Musical Program Presented At Farmville DAR Meeting

On Saturday afternoon, April 2, Mrs. M. U. Jones and Miss Elizabeth Lang were gracious hostesses to the Benjamin May Chapter, D.A.R., at the Chapter House.

The regent, Mrs. H. D. Moye, presided and led the Chapter in the D.A.R. Ritual. Mrs. Moye extended a cordial welcome to guests and members. Mrs. E. Bruce Beasley, chaplain, gave an inspiring and timely devotional based on the Easter story. There is no lovelier message than Christ risen because Christ lives in our lives. Christ made the supreme sacrifice. Each member was urged to ask herself this question, "What am I sacrificing for Him?" The devotional was closed with The Lord's Prayer.

Members joined in the Pledge of Allegiance, which was followed by the singing of the National Anthem with Mrs. Haywood Smith at the piano.

The regent recognized Miss Faye Mewborn and her mother, Mrs. J. M. Mewborn. Miss Mewborn, senior in the Farmville High School, has received the honor of being chosen the Good Citizen from the senior class this year. The certificate and pin awarded by the Benjamin May Chapter, D.A.R., will be presented at a high school assembly. Miss Mewborn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Mewborn, expressed her sincere appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her and it was her desire to live up to the qualifications required of a Good Citizen.

Mrs. J. O. Pollard told members she thought they would be interested in knowing that Walter Noona, 23-year-old pianist, appeared in Norfolk as guest soloist on March 21 with the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra under Edgar Schenkman at the Center Theater. He played the Tchaikovsky Piano Concerto No. 1 in B flat minor, opus 23. The Norfolk-Virginian Pilot, March 13 in a write-up of Mr. Noona, had this to say: "He won four scholarships which enabled him to complete his studies at East Carolina College—one from Norfolk Lions Club, one from Greenville, N. C. Music Club, and two from the Benjamin May Chapter of The Daughters of the American Revolution in Farmville, N. C."

Mr. Noona is now studying towards his Masters of Music degree at the University of Illinois, where he is currently studying with Soulima Stravinsky, son of the composer. Mrs. Moye read an invitation from the N. C. State Society, Washington, D. C. to attend a reception on April 21 honoring N. C. members and delegates attending the National D.A.R. Congress.

Miss Elizabeth Lang introduced guests from East Carolina College. Mr. George Perry, faculty member of the Music Department, Mr. Irving Ennis, senior, and Mr. Richard Tomlinson, freshman, who presented a program of music.

For the first part of the program Mr. Ennis, tenor and voice student of Dr. Hickfang, sang "When'er You Walk" Handel; "Lungi Dal Cara Bene" Secchi; "Sapphische Ode," Brahms; "My Friend," Malotte; "The Homing Heart," Malotte; "When I Have Sung My Songs," Charles. Mr. George Perry accompanied Mr. Ennis.

Mr. Richard Tomlinson, pianist and student of Mr. Perry, played "The Hunting Song" Mendelssohn; "Consolation No. 111," Liszt; and "First Movement-Sonata in C Major, Op. 2 & 3," Beethoven.

Listeners were delighted with the interpretation, technique, and musicianship on the part of those who presented the well-chosen program. Mrs. Allen C. Darden and Mrs. Dewey Piquay assisted the hostesses in serving a delicious salad course and hot coffee.

Refreshments and floral arrangements carried out the spring motif. One of the colonial mantels was decorated artistically with an arrangement of glass in pastel shades and yellow daisies, brass candleholders with yellow tapers and ivy interspersed. On the opposite mantel spring flowers in pastel shades were used at one end of mantel. A pair of antique vases were used at the other. Arrangements of mixed flowers, potted plants, and greenery were used to complete the decoration of the lower floor of the Chapter House.

Members joined in the Pledge of Allegiance, which was followed by the singing of the National Anthem with Mrs. Haywood Smith at the piano.

The regent recognized Miss Faye Mewborn and her mother, Mrs. J. M. Mewborn. Miss Mewborn, senior in the Farmville High School, has received the honor of being chosen the Good Citizen from the senior class this year. The certificate and pin awarded by the Benjamin May Chapter, D.A.R., will be presented at a high school assembly.

Miss Mewborn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Mewborn, expressed her sincere appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her and it was her desire to live up to the qualifications required of a Good Citizen.

Bethel Methodist Circles Meet

BETHEL—Mrs. Leighton Blount, Jr. was hostess to Circle Number One on Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. There were nineteen present and one visitor.

Mrs. Robert Davis gave the devotion and chose as her scripture Matthew 28:1-10 verses. She remarked that in approaching the Easter Sunday Morning, let's keep in mind Christ shared with us his love, faith and hope and gave us an example of Eternal Life. We seek to find those that Christ has shared with us and that we may share with India.

Mrs. H. V. Stator, program chairman, introduced Mr. Tommy House, who gave the fourth and fifth chapters of the study book, "Under Three Flags." He discussed the reaction of India to western customs and the ratio of Christians to non-Christians in India.

After a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. R. L. Goodall, the hostess served a delicious salad plate with Coca-Colas to the guests.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sarah Whitehurst Circle of the W.S.C.S. met on Monday with Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst and Mrs. J. D. Hemingway as co-hostesses.

The spiritual life leader, Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst opened the meeting by reading a poem entitled, "Thoughts." She stated that the kind of thoughts we have show the kind of person we are. A few of the examples of thoughts she gave were jealous, selfish, glad, pure, mean and Holy. She closed her devotion by saying that the best of all our thoughts are those of Christ himself.

Mrs. C. G. Garrenton then reviewed the fourth and fifth chapters of the book, "Under Three Flags." She discussed the problems of Christianity in India, Pakistan and Ceylon and the creeds and denominations of the countries. She ended her discussion by giving several statements of the work which is being done by the churches.

The program was given by Mrs. W. C. Latham who gave the next two chapters in the study book, "Under Three Flags." She discussed the different Protestant Churches uniting to form one church in India, Ceylon and Pakistan.

Mrs. L. G. Manning called the meeting to order after which the secretary, Mrs. C. M. Burton read the minutes. Routine matters were discussed.

During the social hour, angel food cake and peaches with whipped cream was served.

3,000 Children Attended Play

The annual children's play sponsored each year by the American Association of University Women last week closed its four performances of 1955 with a record-breaking attendance of 3,000 children, according to the AAUW's chairman in charge of the project, Miss Louise Williams.

The play this year, "Rumpelstiltskin," produced by the East Carolina Playhouse under the direction of Murrell Kelly, has been greeted by those who have watched the project year after year as one of the best in the twelve-year series.

Another all-time favorite was "Little Black Sambo," presented in the spring of 1944 by the C.H.P. Players under the direction of Clifton Britton.

The series was begun in 1943, during the AAUW presidency of Miss Louise Williams, as a service to the community, with a performance of "Alice in Wonderland" by the Clifton Players-Major Children's Theatre. After the matinee for children, there was such a demand by college students for a night performance on the campus that AAUW members—Miss Williams, Dr. Lucille Turner, and Miss Lois Grigsby—personally underwrote this second performance, and saw it successfully presented.

After this first year, the college players took over the production of the play, with the AAUW advancing money for expenses, publicizing the performances, and making all arrangements with the schools of city and county. For several years, Mrs. C. A. Bowen was chairman in charge; Mrs. James E. Poindexter was chairman in 1954.

The children were registered and then taken to the first grade room where Miss Marion Burton and Mrs. Elsie Nicholson entertained the youngsters with stories, records and refreshments were served. Souvenirs were passed among the group and were taken home with them.

While the children were in the first grade room, the mothers who were present heard a few remarks from Mr. W. C. Latham, the principal, and Mrs. J. D. Hemingway, the nurse. A film entitled "Skiway and His Three R's" was enjoyed and the Elementary Supervisor of Pitt County, Miss Annie Lee Jones, gave a short talk on points for parents to remember during the first and most important grade in school.

The vaccinations will be given on Thursday, April 14, at the Rotary Club and all who have not had them will do so then.

Among those registered on Wednesday were as follows: Jarvis Eugene Briley, Bobbe Sue Martin, Trudie Whitehurst, Jim Taylor, Peggy Womack, Margaret Janell Tetterton, Frances Rowlette, Bobbie Weeks, Lila Jane Bland, William W. Keel, Terry Gardner, Stella Briley, Margaret Alexander, Phil Stanley Andrews, Donnie Carson and Brenda McKeel.

Baptist Circles Met On Monday

BETHEL — A prayer given by Mrs. John Mayo, opened the meeting of the Gladys Keith Circle on Monday afternoon.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. W. W. Taylor who read several verses from the Bible. She discussed the life of Mary and David Livingstone taken from the book, "Dauntless Women". They were missionaries to Africa and she told of the hardships they encountered.

Mrs. C. E. Brown presided at the business session and the community mission secretary reported that cards, visits and covered dishes were sent to the family of the late Mrs. Bland.

The hostess, Mrs. J. T. Martin, served ice cream and cake to the six members.

The meeting adjourned to meet in May with Mrs. W. W. Taylor.

For the past two years Dr. Wilbey has been director of dramatic arts at East Carolina and faculty advisor of the East Carolina Playhouse. Last year he was director of the Greenville Passion Play, community project, and is filling this position again this spring. At present he is cast in the leading role of Mary Chase's "Harvey," which is in rehearsal for presentation in May under the sponsorship of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women and with a cast of East Carolina faculty members.

What More Can Be Added?

The General Assembly resolution setting forth North Carolina's position on school segregation leaves little if anything to be desired.

The resolution sets forth concisely and in no uncertain terms the stand of the legislators and certainly the feeling of the vast majority of the people of North Carolina. A straight-forward statement of fact, the resolution does not leave a margin for misinterpretation by the Supreme Court or any other federal officials, or anyone else for that matter.

Few can intelligently question the validity of the resolution which asserts that "the mixing of the races in the public schools within the state cannot be accomplished and if attempted would alienate public support of the schools to such an extent that they could not be operated successfully."

If integration of the races in public schools is attempted in North Carolina, it will do irreparable damage to the state's educational system. In destroying the state's educational system, the move would cause a chain reaction of social, economic and cultural deterioration from which it would take the state many decades to recover... if indeed it ever really fully recovered.

North Carolina's General Assembly in its current session has, through this resolution

Mistaken Impression

Nobody Cares?

At the March meeting of the Grifton Board of Commissioners, according to the report The Reflector received from the town clerk, the board received the resignation of a police officer. That was all.

At the April meeting, according to the report The Reflector received from the town clerk, the board hired a new officer to fill the vacancy. That was all.

Frankly, knowing the enterprising people of Grifton and the civic-minded members of the board which the citizens have elected, we believe the town fathers have accomplished much more than that in the past two months.

With such meager reports available to others interested in Grifton's affairs, we feel there may be a mistaken impression that nobody cares.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
OUT OF THE TOMB

During the famous trials for war crimes held at Nuremberg after World War II, one of the witnesses was describing his activities during part of the year. Driven from his home, he testified, he had lived for some time in a tomb in a Jewish cemetery in Wilno, Poland. And he had not been alone. Other refugees from the Nazis were hiding in nearby tombs. In a tomb not far from his, in fact, a woman gave birth to a child.

Here, indeed, is a remarkable example of the symbolism which sometimes reveals itself in actual events. We could hardly ask for a better symbol of regeneration, of life-and-of-death, of hope born from despair, than that of an unknown child. Let us hope and believe that our country will never see conditions which force us to hide for our lives in cemeteries. But this symbol still has value. It helps us remember that life is never utterly hopeless—that the darkest hour is often, as the proverb tells us, just before the dawn. Thousands of people now alive can testify that what seemed once like a final calamity in their lives was really the beginning of a new and better existence.

And, of course, this symbol is a reminder of the greater Symbol of life out of death on which all Christian hope and faith stands firm.

Chemists Upset Farm Bloc

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Displacement of fats, oils and sugar in foods and beverages by chemicals, poses such a potential threat to normal agricultural crops that it has aroused the farm bloc on Capitol Hill. Manufacturers cannot yet supply a juicy steak, potatoes and biscuits, but the increasing appearance of synthetic substitutes on the dinner table has aroused the American Farm Bureau Federations and the Department of Agriculture.

Principal target is the continued substitution of chemicals for fats and oils in bakery products, and of chemical sweeteners in soft drinks and canned fruits. The displacement threatens to pile up Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's present surpluses of wheat, fats, oils and similar products, which already run into billions of dollars. Eventually, the tendency could upset the country's whole farm structure.

Unfortunately for opponents of this dietetic movement, the appeal of the new ingredients to a weight-conscious public, especially feminine housewives and purchasers, is greater than is generally realized.

Two important members of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee have introduced measures to this effect. They are J. Percy Priest of Tennessee, Committee Chairman, and Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, ranking Republican on the Committee. Although they hope for action at this session, so many industrial interests would be affected adversely that prolonged and bitter controversy is expected.

It will be another of several rows between urban and the act giving local school boards the full authority over pupil assignment, clearly apprised federal officials of the feelings in this state about the matter of racial integration in the schools. We trust the men in whose hands the situation rests possess the wisdom refrain from further acts which will be far more detrimental than beneficial to many states individually and the United States as a whole.

Forests Do Not Grow In A Year

Devastating losses of literally thousands of acres of timberland to forest fires in recent weeks should spur the people of North Carolina to greater efforts to prevent such losses.

Timber is becoming an increasingly important crop to farmers of North Carolina as it is to farmers throughout the Southern states. If it is to bring to farmers of the state the income it should, it must be protected while it is growing in order that it can be harvested.

If fire had swept through crops of corn, hay, cotton or some other field crops as it has timber in the past few weeks the dollar loss probably would have been greater than the dollar loss to farmers because of the forest fires. On the other hand if field crops had been lost, new crops could have been produced within a year. Not so with timber. It will take 10 to 15 years and perhaps longer to reproduce much of the timber crop which has been lost in forest fires that have left black large tracks in Eastern North Carolina.

Some of the forest fires, authorities have said, were intentionally set. The large majority of them were set through carelessness. Obviously the state and its people, in the interest of protecting the valuable timber crop, must develop more effective measures for coping with both these sources of forest fires.

Such Big Shoes Are Not Easily Filled

Filling the big shoes of Winston Churchill, even as head of the British government—which is only one of the many important roles he has played in world affairs—is an almost impossible task even for Anthony Eden who has been Churchill's understudy for almost 15 years.

Like Harry Truman who ascended to the highest post in the United States at the death of Franklin Roosevelt, Eden will find his new task even more difficult because of the brilliant leadership which immediately preceded him. Unlike Truman, Eden will have the advice and counsel of his predecessor for at least a brief time.

With his intimate knowledge of Churchillian policies which has brought Great Britain to its finest hour in modern history, the new Prime Minister should be able to continue the leadership which has meant so much to the British people. Indeed, Eden should be able to do the job if any man can.

Somebody Told Me

Experience With A Factory

Last night the Passion Play started with a successful production. It lasted only two hours and forty minutes, with a ten minute intermission. If you missed last night, be sure to attend tonight or tomorrow night, Wright Building, eight o'clock.

Lost your faith in humanity? If not wholly, partly? If so, read this experience I recently had with a factory:

The factory wrote: Dear Mr. Edwards: (Mr. Edwards call me) We have a complaint on one of our products (my cost about $35) in your area. Since you are our distributor there, please pick this item up and send it to us for checking, so we may determine whether or not adjustment is due.

So I picked up the particular item in question and it looked like junk. In fact, by mistake the item was promptly thrown away. When the mistake was discovered, the trash man was long gone.

There was nothing left for me to do but make the adjustment to the customer, in spite of the fact that I did not know whether or not it was due. So I told the customer to relax, made the replacement.

Second letter from factory: Mr. Edwards: Some time ago we wrote you about handling an adjustment on one of our products. As we have not heard from you, will you please advise.

Dear Sir: This matter of an adjustment is closed; that is, unless you can supply me with a crying towel. We goofed on this end, threw the item away by mistake and have taken care of the adjustment ourselves.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

WORLD FOOD BANK

(Wilson Times)
The proposal by Senator Kerr Scott of North Carolina to establish a World Food Bank seems to make sense to us.

Most of us in America believe sincerely that there is no system of government in the world which can compare with democracy. Yet, on too many occasions we have talked of the glories of democracy when those listening were hungry. And a hungry mouth doesn't care as much about the glories of democracy or the greatness of any system of government as much as it does about food.

Whereas the communistic countries feed the starving peoples first and then talk to them about the virtues of Communism, we seem to have made a terrific mistake.

Many people feel today that the communistic doctrine has spread to places over the world on account of appealing to human appetites as much as appealing to individual freedom.

C&D Board Has Basically Same Problems As Legislature

By LYNN NISBET

HIGH POINT — Basically the problems of the Board of Conservation and Development are very similar to those confronting the Legislature. The main thing is how to use to best advantage the financial and other resources available, so that the use will serve the most people and produce more money for still larger service.

Holding its spring quarterly meeting here in the heart of the industrialized piedmont C&D board members have been given an on-the-premises view of how industrial payrolls contribute to the whole economy. They have been told, too, how dangerous it is for a community to depend entirely upon one source of income. High Point learned something about that from grim experience and while still claiming the title of the wood furniture capital of the world, there is wide diversity with hosiery and textiles almost challenging furniture for leadership.

The business spirit here is definitely big city, but the social atmosphere has all the elements of the friendly country town. The chamber of commerce, the civic clubs, the banks and the hotels and other individual enterprises combined facilities to make the C&D members feel like their visit was a big event. The spirit was manifested mostly in little things. Like the orchids presented to the ladies by one of the banks, the bowls of fruit and the "look" distributed in the hotel rooms, and other souvenirs from the several plants visited.

In America today we do have farm surpluses. We are paying a big price every day to store foodstuffs. Much of the stored foodstuffs likely will spoil unless steps are taken to do something with it. And from the practical and humane standpoint there is only one thing we can do with it in justice to ourselves. That is, we could make it available to people who want food so much but who are feeling the pangs of hunger every day.

We do not want to give it to communistic nations. We don't believe that Senator Scott has that idea in mind. But there are nations which are not in the Red dominated countries whose people are hungry. We'd rather see those people get that food and use it rather than see it spoil and be no good for man or beast.

We have farm programs which are designed to give the farmer a certain price for his products. If the consumer price falls to below the government price, then the government takes the commodity. As a result we have accumulated huge warehouses of foodstuffs. And being in storage the food is doing no one any good. Butter, wheat, corn, cheese and other dairy products, and numerous other products are stored under the surplus farm products program.

We don't know much about the organization and administration of Senator Scott's proposal. But the idea seems sound. It seems humane. It seems that if followed that the United States can build enormous goodwill through satisfying appetites of hungry people. And we need to realize that in this world today there are hungry people.

A World Food bank might not offer a complete answer to the problems of the world. Indeed it might not offer much of an answer at all. But mankind is apt to feel kindly toward his fellowman who feeds him.

And we can build great goodwill by feeding the stomachs before we try to feed the minds.

And I thank you.

Business Today

Cross-Coupons

By ELMER ROESSNER
Cross-coupons by big companies constitutes a menace to small business, the Senate Small Business Committee alleges in its annual report. (Other phases of the report were discussed here yesterday.)

Cross-coupons, consists of adding to one package a coupon good for a discount in purchasing another product, such as coupons in coffee tins good for a dime discount on a margarine. The report disclosed that the committee has thrice asked the Federal Trade Commission to speed its investigation of cross-coupons.

"Cross-coupons, coupling as it does price cutting with a tie-in sale, seems to represent a competitive potential which, if realized would seriously cripple a large segment of small business," the committee stated. It said it disapproves of simple couponing, but it regards cross-coupons even more insidious because it permits two or more companies to pool their resources in a price-cutting arrangement that seriously injures competitors.

The committee appears to have confused bigness with enterprise in this matter. There is nothing to prevent two small manufacturers from working out a cross-coupons deal. Each could include in his product a coupon good for a few cents off in the purchase of the other's item. A small coffee roaster, if he has the imagination and initiative—can arrange with a small cheese-maker to include "cross" coupons in each other's packages. In fact, such deals have probably been made. Certainly, they have worked on even lower economic levels. There have been one-man shoe repair shops that have given chits good for a free soda at the neighborhood drugstore, while the druggist gave coupons good for dimes off on full resoling.

And straight couponing is simply another form of sampling, one of the oldest kinds of advertising—one practiced at roadside apple stands as well as in promotions of giant companies.

It is true that a large company may be able to advertise its coupons more widely than a small one. Surely, the committee would not intend to limit advertising because one firm can buy more than another. Therefore it seems strange that it should attack couponing simply because large companies can put more money into it.

PERIPATETIC TELLER EASES BANK'S JAMS

A mobile teller's cage—with a mobile teller, of course—has been devised to relieve Friday congestion in a Westchester, N.Y., National bank.

When the lines grow long, the cage is wheeled out in the middle of the floor to speed transactions.

USDA TRIES FOR MORE AND LESS POTATOES

The Department of Agriculture is urging farmers to reduce their planned planting of potatoes. If present plans are carried out it means the crop may be 8 per cent above requirements wrecking prices.

And while the department is advising farmers to grow less potatoes it is also working on the eradication of the golden nematode to increase potato yields.

Tax Cheating On A Mass Scale

By STAN SWINTON

ROME (AP)—Beating the income tax is a national sport among the rich of Italy and France. Mass cheating costs both governments untold millions. Each has tried to crack down, with limited success.

The American taxpayer has a stake in this situation as he prepares his tax return—with no cheating permitted—for the April 15 deadline. Part of his tax goes for foreign aid, and he can ask, "Why should my money go to help countries where the rich often dodge taxes?"

The U.S. government agrees there's no justice in that. It has used its influence to encourage tax reforms in these countries. The French and Italian governments' agents too—but look at their problems.

Gina Lollabrigida is probably the highest paid film star in Europe. She declared an income of $4,800 last year. The government estimated her minimum earnings at $40,000. That's sheer gallantry if you credit a private estimate in the film industry that she may have taken in as much as $350,000.

Handsome actor-director Vittorio de Sica told the tax man he earned $16,000. The collector thought $64,000 was about right. An authoritative Italian source says De Sica probably made $900,000.

Blue-blooded Prince Alessandro Torlonia declared $17,200 income—somehow short of the $1,279,800 the tax man estimated.

How do they get away with it? In Italy the present tax law has no provision for sending tax dodgers to jail. In France, cheaters who are caught get off with fines, almost invariably.

More never are caught. The basic problem is more complicated. The income tax is old stuff in the United States, which derives over 80 per cent of governmental income from individual and corporation income levies. Here the rich always have been powerful and most revenue comes from hidden taxes, taxes that hit the poor harder proportionately than the rich. Only in recent decades has the balance of power shifted and the tax structure been modified.

France collects only about 25 per cent of national revenues from income tax. Hidden taxes on industry, food, sales and the like make up the rest.

Italy picks up about one-sixth of the government income from direct taxes. The bulk comes from a three per cent tax on every transaction in the country, national monopolies on salt and tobacco and similar levies.

Leaders in both countries recognize that income taxes are a fair way to apportion the cost of government on the basis of ability to pay. The public is hard to convince, however. Lattis prefer to pay in dribs and drabs.

Actually it costs them as much or more under the present system. The over-all tax burden in Italy is 27 per cent of gross national product. In France it's 31 per cent.

There is some excuse for the rich. In some cases, if an honest man paid all the indirect taxes and the full income tax, he could go broke. The tax rate anticipates cheating in declarations. In France, for example income tax rates for the middle and upper brackets are higher than in America even despite the tremendous additional burden of indirect taxes.

The tax collection system encourages bribery and evasion, too. Many a tax collector is a $150-a-month civil servant. Temptation is great.

Moreover, Europeans don't talk about their incomes the way Americans do. Nobody ever really knows how much a rich man has.

Complete books are rare. Often the honest collector estimates wealth on the basis of the number of yachts, grand pianos, Riviera villas and sports cars he can trace to the tax payer. It's a grim picture—but not a hopeless one.

Italy expects to have a new law that books this summer instituting jail sentences of up to six months for major tax evaders. The average taxable income declared by Italians tripled between 1951 and 1954—strong evidence the higher income groups are being more realistic in their declarations. The number of returns rose during the same period.

France has had less of a crack-down on income tax payments, but both countries are trying to extract more of their taxes from the rich. Each is meeting resistance from the citizenry.

the people, who must foot the tax bill, generally agree with both views; which is one of the inconsistencies inherent in democratic government—perhaps also inherent in human nature. The point is that development of resources, natural and human, the education of youth and the advertising of the advantages offered by North Carolina all cost money and a lot of it. The problem facing all the agencies is to use this money to best advantage so as to make more money available for still further utilization and enjoyment by all the people. It isn't an easy job, but the State has many able people sincerely working on it.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography's role as a universal language is impressively demonstrated in an exhibition now on view at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. More than 500 photographs from 68 countries combine their story-telling, visual voices to tell the dramatic concept of "The Family of Man". It was conceived, directed and produced by Edward Steichen, the Museum's Director of Photography and his staff, with selections from 257 world wide photographers.

The undertaking has been in progress for more than two years and Steichen estimates he has looked at some two million photographs, here and abroad, with this exhibit in mind. From these, about 10,000 photos were set aside for closer consideration and painstakingly whittled down to the final selections. These are shown in unusual displays, designed by an architect, which fill the entire second floor galleries of the Museum.

In a nutshell, all the photographs add up to symbolic views of man—his moods, his emotions, his activities—from the cradle to the grave. They are photographic symbols because they pertain to all men, all women and all children everywhere.

Lovers in New York's Central Park are as affectionate as lovers among the Australian aborigines; a bride in France is as radiant as a bride in India; children hold hands and play ring-around-the-rose in Israel, Spain, China, Italy; workers toil and their sweat is recorded in a U.S. steel mill and in the Belgian Congo; mother love is as ecstatic in the tropics as it is in the land of the Eskimos. All these and other characteristic moments of life have been seen by hates, sorrows and man's cruelties are included.

A pictorial climax is reached when you are led into a darkened room and see a six by eight foot color transparency of the hydrogen bomb explosion.

It isn't the end of the world, however. Outside, a 16-foot mural of the United Nations General Assembly voices hope, through a quotation from its charter, that it can save succeeding generations from the scourge of war and "to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights in the dignity and worth of the human person."

As a final link, the exhibition closes with the hope that lies in our children and their universal games. When they grow up to find romance, the cycle of life starts anew.

The exhibition will be at the Museum of Modern Art through May 8 after which there are hopes that it will be seen in other cities in this country and abroad.

Legislators Are Taking A Look At Own Lobbies

CHICAGO (AP)—Some legislators around the nation are taking a good, hard look at lobbying activities in their state capitals.

Lobbyists, according to Webster's, are those individuals who "frequent the lobbies of legislative houses to transact business with legislators."

But they have become more than that. Now their duties encompass almost anything that might impede or forward bills in which they are interested. This includes attending committee meetings and regular sessions, passing out publicity releases to newsmen giving parties for those who might help and buttonholing legislators on the street or in offices or hotel rooms or anywhere. In some states they are even permitted on the assembly floor.

An Associated Press survey of the 48 states shows that 21 legislatures have contemplated bills regulating lobbyists this year. Of these, 10 apparently have allowed them to die. In the remaining states they are still alive.

Ohio is thinking about a proposal to strengthen its lobby registration statute by tacking on penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fine for noncompliance. This would include failure to file an expense account.

In Tennessee a resolution was adopted calling for a study of lobbying by the Tennessee Legislative Council, a group of legislators who are continually looking into government problems.

Iowa's Senate has a bill which would require lobbyists to register with the chief clerk and show what organizations he represented. This is now done in the House.

Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania is backing a lobbyist control bill patterned after the federal law which requires registration.

Democrats in Wisconsin have introduced two bills which would require lobbyists to report on whom they spent money.

A lobbyist registration bill has been introduced in Texas, but chances for it appear slim.

In Montana, where a bill requiring lobbyists to register was killed, Democrat Eugene Mahoney, majority floor leader in the House, said the lobbyists' bill "was the most lobbied bill in this session."

Democrat Leo C. Graybill, speaker in the Montana House, said, "Those that seem to be opposing the bill, the lobbyists, should be those who are most in favor of it. Lobbying is an honorable pursuit and lobbyists should not be ashamed to register."

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—nity at Pitt, Phil Russo, a 214-pound student arranges them. There's no dearth of dates for members of the Theta Chi fraternity. "I decided to do something to help out. I managed to get dates from student nurses in various hospitals near the campus." Russo charges no fees.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Even Newsmen Disagree About Carney Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—Newsmen who attended a now-controversial briefing with Adm. Robert B. Carney disagreed last night as to whether the chief of naval operations had made a firm prediction of Communist attack in the Formosa Strait.

Carney told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday he had not. He has been named as the source of stories which appeared after a March 24 background session with a group of reporters. Some of these stories, without quoting Carney, said the Chinese Communists were expected to attack in the Quemoy-Matsu island area in mid-April.

After Carney told the Senate group he had not made such a prediction, Robert L. Riggs wrote in a dispatch to the Louisville Courier-Journal that the admiral had so predicted at least four times. Riggs said he took extensive notes at the briefing, in longhand and shorthand, and he quoted Carney as saying at one point the Reds "probably will initiate an attack on Matsu in mid-April."

On the other hand, Paul R. Leach, head of the Washington bureau of the Chicago Daily News, said Carney's denial was technically correct. Leach wrote: "My quotes do not have Carney saying the Reds would make an attack on the Matsus by mid-April, but that they could be 'able' to initiate an attack perhaps that early."

Dan Schorr, CBS radio-television commentator, said his notes conformed fairly closely to those of Riggs. He said Carney was "wrong if he thought he didn't make a prediction."

Marquis W. Childs of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said he did not recall "such a flat prediction." He said Carney spoke rather of a Red "buildup and capabilities."

Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Evening Star, reported a similar impression. William H. Stringer of the Christian Science Monitor said Carney did not make a flat prediction but said "an attack can quite possibly come around the 15th of April or shortly thereafter on Matsu."

James R. Shepley of the Time-Life magazine staff said he did not understand Carney to have picked out an attack date.

The announcement came about when a network program out of New York had been inadvertently cut in on a local broadcast.

The network show was a dramatization of a hurricane story and had no official status.

The station made several announcements during the night to give assurance that there was no emergency.

Brought Back

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Jailer Frank Gregory sleepily answered the door early yesterday and was surprised to see young James Beard, firm in the grip of his mother.

He investigated and found that five of his Negro prisoners had battered through the jail wall under cover of a thunderstorm. Beard was one of them.

The escapees separated after sliding down a blanket rope from the second floor. Beard, 19, went home. His mother marched him right back to jail.

Another of the escapees was caught later but three are still at large.

Dyson, a British citizen, said he first told the Russians he would attend the conference — which opened March 31—if he could obtain the necessary papers.

Later, he said, the immigration service informed him that even the granting of a re-entry permit to the United States would not guarantee he could get back in this country.

U.S. And Soviet A-Bomb Results

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese scientists last night reported finding "hot rain" isotopes indicating that the United States and Russia both exploded thermonuclear bombs coated with uranium jackets in 1954.

Scientists say a uranium jacket around a hydrogen bomb would boost its killing power many times.

Two scientists said they had discovered isotopes of uranium 237 and plutonium 239 in dust and rain which fell collected last May and September in Japan.

They said the isotopes in May probably came from U.S. tests at Bikini; those in September from Soviet tests in Siberia.

Dr. Yusuke Yokoyama, of Tokyo University, said both isotopes would result from the explosion of a natural uranium jacket around a thermonuclear bomb.

Prof. Seitaro Oda, of Niigata University, supported Yokoyama's report. He said he had discovered the isotopes independently in his analyses of dust and rain in May and September.

The reports were made to a conference of more than 20 Japanese scientists called to coordinate findings on radioactive rain.

Physicists Told Skip Conference

NEW YORK (AP)—Two physicists from this country say they were advised by government officials to turn down invitations to a Moscow scientific conference which concludes today.

Prof. Richard R. Feynman, of the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Freeman J. Dyson, of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., said yesterday they first accepted the Soviet invite.

They said no "classified" matters were on the agenda of the Moscow meeting.

But, said Feynman, the Atomic Energy Commission advised him not to go, on the ground it would be an "unwarranted risk."

"There are several reasons why it may have been unwise for me to go" even though theoretical discussions might have been valuable on both sides," he said.

Feynman said he had done classified work on the atom bomb project during World War II, and recently consulted with the Army on a highly classified subject.

 NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing's old staff car, a 1916 Dodge, was unloaded here yesterday. It was discovered in a French junkyard by Dan Parker, vice president of the Parker Pgo Co., who plans to send it on a nationwide tour.

There are two and a half times as many traffic deaths on rural roads as on city streets.

SHELBY — Lots of milk drinkers will "amen" Roy Cochran's statement that "a person can't produce good milk with pastures full of wild onions."

Cleveland County Assistant Agent Jack G. Krause says that Cochran, of the Swainsville community, Mooresboro, Route 1, has embarked on a clean-up drive around the buildings and barns as well as a spraying program against wild onions in order to produce the best milk possible.

Wilson Glum On Signing Checks

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas told a women's Republican group of a recent visit he paid to the office of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

He said he found Wilson signing personal checks, looking "very dour." As president of General Motors, Wilson made well over half a million dollars a year. As defense secretary his salary is $22,500 a year.

Wilson observed wryly: "My wife must still think I work for General Motors."

MALLORY PRESENTS GIFT TO BREWER AT BIG LEAGUE GAME

Members of the East Carolina baseball team, coaches Jim Mallory and Earl Smith and Athletic Director Dr. N. M. Jorgensen were guests at the Red Sox-Phillies major league exhibition double-header in Greensboro Tuesday.

Highlight of the visit was the presentation of a watch to Red Sox pitcher Tom Brewer by Coach Mallory in behalf of Elon College. Mallory coached Brewer while the latter was the mainstay of the Christians' pitching staff several seasons back.

Brewer, in his third season with the Sox, saw limited action last season after an outstanding season in 1953. His performances this spring have been impressive and the North Carolina lad is expected to be one of Mike (Pinky) Higgins' top four chunkers.

East Carolina players were hoping all the way to Greensboro that there would be plenty of fireworks. They saw a great deal more baseball than they ever figured.

The first game ended 11-12 in favor of the Phillies of Mayo Smith in an affair that saw the fences at Memorial Stadium battered in a barrage of home runs. Boston and Philadelphia swung for 20 extra base hits. The Phillies also won the second game which was halted after five innings, 8-2. Jimmy Piersall thrilled the 4,000 spectators with his hitting. He had a pair of homers, a triple and a double, good for seven runs batted in. His double went over the fence but at the point below the scoreboard which was an automatic, ground-rule double. Laurel Hill's Puddin' Head Jones, or Willie if you wish, hit a home run and three singles in the nitecap.

The colorfully-garbed Phillies might have just experienced an "on" afternoon but should they continue their rampage they'll have a better than even chance to win the National League pennant. They have plate potential right down the line from catcher Smokey Burgess to the smooth fielding Granville Hamner.

Robin Roberts, the Phillies ace chunker, wasn't with the team in Greensboro. He flew to Cincinnati to represent major league players in the spring training rules discussions. A lot of the younger set were bitterly disappointed as they sought out the popular hurler for autographs.

Boston has several good-looking rookies. The best of the lot appears to be first baseman Norm Zauchel. The big first sacker has had eight hits in his last 13 trips to the plate for a .615 mark. His over-all hitting average is .340. Higgins is saying the 6-4, 220-pounder could take up the slack left by the absence of fishing Ted Williams.

MICHIGAN SAID TO BE IN REBUILDING STAGE

Although the Wolverines came into Greenville today with a recent victory over North Carolina's Tar Heels and a better than 700 won-lost record over their southern tour, Michigan is supposed to be in a rebuilding stage.

Coach Ray Fisher, who formerly played with the New York Highlanders, forerunners of the present day Yankees, and the Cincinnati Reds, is having a problem replacing Dick Leach, veteran catcher who graduated last year. He has been alternating a pair of sophomores, Frank Szalinski and Gene Snider, the former looking the most impressive.

His two left-handed pitchers, Marv Wisniewski and Dick Patterson are reputedly two of the toughest in college ranks. Wisniewski sat UNC down with only three hits Tuesday.

The Wolverine infield is speedy and experienced. First baseman Jim Yankovich is the only non-letterman. At second is Frank Roman, a terrific little glove man, and at shortstop is Milby (Moby) Benedict, an old standby. Don Easley has been a fixture at third.

Fisher's outfield is headed by Captain Danny Cline along with Howard Tommelin, Tony Branoff, Bruce Fox and Bill Thurston.

Coach Fisher's teams have been Big Ten Conference champions 21 times. Fisher's over-all record at Michigan is 690 wins and 255 losses. The last time the Wolverines won the crown was in 1953. Last year they finished fourth.

A lot of fans were expected to witness Michigan's first appearance in Greenville. The intersectional flavor plus Michigan's big name is a good thing for East Carolina. The Pirates should get a lot of good out of rubbing elbows with the Wolverines, win or lose.

Tiger Jones Is One Boxer Who Saves His Earnings

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ralph (Tiger) Jones, scrappy Brooklyn middleweight, is one of the fight for pay boys who isn't going to be caught short when he retires from the ring.

The 27-year-old boxer, who takes on George Johnson in a nationally televised 10-rounder at the St. Louis Arena tomorrow night, finds place for his ring earnings.

Jones, who turned pro in 1950, said he invested the first $30,000 he made in a trust for him and his family. His wife expects a baby next month, their first.

Then his next $10,000 went to buy a farm for his father in Virginia. Another $10,000 made a substantial down payment on a Long Island home.

Jack Friday Jones' trainer, looked up from bandaging the Tiger's hands yesterday and said: "Ha, I have to borrow money off him, instead of the other way around. He knows where it's going before he ever gets it."

Jones, who will get a $4,000 slice from TV receipts on tomorrow's fight, quipped when talking of the expected baby: "Gotta put something away for the little one, you know."

Early Wynn May Not Be Ready, But Newcomer Is

CHARLOTTE (AP) — One member of the Cleveland Indians' Big Three pitching staff may not be ready for his regular turn when the season opens. That's Early Wynn.

Because of salary differences, Wynn didn't get into uniform until a week after the training camp opened, and two weeks ago he spent five days abed with flu. Now the flu bug has him again and he missed a chance to hurl yesterday at Charlotte. He still hasn't rounded into form.

But if Herb Score, who started for the Tribe in yesterday's 3-2 victory over the New York Giants, can keep up his exhibition game pace, the immediate need for Wynn won't be urgent. Score was touched for a run yesterday in the first inning—the only tally against him in 17 innings of exhibition game pitching. He gave two hits and fanned three.

The Giants and the Indians close their spring exhibition rivalry at Knoxville today. The Tribe has the series lead 9-8 after beating the Giants in 10 innings yesterday.

No admission is charged for the baseball games.

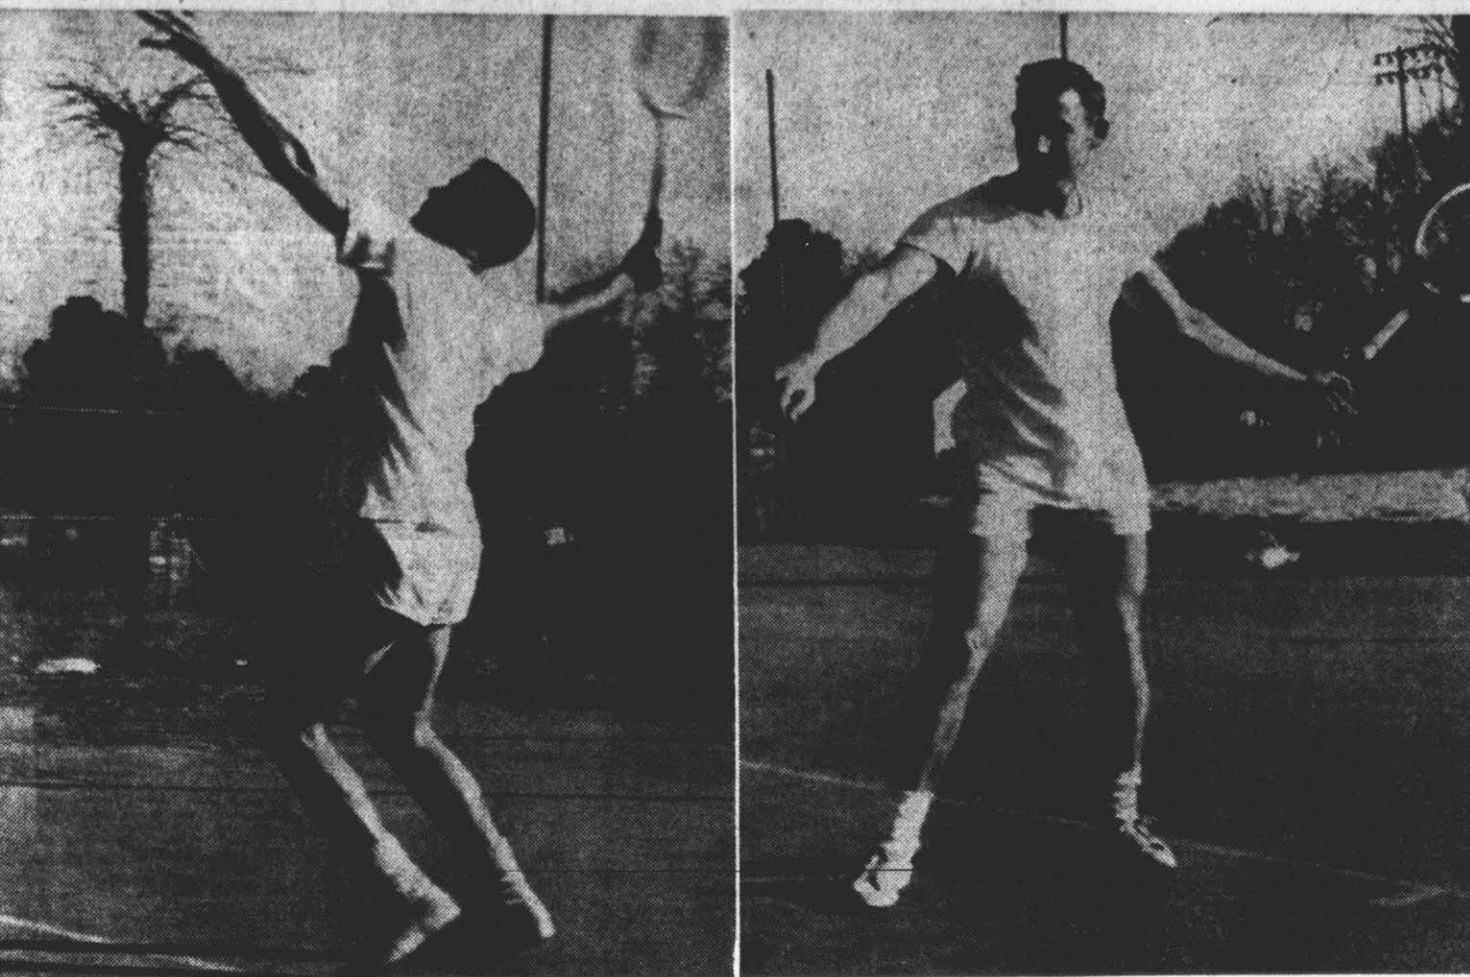

Today, Instead

Greenville's Phantom baseballers, scheduled to play the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets in Guy Smith Stadium tomorrow afternoon, have scheduled their game for today instead. The G-men meet the hard-hitting Yellow Jackets at 3:30 in the local park.

Greenville has a 1-0 conference record so far this year and are hoping to extend their streaks to two straight wins this week. Coach Be Farley's boys dumped Washington 11-3 Tuesday afternoon.

Greenville Golf Squad Defeats Kinston, 98-75

Greenville city golfers downed Kinston here yesterday 98-75 to take over first place in the Coastal Golf Association.

It was Greenville's fifth win in six starts. Their only setback to date was to Farmville. The Kinston win established Greenville as the team to beat for the crown.

Led by the playing of medalist Ercel Webb, Greenville piled up an early lead and led all the way. Co-medalist was Kinston's Roscoe Baker. Webb had a 36-35 for a one-under-par 71 and Baker had a 36-36 for an identical score.

W. L. Allen and Reynolds May also paced the locals. Allen had two 36's for par 72. May, the former city titleholder, had a blistering 35 going out but had a 38 coming in for a 73.

Ben Harrison had a 74 for Greenville. Kinston's Farlow had a 38-36 for a 74 for the losers.

Billy Morton played good golf on both nines to register a 75. Fifteen-year-old Larry Beck shot a fine 37-38 for a 75 in Kinston's cause.

Four Greenville golfers had 76's. They were Simon Moye, Dr. M. B. Massey, Conner Merritt and D. Larkin. Kinston's Pierce shot a 39-36 for a 75 and Ervin had a 38-38 for a 76. Kinston's Worthington also registered a fine round with a 38-36 for a 74.

Four Greenville linksmen had 78's. They included Howard Porter, Dr. J. M. Barrett, Lt. Harold Sulridge and Luther Herring.

Kinston golfers shooting above 76 were Dr. Paul Munsell with a 77, Wooten with a 77, Larkins with a 77, Doug Baker with a 78 and Paul Baker with a 79.

Greenville's next match is with their only nemesis, Farmville, in Farmville on April 13. Greenville will be out to erase their only defeat.

The schedule tomorrow has doubleheaders as today. The four teams in the championship bracket will battle for first and third places in a twin bill under lights at Durham Park Saturday night.

Starter Pete Hochreiter got the victory after being lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

Bad Day At Little Rock For Cardinals' Scrappy Stanky

By ED WILKS

Unless Eddie Stanky really is a changed man this season, $5 will get you $10 the scrappy little manager of the St. Louis Cardinals had his hands jammed in his hip pockets, staring bitterly at the ground and ripping the turf in short jabs with his spikes at the Little Rock ball park yesterday.

Harvey Haddix, his southpaw ace, and the struggling Vic Raschi were belted for a 13-3 decision by the Chicago White Sox.

It was pitching or the lack of it that outweighed the Cards' hitting power and scuttled them in sixth place last season. Haddix particularly had trouble. He was off to a bad start, and then, after gaining his form, he was injured and lost his effectiveness again.

Muddy Track Cut Down Speed Times

Greenville's Phantoms slogged through the mud at Fayetteville yesterday afternoon after a down-pour of rain to run over the Bulldogs track team to the lopsided score of 78 1-3 to 24 2-3.

The win was the second dual win of the season for Coach Bill Kretzl; Phantoms who have dropped one meet this season. The G-men took nine firsts in the meet and allowed the home team to finish in the number one position in only three events.

Terrible Times With Rain

The times for the events were terrible with the track completely muddied under after the hard rains during the morning and afternoon. Most of the track was covered with mud puddles, and the clay track stuck to the shoes of the athletes. The track really was not in good enough condition for a meet, but the Fayetteville officials did not call Greenville until after the Phantoms were well on their way. The teams get a chance to square off against each other on a good track later in the year when Fayetteville comes to Greenville to return the match.

Edwards Takes Three Firsts

Harold Edwards, the junior high-jumper, led the scoring for the day for the Phantoms with three first places and 15 points. Edwards took firsts in the high jump, low hurdles, and broad jump. James Speight scored eight points for the G-men with a first in the 100 yard dash and a second in the broad jump.

Other Greenvilles that won first places were Larry Powell, who took first in the shot put; Bob Shackelford, who took first in the pole vault; Edwin Wilkerson, who took first in the half-mile; Billy Sermons, who took first in the 440; and Wayne Bishop and Fick Arthur, who tied for first in the mile run.

Pete West, Mitchell Johnson, and Tommy Smith also placed high for the Phantoms with points. West picked up seven points while Smith and Johnson were picking up six points each. This all around strength that the G-men displayed was the difference in the meet.

Phants Sweep Distance Runs

The G-men completely dominated the distance runs, taking all nine points in the mile run. Mitchell Johnson, and Tommy Smith also placed high for the Phantoms with points. West picked up seven points while Smith and Johnson were picking up six points each. This all around strength that the G-men displayed was the difference in the meet.

Wilkerson, Ray Hardee, and Bobby Edwards finished in that order in the half-mile while Bishop and Arthur joined hands to whip the field in the mile by a 40 yard margin. The distance runners for Greenville just coasted around in poor time to the poor condition of the track.

The G-men now enter the Duke-Durham Relays in Durham Saturday in one of the hardest tests of the year. Only the top-ranking members of the team will make the trip to Durham. The competition at Durham will come from the top schools in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. A good showing up there is a true test of strength.

CHILEAN NITRATE of SODA is the world's only NATURAL NITRATE FERTILIZER

NATURAL as the crops in your fields, Chilean Nitrate is the only natural nitrate. Guaranteed 42 per cent plant food.

* Richest of plant foods, Chilean's many extra values make it one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers.

* Chilean's nitrogen content is 100 per cent nitrate. Ideal for top-dressing and side-dressing. Free flowing, spreads evenly and smoothly.

* Chilean needs only moisture from the air to dissolve—no waiting for rain—fast, effective action.

* Every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone—an acid-destroying agent. The more Chilean you use, the greater its acid-destroying value.

* Sodium supplements potassium when necessary, substitutes for it—reduces leaching losses of potassium, calcium, magnesium—releases unavailable potash in the soil.

* Sodium increases availability of phosphate in the soil and improves efficiency of applied phosphate.

* Chilean is rich in small quantities of minor elements necessary for healthy vigorous growth—it's the only natural combination of 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements.

Eisenhower 'Soft Talk' Keeping Foes Disarmed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the differences between the administrations of President Eisenhower and President Truman is the difference between fire and rain.

The peppery Truman spouted flame when he got mad enough. He scorched people he thought were showing him around, particularly Republicans in Congress. He had a sharp tongue, and in public he was a lot rougher on Truman the Democrats are on Eisenhower. The Democrats may open up as the 1956 elections draw near. They're showing some signs of it now.

Eisenhower, unlike Truman, holds his tongue and his fire, in public at least. As he says himself, he doesn't get personal. That sort of knocks the ground out — beforehand — from under anyone with a yen to attack him.

Eisenhower dampens his opposition and his critics by being as impersonal and cool as rain. In public, that is. What he says in the privacy of the White House is not known. He is said to have quite a temper.

Even if he had a desire to slug the Democrats, this would be a poor time to try it anyway. He needs their help since they will control Congress until the 1956 elections.

But, while Eisenhower refrains from adding fuel to the fire of his opposition by public and personal criticism, he and his assistants apparently work hard behind the scenes to overcome roadblocks.

A good example was in the recent attempt of some Democrats to give everyone a $20 income tax cut. Eisenhower's administration said the government couldn't afford it. He got enough votes lined up in Congress to vote the day for him.

Truman had trouble with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio). He blasted both of them. They returned the compliment.

For a while after he won the Republican presidential nomination from Taft it seemed Eisenhower might have trouble with him too. But Eisenhower won him over. Taft became his most valuable helper.

Eisenhower had trouble with McCarthy but handled him much differently from Truman, and more effectively. Eisenhower himself has never said a word against the Wisconsin senator. But his aides put the skids under the senator.

The result: Eisenhower is still riding high while McCarthy has been pushed into the background and is still probably trying to figure out what hit him.

To go through the McCarthy hurricane, with his popularity seemingly undiminished, was no mean political feat for a man who has called himself a political amateur.

Eisenhower's career may stand or fall on something not directly connected with politicians at all. For instance, a decision he made on a crisis in Asia might win him re-election or wreck him.

Sinatra's Marriage In Total Stalemate

By ROBERT THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's the status of the Ava Gardner-Frank Sinatra marriage?

"It's at a stalemate," says Sinatra. "She established residence in Nevada, but she never filed the papers for divorce. I don't know what she's going to do."

He left no doubt that the marriage is over, but he's not concerned about a divorce.

"I'm not going to get married," he said. "If I feel the need for company, I call up for a date and go out somewhere. I have no plans for anything serious."

He said plans for him and Ava to costar in "St. Louis Woman" at MGM are definitely canceled. He didn't think it would be a good idea to open old wounds.

He got a laugh out of reports linking him and Gloria Vanderbilt after they had some dates in New York. When a columnist asked if they would marry, Frank cracked. "Sure—and what's the penalty for bigamy these days?" He pointed out that he was still legally wed to Ava and Miss Vanderbilt to Leo Stokowski.

"I found Gloria delightful company," he said. "It was wonderful to hear a woman talk intelligently about music and books. Out here the girls seem to limit their conversation to what's happening in Hollywood and at the race track."

Sinatra lives in a West Los Angeles apartment just five minutes' drive from the home of his former wife Nancy. He visits his children "three or four times a week" and talks proudly of them. They are Nancy, 14, Frank, 11, and Christina, 8.

What does he do for kicks when he's not working?

"I play a lot of golf, especially down at Palm Springs, where I have a house," he said. "I read a lot, now that I have formed my own production company."

He has signed a deal with United Artists to produce a picture a year for five years, starting in three of them. This is part of his plan to make money over a long period rather than all at once.

"My finances are in good shape now," said the crooner, who once owed Uncle Sam $90,000 in back taxes. "But now I've got to find ways to defer my income."

He is looking for a TV deal.

Besides his own company, Sinatra has deals cooking with other studios. Instead of "St. Louis Woman," he may do the Max Shulman story "The Tender Trap." The "It Happened One Night" remake with June Allyson has been mentioned for him, as well as other deals.

But the story he is most interested in is "Teahouse of the August Moon." He would like to play the Okinawan interpreter. It makes no difference to him that Marlon Brando, the Oscar winner and Frank's costar in "Guys and Dolls," is also pitching for the role.

"I think I'm the better type for it," he said. "Six other guys, including some fine actors, were up for Maggio in 'From Here to Eternity' and I got the part."

There you have the secret of Sinatra.

Thought Theft Meant Divorce

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police watched Herman Larsen, 22, burglarize a hardware store and seized him when he came out, his arms loaded.

Larsen explained: "I went in the store so I could get caught. I want a divorce from my wife and I figured this would make her divorce me."

Cancer killed 3,500 children under 15 years old in 1964.

Eden Could Be A Little Difficult

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 WASHINGTON (AP)—An overriding concern to preserve Western solidarity against Russia is likely to dominate the policies of Britain's new Eden government just as it did that of Sir Winston Churchill.

But U. S. officials said privately today Sir Anthony Eden will not do things in the same way Churchill did, and there is no use pretending there will not be some differences in U. S.-British relations.

What these differences are going to be, how they will develop and how they must be handled to prevent unnecessary frictions will be major sources of interest in U. S. conduct of foreign affairs during the next few months.

Authorities here think it quite possible that Eden will seek early talks with top American officials. He might find such an occasion when Secretary of State Dulles goes to Europe for a North Atlantic Treaty meeting in May. He could come here to confer with President Eisenhower, though officials said there is no present plan for such a meeting.

Wife Undergoes 38th Operation

Eden and Churchill have been closely identified for so many years that there is a tendency to consider them identical in motives and reactions. That is not true, according to men who have worked with both of them.

As Prime Minister and foreign minister, Churchill and Eden were accustomed to disagree on many issues. Sometimes U. S. diplomats have to check and recheck both men to learn what was the true British position on some issue.

In general Churchill, the old political pro, has taken a much tougher line on many problems than Eden, the practiced diplomat, was willing to do.

One well-known difference was Churchill's desire for a long time for a big power meeting at what he called "the summit"—involving heads of state. Eisenhower was cool to the notion. So were Dulles and Eden.

On the specific question of relations with the United States, diplomats believe Eden will be just as devoted as Churchill was to preserving the Anglo-American relationship, the foundation of free world alliances.

But Churchill never let others forget he had an American mother. Eden does not have this kind of emotional feeling toward the United States.

Thus he may in the long run be somewhat more difficult for Eisenhower and Dulles to deal with than Churchill was.

Silage Brought Cheaper Cattle

SUPPLY — M. L. Simmons of Ash will disagree with the philosophy always get what you pay for. He says that he fed his herd of 37 beef cattle cheaper this past winter than he did before; they stayed in better condition, too.

Brunswick County Agent A. S. Knowles says that Simmons was able to accomplish this feat by an intelligent feeding program that included silage. This year Simmons plans to cull his herd to about 20. He has already fertilized his 25 acres of permanent pasture and will supplement with small grain, lespedeza, and millet. He will put up 40 to 50 tons of silage.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Blondella Wert is recuperating nicely from her 38th operation and says she is going to live another 50 years.

"I believe this is my last operation," says the cheerful 55-year-old patient in St. Francis hospital. "I don't know what else they could take out."

In the past 22 years, she says, she has gone to surgery in 14 hospitals in half a dozen cities for an assortment of ailments. They include hernia, removal of a kidney, gall bladder, appendix, numerous tumors, a cancer, some of her intestines, both breasts and various other parts of her anatomy.

Don't feel sorry, though. "I've lived an active, useful, happy life so far and I expect to go on living that way," is how she explains the time she spends between operations.

And her doctor says she just might live the next 50 years as she says she will.

"She is doing very well," he said. "She had an ulcer this time and it was necessary to remove a part of her stomach. But she is about ready to go back home now."

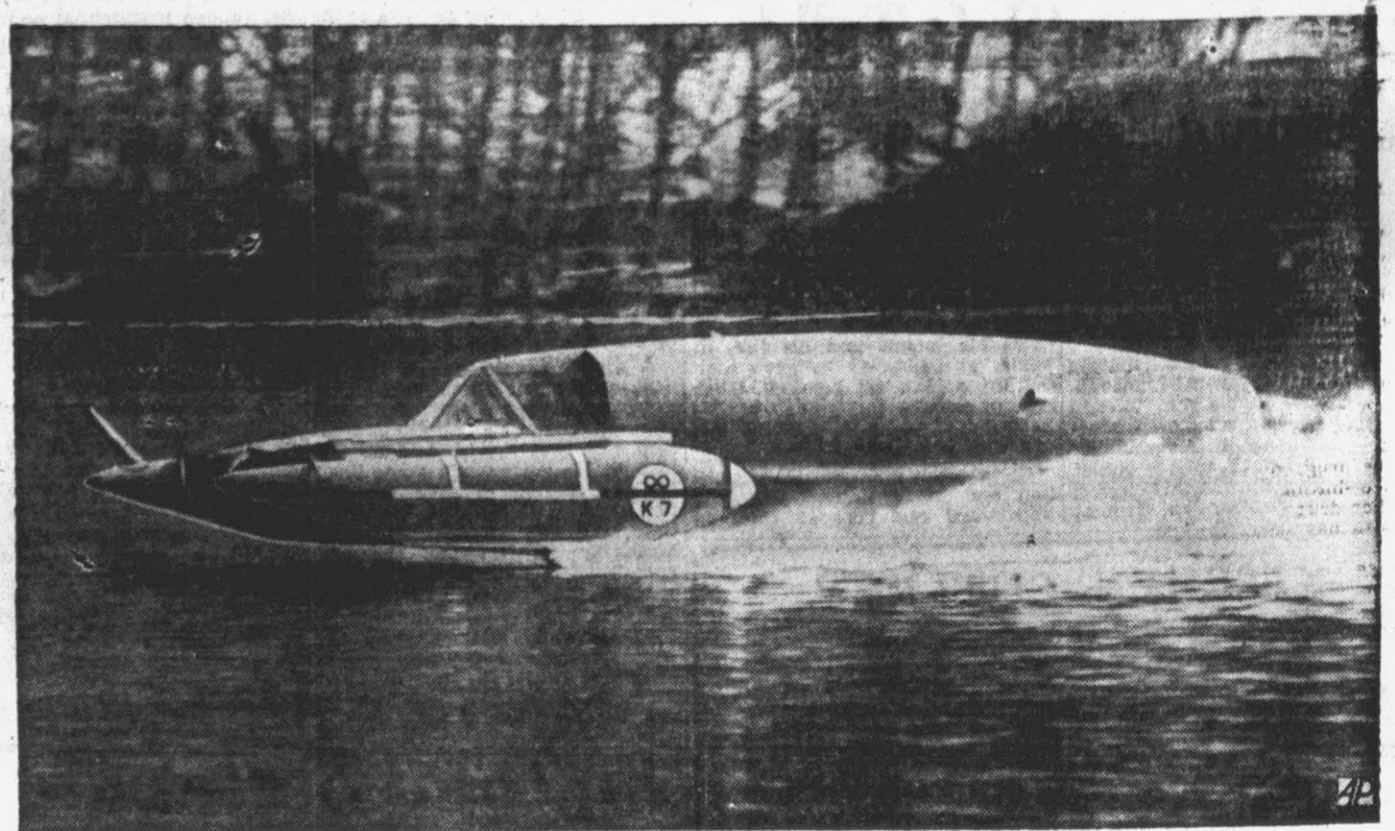

When she is a little stronger, Mrs. Wert expects to go back to work, perhaps as a saleswoman at a department store. That and taking care of her home for her husband P. A. Wert, a telegrapher for the Santa Fe Railroad. (He's only a two-operation man.)

MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages . . .

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Motorama Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built in—not bolted on! And that makes a big difference—not only in how your car looks today, but in how it will look tomorrow, too. Chevrolet's good looks spring from fine, clean, uncluttered design. The beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive bolted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher!
 No other low-priced car has a Body by Fisher—but many of the high-priced cars do. That fact alone tells you there must be something extra special about the style, quality and construction of Body by Fisher. And there is! You can see it, feel it and even hear it when you slam the door.

Today's most modern engines!
 That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. For example, all Chevrolet engines bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. This means quicker cold weather starting and a greater electrical reserve. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry, and develops the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-price field. It takes valve-in-head leadership like Chevrolet's to bring you truly modern engines like these!

A drive to suit your driving!
 You can take your choice of three different drives—and every one's as modern as this minute. There's silky, peppery Powerglide, new Overdrive (both extra-cost options), and a new Synchron-Mesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helpers you want!
 Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles" to make driving as effortless as you wish.

And you can even have air conditioning if you like. These things are extra-cost options, of course, but they more than repay you with extra pleasure.

Fun is "standard equipment!"
 You find that out the first time you take the wheel of a new Chevrolet. Here, you discover, is a car that takes the curves like it's on rails, that steers like it's reading your mind. It seems simply to ignore bumps—and when you stop suddenly, there's no excessive lurching or diving, either. There has never been such a difference in low-priced cars as there is today—or so many good reasons why you should drive a new Chevrolet. Come in and take the key.

Over Ten Million Chevrolet owners—Two Million more than any other car!

One Hundred Hopeless Cancer Cases 'Braked'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A two-fisted new cancer drug has slugged a few of 100 hopeless human cancers with dramatic temporary effects, two University of Wisconsin researchers said today.

Two of these cancer victims are still alive a year later, but this is not a cure and "we don't think we have the right drug yet," they said.

The drug combines the different cancer-killing chemistry of two earlier drugs, making it two-fisted. It also has some very serious setbacks.

Like other drugs, it can damage the bone marrow and blood system. The most spectacular recoveries for a time came in two patients who also developed anemia and later succumbed.

The drug, nicknamed OPSPA, is not available except for cautious experiments on selected patients, they stressed. It is a hopeful signpost toward the goal of drugs which can effectively and safely hit cancers and join surgery and radiation as ways to cure many cancers.

OPSPA is a nickname for a 44-letter drug named oxapenta-methylene - diethylene - thio - phosphoramide.

It was designed by Dr. Charles Heidelberger, noted biochemist, in cooperation with a pharmaceutical firm, Lederle Laboratories. He found it could cure some kinds of cancers in animals. Cancer is not a single disease. There are many types.

Dr. Anthony R. Curreri, professor of surgery and well-known cancer researcher, has directed the tests on human patients. Dr. Curreri, a former Olympic boxer, and Dr. Heidelberger, who leads a dance band of student and faculty musicians as a hobby, summed up the status of the drug for science writers touring cancer centers under auspices of the American Cancer Society.

The drug can slow down or halt some solid human cancers but its effects are spotty, Dr. Curreri said. No cure, it needs much more study to make this, or some kindred drug, less poisonous to the blood system, to learn how best to give it, to learn how and where it works, the surgeon and biochemist pointed out.

They cited these case histories: One woman still alive and apparently well a year later, had an advanced cancer of connective tissue, known as reticular cell sarcoma. She has not had recurrences.

A young man had a melanoma, or black cancer, starting in the scalp. This was removed surgically, but presumably has already started to spread. Melanoma usually spreads and kills rapidly. The man has been apparently healthy up to 14 months later. His cancer did spread, necessitating surgical removal of part of one lung and some areas of skin.

Cures cannot be claimed for either one.

South Pole Trip Plans Developing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A year of construction work and another two years of scientific observations in the antarctic lie ahead for the Navy and civilian scientists.

Detailed plans were announced by the Navy yesterday for the three-year expedition which will be under general supervision of Rear-Adm. Richard E. Byrd, retired. The extent of Byrd's actual participation in the project remained uncertain.

One main observation post is to be built next year and two others, one as near the South Pole as possible, are to be constructed later. Both ships and planes will carry men and supplies to the area.

Capt. George Dufek will command a task force of five Navy ships—two ice breakers, two cargo ships and an oiler—which will set out late this year and arrive in the antarctic in January 1956.

This task force will start construction of a base camp and one snow runway, unload masses of supplies, and start back a month later. A group of 121 officers and men, including a group of specially trained Seabees, will remain there to complete this work.

The first planes will fly in October 1956, and the Seabees will set up the other two observation posts. The construction crews will be flown out then, and the civilian scientists will be flown in.

Crazy, Mixed-Up Weathervane

BOSTON (AP)—An observer called the Boston Herald last night and said the weathervane on the Arlington Street Church was not set properly.

The Herald engaged a weathervane expert, Howell E. Estey, who studied the weathervane and said: "By golly, it is off. East is where north should be."

The Rev. Dana McLean Greeley, the minister, said the vane was installed by New York experts after the original was felled by last September's hurricane.

UAW And General Motors Open Guaranteed Wage Talks Today

DETROIT (AP)—The giants of labor and industry square off today on a union's most ambitious demand since organizing days—the guaranteed annual wage.

The principals are the billion-dollar General Motors Corp., the nation's biggest industrial firm, and Walter Reuther's 1 1/2-million-member CIO United Auto Workers, the nation's biggest union.

The arena is a small room in the massive General Motors Building in midtown Detroit, scene of the start of formal bargaining on a new contract.

Immediately at stake are the fortunes of some 350,000 General Motors employes across the country. But the significance of the negotiations goes far beyond this.

A guaranteed wage plan at General Motors might set a pattern for the entire auto industry and possibly for much of other heavy industry as well. That could have a tremendous impact on the current five-year cost-of-living contract between GM and the UAW expires May 26. Three days later a similar pact covering 140,000 Ford Motor Co. employes runs out.

The UAW plans to concentrate its guaranteed wage fire on these two biggest producers in the industry. Ford negotiations start Tuesday.

If it comes to a strike, the feeling in Detroit labor circles is that Ford would be chosen. The reasoning is that the union couldn't afford a long strike at GM which would cut off roughly one third of its dues besides costing countless millions in strike benefits.

If the course were followed, the UAW could delay a showdown at GM simply by agreeing to a contract extension for a few days.

Neither GM nor Ford has commented directly on the guaranteed wage demand. GM officials have hinted at their opposition, however, by emphasizing the regularity of employment in their plants for years.

The UAW guaranteed wage plan calls for 40 hours pay if an employe works any part of a week. The employe would be guaranteed enough to "maintain his living standards" any week he is laid off completely.

The guarantee would cover 52 weeks for workers with seniority and would be dovetailed with state unemployment compensation.

Other union demands include a wage boost of some 5 cents an hour, an increase in the present 5-cent hourly "productivity" factor, improvements in health and pension plans and other benefits.

The current average wage in the auto industry is about $2.10 an hour.

SPECIAL DRIVE

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Letter carrier Leonard McBride has what many rural route mailmen have long wanted. It's a car appropriately trimmed in red, white and blue, with a right hand drive so that he can deposit mail in boxes without moving from the driver's seat.

Tornado Lashes Alabama Town

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A tornado lashed the town of Altoona, Ala., last night leaving a trail of ruined and damaged buildings, and high winds accompanied by torrential rains whipped Birmingham and other north Alabama areas.

Damage at Altoona, 10 miles west of Gadsden, was estimated at about $50,000. A 50-foot new field house at Altoona High School was removed and set down in one piece over railroad tracks about 30 feet distant.

MISSIS MATE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A 45-year-old man was arrested in a tavern after he asked police to help him "get my wife out of this joint." He was booked on a drunk charge when the woman convinced investigating officers the man was not her husband.

In 46 B.C. Julius Caesar ordered calendar computations changed from a lunar to a solar year, adding three extra months to that year to make it come out even and giving rise to the designation "year of confusion."

Tell Her It's MURDER

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT
After the baby's birth Tobe Davles was placed in a sanatorium and Regina returned home with the child. Tobe knew she had been going to have a baby, thought she had lost it. She began slowly to improve, but her recovery took almost six years.

Regina said, "She's well now, but if she were to have a shock it would be fatal. She would be driven back again—for good, you see?"
Both McKee and Susan did. Regina said "The inspector and you and Jim are the only ones I've told.
Susan. The inspector is going to do everything possible to keep it from coming out. I told Jim to night when I set him free."

"Just one more question, Mrs.
Pelham. You were approached for money?"
"By Henry, yes."
"That $5,000 check you gave him the other night?"
"Yes."
Two months after Roger died Regina had received a blackmailing letter. Her secret would remain secret if—she had paid $15-000 in three $5,000 checks made out to bearer, and sent them to John Roth, General Delivery, New York. Roth was a false name, of course. A year later she paid another $15,000—$35,000 in all. She had destroyed the cancelled checks.

Her voice trailed away. She was exhausted. Before they left the room she was asleep.
Closing the door, Susan said, "Is Henry Trout in the house, inspector?"
"Henry Trout is dead Miss Dwight."

Susan followed him downstairs.
Amy Redgate was in the lower hall, and two policemen. Amy was sitting on the blue sofa.
A rifle lay across the table in the bay. McKee went over to Amy.
He said, "Miss Redgate, have you anything to say? . . . No? You were caught entering this house with that rifle a short time ago.
You knew about Regina Pelham's will, didn't you?"

An inward convulsion shook the thick body. Except for that, Amy might have been deaf and dumb.
The doors of the living-room were closed. McKee went over and rolled one of them back. The whole room was visible. Dave Redgate was in there. He was seated in a wing chair, dressed in a dark suit. There were men in uniform there, too, and the Yonkers district attorney.

Horton looked at McKee. The Scotsman nodded. He went across to the desk and used keys Regina had given him. He unlocked a drawer, opened it, took out a cash box, opened that and withdrew a long envelope. It was Regina's will.
It had been drawn six months after Roger's death.

McKee was talking. Susan listened in a dream.
Regina had left the money Hal Davies had settled on her. The money that would have been Roger's if he had lived, to David Red-gate, for the establishment of a research laboratory. There were no strings attached to it.

McKee finished. A pencil stopped scratching. One of the policemen was a stenographer.

The doctor said in a calm voice,
"I'd like to say this. If Roger had lived he would in your parlance, have gone insane. He was better out of it. As for those others—Brodsky and the Fenn woman—they were—shall we say, expendable?"
Horton said, "And Henry Trout?
You killed Henry Trout and buried his body in the tunnel below the cliff?"
"Yes."
"First removing Trout's hat and coat?"
"That's right. You found the body?"
"Yes, earlier tonight."
"I was afraid of it. He wasn't deep enough—but I was pressed for time."

He gave the details in that same unemotional tone. He had entered Trout's room at the inn after Regina had gone, pretending to be in search of her. Trout was about to call a cab, Dave Redgate said he'd give him a lift down the hill. At the top of the cliff near the little park he pretended he couldn't get down the hill in the car, led Trout to the edge of the cliff on a pretext of showing him the way to the steps and so down to Broadway, and hit him with a tire iron. Trout's body fell to the shelf of rock in front of the cave below. The doctor dragged him into the cave and buried him in a shallow grave, first removing his hat and coat.

On his way home the doctor had entered the house—this house, Susan thought numbly—through the cellar door. He had placed the button from Trout's coat where it was found. It was no trick to slip up to Mrs. Casserly's room and extract the diary. There was nothing of importance in it.

He looked at McKee. "I didn't want you to hear her story the other day but as she was going to you anyhow I had to let it come out."

Unfortunately his sister, Amy, had followed him that night, and Amy knew. It was Amy who shot him through the open window after he got home in an attempt to immobilize him. Keep him from doing any further harm. In the small hours of the morning he had placed the laundry slip close to where Amy had stood. "My wound had bled a little but not much."
He paused and looked at McKee.

"You suspected the laundry bill and the button?"
"Yes, doctor. They were too opportune, too pat, taken in conjunction with other circumstances.
Where did you conceal the hat and coat after you got rid of Trout?"
"In the trunk of my car."

Horton was impatient, wanted to get on "and tonight when you thought the police were gone and the coast was clear you put on Trout's hat and coat and came over here and cut the telephone wires. You then attracted Miss Dwight's attention by throwing gravel up at the window of Mrs.
Pelham's bedroom because you wanted Miss Dwight as a witness to the return of Henry Trout. Your plan was to kill Mrs. Pelham, masquerading as Henry Trout, and then to have Trout disappear—for good."

The doctor made no attempt at denial. "It's too bad. I could have done a lot of good with that money.
I have ideas that have never been touched. I had plans—" Susan swayed on her feet, fighting dizziness. That was the man they had known so long and trusted and loved.

Redgate stood. There was no change in his face, his voice. "Shall we go?" A man closed in on either side of him.
In the hall Amy Redgate jumped up and screamed.

Susan ran and put her arms around her. "Don't, Amy, don't."
It was snowing out. At 9 o'clock the next morning Susan put coffee on in the kitchen and began preparing two trays. Amy Redgate was asleep upstairs. She had collapsed after the doctor was taken away and Parr had come and given her a hypodermic. Regina was asleep, too. Susan dreaded their waking. She was very tired. Everything was over and everyone was gone.

She had talked to Barry on the phone half an hour earlier, and Barry wouldn't be coming back again soon. She couldn't be Barry's wife feeling as she felt about Jim Andrus.

She had finished the trays and was drinking a cup of coffee at the window when there was a step in the dining room; the doors were no longer locked. It was Jim Andrus.

He stood in the doorway looking at her. He was formal remote.
"Good morning, Susan. How is Regina?"
"Still sleeping."
"Does she know about Red-gate?"
"Not yet."
Andrus said, "I came to say goodby. Say it for me to Regina, will you. I'll write her."
"I will. Good by, Jim."
"Good by, Susan."

Susan watched him turn, frozen, immobile. He would go and that would be the end of it. She would never see him again. She couldn't bear it. Her own voice startled
her. "Jim."
"Yes."
"I called Barry a little while ago.
I told him I couldn't marry him."

Looks Like Year Of Sport Coats, Slacks

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Sport coats and slacks may make their all-out assault this year on that last clinging of the more formal in men's attire—the business office—if the nation's merchants are guessing right.

They are reported increasing their stocks of these items this spring, and cutting back a little on their stocks of men's regular suits.

In the men's wear trade here this is being interpreted as meaning that casual wear is creeping into everyday business life. It already has taken a sizable haul of the after-office-hours apparel trade.

A survey on the competition among natural and synthetic fibers for the men's trade this year also shows more stores than a year ago are increasing their stocks of garments made from blends of wool and synthetic fabrics. A third of them are cutting back their stocks of worsteds, tweeds and flannels. Most of the stores are ordering fewer garments with no wool in them.

These findings come from replies of 708 department and clothing stores across the nation to a questionnaire on their ordering policies for spring and summer. The survey was made by the men's Wear Inter-Industry Council, a group of 15 associations in the apparel making, retail clothing, tailoring, hat, tie, shirt, pajama, shoe, sweater and fabric-making fields.

The makers of men's suits were apparently been following something of the same pattern as the retailers. The Clothing Manufacturers Assn. of the U.S.A. reports that in the first two months of the year the output of regularweight suits rose 15 per cent over a year ago. But the output of summer suits of less than 50 per cent wool dropped 17 per cent.

The Wool Bureau, Inc., a leading light in the inter-industry council, sees the survey as a sign that the trend is away from suits with no wool content. But the National Cotton Council believes the cotton suit is due for comeback this summer, citing new types of fabric and new wrinkle-resistant finishes.

OUT OF THE BAG
CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—Witness Paul Nisbett was a day late for a trial in Dist. Judge E. T. Hensley's court. Asked the judge: "Where were you?" Answered Nisbett: "Went fishing." Said the judge: "Ten days." Then Judge Hensley turned down Nisbett's plea that his fishing club be allowed to bring him his sleeping bag. "Common jail," the judge ruled.

Only about 4 per cent of mental patients in the United States are in private hospitals.

Need Lower Age For Farm Labor

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Faced by rising protests from wage-earning teen-agers, Gov. J. Bracken Lee yesterday offered to call a special session of the Utah Legislature.

Single subject of the session would be correction of a bill to lower the legal age at which boys may do farm work. Somehow, this amendment to the child labor law as passed at the regular session deleted a portion of the law which allows 14 and 15-year-olds to work in stores, offices, bowling alleys and private homes.

It even put baby sitting under a legal cloud.

Nobody noticed the booby trap when the law was passed.

Lee said yesterday he made a "big mistake" in letting the bill get past him and was anxious to correct it.

"The bill does not do what I thought it did, and I don't believe it does what the Legislature intended," he said. "I certainly did not mean to deprive any young folk of the chance to earn pocket money by working in such safe jobs as stores, offices or baby sitting."

He said he would ask the Legislative Council to poll the lawmakers on the special session at its meeting Friday.

Dr. Paul Murray To Speak At Meeting Of Bertie County Society

Dr. Paul Murray, faculty member of the East Carolina College department of social studies, has accepted an invitation to speak at a meeting of the Bertie County Historical Association in Windsor, April 22. His topic will be "Contributions of the State Historical Societies to State History."

Dr. Murray, a native of Georgia, has been a faculty member at East Carolina since 1945. He received his education at Emory University in Georgia and at the University of North Carolina, from which he holds the doctor's degree. He is a member of the North Carolina Historical Society and the Literary and Historical Association of North Carolina, and in both of these organizations he has served on committees and appeared as speaker on programs.

Recently Dr. Murray has completed a study of the "North Carolina Historical Review," a quarterly publication of the State Department of Archives and History.

More American men than women have died from cancer each year since 1949.

PIONEER LEARNS SOMETHING NEW: — Marie Marvingt, one of the first women to pilot planes in the pioneer days of aviation, takes lessons at the age of 80 to become a helicopter pilot in Paris, France. Here she takes the controls of Djin 1221 jet helicopter under the guidance of Eric Fourcaud, left. Miss Marvingt is also a mountain climber, sharpshooter, fencer, rider, skier and skater. ## Highway Patrol In Pitt Needs 2 Men Pitt County is operating with two State Highway Patrolmen less than the desired number, Captain S. H. Mitchell, commander of Troop A, said yesterday.

Five patrolmen currently are on duty in Pitt, he said, but seven would be a more ideal number. Mitchell added however, that he hopes to have more men soon.

The situation is similar in other divisions of Troop A. Approximately seven men are needed for the various divisions of the troop, which covers 27 northeastern counties, in order to bring the quota to full strength.

A number of men are under consideration for positions as Pitt highway patrolmen but high standards sometimes make things difficult. Currently, the practice is to swear an applicant in, give him 30 to 60 days duty with a veteran patrolman and then send him on to patrol school for about 10 weeks.

Applicants must be at least 5'10" in height, weigh 160 pounds, be a high school graduate and have acceptable social and moral character. No previous police experience is necessary.

In addition to the five patrolmen,

Mitchell, a 25-year veteran of the highway patrol and an original member of the organization, has a lieutenant and a sergeant assisting him here.

Local patrolmen, in addition to carrying out their regular duties, often are called upon to address clubs and civic organizations regarding some phase of their work or highway safety.

The five patrolmen currently on duty on Pitt County highways include Corporal Carl E. Whitfield, D. L. Perry, D. E. Minshew, Bill Whitehurst and James W. Boykin.
