicated whether the majority was for or against the plaintiff. The jury is required under law to reach a unanimous verdict.

The plaintiff was Harold Thomas, Greenville, and the defendant Lyndian Anderson, Greenville. They were involved in a two-car collision on Dickson Ave. about a year ago. The plaintiff brought a suit to collect $219 car damages.

The jury went out shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday and reported back at around four o'clock in the afternoon that they had failed to reach a verdict. The case remains on the civil court docket and may be tried at another term of court.

Falkland Club Hears Attorney

FALKLAND — L. B. Stocks, Greenville lawyer, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting for Home Demonstration Club members and their husbands Monday night in the school auditorium.

The lawyer's subject was "Wills and Inheritances."

Assistant Farm agent C. J. Goodman was also present at the meeting and spoke to the group on social security for farm families.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Lillie Little, Home Demonstration Agent.

Refreshment for the evening was led by Mrs. Willard Wooten.

Parakeets Enjoy Flavor Of Ink

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—A woman wrote an ink manufacturer to ask whether her two pet parakeets will suffer ill effects because they drink ink from the nib of her fountain pen.

"They even lap it out of the bottle if I leave the top off," she wrote.

The chief chemist for the firm, assured her he doesn't think the parakeets will be harmed if they consume only small amounts.

"But we don't recommend it for that purpose," he said.

KEPT THEIR SHIRTS LOUISBURG, N.C. (AP)—Seven poker players nearly lost their pants for real in a super-sized game at a cabin near here. A bandit made off with several thousand dollars after forcing the players to remove their trousers.

Drive-In Theater Robbery Results In Manslaughter

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Armed robbery of a drive-in theater here last night resulted indirectly in the death of a Marine military policeman at a roadblock set up in an attempt to catch the robbers.

Cpl. J. A. Wright, stationed at nearby Camp Lejeune, was hit by a car that sped past the roadblock on U.S. 17. Wright and two Jacksonville officers had tried to flag down the car.

Earlier in the evening two white men wearing military field jackets held up Mrs. D. R. Benson, theatre cashier. She said the taller of the bandits pointed a gun at her and threatened to put a bullet through her head. He took $150. The other man blocked the exit to the cashier's booth. They put the money in a field cap and left after ordering her to lie on the floor.

Roadblocks were put up at several points. Wright was with officers J. E. Hassell and J. B. Pittard near a bridge. The car that struck Wright also grazed Pittard but did not injure him seriously. Wright died about an hour later at the Lejeune hospital.

The driver of the car was identified as Theodore Durden, Negro, also stationed at Lejeune. He was charged with involuntary manslaughter, driving in excess of 75 miles an hour while intoxicated, assault with a deadly weapon and resisting arrest.

Four persons in Durden's car were held as material witnesses. They were listed as John Grass, Patricia Durden, Raymond Hurst and Mary Goodman all of Jacksonville.

Milk Price Regulations Bill Is Approved By N.C. Senate

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate has put its approval on a bill to empower the State Milk Commission to fix minimum retail and wholesale milk prices.

The action came yesterday following debate of more than an hour during which two amendments were defeated. The measure was sent to the House. An amendment offered by Sen. A. F. Godwin of Gates would have given the public three representatives on the seven-member commission. The commission now has one public representative.

Sen. W. D. James introduced an amendment which would have extended the price fixing powers to ice cream.

Godwin led the opposition to the bill. He declared the milk consumer has "an absolute minimum of representation on this board and practically no representation." In addition to one consumer and the commissioner of agriculture the commission members include two distributors, a producer, a retail merchant and a producer-distributor.

Arguing against the measure, Sen. Charles H. Reynolds of Rutherford asserted "price fixing is not the American free enterprise way." He said the proposal would put "too much power in the hands of a few people and that the milk commission largely represents the milk industry."

Godwin told the Senate that "when you begin to regulate the retail price of milk, you can regulate the price of shoes and bread and many other things."

Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance, who introduced the bill, said no precedent would be set in giving the milk commission retail price fixing powers. He added that if it states which have milk commissions North Carolina is the only one where prices are not controlled at that level.

The primary purpose of this bill, he asserted, is to "stabilize the prices, not eliminate competition."

Godwin asked Scott if the bill was not aimed against Gateway market chaos, in an effort to prevent them from coming into North Carolina and selling milk from the Washington area as a "loss leader." This is an item on which a store takes a loss in an effort to attract customers to the store.

Scott answered that "it has been their custom to use milk as a loss leader."

Meanwhile, House Judiciary 1 Committee was held yesterday that legislation designed to protect children from sexual psychopaths "would be a step in the right direction." Under a bill introduced by Rep. Arthur Goodman of Mecklenburg, sexual psychopaths could be incarcerated and treated. Solicitor Basil Whitener of Gastonia told the committee, "There are people who are afflicted with this disease (of sexual deviation) who want help." He added "if the average person knew how many of these diseased persons were walking around they'd be shocked. Charlotte is catching them from all surrounding areas."

Merry-Making Mardi-Gras Is Brought To End

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Merry-making and Mardi Gras gave way to the solemnity of the Lenten season today.

Ash Wednesday services were held in churches of many denominations after the city, overflowing with visitors, celebrated its first Mardi Gras in many years without a violent death.

Mardi Gras ended last midnight. Yesterday was a day of rain, mauling, parading and general merrymaking. Crowds will swarm over the business district and the French Quarter, the night club center of the city.

Police said there were 800 complaints of all kinds—about twice the normal load and about average after the Mardi Gras season today.

Fun-burns crowds seemed to ignore the weather, masquerading in costumes ranging from impromptu to elaborate. Amateur cameramen had a field day. Scantily clad women and a man dressed in bear cubs vied for attention.

More Cold For Midwest Today

More cold and snow headed into storm-battered areas of the northern Midwest and northern Rockies today.

The arctic air from Canada spread over the Dakotas and headed eastward into Minnesota and Iowa and was expected to spread over wide areas of the Mississippi River Valley during the day. Snow, with strong northerly winds, was in prospect for most of the region.

Fairly mild winter weather, with only a few wet spots, was reported in most other parts of the nation. A belt of rain extended from southeast Alabama northward to western New England early today.

The freezing line covered regions from the eastern Great Lakes down the Ohio Valley and westward into central Oklahoma, central New Mexico and around the Western Plateau.

It was below zero across the Northern Plains and in the northern Rockies and in some parts of the northern Midwest. Grantsburg, Wis., had an early morning low of -11.

Pamphlet Drop Met Objections

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP)—Crusade for Freedom pamphlets may be dropped behind the Iron Curtain but not on several New Hampshire communities.

Plans to scatter 150,000 leaflets from airplanes as part of a nationwide program yesterday were canceled in Manchester, Concord, Nashua when police chiefs objected that fluttering paper would be a menace to motorists.

Brief Holiday For Wall Street Bulls And Bears

NEW YORK (U)—The bulls and bears are taking a holiday today. Wall Street is left pretty much to rumor mongers, who haven't seen taking any holidays at all in late.

The ranks of the bears have been growing, apparently. There was a notable rise between mid-January and mid-February in the short interest on the New York Stock Exchange. On the American Stock Exchange there was a slight drop, although the total now is almost twice what it was a year ago.

The short interest is the total of stocks that traders have "borrowed" from brokers and sold at present prices in the expectation of replacing them later by buying them at a lower price.

The short seller, in other words, is betting that prices will fall. If they do, he makes a profit. If prices of the stocks he has borrowed and must replace should rise instead, the trader is caught in a squeeze, has to buy at the higher price and loses money.

The stock exchange reports that almost three million shares have been sold short. Most of these doubtless represent the guess of individual traders that these particular issues are due for a price tumble. But not all of them.

There are other reasons that traders sometimes sell short. Around the end of the year a sizable portion of such selling is for tax reasons.

Sometimes, short selling is for purposes of hedging. A trader may have some stock he likes and wants to keep his position in, for any number of reasons. He sells other stock of this same issue short. If the price rises, he loses on the short sales but gains on the stock he originally held—and it evens off. If the price drops, he loses on his original stock but makes it back on his short interest.

Big short interest on the exchange indicates that many bears are looking for a drop in prices, at least in the particular issues in which they have taken a short position. But the bulls take a lot of comfort from it too.

They figure this way: If the price starts falling the shorts will buy to get their profit. This buying will steady the price. If the price starts rising, the shorts will buy to halt their losses, and this buying will help send the prices still higher.

Objectionable

SANTE FE, N. M. (AP)—The New Mexico attorney general has ruled nondenominational, non-sectarian religious meetings held weekly at Roswell High School are "constitutionally objectionable."

The opinion, handed down yesterday, said, "Only the principle is clear, church and state must be kept separate. At what stage fusion becomes constitutionally objectionable depends upon that particular situation."

But in the Roswell case, it continued, "the students know that on Wednesday morning at 8:15 a.m., religious services will be held upon their public school grounds."

Says Matuso Is Trying Destroy All Former Reds

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said today Harvey Matusow apparently is "deliberately trying to destroy" other former Communists who have testified for the government in court trials and congressional Red hunts.

Watkins is a member of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which yesterday ended two days of raking questioning of Matusow, amid threats to prosecute the young New Yorker for his turnabout testimony.

Subcommittee members said they will try to jail him on perjury charges. Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) said the Justice Department had asked for a transcript of the hearings.

Matusow stuck to his story that he has falsely accused "hundreds" of persons of ties to communism when he testified both in court and on Capitol Hill in the earlier 1950s.

Matusow said he had dates in New York with a federal court and a federal grand jury. Excusing him temporarily, the subcommittee called other witnesses for closed-door questioning about the case.

Matusow told the senators yesterday that other former Communists who have testified about Communist espionage also have given false testimony. He named Elizabeth Bentley, Louis Budenz, Manning Johnson and Paul Robeson and frequent government witnesses.

Budenz commented in New York: "This is the second stage of the Communist attack on internal security. They have planned since 1950 to attack government witnesses."

Others named by Matusow could not be reached immediately.

Matusow, asked by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) whether he would "pay your debt to society" by pleading guilty to perjury charges, retorted in a voice that was nearly a shout:

"I will gladly join them (the four) wherever they go—in any federal prison."

"But alone—no! If the government just tries to make a scapegoat of me I'm going to fight it."

"I think," Sen. Watkins said in an interview, "Matusow is trying to discredit these other ex-Communists without any real knowledge about them."

Sen. Eastland said he expects the group to call Miss Bentley to reply to Matusow's accusation that she once told him she had lied. Matusow never did give the subcommittee details.

LOSER AND WINNER:—Five-year-old Johnny MacFarlane (left), mirrors his sadness in Burlington, Ont., after losing in straw vote that broke up his family. Johnny's father was crippled in an auto accident so he and his three sisters drew straws to see which one would remain at home because "there wasn't enough money" to keep them all. At right, Iris MacFarlane, 4, seems blissfully unaware of troubled look on mom's face after her straw pick enabled her to remain with her parents. The other children will live with family friends who volunteered to take them in. Doctors say the father won't be able to walk for another three months. (AP Wirephoto).

Chicago Mayor Kennelly Loses To Machine In Comeback Effort

By BERNARD GAVZER

CHICAGO (U)—Mayor Martin H. Kennelly, fighting the regular Democratic organization which once put him in office, was defeated yesterday in the party primary. He is serving his second four-year term.

County Clerk Richard J. Daley, 52, the organization candidate, won by more than 100,000 votes.

Opposing Daley in the April 5 election will be Alderman Robert E. Merriam, 36-year-old Democrat-turned-Republican, who had little opposition from two candidates in the GOP primary.

Bitterness of the campaign between Kennelly, 67, a tall, white-haired bachelor, and Daley was reflected in the mayor's terse statement last night conceding defeat. He did not congratulate Daley, as Benjamin S. Adamowski but said: "I concede the election to Mr. Daley. I want to thank all those who gave their time and effort to my campaign."

Late unofficial complete returns from the city's 4,157 precincts gave Daley 364,839 votes to 264,775 for Kennelly. Adamowski, former corporation counsel, polled 112,072, while Clarence Balek, a political unknown, got 4,329.

Merriam, in 4,157 precincts, had 106,626 votes to 18,253 for Lar Daly and 7,594 for Fred Lyon.

The total unofficial vote was 964,920, which was 50 per cent of the registered vote. The Democratic total vote was 746,015 to 132,473 by Republicans.

Organization Democrats allied with Daley scored sweeping victories in the aldermanic primary in the race for city treasurer, Kennelly's running mate, Morris B. Sachs, clothing merchant and philanthropist, lost by only about 21,000 votes to organization candidate John C. Marcin, an insurance man. In the city clerk contest, Daley's candidate, Alderman Benjamin M. Becker, 45, beat Marion Isbell, restaurant owner by nearly 160,000 votes.

Kennelly who acquired much wealth in the storage and moving business, first entered politics in 1947 when the organization Democrats drafted him as mayoral candidate. He also had their support in 1951, but they dropped him this year and selected Daley. Democratic leaders said they did not consider Kennelly an asset to the party.

Delegated Regulatory Power Trend Growing

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—This week the General Assembly will devote considerable attention to pending bills designed to grant more extensive regulatory control authority over the actions of citizens to agencies other than the elected Legislature.

The most far-reaching of these bills involves the idea of giving to a newly constituted Water Resources Commission authority to appropriate and allocate the use of water. The next most important in direct influence upon the average citizen is the proposal to extend powers of the Milk Commission to include the right to set minimum prices which consumers may be charged for milk. (The present law empowers the fixing of minimum prices paid to producers.) The third major regulatory bill would set up a Real Estate Board, with authority to license and regulate actions of all real estate salesmen.

Other pending proposals would grant additional powers to existing control boards, and would establish a new super State Board of Higher Education with authority in some instances to override decisions of the individual institution boards of trustees. Rumors are floating around to the effect legislation may be suggested to increase control of the Utilities Commission over privately managed public service corporations, and to extend authority of agencies such as the Board of Conservation and Development, the Wildlife Resources Commission and the Motor Vehicles Department.

All of these proposals have recognized merit and some of them have very powerful backing of the administration. It can be categorically stated, however, that up to now none of them has admitted majority in the Legislature or in popular opinion as it has been expressed.

Everybody who has given thought to the matter agrees that something must be done about the conservation and regulation of water. The milk situation is admittedly unsatisfactory. There are recognized shortcomings in present activities of real estate agencies and insurance agents. It is conceded in all quarters that there is wasteful duplication in many departmental and institutional operations.

It is conceded, too, that many problems arising in the course of routine activities require attention more quickly than can be given by biennial sessions of the General Assembly. There is further complaint that there are already "too many laws on the books."

Contrasting with that idea is another deep-rooted conviction that "laws" ought to be passed by the Legislature, not by some agency created by legislative fiat to take over the job. There is enough protest from citizens about laws enacted in due legislative process without increasing resentment against laws promulgated by some board or commission to which the Legislature has delegated ordinance-making powers.

There are presently upwards of a thousand "law-making" bodies in North Carolina. These include the General Assembly; one hundred boards of county commissioners; one hundred and seventy-four administrative boards of education; approximately four hundred municipal governing bodies; more than a dozen major State departments; thirty-odd examining licensing and regulatory boards; and an unknown number of special sanitary, soil conservation, agricultural stabilization and other ordinance-making authorities, whose promulgations have force and effect of law.

There is growing sentiment among the public at the trend of recent years to delegate more and more law-making power to such special agencies. While there is some resentment against the base idea of controlling water and prices, there is more against the policy of the Legislature delegating authority rather than assuming responsibility for the enactment of statutes to cover the situations.

Mock Warfare In Cold Rockies

LEADVILLE, Colo. (U)—Mock warfare in the chilling cold of the high Colorado Rockies is pushing toward a climax.

This is the final week of Exercise Hallstorm, a mountain and cold weather training maneuver which began Jan. 3 for more than 3,000 troops from Ft. Carson, near Colorado Springs. The troops are operating at altitudes of 9,000 to 13,000 feet.

Under yesterday's plan for the maneuver, fighting broke out at the right sector near U. S. Highway 6 and "enemy" forces occupied Copper Mountain and the northwest slope of Jacque Ridge.

Defending forces took up new positions running in almost a straight line from the ridge to Union Mountain and State Highway 91.

At least 30 "aggressor" tanks were reported seen moving southeast on Highway 6 Monday night. The "aggressor" forces are made up of the 4th Field Artillery Battalion and the 8th Reconnaissance Company.

The battalion combat team resisting the invading force is made up of the 1st Battalion, the 61st Infantry and other elements of the 8th Infantry Division.

When the present tactical maneuver ends Saturday, the troops will chalk up six rugged days in the field, living under snow and cold conditions their leaders say are almost as difficult as those they might encounter in actual combat.

Mules are being used to carry weapons and equipment into mountain hideaways that can't be reached even by jeep or tracked vehicles.

Doctor at the CROSSROADS

ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

Murphy picked up his sandwich; so did Fred. "The thing to remember, Murphy is not the wide spaces between folks here, but the basic fact that I'm the only doctor available for 3,000 of those folks. If you had the same number exclusively allotted to you in the city, you'd do all sorts of things."

"Then I'm glad we've got the specialist system in St. Louis, and speaking of that, Fritz, I had a problem in your own field just a month before I took this vacation. I wished I had you handy then, and I've been waiting for a chance to talk to you about it."

Fred glanced at his watch. But Huggins knew where to call him. "It won't take long to tell you. Especially if I skip the rather involved means by which we got this patient. She came in from a doctor upstate. Her husband was rich, an industrialist of some kind. She had developed terrific headaches. They'd had her in Mayo's, and had spent a year in Tucson—she had a history of asthma—and when this constant head-pain developed, she was sure it was a brain tumor."

Fred reached for a cookie. "Probably polyps."

"Yes, Her doctor at home thought so. Now, Katie, I'm not calling Fred a country doctor."

"You might," laughed Fred. "I am one."

"A good one, and so was her doctor. However, when a patient gets a notion that her brain is affected—"

"Sure, Go on."

"Well, she came in, since her doctor had said he hoped she could have those polyps surgically removed by a specialist—Her whole physical condition was bad. This—secondary anemia—and neurotic. Funderburk told me to work along with Gottschalk—he's our top nose and throat man these days—and when the woman was admitted, we ordered the routine tests, among them the venous pressure test with an upright apparatus to give us a picture of the right heart and its pressure, as well as decolin intravenously to test the left heart pressure." He glanced up at Fred, who had leaned toward him, his eyes very bright.

Murphy shrugged. "We got instant collapse. Sudden! Dead before we knew it."

Fred sighed and got up from his chair.

"It seems positive that she was sensitive to decolin," said Murphy somewhat anxiously.

"What did Gottschalk think?"

"He said he didn't know. That he questioned its being an allergin."

"So do I," Fred agreed.

"But then what? It's a routine test."

"I want to show you something," Fred went into the hall, opened his bag, and took out a package which was still wrapped to go through the mail. He ripped off the outer paper, and laid the box at Murphy's feet. "Read that," he said, turning on his heel, leaving the house.

Murphy was still "reading that" when the station wagon went down the street. Printed rather large upon the box—which contained the bile product, decolin—were the words, "Not to be used in cases of asthma."

Murphy sat staring straight before him. Katie got up and began to clear the table. "Fred forgot his bag . . ." she said in a troubled tone.

Murphy looked at her thoughtfully.

"It's only a block—don't you want to take it down to him?"

Smoke May Ease Heat Of A-Bomb

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The chief chemical officer of the Army announced last night that artificial smoke can be used to reduce effects of the searing heat from an atomic bomb blast.

Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy said such smokescreens ward off some of the heat just as clouds stop some of the sun's warmth. In addition, he said, the number of secondary fires in buildings and trash of a city would be reduced.

The general told the local chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers that preliminary smoke tests have been made at the nuclear proving ground in Nevada and that a full-scale test will be made during the present experiments by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Creasy said two types of smoke can be used. The fog-oil type is created by releasing hydrocarbon oil droplets into an artificial "smog." The droplets scatter or attenuate heat or light.

The other material is carbon smoke, much like that usually found hanging over large industrial areas. Carbon smoke absorbs instead of scattering heat radiation.

MIXED MASKERS—Masked participants wear fantastic hats in pre-Lenten parade held every five years in Teils, Austria. The carnival is called "Schleicherlaufen."

The Live Oak Baptist Church is situated in a railroad freight yard in New Orleans.

Before 1883 the railroads of the United States operated on 68 local times.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—Highly selective trading produced a narrowly mixed stock market today in the early afternoon.

There was demand for aircrafts, farm implement and radio-television stocks. Railroads and utilities climbed irregularly. But steels, motors, chemicals, airlines, oils and mining issues were generally lower.

Gains extended to several points while losses were mostly minor fractions.

Gaining were Pennsylvania Railroad, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Electric Storage Battery, American Tobacco New York Central, DuPont, Boeing Aircraft, Houston Oil, Columbia Gas and Gar Wood.

Lower were U.S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Climax Molybdenum, Anaconda, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Pan American Airways, Paramount and Loews.

Note Rapid Rise In Rate Of VD

NEW YORK (U)—Three national organizations report venereal diseases are increasing in the United States at an "alarming" rate.

More federal help to stem the trend is sought by the American Social Hygiene Assn., the American Venereal Disease Assn. and the Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers.

A joint statement by the groups last night urged that the federal government increase the current appropriation of three million dollars to five million next year to help states fight VD.

The statement said a survey found VD rates rising in 43 states in the last six months of 1954.

Local syphilis epidemics in the early infectious stage were found recently in 18 states and seven major cities, the statement said.

"Although for the country as a whole, the VD rates are not so high as they were 10 years ago," the statement said, "they still represent one of the nation's foremost health hazards."

The report said there were no increases in reported VD cases in only five states—California, West Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama and Rhode Island—from the first to the second half of last year.

On a national wide basis the three associations spoke of the "manifest and grave danger in the present venereal disease situation."

Tots Make Library Visit

Children from the Protestant kindergarten paid a visit to Sheppard Memorial Library yesterday to tour the building, look at the books, and obtain a general idea of how the library operates. The children were given freedom to browse among the shelves and examine the books for themselves. They also heard a story read to them by their kindergarten instructor Miss Rachel Caudill. Ask Closings For Friday Services

Local businesses have been requested by the Greenville Council of Church Women to close Friday from 10:45 a.m. until 12 noon so their employees may attend the World Day of Prayer service at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Merchants Association Board of Directors has recommended that the merchants comply with this request.

The Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, will speak at the service, which will begin at 11 a.m.

"Abide in Me" is the theme of the day of prayer, observed each year on the first Friday in Lent, and the program is based on verses from the fifteenth chapter of John.

This year's prayer service was written by a woman of Argentina.

missioner of Labor, and Charles F. Gold, Commissioner of Insurance, all went into office by appointment and have been subsequently elected one or more times. Attorney General Harry McMullan has been successively elected and re-elected, but he first went into office by appointment in 1938.

This record would seem to justify opposition for further extension of the elective official list. There is, however, growing sentiment in favor of requiring legislative confirmation of executive appointments, so that the control of one man over administrative and executive personnel would not be absolute. And that is further argument in favor of annual legislative sessions, or more frequent special sessions, to act on appropriations, revenue bills and confirmation of appointments.

Driver Charged In Auto Mishap

Cars operated by Samuel Curtis Carney, Moore Street, and Paul Manning, Route 6, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Moore Street and North Greene Street late Monday night, resulting in total damage of $370 to both vehicles.

Manning has been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to have an operator's license. Officers Jim McFee and R. B. Elks investigated the collision.

GRASS FIRES

Firemen were called to two grass fires yesterday. One call came from South Dickinson Avenue around 12:30 and the second call from East Third Street shortly before 3 o'clock.

Both blazes were quickly extinguished.

Call Inquest In Sudden Death

NEW YORK (U)—Lady Mary Graves, 34-year-old daughter of a British countess, died under puzzling circumstances in her luxurious Central Park West apartment early today.

On a dresser at her bedside police found several bottles of barbiturates, including two thought to be sleeping pills.

At first, officers termed her death a suicide. Later, however, they withdrew this description and blamed "an apparent overdose of sleeping pills."

Finally, the whole question was left open and an autopsy ordered.

A maid who summoned police told them Lady Mary had come to this country on a visitor's visa and had been living in the plush eight-room apartment for the past six months.

The maid, Elizabeth Scenan, said Lady Mary called her to the bedroom about 1:30 a.m. and said, "Get me a glass of milk and come back and talk to me."

Upon her return, the maid said, she found Lady Mary on the floor, unconscious.

She summoned a physician residing in the same building and he pronounced the British woman dead at 1:40 a.m.

The maid said her employer had been under a doctor's care recently for minor ailments, but did not give details.

Information available here was that Lady Mary has two daughters, Brigitte, born in 1943, and Beatrice Wenefryde, born in 1945, who are now in Britain. Her mother, Lady Wenefryde Agatha Graves, lives in a Scottish castle. Her husband, identified as Capt. Bernard Albert Blanger, once secretary of the French legation at Lisbon, Portugal, was said to have died in 1950.

Lady Mary also is survived by two sisters, Lady Rosemund Agnes, the heiress presumptive, and Lady Katherine.

A. H. Campbell Speaks On Role Of Radio Europe

A. H. Campbell of WNCT, substituting for Mayor W. L. Wheedee, spoke at ceremonies at the local airport yesterday afternoon just before a Greenville CAP airplane took off to shower its cargo of several thousand freedom leaflets on the city.

Campbell spoke on the significance and effect of "Radio Free Europe" in fighting communism and penetrating the Iron Curtain. Two foreign students enrolled at East Carolina College also spoke on the "freedom campaign" in Europe.

Boy Scout Troop No. 30 received first prize for collecting the most signatures on the "freedom scroll." Second prize was awarded to Boy Scout Troop No. 282.

Don't Bet On An Early Tax Cut Despite House Demo Activities

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (U)—Don't bet on an income tax cut any time soon even though the House Democrats seem ready to approve one.

In January President Eisenhower held out hope of a tax reduction in 1955, which happens to be a presidential and congressional election year.

Eisenhower, after explaining in his budget message why the country can't afford any reductions this year, said:

"I hope that tax reductions will be . . . justified next year. If so, I shall recommend a reduction . . . to spread the relief fairly among all."

Any connection between that hope and the idea that one of the roads to a voter's affection is through his pocketbook may have been purely coincidental.

But if Eisenhower did propose a reduction in the 1956 election year it would put the Democrats in Congress over a bit of a barrel, politically.

The Republicans couldn't put the cut through by themselves. They're outnumbered. The Democrats control Congress now and almost certainly will control it next year, too.

But if the Democrats helped Eisenhower put through a tax reduction in 1956, the Republicans no doubt would tell the voters that Eisenhower put through a tax cut.

At the same time, since 1956 is an election year, the Democrats could hardly refuse to go along on a tax cut.

House Democrats apparently think they have found a way to beat the President to the punch and take the play away from the Republicans in 1956.

The House Ways and Means Committee, dominated by Democrats, has voted to send a tax cut bill to the House floor for a showdown, perhaps tomorrow. Their plan would give every taxpayer a $20 cut plus $20 for each dependent.

Republicans cried "politics" and Democrats said they were merely trying to "rectify the Republican injustices" in 1954's tax cut legislation.

Not all House Democrats went along with the House Democratic leaders. But even if the House puts through the bill, it may be killed in the Senate which would also have to approve before the cut could become law.

Snow And Winds Halt Attempts To Find Bodies

RIETI, Italy (U)—Efforts to recover 18 bodies still trapped in the wreckage of a Belgian Sabena airliner were halted today by weather.

Snow and high winds enveloped Mt. Terminillo, on whose slopes the DO6 aircraft crashed Feb. 13. Four Americans were among the 29 persons killed. The wreckage was found, half buried in the snow, eight days later.

Authorities said the recovery work would start again as soon as the weather permits.

A total of 11 bodies had been recovered by nightfall yesterday. Nine of the bodies have been identified.

Despite today's bad weather, national police patrols set out on skis for the crash scene, 4,500 feet up the mountain, 60 miles northeast of Rome.

Farmer's Day Group To Meet

A meeting of the Farmer's Day Steering Committee is to be held at the Chamber of Commerce building tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

President Ben Rouse said that the advisability of having a Farmer's Day will be discussed as well as the type program to have if the Farmer's Day is to be held this year.

Rouse stated that all interested citizens are invited to attend the meeting.

Collision Early Today Results In Heavy Damage

A two-car collision occurred early this morning on a rural paved road one mile south of Black Jack, involving vehicles operated by Gordon Linwood Clark, Route 2, Greenville, and Willie Little Jr., Negro, Route 2, and resulting in approximately $750 damage to both vehicles.

Clark has been formally charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Clark told investigating Patrolman James Boykin that he was backing off the highway, but changed his mind, pulled back to a driveway and subsequently collided with the other vehicle.

Formosan Air Bases Inspected

TAIPEI, Formosa (U)—Lt. Gen. Roger Ramey, commander of the U.S. 5th Air Force, arrived today on a visit reported connected with the defense of Formosa. The 5th Air Force maintains a Sabre Jet squadron in Formosa.

Ramey will inspect air bases and confer with top Chinese Nationalist officers, particularly Gen. Wang Shu-min, commander of the national air force.

He was accompanied by Ellis O. Briggs, U.S. ambassador at Seoul.

Study Weather For Third Shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U)—Atomic scientists will consult weather charts today to determine whether to fire the third shot of the spring nuclear series tomorrow morning.

Unfavorable winds, which have thrown the series far off schedule, also may force postponement of a test tomorrow.

Flash of the second shot, which lighted the predawn sky yesterday, was seen in San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles, several hundred miles from the test site. The shot from a 300-foot tower on Yucca Flat was the probable prototype for an atomic missile warhead.

Bottle Starts Blaze

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—R. T. Cole, a water distributor, says a bottle of water started a fire in his home causing damage estimated at $75. He says the bottle acted as a magnifying lens for the sun.
