The business hour was conducted by Mrs. J. T. Oglesby and reports from the circles were given. Mrs. Oglesby appointed a nominating committee. Mesdames C. L. McLain, Claude Hart, Addie McCotter and Sam McLawhorn.

At the conclusion of the meeting members were invited to the R. A. Nelson class room where the Christian Social Relations, Chairman Mrs. J. C. Hooten, and her committee, Mesdames Sam McLawhorn, G. L. Tucker, L. O. Cox served cake with whipped cream and cherries. Later in the evening the pastor, Rev. R. C. Mooney, and his wife, were remembered with an old fashioned pounding from the members of the church.

Talk On Russia
Given At P.T.A. Regular Meeting
FOUNTAIN—The Fountain Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting Thursday, March 10th in the home of Mrs. Fred Moore. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joe Gay. Everyone sang "This Is My Father's World". Mrs. Edwin Corbett gave the devotional. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The roll was called with twelve members present. Mrs. Philip M. Cory was a visitor and Mrs. Ben Gardner Jr., a new member.

Plans were made to help the other clubs of the community with the supper given Friday, March 18th, for the benefit of the community house.

Mrs. Johnnie Gardner gave a health report. Mrs. Albert Bell gave a very interesting talk on Russia, the country the club is studying. Nineteen books were reported on. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Carlton Gardner, clothing leader who gave a very interesting and helpful demonstration on covering belts, buttons and buckles, etc.

Bingo was played for recreation. The hostess then served delicious refreshments.

Barbara Harris Is Declamation Contest
First Place Winner

FOUNTAIN—The Parent-Teachers Association met in the school auditorium on Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order by E. C. Newton, president.

Mrs. Laura Tanner's eighth grade presented the program for the evening. It was a declamation contest having as its theme "Faith in Tomorrow."

The devotional was led by Geraldine Galloway and the Lord's Prayer was sung by members of the class. Edward Dilda introduced the speakers, as follows: Gene Gray, who spoke on "Faith in Tomorrow Through Education"; "Faith in Tomorrow Through Science," Barbara Harris; "Faith in Tomorrow Through Religion," J. C. Abrams; and "Faith in Tomorrow Through Faith in People," by Sylvia Cobb.

Judges for this occasion were Mrs. Elizabeth Eagles, Mrs. Wesley Webb and O. H. Forrest. The contest was sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club and the awards were presented by Mrs. Carter G. Smith, club president. Barbara Harris received first place, Richard Dunn, second place, and Gene Gray, third place.

P. T. A. business was conducted by the president, E. C. Newton. The minutes were read by Mrs. E. B. Beasley Jr. and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Ruel Dilda.

After a short business session the meeting was adjourned and parents and friends were invited to visit the classrooms.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 16, 1925

The regular meeting of the Pitt County Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion was held Friday with Mrs. W. H. Rogers. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. Wiley Brown. Letters were read from boys at Oteen and it was decided to send home-made cakes, fruit cake and layer cake for their next box. A bulletin, read by Mrs. K. B. Pace, explained the work of the Child Welfare Committee. Announcement was made that the first volume of the American Legion history is now ready and may be secured for $2 per copy. At the conclusion of the business meeting delicious refreshments were served.

Ballard's Church Has Program On Evangelism

Mrs. Dal Williams was hostess to the Women of Ballard's Presbyterian Church on Friday night, March 11, at 7:30 p.m. The group joined together in singing "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" followed by silent prayer and concluded with a prayer by Mrs. Annie Mae Lloyd. The Bible study was given by Mrs. Lester Turnage on "Faith As Adventures" taken from Romans, 4th chapter, verses 13-25. She gave a very interesting study. It was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Annie Flanagan. The program leader, Mrs. Hedgepeth, assisted by Mrs. Norman Wooten, gave the program on Evangelism.

The president presided over the business session. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting. Roll was called and dues paid. There were 11 members and one visitor present. A collection for White Cross and The Lucy Steel Fund was taken. Mrs. C. C. Harris and Mrs. Wiley Crawford were appointed to buy spreads for the communion table. There being no further business the meeting adjourned with prayer.

During the social hour, Mrs. Williams, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Hedgepeth, served sandwiches, cookies, potato chips and iced drinks.

Hostess Entertains At Birthday Party

Miss Ethel Mae Dunn, who was 16 on March 8, was honored at a birthday party on March 8. Miss Lou Rae Worthington was hostess at the home of the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Dunn Sr., of near Ballard's Crossroads.

The guests were greeted by the honoree's sister, Mrs. William Hudson of Greenville. The guests were Alice Gray Bowen, Connie Bowen, Claude Carr, Graham Crawford, Mrs. Earl Brown, Frank Dail, Bud Ham, Tennie Ham, Ann Harrell, James Hudson, Bonnie Harrell, Sidney Harrell, J. A. Hudson, Kirby Hudson, Hazel Hudson, Jimmy Moore, Wiley Moye, Archie Newby, Gloria Dean Noles, Peggy Ross, Thebert Smith, Barbara Stox, Dewey Ray Stocks, Bobby Vaughn and Faye Walston. All of the honoree's brothers and sisters were at home for the party.

After many enjoyable games were played, refreshments of potato chips, home-made fudge candy, salted nuts, Pepsi and Coca-Colas were served with the most beautiful birthday cake.

Arrest Woman On Bootleg Charge

Nora White, Negro, of 607 Allen's Alley was arrested last night for possession of a quantity of ABC and non-tax-paid liquor. ABC officer J. M. Ward said several pints of ABC liquor and a small amount of bootleg liquor were found in the combination store and living quarters occupied by the woman. She will be tried in city court next Monday morning.

Participating in the arrest were ABC officers and members of the sheriff's department.

Evangelistic Crusade Leaders Announced By Fountain Churches

FOUNTAIN—The Evangelistic Crusade in the Grace Presbyterian Church will be led by the Rev. Mr. Anthony Edson, a senior at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Robert Dunbar, a Junior at the Seminary, will be in charge of the music. The services will begin at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, March 20th, and will continue each night Sunday through Friday 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Philip M. Cory, minister of the church, states that this is a part of the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade being held in practically every Presbyterian church in the whole Synod of North Carolina during this week. Mr. Edson is from Mobile, Ala. Mr. Dunbar is from Houghton College, N. Y., and is the Chapel Pianist for the Seminary. Both of these young men are unusually gifted in the work they will be doing for the church, and a fine spiritual treat is in store for all who attend the services.

FOUNTAIN—The Evangelistic Crusade in the Falkland Presbyterian Church will be led by the Rev. Mr. Dean Boyer, a Senior in Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Clifton Dixon, a Junior at the Seminary will lead the singing. The services will begin with the 11:00 a.m. service, Sunday, March 20th, and continue each night at 7:30 p.m. Sunday through Friday.

The Rev. Mr. Philip M. Cory, minister of the church, states that Mr. Boyer is from Oseola Mills, Pa., and Mr. Clifton Dixon is from Wilmington, N. C. This Crusade is being held in practically every Presbyterian church in the whole Synod of North Carolina. Both of these fine young men are gifted in the work they will be doing here and the community and the public at large has a real spiritual treat in store for them at the Falkland

Presbyterian Church next week. FOUNTAIN—The Evangelistic Crusade in the Fountain Presbyterian Church will be led by the Rev. Mr. James Dickenson, a Senior at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Carl Polheim, a Junior at the Seminary, will lead the singing. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 20th, and continue through Friday night at the same hour.

The Rev. Mr. Philip M. Cory, minister of the church, states that Mr. Dickenson is pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian Church, Fairmont, N. C., and will take up his pastoral duties there on June 1st, shortly after his graduation from the Seminary. Mr. Polheim is from Baltimore, Md., and is unusually gifted in music.

The public is extended a warm welcome to these services by the church.

Missionary Society Meets
FOUNTAIN—The Woman's Missionary Society met in the Baptist Church Monday afternoon with Mrs. Hugh Eagles and Mrs. Henry Smith, hostesses.

Mrs. Smith, also program chairman, presented a program on Baptist World Program as it works through Baptist Cooperative Program. The devotional thought was "That the World Might Know." The scripture was taken from Matthew 16:24-27. Mrs. Smith pointed out that Missions is men and women joining together to help God to reach out after man. Mrs. Smith had posters bearing titles of topics that were discussed. She emphasized that the cooperative program is Southern Baptists' greatest expression of progress and unity.

Assisting Mrs. Smith with her program were Mrs. Eagles, Mrs. Turnage, Mrs. Speight, Mrs. L. P. Yelverton and Mrs. J. M. Horton.

Plan Convention For Honor Society

Student members of the East Carolina College chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America are now making plans for the first North Carolina convention of the national honor society, which will be held at East Carolina March 25-26. More than 200 representatives of chapters in this state are expected to attend.

Bobby Lou Avant of Whiteville, state FBLA president; Kenneth Cole of Kinston, president of the East Carolina chapter; and Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina business education faculty, state advisor, head a large organization of FBLA members at the college here who are working on arrangements for the state convention. Officers and com-

Final Concert By Music Groups

Their final concert of the year was presented last night by Miss Ona Shindler's Greenville High School music groups, when they gave their annual Spring performance for an audience of some 350 local citizens in the high school auditorium.

The 85-voice group was composed of the high school boys glee club, girls glee club, mixed chorus and junior high girls glee club. Jill Sutton was soprano soloist, and a trio composed of Kitty Collins, Joanna Hardee and Rachael Steinbeck also presented a number.

Piano accompanists were Sue Tucker and Nina Overton. The entire production was under the direction of Miss Shindler.

The hour long concert consisted of four parts, featuring sacred and secular selections, folk songs, spirituals and popular music.

All proceeds from the entertainment will be used for the benefit of the high school music department.

No-Scrub Way To Gleaming Floors

Everybody has heard of the housewife who kept her kitchen floor so clean you could eat off it.

We never met her. But we know how she did it. She did it the hard way — on her hands and knees — with a scrubbrush. Today, you can keep your linoleum or asphalt tile immaculate with only a fraction as much effort.

Just apply Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating. Its water-clear finish seals out dirt so well you can clean it in a flash. Glaxo eliminates waxing, and you put it on only about twice a year.

Children's Play By Drama Club

Members of the East Carolina Playhouse, dramatic club at East Carolina College, have chosen "Rumpelstiltskin," based on the familiar and popular, fairy story, as their annual play for school children in Pitt County. Four performances scheduled for March 28-31, are expected to attract audience entertainment for pupils in Pitt County.

The 1955 play for children is one of a series of dramas which began in 1942. Since then, the plays for young people have been continued annually with the purpose of providing enjoyable and wholesome entertainment for pupils in Pitt County schools.

The Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women, sponsor of the series, is in charge of arrangements for performances and the distribution of tickets. Mrs. D.S. Spain, Jr., president of the local AAUW, and other members of the organization are cooperating with the college players in arranging the presentation of the children's drama.

Performances will begin March 28 at the Epps High School in Greenville. Three other performances will take place in the McGinnis auditorium on the college campus as follows: March 29 and 30, for county school children, and March 31, for pupils in city schools of Greenville.

Mrs. L. T. Respass Funeral On Thursday

Mrs. Ella Bateman Respass, widow of L. T. Respass, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at 12:10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon after 10 months of illness. She was 78 years old.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by her pastor, Dr. H. G. Haney. Burial will be in the Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Respass was born and reared in Washington County near Plymouth. She was married to Mr. Respass in 1898 and they spent most of their married life in Washington and Beaufort counties. For the past fifteen years they had made their home in Greenville. Mr. Respass died October, 1950. Mrs. Respass was a member of the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Surviving are two sons: Ronald W. and C. M. (Smug) Respass of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Ora Curling of South Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Blanche Phelps of Hampton, Va.; seven grandchildren; two great grandchildren; and two half brothers, Hymie Gurkin of Tarboro and Milton Gurkin of Pinetown.

Three Tours For ECC Students In Summer Program

Three tours which will combine sightseeing and study, are included in the program of East Carolina College's 1955 summer session. Dr. Ed J. Carter, director of the college Bureau of Field Services, is in charge of arrangements.

A New England and Canadian United Nations Seminar Tour, June 20-July 12, has been planned for recent high school graduates. In addition to travel, it will include attendance at a United Nations Seminar conducted at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, over a five-day period.

Other tours are: The Northwest Pacific, July 13-August 18, and New England and Maritime Canada, June 6-July 6.

Each of these tours offers college credit. Those participating in the New England and Canadian United Nations Seminar Tour may earn five quarter hours of undergraduate credit in geography. The other two tours may provide nine quarter hours of graduate credit, which may be used as professional credit toward raising or renewing a teaching certificate or toward a degree.

Transportation will be by modern air-conditioned buses operated by Circle Tours, and stops will be made at approved hotels or motor courts. An experienced director and guides for sightseeing at points of major interest along the way will be provided for each tour.

Members of the East Carolina faculty will serve as instructors. A four-day orientation and instruction period on the East Carolina campus will initiate each tour, and the closing day will be spent at the college and devoted to discussion and summarization. A college faculty member will travel with each group.

RESTRICT TOURISTS?
TOKYO (U)—The newspaper Asahi reported today the Japanese government had strongly suggested that inspection tours of a Red China trade mission due here next week be restricted to the Tokyo and Osaka industrial areas. Asahi said the government had urged host organizations to cancel scheduled tours that would have taken the Communists all over Japan.

Some scientists estimate that heating of buildings in a city can raise temperatures in the area as much as two degrees.

More, Not Less, Help For Safe Drivers -

The most recent legislative effort to weaken the highway safety laws would make it more difficult to revoke a driver's license; which, combined with the anti-whammy bill appears to be shaping up as a campaign to turn the highways over to the reckless and drunken drivers.

It is the careful drivers, composing the great majority, who will bear the brunt of such short-sighted legislative action.

Rep. Tom White, of Kinston, who authored the anti-whammy measure defends it this way:

"In my opinion, no program of highway safety which in any of its aspects abrogates the legal rights of the people it seeks to protect can long endure. While these traps are being tended to swell the arrest record for speeding, the drunken driver, the reckless driver, drivers who refuse to yield the right of way, and willful speeders are left to their own devices to kill and maim anyone who may be upon the highway . . . I raise my voice in protest against the policy of assuming that every person charged with speeding is guilty, and against the policy of treating all the motorists in North Carolina as criminals."

That is a mouthful of words, but his arguments are painfully weak.

One Billion Dollars Every Day This Year

Maybe one of the reasons a billion dollars doesn't stagger the imagination so much these days is because the term is so commonplace when dealing with budgets, foreign aid or armaments.

But if one begins to itemize a million of anything, a little bit of awe creeps in; until a billion of anything (even pennies) is incomprehensible.

So it is with America's productivity.

Averaging up predictions of leading economists indicates that "gross national product", or combined expenditures of the nation's people, business and government, will total about 365 billion dollars in 1955, or a billion for every day in the year.

It's a big country.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PROBLEMS CAN BE MANUFACTURED

One of the most uncomfortable experiences in life is being impaled upon the horns of a dilemma. There are some choices in life which are definitely "either-or." The decision to steal or not to steal is definitely either-or. The decision to marry a person one does not love is definitely either-or.

But most decisions are not like that. They are in the form of a dilemma. And even though they may appear to do so, the contrasting choices may not be as different as they first appear to be. Some of the great mistakes in philosophy have occurred because distinguished thinkers allow themselves to be caught on the horns of a dilemma. They concluded that certain problems demanded an either-or decision, and they accepted one position wholeheartedly and with scoffing repudiated the other.

Again it needs to be said that either-or is real in life particularly as regards moral problems, but where policy is involved, either-or does not occur as frequently as we might suppose. Someone has said, "When you find yourself confronting the horns of a dilemma, how both horns," which is a facetious way of saying that we sometimes make problems out of things not intended to be problems at all.

There are plenty of real problems in life—don't let us manufacture any.

Cool To Reuther's Ambitions

WASHINGTON—Walter P. Reuther's eagerness for a merger of his CIO with the numerically stronger American Federation of Labor is attributed by many union associates to his ambition to run for the United States Senate from Michigan. He wants full unity among the great industrial state's workers for his campaign to be the first top flight labor representative in that body.

Labor's ranks were not united when Pat McCarran, a union official, narrowly defeated Homer Ferguson last fall. The CIO and AFL groups finally negotiated an anti-Ferguson alliance, but neither industrial union men worked quietly for the defeated candidate. They included James B. Hoffa, the controversial vice-president of Dave Beck's Teamsters' organization.

REUTHER'S POLITICAL AMBITION—George L. Meany, who will head the merged CIO-AFL combination, has many labor leaders' dislike of the Detroit industrial and economic planner. But Reuther hopes Meany will mobilize the full strength of Michigan's organized workers. If the automobile union chairman can capture the Democratic nomination against Senator Charles E. Potter, the legless World War II veteran, in 1956.

Reuther's friends, however, harbor some misgivings. One of Meany's disavowal of reports that he would withdraw the new 15,000,000 membership in high-union dues. The AFL president recently secured President Eisenhower's repudiation of this scheme with a "no" to "Amen" to satisfy many labor politicians.

MEANY IS SKEPTICAL—Reuther's political chances would be enhanced, if he could persuade or force General Motors and the Ford Company to grant a guaranteed wage to his union in forthcoming negotiations. Here again, Meany is reported to be skeptical toward this revolutionary proposal. Meany leans toward the conservative side.

For one thing, his skilled craft workers do not need as much protection against unemployment and loss of income as do the members of the seasonal mass industries unduly won by the CIO. Secondly, it is Three cautious Senators.

They don't want to know the secrets of the Yalta Conference.

They don't think the time is right for the public to know.

So the facts on the meeting between Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin are safely in mothballs again.

That conference which took place ten years ago has been one of the sore points in subsequent Democratic-Republican controversy. It dealt with setting terms for Russian entry into the war against Japan.

Feuding over what happened at Yalta has been hot and heavy, but the protagonists apparently were relying on assumptions rather than facts.

So the story is safely locked up again. Debates on the impact of Yalta can carry on . . . they still don't know any more about the secret than John Doe, but that won't stop the argument.

There's Room For Andy At Top

Everyone who's interested in show business follows performers who come from their own state. When it was announced almost a year ago that Andy Griffith of North Carolina was going to appear on Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town, I was eagerly awaiting his performance.

Andy had just made a hit record, "What It Was Was Football" and he was scheduled for three performances with Ed Sullivan. But it so happened that Andy went over like a lead balloon. Frankly, I don't remember any performer on Ed's show who made less of a hit.

Although he was scheduled for three performances, Andy didn't return to the Ed Sullivan show. From that time on he accepted

CALL IT A FABLE, WE'RE STYMIED (Charlotte Observer)

Once upon a time there was a kind prince who took over a kingdom after the death of his father.

He looked over his new kingdom, and did not like what he saw. The people seemed to be mere serfs. And they were very free. So he decided to set them free.

He divided the kingdom into 50 equal plots of ground. On each plot he put 1,000 persons, telling the people that they were then free, but that he expected a small tax payment from each of them annually.

And each year, he told his people "You will pick one person to represent you at a big banquet at my castle. The best of wine, the finest of foods will be served, and your representative at the feast will have a marvelous time in your behalf."

So each year 50 representatives came to the king's castle, were

Some Misunderstanding As To When Pay Terminates

By LYNN NISBET
PAY DAYS — When will the pay time for members of the General Assembly end? According to Secretary of State Thad Eure the last day for which compensation can be received will be April 4. According to the less realistic authorities the last day should be April 19. The difference involved whether or not Sundays should be counted in the 90 day pay-limit.

The constitution says that members of the General Assembly shall receive $15 a day for not exceeding 90 days. It does not make distinction between calendar days and legislative days. Custom has been to count Sundays in the 90-day pay limit for members and for the unlimited pay time of clerks and other legislative employees.

The Legislature convened this year on January 5. Monday was the 69th day of the session, counting Sundays, but the 58th legislative day inasmuch as no sessions are ever held on Sunday. April 4th will be the 90th day since date of convening, but it will take April 19 to make 90 legislative days.

The question is academic so far as members of the General Assembly are concerned, because the session will run well beyond April 19, and no member can draw more than $1,350—the full amount of $15 a day for a maximum of 90 days. The counting of Sundays in the pay time for clerks and employees can make a difference of several thousand dollars in total cost to taxpayers of the legislative session. The payroll

Safety Gadgets Boom

By ELMER ROESSNER
Development of control devices for highways is a booming business and the Eisenhower Administration's $101 billion highway program promises to keep it so.

Traffic-counting devices and radar speed-detectors were only the beginning of the application of automatic devices to highways. New machines are collecting and checking tolls on turnpikes, and devices to come will guide and control the motorist on his journey.

A completely mechanized toll collector has gone into operation on New Jersey's Garden State Parkway. Motorists toss coins in a hopper and a machine counts them. When the total is correct, the motorist gets a green light. When one puts in insufficient funds, or tries to slip by, an alarm goes off, red signals flash and a camera photographs the license plate with the aid of floodlights if it's dark.

"The machine could also say thank you when the payment is correct," says Benjamin Cooper, president of Teller & Cooper, which installed the system. "But that would cost extra."

The same company developed another system for the Indiana East-West toll road. When a car enters the highway a machine automatically counts axles and delivers a punched card to the driver. When the car leaves at the exit, the driver hands the card to an attendant (dive), who puts it in a machine that calculates the toll on distance and axles. The machine gives a receipt only if requested to avoid litter at highway exits and it flashes a light if the time for the trip was excessive (to prevent cheating by ticket switches).

Both issuing and validating machines record totals at a distant point, so no attendant can take home a few coins for himself.

Manufacturers say they can make almost any control device required. They can build auto

Hitler's Volkswagen Is Popular

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Who ever thought Adolf Hitler would help solve America's traffic problems?

But in a small way he is nearly 10 years after his death. All because of "The Beetle."

That is the nickname for the Volkswagen, the small mass-produced motor car which Hitler once promised every German family would soon be able to afford.

Most German families can't buy one, but the American masses have bought Volkswagen more than any other kind of imported automobile.

Some 29,151 foreign-made cars were sold in the United States in 1954, said Arthur Stanton, and 6,341 were Volkswagens.

Stanton, a tall, lean 37-year-old ex-Navy officer and husband of TV panelist Joan Alexander, is president of World-Wide Automobiles Corp. He distributes the Volkswagens in five eastern states.

He and four partners went into the import-export field after the last war with $48,000 they borrowed. Now they do a 20-million-dollar-a-year business here and in Paris, French Morocco and Tunisia. They deal in Cuban sugar and Japanese toys as well as in German and American automobiles and electrical products.

But Stanton's pet project right now is the Volkswagen.

"Since January, they've been selling at the rate of 2,000 a month," he said. "In another couple of years they'll have an annual sale of 50,000 here. Then Detroit will start taking a long hard look at the small car market."

The "Beetle" holds four passengers five, if one is a child and is only 13 feet long. The 30-horsepower motor is in the rear. Under the front hood is a spare tire, the gas tank, and luggage space.

The car, which sells for about $1495, goes 33 miles on a gallon way home to eat, only to be accused of using State-owned cars to run around at night. Sure, there are some chiselers and incompetents among the thousands of State employees. It is just as unfair to use them as typical and to blanket all workers in their class as it would be to contend that all workers put in overtime several days a week.

'Boom And Doom' Opinion On Stock Market Is Heard

By ED CREAGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's stock market inquiry brought a warning today of a "boom to doom" danger. It also produced an opinion that the market has only been catching up with the nation's economy.

J. A. Livingston, financial editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin and writer of a syndicated column, said he saw danger of a "boom to doom" cycle in a surge of Wall Street optimism not too different, he said, from the one "which led to the poorhouse in 1929."

"To me," he said in prepared testimony "the fact that this committee is holding hearings is a major difference between 1955 and 1929. This time, a Senate investigating committee is studying the market before a crash, not after. That's pretty good insurance against a crash."

Today's other witness, Wall Streeter Dorsey Richardson, told the Senate Banking Committee the stock market in its year-and-a-half price rise has been "catching up with changes that have occurred in our economy—in price levels, in earnings, in gross national product, in technological developments, in populations . . . over the past 10 years."

Richardson, head of the National Assn. of Investment Companies, said much recent market activity stemmed from "the fact that investors with more surplus funds to invest have become more generally aware of the expansion of the economy."

"This can scarcely be regarded as undesirable or unhealthy," he added in a prepared statement.

This testimony came in the wake of a three-day row which developed yesterday when Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told the committee, in effect, its inquiry was going too far and threatening to hurt the nation's economy.

Committee Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark) hit back with a sharp statement saying the public is entitled to know about "the characteristics of the market" which have permitted the recent sharp break in share prices.

The committee's senior Republican, Sen. Capehart of Indiana, calling for an end to the inquiry, charged Fulbright was determined to prove stock prices have gone too high. Fulbright disputed that. Capehart said he'd put exhibits into the record to bear it out.

Humphrey, Fulbright and Capehart all got somewhat hot under the collar before the session ended. But the stock market was feeling much better.

It scored its biggest daily climb yesterday in more than 15 years. That recovery won back much of the previous day's losses when the market had taken its biggest one-day tumble in almost five years. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.90 to $154.40. Prices went up as much as $7 a share.

Livingston said today there is plenty of evidence of too much speculation.

"Once it becomes easier to make money faster by buying Du Pont stock than Du Pont can make money by producing nylon and dacron," he said, "then it's time to watch out. And that has been happening. More and more people are turning to the stock market page before the comics."

Abduction Said Due Frustration

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—She was 32 and the mother of five children. She admitted she was a prostitute.

But she fell in love with Asst. County Atty. Carroll Freeman, 20, when she visited his office to seek legal advice on purchase of a home.

"It may sound fantastic," Freeman said, "but she kept pestering me and wanting me to take her out to dinner. I always refused to go."

Today the woman, Mrs. June Wanda Bartram, was in jail here.

Police allege she hired her Negro maid and two Negro men to whisk Freeman away from his home early Sunday for a rendezvous with her at a tourist court. He was released after three hours.

She and the three Negroes were charged with kidnapping and robbery. All pleaded innocent.

Mrs. Bartram denied any part in the kidnapping but said, "I still love Carroll."

Freeman attributed the kidnapping to "vindictiveness."

During the tourist court meeting, he said, Mrs. Bartram tongue-lashed him for spurning her attentions and threatened to kill his wife and son. On advice of police, he declined to give further details.

Mrs. Bartram and the two men, Walter Jackson, 31, and David Lee Walker, 20, were held in bonds of $10,000 each. The maid, Mimie Brown, 22, was held without bond.

Mrs. Bartram has been arrested here for prostitution and served a year in prison in Dwight, Ill. after an arrest in Chicago.

Teen-age Turnout

By MARY WILL LONG and FRANCES ADAMS

Everybody probably knows by now that the Kinston Red Devils won the State AA tournament. We do not intend to turn this column into a sports column, but we'd like to make a few comments. The Greenville fans all agree that the Greenville Phantoms should be in the spot that Kinston is in now. Even Amos Sexton, coach of the Kinston team, commented while at the tournament that Greenville was a better team than any he had seen play at the tournament. (We wonder if he includes Kinston in this statement). He also said that Greenville had the best team that Kinston has played this year.

This year's basketball team will probably be remembered for many years. The boys should be commended for excellent playing and sportsmanship. Everyone agrees that the officials should have waited a year later to change the rule about who would go to the state tournament. Last year Kinston was in the same position that Greenville is in this year, but still went to the State tournament. At least Greenville's ability is proved by the fact that they are the only team who has beaten Kinston this year.

Presents Spring Concert

The Greenville High School Glee Club presented its annual spring concert last night in the high school auditorium. Taking part in the program were the Boys' Glee Club, the Girls' Glee Club, the Mixed Chorus, and the Junior High Girls' Glee Club. Jill Sutton, soloist, and a trio composed of Joanna Hardee, Kitty Collins, and Rachael Steinbeck, also rendered numbers. The program consisted of sacred music, popular music, folk songs, and Negro Spirituals.

Journalists Relate Experiences
"New York was just wonderful! We saw and learned so much there. Everybody was so nice to us, and we really had the time of our lives!" These were the enthusiastic remarks of Sylvia Satterthwaite, one of the journalists who attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association meeting in New York. The group returned Monday night after a glorious five-day visit. They have all been entertaining their friends with glowing accounts of their visit. Even though classes at Columbia took up a lot of their time, they still had time for taking in plays, eating at famous restaurants, taking a tour and shopping.

Two Broadway plays they saw were "Bus Stop," a comedy, and "Tonight in Samarkand" starring Louis Jordan. They ate at such well-known restaurants as Jack Dempsey's and "Tiffin-Edys." A tour of the Bowery, Chinatown, Greenwich Village, and other points was enjoyed by all. They also toured the United Nations Building. A performance at Radio City Music Hall and a service at Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's Marble Collegiate Church completed a schedule full of enjoyment. Most members of the group added that they especially enjoyed the train trip to New York and back.

Has Had Hiccups For 24 Years

AMBRIDGE, Pa. (AP)—Victor Dionise, 47, has learned to live with his hiccups. He has been hiccupping for 24 years. At first the hiccups lasted only 15 minutes at a time but now he's hiccupping almost with every breath.

He managed to work steadily as a crane operator, but recently he opened a car repair shop near his home.

Dionise says he's tried hundreds of remedies has been examined at two famous medical clinics—but has yet to find relief. He's gone as far as to drink a jug of whiskey, spiked with garlic, and he's trying every new remedy.

Dulles Aimed Talk At Peiping Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sensational of the audience is old enough to remember 1929. Without exception witnesses agree there are many and important points of strength in today's economy which were missing in 1929.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), committee chairman, stresses that the stock market probe of 20 years ago came after the crash of 1929 and sought a cure, while today's inquiry comes while times are good and aims at preventing another such bust.

Senators, government officials and financiers are busy debating what effect the goings-on here and in Wall Street will have on business and jobs.

They're trying to decide whether rising stock prices inspire general business confidence, or whether confidence in the future sparks the bulls; whether falling stock prices inspire general business confidence or whether confidence in the future sparks the bulls; whether falling stock prices are a blow to public confidence in the whole economy, or whether fear of coming hard times generates a bear market on the stock exchange. There are even a puzzled few who ask if it's all being done with mirrors.

The question of what's ahead reaches out beyond the marbled caucus room where the Senate Banking Committee is carrying on a study of the 18-month-old bull market: where government officials, brokers and industrialists give their views on a fast-rising market's benefits or dangers.

You can see wonderment and worry in the intent audience that watches the inquiry. Those attending—some students, but mostly middle-aged couples from out of town—seem eager to find, if they can, a clue as to what may lie ahead for them. Whether they own stocks or not they appear to feel they have a stake in the market's course.

It's the old story of two popular beliefs: (1) either the stock market is a barometer showing what's ahead within the next six months; or (2) the trend of stock prices in itself will affect daily lives by making times good or bad. Most

Big Audience Watches Wall Street Gyration

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The chances are that any future war in which the United States becomes engaged will be an atomic one, whether it is a big or little conflict.

Whether use of small, special-purpose atomic weapons would lead to the ultimate employment of hydrogen bombs is still a wide-open question.

Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference yesterday he thinks that as the effectiveness of precision atomic weapons increases it lessens the likelihood that weapons of mass destruction would have to be employed. He argued that World War II saturation bombings resulted from inability to destroy military targets precisely.

President Eisenhower, however, told a news conference last January that he felt it was not possible to draw a sharp line between tactical and strategic atomic weapons. Generally, tactical weapons are relatively little bombs for use against military targets, while strategic weapons are the city-killers.

The value of atomic bombs was frequently debated in the Korean War. The United States decided against it. Officials generally argued that the weapon was not suitable against an enemy hidden in the mountains of Korea.

The essence of what Dulles said yesterday was that atomic weapons in the shape of artillery shells and small bombs for precision attack are becoming conventional equipment for U.S. armed forces. He said he imagined that such weapons would be used in any major U.S. military activity. Then he advanced his counter theory that the development of little bombs decreases the likelihood that big ones would have to be used.

His presentation of these two ideas was designed to serve two purposes. First, he was trying to get across to the Chinese Communists a warning that if they attack the Quemoy and Matsu islands and the United States gets in the fight, it may very well use atomic weapons against military targets.

Second, he was attempting to alleviate deep fears among Allied nations of a hydrogen bomb conflict.

There was a 3.7 per cent decrease in the number of cigarettes sold in the United States between 1953 and 1954 and a 3 per cent decrease between 1952 and 1953, some but not all of it attributable to increased use of king size cigarettes, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Hollywood Finds Its Perfect Fan

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood today discovered the world's greatest movie fan—a guy who has seen as many as seven different movies in one day.

He's a Texan, naturally. George Raborn, a sports writer for the Waco News-Tribune, sees more movies than the head usher at Radio City Music Hall. Since 1932 he has seen 5,506 movies. He saw 500 before that but they don't count because he didn't keep individual records on them.

Raborn, who doesn't own a television set or a wife, has attended movies in 36 different states and five foreign countries. He has seen as many as 402 movies in one year. One month he saw 77.

He does not wear glasses. Not only does he see all the movies, good and bad, that Hollywood produces but rates them all scientifically. That's how this town heard of him. He's just published a book called "How Hollywood Rates."

Raborn rates each star in each picture he has seen basing his charts on face, physique and talent. "These ratings are done scientifically," he writes. "And I don't know myself who has won until I've checked, double-checked and triple-checked the final averages. Final averages don't matter in these ratings because some of my own favorite are ranked very low."

Here are some of his ratings: All-time male superstar—Clark Gable. All-time female superstar—Lana Turner. Most handsome—Rock Hudson. Best actor—Frederic March. Best actress—Bette Davis. All-time most beautiful—Lana Turner. All-time best figure—Ruth Roman. All-time most sex appeal—Marilyn Monroe. Best comedian—Groucho Marx. Best comedienne—Judy Hollay. Best movie—"A Place in the Sun" (1951). Worst all-time movie—"White Pongo" (1945).

He also lists the 50 worst performers by actors and actresses but I'm a devout coward and live here. Waco, Tex., is a long ways off, even for an angry actor to seek revenge.

Aged Tennessee Legislator Loses Last Battle For Past

By CHARLES L. FONTENAY
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Charles A. Stainback stood before the State Senate with tears in his eyes yesterday and fought his last, losing battle for the way of life he has known for 85 years.

Nobody spoke against him. But, when he finished he failed by four votes to get the necessary majority to override Gov. Frank Clement's veto of his local bill aimed at maintaining school segregation in Fayette County.

Stainback was fighting against a changing outlook in his native Tennessee. When he was a boy in Somerville, Reconstruction days were still fresh in the minds of Tennesseans. The 1870 constitutional convention had adopted a provision requiring segregation in schools.

Nobody would have thought of making segregation an issue when Stainback came to the Legislature in 1903. There was no opposing vote when the 1925 Legislature passed a law requiring segregation in schools.

Time and the U. S. Supreme Court have changed all that. The court said last year it would issue a decree that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court decision prompted Stainback to come to Nashville once more, at the age of 85. He had a bill he thought would block integration of the races in public schools. It simply would invoke the police power of the state to allow local boards of education to assign students to what schools they chose.

When the Senate calendar committee tabled Stainback's bill, he introduced local bills of the same type to apply to his two counties, Fayette and Haywood. They were passed routinely, as local bills are, without debate or a formal roll call. Clement vetoed them Monday night.

Stainback's gray head bobbed above the clerk's desk as he appealed to the Senate yesterday to override the veto on the Fayette County bill.

"The Senate and the House have never failed in the history of the state to pass a local bill over the veto of the governor," he said.

"There is no mention of color or race in the bill. The Supreme Court of the United States, even as presently constituted, would have to uphold the bill." But, he added, the governor had vetoed "the bill."

His voice broke and his eyes filled with tears as he demanded: "Am I, in my old age, to be the first senator in Tennessee to be subjected to such humiliation? I have passed my allotted three-score and ten, and I grow weary of the sun. But I came here because my people, white and colored wanted this."

When he went back to his desk, the Senate voted 13-9 in favor of overriding the veto. It wasn't enough. Seventeen votes were needed.

Stainback walked slowly from the Senate chamber. One of his colleagues said he may not return to the floor this session.

Railroad Asks Judge To Dissolve Order

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike after strangling passenger and freight service in 13 states, rolled into court again today.

Circuit Judge Stuart E. Lampe may rule on a motion to dissolve his order requiring train crews to ignore picket lines thrown up by 25,000 nonoperating employees.

Six operating crafts objected to the temporary order issued yesterday by Lampe because of the railroad's "emergency." Some of these crafts contended the line is now "unsafe" but the railroad denied any hazards existed.

If the order is made permanent, W. L. Grubbs, general counsel for the L. & N., said he believes it would apply not only in Kentucky but throughout the system. "If not, similar action will be taken in other states," he said.

The company said about 90 percent of the operating employees were respecting picket lines which sprang up all along the L. & N. and two subsidiaries — Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and the Clinchfield Railroad.

The L. & N. already has suspended 23 passenger schedules. It said freight operations were at a minimum here and "spotty" elsewhere on the 4,737-mile line.

Effects of the walkout also were mushrooming into other industries. Some plants in Nashville, Tenn., were reported shut down and 28 coal mines in Harlan County, Ky., were said to be idle for lack of railroad cars.

"The situation is not very encouraging at the present time," said Frank W. Switzer of the National Railway Mediation Board. He arrived yesterday from Washington and has been in constant touch with both sides.

His job was complicated by a disagreement between the L. & N. and the 10 AFL nonoperating unions over the issue that brought on the three-day-old strike.

The company claims the nucleus of the argument is a health and welfare program; the unions admit this is one issue—but not the most important. Also involved, they say, are Sunday pay, vacations and other factors.

Boy Clawed And Bitten By Lion

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 16-month-old, 200-pound lion severely clawed and bit 9-year-old Martin O'Neill yesterday when the boy tried to pet the animal.

The lion was in the yard of its owner, Adolph Dammerau, in nearby Jefferson Parish. Dr. C. L. Centanni, parish health director, said he also found in Dammerau's house and garage a jaguar, a chimpanzee, four monkeys, two ocelots and a smaller lion. Dammerau said he had planned to install an educational wildlife exhibit.

About 60 stitches were required to close the wounds in the boy's left arm. A physician reported his condition as fair.

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Council has voted to extend daylight saving time here this year to Oct. 30 instead of ending it the last Sunday in September, as previously.

Cold Air Hits Mid-Continent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Northerly winds blew cold air across wide areas of the mid-continent today but more springlike weather was the outlook for most of the Southern states.

Temperatures tumbled as the cold air spread over the Great Plains, the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region. It was zero in Glasgow, Mont., while in Oklahoma City the 44 degrees early today was 27 degrees lower than yesterday morning. St. Louis, with 40 above, reported a drop of 22 degrees.

The colder air headed for the mid-Appalachian Mountains and the New England coast.

It also was cold in the northern and central plateau region and in the northern and central Rockies, with temperatures generally in the 20s.

Readings were in the 50s and 60s in the Southeast.

There were a few wet spots. Showers and thunderstorms were reported from Lake Erie southward into eastern Kentucky. Considerable light fog prevailed in the Carolinas and the Middle Atlantic coastal regions. Showers or light rain fell over much of New York state and in parts of southern and central New England.

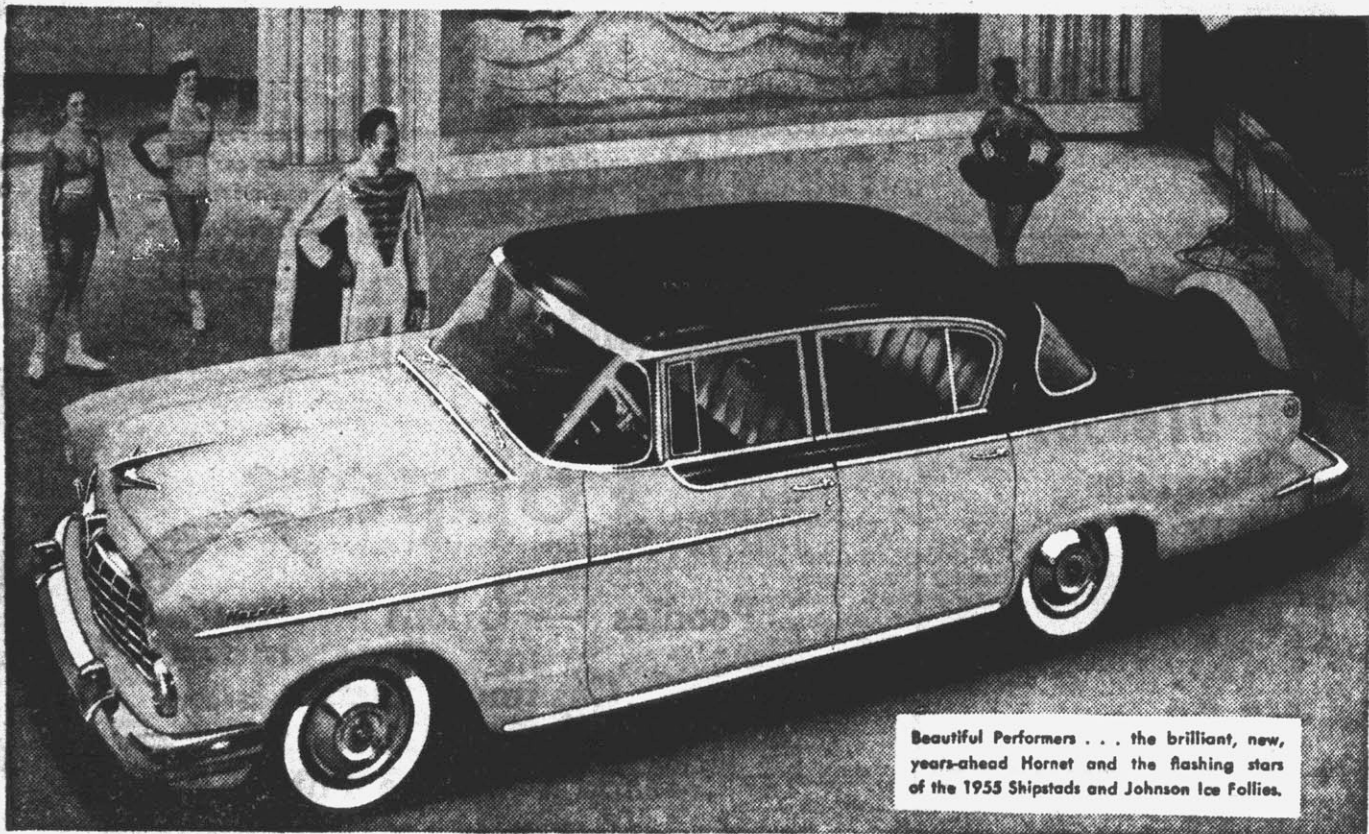

Light snow and snow flurries fell in sections of the upper Mississippi Valley.

A late winter storm dumped up to 7 inches of snow along a path paralleling the Rockies. The fall left only traces in some areas, 7 inches at Fort Collins, Colo., and 3 inches at Denver.

San Diego, Calif. has had measurable snowfall only once in the history of its weather station.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
A TWO-FAMILY house for economical construction, this design is suited for an income producing investment in a retirement area. The owner can live in one half and rent the other apartment. Heater rooms off kitchens and large storage closets eliminate the need for a basement. This is Plan H-383P by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,716 square feet and contains 17,452 cubic feet of construction.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Home heating systems have changed more radically in recent years than automobiles, for instance, or women's styles, or a lot of other more changeable things you might name. Autos still have motors and four wheels and the gals, bless 'em, are still draped in silks or synthetics. But homes are now being kept comfortable without massive boilers in the basement—even, in lots of cases, without chimneys.

You can be comfortable today by heating your body and forgetting about the air, or by heating the air and forgetting about your body. You can depend on a heated floor, or heated ceiling, heated walls, or invisible infra-red rays. Advertisers can't keep up with words to describe it all—words like "conditioning," "radiant," "weather-control."

But it all works, whether you choose a heating system in the form of wallpaper panels, snake-like coils in floors or ceilings, ducts to waft zephyrs through your house, or glowing baseboards near your ankles.

Baseboard Heating has probably gone through more changes in its young life—less than a generation—than almost any other basic form of home heating. This system was devised to get heat all around a room without dictating to you where you could place furniture and where not. Space saving was one of its original virtues.

From a plain cast iron radiant baseboard, this system has developed to a point now where, on one hand, it can operate electrically with no heating plant in basement or utility room—of course with no chimney—and on the other hand, offering year-round air conditioning.

You'll be interested in the workings of these two new systems.

Convector are the secret of most of the modern baseboard heaters. Convector are nothing more than very thin finned radiators, packed into small units the same amount of radiating surface offered by big old-fashioned radiators. The hot fins heat the air as it circulates over them and the air heats you.

That's why they're called convectors—heating by convection, or the warming of the air, rather than by conduction, like the hot handle of a pan, or by radiation, which is the sun's method.

Large convectors can be placed under windows like the old cast iron radiators, except that being more compact they are easily recessed into the wall. In their baseboard styles, convectors are more slender and geared to give off the same amount of radiation as larger units in single locations, such as under a window.

When these convectors are heated with hot water, it is a simple matter to circulate cold water through them in summer. So the hot water heating industry has come up with an answer to air conditioning promoted by the circulating warm air industry. By means of flexible ducts, about 3 inches in diameter—to fit easily inside standard partitions—you can now have air blown around these baseboard convectors in summer and there you have another version of air conditioning.

Electric Convectors are something else again. Here the same established principle of maximum radiation through thin fins is used to heat your home by convection. Manufacturers of these units stress all the advantages of electric heating, whether it is embedded in the plaster or in glass panels, plus the advantages of convection.

As for economy of operation, we asked Leo Slam, vice president of Electrovector, Inc. He contends that modern electric heat is economical, current for 1-2 cents per kilowatt-hour, but an get current for 1½ cents per kilowatt.

However, Slam strongly advo-

LADY WITH TROUBLES:—This 75-pound pet mountain lioness owned by Mrs. Ann Durham of Miami has good reason for that wolfish expression. 102-Year-Old Is Running Business

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Retire at the age of 65! WHY? demands Capt. George C. McGuire, who is 102 and still runs his business.

His company catches sea lions and ships them to zoos and circuses all over the world. Capt. McGuire has stunned many a sea lion by clubbing it over the head. Now the animals are trapped with nets.

The captain just supervises the business now. His employees cruise off nearby Santa Cruz Island to catch the sea lions.

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—There was snickering at a regional seedmen's meeting when the chairman announced the opening prayer would be by the Rev. Turnipseed. The seedmen thought he was kidding but it wasn't a joke—he was calling on the Rev. Rhett Turnipseed, a widely known retired Methodist minister.

Educational TV Poses Problem Of Cost And Type Of Programs

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—The appropriate use of educational television was given considerable attention at the third annual conference on the State of the University last week. Theme of the conference, in which some 175 faculty members representing all three units of the Consolidated University participated, was "Planning for the foreseeable future." That theme was subdivided into topic areas dealing with Planning for students, Planning for the faculty, and Planning for extended service to the people of the State.

In each of these classifications the importance of television was recognized. Its importance and burden seems to be more fully appreciated by the faculty than by the administrative officers of the University. The North Carolina Consolidated University applied for and was allotted one of the educational channels, and non-tax money was obtained to set up the equipment for originating programs at Chapel Hill, Greensboro and Raleigh. No non-tax or private money is available to pay for servicing these facilities or for program talent. Presently there is no tax money available for that purpose either. Request is pending before the appropriations committees of the General Assembly for facility maintenance funds, but none to pay for program talent.

Spokesmen for each of the three topic areas—Dr. Richard Bardolph of Greensboro for students, Dr. George Hoadley of Raleigh for the faculty, and Dr. W. P. Richardson of Chapel Hill for service to the public—conceded that occasional appearances on TV programs should be taken in stride as a sort of extra-curricula service. There was unanimous agreement that faculty members and students should not be expected to afford regular day-by-day programs without extra compensation or allowance for time-off from other regular assignments.

Faculty representatives were unanimous in support of television as an educational medium, but put up a caution signal against the tendency to use the facilities for public relations propaganda or competitive entertainment programs, which might attract more viewers and listeners—but would miss the objective purpose of the educational set-up.

It was suggested that extension courses for credit toward degrees might be handled over radio and television within the next few years. Such a program obviously would call for State appropriations to support it. In that connection, it was pointed out that there is no more reason to expect the extension division of the University to be self-supporting than to expect the whole institution to get along without any State aid other than receipts collected from resident students.

The summarized reports of discussions and conclusions of the State of the University Conference pointed up one of the major problems of the times. More money, much more, is required to keep abreast of progress with respect to modernized methods of teaching—including use of video—and yet the traditional courses of instruction and methods of education cannot be abandoned. The new must be added to, rather than substituted for, the old.

Some slight reduction may be made in cost of the old system, but the reductions possible there are only a small fraction of the amount required to fully utilize the new methods. Consensus among the faculty members seemed to be that the extra cost will be fully justified if the facilities are used entirely for cultural and educational purposes. But that it will be hard to justify for propaganda in public relations or entertainment programs that compete with commercial networks.

Drive the low-price Plymouth soon—see why it LEADS "ALL 3" IN VALUE!

TOP TWO ENGINES

Power plus economy! Plymouth's high-compression PowerFlow 117 engine is the smoothest, thirstiest six in the lowest-price field, with exclusive Chrome-Sealed Action that adds years to its smooth, whisper-quiet operation. And Plymouth's new 167-hp Hy-Fire is the most powerful standard V-8 in the low-price 3.

NEWEST STYLING

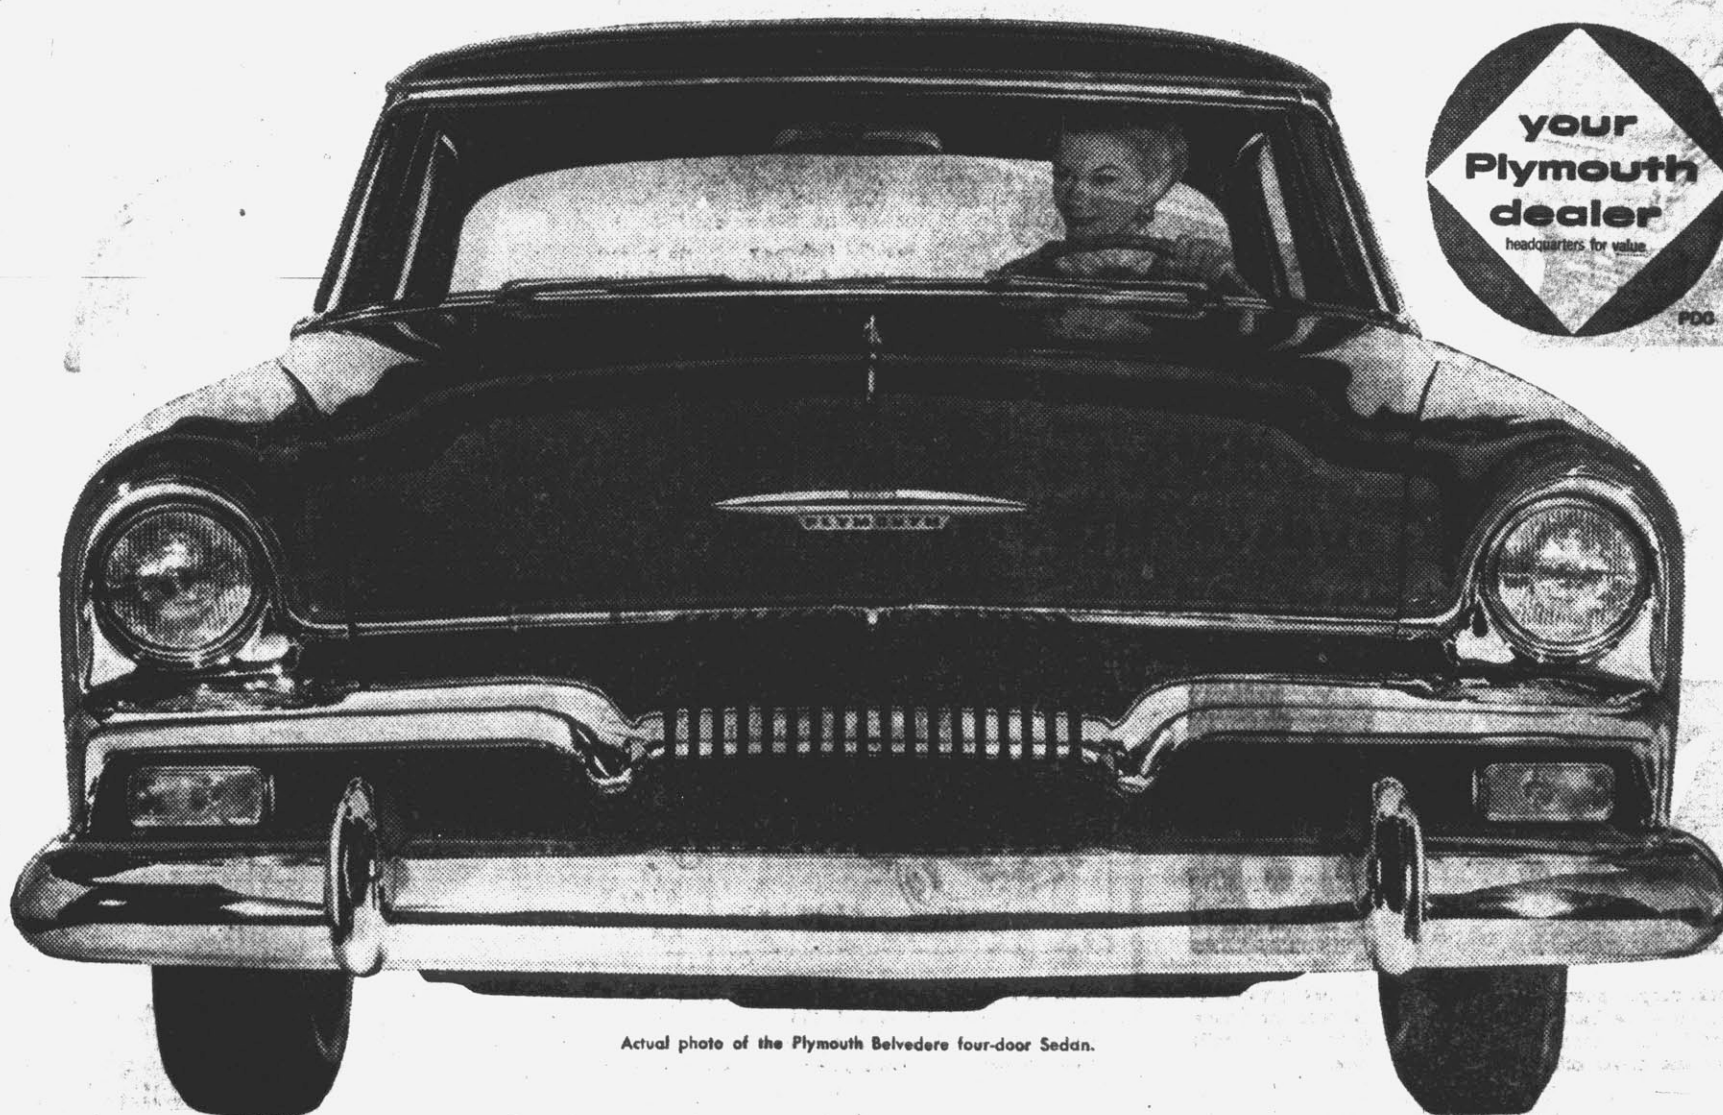

Of all 3 low-price cars, only Plymouth's styling is completely and honestly new. Its fleet, forward-looking lines mean this Plymouth will look "new" years from now, and have a higher trade-in value. And, of all 3, only Plymouth gives you a swept-back windshield design, with far more visibility than in other cars in the low-price 3.

LARGEST SIZE

Biggest, longest, lowest car of the low-price 3, Plymouth is actually larger than some high-price cars! To you this means more roominess, more comfort inside, and the smooth, steady ride only a big car can give. Plymouth is priced for every pocketbook; 22 models in three great lines—the Belvedere, the Savoy, the Plaza.

SMOOTHEST RIDE

It takes a big car, like Plymouth, to give you a truly "big car" ride. This year Plymouth's frame is longer, stronger; rear springs are wider; exclusive Oriflow shock absorbers have still more cushioning action. When you look at all 3 this year, you'll see why the big swing is to Plymouth! Come in today for your demonstration.

Formosans Calm In Face On Possible Air Raids

By SPENCER MOOSA
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Remembering World War II air raids Formosans fear the war that threatens to break out over their island. But with truly Oriental fatalism they go about their daily jobs as usual. It is not that they are not afraid. It is that they know it will come. Formosans don't give the question as much thought as the more politically conscious mainlanders who fled here before the Red armies. The mainlanders want to return to the subcontinent. But to Formosans this is home and they intend to stay.

Farmers, who form 60 per cent of the island's 10 million population, worry more about crops and price of goods than what might be brewing in Formosa Strait.

Take as an example Kwan Teh-lai, 23, who farms a small plot in northern Formosa with his father and brothers.

Kwan, married and the father of one child, faces an early call to military service because he has brothers who can help care for his family.

What does Kwan think about the Communists?

"Older ones think Communists bad because they take away the land," he replied, squatting on his heels. "We younger ones think they are bad because they take away freedom."

Are you afraid of air raids or invasion, Kwan?

"Of course we are. Even now we still talk about the American air raids when the Japanese were here."

"The raids were terrible and we know that with atom bombs they could be worse. But we also know Americans will help us and air raids would not be too bad."

"I and my friends are not worried. It's just a matter of luck if you are there when a bomb falls. If you are lucky you are somewhere else."

Would Kwan fight invasion?

"Yes, we would fight for we are Chinese and communism is not for us. My father, my brothers and I—we will fight against enslavement. It is all we have in this life—our freedom and our land. War or no war we are going on with our lives. This is our life—to live and to work and sometimes to fight."

Formosans, like mainlanders, are subject to compulsory military service. Between 25,000 and 30,000 are being drafted every month. Service ranges from four months to two years. More than 100,000 Formosans already have been trained.

In actual combat, however, almost all front-line responsibility would fall on the mainlanders, most of them veterans. Formosans and other reservists probably would be used in home guard duties.

Minister Wins Lying Contest

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—Methodist minister Rev. John E. Stayton won the Lions Club liar's contest. His story:

As a youthful harmonica player he charmed earthworms out of the ground with a waltz tune. Then he set them to dancing over the waters to the waltz and the fish just couldn't resist leaping for them.

Doctorate Takes Lots Of Travel

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Gordon G. Zimmerman, 33-year-old minister of the Evangelical Mennonite Church at Wauson, Ohio, is going to great lengths to get his doctor's degree.

Three days a week he makes the 130-mile round trip from Wauson to Ann Arbor.

"I don't mind the drive," he says "because I use the time to think about class work or plan my sermons."

Uncertainty Of Stassen's Fate Linked To FOA

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—What happens to Harold E. Stassen is of less importance to the people of Asia than what happens to American aid for them. President Eisenhower will have to consider both problems soon.

What Eisenhower does about Stassen will be of primary concern to Stassen. What the President does about aid for Asia may in the end mean the difference between keeping that area out of communism or losing it.

Stassen, three times a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and now a loyal Eisenhower supporter, is a lame-duck boss. He heads the Foreign Operations Administration, due by law to end June 30.

FOA has handled this country's foreign aid program. The government is certain to continue that aid to some degree and in some way. Congress could keep FOA alive another year but seems in no mood to do so.

It's not in the mood to hand out much money either. FOA's work could be handed over entirely to the State Department or split up among other agencies. Eisenhower could keep Stassen as aid boss under the State Department or give him some other job.

Stassen Monday issued a report on FOA's work during the last six months of 1954. But the administration still hasn't sent Congress its request—it will in April—for the amount of aid it wants to give in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Stassen said requests for all foreign aid spending in the next fiscal year will be held to 3½ billion dollars—Asia's share would have to come out of that—compared with $5,300,000,000 made available this year.

But no matter how much money Congress votes, the aid program could well be wrecked by delay and confusion if it is divided among agencies instead of under some central direction.

Secretary of State Dulles returned from his Asian trip last week expressing confidence about the future of the area—that is, on the chances of keeping it out of Red hands.

He spoke happily about the military alliances this country has made in Asia to forestall Red armies. He was vague on this country's economic help for the Asians.

The Communists may not have to use weapons at all if out of economic despair the Asians throw up their hands at Western alliances and turn to the Reds for a way out of chaos, hunger, ignorance, poverty.

The Eisenhower administration is cutting spending on the armed forces, so it can be expected to be tight on any aid program. The size of the aid it gives, therefore, is a gamble.

Young Chefs At Home On Range

KITCHEN CHAMPS—These expert cooks of the Boston Boys Club model their newly won chef caps.

By DICK SINNOTT
AP Newsfeatures

BOSTON—Doctors, lawyers, business chiefs—governors, mayors, the cops on the beat—once a week can dine on festive treats prepared by youngsters who are really at home on the range.

The Tom Pappas Chef Club, a division of the Boys Clubs of Boston, gives boys from 6 to 16 the thrill of taking juvenile energy out of the fire and into the frying pan.

The boys chefs take their cooking seriously—very seriously. Other lads might discuss baseball batting averages, but when these youngsters mention batter, they mean flour, water and flavoring.

Now in its seventh year, the Chef Club originated when Thomas A. Pappas, 54, a Boston importer, became convinced that boys would find cooking interesting—and profitable—once their interest was aroused.

Pappas, a member of the Boys Clubs Board of Overseers, agreed to back the club with cash and commodities. Margaret Holmes, a cook in the Charlestown section of Boston, volunteered to supervise cooking classes.

From the start there have been more candidates for the club than even Pappas hoped for. Once the youngsters learned cooking was fun, it seemed every boy in Charlestown fancied himself a cook.

Currently, 81 eager lads are enrolled in cooking classes. Each two-hour class has 15 or 16 youngsters in attendance. The average age of the group is 10 years. Eleven have graduated from cooking school to earn the garments and title of "chef."

The youngsters consider Wednesday their "big night." Then, up to 36 invited guests are served dinner in the club's dining room. The menu ranges from fruit cup to dainty pastry, with steak, chicken, or swordfish often the piece de resistance.

The guest list often includes a governor, a bishop, a college president, a labor leader, a prominent surgeon, the parents of several chiefs, or police officials.

Dinner lasts only an hour, but its preparation begins when the school dismissal bell rings and the boys dash from classroom to kitchen. One chief prepares fruits for salads, another peels potatoes, several concentrate on the main dish, and others start whipping up dessert. All join in setting the table and at 6 p.m. sharp dinner is on the table.

Louis Zeramy, director of the Charlestown Boys Club, says the youngsters find the rewards of the club are ever increasing, adding: "At home if illness should strike, or if Mom is busy elsewhere, the kids often pitch in and prepare the family meals. One youngster's home stove broke down—but he knew what to do—he brought the meal down here and all the kids helped him get it ready."

More Power For Auto Engines Is Seen Next Year

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT—More 200-plus horsepower engines are in the making for next year's high-medium priced automobiles.

The auto engineers already have demonstrated they can boost car horsepower to around the 400 horsepower mark; one maker has done that with a modified stock engine in a racing car; he also has a 300-horsepower engine in a production model passenger car.

Whether there is or is not a horsepower race in the auto industry, horsepower is going up in virtually all models and price ranges. The erstwhile low priced cars now boast engine power that a few years ago was restricted to the high priced models.

And power output in the present higher priced cars is mounting steadily, as the engine designers learn how to increase it without major sacrifices in fuel economy. A stock model car with a 350-horsepower rating is almost a certainty in the highest priced field next year. If for no other reason it will appear for promotion reasons.

Most automotive engineers are reluctant to forecast the maximum power output of a conventional type gasoline engine. The men who are building the present car engines say there is no horsepower race among the car makers. They say they are seeking smoother operation and greater efficiency and that higher horsepower contributes to those objectives.

To gain these advantages, however, they have had to increase the compression ratio of the power plant. Compression ratio, briefly, is the space in which the piston travels compared with the space into which fuel is compressed at the top of the compression stroke.

There is a limit to how far the engine designers can go in increasing compression ratios. It already is at the 9 to 1 mark in some of this year's newest engines. Next year may see several power plants with 10 to 1 ratios.

Whether it ever will go any higher is a debatable matter. Tests have been made with engines developing around 15 to 1 ratios. But these ratios required a quality of fuel higher than any ever contemplated by the petroleum and automotive industries on a commercial basis.

Gun-Schools For Young Dead-Eyes

BOSTON (AP)—State-sponsored schools to teach youngsters safe handling of fire-arms are popular. The state has established seven more schools running the total to 13. Some 200 have graduated and received certificates of competency.

The object is to eliminate accidental shootings and familiarize youngsters 15 to 18 years old with the danger of mishandling weapons.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR

Camera fans by the thousands converged on an armory in New York City for a hectic, five day shooting, looking and listening spree. It was the Ninth Annual Photographic Show and it featured new products, picture exhibitions, celebrities, demonstrations, pretty models and photo contests. A carnival spirit prevailed throughout as the photographers piled up at each exhibit booth to examine the latest gadgets or elbowed their way for a vantage spot to shoot the scantily clad models. Used flashbulbs littered the floor and the hubbub of competing noises assailed you from all sides.

To get a cross section or reaction, camera-carrying fans were stopped at random and asked what had interested them most.

One was intrigued with the possibilities in an attachment which permitted a 2"x2" slide projector to project opaque objects as well as color slides. As a teacher, he saw uses for it in visual education because it could show enlarged, natural color images of coins, stamps, insects, a ticking watch or any object up to 2"x2". (A lens and prism arrangement which fits over the regular projector lens, it is called "Viewscope".)

A home movie fan said there were two items that he looked at with interest. One was an attachment for 8mm and 16mm cameras and projectors which would convert home movies into screen movies. The gadget, called a Vistascope lens, fits over the normal lens when shooting. It takes in a 50 per cent wider view than the normal lens and compresses it onto the normal film. If the film were projected as is, everything would look bunched up or compressed vertically. When the Vistascope lens is put over the projector lens, then the film spreads out 50 per cent wider than normal.

Secondly, he looked longingly at the zoom lens which shifts your focus from near to far objects by pushing a lever while your camera is shooting.

Another fan said a new type of repeating flash bulb caught his fancy. It looked like a photoflood bulb but gave up to 5000 individual flashes when plugged into an AC or DC outlet, each equivalent to the light from a No. 5 flashbulb. Within three seconds, the bulb could be flashed again. They are available in blue for color work, and up to five bulbs could be plugged into one outlet. It's called the Five-Thousand-Flash.

A present owner of a speedlight unit said he had come to the show to register a complaint about the performance of the dry battery contained in the unit. He found on display a new nickel-cadmium battery that will shortly replace the type he, and others, had found unsatisfactory. The old battery had a total life of only eight months. The new one is guaranteed for 10 years and will hold a charge, even if not used at all, for one year. It contains no acid and can't spill. It can be recharged in one half hour and can't be over-charged. Each full charge is good for more than 300 flashes. The nickel-cadmium battery will be available shortly in the Ascor Speedlight.

Still another photographer was most impressed with the FR Electronic Flash unit because its power pack consists of four regular flashlight batteries. The whole unit weighs less than three pounds. Around 250 flashes can be shot, it is claimed, before the flashlight batteries need replacement.

The exhibition of photos by the New York Press Photographers Assn. was picked by several visitors as a highlight of the show. Owers mentioned the photogenic setting—a Paris street scene—in which they could pose their wives and friends for personal pictures. But for every single preference thus far noted, there were at least three or four whose opinions were clearly and definitely stated with: "I came to shoot the models." It looked like a majority report.

House Divided Is Twice Taxed

DETROIT (AP)—Real estate man Edward J. Strata has his house squarely on the dividing line between Detroit and suburban Grosse Pointe.

"I sleep in Detroit and eat in Grosse Pointe," Strata said. "When I'm mad at Grosse Pointe I stay in the back of the house and I'm a Detroit and vice versa. The biggest trouble? Both cities collect taxes."

Tape Recording Helps Conviction

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A tape recording aided in the conviction yesterday of three persons charged with attempted extortion. The recordings were believed to be the first used as evidence in a North Carolina criminal trial.

Judge John Vernon in Alamance Recorder's Court admitted the tape as evidence in the case of Jack Waddell, Pauline Waddell and Gurney Pichard, all of Burlington. They are charged with trying to extort $1,000 from Avery Douglas Kimery, 45. The three were sentenced to two year prison terms, suspended on good behavior.

Police charged the Waddells and Pichard with promising to withdraw their testimony for $1,000 in a case which Kimery was accused of carnal knowledge of the Waddells' 10-year-old daughter.

C. E. Peacock, a news reporter with Radio Station WBEB, said he set up the station's tape recorder in a store owned by Herman Truett. The arrangements were made by Capt. Alfred H. Garner of the Burlington police department.

Peacock testified the Waddells and Pichard came to the store and talked with Coley Kimery, Avery Kimery's brother and with Truett. A concealed microphone recorded the conversation during which the alleged extortion offer was made.

Competitive Exam For Entry Into Merchant Marine Academy April 11

The annual competitive examination for entrance into the Merchant Marine Academy will be held April 11. It was announced today by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner, Chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

The Academy provides a four year college course with a Bachelor of Science degree and its graduates receive licenses as United States Merchant Marine officers and commissions in the United States Naval Reserve. Tuition, room and board, uniforms and textbooks are furnished by the Government.

The examination is open to citizens between the ages of 17 and 21 who are high school graduates. The examination is held throughout the United States and in this area will be held at the post office in both Washington and Elizabeth City.

Applications for admission to the examination can be obtained by contacting Captain John T. Everett, Maritime Training Officer, Maritime Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

Why Scrap Free Competition

In the production of Natural Gas or any other product?

Natural gas comes to most consumers through interstate pipelines and local utility systems. They have franchises from state or local bodies, and have long been regulated.

The producers who find the gas have not been regulated because more than 5,000 of them compete vigorously—and free competition is the best of all price controls.

Yet these producers have recently been singled out for Federal controls and price-fixing.

This is a step without peacetime precedent—to price-fix a consumer product at its source. It is a step that deeply disturbs many Americans, including the undersigned committee.

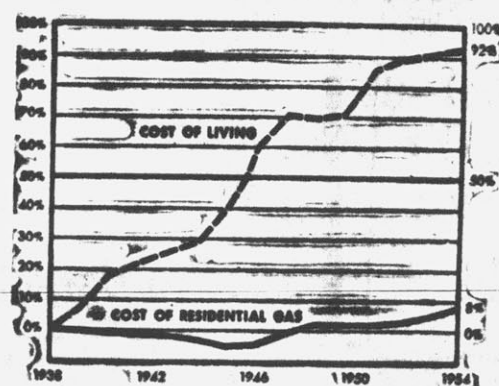

They believe the proposed controls are against the public interest and can benefit no one. They believe the issue goes far beyond gas. It goes to the roots of America's greatness. They believe the controls plan is unwise for many reasons.

It is Unnecessary because gas supplies have tripled in sixteen years. And costs to consumers have risen a nation-wide average of only one-eleventh as much as the cost of living.

It is Dangerous because it could easily be the first step toward Federal controls on coal or oil—or lumber or grain or your business.

It is Unfair because it singles out one competitive industry for such controls.

It is Shortsighted because it stifles the bold and risky exploring that's needed to assure adequate supplies.

As shown by the chart above, based on figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics for a national average, the cost of natural gas to the residential consumer has gone up only one-eleventh as much as the cost of living in sixteen years.

CHS'S SAWYER AND EDWARDS ON ALL-STATE HONORABLE MENTION LIST

Greenville High failed to place a man on the Greensboro Daily News All-North Carolina team but did have two players named on the long list of honorable mentions.

The two Phantoms given recognition were Pat Sawyer and Harold Edwards, both leaders during the successful cage season just terminated. They were given a lot of consideration and both barely missed placing on the first team.

Sawyer, a senior, culminated his prep career with a fine performance in the Kiwanis Cage Classic in Charlotte last Friday. His 11 points and floor play were very instrumental in North Carolina's overwhelming victory over South Carolina. Edwards, a junior, was the Phantoms scoring leader during the past campaign and drew a lot of attention publicity-wise.

Greensboro Daily News called SAWYER

him: "one of the brightest prospects in the state."

HUFFMAN MADE AUSPICIOUS DEBUT AS COACH AT SANFORD

Charlie Huffman, East Carolina's All-Stater in 1953-54, couldn't have made a more auspicious entry into the coaching field under existing conditions than he did at Sanford.

The easy-going, friendly native of Thomasville joined the faculty at Sanford High School last September after completing outstanding basketball and campus careers at East Carolina. Succeeding Jay Clark as boss of the Yellow Jackets, Huffman inherited a team which included only one boy among the top 12 of the season before, one in which the Jackets played in their second straight state tourney.

That was still added incentive for Huffman. Starting from scratch with a group of boys he knew nothing about, Huffman began to size up the situation in early practices. The Yellow Jackets surprised him quite after another, finishing the year with an over-all 13-8 record and a 7-3 conference mark. Those three losses all came at the hands of Laurinburg, the league's tournament representative in the recent state meet.

Huffman won't be at the helm this time next season. He reports to Uncle Sam in June. He is in line for a commission but wants to hurry out and back into the coaching business. He has what it takes, no doubt!

GAVILAN MAKES LAST STAND TONIGHT

It's do or die for ex-welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Havana tonight against scrappy Bobby Dykes of Miami. Gavilan, who was beaten just recently by Hector Constance at Miami Beach, has to win this one to remain in top boxing company.

They have met before, Gavilan winning a split decision in 1952. Since then Gavilan has lost much of his old zest and punching power. Once a fighter starts to slip, the hungry, underclass pug moves in for some of the kill. Dykes is in practically the same boat as Gavilan only he hasn't the outstanding record of Gavilan to preserve.

Gavilan has lost much of his appeal during the last year. Mainly because of bellyaching when things didn't go just his way. He has been fined several times for "after-fight" speeches such as he gave after the Constance bout. He screamed "robber" so loud that he was fined $100 and given warning by the Miami Boxing Commission.

Nat'l League President Expects Real Hot Race

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—It is not news when a league president says he expects his circuit to put on a ding-dong, wire-to-wire race that will have the fans hanging onto their chairs. It is newsworthy, however, if he means it, and in the case of Warren Giles, who heads the National League, he means it more than likely does this time.

He says that of all the pennant winners he ever saw, he believes the New York Giants have more reason to worry about their chances of repeating than any he ever saw. Not that he doesn't consider the world champions a very fine club in every respect, but just that they are going to be in there wrestling with what he believes is the strongest league, from top to bottom, in the history of the game.

To understand what I mean, you've only got to look at the collection of talent the St. Louis Cardinals have and realize that they

Tall Basketball Player For UNC

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Basketball Coach Frank McGuire says Billy Hathaway, a six-foot-ten basketball player of Long Beach, N.Y., has told him he will enter the University of North Carolina next fall.

McGuire said the 17-year-old, 245-pounder discussed the matter with him last week in New York. "We can use him," McGuire said, "to go along with our little fellows. He's a fine looking, well-coordinated fellow who should make a great college player."

U. S. Wraps Up Pan-Am In Hurry

Woodling, Evers Shine For Orioles

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

The Associated Press

Veterans Gene Woodling and Hoot Evers, who have been shut out of baseball's major leagues for quite a while, may have found a happy hunting ground with the new-look Baltimore Orioles.

Baltimore, which finished seventh in the American League last season, underwent a vast shuffling of personnel during the winter—including a new manager, Paul Richards.

Woodling came to the Orioles in the off-season deal that sent Bob Turley to the New York Yankees. Evers was purchased from the Detroit Tigers.

Woodling broke in with Cleveland in 1943 and played briefly with Pittsburgh before moving to the Yanks in 1949. A left-handed batter, he was hampered by toe and thumb fractures last season.

Evers began his big league career with the Tigers in 1946 and remained with Detroit until 1952 when he was traded to the Boston

Red Sox. Boston sold him to the New York Yankees last May and he was bought back by the Tigers in July.

The two outfielders hope to win regular berths in the Orioles' outfield. The 32-year-old Woodling was two-platoon with the Yanks in 1954, seeing action mostly against right-handed pitchers. Evers, 34, has been a pinch hitter, of late, and also a late-inning defensive replacement.

Both players came up with clutch hits last night in Baltimore's ninth-inning rally as the Orioles edged the Brooklyn Dodgers 8-6.

The Dodgers were leading by three runs when Brooklyn rookie Bob Darnell allowed three walks and a hit for one run and left the bases loaded. Glenn Cox relieved Darnell and Evers poked a two-run single to tie the score 6-6. Woodling then doubled to drive in two more runs.

The St. Louis Cards posted their fifth victory in six starts, defeating the Detroit Tigers 5-2. Gordon Jones, Bob Tiefenauer and Joe Presko subdued the Tigers with five hits.

The Cincinnati Redlegs edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-7, scoring seven runs in the last two innings.

Ewell Blackwell tested his arm as the New York Yankees hammered the Philadelphia Phils 9-2. Darnell, Blackwell and Evers combined to pitch in his three-inning stint. He gave up two runs and six hits.

The Milwaukee Braves tallied five runs in the third inning off lefty Mel Parnell and went on to whip the Boston Red Sox 7-3.

Ralph Kiner collected four hits in four official at bats to spark the Cleveland Indians to a 13-7 triumph over the New York Giants.

The Tribe clinched the verdict with a five-run uprising in the eighth inning off losing pitcher Ruben Gomez.

Says Wilderness Invasion To Rise

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The great outdoors will be under tremendous pressure from expanding population expected during the next 25 years, says Dr. Charles B. Loomis, a sociologist at Michigan State College.

The study drive that causes people to want to move to the edge of cities also makes people want to go hunting and fishing, he suggests.

"The urge to get outdoors is one of the most democratic known," he says. "Tell me what magazine you read, and I'll tell you what social class you're in. But tell me that you like to hunt or fish and I can't tell you a thing."

"The poorest man is just as good as the millionaire when they both get outdoors."

Rare Tie Stands On Record Book

PELHAM, Ga. (AP)—It's no typographical error that Pelham high school's 1954 basketball record reads 19-10-1. Coach E. L. Rainey explains:

"We played Meigs and when the game was over, the scoreboard showed Meigs winning, 58-57. Then we made a routine check of the scorebook and it showed a tie. By then the fans were gone so we said to heck with it, and it stands as the only basketball tie I ever saw."

MEET A G-MAN

Bob Howell, 6-1 165 pound three sports star for the Greenville Phantoms, is Coach Bo Farley's only shortstop hope for the 1955 baseball season.

The consistent Howell is heading for his last baseball campaign in Greenville High School and hopes to make it his best ever.

Last year Howell batted a terrific .333 and led the club in hitting. Swinging from the leadoff position Howell got on base many times for Coach Farley. He also led the team in runs and stolen bases.

This year Howell will have new infield associates to work with as all of the first team infield graduated from last year. Always a good fielder, Howell made most of his errors last year on the long throw to first base. Errors came few and far between for the senior swatter last season, however.

This baseball season will end one of Greenville High School's most illustrious sports careers. Howell has been a Phantom mainstay in three sports. He earned three letters in football and was named all-conference his senior year. In basketball he was all-tournament two years in a row. This is his third year on the baseball team and more honors seem sure to come.

Although Howell is graduating this spring, his athletic career is far from being over. The big senior has already been looked over by colleges around the state and is a sure bet to go to some college. It's a cinch that college Howell does go to some nearby college. It's a cinch that college Howell will get its money's worth in an all-around athlete and personality.

Entries Named In Dixie Classic

RALEIGH (AP)—The field has been completed for the annual Dixie Classic basketball tournament Dec. 29-31 in Reynolds Coliseum.

Tournament officials announced yesterday the visiting teams will be Villanova, Wyoming, Oregon State and Minnesota. The four will compete against North Carolina's Big Four—North Carolina State, Duke, North Carolina and Wake Forest.

State defeated Minnesota, 85-84, to win the classic last December.

Different Views On His Record

DETROIT (AP)—Pitcher Steve Gromek says he and the Detroit Tigers didn't see eye to eye on his 1955 contract.

"I told them I won 18 games last year," Gromek mused. "You know what they told me? 'You lost 16 games!'"

A few days later Steve could be seen with a big grin waving his newly signed contract.

Highest Pay For Oldest Pirate

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Outfielder Sid Gordon, 36, the oldest man on the Pittsburgh Pirate roster, is also the highest paid.

Gordon's contract calls for an estimated $27,000—about a $2,000 boost over last year.

Gordon was the only Pirate to have better than a .300 average last season. He hit .306.

OUT OF RETIREMENT

CHICAGO (AP)—White Sox uniform with the number four on back is coming out of retirement. It was last worn in 1949 by Luke Appling. Now it will be worn by new manager Marty Marion.

Ten More Days Of Event Yet To Go

By BOB MYERS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States trophy chest was decorated with five more gold medals today and Uncle Sam had the unofficial track and field championship of the Pan-American Games won and locked up tight.

There are still 10 more days of action on the athletic fields of the 18-game program but the big team from the U.S.A. has already smashed the defending champion, Argentina.

Unofficial point standings gave the United States 220; Argentina, 75½; Mexico, 36½; Cuba, 26; Brazil and Chile, 22; Venezuela and Dutch West Indies, 18; Panama, 15; Puerto Rico, 9½; Jamaica, 7; Canada and Colombia, 6; Trinidad, 5; Uruguay, 2½; Paraguay, 2; Guatemala, 1.

It found 19-year-old Arnie Sowell, of Pittsburgh, the winner in a new Pan-Am meet record time of 1:49.7; the old master of the two laps, Mal Whitfield, a faded fourth, and California's Lon Spurrier and Ramon Sandoval of Chile, sandwiched tightly in between.

The come-from-behind run in the stretch by Oswald Suarez of Argentina to grab victory from Horace Ashenfelter, of New Jersey, in the 5,000-meter race. The time was 15:30.6.

Elkhart In Big-Time Basketball Rush

By TOM STEPHENSON
AP Newsfeatures

ELKHART, Ind.—Big time bowling has helped this medium-sized Indiana town—population 35,000 with a new gymnasium seating 8,250—hit the big time basketball circuit in a hurry.

Because neighboring Fort Wayne's Memorial Coliseum will be the scene of the American Bowling Congress tournament starting in March, several big basketball events are being shifted to Elkhart.

One of these is an April 5 game in the basketball tour between the Harlem Globetrotters and the College All Stars.

The Fort Wayne Zollner Pistons have listed two National Basketball Assn. games, with Minneapolis and Syracuse. Some of the Pistons' NBA playoffs probably will be held here, because of a conflict with the bowling classic at Fort Wayne.

District NCAA playoffs, held at Fort Wayne the last two seasons, also may be held at the new Elkhart arena—particularly if Notre Dame is again named a "host school." The Irish fieldhouse holds only about 5,000 fans. Notre Dame's campus is about 18 miles west of Elkhart.

One of more than a dozen new gymnasiums constructed in basketball-minded Indiana for use this season, the Elkhart structure was termed by V.L. Phillips, head of the state prep association, as "the largest high school gymnasium in the world." Previously claiming this honor were Muncie and Kokomo with high school gyms seating about 7,500.

The North Side gymnasium-vocational building was erected at a cost of more than $1,300,000 by a holding company which will turn over the entire project to the city following a long term lease. The building is unique in its quick changeover from a large basketball arena to a physical education plant.

This is possible with portable folding bleachers. For intramural use the structure has four basketball practice courts in addition to the varsity court—two on the main floor and one each on the two mezzanine decks.

Three Repeaters In Class A Tournament

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Three schools that failed in their bid to go all the way a year ago, are back for another shot at the title in the state Class A high school basketball tournament opening at Senior High gym here tomorrow afternoon.

Ahoskie, King and Beaufort are the three repeaters. Ahoskie, by qualifying for the tournament for the fourth time in eight years, has moved ahead of Camp Lejeune as the school most often in the tournament.

King was runnerup last year to Cary which was eliminated this time by Youngsville in Eastern district play.

Tomorrow's program opens with Youngsville meeting Cove Creek at 2:30 and Beaufort facing Hildebran at 4 o'clock. The winners will meet in a 7:30 semifinal game Friday night. Other first round games tomorrow send Ahoskie against King at 7:30 p.m. and Red Springs against Bethel at 9 o'clock. The winners will play Friday night's second game.

First day losers meet in consolation contests Friday afternoon. Those losers will drop out of the tournament, with the winners meeting in the first of Saturday night's three games. Friday night losers will play for third place Saturday night with the championship game going on at 9 o'clock.

Youngsville, of Franklin County, has a 28-0 record under coach Al DePorter former Wake Forest College star.

Beaufort is the tournament's only other unbeaten team, having won 25 in a row.

The name "illy" is used loosely to designate many flowers that are not technically lilies.

Maurice Stokes Again 'Big Man'

By ED WILES

NEW YORK (AP)—The guys in the press row saved themselves a lot of time by tagging Maurice Stokes "The Magnificent" during last year's National Invitation basketball tournament. They don't have to search for a new nickname this year. Maurice is still magnificent.

Stokes, a 6-6 center with a fine shot assortment and great rebounding bounce, again was the big man for Little St. Francis (Pa.) last night as the Frankies upset defending champion Holy Cross 68-64 to gain the semifinals of the NIT.

Another upset seemed in the making for a moment in the other quarter-final game at Madison Square Garden. But it was only a fleeting moment. Then second-seeded Dayton settled down and padded its attack with St. Louis errors to whip the Billikens 97-81.

That paired Dayton and St. Francis in one of tomorrow night's semifinals. Top-seeded Duquesne and No. 4 seed Cincinnati, who reached the quarter-finals Monday, will meet in the other.

Holy Cross, seeded No. 3, was beaten by Stokes and a St. Francis zone, which William (Skip) Hughes, St. Francis coach, admitted must be "about the worst zone in the country." But it served its purpose. It protected Stokes from possible foul penalties and kept the Crusaders pretty well in check. Holy Cross just did manage to gain a 34-32 lead at the half.

Stokes had just one foul against him at the intermission. And the weak-bench Frankies had just three as a team. With the second half, Hughes discarded the zone and set Stokes loose. "And when Stokes moves," says Hughes, "We move."

Stokes finished with 21 points, but really made it a victory with his rebounding and team play. The Frankies stayed within reach until 5½ minutes remained then took a 57-56 lead and never fell back.

Dayton had too much height and too much Jack Sallee for St. Louis, which had set a flock of Garden scoring records in whipping Connecticut 110-103 in the first round.

Sallee, a Dandy floor man and driver, was tops with 33.

Governor Hodges Leads In Eulogy Of Wm. Umstead

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges last night eulogized the late Gov. William B. Umstead as "a man of unquestioned integrity, character and honor, only a strong-willed man could have directed the program he did."

Hodges was one of the speakers as the General Assembly paid its respects at a special ceremony to the memory of Umstead who died last November.

Present for the eulogies were Umstead's wife; their daughter, Merle Bradley, and his brothers, Henry and John. Also in attendance were members of the Council of State, justices of the State Supreme Court, former U.S. Sen. Alton Lennon, and intimate friends.

Hodges told the gathering in the House chamber that Umstead's

"approach to our basic state problems demonstrated a profound knowledge of our state—its people, its resources, its economy its history and its potentialities...his decisions on many important issues which arose during his 22 months in office have stood the test of time and further study."

Hodges lauded Umstead for the manner in which he met the segregation decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, stating: "He met this issue calmly and wisely. Due to his leadership and his reasonable, thoughtful approach to this decision North Carolina kept its equilibrium during what could have been a turbulent period."

R. Percy Reade of Durham, longtime friend and law partner of Umstead, said: "The commonwealth is richer that he lived; it is poorer that he is gone."

Four American League players made five hits in one game during 1954. They were Ted Williams of Boston, Micken Vernon of Washington, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit and Clint Courtney of Baltimore.

Cabbies Termed 'Solid Citizens'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Taxicab drivers, says Cabbie Earl E. Hall, are pretty solid citizens.

Hall denied that cab drivers are a hero type, and he added that neither do they deserve the abuse heaped on them by some citizen motorists. He was interviewed after Fire Chief John P. Finnegan credited Hall and a passenger, Roosevelt Johnson, with pulling eight persons from a flaming building. Two died, but the fire chief said they saved the lives of the others.

BOMER HAVEN
BOSTON (AP)—Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox, was homer haven in the American League during 1954. Sluggers hit 139 home runs there and here's how the clubs fared: Boston hit 38, Cleveland 25, Philadelphia 13, New York 12, Baltimore and Chicago 5 each, Washington 6 and Detroit 4.

Light Docket In Recorder's Court

An unusually light docket of eight cases was handled in Pitt County Recorder's Court Monday by Judge Dink James.

A charge of assault with deadly weapon placed against Arthur Manning, 25, of 211 Perkins Ave., was dismissed when the defendant was found not guilty.

Leron Haddock, 31, of Grimesland, charged with speeding 85 miles per hour on March 11, had his case transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.

In a second speeding case, Dale Lee Crain, of 106 S. Sylvan Drive, paid costs of court after having been charged with speeding 65 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone.

Jesse Mayo, charged with larceny on February 25, was found guilty of trespassing and paid costs of court.

A Robersonville resident, John Gurganus, 20, was fined $35 and costs after having been found guilty of operating a motor vehicle without a license. The offense occurred on March 6.

Driving after his license had been suspended and operating his vehicle without brakes brought a $10 fine and costs to Paul Frank, 38, colored, of Robersonville.

A charge of careless and reckless driving against Clarence Harris, Jr., 24, colored, of Bethel, was dismissed when the defendant was adjudged not guilty.

A larceny charge against T. G. Basnight of Pactolus Highway was not pressed.

Funeral Thursday For Frederick W. Fay

Mr. Frederick Woodrow Fay, 36, of Raleigh, died at Rex Hospital early Tuesday morning after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Pennington-Smith Funeral Home Chapel in Raleigh at 11 o'clock Thursday morning by the Rev. B. L. Davidson, Methodist minister of Cary, assisted by the Rev. A. L. Loefer of the Church of the Nazarene. Burial will be at two o'clock in the Greenwood Cemetery in Greenville. Members of the Shawnee Tribe No. 62, Improved Order of Red Men of Grimesland, will have charge of the services at the grave.

Surviving are his wife, the former Betty Sutton of near Greenville; a son, Phillip Fay; and a daughter, Arlene Fay, both of the home; and his mother, Mrs. Augusta Collins of Harrison, N. J.

Pactolus Ruritan Hears Joe Sugg

PACTOLUS — At the Pactolus Ruritan Club's last meeting, Joe Sugg of Rocky Mount, affiliated with the North Carolina Peanut Growers' Association, was guest speaker.

He gave a history of the peanut from planting time to harvesting, and made some helpful suggestions about making the crop more profitable, especially the N.C. 2 variety.

President Roy Tripp, who presided, inducted Fred Mizelle as a member of the Pactolus Ruritan Club.

W. V. Pendleton made his report about the Teen Age Club, sponsored by the Ruritan Club.

The club will sponsor Bob Williams and his Cumberland Mountain Boys at a show to be given at Pactolus School auditorium March 29 at 7:30 p.m.

The club approved the following objectives for 1955:

1. Club members continue to attend churches represented in the club one Sunday in each year.
2. Corn contest among club members to be continued through this year.
3. Club to continue to work on expansion of telephone service in the community.
4. One-year scholarship fund to be established for a deserving student in the Pactolus School District.
5. Sponsor mail box beautification project in the community.
6. Sponsor forestry thinning demonstration in the community.
7. Promote and encourage sanitation in the community.
8. Survey of roads of the community and work towards getting more paving and improvements.
9. Secure barber shop and barber for Pactolus.
10. Continue sponsoring and supervision of Teen Age recreation.

Ballard's X Roads News

At the Piney Grove Baptist Church on Sunday morning, Rev. J. A. Evans of Wilson used as a text part of the 10th verse from the 10th chapter of John: "I am come that they might have life and have it more abundantly." He brought out eight things mentioned in the Bible that one should possess to live the abundant life.

At the church service Mr. Jim Langley of Winterville, who is 91 years of age, was recognized. He has been a member of this church for several years.

There was another record attendance of 195 at Sunday School.

It was announced that the Sunday School Convention and Institute would be held at Mt. Allen College on Thursday and Friday of this week to which everyone is invited.

The work on the educational building is progressing nicely and H. P. Tyson expressed thanks for the cooperation he had received since the work began.

At the Sunday evening church service the Redmen of Tribe No. 35, Greenville, were special guests.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the church will meet on Friday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Lester Worthington, Greenville Rt. 1. All members are asked to be present and visitors are always welcome.

There was good attendance at prayer service at Ballard's Community Center on Wednesday evening. Everyone is invited to this service.

The seventh grade of the Arthur School visited Williamsburg and Jamestown, Va. last Friday, seeing the most important historical places of interest in those towns during the visit. They were accompanied by the principal, Joe Lupton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flake and Rev. and Mrs. Crawley. Those from the Ballard's community who went were Faye Harrel, Peggy Barber and Robert Earl Nichols. They reported a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Dunn were visitors of Mrs. Dunn's father, Ham Teel, at Belvoir Sunday.

Miss Nannie Darden of the Willow Green section, Greene County, visited Mrs. Annie Flanagan Monday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Corbett of Joyner's Crossroads was a weekend guest of Miss Alice Little.

'Like Sardines'

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — A school bus with 94 students "packed in like sardines" overturned on a dirt road here late yesterday. The State Highway Patrol said six children were taken to hospitals. They were not believed seriously hurt.

Deputy Sheriffs Haywood Myers and Ray Shupe said the driver of the bus, Charles Evans Thomas, 17, of Effingham, told them a student leaned over his driver's seat and interfered with the operation of the bus.

Thomas lost control of the bus as it rounded a curve and the vehicle overturned.

"I had them packed in like sardines, standing almost on top of each other from the windshield to the back glass," Thomas was quoted as saying.

Highway patrolmen quoted a student as saying the bus was going entirely too fast. Police said no charges had been filed against the driver pending a full investigation.

Stowaway Cat Flew High And Far In Jet Plane

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Spider, the high-flying cat, isn't bearing very well today. Otherwise his only problem is how to get home after an unauthorized flight in the landing gear of a jet plane.

Spider, owned by M. Sgt. Edward J. Spaulding at Maxwell Air Force Base, showed away Monday in the nose landing gear of a T33 jet trainer bound for Greenville AFB, Miss. He stuck it out while the plane soared as high as 40,000 feet at a speed of 550 miles an hour.

Yesterday a telegram arrived for the Maxwell base veterinarian from the base veterinarian in Greenville:

"Attention base veterinarian. One yellow and white cat, bearing tables tag No. 87, dated 1955, brought to my office today. Was stowed away in landing gear of T33 jet aircraft. Cat is temporarily deaf. Otherwise all right. Advise if owner wishes it returned and how."

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tyson of Washington, D. C. were recent visitors of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Savage of Greenville were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah L. Edwards.

Miss Ethel May Dunn was a weekend visitor of her sister, Mrs. Bill Cavton, in Greenville.

Pre-School Children At Chicod School Beginner's Day Program

A Beginner's Day program for pre-school children was held Monday at the Chicod School.

Purpose of this program, which is the first of its kind to be held in the county, is to acquaint the children with the school, familiarize parents with methods of readying their children for school, and showing them what they may expect of the school program as it relates to their children.

Beginners Day is not to be confused with the regular pre-school clinics held each year. County School Supervisor Annie Lee Jones explained, but it is an initial attempt at providing a better orientation program for the children entering school the next year. Sponsorship of such a program is being left up to each individual county school, and as yet no other Beginner's Day has been scheduled, Miss Jones stated.

Forty-five mothers attended the Chicod program with their children, who were taken on a tour of the school building, presented favors made by the first grade students, and served refreshments in the school lunchroom.

Principal Fodie Hodges reviewed the school policies for the parents, emphasizing the importance of the school and home working together.

Mrs. Lois McLawhorn, registered nurse, spoke on the services of the health department in the school program, while Miss Jones discussed the school activities and told the parents how they can help their children get ready for school.

She emphasized the effect of parents' attitude on school toward the children. She told them they should accept the child as he is and show genuine interest in school activities; teach the child to be courteous and polite and to work and play with others; read and tell good stories to the child; and work closely with the teacher and school through the PTA and school visits.

Following this discussion a booklet especially prepared for parents whose children are entering school was distributed.

Hole In Wall Of Child's Heart Is Sewed Shut

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Penny Rae Raymond, 7, was reported in satisfactory condition today at University of Minnesota Hospital, where a hole in her heart wall was sewed up yesterday.

The hole had permitted blood from the veins to mix with purified blood leaving the heart.

During the 2½-hour operation, a human doctor, Ted Goodman, 41, was linked with the child while blood was cut off from her heart. His heart and lungs did the work for both. The actual interchange of blood took 11 minutes.

Goodman is a close friend of Penny's parents Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Raymond, of Waukesha, Wis. He was kept under observation overnight at the hospital.

Medical men said a hole as big as a nickel was closed in the muscular wall between Penny's heart chambers.

The seat, investigating he found a rubber hose leading from the muffler. The driver, Joseph W. Nally, 33, was dead. A coroner pronounced it suicide.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market staged another strong advance today, the second straight in a recovery from its week-long major break.

The rise yesterday and today just about matched the heavy fall suffered Monday.

Most areas of the list were favored in the rise which extended out to around 4 points.

Trading was fast, but the pace didn't quite reach the 3,100,000 shares traded in yesterday's sharply higher market.

Bethlehem Steel was a standout performer in the steel division with a rise of better than 4 points.

General Dynamics was strong among the aircrafts, while American Telephone was the leader of the utility group.

RALEIGH (U)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina live poultry markets today frayed and broilers steady, farm price 29, f.o.b. plant no sales reported; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 42 to 44.

Asheville fryers and broilers steady, farm price 29, f.o.b. plant 30%; Asheville eggs about steady, A large 35 to 38.

Bridges Hopeful On GOP Chances

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today he thinks that in the "unhappy event" President Eisenhower declines to run for a second term the Republicans "could develop a winning ticket."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, emphasized he hopes and believes Eisenhower will seek a second term.

Bridges declined to take direct issue, however, with the basic theme of a speech by Vice President Nixon in Los Angeles Monday night. Nixon said: "The Republican party is not strong enough to elect a president. We have to have a presidential candidate strong enough to get the Republican party elected."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), 1952 Democratic vice presidential candidate, said in a separate interview he views Nixon's speech as "an apology for Republican philosophy and a good indication how indispensable one man is to them."

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) termed the speech a "confession of the indispensable one-man theory," and he added:

"The vice president seems to be saying that unless Eisenhower runs for reelection the Republicans might as well surrender the ball game before it is even played."

Nixon did not draw any direct parallel between what he called the GOP party's present minority position and Eisenhower's decision on whether to run in 1956.

The President himself took sharp issue with the "indispensable man" theory in a recent news conference. He said it was not valid.

Sparkman termed Nixon's speech an indication of concern that "the Democratic party is gaining strength."

But Bridges said GOP losses in last fall's congressional test were less than average for the party in power during an off-year election.

He said the party is in a stronger position today than in either 1952 or 1954.

The Democrats are "far worse split" than the cleavage they claim exists within the Republican party, Bridges said, and he continued:

"President Eisenhower is a candidate. I think unquestionably he will win. If, however, the Republican party should be with the good fortune to have the President as its standard bearer, I still think in that eventuality that we could develop a winning ticket."

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he agrees completely with Nixon.

"As of now," Goldwater said, "we don't have the votes to elect a president. If we can't pull over enough Democrats to make the Republicans a majority party."

CHICAGO (U)—Vice President Nixon, presiding officer of the Senate, is going to get a different type of gavel, a genuine Irish shillelagh.

The shillelagh and 26 pounds of flour to Chicago yesterday by the Irish Fellowship Society. At the society's annual St. Patrick's Day program tomorrow night, the turf will be enshrined under glass on the speaker's table until the oysters start. Then it will be laid on the floor.

Regan club president will present the shillelagh, Nixon, who is to address the society.

House Passes Appropriation

WASHINGTON (U)—The House has passed its first appropriations bill, the session's measure to provide $2,282,553,000 for running the Treasury and Post Office departments during the year starting July 1.

As approved by the House yesterday, the bill is $77,897,000 short of the amount requested by President Eisenhower. Of the total, $2,685,700,000 is earmarked for the Post Office Department, $595,818,000 for the Treasury and the remaining $1,035,000 for the Tax Court. The bill now goes to the Senate.

About one U.S. woman in 10 in the 45-54 age group is a widow, but in the 55-64 age group the proportion is one in 4.

Blood-Type On Driver's License Sought In Bill

RALEIGH (U)—The Senate rejected legislation yesterday which would require that every driver's license in the state list the blood type of the driver.

Under the bill introduced by Sen. Willis Hancock of Granville, every applicant for a driver's license would be required to furnish the department of motor vehicles his blood type.

The proposal is designed to give doctors at the hospital immediate information concerning the blood type of accident victims.

Among other legislative doings yesterday:

1. Sen. Dennis S. Cook of Caldwell introduced a bill to permit explosive caps used in top cap pistols to be sold in North Carolina.

2. Sen. John F. Shuford of Buncombe sponsored a measure which would give the State Supreme Court power to make rules governing procedure to be followed in lower courts.

3. Rep. Clyde Shreve of Guilford offered a bill to give municipalities authority to regulate development of subdivisions within a mile of their limits.

4. Sen. Avey Hightower of Anson was joined by 10 others in submitting a bill which would bar members of the legislature from membership on the board of trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina or any other state institution. Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange offered a bill Monday which applied only to membership on the board of the Consolidated University.

5. Sen. W. Lunsford Grew of Halifax introduced a bill to exempt state institutions from the provisions of the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act.

6. Legislation was offered by Sen. P. J. Blythe of Mecklenburg which would make children over 21 responsible, if they are able, for the support of their aged or infirm parents. Failure to do so would be a misdemeanor.

7. Reps. Wilson Yarborough and I. H. O'Hanlon of Cumberland proposed in a bill that widows be

Roberson's Beverage Company Introducing New Soft Drink Line

The introduction of Roberson's BIG Cola into Eastern North Carolina markets has been announced by W. R. Roberson Jr., General Manager of Roberson's Beverages.

The company, known throughout Eastern North Carolina since 1917 as a bottler of soft drinks in popular flavors under the name of Roberson's Beverages, has recently renamed the soft drink line Roberson's BIG Beverages. BIG Cola has been introduced as the leader of the line.

Roberson's BIG Cola is described as the first and only cola created and marketed exclusively in Eastern North Carolina. The recipe is original and reputedly known to only two people at the Roberson Beverage Company.

Early sales figures in key Eastern North Carolina markets have indicated a success never before noted in the soft drink industry in this area. Production of BIG Cola is being stepped up as quickly as facilities permit.

Reject Actress' Citizenship Bid

LOS ANGELES (U)—Movie actress Linda Christian's application for United States citizenship has been rejected by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Miss Christian, estranged wife of actor Tyrone Power, was born in Mexico, the daughter of a Dutch oil executive, Albert del Guercio, acting district director of immigration, said yesterday that the actress had not completed five years of uninterrupted residence in this country, and that she was absent from March 10, 1950, to May 16, 1951. He said she may refile for citizenship after May 17, however.

Had No Inkling Of His Wealth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (U)—Blind Wallace Andrews, 63, never showed any evidence of wealth as he went daily from his $3-a-week room to his job at the Work Shop Industry for the Blind.

When he died yesterday, authorities found cash and securities worth more than $34,000 in his room.

Ruth Hanley 15, his guide, said she had no idea her charge had any money.

Three Crewmen Jump To Safety In Bomber Crash

FLORENCE, S.C. (U)—An Air Force B47 bomber crashed in flames near North, S.C. early today but its three crewmen parachuted to safety.

The men were rescued several hours apart in a wooded and swampy area between St. George and Rowesville, S.C. They had scratches, cuts and minor bruises but were not seriously injured.

They were flown at once back to Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah, Ga. to which the bomber was attached. A spokesman there identified them as Capt. James M. Watson Jr., Lexington, Va., the plane commander; Capt. John F. Sabels, Muskegon, Mich., observer; and Lt. Floyd D. Doss, Lynchburg, Va., pilot.

Ground crews, a helicopter from the nearby Shaw Air Force Base and Civil Air Patrol planes joined in the brief search for the crewmen.

Maj. Forrest Poiles of the Civil Air Patrol here said the burned wreckage of the six-engine jet bomber was located five miles north of North.

The men jumped the area in which they were located too dangerous. North is about 75 miles from Florence.

Foiles said a National Guard company at St. George had joined local police, and State Police in the search. Some ground fog covered the area, he said.

Foiles said the plane first sent distress signals as it winged over Charleston where a refueling operation was scheduled.

A message that the first crewman had bailed out came at 11:40 p. m., Foiles said. The CAP estimated that the first man out may have landed near Lane, S.C., some 45 miles away.

Spokesmen at Charleston Air Force Base said they picked up a distress signal from the plane at about 11:40 last night but said some delay passed before they heard from it again. The CAP estimated the plane crashed shortly after midnight.

Ervin Melton, public information officer at the CAP, said the plane was based at Hunter Air Force Base, at Savannah, and was on a training mission.

Thailand Court Convicts 49 Of Communist Plot

BANGKOK, Thailand (U)—The Thai Criminal Court last night found 49 persons guilty of plotting to set up a Communist regime in this strategic Southeast Asian country.

All 49 were sentenced to 20 years in prison, but the sentences of 48 were reduced to 15 years and four months each because of good behavior since they were rounded up in November 1952.

Five other persons were acquitted.

The defendants were accused of conspiring unsuccessfully to overthrow the government of Premier P. Pibulsonggram between 1949 and 1952. Police said in 1952 the Red network had infiltrated the government offices and even the National Assembly.

Change Site For Club's Meeting

The meeting place for the Pitt County Shrine Club has been changed to the Olde Towne Inn, it was announced today.

The club is to meet tomorrow night at 7:00 to hear J. LeRoy Allen of Raleigh, potentate of Sudan Temple of the Shrine, who will address the group.

All Shrines, whether club members or not, are urged to attend, W. R. Hummel, club president, declared.

Rare Penguins For Washington

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—Eleven rare Emperor penguins from the South Polar regions arrived here early today en route to Washington to become the only known members of their species in captivity.

The rare birds were picked up by crewmen of the USS Atka, a Navy icebreaker, on its expedition to the Antarctic.

The Atka brought the penguins to Buenos Aires where they were transferred to a Pan American cargo clipper for the 4,600-mile flight to Miami.

The Emperor, smaller than his cousin, the King penguin weighs about 60 pounds and stands about three feet. They are believed to live as long as 50 years in their native habitat.

Call For Bids On Local Projects

Bids for the 4.3-mile bypass and bridge which will eventually carry Highway N.C. 11 around Greenville were called for yesterday by the State Highway Commission.

Bids are to be opened March 29 and will be reviewed by the Commission at a meeting March 21.

Specifications for the project call for a 540 foot bridge over the Tar River west of the present highway bridge and the Atlantic Coast Line trestle which presently spans the river.

In addition two overflow bridges are to be constructed—380 feet long and the other 140 feet in length.

The bypass is to leave the present N.C. 11 just north of the Coast Line railroad crossing, pass east of the airport and cross the Tar River to intersect with Memorial Drive. From there it will roughly follow Memorial Drive to N. C. 11 South.

Pathologist To Talk Nematode Control On TV

Furney A. Todd, Extension Plant Pathologist in charge of tobacco work from N. C. State College in Raleigh, will be the principal speaker on a television program concerning nematode control in blue-cured tobacco on WNCN Thursday at 6:45 p.m.

Todd, who worked formerly with the USDA in cooperation with the N. C. Agricultural Extension Stations, has done extensive work in crop rotation for nematode control. He has also experimented with the use of soil fumigants as a preventive measure with regard to nematodes.

Both crop rotation and soil fumigation will be discussed on Thursday's program over Channel 9.
