The Torchbearers-Sunday School Class meeting will not be held Monday evening.

Christian Science Society
The vital need for proofs rather than mere professions of Christian power will be stressed in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "CHRIST JESUS" to be read at Christian Science services on Sunday.

Selections from the Bible include the following passage from the Sermon on the Mount, Matthew 5:18: "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following: "Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them."
The Golden Text is from I John 4:8: "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him."

Jaycees Urged Promote Industry

Junior Chamber of Commerce members last night were urged to work toward obtaining new industry for Greenville.

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce pointed out what additional factory workers would mean to the city financially.

Members were reminded of the Bob Sale Leadership course which the Jaycees are sponsoring. It was noted that 200 persons must be enrolled for the three night course if it is to be held in Greenville. Jaycees were asked to push enrollments for the course.

Inducted as new members at last night's meeting were Norman Little, Nick Samowich, Bruce Brown, Ed Tipton, and Fred Quinn.

Guests were Bill Wrenn, Claude Demers, Tommy Sampson, and Jack Turnage.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard T. Kyser showed a film to the group following the business portion of the meet.

The film was entitled "It's Everybody's Business."

Mrs. Baker Gives Program For WCTU

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Friday evening, Feb. 11th, at the home of Mrs. S. L. McCarty on Summit Street. The meeting was opened by singing the hymn, "This Is My Father's World." Mrs. Lela Carson, president, presided.

The program, entitled "How We Should Spend Our Time," was presented by Mrs. Baker. She also read a very interesting article by Stanley Jones on disciplining our lives and how we, as Christians, should spend each day wisely that God gives us, redeeming the time, for the days are evil and night cometh when no man can work. Mrs. Baker also read a meditation on taking inventory of how we spend our day.

Mrs. McCarty read a timely poem from the "White Ribbon," entitled "Do You Just Belong?" She also gave a very good report of the Flower, Mission and Relief department.

Mrs. Lela Carson gave the highlights of the national report of the Flower, Mission, and Relief department, speaking of the wonderful work they have done. Since February 28th is Frances Willard's heavenly birthday she stressed the importance of placing flowers in the different churches in honor of her on that day.

Mrs. Carson requested that the pastors of the different churches write a few words in memory of Frances Willard's crusade of having organized the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which stands for God, for home and for our country.

Mrs. Carson asked for used, clean hose and silk, nylon, or rayon undies, which are used to knit suits for the very needy overseas.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the hymn "Blest Be The Tie" and a prayer by Mrs. Baker. The hostess served delicious refreshments of frozen fruit salad, mints and coffee.

Farm Agent, Judge Whedbee Talk To HD Club Dinner Meeting

CLARK'S NECK — Local Home Demonstration Club members met Wednesday night and entertained their husbands at a turkey dinner at the Baptist Church parsonage. Approximately 15 attended the meeting.

Special guest for the evening was Judge Charles Whedbee of Greenville, who spoke to the group on "Wills and Inheritances."

County Farm agent Sam Winchester also talked on social security for farm families.

Assistant Home agent Josephine Cusick introduced the speakers. Mrs. Harry Ferguson presided at the meeting.

It was long believed that the Tory newspaper, the Royal American, suspended publication in New York City Aug. 1, 1783, but the New-York Historical Society has acquired what it says is the only known copy of an issue published Aug. 7, 1873.

Red Oak News

A large crowd attended "College Day" services at Red Oak last Sunday. The ACC Glee Club sang some special numbers and Dr. Travis White delivered the morning sermon after which a most delicious dinner was served buffet style in the community building. About two hundred people enjoyed this occasion.

"Ground-breaking" ceremonies will be observed next Sunday morning Feb. 27th immediately after the morning services. This will be the initial step in the beginning of the new educational department at Red Oak. This building will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 and will be financed by free-will offerings of the members of the church and any friends of the church who wish to have a part in this undertaking. This building is greatly needed for the growing youth of the Sunday School.

At a meeting of the finance committee last Sunday afternoon it was decided to set Sunday afternoon March 27th as "Canvass Sunday."

A committee composed of the male members of the church will visit all church homes in the county to solicit funds or pledges for the new building. They will be served before their departure and there will be a meeting of all members of the church late that afternoon to hear the report to be given by the finance committee.

Five people have been asked to make short talks at Sunday School and church for the next five Sundays. They include Mrs. B. L. Tyson, Mrs. Robert Allen, Milton May, J. T. Manning Jr., and Sam Winchester. It is hoped that all members of the church and Sunday School will be present on all these Sundays.

The Blues are a little ahead of the Reds in the contest going on between members of the Martha Jolly class at Red Oak. The contest will close on Sunday, March 20th. Come on Reds! Let be the winning side next Sunday!

Visitation Evangelism Begins Sunday

The City-Wide Visitation Evangelism Program, sponsored by the churches of the city in cooperation with the Greenville Ministerial Association, will begin Sunday night.

Rev. John Pemberton, minister of the Cape Island Baptist Church, Cape May, N. J., will be the leader and inspirational speaker.

The supper meetings and instructional inspirational periods will be as follows:

Sunday, 6:00 p.m.—Immanuel Baptist Church
Monday, 6:30 p.m.—Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church

Tuesday, 6:30 p.m.—First Presbyterian Church
Tuesday, 6:30 p.m.—First Presbyterian Church

Junior Club Has Benefit Luncheon

The Junior Woman's Club held their benefit luncheon Wednesday, February 23, from 11:30 until 1:30 at the Woman's Club Building. Tickets were on sale for $1.00 by the members prior to the luncheon. Mrs. R. D. Harrington Jr., project chairman, reported that approximately 150 people were served the delicious home-cooked food prepared by members of the club. The proceeds from this benefit go into the Junior Woman's Club general fund which aids the Caswell Training School and the Children's Home Society.

SEES NO GROUND

TOKYO (P)—The consensus of a dozen business leaders in advance of Japan's nationwide election Sunday is that the United States is "not justified in getting nervous."

Shozo Hata, president of the Sumitomo Bank, summed up their views in stating: "All Japanese in their right minds are pro-American."

History Of Fort Macon Given As Program For Aries Club

On the evening of February 17th, Mrs. Fred Sauve was hostess to the Aries Book Club at her home on Rotary Avenue.

The president, Mrs. Marshall Starkey, called the meeting to order and presided over a short business session.

Mrs. Sauve introduced Mr. Daniel W. Jones, student at E.C.C., as guest speaker for the evening.

Mr. Jones, in a most interesting manner, gave a brief history of Fort Macon which is located in Carteret County on the eastern end of Boque Banks. The present Fort Macon, named for Nathaniel Macon, Speaker of the House of Representatives and United States Senator from North Carolina, was begun in 1826 and was first garrisoned in December, 1834. The total cost was approximately $483,700. The garrison withdrew on February 3, 1836, as a result of Congressional economizing, but returned on July 23, 1842.

At the very start of the War for Southern Independence, in April, 1861, Fort Macon was seized by Confederate forces at the command of Governor John W. Ellis. It remained in Confederate hands until April, 1862, when Federal forces under General John G. Parke captured it together with a Confederate garrison of 450 commanded by Colonel Moses A. White. The fort was forced to surrender when guns located behind sand dunes, about a mile down the beach, were reinforced by those of four naval vessels standing offshore.

Fort Macon was garrisoned during the Spanish-American War, but at that time only two Parrot rifles and two 10-inch mortars were used. The placements for these guns can still be seen on the ocean side of the fort.

By act of Congress, June 4, 1924, a tract of some 412 1-3 acres, including the fort but excluding a strip 400 ft. wide for the use of the United States Coast Guard, was granted to the State of North Carolina. In accepting this gift the General Assembly stipulated that it should be administered by the State Department of Conservation and Development, and this tract is now maintained as a state park.

Fort Macon was garrisoned by United States troops during World War II. On December 21, 1941, the 244th Division Coast Artillery occupied the fort because of the importance of the harbor of Beaufort Inlet and the naval installations under construction in that vicinity. The fort was returned to the State in October, 1946.

Following a most enjoyable social hour delicious refreshments were served, books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

With the beginning of Lent, Easter just around the corner and the Passover Play coming up again soon, we've been thinking about recent books on religion, and lots of them have been published—not to mention the two old faithfuls, "The Power of Positive Thinking," which has been tops on the non-fiction best seller lists for over two years, and "The Prayers of Peter Marshall," now in the first ten and up there for over three months. "The World of Albert Schweitzer" also is selling very well since it came out. . . . And recently two "Lenten books" have been issued, especially for the season—"Meditations on the Gospel of St. John," by Canon Edward N. West of the New York Cathedral, and "Our Christian Vocation," a commentary on Christian prayer and worship, by John Heuser, rector of New York's Trinity Church. . . . And for those interested in the historical implications of Christianity, R. L. P. Milburn, chaplain of Worcester College, Oxford, has just written "Early Christian Interpretations of History," about the various ways in which writers of the early years of the Christian era saw God revealed in history. . . . And in a different tradition, coming out soon will be a book about the Russian Orthodox Christian Church by an American Protestant, Ruth Korper, called "A Candlelight Kingdom: A Meeting With the Russian Church." . . . And for the mystics, just out is "Psychical Research Today," by D. J. West, who writes about spooky things like hauntings, spiritualism, water-divining, mental telepathy, clairvoyance and psychokinesis—whatever that is. . . . Anyway, there's plenty of variety for anyone who wants to read about religion from practically any viewpoint. . . .

Future Best Seller
Not to be published until April 20, a novel called "Something of Value," by Robert Ruark, a newspaper columnist—here's our chance hey?—already is practically a guaranteed success and away up in the money. . . . It's been chosen as a Book-of-the-Month Club selection and the movie rights have been sold for $300,000—a rather nice beginning, we would say. The publishers, Doubleday, are so confident in it—and with that start, who wouldn't be?—that they're issuing a first printing of 75,000 copies at $5 per copy. . . . Right now it looks to us as though "Something of Value" will not only be a Book of the Month but Book of the Year—unless Doubleday could be wrong. . . .

Past Best Seller
"Mr. William Shakespeare's Comedies, Histories & Tragedies," a photographed facsimile of the First Folio edition of Shakespeare's plays, put out last year by the Yale University Press, has enjoyed an unusually brisk sale for a so-called scholarly book. . . . It's printed from photos of the real first editions of the plays, as they were published in England over 300 years ago, with spelling errors, printing mistakes and all. Yale's first two printings of 5300 copies are all gone, and 2500 more soon will be put on the market—at an increase in price from the original $12.50 to $15. . . . And any book that sells at that price, even Shakespeare, is, we think a success. . . .

Today's Review
"Now Is The Time," by Lillian Smith, has just been published this week and is about a very controversial subject, especially here in the South. . . . We hope you will read Mrs. James Poindexter's excellent review of it with an open mind—even if you don't agree with what the book has to say. . . .

"Now Is The Time," by Lillian Smith, New York: The Viking Press, 1955.
"Now Is The Time," says Lillian Smith in her latest book, to give all the children of our country a fair chance to grow up and develop to the extent of their capacity; now is the time to win the people of Asia to a more kindly feeling toward the United States and lessen the threat of Communism in a tremendous area of the world; and now is time to do these things by living up to our democratic belief in the worth of the individual. How are we to accomplish all this? It will not be done by a neat turn of the wrist, of course, but a definite first step can be taken if the people of our country will accept de-segregation with a willing and creative spirit. Could communism have the appeal it does for the economically backward countries of the Far East if we as one of the foremost democratic nations really insured freedom and opportunity to each and every one of our citizens? As for our children, we do double harm because . . . race segregation is a cruel fraud that twists and misshapes the spirits of all children, no matter which side of it they are fastened to. Arrogance, complacency, blindness to human need: these hurt the heart and mind as severely as do shame and inferiority." We Southerners have been taught brotherly love and segregation at the same time, but always the segregation was more important of the two rules.

This is a book written for the broad-minded and impartial seeker-after-knowledge. Those of us who agree with Mrs. Smith will probably just nod at each point that she makes; those of us who disagree with her will, I am afraid, be "of the same opinion still" when and if the book is read from cover to cover. If stating a brave and fearless conviction is better than persuasion, then this is a successful book. Whatever view the reader may hold, he will find items of great interest in it. One of the best parts of her book Mrs. Smith leaves to the last, a section made up of 25 questions that are most often asked at meetings having to do with de-segregation. The answers are good, and the questions are revealing. Her final word is: "Isolated permanently from his community, a human being can never develop fully and happily; nor can the community which isolates him. Each needs the other."

By Mrs. James Poindexter

Driver Ran Out On Prize Plans

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—City officials and a large crowd waited at the toll gate to give the one-millionth driver across Padre Island Causeway some $500 in prizes.

The vehicle was sighted coming at a brisk speed. But suddenly, the driver wheeled his car around and scuttled back toward Corpus Christi.

It was obvious, the delegation of greeters said, the driver had just seen the $1 toll charge posted over the gate.

Mrs. Phil Marker, Corpus Christi, came along then and collected the prizes.

Dot Miller And A 'Hand' Of Tobacco N. Y. - Bound

MRS. DOT MILLER

Dot Miller, who doesn't even know what a "hand" of tobacco is, will appear on a nationwide television show on Saturday night because she wrote the sponsor a letter and said "her secret" was that she had a "hand of tobacco."

It was all a "joke" she said, referring to her letter. She wrote the letter to Gary Moore's "I've Got A Secret" show. Moore had asked TV viewers to write and confide what their "secret" was.

Mrs. Miller said that she couldn't think of any secrets, so she called upon her husband for advice. He promptly replied, that since the show was sponsored by a tobacco company, she ought to write and say her secret was that she had a "hand or bundle" of tobacco from the "world's largest tobacco market." She did so, and later received an invitation to appear on "Two for the Money," which has the same producer as "I've Got A Secret."

Mrs. Miller will appear on the CBS program which goes on the air 9 o'clock Saturday night. Fred Allen will be substituting for regular host Herb Shriner that night. Mrs. Miller says she now knows what a "hand" of tobacco is. She

Joyner-Owen Vows Pledged

FARMVILLE — Miss Karen Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Owen of Shelby, and Clarence Joyner, son of Mrs. Nettie Joyner of Farmville, were united in marriage February 6.

The double ring ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the immediate families by Rev. George Allen.

The bride's gown of waltz-length chantilly lace with nylon net inserted in the skirt, was finished with a fitted lace bodice with long pointed sleeves. She wore a single strand of pearls. Her tiara was trimmed with seed pearls and sequins holding the illusion veil of fingertip length. She carried a colonial bouquet of tea roses and stephanotis.

Miss Audrey Owen, maid of honor, wore a pink lace and net waltz-length gown and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and stephanotis. Willie Gold Joyner, brother of the bride was best man. Mrs. Owen, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a navy dress matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and stephanotis.

Following the wedding the couple was honored at a reception given by the brides mother at her home.

Out of town guests attending the Owen-Joyner wedding included Mr. and Mrs. John C. Amosson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Mahaffey and daughters, Mrs. William Brown and daughters, all of Lenoir; Mrs. Marvin Dayley and daughter, Mrs. Teresa Dayley, Mr. and Mrs. Willie G. Joyner all of Black Port.

The bride and groom will make their home in Black Pt. Idaho.

CALLS ON PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the U.S. Army forces in the Far East, called yesterday on President Eisenhower. He declined to say what they discussed and would not comment on Tokyo reports he will succeed Gen. John H. M. Stilwell in the Far East April 1.

Toothpaste filled most of the billion collapsible metal tubes made in the United States last year, although many other products like adhesives and wood fillers were sold in such containers.

A Little Insurance For Survival

We think the time has come for local governments to take out a little insurance for survival.

It wouldn't cost much, as such things go; and it might never be needed. But when you're talking about survival, most people are ready to pay any price.

Why haven't all the cities and towns within 200 miles of potential A-bomb target areas purchased a little machine for detecting radioactivity?

Possessing such a device would be immediately necessary at the outbreak of an atomic conflict. But once such a conflagration occurred, municipalities would have to stand in line to order—and stand in line to get—a Geiger-counter. Need we add there would be no time for waiting, once such a catastrophe erupted?

Look at Greenville, for instance. The source of our water supply might,

Our Safety Slips Are Already Showing

Pitt County's safety record is slipping, and the only group which can get it back on an even keel are the drivers.

Highway patrol officials have pointed out that the month of January showed a marked increase in the number of accidents, personal injuries and property damage over the corresponding month last year.

In spite of the thousands of dollars worth of property damage, the deaths and injuries caused by highway accidents in the county last year, the record was considerably better than that of 1953. For the first two months of this year, however, the safety record on the highways hasn't measured up to 1954.

Pitt County drivers need to sharpen their efforts to promote highway safety if we are to equal the record set during the past year. 1954 offered proof that Pitt drivers can cut down on the number of accidents, injuries and deaths when they set their minds to it. Making 1955 a safer year on Pitt County's highways than was 1954 is a grave challenge to citizens of the county.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SALT AND LIGHT
Jesus said that Christians are the salt of the earth and the light of the world.
Salt has two functions—it prevents decay and it brings out the latent flavor of food. Christians likewise have two functions. They prevent the decay of society and they bring out the latent flavor of life wherever they touch it. Take the Christians and their influence out of a community and it would go rotten fast. Put one genuine Christian in a family, an office, a classroom, or on an athletic team, and everyone will be conscious that something has happened to make life richer and better.
True Christians are the light of the world. Christian parents give a home its only essential illumination. Christian statesmen keep nations from going over the precipice. The Church is a beacon set upon a hill, and the light thereof cannot be hidden.
Try as we will with all our remedies, the only answer to life's dislocations and sufferings are the ones proposed by Jesus Christ. Confront life with these principles and its problems admit of solution—but only when so confronted.
"Ye are the salt of the earth. . . Ye are the light of the world." That's really something to live up to.

Unpublicized Major Conflict

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The most unpublicized conflict at Washington today concerns the attempt of the so-called "economic planners" of New Deal stamp to halt and reverse the Eisenhower Administration's counter-offensive on behalf of private enterprise and less Government dictation.
Opponents of Ike's milder measures have two main objectives: They do not want their more advanced and radical proposals at this session, awaiting possible return to power in 1956 or 1960. They plan to expand or to kill off their offerings.
They do not want them to be given even a temporary trial lest the success of the measures check their movement for Government intervention and operation in almost every field of human activity.
"ECONOMIC POLITICALS"—They argue, for instance, that Eisenhower's proposals on Federal aid to health, education and highways are mere economic politeness. The most spectacular example of the conflict in philosophy is illustrated by the quarrel over Washington's contribution to improvement of national health.
Ike wants the work to be done by private insurance companies, with minimum financial assistance from the Government. The "planners," who resemble the British Fabians that led Britain step by step into a Labor-Socialist regime, demand compulsory health insurance. They would finance their bedside scheme along the lines of Social Security—namely, by direct payments from everybody's weekly pay check.
If Ike's plan is adopted and gives promise of success in its initial stages, their alternative will lose its appeal. There is nothing so difficult to defeat as demonstrated success in politics.
Similar strategy has been applied to the farm problem. Ike believes that flexible price supports will maintain farm income, lower retail prices, dispose of surpluses. The "planners" still insist on the Brannan plan, with Uncle Sam paying the difference between the market price and the higher Government-financed support figures.
PRIVATE EXPANSION PLAN—Likewise with power. As in the Dixon-Yates contract, the White House seeks to limit the Government's investments and operations in this field, as well as in atomic development. President Eisenhower advocates private expansion to a maximum degree under a "partnership" of local, private and Federal interests.

His enemies demand continued Government production of power, although Uncle Sam and local political units now generate about 20 per cent of the nation's electricity.
"The planners" want Washington aid in obtaining contracts for a guaranteed annual wage. They demand higher minimum wage levels, to be policed and enforced by NLRB and the Labor Department. They insist upon greater control of credit by Treasury and the Federal Reserve System.
They urge a vast public works building blueprint after the pattern of Roosevelt-Ickes-Hopkins programs in the depression. They shout for far larger foreign aid funds, with the United States exerting its banker's influence to force adoption of similar economic reforms abroad.
AIM TO DEFEAT IKE'S COMPROMISES—Although recognizing that fulfillment of their dreams and ambitions under Republican rule is impossible, the liberals' main aim is to keep alive agitation for their schemes. When they recapture the White House and Congress, they hope to transform them into reality. Meanwhile, they must defeat Ike's milder compromises.
Ironically, they may get help from GOP conservatives in Capitol Hill, who think that Ike is "too radical." They refuse to recognize his program as a "holding action."
LABOR LEADERS ENLISTED—The "economic planners" command more support and power than is generally realized. In the labor field, they number such allies as Walter Reuther, George Meany and David Dubinsky. In the Americans for Democratic Action, they embrace Governor Averell Harriman of New York, Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, the Roosevelts. When they recapture the White House and Congress, they hope to transform them into reality. Meanwhile, they must defeat Ike's milder compromises.
They have infiltrated the Democratic National Committee under the Stevenson-Butler-Fritchey leadership, and they may control the Party machinery at the 1956 convention, kidnapping it bodily into the camp of the liberals, the "Fabians" and the "economic planners."

or might not, be poisoned. But how would we know, today, until after the water-purifying plant had been contaminated by radioactivity—people already dying like flies. Even after the poison had been washed down-river, who would know? How would they know?

And what of the utilities plant itself? Would it be safe then to process the decontaminated water supply?
A few days ago the Atomic Energy Commission warned that if a hydrogen bomb exploded its poison cloud could kill all exposed persons up to 140 miles away; and perhaps five to ten persons would die out of every hundred as far away as 190 miles.

Does it sound fantastic? It is. And the AEC wasn't releasing that information to the public just to say "boo" in your ear.

It happens that Pitt County lies within that 140 mile radius of target areas presumed worthy of destruction by nuclear weapons. And so, well within the potential path of that deadly "radioactive fall-out".

The nation administration contemplates a $40½ billion budget for defense purposes this year; which runs to about two-thirds of the planned budget. If there was not a feeling of dire necessity, such a sum would never be considered. Instead, those forty billions of dollars represent a sum to be paid out as "insurance" for national security.

We repeat: either the city or county government should take out some insurance of our own, against the only immediate potential danger this area would face in the event of war.

Success Depends Upon Individual Response

The request of the Chamber of Commerce that local businesses write their principal suppliers promoting Greenville as a location for new industrial plants can pay dividends for the city if local business firms cooperate in the program.

If local business firms cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce in this effort it will mean hundreds of personal letters going to officials and representatives of a wide variety of industries and businesses. Somewhere in the mind of some company official will be planted the seed of an idea that Greenville is a good location for the new plant his company is contemplating. In time the seed will bring forth fruit in the form of new industry for Greenville and Pitt County.

This is one effort in which individual businesses in Greenville can make a major contribution to the local industrial development program of the Chamber of Commerce by contributing a small amount of time and a few cents for stamps. The success of the effort depends entirely upon the support given it by individual local businesses.

Value Of 100 Extra Employed

Got an organization with lagging attendance? If so, you might try the method the Greenville Jaycees have put into effect. It's a simple buddy system. Each man is assigned the responsibility of seeing that one other man gets to the meeting.
Of late, 50 in attendance has been good; but last night in that driving rain we had over 70.

Yesterday members of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce received a letter which I think should be read by every Greenville citizen:
"What will 100 new factory workers mean to Greenville? Specifically, we are told that it will add the following to the community:
296 more people
112 more households
174 more workers employed

What Other Editors Are Thinking

WHAT IT COULD DO
(Washington Daily News)
The impact of the marijuana case which broke recently in Beaufort county is more serious than most people realize.
It is serious not only for what it could do if any trace of the weed remains. And rumors continue to be passed around that there is certain traffic remaining in the dope business.
Rumors continue to fly that there are others in Beaufort county raising marijuana, and that we've only caught one man, and "others" could continue the racket and ruin the morals of some of our people.
Some people claim to have seen youngsters in a "doped and crazed condition," and after the case broke, these people are satisfied that "those boys had been smoking marijuana."
As rumors are made and enlarged, sometimes there is no way of telling just how large the rumor will be when finally passed on to someone else.

Most Legislators Seem To Favor A Temperate Approach

By LYNN NISBET
EXTREMISTS — Majority of the members of the General Assembly seem entirely willing to follow the leadership of Governor Hodges and other top level officials in a moderate and temperate approach to the segregation issue. There are a few members who seem willing to accept the U.S. Supreme Court decision as final and suggest that any efforts toward having it changed or softened will be futile.
Another and larger, but still numerically small, group seems determined to resist by every means possible even to arms, the effectuation of the non-segregation decision. The preponderant majority among legislators take positions somewhere between these extremes, with Governor Hodges representing just about the middle ground.
To date there has been no legislation proposed for either extreme viewpoint. The most violent opposition is represented by the Sam Worthington bill for a constitutional amendment permitting grants in aid to individuals and private schools in lieu of direct support of a public school system. Expressing the most moderate view are the pending bills transferring to local boards full responsibility for enrollment, assignment and transportation of pupils. Other bills are expected which will represent more positive protest than the local assignment and less extreme that the probable abandonment of a State school system.

107 more automobiles registered $270,000.00 more in bank deposits $360,000.00 more in retail sales per year $500,000.00 more personal income per year
"One of the most successful cities in gaining new industry says most of their profitable leads on new industry have come from regular Chamber of Commerce members, who inquire of their principal suppliers if they don't have plans for expansion. These may be new plants, district warehouses or area offices."
"Today many corporations are interested in new plant sites because they (1) plan to diversify and open new divisions, (2) plan to expand, but prefer to disperse their industry geographically, (3) move to a new location for better labor relations or more favorable taxes

"Greenville has suitable sites, adequate labor supply, good utilities, good schools, an excellent college in East Carolina College, excellent hospital facilities—everything to make a favorable climate for new industry."
"We can tell the right people about all of this when we get the leads. Won't you write your principal sources of supply advocating that they consider Greenville as a site for their new plant? You will prosper as Greenville grows—Greenville grows when you help."
"Give us a call right away when you get one we can handle. We have brochures to enclose in your letters."
This letter, if we take it seriously, could help.
And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

We've all read stories of dope users in past months in big cities. We have heard much about the morals of teen-agers being corrupted through the use of marijuana. It is only natural that parents want to know the full story.
We say this sincerely. We do not believe that at this time any teen-agers have been sold marijuana and we do not believe that any in our community have smoked the weed. We are positive in our own minds that this is the truth.
But we should not let the matter drop here at this point. We need to be sure. The officers need to search out every trace of the weed remaining in Beaufort county and destroy it if indeed any traces now remain.
We are not alarmed at what has happened. If other evidence shows up later that marijuana is being sold or used in Beaufort county, then we will be seriously alarmed. We don't believe that there is much cause for any real alarm now.

Meanwhile some of the statements, public and otherwise, of extremists not in the General Assembly tend to confound confusion rather than contribute to sensible solution of an admittedly grave problem. In the category may be listed the talk by John H. Wheeler before the joint education committees Tuesday. Wheeler is a Negro lawyer and banker in Durham, and has been in several of the court actions brought to force better facilities for Negro schools.
BACKFIRE — Ostensibly he was speaking to the committees of the Legislature about pending legislation. As often happens in such public hearings, it was apparent that he was actually talking to the audience of about 250, two-thirds of whom were Negroes, rather than to the legislators. His speech went over big with the majority of the audience, but many expressions of legislators afterwards indicate that it backfired so far as gaining any votes for his ideas may be concerned.
Consensus among legislators seems to be that North Carolina is not ready to take the drastic steps Wheeler proposed, and members of the General Assembly do not receive kindly such verbal chastisements from spokesmen for minority groups. Wheeler particularly objected to the idea of putting more control over schools in local authorities. That lost for him support of other minority groups which have strength at local level, such as Republicans in some fifteen to twenty counties.

SOME PROMISE — It is axiomatic that nearly all legislation is the result of compromise between extreme viewpoints. Legislators operate to greater degree than business men on the basis of give-and-take, you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours.
Out of all the conflicting and contrasting opinions of fifty senators and one hundred twenty representatives come agreements on matters affecting the people. For that reason it is necessary to get the extreme views stated. At the same time, it is well to remember that the moderate majority in the General Assembly does not like for the extremists to order or threaten. Legislators are amenable to requests and suggestions, but almost always resent demands, especially when accompanied by threats.
TRENDS — Legislature sentiment is as fickle as the wind and as difficult to evaluate and forecast as the weather. Two weeks ago it appeared that sentiment among members of the General Assembly was strongly in favor of extending coverage of the general sales tax rather than enactment of special taxes on tobacco and soft drinks. One week ago the same attitude was manifested by legislators.
As of the latter part of this week there is noted a change in sentiment. The unregistered house-wife lobby has been heard from. And the vote is against a

Benefit In Inflation

By ELMER ROESSNER
Consistently, this department has spoken out against inflation. It has missed few opportunities to point out that it is a slashing tax on savers, life insurance buyers, pensioners and creditors.
But nothing—except, perhaps, charcoal gray—is entirely black. There is one good thing about inflation. It compels re-examination of the value of things for which we give money.
As the dollar is inflated, it buys less. Prices rise in terms of the dollar. And when a $1 article rises up to $1.02, the natural question is, "Was it worth $1 in the first place?"
When inflationary forces push up the price of bus or other forms of transportation, experts can tell exactly how much traffic will fall off. Even though a person's income has gone up 50 per cent, he will take fewer bus rides at 15 cents than he took at a dime.
Because of this inclination to re-evaluate, manufacturers of gum and mints have shrunk sizes and done everything else to avoid increasing the nickel prices. Tests show that 6, 7, and 8-cent prices are poison to sales. Water has been squeezed out of the prices of other articles, and still others have faded away.
When inflation and union demands force up wages, employers re-examine each job to see if it can be consolidated or eliminated. Many times higher wages have been granted without increasing payrolls. Expendable jobs were expanded. And the great substitution of automatic machinery in plants and offices has grown from re-evaluation of jobs and the discovery that machines can do certain tasks cheaper.
Inflation plays other dirty tricks on workers. It raises prices before they can gain the increases. So for a period usually up to one year, they are paying today's prices out of yesterday's scales. And when it is necessary to strike to bring wages in balance with inflated prices, both the workers and employers lose for the duration.
Inflation also has an effect on political morals. When it boosts city and state operating costs, mayors and governors have to levy higher taxes. And because of resistance to taxes, many officials hesitate to load payrolls with nonworking political friends or lavish lush contracts on contributing supporters. In fact, if we had enough inflation, the average taxpayer might be selective officers and what they do NICARAGUA LEADS AS CREDIT RISK

The best Latin American country to do business with is Nicaragua, judging from the semiannual survey by the Foreign Credit Interchange Bureau. Nicaragua ranked first in both credits and collections.
The outstanding change, however, was Paraguay, which rose from "poor" to "fairly good" in credit rating and from "slow" to "fairly prompt" in collections. 80 PER CENT OF WORKERS GET PAY WHEN SICK, DISABLED
Four out of five workers in 96 companies studied by the National Industrial Conference Board get compensation when sick or disabled. Companies with group insurance and those with direct cash payments are about equally divided. Many companies give cash payments to employees to supplement workmen's compensation payments.
Under certain conditions, sick-leave payments are now tax free.
WANT TO SWAP SCOPES? HERE'S ONE WAY
You can now swap scope work. Scope work is art work or hand lettering done on mimeograph stencils. It's done with a light box called a microscope, hence the name.
Now Alice Cabral has organized the Mimoscope Exchange at 99 Chauncey St., Boston 11. Members pay $3 a year and when they run off any scope work they make 50 or more extra copies for other members. Thus each member can adapt the ideas of other members.

While Americans complain about butter prices, many other nations are paying more. In December the Department of Agriculture reports, the equivalent of these prices were being charged: Germany, 63.8 cents a pound; Canada, 63.2 cents; France, 62 cents; Belgium, 62.3 cents. The American price was 60.5 cents.

Where Is That Old Enthusiasm?
By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone reflections of a former Flatbush Congressman proposed a constitutional amendment making it illegal for anyone under 21 to drive an automobile, what would happen?
Millions of teen-agers would let out an outraged cry that would shake the government to its core. They'd write endless chain letters of protest, make mass marches on the nation's capital, picket the White House by day and by night.
They'd fight by fair means or foul—even ask Dad and Mom to help— to preserve what they regard as youth's inalienable right to drive a motor car.
But several million teen-agers now have the opportunity to fight for the greatest single privilege of American democracy, and, by and large, their attitude seems to be one of indifference. I refer to their lukewarm reaction to proposals to lower the voting age from 21 to 18.
Youth has got President Eisenhower in its corner in this matter. He backs the idea of extending the ballot to 18-year-olds. But they themselves don't seem steamed up about it. Somehow, that's kind of sad, too.
Many older people, of course, feel that 18-year-olds are too lacking in judgement and responsibility to be given the right to vote. But some fear in the early days of the Republic resulted in restrictions that limited the right of voting to property owners. The same fear kept women from having the vote more than a century.
"Universal suffrage," contemptuously remarked Otto Van Bismarck, "is the government of a house by its nursery."
But in 1836 a forward-thinking young lawyer of 25-fellow named Abraham Lincoln—had just the opposite thought.

"I go for all sharing the privileges of the government, who assist in bearing its burdens," he wrote, adding he favored the right of suffrage for those "who pay taxes or bear arms, by no means excluding females."
Today, proponents of earlier voting point out, there are roughly five million citizens between 18 and 21 who are now taxed without representation. Youth is not exempt from taxes on thousands of items, any more than the elderly are.
About 1,500,000 are married and have set up housekeeping. And most of the men in that age group are, of course, subject to military duty.
Personally, I wouldn't give a hoot if every guy and his girl got to vote at 18. If we trust them out on a public highway in a 150-horsepower auto, why not trust them to show at least ordinary common sense in voting booth?
Georgia has let its 18-year-olds vote for quite a spell now—it's the only state that does—and has survived the experiment in fine shape. And why not? Isn't anyone at 18 when patriotism and idealism and honesty are at their peak, as likely to cast a selfless vote as he would be at 45?
If we accept the logic of Abe Lincoln, we can hardly deny the ballot, merely on the grounds of age, to young men and women who work, pay taxes, and bear arms when called upon.
But it would be more heartening if our youth got all stirred up over the issue, marched on Washington, and really fought to win the right to vote. Teen-agers with the spirit to do that would be our democracy's true "hopes of tomorrow."

tax on essential foods, feeds and medicine. Some of the same members, who said two weeks ago they would vote for a sales tax "across the board," are not so sure now that a special luxury tax levy is preferable to an all-out general sales tax.
Opposition to the special commodity taxes was very vocative until bills were introduced designed to spread the sales tax over much wider range. Fact is, the whole board, because exemptions and exceptions are continued. The Washington house bill would (Continued on page ten)

Reflector Sports Writer
New Bern, Kinston, Jacksonville advanced to the semi-final round along with the top-seeded Greenville Phantoms last night in the annual Northeastern Athletic Conference tournament at East Carolina College gymnasium.

In the first game of the evening New Bern came back from a first half deficit to edge out the fired-up Elizabeth City team. Elizabeth City led all of the first half and had a 25-22 halftime advantage. After the intermission New Bern came back and held the upper hand most of the final two periods.

Durwood Hancock, the conference's second leading scorer, popped in 12 points to take scoring honors for New Bern. Ronald Price scored 16 for Elizabeth City to lead their scoring.

In the second game Kinston's Red Devils fired in 101 points for the highest scoring total of the tournament so far. The Red Devils got off to a slow first quarter but came back with all guns blazing. In the final two minutes the Kinston reserves were pressing Roanoke Rapids in an attempt to reach the celebrated 100 mark.

Poo Rochelle hit 22 points for Kinston to lead for the night. Grant Collier scored 22 points for Roanoke to pace his team. Collier is a 5-4 guard with a spectacular outside shot.

Jacksonville got off to a quick lead against Washington and never let up to romp their way into the semi-finals. Ed Jones scored 15 points to lead the scoring for the Cardinals. Mickey Cochran, a substitute guard, scored 12 for Washington.

The game was a slow game all of the way with the Jacksonville subs playing the entire first quarter. Greenville moved into action tonight in the first game at 7:30 when they meet the New Bern Bears. Greenville defeated the Bears twice during regular season play and are favored to do so tonight. New Bern did not look impressive in the first half of their game last night, but perked up in the final two periods.

Greenville will start the game with the hopes of defending the conference tournament crown they won last season. The Greens are averaging 84.7 points per game for conference activity and are expected to try to run the New Bern team in their blistering fast break attack.

Harold Edwards, Bob Howell, Edgar Moore, Pat Sawyer, and Ike Riddick will be Coach Bo Farley's starters with Tommie Saines and Clark Noble ready to go in at any time.

Kinston meets the Jacksonville Cardinals at nine o'clock in the final semi-final game. Kinston will be a slight favorite in that game to edge the improved Jacksonville team.

Jacksonville teams within four points of defeating Kinston in an earlier game this year.

Barred Because Of Calling Game

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan High School Athletic Assn. today barred a superintendent of schools from attending any of his school's basketball games for the remainder of the season.

The unusually stringent action was taken against M. J. Turck Jr., who pulled his Whittemore High team off the floor a minute and a half before the end of a game with Tawas Feb. 15. Whittemore had a 12-game winning streak going at the time but was trailing Tawas by 14 points.

Turck also was ordered to write apologies to the game officials and to Tawas High. He contended that Tawas was using rough tactics and that the game was not properly officiated.

High Point Five Stuns ECC With 90-71 Setback

Underdogs Kept Up Scoring Pace

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor
LEXINGTON, Feb. 24—An aroused High Point five put on a 50 point first half extravaganza here tonight and coasted to a 90-71 win over a stunned East Carolina team.

The defeat killed all hopes of East Carolina retaining its North State Conference crown won here at the annual conference tournament last year. The win sends High Point into the semi-finals, meeting the winner of the Lenoir Rhyne-Appalachian game tonight.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates expected the way to be rough but hadn't counted on anything like Coach Virgil Yow's Panthers in the opening round. Inspired by the hit, the underdog Panthers, with center Jack Powell's 22 points leading the way ran East Carolina right out of Lexington's massive Y.M.C.A. gymnasium.

East Carolina never threatened after the first six minutes. The Panthers pushed off to a 22-16 lead on Powell's tap-ins and from there it was easy sailing for the winners. They led at half time 50-31.

High Point had six players hitting in the double figures. Besides Powell, Bob Dunbar and Bill Huegelo, caged 12 apiece, Bob Davidson and Harold Crump had 11 each and Powell Stanton collected 10.

The sandy-haired Powell was the most valuable man in the win. Besides his points, his rebounding was a big factor. His defensive work on Guy Mendenhall also made a lot of difference. Mendenhall could muster only eight points.

Don Harris' 22 markers was high for the losers. Nick Nichols dumped 14 and J. C. Thomas added 10. East Carolina appeared listless and slow from the start, whereas High Point was having its hottest night scoring-wise. The Panthers hit over 60 percent of their shots from the floor in the first half. The final 21-point margin was a true picture of the game throughout. High Point at several intervals held 30-point leads.

After eight minutes had elapsed in the second half, and the score 68-36 in favor of High Point, Coach Porter removed his first five with the possibility of victory seemingly lost. The reserves gave a good account of themselves but could not do any better against the sizzling Panthers.

It was a great team victory for High Point. It was also a tough loss for the defending champions. High Point was the club that upset the Pirates in the 1952-53 tournament. They are definitely the team to watch in this one now.

The box score:
High Point: Crump, f. 4 3 0 11; Dunbar, f. 4 4 1 12; Payne, f. 0 0 1 0; Crockett, f. 1 2 3 4; Stanton, f. 4 2 0 10; Powell, c. 6 8 22; Huegelo, g. 0 1 4 1; Frazier, g. 2 0 5 4; Davidson, g. 2 7 2 11; Dixon, g. 2 0 1 4; Pharr, g. 0 0 0 0.

Deacons will take over fourth. However, since the fourth and fifth teams are paired, North Carolina and Wake Forest will meet in another opening round tournament game.

A Duke victory tonight giving them second place automatically will pair the Blue Devils against seventh place Virginia and pit third place Maryland against sixth place Virginia.

Wake Forest begins its bid tonight to grab fourth from the Tar Heels, playing South Carolina at Columbia. The Deacons move to Clemson tomorrow night for their final ACC game.

The year's Duke - UNC record now stands at 1-1. Duke lost to the Tar Heels, 65-52, in the Dixie Classic, but overwhelmed North Carolina in a regular season game Feb. 4, 91-68.

Virginia, which has finished its conference season, meets Virginia Tech tonight, the only other game involving an ACC team.

Two non-conference games were played last night. High scoring Furman swamped Clemson, 124-87. Furman's great forward Darrell Floyd, scored 56 points in the rout. Floyd is the nation's leading scorer with a 35.8 average.

Pro-Basketball Details Ironed Out For Match

NEW YORK (AP)—Everything is set for Rocky Marciano to defend his world heavyweight title against Don Cockwell, a pudgy Englishman, May 19 at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. Only the formal signing remains.

All the financial details were ironed out yesterday at a conference in the office of Jim Norris, President of the International Boxing Club. Marciano will get 40 percent, Cockwell 20 percent of gate receipts and any extra TV or movie money.

Marciano was due down from camp at Grossinger, N.Y., to sign the papers before the British heavyweight and his party return to England. They are booked to sail tomorrow.

In case Cockwell should upset the champ, there is a rematch clause in the agreement calling for another match within 90 days with each fighter getting 30 percent.

Although Norris held out a shade of doubt about San Francisco as the positive site, promoter Jimmy Murray, who will join with the IBC in staging the scrap, has been naming dates for weeks. It is likely the fight will be seen only on theater television although those details still must be arranged.

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Hitchhiking Larry Markas, 16, arrived at his destination and asked the driver to let him out. The driver, however, kept on going. Markas, thinking he was being kidnapped, jumped out of the car. Scratched and bruised, he learned later that the driver was Bill of hearing.

REX BAXTER Jr., Walker Cup alternate from the University of Houston, was the day's leading amateur. Grouped with him at 69 were Doug Ford, Kiamasha Lake; Eric Monti, Los Angeles; John Barum, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Joe Jimenez, Midlothian, Ill.; Mike Dietz, Lake Orion, Mich.; Tom Burke Jr., Pasadena, Tex.; and Ed Carpenter, San Antonio.

Saddler Defends Featherweight Crown - Surprisingly Low Odds

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler finally takes his crown out of the deep freeze tonight against little old Teddy (Red Top) Davis in a title 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

This is the skinny, 28-year-old champion's first title defense in 41 months and he's a surprisingly low 7-5 favorite to beat the 31-year-old ex-railroad cook from Hartford, Conn.

On their records, Sandy (139-12-2) should be at least 3-1 over Davis (59-47-2), the "losingest" challenger of all time. If he wins, Red Top will be the oldest guy ever to capture the 126-pound diadem.

Maybe the odds are so small because virtually everyone has forgotten there's such a thing as a featherweight king. The National Boxing Assn., as a matter of fact, says there isn't. It lifted the New Yorker's crown for not defending it within the required six-month period but didn't name a successor. Tonight's victory, however, will be recognized as champ by the NBA.

There will be $30,000 added to the pot tonight from the radio-television receipts. A crowd of some 7,500 will pay about $30,000 at the gate. Saddler gets 40 percent and Davis 20.

Saddler, as usual, declined to make any prediction but Manager Charley Johnston wasn't hesitant. "Sandy will flatten him like a 50-year-old dime," said confident Charley. "What's he got to beat? Skill, experience and a solid Sandy with?"

chinn," was the valiant reply of chubby Mushky Salow, Red Top's manager. "I've been around a long time and I never figured I would ever get a chance at the title," said Davis. "I'm going to beat him. I've just got to. I've been around too long to blow it now."

With so many defeats on his record, including five by kayos, it's not surprising that Red Top never got a shot before.

But get it did by the very simple process of whipping Percy Baasett in a 12-rounder in the Garden last Nov. 26. Percy was the No. 1 contender then and had licked every other featherweight of note around.

That was Davis' last fight and made his record six wins out of six for 1954.

Saddler has fought four times for the title, all with Willie Pep, winning three and losing one. He stopped Willie the last time in the ninth round on Sept. 26, 1951.

He went into the Army in 1952 and got out in April 1954. He refused to defend his title until he had enough tuneups and felt he was ready.

Opening Victory For Local Golfers

Greenville golfers downed a visiting Farmville team 58-11 here Wednesday afternoon as the first round of match play officially opened the Coastal Golf Association competition for this spring.

W. L. Allen of Greenville and Graydon Liles of Farmville shared the medalist honors of the day as both carried a par 72 for the 18 holes. Allen scored an Eagle 2 on the 225 yard second hole.

Errell Webb of Greenville was one over par with a 73 and Simon Moya and Ben Harrison, also on the Greenville team, were two over par with 74's.

Greenville golfers will travel to Clinton next Wednesday afternoon for their second match in the current season play of the Coastal Golf Association. Harold Thomas, pro at the local club urged all golfers to make the trip to Clinton to participate in the match.

Duke And UNC Clash For Undisputed Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Undisputed second place in the Atlantic Coast Conference is Duke's stake tonight when the Blue Devils face the invading North Carolina Tar Heels Duke's No. 1 arch rival.

Duke now holds second with a 10-3 record with Maryland third, 10-4. A Blue Devil defeat would tie the two teams, necessitating a drawing for second in the annual Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament starting at Raleigh next Thursday.

Pairings for the tournament which decided the ACC's official champion are 3-6 7-2, 1-8 and 4-5. N.C. State already has clinched first place and will meet last place Clemson in one of the opening games.

North Carolina is fourth with an 8-5 record and Wake Forest fifth, 6-6. Should North Carolina lose tonight and Wake Forest win its final two conference games, the

Semi-Pro Loop Meeting Slated For March 7

Representatives of baseball teams in the semi-pro Bright Leaf League will meet at Parker's Barbecue place in Wilson on March 7 to make plans for the coming baseball season in the league.

Expected at the meeting are representatives from Farmville, Falkland, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Kinston and Stantonsburg which are expected to have teams in the league this year.

A representative of the league announced that any team in this area which wishes to join the league is invited to send a representative to the meeting in Wilson.

Nixon Says U. S. Libraries Abroad Undeserved Attacks

PANAMA (AP) — An unexpected thrust by Vice President Richard M. Nixon at some comments on U. S. information libraries in Europe made two years ago by two investigators for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) heightened interest in a Nixon speech scheduled today.

The vice president was due to speak this afternoon at ceremonies opening a new U. S. Information Service center here and Panamanians were waiting to see if he had anything more to say on the matter.

Telling a news conference yesterday that he favored expansion of the U. S. library program, Nixon said libraries in Europe received some "undeserved criticisms" two years ago. He did not mention Roy Cohn or G. David Schine by name but left no doubt he was referring to them.

While some phases of the two-year-old report were justified, the vice president added, "such criticism as a whole was undeserved and gave library facilities a bad name."

Form Fellowship Group At Chicod

CHICOD — The men of Chicod Presbyterian Church organized a fellowship group last Tuesday and elected Uran Cox president. Grady Smith was chosen vice-president and G. K. Brunson secretary-treasurer.

The group plans to have a supper meeting on the third Thursday of each month in the home economics building.

The following committees were appointed: Attendance, Letha Hancock and J. H. Edwards. Attendance, J. H. Edwards and Fred Foster. Dinner, Ray Tyndall and Edward Stocker. Program, Herman Smith, J. H. Edwards and E. L. Wittingham III. Project, F. H. Hodges and Marvin Mewborn. Finance, Uran Cox and G. K. Brunson.

Nixon described the libraries as the "solid backbone for our efforts at making friends abroad" and declared the "American people should be told the tremendous value of such programs."

Cohn was chief counsel for McCarthy's investigating committee and Schine was a committee consultant. During a trip to Europe, they told newsmen they had found in U. S. information centers books by authors who had refused to tell the committee whether they had been or were then Communists.

"We feel that U. S. information centers should give a true picture of the United States," Cohn said.

Safety Speaker Backed Into Car

LINTHICUM HEIGHTS, Md. (AP) — State trooper Joseph White lectured to the Linthicum Heights Methodist Men's Club last night on the horrors of reckless driving.

He showed the 63 members a safety film and emphasized in his talk that 90 per cent of highway accidents are caused by defective drivers.

Then he left and the club went into its business session. Suddenly the trooper came back.

"This is embarrassing," he told Frederick Lang. "I just knocked a dent in your door."

The safety lecturer had backed his cruiser into the listener's car. White made arrangements for repairs.

Full Welcome To New Depositor

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Lincoln Rochester Trust Co. wrote its usual "new depositor" welcome letter to Stephen Gerhardt and invited him to take advantage of all of the bank's facilities.

Gerhardt, who proved to be only 5, showed up at the bank yesterday to accept the invitation. He was given a personally supervised ride on the escalator by Bank President John W. Remington.

Messages Went In Wastebasket; Not To Rayburn

WASHINGTON (AP) — A waste basket held the solution to the mystery of what has been happening to Speaker of the House Rayburn's advance copies of messages President Eisenhower has been sending to Congress.

They've been going to the wastebasket instead of to the speaker because of a breakdown in Democratic communication lines. And that discovery, after a little diligent digging by newsmen, may have averted a potential rift between the government's legislative and executive branches.

It's a good bet that from now on Rayburn will get his copies now.

It seems that Republican House leaders, as well as Washington newsmen, have been receiving advance copies of messages but Rayburn, official head of the House, had gotten his from Republicans or not at all.

He had not complained publicly, but privately had let it become known that he did not like it.

A reporter called Rayburn's dissatisfaction to the attention of the President at his news conference yesterday. The President expressed surprise and said Rayburn, as well as other members of Congress, had a standing invitation to consult with the White House at any time. Subsequently, James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said advance copies of White House messages to Congress had been delivered to the office of the House Democratic and Republican leaders as soon as they were available.

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts said he didn't know anything about that. In fact, he added, he had to get his copies from Republicans.

But an assistant to McCormack confirmed that bundles of messages have arrived. He said they have been left undistributed because there was no instructions concerning their disposal. Rayburn's copy apparently was among those thus consigned to a wastebasket.

Tot Burned To Death In Home

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — A 15-month-old boy left alone in his high chair, burned to death yesterday when flames swept the home of Mrs. Dolores Watson.

The mother was at a neighbor's, trying to free an auto from a snowdrift, when a daughter, Mickey, 4, called in distress.

Neither Mrs. Watson, whose husband is a Rocky Mountain Arsenal employe, nor firemen could enter the blazing structure to rescue her son, Kitrick.

Fire Chief Gerald Ecker said the blaze probably started from a kerosene stove.

Iraq And Turkey Sign Joint Pact

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq took up a post in the Western defense lineup today after signing a mutual defense pact with Turkey. She was the first Arab state to forsake a neutral role in the East-West cold war.

In Cairo, a high government spokesman promptly declared Egypt would call a meeting of all Arab League nations except Iraq and demand the expulsion of the Baghdad government and revision of the league agreement.

If the demand is not heeded, he added, Egypt will either withdraw from the eight-nation group or renounce any commitment to defend Iraq. The Arab League is a collective security alliance. Egypt, generally acknowledged as its leader, has insisted the Arabs should stick to their neutralist position and depend on themselves for defense.

Defying Egyptian threats, Iraqi Premier Nuri Said signed the agreement with Turkey last night after six hours of almost continuous discussions with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes. Menderes flew here Wednesday for the ceremony.

Turkey is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Her pact with Iraq is the first to link an Arab state specifically for defense against any Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The other Arab League members are Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Libya.

The two premiers and their advisers worked out last-minute revisions of the pact, some believed aimed at meeting objections voiced by other Arab states.

An informed source said one clause provided that no other country could join the alliance without the agreement of both original signers.

One nation previously mentioned as a possible member was Syria. But the Syrian Parliament last night gave Premier Sabri Assali a 66-53 confidence vote on his decision to stay out.

There have been reports that Lebanon, Syria and Iran were negotiating with Turkey and Pakistan to form a middle East defensive alliance against communism.

The 4-H Council is composed of officers of the 16 local 4-H clubs in the county.

Plans will be discussed at the meeting for the observance of National 4-H Week, March 8-12.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

Murphy's voice was like a soft gray feather brushing Katie's cheeks touching her skin to tingling awareness. She looked away from his black, knowing eyes. Confusion seized her, and panic overcame her mood of assured determination. She could not have named the things which Murphy's eyes suggested—yet those things troubled her, by their very vagueness.

"I'm surprised," said Murphy deeply—she glanced at him, but he was looking at his cigarette—"that you haven't found that complication here. The men here aren't blind—and you are very beautiful, Katie."

"Murphy," she begged. "Don't tease me."

"I'm not teasing you, Katie, darling. You are beautiful. I wonder if Fred appreciates you."

She laughed in delicious confusion. "He says I look like an ad for Ivory soap."

"But you do!" Murphy cried in delight. "Good for Fred! He's right. Your immaculate quality, Katie—the clear beauty of your eyes, the freshness of your skin—your smooth hair—it does things to a man, darling. A woman, serene and untouched." He rose, and stood looking down at her.

Katie scrambled to her own feet, feeling as if she might cry though she didn't want to. Yet tears seemed the only way to express what she felt. She feared what Murphy might say next, or do—and she was a little angry, too. Certainly, she was embarrassed. Disturbed. Confused.

Words stumbled in a rush from her lips. "I'm not an Ivory Soap baby! And of course Fred appreciates me! He married me, didn't he? Fred loves me!" she cried defiantly. "I'm sure he does."

"Are you sure, Katie?"

"Of course I'm sure. That's why I want to do the very best I can for him. I want to learn to be everything any woman all women could be to him. Don't you see, Murphy?"

He had moved, almost imperceptibly, until now he stood close at her side. "I understand, Katie," he said warmly. "It's going to be wonderful to watch you doing all that—for Fred. But I'm wondering, while you're in a learning mood—his voice took on a new note half rueful, half quizzical—"if you couldn't also learn to be nice to me?"

"I am nice to you, Murphy."

"Ach, Katie!"

She flushed a bright coral.

"You know," he continued suavely. "I was not thinking only of Fred when I came here, hoping to persuade him to join me in St. Louis. You missed a large part in that, Katie. You know I've always been a man to consider my own interests, and I usually consider them first. I was, this time. I knew you as a girl, Katie. And the girl you were has played a large part in my being unable to find a woman—the right woman—to be my wife. I want my marriage to be the culmination of a great love. The great love of my life. Now, seeing you again, I am sure—at last—that I've found the woman for me. That is why I've been unable to leave, Katie."

She stood beside him, eyes downcast, cheeks pink lips trembling. These things were being said to her, to little smooth-haired Katie in a blue gingham dress.

"Murphy!" she cried harshly. "You don't know what you're saying!"

His black eyes were sorrowful now. "I do know," he assured her. "But don't let it frighten you, Katie. You're still unawakened to love—I know that, too. I know so well what you will be when that wakening comes and what you will do for the lucky man who has your full love."

"I know, too," he continued quietly. "What that blessed man would be ready to do for you. Oh, Katie, Katie, what wouldn't I do for you!"

He threw out his hands in a gesture of despair, and took a few steps across the grass. "If I could have only an ounce of the luck which is Fred's so abundantly," he cried. "Fred loves you. Perhaps it's not the great passion you could stir in a man, but—yes—he loves you. He has you with him to encourage him, he has you beside him to give purpose and incentive to his work. A man, Katie, can get anything he wants, do anything, for the woman he loves. And if she wants those same things, and works with him—Katie, don't blame me if I want what Fred has! I need it—and I wish I might have it."

Katie turned toward the house. "You'd better keep it in your mind, Murphy Hudson," she said in childish indignation, "that I'm Fred's wife."

At a certain spot between her shoulders, she could feel his smile. She went on into the house.

Then her soft mouth smiled demurely. She wasn't half as angry at Murphy as her conscience said she should be. Because even her conscience knew that all women were the sort to let a man declare his love. They might not knowingly invite such a declaration, but given a chance to hear it—they all liked it.

And maybe this was only a step in her growing up. She'd said she meant to grow up, and be like—Didn't men tell Linda Kyle that they admired her? That they loved her? Of course she would let them say such things, and had! As for women like Miranda . . .

Now, Katie could laugh. She did laugh. A man telling a woman that he loved her need mean only her chin a notch higher and go on.

It was two-thirds when Fred discovered that he had left his bag on the table at home. He snapped his fingers in exasperation at himself. His bag was like an extension of his right arm; how could he have forgotten it? Well, he'd pick it up on his way to answer the call from Labadie. No telling what he'd find there!

His house seemed as drowsy as the rest of the street when he pulled up at the curb. He went in through the side door and called softly to Katie. She sometimes took a nap in the afternoon; if she were sleeping he'd not want to waken her. But the house was very still, and over that stillness came the muted sound of voices—he followed them to the dining room, and stood looking out through the window at the scene in the yard.

Murphy was stretched out on the long chair, his hands folded behind his black head, and Katie was working in the flower bed right beneath the window. Fred did not mean to listen without making his presence known, but he also hesitated to interrupt too rudely—he'd wait for a break in their talk.

Five minutes later frowning, biting at the corner of his lip, he turned and went back to the hall. He picked up his bag and let himself out of the house, slipped his car away from the curb and turned it into the street which led to the highway. Through the windshield his eyes touched the gray-green slope of the nearest mountain.

Katie's water-clear voice still sounded in his ears. Fred, she claimed, had a duty to the world. Katie, she said, was going to see that her husband fulfilled that duty, and that he would not waste his time on hick friends, hick patients—

Sees Benefit In Visiting Abroad

NEW YORK (AP)—A student travel expert says visits abroad can be educationally rewarding without being a part of a formal academic curriculum.

John E. Bowman, executive director of the Council on Student Travel, yesterday addressed the National Conference on Exchange of Persons sponsored by the Institute of International Education.

Bowman, discussing "teen-age and summer foreign experience," said the values to be gained by travel abroad "bear examination" from an economic, social and educational viewpoint.

Some 700 foreign student advisers from colleges and universities throughout the nation divided into eight groups headed by panel members familiar with various phases of international student or trainee exchanges.

Olaf Olsen, training director of the employe relations department of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Co., urged that all foreign students coming to the United States be subjected to a thorough "indoctrination program" to acquaint them with American customs.

The institute is a nonprofit organization administering international exchange programs of students and specialists.

N. C. Baby Crop Furrows Brows Of Educators And Lawmakers.

By C. A. UPCHURCH, Jr.
RALEIGH—The problem of how to prepare for North Carolina's post-war crop of infants when they start rapping on college doors has divided administrative circles of State-supported institutions of higher learning and promises to become one of the most vexing in the General Assembly's crowded lap.

Crux of the issue is a bill to set up a State Board of Higher Education to serve as efficiency expert, coordinator, watchdog and practical nurse for the 12 colleges and universities in the State system.

The general idea is to reduce unnecessary duplication in expenses and curricula, make recommendations on biennial budgets for the 12 schools and generally plan ahead to take care of the nearly 50,000 youths—about double the present enrollment—expected to swarm onto State campuses by 1970.

East Carolina and Appalachian State—want no part of it.

Dr. B. B. Dougherty, Appalachian president, says the proposal means "setting up a duplicating machine to do away with duplications," referring to it as a "super-board" piled on top of the existing boards that run the schools.

Dr. J. D. Messick, East Carolina head, sees in the plan the establishment of a virtual dictatorship with a possibility of "a viciousness" that would curtail the schools' initiative. He also saw "prejudicial bias" in some sections of the report by the Commission on Higher Education which made a study of the situation and recommended the bill.

Dr. Paul Reid, president of Western Carolina, will express his views later to the House Committee on Higher Education, which spent over two hours listening to educators, Governor Hodges and Victor S. Bryan of Durham, chairman of the study commission authorized by the 1953 Legislature. But Dr. Ralph D. Welton, president of the Pembroke State College for Indians, thinks more study is needed, particularly in the matter of separating authority over the academic and fiscal affairs of the State institutions of higher education.

On the other hand, President Gordon Gray of the consolidated Greater University told the House group meeting with the Senate Committee on Education, that he favors the bill, with certain reservations which can be amended into the measure without altering its intent. He emphasized that a statement proclaiming the goal of the plan as the highest standard of excellence possible within the State's economy should be written into the measure.

Chancellor Edward K. Graham of the Woman's College backed the plan, but Chancellor Carey Bostian of N. C. State said he had some apprehension—since he is already in a consolidated set-up—about being absorbed into another integration.

The three top men in the Greater University emphasized they were giving their personal views in the absence of official action by the University trustees.

FLICKER MYSTERY SOLVED—Morehead City's lights flickered for days before the cause was found. So many hungry seagulls visited the garbage dump that their overlapping wings short-circuited power lines. CP&L spread the lines farther apart. Here CP&L Manager George Stovall (left, inset) and James Hardison examine a single gull. Gulls almost obscure Hardison's bulldozer. (Photos by Jerry Schumacher.)

While most of the top brass of the Greater University and the five Negro colleges approve the proposal either wholeheartedly or in principle, at least two of the schools

The measure was introduced by Rep. Oscar Barker of Durham, chairman of the House Committee on Higher Education, and others on the committee. It follows the recommendations of the Bryant commission, setting up a board of nine persons serving six-year staggered terms, with no more than two graduates or former students of one school serving at the same time. Members would be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the House and Senate in joint session. They would draw no salary, but would get per diem expenses.

Governor Hodges opened the meeting with an endorsement of the bill saying State-supported institutions are facing a crisis within the next 15 years in higher education and long-range planning is needed now to assure that the State can cope with the emergency and get the most for its money in giving North Carolina youth the best education possible.

Bryant explained provisions of the measure and described some of the unnecessary expenses and overlapping encountered by his committee. He dwelt particularly on graduate instruction, most expensive of all, and cited a number of duplications in curricula that could be corrected without hurt to the school or the student.

The postwar babies will begin crowding campuses in 1964, he explained, and some agency must see that the teachers and necessary facilities are available.

"I respectfully submit," Bryant said, "that there is now no agency qualified to plan for the logical development of the State-supported institutions of higher education. The Budget Bureau doesn't have the staff; the Legislature doesn't have the time to study all the questions involved."

Bryant quoted vital statistics showing the postwar baby increase. In 1945, he reported, 87,401 babies were born in North Carolina. Next year, in what he described as a "burst of enthusiasm," the baby crop rose to 100,967 and in 1947 it was stepped up to 112,877. The rate has slowed down a little but not much.

It is these youngsters—and all who follow—that are now putting furrows in academic and legislative brows—and possibly causing a bit of floor-walking.

Where's the smart place to put your savings?

Today millions of Americans will tell you, that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association. They'll give you three good reasons why this is so . . .

1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.

So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.

And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.

Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it's a mighty good place to do business!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market worked quietly lower in the early afternoon today.

Volume was less than yesterday when the market also drifted downward. Losses extended to slightly more than a point but were generally small fractions.

Steels, motors, rubbers, utilities, railroads, chemicals and copper mining stocks lost ground, though there were individual issues which fought the trend. Radio-television stocks inched upward. Oils, airlines, department stores and farm implements were mixed.

Among the losers were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Telephone, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Baldwin Lima, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Loew's.

Higher were Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, Schenley, Philco, Chesapeake & Ohio, Sinclair Oil, American Airlines and U. S. Gypsum.

Constitution Of Merged Unions Being Drafted

WASHINGTON — The heads of the AFL and CIO meet today to start drafting a constitution for a merger of the two major labor organizations.

President Walter Reuther of the CIO announced his plans to meet with AFL President George Meany after the merger agreement won strong approval from the CIO Executive Board yesterday.

Only the CIO Transport Workers Union opposed the merger, contending the agreement contained "absolutely no guarantee to prevent cannibalism when we get into the AFL."

The new constitution, when it is completed, must be approved by the executive boards of the two union groups, and finally by a joint convention of the two.

Semisecrecy In First Talks On Budget Problems

RALEIGH — With Preliminaries out of the way, legislative committees yesterday moved toward the big money questions—how to get it and where to spend it.

Decisions appeared still far off as the Joint Appropriations and Finance committees began discussions on the recommended $37-million-dollar budget and the $2 million in new taxes needed to balance it for the next two years.

The Appropriations Committee drew a cloak of semisecrecy about its first budget talks. J. C. Eagles Jr., of Wilson, Senate chairman, asked reporters not to quote any of the legislators by name in stories about the session.

Eagles said members wanted to "throw out ideas" without being "pinned down" since they might change their minds later.

Places to cut down on the budget were the main topic of conversation. One representative said he would like to see public school funds cut six million dollars and "let them make whatever adjustments are necessary."

However, another representative challenged the statement. He urged the committee "not to go backward, when classes are too crowded now for a child to get proper education."

Meanwhile, the Finance Committee talked over tax proposals, some of which would bring in new money and others which would reduce revenue. It took no action on any of them.

Sen. David Hall of Jackson said his plan to have the state collect income taxes by payroll deductions as the federal tax is collected, would bring in an additional two million dollars from persons now evading the tax.

The proposal also would bring in a $16,000,000 windfall during the 1955-57 biennium through earlier collection, Hall said. This would come from payroll deductions throughout the year, rather than payment in lump sum at the end of the year.

Sen. Charles Reynolds of Rutherford spoke on his bill which would allow state income taxpayers to deduct federal income taxes in figuring their state tax. He said it would cost the state $2 million a year and give the federal government a gain of 4 1/2 million annually.

South Carolina allows deduction of federal income taxes up to a maximum of $500. Reynolds said if this were adopted in North Carolina, it would cause a loss of $5,700,000.

Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw said Hall's withholding plan "has met, generally, with public favor." He said it would cost the revenue department about $228,000 the first year for equipment and personnel.

In other legislative developments yesterday, the Senate received the state's judicial code, increasing their number from 21 to 30 while raising the number of resident Superior Court judges from 21 to 32. The measure now goes to the House.

The Senate Roads Committee voted to kill a measure which would place restrictions on land the state might deed to the federal government in the future for right-of-way use for parkways or national parks. However, the committee agreed not to return the bill to the Senate floor until Sen. David M. Hall of Jackson, the introducer, can be heard. In effect, this gives the bill a narrow chance for revival.

Two Bound Over In Forgery Case
Two Winterville Negro men were bound over to Superior Court this morning in connection with the forgery of a check for $35.

William H. Payton, Route 1, Winterville, charged with forging the check, waived a preliminary hearing in City Court this morning. His $500 bond was set.

Henry Lee Brown, charged with aiding and abetting in the forgery, was ordered bound over to Superior Court under a $200 bond.

The check was allegedly given to a local hardware concern.

that several streets in the city have identical or almost identical names.

He noted that there are three "Park Drives." Hughes pointed out the danger of the identical names in case of fire and other emergencies.

Planning Board Chairman Frank L. Little appointed Hughes, Rivers and Fire Chief George Gardner to a committee to study the street names and make recommendations for correcting the situation.

Mrs. D. M. Clark commented on the booklet "Mr. Planning Commissioner" copies of which were ordered at the last Planning Board meet. She said she enjoyed reading the booklet.

Dr. A. W. Smith of Willow Grove Veterinary Hospital in Farmville vaccinates a dog at one of the rabies control clinics now being held in Pitt County. This picture was taken at Haddock's Cross Roads. More than 2,500 dogs have been vaccinated to date, but it is estimated by the Health Department that there are between 10,000-12,000 dogs in the county. The clinics will be held through March 12, and all dog owners are urged to check the schedules for time, date and locality. (Reflector Photo by Edwina Haymes).

A total of 2,653 dogs have been vaccinated thus far at the rabies control clinics being held during this month and the early part of March by the Pitt County Health Department and the Pitt County Veterinary Association.

Though the Health Department reports this has been a good response, it notes that vaccinations have been rather slack recently because of the cold and rainy weather. It is estimated there are between 10,000-12,000 dogs in the county. Last year 8,028 dogs were vaccinated.

The clinics began February 1 and will continue through March 12. Purpose of the clinics is to prevent rabies in dogs, with another important contribution being the apprehension of stray dogs and the maintenance of the pound.

Vaccination clinic schedules have been mailed to practically all residents of the county, and the schedules have also been posted in prominent places throughout the county.

It is the law in North Carolina that all dogs shall be vaccinated against rabies annually and the state legislature has designated February as the time for a statewide vaccination program.

Pitt County Board of Health has enacted the state law, and all dogs that are either temporary or permanent residents of Pitt County and are more than 14 weeks old are required to be vaccinated. However, vaccination is no longer a requirement for license.

All vaccination in Pitt County is done by a licensed doctor of veterinary medicine. Vaccination fee is $1 per dog at the clinics.

Following the six-week clinics, a county-wide survey will be made by the dog wardens to check on dogs that have not been vaccinated and that are unlisted for taxes.

The Health Department reports that this county has been free of rabies for the past several years, and points out that yearly vaccination of dogs is one of the best and easiest means of keeping rabies out of the community.

Defeat Bids To Suspend Debate
BONN Germany — Parliament today defeated overwhelmingly a new attempt by the Socialist opposition to suspend debate on the Paris treaties to free and reararm West Germany.

It was the second such unsuccessful maneuver by the Socialists since the three Paris treaties were ratified last year in the Bundestag (lower house).

A spokesman for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party told the deputies that the Saar whose future "European" status had any better solution for determining the future of the Saar. That industrially rich territory, German before World War II now is virtually autonomous but tied to France economically.

But he emphasized the Saar will have an opportunity to decide its own political future at a plebiscite. Lenz declared that the Saar government of Premier Johannes Hoffmann has "consistently pursued an anti-German attitude."

The spokesman, Otto Lenz, said it was "regrettable that France has linked the Saar agreement with a mild alternative to strict water control and conservation legislation recommended by a special water resources advisory committee.

Sens. C. Settle Bunn of Nash and Arthur Kirkman of Guilford introduced the measure. Bunn said the purpose was to educate the people on the need for water conservation and to provide for emergency actions in case of water shortages.

It would set up a board of seven water commissioners, appointed by the governor to carry out "programs of research and education." In case of water emergencies, the board would have authority to adopt regulations allocating water according to a priority schedule.

The Senate also gave speedy passage to a bill redrawing the state's judicial districts, increasing their number from 21 to 30 while raising the number of resident Superior Court judges from 21 to 32. The measure now goes to the House.

The Senate Roads Committee voted to kill a measure which would place restrictions on land the state might deed to the federal government in the future for right-of-way use for parkways or national parks. However, the committee agreed not to return the bill to the Senate floor until Sen. David M. Hall of Jackson, the introducer, can be heard. In effect, this gives the bill a narrow chance for revival.

Five Forest Fires Over Pitt Needed Heavy Gear
Pitt County Forest Rangers used all of their heavy equipment fighting five forest fires involving 134 acres of timber land between last Monday and Wednesday nights.

County Forest Ranger N. H. (Kid) Tyson said they had brought the fires under control by Wednesday night, when they stopped a 15-acre blaze on the Sam Mills and Marvin Smith lands in the Calico community. He said his department is continuing investigation to establish origin of the five fires. These were the first serious woods fires in the county since early last fall, the ranger stated.

The first fire was Monday night in the Stokestown community; then on the Speight land between Winterville and Greenville; the next blaze was on the Garris land near Worthington's Crossroads, and then fire broke out on the H. C. Sugg land in the Hanrahan community.

Mrs. Hazel Manning, observer in the Forestry Service observation tower near the television station, said yesterday's rain had stopped the series of woods fires.

Tyson again reminded that there is a North Carolina law requiring landowners to notify adjacent landowners in advance when they plan to burn brush. The law imposes a fine or imprisonment for violations. Landowners may obtain brush burning permits from any of the Forest Rangers.

No Definite Plan Set For Farmers Day Event At Committee Meeting
The Farmer's Day steering committee held a meeting last night to discuss ideas and plans for the annual celebration.

No definite plans were set, however. A committee of three was appointed to work out and recommend concrete plans for the Farmer's Day festivities. The committee is composed of Ben Rouse, Connor Eagles and Dan Saleed.

The committee is scheduled to make their recommendations at another meeting of the steering committee sometime next week.

Representing various civic organizations at the meeting were: Ed Waldrop, Kiwanis Club; Charles Lewis and Jim Sutton, Jaycees; Jim Harris, Merchants Association; J.B. Kittrell, Jr. and J. E. Laughinghouse, Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Ray Minges, Exchange Club; Mrs. Chester Walsh, Business and Professional Women; W. C. Eagles and Larry Everett, American Legion; Ben Rouse, Lions Club.

K. T. Kizer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, sat in on the meeting last night.

Plan Sell 1,000 Dozen Donuts For Band Fund

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, assisted by the local VFW Post in cooperation with the Band Booster's Club, has completed plans to sell one thousand dozen donuts to citizens of Greenville on Sunday afternoon, February 27.

Mrs. Elvy Forrest, president of the Auxiliary and presiding officer at the regular monthly meeting, Thursday evening, emphasized that all proceeds of the sale will be contributed to the high school band fund. Special instruments, uniforms, and means of transportation were described as urgently needed to enable the band to participate in the many events upon which it is called. "Every person in Greenville can back our home-town band by buying donuts Sunday," said Mrs. Forrest.

The sale will be conducted from 3 to 5 p.m. at Peoples Bakery. Orders will be delivered by the sponsoring organizations. Mrs. Arthur Andrews, chairman of the project, reported that early orders received were most gratifying. "If cooperation received to date by interested persons is an indication, the sale of donuts on Sunday will be an outstanding success," Mrs. Andrews declared.

A report on the recent Second District Meeting in Farmville was given by Mrs. B. T. Joyner. She relayed the request from the Ground Observer Corps to organize a station in Greenville. Mrs. C. B. West reported on the official visit to North Carolina of Mrs. Agnes S. Holz, National Auxiliary President, in Jacksonville on February 13. The Greenville unit presented the colors according to the Auxiliary ritual for the occasion. Those attending from Greenville were: Mesdames Elvy Forrest, B. T. Joyner, L. E. Meeks, Bryant Hardy, J. B. Bass, H. L. Vincent, and C. B. West Jr.

A donation of $10.00 to the Pitt County Heart Fund was authorized.

NEW PLEDGE
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United States has recently given eight million dollars for U.N. relief to Palestine refugees in the Near East and has announced a new pledge of $4,700,000 in addition to the 12 million pledged last year.

This trend may gain strength or it may be reversed. The main point is that as of now, near the end of the eighth week of the Legislature, there is little more clearly indicated direction of course than was observed the second week of the session.

Governor Hodges told reporters at his latest news conference that he thinks the special tobacco, soft drink and insurance taxes proposed by the advisory budget commission will be enacted. Few of the newsmen agreed with him then. After talking with a lot of people in and out of the Legislature during the past few days, your reporter is convinced that there is a definite trend of sentiment in favor of these special levies rather than a tax on basic foods.
