Binh Xuyen from both Nationalist army headquarters and the headquarters of the National Surete, or security police, where there had been some hand-to-hand fighting.

Diem met the challenge promptly by declaring all-out war on the Binh Xuyen. He had held off direct military intervention because of French fears such action would touch off civil war.

Casualties were estimated in first reports at 120 dead and 300 wounded. Hospitals were filled with the dead and dying.

Intensive tests were ordered after it was reported that eight children had been stricken by polio—one fatally—within a week of receiving their first polio shots.

Robersonville Junior Class To Present Play On Friday

The Robersonville Junior Class, after much hard work, is finally ready to present their play, "Oh! Promise Me!" by Pete Williams, on Friday night, April 29, in the Robersonville High School auditorium at 8:15. The play, a hilarious comedy, is about a wealthy young man, Barry Hollis, Barry at 21 has just graduated from Princeton, thereby coming into his late father's will. Although he has gained the name of a playboy, he resolves to settle down and become a worthy member of his community. On the train back from Princeton he meets and falls immediately in love with Gladys Vance. He persuades his aunt, with whom he makes his home, to send Gladys a note inviting her for a visit. He also sends a note to Patsie Linden, a dancer and an old flame of his, to send his frat pin back. The notes get mixed. Patsie arrives with her mother, an ex-burlesque queen, and threatens a breach of promise suit unless Barry marries Patsie immediately. Then Barry gets a bright idea: He couldn't possibly marry Patsie if he had a wife, so he gets Ann Furber, the cook, Betty Ann Rogerson; Ann Furber, a young actress, Linda Bullock; Patsie Linden, a dancer, Anna Whitfield; Mrs. Linden, Patsie's mother, Janie Lou Thompson; Gladys Vance, a dream girl, Elizabeth Ann Everette; Ralph Sangers, a man with a purpose, Lewis Burch; and Mrs. Jones, a young mother, Joyce Davenport.

Complications set in when Barry is arrested for kidnapping the baby. Then, to top the situation, he is informed that his estate has dwindled to almost nothing. Everybody leaves him—that is, except one. Who she is, this article won't reveal, but she helps bring the play to a surprising finish amid a whirlwind of laughter.

The characters in the play are: Seth Miller, a lawyer, played by Everett James; Furber, a butler, Jerry House; Barry Hollis, the young millionaire, Clinton House; Mrs. Sue Hollis, Barry's aunt, Phyllis House; June Hollis, Barry's young sister, Carolyn Forbes; Kathleen, the cook, Betty Ann Rogerson; Ann Furber, a young actress, Linda Bullock; Patsie Linden, a dancer, Anna Whitfield; Mrs. Linden, Patsie's mother, Janie Lou Thompson; Gladys Vance, a dream girl, Elizabeth Ann Everette; Ralph Sangers, a man with a purpose, Lewis Burch; and Mrs. Jones, a young mother, Joyce Davenport.

Raines - Tripp Marriage Vows Spoken In Double Ring Ceremony

AHOSKIE—Miss Margie O'Neal Tripp, daughter of Mrs. Mary O'Neal Tripp of Ahoskie and the late Jake Tripp, became the bride of Luri A. Raines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ann Howell, niece of the bridegroom, in the Hickory Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter Reynolds.

A program of wedding music was presented prior to the ceremony by Mrs. Henry Lewis Miller of Murfreesboro, pianist, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Beale and Arthur Lee Wiggins, soloists.

The bride, given in marriage by Harold W. Chamblee, wore a ballerina length gown of white hand clipped Chantilly lace over tulle and taffeta fashioned with a bolero jacket forming long pointed sleeves. Her two-tiered veil of imported illusion was attached to a coronet of Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bridal prayer book topped with a white orchid showered with lilies of the valley and satin streamers.

Mrs. A. G. Perry Jr. of Newport News, Va. attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of orchid nylon net designed with a strapless bodice and matching stole. Her headpiece was a bandeau of net and flowers and she carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Tripp, cousin of the bride, and Miss Martha Jean Raines, sister of the bridegroom, both of Suffolk, Va., Miss Myrtle White of Williamston, and Mrs. J. Lewis Story of Ahoskie. Junior bridesmaids were Jane Wright Chamblee of Ahoskie and Patricia Ann Howell, niece of the bridegroom, of Chuckatuck, Va. They wore dresses in pastel shades similar to the honor attendant's and also carried nosegays of spring flowers.

Randolph A. Raines of Suffolk, Va. served as his brother's best man. Ushers were J. B. Spivey, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Milton S. Epperson, both of Suffolk, Va., A. G. Perry Jr. of Newport News, Va. and Washington, D. C., and Gene Early of Ahoskie.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Tripp wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Raines, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a navy dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Greenville High School, Greenville, N. C. For the past three years she has been employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company in Ahoskie. The bridegroom has recently completed four years in the U. S. Air Force and is now associated in business with his father.

For travel, Mrs. Raines changed to a navy and white three-piece costume with navy and white accessories and her bridal orchid.

Governor Of 2nd District Speaks At Altrusa Club Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Mary Dunn and Miss Elizabeth Quinley were gracious hostesses to the Altrusa Club's eighth birthday dinner at the Woman's Club. April is known far and wide as Altrusa's birthday month. Altrusa International was organized 38 years ago.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Dunn, who in a most unique rhyme introduced each guest and member to the District Governor and invited them into the dining room where a three course dinner was served.

The table was lovely with its color note of green and white. A beautiful birthday cake iced in white and decorated in green and white graced one end of the table while at the other end was an arrangement of white gladioli with all nine green tapers burning in three branch silver candelabra entwined with greenery. The birthday cake was cut and served with dessert course. After dinner, Mrs. Boykin, president of the club, in her most sincere manner made Mrs. Alexander feel most welcome and then presented her to the club as guest speaker.

Mrs. Alexander spoke on "Altrusa—First Classified Woman's Service Club." Luellie Alexander was born in Georgia, later married and moved to Rocky Mount. After her husband's death she moved to Jacksonville, Fla., where she holds a position with the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Last year she was promoted to Reviewer of Agents, a position held by no other woman in the State.

Mrs. Alexander in her pleasant and entertaining manner brought a challenging and informative message to the club and guests.

Special guests were Mrs. John D. Messick and Mrs. Ethel Baker.

The hostesses and club presented Mrs. Alexander with a gift and each club member received a gift which gave the dinner party the final birthday note.

Immediately following the dinner meeting Mrs. Alexander held a workshop for Board members of the club.

Could Be An Excuse For Delay

If the House gives its approval, as did the Senate, to the bill aimed at cleaning up pollution in Tar River, it should not cause any alteration in Greenville's plans for doing its part to eliminate pollution of the Tar.

As passed by the Senate, the bill will set 1962 as the date after which municipalities will be prohibited to dump raw sewage into the Tar and industries likewise will be prohibited from polluting the river.

We trust the 1962 date set forth in the bill will not cause Greenville to delay its plans for a sewage disposal plant. Had not the matter of a deadline on pollution of the river come up in this session, we feel sure Greenville would have had a sewage disposal plant in operation long before 1962. Now that it appears certain the 1962 deadline will become law, we trust the city will not delay that time the construction of a sewage disposal plant.

Construction of a sewage disposal plant for Greenville is going to require a major capital outlay by the city Utilities Commission. It is probable that a bond issue, approved by the voters of the city, will be required to provide at least a portion of the money to finance the project. A site already has been purchased for the future plant and alterations in the city sewer system are being made with the idea of carrying sewage to the plant site. At the same time, tentative plans already are being considered for the construction of the plant.

The fact that the city will have another seven years before it is required by law to treat its sewage before dumping it into the river should not encourage the Utilities Commission to put off any longer than absolutely necessary the completion of the project.

It may be tempting to do so, but we do not believe such action would be in the interest of Greenville or the surrounding area through which the river flows.

It Is Well They Reconsidered

It is well the House of Representatives is giving another look at the proposal for annual sessions of the General Assembly.

It shouldn't be at all surprising if the measure obtains the necessary two-thirds vote in the House on the second go-round.

The complexity of state matters, the difficulty of budgeting state expenditures and anticipated revenues two years in advance, and a multitude of other factors has attracted a great deal of support for the idea of annual sessions of the General Assembly. Tuesday's vote in the House in which 69 representatives voted for the annual sessions amendment and only 38 opposed it is indicative of the fact that the overwhelming majority of the House members think annual legislative sessions would greatly benefit the state. The measure failed by three votes on the first ballot, however, because 72 votes are necessary to meet the three-fifths majority required for bills on constitutional amendments.

Although annual sessions would cost the state additional money and would require a legislator's time in Raleigh every year instead of every two years, it appears to us a wise move for North Carolina at this time. It would enable the legislature to provide more efficient fiscal policies for the state operations to more nearly meet the needs of the people of North Carolina from year to year.

The Reflector feels the legislators should give the proposal favorable action in order that the people of the state can determine whether they want to continue legislative sessions every other year, or put legislative sessions on an annual basis.

Gov. Hodges' Pre-Season Campaign Jaunt

Those who may hold doubts that Gov. Hodges intends to seek a full term as North Carolina's chief executive next year should have had their doubts dispelled last week as the governor made public appearances at three big celebrations in the eastern part of the state.

Away from his office for a day and a half on the jaunt, Gov. Hodges had his best smile and a firm handshake for hundreds of farmers and business leaders who attended the celebrations at Farmville, Fairmont and Bladenboro. He talked like a governor in his formal addresses, and he chatted and listened like a candidate with the people with whom he came in contact.

With the legislative session reaching its crucial point, Gov. Hodges could have begged off the three eastern appearances in good grace. The fact that he didn't indicate to us he was anxious to shake as many hands as possible in the tobacco region where his proposed tobacco tax doubtlessly has pulled his popularity rating down a few points.

Although his forthright stands on highly controversial issues before the legislature haven't made Gov. Hodges look much like a candidate, his visit east last week showed he fits very well into the role of a campaigner.

MEASUREMENTS
The other day a workman was measuring our windows to fit some storm sashes. He was extremely precise. Probably no one else has ever calculated to the sixteenth of an inch the exact size of the openings.

And yet his measurements, careful as they were, failed altogether to record the important statistics about the windows. What matters, as we live in the house, is how much light and air they let in, and how our hearts are lifted by the view we see from them. And this sort of thing we cannot really measure at all. Measuring is important. We do it all the time—weights and prices, lengths and breadths, shoe and shirt sizes. But the really important things in life, the things we work and fight for—freedom, love, happiness, and so forth—we have no scales or rulers to compute.

We live in an infinity of space and an eternity of time beyond our reckoning. Our recorded history is but a speck on the calendar of time. Our mightiest works are hardly scratches on the surface of one of the smaller orbs in the universe. We know not whence our spirits come, nor whither they go.

In fact, we had better stop saying, "Man is the measure of all things," and say instead, "What is man that Thou art mindful of him?"

High Court Solved Nothing

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court said what segregation does to the colored, but they didn't tell what non-segregation will do to the white!

"This remark, now being heard all over the South, indicates the kind of troubled and resentful response that white Southerners are giving to the recent decision of the Supreme Court outlawing segregation in the public schools.

The Court has made its decision, there is nothing more to be said, and only details remain now to be settled.

Such a complacent, relieved assumption is typical of the attitude held by Northerners. But as far as the Deep South is concerned, the Court's decision has not really settled anything, and the arranging of the details may well involve us for another generation or more.

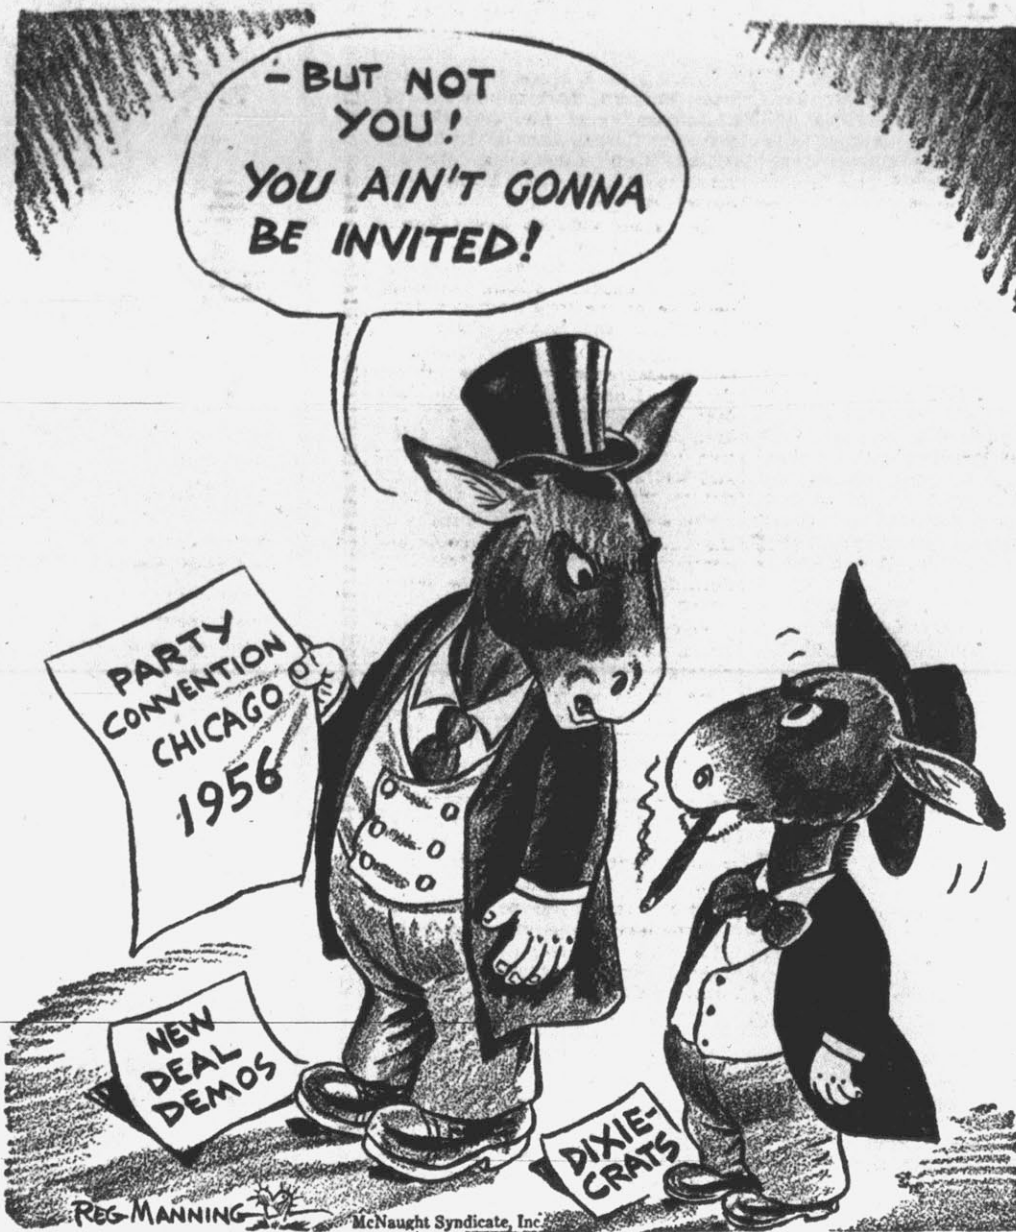

VIEWPOINT FROM THE SOUTH—The paragraphs quoted here were written by Norman A. Britton, who was born in New York, but is now a member of the Faculty of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It represents a viewpoint which the South feels is not understood or recognized by the rest of the country.

Mr. Britton's article was first sent to a national weekly of vast circulation. After keeping it a month, the editor returned it three days after the Supreme Court ruling on the ground that it was "rather untimely." It was subsequently published in the Anti-Clash Review, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

The magazine which rejected the article recently ran one which argued that implementing the high tribunal's holding would cause no trouble in Dixie. Although written by a white woman, she is a member of the Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

NON-SEGREGATION DIFFICULTIES—I suppose, continues Mr. Britton, "that segregation will be eliminated in Southern schools during the course

Go-Rut, Or Stay-At-Home Rut

Are you in the go-rut or stay-at-home-rut? With me, there's no in between. Recently I've been in both, but right now it's go-go-go.

Tonight it's "Brigadoon" at the College Theater. Saw the dress rehearsal and liked it well enough to hire a baby sitter for the production. Tomorrow night it's the hobby show at Elm Street Park.

Naturally I have a special interest in the hobby show. I'm in it with the amateur radio rig in action. With the help of some yet unknown individual I'm going to string an antenna up between two of the highest trees I can find at Elm Street Park and tune the rig up. No danger of it not working; I have a schedule arranged with Ray Martin, College View Apartments, across town. When you want to show off a rig radio conditions are at their worst, so I'm taking no chances. Ray and I can talk under any conditions and I plan to have him operate the fixed station while I ride around town talking from the car to illustrate how the mobile works.

Air Freight Booming

By ELMER ROESSNER
Nineteen cities got their initial supply of Salk polio vaccine by air. It was flown by Emory Air Freight from Parke-Davis in Detroit.

About once a week another pair of California seals is hoisted aboard a Swiss airplane for some zoo in Europe.

A pair of elephants flew all the way from India to New York. Their wings were a Seaboard & Western plane. Now that India has lifted restrictions on the export of animals for experimental purposes, the "monkey lifts" will resume. (Crews hate them. They smell.)

All the furniture for the 400-room Tequedama Hotel in Bogota was flown in twelve cargo clipper flights from Groton, Conn., to Colombia.

Air cargo has come of age. So much so that Willis G. Lipscomb, Pan American vice-president, predicts: "Within the next ten years air-line revenue from cargo will equal, if not surpass, passenger revenues."

Air freight is, of course, generally faster than other transport. This reduces losses on perishables and has opened up many new markets. Fresh eggs are flown to Alaska, Hawaiian orchids to American cities, fresh fish to ice-blocked Montreal in winter, ripe bananas from Guatemala to New Orleans.

Surprisingly, air freight is sometimes cheaper, too. For instance, soda fountains weighing 11,796 pounds were flown from Chicago to Balboa for $2,672.66. By surface transport, the bill would have been $2,870. Household furnishings of Ambassador Gerald A. Drew were flown from Miami to La Paz, Bolivia, for $300 less than the price by sea.

Speeding replacement parts to construction jobs in far corners of the world has saved millions of dollars. Flying parts and specialists to disabled ships around the globe has kept the air lines "competition" going. And the flying medicines in emergencies has saved countless lives.

Less packaging and handling often lower costs by air. Slick, Flying Tiger and other domestic air freighters have specialized in shipping garments on racks. They need no boxes and require no pressing on arrival.

Strange things have been freighted by air. Among Pan American's catalogue of curiosities are a 10-ton cotton gin, a 200-foot radio tower (in sections), tons of movie film frozen to prevent spoilage, Queen Elizabeth's horse, Landau, two boa constrictors, 48 flamingos, 50 penguins, a kiwi and tropical fish, uncountable because they multiply in transit.

ACCOUNTANTS DEMAND PROFESSIONAL TREATMENT
The American Institute of Accountants wants cities to know that members are professionals. The Institute has issued a statement decrying the action of those cities who award auditing contracts on a bid basis. That, it says, is as bad as hiring appraisers, special attorneys or architects on a bid basis.

However, it says, a ceiling on per diem charges would be acceptable.

FEW BAR OLDER MEN, BUT MOST LIKE YOUNGER

Only 16 per cent of 427 companies surveyed by the Sales Executives Club of New York admit having a definite policy against hiring men over 45. However, almost all companies reporting said they had a strong preference for men between 31 and 45. Half of the executives who said they prefer younger men were themselves over 45.

Smaller companies, the survey found, have less bias against older men than have large corporations. Pension plans in the larger corporations are a factor.

Fist-Shaking After Ten Years

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The great fact of history 10 years after American and Russian soldiers shook hands gingerly on the River Elbe is that both sides now are shaking fists at each other.

The allies whose handclasp in comradeship then sealed the doom of Adolf Hitler's ideology are now separated by mutually expressed doubts and fears. They say our ideology threatens them, and we say their ideology threatens us.

The dismal regret in the long view of time is that the wartime unity of the two greatest hemispheric powers has evaporated in a tug-of-war.

For the brief moment that handclasp at Torun there was one world, one common victory. All the blood and sweat and tears it cost were repaid in a splendid bright second.

And then everybody on both sides went back to being himself—and there were two worlds. There have been two big worlds ever since.

Looking back across this crowded decade I suppose it is wistfully foolish to think that one moment of unity could last forever. But surely all wars that end in a hand-clasp of strange allies must carry with it the hope in the tired hearts of all. "This is the last one. Surely now there won't be another."

I was among a group of war correspondents who covered the grand linkup meeting of the American and Russian armies at the Elbe.

It was sad then, and it is sad now to recall, how the purpose that had made us one disappeared day by day in the harsh discoveries of the differences between us.

We were an army that ate our own starchy packaged and dehydrated food and we moved in the vehicles that our own people back home had built for us.

The Russians moved across Germany like locusts, living on the land as they traveled, taking whatever they needed. They took bread from this house, a horse from this farmer, a wagon here, a car there.

They were people two generations behind the Americans in every way but one. Each soldier carried a modern sub-nosed multi-fire weapon. He was a hobo in a dirty baggy suit—but he had fire-power, the firepower that had destroyed the less numerous but better-trained German army.

When we met, we met warily. I suppose the average Russian soldier's first thought on seeing the first American soldier was, "This guy looks pretty much like another German."

And I do recall a young officer saying after his first disbelieving sight of the Russians swarming across the landscape: "This guy looks pretty much like another German."

"Is this a riot—or an army?" But we shook hands and broke bread and beans, drank long draughts of whatever spirits our hoarded stores or the German country-side provided, and trusted each other enough to hand our weapons back and forth.

It was all done with friendly gesture and sign and pantomime, the eternal language of strangers. The war was done and we were one together.

What a brief high cliff of world goodwill we stood on! Such a peak of ecstasy! But when the bread had been broken, the wine drunk, and the relief of victory and weariness slept off, we woke up.

Ivan Ivanovich and GI Joe looked at each other and realized one was a Russian soldier and one was an American soldier, and that men may be men but armies are armies.

There was a gap between us in a new cold world—and the gap remains, despite the exultant handshake that linked our hearts and goals on the River Elbe. Is it only 10 years ago?

What Other Editors Are Thinking

BE CAREFUL, IT'S CONTAGIOUS (The Ruritan)

As you watched television or listened to the radio last night, you were bombarded with words of warning. You were told to be sure your cigarette contained a filter-rip, your diet should include a newly discovered vitamin, that a new formula had been discovered to ward off disease, and many other warnings for your safety.

We agree with all of these sad thoughts and warn you now to "Be Careful, It's Contagious." Those kind words you spoke to someone were highly contagious, and I must warn you to be more careful. The smile you have on your face, the favor you do for someone, the invitation to attend church, the sharing of your good fortunes, and the consideration of other people's feelings are

Committee Lawyers Keep Eye On Grammar, Rhetoric

By LYNN NISBET

BUILDING — House Judiciary I committee gave a favorable report to a substitute for the re-organization commission building code council bill. The new version eliminates all ex-officio state officials from the council and provides for eight members, all to be appointed by the Governor and representing the various phases of the building industry.

The lawyers on the committee were bothered more about grammar and rhetoric than about buildings or law. They were so anxious to make sure that certain types of dwellings and auxiliary buildings in towns and farm buildings were exempted from code provisions, they took them out twice. Such experienced legislators as Tom Turner of Guilford, Sam Worthington of Pitt and George Craig of Asheville, who had composed the substitute, thought they had it fixed. It remained for Rep. Kirby Sullivan of Brunswick, a newcomer, to discover that if these buildings were taken out of the exception list the effect was to put them back under provisions of the bill. It took a good deal of argument to convince the committee that under rules of grammar two negatives make an affirmative, and the revised bill was further revised to guarantee that garages and farm buildings would not be subject to State code regulations unless the county or town adopted local ordinances putting them under its provisions.

A somewhat similar incident occurred in the Senate Monday night. A bill already passed in the House purported to make it just as much a crime to steal a dog that had not been listed for highly contagious. Let me warn you again to be more careful, because you never can tell what the chain of reaction will bring. The opposite of all the above are just as contagious. The cover page of a recent issue of "Post" magazine showed a series of four pictures. First, the boss "blew his top" to one of the employees; the second picture showed the employee "telling off" his wife for not mending a hole in a pair of socks. In picture number three, the wife scolded her son for making a mess on the wall. In the last picture, the son is shown punishing the cat for turning over a box of marbles. The additional explanation was made in regards to the series of pictures. "How odd it would be if that poor little scolded kitty would go out on the back porch feeling sore at people and, when a friendly delivery man pats her, she scratches him good. How odd, if the delivery man, then visited other houses in a wretched humor, presently bawls out a maid for being slow to come to the door; and if the maid, who is having a bad day anyway, in turn pops off at her mistress for thinking up too much work for her to do. And, finally how very strange, if the mistress, rankling about this, by and by gives her husband a good scolding for little reason at all her husband turning out to be none other than "Old Baldy" (mentioned in the first picture), who started all of this."

Of course, the illustration is rather exaggerated, but when we are kind to our fellowman we can be sure it will come back to us. When we are sour on the world, the world will be the same to us. Be sure to know that our actions, both good and bad, effect others, so "Be Careful, It's Contagious."

There has been revived a lot of discussion about the farcical Saturday sessions of the Legislature. Some legal authorities have contended that the constitutional provision that each house "shall sit upon its own adjournment from day to day," requires sessions every day, including Saturday. That same section provides (Art. II, Sec. 22) "and the two Houses may also jointly adjourn to any future day or other place." Just as able and astute authorities insist that provision permits adjournment from Friday to Monday or Tuesday. One member suggested the best way to eliminate Saturday sessions would be to dock pay for absent members and clerks.

OFFICE CLOSING — A number of bills are pending, some have been enacted into law, authorizing five-day weeks for county and municipal offices. There has been vigorous objection to some of the measures, because the Saturday closing precludes starting law suits, cancelling mortgages and other important legal activities on that day—activities which are serious in the light of other statutes limiting the number of days. Some of the larger counties close the court houses on Saturday without specific legal authority.

That reminds that closing of some State offices on Saturday is a direct violation of the statutes. Chapter 147 of the General Statutes sets out that the Secretary of State, the State auditor and the State Treasurer, perhaps others—shall attend their offices in the City of Raleigh "between the hours of ten o'clock a.m. and three o'clock p.m., on every day of the year, Sundays and legal holidays excepted." Regulations of the Personnel Department provide the offices shall be open for business from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. That is nine hours a day, 45 hours a week, whereas the General Statutes require only five hours a day or 30 hours a week—but also require five hours on Saturday.

Mrs. W.P. Few, Republican national committeewoman for North Carolina, members of Mrs. Fisher's family and numerous other friends were on hand, bedecked with orchids of varied hues. Verbal orchids were appropriately delivered by Rep. Kemp Doughton, lifelong friends of Mrs. Fisher, and included accolades for her husband who was six times

ECC Students And Faculty To Participate In Arts Festival

East Carolina College students and faculty members are assisting with plans for the Greenville Community Arts Festival May 1-8 and will participate in various events of the twentieth annual observation of art week in the city.

Five faculty members are serving on the Planning Committee of the Festival. They are Dr. Paul Running, Francis Lee Neel, and John Gordon of the department of art; Louise Williams of the mathematics department; and Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of the English department.

Both faculty members and students of art will take part in the Sidewalk Show, at which local artists will display their work in painting and the crafts. The exhibition will be an all-day event held Thursday, May 5, on and near the grounds of the Sheppard Memorial Library of the city. In addition, students in classes in design and art education will present in downtown

Greenville a store-window display of crafts.

Two one-act plays by East Carolina College authors will be presented at an "Evening of Drama" program May 4 at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus. A dramatization of Washington Irving's "The Spectre Bridegroom" by Dr. James D. Allison of the department of English and "The Abstract Wall" by James L. Thompson, junior from Durham, are scheduled for presentation by the East Carolina Playhouse, student dramatic club.

Among major music events of the Festival will be a "pops" concert by the East Carolina College Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, Thursday, May 5, at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. George E. Perry of the faculty, pianist, will appear as guest soloist with the band in Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Paul Hickfang of the college music department, bass-baritone, will appear as soloist at the opening session of the Festival, Sunday, May 1, at 3 p.m. in Sheppard Memorial Library.

Dr. Hirschberg will preside at a luncheon Tuesday, May 2, at 1 p.m. in the North Dining Room at East Carolina. Dean Leo W. Jenkins will extend greetings to guests from various parts of North Carolina. William T. Polk of Greensboro, author and editor, will be the speaker.

Other college faculty members who will preside at Festival programs include Dr. Lucile Turner of the English department, Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert of the music department, and Frances Wahl, principal of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School.

Truman Calls For Vigil On Rights

CHICAGO (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman last night called for vigilant watchfulness in the protection of rights to individuals in a free society.

Termining the Bill of Rights the "most sacred part" of the Constitution, he cautioned against taking the rights for "granted."

"They are so much a part of our lives that they may seem dry and uninteresting," he declared in an address to the Decalogue Society of lawyers. Earlier he received the 1954 award of merit from the organization for outstanding service to humanity.

He said the recent Fascist and Nazi ideologies have "demonstrated that the unrestrained use of force by government is just as great a danger to human progress now as it was ages ago."

"The only guarantee against such a society of fear and cruelty is the principle that the government is not above the law," he declared.

He told the lawyers' group to "keep a constant lookout" against any attack on the people's rights "even at times when the people grow a little weary of being reminded about the dangers to their rights."

At a news conference upon his arrival in Chicago, Truman pictured Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic party's 1952 presidential nominee, as the "outstanding candidate" for the 1956 nomination.

East Carolina Band Will Give Pops Concert In Auditorium On May 5

The East Carolina College Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter of the faculty, will present a "pops" concert Thursday, May 5 at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus.

The program is sponsored by the college department of music and is scheduled as an attraction of the annual Greenville Community Arts Festival. The public is invited to attend.

Light, popular music will make up the program to be presented by the band. Beginning with the "Mirella" overture by Gounod, the concert will include among numbers Leroy Anderson's "Fiddle-Faddle" and the "Rakes of Mal-

Yoshida Advises 'Fifth Column'

TOKYO (AP)—Former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida today recommended that the non-Communist world use 10 million Chinese outside Red China as a fifth column to detach Red China from Soviet Russia.

He called splitting the Communist bloc the best way to overcome the Communist threat in the Far East. It appears strong, he said, because of the long common frontier China and Russia share.

He said the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia could be shown through freedom and world trade that communism does not pay and that they would become "an effective fifth column for the freedom and welfare of mankind by calling out to their compatriots at home."

"It would have great impact on the (mainland) Chinese people and contribute much toward detaching Communist China from the Soviet Union."

Yoshida's advice was in a text prepared for a speech to the Tokyo Foreign Correspondents Club.

He left that portion out of his talk, but told The Associated Press that was inadvertent and he stood by the text.

In the packed club dining room, he said communism threatens all Asia and criticized as extremely dangerous the present Japanese government's policy of trying to deal with the Reds.

At the same time he said he did not believe the Soviet Russia-Red China bloc was as strong as "some fearful-minded persons in the free world believe."

"If Soviet Russia and Communist China were truly that strong," he said, "they would attack the United States which is the mainstay of the free world."

Gunman Tried Take Own Life In Prison Hospital

POTTSMILLE, Pa. (AP)—Charles Klevis, 28, captured by police after a shooting spree yesterday in which he held his own mother hostage, tried to kill himself in a prison hospital.

When left unattended for a moment late yesterday Klevis, an unemployed coal miner, broke a window, then used a jagged piece of glass to slash his wrists and throat.

Klevis was expected to live. Klevis was captured in nearby Frackville, as he tried to escape as police surrounded his mother's home. He had shot and wounded a sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecilia Klebash, 41, and her daughter, Charlotte, 15.

The fracas started over divorce plans of Klevis' wife, Betty, who was staying with Mrs. Klebash. Police bullets wounded Klevis, but not seriously. He was charged with assault with intent to kill.

Take MY PLACE

By FRANCES SARAH MOORE

CHAPTER SIXTEEN
 "Oh? What was it, then?"
 "I would rather not talk about it."
 Landon pushed off the covers and sat up. "You have to now. You can't hit at something—something mysterious and derogatory—and just leave it dangling!" The darkness felt charged with something ominous; some crackling self-discovery was about to sweep overwhelmingly past her evasions. "Kay," she ordered.
 "Go to sleep," Kay said tiredly.
 "No."
 "You won't like what I say," Kay warned her. "You will hate me for knowing what I know about you."
 "Go on."
 "Your behavior tonight—and that other night—was like jealousy."
 "You mean that I am jealous of you?"

Kay was silent.
 "Do you?" Landon insisted. "Is that what you are saying?"
 "Yes, I suppose I am. Although you have no cause. None whatsoever."
 "No cause!" Landon's voice rose. "No cause—when you sneak off a dance floor to be alone with Eric, and use the feeble excuse of not driving a car to get him to take you out to Breck? And pretend such shiny-eyed interest in his book? You might be able to fool Maggie with a fancy silk bedjacket, but I—"
 "Stop," Kay moaned softly. "Oh, Landon, stop this please. It's awful."
 "You can't take the truth from me, can you?"
 "You know better." Kay spoke sadly. "If you want the truth, Landon, why don't you look in your own heart? Sometimes it is the last place you look for—treachery."
 Landon recoiled from the ugly sound of her word. Treachery? If it was applicable, it was only to an incident of which Kay could have no possible knowledge. An after-clap of shame started Landon's heart pounding painfully. But Kay knew nothing at all about those moments in Eric's arms.
 Landon sank back on the pillow. "What a fuss we are making, Kay," she said in a near-natural voice. "Over nothing."
 But Kay was not finished. "Why don't you go away Landon? Before you are hurt." Landon reminded her. "Good-night," she said, and eventually she slept.
 The days quickened into a busy prelude to Christmas. With Rowena up and about again, Kay Ireland's departure on a more urgent case—an expedient Landon doubted—but Trace confirmed—freed Landon from the tension of being on guard. Her mistrust of Kay had boomeranged. She had become the one under surveillance and although the subject of their talk in the night was not again referred to, Landon was glad to have Kay gone.
 As the household shifted back to a normal routine, one change was made. Whenever it was necessary for Eric and Landon to be out on the same evening, the Boss came in to stay with Merry-o and Rowena. Eric and Landon decided over one of their midnight snacks that Gran mustn't be left alone. Scott returned from his business trip, and invited himself to dinner. He brought roses, books, and for Merry-o a clown that did acrobatics when it was wound up. While Landon was filling vases with water, Scott followed her out to the kitchen. "Did you miss me, as you promised?"
 "She nodded; then on a dim note of wonder, "Yes," she said. "I did, Scott. While Gran was so ill."
 "She has been ill? I didn't know."
 "It was a stroke—but she is better."
 "I'm glad." He bent and kissed her lightly. "It must have been a difficult time for you, though."
 "I had Eric. He was wonderful, Scott."
 "It was a festive, friendly meal. Afterwards Eric drove out to Breck, taking half the roses and one of the books to Maggie. Conserving her precious strength, Rowena went to bed early. Scott and Merry-o helped Landon with the dishes.
 "When Mommy comes home," said Merry-o—the phrase ran like a wistful melody through all her conversation now—"I shall be able to help her with the dishes. All but the horribles, of course."
 "The pots and pans," Landon explained.

"Landon does those," said Merry-o. "Who does yours, Scott?"
 "I stack 'em," he told her. "They're half-way to the ceiling. One of these days they are going to come tumbling down on me. Unless I get myself a wife."
 "You could get Landon," said Merry-o. "When Mommy comes home Landon won't be here. Where will you be, I wonder?"
 Landon wondered, too, but she said nothing.
 "Where will you be, I wonder?" Scott asked her, later. Merry-o had gone to bed and the two had the firelit room alone.
 Landon said "I haven't thought about it. New York, I suppose." To the typist's job again?
 Scott drew her into the crook of his arm. "I've got a fireplace. You could be there with me, if you wanted to."
 Overwhelmingly, Landon was possessed by a desire to turn her head into his strong shoulder, to forget everything, to take for herself all that Scott's voice promised. But only for a moment was she carried away. She shook her head, saying lightly, "And have your high tower of horribles fall on me?"
 His arm tightened. "I love you, can wait, if you say there's a chance."

 "I don't know—and it's not fair to you."
 He looked at her and said, "You haven't fallen in love with someone else, have you?"
 "No," she said with emphasis. "No, of course I haven't!"
 He said, "Don't worry about it, darling. I don't want to make you unhappy."
 She thought maybe this is it. Maybe I am letting something special slip through my fingers. Why wait for some glory that might't ever touch me? But it had touched Maggie! She tore herself free of Scott's hands and stood up. I'll wait, she thought. If it means hurting Scott, I'm sorry, but I'll wait.
 She was sitting alone by the fire when Eric came in. She clutched her hands about her knees and lifted him a smile. "Hello!"
 Eric shucked off his coat. "Scott gone? I thought he might wait for a nightcap."
 She jumped up. "I'll have one with you, then, youngster."
 Her frown was mock-rebuking. "I'm nearly 22—remember?"
 "Chocolate milk, then, with a nip of vanilla."
 "You!" But she loved the way he teased her.
 She brought the two glasses into the living-room and dragged the ottoman over beside Eric's chair. He did not turn around; he was, for the moment, entirely unaware of her presence. His hands were relaxed on the chair arms, his legs stretched out long in front of him, his eyes broodingly far-off. She touched his knee tentatively. "Drink up."
 He came to with a start, smiled at her absently, took the glass of chocolate milk and downed it.
 Landon felt cheated. She looked forward every night to the hour of quiet happiness with Eric, the before-bedtime hour, enclosed with him in the dim-lighted room, with the others asleep and the night an intimate stillness around them. Without it her day was unfinished. He stretched yawningly to his feet. "Bed for me," he said. "You, too?"
 "Yes," she said disappointedly. "Good-night."
 But she sat where she was, her arms hugged about her knees, and the embers on the grate turned mauve, then gray. Cold and gray. She felt alone. More terribly alone

Ballerina KO's Male Partner

NEW YORK, (AP)—Svelte, diminutive ballerina Nora Kaye knocked out her male partner last night while dancing a scene of "A Streetcar Named Desire," an adaptation of Tennessee Williams' play.
 While she was making a quick pivot, her elbow caught Igor Youkevitch in the left eye. He fell unconscious to the stage.
 However, the scene ended at that moment and the lights went out, and the audience at the Metropolitan Opera House did not notice the incident. A doctor said the dancer will be able to perform tonight.

HOTTEST-SELLING BUICK IN HISTORY
 No wonder you see so many '55 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever before in history—topping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three" of America's best sellers.

Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargain, such as: Radio & Airplane.....$81.70 Radio & Airplane.....$92.50

UNLESS we miss our guess, a lot of surprised people are going to do some new back-of-an-envelope arithmetic when they see the Buick price shown here.

Because we know that many folks still don't realize how little a Buick really costs—that the dollar difference between this big Buick SPECIAL and the leading smaller cars has virtually disappeared.

Buick Sales Are Soaring As Never Before

But more and more of them are finding it out. And that's a major reason why Buick production and Buick sales are soaring to all-time highs today—and why Buick again is outselling all other cars, regardless of price range, except two of the well-known smaller cars.

Big reason, too, for this soaring popularity is Buick's full line of automobiles, giving you a choice in any price class—the rock-bottom-priced SPECIAL, the high-powered CENTURY, the supremely spacious SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.

But above all, more and more people are discovering that the price you pay for a Buick buys more sheer automobile than the same money buys elsewhere.

More advanced styling, more deep-down comfort, more pure power thrill, more ride steadiness and handling ease and solidity of structure.

More spectacular performance, too, from the modest extra cost of Buick's automatic transmission.

For here you get Variable Pitch Dynaflo[†]—the new wonder drive born of modern aeronautics to give you instant full-power getaway and acceleration when needed—and far better gas mileage when cruising.

Why not come see us this week, for sure? We'll be happy to have you test-pilot a new Buick, just for the sheer thrill of it—and show you quite clearly that if you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick.

[†]Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Another Actress Took 'Overdose'

OSTON — Actress Diana Barrymore, 34, was reported recovering early today from what a Boston City Hospital doctor said was "drug intoxication—an overdose of sleeping pills."

Miss Barrymore collapsed last night in her room at the Hotel Touraine and was taken by police ambulance to the hospital, where she immediately was placed in an oxygen tent.

Her husband Robert Wilcox denied the doctor's report to police that Miss Barrymore had taken sleeping pills.

"It's exhaustion," he said. "This collapse was brought about after six months of touring under adverse circumstances. One can't take too much of this knocking yourself out night after night."

A hospital report, signed by Dr. Ellis Singer, said, however, that Miss Barrymore had taken an overdose of the pills.

Miss Barrymore's name was taken off the danger list early today and a hospital spokesman said she was "resting comfortably."

The actress, daughter of the late John Barrymore, is appearing in Boston in the play "Palama Tops." Her husband also has a part in the play. The production was staged last night with an understudy.

Cadet Corps Is Given Inspection

The Air Force ROTC of East Carolina College has just completed its seventh Annual Federal Inspection. Col. Maynard W. Bell, a graduate of the University of Oregon and the present professor of air science at Montana State College, Bozeman, Montana, and a staff of two other officers conducted the inspection.

Participating with Col. Bell in the work at East Carolina were Lt. Col. Barnum J. Skousen a graduate of Brigham Young University and an AF ROTC liaison officer of the Pacific Northwest and Colorado, and Lt. Col. Evan W. McCall, a graduate of Southwestern University, Winfield, Kansas, and the present professor of air science at Colorado State University.

The inspection performed by Col. Bell and his staff included the administrative, supply and training and education sections of the local detachment. The visiting officers also observed the cadet corps in the classroom, on the campus, and during a parade and review.

Cadet Group Commander, Cadet Lt. Col. Harold G. Colson of Hertford, was commended for the excellent performance of the cadet corps during the parade and review as exemplifying the excellent leadership of the cadet officers and the esprit-de-corps of the East Carolina cadets.

Boy Constructed Homemade Bomb

DETROIT — The mystery of the homemade bomb set off near the home of Recorder's Judge W. McKay Skillman Tuesday night has been solved, police said today.

Detectives quoted a 15-year-old boy who lives in the judge's neighborhood as saying he did it "just for the fun of it."

The boy told police he made the bomb from a six-inch lead pipe stuffed with chemicals taken from a high school laboratory. It did no serious damage. He was ordered to report with his parents to the youth bureau.

Pirates Fatten Conference Lead In High Point Games

Bucs Sweep Both Ends Of A's Did Better Doubleheader By 7-0, 8-0

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
HIGH POINT — East Carolina's Pirates fattened their lead in the Eastern Division of the North State Conference baseball race here yesterday by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from High Point 7-0, 8-0.

It was the second double win for Coach Jim Malloy's Bucs in the last two days and gave them an 8-1 conference slate.
Gene Turner continued his homer spree by decking his third round-tripper in two days. The blast came in the fourth inning of the first game with teammate Bill Cline aboard.

East Carolina combined superlative pitching with plate power to drive High Point into total submission. While mound ace Mack Cherry and Tommy Pruitt were serving up goose eggs on the Panther side of the scoreboard, the Pirates were collecting 21 bingles.

Smother's Spurt
Where Heath and Pennington left off in the slugging department, Nick Smother's, Bill Cline and Bucky Reep took up in the second game.

Smother's finally breaking out of his hitless shell, blasted out three hits in three at bats. Included among his knocks were two doubles. Cline rapped off two hits, including a double. Reep punched out two singles and had two RBI's.

Fruitt's 2-Hitter
The handthrowing Fruitt registered his second two-hitter of the campaign in the nightcap. Eight Panther batsmen went down swinging and only Shortstop Pharr and leftfielder Mabry could manage safeties.

Heath started the scoring for East Carolina in the first game. After tripling, he came home on a fielder's choice. The Bucs scored again in the fourth when B. Cline walked and tallied on Turner's homerun.

Three more scores were added in sixth. Smother's opened the frame with a double to rightfield. Pennington got his second safety to drive in Smother's after Turner popped up to the shortstop. Reep walked and shortstop Jerry Stewart sent the runners home with his single.

Cline's Family Rampage
Another tally was made in the seventh frame when Galtner Cline blasted out a three-bagger to get things started. B. Cline kept the run and RBI in the family by singling Galtner across.

Actually High Point never threatened in either game. One runner did reach third base in the first game but died there. No Panther got past second base in the aftermath.

The Bucs bunched their runs in the second game. They recorded four in the second inning, two in the third and two in the sixth.

Three straight hits and a double by pitcher Fruitt accounted for the first four tallies. A base on balls to B. Cline, Smother's double and singles by Pennington and Reep paid the way for two runs in the third inning. Singles by Stewart and Smother's and B. Cline's two-bagger resulted in two runs in the sixth.

The twin wins completed an auspicious road trip for Coach Malloy's crew. Tuesday they set back Guilford in two games and yesterday's wins here give them a big lead over runner-up Elon. Guilford plays in Greenville Friday in a single game.

A's Did Better Without Homers

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
It may be those Kansas City steaks, but the Athletics are sprouting biceps and a home run punch. Trouble is, they were better off as puny singles hitters back in Philadelphia.

The A's have swatted 17 home runs so far, yet have won only 5 of 12 games. A year ago, with a mere four homers, they were 7-5. And in '53, with nine home runs, they also were 7-5.

The A's have a three-game winning streak going now of course, and may be set to pad it. But the 1954 crew had won three straight after their 12th game too.

Bill Renna, Gus Zernial and Bill Wilson connected for homers yesterday as the A's, with a dandy three-hit performance by sore-arm Cloyd Boyer, knocked off the Boston Red Sox 6-2. That left the A's despite their 5-7 mark, in a tie for sixth place with Washington, just 2½ games behind the White Sox in a surprisingly tight AL race.

Chicago took first by clubbing the New York Yankees 13-4. The Yanks slipped to a second-place tie with Cleveland—only 21 percentage points back—as the Indians beat Washington 6-5 in 17 innings. Detroit replaced Boston in fourth place by beating Baltimore 11-3.

In the National, Brooklyn beat Cincinnati 7-2 last night to stay three games up on Milwaukee. The Braves whipped the New York Giants 9-6 in a day game. Pittsburgh slipped out of the cellar as the Redlegs fell in, beating Chicago 4-1.

Boyer, a St. Louis Cardinals castoff and brother of Redbird rookie Ken Boyer, was troubled only by his own wildness and Faye Thronberry's home run as he beat the sagging Red Sox. He walked the bases full in the fifth after Norb Zauchin's leadoff double, and Billy Goodman's sacrifice fly scored the other Boston run.

The White Sox got four-hit relief work from Billy Pierce over 5-2-3 innings after Virgil Trucks' departure. Pierce won it, with Walt Dropp hammering home three runs with fourth and fifth-inning homers. Sherm Lollar homered for two as the Sox routed Whitey Ford with five runs in the first.

Cleveland didn't shake off Washington until Bobby Avila lifted a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded and one out in the 17th inning. Both clubs used four hurlers. Chuck Stobbs lost it and Art Houtteman won it. Mickey Vernon batted in four of the Nats' runs with a three-run homer off starter Early Wynn in the third and a single that tied it in the seventh. Detroit had a grand-slam from catcher Frank House, his first in the majors, and three free runs to beat the Orioles. Bill Miller walked five in a row for two Tiger runs in the fifth and Lou Kretlow gave up a single before walking three in a row for another gift in the eighth.

Pitching was the big thing in the National League games. Bob Purkey gave up just four hits as Pittsburgh snapped a three-game Chicago winning streak.

At the Polo Grounds big Gene Conley held the Giants to two hits for eight innings and had a 9-1 lead that withstood a five-run New York rally in the ninth. Five Milwaukee runs chased starter Ruben Gomez in the second and Hank Aaron, Bobby Thomson and Danny O'Connell followed it up with home runs Willie Mays homered for New York in the second and Hank Thompson capped the tootlate, too-little heroics with a three-run pinch homer.

Billy Loes had the feeble Redlegs hitless for 5-2-3 innings, then Ed Bailey's single followed an error for Cincinnati's second run. The first came when Loes walked three and hit another in the second.

The Dodgers got 13 walks, and three runs in the eighth without a hit, off five pitchers. Roy Campanella batting cleanup for the first time this season drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single off loser Corky Valentine in the fourth.

Winterville Bows To Belvoir, 10-5

BELVOIR—Winterville was downed for the second straight time by Belvoir High School here yesterday afternoon 10-5.

Kenneth Vandenberg led the locals both on the mound and at the plate. The hard-throwing right-hander scattered six Winterville hits and fanned 11 men for the triumph. He also pounded out three hits in four official trips to the plate.

Pitcher Bobby Coggin was the loser. He allowed eight hits and fanned eight batters. Coggin was also the hitting leader for the loser with two hits in four at bats.

Belvoir's big inning was the second. They recorded six runs on triples by Vandenberg and J. D. Forbes.
The win ran Belvoir's won-list record to 3-1. They have two games remaining. Grifton here on May 3 and Grifton in Grifton on May 10.

Aussies Jolted Into Fixing Olympic Site

NEW YORK (AP)—A traveler from Australia reports that Melbourne received an awful jolt recently from Avery Brundage, the Olympics president, but came out of it in good shape and now is digging in like crazy in a belated drive to make the 1956 games a success.
Gerald Patterson, who was one of the world's best tennis players around 1920 and has lived in Melbourne most of his life, says that Brundage's visit and his criticism of the progress made up to this time in preparation for the games really lighted a fire under his fellow citizens. Patterson is stopping over here briefly en route to England.

"It was the best thing that could possibly have happened to us," he said. "I'm sure there's nothing to worry about now. From what I heard, everyone reacted well to what Brundage said and things really are starting to go ahead."
"The carpenters' strike which had held up work on the Olympic Stadium was settled just before I left. Everything has been streamlined and the bottlenecks eliminated. All the money that is needed is there ready to be spent, and those in charge have full authority to spend it without going through a lot of red tape."

He was asked what he thought about the hotel situation in Melbourne. How could the city, with fewer rooms available than are to be found in an average city of 100,000 in this country, hope to absorb the multitude which will descend upon it?
"That's worried me too," Patterson confessed. "According to your standards, we are in bad shape for hotels, but we have already started to take care of that by lining up rooms in private homes. For example, I have said that I will take three guests in my homes in the city and on Davis Bay. I'm sure that by the time of the games we will have rooms for everybody."

Yawkee Quoted As Saying Ted May Be Back

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Globe today quotes Boston Red Sox Owner Tom Yawkee as saying that he believes retired slugger Ted Williams "may be here again."

The story reports that Yawkee has talked to Williams by phone since the regular season began. Previously there had been no word of communication by Sox brass with Williams since mid-February.

At that time Ted, who quit baseball last fall, said he would inform Yawkee and General Manager Joe Cronin if he changed his mind about playing with the Sox.

The Globe says Yawkee spoke to the heavy-hitting outfielder "after the club had played a couple of games at the start of the season." Asked if he thought Williams would return, Yawkee is quoted in the article as saying:

"Yes, I think there's a chance he'll be back. I know his problems (referring to Ted's marital difficulties). But—well—I think he may be here again."

DODGERS ON WAY; CHICAGO ALL-ROUND ABILITY LEAD A.L.

With major league clubs beginning to get the feel of things, it's time to take stock of their personnel, weighing credits against debits.

Here is a thumbnail sketch of how this writer sees the clubs' strengths compared with their weaknesses.

In the National League, Brooklyn has jumped out in front in record-breaking style. The Dodgers' strengths are in the apparent soundness of Roy Campanella's hand, the bright future promised by southpaw Karl Spooner; the fine showing of young infielders Don Zimmer and Chico Ferraro; the power hitting of Gil Hodges, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Jackie Robinson and Campy.

On the other hand, Manager Walter Alton's club has weaknesses in the uncertainty of pitching comeback of Don Newcombe; advanced age of team's big guns; Robinson's susceptibility to injury; and can Sandy Amoros learn to hit left-handed pitching?

The White Sox are frontrunners in the American League primarily on their hustle and fight. Chicago is well provided in pitching; good speed, defense. The great play of Minnie Minoso has also been very instrumental. Other strength is the fine double play combination of Nellie Fox and Chico Carrasquel.

The Chicago weaknesses include George Kell's trick knee; need of another power hitter; doubt over Walt Dropo's ability to assume role of big RBI man; no outstanding rookie prospects.

BOSTON SURPRISE; MILWAUKEE BEST PITCHING IN LEAGUE The Sox are right up with the leaders in a position very strange for them according to the experts.

True, on paper they're along way from being a contender. Their strengths are good, young pitching helped by return to form of veteran Mel Parnell; good defensive outfield; lots of young talent; showing of rookie catcher Pete Daly.

But their outweighing weaknesses include mediocre infield further weakened by inability to make double play and Milt Bolling's injury; failure of Ted Williams to join club.

Milwaukee has the chunking corps in the National circuit with Warren Spahn, Gene Conley, Lew Burdette, and flock of good-looking youngsters. Bobby Thompson's recovery of an ankle fracture also has meant a lot as has the steady improvement of Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock, Eddie Matthews and Del Crandall. The Braves also have the best infield in the loop.

Their weaknesses are no catcher to replace an injured Crandall; doubt over the ability of pitchers Chet Nichols and Bob Buhl to win consistently.

INDIANS ARE CLUB TO BEAT; NEW YORK HAS GOOD ROOKIES Cleveland has superlative pitching made even more potent with the addition of Herb Score. Indians have powerful murderer's row of Larry Doby, Al Rosen, Vic Wertz and Ralph Kiner. They also have brilliant hit-and-run pair of Al Smith and Bobby Avila.

The Indians' weaknesses are psychological effect of four straight World Series losses to Giants; Rosen still being bothered by right index finger broken last May. Kiner's fielding in right field and Wertz' defensive work at first base.

New York's strengths include great performances of Yogi Berra; spectacular hitting of rookie Elston Howard and Bill Skowron; steadiness of Hank Bauer; Gil McDougald and Andy Carey; brilliant promise of Mickey Mantle.

The Yankees' weaknesses include the need of a fourth regular starter to go with Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley; Don Larsen's sore arm; shortstop problem with aging Phil Rizzuto; and weak-hitting Billy Hunder and Jerry Coleman; lack of outfield depth.

GIANTS CONFIDENT; ST. LOUIS COULD BE THREAT Despite their sixth place standing, the Giants have the over-all confidence of champions. They also have Johnny Antonelli's promise of greatness; Alvin Dark's leadership; Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom, brilliant relief pair; Dusty Rhodes and Bobby Hoffman; plus Willie Mays.

The New Yorkers' weaknesses are club's stand-pat attitude; 38-year-old Sal Maglie's age; question of Monte Irvin's "comeback."

The Cardinals' strengths are Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst along with improved defense with addition of third baseman Ken Boyer and outfielder Bill Virdon; improvement of second year men Alex Grammas, Wally Moon and Bill Sarni; addition of relief pitcher Frank Smith.

Their weaknesses include pitching problem made more acute by loss of Vic Raschi for indefinite period; big question at first base, over-concentration of lefthanded hitters.

Greenville's Track Phantoms Again Top Fayetteville; Won Every Event

Greenville's track Phantoms scored first places in every event yesterday afternoon at Guy Smith Stadium and walked off with an easy 73 1-3 to 21 2-3 win over the Fayetteville Bulldogs.

The win was the sixth straight over Fayetteville in the last three seasons for Greenville. The AAA school did not have a chance yesterday as James Speight and company put on one of their best shows of the season.

Speight Scores 16 1-4 Captain Speight, who gave up a trip to Greensboro to enter the meet, won three first places and was a member of the winning mile relay team to finish with 16 1-4 points, the highest total any Greenville has registered since the days of Bobby Perry.

Larry Powell was another double winner for the Phantoms with first places in the shot put and the discus, for a total of ten points. Pete West, Robert Howell, Billy Sermons, and Edwin Wilkerson all placed in two events. West got seven points with a first place tie in the high jump and a second in the discus. Howell won the 220 and ran in the relay for 6 1-4 points. Wilkerson won the half-mile and ran the relay for 6 1-4 points, and Sermons got seconds in the half-mile and 220 for six points.

Other Phantoms who got first places in their events were Wayne Bishop in the mile and Bob Shackelford in the pole vault.

Times Good in Events The Phantoms had good times in all of the events, which gives them more hope against Raleigh Friday. The Raleigh team whipped the Phantoms by 18 points earlier in the year but the Phantoms are itching to get back at them.

Several of the Phantoms' top performers missed the meet because of disciplinary reasons. Coach Kittrell is letting some of those suspended players go to Raleigh tomorrow, but the ones that missed practice yesterday aren't going to make that trip either.

The last dual meet of the season is the Raleigh meet. After that the Phantoms have the conference meet on May 4 in Greenville, and then go to the district meet in Raleigh on May 13. The ones that place in the top four at the district meet go to the state meet at Chapel Hill on May 20.

The summary: Mile Run: 1-Bishop (G) 2-Arthur (G) 3-Bentley (F) 4-52. Pole Vault: 1-Shackelford (G) 2-tie between Bullock (G), Berry (F), and Strong (F) 8'. Shot Put: 1-Powell (G) 2-Nance (F) 3-Kelly (F) 43'.

Discus: 1-Powell (G) 2-West (G) 3-Nobles (G) 117'. 100 yard dash: 1-Speight (G) 2-Martin (F) 3-Humphries (F) 10.4. 880 yard run: 1-Wilkerson (G) 2-Sermons (G) 3-Williford (F) 2:15.

Yankees' Big First-Sacker Skowron Hurt

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Yankees, knocked out of first place in the American League by the White Sox yesterday, also suffered the loss of first baseman Bill Skowron.

Skowron, the American League's leading hitter at 451 and tops in RBIs with 18, pulled a muscle while running out a triple in the third inning against the Sox.

The former Purdue football player said something popped in his right leg after he rounded second. He didn't say anything about it until the fifth inning when he was taken out of the game. Later he was barely able to hobble about the hotel.

The full extent of the injury was not known immediately.

Lafayette Seeks New Cage Coach

EASTON, Pa. (AP) Lafayette College was looking for a new basketball coach today to replace Bill Van Breda Kolff, who resigned after leading Lafayette to its most successful basketball season in its history.

College officials said his resignation yesterday came as a complete surprise.

The Leopards won 27 and lost three in the 1954-55 season and for the first time entered the National Invitation Tournament, held in New York's Madison Square Garden. They were eliminated in an early round.

Reciprocal Trade Law Runs Into Same Complaints As OPA

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite President Eisenhower's plea to Congress not to tamper with his foreign trade program—it barely squeaked through the House unscathed—its in trouble in the Senate.

That program, which Eisenhower calls a cornerstone in dealing with friendly countries, is running into what OPA encountered during and after the war, while it was still controlling prices. Businessmen paraded before congressional committees to say what they thought of continuing OPA another year.

One after another their story went like this: "I think OPA is necessary and should be continued. But in my special case there ought to be an exception. . . ."

Eisenhower has asked Congress to continue the reciprocal trade program already in existence 20 years, another three years. Its purpose is to increase world trade and prosperity here and among nations trading with the United States.

Briefly, it works like this: It lets the President lower tariffs on foreign goods imported here provided those same exporting countries agree to lower their tariffs on American goods sent to them.

This means some American industries would have to compete at home with foreign-made goods. Various groups who might be afected have fought against tariff cuts on imported, competitive products.

No later than yesterday Eisenhower said that to weaken the "administration proposals by crippling amendments would strike a severe blow at the cooperative efforts of the free nations to build up their economic and military defenses. It could mean a retreat to economic nationalism and isolationism."

On Feb. 18 the program passed the House by a narrow margin but unchanged. Then it moved over to the Senate, where before it could go up to the floor for a vote, the Senate Finance Committee examined it.

Last week Sen. George (D-Ga.)

painting a picture of how an economically strong Japan would help offset the power of Red China in Asia, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors here:

"How can we turn back the clock to another day and say that the trade and commerce of the world, especially the free world, again should be circumvented and departmentalized to the point almost of the stagnation of that commerce? How can we do this and yet hope all free nations will become economically strong and prosperous?"

Also last week George, who has been a staunch Eisenhower supporter on foreign policy, sponsored in the Finance Committee an amendment tacked on to the trade program bill. It was sought by the American textile industry as protection from undue competition from imported Japanese textiles. The White House was said by some senators to have okayed that amendment.

Now the committee is trying to decide whether to approve another amendment to cut down on oil imports.

These amendments or changes in the President's program are not final unless the full Senate later approves them. It may not, but any changes are encouragement to all senators to fight for more amendments to help their own state interests.

Business Boom Looks Healthier To Washington

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The business boom looks healthier now to Washington and more likely to last for some time.

That's how many businessmen assess recent actions and policy disclosures. These include the U.S. Treasury's borrowing methods—it shortly will seek two billion dollars or more in "new money"—and the Federal Reserve Board's methods of putting gentle curbs on speculation and letting interest rates rise.

Only two months ago Washington, along with many in the business world, appeared to doubt that the business upturn would survive the hot weather season. Everyone appeared to be playing it cagey—counting on good times until July, but not making any firm plans for fall.

Chief fears were that the auto building race would end by summer and that the home building spree would peter out then too.

But consumers are putting up cash or credit and taking the cars as they roll off the assembly lines and the homes as the builders complete them.

With the public slowly increasing its purchasing power, and the cost of living holding pleasantly steady, good times now appear to have firmer foundations than formerly thought.

The Treasury is expected to announce shortly its plans to raise six billion or more dollars. Four billion of that will be to refinance one-year certificates coming due, and the rest to fund the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Businessmen feel that the way the Treasury raises the new cash will give a tipoff both on conditions in the money market itself and on how Washington views the economy in general.

In February Washington felt the economy strong enough to take a long-term issue and floated a 40-year 3 per cent bond. Such a bond tends to sop up investment money and might turn a shaky economy downward. But the business and financial markets took the bond issue in stride.

Bankers aren't expecting another long-term bond so soon. They consider a medium-term issue more likely. This belief is based on the guess that Washington considers the economy neither in the need of the lift which more one-year certificates might give or in the danger of runaway inflation which would call for a sopping up of excess funds.

The Federal Reserve has been following a similar middle-of-the-road course, aimed at striking a healthy balance—encouraging business expansion while curbing the tendency to speculation.

Bumper Crop Of Garden Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

This is the time of year when all America moves outdoors — when the garden tools come out of the garage and the porch furniture out of the basement.

It's also the time when Mr. and Mrs. America and all the little Americans go shopping for sturdy, colorful clothes to suit this new casual way of life. The trend to country living has opened up a whole new category of leisure clothes for all ages. For this is the era when work-and-play clothes are more important than party fashions.

Alert designers have taken advantage of the trend, and have supplied shops throughout the country with the kind of comfortable casual, colorful fashions that outdoor life demands.

When Mom does her gardening or lawn-mowing this summer she'll be dressed for the job, probably in well-fitting, washable Bermuda shorts and colorful shirt, with gay gloves planned for the purpose. Or she may choose a light-hearted sun outfit of brief shorts and halter top, to allow her to catch up on her suntan as she works.

Pop also has his own special do-it-yourself outfits, in sturdy denim or cotton twill, with shirts to match, or Bermuda shorts with bright sports shirts.

The small fry demand their blue jeans, but they also blossom out in gay sun-and-play suits the day, as the family moves into the season of back-yard living.

DRESSED FOR THE JOB . . . This smart young householder wears a gingham shirt of Black Watch plaid and Jamaica length shorts in washable tan twill.

GLAMOR GLOVES . . . Gay striped denim planters make garden chores fun.

Anita Laments Cover-Up Trait

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Anita Ekberg, a blonde Venus from Sweden, laments that Hollywood covers up a girl's best assets.

What's more, she claims this is due to this country's distorted view of sex appeal.

Miss Ekberg, who was Miss Sweden of 1952, is filmland's latest sexboat. Her cheesecake is being broadcast in a volume that recalls the early days of Marilyn Monroe. Unlike Miss Monroe, she is a talkative type and excited easily. Her latest passion is what she considers an unfair cover-up.

"It's ridiculous," she exclaimed. "When a girl comes to Hollywood, the first thing she is asked is her measurements. If she happens to have a good figure, the men whistle and carry on. The wardrobe women marvel about how great it is to have such a fine figure to dress."

"So what happens? If a girl has a beautiful bust with a nice curve to it, she shouldn't be covered up. She should be allowed to show her beauty. I don't mean that we should go around with nothing on above the waist. But she shouldn't be completely hidden either."

The 24-year-old actress, who said her own measurement is 39 inches, said this overzealous censorship is due to the American attitude toward sex. She declared that Sweden has a different viewpoint.

"The whistle at a pretty girl is an international language," she said. "But in this country men whistle at girls with more of an evil intent."

"It is different in Sweden. The body is considered a thing of beauty. Its beauty is to be enjoyed, not considered in an evil light. "That's why nudity is featured in some of the movies made in Sweden. Boys and girls appear nude on the beaches up to the age of 8 or 10. I think it's ridiculous to see 2-year-old girls at the beaches here wearing pants and little strips of cloth across their chests."

Sicilians Love Churchill's Taste In Good Foods

SIRACUSA, Sicily (AP) — Sicilians like a man who likes good food. Vacationing Sir Winston Churchill rates their enthusiastic approval on that score.

The chubby former British Prime Minister won Sicilian hearts from the day he arrived, April 12. The 80-year-oldster's breakfasts usually run to lamb chops or fried tuna, plus eggs, jam, strawberries and cup after cup of the strong, black coffee that Italians love.

His first morning here he told his waiter: "Take these little cups away. Bring me a real sized cup so I can really get a taste of this good coffee."

Local pride was ruffled a bit because at first Churchill stuck to what chef Antoine called "the light European cuisine which he prefers to our heavy and complicated mixtures."

But Churchill fixed that. Even Antoine was thrilled when orders started coming back for osso bucco—Italy's prized boiled beef bone—and such dishes as traciatella, a sort of egg drop soup, and roast chicken à la Siracusa.

Some 3 Million Children Are Hard-Of-Hearing

Editor's Note—National hearing week begins May 1. This first of a two-part series tells of a handicapped child under which at least three million American schoolchildren suffer—and how you can make sure that your child is not among them.

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK (AP)—At least three million schoolchildren have impaired hearing.

The trouble with these statistics is that they tell us how many—but not whom. We don't always know if it's Johnny Jones or Mary Smith who needs help.

Why? The American Hearing Society got the three million figure by applying the number of children with impaired hearing in certain tested areas to the total school population across the country.

If Johnny or Mary happen to live in one of the 24 states where hearing tests are not required by state law, their deficiency might go undetected indefinitely.

You'd be surprised how many youngsters are trying to live normal lives with a hearing impairment no one knows about or admits. They are often called inattentive unmanageable, even stupid.

Either they think they have normal hearing or they are too sensitive to tell anyone.

Billy was one of the latter. And his is a more or less typical case: He was a shy, quiet child, of a large family. After scarlet fever at 3 he became even more reticent. Often he didn't respond to directions from his parents. His father thought he was disobedient and should be spanked.

"He's not a bad boy," his mother always would say. "It's just Billy's nature to be absentminded. Maybe he'll outgrow it."

The next time she told him to do something she almost shouted. Billy heard her and did the errand. So his mother concluded that if you just impress it on Billy, he'll do what you say.

When Billy started to school he didn't play much with the other children. Since he was a bright lad he managed to do passing work in his overcrowded class.

Once when he saw the teacher ask him a question he said timidly he hadn't heard her. She smiled at him reproachfully, said, "How could you, Billy? You weren't listening." After that he just shook his head that he didn't know the answer.

Billy lived in a state that left the problem of hearing tests up to the individual communities. When he was 9 his town's school board decided to institute audiometric tests.

He was found to have a serious hearing impairment, stemming from an infection that didn't clear up after scarlet fever. With a hearing aid he is at least able to hear everything said to him. There is hope too that proper medical care will improve his natural hearing.

Not every case has such a happy ending. Even if there is a state law requiring testing, and even if it is properly enforced, treatment does not automatically follow.

"The weakest point at present is not in the testing program, but in the follow-up," says Mrs. Eleanor Ronnel, head of the educational service of the New York League for the Hard of Hearing.

"You test you put a card in the file, and you go somewhere else to test. But what happens after you leave? Do the parents and schools follow up what you've told them? That's the crux of the problem."

Even this may be too late to avoid permanent impairment, says Dr. Edmund Prince Fowler Sr.

"The mother is the logical person to notice impaired hearing," Fowler maintains. "And she should do it long before the child enters school. All she'd have to do is put him in the next room and speak to him and see if he acts like other children. Then she'd know. But some parents won't face it."

Dr. Fowler, a pioneer in hearing conservation, helped invent the audiometer more than 30 years ago. Here are some tests he suggests for mothers to use in simple home checks every few months:

1. Does your baby react to sudden noises like a telephone ringing, a door banging, loud clapping of hands, dogs barking? He should, with normal hearing.

2. Does your baby react if you suddenly come into his line of vision, as if he hasn't heard you enter the room? This would indicate impaired hearing.

3. Are there discharges or odors from your child's ear, or deformities or swellings in or about the external ear canal? These are danger signals.

4. If your child is old enough, does he respond to spoken directions while he is out of sight in another room? He should, if he can hear satisfactorily.

5. Is he learning to talk normally and is his voice natural? Children learn to talk from hearing others talk. If they can't hear properly they obviously won't be able to talk properly either.

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist agricultural cooperative, last mile on the road to state ownership, now embraces 13 per cent of peasant households in China, says Peiping radio.

And the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party had told the peasants of their ultimate destination—"the collectivization of rural economy."

Tu Jun-Sheng, secretary general of the committee's Rural Work Department, reports in the semi-monthly publication People's China that nearly 600,000 cooperatives have been established.

Tu says "poor peasants" and "middle peasants," the landless or other days, are "the driving force in the Socialist revolution in the countryside." They make up 70 per cent of the peasants.

There have been reports out of Red China, however, that this "driving force" is not unanimously enamored of state ownership.

Given land after liquidation of landlords and "rich peasants," they were unwilling to give it up to the collective ideal.

The first step toward state control is mutual aid teams. Tools, farm animals and labor are pooled to sow and reap on farms in a community. Members get a proportional share of net income. They technically still own land embraced by the cooperative. But it would take only a decree out of

Cianelli Found Movie Boom On Italian Lots

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eduardo Cianelli, veteran of 100 movies, had a simple solution when movie work became scarce for actors. He returned to his native Italy.

The actor is back in Hollywood after a three-year absence. He explained why he was gone:

"There is much more film activity in Italy than in Hollywood. Why stay here waiting for jobs when you can be working all the time over there?"

That may come as a blow to Hollywood's pride, but it's true. Movie production is limping along here. The two largest studios, MGM and 20th Century-Fox, used to have eight or nine pictures going in the lush days. Last week they had one apiece.

Meanwhile Hollywood on the Tiber has been booming. Cianelli was a natural to cash in on the boom. Well-known as an actor in this country and abroad, he speaks English and Italian equally well.

Cianelli explained how he happened to make the trip to Italy:

"David Seiznick wanted me to appear with his wife, Jennifer Jones, in a revival of 'St. Joan,' which I had done with Katharine Cornell many years before. I agreed to do it. I decided to take the train to New York, because I wanted the time to study the long part.

"By the time I got to New York, I knew the part. But I found out the play had been canceled. I stayed over to do a TV play on Studio One. Then I received a cable about a film in Italy. That was on a Thursday and I had to be in Rome to start Monday. I made it in time, and I stayed for 10 more pictures."

Born on an island near Naples, he trained to be an opera singer. He came to the United States "for a month's visit," ended up staying here. He met his wife and embarked on a distinguished career as an actor, not a singer.

He became one of Hollywood's busiest character actors, usually as a gangster or some other villain.

Sunpower Used To Add Up Data

Dr. Hamilton W. Stevens, county health officer, said yesterday that if such sales are taking place, chances are the product is not vaccine but water. He said only authorized sources would have the vaccine from manufacturers and the only vaccine coming into Asheville goes to doctors directly, except that to public health officials. He cautioned against buying purported Salk vaccine, adding, "anybody who would engage in such a practice would be too immoral to be trusted."

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Getting up with the sun is no chore for Percy—he's a pyrheliometer hitched up to a mechanical brain. If Percy is one of the up-and-at-'em sort, its because his father, Dr. A. Richard Kassander's Atmospheric Physics Institute, is such a lazy fellow.

"With the increase in interest in using solar energy," Kassander said, "it was logically within our duty to begin recording the sun's energy. We didn't have much time to spend on it, so, strictly out of laziness, we made it automatic."

The device lives at the top of a pole, like many others of its kind throughout the nation. What makes Percy different is the fact that he's hitched to an adding machine. Kassander says it's the only hookup of the kind in the world.

As the sun rises each day, Percy springs into action without a yawn. The device at the top of the mast catches the sun's rays and sends down an electrical impulse that is converted by an electronic device into neat figures on the adding machine.

Every two minutes the adding machine totals up the amount of solar energy, then it marks a subtotal at the end of 20 minutes.

At the end of the day Percy totals the day's solar energy and turns in for the night.

Does such a devoted worker get a vacation on a cloudy day?

Not a chance, because the sun's energy comes through the clouds anyway and Percy is on the job measuring it.

Chicago Growth Being Charted

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's metropolitan population is estimated at 5,988,000 by the University of Chicago Community Inventory and the Cripps Foundation of Miami University. Chicago itself has 3,789,000, an increase of 4.6 per cent since the 1950 census. The surrounding suburbs have increased 17.3 per cent in population.

By April, 1955, the metropolitan population will reach 6,762,000, with an increase of 179,000 in Chicago and 585,000 in the suburbs, the study estimates.

Strong Arm Of Law On Record

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—The proprietor of a store found the lock on the front door broken and the lock screws removed. He reported attempted burglary.

Police listed the case as unsolved for several weeks until a mislaid report from night patrolman John Jackson turned up. Jackson reported he rattled the door and the "lock broke and the screws fell out."

Jackson smiles when other members of the department refer to "the long arm of the law with a strong paw."

Soviets Fear All-Out Peace As Much As All-Out War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN PARIS (AP)—There are two things in this world the Soviet regime fears more than anything else. One is all-out war. The other is all-out peace.

This is the opinion of competent Western observers around the rim of the Iron Curtain in Europe today. They put it this way:

1. The retreat of Communist parties in Europe behind a "soft line" denotes Soviet worry over the possibility that Moscow may stumble into the all-out war it dreads at this moment.

2. Eruptions of international tension erupting Soviet worry that the appearance of world peace surely would revive pressure from the Soviet population for a fairer share of the economy.

The idea that any war in any part of the world might turn into a general conflict is regarded as a powerful reason for Moscow to lay a restraining hand upon Communist China.

Kindergarten Teacher Built Own Stone House

LONG WAY TO GO—Helen Welty puts down the first cinder blocks at home-to-be in Fairborn, Ohio. They used mail-order house plans.

TWO YEARS LATER—This is the house the Welty's built with toil and sweat. Mrs. Welty did all stone work.

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Ever think of building your own house with the fun of putting every little stone in place, and sweating lovingly over blocks, boards and beams?

The stonework was done by Helen, every last bit of it. The finished Cape Cod house has three rooms down stairs, two bedrooms and bath upstairs.

It all began when the Welty's missed out on a house they wanted while they were scraping up the down payment.

"Little did I realize that two years after I put down that first stone I would lay the last," says Mrs. Welty.

She wanted a stone house, and fitted every stone together just like a jigsaw puzzle.

Ever think of building your own house with the fun of putting every little stone in place, and sweating lovingly over blocks, boards and beams?

The stonework was done by Helen, every last bit of it. The finished Cape Cod house has three rooms down stairs, two bedrooms and bath upstairs.

It all began when the Welty's missed out on a house they wanted while they were scraping up the down payment.

"Little did I realize that two years after I put down that first stone I would lay the last," says Mrs. Welty.

She wanted a stone house, and fitted every stone together just like a jigsaw puzzle.

The house includes built-in-features such as china and kitchen cabinets and shelves. Outdoor handiwork includes banked flower beds made of the same stone as the house.

Another innovation is the long-handled brush to apply the cleaning foam.

Miner's Son Nurses Career As A Doctor

By JAMES CARROLL
South Bend Tribune Reporter
AP Newfeatures

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—A nurse's paychecks are paving the way in to medical school for Stephen J. Prevornik, 25. And Prevornik himself is the nurse.

He'll get a premedical degree at Notre Dame in June. For four years he has worked the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift 40 hours a week in local hospitals. His present assignment is the orthopedic ward.

"Sometimes those youngsters really keep you on the move," he says.

He hopes to continue working as a nurse, at least part time, when he moves on to the University of Pennsylvania medical school. But there is nothing part time about his present job.

He carries a full schedule of classes. In the afternoon and evening he studies and sleeps. At 11 o'clock he goes back to his 20 to 50 patients in the ward. Besides, he's president of the hospital nursing staff, chairman of Notre Dame Red Cross activities and a member of the university honor society.

His father is a miner in McAdoo, Pa. It was there, in high school, that he decided nursing might be the answer to lack of money for a medical education. He trained for three years with a predominantly feminine class of nurses in Philadelphia and moved on to Notre Dame. The plan was suggested by a physician when Prevornik's sister was sick and he was helping to take care of her.

His father will see the Notre Dame campus for the first time at the June graduation, but the whole family is looking forward five years to the time when Stephen will trade his R.N. for an M.D.

When Big Lake, Tex. bought a new fire truck, a representative phoned a Barnhart citizen and said the old truck was for sale. It originally was an Army Air Force crash truck.

A hat was passed around town and brought in about $250 in a couple of hours. After the purchase area ranchmen found out about the deal and insisted on showing money into the hands of the caretakers.

Shortly after the truck's purchase, Gene Linthicum's barn caught fire. Energy and hard work of volunteers made up for experience. Only a third of the barn burned and other structures were saved.

Worms are supposed to aerate roots and help organic fertilization. Neal asked $1,500, the value he placed on the five million worms he said he didn't get.

BAD NEWS AT HOME
SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Happy honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leffingwell, wherever you are. But there's gloomy news at home. Wilfred Senecal told police his car had been broken into last Saturday while he attended the Leffingwell's reception. More than half the couple's wedding gifts were stolen.

RAIN-DEAR Some girls pray for rain these days so they can wear their gay new rainy-day fashions. One of the season's newest is this striking outfit in shiny black plastic-coated Swiss cotton. In a white rain-plashed print, designed by Lawrence of London. Our pretty cover-up girl also has matching gloves, umbrella and rain hat, the latter designed by Emme.
