Petition Supports Worthington Bill

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

A petition is being circulated in the county urging the county's legislative members to support Rep. S. O. Worthington's recently introduced bill designed to maintain school segregation, it was learned today.

It was said that the petition will be presented to the county's three General Assembly members this week-end.

A spokesman for the group which is circulating the petition said that a final tabulation of the number of signatures on the petition is now being made. He had no estimate of the number who have signed it but he said that citizens who have been asked to sign have received the petition with "spontaneous endorsement."

Worthington's bill would place before the people for a vote an amendment to the constitution to give the legislature the right to authorize state, county and municipal governments to levy funds for education in lieu of the present constitutional provision which says that the state must levy taxes for a six month school system.

Effect of Amendment The effect of such an amendment if it were enacted would be to give the legislature the authority to abolish the state school system and underwrite a system of private schools.

Supporters of the bill believe that under such a system the state would not have to comply with a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling that public school segregation is illegal.

In presenting the bill, Worthington locked horns with Governor Hodges. An administration-supported bill was introduced before Worthington's bill which would give the local school authorities the power to assign pupils to the various schools.

That measure, too was designed to retain school segregation but would not call for abolishment of the school system.

The administration measure was introduced in both houses simultaneously. Significantly, it was introduced in the senate by one of the county's other two legislators, Senator Paul Jones of Farmville.

Heated Words The governor and Rep. Worthington indirectly passed heated words in interviews following the introduction of the representative's school bill.

Gov. Hodges called the idea proposed by Worthington "extreme and very untimely, entirely unnecessary in view of other pending legislation."

Roman Court Backs Sect Against Police

ROME, Italy (AP)—The American-led Church of Christ in Italy today won a broad legal victory upholding both its right to operate and to put signs on its places of worship.

A decision by Rome's Tribunal sharply criticized police for twice tearing down signs from the church temple here. It also said the small Protestant group was protected by provisions of the Italian constitution guaranteeing religious liberty.

Rome attorney Giacomo Rosapepe who has represented the church in its long fight to gain full recognition from the Interior Ministry, said the decision represented a big step toward that goal. The church has sought since World War II to obtain recognition from the ministry, which supervises non-Catholic sects. It would enable the group's ministers to operate freely and exempt their properties from taxes.

Several flareups have been reported between Italian authorities and the Church of Christ in recent years, including a brief ban on activities of the sect in September, 1953. An informed Italian source said then that the friction arose over the church's missionary activities and efforts at conversions in this predominantly Roman Catholic nation. Other Protestant denominations, including the Baptists and the Methodists, have operated in Italy for years.

Italy R. E. Feden of Brownfield and Lubbock, Tex., said a third sign has been prepared for the entrance to the temple in the Via Achille Papa. Paden was one of the first organizers of the church in Italy. Police removed the first sign in February, 1954. A 10-month legal battle resulted in a Public Ministry decision in favor of the church, which promptly put up the second sign. Police clad in civilian clothes pulled down this sign less than 24 hours later. The church immediately appealed to the Tribunal.

Roy Cohn Denies Prompting Lies By Matusow

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy M. Cohn says he never prompted Harvey M. Matusow to testify falsely against 13 second-string Communist leaders. And he said he had no reason to believe Matusow lied at his trial.

Cohn testified yesterday at a federal court hearing in which the convicted Reds are seeking a retrial based on recanted testimony by Matusow, self-styled former Communist and FBI informer. Cohn's testimony continues today.

Cohn, an assistant U. S. attorney when the 13 were tried in 1952, later was chief counsel to the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which was headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). He currently is in private law practice.

Governor Calls On Citizens To Enter Tax Issue Debate

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel citizens last night were urged by Gov. Hodges to join in the struggle over new taxes to raise $2 million dollars to balance the state's budget for the next two fiscal years.

In a statewide radio and television broadcast, the governor called on the people of the state to tell legislators "which way you believe is best" in the search for new tax money.

"Reduced to basic terms, the issue is whether to extend the sales tax, medicine and other basic essentials or whether to place a consumer excise tax on the sale of items such as tobacco and soft drinks," Hodges asserted.

The governor ranged over problems facing the Legislature in his "report to the people" message, but devoted the major portion of his time to finances and taxes.

Hodges gave detailed attention to his recommendation for a tobacco tax. He said this did not indicate "that we are insisting on the passage of this particular tax," but was given to "clear up what may be some misapprehensions and misunderstandings."

He said evidence is that the tax levy will not reduce tobacco sales. Even if it should cause a 10 per cent drop in tobacco consumption in North Carolina, he added, it would mean a loss of only about one million dollars to leaf growers.

A per cent tax on food would cost Tar Heel farmers "about" four million dollars a year, he asserted.

The governor read the full report of an advisory committee on the school segregation issue and repeated his support for its recommendation that authority over school enrollment be returned to local authorities.

"After we hear further from the Supreme Court, it may be necessary to go further, but I think it unwise to take additional action at this time," he said.

Water legislation proposed by a study committee "is admittedly drastic" but may soon be necessary, Hodges said. For the time being, another less stringent measure also before the Legislature "may be as far as we can go," he added.

The governor said there has been "only little progress" on part of his legislative program, including legislative redistricting, abolition of the absentee ballot, and a statewide liquor referendum. He said he fears that legislative reapportionment bills introduced "have not been taken too seriously."

He called for the defeat of proposals which he said would "seriously reduce the effectiveness of the state's highway safety program." This apparently referred to a bill which would restrict the Highway Patrol's use of "whizz" electronic speed detection equipment.

On the credit side, Hodges said "a good start" has been made on a primary road program. Legislation to give the state prisons director more control of the prisons system and study the feasibility of separating prisoners from the Highway Commission "does just about everything that can be done at this time" towards separation, he said.

The governor reviewed in detail the advisory Budget Commission's work in preparing the $37-million-dollar budget for the next two years and its search for $2 million in new revenue.

The commission concluded that the best place to find the new money would be through the taxing luxury items such as soft drinks and tobacco, plus other measures recommended by the commission.

MISPRINTED $5 BILL FOUND HERE A misprinted five-dollar bill turned up in Greenville today, reportedly the first one of that denomination to be discovered in the state.

In recent weeks there have been at least five or six reports of misprinted one-dollar bills discovered around the state. However, the bill which turned up here is apparently the first five-dollar bill reported in the state.

The five-dollar bill turned up at the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, which is the only bank in the city to be retired. Miss Eloise Warren Hunsucker, the teller who came across the bill, said that she was "buying" the bill from the bank.

At the bottom of the bill on the green side the words "five dollars" appear twice in two lines, with the misprinted line upside down.

The grey side of the bill is all right, with Lincoln's picture and other printed matter symmetrically lined up and printed correctly.

The exact value of these curious bills is not now known, but since they are rare, they are believed to be worth considerably more than face value. The ultimate value will depend upon how many more turn up in the country, it is reported. However, misprinted bills do not ordinarily get by eagle-eyed inspectors at the mint.

Arrest Suspect For Theft Of Corn And Tools The sheriff's department announced the arrest of a Bell Arthur man for the theft of corn on two occasions and larceny of a number of tools.

Arrested was Whit Salisbury, Negro, who is charged with breaking into the L. N. James corn mill near Bethel. He is alleged to have taken 20 bags of corn containing approximately two and one-half bushels each.

Salisbury is also charged with the theft of 20 bushels of corn from Bruce Garris near Griffon. Warnants were also issued charging him with larceny of a quantity of tools from Garris.

Salisbury is being held in Pitt County jail. He is to be tried in Superior Court during the week of March 21.

The man was arrested by Deputies Lloyd Manning and Duke Andrews.

THEY DIDN'T KNOW NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Newark police were astounded last night when during a widely publicized practice air raid, some 2,000 people flooded the switchboard in 40 minutes with calls asking what the sirens meant. Police were even more astounded when some of their own patrolmen called in with the same question.

stock market for good or ill. The committee's senior Republican, Sen. Capehart of Indiana, spoke out in blunter language declaring in an interview: "My interest is to find out if there is any skulduggery or rigging of the market. I have no reason to believe there is, but I shall be watchful for facts or information to that end."

The inquiry opened with stock market prices already higher than in 1929 and still rising. The boom which began in September 1953 carried prices to the highest level in their history at the close of the New York exchange yesterday. The Associated Press average of 89 selected stocks rose to $162 yesterday, an increase for the day

But Conditions Hinted On Giving Up Quemoy And Matsus

TAIPEI Formosa (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek today that Quemoy and the Matsus were not on the bargaining table for a cease-fire in the Chinese civil war.

But sources close to the secretary hinted the offshore islands might be abandoned to the Reds on two conditions:

1. That the abandonment would bring a guaranteed peace to Asia, and

2. That Nationalist China would agree to the move.

The Nationalists may not agree under any circumstances. The islands are the last important outposts they hold off the Red mainland.

Dulles reaffirmed U.S. determination to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, as pledged in the mutual defense pact ratified earlier today.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek and U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles probed the complex problems of Formosa and the offshore islands today after their two countries became formal allies against aggression in the west Pacific.

They met at Chiang's Western-style home in Scholars' Forest, in the northern suburbs of Taipei. Each was accompanied by top military and diplomatic advisers.

No hint of their discussions had leaked out by late afternoon. But there was no doubt they went deep into the question of Quemoy and the Matsus, the last important Nationalist outposts off the Red mainland.

Dulles earlier signed the documents that brought into effect the mutual defense pact between the United States and Nationalist China. Foreign Minister George Yeh signed for the Nationalists.

The treaty itself was signed in Washington Dec. 2. It commits the United States to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, gives the United States the right to dispose of the islands and sea forces in and about the area, and binds the two countries to act against an armed attack in the west Pacific.

Dulles said: "Increasingly through the world, free men have found it necessary to unite in the cause of freedom. Here, where Chinese Communist aggression threatens we pledge our mutual effort in serene confidence that the cause of freedom will prevail."

Yeh said: "This historic document will, I am sure, not only be a powerful deterrent to further Communist aggression in the west Pacific area, but also serve to strengthen the over-all position of the free world in its efforts to achieve lasting peace and security."

After the ratification ceremony, President and Secretary gave a luncheon for Secretary and Mrs. Dulles.

Other luncheon guests included Adm. Robert B. Carney, U.S. chief of naval operations; Adm. Felix B. Stump, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet; and Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Explosions Renew Volcanic Activity

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—Massive underground explosions ruptured the scarred tip of eastern Hawaii Island anew, spewing a fountain of molten lava 200 feet into the air.

Burning rocks poured out of the ground along a half-mile strip, slashing a flaming path across fields and sugar cane.

The National Guard sent its trucks rumbling to the rescue of some 100 persons whose escape routes were threatened.

About 400 others already had taken from their homes. Curtis Kamaal was surveying road fissures yesterday afternoon when the earth burst open again.

"It was just like touching off a half-mile string of gunpowder," he said. "I heard the roar of lava underground. The earth was shaking."

The suddenness of the eruption was like a powder train. In two minutes the whole half-mile stretch was blazing lava 100 feet in the air.

One eruption of red-hot rock landed only 200 yards from 13 plantation workers. All escaped uninjured.

The entire area was like a giant powder keg with dozens of burning fuses.

It was anyone's guess where one would erupt.

Yesterday's fissure had stretched out last night for a blazing mile of spurting lava which moved relentlessly toward desolate Kapoho village, occupied only by its police and civil defense officials.

Fifteen fingers spread northeast and southeast of Kapoho. Into the night, lava fountains spouted up to 200 feet, spilled over, spread out on both sides of the flaming fissure, and pushed down toward Kapoho and the ocean at an estimated 350 feet an hour.

The main lava river spread 400 yards across. From a knoll 800 yards above, the lava almost unbelievably in its awesome, savage splendor. The whole corner of the island was lighted by the fiery glare.

Trying to breathe amid the choking sulphur fumes was like trying to smoke matches instead of cigarettes.

Postal Officials Talk Pitt Needs

William A. Taylor, superintendent of transportation for the Post Office Department, was in Greenville yesterday to discuss mail service in Pitt County with Greenville Postmaster J. Knott Proctor and other local postal officials.

Taylor's visit here resulted from a request by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner who asked Taylor to look into complaints of mail service to rural areas in Pitt and other counties in this area.

Postmasters from several Pitt communities have reported a large number of complaints about mail service since last August when the Post Office Department revamped service in this area by removing a number of star routes and consolidating transportation centers at a few points.

Accompanying Taylor on the visit was G. C. Martin of Greensboro, superintendent of mail transportation for this area. Proctor said problems of the entire scope of mail service were discussed with the representatives from Washington and Greensboro. Local postal officials suggested to the department representatives several changes to improve mail transportation throughout the county.

Postmaster Proctor said this morning he thinks there will be some improvement in mail transportation in this area as a result of the conference yesterday, and added that improved transportation will enable the individual post offices to give better service to the people of the various communities.

The visit by Taylor and Martin yesterday was the first visit to Pitt County by high officials in the transportation division of the Post Office Department since the sweeping changes in mail transportation patterns were made last August.

Taylor is expected to visit other counties in this area before returning to Washington.

Boy Shaken Up When Bicycle And Car Collide

An 8-year-old boy was shaken up yesterday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding was involved in a collision with an automobile in residential Greenville.

John Flanagan, 1202 Eastern Street, the operator of the bike, sustained a sprained ankle and several bruises, according to his doctor, and it is not yet known if any bones were broken, but "in all probability none were."

The operator of the car involved was Sara W. Sutton, 906 College Apts., Greenville.

Police Officer T. E. Gladson investigated the collision.

Sentenced

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—M-Sgt. William H. Olson was sentenced here today to two years confinement at hard labor, and dishonorable discharge, following his conviction by a court-martial on charges of collaborating with the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea.

The sentence also calls for forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

Olson stood erect as his sentence was read, saluted the court, and then resumed his seat at the table with his counsel and bowed his head in his hands.

The 46-year-old Army career man was convicted last night on three of the seven specifications against him. He was convicted of making a Christmas Day anti-American speech, of praising enemy treatment of prisoners of war, and of writing pro-Communist articles for the prison camp newspaper.

Seeking Help In Pollution Fight

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges and the Legislature were asked yesterday to help do something about pollution of the Roanoke River.

A delegation of Roanoke Valley residents, headed by Eugene S. Edwards of Halifax, presented the governor a petition signed by 2,000 persons.

The governor was told that pollution from the Roanoke Rapids area, mainly from a paper plant, was the equivalent to the sewage disposal of a city of half a million as undetermined.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs when informed of Austin's statement indicated his department is investigating the fire.

"So far we haven't found anything that would indicate that it was set by anyone," the chief declared.

The early morning fire at the northside restaurant was said to have started around a ventilating fan in the kitchen of the building. The exhaust pipe for the fan ran over a small storage room and the fire was said to have burned through the ceiling of the building.

Fire fighters of necessity ripped into the ceiling in extinguishing the blaze. Department officials said most of the damage to the building was caused by heavy smoke and water.

Damage to equipment was reported to have been uninsured. The restaurant is operated by L. D. Austin. Fire fighters stretched heavy hose lines to the building but were unable to extinguish the blaze with high pressure jets without using gas.

Local Restaurant Damaged By Blaze In Early Morning Hours

A fire which caused considerable smoke damage to the Double "N" Restaurant on North Greene Street about 3:30 a.m. this morning damaged a busy day for local fire fighters.

Firemen answered seven calls to grass and other fires during the day and night.

L. D. Austin, operator of Double "N" Restaurant, said this morning that he felt the fire which struck his restaurant last night was "no accident."

The restaurant operator said this morning: "I don't know what the police department said about it, but as far as I'm concerned it wasn't an accident."

Austin said in cleaning up this morning he had found considerable fire damage to the building. He stated that he would not be able to open today and did not know when the northside restaurant will be able to reopen for business.

Cause of the blaze has been listed as undetermined.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. M. Mumford, and the treasurer's report was given by Mr. J. L. Rollins. Mrs. Williams' sixth and seventh grades won the prize for the most parents present. It was announced that the Winterville Band Boosters Club was sponsoring a concert by the Winterville-Ayden Band March 11 at the Winterville School.

The program consisted of an operetta presented by the grammar grades, entitled "Little Gypsy Gay." The colorful costumes, good acting, folk dances, lively group singing and special numbers were combined in a pleasing way, which made the program very enjoyable.

Girl Scout Leaders

Asked To Get Boxes
Girl Scout cookies for the organization's annual sale arrive tomorrow, and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, executive director, requests all leaders to go by the Rotary Club between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to get the boxes for their troops.

All local troops are participating in the sale, which will last for a week.

Bethel Bridge Clubs Meet

BETHEL—Mrs. X. E. Manning entertained members of her bridge club at her home on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Lovely vases of Japanese quince and jonquils were used to decorate the home.

Between the second and third progression, the guests enjoyed an attractive and delicious hostess plate with Coca-Cola.

Those who attended the party were Mesdames J. E. Bunting, Z. V. Bunting, F. F. Pollard, Alton Carson, W. J. Smith, Larry James, Wadie Ward and Miss Camille Station.

Miss Station was the winner of the high score prize.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. Walter Clayton Whitehurst entertained her bridge club. The spacious home was decorated with lovely arrangements of Japanese quince, jonquils and camellias.

Between the progressions a delectable chicken salad plate with coffee and Coca-Cola was served to the guests.

At the end of play Mrs. X. E. Manning was the recipient of the high score prize.

Others who played were Mesdames R. J. Whitehurst, J. C. Wynne, Jr., Joe Butterworth, Clayton Carson, F. F. Pollard, Wadie Ward, and the hostess.

Mrs. Wilkerson Gives Program For Clio Book Club

Mrs. W. S. Best was gracious hostess to the Clio Book Club at her home on South Harding Street, Tuesday, March 1.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Luther Moore, president, at which time new officers were chosen for the coming year.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith was elected president; Mrs. Ed Wilkerson, vice-president; Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, secretary; and Mrs. Clara Moya Shackell, treasurer.

The President then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Lindsey Wilkerson, who gave the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Wilkerson showed to the club members colored slides of the Winterville Museum at Winterville, Delaware, with most interesting and instructive comments on the museum.

The museum, built in 1839 by James Antoine Bidermann, was named by its builder for his ancestral home in Winterville, Switzerland. Bidermann had married the great-aunt of Henry Francis du Pont in 1814, and the house has remained in the family since it was built.

In 1927 Mr. du Pont began to build the Winterville Museum by installing in the family home in their original form parts of houses collected from New Hampshire to North Carolina. He worked with the purpose of showing Americans how Americans really lived, as well as America's rich tradition of craftsmanship in architecture and the household arts.

The museum, in about 100 period rooms, covers the domestic scene from 1640 to 1840. It represents the largest and richest assemblage of American decorative arts, especially furniture, ever brought together.

Following the program a delicious salad course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, Mrs. Ed. Wilkerson, and Mrs. John Adams.

After the exchange of books by the members the meeting adjourned.

30 Years Ago Today

March 3, 1923

RALEIGH—Out to conform to the Revenue Bill, the appropriation measure carrying an annual total of $11,978,408 will be received today by the Full Joint Appropriation Committee. Educational institutions will suffer the heaviest cut if the schedules for the bill are adhered to. The total requests made by all institutions and departments exceeds $40,000,000 for the two year period (the commission reduced these to approximately $28,000,000 and the subcommittee has further reduced them to approximately $24,000,000 for the biennial).

Following are some of the institutions affected: East Carolina Teachers College (1926) $140,000; (1927) $150,000. North Carolina College for Women (1926) $400,000; (1927) $440,000.

Dr. Williamson Is Speaker For Professional Meet

FOUNTAIN—The faculty of the Fountain School held its February professional meeting in the reception room of the Fountain School on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Koma Lee Walker and Mrs. Emily Mercer had charge of the program. "Science in the Elementary School" was the topic for study. Dr. Eva Williamson, Miss Annie Lee Jones and Supt. D. H. Conley. Miss Jones very graciously introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Williamson, who gave an inspiring and informative talk on "Science in the Elementary School."

A conclusion of the talk, Mrs. Walker presented gifts to Dr. Williamson and Miss Jones.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Mercer served delicious refreshments.

Dr. McNiel Gives Talk On European Tour

The Lydia Wooten Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its February meeting in the home of Mrs. John Clark with Mrs. Ed Ratcliffe serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. Maxwell had the devotions, using as her subject "Prayer." She brought this subject to the class—"Prayer is to discover God's will, not to change it." In closing, she read two of Peter Marshall's prayers.

Mrs. Maxwell, the president, welcomed the members and visitors, who were Dr. McNiel, Mrs. W. M. Howard, Jr., Miss Shirley Clark and little "Boots" Askew.

Old and new business was brought up for discussion and disposed of. The class will have charge of the devotions on Sunday mornings in the Sanctuary during the month of March.

The meeting was then turned over to Dr. McNiel, of the Home Economics Department of East Carolina College. She gave a most informative talk on two of the places she visited during her European tour. She showed colored slides of the island of Guernsey and a home in Bavaria, Germany. The comments on the customs and home life were particularly interesting.

During the social hour delicious cherry tarts and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Chatham Club Hears Review Of "The Bad Seed"

Mrs. C. E. Blair was hostess to the Chatham Book Club at her home on Holly Street on Tuesday, March 1. A delicious salad course with nuts and coffee was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Durward Tucker.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen conducted a short business meeting and then turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. Frank Bendall, who introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Agnes Barrett of East Carolina College. The club was most fortunate to have Mrs. Barrett and she gave in a most interesting manner Maxwell Anderson's successful Broadway thriller, "The Bad Seed." This play adapted from a novel by William March is based on a debatable premise, that a child's homicidal tendencies are the result of inheritance.

The anguished heroine is confronted by an appalling fact and tormented by a dreadful dilemma. Her angelic young daughter is a murderer. She has killed an old lady, and a schoolboy playmate, and so the mother is forced to resolve the horrifying conflict between love for her child and her responsibilities to society.

After hearing Mrs. Barrett the club members felt they had really seen a Broadway play. The books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Life and Customs Of Japanese Shown With Slides

The Delphin Book Club met on Tuesday afternoon, March 1, with Mrs. Robert Messner at the home of the hostess' mother, Mrs. C. G. Hilton. Lovely arrangements of spring flowers were used to decorate the home.

Prior to a short business meeting Mrs. Messner served iced drinks, nuts and a delicious ice cream cake roll topped with whipped cream and cherries.

Mr. Robert Messner then gave a most informative illustrated lecture on Japan with slides of the life and customs of the people. Scenes were shown of tea houses, parties, street scenes, sport scenes, also of the Imperial palace and the grounds around the palace.

The Japanese people were portrayed in their native costumes.

Following the talk on the slides, guests were then invited into the dining room to see the Japanese souvenirs which were representative of the arts and customs of Japan. The relics were explained by Mr. Messner.

The books were exchanged and the meeting was adjourned.

The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr., Mrs. Clifton H. Edwards Jr. and Mrs. Harold Seifridge.

Greenville Chapter O. E. S. Has Election Of Officers

Greenville Chapter 149 Order of the Eastern Star held its annual meeting Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple at which time Mrs. George Smith was elected worthy matron and George Smith elected worthy patron for the ensuing year.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. John Carrington, associate matron; John Carrington, associate patron; Miss Alya Ray Taylor, secretary; Clifton Stokes, treasurer; Mrs. Martha Forrest, conductress; Mrs. Julia Harris, associate conductress.

The chapter was opened in ritualistic form with Mrs. J. B. Jackson presiding. John Carrington led the flag ceremony.

During the business meeting a motion was made to have the installation of officers open to the public. The tentative date is March 22 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Fenner Allen discussed plans for the Scottish Rite banquet. The worthy matron named members to serve with Mrs. Allen. Mrs. Helen Semmons is co-chairman. Mrs. Martha Forrest and Letha Belle Harrington were put in charge of homemade cakes. Mrs. Sadie Carrington, Mrs. Eula Cannon and Miss Alya Ray Taylor will be in charge of favors and decorations.

The chapter voted to send a contribution to the Oxford Orphanage Easter egg fund.

Mrs. Jackson complimented all officers on the beautiful initiation held on January 15. She announced that yearly reports will be given at the next meeting.

In the sick and cheer report it was announced that Miss Josephine Ratcliffe is in Norfolk General Hospital, Norfolk, Va.

Among those who attended were Carolyn Cooper, Jenny Whitehurst, Bryan Latham, Jean Stewart, Lona Manning, Shirley Jean Whitehurst, Mary Frances Whitehurst, Barbara Whitchard, Barbara Dall, Anne Stocks, Janice Doughtie, Janie Rollins, Becky Keel, Shirley Ann Hardy, Shirley Wilson, Patricia Whitehurst, Loretta Bullock, Connie Garrenton, Durwood White, Mary Jo Wynne, and Mary Ann Manning.

The sponsor for this club is Miss Janice Albritton.

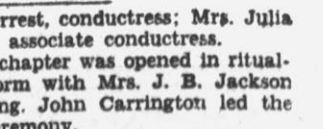

Musical Program Presented Monday At Men's Club Meet

BETHEL—The regular monthly meeting of the Methodist Men's Club met in the Fellowship Hall of the church on Monday night at 8:30.

After the invocation was given by the Rev. C. P. Womack, a delicious fried chicken supper was served by members of the Sallie Tucker Circle.

Due to the absence of the president, Dave Speir, Mr. Walter Latham read a few verses of scripture and closed his devotion with a prayer.

Mr. Clifton Everett, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Tom Andrews Jr., who gave an enjoyable musical program. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt. The selections which she sang were "Deep In My Heart, Dear," "Serenade," "One Kiss," "Sweethearts," and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" by Sigmund Romberg.

Pitt And Tobacco Go Hand-In-Hand

Has the tobacco industry in the United States reached its peak?

One might ask that question after reading recent reports of declining cigarette consumption during the past year, a decrease in export of flue-cured tobacco and predictions of stiffer competition for American flue-cured tobacco in the world market.

Pitt County can not help but take a keen interest in these reports. After all, tobacco is our principal source of income. If the tobacco industry begins to decline, no area is likely to suffer more than Pitt, because this county produces more bright leaf tobacco than any other county in the world.

We do not expect the tobacco industry to hit the skids. Yet minor declines in the industry generally could cause serious economic repercussions in Pitt County. Pitt, which depends so heavily upon tobacco production, must take cognizance of the overall situation.

For the second straight year cigarette consumption declined in 1954 and the total number of cigarettes consumed was 4.6 per cent below the 1953 level. Flue-cured tobacco exports last year declined 2.1 per cent as compared with 1953. Stockpiles of tobacco held by the Stabilization Corporation are at an all time high. With the adaptation of improved farming methods tobacco production per acre is reaching new peaks—and so is cost of production.

Those conditions point to a declining demand for tobacco which will mean tobacco acreage allotments in the future may have to be cut drastically compared with present levels. If that happens, Pitt County must be ready to supplement by other crops and other jobs the income loss from tobacco.

We cannot overlook the fact that tobacco comprises between 75 and 85 per cent of the total value of the 11 principal agricultural crops of Pitt County. If tobacco begins to slip—as seems to be the case—Pitt County's economy may reasonable be expected to begin a downward trend in the same proportion.

In view of the tobacco situation Pitt County must seek to cope with the condition in a number of practical ways for its own economic well being. Every support must be given the tobacco program, both from the standpoint of boosting sales at home and abroad and rigidly abiding by the production quotas. At the same time Pitt must stress its agricultural diversification program to provide supplement incomes to off-set possible losses in tobacco production; and likewise emphasize its industrial development as a supplement to agriculture.

Now We're Getting Somewhere

It is encouraging to see that the rural mail situation in Pitt County—which has been fouled up in many places since transportation patterns were changed last summer—is getting the attention of major officials in the Post Office Department.

The visit of William A. Taylor, superintendent of mails for the Post Office Department, has insured the people of the county of at least getting their complaints first hand to one of the officials who has the overall responsibility for mail transportation.

The Reflector is confident that Mr. Taylor, by seeking information on mail service at the grass roots level, has secured many viewpoints on the rural mail service throughout Pitt County that he could never have gotten by staying in the nation's capital. We have high hopes that the information Mr. Taylor has received from his visit to Pitt and other counties in Eastern Carolina will result in a greatly improved mail service particularly to the rural sections and smaller communities in this area of the state.

On the basis of his visit, Mr. Taylor probably will recommend several changes which will improve the mail service in this area. Some may be forthcoming within the next few weeks; others may take longer because of the complexity of problems involved in the changes.

The Reflector commends Congressman Herbert Bonner for bringing to the attention of the Post Office Department the many complaints which have been voiced in this area concerning the mail service. It is gratifying to see that the Post Office Department is giving the matter attention.

Strength for the Day

IN JUST WHAT POSITION ARE YOU? The flier in the cockpit of an airplane may sometimes be upside down and not know it; which teaches us many things, because there are people everywhere that are traveling upside down and are unaware of the fact.

Probably we are all guilty of this at times. We get a prejudice and hang on to it until we believe that it is a righteous duty imposed upon us by God. We come to excuse ourselves about some evil which we practice and soon we have prettied up this evil until it is a virtue. The pages of history are marred by the outrages committed by people who looked upon goodness and progress and called them evil retrogression. There are times in our lives when we do all these things. Some people are fortunate enough to behave this way all the time. They fly through life upside down and haven't the faintest idea that they are doing so.

But an aviator is trained to become quickly conscious of this upside down position if he gets into it. Only a born dummy would go along flying in the upside down position very long without knowing it. We all get turned upside down at times. But if we have any brains or any religious faith, we will be alerted to our position sooner or later, and do something about it.

There is no excuse for such stupidity—either in the field of aviation or of morals or of politics or of religious faith.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Is this Army Justice? Numerous angry members of Congress have addressed this question to President Eisenhower and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson as a result of two Texas court-martial decisions that showed rank discrimination as between Air Force officers and enlisted men in Capt. Hill opinion. It explains fall-off in enlistments and opposition to any kind of compulsory military training.

At Carswell Field near Fort Worth, two enlisted men were sentenced to five years of hard labor, with a dishonorable discharge and full forfeiture of pay. They were given this extreme and harsh treatment simply for failure to salute an officer.

The defendants claimed to be members of Jehovah's Witnesses, a sect which prohibits saluting of any person or object, including the flag, and also recitation of the oath of allegiance. It was argued in vain by the defense that these considerations should have been permitted to mitigate severity of the sentence.

On almost the same day, at Laredo, Tex., an Air Force Colonel came to judgment. He had sent an airplane to Harrisburg, Pa., with enlisted men and tools to repair machinery he had bought for his farm from war surplus.

He also ordered the plane to stop off at his home in Kokomo, Ind., and at Marion in the same state. He admitted that he had made unauthorized use of the plane and personnel several times. It is probable that the cost to the Air Force amounted to several thousand dollars. In other words, he spent the taxpayers money by throwing his rank and brass around. For this offense, which would be criminal if committed by a civilian, he suffered only a reprimand and forfeiture of $1,800 in pay. No hard labor, no reduction in rank, no dishonorable discharge. Merely a slap on the wrist.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, MINN., DAILY JOURNAL—The pay-your-own-way spirit which still dominates a sizeable portion of our agricultural population was dramatically demonstrated when Minnesota's dairy farmers repaid an 18-year-old debt of $20,000 to the state treasury, thereby demonstrating a respect for public funds that is all too rare in our times.

BROWNSVILLE, PA., TELEGRAPH—"Life is rapidly becoming more and more predictable. Economic forecasts are forever charting curves on the unemployment level for next August; insurance companies foretell life expectancy with astonishing accuracy; widget manufacturers predict, with a small margin of error, how many widgets the public will buy in 1953. All this makes life more secure but less interesting, since the unexpected adds zest to the stew."

Irate Over Military Justice

WASHINGTON—Is this Army Justice? Numerous angry members of Congress have addressed this question to President Eisenhower and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson as a result of two Texas court-martial decisions that showed rank discrimination as between Air Force officers and enlisted men in Capt. Hill opinion. It explains fall-off in enlistments and opposition to any kind of compulsory military training.

At Carswell Field near Fort Worth, two enlisted men were sentenced to five years of hard labor, with a dishonorable discharge and full forfeiture of pay. They were given this extreme and harsh treatment simply for failure to salute an officer.

On almost the same day, at Laredo, Tex., an Air Force Colonel came to judgment. He had sent an airplane to Harrisburg, Pa., with enlisted men and tools to repair machinery he had bought for his farm from war surplus.

CONTROVERSIAL U. N. CLAUSE—The nomination of John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court has given the United States Senate its first full-dress chance to show its hostility to a provision of the United Nations Charter which it ratified so hopefully and blindly in the early postwar years.

This now controversial clause denounces and forbids any U. N. member's discrimination against minority groups because of their color, creed, race, etc. It was adopted as a condemnation of Hitler's persecution of the Jews.

But in many cases in the United States, it has been used as superseding Federal, state and municipal laws affecting allegedly discriminatory contracts. It has been raised against California land laws, racial housing or real estate covenants and similar arrangements.

OPINION MIGHT TIP SCALES—The Supreme Court has divided four-to-four on several contentions of this kind, although it has never ruled directly on the application of this U. N. provision to domestic legislation. Because of its membership in several Atlantic Union and "one world" bodies, Harlan has been held suspect on this issue. His vote might tip the evenly split high tribunal's scales one way or the other.

From committee questioning of the nominee, it is evident that a majority oppose the idea that the 10-year-old international body's by-laws should have precedence over statutes adopted by Congress, State Legislatures or City Councils. As the narrow defeat of the Bricker Amendment revealed, a Senate majority would vote against any such interpretation. It is probable that Harlan will be confirmed. But the Senate, as it frequently does, has served notice on the politically minded men on the Supreme Court that it will stand for no judicial foolishness on this "one world" scheme.

Somebody Told Me

Advocates Have Same Points

Last night at the neighborhood bridge club George Laureates and Burney Warren talked golf. Unqualified to participate in the conversation, I sat and chuckled inside.

George discussed a pointer he picked up in a book that helped his iron shots. Burney demonstrated a new stance. Together they studied illustrated photographs of one of the professionals hitting a wood shot, pointing out the position of his left arm at various stages of the swing.

This particular conversation illustrates the value of sports. Think what golf means to the golfer, or fishing to the fisherman. Think how much more he gets out of life than the non-enthusiast.

Furthermore, you can always get a bright outline of a particular pastime by talking with the participants. They will tell you these things about golf:

1. It isn't very expensive.
2. It doesn't take a great deal of your time; you can squeeze in 18 holes now and then without effort.
3. It never rains or snows on the golf course; it's never too cold or hot out there.
4. There are no drawbacks, period!

It wouldn't be fair if I didn't admit that I have the same approach to short wave radio:

1. It isn't very expensive. (A first class station costs from $800 up.)
2. It doesn't take a great deal of your time. (There is someone on the air to talk to every minute of the day or night. If you're crazy enough you can stay up all night.)
3. There are no particular problems to keeping a station on the air. (Unless you are an electronics expert, now and then the transmitter will break down and you have to call for help.)
4. There are no drawbacks, period! (It's like a disease. You're never satisfied; always wanting to improve your station or buy new equipment.)

The funniest thing to me about sports and hobbies is that the fisherman will tell you the golfer is crazy and the golfer will vow that the fisherman is crazier.

And I thank you,
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

A NEW ALLY ARISES (Rocky Mount Telegram)

West Germany's Bundestag, which is the lower house of the German Parliament comparable to our U. S. House of Representatives, has approved by overwhelming majorities the treaties which closely bind West Germany to the Western European defenses against Soviet Russia. The issue now moves to the upper German house where no difficulty is expected, and where early passage seems certain.

Specifically the West German legislature has agreed:

1. To end the Western occupation of West Germany; restore its sovereignty; and lift the ban against German rearmament.
2. To authorize the United States, Britain and France to station 400,000 troops in the Bonn Republic as assurance of its defense.
3. To admit West Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and the West European Military Union.

4. To permit for the time being the coal-rich, industrialized Saar area to become an autonomous Europeanized territory under French economic control.

When all factors are considered, the passage of these provisions is a truly remarkable achievement for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who emerges as one of the great European statesmen of this Century.

In the first place, two shattering World Wars have left the militant Germans in a pacifist mood. Many want to be neutral in the hope thereby of avoiding involvement in the East-West struggle. The anti-war spirit among the West Germans accounted for much opposition to joining the Western defense. But, perhaps the most remarkable thing about the weekend action was the voluntary abandonment of some 960,000 German-speaking Saarlanders and some 991 square miles of heavily industrialized territory. To appreciate what this means, let us imagine that we were called on to turn over the coal-iron Pittsburgh complex to the United Nations. However, this was the price Adenauer had to pay for French consent to German sovereignty and rearmament. Nevertheless, the Saar question caused a revolt in the four-party German government and for a time, threatened the entire issue, until a resolution was passed expressing German determination that the issue is not closed.

The German action demonstrates that the Germans, though reluctant, are nevertheless aware of realities in the struggle with Communism and are prepared to join us in repulsing further Communist advances in Europe.

This is great and good news for Free World and it is another proof that West Germany, not France, is to become the keystone of our defense of Europe.

Forecasts Of Early Adjournment Are Being Reversed

By LYNN NISBET

TRENDS — President Luther Barnhardt of the Senate and Speaker Larry I. Moore Jr. of the House have been quoted within the past few days as predicting sine die adjournment of the 1955 General Assembly before April 30.

They could be right, although lots of people will insist the session is likely to run several weeks beyond that time. Forecasts of early adjournment were made two weeks ago, based upon the trend, quite obvious at the time, toward agreement on extending coverage of the general sales tax to foods and other necessities now exempt, and removal of the $15 tax sales tax limit.

Since bills have been introduced designed to extend the general sales tax (although none of the proposals so far would levy a tax on every sale) there has been a change amounting almost to reversal of the former attitude. Two weeks ago the special tax on every product sold except tobacco products proposed by the advisory budget commission were accorded only slim chance of passage. As of the time this is being written these levies appear to have equal, perhaps slightly better, chance than a sales tax on basic foods, feeds and fertilizer.

The radio-television "fireside chat" or "report to the people" by Governor Hodges Wednesday night is credited with tremendous influence in behalf of the budget proposals. At this time the budget recommendations are accorded better chance than any of the other bills offered. Alternatives so far offered would impose a tax levy on hotel and motel rooms, on real estate transfers, and on many items not now included in sales tax coverage, such as food feeds, fertilizers, and specified farm and industrial machinery. There is considerable variance in the Worthington House bill and the Bunn Senate bill on sales tax extension, but neither suggest an all-out tax on every product sold.

ACROSS BOARD — There is still talk about an all-out across-the-board sales tax bill, but it has not been presented. Many legislators conceded that a one percent tax on every sale or transaction—baby food, medicine, basic foods, soft drinks and tobacco products, livestock and poultry feeds, farm and industrial machinery, real estate, hotel and motel rooms, legal and medical and other professional services—would be fair and easy to administer, and would provide the required revenue.

So far no member of the General Assembly has had the "guts" to offer so comprehensive and all-inclusive tax bill. There has been some talk about cutting appropriations, but no body had come up with a for-mal bill to effectuate that idea of economy. There may be some small additions to the total spending proposed by the budget group but the general fund total is expected to be held below $435 million.

It was facetiously suggested when the budget report was made public that everybody will like it except the lobbyists and the General Assembly. The back home folks are being heard from now.

Better Advertising

By ELMER ROESSNER

While retail advertising is superior to national advertising in many ways, there is still room for improvement, according to Howard F. Abrahams, manager of the Sales promotion division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. He offers eight rules by which it may be made more effective. They are:

1. Budget and schedule your advertising to match the tide of consumer demand. While a store should spend slightly more than normal advertising expenditures in weak periods, advertising should concentrate on advertising things that people are about to buy at that time of the year.

2. Pick the right items. Unless an item is right in style, price, quality, size, color and unless it is offered at the time customers want to buy it, and unless it is stocked in depth, pass it by.

3. Dig out the facts about the merchandise. List every known factor, good or bad on a work sheet.

4. Decide on the major benefit to the customer. It may be money, popularity, beauty, comfort, fun, leisure, loss of praise, health, leadership or advancement.

5. Feature the most important benefit in your headline.

6. Amplify this main benefit in a subhead if space permits.

7. Repeat the benefit and spell out details in the copy.

8. Ask for the order.

Mr. Abrahams says that retail advertising is better than national "because it does not indulge in various forms of the torrid embrace, the telling timber grovers how they can avoid overpaying taxes to the Treasury Department. It's free; write Forest Service, U.S.-D.A., Washington 25, D.C."

It does not use gimmick language."

On this last point, he adds: "You don't see stores creating fancy-pants words which are supposed to represent a miracle, magic ingredients that makes a product a world beater." In much manufacturer advertising, he says, "They sell the sizzle and not the steak and offer hoop-dee-doo, that super exclusive, terrific, magic chemical which makes your teeth whiter than white."

UNION'S OWN FUND GUARANTEES WAGES

The annual wage is still in the talking stage in Detroit, but it exists in a practical form in New York City, according to a state-financed study by Maurice F. Neufeld.

This guarantee results from the establishment of an Annuity Plan by Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Under the plan, $4 per day per worker in given categories is paid into a trust fund by employer. An account is set up in the name of each worker and the fund pays out 13 different kinds of benefits, including $25 a week unemployment pay, over and above what the state pays.

TIMBER GROWERS TOOD HOW TO CUT TAX BILLS

Now we have one government department telling people how to get along with another.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has issued a eight-page booklet, "Federal Income Tax Tips for the Small Timber Owner," telling timber growers how they can avoid overpaying taxes to the Treasury Department. It's free; write Forest Service, U.S.-D.A., Washington 25, D.C.

There's Profit In Male Market

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Anybody can make money today who can show men a way to compete successfully with women.

At least partly because of this fact, Arthur O. Bregstein is reaping a fortune. He is doing it by operating on the theory that, while a wife may be at home on her range, there is no reason why a husband can't be a king in the family kitchen, too—if cooking is made so simple even his feeble masculine mind can learn how to do it.

Bregstein found the answer in the new rotisserie-type electric broilers which in just a few years have created a culinary revolution in America.

In 1950 Bregstein, who had begun his career as a representative for concert artists, was operating a small electrical firm that made sockets and switches on a one-floor Manhattan loft. One night, while watching chickens turning on a gas-fired rotisserie in a French restaurant, he mused:

"If a woman could do that at home wouldn't it be wonderful?"

He investigated and found home rotisseries had been sold in this country at least since 1933, but had never caught on widely. For a thing, they were too complicated.

Bregstein put some engineers to work on the project. Two years later he had developed a simplified, portable electric broiler that cooked with infrared rays and had automatic controls and timing devices.

"We had to set up a factory to make our own slow-turning, fractional horsepower motor," he recalled. "But the most expensive problem was how to seed the market."

This is sales jargon for creating a customer demand. One of his ideas was to hire a home economics expert to write a cookbook giving hundreds of menus. The book now is in its second million printing.

"Hundreds of thousands of people had the cookbook before they had a broiler," Bregstein said.

The electric broiler industry had about nine million dollars in retail sales volume in 1951. Last year it was approximately 150 million, and Bregstein predicts it will reach 300 million in 1955. He estimates his own firm, the Roto-Broil Corp., field of nine concerns in the large, does about 45 per cent of the total volume.

"On top of that," he said, "I've sold homes in America now has an electric broiler," he said contentedly, "and the real market still lies ahead. The industry is growing as rapidly as television or air conditioning."

Bregstein himself was amazed at the success of his surveys that the broilers had won as much favor with husbands as with wives.

"But it is easy to see why," he said. "Men hate to bend down. That's one reason they don't like to learn from surveys that the broilers had won as much favor with husbands as with wives."

"A man likes anything he can be successful at. There are so many automatic controls in the new electric broilers that the average husband can't make a mistake in cooking a steak or chicken. He brags he can cook as well as his wife. Actually, of course, he can't. His wife knows the credit should go to the machine but she isn't going to point that out. After all, she's got him doing half the cooking."

Bachelors, who have found they can't use the broilers to cook their steaks as besides, they want turned out to be another market.

"A bachelor now doesn't have to depend on his earnings—he can invite his girl to come up and see his shish kebabs," said Bregstein smiling. "He can broil her a meal in the living room while sitting on the sofa holding her hands—that is if he can keep his mind on it. After all, the way to a girl's heart is through her stomach."

His engineers now are tackling the problem of designing new type infrared broilers suitable for restaurants, house trailers and commercial airlines.

The correspondence from back home is helping to shape sentiment in the Legislature and is largely responsible for the trend away from an all-coverage sales tax. An experienced representative said the other day "one sincere letter from a housewife is worth three resolutions of a chamber of commerce."

HIGHWAYS — There has been very little outspoken support of bills designed to transfer any part of the highway fund to the general fund. The trend is already in effect, to take anything away from the highways. Bills to give the receipts from sale of license tags to the general fund, and to double the cost of tags giving the increase to the general fund, have few friends. Many legislators profess sympathy for se-

Sears-King Nuptials Are Solemnized In Norfolk

The marriage of Miss Jean Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holton King of Greenville, to Robert Towse Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond Sears Sr. of Norfolk, Va., took place Saturday, February 26, at 4:30 p.m. in the Larchmont Methodist Church, Norfolk. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. McIntyre in a setting of palms, cathedral candles and altar vases of mixed white flowers. William T. Killgrove, organist of the church, played the wedding music and Mrs. Sidney Dunn, cousin of the bride, and Edwin Goddard sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of candlelight bridal satin, fashioned with a drop shoulder neckline with bertha of rose point lace and very full skirt forming a cathedral train. Her veil of French illusion was arranged from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a puff of white sweetheart roses centered with a white orchid and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Bruce H. Baker, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of aqua crystallette with a shoulder framing stand-up bertha and elongated waistline. She wore a matching velvet bandeau trimmed with sequins and a nose veil and carried a cascade bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia King Perkins of Greenville, cousin of the bride. Mrs. John Sears Jr., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. Walter McDaniel and Mrs. William Beard, all of Norfolk. They wore gowns made like that of the honor attendant's and carried cascade bouquets of mixed spring flowers.

John Raymond Sears was best man for his son and the groomsmen were Howard King Jr. of Greenville, brother of the bride, John Sears Jr., brother of the bridegroom, William Beard and Walter McDaniel, all of Norfolk.

The bride's mother wore a gown of Sierra rose lace with a matching chiffon skirt and a corsage of deep pink cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of Dior blue silk taffeta trimmed with matching Chantilly lace and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

After a reception at the Norfolk Yacht and Country Club, the couple left for a Northern wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Greenville. For traveling the bride wore an ocean blue suit with navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Sara Byers, maternal grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. W. Reid Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gavford, R. W. King, Mrs. Emily Moyer Hadley and Bruce H. Baker, all of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Galbreath of Kingston, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Young of Weaverville, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Earle Harris and Miss Beth Harris of Baltimore, Md.

Joint Hostesses To Wesley Philathea

The Wesley Philathea Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting the night of Feb. 28th in the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway. Co-hostesses were Mesdames W. J. Hardee, Mollie Mallison, K. T. Futrell, Martin Swartz. Following the devotional program, in which all participated, some items of business were attended to, the most important being the bi-annual offering for the support of a little girl in the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh.

During the social hour delicious refreshments were served.

Jaycees Obtain Bob Bale Course

Local Junior Chamber of Commerce has booked the Bob Bale Course in Personal Development and Salesmanship for March 22-24, president Frank Dail announced today.

The three-night lecture course will be conducted by Bale, who is nationally known as a training specialist, lecturer and humorist. He is approved and recommended by the National Sales Executives Club, and has conducted this course many times in North Carolina cities.

The classes will be held here in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church at 7:30 each evening, and the public is invited to attend. Interested persons may enroll with any Jaycee. Co-chairmen in charge of arrangements are Dan Saleed and Joe Stone.

The course is described as a practical and enjoyable one which shows how to develop a more attractive personality, how to sell more effectively, how to remember names and faces, how to become an effective public speaker, how to increase the vocabulary, how to keep energy high, the techniques of leadership and how to get along with people.

Dail stated the Jaycees feel this type training is timely as "We are in a year's market and must have better selling."

In addition to the lectures, each student will be given a book, "This Way to Leadership," containing notes on all the lectures given in class and a "32 Week Follow-Up," which is a plan for making the rules learned a part of daily life routine.

Bale has previously conducted this course in North Carolina four times in Charlotte, twice each in Winston-Salem, Durham, Winston-Salem, Hickory, and once in Lenoir, Shelby, Wadesboro, Wilmington, Burlington, Gastonia, Raleigh, Statesville, High Point and Morganton.

Mrs. Wynne Honored At Birthday Dinner

BETHEL—Mrs. Jasper Wynne was honored at a birthday dinner on Sunday. The honoree's birthday was on Tuesday, March 1st.

The occasion took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wynne Jr. The lovely home was very attractive with its mixed bouquets of spring flowers.

The birthday cake was very beautiful with its decorations of white and pink icing and pink candles. The menu consisted of turkey, dressing, sweet potatoes, snap beans, corn hot rolls and corn bread, potato salad, hors d'oeuvres, jello and whipped cream.

Among those of the family who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Wynne, Mary Jo Wynne, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Young, Ginger and Robert, Mrs. Harold Manning, Hal and Bob Jack, Ramon Latham and the hosts.

Mrs. Wynne was remembered with many nice and useful gifts.

Home First Aid Discussed At Pickwick Club

At the home of Mrs. W. H. Watson, College Court Subdivision, Mrs. A. J. White, Jr. was hostess to the Pickwick Book Club on Tuesday afternoon, March 1.

Mrs. David J. Whichard, president, presided at the short business meeting held prior to the introduction of the guest speaker.

Mrs. Watson presented to the group Mr. Claude H. Christopher, Jr., of the City of Greenville Fire Department. In a very informal manner, Mr. Christopher discussed and answered questions concerning the new rescue truck which is expected to be in operation by July, 1955. Mr. Christopher passed pictures of the truck and described briefly some of the various equipment it will house to take care of emergencies. He gave a practical demonstration of the administering of artificial respiration and explained fully the operation and use of the resuscitator now in rescue work.

A social hour was enjoyed following the most informative program. At this time Mrs. White served a dessert course and coffee.

After passing the books, the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Jr. was guest for the afternoon.

Mrs. Spain Gives Talk On Eastern N. C. Before Round Table

Mrs. R. B. Lee entertained the members of the Round Table on Tuesday afternoon, March 1. Mrs. Percy Upchurch and Mrs. O. L. Joyner were welcomed as guests.

Spring flowers decorated the living room where the guests were greeted by the hostess.

Mrs. H. H. Duncan presided during the short business session. The following officers were elected for the new year: president, Mrs. H. H. Duncan; first vice president, Mrs. J. E. Winslow; second vice president, Mrs. W. E. Marshall; recording secretary, Mrs. D. H. Conley; corresponding secretary, Miss Lelia Higgs; treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Ravi.

Mrs. D. S. Spain gave the club a most interesting talk on Eastern North Carolina and the Lost Colony. She introduced her subject by giving an appropriate toast to the Old North State. She then gave a brief history of Eastern North Carolina from its early colonization to present time. Mrs. Spain stated that Eastern North Carolina is known as a vacationers paradise for hunting, fishing, swimming and golf. Eastern North Carolina has three permanent military establishments, two of the oldest churches in the United States, the world's largest bright leaf tobacco market, and 115 new industrial projects.

Mrs. Spain gave a brief history of Roanoke Island. She discussed the early colonization of the island, the birth of Virginia Dare, and the disappearance of the colony on Roanoke Island. She closed her talk by giving the history and success of the play "Lost Colony," which is the most perfectly coordinated of all the outdoor dramas.

Mrs. J. E. Nobles presented her hobby to the club. She described attractive tables for dining and the use of beautiful linens, china and table decorations.

The hostess was assisted in serving a delicious salad course with coffee by Mesdames Howell and Upchurch.

Demonstration On Home Sewing Given Pactolus HD Club

PACTOLUS — A demonstration on home sewing was given by Mrs. Sackey Gurganus from Stokes when the Pactolus Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon in the community building.

In her demonstration Mrs. Gurganus emphasized covering belts and buttons.

February Bride

Mrs. Robert Little, who before her marriage on February 25, was Miss Barbara Ann James daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover James, of Greenville. Mr. Little is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Little, of Whitterville.

Club members also heard a health report on "What to Look for in a Physical Examination" given by Miss Sidney Davenport, club health leader.

Mrs. Hassell presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill led the singing. The meeting adjourned.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. W. B. Satterthwaite and Mrs. C. J. Satterthwaite.

Kinston's Red Devils put on an almost unbelievable display of shooting accuracy in Rocky Mount last night and capitalized on their feat by shooting to upset the Greenville Phantoms 82-78 and win the right to advance to the state tournament in Sanford.

The Red Devils jumped off into an early lead and led almost throughout the entire ball game. At only one stage in the game did Coach Farley's gang have the lead.

Big Buddy Potter played the best game of his career for Kinston in scoring 26 points and proving a demon under the backboards. Little Darwin Williams, the peppercorn floorman of the Devils, hit the highest scoring total of the year with 21 points and was the key man in the Kinston win.

Three Big Scorers for G-men
The G-men had three big scorers in the line-up. Pat Sawyer pushed in 21 points, Harold Edwards 20, and Bob Howell 19 to lead the Phantom scoring. Ike Riddick got 10, and Edgar Moore got eight to round out the Greenville scoring. The only substitution, Tommie Setted, did not score.

The win sends Kinston on to the state tourney in Sanford on March 10, 11, 12. Greenville has finished its season with an overall record of 18 wins and three losses.

First Half
In the first quarter the two teams put on a hot offensive display with Kinston always just ahead. Edgar Moore kept Greenville in the game for the first six minutes, getting six of the nine Phantom points. The G-men finally tied the score at 11-11 on Harold Edwards' jump shot. The Greenies then tied the score at 13-13, 15-15, and 17-17 before they got their only lead of the game at 19-17. Just before the quarter ended Kinston tied the score at 19-19 on a long set shot by Williams.

In the second period Kinston quickly ran the lead up to 29-21 and threatened to make a runaway of the game. The largest margin the Devils had was 38-27 and 42-29. Just before the intermission the Farley-men cut the margin to 45-38 at halftime.

Second Half
In the second half the teams traded points right and left, but the Phantoms cut the margin to 47-46 at one stage. By the end of the third period Kinston was back in the lead by seven points at 66-59. Kinston quickly moved ahead 70-61 in the early minutes of the final period but Bob Howell hit a quick goal and Pat Sawyer hit two straight field goals to cut the score to 70-67. The two teams traded two buckets and the Phantoms hit a foul shot to boot to cut the score to 76-74. From then on the Devils held the ball on the outside and forced the Greenies to foul them in an effort to get the ball.

The stalling tactics payed off for Kinston as they pushed in ten of fourteen foul shots in the final quarter whereas the Greenies hit only one of eight in the same period. That was the difference in the game.

Poor Foul Shooting
Kinston's victory came from the foul line. On field goals Greenville had 32 and Kinston had 30. But from the foul line the story is told. Both teams had 32 charity tosses. Kinston made 22 and Greenville made 14.

The Greenies played an all-around fine game, although it was not the best they are capable of playing. Time and again the G-men came from way behind to get back in contention only to have some break go against them and the Devils pull away. Everything the Red Devils tried worked to perfection, and the G-men missed their foul shots. The result of this was—Kinston won by four points 82-78. The last game of the season for probably the finest team Greenville has ever had, and it was a team that the city should be well-proud of.

Billy Martin To Stay In Uniform Until October
FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP)—The New York Yankees will get only moral support this season from Billy Martin.

The Yank second baseman, stationed here as a private, isn't due to be out of Army uniform until October.

Martin was believed earlier to await discharge early in July, but Lt. Charles L. Snyder, assistant public information officer, said the 1953 World Series star's date of discharge is Oct. 6.

He said Martin drew an early Army release in April, 1951, because of family hardship.

"After four months he was drafted again," Snyder explained, "and the regulation says a serviceman once previously released early must complete a minimum of 24 months total combined military service."

"That will get Martin out in October."

State, Duke 'On Spot' As Raleigh Play Opens
RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina State and Duke were the teams on the spot today as the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament opened for these four games:

2 p.m.—Maryland-Virginia; 4 p.m.—Duke-South Carolina; 7:30 p.m.—North Carolina State-Clemson; 9 p.m.—North Carolina-Wake Forest.

North Carolina State was on the spot because it entered the tournament top-seeded on the strength of a 12-2 conference record, ranked fifth in the nation, and was the choice to retain its title.

Duke was tabbed as the team to represent the ACC in the NCAA tournament's eastern playoffs, opening next Tuesday against Villanova in New York. This situation has come about with North Carolina State's one year suspension from NCAA events because the school violated the rule against tryouts of athletes. If State wins here on its home court at the 12,400 s.e.t. Reynolds Coliseum the Wolfpack will not be able to represent the ACC against Villanova, a team to which it lost twice this season.

The runnerup team will get the NCAA assignment.

Of course, Coach Harold Bradley and his Duke club are conceding nothing to State. They want to qualify for the NCAA bid, but they want to do it with authority—by beating State in the finals. State edged Duke by 11 points in two regular season meetings.

With both squads blessed with numerous skilled hands, State and Duke look like the best bets to reach the finals.

Duke, if it beats South Carolina for the third time this season will meet the Maryland-Virginia winner in the semifinals at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

N.C. State figures to trounce Clemson for the third time tonight and square off at 7:30 tomorrow night against the North Carolina-Wake Forest winner. Both of these have proven troublesome for the No. 1 team. North Carolina handed State one of its two conference losses and Wake Forest, although beaten twice, went into overtime in the second.

Wake Forest wants to keep winning to give its 6-6 senior center, Dick Hemric, a chance to fatten his new major school varsity career record. He has scored 2,539 points in four seasons. Everything from here in adds to the mark.

Last year Wake Forest played three overtime tournament games, losing to State in the finals.

Two second team selections, Hemric and North Carolina State's Ron Shavlik, will be on display in tonight's doubleheader.

outstanding prospects in Tommy Pruett and Charlie Russell," Mallory said. The former is an All-State chucker off Sanford's state championship nine. Russell was four years one of the state's outstanding prep moundsmen at High Falls.

"Pruett is a strong boy who stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 180. He is a righthander with a good curve ball," Mallory pointed out. "Russell also throws righthanded and possesses a shooting fast ball. He pitched several no-hitters in high school, and has semi-pro experience."

Mallory is also high on several of the other rookie hurlers. Harold Edwards of Red Springs is one. He is a lefthander and could be the man to balance the hill staff.

Only two positions are nailed down, according to Mallory. The others are wide-open. Heath will be at second base and Bill Cline behind the plate. Gather Cline will probably start somewhere in the outfield or at third base. Jerry Stewart, freshman from Sanford, is a shortstop hopeful. He was also All-State last year.

Heath is regarded as the best second sacker in the North State Conference. He has made the All-

Conference listings two years in a row. Cline is also considered one of the best backstops around. He possesses a rifle-like throwing arm and hits the long ball. Gather Cline is the Pirates' major extra-base hitter. He ranks high in the conference's homerun output.

"You can say we're in a rebuilding process," Mallory pointed out. "East Carolina lost several key men via graduation and we'll have to replace them with freshmen."

With a team of predominately first-year men, you can naturally expect to have an up-and-down year. We'll win and lose, and if our pitching holds up, it ought to be mostly winning."

Mallory continued by explaining that their toughest games are the opening dates. He thinks, though, that this will give his club a chance to learn and correct their errors early.

He also believes that the eastern division of the North State loop is to be stronger than last year. Elon still has the guns that won the title for them in 1954. "Atlantic Christian will be improved and they were tough last year. High Point and Guilford should also be better," Mallory concluded.

GREENSBORO (AP)—Atlantic Christian earned a berth in the small college tournament in Kansas City last night by conquering Lenoir Rhyne 94-85.

The game was the deciding tilt in the NAIA play-offs and a repeat performance of the North State finals. The victory gave Coach Jack McComas' squad a clean sweep of postseason honors among the area's small colleges.

The Bulldogs pushed to an early lead and stayed in front all night. John Marley, 6-11 sophomore center of Atlantic Christian, started the Bulldogs on their victory march and ended the night with 21 points. AC forward Jerry Williams and guard Ronald Percise collected 20 points apiece. Forward Kim Buchanan hit for 16 and Billy Tomlinson netted 10.

Raeferd Wells of Lenoir Rhyne took scoring honors with 34 points, giving him a total of 810 for his sophomore season and a new North State record.

The Bears' Bob Ortmyer hit for 27 points.

Ann McLaughlin of Ayden (shown above) reigned as queen over the three-day Coastal Conference tournament concluded last night in Farmville. Miss McLaughlin, a sophomore student at Ayden, presented the individual and team awards following the final game.

Gola Again Rates All-America For 3rd Year In Row

NEW YORK (AP)—Led by famed Tom Gola the first to make the team for three consecutive years, players from LaSalle, Ohio State, San Francisco, Duquesne and Furman were named today to the 1955 Associated Press All America basketball team.

The 6-7 Gola, who led LaSalle to the NCAA title a year ago, dominated the voting from 323 sports writers and broadcasters. Regarding as the best current performer in the college game, the Philadelphia star polled 1,488 points on 294 first-place votes and nine seconds.

Robin Freeman, the pint-sized 5-11 Ohio State star, was second with 955. Big Bill (The Stuffer) Russell from San Francisco's No. 1 ranked team followed with 748. Next came Duquesne's Dick Rickets with 725 and Furman's Darrell Floyd, who stepped into the shoes of Frank Selvy and was tops among the major college scorers.

Floyd earned his points, Green Wake Forest star who set a four-year scoring record last weekend; St. Green of Duquesne; Dick Garmaker of Minnesota, and Ron Shavlik of North Carolina State rounded out the second quintet. Hemric polled 810 points, Green 467 Garmaker 393 and Shavlik 360.

ECC Coach Has 40 Baseball Candidates As Drills Begin

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina's head baseball coach, Jim Mallory, was greeted by some 40 candidates yesterday afternoon as the first full-scale practice for this season's hardball club was held.

Mallory and assistant coach, Earl Smith, directed the troupe through a lengthy two-hour workout that consisted of general conditioning drills, a brush-up on fundamentals and batting practice.

Even this early, Mallory is able to make a pretty good diagnoses of this Spring's diamond crew. He expects to field a young ball club but one with speed and hustle.

"We will have fair pitching and good defense, but our hitting is a question mark," he summed up.

The team will be equipped with seven lettermen, including All-Conference catcher Bill Cline who reentered school early yesterday. The veteran list that'll comprise the nucleus includes Bill, his brother Gather Cline, Mack Cherry, Charlie Cherry, Cecil Heath, Ken Hall and Bob Penley.

Cherry and Heath are infielders, Cline and Penley, outfielders, and Cherry and Hall, pitchers.

The very important pitching department, which has been the Pirates' vulnerable spot for the past several seasons, is expected to be considerably strengthened by freshman talent. "We have two outstanding prospects in Tommy Pruett and Charlie Russell," Mallory said. The former is an All-State chucker off Sanford's state championship nine. Russell was four years one of the state's outstanding prep moundsmen at High Falls.

"Pruett is a strong boy who stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 180. He is a righthander with a good curve ball," Mallory pointed out. "Russell also throws righthanded and possesses a shooting fast ball. He pitched several no-hitters in high school, and has semi-pro experience."

Robersonville Wins Coastal Conference Cage Tourney

Defeat Farmville By 69-48 Margin

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

FARMVILLE Robersonville's strong boys team became the 1955 Coastal Conference basketball champions here last night with a sound trouncing of Farmville, 69-48, in the final.

Ayden's junior varsity wrapped up the jayvee title with a 31-27 win in the preliminary game to conclude the three-day tournament.

The outcome of the varsity game was never in doubt. The fast-breaking Robersonville club simply outplayed the game Farmville bunch.

Farmville threatened temporarily in the second period but Robersonville's ball-handling and shooting accuracy was too keen. With Robersonville out in front 20-11, Coach Charles Tucker's command started waltzing the lead down. They cut it to seven points but then Robersonville began clicking again.

Farmville was behind 36-22 at halftime.

Robersonville's high-scoring duo of Sherwood and Moore proved too tough to handle. Both bucketed 21 points and were outstanding around the backboards. Roberson added 12 points to the cause.

Farmville's Farrior brothers, Bill and James, were the most consistent scorers for the losers. The former collected 17 points and James contributed 12.

Ayden's Dunn tallied 13 points for the triumphant juniors. He received the most help from Wilks who added nine points.

Wooten and Wainswright were Farmville's co-leaders. Wooten dropped nine points and the latter scored eight.

Ayden's jayvees led throughout with Farmville close on their heels. Farmville put on a desperate attempt in the fading minutes but couldn't overcome Ayden's lead.

Several awards and trophies were presented following the varsity game. Tournament Queen Ann McLawhorn of Ayden made the presentations.

The All-Coastal Conference terms were also announced. They are as follows: Girls—Jewel Gardner of Farmville, Foy Stevenson of Robersonville and Lucy Holt of Contentnea, forwards; Nan Williams and Loretta Oakley, both of Farmville, and Mamie Wooten of Ayden, guards. Boys—B. Farrior of Farmville, Bobby Harris of Ayden, B.

Victory In Preventive War Once Sure, Chances Fading

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Any time in recent years this country probably could have crushed Russia in a preventive war intended to destroy the Communists before they were strong enough to attack the United States.

That the war wasn't made, while this country had atomic superiority, was evidence the United States intended to try to sweat it out with the Russians in the hope war might never be necessary.

This may have been a fatal policy and in the end prove the undoing of the United States. No one can be sure the Russians, once they're sufficiently armed, won't make a sudden overpowering attack on this country.

Sir Winston Churchill yesterday, while saying the United States holds vast superiority over Russia in hydrogen bombs right now, predicted Russia may have enough of them in two to four years to try an attack on North America.

The sweating-it-out policy is therefore one of the obvious incalculables of history. So were some recent major decisions whose outcome couldn't be predicted either: defense of Korea, Berlin airlift, aid to Greece and Turkey.

There are alternative hopes to get beside the dismal prospect the United States when they are able:

1. That the Russian leadership may be civilized enough not to make war or force one.
2. That the two giants, once they're fairly equal in their ability to annihilate each other—perhaps both at the same time—and most of mankind too, will then be content not to fight but live side by side.

Churchill expressed some belief in hope No. 2, but not to vigorously when he said: "A curious paradox has emerged. After a certain point has been passed it may be said that the worse things get, the better."

Churchill did say he didn't think the Russians could win a hydrogen war if they started one—but he didn't predict any winner in such a struggle—since the West, because of its head start on bombs, could retaliate from bases around the world.

But even if they were afraid to start a hydrogen war, for fear of what might happen to them in return, the Russians might trade on the whole world's fear of such a war.

They might do it by trying to pressure their neighbors into submission since the West would have to be careful about starting any lead to hydrogen war.

Any one of these possibilities is a guess but the Western statesmen, including Churchill, are in exactly the same position as any man in the street: they can only wonder what Russia will do when she has the power and meantime stay prepared.

But Churchill's statements about Russia's present inferiority in hydrogen weapons goes far to explain why the Communists have been careful so far not to begin an aggression which might bring a hydrogen rain on their heads.

Doctor at the CROSSROADS

CHAPTER FORTY
The next day, being Sunday, Fred slept later than usual, and Katie tiptoed about, urging his mother to be quiet, glad that Murphy too was sleeping. When Fred came downstairs freshly shaved, a bow tie perched beneath his chin, and wearing the trousers of his good suit, breakfast was on the table.

He kissed his mother, and Katie, "You know I am leaving," said Ludmilla tartly. "That is why you kiss me?"

"I kiss you because I love you," Fred told her gaily.

Ludmilla humped, but her cheeks were as pink as Katie's.

"Of course I love you," Fred elaborated. "And I do not blame you for leaving before Mirandy finds out what you have done to her household." He grinned.

"I am not afraid of that one. But, as you know, my duties at the school . . ."

"Mamma, must you work at the school?"

"No. I work because I want to work. Eat your breakfast," Fred chuckled, and Murphy laughed aloud. Katie smiled and refused Ludmilla's offer to cook the pancakes. "No, Mamma, you are company, and it is high time we treated you so."

"If I am not permitted to cook in my son's kitchen . . ."

In distressed protest, Katie's eyes flew to Fred. "Do not give in to her," he said calmly. "It is Mamma's method of always getting her own way. She can argue the tail into the donkey's mouth. Pay her no heed."

Ludmilla beamed upon her son. Yes, he had attained man's estate.

"What's the schedule for today?"

Murphy asked, seeking the last tender morsel of his first thin golden pancake. Katie rolled them around tart jelly, dusted them with powdered sugar—literally, they melted on one's tongue. Even Ludmilla could find no suggestion for their improvement.

"I'll go to the hospital for a little while," said Fred.

"Then, Murphy, there is the Kyle funeral."

"You're not going to that!"

"Of course I'll go."
"Do you help bury all your defunct patients?" Murphy's black eyes glowed like coals.

Fred smiled. "I do when they are friends, Murphy. I remember my obligations as a friend disregarding my profession. Katie and I certainly shall attend the funeral of Linda's husband; we'll do all that we can to comfort and support her. This afternoon, this being the town of Jennings, everyone will consider me only as a friend of the family. I know you don't understand Murphy."

"I understand the words you say, Fritz. But I still do not understand your being in a place the size and sort of Jennings!" His voice twanged with ill humor. "Why you ever came, why you stay . . ."

"Last night," said Fred serenely. "I gave that subject some thought. I was held late at the hospital, and I did some very serious thinking about you, Murphy, and about your suggestion that I return to St. Louis."

Ludmilla stirred in her chair. Fred glanced at her, and she did not speak.

"In one respect, Murphy, you tempt me. One aspect of your scheme offers something which I entirely lack here, and which I miss."

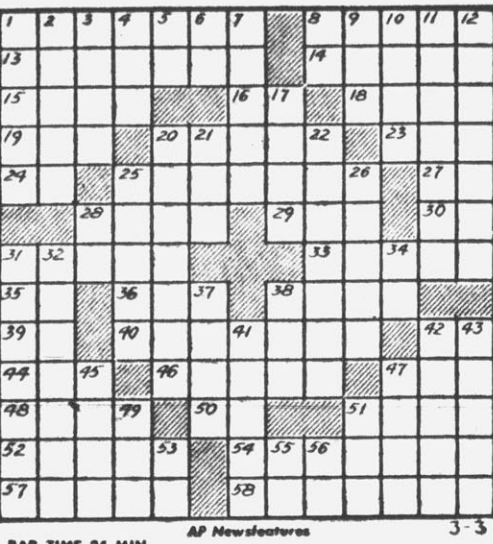

Murphy looked up hopefully. Fred was filling his coffee cup.

Rush To Buy Appears In Several Commodities

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A rush to buy—something most industries haven't seen for several months—is developing today in a number of industrial commodities.

Users of copper were among the first to put on the pressure. Now steel makers report a rush for some of their products. So do the synthetic rubber plants, still government owned. And the prospect for another big spurt in home building this spring is bringing orders for lumber mills and for makers of home appliances and furniture.

Except perhaps for copper, there is no real shortage as in the early postwar years. The urge to order, which apparently struck a number of purchasing agents at once, appears to stem in part from fears that prices may go higher or that labor troubles may mean work stoppages late in the spring.

But producers also cite another reason: Hand-to-mouth buying policies, common from mid-1953 on, brought down inventories, as planned. The result was that the first show of demand—as when the auto industry started ordering metal for its big production race two months ahead of normal—stretched the time between ordering and receiving delivery. Companies which had been operating happily on a raw material supply sufficient for 30 or 45 days production, suddenly found this leeway too small for comfort.

This seems to be especially true in the case of most metals. Price rises in iron ore and steel scrap, and upcoming labor negotiations, also are interpreted by some steel users as meaning higher prices ahead.

A rush to stock up on synthetic rubber is reported by government agencies preparing to close the sale of the plants to private industry—barring congressional disapproval.

Some of the rush is believed based on fears that prices may rise under the new ownerships, or that the companies buying the plants might absorb most of the output for themselves.

The home-building boom—the vigor of which has surprised many observers—seems set for still another spurt with the coming of open weather. Easy financing is the foundation.

"I do miss association with other doctors," he said thoughtfully. "I have to keep on earning their trust." He laughed a little and stood up. "It's a little like periodic licensure, Murphy. It keeps a doctor from coasting along on his original M.D. Not a bad idea, either."

He started for the door, then slowed his step when Ludmilla spoke. "You do envy my son, Murphy?" she said triumphantly.

"Of course I envy him. He's so rich."

"Oh, Murphy!" laughed Katie. "He has to be rich, to waste as much of himself as he does!"

"Katie I'm leaving. I promise I'll be back."

"That promise was kept. He and Katie went to church, Fred sang in the choir. They came home together, and Murphy, having disappeared, the three Beiers enjoyed a family dinner prepared by Ludmilla. She had, she told Katie, washed every pan and dish, except what was needed on the table.

"Oh, Mamma, you needn't have!"

Ludmilla patted her hand. "I do the same in my own kitchen."

Immediately after that pleasant hour, Ludmilla chugged off in her little car, sitting erect, promising to return in June. They were to be good—she would write.

"Let the dishes go," said Fred. His arm about Katie.

He felt her protest before she could voice it. "Do as I say," he said firmly. "Put on your hat—and let us go to Kyle's now. Linda will be getting panicky about this time. I told her that you and the station wagon would help take the flowers to the cemetery. And I will provide a strong right arm for Linda to lean upon."

"Oh, yes! We go right away," Fred, change your tie."

He touched the little bow beneath his chin.

"Now, I am giving orders," said Katie, firmly. "You look too happy in a bow tie. I will bring down your dark green one."

Onetime Hotbed Of Swing Seldom Hears Jazz Any More; Kansas City Now Square

By KENE J. CAPTON and WES COOK
 KANSAS CITY (U)—They play it sweet and they play it else, but it's seldom now that they play the really hot note in this town of the "Twelfth Street Rag" — the one-time hotbed of swing.

Some of the cats who used to sit the hottest licks are delivering milk now or laying bricks. Just about all of them can get misty-eyed thinking about the old days.

"This city used to be the jumpiest," says Chet Stamps, an artist's agent who has been around a long time.

"Today you have to read the lines of fine print to find a joint that's selling jazz on a commercial basis."

Historians of local jazz generally date its decline from the downfall of the late Tom Pendergast, the colorful political boss who kept Kansas City wide open until the late 1930s.

Some deduce that political reform, however desirable in major respects, has proved no unmitigated blessing for jazz. "Things get too quiet, things get square," one ex-musician said.

Others contend that jazz and jazzmen have long since outgrown their gaudy origins.

The bookers put a major share of the blame on the 20 per cent entertainment tax and the early closing hours — 2 a.m. week nights and 12 midnight on Saturday.

"During the Pendergast days," said John Tamino, partner in Stamps' booking agency, "the joints stayed open all night. Oh, the midnight closing law's been in the books since 1933, but nobody used to enforce it. Club owners could afford more live entertainment. Where an operator used to hire a large band, he now uses a small combo, or maybe a single guy with a piano."

Similar thoughts came from Dave and Tom Reiser, a brother piano and guitar team featured at one of Kansas City's swankier establishments.

"There's the obvious economic angle," Dave said. "The operators don't make the profits they did in the old days and they don't like to take chances with new things. Add to this a general lack of showmanship. You've got to have some idea of presentation to put your stuff across. That seems almost a lost art hereabouts."

"Maybe audiences don't really care much for individual expression any more. They want to see funny faces they want the guy blowing the horn to do handsprings besides."

But some of the cats who had taken to masonry and letter carrying couldn't keep from their instruments indefinitely.

Three veterans — George Salisbury, piano; J. Jackson, tenor sax; bandleader and bassist Roy Johnson — plus Bob Hopkins, a young drummer, recently formed a band because, as Johnson explained, "we just couldn't stand not playing any more. We'd rather play than eat." They set up shop in a place called the Trocadero.

Johnson proclaimed his jazzman's creed for dark times. "Man, things may be dragging, but it only takes a little spark to set you goin'," he said. "And ain't nobody can say where the next spark will come from."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market made its fourth straight advance today with the general level of prices at an all-time high.

Brokers said they were unable to detect any influence on the market of the Senate Banking Committee investigation in Washington under Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Some stocks were strong with gains going to between 1 and 4 points in many instances. Losses in key areas usually were fractional.

Trading was quite brisk at an even better rate than yesterday's 3,370,000 shares when rising prices hit a new all-time high as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at $162.00. Boeing shot ahead 5 1/2 at 88 1/2 on an opening block of 11,000 shares after an announcement that the Air Force is giving the company a contract for jet tankers worth 460 million dollars.

General Motors started on 16,000 shares up 1 1/2 at 96 1/2 on the heels of its annual report showing excellent earnings last year and predictions of continued good business this year.

A block of 9,800 shares of J. P. Stevens traded off 1/2 at 27, and 3,700 shares of General Electric went at 51 1/2 up 1/2.

RALEIGH (U)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers fully steady, farm price 28 to mostly 29, no t.o.b. plant sales reported; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 46.

Lovejoy Will Be Club's Speaker

Phillip Lovejoy, who has served as Secretary General of Rotary International for ten years, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Pitt County Executives Club March 18.

Lovejoy was secretary for Rotary International from 1942 until 1952, and during that time he traveled extensively, speaking to diverse audiences in more than a dozen countries on five continents.

In addition to being noted as a fluent speaker, Lovejoy is also recognized as a prominent educator, author and executive. Born in Portland, Me., he was educated at the University of Michigan and holds membership in two honorary fraternities, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa.

Among the honors bestowed upon him are a decoration from the President of Chile and the King Christian X Medal of Denmark.

DISPLAY CERTIFICATES — Three members of the Greenville Police Department display certificates received for completion of a two-weeks course in public relations sponsored by local law enforcement agencies and East Carolina College. The certificates were presented to 34 law enforcement officers by Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, and Mayor W. L. Whedbee. Left to right: Lt. W. E. Peterson, F. E. Child Bitten By Dog Here Last Evening

A nine-year-old girl, Sandy Sue Venters, was bitten on the leg by a dog near her home on Vandike Street early last night.

She was taken to the hospital for treatment. J. B. Venters, the girl's father reports that the owner of the dog told him (Venters) that the dog had been vaccinated. Venters also said that it would be at least ten days before it would be known how serious the wound is, according to doctors.

The dog reportedly has been turned over to the health department for examination. In the meantime, the young girl is reported to getting along "all right".

Drive Against School Bus Accidents Is Being Pushed

A long-time program to prevent school bus accidents in the state is presently being carried on, with L. C. Forlines, director of school transportation for Pitt County, now meeting with bus drivers and school principals in the county to discuss this problem and its solution.

Recently G. E. Crawley, representing the Division of Transportation of the State Board of Education, and Russell Rogers, with the state Highway Safety Division, met here with Forlines, patrol Sgt. John Laws and county school superintendent D. H. Conley to discuss the situation and to leave information and instructions with the superintendent's office concerning the school bus accidents.

It has been pointed out that 78 percent of the school bus accidents are caused by backing, speed too great for road condition, entering the highway without taking the proper precaution, following too closely and driving too close to a parked vehicle. Of these, backing is the largest accident factor, causing 20 percent of all wrecks.

Conley reports there have been nine "very minor" school bus accidents in Pitt County during this school term, with the largest property loss amounting to $400. He said none of these accidents have been due to mechanical failure of the buses. There have been no personal injuries in bus wrecks so far in Pitt.

"We are trying to get everyone alerted to this problem," Conley said, "and we are receiving very fine cooperation. Pitt has a good safety record, but we want to make it even better."
