Sec. Wilson Going Ahead On Manpower Slash Sticks By Army Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson disclosed today he is sticking to the plan for a further cut in Army manpower strength. There have been recent reports of a new "new look" to leave more men for the ground forces, but Wilson, in testimony prepared for a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, said the plan is for an Army of 1,027,000 by June 30, 1956. This was approximately the figure originally recommended by Wilson to the Budget Bureau.

Wilson said that because Communist military power continues to grow and now includes ability to attack with nuclear weapons, "the United States has reason to be deeply concerned over the serious effects which a sudden attack could conceivably inflict upon us." Such attack he declared "could threaten our survival as a nation." Therefore, the defense chief asserted, "Our primary objective must be to maintain the capability to first to deter an enemy from such an attack; and second, to blunt any such attack if it comes." This requires a combination of "effective retaliatory power and a continental defense system of steadily increasing effectiveness," Wilson said. In retaliatory capability Wilson said, there are "very powerful forces in the Strategic Air Command," great capability in the carrier striking force of the Navy, and in the tactical units of the Air Force and Marine Corps. Long-range fighter units of the Strategic Air Force are scheduled to be reequipped with faster-than-sound fighters, Wilson reported. The B36 piston-engine long-range bombers now in use by the Strategic Air Command will be replaced with all-jet B52 heavy bombers, he said. Air Force strength by June 30, 1956, is planned for 131 wings—within six wings of the eventual goal. The size of a wing varies from 30 to 76 planes. The planned strength for 1956, Wilson said, is "four more combat wings than the Air Force thought they could achieve one year ago." By 1956, he added, the number of active planes in the Air Force will have increased to about 23,000 "and will continue to increase in fiscal year 1957."

Wilson's plans for the Navy in the coming fiscal year would leave it little changed in the number of ships in the fleet. He said the plan was for operation of over 1,000 ships, including 405 combat vessels. In advance of Wilson's appearance, Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said Ridgway and other Army officers would have a full opportunity at the hearings to protest the projected Army manpower cut. Plan New TV Station On Air By September

WASHINGTON—This city's new television station is expected to be on the air by next September, W. R. Roberson, president of WITN, announced today. Roberson said plans for the station are now being drawn and work on the buildings is expected to begin immediately. He also announced that contracts have been signed with the National Broadcasting Company television network and the station operators have filed with the Federal Communications Commission to increase the power to 316,000 watts which would make the television station the most powerful in Eastern North Carolina. In addition, plans are being made to increase the height of the transmitting tower to 949 feet above sea level making it the tallest structure in eastern North Carolina. Roberson stated that operation of the station is to be in two sections.

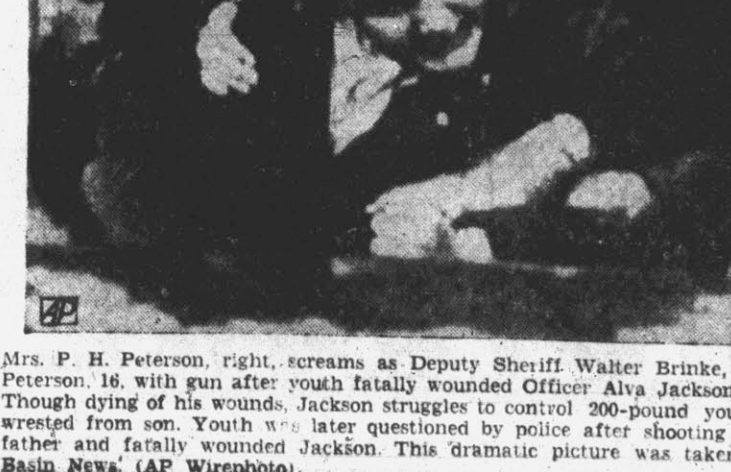

Studios and offices are to be constructed on U.S. Highway 17 between Washington and Chocowinity while the transmitter and antenna are to be placed in Grifton. Ayden Man Charged In Shotgun Shooting AYDEN — Charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill were lodged against John Henry Sumpter, Negro of 728 South Lee Street after he was alleged to have shot William Earl Phillips, also Negro, of 69 South Pitt Street with a shotgun about 12:30 Saturday. The shooting was said to have taken place in front of a local store. Sumpter told Chief of Police J. A. Jones that Phillips took a bottle of beer and a bag of pork skins away from him as the pair was standing in front of the store. He was quoted as saying he begged Phillips to return the article, to him and then Sumpter said, he went home and got his brother's shotgun. Chief Jones said witnesses quoted Phillips as saying he was going to take the shotgun away from Sumpter when he returned. Sumpter was alleged to have fired the weapon as Phillips advanced upon him. Phillips was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville where his condition was described as satisfactory this morning. The shotgun pellets were said to have hit him under the right arm. Chief Jones noted that when he arrived at the scene he found Sumpter with two shot gun shells in his hand. However, he said, he did not find the empty shell. Sumpter is being held in Ayden jail without bond pending the outcome of Phillips' condition.

Pitt Board Asks Assemblymen Oppose Measures Commissioners Eye 3 Bills

Pitt County's Commissioners this morning turned their attention to pending legislation which would affect operations of several county offices. The board unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the county's three members of the General Assembly to oppose three bills now pending. They also heard a report on the opposition they recently voiced on another piece of legislation.

Oppose Three Bills
The resolution adopted this morning asked Sen. Paul E. Jones, Reps. S. O. Worthington and Walter Jones to oppose the following legislation:
1. The bill introduced by Worthington which would include Pitt under the general act which prohibits the Clerk of Superior Court from accepting any instruments or papers for recordation which do not show on the outside cover the name of the person who drew the paper. Holographic wills would be the only instruments excepted from the act.
One member termed the act a "lawyer's bill."
2. The bill which would require the Register of Deeds to see that the last link in the chain of title be included in each real property deed filed in that office. It would likewise set up a penalty for the Register of Deeds for accepting and recording a deed which did not meet that specification.

3. A bill which would require the Register of Deeds to accept for recordation only papers which carried the required state revenue stamps, and make the Register of Deeds criminally liable for recordation of papers which did not carry the required state stamps.

The commissioners likewise passed a resolution objecting to a part of the bill which would authorize the Clerk of Court to appoint notary publics. The existing bill sets forth a $7 fee for appointments, but specifies the county is to receive only $1 of the seven for appointment of notaries. The other $6 would go to the state. The Pitt Commissioners recommended the county's fee be increased from $1 to $2.50.
Liquor Tax Bill
County Attorney W. W. Speight

informed the board that the County Commissioners' protest to an increase in the state liquor tax had been presented to the legislators. The board recently went on record as opposing the proposed liquor tax increase from eight and one-half per cent to 11 per cent. The board said the tax increase would seriously affect county revenue from ABC liquor sales, and estimated the tax increase would cost the county approximately $27,000 in revenue during the first nine months of the year.

Jail Control Legislation
Speight also reported to the commissioners that the bill restoring control of the county jail to the sheriff's office had been passed and became effective March 31. In 1947 a bill was passed by the General Assembly which took custody of prisoners and control of the county jail from the sheriff's office and placed under the county jailer. The bill passed in March returns control of the county jail and prisoners held there to the sheriff's department.
Drainage District Bonds
Bonds of two Pitt County drainage districts held by the county also came in for consideration at the commissioners' meeting this morning. Members of the board had expressed concern over the collection of $5,000 in bonds of drainage district number three held by the county, and $1,000 in bonds of drainage district number four held by the county.

Attorney for the drainage districts, Frank M. Wooten, Jr. told the commissioners uncollected assessments in district three amount to $10,350.50, and uncollected assessments district four amount to $1,162.82. The collectability of the uncollected assessments was a matter of conjecture in the commissioners' discussion. The County Attorney was appointed to investigate the matter and present a full report together with recommendations to the board at its next meeting.

The board instructed its clerk to write a letter to the firm which makes the county's annual audit for the 1953-54 fiscal year be presented to the board not later than the first Monday in May.

Highway Patrol Helps In Wild 105-MPH Chase

AYDEN—A Negro man faced multiple charges today after he was alleged to have beaten his wife and then attempted to outrun a State Highway Patrolman.

Norman Champion of Ayden Route 2 was said to have led Highway Patrolman Bill Whitehurst of Ayden and Ayden Policeman Glenn Perkins on a wild 105-mile-an-hour chase on rural roads after he was spotted by the pair in his automobile.

The incident began when neighbors of Leona Champion, Norman's wife, called Ayden police about 2 a.m. this morning to report that the woman had been beaten about the head. Patrolman Whitehurst and Officer Perkins went out to the area and spotted Champion's automobile. They gave chase to the fleeing vehicle over the rural roads and the cars were said to have reached speeds of 105 miles per hour.

In pulling Champion's car over, the patrol car was said to have hooked humpers with the vehicle but damage to both cars was reported to be slight. Champion was charged with speeding 105 miles per hour, careless and reckless driving, driving after his license was revoked, and failure to stop for a siren.

In addition, charges of assault were lodged against Champion by the sheriff's department. He will be tried on the traffic charges in Ayden Recorder's Court and on the assault charge in County Court. Champion's wife was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital and authorities said she would probably be released today.

Officers said she had apparently been beaten over the head with a shotgun.

No Challengers To City's Councilmen

Greenville's present City Council, its city judge and solicitor were assured of re-election to office in the May 3 balloting after no challengers came forth by dead-line time Saturday to file for office.

All the city's councilmen had filed for their positions earlier as had Municipal Court Judge Charles H. Wheeler and Solicitor Ed Bloom.

The present office holders had maintained a position of watchful waiting since their filing, for signs of political activity among aspirants to office.

Many political observers thought that a number of local citizens might be planning to run for office but were waiting for the final day of the filing period. However, as the last day of the period drew to a close no one came forth to file for the elective offices.

The fact that no one will oppose the present office holders in the city election means the voting on May 3 will be a mere formality.

The only possible change, which could be made would be in the present mayor and mayor protem, both of whom are elected by the City Council from among their own number at the beginning of each two-year term. However, no change is expected to be made in those offices when the council is sworn in following the election.

The present council took office two years ago as Greenville's first City Council. The city manager form of government had only recently been voted into being at that time. Prior to that Greenville had been governed by a Board of Aldermen with an elected mayor serving as the head of the government.

The five were elected from a field of 17 candidates who ran in the election two years ago. Four of the councilmen, Mayor W. L. Wheeler, Wesley Harvey, A. C. Ruffin, and S. Eugene West had no prior experience when they took office two years ago. Councilman J. A. Collins Sr. had served several terms on the old Board of Aldermen.

In announcing as candidates for re-election all the councilmen said that they were interested in seeing the various projects which had been started during the past two years completed.

City Considers Outlay $1,093,645 For Period

The city will spend $1,093,645 for capital improvements during the next six-year period if recommendations of department heads as presented to the Planning Board last week are followed.

Approximately three-fourths of that amount—$781,330—would be spent on projects coming under the supervision of the Public Works Department, according to the figures presented to the board by City Manager James S. Hughes.

Receiving the second highest amount among the city's five departments would be the Recreation Department for which $229,800 in permanent improvements were recommended.

The Fire Department would spend $50,000 for improvements during the period and the Police Department, $32,515. In the administrative department, $6,000 would be spent during the period.

In presenting the plan, Hughes said that he had called on each of the department heads to make recommendations for the improvements needed in each of the departments. Where possible, the cost was broken down on a yearly basis. Major projects asked for in the six-year improvement plan included: a four-lane drive in front of the new high school property on Elm Street, a fire sub-station and two fire engines, an activity building for South Greenville Park, two swimming pools, a new two-way radio for the Police Department and an additional patrol car.

Planning Board members were given copies of the proposed improvements needed in each of the departments. Where possible, the cost was broken down on a yearly basis. Score Sheets Of County Progress Program Soon

Official score sheets for the Pitt County Progress Program are being distributed this month to the county's 23 Home Demonstration clubs in preparation for the beginning of the program May 1.

The contest is to be directed through the home demonstration clubs, and the $1,000 in awards is to be offered to these clubs for meritorious achievement in any one or all phases of the year-long program.

Individual participation, however, is not limited to members of the home demonstration clubs, and all residents of each Pitt County community are being urged to take part in the program, sponsored by Greenville Farmer's Day, Inc.

Scores will be based on survey of accidents; community campaigns and drives; anti-racism campaign; clean-up campaigns; beautification of churches and community buildings; roadside development; cooperation with organized better health measures; fire prevention campaign; recreational program; and beautification of homestead.

Of the $1,000 in cash awards, $500 will be divided into $20 first, $15 second, $10 third and $5 fourth prizes in each of these ten divisions. The remaining $500 will be offered as grand or bonus awards for overall participation in all phases of the program. In this category there will be a $150 first prize, $125 second, $100 third, $75 fourth and $50 fifth prize.

A score sheet and explanation sheet are to supplement each of the ten points of the program. Official score sheet must accompany the record submitted, and before and after pictures, names, addresses, dates, costs, news clippings and other pertinent information, with the date, and submitted in notebook form, will be requested.

Judging will be done on a comparative score based on the number of club members and number of non-club members participating. Judging will be on the following basis: 50 percent on activity or accomplishments; 30 percent on leadership; 20 percent narrative, picture.

Autopsy Being Performed Today On Woman Found Dead In Room

An autopsy was being performed this morning on the body of a Negro woman, believed to have lain dead for hours in an unused room while a drinking party went on in the room next door.

The dead woman was identified by Coroner Griffin H. Ross as Rosa Fleming, about 50, who apparently died in a house at 128 Commerce Street occupied by Pes Jenkins also Negro.

Ross said he called Health Officer Walter C. Humbert to examine the body. The coroner declared that he said Dr. Humbert decided the woman had been dead for about six hours at the time.

The body of the dead woman was said to have been found by Preston Jenkins who told the coroner he pushed the door of the room open and turned on a light. Jenkins said he found the woman lying on the floor of the room.

Ross stated that those in the house appeared to have been drinking. They told him that the woman apparently went into the room unaccompanied some time that afternoon but they did not know what time. They said the body was discovered about 9:30 last night.

However, this morning, Margaret Jenkins, one of those in the house, said in a statement which she signed at police headquarters that the Fleming woman apparently passed out on the bed in the combined kitchen-living room of the house around 3:30 that afternoon.

Ross said his investigation and that of the police department into the mysterious death is continuing. He noted that no marks or bruises were found on the body. The coroner declared that an inquest will probably be held at a later date.

Nine Mexican Train Cars Fall Into Canyon Of Death

COLIMA, Mexico (AP)—Nine cars of a train packed with holiday crowds plunged over the rim of the 600-foot-deep Canyon of Death last night.

Nine persons were known dead and 78 injured. The smashed cars were reported piled up just below the canyon's rim. The sides of the chasm were so steep that rescue operations were extremely hazardous.

The train tracks run along a narrow ledge which skirts the Canyon of Death, known by that name because of its dangerous slopes. Colima State Gov. Salinas Reynosa, returning here from the wreck scene with the dead and wounded, said "quite a few" of the passengers still were missing. He said they might have wandered off in the darkness or left the wrecking crew.

Eight of the injured were reported in a serious condition. Reynosa said a search of the wreckage would be resumed at daybreak.

The derailment occurred 50 miles from the Pacific coast, near the little town of Alisaba. The governor's casualty report knocked down a previous unofficial estimate received by the Guadalajara newspaper El Informador that about 300 persons were believed dead. Railway officials in Mexico City said earlier they believed the toll would be lower because the train was equipped with steel cars.

The dead and injured were brought back to Colima early today by one of three relief trains sent out from Colima and Guadalajara with doctors, nurses and

The Board of Aldermen met Thursday night with principal matters being disposed of. Having for several months investigated, considered and contemplated the purchase of a tractor for maintenance of the dirt streets of the Town of Greenville, the Board finally, after witnessing several demonstrations, decided to purchase a Fordson at the purchase price of $1197. This will be a source of much saving to the town as the streets can be maintained much better and at less cost with the tractor than under the old method of dragging with a mule.

Miss Hansinger Is Guest Speaker For Clio Book Club

Miss Annie Shields VanDyke was hostess to the Clio Book Club at her home on Fifth St. on March 30. Attractive arrangements of spring flowers were lovely throughout her home. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Burke Stancil, Mrs. Robert Wolfe, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Mrs. T. H. Boykin, and Miss Betty Hansinger.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith, president, presided over a short business meeting, at which time she appointed committees for the next club year. Following this Miss Agnes Fullilove presented Miss Betty Hansinger as guest speaker for the evening.

Miss Hansinger spoke in a very interesting manner on Interior Decoration. She brought to the club the basic elements to be considered in decorating one's home, pointing out throughout her entire talk that these elements should be used in harmony and balance so as to best express the personality and needs of the family occupying the home. All of her information was most constructive and of great interest to the club members.

Following this, Miss VanDyke, with the assistance of Miss Lib Norman and Mrs. W. L. Wheabee, served a delicious salad plate and coffee. Books were exchanged and the club adjourned.

An unusual feature of this meal was that the women were the guests of honor and preparing and serving, even dishwashing, was done by the men of the Moose Lodge.

After dinner the guests were welcomed by the incoming governor, C. Craven Hughes, and the response for the ladies was made by the Senior Regent of Greenville Chapter of the Women of the Moose Mrs. Lyman Briley.

Mrs. Marie Wallace of the Marie School of Dance then presented an enjoyable program of dancing. The young performers were as follows: Nancy Tribley and Skip Little in "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby"; Helen Rae Elks, Anne Wallace, Jeri Ann Reaves, Betty Carr and Sally Ann Whitehurst in a beautiful hula dance number; Jeanette Gardner in a song and dance number "I Love to DANCE"; Nancy Smith with an acrobatic solo; "Tweedle Dee Dee" was sung and danced by Van Everett, son of Past Treasurer Dick Everett; Nancy Tribley sang "Open Up Your Heart." The accompanist for these

Dr. Humbert Talks Community Service

The American Legion Auxiliary, Greenville Unit, met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Burt Green on Stantonburg Road. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Green were Mesdames G. A. Taylor, Mattie Tucker, J. B. Spillman, Frank Bendall and Howard Moye. Mrs. James R. Worsley, president, presided. She urged members to attend the District Meeting at Aurora on April 12 and the Convention to be held at Raleigh June 2 to 5. It was voted to send gifts of candy for veterans' hospitals.

Mrs. Louise Taylor introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Walter Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer. Dr.

Humbert chose Community Service as his subject. He stressed the importance of all members of an organization doing their part and brought out that community service should not be left to the organization but should be an "I" duty and each individual member should do his part. He mentioned the lack of civic pride in Greenville and some of the many things that could be done to improve this city which has so much to offer, one suggestion being that representatives from different organizations get together and form a council and study groups to work out some of the problems of civic welfare with a planned program. After the meeting the hostesses served cake and coffee and a social hour was enjoyed by the 28 members present.

Surprise Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 12,000 National Guardsmen will be mobilized soon in a surprise test of their readiness for action. The Defense Department announced during the week end that all ground and air units of the guard will respond to the alert by preparing for missions of the type they'd perform during an actual attack. Each state will conduct its own test but the mobilization timing will be as nearly simultaneous as possible. The announcement said the alert can come any time from now on.

WPA Art Adorning Labor Dept. Offices

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Ghosts of the old WPA depression days stand vigil today in the corridors and offices of the Department of Labor.

They are the pictures in oil and water color painted by artists back in the 1930s under one of the many projects operated by the Works Progress Administration to provide work for the needy.

A few of the pictures are in storage, but 150 of them have been in the Labor Department building since it was opened in 1935. At first they all hung in the first floor corridors. Then various executives chose some for their offices, and have been choosing and exchanging ever since.

"They come and go," Miss Frances Jay said of both the pictures and the executives. She has been in the department 22 years, and was executive assistant to Frances Perkins the 12½ years Miss Perkins was secretary of labor.

About a dozen of the pictures have industrial themes—smokestacks, the glare of steel furnaces, and was executive assistant to Frances Perkins the 12½ years Miss Perkins was secretary of labor. Others are landscapes, still life, a girl reading a book. Other pictures painted by some of the artists now hang in museums. They are big names in the American art world—Jerome Myers of New York; Julia Eckel and Bernice F. Cross of Washington, D.C.; Charles Rosen and Morris Davidson of Woodstock, N.Y.; Joe Jones of St. Louis, and Morris Graves.

A few got their start under the WPA. Others—"well, they were already well-known artists," Miss Jay said. "But this was back in the time when people worried about just eating, and who had the money to buy art?"

The government helped out with the public works of art project. All the pictures painted under the project are the property of the U.S. government and have never been for sale.

"There would be so much red tape," Miss Jay said. "You know, it's very difficult for the government to get rid of anything."

Literary Landmarks Of Massachusetts Discussed At Club

Mrs. D. L. Moore was hostess to the Round Table at her home on East Fifth Street Tuesday afternoon, March 29th.

After a short business session, Mr. J. E. Winslow, program chairman, presented Mrs. Daniel R. Taylor as the leader of the afternoon. Her subject was "Literary Landmarks of Massachusetts." In a very scholarly way, Mrs. Taylor reminded the club of the literary genius that grew up in Massachusetts. Boston was a pioneer intellectual center, and had libraries and book shops before many of the other cities. Harvard University, at Cambridge, made its educational influence felt in the early beginning of the nation. Many of the most influential writers lived at some time in the state of Massachusetts. Among those discussed were Thoreau, Emerson, Hawthorne, Louisa Alcott, Julia Ward Howe, Longfellow, James Russell Lowell, Amy Lowell, John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Whittier, Harriet Beecher Stowe, George Bancroft, Emily Dickinson, Noah Webster, William Cullen Bryant and Herman Melville.

Mrs. Milton White reported that reading was the hobby of Mrs. C. T. Munford, one of the charter members of the Round Table.

At the conclusion of this delightful program, the hostess served a delicious dessert course with nuts and coffee.

Duke Of Windsor Said In On Bids

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. says the Duke of Windsor has bid $50,000 for the estate of Greene's late mother in Newport, R.I.

Vanderbilt, 56, stopped here last night while on a lecture tour.

The 40-room Vanderbilt mansion and 8½-acre grounds were willed to Vanderbilt and a sister, Mrs. Robert Stevens, of New York, after the death of their mother Mrs. Grace Graham Wilson Vanderbilt in January 1953.

Vanderbilt said he has pledged his half of the proceeds from the estate to the Damon Runyon Cancer fund.

Sinatra Up, Down Then To New Peak

By BOB THOMAS
The Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Just a dozen years ago, the nation witnessed a strange and startling phenomenon. The teen-age girls of the land, who had been relatively integrated members of the American scene, suddenly erupted as a screaming, fanatical mass. The cause of their hysteria was a skinny Hoboken boy with a wavering baritone—Frank Sinatra.

Nothing has been seen like it before or since. Rudolph Valentino had created a furor in the '20s, but his female following was more mature. The post-Sinatra idols seem pale by comparison.

Today Sinatra again stands at a peak in his career. In a dozen years he has managed to pick up loyal friends, bitter enemies, two broken marriages, grave disappointments and a rare triumph, clinaxed by an Oscar. In a unique interview, I asked him to review his hits and errors, the high and low spots of his life, plus a look at the future.

What was it like in those days when the bobbysoxers were screaming over him?

"It was wonderful," he said reflectively. "But it was hectic. I never really had time to sit down and think about where I was going. I just enjoyed it."

Was he ever really hurt by the young mobs?

"No, not really. That part was blown up by reporters; it made for colorful writing, but it wasn't really true. The kids would grab for a handkerchief; that was standard. But I never had them tear the clothes off me. Occasionally I would have a torn lapel when they tried to grab me."

"I remember once I arrived at an airport in Toronto or Quebec, and a big guy decided he wanted my trench coat for a souvenir. He tried to grab it off my arm and I wasn't about to part with it. We had a real tug-of-war. Luckily a cop came along and saved me because the guy was pretty big."

"There was only once when I was really hurt. I had finished singing in the Wedgewood room of the Waldorf-Astoria and had to go back to the radio studio to do the West Coast repeat of the Hit Parade. As I walked out the door, a freak thing happened. Two guys grabbed for my bow tie and they

Mayorality Vote Set For Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's mayoral election tomorrow will bring a momentous verdict for one of the city's most turbulent politicians.

The vote will either lift peppery Robert E. Merriman from a Republican minority desk in the 50-man City Council to Chicago's peak public office, or leave him without a steady job. His Council term expires this month.

For his rival Richard J. Daley, 52, the mayoralty campaign is the latest in a series of political fights over a 22-year period. He seeks his biggest prize to date.

But, if Daley loses, he will merely face a more difficult task as chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee. And he can return to his $15,000-a-year post as county clerk.

Apart from the $25,000 annual mayor's salary, which compares with Merriman's $5,000-a-year alderman's pay, the election is climactic for what it may mean in justification of his eight-year battle with entrenched Democratic organization leaders.

There are Chicagoans who say the 36-year-old Republican champion has been crying wolf with his warnings that election of Daley will mean "a wide-open town." Many have no qualms over such an eventuality. Others believe Daley, the father of seven youngsters, when he says he has been "outraged by the falsehood that I would unleash the forces of evil."

Merriman gathered his most telling campaign ammunition as a member, and for a time as chairman, of the City Council Emergency Crime Investigating Committee. He talks of political protection for gamblers and other syndicate criminals under the Democratic regime of payoffs to policemen, of loafers on the city payrolls, of vote frauds.

Daley has dwelt little on the faults of Chicago politics. He talks earnestly of pressing problems—crime, traffic congestion, the shortage of school facilities, and the need for more revenue. He has declared his belief that a broader tax base is needed to bring in funds.

The period of Lent has varied from 2 days to 40 in the history of Christianity and was established at 40 days early in the seventh century.

Alarmed Over Pupil Solidarity

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet educational authorities are manifesting alarm because Russian schoolchildren are refusing to tattle on each other.

A copy of Komsomol Pravda, organ of the Communist Youth League, says Russian children frequently present a front of "comradely solidarity" against their teachers. Pupils often band together to protect others who have pulled pranks of misdemeanors.

World tobacco production increased about 4 per cent from 1953 to 1954, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Vote-Right For Under 21 Group Gets Nowhere

By PAT KEEFE
CHICAGO (AP)—Thousands of the nation's youths under 21 are in military service but legislation to permit them the right to vote appears gaining little headway.

Only one state, Georgia, gives them voting privileges.

Moves have been made in several other states, an Associated Press survey showed to get similar legislation passed since the military draft age was lowered to 18. In most states the proposed constitutional amendments were to lower the age to 18. Some recommended 19.

Bills have been sponsored in at least 30 states before legislative bodies this year. But in only one state—Delaware—is there indication of passage.

President Eisenhower, in his 1954 State of the Union message, proposed the Constitution be amended to give 18-year-olds the vote. The Constitution specifies no age qualifications for voters, leaving it to the states.

In Indiana, a state constitutional amendment lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 was approved by the 1953 Legislature but failed at this year's session. State amendments must pass two successive legislatures and then get approval at a referendum.

Idaho defeated a proposed amendment allowing 19-year-olds to vote.

Chances appear good for the Delaware Legislature to approve the measure for 18-year-olds. It has been passed by the Senate and awaits House action. However, it also must get approval of the 1957 General Assembly to become law.

The vote bill has been offered in previous legislative sessions in Colorado, Florida, Michigan, Montana, Oregon and South Carolina. In some states the proposals never got out of committee.

In Nevada, Republican Gov. Milward L. Simpson asked for a constitutional amendment on the vote for 18-year-olds but the Senate rejected his proposal.

Last Friday the Maine Legislature killed a similar constitutional amendment resolve.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas has asked the Legislature to lower the voting age to 18 in the Democratic primaries, but there has been no legislative action.

The Tennessee House approved a similar proposal but it was killed in the Senate.

Hundred Baby Chicks Are Distributed For 'Chain'

Under auspices of the Poultry Chain, sponsored by Dall's Hatchery, Ayden, F.C.X., Greenville, Drum's Hatchery, Greenville, and Pitt Milling Company, Greenville, 1,600 quality Rhode Island Red and New Hampshire baby chicks were recently distributed to Pitt County Negro 4-H clubs.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce, also sponsoring the "poultry chain," is offering $50 in premiums to be given to those boys and girls achieving excellent results in developing their baby chicks to laying pullets. Blue ribbon winners will receive $5 premiums; red ribbon winners $2.85, and white ribbon winners will not receive a premium. Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Goode stated.

One hundred baby chicks were distributed to the following Negro 4-H Club members who have facilities for brooding 100 baby chicks: Langley and Samuel Thompson, Cherrylane community; Joseph Hill and William Smith, Shilvers community; William Council and Arthur Council, Jr., Sallie Branch community; Doris Foreman and Mary Foreman, Falkland community; Carolyn Suggs, Swift Creek community; Charlie Gooden, Grifton community; Elmer Leary, Calico community; Robert Brown, Ayden community; and Fred Lee Midgett, Jr., Warren Chapel community.

Collected Sounds Put On Record

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Andre Kostelanetz, here to direct the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra entertained friends with a private playing of recordings he made while visiting the Orient. The records included such sounds as: A Chok Chok lizard greeting the sunrise in Bangkok; belled elephants moving through the streets during a Buddhist festival; chants of beggars in bazaars and Bangkok temple bells swaying in the evening breeze.

Kostelanetz says he plans to release the records commercially in an album of "unusual sounds of the world."

Wound Up With More Than Lost

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fred Glusman, 18, paid his check and walked out of a restaurant yesterday holding a $5 bill and three ones. A gust of wind whipped the money from his hand.

After an hour of chasing, Glusman and three teen-age companions had recovered $6. They were about to give up finding the other $2 when Glusman spotted another bill. It was a $5 bill that someone else apparently had lost in the wind.

Recommendation Should Be Adopted

It is encouraging to see that the joint appropriations subcommittee has recognized in its recommendations that the budget for East Carolina College recommended by the advisory commission was not adequate to take care of even the pressing needs of this growing state institution.

It is the hope of The Reflector that the full joint appropriations committee and the Senate and the House will likewise recognize that fact by approving the additional appropriations for East Carolina recommended by the appropriations subcommittee.

Meters Also Needed For Swimming Pool Lot

As Greenville's City Council makes its plans for converting into a parking lot the property it has leased across from the municipal building, consideration also should be given the placing of meters on the parking lot at the old swimming pool site.

It is a foregone conclusion that meters will be installed on the parking lot at Fifth and Washington Streets when that lot is completed. Why shouldn't the parking lot at the swimming pool site also be metered?

Meters on municipal parking lots should be for longer periods than the one-hour and two-hour meters used on the streets of the business district. The per-hour parking charge likewise should be lower on the parking lots for long-time parking than it is on the streets.

Several complaints have been voiced about the abuse of the parking space at the old swimming pool lot, and it appears to us that the placing of meters on that lot would do away with any such abuse.

When the City Council makes its plans and orders its new meters for the new parking lot in front of the municipal building, it should likewise plan for and order similar long term meters for the swimming pool parking lot.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
OUR PRESENT JOB

A witness is a person who relates something that he has actually experienced or seen or heard. Hearsay evidence is not testimony. Nothing will bring a lawyer to his feet in the courtroom in snarling dissent so quickly as to have a witness begin to tell not what he knows about some subject but what he thinks about it. Under such circumstances the judge brings down the gavel sharply and tells the witness to confine himself to facts.

Jesus sent out his disciples into the world to be witnesses. They were not to tell what they thought about Him or about the religious movement He had started, but about what He and the religious movement He had started had actually done for them. Spiritual life reaches a very low point when we get to the place where we believe that the only valid witness to religious truth is a preacher standing in a pulpit. Preachers are mighty important people both in the worldly economy and in the heavenly economy, but they are not the only witnesses to truth. Nor is the pulpit the only place from which Christian truth can be preached.

Whether we like it or not, we are all of us living witnesses—and what is in us more striking—living, breathing, walking, sermons—either testifying joyfully to "Christ or testifying against Him."

"Ye shall be my witnesses." With these simple words our Lord ascended into heaven and left the job of transforming the life of the world in our hands.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The vast majority of Democrats on Capitol Hill expect Adlai E. Stevenson to be their Presidential nominee against Dwight D. Eisenhower next year. Although few anticipate a Democratic victory, barring an unpopular war or a depression, the political augurs feel that Stevenson should and will make a "sacred" run for the White House.

Stevenson's walking several handicaps. If Governor Averell Harriman of New York and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan are the only other real contestants, should seek the honor. The Illinoisan was one of the worst defeated Democratic candidates in years. In the recent Chicago mayoralty brawl, he aligned himself with the discredited machine's entry, thereby tarnishing his reputation as a knight of reform.

But Stevenson has many assets. He has a magnetic and commanding personality, as he demonstrated in the 1952 contest when almost an unknown except in Illinois, at the time of nomination, he impressed himself so deeply on the public mind and imagination. It was not Eisenhower who defeated Stevenson so badly. It was Harry S. Truman, Harry Vaughan, the Pendegast mob and the mink coats around the White House and Department of Justice.

LAST CHANCE FOR HARRIMAN—Stevenson and Harriman reached no final, hard-and-fast agreements at their recent Albany conferences. They decided to leave the question of the 1956 nominee to the convention. They will not engage in any personal struggle, although 1956 will be Harriman's last chance. He will be 69 on November 15, 1960, too-old for serious consideration.

Stevenson probably does not want the honor. He might be willing to step aside for either Governor Harriman, or Governor Williams, who has been advanced as a possibility by Michigan Democrats. He, too, must make his race in 1956, for he cannot retain a gubernatorial spotlight forever.

East Carolina is the fastest growing state-owned college in North Carolina. Even so, it's growth in recent years has been impeded to a degree because of its lack of facilities and staff to take care of the number of students who applied for admittance at the college. Increased appropriations for East Carolina in the past several sessions of the General Assembly is an indication that legislators have become more acutely aware of not only the needs of this major state institution, but also of the great service it is rendering the state.

Although the additional appropriations recommended by the subcommittee last week will not fill all the pressing needs of the college, they will enable the institution to render greater service than would be possible without the additional money. There is no doubt that East Carolina will, in the coming biennium, have to continue to turn away prospective students for lack of facilities to accommodate them. Nevertheless, the additional appropriation will enable the college to educate more students than at present, and likewise to offer them a better educational program than heretofore has been possible.

The General Assembly will be doing a significant service not only to East Carolina College, but also to this entire section of the state if it endorses this additional appropriation for the college.

Costly Fires Can Become More Costly

With little prospect for extensive rains in this locality in the immediate future, Pitt farmers and other citizens should take particular precautions in an effort to prevent further forest fires.

Fires raging through valuable timberland in the county in recent weeks have destroyed literally thousands of acres of timber. Although forest fire fighters have done their best to keep fires under control, the county has suffered heavy losses in this increasingly valuable farm crop.

Practically all the forest fires in the county have been caused by carelessness. Practically all of them could have been prevented if individuals had taken simple precautions. Pitt can ill afford to have its timber crop go up in smoke just as it could ill afford to have any of its other farm crops burned up.

It is the duty of forest rangers to do what they can to put out forest fires once they are started; but it is the responsibility of every citizen to take precautions to prevent forest fires.

BEDFORD IND. DAILY TIMES-MAIL: "On a nationwide basis the states pay an average of $6.99 into the Federal treasury for each dollar returned under direct grants and 'matching fund' projects. These figures would indicate that the Federal government in its role as a collector and distributor agency is depriving the states of billions of dollars per year which might be administered more effectively at home."

MORSE VS. NEUBERGER—Although Senator Wayne L. Morse supported Senator Richard L. Neuberger in the latter's 1954 campaign, the new and young member from Oregon has shown a lack of appreciation since his arrival at Washington. Neuberger's keen sense for publicity stunts has banished his elder colleague and former law professor from the headlines.

Morse, who is an able and hard-working individual, spends many hours in preparing a speech, and devotes vast research to it. He regularly castigates the Eisenhower Administration on such major policies as Hell's Canyon, TVA, alleged giveaways of natural resources, Treasury financing and foreign affairs.

LONG-WINDED SPEECHES—But his long-winded solemn speeches, which he usually begins late in the afternoon—Press Gallery reporters call him "The Five O'Clock Shadow"—empty the Senate, and rarely break into the newspapers. They have become so repetitious that they have lost any news value except to Senator Morse.

Neuberger, however, splashes the front page frequently with what has more sedate colleagues characterize as "cute publicity tricks." He shocked the Women's Press Club with his assertion that he was the "only member of Congress who can caucus in bed," his wife being an attractive member of the Oregon Legislature. She will assist her husband after the end of the Oregon Legislative Session.

His defense of White House squirrels against deportation for their anti-golf depredations won him front-page accounts and photographs. But if you ask the deliberate and doleful Morse, Neuberger's headline antics are best described as "nuts."

PROBLEM OF AGED—The problem of America's old people, poor, lonely and penniless, has finally attracted serious Congressional attention. Increased longevity, especially among widows, has accentuated interest in the question. At least a dozen proposals for a commission study of how to improve these sunset lives have been introduced at the current session of Congress—a record.

Business Today

Uneasy Over Debts

By ELMER ROESSNER
The total American indebtedness is once again causing concern among government officials, bankers and insurance executives. While consumer credit is usually a favorite subject for the worriers, there are some uneasy feelings about the total of mortgage and other nonconsumer indebtedness.

A compilation by the Institute of Life Insurance shows that government, business and private debt has passed the $700 billion mark. It includes $293 billion in Federal debt, $38 billion in state and local government debt, $213 billion in corporate debt and $165 billion in individuals' debt.

Interest rates on this total vary from less than 1 per cent on some kinds of government securities to 30 per cent or more on some personal loans. At a 3 per cent average, it would cost $21 billion a year.

The total of all debts is about $4,300 per person, and the personal debt is $800 per person. While most people are chiefly concerned about their own installments, in the end individuals pay the carrying charges on all debt, either in higher taxes or in the purchase price for goods they buy.

Not an awful lot will be done— or can be done—about the total indebtedness. Nothing in our lifetime will be done about the size of government debt and very little will be done about its growth.

Business debts are under pretty close scrutiny of banks, insurance companies and other lenders. If there is runaway inflation or hysterical speculation, the Federal Reserve may exercise some of its controls. But no such action now seems imminent.

Personal indebtedness consists largely of mortgage debt and consumer credit. While consumer credit has increased from $8 billion outstanding in 1946 to just under $30 billion today, it appears to be leveling off. The figures show that "people are paying off their debts as fast as new debt is being contracted," Arthur O. Dietz, president of the CITI Financial Corporation points out.

That leaves only the mortgage debt. Many banks are being more selective in the mortgages they grant these days. There is some talk in Washington that the government should slow down its encouragement of home building. If too many poor credit risks have mortgage debts, a downturn in business could cause a rash of foreclosures.

But because the housing boom makes so many jobs and helps to support so many industries—from steel rolling to shaping furniture—almost no one will dare act to level it off.

ALTERATION CHARGES MADE BY MORE STORES
The National Retail Dry Goods Association has made another survey of the practice of charging for alterations of men's clothes.

Of 264 stores checked, five reported they had discontinued charging since the last survey seven months ago, and 26 reported they had started, bringing the total of those charging to 76. INDUSTRIAL INVENTORIES ARE INCREASING Industrial inventories are being built up.

The monthly survey of the National Association of Purchasing Agents finds that "not since 1950 have so many purchasing executives reported higher inventories and so few lower quantities on hand."

Forty per cent of the industrial companies checked by Purchasing magazine said they were increasing inventories in recent weeks and 21 per cent said they were decreasing them.

Pensioners Have Wide Choice Of Retirement Places

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.— Letters as to the best place to live from people about to be pensioned. They seem to favor Florida, California, Arizona, and other Southern States. They appear to be tiring of cold winters.

WHERE TO GO?
Localities which are attractive and have good business during the winter months may be unpleasant and unprofitable during the summer. The reverse is also true. Certainly no state or county or community has all the advantages or disadvantages. The birds further cut their own throats of years' experience. I selected summer headquarters in New England and winter headquarters in Florida—even before man had joined the birds in air transportation.

A warm climate would doubtless be desirable for an older couple, but it may not be wise for a young couple with children. There is something debilitating and enervating in climates that are too warm especially when the heat is of long duration. Statistics published by Yale University show that the most energetic and intelligent people develop under marked contrasts of climate. The "terrible weather changes" of New England may have created the energy which financed so many farms and cities and built railroads across the United States.

IMPORTANCE OF INCOME
The much-advised growth of such states as Florida, California, and Arizona does not stem from new babies, or agricultural producers. "Newcomers" are moving in to retire and take it easy. They must be sure a check will come from the North each month to use as a nest egg or backlog. I refer to pension money.

insurance, rents on northern property—or dividends on stocks or interest in bonds or mortgages. Social Security checks are a help, but they will not pay all the bills in any state to which people are now flocking.

Don't expect a big dip in living costs in these delightful winter climates. You may not need so much fuel or electric or clothing but food and rents cost as much, considering what you get. There is no reduction in doctors' or dentists' or hospital bills; while beauty-parlor bills are reported to be higher! Florida does give homestead tax exemption on property up to $5,000. Different states and cities have different ways of collecting taxes, but in the end they add up to about the same.

Governor Pleased With Way State Meets Disasters

By LYNN NISBET
PLEASED—Governor Hodges is pleased and proud at the spirit of North Carolinians in the series of disasters which have visited the State recently. Drought, hurricanes and freeze hit the entire state very hard. Two of the largest beach hotels have burned.

Localities which are attractive and have good business during the winter months may be unpleasant and unprofitable during the summer. The reverse is also true. Certainly no state or county or community has all the advantages or disadvantages. The birds further cut their own throats of years' experience. I selected summer headquarters in New England and winter headquarters in Florida—even before man had joined the birds in air transportation.

A warm climate would doubtless be desirable for an older couple, but it may not be wise for a young couple with children. There is something debilitating and enervating in climates that are too warm especially when the heat is of long duration.

SCHOOL BOARDS — In answer to a question by a reporter from the western part of the State where Republicans have long sought to have school boards elected or appointed at county level, the Governor said the principle of local government might include school boards. He noted, however, that the fact the State puts up most of the money for operating the schools makes a different situation. The Governor didn't elaborate on the point, but inasmuch as the county school boards are named by the General Assembly, although in many counties they are nominated in advisory preferential primaries, the delegation of authority to assign pupils is not a complete surrender of State control. Also because of that same situation many lawyers think the relegation of such authority will not protect the State against being made parties to county suits in event they are brought.

SLOW DOWN — The Governor did not attempt to plug for the original budget proposal for taxing soft drinks and tobacco, but he observed that the substitute "package" offered by the joint finance chairmen had encountered more resistance than was expected and had slowed down legislative action.

Consensus among legislators is that the financial picture is more confused now than it was two months ago. One member said as he started home Friday afternoon that he left the week before happily singing "April showers bring May flowers." This week he's singing the doleful tune "What is so rare as a day in June."

Monday, April 4, is the 77th legislative day of the session, the 90th calendar day. The constitution fixes pay of members of the General Assembly at $15 per day for not more than 90 days. If the time is figured on calendar days Monday will end the pay time; if on legislative days the last payday will be April 19. In any event no member can draw more than $1350 for the session, and they will have to serve a lot of free time.

There are proposals for submitting amendments to increase the pay or provide expense allowances, but in view of the tight money situation they are not accorded much chance of passage.

FULL COSTS — The old problem of appropriate charges for out of state students is tax supported colleges is to the front again. Rep. W.W. Taylor of Warren and others have introduced a bill to require out of state students to pay the "full cost" of the instructional and custodial services provided by the colleges. In support of their idea they have some interesting statistics.

They discovered that in 1949-51 out of state students paid about 80 per cent of the total costs; in 1954-55 the non-residents are paying about 37 per cent of the total cost, with North Carolina taxpayers footing the bill for the difference. One of the "whereases" in the preface to their proposed act sets out that their scholastic year there are 4,120 non-residents enrolled in State tax supported colleges, and the cost of caring for them is $2,326,802 more than they pay for instructional services (tuition fees), not counting room rent and other items. If the past and current ratio of increased enrollment continues it will be almost doubled in 15 years or by 1970. By that time there will be more than 8,000 non-residents, and the deficit in fees paid by them which must be made up out of State taxes will run to somewhere between $7 and $10 million on present basis.

The colleges now charge approximately twice as much tuition for out of state students as for residents. The charges still do not meet total instructional cost. The same dormitory rent and cafeteria rates are charged,

Tell them you would appreciate information regarding different localities, climate, and opportunities. But do not select any locality of that state without first visiting it, even if you need a leave-of-absence from your job in order to do this. In closing, just a word of financial advice: If you are looking for acreage buy land adjoining some owned by the United States Agricultural Department and used as an experiment station. This should be good land and easy to dispose of if you ever wish to sell at a profit. This applies to all states.

CURBS WILL BE GAY ON GARBAGE DAY
The Old Promoter had a familiar gleam in his eye when he dropped in today. "I'm organizing the Beauty America Corporation," he said.

"Tell" we urged.
"The ugliest thing about the United States is garbage cans," he said. "In half the cities of America they stand in front of homes from the time papa puts them full at the curb in the morning until he lugs them in empty at night."

"I am going to bring out a line of beautifying receptacles. One model will look like a truncated column. Another will resemble a colorful old stump. A third will be covered with ivy growing from a built-in flower pot. My leader will be a number in white modeled after Venus de Milo. You lift off her head and drop in the orange peels. Can I put you down for a thousand shares of Beauty America?"

"Only if Winchell tipsit," we said.

PUMPS MAY PUMP PROFIT FOR DEALERS
A large share of the homes in the United States will have "heat pumps" in the next few years. E.L. England of the Atlantic City Electric Company, told the New York Society of Security Analysts.

Heat pumps are installations that circulate cool air in summer and hot air in winter. Mr. England also said that by 1965, operating costs for heat pumps would be about $106 a year.

Educators insist and can offer conclusive evidence in support of the contention that infiltration of out of stateers in the student body contributes substantially to broadening the education base for resident students.

Six Managers In American League Should Be Pleased

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
The Associated Press

With the start of the major league baseball season just a week away, this is as good a time as any to check up on the six new American League managers in the spring training games.

Chuck Dressen of the Washington Senators and Mike Higgins of the Boston Red Sox have had the most success. The Senators have won 11 and lost 6 to lead the American League. Boston's 12-8 record is good for third place.

But the four other newcomers—Marty Marion of the Chicago White Sox, Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers and Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City A's—haven't been so successful.

The White Sox, Orioles and Tigers each have 8-12 won-lost games. The A's, in the basement, are 8-13.

All six skippers have reason to be pleased today, however, after the performances of several of their key players yesterday.

Shortstop which has been a problem for Washington, may have been clinched by rookie Johnny Kline, who went four-for-four as the Nats edged the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-4. Kline singled in the ninth and rode home on Eddie Yost's game-winning home run.

Norm Zauchin, fighting for the Boston Red Sox first base job, walloped a two-run homer in the sixth inning off the Philadelphia Phils ace, Robin Roberts, to give the Red Sox a 4-2 victory.

The White Sox bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals 12-7, but Manager Marion continued to glow over the power hitting of Walt Dropo. The big first sacker socked his third home run in four days and teammate Bob Nieman also hit for the circuit. Rip Repulski of the Cards banged a grand-slam home run in the first frame.

Baltimore's pitching fell apart in the ninth inning when Pittsburgh scored six runs and pulled out an 11-8 verdict, but the Orioles gained some solace from the hitting of Gus Triandos and the pitching of Jim McDonald, both acquired from the Yankees. Triandos, expected to plug the first base gap, poked a home run with the bases loaded, and McDonald hurled seven creditable innings. Jack Sheppard's grand-slam homer in the ninth inning climaxed the Pirates' outburst.

Detroit split a double-header with Atlanta of the Southern Assn., losing the opener 5-4 but taking the six-inning nightcap 2-0. Ned Garver continued to sparkle on the mound for the Tigers, pitching a two-hitter in the second game.

The A's and Manager Boudreau got some good news when Bobby Shantz turned in his most impressive stint of the training season as Kansas City downed Savannah of the Sally League 8-1. The crafty southpaw, plagued by arm trouble the past two years, gave up only one run and five hits in five innings and his control showed sharp improvement over previous appearances.

Elsewhere, Harry Chitt's pair of homers paced the Chicago Cubs to a 12-3 triumph over San Antonio of the Texas League. Tom Morgan went the route as the New York Yankees trimmed Memphis of the Southern Assn. 13-1. Gene Conley worked eight innings as the Milwaukee Braves licked the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-1, and the New York Giants rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to turn back the Cleveland Indians 7-5.

Among the seven National League players who earned the right to be called "iron men" by virtue of having participated in every game played by their clubs last year was Richey Ashburn, the Phillies fleet centerfielder. The others whose names appeared in every box score during 1954 were Gil Hodges, Dodgers; Ernie Banks, Cubs; Roy McMillan, Redlegs; Johnny Logan, Braves; Alvin Dark, Giants; and Stan Musial of the Cardinals. Ashburn's performance took on added importance, however, because it put Richey with in striking distance of the National League record for consecutive games.

The 153 games Ashburn added to his consecutive games string last season brought his total up to 730, just 92 games behind the senior circuit record set by Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh's first baseman between 1931 and 1937. Richey started his unbroken string on June 7, 1950.

Ashburn's value to the Phillies is not confined to his ability to remain fit for play every day. Richey has led the National League outfielders in putouts for each of the past six seasons. His 1954 total of 489 putouts exceeded Willie Mays' total for the season by 35. Ashburn's tremendous speed enables him to beat out many infield hits. He has hit better than 300 each year since he was voted the National League "rookie of the year" at the close of the 1948 season.

Two Games And 2 Meets Ahead

Greenville High School's Phantoms have four important sporting events lined up for this week with the baseball team host for two conference games and the track squad out of town on two meets.

Coach Bo Farley's baseballers meet Washington at Guy Smith Stadium Tuesday afternoon and meet Elizabeth City at the same park Friday afternoon. The Phantom baseballers have played only one regular game all year. It that one they dropped a 7-4 game to Rocky Mount. The game with New Bern last Friday was postponed because of transportation difficulties.

Sophomores Hudson Miller and John Ed Arnold will be counted on to do the burbling for this week's encounters. Miller is a righthander and Arnold is a lefty. Miller pitched the Rocky Mount game and was charged with the loss.

Last season the Phantoms whipped the Washington squad in both games. Washington lost several of its front-line players as did the Phantoms.

Tracksters in Fayetteville, Durham and The track team runs into its third dual meet of the season Wednesday when they travel to Fayetteville to meet the Bulldogs. The G-men have whipped four straight times over the past few years and are hoping to extend their streak to five.

The G-men opened the season with a 75-16 win over Henderson but two days later were caught stiff by a hustling Raleigh group and dropped a 59 2-3 - 40 1-3 decision to the capital city boys.

Coach Bill Kittrell's group is hoping to rebound against the Bulldogs Wednesday.

On Saturday the Phantom cindermen enter one of the south's most illustrious high school meets, the Duke-Durham relays. In that meet schools from North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia are invited to attend. It is one of the hardest meets of the year and the Phantoms are hoping to place high in the huge field of teams.

Billy Maxwell Is Azalea Winner; Augusta-Bound

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Billy Maxwell, with a check for $2,200 first place money in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament in his pocket, headed for Augusta, Ga., today and the Masters Tournament opening Thursday.

The 25-year-old Odessa, Tex., professional of 17 months, broke into the major victory column for the first time since leaving the amateur ranks with a 69 finish yesterday to post an 18 under par total of 270 and beat massive strike course of Durham by one stroke.

Souchak finally had wrested the lead from Billy, who held it three days, going out in 33 to move ahead by one shot with nine to go. Maxwell refused to wilt, however, and charged back with three birdies in a row starting at No. 13 to regain the lead.

Maxwell U.S. amateur champ in 1951, had picked up $4,000 in earlier tournaments this winter.

Souchak, who padded by $1,500 his earlier bankroll of $11,200 which led the circuit, also is headed for the Masters.

Mike three putted on the 13th green and made a bad second and poor chip shot to take a bogie 5 on the 18th to lose his chance for a possible tie and first place playoff. Both he and Maxwell bettered the old tournament record of 272 set three years ago by Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif.

Bob Toski of Livingston, N.J., whose $65,000 led the money men in the 1954 PGA tour, took $75,000 and third place, worth $1,170.

Jay Herbert, Woodmere, N.Y., came in with 276 for fourth place money of $980. Jerry Barber Los Angeles winner here two years ago, was fifth at 277 for $840.

Tied for sixth at 278 were Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., Eric Monti, Los Angeles, and Dow Finsterwald, Athens, Ohio. Each received $643.33.

Barclay Seeking New Assistant

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Head Coach George Barclay was looking for a new assistant coach today after Bill Edwards announced he has resigned to become head football coach at his alma mater, Wittenberg College at Springfield, Ohio.

Edwards, who had coached ends and centers at North Carolina, said Saturday he signed a three-year contract at Wittenberg as head football coach and athletic director.

Barclay said he plans to replace Edwards with an offensive backfield coach. "That would enable me to spend most of my time with the offensive line. Marvin Euse with the defensive line and Steve Belichick with the ends and defensive backfield," Barclay commented.

Barclay said he has some prospects in mind but nothing definite has been decided.

Edwards obtained a release from his three-year contract here which still had one year to run. He said Wittenberg had promised him faculty tenure after he completes work for his masters degree.

Edwards came to North Carolina after four years as head coach and athletic director at Vanderbilt. Previously he was coach at Western Reserve University for six years where his teams had 10 undefeated seasons and won a Sun Bowl victory. He also was coach of the professional Detroit Lions and was a member of the Cleveland Browns coaching staff.

Begin Practice

Greenville's Little League baseball practice starts today for boys who are not signed by a regular Little League team. The practice today is for the new boys, between eight and twelve years old, who have not been signed as yet.

The practice is scheduled for right after school and will be at the Elm Street Park. All boys who have not been signed to play yet are urged to come out to the practice and get on with some Little League team.

Semi-Pro Greenies Take Exhibition Over Falkland

Greenville's semi-pro Greenies opened their exhibition season yesterday afternoon with a 11-5 win over the Falkland team of the same Coastal Plain League. Both teams substituted frequently so as to let all of their tryout hopefuls have a chance to strut their stuff.

Greenville manager, Junior Yohn, used six pitchers and played all 38 of his players in the battle. Both teams played errorless ball in the field but the batters were ahead of the pitchers at this stage of the season.

Greenville picked up their eleven runs on thirteen hits, while the Greenie hurlers were limiting the Falkland team to five runs and eight base knocks.

Linwood Gay started on the mound for the Greenies and went four innings without giving up a safe hit. James Earl Pollard received credit for the win for Greenville. He went three innings and gave up a run and one hit.

Greenville and Falkland continue their exhibition series next Sunday in Greenville as both teams are readying themselves for the season pennant race. Sunday's game will be played in Guy Smith Stadium and will start at 2:30. No admission is charged for the exhibition games.

Manager Yohn said that he and Johnny Poell, both former Coastal Plain League professional stars, would be available for some mound duty. Yohn was a big winner for Greenville for many years while Poell went up to AAA ball before he hurt his arm. Many other former professionals are in the line-ups of both teams.

Santee Faster In Texas Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Cocky Wes Santee, who came nearer the four-minute mile Saturday than he ever had before, thinks he'll do it within the next two months. His time was 4:00.5.

The angular Kansan with the chop stride complained that he was tired and that a brisk north wind might hamper his bid for the glory that has gone to Roger Banister and John Landy. But he showed no signs of weariness as he breezed around Memorial Stadium in the Texas Relays.

His time was a new American record and with a little stronger competition he might have done the four-minute mile. He was half a lap ahead of Henri Geller of Oklahoma A&M at the finish.

Santee said he will rest three weeks before competing in the Kansas Relays and hopes to be in top shape for May and June meets at California. He has a strong chance to break the four-minute mile on a clay track.

The relays were dominated by Oklahoma A&M and Texas, who swept all of the seven relays, the Aggies with four first places.

Tommy Jackson Moves Up Again

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson makes another stop on the comeback road tonight when he fights Archie McBride, of Trenton, N. J. at St. Nicholas Arena in a 10-round bout.

This will be Tommy's first television appearance since his meteoric career was halted so abruptly by Nino Valdes last year. Nino stopped him in two rounds and the Hurricane blew to parts unknown.

But he's only 24, and he has plenty of stamina. Since he was dropped three times in the second round by Valdes, Tommy has scored four knockouts in his last four fights.

His manager Lippy Breitbard reports he has shortened and sharpened his punching and improved his boxing style.

Di Mont will telecast at 10 p.m., EST.

Gene Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, brings his 29-bout defeatless streak to Eastern Parkway when he faces Gil Turner in a 10 tonight.

Fullmer is a 13-0 favorite. At his best, he can punch faster and has quicker reflexes and bouncier legs than Turner. The last time they met in the ring was seven years ago in the National AAU Championships, when Turner won. ABC will telecast at 10 p.m., EST.

Trabert Sweeps Seventh In Row

SAN JUAN Puerto Rico (AP)—Tony Trabert, his eye fixed squarely on a lucrative pro career, is one of the hottest streaks of his young tennis life.

Having already indicated his willingness to turn professional when the time is ripe, Trabert won his seventh straight tournament yesterday when he beat Vic Seixas, the top-ranked U.S. player and national champion, for the Puerto Rican title.

Trabert, the second-rated American, outlasted his Davis Cup partner in five grueling sets, 8-6, 5-7, 5-7, 6-2, marking the third time in as many weeks that he had conquered Seixas.

Seixas almost had the Puerto Rico prize in his pocket at one point in the bitterly contested match. Leading 2-1 in sets and 5-3 in games, he blew his service.

Mix-Up Sees Two On Second At Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Who's on second? Ted Kluszewski and Roy McMillan—at the same time.

The mix-up happened yesterday during an exhibition game between the Cincinnati Redlegs and Washington Nationals. Klu slid into second base from first at the same time McMillan was sliding back to second from third.

Here's how it occurred:

With Roy on second and one out, Klu lined a drive inside the foul line. Right fielder Tommy Umpfret made a great catch but tumbled into the overflow crowd.

McMillan didn't think the ball was caught and rounded third. However, first base umpire Hank Crawford ruled a fair catch but Kuszewski had to retrace his steps. Kluszewski, thinking he had collected a hit, met McMillan at second. Neither was injured.

Overcame Winds, Rain And Dust To Win Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., overcame strong winds, rain and dust to wrap up the $5,000 Oklahoma City Women's Golf Tournament yesterday with a score of 229 over 54 holes.

This was two strokes under women's par but seven shots over the men's standard of 222 over 6,695-yard Lincoln Park public course.

The top money of $1,000 placed her atop the money winners on the current Ladies Professional Golfers Assn. tour. Her earnings amount to $4,828.

Her closest competitors were Alice Bauer Hage of Sarasota, Fla., and Jackie Pung, Honolulu housewife. They tied for runnerup honors with 232s and won $650 apiece.

Three players bettered women's par of 77 in the final round. They were Joyce Ziske, Waterford, Wis., Betty MacKinnon of Savannah, Ga., and Betty Hicks of Palm Springs, Calif., all with 76. They had earlier rounds with higher scores and couldn't contest the early leaders.

The race horse Nashua gets special drinking water which is bottled and shipped to Hialeah from Hot Springs, Ark.

Robin Roberts Is First Philly To Go Nine Innings

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Robin Roberts became the first Phillies pitcher to hurl more than seven innings when he went the distance against the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

The veteran right hander lost the game 4-2. He was allowed to pitch nine innings because he leaves the club today to attend a Tuesday meeting of players' representatives in Cincinnati.

Rookie Norm Zauchin appeared a step ahead of sophomore Harry Agganis as the pair continued their battle for the Boston Red Sox first base starting spot.

Zauchin, up from the Louisville farm club in the American Assn., figured in all of Boston's runs yesterday. He got by his in three times up, including a 375-foot home run with one man aboard to break a 2-2 tie. Earlier in the game he drove home the first Boston run with a single. He scored the second run on Ted Lepcio's double.

Handful Of Bevanists Growing In Influence

By JAMES F. KING
LONDON (AP) — Attention has centered on Aneurin Bevan in the dispute within the Labor party, but there's more to Bevanism than Bevan.

The Bevanists are few in number but growing in influence among the party's rank and file. They boast of their left-wing socialism and sometimes echo the Communist party line. They often sound anti-American, especially in foreign policy. They picture Britain as the bulwark of a third force in the world — between the United States and Soviet Russia.

"Bevanism is so strong today," one of his followers confided, "that we can even do without Bevan if necessary, and he realizes it."

Who are the "Bevanists" who set the tone for the movement along with Bevan himself? They are smart practical politicians, all members of Parliament, and imbued with evangelistic fervor.

One is Bevan's wife Jennie Lee, a lawyer who can swing at times farther to the left than her husband. She is a buxom 50, daughter of a coal miner.

Bevanism's glamor girl is Barbara Castle, as fiery as her hair. She is an Oxford University product, wife of a newspaperman. In the postwar Attlee government she was parliamentary secretary to Sir Stafford Cripps when he was chancellor of the exchequer.

Farther to the left than Bevan are three others best known in Britain as writers.

First is Michael Foot, 43, who is a former editor of Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard. He now edits Tribune, weekly organ of the Bevanists.

Then Tom Driberg, 40, whose favorite targets for attack have been the "barbaric thugs of Detroit and narrow imperialists of Washington and Wall Street." And Ian Mikardo, 47, listed in the parliamentary register as an industrial consultant and writer. He is a firebrand on the stump, lashing out frequently at those he regards as "Wall Street imperialists."

Two who played an important role in cooling off their leader to prevent his expulsion from the Labor party were Richard Crossman, 41, an Oxford Don, and Harold Wilson, 3, a brilliant economist.

Many think that Wilson is the man to watch as a prospective premier — even more so than Bevan. Wilson has managed to keep on good terms — at least outwardly — with the Attlee right faction of the Labor party. In the old Attlee Labor government he served as president of the Board of Trade (commerce department).

Air Force Test Was Fouled Up By Eavesdroppers

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The Air Force planned to make a telephone connection between St. Joseph and Sacramento Calif. in 11 seconds yesterday but it took nine minutes.

Too many eavesdroppers along the line left keys open and there was a foulup at the western end, the Air Force said.

The call was made to demonstrate speed in defense communication being inaugurated between plane spotter filter centers in the two cities.

Also it was a contrast with the pony express, started 95 years ago yesterday between St. Joseph and Sacramento.

The best pony time was 7 days 17 hours.

Research Shows Scourge Of Smog Is Made By Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $300,000 investigation into the dark and smelly scourge of smog has disclosed:

1. That smog is man-made.
2. That it can be attributed to industry autos and incinerators.
3. That it can be capricious—causing eye irritation in one district while at the same time causing plant damage, but not eye irritation, in another area a few miles away.

Dr. Lauren B. Hitchcock, president of the Air Pollution Foundation, yesterday gave newsmen a briefing on the results of his group's county-sponsored survey of smog last summer in the Los Angeles basin.

Medical science is unable to tell that pollutants in the air killed human beings in Donora, Pa., and London, England, in attacks of smog in recent years, he said. But he ticked off the sources that contribute pollutants to Los Angeles smog, and the percentage of contribution as follows:

- Industry: 50 per cent
- Motor vehicles: 40 per cent
- Incinerators: 10 per cent

"Smog," defines Hitchcock, "is the eye-smarting, crop-killing compounds in pollutions from these sources."

"We are certain that smog is man-made and not the result of chemical reactions from elements in nature.

"Air pollution isn't smog," he said. "It is the mother of smog."

It strikes differently in different neighborhoods he said. On bad days the worst visibility was in the Wilshire District. But the worst eye irritation was in the downtown district. Plant damage was worst east of Los Angeles in suburban Rivera and Bassett, instead of either the Wilshire District, Pasadena, or downtown.

Hitchcock said these findings were made in an aerometric survey with most of the $300,000 going to contracts for outside agencies to conduct tests. The survey included aerial samples 24 hours a day at 10 monitoring stations around the Los Angeles basin.

Stray Cockatoo Found Unharmd

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cockie the cockatoo is back in his cage today, safe and sound.

The bird valued at $3,500 by owner Coulson Glick disappeared while on display with other birds March 27 at a television studio.

Glick, who rents tame birds to movie studios, said a telephone caller told him last Saturday that Cockie was in North Hollywood park—in a box. Glick rushed over and found the Australian import unharmd.

Churchman Regards Marriages As Top U.S. Spiritual Failing

By GEORGE CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — The No. 1 spiritual failing of Americans today, says Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, is right in their own households:

"Marriage"

"Couples don't give each other essential respect and esteem any more," he said. "There's too much talk about 'lovin', and not enough about respect for each other in sovereign human souls."

Dr. Peale, the country's foremost counselor of self-fulfillment through "positive" faith, said more than half the approximately 6,000 letters he gets from people each week are about marital troubles. "So many of them just haven't got moral stamina," he said.

Three Bootleg Cases Saturday

Pitt County ABC officers, members of the Sheriff's Department, Greenville and Winterville Police handled three cases involving bootleg liquor Saturday.

Among them were Bud Streeter, colored, arrested at his Winterville home Saturday night when officers found one and a half gallons of illegal spirits. He was released under $200 bond for County Court Tuesday.

Willie Davis was arrested at Pactivus behind the Pactivus Inn Saturday with a quantity of bootleg whisky which he admitted he was selling at 25 cents per drink. He was recognized for County Court Tuesday.

A third Negro, Johnnie Banks, of 621 B. Allen Alley, was arrested when caught pouring a pitcher full of bootleg whisky down the sink. He told officers that he, along with some 35 guests, were having a fish supper but investigators found no fish. Banks was released under $200 bond for City Court today.

Also arrested at the same address was one William Berry, who was found to be carrying a pair of brass knucks. Bond was set at $100.

"Wives complain that their husbands are moody or mean, and they wonder if they have any obligation to stick with it. Or they say, 'He doesn't amuse me any more.' They need to realize marriage is a binding spiritual compact."

If they don't, he said in an interview, the institution seems headed into a forest of wreckage and heartbreak. He said one of the best remedies is "to bring the family altar back in the home."

Dr. Peale, whose printed sermons, articles, syndicated columns, books and busy lecture schedule already reach millions, starts a new project today to give advice to the worried and distressed — "to help people."

He will be on a regular commercial sponsored radio network NBC has scheduled the program at 10:05 a.m. EST.

Proceeds will go to the National Council of Churches, and to the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry, which he founded and whose staff of 20 Christian psychiatrists provide free counseling.

In addition to the shaky condition of many American marriages, Dr. Peale said, the country's population also is suffering from a widespread, and menacing disease — "anxiety and tension."

It is passed on to children by "timorous parents," he said, and robs millions of their potentialities. He sees confident faith, and positive belief that Christ will help you through difficulties, as the need of an anxious age.

Sometimes criticized as presenting Christian faith and "positive thinking" as a key to worldly success, Dr. Peale said any such interpretation is a distortion.

"Any minister who presents faith in God as a way of material success is not being compatible with Christianity," he said. "It is the way of being successful as a person, of surmounting inner weakness and pride and sin."

Any improvement in your earthly status that results, he said, is strictly incidental. But if that is your motive, he added, you don't have Christian faith anyhow.

Dr. Peale said he believes the great spiritual yearning now evident in this country will mean "this generation will go down as a tremendous spiritual milestone in the history of the world and the Christian faith."

Tell Her It's MURDER

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
McKee left the Pelham house and returned to the inn, where Todhunter had been busy collecting, sorting and correlating information. The divorce between Trout and Regina Pelham was in order. Monica Davies, contacted at her home in southern California, verified Trout's two-day stopover on his way east. There was more than that. A security man out there, with whom McKee had had dealings, and to whom Todhunter had just finished talking, came through with additional information. To be Davies, the dead flier's wife and Henry Trout's cousin, was, or rather had been, a mental case. Todhunter added that there was a history of insanity in the family.

Horton rang up. He had a witness who had seen Henry Trout post a letter in the box at the inn at 8:15 the night before and return up the driveway. If it was of any interest to the inspector, it was of extreme interest. A letter? The clerk woke up at that. He had forgotten it, but Mr. Trout had asked for a three-cent stamp when he ordered dinner over the phone and the stamp had been sent in with the meal.

"One stamp?"
"Yes, sir, one stamp."
The Scotsman looked at the clerk. Almost 30 hours lost. In Todhunter's room he called Center street, got the telegraph bureau. He said, "Hello, Charlie," and put his request. Trout's business in Vancouver apparently had a legitimate basis—for a starter the banks in Vancouver and in New York were to be contacted concerning an account in the name of Henry Trout, either an account already in existence or one to be opened with a check endorsed for deposit only. He paused, and added, "While you're about it, you might make that a double job in the city."

He gave Regina Pelham's name and address.
That was 3 o'clock. The break came at 9 that night. Redgate phoned asking the inspector to go over to him. McKee went, and the entire case blew up with a bang.

"Sit down, inspector. This is going to take a few minutes. I'd better brief you first."
McKee sat down. Admitting him, Amy Redgate had looked shaken.

If anything, Redgate looked worse, but his control was better. Lamplight, the quiet little room, all white with surgical cabinets around the walls, Redgate in the high, white bed. A woman somewhere sobbed violently. It wasn't Amy Redgate.

Redgate said, "It's Mrs. Casserly inspector. First, I want to tell you what I know about her. She's a thoroughly good, honest, solid person. Her husband left her badly off and she had to take up her profession again when she was well over 40. She's worked for the Pelhams since Regina was a girl. I had no suspicion until Susan Dwight brought her here a little while ago. Amy's giving her some coffee, trying to straighten her out."
"Mrs. Casserly's a secret drinker, doctor?"
"Yes, I gather, from Mrs. Pelham and Miss Dwight, that this is what happened. Your visit to the house earlier today frightened Mrs. Casserly, and she began nipping. She went up to her room at about 3 this evening, and a few minutes later tumbled down the stairs saying her diary was gone. Apparently she kept it in a locked suitcase in her room. The lock was broken and the diary gone, Miss Dwight verified that. At any rate, Mr. Casserly went into a complete tailspin. They thought she was going out of her mind. I couldn't go over there, so Miss Dwight put her in the car and brought her over here. If there's anything in what she told me—"

Redgate paused. He rang a push bell. "You have to listen to her and judge for yourself."
The door opened and Amy Redgate led Mrs. Casserly in, pulled up a chair and put the tall nurse into it. She was a doll with damaged joints, coming apart at the seams. Her eyes were empty. She didn't seem to know quite where she was, or care. She said, "Tis right I tell you, I know I'm right. I tried to kid myself, but it's no use..." Tears rolled down her cheeks.

McKee sat motionless. Redgate said in a kind, firm voice, "Lulu, pull yourself together. Tell the inspector what you told me, and then everything will be fine and you won't have to worry any more."
Mrs. Casserly began to talk, slowly at first and then faster and louder, with interpolations by Redgate.

"It was that cocktail Barry Lottling mixed that afternoon."
"The afternoon before Regina was to have been married, inspector."
"It was a horrid, bitter tasting thing, I poured it into the pot of tulips. Then afterward to keep myself up—I was awful tired and my feet were killing me, I took— I took some sherry in the pantry, just three glasses, small ones. It was because I didn't have any dinner. I would have been fine except for that, but everything was at sixes and sevens... I went to bed early. Roger was all right. I left the door between our rooms open."
She paused, kneading her hands together. "I woke up in the night and the door was closed. Maybe I heard it close I didn't think anything about it, but I must have got up. All I know is that I was at the window looking out. I could see the moon and the trees and the drive way. There were a lot of shadows. And there was a car there. It was standing still at the top of the drive, just its nose sticking out. Then I saw the man carrying the bundle. His back was to me but he made a big shadow. Feet came out of the bundle. They dangled. I thought that's Roger—and I ran out on the terrace. I heard the car start, it didn't make any noise, just the gravel popping. Soft. But it was all black by that time and I couldn't see. I must have fallen down then, because when I woke up it was getting light and I was lying on the terrace and I was stiff as cold, and I went inside and went back to bed and when I woke up in the morning Roger was dead."

Mrs. Casserly paused. Her mouth worked. Then she went on.
"I thought it was a dream. I wrote down in my diary that it was a dream. Mr. Andrus ran over Roger in his car and went to jail. And then he came back and Susan said he didn't do it. I didn't know what to think. Edith Pelham tried to steal my diary, nasty sly thing, but I had it locked up. Last night somebody broke open my suitcase and stole the diary, and then I knew that it wasn't a dream. I killed Roger. I could have saved him and I didn't, so I killed him." She broke into a passion of tears. The doctor looked at McKee over her bent head.
"Do you believe, inspector—?"
"Wait."

RUSHED HIM
BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) hobbled off a plane on a cane last night. He told reporters that when he picked up a newborn pig at his Poolesville, Md. farm Saturday, the sow rushed him and sprained his right leg. He came here for a Senate committee hearing on a federal Hell's Canyon dam.

Charm School For Employees Of Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whether they like it or not, 18,000 municipal employees are going to charm school. Civil Service commissioners yesterday decided to make attendance compulsory, but since the charm will be dispensed during working hours the City Council must approve the decision.
City employees, their supervisors and general managers and members of the police and fire departments will be the students. They will be taught public relations, office courtesy among themselves and to visiting taxpayers, how to handle difficult situations with "crackpots," and how to say no politely, yet firmly.

So says Joseph W. Hawthorne, general manager of the Civil Service Department, who suggested the school.
In the curriculum will be tips on giving the pleasant brush-off to unwanted visitors.
KILLED BY FISH
NUMAZU, Japan (AP) — Fusataro Goto, 47, landed a 4 1/2-foot, 300-pound scombroid yesterday in Suruga Bay and drove in a harpoon for the kill. The mackerel-like fish jered in a death flip. The harpoon struck Goto on the forehead, killing him.
BUY FACILITIES
TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has purchased the postal, telegraph telephone and rest houses owned by India in Tibet for 216,828 rupees. Peiping radio said today. The broadcast, heard here, said the property changed hands yesterday.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A moderate advance in the stock market today was accompanied by a slightly expanded business pace.

The rise carried prices up around 2 points while losses throughout the list went to about a point.

Trading hit a rate slightly in excess of Friday's total of 2,600,000 shares.

Today's market started out higher and then ran into some profit-taking that punched only a few holes in the price structure. Most major divisions were higher, and there were many individual stocks sought out by buyers.

Better prices were paid for Chile Copper, Consolidated Electronics, Babcock & Wilcox, Campbell Soup, Westinghouse Electric, Dow Chemical, Eastern Air Lines, American Smelting and Refining, American Telephone and Telegraph, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler Montgomery Ward, and Douglas Aircraft.

Lower were Deep Rock Oil, General Dynamics, Allied Chemical, Cingular Tractor, and United Aircraft.

Former Prisoner Of Reds Silent

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—A family friend says Mrs. Adele Austin Rickett, released prisoner of the Chinese Communists, is under "advisement" not to say anything.

Mrs. Rickett, described as "brainwashed" by Hong Kong observers, was greeted by her mother Mrs. Harold Austin, of Yonkers, N.Y., on her arrival by ship in San Francisco yesterday. Friends hurried her away.

Mrs. Austin expects to fly to New York soon with her daughter. Mrs. Rickett's husband Walter, a medical student, still is imprisoned in Communist China.

Harry J. Strugnell, who took Mrs. Rickett and her mother to his home here, told reporters last night through a front-door peephole:

"There will be no statement from Mrs. Rickett."

Strugnell brusquely turned away all requests for interviews with the 35-year-old former Wave. She was expelled as a spy from China Feb. 27 along with Malcolm Bersohn, of New York, in Hong Kong, both professed "shame and remorse for our crimes against the Chinese people."

Mrs. Rickett countered all questions with wordless smiles.

A friend of China days, James Parsons, now an instructor in Oriental languages at the University of California at Riverside, came here to greet Mrs. Rickett.

"She seemed very normal—just like herself to me," he said. "I didn't try to discuss politics with her. She said she hadn't seen Walter, her husband, since they were both arrested in 1951."

MacArthur Wants Full Yalta Record Told

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur says he will agree to the release of documents dealing with "responsibility for the Yalta decisions" only if the record is released in full.

"I would be wholeheartedly in approval . . . to have published all documents which bear upon responsibility for the Yalta decisions," he declared in a statement last night. "But," he added, "I would deprecate most inequally a partial and selective release."

The wartime Far Eastern military chief referred to the requested release of certain Army documents and messages dealing with the war against Japan.

Publication of these records was sought after MacArthur denied statements that his advice had prompted concessions to the Soviet Union in order to enlist that nation in the Pacific war. These concessions were made by the United States and England at the Yalta conference in February 1945.

The Army on Saturday announced it had boosted the security classification of MacArthur's wartime message file and other documents and was leaving a decision on their release to the Department of Defense.

MacArthur said he wants the whole record released — if at all — because he understands that the Defense Department is now being asked to release only selected documents dealing with plans for implementing the Yalta decisions. He said this release would exclude "the documentation which preceded the Yalta decisions and which alone might cast light upon the responsibilities involved."

Such partial release, the general added, "could only result in added confusion in the public mind concerning the issue under discussion, which is the responsibility for the Yalta decisions."

In an editorial on March 25 the Washington Post and Times-Herald challenged MacArthur's denial of any responsibility for the Yalta concessions. The newspaper said the general was known to have pleaded "for concessions to get Russia into the Japanese war."

Similar statements were made in Congress by Sen. Lehman (D-N.Y.).

He said military advice given to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill at Yalta came from the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the respective countries. He continued: "The estimate of these chiefs of staff that the war with Japan would last for 18 months after the Soviet had entered was at complete variance with my own publicly announced estimate of Japan's growing weakness. . . .

"Indeed, so confirmed was my belief in Japan's early defeat that discussions were held at my headquarters concerning the possibility of finishing off Japan even before the close of the European war."

MacArthur has previously stated he felt Russia should have entered the war against Japan after the attack on Pearl Harbor. He said he urged such a step in a message to Secretary of War Stimson on or about Dec. 13, 1941, but received no reply.

Russia was finally brought into the Japanese war under the Yalta agreement, which provided that it declare war on Japan within three months after the end of the war in Europe. The war in Europe ended May 7, 1945, and Russia entered the war against Japan Aug. 8. On Aug. 14 Japan surrendered.

In the editorial disputing MacArthur's denial of any responsibility for the Yalta concessions, the Washington Post and Times-Herald cited a section of the late James V. Forrestal's diary.

The diary of the then secretary of the Navy reported a talk between Forrestal and MacArthur two weeks after the Yalta conference. It said MacArthur at that time discussed the planned invasion of Japan and urged that "as many Japanese divisions as possible be maintained, principally by Soviet forces."

MacArthur denied making such a statement to Forrestal.

Major Gen. Courtney Whitney ret., MacArthur's aide, challenged the authenticity of this section of the diary and suggested that if Forrestal actually did dictate it, he might have been suffering from mental illness.

The St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times, in a copyright article last night, quoting two persons close to Forrestal at the time as vouching for the authenticity of his diaries.

The newspaper said Miss Katherine Foley, former confidential secretary to Forrestal and now a resident of St. Petersburg, told a reporter, "There's not the slightest doubt of the authenticity of the Forrestal entry." She described the suggestion that Forrestal had been mentally ill as "ridiculous."

The newspaper also said it had talked by long-distance telephone to a stenographic reporter who accompanied Forrestal on the 1945 Pacific trip during which he met MacArthur. It said the reporter, H. C. Oberlander, who was reached in Kansas City, said he was sure the diaries as published were accurate.

Opening Session Today Of Food Service School

Second annual Food Service School opened here today with local restaurant operators and their employees attending the sessions in the recreation room of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Meetings will continue through Wednesday.

Two identical sessions were held this morning and afternoon with M. M. Melvin, executive secretary, N. C. Restaurant Association, the principal speaker. Melvin's topic was "Good Housekeeping, As It Relates to the Restaurant Industry."

A movie entitled "Stowaway," illustrating food handling practices, was also shown.

W. M. Pate, chief sanitarian with the Pitt County Health Department, is presiding over the meetings. Mayor W. L. Whedbee gave the address of welcome and Dr. Walter C. Humbert, director of the local health department, explained the purpose of the school.

The school is designed to promote better understanding of food and health practices, and it is being sponsored by the Pitt County Health Department and the North Carolina State Board of Health in cooperation with the restaurant operators of Greenville and Pitt County and the North Carolina Association of Quality Restaurants, Inc.

Morning sessions are held from 9:30 until 11 o'clock and afternoon sessions from 3:00 until 4:30.

Tomorrow's speaker will be W. A. Broadway, district sanitarian, N. C. State Board of Health, who will discuss "Food Handling Practices and Personal Hygiene." On Wednesday C. B. Bissette of Greenville will speak on "Equipment—Its Use and Care."

Local Debaters Placed Second In District Tourney

Greenville High School's National Forensic team placed second among the North and South Carolina teams participating in the Second annual Carolina District Tournament sponsored by the NFL in Raleigh Friday and Saturday.

As a team, the Greenville speakers ranked second with 35 points. Edmund High School of Sumter, S. C. was first with 37 points.

In individual events, second place ribbons were awarded Tommy Bodkin in original oratory; Nancy Harris in oratorical declamation; and Gayle Clapp in dramatic declamation. In the dramatic declamation and humorous declamation divisions Pat Baker and Martha Jane Pierce won third place awards.

Greenville debaters won two debates and lost four. Affirmative debaters, John Brooks and Tommy Bodkin, defeated Sumter's negative; and Greenville's negative team, Mary Ann Bryant and Martha Pierce, was victorious over Broughton of Raleigh.

Robert B. Stirling of the local high school faculty, and Mrs. Stirling, accompanied the Greenville group to Raleigh.

Longshore Union Asks For Congressional Investigation

NEW YORK (AP)—William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), has asked for a congressional investigation of waterfront labor-management relations in the port of New York.

Relation between the Union and the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor also would be investigated under Bradley's proposal.

Bradley said last night he had asked the investigation in a telegram to Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N.C.), chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

In Washington, a committee spokesman said the telegram would be referred to Bonner on his return to the capital from his home at Washington, N.C., where he is staying over the Easter recess. The spokesman said no action would be taken meanwhile.

Bonner could not be reached immediately for comment at his North Carolina home.

The union chief said he wants the committee to determine the cause of the continuing unrest in waterfront labor ranks.

Bradley also said that Vincent A. G. O'Connor, city marine and aviation commissioner, and Daniel Gutman, counsel to Gov. Averell Harriman, have assured him of support in efforts to prevent further discord on the waterfront.

Bradley said Saturday that the threat of a walkout today had been lifted as a result of meetings of union leaders with representatives of the Waterfront Commission and of the New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 shipping and stevedoring companies.

He said the union would not call a strike in protest against the commission's new employment regulations, which went into effect April 1.

He said he is convinced that the commission is "sincere in its effort to reconcile, as far as possible, the new rules with the union's contract with the employers."

Union leaders and rank-and-file members contend that the new hiring regulations threaten the union's collective bargaining rights and give the New York-New Jersey Commission too much power.

Israel Charges New Egyptian Aggression

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel announced today she will ask for a special session of the U.N. Security Council to complain about "recent Egyptian acts of aggression" on the Israeli-Egyptian border.

The announcement from a Foreign Office spokesman followed renewed fighting on the Gaza strip yesterday in which the U.N. Truce Supervision Commission said two Israeli and two Egyptian soldiers were killed.

Each nation blamed the other for starting the latest Gaza skirmish, which developed into a 90-minute mortar-machine gun battle.

The Foreign Office spokesman said Israel would charge Egypt with aggression in a grenade attack on a wedding party at Patish March 24 in which a woman was killed and 23 persons injured, a number of nine incidents along the border of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip and the clash yesterday.

The council March 28 censured Israel for its army attack Feb. 28 on Egyptian troops near Gaza in which 37 Egyptians and 8 Israelis were killed.

Egyptian officials in Gaza gave this account:

Three truckloads of Israelis crossed the armistice line near the headquarters of the United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission and began spraying the Egyptian post with automatic fire.

Later the Israelis and Egyptians were reinforced and both sides used mortars.

As darkness fell, the Israelis withdrew.

mediately for comment at his North Carolina home.

Victim Survives Bullet In Head

A man, shot in the head with a .22 caliber rifle during the week and lived to tell the tale, although he is confined to a Lenoir County Hospital today.

The injured man is Jessie Earl Gardner and he was alleged to have been shot by William Slade Green of Ayden Route 3.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the shooting took place in the St. John's section Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock. The sheriff said this morning that Gardner's condition is not believed to be serious.

Complete details of the shooting are not known, the sheriff stated, but the affray was believed to have taken place during a drinking party.

Green is being held in Pitt County Jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. He is being held without bond pending the outcome of Gardner's condition.

Green, himself, was shot several weeks ago and has since recovered. That case is still pending in the courts. Green gave himself up to Griffin police following the shooting.

Man Locked Up In Guard Armory

Pedestrians in the vicinity of the National Guard Armory at Evans and Second Street heard cries for help coming from the building late Saturday afternoon.

A call to police headquarters brought a patrol car and a National Guard official with a key to the armory huddling to the scene.

"I'm glad to see you," said a relieved Ayden farmer to the group as the door swung open. He explained that he had found the door open and wandered in to see if a dance were to be held that night.

When he returned to leave by the same door he found it locked and began his cries for help. The man said he thought he entered the building shortly before 6 o'clock. He was released at 6:20.

Fused National Guard officials said they did not know how the door came to be open or how it was subsequently locked.
