Mrs. Rumley Hostess To WCTU Members

On Friday evening, April 15, Mrs. Charles Rumley was hostess to the W.C.T.U. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Lela Carson. The opening hymn was "Lead On O King Eternal."

Mrs. Rumley read the scripture text from St. Matthew, 5th chapter, verses 14 and 16. She also read a very interesting poem entitled "Resolved."

The devotional was rendered by Mrs. H. E. Johnson. She gave a beautiful message on the importance of letting our light shine for Jesus in the dark places. She stated that one is not attracted to the candle in the darkness, but to the light it gives, and that we too can be a light by taking time for private devotion, for without Christ there is no light.

Mrs. Carson read an article of the number who are in darkness from the awful evils of alcohol, and how all Christians should join hands and work with the forces who are striving to abolish the evils of strong drink. She also requested that members bring used postage stamps to the meeting, especially commemorative stamps, to be sold for a charity institute, in order to raise money for tuberculosis patients. Mrs. Carson mentioned the yearbooks, asking that members be conscious of them for information, especially of the time for the regular monthly meeting, which is on Friday evening at 7:30 after the second Sunday of each month, and urged all members to be present.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the hymn "Blest Be The Tie," with Mrs. Johnson leading in prayer. After adjournment the hostess served tasty refreshments of strawberry shortcake with whipped cream.

Christian Science Services
Man's God-given dominion over the bondage of fear will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Promotion after Death" will include the following from the King James Version of the Bible (Hebrews 2:9-15): "But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man. . . . And deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage."

Among the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (426:16): "When it is learned that disease cannot destroy life, and that mortals are not saved from sin or sickness by death, this understanding will quicken into a desire to die or a dread of the grave, and thus destroy the great fear that besets mortal existence."

Mr. Frank Fuller Of ECC Presents Program To Junior Women's Club

At the program meeting of the Junior Women's Club Wednesday night, the education department presented Mr. Frank Fuller of East Carolina College who spoke on "The Effect of Comics, Television and Movies on Children." Mr. Fuller explained that, while there are many lurid and otherwise undesirable comics as well as television programs to which children should not be exposed, these are not the primary causes of childhood fears or juvenile delinquency. The causes are in more basic psychological or environmental problems. He compared the criticism of adventure comics today with similar criticisms of books such as "Huckleberry Finn" and even of new ideas such as co-educational high schools, in the past. In many cases, he said, comics will help a child become a better reader and learn to enjoy better literature as he matures. They also provide a vicarious answer to his emotional need for action and romance.

Mr. Fuller said television programs may also serve this purpose and in general, have no adverse effects on children's schoolwork. They will not be injurious to normal eyes, if time of viewing is not too long and if rooms are neither too dark nor too light. Mr. Fuller cautioned, however, that it is not desirable for all of a child's activity to be passive.

For a well-rounded personality, he needs games and outdoor exercise. Mr. Fuller expressed the fear that outwearing objectionable comic books might send their distribution underground where there could be no control at all. He advocated that the control should be by the parents and they should always strive to become better acquainted with their children, to know their interests and what they are reading. Mr. Fuller's talk was most reassuring and especially enjoyed because of his delightful sense of humor.

Following the program, the club held a short business meeting with Mrs. T. R. Jones, at the chair. Mrs. Jones announced that Mrs. Tom Vickers, Mrs. Mack Stokes, and Mrs. James Davenport Jr. were planning to attend the state convention and the club voted $5.00 to be pledged to the endowment fund. It was announced that members of the Circle K Club will help with the bread sale to take place in May.

Further information was given the club on the Sallie Southall Cotton Loan Fund which loans up to $200 per year to high school graduates who would like financial assistance in attending college. After the meeting, a social hour was enjoyed while punch and cookies were served.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Telephone officials readily agree Jean Yethers daily column in the Orlando Sentinel has many readers but they hope she doesn't use a phone gimmick again to demonstrate this.

She printed an offer of a month's free passes to the first 28 readers to call a movie theater.

The phone company reported the exchange serving the theater was so jammed by calls that important calls to police, fire, hospital and business numbers couldn't get through.

The new Senate Office Building will have a 500-seat auditorium with booths for radio and television broadcasts of hearings.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We were thinking about how important a month April is, with the big announcement and celebration last week of the discovery of the polio vaccine by Dr. Salk, almost ten years to the day after the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt—without whose "March of Dimes" every year Dr. Salk might not have been able to complete his successful research. April also marks the birth date of one of the most important figures in our literature, William Shakespeare, who was baptized on April 26, 1564, and whose birth date usually is celebrated on April 23. And just 200 years ago, also in April, we mentioned last week, Dr. Samuel Johnson's famous "Dictionary of the English Language" was first published. This week a new book about Johnson was issued, "Young Sam Johnson: A Biography," by James G. Clifford, about Dr. Johnson's early life and troubles, before he became famous as the lexicographer and the subject of the most famous of all biographies, Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson."

Table Talk

Our little memorial of the famous Doctor in last week's column prompted one of our faithful followers to call us up and tell us about a very interesting book in her library. She was Mrs. Emma Basnight, and she was kind enough to let us see her old and rare edition of Dr. Johnson's "Table Talk" published in London way back in 1798, and, from what we can tell, a first edition. It contains "Aphorisms on Literature, Life and Manners," and other "Anecdotes," selected and arranged from the original of Boswell's "Life of Johnson." There are little essays on such interesting matters as Influence in Wine, Marriage, Children, Education, Manners, Politics, Death, and so on. Concerning Marriage, for example, Dr. Johnson felt this way:

"Marriage is much more necessary to a man than to a woman; for he is much less able to supply himself with domestic comforts

I have often wondered why young women should marry, as they have so much more freedom, and so much more attention is paid to them while unmarried than when married." So if you're a woman, and not married—you're better off than you might think—according to Dr. Johnson, who married a widow of 45 when he was 25 himself, so should have known what he was talking about.

The War Between the States Again

Two good new books have just been published about that inexhaustible supplier of material for literary endeavor, the Civil War. "P. G. T. Beauregard: Napoleon in Gray," by T. Harry Williams, is about one of the generals in the Confederate army who was idolized second only to Lee, and perhaps the most glamorous. Earl S. Miers contributes a new book about a general on the other side, Ulysses S. Grant. "The Web of Victory: Grant at Vicksburg," by Richard Grant's brilliant campaign which ended with the fall of Vicksburg and paved the way for the defeat of the southern forces. Bruce Catton, author of "A Stillness at Appomattox," calls it "one of the best Civil War books in recent years, a genuine contribution to the story of Grant and to the study of the war as a whole."

On Bernice Kelly Harris

Of interest to all of us in this neighborhood is a new publication we have just received from the Library Extension Division of the U.N.C. Library, called "Bernice Kelly Harris: Storyteller of Eastern Carolina," by Richard Walker, a former resident of Greenville and now a member of the English Department at State College. The little book is a very well written account of Mrs. Harris and her books—not a criticism, but a brief sketch of her life up to now and some interesting and informative notes about her various literary productions. Most extensive are Miss Kelly's comments on the fiction—"Purslane," "Portulaca," "Sweet Beulah Land," "Sage Quarter," "Janey Jeems," and her last novel, published in 1951, "Wild Cherry Tree Road." The U.N.C. Library Extension Publications are issued at nominal cost and are available at book clubs and other literary and artistic groups and study and programs. In addition to Mrs. Harris' biography, there are in the series books about five other distinguished North Carolina authors—John C. McNeill, Thomas Averette, Inglis Fletcher and Frederick H. Koster. This Column will be glad to provide information about obtaining any one or all of these handy volumes.

The Local Scene

On Monday, April 25, at 8 o'clock in the Joyner Library Auditorium, another series of lectures on the Religions of the World will be presented. Rev. Harvey E. Johnson will speak on "What is a Pentecostal Holiness," and all are welcome to attend. Oscar winner "On the Waterfront" is at a local movie emporium "Romeo and Juliet," so our cinema fans this week, so our cinema fans this week, "Brigadoon" opens at the College Theatre next Wednesday, April 27, for three nights, and the Community Art Festival starts the week after, for there will be plenty of excitement, culturally, hereabouts, from here on out. Particularly the literary event of the year, the annual Authors Luncheon on Tuesday, May 3, where the featured speaker will be William Polk, author of "Southern Accent," and an associate editor of the Greensboro "Daily News"—and an excellent speaker, we might add, so try and get there.

Road-e-o Judges Announced; 48 Youths In Event

Judges for the Teen-Age Road-e-o to be held Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. were announced today by James W. Boykin, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce project.

Serving as judges for the event will be E. E. Helms, chief of the North Carolina Drivers' License Examiners; Lt. Tom B. Brown, executive officer of Highway Patrol "A"; Greenville Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs and District Solicitor Robert D. Rouse of Farmville.

Boykin said that some 48 youths between the ages of 16 and 19 will participate in the driving contest to be held at the local airport. All the county high schools are represented in the group. The contestants to participate in the actual driving contest were chosen from results of written exam which was given to all students who wished to participate in each of the county's high schools.

Three winners from each school will gather at the airport Sunday afternoon for the actual driving contest which will determine the first place winner.

The youths will be called on to perform five different driving tests. Tests including are: straight line driving both forward and backward; parallel parking in a 22-foot space; and negotiation of an off-set reverse curve.

"This is a safety project in which the teen-ager can prove he is a good driver," Boykin said.

He urged all interested persons to attend and noted that no admission is to be charged.

VFW Delegates Are Named For District Meet

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post last night elected eight delegates to the Veterans of Foreign Wars district meeting to be held in Kinston May 1.

Commander Walter Lewis, who presided, urged that many members of the local post attend and support the candidacy of Elvey Forrest for V.F.W. district commander.

The following were elected delegates: James Joyner, Joe Bass, Sid Allen, George Johnson, Larry Averette, E. Meeks, E. R. Sermons and Robert T. Carson.

Little League Chairman Elvey Forrest reported good prospects for the post's Little League team this summer. The season opens May 11.

At the May 5 meeting candidates for officers will be nominated and the election will be held at the May 19 meeting.

Dr. Marshall Is Speaker For Sans Souci Book Club Meeting

The Sans Souci Book Club held its last meeting of the club year at one o'clock on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Blount with Mrs. M. L. Wright as assistant hostess.

Covers were laid for 24 in rooms made more beautiful with artistic arrangements of choice iris in various shades, pink gladioli and lilies of the valley. A delicious luncheon was served, followed by dessert and coffee.

After lunch Mrs. Blount presented her guest speaker, Dr. W. E. Marshall, of East Carolina College, who chose for his subject "The Asian-African Conference" in session at Bandung, Indonesia. Dr. Marshall held his listeners spellbound as he described its membership and outlined its purposes. He quoted excerpts from the speeches of several of the leaders stressing particularly the fine sportsmanship of Carlos Romulo of the Philippines. Thanks to Dr. Marshall, each one present understands the workings of the conference and will be able to follow the daily news accounts of it with more insight and intelligence.

DETROIT (AP)—William J. Abel entered the police station and said to the sergeant in duty: "Here's a present." And he plopped a live skunk on his desk.

The windows flew open, the ventilator started whirling, and the skunk was conked on the head by a nightstick.

Abel was arrested on a disorderly charge. The sergeant said he had been drinking.

Some 80 million visits were made to U.S. National Parks in 1954.

The president, Mrs. H. B. Ragdale, presided over a short business meeting which concerned itself primarily with plans for the Fine Arts Festival to be held in Greenville soon. The club voted $5.00 toward the cost of a film to be shown that week, bought tickets to a luncheon at which Col. W. T. Polk, author of "Southern Accent," will speak and volunteered to decorate the mantels in the library the day of the tea.

The club books were collected and will be placed in Sheppard Memorial Library in honor of the club's two charter members, Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley and Mrs. W. E. Dall.

Mrs. Ragdale was given a rising vote of thanks for her service as president the past two years.

The incoming president, Mrs. James T. Cheatham Jr., was presented and spoke briefly of her plans for the new club year.

The following guests added greatly to the lovely occasion: Mesdames J. B. Spilman, R. M. Garrett, Richard Stokes, J. E. Long, E. L. Rivers, Ruth Tobeau, J. D. Messick, H. L. Hodges and Mr. J. H. Blount.

No-Scrub Way To Gleaming Floors

Everybody has heard of the housewife who kept her kitchen floor so clean you could eat off it.

We never met her. But we know how she did it. She did it the hard way — on her hands and knees — with a scrubbrush. Today, you can keep your linoleum or asphalt tile immaculate with only a fraction as much effort.

Just apply Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating. Its water-clear finish seals out dirt so well you can clean it in a flash. Glaxo eliminates waxing, and you put it on only about twice a year.

Home Rule, Or Grounds For Friction

Unless some reasonable home rule amendment to the North Carolina constitution is adopted, the state is going to see the legislature turned into a stage for more local fights such as the one which is still simmering between the sheriff of Cumberland County and the Board of County Commissioners of that county.

Although that particular matter got to the legislature through regular channels, it should have never gone to Raleigh to be thrashed out. It was and is purely a local matter for Cumberland County which the people of that county should resolve, either directly or through their elected representatives.

As it is, a legislator from that county got the matter into the hands of the General Assembly for a decision rather than leaving the decision to the officials back home. There has been strong suggestions of sharp friction between the legislator and the sheriff which could have promptly, in part at least, the action.

Nevertheless, it seems foolish for the representatives from Pitt, Forsythe, Buncombe, and the rest of the 100 counties of the state to sit in judgment of what should be done with this problem which purely and simply is a problem for Cumberland County's people.

Although the proposed home rule amendment may not have prevented this particular case from being laid before the legislature, it would prevent many cases of similar local issues to be resolved at home rather than in Raleigh.

Insofar as possible purely local issues for municipal and county governments should be resolved on the local level. North Carolina needs the proposed home rule amendment and needs it badly. We trust the legislature will not overlook the amendment as it pushes for adjournment.

Far Better For U. S. To Show Way

Not content with condemning the United Nations as a "concealed conspiracy designed to destroy U. S. sovereignty and set up a world government," the Daughters of the American Revolution has had before it a motion condemning the President's atoms-for-peace policy.

More broadly stated, the resolution would condemn the Eisenhower call upon the world's nuclear powers to reverse "the fearful trend" of the atomic arms race. The plan in question called for an international atomic energy agency to develop the peaceful potential of the atom.

The ladies are well within their rights to condemn or endorse anything and everything under the sun (barring The Home and Mothers, of course), but they must allow too that dissident voices will be heard.

As we see it, this DAR resolution to abandon "atoms for peace" is a step backward toward the one thing the world most fears: an unending, mad race toward self destruction. Basically all arms races are inspired by the absence of trust; in the heat of "competing," and under the label "for survival," all effort and resources are bent toward winning that race. Humanity does not share anything except the horrible fruits of ultimate conflict.

So the big thing is to invoke and build up the spirit of trust and common grounds for the future. The United States' proposals are only a small step in that direction. Nevertheless it is a step forward.

Ultimate sharing of all secrets of nuclear energy and related know-how cannot be forever put off. It is bound to happen, whether that knowledge is pieced together in a hundred different countries or deliberately shared by the leaders in the field.

While there could be a potential danger involved in disclosing our know-how relative to peaceful atomic uses, there is certainly a greater danger in shutting the door. Better by far that the United States light the way to that Atomic Age than to douse the torch it carries.

MESSAGE OF MERCY
Sometimes when we read of the amount spent by modern men for pain-killing pills, we are utterly incredulous. If we burn the candle at both ends and get to feeling wretched as a result, we usually take a pill and forget about it. If circumstances overwhelm us and we feel that we can endure them no longer, many may try to put things to rights, for the time being at least, with a glass and a bottle.

Probably we are not much different from other generations in our unwillingness to face life realistically. Every pain to which human flesh is heir has a message for us, if we will just listen. Every problem comes to challenge our powers and to test our courage. As long as we give ourselves to pain-killing pills and to the anesthetic affects of alcohol, we can expect that it will not be long until we shall have to face a problem greater than the one from which we are trying to flee.

It seems trite to counsel men to face their problems and have it out with them, then and there, but as a matter of fact, this is the only counsel in which there is any wisdom. Pain-killing pills and the temporary solace of the bottle not only do not solve problems, they cause problems to grow vastly bigger through being temporarily avoided.

Listen to the message life is trying to convey to you through problem and pain. It is a message of mercy, hope, and power, if you will only let it be so.

National Whirligig

Ike Is Stronger Than Ever

BY RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—War or no war between now and the Presidential election in November, 1956, Republican political strategists are convinced that President Eisenhower can be re-elected against anybody the Democrats may name as his opponent. Their belief is based on a confidential canvass of representative leaders throughout the country by National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Congressional pollsters on Capitol Hill.

Eisenhower will fare as well or better than he did in 1952, according to this roundup, if he can avoid an armed conflict without further appeasement of Russia.

A war precipitated by a decision to defend the Quemoy and Matsu Islands, it is admitted, would be extremely unpopular. Nevertheless, once the United States is engaged in a clash with Red China, no matter the cause of the encounter, the survey suggests that Ike's political stock would rise.

Without war, he would campaign as keeper of the peace, as against the GOP's argument that our three costliest conflicts occurred on "Democratic time."

With war on our minds, he would be hailed—by Republican voters, that is—as the right man in the right place at the right time.

IKE MAY BE COMPELLED TO RUN AGAIN—The We-want-Ike-again faction of the Republican Party—and that takes in almost everybody, including the right wing represented by Senators McCarthy, Bridges and Dirksen—rejoice over Chief Justice Earl Warren's public and vigorous renunciation of any Presidential ambitions. They figure that it will force Eisenhower, no matter how reluctant he may be, to run again.

So long as the eminent and popular Californian was a prospect, there was a chance that the President might bow out after a single term. As a progressive and liberal figure—too progressive and too liberal, some GOPers believe—Warren could probably win as the 1956 candidate.

SIGNIFICANT POLITICAL TWIST—A generally unnoted but extremely significant political twist is the current meticulous behavior of the pro-McCarthy

HILLSBORO, ORE., ARGUS: "There is a great deal of logic in President Eisenhower's belief that terms of office of members of the U. S. House of Representatives should be for four years instead of the present two. On a four-year term basis the congressmen would be in a position to do a better job because under present conditions they must devote too much of their time to campaigning and give too much thought to what effect their votes on issues will have on their re-election."

ONTARIO-UPLAND, CALIF., REPORT: "The blunt truth is that guaranteed annual employment will not work in a free economy because that freedom includes freedom of consumers to buy where they choose. To have any bona fide value, a guaranteed annual wage would have to be linked to a guaranteed annual market."

ODESSA, TEX., AMERICAN: "We favor human liberty, the right of a man to be independent and self-determining; controlling himself by his own moral, ethical and spiritual compulsions, and not by mass regimentation, however benignly it might be administered."

and pro-Chiang Kai-shek bloc on Capitol Hill. Despite their distaste for certain Eisenhower-Dulles policies, they have fallen behind the President in his conduct of foreign affairs. They are back on the regular reservation.

Chief Justice Warren's renunciation, oddly, contributed to their conversion. With the Californian out of the political picture, it becomes certain that Ike will be the 1956 nominee. So, they cannot afford to bicker with and oppose the man for whom they will ask votes only 18 months from now, especially as foreign policy may be an issue next year.

NEED EISENHOWER SUPPORT—Moreover, two of the McCarthy men must face the voters under possibly troublesome conditions, and will need Ike's full and generous support. Although Styles Bridges received the largest majority ever given a United States Senator in his last political appearance, New Hampshire has shown Democratic tendencies now and then. Last year, such a GOP Gibraltar as Maine elected a Democratic Governor. Bridges must run again next November. He will need Ike.

Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, who sided with McCarthy invariably during the Schine-Cohn inquiry, will want White House help when he faces the voters in 1956. Ike cannot and will not urge Dirksen's re-election unless "Dirk" behaves in the meantime. Recent Democratic victories in Chicago and Michigan indicate that the "boy orator" with a Bryanesque flair may also need Presidential reinforcement.

"NO GOP SPLIT"—McCarthy himself has hardly "made" the front page since he lost the chairmanship of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which provided him with a publicity pulp. Several of his staunchest House supporters were shelved by the voters in the 1954 Congressional elections.

As a result of political acrobatics, National Chairman Hall believes that the threatened split in Republican ranks will not materialize. In fact, he predicts that, "We will be more united than the Democrats, with their Harriman-Lehman and George-Byrd factions."

Somebody Told Me

Back From A Trip To Germany

Tonight from 5:30 on it's all you can eat for 75 cents (children 50 cents) at the St. James Methodist Church. It'll be pancakes with all of the trimmings. See you there.

Charlie Howard, president of the Greenville Tobacco Company, goes to Europe or the Far East (sometimes both) once a year. This year brother John is now on the way home from the Far East and Charlie has completed a trip to Europe.

Charlie's observations, spaced a year apart, are always interesting. Germany is in the best shape she's been in since 1935. Economically, the nation is very sound. War minded? Charlie doesn't think so.

"Have you ever found that guy who shot you during World War II?" I asked Charlie. He laughed.

"What would you do if you did?" "I'd probably slap him on the back and ask him to have a coke. I'm not bitter."

Charlie says that the feeling toward America is improving, and naturally he discussed the foreign aid situation. It seems that nobody likes charity. We give billions to foreign countries to help them along and instead of gaining their confidence they breed contempt for us.

In Germany the American buck is worth two. On TV, the nation has very little. Automobiles. About 10 people to every one, contrasted with our two people to every one. When it comes to entertainment, movies are a big factor. Night clubs are too expensive for many, just as they are here.

Charlie mentioned the difference in the people in North and South Germany. "The warmer the weather as you go South," he says, "the warmer the people are. Just like here in America."

Although he has not mastered the German language, Charlie knows enough to get by with one who speaks no English.

Included in the jaunt were Holland, Belgium, Italy and Switzerland. He was in Rome just before Easter, when people from all nations were there to hear the Pope. The weather there at the time was beautiful, just about the same climate as Greenville.

The trip over took six days on the S. S. United States; to come back (London to New York) 16 hours by plane. Charlie prefers the ship (the cost is about the same) because of the comforts and leisure it affords.

"And I thank you."

WE DO NOT STAND ALONE (Rocky Mount Telegram)
The Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia, more than any other recent development, symbolizes the Twentieth Century awakening of the long-submerged dark-skinned peoples of two continents which contain a majority of the world's population. Such a conference could never have taken place in the last century when the British Empire and European colonialism boasted of the "white man's burdens."

There are no white men attending the Bandung conference. Yet, the suicidal conflict between the white nations, which divides the earth is reflected in the Indonesian gathering.

Monday's headlines announced that certain delegates denounced international Communism and upheld the United States. Yesterday's headlines told that the U.S. was denounced by the Red Chinese. So it goes.

But, there is more underneath the headlines than a see-saw battle of words. The American people, who sometimes feel that they inhabit a friendless world, have received heart-warming reassurances from brown and yellow-skinned people who arose to defend their nation and to denounce Communist propaganda that it is—a new and more oppressive form of colonialism.

Iraq's Foreign Minister Fadhl Jamali's defense of America and attack on Communism drew unexpected and prolonged applause from many of the delegations and 29 nations. He has since been joined by former UN Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Pakistan's Prime Minister Mohammed Ali. Such developments were not anticipated either by the Communists or by India's neutral but Communist-loving Nehru. Earlier, Nehru and the Reds tried to ban speech-making in place of printed addresses, but were reversed. The Reds planned to turn the Bandung conference into a hate-America rally which would pave the way for an attack on Formosa, but the Reds tried to plan seems to have backfired.

There is still in this world, thank the heavens, the old law of checks and balances, of force and counter-force. It is reassuring to see that Communism has alarmed and alerted some of Asia's and Africa's leaders. We do not stand alone after all.

Around Capitol Square

BY LYNN NISBET
ANNUAL — The prospect for annual sessions of the General Assembly are brighter than at any time within the past 20 years. A House committee gave unanimous approval to a constitutional amendment providing for such practice, subject to enactment by the Legislature and approval by the people in the 1956 general election.

The proposal is for a full-dress session of 75 days the first year after election and a 60-day session the second year of the biennium, limited to consideration of fiscal matters except by joint resolution of House and Senate. There is provision for special sessions not to exceed 30 days. The time limits apply to the $15 per diem pay, in the same way it is now limited to the one 90-day session. For terms running beyond the specified number of days members would serve without compensation—as they are doing now in the 1955 session.

There is further provision for subsistence and travel allowances to be set by law, the expense items to run as long as the session continued. That is regarded by some observers as the weakest point in the proposal. The time limits apply to the $15 per diem salary for limited period, that the members of the General Assembly for all practical purposes would fix their own pay.

It is provided that the subsistence and travel items shall not be more than allowed for other State boards, commissions and employees. In all these cases the Legislature by statute requires authorization and audit for expense accounts by some agency other than the person spending the money. Presumably the Legislature would have some kind of control agency, but that is not specifically set out in the pending bill.

The basic principle of annual sessions and more adequate compensation of the General Assembly has substantial popular approval.

BUDGETTING — Principal need for more frequent legislative session is in the field of government budgeting. The current General Assembly is faced with necessity of levying taxes and making appropriations for a period running into midsummer of 1957, with no chance for revision within that time except by a special session or through the device of horizontal reduction of all appropriations by the Director of the Budget. Even though it should appear that some agencies need more money while others might do with less than originally appropriated, no authority exists outside the General Assembly to make adjustments.

Sponsors of the annual session amendment say it is difficult enough to anticipate conditions that will prevail next summer, and practically impossible to estimate with intelligence the needs for two years ahead.

The proposed amendment would start legislative sessions on the second Wednesday in February instead of the present Wednesday after the first Monday in January. That gets away from the Christmas and New Year holiday period and also assures that within about one month instead of two and a half months after convening the members will have advantage of corporate income tax returns due on March 15, and well within the pay time limits will have substantial knowledge of personal income returns, as indices for more accurately estimating prospective revenue.

The later convening date has the further advantage of giving a new Governor time to get "the feel" of his office before having to deal with the General Assembly. Present constitutional provisions set out that the Governor's term shall begin on January 1 every four years, the Legislature from three to nine days later. Long practice has been for the Governor to assume office after the Legislature has been organized. Many people believe that if the biennial sessions are retained the convening date should be made several weeks later than presently fixed.

Business Today

Selling Below Cost

BY ELMER ROESSNER
The question of when it is legal to sell below cost has been answered for businessmen by the Federal Trade Commission.

Many enterprisers have been under the impression that it is illegal to sell below cost. Under certain circumstances, it is.

When such sales substantially injure, suppress or stifle competition or tend to create a monopoly, they are in violation of Federal antitrust laws. Certain states have laws prohibiting the use of "loss leaders" by merchants. And, of course, most states have laws making it illegal to cut the price—above or below cost—on trademarked items whose prices have been fixed under state laws.

But cases in which it is both legal and proper to sell below the seller's cost have been itemized by the FTC. It acted in approving a set of trade practice rules for the plumbing and heating industry. These rules, where applicable, are much alike for all industries, so it is expected that the FTC will include an almost identical rule in other industry conventions.

The rule notes that below-cost sales are an unfair trade practice when they violate antitrust laws. There has to be intent, it states, to stifle competition or create a monopoly. It goes on:

"Among the situations in which the requisite purpose or intent would ordinarily be lacking are cases in which such sales were: (1) of seasonal goods near the conclusion of the season; (2) of perishable goods in respect to which deterioration is imminent; (3) of obsolete goods; (4) made under judicial process; (5) made in bona fide discontinuance of business in the goods concerned."

While the rule made no mention of it, courts have usually held that cutting prices even below cost, is legal when necessary to meet competition.

BIG NEW U.S. CROP MAY BE SESAME SEED
An Iowa scientist employed by the Venezuela government hopes to provide a great new crop for the United States.

He is Dr. Derald G. Langham, born in Vinton, Iowa. The crop: sesame seed.

Efforts to grow sesame seed profitably in the United States have failed. Some varieties will not grow in the American climate; other varieties burst their pods before the seeds are ripe.

Dr. Langham and his associates at the Venezuelan Agricultural Experimental Institute have developed a variety called "Venezuela 51." It has a high yield and pods stay closed, but is not adaptable to northern latitudes. Dr. Langham is leaving for a trip to collect wild specimens of the plant in Africa. He believes that by crossing these with "V. 51" a variety adaptable to the U.S. can be produced.

Sesame seed yields oil, flour, meal cake, and sesame, a substance that keeps butter from becoming rancid. The seed is used in candy and baking. Sesame has replaced the olive in Venezuela as a source of oil. It is a food of importance throughout Asia and Africa.

INCOME RISING, SO WE DRINK AND SMOKE MORE

While Americans drank, smoked and gambled less during the last half of last year, the trend seems to be changing.

The reason: incomes and employment were sagging then. They are rising now.

Tax collections on alcoholic beverages, tobacco, cards and wagering were all lower in the half of 1954 than in the same period in 1953. Now liquor dealers report sales are rising. Beer sales have perked up a bit, but the real rise cannot be expected until the weather warms up.

An Authority On Elite Dogdom

BY HAL BOYLE
LANGENTHAL, a Switzerland (AP)—Does your poodle wear a classical or a modern haircut?

If you spurn tradition and shave off all his hair except for "cuffs" on his legs, a tuft on his tail and a "corse" round the middle, then both you and your dog are suspect in the eyes of Fritz Ruef, recently elected president of the International Cynological Federation.

Cyno comes from the Greek for dog, and Mr. Ruef probably knows about the etiquette and society gossip of the dog world than anyone else alive.

Differences over such important matters as a poodle's haircut have led to a great schism among the world's dog lovers, and Ruef is the undisputed leader of the traditionalists.

There can be no argument about a poodle's hair, according to Ruef. "To be a poodle," he says, "a poodle must have lots of hair in front and a crew cut behind. This standard was fixed long ago by the Paris Poodle Club and accepted as binding by all self-respecting owners. It is obvious that a poodle owner who insists on dressing up his dog like a clown cannot claim equal rights in an association such as ours."

One of the main causes of the schism among the world's dog lovers was a dispute over the social register of boxers—the four-legged variety. Traditionally, a boxer's litter is limited to four puppies, and any puppies born after the fourth are destroyed to preserve the quality of the breed.

Unfortunately, Ruef said base profit motives led to a refusal by certain "fraudulent elements" to kill off the excess puppies. "They even wanted us to enroll this illegal offspring in our official register," Mr. Ruef exclaimed with indignation. "When we naturally refused, all those who were violating the rules became dissatisfied, and that is how the trouble started."

For a time, the split remained limited to Switzerland but the rebels soon organized themselves in other countries and Mr. Ruef's International Cynological Federation is now at war with the rebel International Cynological Union in most countries of the eastern hemisphere. Only the United States, Russia and some relatively dogless countries are not yet involved, Ruef said.

Recognized "Federation" dogs—says Ruef—are a distinct social cut above the upstart "union" dogs—not to mention the untouchable class of dogs who don't belong to any organization. "Federation" dogs are rigorously forbidden to have any social contacts with "union" unorganized dogs. Misalliances do occur, Mr. Ruef admitted, but the offspring doesn't have a dog's chance of inclusion in any social register recognized by the federation.

In Switzerland alone, the dogs social register, Fundamentbuch, lists more than 53,000 blue-blooded dogs born since 1900. The annual supplements to the register are handsomely printed by the printing works Ruef runs in Langenthal.

The federation is recognized as the ruling body of the dog world by dog lovers' associations in nearly every non-Communist country of the eastern hemisphere. American dogs have a separate organization.

Asked whether this meant that American or Russian dogs are not allowed to associate with European dogs Mr. Ruef said: "Such unions are very uncommon. I cannot remember that such a case was ever inscribed on our register, but, of course, there may have been instances of which we were not informed."

Prospect Of Annual Legislative Sessions Is Brighter

Legislature would have some kind of control agency, but that is not specifically set out in the pending bill.

The basic principle of annual sessions and more adequate compensation of the General Assembly has substantial popular approval.

BUDGETTING — Principal need for more frequent legislative session is in the field of government budgeting. The current General Assembly is faced with necessity of levying taxes and making appropriations for a period running into midsummer of 1957, with no chance for revision within that time except by a special session or through the device of horizontal reduction of all appropriations by the Director of the Budget. Even though it should appear that some agencies need more money while others might do with less than originally appropriated, no authority exists outside the General Assembly to make adjustments.

Sponsors of the annual session amendment say it is difficult enough to anticipate conditions that will prevail next summer, and practically impossible to estimate with intelligence the needs for two years ahead.

The proposed amendment would start legislative sessions on the second Wednesday in February instead of the present Wednesday after the first Monday in January. That gets away from the Christmas and New Year holiday period and also assures that within about one month instead of two and a half months after convening the members will have advantage of corporate income tax returns due on March 15, and well within the pay time limits will have substantial knowledge of personal income returns, as indices for more accurately estimating prospective revenue.

The later convening date has the further advantage of giving a new Governor time to get "the feel" of his office before having to deal with the General Assembly. Present constitutional provisions set out that the Governor's term shall begin on January 1 every four years, the Legislature from three to nine days later. Long practice has been for the Governor to assume office after the Legislature has been organized. Many people believe that if the biennial sessions are retained the convening date should be made several weeks later than presently fixed.

SALARIES — For many years the salaries of all members of the Council of State have been the same. The Secretary of State, the Auditor, the Treasurer, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Commissioner of Insurance get the same rate of pay, presently $10,000 a year. That is less than the salary of the Attorney General who is constitutionally the legal adviser of the executive departments, and is also less than some appointed officials are paid.

There has been growing belief that compensation for these officials should be adjusted with consideration given to the diverse degrees of work and responsibility. Until now nobody has had the temerity to attempt breaking the line of uniform pay for the officials. The other day Sen. Clarence Stone of Rockingham introduced a bill to raise the salary of the Superintendent of Public Instruction to $15,000, the same salary now paid the president of the Consolidated University and the chairman of the Highway and Public Works Commission.

Senator Stone says the head of the public school system is presently the "worst underpaid official in the State." While few folks, in or out of the Legislature, will seriously challenge that appraisal, the Stone bill is accorded little chance of passage this year. It breaks a long established policy, and calls for merit system appraisal of the functions and responsibilities of all elective officers. It is admitted by everybody with whom your reporter has talked that there should be some differential in pay, but the method of application is very difficult. Every member of the General Assembly gets the same pay, although it is apparent that many of them are underpaid and perhaps just as many are not worth to the State what it costs to keep them in Raleigh.

Daylight Saving Time Soon For Some 70 Million People

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The sun won't be up as high as usual when millions of Americans go to work next week, but it'll stay up longer after they get home.

Reason for the change is daylight saving time, which goes into effect in the most populous sections of the nation at 2 a.m. Sunday. At that moment, it suddenly will become 3 a.m.

The household will have to get up and stir around an hour earlier, but they'll have an extra hour of sunshine when the day's stint is done.

A national survey by the Elgin Observatory, Elgin, Ill., shows nearly 70 million Americans will go on the new schedule. The other 81 million will stick to standard time.

The shift will be made in New England, New York, New Jersey, Washington D.C., Delaware, California and Nevada, virtually all of Maryland, Pennsylvania, most of Illinois, and major cities in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

The South and the great central region of the United States will stay on regular time. Farmers say the cows don't come home until sundown, and there's no point in changing clocks if they can't change milking time.

Although daylight time customarily has ended the last Sunday in September, there are plans to extend it until the last Sunday in October this year in the North-eastern states.

New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Pittsburgh, Pa., already have added the extra month of "fast" time, and other states in the region may do so. Lawmakers are pondering the idea in Philadelphia, Maine, Chicago and New Jersey.

All financial and commodity markets in New York City and New York State will shift automatically to daylight time.

The idea of switching clocks to grab an extra hour of daylight activity during the long days of the warm season was originated nearly 50 years ago by an Englishman William Willett. Said he:

"While daylight surrounds us, cheerfulness reigns and courage is bred for the struggle of life."

Big appeal of the early time is in industrial areas, where it may mean less electricity for lighting. It also provides more after-work daylight for leisure of workers.

In some states daylight time is confined only to individual communities. For instance, in New Mexico, the only place going on the new schedule is the atomic city of Los Alamos.

In Missouri, only St. Louis goes on "fast" time. Also in Montana, Butte is the only point doing so.

Manda N.D., alone makes the change in the Dakotas.

But in other states where no statewide plan applies, many cities make the shift individually. This is true in the northern half of Ohio, much of Illinois, the eastern half of Indiana, and a big swath of central Kentucky, nearly all over Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Although Pennsylvania doesn't legally authorize daylight saving time, even the state capitol at Harrisburg observes it by changing work hours to conform with the plan.

Indianapolis and about 30 other cities in eastern Indiana have decided to go on "Eastern" time on a year-round basis, starting Sunday.

Vermont, which has observed daylight time for years, made it legal this year for the first time.

In West Virginia, Wheeling and the northern panhandle of the state will observe "fast" time, but the bulk of the state will not. The niche of Virginia adjoining the Washington, D.C., area also will do so.

Regular time will continue throughout the South the Southwest, most of the Western states and Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska and Kansas.

The Elgin Observatory report said that when the change comes, 216,317,398 watches and clocks will have to be reset.

Nearly Drowned In Rescue Effort

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—Paul Kiah, 14, tried to save his pet dog from the swollen Merrimack River yesterday, and might have drowned if it weren't for three policemen.

The boy boarded a raft when he saw the dog being carried down stream. Passersby saw the danger into which the boy was floating and called policemen.

Capt. Francis M. O'Loughlin shouted to the boy to grab the branch of a tree overhanging the river. As the boy did so, he fell into the swirling water.

O'Loughlin waded shoulder deep and snatched the boy. The other two officers helped them ashore. The dog apparently drowned.

Hunch Paid Off, Money For Drive

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Mrs. Donald E. Jackson Jr., a division commander in the Lying-in Hospital's building fund drive, went out to Lincoln Downs and played a horse "strictly on a hunch."

The horse paid $17.40. Mrs. Jackson yesterday turned the money over to the maternity hospital campaign fund. The name of the horse: "Expectant."

SEASONAL ECONOMY
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A mild winter saved Hartford taxpayers $100,000. Only about $20,000 of the $120,000 set aside for snow removal was spent.

OFF TO RACES—Lord Francis Russell, 4, aided by his mother, the Duchess of Bedford, and Clifton Brown, head of Bedford family zoo, rides pet llama at Woburn Abbey, England.

LOOK OUT FOR BICYCLES!
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Police said 12-year-old Wilson Battorf crashed into the side of a moving auto while riding his bicycle. Wilson was not injured and his bike was not damaged. Damage to Mark P. Galletti's car cost $25 to repair.

Van Gogh Film Serious; Art Lovers Can Relax

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Art lovers need not worry. MGM is not going to shoot the life of painter Vincent van Gogh as "Lend an Ear."

The studio is planning a serious and artistic film based on the career of van Gogh, who once slashed off an ear in a fit of madness. The project is in the able hands of John Houseman, who produced such films as "The Bad and the Beautiful" and "Julius Caesar."
"We plan to show van Gogh in three different lights," the producer explained. "1. As a very difficult man; 2. As a mystic who was greatly interested in religion; 3. As a painter, whose mysticism affected his work."
"We'll use between 25 and 30 authentic paintings in the picture, plus a number of reproductions in scenes where they won't be seen close-up. There are several good van Goghs in this area—Edward

G. Robinson has three—and we are making arrangements to borrow others from collectors elsewhere. The paintings will be used liberally to establish locales."
The studio managed to land Kirk Douglas as van Gogh. He had originally planned to film the artist's life for his own company, but gave up the project when it appeared that MGM had priority. Houseman displayed some self-portraits of van Gogh which bear an amazing resemblance to Douglas.

Making the classics into popular fare is no new task for Houseman, who worked with Orson Welles in the old Mercury Theater days. He is credited by many former Mercuryites as being the man who kept Welles' peculiar genius under control.

His Oratorical Foot In Mouth

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The English visitor has departed and Mayor Thomas B. Bryan has resolved to keep his oratorical foot out of his mouth. His honor, introducing Michael Alcock of Richmond, Surrey, England, to a Council meeting said: "Mr. Alcock has no business here."

Then, trying to be helpful when the surprised visitor arose to say a few words, the mayor interposed: "No one has asked you to talk."
Bryan explained he just meant (1) Alcock wasn't on hand to ask for anything, and (2) Alcock wasn't obligated to make a speech unless he wanted to.

CARROLLTON, Ga. (AP)—Patty Berg was one of the favorites today in the fifth Carrollton Women's Open.

Misc. Berg won this event its first year—1950, and the 217 she posted for 54 holes still stands as the record.

The tournament begins today over the Sunset Hills Country Club course—a nine-hole layout of 3,155 yards with a par of 36 for men and 38 for women.

Louise Suggs is the defending champion and only two-time winner of this event but business commitments prevented her from entering this year.

The field of 21 professionals and six amateurs included Babe Zaharias, Betsey Rawls, a former winner here; Betty Hicks, Betty Dodd, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, winner of last week's Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont, Tex.; Marlene Bauer, Jackie Fung, Joyce Ziske, Dot Kirby, Mickey Wright, and Mary Lena Faulk.

Play Guilford

ager of the club. He has several outstanding college and former professional players on his squad.

Either Tom Pridden or Vince Jones will start on the mound, according to Kennedy.

The remainder of the lineup has been named and includes: Ralph Britt behind the plate, Barry Jones at first base, Millard Webb at second base, Pete Stewart at third base, Kennedy at shortstop, Sam Still in left field, Streeter Tugwell in center field, and Claude King in right field.

Britt and King are former East Carolina College athletes. Britt was outstanding in football and baseball and King in football and golf. King is a veteran of the semi-pro league, having played in this league last summer.

Also on the roster are Roy Vick, pitcher; Jim Allen, outfielder; Johnny Hinson, pitcher; and Fred Pittman, pitcher.

Farmville will be out to better their second place finish of last year. It took over the Rocky Mount franchise about mid-way the season and went on to cop runner-up honors.

Kennedy figures he has a pretty formidable ball club and is asking support of the Farmville townspeople.

The game is to be played in the Farmville Park starting at 8 p.m.

Upset Lad Faces Trabert Next In Tennis Tourney

HOUSTON (AP)—Bernard Batzen with one major upset behind him, tackled top-seeded Tony Trabert today in a semifinal match of the 21st annual River-Oaks Tennis Tournament.

Bartzen, national clay courts champion and seeded sixth, yesterday upset third-seeded Hamilton Richardson in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6.

Trabert took a quick quarter-final match from Sammy Giamalva, University of Texas sophomore, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

The second half of the semifinals will be played tomorrow with National Champion Vic Seixas meeting the winner between Dick Savitt, the defending champion, and fifth-seeded Tom Brown of San Francisco.

Seixas moved into the semifinals a fourth straight year with an easy 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 decision over Armando Vieira, Brazil's No. 1 Davis Cup player.

Dodgers' Big Win Streak Leaves Alston Quite Calm

By ED WILKS The Associated Press

Walter Alston, the quiet man, watched passively as his Brooklyn Dodgers set a modern major league record by winning their 10th straight since the start of the season. Then he strolled back to the clubhouse, where he fouled off two questions and smacked a third.

The first was a knuckler, hard to handle. "How long can you keep going?"

"Alston" puffed his cigarette. "That's anybody's guess."

The second was a curve that hung up high. "Is it the spirit? Is it better than last year?"

Alston unbent his uniform shirt. "The spirit's always good when a team is winning."

The third was a fat one. "What's kept you winning?"

Alston loosened his trousers. "A combination. Hitting. Pitching. Fielding."

For a guy on the spot after the Brooks lost in '54, Alston wasn't much like a manager whose club had just won 10. He was more like Eddie Stanky after losing four.

The matter of factness was evident among all the Dodgers. "I was on a club (Chicago Cubs) that won 21 straight once," said Coach Billy Herman. "We ain't even half way there yet."

"Hell," said Duke Snider. "We still got 144 to play."

That's the way it was yesterday after the Brooklyn had become the first team since 1900 to win its first 10 games. To do it, they put the slug on Rob Roberts' unbeaten record, pasting the best right-hander in baseball and the Philadelphia Phils 14-4.

It was the only National League game played. New York at Pittsburgh was rained out. In the American, Washington knocked off first place Boston 1-0, Chicago whipped Detroit 9-1 and New York plastered Baltimore 14-2.

Roberts never had a chance against the Brooks, who now are after the all-time record of 12 straight opening victories by the 1884 Giants.

The Giants are next in Ebbets Field. Six and a half games back in sixth place, they're throwing Jim Hearn—not Sal Maglie—at the Dodgers and Johnny Podres tonight.

In the game at Washington, Bob Porterfield hooked up in a pitching duel with Tom Brewer and finally won it in the ninth as Pete Runnels singled home the lone run. Boston got just one runner as far as third against Porterfield, who gave three hits, walked three and fanned seven in winning his second decision. Brewer, 0-2, allowed five hits.

George Kell, his back troubles apparently a thing of the past, grand-slammed in the third to get Chicago's rout of the Tigers started.

BASEBALL RETURNS TO GREENVILLE TOMORROW

Manager Junior Yohn introduces his baseball team of the Coastal Plain Semi-Pro to local fans tomorrow night at Guy Smith Stadium. The Greenies meet Falkland in the lid-raiser.

Here is the chance for Greenville to get the great sport started again in the city. The calibre of ball might not be as high as the professional brand but a strong semi-pro club doesn't remain non-professional very long. Classes D, B and A leagues are hungry for new teams in baseball towns like Greenville.

With real support from the townspeople, the local club could be the cornerstone for a good pro outfit here sometime in the future. On the other hand, indifference on the part of local citizens will cause the club to meet the fate so many other teams have during the past several years—a complete fold-up.

Manager Yohn and several other baseball-minded individuals have done a great job getting this club organized and ready for the opener. It isn't easy whipping together an aggregation that local fans will support. Business Manager Floyd Nichols and Yohn have some of their way to scout players and hope to field a club that can win in the formidable Coastal Plain League.

The league consists of six teams. They are Greenville, Falkland, Farmville, New Bern, Williamston and Rocky Mount. This could be a big leg in the movement to reactivate the old Class D Coastal Plain pro league. Certainly Greenville fans don't want to be the ones that let down in this stride. (Support of the Greenies!)

NORTH CAROLINA HAS GREAT STOCK OF AUTO DRIVERS

Bill Widenhouse of Midland, N.C. yesterday recorded the fastest lap ever turned in by a modified stock car at the mile and three-eighths Darlington (S.C.) Speedway.

Widenhouse, driving a Cadillac-powered Chevrolet, was clocked at 42.8 seconds for one lap, 115.654 miles per hour.

This outstanding performance by a North Carolinian only brings to mind the top-quality drivers produced in the cornbread and collard state. In the Grand National Standings of the NASCAR, the top three drivers in 1954 were Tar Heels. Lee Petty of Randleman, Herb Thomas of Sanford and Buck Baker of Charlotte were 1, 2, 3. Jim Pascale of High Point, Jim Lewallen of Archdale and Ralph Ligurri of Fayetteville were also in the top ten.

Petty was the national champion, chalking up 8,649 points, 283 tallies ahead of the runner-up and defending champion, Herb Thomas.

Petty won seven out of 34 possible races; finished second five times; third six times; fourth four times and fifth three times. His consistent performances placed him among the top ten finishers in every race up to the last one. Ironically after he had clinched the title, a broken wheel hub put him out of the race on the 15th lap, and he finished in the last spot, 32nd position, nullifying his otherwise unblemished seasonal record.

$42,000 ADDED TO T. OF C. GOLF, OTHER SPORTS SHOTS Goose Tatum, $30,000-a-year clowning star of the Harlem Globetrotters basketball team, has been released by Abe Saperstein, owner. The big Negro disappeared after a 30-day suspension for breaking training rules.

Sponsors of the Tournament of Champions golf tournament at Las Vegas next week have added $2,000 to the prize money bringing the total to $37,000. The winner will collect $10,000 and every player in the select field of 21 is guaranteed at least $1,000.

The Milwaukee Braves have asked waivers on vet southpaw pitcher Dave Koslo for the purpose of giving him his outright release. From 1941 to 1953 Koslo was with the New York Giants.

Archie Moore received his license yesterday to fight Nino Valdes May 2 after another pair of doctors said the light heavyweight champ's heart is in good condition.

The Al Hirschberg writing the two-part series on Jimmy Piersall, Boston's sensational outfielder, in Saturday Evening Post is the brother of Dr. Ed Hirschberg, English instructor at East Carolina College.

Grimesland pitcher John Tripp hurled the second no-hitter by a Grimesland pitcher in the last two weeks here yesterday as he stopped Winterville without a hit or run, 3-0.

The 5-8, 160-pound sophomore right-hander struck out four Winterville batsmen and walked only one in the seven-inning masterpiece. He was using a knuckler very effectively and visitors were completely handuffed.

The defeat was Winterville's second in seven starts and the first loss by pitcher Bobby Coggins. The tall chunker struck out nine and allowed only three hits but the safeties came at strategic moments.

Grimesland scored all three of their runs in the last half of the sixth inning. Earl Hardee opened the frame by singling. He stole second base and was moved to 3rd on a sacrifice. Frankie Singleton squeezed him home and beat out the bunt for a hit. The next batter was walked and both runners advanced on a passed ball. Don Ferguson squeezed in Singleton and Coggins walked home the third run.

Singleton was the hitting leader for the locals. The speedy shortstop had two of Grimesland's three knockouts. Hardee collected the other single.

The win ended Grimesland's season and their final win-loss record stands as best in the county. They won seven and lost one under the auspices of Bob Williams and Paul Jones.

Take MY PLACE

By FRANCES SARAH MOORE

SYNOPSIS
When Landon McCrae returned to Windermere, Canada, from New York, her old beau, Scott Wylie, thought sure she'd marry him this time. But Scott was wrong. Landon meant only to care for her sister, Maggie Scarffe's household while the latter remained away for a T.B. cure, to look after Maggie's little daughter Merry-o and Maggie's husband, Eric. She tried to cheer them, to provide some recreation, such as visits to friends and to the Country club. It was here one evening that Landon met Kay Irish and when Eric danced with the lovely war widow, Landon was shocked with rage! Only Scott detected this secret jealousy and it worried him, terribly. It sent him for a final show-down with "his girl." Sincerely he tried to reason with Landon, again offering her a marriage, pointing out to her the folly of trying to live another woman's life and succeeding only in adding to the general confusion.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
Landon had borrowed Eric's car for the afternoon to drive out to Breck.
As usual, she felt the deep quiet, the almost lyrical sense of peace the moment she turned in through the wrought-iron gates. The lawns were well kept, the gardens magnificent, the greenhouses and clusters of buildings white with the sun. If young people had been coming and going from the main building or loitering with books on the stone steps, it might have been a college. But only one person was outside, a stoop-shouldered old gardener in his shirt sleeves trundling a wheelbarrow up the greenhouse ramp.
Riding up in the elevator, Landon thought, it's another world.
Maggie was wearing pink lipstick and a quilted silk bedjacket. Being a shut-in had faded her sun-tan, but nothing could dim her buoyancy. She wagged her freshly varnished fingernails. "One compensation for bedrest—a perfect manicure!"
Landon placed a tin of Rowena's shortbread on the bedside table and gave Maggie a bunch of nasturtiums.
"Gran will murder me," she confessed. "She is letting them go to seed for capers."
"Tell me how my garden grows!"
"Cut-worms had scissored off the sweet williams, and the long dry spell had played havoc with the lawn. But dreary news was taboo. The petunias are blooming like mad," said Landon. "And the morning glories are climbing over the trellis into your neighbor's yard."
Maggie laid the nasturtiums aside. "I am going to have pneumothorax."
"Is that good?" Landon asked doubtfully.
"It's the same thing for my lung as a splint for a broken leg, I'm very lucky to be able to take it. Some patients can't."
Tears lumped thick as a fist in Landon's throat. All the hours of patience and discipline and rules and rest hadn't crowded "I'm lucky!" out of Maggie's vocabulary. Landon finally found a space for her voice. "That's a fabulous bedjacket. New isn't it? I never saw it before."

Maggie crossed her arms and drew her shoulders. "Isn't it a dreak? Kay made it for me. Every stitch by hand, quilting and all."
"Kay Ireland? Has she been here?"
"The other evening. She and Eric—"
Landon sat bolt upright. "They came together, Kay and Eric?"
Maggie's expression was faintly puzzled. "Oh, often. Kay doesn't drive, so she cades rides."
"Parasitic, I think. She can afford taxis." All her first misgivings flooded back her lullid and suspicious re-awoke. Rowena's dismissal of the dance episode as harmless had thrown her off-guard. But this, Kay driving to Breck and back with Eric. Often... But Maggie must be worryingly alerted to her misgivings. Landon smiled effortfully. "I hardly know Kay, really."
"She's nice. Hand-made things make you feel so wickedly rich!" She looked up. "I am gaining pounds. I'll have to buy everything new." Her eyes widened with a picked up the nasturtiums again and hid her face in them. "I miss Eric so much. The way he laughs, and sings off-key and croaky. Even the way he sweats. Not profane, just loud and black and funny and uproarious." She was misty-eyed above the flowers. "Don't ever get married, Landon—don't ever get married, Landon—don't ever—unless to a man whose touch makes you feel washed in sunlight, whose kiss makes you a whole woman and lifts you on wings to a high flag-filled place in New York!" Here eyes widened with a funny look of wonderment. "For Pete's sake, me-lyrical!"
Landon laughed.
Maggie asked curiously "Darling, wasn't there anyone at all in New York?"
"No one with a kiss like that."
Maggie fluttered her fingers through the nasturtiums. "I like Scott Wylie, do you?"
"Well, Scott is nice."
"Yes, he is. He is. He is the sort of man who would soften a girl!"
"That's part of it too," Maggie said eagerly.
Landon shook her head. "Not enough. Not nearly enough, and you know it."
A nurse brought in a bowl of water for the nasturtiums. After she had gone, Maggie said wistfully, "I'm beginning to hear the swish of September. Winter is coming... The Sunday Nine o'clocks at Convocation hall, and the dean's teas, and Little Theater. You are going to join the Group, aren't you?" Eric said they've asked you."
"All the experience I've had is in college dramatics."
"You were quite good, though."
"Anyone can tie on an apron and say, 'Dinner is served.'"
"Don't be so modest! Anyway, it's not an amateur group. No one expects you to unleash shattering power. You'll be all right with Eric directing. He's one of the best directors they have did you know?"
Landon nodded.
Maggie said, "He is going out more, isn't he? I'm glad. For a while I was afraid of atrophy set-ing in to harden his social arteries."

Landon nodded again. "Bridge, a couple of times, and a Sunday afternoon barbecue at the Kennedys' beach. We took Merry-o. We swam. We... She stopped. The disturbingly redundant "we" laid undue stress on Maggie's aloneness; worse it robbed Maggie of something rightfully hers.
But Maggie was saying tranquilly, "I said you'd be good for Eric! I'm so thankful for you, Landon. So grateful. But you know, don't you?"
Landon nodded lamely. That "we" had grooved itself in her mind. It troubled her. Though why should it?
The small dry rustlings that Maggie heard in the night were soon everywhere. The ditches held their annual parade, hanging out banners of purple and gold. Landon stopped the car on her way out to Breck one afternoon and gathered a great armful of Michael daisies and reddening laurel and barberry.

"I almost brought some goldenrod," she told Maggie. "Only I didn't want to start an epidemic of hayfever."
Lightly, Maggie's hands touched the laurel. Her eyes were dreamy. "Eric is putting the storm windows, and gran is looking around for kettles and ladies and something to brew, and Merry-o is a proud first-grader starting back to school. I live the days with you, as I cross mine off."
"Long darling?"
"Twelve hours or so, by the clock."
But by the lonely heart?
"Figaro, Figaro, Figaro!" sang a robin on the windowsill, and Maggie turned her head. "Hello, are you still here? You'd better start south!"

And soon the robins were gone, the trees were bare, the skies heavy and gray with snow.
In November they learned that Maggie was to be allowed home for Christmas Day. As if at a signal the house sprang to vigorous life. The Boss lugged buckets and mops and dusters up to the attic for a clean sweep from rafters to foundations.
"I want every inch of our house shining for Mrs. Scarffe," she said. "She's only coming for the one day." Landon protested. "She won't go poking in corners for dust. Besides, the house is clean as a whistle as it is."
"Nevertheless," said the Boss, in a solid don't-cross-me tone. Landon might as well have tried to talk to a cement block.
Rowena began measuring and cutting fruit for puddings and cakes. Merry-o took to cross-stitching a bookmark. Eric dusted off his workshop bench and blue-printed a set of bookshelves for the living room. Caught up and carried along on the crest if excitement, Landon decided to make new slipcovers for the chesterfield.

"Lime green, I think," she told Eric over a midnight snack in the kitchen. "I wonder if they are hard to make?"
"Why not just buy them read-made?" he suggested.

Citations Voted 3 Local Amateur Radio Operators

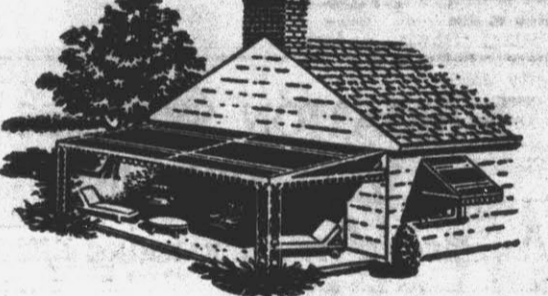

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Three Greenville, North Carolina, area radio amateurs have been named to receive certificates of merit for emergency service during the 1954 hurricane season.
Recipients of the awards are William E. Phelps Jr., 1100 Fairfax Ave.; Jack Edwards Jr., 955 Shady Lane, both of Greenville; and Samuel J. Bradley, Parmele.

The citations were voted by the judges of the annual Edison Radio Amateur Award sponsored by General Electric's tube department. In granting the hurricane citations, the judges pointed out that an unparalleled number of amateur radio operators joined in setting up emergency radio networks during hurricanes "Carol," "Edna" and "Hazel." The field reports compiled by the American Radio Relay League Commission also was extended to "many radio amateurs who spent long hours standing by to help if needed—but whose hurricane vigils unfortunately are unrecorded."
Award judges were E. Roland Hariman, president, American National

N.C. Assembly Opposes Trend

WASHINGTON—State legislatures with the exception of North Carolina are showing a "more hopeful trend" in opening their doors to the press, J. Russell Wiggins chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said yesterday.
In a report to the organization's Freedom of Information Committee, Wiggins said North Carolina's Legislature had enlarged the right of its committees to make their proceedings secret.
Wiggins is managing editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald.

Open To Kindergarten, Nursery Applications

Applications for admission to the Nursery and Kindergarten at East Carolina College are now being received.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Dean of the College, said that applications will be received in his office on the second floor of the Administration Building at any time between now and May 2.

In view of the great interest shown in the Nursery School and Kindergarten, Jenkins said, all applications will be placed in a box and drawn sometimes between May 2 and May 5. Children will be admitted to both the Nursery School and the Kindergarten on the basis of this drawing. The first ten boys and the first ten girls drawn will comprise the Kindergarten. Names drawn after this will be placed on a waiting list in accordance with when the name was drawn from the box. Parents will be notified of the results of this drawing sometime after May 5.

The following rules and regulations govern admission to the Nursery School:

a. Children reaching their third birthday and not having passed their fourth birthday on June 15 of the year in which they plan to attend.

b. Enrollment in Nursery School is limited to sixteen children, preferably eight boys and eight girls.

c. Applications for admission to Nursery School will not be accepted by the College after May 2 of the year in which the child is eligible. Applications will therefore be accepted for children under three years of age only on condition that they will reach their third birthday on or before June 15 of the year of eligibility.

d. Children admitted to Nursery School in September will be permitted to continue their work until school closes in June.

e. Attendance at the Nursery School is no guarantee of admittance to the Kindergarten. The first eight eligible boys and the first eight eligible girls whose names are drawn from the box comprise the class.

f. Tuition per quarter is $30. The school year between September and June is divided into approximately three equal quarters.

The following rules and regulations govern admission to the Kindergarten:

a. Children reaching their fifth birthday and not having passed their sixth birthday on October 15 of the year in which they plan to attend.

b. Enrollment in Kindergarten is limited to twenty pupils, ten boys and ten girls.

c. Applications for admission to Kindergarten will not be accepted by the College after May 2 of the year in which the child is eligible. Applications will therefore be accepted for children under five years of age only on condition that they will reach their fifth birthday on or before October 15 of the year of eligibility.

d. Children admitted to Kindergarten in September will be permitted to continue their work until school closes in June. As a child who becomes six during the school year will be permitted to complete the year.

Tuition per quarter is $30. The school year between September and June is divided into approximately three equal quarters.

DuPont Plant To Have Open House

The first full scale open house for the DuPont Co. Kinston plant will be held from May 16 through May 20 in connection with the nation's second observance of Chemical Progress Week.

While the open house is designed for the general public in this area, tickets will be required for admission so as to permit the spacing of the many visitors expected over the entire period, thus eliminating congestion. Anyone interested in visiting the plant may secure tickets from any DuPont employee.

The week-long open house will give relatives and guests of employees and the general public an opportunity to view the manufacturing process for Dacron polyester fibre, the large variety of uses for Dacron, the company's operating policies and the Kinston plant itself.

The highlight of the open house will be tours through the plant each evening between 7 and 10 p.m. The night of May 20 has been set aside for colored employees and their guests.

"The primary purpose of this open house," explains W. E. Gladding, plant manager, "is to give our many friends in the local communities a chance to see a modern industrial plant that typifies the chemical industry. Through these visits we hope that the people in this immediate area will become better acquainted with our plant and the DuPont company."

John Mayo presided and called the meeting to order. The secretary, Mrs. Irvin Taylor, read the minutes of the last meeting which stood approved. Plans were discussed and made for the kitchen in the church. A special love offering for home mission was received on Sunday at worship services and this report was made and was very satisfactory.

Mrs. W. O. Grimes then read a few verses of scripture and discussed in the most interesting and pleasing manner "The Baptist Working in Hong Kong." Others who assisted her with the program were Mrs. Alton Carson, Mrs. Irving Taylor and Mrs. R. I. Taylor Jr. The program was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Grimes.

On Monday night in the Recreation Room of the Baptist Church, the Brotherhood served a barbecue and brunswick stew supper to the members of the choir.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Tom N. Cooper. There were 19 present to enjoy the fellowship and meal.

The vacation Bible School Clinic was held in the Baptist Church on Tuesday, April 19. This was the Southern Roanoke Association.

The meeting was opened with a song, scripture and prayer. After this the guests were registered.

A demonstration of the Joint Worship Service was given by the leader, Miss Imogene Douglas of Rocky Mount First Baptist Church and the pianist, Mrs. S. H. Shearin of Stoney Creek. Following this were simultaneous conferences for pastors, general superintendents, principals and others given by the Rev. E. G. Cole and Miss Hilda Mayo; Nursery conference given by Miss Juanita Davis of Middlesex; Beginner department given by Mrs. J. C. Parker of the Rocky Mount First Baptist Church; Primary department by Mrs. Clyde Daniels of Robersonville; the Junior department by Mrs. L. Grady Burgess of Greenville Memorial Baptist Church; and the Intermediate department by Mrs. E. W. Holmes of Farmville.

Lunch was then enjoyed in the Recreation Hall, and about 1:30 there was a general conference for everyone. The six conferences which met before noon were continued and finished.

New York Paper Wins Possession Of Ayers Trophy

PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune has won its ninth F. Wayland Ayer cup for excellence in typography, giving it permanent possession of the present cup.

The award was announced yesterday by the N. W. Ayer & Son advertising firm which has conducted the contest for 25 years. Judging was on March 10 issues of 866 English language daily newspapers.

First honorable mentions went to the Winston-Salem, N. C. Jour. 10,000 and 50,000, and to the morning 50,000 circulation; to the Iron Mountain, Mich., News, for newspapers with circulation between 1,000 and 50,000, and to the morning Herald, Hagerstown, Md., for newspapers with less than 10,000 circulation.

Judge Calls For Lesser Sentence Than Law Allows

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A judge who sentenced William Kay to life imprisonment for murder pleaded before the state pardons board yesterday for Kay's release.

Judge L. Stauffer Oliver said that Kay, 30, and the winner of five battle stars in World War II, deserved "a lesser sentence" than that required by law.

Kay confessed the slaying, which occurred during a robbery attempt, after he returned from service. He told Judge Oliver that he hoped he (Kay) would be killed in the war because his conscience bothered him.

An accomplice has since been released from prison and Oliver told the pardons board "it didn't seem fair to me that two men should get such differing terms for the same crime."

Quiet Return To Paris Is In Store

PARIS (AP)—The last time German soldiers entered Paris they goosestepped in legions behind Hitler's swastikas. Next time they will move in slowly, singly and almost humbly.

They came as conquerors in 1940 to begin four long years of Nazi occupation following the collapse of French defenses. Now they will be fellow members of a defense system designed to protect the Western world.

For a long time there won't be many German soldiers in the French capital. They will scarcely be noticed outside military and political circles. But their presence will be the first impact on the Paris scene of West German rearmament—an issue which has aroused and divided this nation more than two years.

Present plans call for the Bonn government to be admitted into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as its 15th member by May 12 at the latest. The foreign ministers of NATO are to assemble here the second week of May to welcome West Germany into the organization.

When West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer takes his seat at the NATO table, his government will be brought officially into all NATO plans and projects.

After 43 Years, He Plans A Rest

EASTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—George H. Halford, 68, a coal dealer in Easthampton 43 years, put an advertisement in the local paper yesterday saying:

"I have waited a long time for a vacation. I wanted it before the rocking chair days got me."

He sold his business and then he left for a long vacation.

In 43 years, he said, he has taken only two one-week vacations.

Refuse To Ban Medical License For Tax Evasion

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals has refused to even consider the attempt of the state Board of Medical Examiners to revoke the license of a physician convicted of income tax evasion.

The court ruled yesterday there was no appeal from the circuit court decision that income tax evasion does not justify revocation of a medical license.

The board had lifted the license of Dr. Napoleon B. Stewart, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates from 1942 to 1950. The Prince Georges County physician was convicted of evading more than $15,000 in income taxes for 1944 through 1946.

Judge Charles C. Marbury refused to allow the revocation after Dr. Stewart appealed.

Record Run For N.C. Soil Tests

RALEIGH (AP)—A record-breaking total of 54,000 soil samples were handled by the State Department of Agriculture's soil testing division between Jan. 1 and April 15.

This compared with 49,000 for the same period last year. Dr. S. L. Trisdale, head of the soil testing division, reported yesterday. He said the soil testing staff is now catching up with its work after handling the big volume of soil samples since Jan. 1.

"We are now able to complete analysis reports and fertilizing recommendations within two weeks of the receipt of samples," Dr. Trisdale said. "By early May we hope to be in position to complete reports and recommendations within a week."
