Reapportionment Handed Setback

RALEIGH (AP)—Reapportionment of legislative membership, required by the State Constitution after each 10-year census, apparently is meeting the same fate in the 1955 General Assembly as in the past two sessions. The Senate yesterday killed by a 25-18 vote a measure which would have reassigned House membership reflected in the 1950 census.

heated debate was introduced in the Senate by Sen. H. M. Moore of Clay. It would require the addition of certain vitamins to corn meal and hominy grits. The "corn meal" bill was the object of lengthy discussion in the House two years ago before it was killed.

New Zealand, Brazil, and Southern Rhodesia, among other countries, have increased their tobacco acreage considerably each year since the war, and are also in competition with us for the world market.

The tobacco specialist said that per-acre tobacco production increased from 800 pounds in 1930 to 1300 pounds expected for 1955. "We must," Nau continued, "either increase our markets or cut our acreage."

Testimony On Matusow Questioned At Hearing Unconvinced Cohn Truthful

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Sacher, counsel for 13 convicted Communists, says he is "not persuaded" that Roy M. Cohn has told the truth concerning turnabout witness Harvey M. Matusow. Cohn, former assistant U.S. attorney who worked on the case against the 13 second-string Red leaders, and Sacher clashed yesterday at a retrial hearing which resumes today.

Sacher, after questioning Cohn about briefs which the latter handled in connection with Matusow, said: "If I were persuaded that this witness is testifying truthfully, and I don't think he is, these questions wouldn't be necessary."

Cohn also has said he had no reason to believe Matusow lied at the trial. During the cross-examination Sacher told Cohn to "bear in mind" that he was in "a court of law and not on the McCarthy committee."

Consultant Addresses Pitt County Teachers

Sees Need In Light Of Civil Defense Stand Kefauver Backs Road Plans

WASHINGTON March 4 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) urged today revision of the administration's highway construction program to include roads adequate to evacuate persons from hydrogen bomb target cities. Unless this is done, he said, the question of building shelters along highways outside the deadly blast area will be "academic" because no one will get to them.

Miss Julia Teasley, Reading Consultant, Scott, Foresman Company, posed two questions to Pitt County school teachers and principals when she met with them yesterday. Miss Teasley discussed the reading program in connection with the texts used in the first six grades of the schools in the state. In relation to this reading program, she answered for the teachers the questions, "Where are we going?" and "How do we get there?" Reflector Photo by Edwin Haymes.

out if certain reading matter is not within a child's experience, there is no need for him to read it. "The heart of reading," she said, "is thoughtful interpretation." The consultant discussed five steps teachers must take to get there. These are preparation, word perception, comprehension, reaction and integration.

Miss Teasley brought out a number of ways teachers may help their students increase their vocabularies, and she urged the use of the teacher's guidebook, which offers many helpful suggestions in the teaching of reading. She defined comprehension as "getting what the author told you plus what he implied," and she declared, "A good reader reads more than what is on the printed page."

Commenting on Farrell's purported repudiation, Mrs. Farrell said: "I don't know why he made it (the confession). He might have felt so ashamed after attacking Irene that he wanted to punish himself, to go away, to hide away for life. What better way than to confess to a murder, one he didn't do?"

Near-Perfection Seen In Henriot Piano Concert

By GEORGE E. PERRY

If perfection in a pianistic technique is possible, Nicole Henriot has come closer to attaining it than practically any pianist on the concert circuit today. Playing last evening before a very enthusiastic audience in Wright Auditorium, Miss Henriot completely demonstrated her terrific powers as mistress of the keyboard.

It must be said at the start, however, that she was not comfortable at the piano in the Wright building. The instrument kept rocking in an unrelenting manner, and its metallic tones were incapable of producing the soft, warm quality which she finds in the piano of her choice. As she played impromptu in Austin Auditorium for a small group of admirers after her regular concert, one could not help realizing that had the piano of her choice been at her disposal, it would have made all the difference in the world. But even if she had been playing an old upright, Miss Henriot would have made her concert a successful one, for she is one hundred percent music. She is filled with it, from the ends of her hair to her diminutive feet. Not only does she have music in her hands, out in her head, her face, and what is most important, in her soul. And in last night's concert, she proved to her audience what a tremendous thrill there is in the sharing of a musical experience.

She began with a punctuated performance of the F major Concerto Grosso by Vivaldi-Bach. From the opening note to the last, her fingers, like curved pieces of flexible steel, set forth one of the most deft and crystalline performances of this work that has ever been given. In the 32 Variations in C minor by Beethoven, which followed, Miss Henriot left no doubt in anyone's mind that her positive pianism is practically beyond reproach. This immense work, so taxing to a pianist's physique as well as his technique, was played in a grand and noble manner—the one style which makes Beethoven one of the kings of pianoforte literature.

The two Mendelssohn Etudes which began the second group were tossed off as if they were not difficult at all, as was the Prelude from "Four de Piano" by Debussy. But in "Clair de Lune" the gossamer, transparent quality of which Miss Henriot was so desirous, was lacking.

The second half of the concert was principally Chopin, opening with the Premiere Ballade in G minor—in which she may have used too much rubato for some—and followed by two Etudes: Opus 25, no. 1 in A flat major (the Aeolian Harp) and Opus 10, no. 12 (the Revolutionary). In place of the F minor Fantasy by Chopin, which she felt she couldn't begin to do justice on the piano given her, she substituted Ravel's "Alborado and gazouillis." Having worked on this with the composer himself, she performed it in a most authentic and Ravelian manner.

The very appreciative audience showed its definite approval of the concert by calling the artist back for numerous curtain calls, and four encores, which were: The Music Box, by deSeverac, Liebestraum by Liszt, the tumultuous Etude Opus 25, no. 12 (Ocean Waves) by Chopin, and lastly his Prelude in G major, Opus 28, no. 3.

"Who has known heights shall not again know peace," and it will be a good while before Greenville concert-goers will have an opportunity to hear a pianist who reached such heights as did Miss Henriot last evening. For everyone who braved the inclement weather, it was a spine-tingling, thrilling experience that will not soon be forgotten.

Red Banks HD Club Holds Meet

RED BANKS — Eighteen members and four small guests were present at Red Banks Home Demonstration Club meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Carl Hardee gave a report on health and Mrs. R. B. Starling gave a family life report.

Wednesday of next week will be clean-up day at the club house and all members are asked to help if possible.

The demonstration for the afternoon was given by the clothing leader, Mrs. Howard Clay, with Mrs. S. B. Tucker as assistant. They had on display dresses made by Mrs. Tucker that proved home sewing can have a professional look. They also showed belts, buckles and button holes and demonstrated other sewing secrets that will make home sewing easy.

The hostesses, Mrs. E. H. Boyd, Mrs. Elwood Ayers and Mrs. L. T. Hardee, Jr., served cherry tarts with whipped cream, toasted pecans, mints and coffee.

For recreation Mrs. Starling discussed music in Hawaii, giving demonstrations on a Hawaiian guitar.

Teen-age Turnout

By FRANCES ADAMS and MARY WILL LONG

Much to the disappointment of the Greenville fans, Greenville's Phantoms lost a heart-breaker to Kingston's Red Devils Wednesday night in Rocky Mount. This eliminated their chances of going to the state tournament in Sanford; however they are still the best team in the eyes of the Greenville fans. They just had a bad break. Many supporters were at the game and showed more interest in the game than at any other time this year. They cheered their team on even when the Phantoms were behind.

The journalism class will sponsor the Newspaper Prom tonight in the high school gym. The dance will last from 8 until 11 and will include a floor show and crowning of Mr. and Miss Newspaper. Ann Peaden, Pat Herring, Glen Briley, Jay Robbins, Jack Calhoun, Gayle Clapp, Rosemary Eagles, Ginger Ross, and the ABC trio will appear in the floor show displaying their various talents. Harris Northrop will act as master of ceremonies. Music will be provided by the "Midnighters." Fellows and gals, grab your dates and come on down to join in the fun.

After the dance Lou Chestham will play hostess to a group of her friends at a "gab fest" and a slumber party. Jeri Lassiter, Mary Will Long, Sue Tucker, Norma Basnight, Sara Adams, and Hannah Proctor will head out to Lou's home in Brookgreen for bridge, snacks, and a gab session.

Nominating Of Next Year's School Bus Drivers Now Being Conducted

Nominations for next year's school bus drivers are now being made by the Pitt County school principals.

Potential drivers are being picked now so that those who are not certified may be so in April and thus be ready for duty when next year's school term begins, Superintendent D. H. Conley explained.

To carry out the resolution adopted by the North Carolina State Board of Education December 2, 1954, a form is provided each principal for the nomination of drivers, substitutes and alternates. This form, signed by the principal, the secretary of the local school committee, the secretary of the Pitt County Board of Education and the chief mechanic must be submitted in duplicate to the County Board of Education by April 1.

Drivers approved may remain in service only so long as they prove themselves satisfactory to the authorities responsible by law for the school bus system.

Ballards HD Club Has Sewing Talk

BALLARDS — Professional dress making was the demonstration given by Miss Mary Frances Hobgood for the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Ballards Home Demonstration Club.

Miss Hobgood, who is the club's clothing leader, explained the necessity of using the correct size and type pattern, and she also demonstrated the use of the proper articles to use in sewing at home in order to give homemade clothes the professional look.

Following the demonstration Mrs. A. C. Turnage gave a talk on "The Place Germany Plays in the World Today." Germany is the country the club members are studying this year in connection with their international relations program.

Mrs. M. G. Price read a letter and poem sent to the club by Mrs. Cornine Grimesley, state family life leader at North Carolina State College.

Mrs. J. P. Burnette, club president, reported approximately $123 was made by the club in its sale of Brunswick stew for the benefit of the March of Dimes recently.

Recreation for the afternoon was led by Mrs. Lloyd Allen, recreation leader.

Mrs. Wilbur Smith and Mrs. C. B. Sautter served as hostesses for the meeting. Both the club house decorations and the refreshments carried out the St. Patrick colors.

Will Not Sue For 'Needle Assault'

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—James M. Rahal, who charged that an Air Force doctor attacked him with a hypodermic needle, has announced through his attorney he will not press the charges at a police court hearing set for March 12.

Rahal accused Capt. Frank W. Johnson of Hunter Air Force Base of stabbing him three times with the needle in the arm and hand.

Rahal said Johnson, whose home is at Spring Hill, Ala., made the attack Tuesday night. Police at first reported erroneously that Rahal's son Edmund F. Rahal had been stabbed. But the father said today that he, and not his son, was the victim. His wounds were not serious.

The elder Rahal said the attack was made as he was leaving a lawyer's office.

Edmund Rahal and Mrs. Miriam C. Brown made charges of assault and battery but they said they were not stabbed.

An attorney indicated that Edmund Rahal also is willing to drop the charges.

Johnson's attorney John W. Sogner announced today that Johnson plans to marry the younger Rahal's former wife.

Pitt's Representation Now Safe

Pitt County's two seats in the House of Representatives probably are safe for another six years.

Senate action in killing the bill to reapportion the House assures us there will be no change in House representation prior to the 1957 legislature. It likewise makes it apparent the legislators are not disposed to make a change until after the next census. It is obvious also that the Senate, by voting down the bill to reapportion the House, indicated its feeling toward redistricting Senate seats.

On the basis of the Senate action we can be assured Pitt County will have two representatives in the House come 1957, and that the county will still make up a senatorial district in itself.

From the Senate action we also conclude there will be no redistricting of Senate seats or reapportionment of House seats until the 1961 session of the legislature.

Don't Forget The Absentee Ballot

Before the legislature gets too snowed under with matters, the question of the absentee ballot in North Carolina should be resolved by legislation doing away with this evil in our election system.

There is some sentiment in the state for retaining the absentee ballot in spite of the trouble it has caused in elections over a long period of years. Those who favor retaining the absentee have been mighty quiet since the General Assembly convened, probably in the hope that suggestions of repeal would be lost in the shuffle.

It is important to good government and to the people's confidence in elections that the absentee ballot be eliminated before another state-wide election year. The abuse of the absentee ballot in elections in the state has been much greater than the use of it. So long as the state retains the absentee ballot, it will be misused by ambitious politicians seeking office for themselves or their friends.

The 1955 General Assembly should not adjourn without repealing the absentee ballot provision in the state election law.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
LEARNING

You have no doubt frequently noticed—and perhaps with bitter regret—that the more you do for some people the less do these people like you. It has often been said that the way to make an enemy of a man is to lend him money. As a borrower, he begins to work up all sorts of resentments against the person to whom he is now under obligation.

We see this also in the case of children who have been pampered by their parents. Children who have been given the most are frequently hostile, ungrateful, disobedient, and lacking in natural feeling for their parents. On the other hand, parents who are quite demanding, without being tyrannical, usually have the respect of their children.

The psychological explanation of this would seem to be that the more we demand of people, the more do we make it necessary for them to bestir themselves, to assume responsibility to work, to be resourceful. The by-product of all such effort is satisfaction and peace. On the other hand, if people only receive things from us, they get into a carping critical attitude and constantly demand more. Under such circumstances, nothing is being built up in their moral natures. In fact, their personalities begin to disintegrate.

It's good for all of us to have to toe the mark. The word discipline comes from a Latin word which means "a learner."

Hazards Of Economic Reform

WASHINGTON—Walter F. Reuther's forthcoming demand for a guaranteed annual wage in the automobile and other mass industries commands no sympathy or support among the businessmen and industrialists in President Eisenhower's official family. They believe it would boost retail costs enormously at a time when, in their opinion, "The American consumer ought to be the king of the market place!"

Although the CIO president's proposal has not been discussed at the Cabinet level yet, it has been analyzed by Ike's economic and financial advisers because of the impact which it would have on the general state of the economy. If it had an inflationary effect, as forecast, it would threaten the price stability which is the principal objective of the White House and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

Indirectly, too, it would affect certain government policies. A guaranteed annual wage based on present levels of earnings would lead almost certainly to a subsequent demand for a higher minimum wage, more generous unemployment compensation payments, expansion of Social Security and retirement systems.

In short, it would result in a far-reaching evaluation and revision of the worth of a dollar to employer, employee and to Uncle Sam.

HAZARD OF ECONOMIC REFORM—The automobile industry, according to Administration study, is a peculiarly hazardous field in which to inaugurate such an economic reform. In the first place, an automobile is a highly seasonal and sensitive product, and subject to sharp shifts in customer taste and preference. When hard times strike, a car is the first thing to suffer from even the slightest pocketbook pinch.

This the third consecutive session in which the legislature has turned thumbs down on proposals to alter representation on the basis of the 1950 census as specified in the state constitution. It is extremely unlikely that the 1957 General Assembly will see fit to reapportion representation on the basis of census figures which will be seven years old at that time. The 1959 session certainly will not seriously consider basing representation on 1950 census figures.

If Pitt County shows sufficient gains in population by the 1960 census, we will not be subject to lose representation even if the House and Senate are reapportioned after the 1960 census.

It is our guess that Pitt has enjoyed a greater increase in population during the past five years than it did during the decade from 1940 to 1950 when comparative census figures showed a net gain of 2,526 people. It is likewise our guess that the county's population growth during the current decade will more nearly compare with the growth from 1930 to 1940 when the county gained almost 7,000 people, than during the 1940-1950 decade when the gain was only slightly more than 2,500.

If that is the case, Pitt, by 1960, will show sufficient growth compared with other counties of the state to retain its two representatives in the House as well as retaining a senator to itself.

Let 'Em Know How You Feel

The people of North Carolina should respond to Governor Hodges' request that they tell their legislators which way they think best for searching for new revenues to balance the state budget.

A good many people, of course, already have voiced their opinions to legislators. Many others have voiced their opinions to neighbors, but not to members of the General Assembly.

Governor Hodges, in making the appeal, obviously is looking for support for his proposals that taxes be levied on tobacco, soft drinks and other special items. It is a good opportunity, however, for those who are opposed to these special taxes and favor broader sales tax schedules or other measures of revenue raising to also express their wishes.

To raise the necessary revenue, the legislature will have to take one of the courses already proposed, or adopt a modification of these courses. It is almost too late—so far as the legislative session is concerned—for a brand new idea to get very far.

In addition to suggestions as ways to raise revenue, we think the people should suggest to legislators ways and means of cutting state expenditures in order to help bring about a balanced state budget. The measure reducing to one the licence tags required on automobiles saved $125,000 a year in state expenditures. Cutting other similar extras in state spending could likewise help in balancing the budget.

FEAR INFLATIONARY EFFECT—Besides an inevitable and direct increase in prices, it is feared that a guaranteed wage would have other inflationary effects. Workers assured of an annual income and pensions would probably be inclined to spend unwisely at the expense of savings.

The appetite for goods would, perhaps, upset the normal laws of supply and demand. It might also stimulate an unhealthy expansion of credit and installment purchases because of the built-in safeguards against unemployment and loss of income.

It might lead to even greater discrimination against elderly employees. Since greater productivity would be needed to offset higher labor costs, management would naturally hire only younger men and women. It would also result in immobilizing workers, for a man would hesitate to change his job if it meant moving to a factory which had not embraced the Reuther idea.

In short, the CIO ideologist's scheme would endanger the prize asset of the American industrial system—namely, its flexibility and versatility.

AN UNEXPECTED ANSWER—Two well-known economists got a severe shock to their pride recently when they interviewed a factory worker after they had addressed a labor union meeting. They were Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, former professor and writer on economics, and David J. McDonald, head of Reuther's CIO steel union. They asked a member of the audience whether he put more faith in the professor's or the union official's forecasts on business conditions, including wages, prices and unemployment.

"I don't pay a damn bit of attention to either one of you!" was the reply. "I'm a steel worker in Youngstown, see. Every day I look at the factory list that shows the names of the men to be let out on the basis of seniority, if there's no work."

"If I see my name near the top of that list—say, fifth or sixth—I know I might be out of a job next month. So, I go home to the old lady, and tell her to cut down on her buying. All we buy then is vittles!"

Somebody Told Me

'Other Side' Of Roy And Dale

This week's news revealed an interesting story about one of the cowboy idols of the nation and his wife: Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

In their weekly TV show which appears on 80 stations and in their many appearances all over the country, Roy and Dale are injecting more and more into their performances a spiritual appeal. As the news release says, "They send pistol-packing eight-year-olds to Sunday school and their most-eyed parents off to church."

Roy and Dale (her age is listed at 42 but his is not mentioned) get top billing when they appear with circuses and rodeos throughout the country. And in addition, they help many religious causes, such as Billy Graham's evangelizing of Britain last spring.

Dale's book, Angel Unaware, published two years ago, has sold nearly 400,000 copies and is still holding a level of almost 2,000 copies. Her second book, My Spiritual Diary, has already sold 80,000 copies.

Her book begins, "I am resolved to keep a spiritual accounting, that I may check on my soul's progress or (may God forbid!) regression. Put your hand over mine, Lord God, that this writing may be honest and reverent."

In the book Dale gives a day-by-day account of about eight months in 1954, consisting of letters to God dealing with the public-private life of someone personifying the American folk myth: the cowboy. The six children have to be hustled off the school, the washing machine must be fixed, travel is an endless series of personal appearances, interviews, awards. Trigger walks four flights upstairs and shakes a bright-full of daffodils over the ailing Roy to cheer him. And God is always there.

How did he get there? Dale told about it, sitting in her dressing room between retakes of the TV film. "I joined the Baptist Church at the age of ten, but I gradually drifted away. I belonged to a family in Uvalde, Texas that never had anything to do with show business, but that was my goal. So I eloped at 14. Naturally, it was a failure, but I did get one wonderful thing out of it—my son, Tom. And it was Tom who led me back to the church."

Roy was a widower, with three children by his first wife. Unusual, isn't it, to find products of Hollywood helping with a spiritual message.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

JUSTIFIED OUT HERE
(Washington Daily News)

W.W. Taylor, General Assembly representative from Warren county is reported to have given members of the Finance committee figures which show that the tax payers of North Carolina last year paid out the sum of $2,362,602 for educations for non-residents of North Carolina.

That sum represents what the taxpayers pay above and beyond the regular charges by out-of-state students.

North Carolina has no responsibility whatsoever to educate the young people of other states. If it is true and we believe it is, that the state of North Carolina is paying such a sum to educate out of state students, then the General Assembly should put a stop to such a waste of money now.

In fact we have enough of our own to educate. We have many boys and girls who today cannot go to college after graduation from high school because they just do not have the money.

It seems rather ridiculous that our taxpayers must be sending children to colleges in part from other states when we have so many here at home who are unable financially to go to college.

The Daily News is in agreement with what Mr. Taylor said. Our first duty is to our own and we have no duty whatsoever to other states in educating children or young people from other states.

The sum of $2,362,602 would educate a large number of North Carolina high school graduates who are not now attending college. It would help many boys and girls to get educations.

We can understand the help that taxpayers ought to give to our own children. We can appreciate the fact that the student pays far less than it costs to educate him in our state colleges and universities. We would not want to see the opportunity for an education curtailed or endangered in any way for the youth of North Carolina.

But for youths of New York and New Jersey, we look at it far differently. Out of state students should be charged enough so that the taxpayers of North Carolina have no burden in footing their education bills. The out-of-state students should be charged enough to make up the difference.

We do not know how many out of state students are now attending our institutions of higher learning. We would estimate that the number would run in excess of 1,000. And we suspect that it would run nearer 2,500.

It is not right to our way of thinking. And we hope Mr. Taylor gets some good strong support in his efforts to do something about this matter. Now is the time to do something about it. We shouldn't wait for several years. The state is already pushed to meet budget requirements and right now is trying to find new sources of taxation. If we can cut down anywhere and make that cut justified in the sense that this one would be, then it is only practical and smart for the General Assembly to act.

Another Valiant Effort On Provisions For Jaypees

By LYNN NISBET

JAY PEES—Senator Ed Summerville of Onslow is making another valiant effort to do something about courts of justice of the peace. This issue has been before every General Assembly for at least twenty-five years in some form. State bar association and judicial conferences have had committees working on it. The recent study by the commission on reorganization of government dealt with this in a small way.

The Summerville bill goes farther in some ways, not so far as others, as previous proposals. Its main features are limitation on number of justices of peace and method of their appointment; extending jurisdiction some traffic now beyond that scope; requiring office hours at specified locations, which must be on record at the court house; requires more detailed reporting and auditing, and guarantees the trial fee in criminal actions whether or not defendant is convicted.

Present law provides for election of three JP's in each township, one additional for each 1,000 people in incorporated towns, unlimited appointments by the Governor for four year terms and by the General Assembly for as much as six years. Summerville proposes two elected for each township, one additional for each 5,000 people in incorporated municipalities with a limit of ten; appointment by the Governor to fill vacancies or upon certification of the resident judge or clerk of court that additional justices are needed.

Present law provides for removal or revocation of commission only for conviction of infamous crime or for corruption and malfeasance in office. Summerville would permit the Governor to revoke commissions issued by him or upon legislative appointment when the resident judge of the district certifies; after hearing, that the JP is guilty of conduct justifying removal; and also for removal by the resident judge on certain conditions, with right of appeal to the Supreme Court.

PEES—The Summerville bill sets out a schedule of fees for criminal actions and guarantees payment whether or not the defendant is convicted. The bill of cost carries a higher fee than the present law, as good dog Tray did take care of acquittals. The JP is required to make monthly reports of all cases, with penalties for failure, and for audit by county officers three times a year of all JP account.

By limiting the number of JP's, increasing jurisdiction, requiring fixed offices and office hours and prohibiting tie-in with bondsmen and police officers, the bill is designed to enhance the dignity of the JP court.

This is Senator Summerville's bill (it has no co-sponsors), but it represents the thinking of many others who have studied this problem through the years.

Conversations with several members of the Legislature indicate that it may not get by in original form, but there is better chance than has prevailed in a long time for some remedial action. The avowed purpose is to restore to the Justice of Peace court the prestige it had when the court was written into the constitution and when the old time "Squire" was the recognized community leader, and to remove the currently prevalent idea that in some instances the JP's are parts of a racketeering system involving law enforcement officers, professional bondsmen and lawyers who specialize in small criminal cases.

Preponderant majority of lawyers, law enforcement officers, bondsmen and justices of Peace are high "7pe citizens. They have suffered, as good dog Tray did in Aesop's fable, by association with a few irresponsible operators. The proposed legislation is designed to reduce this already small element of incompetency and to give to the whole system a better chance to operate with minimum encumbrance of the irresponsible and incompetent.

RIGHTS—Members of the General Assembly are greatly concerned about maintaining and preserving the rights of the citizens of North Carolina. That concern is completely honest and sincere. Differences arise only when the rights of one group apparently overlap the rights of another.

Factor In Economics

By ELMER ROESSNER

There's an economic side to auto accidents. It's so big that if Americans ever stop smashing their cars into each others', a large adjustment in the economy would be necessary.

Auto accidents result in an economic loss of perhaps $2 billion a year. While some of this loss is suffered by those directly concerned, all of us share in it. Those of us who never have accidents help pay for the smash-ups in higher auto insurance rates; those of us who do not drive help pay for them in higher insured rates. And when we buy even a loaf of bread we pay a little more (or get a little less) because the bakery has to buy expensive insurance.

Accidents cost all of us because we have to pay for dividers and separate lanes when accidents increase too fast, for grade separations, for traffic lights, for highway patrols, warning signs and other devices designed to prevent accidents or to pick up the pieces.

On the other hand accidents provide employment for tens of thousands. If Americans suddenly started to drive carefully and sanely, it might become difficult to find new jobs for all those displaced.

Many others owe their livelihood to our fantastically high rates of auto accidents. The replacement of wrecked cars must keep a small part of the auto workers employed. The dead in accidents provide employment for estate administrators, orphan asylum personnel and the men who hose the gasoline and blood off the pavement.

Reckless driving is big business. HANDLING FEE RAISED TO 5 CENTS A COUPON

When the wave of coupons good for discounts first started to break against the counters of grocery stores, grocers screamed that they could not afford to handle them for a cent each.

So manufacturers raised the fee to 2 cents.

Now one manufacturer (O'Clock Foods, Inc.) has raised its payment to 5 cents a coupon. While few other manufacturers will meet it, the move may exert pressure for lesser increases.

SPRING TIES TO LOOK GOOD ENOUGH TO DRINK

Pastel shades will be more popular in men's neckwear this spring, predicts Myron H. Ackerman, president of the Man's Tie Foundation.

Pink, mint green and cognac are increasing in popularity among the pink shirt and charcoal gray suit set, he said. But men who shy away from colored shirts will find pastels pleasing with charcoal gray suits, he said. Char brown ties trimmed with black, cognac or orange will also be popular with charcoal gray suits, he said.

NEW ADD-ON CREDIT PLAN LAUNCHED

Stores handling big-ticket items are watching a new copyrighted budget plan launched by American Furniture Co. in Denver.

Under the plan, homeowners are invited to buy $600 to $600 worth of furniture at 10 per cent down and pay at the rate of $30 a month. At the end of 180 days, additional purchases may be made, but the monthly instalments remain the same. Thus a family can furnish an entire home at that figure. For larger purchases, payments of $40, $50 and $60 a month are required.

WE MUST BE A NATION OF RHEUMS AND DOLOURS

We are a pill-swallowing people all right. One of the biggest pill makers in the pharmaceutical business (Arner Co.) has announced plans to expand its Buffalo, N.Y., plant. When new equipment is installed, it will be able to turn out 20,000,000 tablets in eight hours, or 5,000,000,000 in a working year.

Old Vintage Autos Have Appeal

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of Americans are proud and happy owners of new shiny 1955 model motor cars.

But if you are going to have a second automobile in the family Henry Austin Clark, Jr., suggests you be a real rugged individualist and shop around for a fine old sturdy 1915 Model T Ford or a snazzy 1919 Stutz Bearcat.

Clark, 37-year-old sugar heir, is one of the nation's leading antique car collectors. He has some 250 models most of them manufactured before he was born.

Restoring antique autos is a hobby growing in popularity each year.

"There are now between 10,000 and 15,000 antique cars in captivity—that is, cars that have been restored and are in the hands of collectors," he said. "Before the Second World War there were only about 500."

"There are between 8,000 and 10,000 collectors, ranging from college boys to elderly millionaires. Some 1,000 now have five or more old cars. The restored cars are worth anything from a few hundred dollars up to, I would say, $10,000."

Clark uses a new car himself for daily driving, but insists modern models lack many qualities of the old autos Granddaddy drove in the adventurous age of motoring.

"The new cars all have several extra feet of useless metal encasing nothing," he observed. "And a lot of them are plastered with chromium pasted on for no obvious reason."

"They've sacrificed individuality at the altar of mass production. Unless you pick an unusual two-tone job, you can't tell one car from another. But if you're driving a 1924 Pierson you don't have any trouble finding it in a parking lot."

"The old cars had a lot of other advantages. Fresh air, for one thing. And more visibility. You could see where you were going."

"I have to admit the new cars have better brakes. But if you get into a two-foot snowfall an old car will plow right through it. A new car is too low. It just piles up the snow in front of it and stalls.

"A modern car is also lost in 12-inch mud. An old car wasn't. A Model T could go places that no other car since it could—except the jeep.

"Speed? That's nothing new in motor cars. In 1906 Fred Marriott made 127 miles an hour in a Stanley Steamer. The next year he was doing an estimated 180 to 190 when he hit a rough spot and overturned. The car's boiler went about half a mile down the track, but Fred survived.

"In the Paris to Madrid race back in 1903 they achieved a speed of 90 miles an hour. But they killed so many spectators along the way—believe it was about 40—they had to call off the race."

"They had some horrible accidents in the old days, just as the Second World War there were only about 500."

"Clark believes the most valuable and desirable old car in the country is his 1910 Simplex sports car, which "will still do 80 to 90 miles an hour easily."

Many of the antique cars he searches out to buy and restore are found in old family barns and estate garages. Others, surprisingly, are still on the roads. "That can be embarrassing," he laughed. "Sometimes an owner gets indignant when you tell him you want to buy and preserve an antique the car he drives every day."

"The owner may not necessarily be poor either. I understand the Astors have a 1911 Rolls Royce which they sometimes still use for afternoon occasions."

Clark, who recently sponsored the "Carnival of Cars" on Broadway, keeps most of his antiques in a museum at Southampton.

One of his prize exhibits, a 1908 Adams-Farwell with a rotating engine that spins like a top, has a feature which Detroit might well consider putting into its 1956 model to please cautious wives.

"You can drive it from either the front or back seat," said Clark.

Nearly all of the traffic regulation bills involve this distinction and require choice as to which group will be supported. The automobile has long been accepted as a necessity. Lately it has been recognized also as a menace to safety. Preponderant majority of business executives and wage earners depend upon the automobile to get them to and from work, or vital necessity in conducting their business. That means the right

Chicod Senior Entered For Homemaking Title

CHICOD — The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow in Chicod High School is Hazel Mildred Mills. Miss Mills received the title after making the highest score in a written examination which tested the homemaking knowledge and attitudes of the senior girls in the graduating class. She will now be entered in competition to name the state's candidate for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Miss Mills will also receive a golden award pin, cook books for herself and for the school. The national winner in this search conducted among 187,000 young women in 8,000 of the nation's public, private and parochial high schools will be named April 21 at an American table fete in Philadelphia.

General Mills is the sponsor of the program designed to assist schools in building in young women a deeper appreciation and understanding of the American home and the personal qualities necessary to successful homemaking. A scholarship of $1,500 will be awarded each state winner, and she will receive a trip with her school advisor to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, Va., and Philadelphia. Her school will receive a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The scholarship of the young woman named All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be increased to $5,000. The 50-minute written examination designed and judged by Science Research Associates of Chicago, which was given to all participants in this national search, consisted of multiple choice and subjective questions which tested the students' attitude and knowledge in the major areas of homemaking. Each girl who took the test received a 24-page homemaking guide which will assist her in pursuing the career of homemaking.

Judge Was Blind, But Heard It All

TRINIDAD, Colo. (AP)—The man told Peace Justice Tony Barros yesterday he was sorry but Pete Santistevan, charged with running a stop sign, had been called out of town to tend an ailing relative. He was a "good friend" of the defendant, the man said, and couldn't be present. Barros agreed, but at that moment Highway Patrolman James Hughes—who had arrested Santistevan—entered the courtroom and greeted the defendant by name. Barros, who is blind, angrily fined Santistevan $10 and ordered him to jail for four days. Bars of nickel change their length when magnetized.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSBERG This isn't the Ides of March yet—that's the 15th—but after "Julius Caesar" last month we couldn't help thinking of it—and how glad we are that Income Tax Day isn't until April 15, which we would like to call the Ides of April. . . . Another important occurrence in March, incidentally—this month will mark the 103rd anniversary of the publication of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Harriet Beecher Stowe's chronicle of slavery in the South, one of the most influential books ever to be printed in America—it sold over six million copies before interest finally petered out, and still does a brisk resale business, after all these years. . . .

On Music A large group for music, this one. The E.G.C. Choir will give a public performance at Austin Hall on Sunday evening, and has just completed a state-wide trip. . . . And we've received word of a new record club, called "The Opera Society," which will send you your choice of "Carnegie," "Figaro," or "Tosca" on Hi-Fi LP records for the trifling sum of one dollar, as a trial offer. . . . Also of interest to musicians is a new biography of Felix Mendelssohn, by Dr. Eric Werner, sent to be issued by the Oxford University Press. There's a discussion in this week's Times about the conflicting influences of Christianity and Judaism on Mendelssohn, whose family adopted Christianity but whose traditions remained mixed throughout his life. . . .

New Books For FDR aficionados, "The Roosevelt Leadership," by Edgar E. Robinson, who was financed by a Philadelphia businessman who died in 1951. Robinson was commissioned to write an appraisal of Roosevelt "without fear, favor or prejudice." According to Henry S. Commager's review, the book is not very successful in this objective, although Robinson does a good job convincing us that Herbert Hoover was a great leader, a liberal and a democrat. . . . A little more up-to-the-minute, perhaps, is Elmer Davis' new effort, "Two Minutes Till Midnight," about the possible effects of an atomic war, if one actually does occur—which he does not rule out as a possibility. . . . Our behavior, when and if such a war comes, he concludes, "will in all truth nobly save, or meanly lose, the last best hope of earth." . . .

Good-Will Envoy Will Curb Tongue PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Winfield H. Emler, of suburban Paoli, is on his way to Los Angeles to see Mayor Norris C. Poulson and other officials. But while he's there, he pledged not to talk about these "controversial subjects": (1) population, a center of discussion between Los Angeles and Philadelphia, (2) smog, a top of conversation peculiar to the Los Angeles area, and (3) the weather in general a sore point with everybody. Emler received his title of ambassador because he was the top Chamber of Commerce salesman in 1954.

Moose Will Dedicate New Temple In Midyear Conclave

Pictured above is the new $100,000 Moose Temple which will be dedicated during the Mid-Year Conclave of the North Carolina Moose Association to be held here March 11-13. The new building, located on the Farmville Highway just beyond its intersection with the Kinston Highway, was placed in use last December.

Local Moose members will dedicate their new $100,000 temple March 11-13 when Moose from all over the state gather here for the Mid-Year Conclave of the North Carolina Moose Association. The three-day meet will be marked by a number of business and social meetings highlighted by the temple dedication ceremonies. Dedication ceremonies and the unveiling of the cornerstone will be held Sunday afternoon.

Attending the Mid-Year Conclave will be George A. Pelton, deputy Supreme secretary of the Moose and Earle W. Horton, director of the Membership Conservation Department. The occasion marks the 29th year for the Moose in North Carolina. During that time the fraternity has grown from only a few lodges to a total of 67 lodges with a membership of over 15,000. The new Moose home was opened in December and has been in use by the lodge since that time. It contains a large auditorium which is used for Moose meetings, dances and supper and other facilities. The local lodge was organized in November, 1950 with 57 charter members. It was located in upstairs quarters on Dickinson Avenue until the time the move was made into the newly-constructed temple. Today the lodge has nearly 600 members. Highlights of the three-day event which will mark the dedication of the new building include: a supper meeting of the officers and committee members and their wives on Friday night; a breakfast for the members of the Fellowship on Saturday morning; a Degree Staff Clinic Saturday afternoon; the Grand Conference Ball Saturday night and a candlelight enrollment ceremony breakfast Sunday morning. Business sessions will be held Sunday and the dedication ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

Three Losing Coaches Predict State And Duke Will Survive In Semifinals

RALEIGH (AP) — If the predictions of three losing coaches are correct, tournament-hardened North Carolina State and Duke will emerge the winners in tonight's semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament.

State, fifth in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll, goes against Wake Forest at 7:30, and Duke battles Virginia at 9. The winners meet tomorrow night for the championship.

South Carolina Coach Frank Johnson, whose team was trimmed by Duke yesterday afternoon, 83-67, said, "Duke has a whale of a good team. I think they'll go to the finals."

Coach Frank McGuire of North Carolina State, predicted State's Wolfpack would turn back neighborhood rival Wake Forest.

McGuire whose Tar Heels were laced by Wake Forest, 96-82, said, "Wake Forest has only one big man (Dickie Hemric). State has too much height. They'll beat you with rebounds."

State employing rebounds to full advantage, set a new tournament scoring record by walloping Clemson, 101-76, in the first game last night. The Wolfpack, with forward Ronnie Shavlik hitting for 27 points bagged 67 rebounds and connected on 39 of 97 shots from the floor for 40.3 per cent.

Wake Forest had an amazing shooting percentage of 50.8 in trimming North Carolina, attempting 63 shots and scoring on 32.

Wake Forest Coach Murray Green asserted, "It was a team victory. The rebound work of Lowell (Lefty) Davis and Hemric was fine." Hemric pulled down 16 rebounds and Davis 7. The 227-pound Hemric increased his major college scoring record for four years to 2,572 by dropping in 33 points. Davis got 32.

In two regular season games, Wake Forest lost to State 100-81, and 12-73, the latter in overtime. Asked about his chances tonight, Green smiled and replied: "We'll suffer from height and bench reserves."

Virginia reached the semifinals with an overtime 68-67 upset decision over Maryland in the opening game. The determined Cavaliers were led by guard Buzz Wilkinson with 30 points. Maryland didn't look like the same team of mid-season weeks without sophomore center Frank Fuqua who was declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties about a month ago.

Maryland Coach Bud Millikan said Virginia simply outshot the Terps, adding, "They played a good game and deserved to win. The Blue Devils held the old mark of 65 set last year. Eleven of the 12 players Duke used scored, four of them in double figures. Bob Lakata was high with 18.

Managers Keep Hoping Another 'Sleeper' Found

By ORLO ROBERTSON
The Associated Press

There isn't a major league manager who doesn't hope that a sleeper, such as Mickey Mantle, Bob Grim, Wally Moon or Willie Mays, turns up among the rookies striving to make baseball's bigtime.

That's the reason Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati is taking a long and good look at Bob Thurman, Chuck Dressen of Washington thinks highly of Bob Kline and Walt Alston wouldn't be surprised if Bert Hamric made the Brooklyn varsity.

You'll recall that Mantle jumped all the way from Class C into the Yankees' center field Grim had played only one year of organized ball before compiling a 20-6 record for the Yankees and winning Rookie of the Year honors in 1954. Moon wasn't even on the Cardinals' roster until the opening day last year and Mays was so lightly regarded he wasn't in the Giants camp in 1951—the year he made his debut.

Tebbetts, already blessed with plenty of long ball hitters, figures the Redlegs have another in Thurman, 32-year-old Negro outfielder who admits he has "just about given up on ever getting into the major leagues."

Thurman, signed as a free agent after Tebbetts watched him pound the ball in the Puerto Rican winter league, also can play first base and pitch, if necessary. He hit .328 and had a 2-0 pitching record in Puerto Rico.

The Senators' high command thinks "we may have landed a bargain" in Kline, who hit .319 as a Yankee farm hand with Birmingham last season. He is given a good chance of making the grade at shortstop.

Hamric hasn't much chance of breaking into the Dodgers' Sandy Amoros-Duke Snider-Carl Furillo outfield combine, but he figures to make a battle of it for one of the reserve spots. The Sandy Fork, Va., native, who hits from either side of the plate, has power as attested by a dozen homers in a half season at St. Paul last year. Before a fractured hand put him out of commission, he hit .350.

The news was good from a number of camps where holdouts had been causing concern.

Minnie Minoza the No. 1 White Sox holdout who had asked for a 100 per cent boost, finally settled for a $7,500 increase. That raised his salary to a reported $32,500.

Baltimore ended its holdout troubles with the signing of pitcher Lou Kretlow for $10,000. Catcher Sammy White was expected to write his signature on a Boston Red Sox contract today after holding out until the club approved his playing of basketball during the off season. The Red Sox also signed rookie pitcher George Susce.

But the biggest holdout of them all—the mighty Red Williams—still hasn't put in his appearance at the Red Sox Sarasota camp.

And the Pirates have an $18,000 pact waiting for their slugging outfielder, Frank Thomas. But in Pittsburgh Thomas said he has had no official word on the contract.

ECC Swimmers Earn Win In Final Scheduled Meet

East Carolina College swimming team defeated the Norfolk Division of William and Mary, 46-37, in Memorial Pool here yesterday afternoon for their first triumph of the season.

The East Carolina swimmers captured four first-places in the meet. Dickie Denton of Tarboro came in first in the 50-yard freestyle, Ronnie Rose of Goldsboro won the 200-yard backstroke, Ted Gartman won the 150-yard individual medley and Denton was the front man for his team in the 440-yard freestyle relay.

Colleron of William and Mary took two firsts for his team. He won the 200-yard freestyle and the 440-yard freestyle. He was responsible for 10 of William and Mary's points.

Coach Ray Martinez' swimmers started off in fine fashion by taking the opening 300-yard medley. Rose, Frank Moore and Phillip Weaver swam for East Carolina. The event was worth five points.

The locals pushed the score on up to 20-11 in the next three events. Colleron of Wm. and Mary won the 200-yard freestyle but Denton's win in the 50-yard dash and Gartman's first in the 150-yard medley gave East Carolina the commanding lead.

Other first-place winners for Wm. and Mary were Davis in the 100-yard freestyle and Togg in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Cocalono and Purrington won the one-meter board diving event. Cocalono won five points, Purrington three, and East Carolina's Tommy El Ramey, one.

Cummings of East Carolina placed second in the 50-yard dash, Denton second in the 100-yard freestyle, Moore second in the 200-yard breaststroke, and Cummings came in behind Colleron in the 440-yard freestyle.

A good crowd was on hand to witness the meet, which concludes East Carolina's first intercollegiate swimming schedule.

Pitcher Howie Judson of the Cincinnati Redlegs has twin brothers playing for the University of Illinois basketball team.

High Scoring Furman Eliminated By Washington And Lee At Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The 35th Southern Conference Basketball Tournament moved into the semifinals here today minus its only All America player and the nation's highest scoring team but with one record already written into the books and all the seeded teams still in contention.

Top-seeded West Virginia which never has advanced further than the semifinals of a conference tourney, collides with young, dangerous Washington and Lee in tonight's 7:30 p.m. opener. Second-seeded George Washington the title favorite, meets third-ranked Richmond in the 9:30 p.m. showdown for the other berth in Saturday's finals.

W&L, hitting better than 41 per cent of its floor shots, set the new tournament record in battering Furman and its All America eagle eye, Darrell Floyd, 97-63 in yesterday's tourney curtain-raiser. No other tournament club had ever scored that many points. West Virginia established the old record in 1933 in nipping Furman 91-87.

George Washington gave the first round's most accurate shooting exhibition while crushing Davidson 74-36. The Colonials connected on 51 per cent of their shots—33 of 65—after recovering from the shock of an early slow-down by the outclassed Wildcats.

West Virginia, though leading virtually all the way, had to fight right down to the wire to eliminate lightly regarded VMI 73-66. Richmond, also in front most of its brilliant pint-sized guards, Warren Mills and Ed Harrison, to ease past William and Mary 90-75 as expected.

The individual scoring record of 41 points for conference tournaments set by George Washington's Corky Devlin last year, was not approached. William and Mary's center John Mahoney came closest with 28 points against Richmond and Rod Hundley, the West Virginia crowd-pleaser had 27 against VMI.

Washington and Lee's victory over Furman was due largely to the individual efforts of forward Barry Storick, who grabbed 23 re-

Eppes Topples New Bern Out Of Tourney

The Eppes Bulldogs traveled a hard road to defeat New Bern 60-53 in the final game last night in the Triple A Class at Kinston in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association. Fred Outterbridge, Eppes sharp shooting guard, was the high scorer of the game with 24 points. Richard Armfield, center for Eppes, was second with 18. Graham Fighting Chico Vejar And Father Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the ring's real gentlemen, aging Billy Graham and eager young Chico Vejar, battle it out tonight in a bout regarded as a tossup at Madison Square Garden.

They are friends and respect each other but will prove once again in their 10-rounder that there is no place in the ring for sentiment.

This is a big one for both. It could be the last for the 33-year-old Graham, who is desperately trying to get back in the running "for four or more fights." The veteran of 14 years and 124 bouts wants to pile up some extra cash to go into business.

"I guess this is the test," said the New Yorker. "I've never lost three in a row before and if I can't beat Vejar I might just as well pack it in. He has nothing to beat me with. He's easy to hit,

The Fellowship of Christian Love

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Boesch

Scripture—Acts 2:42-47; I Corinthians 13:1-7; Ephesians 3:11-22; 3:14-18; Colossians 3:12-17; I Thessalonians 3:11-13; I John 4:7-11.

In the first church composed of the apostles and their converts, all shared what each had, and they met daily to eat and pray together "in gladness of heart."

In his first epistle to the Corinthians, Paul emphasized the necessity of love for others, and the qualities of true love, for "love suffereth long and is kind."

Paul wrote to the Ephesians that he knelt before his Father, "that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being grounded and rooted in love."

"Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God; and knoweth God." MEMORY VERSE—I John 4:11.

The Fellowship of Christian Love

THIS LESSON is all about love, and could there be a more beautiful and appropriate theme to be taught in a Christian Sunday school?

tal words in the 13th chapter of I Corinthians: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity (love), I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

The funeral was an ordeal for everyone. It was five o'clock before Katie could wash her dinner dishes, and she demurred at Fred's offer to help her.

"Sit here and talk to me, if you like," she invited. "You should try to get a little rest on Sunday darling. Why, the newspaper hasn't even been opened. I'll wash up this mess and then fix us a little supper."

"Only a sandwich, Katie. Mama is not here to disapprove." His eyes twinkled.

"Fred..." she began.

"I know. We both love her dearly. But she is a very bossy woman. And we are her whole life." He opened the newspaper.

Katie flipped about the room; she was the sort of girl to look pretty in the kitchen; she worked neatly and efficiently. Her pink cotton dress was becoming in a slender ankles and her pretty feet moved gracefully.

"Katie?"

"What is it, Fred? Something in the paper?"

"No, I mean that is not what I wanted to ask you."

She waited. He got up and fetched his pipe, filled it and sat down again in the rocker which she kept beside the window overlooking the garden.

"Katie," he began again, "will you be disappointed if I refuse to go back to St. Louis and open an office with Murphy?"

Katie did not look up from the silver which she was putting into its case; she became suddenly very particular about setting the tines of the forks in line the sides of the knives all faced the same way. She was remembering the afternoon, the funeral, Linda, lovely and tired, her still face as white as the pearls which she wore—Fred at her side, his concerned eyes watching her. He would not want to leave Linda. Was that why he asked...

She sighed. "Are you sure it's the right thing to stay here, Fred?" she asked quietly. Glad to escape looking at him, she carried the walnut case to the dining room.

"How can a man be sure that what he does is right, Katie?" he asked when she returned.

She unfolded a fresh cloth and spread it upon the kitchen table.

"Well," she said slowly, "is staying here what you want to do?"

"Oh, yes," he said quickly. "That much I know."

He sat gazing out of the window at the trees. "I love this place, Katie," he said softly. His rich voice throbbled with feeling. "I like the life we lead here. To me it approaches the ideal life for a doctor. To work naturally, to do the work that comes to a man of my profes-

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

"These country people need a doctor, and I need them. I need everything they can do for me, and they need all I can do for them. They are more than patients to me! I want to be more than a doctor to them! I want a chance to help these people who have been allotted to me, not only to bring them safely into the world, but to help them live well in that world. I want to build an overall health program."

"Yes, Fred, but what about yourself? If you sacrifice yourself to this Valley..."

"Katie, I have but one life to live. No? Therefore, I would make it as good a life as possible. Must I spend it looking at patients as just so many sinuses? No feet, no hearts, no—And competing with a thousand ambitious doctors who also want to be famous? No, Katie. If I do something with my head research, I may perhaps become famous. If it comes, it will come. And no other man will be hurt or destroyed. If I stay here in the Valley, I shall be able to live a full life. I can work in my little hospital, and sometimes go fishing in the afternoon. It will be hard work, but there will often be time to look at the mountains, and to think. Or I may take an hour here and there to work in our garden yonder to kneel on the dark ground and feel the earth in my fingers..."

"I mean to build us a house of our own, Katie, in about a year, maybe—a house all on one floor, with a little land about it, and surely a garden. A place where we may raise children and know them, be with them, not like the city way, where babies go to nursery schools and a busy doctor-specialist must ask his secretary where his son is at a given minute. I do not want that. Katie. I want to put a lot of me into those children, get a lot from them."

Katie came toward him, the western light full upon her pretty face. "What children are you talking about, Fred?" she asked, a dimple dancing about her lips.

He showed his surprise. "Why, our children, Katie."

Her eyes were round her cheeks pink.

"Of course!" said Fred, sounding like Ludmilla. "Don't you know that was why I gave the Nienaber baby to Linda? Why I let her have it? She has no child, and will not have—I am urging her to adopt children."

"But she's young, Fred. Not over thirty."

"She is young, darling, but she won't marry again, I'm afraid."

Katie moved so that her hand lay upon Fred's shoulder.

"Because she is in love with you?"

Fred's face was grave. "I'm sorry about that. It was not my choice that such a thing should happen to her."

Katie went back to her supper preparations. She understood everything that Fred might have said and she accepted the situation. After all, Katie had never been able to comprehend why all women did not fall in love with her Fred.

She loosened the ruffled leaves of lettuce. "You were speaking of our children," she prompted him.

He nodded. "Yes I was. It is time we were having them, Katie."

He was so brisk and businesslike that she laughed. "Did your mother tell you so?"

He stared at her. Then he got up from the rocker and came over to her. With his fingertip under her chin, he tilted her face up to his gaze.

Katie giggled and pulled away. "She told me that's why she wanted to see us. Three years, she said, was long enough for me to be a bride. Now, she said..."

"Didn't it make you angry,"

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market maintained a quiet mixed aspect today in the early afternoon.

Major groups swung higher or lower without much emphasis. Trading was well under yesterday's 2,380,000 shares when the market edged ahead.

The oils, steels, and motors were higher, while railroads, coppers, and chemicals were lower. Others were steady to mixed.

Among higher stocks were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Standard Oil (N. J.), Cities Service, Southern California Edison United Aircraft, and Westinghouse Electric.

Lower were Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore & Ohio, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Boeing, General Electric, and United Air Lines.

Northrop Aircraft reported substantially higher earnings for the quarter ended Jan. 31—$2.43 as against 41 cents—and the stock opened on 6,000 shares up 11 at 37.

Bank Robberies Show Big Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today an increase in bank robberies has reached "feverish proportions."

He said a new development has been entry into the field of the lone wolf operator and the amateur, with the latter sometimes acting on sudden impulse.

In a signed editorial in the March issue of the bureau's Law Enforcement Bulletin, the FBI director urged concerted action by banking institutions, law officers and the public.

"Violations of the Federal Bank Robbery Statute soared from 226 bank robberies, burglaries and larcenies committed in the calendar year 1950, to a startling total of 517 such offenses in 1954," he wrote.

"Of the three violations, robbery—the most serious—shot up threefold in the same period to 307 last year as compared with 100 in 1950."

"The crime itself has changed perceptibly in its pattern. During the gang era of the '30s, highly organized and seasoned veterans of crime hand-picked and victimized institutions most susceptible to attack."

"Today in sharp contrast, every banking-type institution is a potential target. The bank robber list today reflects the prominence of the 'lone robber'—and the amateur. The crime may be a spur-of-the-moment act in which little or no planning is involved."

Air Reservists Promoted

Four members of the local Air Force reserve squadron were promoted to captain at a meeting of the unit last night.

Announcement of the promotions was made by commanding officer of the squadron, Leonard Briley.

Winning their additional bars were: Howard Pritchard, Greenville; Josh Eason, Ayden; Albert Smith, Farmville; and John Highsmith, Bethel.

The four are members of Flight D, 9947th Air Force Reserve Squadron. All the newly-promoted captains were pilots during World War II and all saw combat duty.

The local unit meets every Thursday night at 8 o'clock downstairs in Austin Auditorium at East Carolina College.

All air force reservists living in Pitt County are invited to attend and join the local unit.

C. W. Snell New District Engineer

R. Markham, division engineer for the second highway division, announced today C. W. Snell Jr. has been promoted to district engineer for District 1 of the division with headquarters in Washington.

District 1 of the first division comprises Pitt and Beaufort Counties. Snell replaces the late H. H. Wesley as district engineer, and Markham said the promotion for Snell became effective February 1.

Prior to his promotion as district engineer, Snell had been serving as office engineer in the highway division headquarters in Greenville. Snell was first employed by the State Highway and Public Works Commission in June 1947 in the construction department where he served for one year. Since that time with the exception of 18 months in which he served as a captain in the Marine Corps, Snell has been an engineer in the division headquarters.

Series Of Woods Fires Blamed On Carelessness

Pitt county forest rangers used all of their heavy equipment fighting woods fires in various places Wednesday and Thursday.

The scattered fires ranged over about 300 acres, Chief Forest Ranger N. S. (Kid) Tyson stated.

"Practically all the fires resulted from carelessness on the part of farmers burning brush during high wind and without notifying adjoining landowners," he declared.

The first woods fire Wednesday was reported on the Gorman Stokes land in the Helen's Cross Roads community and it involved nine acres.

The next woods fire was in the Whitehurst Station community between Stokes and Bethel Wednesday on 49 acres of the W. M. Padgett land. A nearby tract of 16 acres was burning that afternoon but the firefighters had it under control by nightfall.

A dangerous woods fire raged on the Sheppard's Mill property near Stokes Wednesday night and it involved 47 acres, the forest ranger stated. It was under control Wednesday night, but flared up again Thursday. It was controlled.

The most serious woods fire of the week involved about 200 acres in the Elmira Crossroads community of Pitt county, near the Beaufort county line. The rangers had it under control Thursday afternoon. This blaze was on the Bates Lumber Company's and North Carolina Pulpwood Company's lands.

Capitol Square

to drive an automobile is a necessity rather than a privilege.

Most people who drive automobiles also have to do some walking. When the question comes to relative rights of one driver as contrasted with another, or of any driver when contrasted with rights of pedestrians, the problem is where to give the advantage.

There is a powerful group in the Legislature concerned primarily with preserving the driving rights of motorists, and therefore opposed to tightening the laws including additional causes for revocation of driving license. This group is led by Reps. Sam Worthington of Pitt, Thomas White of Lenoir and Thomas Turner of Guilford.

Another group is more concerned about protecting the rights of pedestrians and innocent victims of motor accidents. Champions of this group include Reps. Wayland Floyd of Robeson, Jim Speight of Bertie and Edwin Wood of Wake, and it has the very potent help of Speaker Larry Moore of Wilson.

The division is almost equal and every vote in committee and on the floor has been close. The result at end of the session will probably be some tightening of the laws without extreme inconvenience for the motorists.

His Fortune Not Quite Enough

HOUSTON (AP)—Oilman Hugh Roy Cullen said yesterday he already had given the University of Houston 11 million dollars plus oil leases and royalties.

He said he had "succeeded in giving away 93 per cent of my worldly goods" and that the university needed more money for operating expenses. Exaggerations about his gifts, he said, created a false impression that the school was fixed financially forever.

Gunboat Flotilla Raids Island Of Nationalists

TAIPEI (AP)—More than 40 Communist gunboats and armed junkies attacked Kaoteng Island in the Matsuo group today but were driven off by Chinese Nationalist defenders, the Defense Ministry said tonight.

The Matsuo are 100 miles northwest of Formosa and 20 miles off the Red mainland. With Quemoy they are the last important Nationalist outpost.

The Ministry made no claim of damage inflicted on the Reds, saying only they fled under fire.

There was no indication whether it was a hit-and-run raid, or an attempted invasion.

The ministry said the attack came at 4 p.m. in foggy weather. It said the Reds launched a similar attack against Kaoteng Jan. 23.

The Ministry made no claim of Reds on Amoy fired eight shells at Nationalist-held little Quemoy. There were no reports of damage, and no reports of Nationalist retaliation.

But Three Rabies Clinics Remain

Greenville residents have only three more opportunities to have their dogs vaccinated at the rabies control clinics now being held throughout the county.

W. M. Pate of the Health Department, who is in charge of the clinics, said the ones held in the city have not been attended as well as it had been anticipated.

The clinics will continue through March 12, and local residents may have their dogs vaccinated March 5 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon at the New Enterprise Warehouse, March 9 from 1-3:45 p.m. at Farmers Warehouse, and from 4-5 p.m. at the Brookgreen School; and March 12 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon at the New Enterprise Warehouse.

Pate urges all city dog owners to have their animals vaccinated at one of these clinics. The vaccination is required by state law, and after the clinics have been held, a house to house survey will be made in the city and county to find any dogs which have not received the shots for rabies.

Transplant Part Of His Intestine

DENVER (AP)—Thirty inches of small intestine were transplanted into the throat of a 16-year-old Fairplay, Colo., boy in a 13-hour operation second of its kind within two months, at Colorado General Hospital yesterday.

Edsel Scroggs drank from a bottle of liquid potash at the family home Dec. 31, severely damaging his esophagus.

It was the same type operation performed in January on 2-year-old Mike Stansberry. A portion of those intestine was grafted by surgeons to fit as a new esophagus.

Old Law Ended His Candidacy

MILFON, Mass. (AP)—Joseph W. Leahy has withdrawn as a candidate for town meeting member because of an executive order issued 82 years ago by President Ulysses S. Grant.

The U. S. Civil Service Commission pointed out yesterday that the order prohibits persons from accepting or holding any office or position under a state, territorial or municipal government at the same time they hold federal office by appointment.
