Large Turn-Out For Opening Of Rural Health Conference Here

Four Speakers Heard In Morning Session; Forum Opens This Afternoon

By EDWINA HAYMES Reflector Staff Writer A large group of physicians, health directors, health educators, Farm Bureau representatives from eastern North Carolina were here today attending the 1955 Regional Rural Health Conference at East Carolina College.

The conference is among the first of such meetings sponsored in North Carolina by the Committee on Rural Health and Education of the Medical Society of the state, in cooperation with the Advisory group to that committee.

Objective of the meeting is the accomplishment of good rural health and better rural living through the stimulation of individual and community interests, the mutual studying of problems, the comparison of other existing programs and the planning together for the future.

The all-day program opened at 10 a. m., and featured four principal speakers during the morning session: Hon. R. F. E. Shaw, executive vice-president, N. C. Farm Bureau; Dr. John C. Brauer, dean, School of Dentistry, University of North Carolina; Dr. Charles C. Cameron Jr., director, Accident Prevention Section, N. C. State Board of Health; and Dr. Roger Howell, School of Public Health, University of North Carolina.

Shaw spoke on "Rural Health as it Relates to the Agricultural Economy," and presented to the group a number of problems concerning the rural health program.

Among these problems he noted the difficulty of organizing in rural communities the scarcity of doctors who desire to practice in these rural areas; the lack of sufficient education among the farm people; and incomes not "quite so good" as those earned in the city.

"Of all the programs we have, none is so important as that which deals with the health of our people," he declared, pointing out that "no group needs good health more than farmers."

To solve the rural health problems today, Shaw said, "We must fully analyze what we are up against and how we are going to approach the problems. We must always work with and through the people in the local communities, for we need their advice, counsel and cooperation in carrying out our program. We must capitalize on the experience and know-how of our own people."

Dental Health—A Problem Today was the topic of discussion by Dr. Brauer, who declared, "There is no hope for the children of America, North Carolina, any community or home unless we teach the fundamentals of health in every classroom and every crossroads of America."

Need Parental Aid He pointed out that at least 75 percent of dental cavities and other dental problems can be prevented if "we have the cooperation and know-how on the part of the mother and father. Part of this know-how can be presented in the classroom."

As a preventive program for dentistry problems, Dr. Brauer suggested an adequate nutritional regime, routine follow-up and instruction with the dentist, and the adding of fluoride to communal water supplies.

He also noted one more problem—the scarcity of dentists throughout the nation, especially in the rural areas. He pointed out that in North Carolina there is now one dentist for every 3,863 persons, and in the nation one dentist for every 1,677 persons.

Dr. Cameron gave a lecture-demonstration on "Farm and Home Safety Practices" in which he illustrated that "accidents are increasing in importance as a health condition in the community and the state."

He pointed out that of the leading causes of death in North Carolina, accidents rank third, killing approximately four times as many

Bulldozer Probably Saved Life Of Operator Yesterday

Twister For Part Of Pitt

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor A bulldozer operator perhaps saved his own life by leaping beneath his machine when a twister hit in the Simpson-Black Jack section yesterday afternoon.

Bill Harrington, 2609 East Fourth Street, Greenville, says that the rattling of tin blowing from the roof of a nearby tobacco barn caused him to jump under the bulldozer after he had started for his pickup truck when he heard the cyclone approaching.

The driver's side of the truck was damaged when the tobacco barn overturned in the freak wind and was sent crashing against the vehicle.

"If it hadn't been for that tin rattling, I'd have been killed sure as the world," Harrington declared. Harrington said he had been clearing new land on the farm owned by Zeno Hudson located on a dirt road a short distance from the Simpson-Black Jack road.

He pulled the bulldozer up by the tobacco barn only seconds before the strange storm struck.

The bulldozer operator said it suddenly became very dark and he saw the twister coming.

"I started for the truck but the falling tin stopped me and I dived under the bulldozer," he recalled. "I don't know what happened after that."

Passes In Minutes Harrington noted that the wind had passed within a matter of minutes and he emerged from beneath the dozer to find the tobacco barn overturned and against his truck. Another nearby barn was also lifted from its foundations but a sturdy pine tree kept the wood structure from overturning.

Harrington said the storm "came over all at once."

"I didn't have time to see anything or do anything," he stated. Harrington had just stepped down on the steel beam which holds the blade to the front of the bulldozer when the falling tin forced him to leap beneath the machine. He said he crouched in an open space beneath the engine of his machine which was protected from the front by the heavy blade.

A heavy shed roof lay beside the dozer and was believed to have crashed down on the machine and then fallen to one side.

The pickup truck to which Harrington started apparently stopped the rolling oar. The building came to rest squarely against the left side of the vehicle. Force of the blow knocked out a back window of the truck, broke off the door handle and did other minor damage.

The tobacco barn itself was still intact, though upside down. It was badly twisted, however.

Only Area Hit The cyclone hit only in that one area as far as could be learned today. No other reports were heard of the twister striking other sections. After hitting in the newly cleared field, it moved directly across the road and struck the farm of Henry Hudson.

Hudson said his horse stable was torn down by the violent wind and was a tractor shelter attached to a nearby barn.

In addition, he reported some damage to the roof of his home. Hudson reported that none of the damage to the tobacco barn, which belonged to his brother, nor to his own property was insured, except the damage to the house roof.

Bystanders who saw and heard the approach of the twister said the winds did not make a great amount of noise. Nor was there a great deal of rain preceding and during the mighty wind, they said.

Witnesses declared that they could see the "black and twisting" tornado approaching and when it hit the area became very dark.

The twister came at the height of a general rain and wind storm which lashed the county late yesterday afternoon. In Greenville a virtual deluge of rain hit the city, taxing storm sewers and severely reducing visibility for motorists who were caught in the storm.

Black clouds darkened the skies over the city and caused the photo electric cell which turns on the street lighting system at nightfall to light up the system.

Mrs. C. E. Maiden, local weather observer, reported that one-third inch of rain fell during the short period yesterday afternoon.

Jumped Under Machine When He Saw Danger

Bill Harrington of 2609 East Fourth Street, Greenville is shown above standing by the bulldozer which he was operating when a tornado struck in the Simpson-Black Jack area yesterday afternoon. Harrington points to the open spot beneath the heavy machine where he crouched until the storm blew over. The bulldozer operator said he started for a nearby truck but falling tin from a barn caused him to jump beneath the dozer. He credits that move with saving his life since the barn was blown against the truck.

No Major Disclosures In Publishing Of Yalta Files; Deletions Admitted

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AND WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Publication of long-secret Yalta papers failed today to still the controversy that has raged for a decade over the wartime Big Three meeting.

The half-million-word American record of the historic session was made public last night by the State Department, reportedly over the objection of Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Secretary of State Dulles had said only Tuesday that the 834 pages of documents would not be made public now.

The papers disclosed that Premier Joseph Stalin had made a veiled threat of "difficulty" in taking Russia into the war against Japan unless President Roosevelt agreed to sweeping concessions.

Roosevelt did agree, giving Russia new strategic positions in the northwest Pacific and a powerful hand in Manchuria.

The record also disclosed that Roosevelt told Stalin and Churchill it was "very embarrassing" to him to yield to another Russian demand for Ukrainian and White Russian membership in the United Nations, giving Russia three votes in the General Assembly.

And they disclosed long arguments by Roosevelt and Churchill with Stalin over their demands for creation of free governments in Poland and other liberated Eastern European countries.

Stalin agreed to a declaration and procedures for setting up a democratic regime. But within a few years the Soviets solidified Communist rule from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

The Big Three conference was held at Yalta in the Russian Crimea in February 1945. Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill had met some months earlier at Tehran, mainly on coordinating military strategy against Nazi Germany.

At Yalta they grappled with great political issues, including the future of Germany. The record shows they agreed on "dismemberment" of Germany in principle but not on how it should be cut up.

But the overriding problem was the political entry into the war against Japan. Russia agreed to come in once Germany was defeated. The war in Europe ended May 7, 1945. Russia entered the conflict with Japan on Aug. 9, 1945, three days after the United States dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima. Japan surrendered Aug. 14, 1945.

The agreement between Roosevelt and Stalin on Russian entry into the Pacific war has produced years of political controversy in the United States.

Many Republican senators and others denounced Roosevelt's concessions as an unnecessary grant of position and power to Stalin. Roosevelt's defenders have replied it was the price he had to pay to assure Russian military action against Japan.

State Department officials are understood to have hoped that publication of the record would bring the long dispute to an end. It appeared, however, that the record might simply furnish more ammunition for it.

In addition, a question was raised as to whether the published record was complete in all details. The State Department itself said some omissions had been made for national security or elimination of repetitious material or to avoid "needless offense" to foreign nations or to individuals.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) called Roosevelt's action in agreeing to Stalin's Far East demands "an almost unpardonable error." Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said publication was aimed "to satisfy the more vitriolic elements of the Republican party."

The State Department gave no official explanation as to why Dulles changed his mind about letting the documents out at this time. However, the New York Times said the papers were "suddenly released" last night after "Republican senators had protested to the State Department that the New York Times had copies."

Two deletions were made at the request of Churchill, the only surviving member of the wartime Big Three. Adjacent paragraphs indicated they concerned Churchill's ideas of France's postwar position. Even with these and possible other omissions, Churchill had declined to agree to the publication.

There were no major disclosures. The chief results of the Yalta conference had long since been known.

The Far East concessions permitted Russia to take over the Kurile Islands north of Japan, the southern half of Sakhalin Island and operation of the Chinese east and south Manchurian railroads. The Russians also gained rights in the Chinese port of Dairen and the lease of Port Arthur as a naval base.

Except for the Kuriles, these were rights or positions which Russia had held 50 years before, then lost in 1905 through war with Japan.

In a meeting with Roosevelt at Yalta Feb. 1945, Stalin said that if his conditions were not met "it would be difficult for him and Molotov to explain to the Soviet people why Russia was entering the war against Japan."

A record of this exchange was kept by Roosevelt's interpreter, Charles E. Bohlen, now American ambassador in Moscow.

Farm Leaders Approve Invoking Equipment Tax

RALEIGH (AP)—Heads of two big farm organizations have gone to bat for legislation which would place farm machinery and equipment sales under the wholesale rate of 1-20th of 1 per cent.

Harry B. Caldwell of Greensboro, master of the State Grange, and A. D. Williams of Wilson, president of the State Farm Bureau, told the Joint Finance Committee yesterday they favored a bill introduced by Rep. Gordon Maddrey of Hertford.

At present, farm machinery is listed under the 3 per cent sales tax. Maddrey's bill would place it under the wholesale rate, but accessories would not be included.

Caldwell and Williams differed slightly in their reaction to a bill by Sen. Robert Morgan of Cleveland which would tax cooperatives. Morgan's bill would take away from co-ops their right to figure net income after they paid interest on capital stock. Under his proposal, the co-op, instead of the individual, would report this interest as net income and pay taxes on it. Morgan's bill also would: (1) have the co-ops pay a franchise tax equal to that paid by other industries, instead of the $10 franchise tax; (2) bring the co-ops under the chain store tax; (3) have them pay privilege taxes; and (4) have them report to the Revenue Department any patronage dividend of more than $10, instead of $50 as under the present law.

Meanwhile, the Joint Appropriations Committee reversed itself and put back in the 1955-57 budget a $22,994 appropriation for supervisory safety education in the schools. The item had been lopped off Wednesday.

The committee also voted in favor of hiking the salary of W. E. Easterling, secretary of the Local Government Commission, from $8,910 a year to $10,000. It may turn out that he will be the only state official to get a salary hike.

The committee reconsidered the safety program after Rep. John Umstead of Orange made a motion that the group hear from Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction.

The safety education program was instituted about eight years ago. A big factor in the decision, Carroll said, was the insistence by Tar Heel industries that such a program be adopted. He said it has helped prepare pupils for industry jobs by familiarizing them with necessary safety precautions.

Whitfield, a veteran of 13 years with the highway patrol, got off a radio appeal for help to Patrolman Jim Davis following the shooting but by the time Davis arrived bystanders had taken custody of Newton.

Linwood Earl Newton of Farmville, shot as a result of a dramatic battle with State Highway Patrolman Cpl. C. E. Whitfield on January 15, died at 11 o'clock last night in Duke Hospital.

Newton had been undergoing treatment since the fracas, which arose after he was arrested by Cpl. Whitfield and charged with drunken driving.

Whitfield was returning to Greenville with Newton when the struggle started two miles from town on U. S. 264. The patrolman managed to pull his gun and fired a steel-jacketed, .38 caliber bullet through Newton's stomach. The bullet subsequently passed through Cpl. Whitfield's wrist. He was hospitalized for some time following the incident for treatment of the bullet wound, bruises, lacerations and abrasions, but has since returned to duty.

Several warrants had been filed against Newton pending the outcome of his condition.

'U.S. Version'

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today the Yalta papers released in Washington were "of course the American version, and in no sense an agreed official record of the powers concerned."

Churchill said: "I have not seen anything but the extracts which now are appearing in the press. Even these disclose some serious mistakes."

The Prime Minister, who was answering legislators' questions, indicated his displeasure at Washington's publication of the documents by saying:

"If this became an established practice it might hamper the free exchange of views at future conferences. In any case, it would seem a good thing to consult together on the text of any publication during the lifetime of the individuals concerned."

Rhee Anxious To Have Ban Lifted

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today said "the sooner the better" in commenting on Secretary of State Dulles' statement that the United States might lift the ban preventing South Korea and Nationalist China from attacking the Reds.

"When we were ready to attack and go north, we stopped. Rhee said. "Difficulties, humiliating retreats and suffering were the result."

"The sooner we are able to attack, the better for Korea, Nationalist China, the United States and the rest of the free world."

FBI Joining In Vandalism Probe

ATLANTA (AP)—The FBI joined union and company officials today in probing a wave of vandalism in the four-day-old strike of Southern Bell Telephone Co. workers in nine Southeastern states.

Damage reports continued to mount while negotiators tried to reach agreement on a new contract for the estimated 50,000 workers affected by the walkout.

The FBI entered the picture after a cable serving several government offices in West Palm Beach, Fla., was cut yesterday. W. A. Smallwood, district director of the CIO Communications Workers of America, urged strikers to help prevent vandalism.

"We are striking on matters of high principle and we desire intensely to keep the strike on the same high plane," he said.

He said the strike was "highly effective." Company spokesmen disputed this and said supervisory workers were handling jobs of union strikers.

In Birmingham, Ala., CWA leaders charged supervisors were using names of union members when they answered telephones in an effort to "demoralize" other union members. C. P. Malone, district manager at Birmingham, denied this.

At Jacksonville, Fla., M. L. Luke, CWA strike chairman, said, "The company is making up some of this stuff about vandalism and damage to company property." Company spokesmen said that wasn't so.

There have been numerous reports of cable cuttings in four states. Cables also have been cut out of commission by gunfire or pulled down by ropes or wires. In all cases the damage has been found and repaired.

The strike began Monday after failure to agree on a new contract. Southern Bell offered wage hikes it said would cost an additional six million dollars annually, provided the union accepted a no-strike clause. The union said 5,000 workers would not receive wage increases and that many other issues still are to be agreed upon.

CIO Official And Wall Street Banker Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A CIO official and a Wall Street banker told the Senate's stock market inquiry today there are disturbing elements in the 1955 market.

CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey declared there is evidence the Eisenhower administration "has conspired to boost stock prices" until they have soared far out of line with the rest of the economy.

Carey said Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's recent taking-easy caution to the Senate Banking Committee was a confession that the administration's economic policies "are built on a will-of-the-wisp."

In other testimony prepared for the committee, investment banker Ferdinand Eberstadt said nobody can say for sure whether stock prices have gone too high.

"More disturbing than the present market level," Eberstadt said, "are security frauds and sales of securities which, while not technically fraudulent, are so worthless as to have the same effect on the buyer."

He said the committee's investigation which he called timely and useful, already has put a "distinctly perceptible" damper on such practices.

President Eisenhower told his new conference yesterday he knew of no instance in which the stock market inquiry had gone beyond proper bounds. But he said it is necessary to proceed with caution where public confidence is involved.

The day before, Humphrey said some of the committee's lines of inquiry might produce "a questioning of confidence" in the economy. Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) held the inquiry is necessary and

Dublin Turns Out In Annual Salute To St. Patrick

By MICHAEL ROONEY DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—They say in Ireland the warm side of the stone turns up on St. Patrick's Day.

It certainly turned up in Dublin Town today. After weeks of biting winds, the air had the balminess of spring.

Just to show how peaceful they are, the Irish gave their whole army of 12,000 men a holiday.

As usual, all saloons and bars were closed, but many a true son of Erin found a way of "drowning the shamrock" with a toast to the Emerald Isle's patron saint.

"Dia's Muire Dhui!" (God and Mary with you) falls softly on the ear in Gaelic and the singing reply "Dia's Muire Dhuit Agus Padraig" (God and Mary and Patrick with you).

A big parade marking Ireland's industrial development was the highlight in downtown Dublin. The day was the golden jubilee of the National Agricultural and Industrial Development Assn.

There were floats and flowers, killed colts and skirling pipes. The baton carried by Chief Marshal William Toomey came all the way from New York where thousands of Ireland's sons and daughters were celebrating too.

Pat Harmon, sports editor of the Cincinnati Post, brought the baton from New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., as an appreciation for the black thorn Dublin's Lord Mayor Aille Byrne sent over for the parade down Fifth Ave.

A full sports program set the pace for the holiday mood—hurling and Gaelic football games in Croke Park and a big dog show at Ballsbridge.

And the back of the hand to anyone who suggested the fact the dog show was given a special license to open a bar had anything to do with the robust attendance.

St. Patrick is buried in Downpatrick, across the border in Northern Ireland, which is under the British crown.

Members of the Town Council laid a wreath on the huge granite boulder marking the grave near Downpatrick's ancient cathedral. The Ulster police banned a planned parade to the grave. There has been some tension along the border for a year.

Bloxam Says He's Received No Vanceboro Complaint

Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam said today that he had heard no complaints from Vanceboro citizens concerning electrical service in their area.

He made the statement after being told that the State Utilities Commission set April 26 as the date for a hearing on the question of electrical service for the Craven County town after it received a petition from that area in which it was stated that service furnished by Greenville Utilities Commission has been "extremely bad."

Among those signing the petition were Vanceboro Mayor A. R. Blow and Chairman of the Craven County Commissioners George W. Ippock. The Vanceboro group asked in the petition that Carolina Power and Light be ordered to serve it and surrounding sections of Craven County. The town has been buying its power from the local utilities since 1941.

Bloxam said that he had not been informed of the Vanceboro petition nor of the hearing set by the State Utilities Commission.

"I couldn't make any comment because I don't know anything about it," he declared.

However, when told that the Vanceboro group had stated that the utility is "undependable," that motors turn out and that "current is frequently cut off entirely and remains off for many hours at a time," Bloxam stated that the Vanceboro electrical supply is "as constant as it is at your house."

The utilities superintendent said that a second power line had only recently been completed into the Vanceboro area to give protection against a break in the original line and "also to increase the capacity of the system for future growth."

"But we have had very poor service," he emphasized. "Every time we've had a country squall, the lights would be out and the refrigerators out . . . or that's the report they gave me."

He stated that there is also the matter of possibly obtaining a cheaper rate.

The petitioners stated: "Current is frequently cut off entirely and remains off for many hours at a time . . . Citizens of this area find it necessary to agree among themselves that when one person leaves his home, another will look after electrical appliances to prevent the same from being completely burned up because of the poor quality of service and the low voltage furnished by Greenville.

"Much food and foodstuff has been lost due to spoilage occasioned by freezer lockers and refrigerators being unable to operate and function regularly and consistently."

The costs of service charged by Greenville is some 30-35 per cent higher than the costs for much better service furnished by other electrical companies in adjoining territory. Greenville charges exorbitant connection fees before it will render service to the citizens of this territory. There is no uniformity of service or connection charges

Vivid Description Of Queen Mother Heard At Book Club Meet

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback gave to the members of the End of the Century Club a graphic description of the Queen Mother of England, when the club was entertained by Mrs. Marvin Blount on Tuesday, March 15.

In October of 1954 Dr. Utterback attended the Bi-Centennial Celebration of the founding of Columbia University, at which the Queen Mother was a special guest. Dr. Utterback told of seeing her shopping in stores on Fifth Avenue, then of seeing her at the Charter Day dinner at the Waldorf, and finally at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine where the Convocation was held at which the Queen Mother was presented an honorary doctorate by Columbia University. The speaker described her beautiful complexion and youthful appearance, as well as her vivacious and friendly manner. Her dress and jewelry which she wore to the dinner were described in detail. The club members were very grateful to Dr. Utterback for sharing this delightful experience.

After a short business session Mrs. R. C. Stokes urged members to attend the showing of paintings of Mrs. Ola Mae Foutchee on Thursday night at the Art Gallery.

Pitt Legislators Are Guests At Highway Dinner Meeting

The Pitt County Chapter of the NCSHEA held its quarterly dinner meeting last Friday evening at the State Highway Garage. A home-cooked barbecue dinner, prepared by Jasper Boyd, Steve Johnston and Paul Crawford, was served after the meeting. H. L. Vincent, chairman, turned the meeting over to J. L. McDonald, State President, who introduced the guests.

Showman Eli Bloom delighted the crowd with several jokes and his famous "Levinsky at the Wedding." Representatives Sam Worthington and Walter Jones and Senator Paul Jones were special guests and each of them was in favor of leaving money in the budget to take care of increment increases for employees who will become eligible during the fiscal year.

Relative to the possible Retirement and Social Security Merger, M. H. Barney of Rocky Mount, District Director of the Social Security Administration, explained the Social Security Program and its benefits using illustrative materials to clarify his explanations.

Ear Crump of Raleigh, Personnel Director, explained the status of the employees under the Retirement System. An informative open discussion followed with questions from the employees being answered by both Mr. Barney and Mr. Crump. Chairman Vincent recognized Otis Boyd, James Boyd, Johnnie Edwards, William Wilson, Willie Faulkner, Dallas Briley, Elbert Bullock, Paul Harris and G. A. Taylor for their efficiency in serving the dinner.

The door prize was won by J. R. Martin. Other guests were Mrs. M. H. Barney of Rocky Mount; Mrs. Earl Crump, Ivan Hardesty and E. T. Pearce of Raleigh; Henry Alford of Durham; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkins, Mrs. Vernice Beriton of Wusch; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Landing, Walter Bray Patrolman Delton Perry, and Misses Novella, Rosa and Bruce Krum.

The next meeting will be on June 10th.

Funeral Thursday For George W. Prescott

AYDEN — George W. Prescott, 76, of Ayden died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock following an illness of only a few hours.

Funeral services will be conducted at Britt's Funeral Chapel in Ayden Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

New Developments In Carpet Cleaning

Fina Foam, the amazing carpet cleaner, now is better than ever. Made from an entirely new formula, Fina Foam is now a triple-strength concentrate. You only add water to turn one gallon into three—and the price is only $2.25 for a gallon of concentrate.

Another innovation is the long-handled brush to apply the cleaning foam. Just stroke it back and forth like shuffleboard and watch the colors spring out like new, the nap bounces up soft and fluffy.

Parents Demand Some Safeguards

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—Parents of 10 Oakland Beach children who have been abused by rowdies on school buses decided at a neighborhood meeting last night to keep the children home "until some action is taken to protect the youngsters."

They complained the children have been "burned, assailed, assaulted, kicked and abused" by older children on the buses. School officials say the matter is in the hands of Juvenile Court.

Miss Wahl Is Presented P.T.A. Life Membership Certificate

The Wahl-Coates School P. T. A. met on Wednesday afternoon at 8:30. The school principal, Miss Frances Wahl, was presented a P. T. A. life membership certificate in appreciation of her 30 years of unselfish service to the Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Kenneth Cuthbert gave the devotional concerning Bunice, the mother of Timothy. The group then read "A Mother's and Father's Litany."

The treasurer's report and the minutes of the last meeting were read.

Mrs. J. B. Newman announced the pre-school clinic date for the Wahl-Coates School would be April 5 from 9-12 in the school auditorium. Brookgreen School will have a separate pre-school clinic on April 19. Mrs. Wahl said the parents would receive folders in advance, which would have to be filled out on each applicant. She also stressed the importance of the parent coming with the child to the pre-school clinic.

ROTC Staff Member Speaks At Inter Se Book Club Meeting

Lt. Harold Selfridge of the ROTC staff of East Carolina College talked about Iceland and the people who live there before the Inter Se Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

He gave a brief historical background of this fascinating island, telling of the early settlers, their language and the ideas of democracy and education which have been handed down through the ages. Illiteracy is almost unknown in Iceland.

Because Lt. Selfridge spent an entire year in Iceland with the U.S. Air Force, he was able to describe graphically the terrain, plants, and flowers, climate, influence of the Gulf Stream, religion, customs and occupations of the people and their mode of living. He illustrated this interesting talk with beautiful color slides taken during his stay in Iceland.

Mrs. Wendell Smiley was hostess for this delightful affair in the Radio-TV studio of the Joyner Library of East Carolina College.

During the social hour following the program, Mrs. Smiley, assisted by Miss Sara Smiley, served delicious refreshments. A beautiful arrangement of spring flowers made the studio festive for this occasion.

Special guests were Mrs. Harold Selfridge, Miss Elizabeth Walter, Dr. Mildred Southwick, Mrs. J. H. S. Hodges, Mrs. Leo Jenkins, Mrs. J. O. Derrick, Mrs. M. M. Jorgensen, Mrs. Raymond W. Lowe, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson, Mrs. R. H. Evans, Mr. W. W. Smiley, and Mr. Ralph Smiley.

A city-wide P.T.A. study course will be conducted by Mr. William H. Gibson in the McGinnis Auditorium on April 4 at 8:00.

Miss Wahl introduced Miss Pauline Cate, a French Fellowship Student, who is studying at East Carolina College. Miss Cate spoke of how very similar our schools are in grades one through six. In France, the seventh grader begins study in languages and other classical subjects. "The aim of the public schools in France is to develop a classical background; whereas in America your aim seems to be to develop a well balanced individual."

The next P.T.A. meeting will be a picnic on April 22. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brooks will present a program of square dancers at that time.

The State P.T.A. Convention will meet in Durham, April 19-21. Mrs. Sally Klingensmith's second grade won the attendance award.

Mrs. Carson Guest Speaker At WCTU Meeting Monday

BETHEL — The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held Monday afternoon with Mrs. R. L. Whitley.

The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. Whitley, after which she led in prayer. The roll call and minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Athaleen Rollins. There were seven members and two visitors present.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Lela Carson, Director of Flower Mission and Relief, of Greenville. Her thoughts were centered around the scriptures Corinthians 1:3-9 and Nehemiah 2:4-6. Her theme was "A Mind to Work Supported by People" which was very interesting and enjoyed by the group. Mrs. Carson also gave the highlights of the general W.C.T.U. meeting which was held in Kentucky. She closed her remarks with a short prayer.

During the refreshment hour the hostess served cup cakes, nuts, homemade candies and punch.

14th Kiwanis Minstrel Show Has Big Crowd

By CHESTER WALSH

The Greenville Kiwanis Club's annual Dixieland Minstrel Show played to an appreciative and capacity audience at Austin Auditorium on East Carolina campus last night. The show will be given again tonight at 8:15.

The home town and college talent show, produced and directed by Ell Bloom, presented for the 14th consecutive year, had elaborate stage settings, distinctive costuming, excellent singing by the men's chorus and there was a lot of applause for the specialty numbers. The dances, directed by Miss Mary Dunn Beatty, and the "Hit Parade" songs elicited encores. Many out-of-town people were in the audience.

One of the features of the Kiwanis Minstrel was the singing by the ensemble of "The Grand Old Flag." During the song, National Guard Battery Commander Capt. Franklin P. Redmond and a detachment of artillerymen under M-Sgt. Paul L. Jewett, with the Colors, marched through the auditorium to the stage to climax the first act.

Mrs. Lena Tyson was chorus pianist and Mrs. Virginia Taylor played for the dances. Kirvin Conway painted the scenery. Charlie Crone is stage manager. Milo Smith was in charge of lighting effects. Mary Dunn Beatty designed the dance costumes and Mrs. Charlie D. Cox made them. Dixie McGibson is business manager of the show. John A. Collins Jr. is advertising chairman, and J. Hicks Corey is chairman of the Ticket Committee.

Kiwanis Club President Charles V. Wilkerson, near the end of the show, spoke briefly, saying that the entire proceeds of the minstrel are allotted to the Kiwanis Underprivileged Children's Fund. He extended appreciation to the merchants for advertising and East Carolina College for use of the auditorium.

Producer Ell Bloom expressed appreciation of the fine service of the members of the cast and others who cooperated in its success.

Individuals Must Make Themselves Heard

Is the General Assembly listening more carefully to organized groups or to the people in making its decisions on legislative matters?

We would like to believe that the General Assembly members seek out the wishes of the people in their individual districts and cast their votes accordingly in Raleigh; but many happenings in Raleigh make us seriously doubt if that is really the case.

Representatives and Senators get a good many letters from home during their stay in Raleigh. They get telephone calls and visits from constituents when they are at home on week-ends. These contacts with the folks back home keep the legislator fairly well informed on how at least some of their constituents feel about pending

Will They Kill The Bill Or Motorists?

It looks like it is up to the Senate now to protect the people of North Carolina from highway speeders by killing Rep. Tom White's anti-whammy bill.

House committees have given their stamp of approval to White's proposal which will render the speed checking devices used in cities and on the highways practically useless. That is a good indication the House will pass the measure and send it on to the Senate.

We trust the Senators will display a better command of their common sense and a greater interest in the safety of North Carolina motorists than was the case with the members of the House committees which gave approval to White's bill.

Unless the Senate kills White's bill, the resulting deterioration of the state's highway safety program caused by White's proposal will cause the death of many North Carolinians on the State's highways in the months ahead.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PASS ON SPIRITUAL GIFTS
In writing to the Corinthians, Paul spoke of God who comforts us in order that we may be able to comfort others.

Most of us would look upon comfort as an end in itself. When we receive it, we are glad. It is our possession. Not so, says St. Paul. It is given you in order that something greater than your comfort may be achieved. To be sure your comfort is important, but so is the comfort of others. Give comes to us hearts as a great friend and brings quietness and peace to the troubled mind. But when we have heard this sweet music of God's abiding love, we are to sound it and sing it out to the comfort of others.

If we try to hoard spiritual treasure, a mysterious moth and rust soon corrupt it and take it away. Our comfort must be a means of helping other people toward comfort. Those who have suffered much know how to help those who are now suffering. If after we receive God's comfort, we clutch it to our hearts and keep it just for ourselves, its sweetness turns to bitterness and we find ourselves at last suffering from the ailment of an old woe.

In the living world, things grow by the division of cells. The same is true in the spiritual world. Spiritual joys deepen and their values become more significant only when we pass them on with eager hands to others.

National Whirligig

Still No Anti-Eisenhower Issue

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The continuing lack of a big, popular, anti-Eisenhower issue for the 1956 campaign has forced the Democratic opposition on Capitol Hill to pitch their appeals to the voters on a wide-open pocketbook level. Their major legislative proposals envisage lower taxes and larger handouts for the so-called "little fellows"—the mass vote.

In search of a stirring and vote-luring issue, the Democrats first sought to brand the Administration as ultraliberal to "big interests" on taxes, anti-trust prosecutions and their various economic and technical problems did not catch on. The so-called "souless corporations" are not unpopular when times are as good as they are now.

The attempt to indict the White House for "McCarthyism" failed because Ike rolled with that punch until the Senate occluded its blow. The Democrats have pecked away at certain phases of the Dulles foreign policy, but they have supported its major tenets, chiefly because it carries out Roosevelt-Truman concepts of collective security. Indeed, it leans too far in that direction to suit nationally-minded GOP-ers of the Middle West.

SENATE DEMOCRATS NOT DISTURBED—Thus, with the 1956 test only 20 months off, the Democrats have yet to hit upon a single overriding and possibly victorious angle against the Administration. Politicians generally agree that they must do better between now and November, 1956, or see Ike win by default. Senate Democrats are not too deeply disturbed by this prospect. Only a handful must run again next year, and most of them seem secure in their seats. Moreover, several of the more prominent opposition members in the upper body sympathize with Ike's moderate philosophy.

They prefer him to the Democrats most frequently mentioned as his possible opponent—Harrison of New York, Williams of Michigan, Kefauver of Tennessee, and even Adlai E. Stevenson.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS IN 1956—But House Democrats, as well as some uneasy Republicans, are not so well fixed for 1956. With Eisenhower heading the GOP ticket, there should be an unusually large Republican turnout at the polls. The salary increase which they voted themselves will attract a stable batch of opponents in the primaries, and possibly a higher caliber of contestants.

Although normally conservative in economic matters, Speaker Sam Rayburn had to yield to these pres-legislation.

Back in Raleigh, however, the legislators are constantly confronted with lobbyists who are representing specific "clients" . . . individual businesses, large organizations of various kinds . . . who make sure the legislators get the benefit of their thinking on legislative matters.

The lobbyists are at the legislators' elbow, putting in plugs for legislation in which their clients are interested.

As the list of lobbyists and the list of their clients grow in Raleigh, it becomes more and more important that the individual citizens back home keep the legislators informed on their feeling toward state matters. Unless the individual citizens intensify their efforts to let legislators know their personal feeling toward legislative matters, we are going to see the third house—the lobbyists—gain more and more influence in the General Assembly.

Let Them Use Both Hands Next Time

President Eisenhower's recent statement concerning the use of atomic weapons in open warfare appears to us a hybrid between a statement of policy and a feeler for public reaction to the proposed use of atomic weapons by this nation.

The President has asserted he sees no reason, in case of open conflict, that the United States should not use its atomic weapons against strictly military targets. He did not say they would be used. He did not say they would not.

Since the authority to determine whether atomic weapons are used by our military forces rests in the hands of the President, Mr. Eisenhower could have issued a flat statement of policy one way or the other. This, he did not choose to do. He indicated his feeling without making it a policy statement.

We agree with the President that there is no reason why atomic weapons should not be employed against military targets in the case of another open conflict. In the Korean conflict we saw in vivid terms that our forces could not be expected to win a complete victory with one hand tied behind them. The scope of our military operations in the Korean conflict was limited by executive order. We do not propose here to argue the wisdom of that order, but merely to point out that the outcome of the conflict and the conditions the United States accepted in making a truce were indeed distressing.

If our military personnel are forced to lay down their lives in conflict, they deserve the full support of our military might in making that sacrifice. We cannot reasonably order them to place their lives in jeopardy while we hold back the use of weapons which might save them.

Somebody Told Me

Everywhere I went yesterday people were talking about Andy Griffith's performance on the U. S. Steel Hour Tuesday night. So yesterday's column was no news to the many Griffith fans in Greenville. But everybody will agree with Don Schlenz (he writes my headlines): "There's Room for Andy on Top."

Certainly would like to meet you in person! St. James Methodist Church is again this year sponsoring The Passion Play, April 6, 7, and 8 at Wright Auditorium, East Carolina College. Tickets sell for $1 and I have an unlimited quantity.

Simply call me at 4889 any evening and I'll bring you as many as you want.

WHITE'S PRIVATE WAR (Greensboro Daily News)
Rep. Tom White's private war against the whammy has approached the ridiculous stage. (Representative White, in case there is still somebody who hasn't heard, was caught by the whammy twice for speeding and has been angry ever since.)

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt in White's opinion, is subjecting North Carolina to a "war of nerves" by espousing "in the bushes . . . ambush" against speeders.

But who is doing all the yelling? Why speeders, of course. Practically the only persons favoring White's position at a recent committee hearing were several disgruntled motorists (one of them from Greensboro) who recently had unpleasant encounters with state highway patrolmen.

Why shouldn't the State Highway Patrol give speeders the double whammy? What are our speed laws for? There may be some justification for the argument that patrolmen don't allow sufficient tolerance (above 55 mph), but we bank on the word of Commissioner Scheidt that a five-mile-per-hour tolerance already is the rule, and Ed Scheidt is the more capable motor vehicles commissioner North Carolina has had in many years. Furthermore, we believed him when he told a recent committee hearing that he was "deeply concerned with the rights of the innocent as anyone in this room."

The plain truth of the matter is that the General Assembly, by fumbling around with Representative White's bill, is playing peanut politics with one of the best state highway safety campaigns in the nation. It is difficult enough we know, to get good and

Varied Thoughts Paraphrased

In the news this week the famous physicist Albert Einstein makes this interesting statement: "The world is no longer interested in me. I do not consider myself important any more. First, I was nobody, and then I became famous and people developed illusions of greatness about me that were untrue. Now I plan to live quietly . . . unless I feel my duty to come forward . . . in the interest of individual liberty or personal rights." Einstein is now 76.

Yesterday Jim Sutton and I took off for a few minutes to view a new house under construction. The incident recalled to me four years ago when we decided to build. Everybody who was supposed to know said, "Don't build now. Wait a few months. Build-capable men to serve as officials in Raleigh; it is disgraceful when small-minded vindictive men try to tear down both the program and reputation of these faithful public servants (men sometimes, as in the case of Scheidt, serving at a far lower salary than they could command in private life in order to contribute something to the welfare of North Carolina).

It is patently absurd for a representative to stand up in the legislative halls and accuse Ed Scheidt of "reducing the highway patrol to the level of stool-pigeons and informers" and making North Carolina the "No. 1 police state in the nation."

Locating Of Ports Authority Offices Being Debated

By LYNN NISBET
PORTS—Several conferences have been held during the past few days on the appropriate location of the principal offices of the North Carolina Ports Authority. The Authority is charged with operation and promotional development of State owned deep water ports at Morehead City and at Wilmington. It also has responsibility for developing other ports and harbors on coastal and inland waters as need for them arises.

Main offices are and have been since establishment of the Authority at Wilmington. Folks in the Morehead City area and other points along the sounds and streams where development is contemplated in the long range overall program feel this gives Wilmington undue advantage. There is no "ing in the record" to justify this feeling, but human nature being what it is and always has been the resentment is understandable.

Recent discussions have looked toward moving the administrative offices to Raleigh to eliminate any suggestion of favoritism. There are obvious objections to that plan, along with just as obvious reasons why it might be advisable. There is no controlling precedent.

Administrative offices of the State Hospitals Board of Control are at Raleigh. So far administrative offices of the Board of Correction and Training. There is no friction or jealousy among the several institutions under these boards. Main offices of the tuberculosis sanatoria are at the oldest institution at McCalm, and that has worked very well. On the other hand, the fact

When Irishmen Feel Like Kings

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Every Irishman feels like a king on St. Patrick's Day. And if he acts like a king today—well, he is entitled to. He is descended from kings. Every Irishman is.

This is the Irish more trouble than almost anything they know they come from kings. But when they point this out, not boastfully mind you but as a matter of historical truth, what happens? If the scene is a bar, some surly taproom serf is sure to express doubt or jeer. "So who cares?"

Now is this a way to talk to royalty? The poor Irishman, reduced to vertiginous frustration by this slight on his ancestry has been known to resort to fistic eloquence: Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam!

Naturally no one is ever going to argue with an Irishman on St. Patrick's day even if he claims he's Emperor of Timbuktu—and he may, if he feels like. For there are some 25 million Americans of Irish descent, and on this day most of them feel like they're playing fullback for Notre Dame.

Personally, you don't have to take my word for it that I'm descended from a king. I can prove it. I've got a green card that says so.

Yes, we all can prove the pure green of Erin's mystic kings flows in our veins thanks to research work by an Irish sportsman, the Hon. Francis de Moleyns.

Editor's note: This guy's an Irishman!

Boyle's note: Yep. His folks used to spell it Mullins. But once, while they were in the Irish Sea, they got lost in a fog that blew over from London. By mistake they landed in France. When the fog finally lifted again, some 400 years ago, they sailed right back to County Kerry. Naturally during their long stay in France they had forgotten how to spell, and they've been De Moleyns ever since.

Anyway, perhaps because of the disaster to his own name, De Moleyns became interested in Irish history. He backtracked some 1,600 well known Irish names.

As the Irish in Ireland are already where they came from, they don't offer much of a market for this information. But for the American Irish De Moleyns has opened a shop off Park avenue where for from $5 to $12.50 you can buy a necktie or scarf emblazoned with their family crest and get a green card that bears some of the more printable facts about their heredity.

Well, sir, I forked out my five for the tie and card. And guess who I am? It seems there was once upon a time an Irishman called Niall Mor, who as practically everybody knows was the 28th monarch of Ireland, and ancestor of Chief O'Booghill. This is Gaelic for O'Bohill, which I gather means we sprang from a high place in a swamp. The English, who came to Ireland for a brief visit and stayed on for several centuries, turned my innocent ancestors into changing the name from O'Booghill to Boghill, then Boylough and then Boyle.

My free-wheeling clansmen once ran the Barony of Boylough, but somebody's family crest must have fore-closed a lot of mortgages on them. For Grandfather Boyle, who emigrated here in the last century, spent most of his life digging coal in a Missouri pit he never owned.

Surely you're aching to know about my family crest. Well, it is a red heart, a cross and a battle axe triumphant over what looks like a fallen barber pole.

"Does this mean that somewhere along the line we quelled a somebody single-handed?" I asked the lady in the shop.

"Oh, no," she said "the red and white stripes simply are the of your ancestors were in knightly combat. He had the crest fixed on his helmet so that in battle the other warriors could say, 'There goes a Boyle.'"

When I proudly showed my crest and green card pedigree to my wife, Francis, she merely said:

"Listen Rover—or Royal O'Booghill or Boylough or Swampcliff, or whatever you call your self, you still have to carry the kitchen garbage out to the incinerator, and I mean right now."

There is one place in America where it is simply impossible for an Irishman to really feel like the descendant of kings. This is the place called-home.

Business Today

'Field Warehousing'

By ELMER ROESSNER
"Field warehousing" is a term that puzzles operators of many small and medium-size businesses. Big operators usually know all about it.

That's too bad. Smaller fellows more often have need for it. Field warehousing does not consist of putting goods in a warehouse in the middle of a field nor does it mean establishing branch warehouses throughout the sales field, although it sometimes amounts to that. Usually a field warehouse consists of a floor upstairs, or part of a manufacturer's regular warehouse or part of a customer's storage space. It can be an underground tank, a fenced yard or, in jewelry manufacture, an office safe.

To explain the matter, the Small Business Administration has issued a new leaflet. It points out that the two usual purposes of field warehousing are to permit a manufacturing company to obtain a loan on inventory, or to place stock with distributors without credit warrants.

For the first end, the manufacturer arranges a loan with a bank factor or other finance institution on inventory, subject to field warehousing. Then he contacts a field warehousing company. The usual process is then to lease part of his own warehouse space to the field warehousing company, which puts it under lock and gives keys to its agents, who are very often employees of the manufacturer. Then the inventory is moved into the locked area and a loan is made on it. The manufacturer plays without the inventory as he wishes, but he must pay off the loan on such parts as he withdraws. The field warehouse company guarantees to the lender that there is always adequate security under lock. The SBA seems to think charges for this service are not excessive.

For the second end, the manufacturer arranges with each distributor to lease part of his warehouse space to a field warehouse firm. Then he ships the goods to the field warehouse, and he is paid as the distributor withdraws the goods for his own sale. Thus the distributor gets goods immediately when needed, and the manufacturer is sure of getting paid.

The leaflet is free for asking the SBA, Washington 25, D.C., for "Management Aid No. 60: ODDS AGAINST CHEATERS STILL PRETTY SMALL."

Convictions for fraudulent income-tax evasions are increasing, Commerce Clearing House warns. However, those going to jail still constitute an insignificant percentage of those liable for taxes.

The tax service says that in 1952, 224 players guilty and 53 were found guilty at trial; in 1953 423 pleaded guilty and 70 more were convicted, and in 1954, 419 pleaded guilty and 123 got their jumps after trials.

Nannie Doss Awaits Court's Disposition

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Grandma Nannie Doss, the admitted poisoner of four of her five husbands, was back in jail here today to await whatever court action is in store for her.

The good-humored woman, who turned 50 years old during the 90 days she was in Eastern Oklahoma Hospital for mental examinations, was arraigned after her return yesterday on a charge of murdering husband No. 5 Samuel Doss of Tulsa.

Her attorneys entered for her a plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

While at the hospital, she was pronounced by psychiatrists there as "mentally defective." They recommended she be committed to the institution.

Public defenders Gordon L. Patten and Quinn M. Dickason asked an immediate sanity hearing for Mrs. Doss. County Attorney J. Howard Edmondson countered with a request for time for "psychiatrists of our own choosing to examine her" before any hearing is held.

This set off a legal wrangle which District Judge W. Lee Johnson ruled Judge Elmer Adams, assignment jurist for the April docket, should resolve.

Mrs. Doss has admitted poisoning Doss here last October; Richard Morton in Emporia, Kan.; Arlie Laning in Lexington, N.C.; and Frank Harrelson in Jacksonville, Ala.

She is charged with all their deaths and with that of her mother, Mrs. Louisa Hazle, at Lexington. She has denied any connection with her mother's death.

Court Of Appeals Serving As Judge In Rail Walkout Legal Tug-Of-War

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Court of Appeals will serve as judge today in the legal tug-of-war arising from the four-day-old Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike.

The railroad's goal: restoration of an order forcing train crews to cross picket lines erected by 25,000 strikers in 14 states. Arguments will be heard in Frankfort.

After suspending all passenger trains yesterday (about 50 were involved) the L. & N. sued two groups of unions for a total of $645,000 for alleged damages resulting from the walkout.

The Circuit Court petitions also ask $215,000 each day the 10 AFL nonoperating unions continue their strike.

The six operating unions, which have been respecting picket lines, were accused of breaking their contract with the railroad by not operating the trains.

No hearing was set on the damage suits but the unions have 20 days in which to reply. They declined comment last night.

Although the L. & N. estimated freight operations were "90 to 70 per cent of normal" along the 4,737-mile line, the lack of railroad cars has idled nearly 14,000 coal miners in Kentucky.

The shortage also was blamed for the closing of five central Kentucky plants and some in Nashville, Tenn. The Ralston Purina Co., largest rail shipper in Nashville, expected to halt operations today.

Officials in Montgomery, Ala., where cattle shipments are a major industry said they were feeling the pinch.

The strike, which affects two subsidiaries of the L. & N.—The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and the Clinchfield Railroad—added other casualties to the list yesterday. They were the Atlanta West Point and Georgia Railroads and the Atlanta Joint Terminals.

Four union strike leaders were slated to appear in court at Nashville today to show cause why they should not be cited for disobeying a nonstrike injunction on the N. C. & St. L.

The president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce called on President Eisenhower to revive his old emergency board or name a new one to settle the dispute.

In asking Kentucky's congressional delegation to relay the request to the President, Joseph Getzow suggested the unions and the railroad resume operations pending action by the emergency board.

The fact-finding board was created in December, 1953, after the nation's railroads and nonoperating unions became deadlocked in negotiations of a health-and-welfare program and other issues.

Most railroads signed the agreement with the unions last August, but the L. & N. declined. It claims the program is the major issue in the present squabble, but the 10 unions say there are other issues involved.

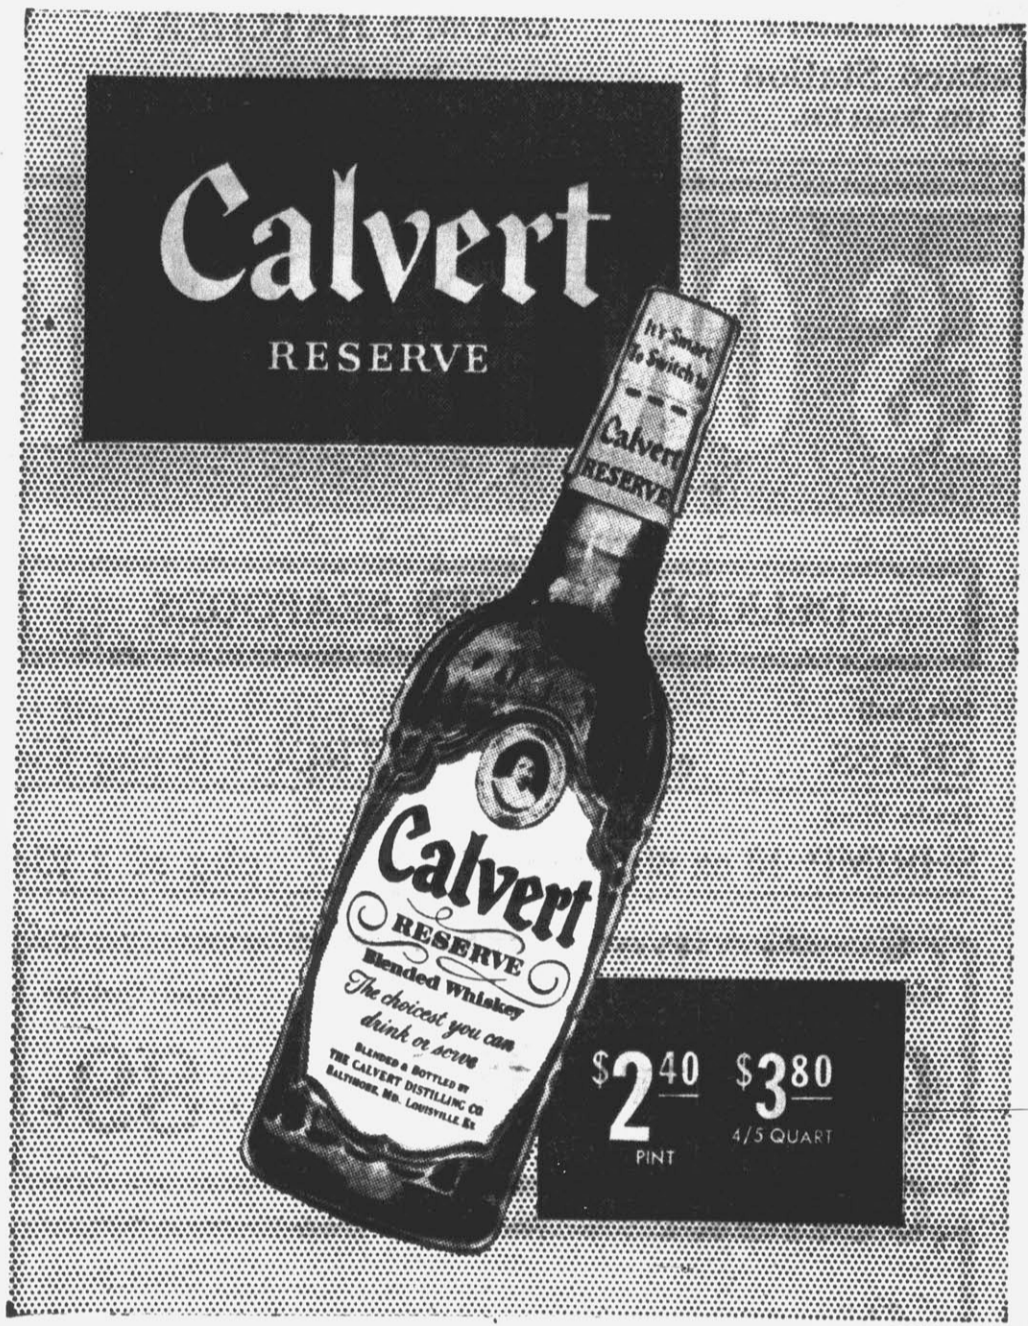

Circuit Judge Stuart E. Lampe, who issued the original order requiring operating crafts to bypass picket lines, said it was a "mistake." In quashing the order, he upheld a union contention that the Kentucky Constitution's prohibition of involuntary servitude was applicable in this case.

Panama Finishes Ratifying Pact

PANAMA (AP)—President Ricardo Arias last night signed a bill completing Panama's ratification of the new treaty governing U.S. activities in the Panama Canal Zone.

The pact still must be approved by the U.S. Senate and President Eisenhower.

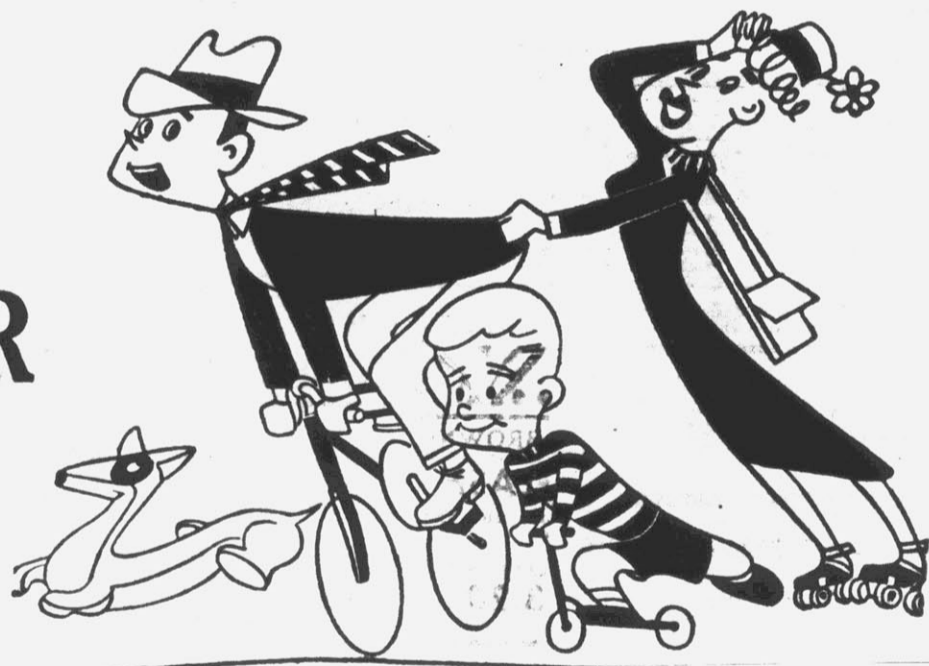

Major provisions increase the annual U.S. rental payment to Panama from $450,000 to $1,930,000 and give the United States rent-free use of about 20,000 acres of Panamanian territory for military purposes.

Tax Fight Goes Into Period Of Nervous Waiting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional battle over a Democratic tax-cutting drive settled today into a nervous waiting game. The issue rested for the time being with a Senate-House conference committee not scheduled to meet until next week.

Meanwhile, both sides fired new verbal blasts. Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) said Democratic insistence on an income tax cut year could bring an "unconscionable windfall" to the liquor industry.

The dispute is delaying action on a bill which would extend present corporation and excise tax rates now due to expire April 1. Unless the extension is voted, liquor taxes would drop from $10.50 to $9 a proof gallon, and Reed said that would give the liquor industry a "windfall" of 132 million dollars.

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) and Rep. Boggs (D-La) discounted any such possibility. They said agreement would be reached by April 1.

The conference committee was appointed yesterday to iron out the sharp dispute involved in tax bills passed by the House and Senate.

The Senate bill provides only a one-year extension of the corporation and excise taxes. The House bill, in addition, would cut taxes $20 a year for each taxpayer and each dependent, starting next Jan. 1.

House Minority Leader Martin (D-Mass) and Deputy GOP Leader Halleck (R-Ill) expressed strong confidence the conference committee eventually would accept the Senate bill.

No Complaints On Late Delivery

ATLANTA (AP)—When milkman Allen W. Foster was late on his rounds, nobody complained too much. He saw flames leaping from the roof of Mrs. L.D. Caldwell's home in the pre-dawn darkness, roused Mrs. Caldwell and helped her get the seven other occupants of the house awake. When he was ready to resume his route, his truck was boxed to the curb by fire engines and he had to wait more than an hour to get on with his job.

Late-To-Bed Has A Brighter Side

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP)—When 16-year-old Danny McClintock got home late from a dance he found the front door locked and he didn't have a key. So he slept in the nearby barn. Later he was awakened by cattle kicking and found a wall aflame. He rushed to the house and summoned the fire department which put out the blaze with only $50 damage. Fred Hansen, who owned the barn valued it and its contents at $20,000.

Red Korea's Army Is Bigger But Invasion Is Discounted

By MURRAY FROMSON
SEOUL (AP)—North Korea's Red army today is larger and better equipped than when it struck South Korea five years ago.

U.S. sources, however, privately discount the probability of another invasion from the north. So do South Korean officials, despite their publicly pronounced fears.

Intelligence reports, gathered by the allies in the past year, indicate the North Korean army, badly shattered at the time of the armistice, has been thoroughly overhauled.

Trucks, tanks, jet fighters and medium bombers have been brought in since the armistice. The introduction of planes is a violation of the truce. It forbids the introduction of additional weapons although old weapons may be replaced. North Korea had no jet planes at the time of the armistice.

Gen. Lee Hyung Keun, chairman of South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff, said last August North Korea had received 200 Russian-made tanks, 300 pieces of heavy artillery, 255 jet fighters and 42 medium jet bombers.

The United Nations Command mentioned only the illegal introduction of 150 jet fighters in its protest to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission. Conceivably, the artillery and tanks could be replacement of equipment the Chinese Reds took with them when they left.

At least 40 new jet airfields have been built. The North Koreans have dug in deep all across the 155-mile front. But they lack one important thing—full Chinese Communist support.

Communist China reported last September the withdrawal of seven divisions from North Korea. But there is conclusive evidence that up to 11 divisions—about 110,000 men—have been pulled out. The withdrawal still may be going on.

Chinese Nationalist intelligence reports these withdrawn troops are now opposite Formosa in the Amoy-Foochow area.

With increased Communist concentration on Formosa and Southeast Asia, there appears to be little Red Chinese enthusiasm for renewed adventures in Korea.

Without the Chinese Communists to bail them out, the North Korean army could well meet the same fate that befell it at Inchon. The armies were broken and most of their heavy equipment was captured.

South Korea has developed one of the largest standing armies in the world. This is far different from that day in 1950 when a poorly armed constabulary force met the first North Korean onslaught.

South Korea has 20 divisions on active duty. Another 10 reserve divisions will be filled out by June. The South Korean air force has the end of the year.

The reinforcement of the South Korean army has been accompanied by promised 75 Sabre Jets by the withdrawal of U.S. forces in compliance with armistice terms.

With the Russians and Red Chinese united up North Korea and the United States bolstering the South Korean army, the entire peninsula once more is an armed camp.

Thus, South Korea probably could not—as has been speculated—send volunteer forces to help the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa.

Desegregation In Negro School Is 'Very Successful'

By HIL MANGELSDORF
INSTITUTE, W. Va. (AP)—Until last year, West Virginia State College was a school for Negroes only. Since last fall, 399 white students have signed up for classes, swelling the school's enrollment to 1,070.

It is a unique—and successful—experiment in reverse integration.

The novelty of white students attending a Negro school has been achieved with little publicity. The faculty and student body have accepted it casually.

President William J. L. Wallace explains it this way:

"We didn't recruit white students. We felt it might be resented. But we knew many persons were interested and when white students showed up we accepted them."

State is a land-grant college, located near a large Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Co. plant, about 10 miles from Charleston. Most of the white students live nearby. Many work at the chemical plant.

President Wallace, a Negro with degrees from the University of Pittsburgh, Columbia and Cornell, thinks the experiment has been very successful.

"In general," he said, "there has been no resentment on the part of the Negro students. People being what they are, there was bound to be some conflict. But when minor incidents broke out, there always was someone nearby to settle the matter."

About 35 per cent of State's student body come from other states, and they are Negroes.

Dan Williams, a junior and editor of the student newspaper The Yellow Jacket, came from Miami, Fla.

"I never thought I could go to school with white students," he said. "I never did before. Then I met Joe Vinson (a white student). We're good friends now. He showed me how silly my attitude was and I have no resentment any more."

Vinson, a junior, is a transfer from Marshall College at Huntington, W. Va.

"No tension at all that I can see," Vinson said. "The students here are friendly and interested in their work."

Dr. Angie King, a chemistry professor who received her doctor's degree recently from the University of Pittsburgh, believes her white students are more aggressive. She said she has come to this conclusion.

"While students have more motivation to learn they work at the chemical plant and see an opportunity to improve their positions. Negroes aren't sure they'll have good jobs when they finish school."

Dr. King believes, however, that the situation at State will be helpful to the Negroes.

"These white students who have hesitated with the Negroes will have no hesitation about putting in a good word for them if the situation arises," she said.

The coach is Mark Cardwell, an athletic standout during his student days at State. Cardwell coaches both football and basketball.

"We had about 10 white boys turn out for the football team last year. Three of them stuck it out all season and one played a lot of football for us. There certainly was no racial problem with us."

President Wallace has high hopes for the experiment now developing at State.

"I look on it as a symbol," he said. "As an answer to those people who believe Negroes cannot administer biracial projects."

Ancient Statue Growing A Beard

ISTANBUL (AP)—Experts at the Istanbul Archeological Museum have been cracking jokes about the new beard on their sandstone statue which dates from the 7th century B.C.

Oscar Sumner, a museum official, said that asphalt contained in the sandstone had seeped downward to the surface, causing the five o'clock shadow look.

Paris Is Changed To Quieter City

PARIS (AP)—Paris is a quieter town since Prefect Andre Dubois took over the Police Department.

Siam a garage can or too a car horn and you're liable to have word from one of his 20,000 blue-capped policemen on the merits of silence.

The most energetic Paris police chief in a generation, Dubois is trying to teach individualistic Frenchmen that crime doesn't pay and that cooperation does—particularly in traffic.

With each new step since he was appointed last summer by Pierre Mendes-France, then premier, Prefect Dubois has followed the same pattern.

His uniformed police have started out by politely drawing attention to new rules. Only after some weeks of warning if persuasion fails, do they move in with tickets and fines.

Dubois' biggest success to date has been his silence campaign. Overnight he persuaded motorists not to drive with fingers always on the horn.

"Everyone now admits silence is better," he said.

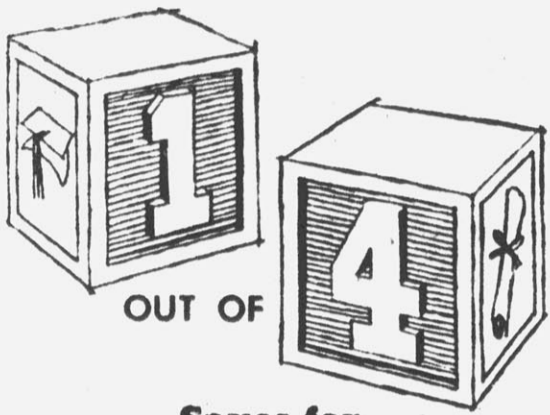

He reported the number of serious accidents has been cut by a third since horns were banned "except in grave emergency."

He plans a "Silence Week" for motorcycles and scooters in June. He has imposed silence rules on the city sanitation squads to curb their light-hearted crashing of garbage cans in the early morning hours.

He has sought—and obtained—the cooperation of the cardinal archbishop of Paris in arrangements that church bells for morning mass be rung for only a few minutes, if at all.

NOW A CHURCHGOER
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Justice of the Peace George Dietz gave William B. Johnson, 22, a 30-day sentence and fined him $75 for 11 traffic citations, including one for reckless driving. Then the justice suspended the sentence on the condition that Johnson attend church every Sunday for a year. He appointed a local minister to see that he does.

Tell Her It's MURDER

SYNOPSIS
Jim Andrus had blacked-out the night before he was to have wed lovely Regina Pelham in her suburban New York home. He had awakened to find himself accused of the vehicular slaying of Regina's small son, Roger. A 48 though he knew he'd been framed, evidence pointed to his guilt, so he'd been convicted of homicide, and had served a brief prison term. But free now in New York, and aided by Police Inspector McKee, Andrus is bent upon clearing his name. A clue as to his actual whereabouts on that tragic night, leads Andrus to the suburban shack of one "Midnight Mike." Here he is injured and, dazed, he stumbles upon the corpse of "Midnight Mike," himself. Jim hides out in a cheap local hotel that night and when next morning his silver flask is found by the body of the murdered man, Andrus is again wanted by the police. But Jim's loyal friend, Susan Dwight, helps him evade the law. Susan never had believed Andrus guilty of killing little Roger and she is sure that her grieving half-sister, Regina Pelham, still loves this man!

CHAPTER TEN
Susan Dwight was aware of what she was doing, and frightened at it; she kept her foot down hard on the accelerator. The car, Barry Lofting's car, leaped ahead. Neppan avenue along which they were flying north was almost empty for four or five blocks but there were more lights and more cars up at the junction at Ellwell. If she could reach the stream of traffic there, lose herself in it. . . She cut in front of a truck, scooped past a string of cars with inches to spare. She couldn't keep this up for long.

Behind them the siren continued to rise and fall. Twisted around on the seat beside her Andrus looked through the rear window. He couldn't see the police car but it was at their heels and coming on fast. He said, "You'd better let me out and get away yourself."

She didn't answer. Her attention was on her driving. She had no time for anything else. She had lived in Yonkers until she was 18 and knew it well—but so did Sergt. Dupasse.

A plan was beginning to form in her mind. The police were closer, perhaps a block and a half behind, cars were moving over; at the next intersection she swung the wheel, all but took the bumper from another car, shot right, then left, then right again. The dark pretty little house, with the doors locked and the shades drawn, working cheese and crackers and drinking a glass of milk. Susan Dwight had gone upstairs. She rejoined him, carrying a big pasteboard box that exuded an odor of DDT. "Clothes," she said. "There's plenty of time. Visiting hours are until 9 Sunday night and Rosetta will stay until the last."

Andrus was astonished at her coolness. He surveyed her. "You're going to get into trouble over this. Have you thought about that?"

"I don't see why," Susan said, biting into one of Andrus' saltines. "We were too far away for the police to see the license number of Barry's car, and there are thousands exactly like it on the roads. Mass production comes into its own. Dupasse gave chase because you weren't anywhere on that block and he saw our tail lights moving off. I could say you coerced me I suppose, but I'd rather not, if it can be helped. I don't want anyone at the house to know about it, that I went anywhere near that hotel. . . Tell me about last night."

Andrus did, succinctly, up to and including his discovery of the silver of glass buried in the cloth of his coat late that afternoon.

Susan stared at him. "The man who killed Brodsky was there in the darkness below the cliff, actually there, and he tried to kill you?"

"That's right," Andrus told her what he had done with the silver of glass, and at her puzzled look, "I put it there because it will prove that I found the splinter embedded in my coat while I was in that hotel room."

"How do you propose to have it found, and by whom?"

"That can be taken care of later. Just now I want to remain loose. I have things to do."

"What things?"

He didn't want another death on his conscience but a killer had to be found and rooted out. The first requisite was to prove his own innocence. To do that he needed help, and this girl could be trusted—she had proved it.

He said, "I want to find a woman with two love birds, a lot of house plants and a big cellar with wine barrels in it. I haven't the slightest idea who the woman is or where she lives except that it's somewhere in Yonkers. I was with her in her house with Midnight Mike at the time Roger was killed."

She said, "Let me see if I've got it right. Michael Brodsky could have given you an alibi for the time of Roger's death, so Michael Brodsky was killed. This woman can give you an alibi if—"

"If I can find her, and if I can stay out of jail."

"Why didn't these people, Brodsky and this woman, come forward when Roger was killed, why didn't they say you were with them?"

Andrus shrugged. "There didn't seem to be any question of my guilt. I practically acknowledged it by taking a plea, and the story didn't get much publicity, there was no mystery about it. Maybe they couldn't read, maybe neither of them wanted to go to the police."

Jim Andrus had to have some place to sleep and eat, a place from which he could issue from time to time when it seemed safe to carry on his search, when the hue and cry had died down. . . some place in Yonkers. Every hotel and rooming house would be on the alert. . . It was a hard nut to crack.

At the end of 15 minutes Susan sat up her eyes bright. Why not? It was dangerous, but possible. It fulfilled all the conditions. . . and nobody ever went up there now. . . The very audacity of such a hide-out would be its safeguard. . . "You've thought of something," Andrus said.

"Yes."

The phone in the hall rang loudly, insistently. They both started. Susan got up with decision. "Change into those clothes of Sard's and put your own in the box and I'll put the box back." She left the kitchen.

It was a friend of the Gilbeys' calling. Susan hung up, thought for a moment and rang up the house on Wolf Hill. She got Lulu Cassery and then Barry.

She had been gone more than an hour and Barry was both worried and cross. "Why did you dash off like that without a word, and where are you now?"

Susan told him that she was at the Gilbeys'. "I couldn't stand the house or that policeman another minute so I came down here in your car to pick up my Christmas cards. Your car was blocking mine. I can't get yours started, and also you have a flat. Come and pick me up in my car, will you, and we'll get a mechanic."

Three minutes later Andrus left the garage in a pin-striped suit

Russian Newspaper Prints Rare Account Of Crime

By RICHARD KASINCHKE
MOSCOW — The newspaper Baku Worker, published in the famed oil city and capital of Azerbaijan, tells about the arrest and execution of a trio of gangsters who terrorized the countryside.

They mutilated one of their murder victims and dumped his body in a ravine. In another case they placed a body in an automobile and ran it over an embankment.

Some Russians might consider this destruction of an automobile almost the greater crime. The AP correspondent discussed this case with a Soviet citizen who has been on the waiting list to get even the smallest of four makes of automobiles manufactured in the Soviet Union—the little Moskvitch, which sells for 9,000 rubles ($2,250 by the official rate).

The Russian exploded: "Why shooting's too good for those guys. Here I patiently huff and puff a couple of years and can't get a car, and those guys run one off a cliff."

Baku Worker's story—one of the rare crime reports, published in the Soviet press—relates that after a murder last Oct. 30, the trio held up and fatally shot the cashier of a machine tractor station (farm implements pool) and got away with 33,107 rubles. "To conceal the crime," the paper reports, "the bandits put the body into a Moskvitch and ran it over an embankment."

The killers were a night watchman, chauffeur and janitor of the MTS station. When police searched their quarters they found three pistols, 20,000 rubles and other evidence. "In the course of investigation," Baku Worker continues, "it was discovered that the bandits were committing murder for a long time, as well as armed robbery on the highways at night. . . . They were sentenced to the firing squad and executed."

Baku Worker never got around to telling just how many murders the men had committed.

Plan Sharing Of Court Collections

RALEIGH — Fines and forfeitures collected by the proposed new recorder's court at Grifton will be distributed to the respective school funds of Pitt and Lenoir counties, under terms of a bill approved by a legislative committee.

The bill had to be statewide in effect, but presently the only place of application will be the Grifton court. The bill authorizing establishment of a municipal court under the general law, but based upon a population count determined by the town board instead of the decennial census, was enacted into law a few days ago.

It developed the court will have jurisdiction within five miles of the corporate limits of the town. That runs over into Lenoir county. The new measure provides that fines and forfeitures collected by any court serving two or more counties will be paid into the school fund of the county in which the crime was committed.

Costs collected from defendants will go to finance the operation of the court. When someone asked about operating expenses in excess of costs collected, Rep. Thomas White of Lenoir said that was a matter that might have to be adjusted later.

LAKE DIVIDED
KENOSHA, Wis. (AP)—The Kenosha County Board was split on renaming Paschen Lake. Some members wanted to call it Benet Lake and others, Lake Shangri-la. The board finally settled by ordering the lake cut in half. The northern part to be known as Lake Shangri-la, and the southern part as Benet Lake.

Infielders Offer Plenty Of Promise

Milwaukee Has Confident Air, Capacity Crowds

By GAYLE TALBOT BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — For a club which finished eight games off the pace last year, the Milwaukee Braves are a remarkably confident outfit as they play to capacity crowds day after day in preparation for the coming National League race.

They already are being hailed as champions by their justly famous followers, who think nothing of wheeling down here by the busload to get a preliminary look at them. Manager Charlie Grimm could discuss his intentions only during the brief lapses when his telephone was not ringing.

East Carolina Baseball Squad Is Now Reduced To 29 Players

With the squad down to 29 players, Coaches Jim Mallory and Earl Smith are sparing no horses to get the East Carolina baseballers in shape for their opener next Wednesday with Springfield (Pa.).

completely recovered from an arm ailment which plagued him last year. "Mack Cherry looks like the starter on opening day," Mallory said this morning.

Two Young Righthanders May Help White Sox

By ED WILKS The Associated Press All things but championships come in pairs at Wrigley Field on Chicago's near North Side, where no pennants wave on the walls of ivy.

It was Larry French and Bill Lee who pitched the Cubs to their 1938 pennant. Hank Wyse and Hank Borowy did it in 1945. Billy Jurges and Billy Herman once plugged the middle.

Now, it's Bob Thorpe and Hy Cohen, a pair of right-handed youngsters who may breathe some life into Manager Stan Hack's wheezing mound staff.

Thorpe, 20, hung up the best record in the minors last season at 28-4. He's the first kid ever to jump from Class C. to the Cubs.

Thorpe, 6-1 and 170 pounds, just about owned the California State League batters last year while flicking his last one in for Stockton. He had a 2.28 earned run average, completed 32 of the 32 games he started and hurled five shutouts.

Cohen, 24, had a 1.88 ERA last season with Des Moines an all-time low in the Western League. The 6-5, 215-pounder had a 16-6 record after returning from service. He started the year at Los Angeles, was 0-0 in nine appearances. Six shutouts, 100 strikeouts and only 53 bases on balls are on his '54 record.

The youngsters showed their stuff for Hack and the Cubs yesterday. And although the world champion New York Giants took the game 5-3, they didn't take much from the two kids.

Thorpe gave up just one hit in three shutout innings. Cohen had trouble with Willie Mays and Monte Irvin but breezed past the rest of the champs. Mays and Irvin both figured in the two runs Cohen gave up. Irvin who slapped a bases-loaded single off rookie Al Lary to break it up in the seventh. Another Giant crew ran into a pair of veteran hurlers in Bob Feller and Bob Lemon and dropped a 6-4 decision to Cleveland.

Big innings were the rule yesterday. Brooklyn, which got three hits each from rookie Don Zimmer and Roy Campanella, slammed Baltimore for five runs in the first and five more in the third en route to an 18-8 romp. Philadelphia also had a pair of five-run innings coming from behind twice to clip Boston's Red Sox 17-12.

And the Milwaukee Braves got five walks and four unearned runs in a five-run eighth to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 11-10.

The Kansas City Athletics hammered five home runs to beat Detroit 8-3. Joe DeMaestri, Bill Stewart, Don Bollweg, Jim Finigan and Bill Renna homered for the A's, two off Billy Hoelt and three off Frank Lary. It was the first spring victory for Kansas City.

The Chicago White Sox scheduled just one game with the New York Yankees this spring and ran off with it 3-1 on the three-hit pitching of Bob Chamakos and Sandy Consuegra. Bullet Bob Turley, the young right-hander from the Orioles, again failed to please.

Bob Porterfield scattered five hits through six shutout innings as the Washington Senators beat Cincinnati 7-4.

Southpaw Bill Werle, getting another major league chance with the Cincinnati Redlegs, showed remarkable control for Louisville in the American Assn. during 1954. In 97 innings he walked only eight men.

Wide Open Race For 'North-South'

PINEHURST N.C. (AP)—Match play began today in the 54th annual North and South Women's Amateur Golf Tournament, with indications that the title chase will be a wide-open affair.

Yesterday's qualifying round field of 74, one of the smallest in recent years, produced not a single par performance, but the overall play was better than that of a year ago when Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., now a professional, took the medal and went on to win the tournament.

This year's medal winning score of 75, turned in by Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Mae Murray Jones of Montpelier, Vt., was a stroke lower than Miss Ziske's a year ago. In addition, the qualifying limit of 89 was a stroke lower than last year.

National Champion Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., had her trouble on the last four holes and so did many of the better players in the field. The 22-year-old coast cutie finished with 81, seven over women's par for the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, a 6,000-yarder from the short tees.

Miss Janssen, although she had only 10 pars to 15 for steady Mrs. Jones, almost balanced five bogies with two birdies and an eagle, the latter coming when she dropped a 10-footer for a three on the 14th.

Miss Janssen drew as her upper half opponent today Mrs. Pearson Mencher of nearby Southern Pines, an 85 qualifier. In the lower half of the draw, Mrs. Jones, runner-up here four years ago, met Mrs. S. H. Patterson of Pinehurst also an 85 shooter.

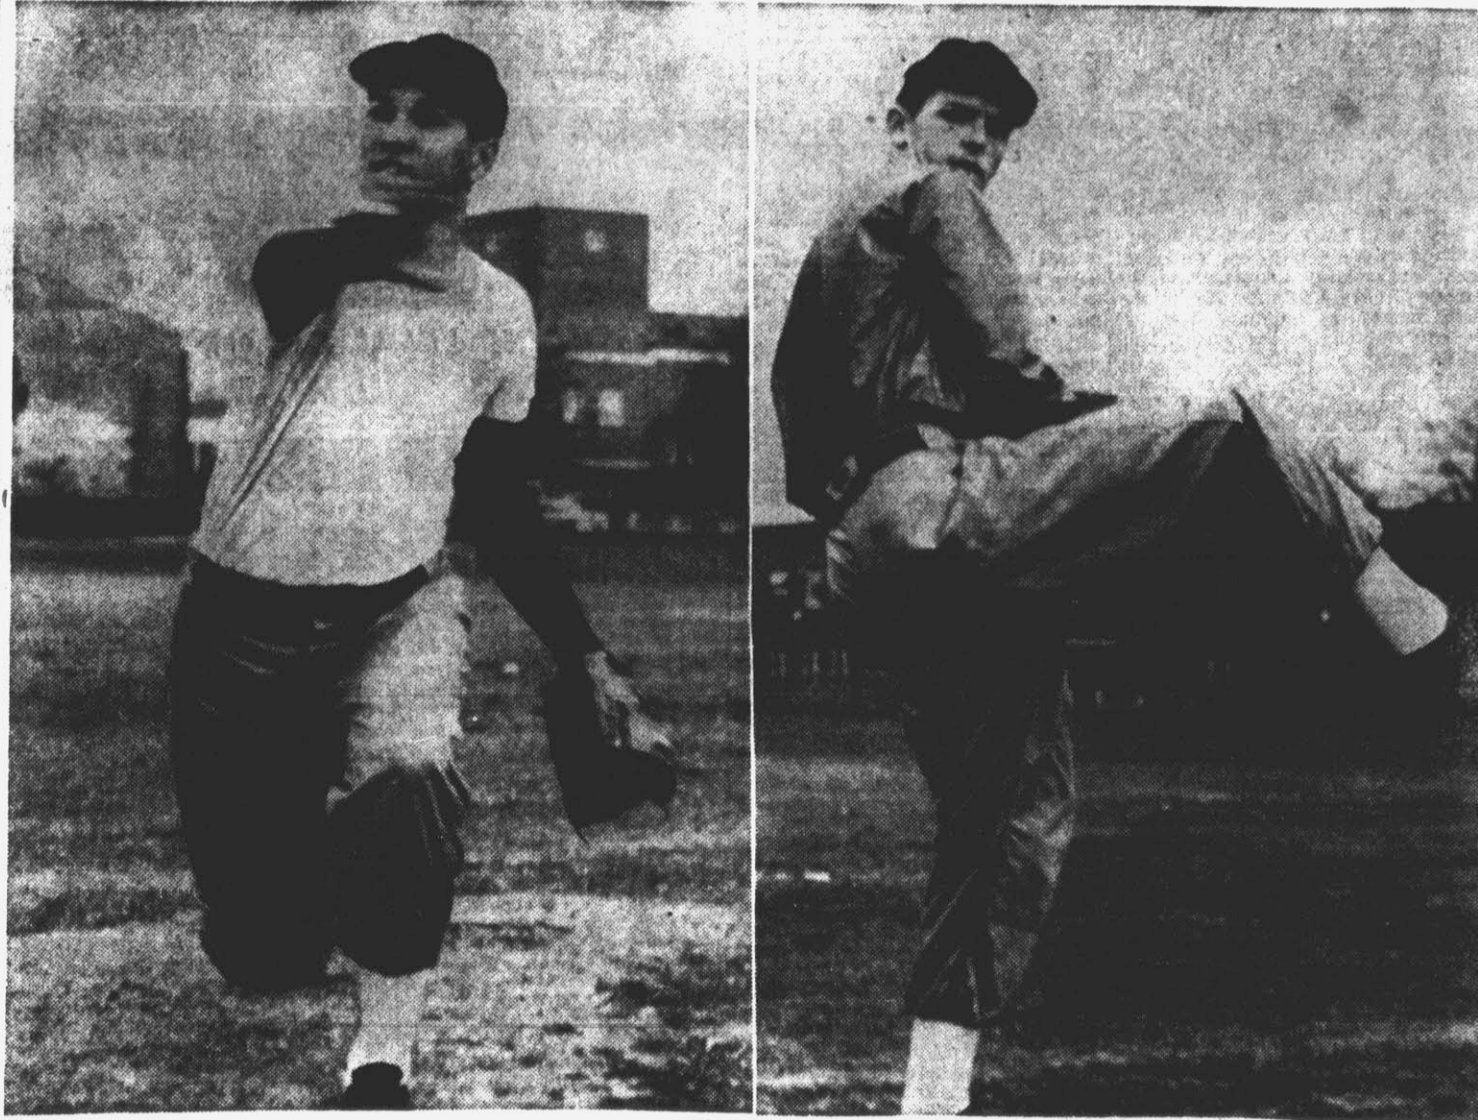

Other upper half matches included:

Greta Leone, Chicago, vs. Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta; Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, vs. Kathleen Newton Cleveland; Mrs. R. M. Torgerson, Forest Hills, N.Y.; vs. Mrs. J. S. Brown Jr., Sewickley, Pa.; Marjorie Burns, Greensboro, vs. Ann Rutherford, Carlisle, Pa.; Virginia Denney, Lake Forest, Ill., vs. Mrs. Kip Finch, New Canaan, Conn.; Pat Lesser, Seatonsville, vs. Sheila Moss, San Bernardino, Calif.; Carol Beinbrink, Stony Brook, Long Island, N.Y., vs. Mrs. H. S. Semple, Sewickley, Pa.

In the lower half other matches paired:

The grass course at Haleah, built in 1932, is the oldest at any American track. The $50,000 Haleah Turf Handicap is the nation's oldest consecutively run grass stakes.

East Carolina Pitching Hopefuls

PIRATE STOPPERS — Mack Cherry (left) and Dave Harris (right) are two of Coach Jim Mallory's pitching hopefuls this season. Cherry, of Washington, N. C., was East Carolina's winningest hurler in 1954 and appears set for another fine year. Harris, of Burlington, is recovered from an old arm ailment and has been very impressive in workouts. ## Giardello Found Guilty Of Assault

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joey Giardello was under an assault conviction today with his immediate ring future up to the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, an appeal court and Carl (Bobo) Olson, the man he'd like to succeed as middleweight boxing champion.

Giardello, who recently launched a campaign to convince the public he really is a nice guy, was found guilty last night on charges he attacked a gasoline station attendant with a crutch during a row last Oct. 29.

The attorney for the top 160-pound contender announced he would appeal to a higher court and sentence was deferred by Quarter Sessions Judge Edward P. Little. Giardello faces a maximum penalty of eight years and a $3,500 fine. The minimum would be a period of probation.

Olson declined to give Giardello another crack at his title while the assault trial was pending. Whether Giardello's conviction would wipe out any chance at a title fight remains to be seen.

The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission recently announced new requirements for anyone engaged in the fight or wrestling business in the state, including the submission of fingerprints and a statement of any criminal record. The commission in each case will decide whether to permit the fighter, wrestler or manager to operate as such. There was no immediate comment from the commissioners in the Giardello situation.

The South Philadelphia fighter was released in $1,000 bail pending his appeal. He appeared stunned as the seven women and five men on the jury were polled after announcing their verdict, reached in 5 1/2 hours of deliberation. The trial lasted three days.

Pirate Tennis Team Steps Up Pace For Opener; Golfers Practice Daily

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
 Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina's tennis team has stepped up its pace in preparation for their first match with North Carolina State on April 1.

Coach Ray Martinez is putting the candidates through 2 1/2 hour drills daily, Monday through Friday. The Pirate racketeers appear to be in pretty good physical shape but still have flaws in their playing games to correct.

Coach Martinez has an intrasquad round-robin tournament planned for this week. He is using this method to determine team positions. The winner will automatically become No. 1, the runnerup No. 2. There will be two favorites for the No. 1 spot. Frazier Bruton and Maurice Everette should make the strongest bids, although there are others who are considered serious challengers. Everette was one of the third place winner No. 3 and so on. Martinez feels that this way is the only fair method to rank players he has never seen play before.

The state's most highly-regarded high school players last year at Robersonville. Bruton is a veteran, having played three years of tennis at ECC.

J. W. Browning, Dallas Foscoe, Gill Underwood and Eddie Dennis are others who should pull positions. Browning and Foscoe are returning lettermen whereas the latter two are freshmen.

The tennis team plays a practice match this Saturday afternoon on East Carolina's courts. The matches should give Coach Martinez a better idea of just what kind of team East Carolina will field.

Pirate Golfers

The Pirate golfers are practicing daily on the Greenville Golf and Country Club course. Under the watchful eye of Coach Howard Porter, Claude King and company are rounding into shape. Comprising the squad besides King are Pat Hunt, Harry Rainey, Johnny Rainey, Paul Gay and Tommy Gravitte. Johnny Rainey and Gravitte are good-looking freshmen.

King, the North State Conference champion, is hitting the ball with his old power and is looking for his best year. Last season he was undefeated in all regular season matches and took the conference individual title at Greensboro.

Harry Rainey and Hunt will probably play the Nos. 2 and 3 posts. Rainey is a seasoned golfer with a fine putting game. Hunt is steadily improving and should be okay. Gay played in substitution roles last season and was impressive in doing so. His performances merited him a regular job this year. Newcomers Rainey and Gravitte are erratic golfers but should hold their own against North State competition.

The Pirate linksmen meet a group of A.F.R.O.T.C. officers and college officials in a practice match Saturday morning.

Foreign Fans Give Jimmy Morale Lift

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It was a real eye-opening experience. I had almost forgotten movie fans like that existed."

This was James Stewart talking of his recent journey to Japan, Hong Kong and Manila. When I saw him at his Beverly Hills home, he spoke with amazement of the Asiatic film fans. They were as rabid as the movie addicts were in this country before TV set in.

"It was a shot in the arm for me," said Jimmy. "It made me realize all over again the power of the film industry. I want to make more trips to other parts of the world now. I think other movie figures should do the same and renew their enthusiasm for the film business."

Paramount sent Stewart to Tokyo to open "Bear Window" and publicize its "Strategic Air Command." He also helped premiere the film in Hong Kong, then dropped down for appearances in the Philippines. At each stop he and his wife Gloria found the crowds large and demonstrative.

"The Japanese are wildly enthusiastic," Jimmy observed. "yet they're very polite. They're crazy about American pictures, especially the ones with action."

It's no accident that Stewart is a top favorite with the Japanese. He selects his pictures carefully, concentrating on subjects that take best advantage of the movie medium. As he defines them: "stories that move and get somewhere; not films where the characters sit around in a room and discuss their problems. Nobody wants to go to the movies to listen to problems."

Because the Stewart vehicles contain more action than dialogue, they are readily adaptable to the foreign market. Especially in Japan, where the language does not permit dubbing of the voices. Subtitles must be used.

Jimmy goes back to work this week, making a TV film for G.E. Theater. It's his first for TV, and he said that he might do more.

Climate Defeats A Mail Carrier

FORT ST. JAMES, B.C.—Snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night may not have stayed Haroldus when he wrote those lines in 431 B.C. about the post office boys but, by golly, he never had to contend with this British Columbia climate.

D. L. Jones, a mailcarrier for the northern B.C. area, now is preparing for his fifth try at snowmobiling the 140-mile mail run north to Manson Creek and German Landing.

On his last attempt, Jones fought his way through deep powder snow and 25-below-zero temperatures for 72 hours, averaging slightly over one mile an hour. He had to give up and come back.

At times his snowmobile, a ski-equipped vehicle, sank so deep in the powdery snow that it stalled and Jones was forced to pack the trail ahead with snowshoes and skis.

Fort St. James is 330 miles north of Vancouver, B.C.

Texas May Trim Buffalo Herd

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas House of Representatives yesterday took note of a west Texas problem—too many buffalo.

Rep. Richard C. Slack of Pecos won passage of a bill to allow the Reynolds Cattle Co., owner of a sprawling ranch in Culberson and Jeff Davis counties to dispose of a part of a show herd of 250 buffalo. The animals are protected under state law.

Slack explained that the company bought 25 animals four years ago. Now it needs the state's permission to cull out sick and surplus animals.

The bill goes to the Senate for further action.

Instance Where Broom Preferred

BOSTON (AP)—There are times when some women much prefer using a broom to a vacuum cleaner.

Such a case occurred when women from several states came here to show their highly developed broom sweeping skill. They were members of teams playing in the women's national curling championships.

The ancient Scottish game requires broom sweepers to ease the flight of a polished stone over ice into a scoring circle.

About 25 per cent of Sweden's seven million people earn their living from farms.

Tough Sledding On Carnival Day

EAST JAFFREY, N.H. (AP)—Every year for the past seven this town's winter carnival planned dog sled races and other snow sports. Every year — no snow.

Taking the hint, no snow sports were docketed this year. Come carnival day, the town had to scrape nine inches of white from a nearby lake to make ready for "jalopy" automobile races.

The dog races? The snow came too late even to schedule them.

Duck Is Laying Easter Eggs

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A duck named Easter is more in season than her name implies.

Mrs. Macy Weddington, owner, reports the duck lays blue eggs. Other ducks in the flock produce normal eggs, Mrs. Weddington said, and all get the same diet.

Thread is produced and used in cloth with skim milk as the basic material.

HOTTEST BUICK IN HISTORY

No wonder you see so many 1955 Buicks on the highways — they're selling up bigger sales than ever before in history — topping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three" in total national sales.

$2,343.88* makes it yours
---delivered and ready to roll

We keep coming across a good many people who still are surprised when they see the low delivered price of the Buick shown here.

They're surprised because they know that this price is just about what a lot of the smaller cars are asking—if not more.

DID YOU KNOW—

- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 188 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three best-known smaller cars?
- that the Buick SPECIAL gives you more pounds of automobile than any other car at its low price?

But that's just the point.

What's making the 1955 Buick the hottest one in all Buick sales history is the simple fact that its low delivered price buys so much more automobile.

Much more automobile when it comes to the lift and life of great V8 power—Buick power in record might.

Much more automobile when it comes to style and size and room and ride steadiness—and the integrity of construction that comes of Buick building.

Much more, too, when it comes to matching your motoring needs to the simple practicality of your budget—because Buick offers you a stunning choice in just about every price class...

Like the rock-bottom-priced SPECIAL—the high-powered CENTURY—the extra-spacious SUPER—the magnificent and custom-built ROADMASTER. Each is a Buick through and through—and each is a big reason why Buick sales are soaring as never before.

Why not drop in on us this week and see how much your new-car dollars can really buy—in thrills and fun and comfort and deep satisfaction—when you buy Buick.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market entered a new phase today in its sharply swinging reaction.

Prices gained or lost small amounts with the exception of a handful of wide movers affected by corporate developments.

During the past two weeks, the market has plunged down in a major reaction from an historic high level, and then in the past two days it has been in a strong recovery movement retracing about 40 per cent of the extreme loss.

Trading today was at an even more modest pace than yesterday when the total came to 2,900,000 shares.

Lower today were steels, air-craft, and railroads. Higher were radio-televisions, most chemicals, and airlines. In a mixed category were oils, coppers, and building materials. Others were steady.

Feature of the session was the sharp advance of Remington Rand and Sperry Corp. following the announcement that they planned a merger.

Remington Rand opened on 11,000 shares up 2 1/2 at 46 and then boosted its gain to between 5 and 6 points at the best. Sperry was delayed in getting under way and started about 40 minutes after the opening bell on blocks of 10,000 and 5,000 shares up 6 1/2 at 57, its best level.

General Dynamics up 4 1/2 yesterday, opened today on 4,000 shares up 1 1/2 at 64 1/2, and traded actively around that level.

Both Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet Tube were under some selling pressure following reports that the Justice Department plans to go into the courts if necessary to block a merger of the two.

persons as communicable diseases. The principal type of fatal accident in the state today, he said, are motor vehicle accidents, with all other kinds of accidents being "the most unnoticed in North Carolina." These include farm, home and resident institution accidents which rank next in fatality rate to motor vehicle accidents.

Death One Measure
Dr. Cameron noted that he was presenting only death figures, which are but one measure of the problem. Nobody knows the extent of injuries from accidents.

He declared that the solution to this problem "will come when we start thinking about all accidents as a community health problem, and approach it from the standpoint of individual and community activity."

In his address on "Mental Health Needs in North Carolina," Dr. Howell cited as one of the greatest needs in the state today the development of community mental health councils as part of the general health education program of the rural area.

He said that recent studies suggest there is as much mental illness in rural as urban communities, and "one of the most important areas for us to consider is the possible development of facilities to help people who think they need help, before they must go to the hospital."

The conference theme, "Rural Health, Our Wealth," was presented by Dr. Frederic C. Hubbard, chairman, Rural Health Committee, N. C. State Medical Society.

Dr. Hubbard quoted an old Arabian proverb: "He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." He pointed out that to be at his best, a man must be healthy, "physically, spiritually, mentally and morally."

"Health is Essential"
He said better health is "an essential, not alone from the economic standpoint, but for our well-being and happiness as well. The idea of the rural health program is to help the people approach the problem from a grass-roots standpoint, and involves the basic philosophy of individual responsibility and self-help. We want to help the rural people solve their own problems," he concluded.

Other portions of the morning program included the invocation by the Rev. J. Malloy Owen, pastor of St. James Methodist Church; addresses of welcome by Dr. John D. Messick, East Carolina College president; and Eugene West, mayor pro tem of the city; and responses to the welcome by Dr. C. F. Irons, president, Pitt County Medical and Dental Society; and Dr. Grady Dixon, president, N. C. State Board of Health.

The group adjourned for lunch at 12:30 p.m., and the program resumed at 1:30 with a forum, "We Look At Our Investments," at which were discussed problems of personal health, mental health, dental health, sanitation, nutrition, hospitalization, accident prevention, recreation, social and economic welfare.

Panel moderator was Dr. Walter C. Humbert, director, Pitt County Health Department, and panel members included Dr. J. Street Brewer of Roseboro; Dr. Paul A. Toll, Department of Sociology, East Carolina College; Eugene S. Edwards, senior sanitarian, Halifax County Health Department; Ralph Andrews, director, N. C. Recreation Commission; Agnes Gunter, Home Economics Department, Lucama High School; Mary Brice Deavors, nutrition consultant, N. C. State Board of Health; Leonard P. Bloom, superintendent Greenville Utilities Commission; and Harry Simmons, assistant County agent, Wake County Extension Service.

Shaw and Drs. Brauer, Cameron and Howell served as resource members of the panel.

Summary of the conference was presented by Aubrey D. Gates, field representative, American Medical Association. Council on Rural Health; and conclusion and appreciations by Dr. Zack D. Owens, president, N. C. State Medical Society.

Speaker Discusses Environment As Influencing Development Of Religion

"Environment had a strong influence on the development of religions," explained Dr. Robert Cramer of the Geography Department of East Carolina College in his address to the Men's Fellowship Club of First Presbyterian Church last night.

"Early peoples associated their gods with elements of nature, sometimes through fear of the unknown and sometimes because of direct dependence upon nature for their existence," he declared.

Giving some examples of geographical influences, Dr. Cramer mentioned India, with her withering, dry seasons, where the natives worship the rain god and pray for relieving rains of the Monsoons.

"Pastoral peoples worship the sky in general and picture heaven as having green pastures, whereas hell was seen as a hot scorched place. In contrast," he continued, "people of cold northern climates imagine heaven as a hot comfortable warm place and hell as the opposite. Early conceptions of heaven bounded by walls with pearly gates arose from the fact that early settlements were enclosed for protection and were havens for travelers," the speaker stated in concluding.

C. K. Beatty presented to the club an inscribed gong and gavel set, given in memory to the late J. Bryan Brown by his wife. He was the first president of the Men's Fellowship group.

Rev. L. W. Topping, minister of the church, gave the devotional and W. T. Kyzer closed the meeting with a prayer.

The next meeting will be "Ladies' Night" on April 27.

Dr. E. W. Hirschberg introduced the speaker.

Thirty-eight members and two guests attended the supper meeting. Circle No. 1, Mrs. Dink James, chairman, served supper.
