Representation Basis Needs Study

The report of the Senate commission on redistricting ruled out any possibility of redistricting the Senate this year, if indeed there has been a possibility since the Senate turned thumbs down on the House reapportionment.

Although the report of the commission does not mean there will be no change in representation until after the 1960 census, indications point in that direction.

In the meantime, serious consideration should be given, as the report said, to our method of representation.

Representation in both houses of the General Assembly is determined, to a degree at least, by population of the counties. Each county has one representative in the House, but there are 20 additional representatives allotted to counties on the basis of population. The Senate districts of the state are determined solely on the basis of population.

There were two pertinent questions asked by the commission in its report. "If the Senate is to be based on population, should the House represent the counties only? Are 50 senators sufficient to cover North Carolina and give it proper representation in the Senate when the state has a population of over four million?"

With population trends in the state pointing toward urban areas, particularly in the Piedmont, it will be only a matter of time before that section gains virtual control of the state legislative body if representation in both houses is determined on a population basis.

The Reflector concurs with the Senate Commission that it is time for the state to pause and take a deeper look at the method of representation in the General Assembly. Unless careful consideration is given to the situation, the balance of power in the General Assembly may gradually disappear altogether, leaving the industrial piedmont in control of the legislature while the sprawling agricultural area of the east and the western section of the state have little voice in legislative matters.

Double Whammy For White And Co.

The House has put the double whammy on the anti-whammy bill, Rep. Tom White and company notwithstanding.

It must have been reassuring to the people of North Carolina yesterday afternoon when the House killed the anti-whammy bill by a two-to-one vote, and then tagged on the clincher which will virtually prevent the bill from coming up again this session.

Speed checking devices have proved a most effective instrument in North Carolina's highway safety program. Now that White's crippling bill has been put out of the way for good, the electronic speed clocks can continue their good work in behalf of the people of the state.

The Reflector is highly pleased with the interest in the safety of the people of the state which was indicated by the representatives yesterday in their vote against the bill. Frankly we were a little skeptical about the bill's defeat in the House after Judiciary Committee II and the House Roads Committee gave favorable reports to the proposal.

Yesterday's action in the House is a

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BOOMERANG

There is an unlikely story of the chieftain of an Australian tribe of bushmen who was given a great feast upon his retirement. There was much drinking, dancing, and speech making. The chief's young successor presented the old chief with a shiny new boomerang. And the story is that shortly afterwards the old chieftain died from overexertion trying to throw away his old boomerang.

There are a lot of us trying to throw away old boomerangs and not succeeding any too well. Those of us who passed our youth before World War I are deeply conscious of the fact that we live in a new world. And we are not entirely happy with this new world. In many ways it is better than the old, but in many ways not. At any rate it leaves us with a lot of old boomerangs on our hands and we have a dreadful time trying to throw them away.

To be specific, there is the hatred and contempt we of the new world used to have for foreigners. Some of us have to overcome an aversion to color. We don't like a lot of political and international policies which look to us like compromise of principle.

Everybody has to decide which boomerangs ought to be thrown away and which ones keep. Don't let us make reputation too agonizing an experience.

Larger Share In Storm Repair

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The landward shift of hurricanes howling out of the Caribbean has led a group of more than 100 Congressmen to demand that Uncle Sam share a larger part of the enormous cost of annual damage to beaches and shore property.

Although members from Atlantic Coast states in the new path of the tropical storms initiated the movement as a result of last year's devastation by Carol, Edna and Hazel Representatives and Senators from the Pacific and Gulf areas approve the plan. They maintain that it is a legitimate Federal enterprise to flood control, and other conservation activities.

Important and profitable industries—fishing, hotels, summer resorts and parks, amusement places—have suffered millions of damage in recent years, paying the expenses of repair from their own pockets. The storms take this heavy toll from Florida to Maine.

AUTHOR OF REMEDIAL MEASURE—Representative Stewart Wainwright, D. N. Y., author of one of many remedial measures, recently envisaged the prospect that erosion and wind destruction will break through the sand barriers which protect Long Island devastate that valuable piece of real estate and then ruin the mainland proper.

It is understood that Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut will call a conference of state, municipal and Congressional officials from New England and Central Atlantic states. Regional plans for other endangered sections, especially the southern and Gulf states, may result from this experiment.

FUNDS NEEDED—The Army Corps of Engineers recognizes the extent of the problem, and has expressed willingness to make an over-all survey, which must precede any actual restoration and protection program. But they lack funds for the kind of study clear indication to us of the great influence which the general public still has with its representatives when legislation is at stake. If the public had remained silent on the anti-whammy bill during the past two weeks, there is little doubt that the bill would have passed. But the people did not remain silent. They spoke out in no uncertain terms, and the tidal wave of public criticism of the White bill persuaded the representatives to defeat the measure.

The almost universal criticism of White's measure appears to us a tremendous vote of confidence by the people of North Carolina in the highway safety program which is being carried out under the direction of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Ed Scheidt. Many citizens who have found themselves convicted of speeding via the whammies were among the first to come to the support of the safety program when it was threatened by the legislation proposed by the Lenoir County representative. It is obvious that the people of the state consider speed checking devices employed by law enforcement officers as instruments for the protection of motorists—not corrupt devices designed merely to boost the number of arrests made by officers.

Yesterday's action was an important victory for highway safety in North Carolina. It was also an important victory for the welfare of the people of the state over a small, selfish group which sought to undermine the highway safety program for their own selfish motives.

Among other things locally that could be given some attention is the clock in the courthouse tower. One may walk around the block and view each of its four faces and usually find that four separate times of day are recorded, none of them correct. We don't know whose responsibility it is to care for the clock but it should be given attention.

necessitated by the United States Weather Bureau's warning of the landward direction of future hurricanes.

Under present law, the Federal government pays for the damage only in front of its own property, such as a Coast Guard Station, a Navy Yard or publicly owned park. Even then, it is limited by law to payment of only one-third of the cost.

INDIVIDUAL USUALLY PAYS—In some areas, such as New York, the state and county chip in to defray damage expenses. Generally, however, the individual property owners must bear the full burden, which has been growing heavier year by year. Most of the pending measures would require the Federal government to finance one-third of the expenditure on all property, public and private.

Congressional neglect of this economic and natural problem has been alarming, according to the new beach bloc on Capitol Hill. For 1964, the Army Engineers were allocated only $100,000 for all survey work on beach erosion and decay. This amount simply enabled them to visit the damaged spots and write a report on them.

Representative Wainwright estimates that $50,000 would be required to study only the south shore of Long Island.

CONFRONTS OPPOSITION—The save-the-beaches movement will undoubtedly face considerable opposition from members who do not believe that the Federal government should undertake such a financial responsibility.

But the men behind it are not New Deal believers in expansion of Washington's activities. And, of course, they will cite as precedents the assistance provided for the development or salvage of natural resources in other sections of the country.

Bob Bale Just Has To Be Good

Wish I knew what time you read this. If it's before 7:30 you still have an opportunity to take advantage of the Bob Bale course in personal development. Last night at the Fellowship auditorium of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Bob completed the first evening of three with 185 students. Everyone I talked to was as enthused as I was. The benefit you could receive from the instruction tonight and tomorrow night would be well worth the price of the course.

Does the idea of sitting still from 7:30 to 10:30 bother you? It's easily understood that you might be concerned about that. But Bob is a comedian. He inserts comical incidents with the instruction that bring enough laughs to keep you hanging on to every word.

Bob has to be good. Every town in which he gives his course asks him back. He's been back to Charlotte 11 times and the last time there were 800 in his class. Please don't stop to figure out how much he's making. The course is $15 and after the Junior Chamber of Commerce takes its cut Bob still has $9. If you multiply it might make you jealous, but it should convince you that Bob is a salesman.

One of the most interesting phases of the course to me so far is the emphasis on memory. Bob gave us a dramatic illustration. One of the ladies in the class was called to the stage to fill in words for the 20 spaces provided on a blackboard.

Students filled in the words, like car, shirt, shoe, pan, trooper, table, and hair. After the 20 spaces were filled Bob asked for numbers at random. When the numbers were called Mildred on the stage marked through the various words.

Bob stopped this process when about half of the numbers were marked. Then he asked us if we wanted him to recall the words in order or in reverse. A vote came out in a tie so he attempted to do both.

He stated (without peeping, of course) that number 20, for example, was table and was marked through; number 1 was car and was not marked through. From the bottom of the list he came to the middle and also from the top. He missed one word and stated that another was marked through when it was not. Other wise, he had the picture. "Tomorrow night," he said, "you'll be doing the same thing."

Memory is just one phase of the completed course. Additional tips his home. Example: "If there's any doubt in your mind that the tie looks right; don't wear it."

"Do not shake hands unless the process indicates that he wants to. Some people simply do not like to shake hands. Then if you do, remember that shaking hands is not a strength contest, nor should you hand him a flapping fish."

Come for yourself. Even if you've missed the first night, to-night and tomorrow night will be worth the price of the course, which is still $15.

And I thank you.

NORTH CAROLINA'S FUTURE
(Washington Daily News)

Governor Hodges is much concerned with the tax structure and financial condition of North Carolina. And well he might since he is the executive officer of the state.

In his speech before the Rurians at Chocowinity on Friday night, Mr. Hodges made some notable observations regarding the future of North Carolina. One factor in particular hit as being most important.

Governor Hodges observed that within 10 years the population of North Carolina will be in excess of 10,000,000 people. Now that means that there must be many more children than there are now. There will be more children to educate, more people using our highways, more of about everything the state has to offer.

The governor said "the people are willing to pay for these services if they are offered in a case of share and share alike and if the public servants give a good day's work for a good day's pay." He observed that if we use a "minimum of politics and a maximum of patriotism, then we can lick any problem which confronts us."

Those words coming from the governor and from a man who is believed to be a candidate for a full term in the mansion in 1956 carries much weight. In the first place he places North Carolina squarely in the position of "not going backward." He said as much when he observed, "I am interested in seeing these services continued, and I am determined to have these things for us all."

Very few of us have suspected at any time that there would be any "going back" in this matter of services. The big problem has been how to find the money with which to pay for these services. Mr. Hodges says we will find the money both now and in the future years. That means that as time goes on, more and more money must be found.

And that means that improvements will come to our state, that we'll keep pace with the march of progress, and that every effort will be made to raise our economic standing from forty-fourth in the nation to some position which offers more respectability.

He clinched his argument for continued progress when he said "We are going forward—nothing can stop us."

Many people have said Governor Hodges is not a politician. We disagree with that statement. He might not be a politician in the usual sense which we have normally come to know, but he has far more political acumen than most people have credited him with having. He knows his way around politically. And he makes friends with his political "savvy" wherever he goes.

Insofar as he the governor, can make the decision for all the people, the decision has been made. We shall not cut services anywhere. In fact, we judge from the tone of his speech that we shall have ever expanding services.

If that is what the people of North Carolina want, and the governor should be in the best position to evaluate public opinion, then he has charted the right course.

QUESTIONS — One of the first things a beginning news reporter must learn is that any story is complete when answers have been obtained to five or six questions; and no story is complete without answers to all of the 1's. The questions are: Who? or What? When? Where? How? and Why?

Whether the event being reported is an automobile accident, a bank directors meeting, a church revival or passage of a legislative act, these questions must be answered in order to get the full information to the people.

Emphasis right now with respect to the North Carolina Legislature is upon "What" and "When." The answers to these two major questions require consideration of the other four. Reasonable consideration necessitates a brief review of legislative activity to date.

SUMMARY — The first work day of the session members found on their desks copies of the Advisory Budget Commission report and had effectuating bills introduced showing need for some $425 million general fund money. (To avoid confusion the special agriculture and highway funds will not be included in this analysis.) Anticipated revenue from existing tax sources was estimated at $373 million for the biennium. That left $52 million to be found from other sources.

The budget commission recommended getting most of this extra money from special new levies on soft drinks and tobacco products, with increases in present liquor and insurance premium taxes and in certain fees.

The General Assembly spent two full weeks going over the budget bills in detail, every appropriation item and every tax item being fully explained by specialists from the budget bureau, revenue and tax research departments. Then public hearings were arranged at which agencies, departments and institutions presented their needs for more money, and affected interests explained why they should not be singled out for the special taxes.

Meanwhile, numerous other revenue and appropriation bills were offered proposing different sources of money and different purposes for its spending.

NO ACTION — These public hearings went on for about four weeks in the appropriations committee, five in the finance group. Then the committees began item by item consideration of the bills, going over the same things that had been heard in the original two weeks briefing period at beginning of the session, and in the public hearings. Very little discernible progress was made toward reaching conclusion as to how much should be spent or where it should be collected.

After two weeks deliberation in the appropriations committee a few small items had been deleted from the total bill. Then another public hearing was granted the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and one or two of the little deleted items were restored. That led the joint chairmen, Senator Joe Eagles and Rep. Kemp Doughton to suggest that if public hearings were to be continued indefinitely and actions rescinded from day to day, the bill would never be reported out. That emphasized the "when" question for a membership already tired.

Two Uneasy Booms

By ELMER ROESSNER

Some questions as to the future of the economy were raised by Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance, at a conference of bankers and businessmen at New York University. Because Dr. Nadler is one of the nation's outstanding economists, his position deserves attention.

He said that while the recovery since the last quarter of 1954 has been healthy and the underlying economic forces are sound, "yet potential weaknesses exist in the automobile and home-building fields and the equity market which could cause considerable difficulties later on."

Disputes now threatening in the auto industry, he said, may result in an increase in wages and production costs. "This," he said, "will lead, unless accompanied by an increase in efficiency, to a squeeze in the margin of profits or an increase in prices. A downturn in automobile production which is quite likely to take place in the second half of the year, will have a far-reaching effect on the number of allied industries."

He added that the home-building boom "is bound to end in a material decline later on. The fact cannot be overlooked that family formation in 1955 may not exceed 650,000. If the present building boom continues, it is bound to come to an end sometime toward the end of the year and a serious readjustment in home construction may take place either toward the end of 1955 or in 1956."

The movement of equity prices injects an added element of uncertainty, he declared.

Many economists and business leaders will dispute Dr. Nadler's conclusions. They will point out that the end of the auto, housing and stock market booms has been regularly predicted during the last five years. The latest survey of business expectations by Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission shows that business expected to spend $27 billion for new plants and equipment this year, topping 1954, and that business expects a 5 per cent increase in sales over 1954.

Business executives will probably be best advised to avoid blanket thinking, either by assuming that everything is poised for a dip, or that a decline can't happen.

NEW TRADING STAMP PLAN

A new trading stamp plan is being tested in Austin, Texas. It is intended to benefit manufacturers instead of retailers, as most other stamp plans.

Seventy-seven manufacturers are sponsoring the plan. Shoppers are to buy their brands at any store, to bring the labels to a redemption center, where they can be exchanged for stamps good for premiums.

Many retail grocers and druggists are reported to be indignant at the scheme since it interferes with their promotion of other brands and because they fear the costs of the plan will lead to either lower margins or higher prices.

HAVE SPANISH? WILL TRAVEL?

There are plenty of opportunities for college graduates with training about Latin America. The jobs are both in the United States and in Latin America.

A survey by the American Bankers Association indicates that the 3,341 banks polled will spend a total of $72,000,000 for advertising this year a rise of $4,000,000 over 1954 and double the 1950 sum.

Girl Said 'No' To A Mink Coat

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever hear of a pretty girl turning down a free mink coat?

Well, Jeanne Strouse did—and there were no strings attached to the offer.

Jeanne, who yearned during her school days to grow up and have sextuplets, is blue-eyed, has light brown hair, and is growing on 22. She is an airline stewardess typical of hundreds of American working girls who prefer life up among the fleecy clouds to a sedate office job.

On a recent flight the passengers included a middle-aged man who offered her a mink coat and both she and her husband seemed weary of lugging the extra one around. They asked Miss Strouse if, please wouldn't she accept it as a present.

At first Jeanne thought they were joking, but they insisted. She thought it over, thanked them—and shook her head no. The husband was amazed by her refusal, and the wife absolutely dumbfounded.

"Why?" she asked. "Every girl wants a mink coat. I don't understand you."

"Well, if I have a mink coat now," Jeanne told her, "what would there be left for me to want 10 years from now?"

Jeanne has logged 1,000 hours in the air flying between here and Montreal for Colonial Airlines, which has operated nearly 25 years without a passenger fatality. She has found an airplane cabin a wonderful place to study human nature.

"People show their real personality while traveling," she said, "and it doesn't take you long to find out that most people are pretty nice."

"Men who travel regularly make the best passengers. They are rarely unreasonable, and are appreciative of anything you do for them."

"One passenger always brings a candy bar for the stewardess. Another shows up with a box of candy for the crew, then goes to sleep. Many people are so used to tipping everybody that they offer the stewardess a tip—usually $1 or $2. Of course we don't accept it. One hosiery manufacturer always asks the name of the stewardess and mails her a pair of nylon stockings."

Stewart Is Given Lindbergh Role

HOLLYWOOD — The role of Charles Lindbergh in the movie "The Spirit of St. Louis" will be played by Jimmy Stewart, who will be 47 by the time filming starts July 15 in Paris.

Gen. Lindbergh originally had balked at Stewart playing the role because Lindbergh was only 25 when he made his historic nonstop flight from New York to Paris in 1927. But Warner Brothers signed Stewart for the role yesterday. The studio said all those concerned with making the picture, including Lindbergh, had agreed on him. Stewart is a former Air Force colonel.

Rocky Mount Tops Phants, 7-4, With Help Of Big Third Inning

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

A five-run third inning proved the downfall of the Greenville Phantoms yesterday in Rocky Mount as the AAA Blackbirds rolled to a 7-4 win over Coach Bo Farley's young crew.

Hudson Miller, a sophomore right-hander, went all the way on the mound for the Farleymen and pitched a steady game except for the third frame. Several walks, a key single, and a three-run homer accounted for the runs. Other than that Miller limited the powerful hitting Blackbirds to two runs.

James Manning went all the way for Rocky Mount and gave up only four hits to the Greens. Tommy Norris, Ike Riddick, and Gene Hudson got two hits in the bottom of the ninth, getting two Anderson Wimberly led Rocky Mount's hitting with three for four.

The Greenies played a highly creditable game considering the lack of practice they have had. They played the full nine innings and made no errors. Rocky Mount miscued four times.

The starting line-up for Coach Farley's gang had two lettermen in it, Bob Howell and Gene Hudson. Howell is the only senior on the squad.

The rest of the Phantom line-up had juniors Mike Riddick, Tommy Norris, Ike Riddick, and Hudson; sophomores Angus Duff, Miller, Joe Wingate, and Charles Smith.

With that young line-up the G-men certainly should show much improvement during the year. The G-men played in New Bern for their next contest on April 1.

Chuck Says Bums Should Have Won

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Chuck Dressen, the manager who walked out on a pennant winner, figures the Brooklyn Dodgers would have won the National League flag again last season if he had been around. And this season, says he, they'll do it even though he's still not with them "unless they break their arms."

Dressen, who managed last year at Oakland, now bosses the Washington Senators in the American League. But his faith still is with the Brooks.

"They should win it easy," he said yesterday. "They've got all the stuff they need. A lot depends on the pitchers, of course. They're there and you've got to get it out of them."

And with those compliments out of the way Dressen and the Nats proceeded to nudge Brooklyn 4-3 in a 10-inning exhibition game.

But getting back to the Dodgers' failure last season, Dressen said, "Even with the injuries they had enough stuff on the bench to win. I knew those fellows better; could have gotten more out of them."

The Brooklyn tied Washington 3-3 in the ninth when Junior Gilliam came home on Duke Snider's squeeze bunt. But Jesse Levan's pinch single broke it up in the 10th after singles by Roy Sievers and Tom Umphlett, and an intentional pass had loaded the bases.

Brooklyn's "B" squad beat the Kansas City Athletics 10-9.

The Boston Red Sox broke a 1-1 tie with four eighth-inning runs, to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4. The Pirates nicked Ellis Kinder for four hits and a walk in the ninth, but fell short when Toby Atwell grounded out with the winning run on base.

Cleveland held the Chicago Cubs to two hits, but walks and errors gave the Bruins a 3-2 decision. Howard Pollett blanked the Indians on one hit and a walk in five innings. Cleveland got its runs on a pinchhomer by Dave Pope in the sixth off Rookie Jim Brosnan.

The Cincinnati Redlegs got to Bobby Tiefenauer for four runs in the ninth, but couldn't catch the St. Louis Cardinals, who worked five on five hits in the last two innings for a 7-6 victory.

Belvoir Baseball Team Stronger Than Last Year

BELVOIR—Coach J. T. Cobb of Belvoir is putting his baseball candidates through one-a-day drills in preparation for the coming season.

Coach Cobb's squad of around 20 is progressing nicely and give indications of being stronger than last year's club which won only two while dropping seven.

Coach Cobb has two good teams at every position except right field and here he can alternate pitchers and other fielders.

The pitching staff will be fortified by three chunkers. Dillon Watson, Clifton Lloyd and James Deans form the threesome. The other half of the battery, the catchers, include Autry Hamill, Richard Williams and J. D. Moore. Usually a weak spot on most teams, Coach Cobb's backstop department appears strong.

The infield will be handled by a veteran crew. At first base, two candidates are fighting it out. They are Kenneth Vanderburg and Charley Strickland. Harold Harris and Charlie Strickland are second base hopefuls. D. R. Daniels has shortstop all to himself. Two boys are vying for the hot corner spot. They are William Moseley and Douglas Parker.

The outfield positions appear intact with only left field still contested for. Donald Warren and William Brittle are still in the running there. In centerfield will be Royce Everette and in right will be Bobby Manning.

The only seniors on the squad are Newsome, Parker, Everette and Daniels. So, Coach Cobb's club will be comprised mostly of sophomores and juniors with a brighter outlook for next year.

"We certainly hope to better our mark of last year," Coach Cobb exclaimed.

College baseball makes its 1955 debut at College Park today at 2:45 p.m. when East Carolina meets Springfield College of Springfield, Mass.

Coaches Jim Mallory and Earl Smith have drilled the squad for over three weeks in preparation for the opener. Springfield, always a baseball power, affords the Pirates, comprised predominantly of freshmen and transfer students, a chance to test their newcomers.

After this two-game stand, Coach Mallory should be able to make a pretty good analysis of his club. Seven lettermen are returning from the 1954 team which finished second in the Eastern Division of the North State Conference. Only five of these veterans will be in the starting lineup this afternoon.

Heading the list of lettermen is Cecil Heath. All-Conference second baseman. The smooth-fielding little pepper-pot should have his best year after three outstanding seasons here. Gaither and Bill Cline will be at their old spots, left field and behind the plate, respectively. Junior Bob Penley will open in right field. He is a capable fielder and valuable man with the bat.

With exception of the starting chunker, the Pirates will field four strangers to local fans. Bucky Reep of Morganton will start at third base. The stumpy, hard-hitting freshman has been impressing the camp with his plate work. Gene Turner, also of Morganton, will handle the centerfield chores and bat clean-up. Nick Smothers, a transfer student from Campbell, will open at first base. A converted catcher, Smothers has come around fine and handles himself like a native first baseman. Jerry Stewart, a two-time All-State player at Sanford High School, is a flashy fielder and will start at shortstop.

Mack Cherry, sophomore from Washington, N.C., will open on the mound for East Carolina. He was the Pirates' winningest thrower last season. Freshman Charlie Russell of High Falls is scheduled to follow Cherry on the hill. Mallory plans to pitch Cherry four innings, Russell three and finish up with Billy Loving or Dave Harris.

The ECC batting order:

Pos.	Name	Hometown
1B	Bucky Reep	Morganton
2B	Cecil Heath	Wilmington
3B	Gaither Cline	Gastonia
CF	Gene Turner	Morganton
LF	Nick Smothers	Reidsville
RF	Bob Penley	Altamahawaspippe
C	Bill Cline	Gastonia
SS	Jerry Stewart	Sanford
P	Mack Cherry	Washington, N.C.

U. S. Swimmers Aim At 3 Events

MEXICO CITY—The United States took dead aim at three more swimming championships in the Pan-American Games today, and in the case of diving queen Patricia McCormick, of California, the old story of sticking by the champion still held good.

The 26-year-old Pasadena artist captured the three-meter springboard crown and led the United States to a sweep of the first three places in the event yesterday.

On tap late this afternoon in the National University's ornate Olympic stadium were gold medal finals in the 400-meter freestyle and 100-meter backstroke for men, and the 100-meter freestyle for women.

Basketball, baseball, water polo and other sports continued today.

The U.S. women's basketball team, led by Lurlyne Mealhouse and Ruth Cannon, each with 18 points, whipped Chile 62-48 and won the Pan-American championship.

The United States has only to defeat winless Venezuela tonight to annex the men's basketball title, thanks to an upset victory by Brazil over Mexico last night 65-59.

The U.S. over-all unofficial scoring continued to soar. The count for the top teams today stood: United States 1,081½, Argentina 467½, Mexico 296½.

Queen Patricia of the diving ranks won the three-meter title with a total of 142.42 points. Pressing her closely all the way through the 10-dive schedule were Jeanne Stunyo a Detroit University freshman from Gary, Ind., and Emily Houghton, from Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind.

Jeanne scored 137.41 points and Emily 133.12.

No Charity Once He Got In Ring

PHILADELPHIA—George Johnson fought for charity last night but he showed none once he entered the ring.

The Trenton, N. J., middleweight, seeking recognition among the top ten 167-pounders, clobbered rugged Garth Panter, of Ogden, Utah in a one-sided 10-rounder at the arena.

Receipts went to the Deborah Sanatorium, Browns Mills N. J., a nonsectarian free tuberculosis hospital. A crowd of 5,424 paid $20,774.50.

The 24-year-old Panter a veteran of 71 fights in the past five years, in the counterpunching Johnson. The Mormon father of five waded in wide open and Johnson just stood back and left jabbed right-crossed his way to an easy unanimous decision.

Johnson, 156, spotted three pounds to the stocky Panter as he registered his 30th win against five defeats. He opened a cut along-side Panter's left eye in the second round and drew blood from his nose in the fourth.

Attends Class, Misses Banquet

PITTSBURGH—Because he wouldn't skip a class, Albert Wiggins, Ohio State University sophomore swimming sensation, missed a big banquet honoring him for his athletic prowess.

The 19-year-old Pittsburgh resident got tied up in heavy traffic after attending a late afternoon class and failed to make an airplane connection to the Steel City in time for the banquet.

He was honored as the outstanding athlete for 1954 in the Allegheny Mountain Assn. (western Pennsylvania) of the Amateur Athletic Union. The dinner was sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Wiggins holds the National AAU 100 and 200-meter backstroke championships. He's an honor student at Ohio State.

Montana Luring Deer Hunters

HELENA, Mont. (AP) Montana is dangling a lure before out-state deer hunters. Non-Montanans, who have paid $100 each for a big game license, now may hunt deer and antelope for only a $20 state fee.

The reduction was made by the Legislature after eastern Montana farmers and ranchers complained that too many deer and antelope were eating into haystacks. The $20 fee prevails only for 1955 and 1956.

Basketball Star Gola Reportedly Decides Go 'Pro'

PHILADELPHIA—The Philadelphia Inquirer reported today that three time All America Tom Gola of La Salle had decided to play professional basketball.

There had been some doubt that Gola would turn professional. He reportedly was considering remaining an amateur by playing for an AAU team to remain eligible for Olympic competition next year.

Gola, who led La Salle to the NCAA championship last year and to its runnerup berth against San Francisco this year was reported to have accepted an offer to play with a college all-star team on a nationwide exhibition tour against the Globetrotters. The tour begins Sunday in New York.

The Inquirer said Gola had accepted an offer, believed to be $4,500 from Globetrotter owner Abe Saperstein at a conference yesterday in New York.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. Tournament opens tomorrow night with the 1,500 meter race. Other events will be run off Friday and Saturday for the 233 athletes representing 49 schools.

Oyakawa and Jones, both 21 years old, competed in their freshman year back in 1952.

Two Busy Middleweights Will See Action Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Pastrano, 19, a clever middleweight from down South who has been a pro four years, tonight takes on nationally televised ring debut at Chicago Stadium.

Pastrano risks a string of eight straight victories against Andrews, 26, the Superior, Wis., battler who always sets a fast, bruising pace.

The 10-round bout is the first Pastrano has fought above the Mason-Dixon Line. He is from New Orleans and recently has been fighting out of Miami Beach, Fla., where he plans to make a home for his wife and raise a family. They expect their first child in July.

The youngster has a stinging right and snapping left jab but, like Andrews, is not recognized for knockout power. Because Illinois boxing laws prohibit a fighter under 20 to be matched for more than eight rounds without a special waiver, Pastrano had to get his mother's permission for the Andrews' bout.

Andrews is a durable, busy-fisted

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
FIVE-YEAR-OLD becomes professional press photographer! It sounds like a bit of Hollywood hokum. Actually, it's a news story from Detroit and the five-year-old is Junebug Clark. This kindergarten boy joined the staff of the Detroit Times recently and his assignment is a weekly photo feature of pictures taken by himself. They appear regularly.

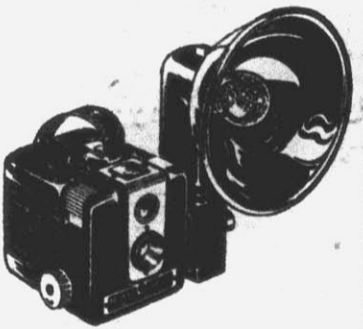

Some people might think that's rushing into a career too early or without adequate apprenticeship. It's not so. You see, Junebug, (full name, Joseph Wade Junebug Clark Jr.) spent almost half his life preparing for his vocation. . . . he's been taking pictures since he was three years old.

The three factors that have helped develop this early photo talent are: 1. total photographic background; 2. fine equipment, and 3. instinctive feeling.

Junebug's background is completely photographic because both parents are professionals. Joe Clark Sr. specializes in photo stories and his work has appeared in the major magazines. He has been a constant winner in photo contests and he has covered many photo seminars and photo conventions for press photographers themselves. Mama Bernice is a commercial photographer and photo illustrator.

But photography in the Clark household has been more than a way to make a living. . . . it's been their way of living. A camera was another article of clothing to Joe Sr. and was always handy, day or night. He carried a 35mm (Leica) holster fashion, slung over his shoulder, at all times, even when he was covering an assignment with another camera. Mama favored the 2 1/4" x 2 1/4" twin lens reflex.

JUNEBUG started imitating pop as soon as he could toddle. He played make-believe photographer until he was three years old and could hold a real camera. Then Joe gave him one, a 35mm. camera worth about $200. He figured a well-made camera could take the abuse a boy would dish out. It did.

Junebug's camera had a short focus, wide angle lens. Joe loaded the film and set it for shooting either for indoor or outdoor conditions. Junebug pressed the button and advanced the film after each shot.

"He seems to have an instinctive knack for perfect timing," said pop. "As for composition, his first pictures were at an artistic 45 degree angle. However, many people thought he was only playing and couldn't possibly have film in the camera so they relaxed. In that way he's gotten some really good expressions."

While still a three-year-old, Junebug accompanied Joe on a wedding assignment and shot his own set of pictures from his down-to-earth angle. One of his pictures rang the bell on the cash register when the newlyweds made their selection of wedding photos.

With two years of shooting experience under his little belt, Junebug gets around on his own more often. He takes the camera to his kindergarten class and records all the kids activities there. He accompanied his older cousin to a Cub Scout meeting and covered that. He decided that a picture story of his mother baking cookies was a tasty assignment.

GOP Senators Talk Plans For Pay Raise Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders called a secret conference of all 47 GOP senators today to rally support for President Eisenhower's federal employ pay raise bills.

Democratic sponsors say they expect to muster enough votes to pass a 10 per cent hike for the 1 1/2 million workers considerably larger than the President wants. The Senate votes are expected to be generally along party lines, but Democratic leaders say they may get as many as 8 to 10 GOP votes for a 10 per cent hike.

The Republican conference was convened in an effort to hold losses to a minimum. Word was being passed among GOP senators that it would be better to support what Eisenhower wants, because "that's what it's going to be in the end anyway." Eisenhower has indicated he would veto any increase much above 7 per cent.

reached the attention of an editor of the Detroit Times. Pretty soon Junebug, the amateur shutterbug, had joined its staff and become the world's youngest press photographer. The picture stories became two-page spreads in that paper's weekend supplement with further weekly assignments either of his own or the paper's choosing.

All in all, this is another great tribute to the hobby of photography. In what other field could a youngster work his way through kindergarten so that one day he could pay his way through college?

Designed To Help Choice Of Career

By WAYNE LIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Johns Hopkins University, a pioneer in the field, is launching a new educational television program. It is designed to steer young people into fields where opportunities are brightest and skilled personnel most in demand.

Entitled Tomorrow, the weekly program begins Saturday at 7 p.m. EST, on ABC, not quite three weeks after the termination of Johns Hopkins Science Review on the Du Mont network. Science Review had been on the air seven years over WAAM in Baltimore and five years on Du Mont.

"The new program is designed to highlight the careers, professions, vocations and occupations available to young people who today are making their decisions for tomorrow's jobs," says Lynn Poole of Johns Hopkins, the producers, who also produced Science Review.

"It also tries to tell the middle-aged person about the new careers to which he may turn if dissatisfied with his present job."

The first program, Metal by The Mile, is an example of what will be presented to acquaint young people with the fields in which there are unusual opportunities. "We found," says Poole, "that if all the schools in the country were to train ten times the present number of metallurgists for the next five years we still would not have half the number of metallurgists we need. The jobs available today and tomorrow in this profession will be more than can be filled."

Crowd Unaware Lion On Loose

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—A lion escaped in the City Auditorium yesterday but some 3,000 spectators watching the Gill Gray Circus in the same building were unaware it was loose.

The 250-pound lion pushed open a fire door and jumped into an alley. It roamed about three blocks eluding pursuing circus workers. Finally the 3 1/2-year-old animal, known as Gooftus, was cornered in a warehouse. His love for chicken was his undoing. Using chicken as bait, circus hands had Gooftus back in his cage after 20 minutes of freedom.

Heavy Schedule For C&D Board At April Meet

By LYNN NISBET
RALEIGH—The State Board of Conservation and Development has a heavy schedule for its quarter meeting at High Point April 5, 6 and 7. Besides the unusually important agenda for the business sessions the people of High Point have arranged a social entertainment program more elaborate than usually accorded the board members.

Heading the list of business problems will be our old friend Walter. That is closely related to the industrialization program, upon which progress reports will be made. Development of commercial fisheries is directly related to both water usage and industrial promotion.

Another old friend which pops up every year is the matter of State advertising, the selection of an agency to handle the State account and the proper distribution of total spending among industrial, travel and general appeals. The State account has been handled for the past five years by the Bennett Agency of High Point. The current two-year agreement is open for renegotiation this year, and is understood that several other agencies will present arguments why they should be given the business.

Conclusive action on these matters may not be taken until the mid-summer meeting at Morehead City. It has been the practice to hold preliminary hearings and discussions at the spring and fall quarterly meetings to prepare agenda for the statutory required session at Morehead City in July and at Raleigh in January.

The odd-year July meetings are in some respects most important because they are the "reorganization" sessions. Board members serve for six-year terms, five of the fifteen being appointed every two years. The statute requires the appointments shall be made on or before July 1, but custom has been for Governors to announce them just ahead of the Morehead City meetings which is usually in late July.

Members whose terms expire this year are Charles S. Allen of Durham, Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, Leo Harvey of Winston, Amos R. Kearns of High Point and Henry Rankin of Fayetteville. Other members, whose terms expire in 1957 and 1958, are Miles J. Smith of Salisbury, Walter I. Damroft of Asheville and Canton, W. B. Austin of Jefferson, Carl Buchan of North Wilkesboro, Scrop Enlow Jr. of Spruce Pine, Charles H. Jenkins of Aulander, Cecil O. Morris of Atlantic, Hugh M. Morton of Wilkesboro, Max Watson of Forest City and Eugene Simmons of Tarboro.

The present board appointed or re-appointed by the late Governor William Umstead two years ago is pretty well distributed as to geographic residence. It is admittedly top-heavy with representatives of industry. The five members whose terms expire this year can all be classified as industrialists, although they have auxiliary and secondary interests in diverse phases of overall State development.

People who operate facilities to serve tourists and travelers have contended that their business has been discriminated against. They point out that the travel business is the third biggest "cash crop" in North Carolina, bringing more than $350 million a year into the State. They feel their "industry" should have larger representation on the board under the statutory requirement that in making appointments the Governor shall give "as near as possible proportional representation to each and all the functions and activities of said department."

The tourist people have complained, too, that they have not gotten their proper share of newspaper and magazine advertising, which they contend is more important for attracting casual tourists than for locating manufacturing plants.

Vaccine 'Trial'

NEW YORK (AP)—April 12 is the date and Ann Arbor, Mich., the place for a jury of scientists to give its verdict on the value of the Salk polio vaccine.

The announcement will be made by Dr. Thomas F. Francis Jr. of Michigan, head of a team which has been analyzing the results of Salk vaccine trials involving nearly two million children.

The April 12 news conference—to answer the worldwide question of whether the Salk vaccine signals the end of polio—was announced last night. The date and place were given and jointly by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, after a conference here.

O'Connor and Hatcher gave no hint whether the vaccine protects children—or how well—but there is widespread optimism that Salk vaccinations can end paralytic polio.

Dream Frightens Her Into Street

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A taxi driver picked up 5-year-old Mary Sparks, who was walking down a snow-covered street at 2 a.m., barefooted and in a nightgown. He took her to a police station.

Tell Her It's MURDER

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Back in the house again, Todhunter went over it from cellar to garret, and in Mrs. Fenn's bedroom on the second floor he found what he sought. A cash box in a locked trunk that was no trick to open held $5,005 in five and one dollar bills.

Mrs. Annie Fenn's own savings bank book together with a health and life insurance policy were in a desk in the parlor below for all the world to see. The secret board was different. Todhunter was sure it belonged to Midnight Mike. The man had entrusted, perhaps given, his savings to Mrs. Fenn and she had no intention of turning over the money to the sister he had cordially disliked. Todhunter returned the money to the cash box, relocked the box in the trunk, and went downstairs and outside again and studied the ground. It was not informative. He asked questions about the side door. The door was apparently never locked until late in the evening.

Among other things Susan Dwight had told Todhunter about the glass splinter Andrus had put behind the medicine cabinet in his hotel room. Todhunter retrieved the splinter of glass, matched it up with the pieces of the bottle already collected, allowing for fragmentation along the edges and a lost bit or two the result was fairly satisfactory. It was three o'clock before he went to bed. At nine the next morning he was with Inspector McKee in New York.

"I don't think Andrus is the one, Inspector."

The little detective's ideas ran counter to Dupasse's at almost every point. He was all but convinced that Andrus had had no hand in either the elimination of Michael Brodsky or the attack on

Mrs. Fenn. As far as Brodsky went, Todhunter was of the opinion that on the previous Saturday night the actual perpetrator had also gone up to the cabin in the hills. Through the uncurtained cabin window he had seen Andrus sitting in a chair waiting for the handyman to return. The perpetrator had forestalled Andrus, going back along the path armed with a length of cordwood. There had probably been some talk between Brodsky and the killer before the blow was struck—or at least the attack on Mrs. Fenn made it look that way.

Earlier that morning Susan Dwight reluctantly broke the news to Regina that Andrus was under arrest and how his arrest had come about. Regina didn't give way, or collapse. At first she was almost triumphant. "I'm glad, Sue. Oh, I'm glad—for Jim's sake. Now Jim will explain, now we'll hear the truth. The whole thing is unbelievably stupid, a tissue of lies."

Regina's triumph didn't last long. It was succeeded by bewilderment. "Jim would never have attacked that woman any more than he would have killed that man. But what was he doing down there in that little house in Yonkers? . . . I don't understand it."

Frederick didn't go to New York that day. He came over early, before lunch. Whatever Frederick felt whatever any of the others felt, Edith or Mrs. Casserly, or the Beserlys next door or Nan Taine, coming about the hospital drive, she said nothing—could say nothing in the face of Regina's quietly reiterated statement that Jim Andrus was innocent of the two crimes with which he was charged. But they thought plenty, you could see that. Amy Redgate had been won over to a belief in Andrus's guilt. She said to Susan in her downright way, stopping by to return some books, "Poor Regina. It looks now as though Andrus is the one. A strange man, fascinating, sort of, but unpredictable. You could never tell what he would say or do. If only Regina could be got away from it all, away from here. Why should she be made to suffer twice over?"

Oddly enough very oddly as it turned out, Edith echoed the idea—and put teeth into it. She had just been to see her doctor about her sinus and he suggested a warm climate. What Edith proposed was that she and Regina go to Majorca for a couple of months. The Pradas for a villa there and were sending back the most wonderful reports. Frederick couldn't go, although he'd love it, and Edith didn't want to go alone. "I thought of you at once Regina. The change would do you good, and we'd have a wonderful time." Then she added the astonishing rider. It wouldn't cost Regina a penny. Frederick would foot the bill.

Susan was instantly alerted. She knew, far better than Regina, who had little or no financial sense and took things at face value, the state of her stepbrother's affairs. Frederick made $50,000 a year and lived at the rate of $75,000. For all his outward show, his expensive clubs and lavish entertaining, the big house and the trips hither and yon, she doubted whether he could lay his hands on much in cash. Now he was proposing to lay out $4,000 or $5,000. To what end? The answer was instant. To get Regina away from Jim Andrus from Andrus's proximity. Why should he care whether Regina and Jim Andrus ultimately married?

Regina refused at once. She was regretful but firm. "I'd love it, Edith. You and Frederick are awfully good and I've always wanted to see that part of the world, but I couldn't leave Wolf Hill now."

Edith wouldn't take no for an answer. "Don't make up your mind yet, darling. Maybe in a week or so."

Curious, very curious, Susan thought, watching her. And then came that second discovery. Barry had called from New York and Susan told him not to come up and he did. They were in the living room, the four of them. Tea, the inevitable tea tray, had made its appearance. There was always tea when Lulu Casserly was around. They heard the local paper, the Yonkers Messenger, being a 1 u n g on the porch. Regina was the only one who read it. Lulu Casserly went out and got the paper, brought grounds had made a careful study of the living room and the people in it.

FOR 1955 STYLING

OVER "OTHER 2" LOW-PRICE CARS

BY VOTE OF ALMOST 4 TO 1

THOUSANDS PREFER PLYMOUTH'S STYLING IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!

A well-known independent research organization asked thousands of people—in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles—to compare the appearance of '55 models of the three low-price cars. Opinions were received from men and women—from people of all ages—from owners of all the different makes of cars. The results of this survey have been summarized below.

HERE'S WHAT OTHERS THOUGHT OF PLYMOUTH!		HERE'S WHY YOU'LL PREFER PLYMOUTH, TOO!
Compared with low-price car "A"	Compared with low-price car "B"	Plymouth '55—with THE FORWARD LOOK—is the only low-price car to offer you honestly new styling, instead of a mere face-lifting. It's bigger than the "other 2" cars (longer than car "A" by 8.4 inches!). It's lower and sleeker, with a host of styling advances that wins the most applause in the lowest-price field. See everything Plymouth has to offer today!
Plymouth is better looking	62%	Plymouth is better looking	66%
Car "A" is better looking	16%	Car "B" is better looking	17%
Almost 4 to 1 in Plymouth's favor!		Again, almost 4 to 1 for Plymouth!
(22% liked "both about the same")		(17% liked "both about the same")

Best buy new; better trade-in, too!

Re-Zoning Plea Has Tentative Okay Last Night

Zoning Commission members last night voted to recommend approval of the re-zoning of property near by the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church provided the church group presented a petition to the City Council signed by all land owners concerned.

The commission took the action after W. M. Follard, representing the church, pointed out that the church had purchased the lot next door to its present property and wanted to build to within four feet of the lot line.

Under existing zoning requirements a building must be at least eight feet from the property line in a residential zone.

However, Follard pointed out the dividing line between business and residential areas passes directly through the center of the lot beside the one which the church recently purchased. He noted that if the line were moved a few feet the eight-foot requirement would not apply since the requirement does not apply in business areas.

Final action on the request must come from the City Council. Follard was told to have all property owners affected to sign the petition which he is to present to the council in order that the change might be made.

Edward Earl Taft, Negro, of Ayden, breaking and entering and larceny, probably cause was found and the court bound him over to Superior Court.

Capitol Square

Proprietors committee voted last Thursday to refer the entire building bill to a subcommittee composed of ten Senators and 15 Representatives, with instructions to bring out a bill for consideration by the whole committee. The sub-group was told it need not refer the bill because of discussions and conclusions of the whole committee during the past two weeks. That is vastly different from the common practice of assigning to subcommittees the task of getting information on the bill. Because of the numerous sessions the appropriations subcommittee device has constituted a sort of sneak attack on the budget report and full committee ideas, it has been dubbed a "submarine".

The past practice is followed meetings of the submarine committee will be off-record, if not entirely secret, and neither members of the full committee, the Legislature or the public will be permitted to know who said or did what or because of any decisions were reached.

TAXES — The finance committee has not reported to the master subcommittee plan, and for obvious reasons it is more difficult to do so for tax raising than for spending. To make a considerable degree it is necessary for the appropriations group to furnish some data on how much money must be raised before the finance group can act intelligently and wisely. So the public has no way of knowing more about where and why and how taxes are levied than about why the money is distributed as the final act will set out. The why for spending is much more important because the why for collecting depends wholly upon necessity for spending.

INCOMPLETE — Inasmuch as any complete story must include answers to all six questions—Who, What, When, Where, Why and How—the people who provide the money and who benefit by its disbursement must be given a full account of legislative action. Eventually they will know what has been done to them and when and where final action was taken. They will not be told the more important "why," nor has no influence on the process by which the very powerful "royal 25" arrived at the terms of their edict.

The submarine plan will save time, and legislators and the public agree that prolonged debate in the full committee and on the floor will continue the uncertainty and confusion that has existed since knowledge of declining revenue made it apparent more than a year ago that new money sources must be found. It is axiomatic that democratic processes are time consuming. It takes two years to amend the constitution of North Carolina, four or five years to amend the Federal constitution, whereas a dictator can promulgate a decree in half an hour or less. And the dictator does not feel any obligation to answer any question except "who." He does what he pleases and considers it nobody's business as to when or why. It is conceivable that there might be differences of opinion among the "royal 25" and more time could have been saved by just a one-man submarine.
