Nationalist Forces Drive On Private Army's Base

Viet Nam Premier Strikes Again

By JOHN RODERIC SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Reassured of American support, Premier Ngo Dinh Diem struck anew today at the shrinking private army of his foes at home...

French Riviera the past year. The French News Agency in a dispatch from Saigon reported today that remnants of the rebel Binh Xuyen private army which in a two-day civil war last week tried unsuccessfully to overthrow Diem, had reopened fire with mortars today on national army posts near Cho Lon, the Chinese suburb of Saigon.

Collins hastened back from conferences in Washington when a brief civil war broke out last week. The general was expected to confer at once with Diem on the confused political events which nearly toppled him from office.

The split between French hostility to Diem and the continued American backing for him was underlined by the absence from the airport of Gen. Paul Ely, France's commissioner general for Viet Nam. Collins was greeted by Foreign Minister Tran Van Do and Vietnamese and American officials.

Legion Auxiliary Continues Study Of Pan America

The American Legion Auxiliary, Greenville Unit No. 39, met on Thursday evening, April 28, with Mrs. L. W. Obery, with 36 members present. Co-hostesses were Mesdames J. Hicks Corey, W. J. Thomas, popular baritone, appears in a program sponsored by the College Entertainment Committee. The program is scheduled for 8:15.

Mr. Thomas is known and loved by millions of Americans for his distinguished baritone voice and the informality of his concerts. The noted artist is now making a tour of more than sixty engagements, the majority of which have been limited to communities where he has previously appeared. Tuesday night's concert will mark his second appearance in Greenville.

The secret of Mr. Thomas' extraordinary popularity is not alone his engaging personality and glorious voice. Equally important is his attitude toward his public.

"Concerts are meant to be enjoyed," he holds. "The audience is the most important part of any concert, and audiences want to be entertained as well as stirred by fine music."

Documentary Film On Da Vinci Here On Tuesday, Wednesday
Greenville will have a double opportunity to see "Leonardo Da Vinci," Grand Prize-Winning Documentary Film of the 1952 Venice Film Festival, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

This feature film biography without actors is of sixty-eight minutes duration. Produced in commemoration of the 500th Anniversary of the birth of the Renaissance genius, Leonardo, it depicts, in beautiful color, the typical Italian landscapes amidst which the great man spent most of his life.

These lovely scenes are followed with reproductions of some of his most famous paintings and sculpture. A third section brings drawings from his note books of observations, speculations and experiments which presaged five centuries ago, the inventions of today.

This motion picture can be seen Tuesday at C. M. Eppes High School from 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon. On Wednesday it will be shown continuously from 1:30 p. m. until 5:00 p. m. at McGinnis Auditorium on the East Carolina College campus.

Rural Telephone Work Underway In Scuffleton, Rountree Communities

Construction crews began work this week on a $4,000 project to provide telephone service to some ten rural applicants in the two communities of Scuffleton and Rountree.

This was disclosed today by Frank Harrington, local manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, who said the new applicants are scheduled to receive telephone service about the middle of May.

The communities of Scuffleton and Rountree are located west of Ayden and will be serviced through the telephone exchange located at Ayden.

Although Great Britain is replacing steam locomotives with diesel and electric, it continues research for atomic-powered engines.

This line about one-and-one-half miles of new pole line will be constructed to the Rountree community. An additional mile of new pole line also will be constructed to serve applicants in the southern section of Scuffleton.

The new project will add about four telephones to the present telephone population of Scuffleton while for the community of Rountree it will bring telephone service for the first time.

Although Great Britain is replacing steam locomotives with diesel and electric, it continues research for atomic-powered engines.

Talk By Visiting Artist Opens Greenville Fine Arts Festival

Claude Howell, Wilmington artist, who spoke at the opening program of the Greenville Arts Festival Sunday at Sheppard Memorial Library, discussed influence of the art of the past on contemporary painters.

William T. Polk, author, editor and lecturer, who will speak at the Fine Arts Festival luncheon in the East Carolina College dining room tomorrow at 1 p. m.

An appreciative audience attended the opening program of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival Sunday afternoon at the Sheppard Memorial Library to hear visiting artists Claude Howell of Wilmington speak on the relation between the art of today and the art of the past, and to view Mr. Howell's paintings on display in the Arts Gallery.

Mr. Howell introduced by Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp, Director of the North Carolina Art Gallery, as one of North Carolina's recognized painters and one who is doing much to make his home, Wilmington, a center of art, brought out the line of tradition in art from the cave-man of pre-historic times, through all the varying aspects of art in past centuries—the most primitive forms the great stained glass, medieval illuminated manuscripts, the great frescoes, the old masters of all countries and times—down to today.

In each age, he said, the artist is attempting to do the same thing basically—express meaning, interpret the universal on the life around him.

ness. Howell commented on the attraction of earlier art for the modern artist, the common preference today for such earlier painters as El Greco for instance, with his elongated, distorted figures that seemed to the Victorian Age to be the work of someone unable to draw, but to today's artist seems to be trying to express something about the distortions found in life. He pointed out the kinship between the geometric designs of primitive art and art today. But all the art of the past, he repeated, is an influence today.

The speaker insisted that spectators must try to understand what the painter is saying in a painting of today, and learn to distinguish between the good and the bad, and not just condemn contemporary art wholesale because they do not understand it at a glance.

Miss Crisp referred in her introduction to the many awards won by Mr. Howell, mentioning especially the two canvases now owned by the State Art Gallery for which Mr. Howell won the purchase prize in the state show at Raleigh in 1947 and 1954, and the Rosenwald Fellowship which gave him several months of study in New York. She spoke, too, of the wide range of exhibits in which his work has been shown, and the collections in which he has paintings.

Mrs. R.P. Rogers, president of the Woman's Club, and Mrs. H.S. Ragsdale presided.

Mrs. Rogers presented Mayor W.L. Whedbee, who opened the program with a few words of welcome and expressed the appreciation of the city for the contribution made to it by the Arts Festival.

Committees in charge of the festival were recognized, as were out-of-town visitors, local artists, and visiting artists from Kingston, Tarboro, Belhaven, New Bern, Edenton and Wilmington.

For the musical feature of the program, Mr. Paul Hickfang of the College Music Department sang two arias, with Mrs. Hickfang as accompanist.

Mrs. J.H.B. Moore announced that the Monday and Tuesday night programs have exchanged nights, but that the hour and place remain as they were.

After visiting the exhibit of Mr. Howell's thirty-one paintings in the Arts Gallery, those present enjoyed refreshments in the main room of the library, by courtesy of the Art Gallery Board.

Horse Collides With Automobile

DALLAS (AP)—They had a horse car collision here yesterday. Officers said this happened: As the horse drank from a creek in a pasture, boys rolled a barrel down a nearby hill. The horse, startled, galloped through a fence and right into C. E. Larkin's car. The auto was slightly damaged. The horse loped off. Neighbors caught it.

Said policeman Homer Burris in dropping the case: "You can't give a ticket to a horse for negligent collision and hit and run."

The State Is Still In Business Today

North Carolina is just as well off today after not having a session of the General Assembly Saturday as it would have been if the traditional Saturday session had been held.

Perhaps now that a break with the traditional Saturday sessions has been made, the General Assembly will take the necessary steps to do away with Saturday sessions altogether. Such a move would streamline legislative process in North Carolina, give legislators more time at home during the session, and save the state money.

Traditionally North Carolina's General Assembly has held a so-called session on Saturday. The legislators and most of the citizens of the state have long recognized these Saturday sessions as a farce. It has been years since there was a quorum at the Saturday sessions, which have been

A Pedestrian Underpass May Be The Answer

A suggestion put forth at the Greenville Planning Board meeting last week merits more thorough consideration by the city administration and school officials.

It was suggested that a pedestrian underpass be constructed under Fourteenth Street and the railroad between the site of the new elementary school and the future high school. Fourteenth is already a heavily traveled street, and it is destined to become much more heavily traveled in the next few years.

With an elementary school and the high school located across the thoroughfare from each other, there will be an almost constant stream of children crossing from one area to the other. To add to the congestion (if the Planning Board recommendation is approved) a sub-station of the fire department will be constructed on Fourteenth Street between the two school sites.

In the interest of the safety of the large number of school children which eventually will be concentrated in that area, and in the interest of avoiding as much traffic congestion as possible, plans should be made for constructing such an underpass in the next few years.

STOP EVIL AT ITS SOURCE

Jesus maintained that the place to stop evil is at its source. Killing, he says, has its origin in anger which runs into name-calling and alteration. Adultery has its conception in evil thoughts and glances. Untruthfulness stems from a tendency to exaggerate and at last to play fast and loose with facts. Our Lord declared that the old doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is, under the Kingdom regime, to be replaced by the policy of overcoming evil with good. Last of all, the true Christian does not hate his enemy while he loves his neighbor, but loves them both, so that he may be a son of that Father in heaven who "maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust."

The statement "too late with too little" has described ruin often in the field of military. We make a great mistake in waiting to go after evil in our hearts and in the world at large after it has grown to prodigious proportions. The time to stop evil is before it gets started. The great aim of medicine is to prevent disease rather than to cure it.

Nostrums suggest cure; sound religion urges prevention. Stop evil while it is still in the mind. It may be too late when it becomes an overt act.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's bold and imaginative plan for sending an atom-powered merchant ship around the world heralds an approach of the atomic age that will materialize sooner than was generally anticipated.

Despite considerable controversy among the experts, it is expected that within five years energy from this new source will be available for industrial use at rates competitive with such conventional fuels as coal, oil, gas and water.

SIGNIFICANT MOVE—It's audacious gesture has special significance. For some time, there has been a sharp disagreement over the feasibility of peacetime nuclear projects between Federal technicians and scientists, including officials of the Atomic Energy Commission, and private industry's engineers and specialists.

The former group has been pessimistic, shaking their heads at the five-year predictions, preferring to predict a 20-year lag. The outsiders have been optimistic. It's virtually ordered his men to cease their moanings, and to "get on the job" in this pioneering venture. He wants an end to feet-dragging in this field.

PROBLEM OVERCOME—The problem of applying atomic power to peacetime operations has been overcome. The submarine Nautilus has met every test. Several hard proposals for construction of nuclear power plants are now before the AEC. The country's first plant of this type, located near Pittsburgh, expects to start delivery of atomic energy late in 1957.

The problem now concerns the cost for production of a kilowatt hour. An atomic kilowatt can now be produced for 12 mills per kilowatt hour, although Consolidated Edison of New York says that its proposed plant near Peekskill, N. Y., will generate it at nine mills.

DIFFERENCE IN COST—The nationwide average set aside for consideration of purely local bills.

Saturday sessions of the legislature, for all practical purposes, were abandoned years ago by members of the General Assembly. Long overdue is a measure by which the Saturday sessions could be abandoned legally in order that the state could put to better use the money which is spent to open and close these sessions.

Obviously the Saturday sessions are not needed now. For those who insist they are needed for handling local bills, we submit that if the home rule amendment is adopted (and it should be) the number of local bills coming before the General Assembly will be appreciably reduced. The remaining local measures which come before the legislature could well be handled (as they are now for the most part) in regular legislative sessions Monday through Friday.

Rep. Phil Whitley of Wake County hit the nail on the head when he termed the Saturday sessions "asinine and ridiculous." We trust a sufficient number of legislators will support Rep. Whitley in his bid to do away with the Saturday sessions altogether.

Time To Show Interest In Municipal Affairs

This is election week for Pitt County's municipalities, and although contests for municipal offices are scattered, it behooves the citizens of the individual towns to participate in their local elections.

Voters of Winterville, Grimesland and Ayden went to the polls today to elect town officials.

Tuesday will be the day for voters of Greenville, Farmville, Fountain and Bethel to go to the polls to cast their ballots in town elections. In Greenville and Bethel there is no contest in this election. Greenville's five councilmen have no opposition in their bid for second terms. In Bethel, the primary held last week was tantamount to election and Tuesday's balloting will be little more than a formality.

In Farmville the situation is different. Farmville voters have a full slate of candidates from which to pick their town officials, and in addition there is a $430,000 bond issue on utilities improvements riding on the outcome of the vote.

The Reflector urges the voters of each of the Pitt County towns which have elections tomorrow to go to the polls and exercise their privilege and responsibility of casting a ballot. Even where there are no contests, the number of votes cast will to a degree reflect the public interest in municipal affairs.

HAMPTON, N. H., UNION: "We firmly believe that teaching, like all other professions, should be rewarded on a merit basis—a principle which has its very roots in the American way of life. . . . To pay all teachers of a given number of years experience the same wages is not only against all truly American principles of incentive, but also tends to nurture mediocrity in the teaching profession."

One reason for high taxes, noted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—Uncle Sam now writes an average of one million checks daily.

Another unhappy factor is that the generating cost of power represents less than 10 per cent of the total cost of delivery to the ultimate customer. Thus, the saving, if any, will be negligible.

WHAT NUCLEAR POWER MEANS—It is the long-range gains which are most important. Nuclear power assures us an unlimited supply, when and if other sources of fuel are exhausted. It means that the United States will never become a "have not" nation in this vital field.

As Ike's new move suggests, it may be a blessing to small and poor countries that have no resources for development of agriculture, industry and transportation. It may end the era of poverty and hunger—and of wars!

Business Today

Styling Everywhere

By ELMER ROESSNER
Style is now everybody's business.

Time was when style was synonymous with fashion and fashion was synonymous with apparel. Recently it spread to furniture, carpeting, automobiles and men's wear. Now it's busting out all over.

What started as timid promotions of pink and charcoal in men's wear last year spread like a prairie fire an advertising agency's newsletter points out. "The huge apparel in almost everything 'man wears' it adds. 'They are also in upholstery, women's wear, kitchen trim and housewares. This has done so much for housewares that manufacturers are now planning to promote turquoise as the coming fashionable color in that field.'"

It also notes that one of the leading soft-drink manufacturers, after research in depth, switched its advertising from "homey art and grass-roots lines to swank illustrations and the appeal that 'almost everyone appreciates the best.'"

One of the three basic ways to make the cash register ring is to promote style. Peggy Fuller of Everlast Fabrics told a recent meeting of retailers. The other two ways are to promote off-price merchandise and to have adequate "bread and butter" merchandise in stock always, she said.

Department stores, Miss Fuller said, should plan style promotions six months in advance, bringing everyone remotely involved into the planning, and whooping up store-wide enthusiasm.

"It doesn't make any difference whether it is a promotion of dish towels, kitchen utensils or the most glamorous bedroom ensemble, but that it is presented with a solid front to the extent that it would be impossible for any customer in town not to know that store A was promoting peach and that the fashion color was peach, regardless of the product, they bought is essential," she declared.

While style creates excitement, there is another reason for it: it speeds obsolescence. It helps give people courage to throw out things before they are completely worn out. Miss Fuller observed that "it is now possible to tell exactly when you were married by the size of your lamps and the arrangement of your pictures on the wall and how they are framed and matted."

NOTHING'S SACRED—NOT EVEN INCOME TAX REPORTS
If state tax inspectors come around and want to see your Federal income tax reports, you are strictly on your own.

Federal laws do not require a taxpayer to allow state or local officials to inspect his copy of his income tax reports. The Internal Revenue Service points out. On the other hand, Federal laws do not protect the taxpayer from such inspection.

But refusing to allow a city or state collector to see copies of returns can be only a delaying move. Federal laws permit the government to show them the ORIGINALS.

OPS RECORDS NEARING WASTE—PAPER DATE
Only a few days more, fellows—After Saturday it will no longer be necessary for business firms to preserve sales records under OPS price controls, except in certain specific cases, such as where investigation is under way.

The government has compiled a new list of which records must be kept and for how long, under Federal laws. To get the list, send 15 cents to the Superintendent of Documents Washington 25, D.C., and ask for a copy of the Federal Register for April 8, 1955. You will find it on the first 56 pages.

The 'Ordinary' Americans

Farming Revolution Against Low-Production Farmers

By ROGER W. BABSON

BARNOR PARK, Mass. — The small, non-progressive farmer is going out of business. The trend is toward large mechanized farms. I forecast that this trend will continue. The stubborn farmer simply cannot compete, over the long term, with the low-cost mass-production methods of the modern mechanized farmer. He has insufficient land and will not buy the necessary equipment.

INCOME DECLINE HITS SMALL FARMERS HARDEST

Farm income has declined on average about 10 per cent since 1951. This decline has been felt by all farmers, but particularly by the smaller operators whose costs are high. Some have had to close up shop. Those in the Dust Bowl area were dealt another severe blow recently when Federal Crop Insurance was discontinued in certain sections.

MUDDLED — The biennial revenue bill which a week ago seemed on the way to enactment is in big a muddle as ever because of a right-about-face on part of the House finance subcommittee. The subcommittee voted to delete the tobacco tax and the building material sales tax from the bill tentatively agreed upon and substitute a stamp tax on automobile registrations.

To further confounding confusion the budget estimators announced "discovery" that by effecting economies and spending less than appropriated by the Legislature, the Governor and the Budget Bureau could save $4 million for the current biennium and a like amount for the next. That $8 million added to the $15 million previously announced as increased estimated yield from present schedules, reduced the new tax need from the original $22 million down to about $28 million. Many legislators see reasonable excuse for raising the original estimates of yield because of improved business conditions throughout the country. They do not understand why it took the Governor and the Budget Bureau four months to discover they could save $4 million and get along with $4 million less for the next two years. Effect has been to further shake the already weakening confidence in the validity of estimates, especially when they recalled early session statements that the budget had been cut to the bone. The joint appropriations committee reduced the general fund budget bill by over a million dollars below original recommendations.

The auto stamp tax is expected to yield about $2 million, approximately the same as the tobacco tax would yield. The additional saving of $4 million is believed to justify eliminating the building materials levy.

Contest For Contest-Crazy Folk

NEW YORK (AP) — America today is contest-crazy.

For every person trying to get rich quick by buying wildcat oil or uranium stock, there must be 10,000 seeking to end all their money problems by winning a big national prize contest.

There are scores of these contests going on all the time, and the prizes are getting so magnificent the sponsors are scratching their heads trying to think up bigger and better ones. So far neither the Statue of Liberty nor the New York Yankee baseball club have been put up as contest prizes, but don't bet they won't be.

Remember the dear dead days when college boys swallowed goldfish and men nosed peanuts up "Pike's Peak for pure glory"? Not any more. Contests now have to pay off in hard cash.

The Horatio Alger hero of yesterday got ahead by hard work. But the hero of the modern contest evening is the guy who is a single evening wins a world tour, a furnished home and a life income of $500 a month. He does it by sending in a boxtop on which he has scribbled in 25 words why he likes "Blotto," the new wonder-absorbent breakfast food.

The goal no longer is to strive and succeed. Why save up for a trip to Paris when it is so much easier to win it by breaking the bank identifying the mystery tune, solving the puzzle, or entering a contest to name a new seasonal perfume?

Personally, I entered one of these contests to name a perfume got nowhere, and now have sworn off being a contestant for life.

The goal no longer is to strive and succeed. Why save up for a trip to Paris when it is so much easier to win it by breaking the bank identifying the mystery tune, solving the puzzle, or entering a contest to name a new seasonal perfume?

Personally, I entered one of these contests to name a perfume got nowhere, and now have sworn off being a contestant for life.

(Editor's note: What same did you suggest for the perfume?) (Boyle's "Sandy" answered: "I still can't see why I didn't win.")

But the contest mania has become so widespread it is ruining social life in this country. People are so busy filling out box tops they no longer have time to talk. Good old-fashioned infatuation with business world. In some offices the white collar dreamers are so busy filling in boxtops or contest labels they have no time for their regular tasks. I heard of one annoyed employer who put up a sign on his bulletin board: "A prize of $10 will be paid this week to the first employee found working at the job he's being paid to do."

After a week he removed the sign. There had been no takers. The prize was too small.

This grabbing philosophy has divided the land into the new classes—those who sponsor contests, those who enter them.

Since I now am too proud to enter any more contests, I have decided to sponsor one of my own—an exciting contest that demands both skill and dexterity and will add to any entrant's education by improving his understanding of nature.

So I hereby announce it—an international competition to see who will become the first person in history to milk a live lady polar bear.

To the best of my knowledge it has never been tried before but we can't let the Russians beat us to the punch in this, can we?

The rules of the contest are simple:

1. The polar bear must be awake and undrugged at the milking hour.

2. All milking efforts must be attempted in an atmosphere of mutual good will—that is, as mutual as the polar bear will allow.

3. Each entrant will assume personal responsibility for all medical expenses entailed, including any claims for damages registered by the polar bear.

4. Entrants will provide their own polar bears.

5. The winner will receive international recognition but no cash prize, although he will be allowed to retain the milk if he chooses.

Entrants may object that this doesn't sound like much of a contest. But our main purpose here is to put contest back on a sound, common-sense basis of good old-fashioned infatuation. They won't have to mail in a box top—or write a 25-word essay on "Why I enjoy milking polar bears."

UNFINISHED — Action of the House subcommittee in substituting the automobile stamp for the tobacco tax does not mean the plan will be accepted, or that the job of the revenue seekers has been finished. Instead of getting a bill reported from the full committee early in the week, as forecast a few days ago, the matter has been opened up for further public hearings. A hearing is scheduled on the stamp tax Tuesday afternoon in the highway building.

Opposition will be bitter from several sources. The N.C. Highway Users Conference adopted resolutions last week opposing any invasion of highway fund areas for general fund purposes.

Automobile dealers, who submitted a bill on their own initiative to increase sales tax revenue from automobiles by more than a million dollars, will oppose the stamp plan which will have the effect of adding $5 to $10 a year to the vehicle tax.

The highway commission and many road contractors insist that this tax is actually if not technically a diversion of highway revenue and may be construed as such by Federal authorities resulting in decrease of Federal aid allocations to this State. These groups all contend that the highway system needs additional money as desperately as the general fund does, and the highways have no source except as the farmer less dependent on the weather and lets him harvest at his convenience. It reduces spoilage and gives him more value from his crop. In addition, there are machines for planting, spraying, and harvesting, plus countless practical gadgets that make farm work more pleasant and efficient.

WHAT FARMERS' SONS SHOULD DO

I forecast the future is bright for farmers who have well-located farms and will adopt the new equipment, and for the makers of this new farm equipment; but I fear the days of many stubborn, small marginal farmers are numbered. Fortunately the impact of mechanization will be gradual, but this is a problem which should be recognized and planned for now by the farmer and his children. Government should get together with industry and try to make this transition as easy as possible.

Farm workers especially should face up to the situation realistically.

In industry, the man who finds work in his own line diminishing, turns to another type of business. He frequently does much better in the new endeavor. In this connection, many small farmers and farm workers have nothing to lose. Most farm people have character, courage, and good health. They often have the advantage of being handy with tools. In planning and running their farms they had valuable administrative and supervisory experience. What does this all mean? To me it means that one of the farmer's sons or daughters might do well to adopt the new conditions and remain with the farm; but the "hired men" with ambition had better get jobs elsewhere. Employers may well use the "Help Wanted" ads in farm areas as job opportunities arise.

House Finance Subcommittee Muddles Revenue Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House finance subcommittee today muddled the revenue picture by deleting the tobacco tax and the building material sales tax from the bill tentatively agreed upon and substitute a stamp tax on automobile registrations.

To further confounding confusion the budget estimators announced "discovery" that by effecting economies and spending less than appropriated by the Legislature, the Governor and the Budget Bureau could save $4 million for the current biennium and a like

Instead of getting a bill reported from the full committee early in the week, as forecast a few days ago, the matter has been opened up for further public hearings. A hearing is scheduled on the stamp tax Tuesday afternoon in the highway building.

The highway commission and many road contractors insist that this tax is actually if not technically a diversion of highway revenue and may be construed as such by Federal authorities resulting in decrease of Federal aid allocations to this State. These groups all contend that the highway system needs additional money as desperately as the general fund does, and the highways have no source except as much as the automobile stamp revenue.

VICTIMIZED — Automobile owners have been hit several times already by additional taxes proposed for the general fund by "adjustments" in the sales tax schedule—the 1 per cent with $20 maximum and substitution of a use tax for the fleet owner exemption. Imposition of the stamp tax will mean this class of taxpayers will be called upon to contribute some $10 million to the general fund in addition to the nearly $5 million already paid through the inspection tax. Meantime the automobile owners and operators are paying around $100 million a year to maintain the highways, prison department and highway patrol.

The stamp tax has the virtues of being easy to collect and will yield the money needed to balance the budget. Automobile dealers and highway users insist these virtues do not justify further victimizing a class and a commodity which already is higher taxed than any other, with possible exception of liquor. Of the total tax bill for all purposes, amounting to about $315 million a year, automobile owners will specifically pay more than one third of it as well as their share of the other two-thirds. They feel that is carrying class legislation too far.

Women In The Church

"I believe that much of the responsibility for creating the climate of a church depends upon its women," says Mrs. Dorothy N. Dolbey, churchwoman and acting mayor of Cincinnati, Ohio. "The attitude that we have toward all of life molds and shapes not only the thinking of our families but that of the parish as well. If women take the attitude that politics is a dirty, messy business and no self-respecting person can be a part of that life, it stands to reason succeeding generations will have less and less to do with governing themselves. To rule ourselves is a privilege born out of strife. It is a heritage which was given us to nourish."

The Methodist Social Center, located in the heart of the educational world of Manila, Philippine Islands, is broadening its program to include psychiatric social work. Since its opening in 1949 by Miss Madeleine Klepper, missionary of the Methodist Church, it has become a center where girls may board under Christian supervision in the adjoining dormitory. Hundreds of children from neglected neighborhoods also find here a place to play. A woman with special training in psychiatric social work has joined the staff. She will be aided by a group of Filipino Methodist girls who are college graduates in social work or psychology, but who are jobless and need experience.

At the request of the National Christian Council of Nigeria, a team of two leaders in the field of Christian education will visit that country from October 1955 to June 1956. The World Council of Christian Education and Sunday School Association has been asked to coordinate this subject which is also supported by the British Conference of Missionary Societies, some of the American Mission boards, the Youth Department of the World Council of Churches and World Youth Projects. One of the leaders will be Miss Leonora R. Flores, a teacher of Blue at Silliman University of the Philippines. The British Conference of Missionary Societies will nominate the other. They will visit local congregations in rural and urban areas to study the conditions under which Sunday school and youth work must be carried on in that country.

Emergency Gear For Patrol Radio

RALEIGH (AP)—With the aid of $9,504 in federal civil defense funds emergency generators will be purchased for key Highway Patrol radio installations.

State Civil Defense Director Edward F. Griffin said yesterday the move will help "avoid a repetition of the communications failure experienced during Hurricane Hazel." He said the federal money will be matched with an equal amount of state money. Since the storm last Oct. 15, Griffin said, the Highway Patrol and the Civil Defense Communications Section have intensified their cooperation.

Fewer Reporting Income Of Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—There were 148 Americans with incomes over a million dollars in 1952, Internal Revenue Service records show. This was 23 fewer than the year before.

A revenue service study of 1952 tax returns made public yesterday disclosed that the 148 millionaires reported income totaling $289,224,000. On this, they paid federal income taxes totaling $180,198,000. Personal income tax collections that year reached a record level of 28 billion dollars.

NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF LAND
 Whereas the undersigned, acting under the authority of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, made in that certain action entitled, "Lydia J. King et al., vs. J. T. May, et als," appearing of record in Judgment Docket No. 39, at page 276; and further acting as trustee in a certain deed of trust executed by Lydia J. King and Mittie King and recorded in Book F-24, page 581, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, foreclosed and offered for sale the lands hereinafter described; and whereas within the time allowed by law an advance bid was filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court and an order issued directing the Trustee and-or Jack Edwards, attorney, representing said Trustee, to resell said lands upon an opening bid of $3,200.

Now therefore, under and by virtue of said order of the Clerk of the Superior Court and the power of sale contained in said deed of trust, and by virtue of the further authority, set out in the first and second notices of sale, copies of which are on file in the office of the said Clerk, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale upon the said opening bid of $3,200 at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the Court House door of Pitt County, in Greenville, N. Longtime Union Organizer Dies

LEICESTER, England (AP)—One of Britain's top labor leaders, militant anti-Communist Arthur Deakin, died of a heart attack yesterday. He collapsed while addressing a May Day rally. Deakin since 1945 had headed the world's largest labor union, the 1,300,000-member Transport and General Workers Union. He was 64. He had planned to retire on his next birthday, in November. Deakin started work in a south Wales steel mill at 13 but studied economics and industrial history in night classes. At 18 he formed a local union and had been a labor organizer ever since.

Turns Out Young Boy Has Mumps

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—An 8-year-old boy who made news by becoming ill two days after being inoculated with polio vaccine turned out to be a victim of the mumps. The boy, son of a couple stationed at nearby Mather Air Force Base, was placed in isolation at the Sacramento County Hospital last week as a possible polio case. But City-County Health Officer I. O. Church announced last night the boy has mumps.

YOUNG STARTER
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Five-year-old Henry Casner is smiling today—with a brand new set of false teeth. Little Henry has only four "real" teeth. A medical condition caused his teeth to decay and the new dentures installed recently at Mt. Sinai Hospital ended his diet of strained baby food.

Greenies Split 2 Weekend Games With Farmville Club

The Greenville Greenies of the Coastal Plain League halved two games over the weekend with Farmville, the locals winning yesterday afternoon 3-2 after Farmville took Saturday night's game 12-3.

The split ran Greenville's record to two wins against two losses. The win was Farmville's first of the season.

Big Vance Jones scattered nine Greenies hits for the win in Farmville. He struck out six men and allowed only one Greenie to get more than one hit.

Veteran Johnny Foell started on the hill for Greenville and allowed but one hit, although nine runs were scored in the first inning. The Greenies were victims of faulty play and were charged with six errors before the inning was over.

The rumble-fever continued after Bobby Coggins relieved Foell and the Greenies wound up committing 13 miscues. Coggins pitched two-hit ball the rest of the way and whiffed 13 batsmen but the nine run margin was too much to overcome.

James McLohorn was Greenville's most consistent clouter. He batted out three hits in four official trips to the plate.

For the winners, Ralph Britt and Streeter Tugwell led the hitters, with two hits in four at bats respectively.

Despite the nine-run outburst in the first inning, the game was lean on plate power. No extra base hits were recorded by either team. Mims, their loose defensive play, the Greenies would have been in the game throughout.

Sunday Game

Yesterday afternoon, Greenville's ace righthander Bobby Flye took the mound and embarrassed Farmville on three hits in a game that went 10 innings.

The fastballing Flye sent 13 batters back to the bench on strikeouts. It was the second straight win for the former professional player and his second 3-hitter. He has now struck out 26 men in two games and has issued only eight free passes to first.

The Greenies scored the winning run in the bottom half of the 10th inning with the bases loaded and nobody out. Flye worked the Farmville pitcher for a base on balls and Blaney Moye got renewed life on an error. Brownie Tripp, Greenville first baseman, laid down a perfect bunt for a hit to fill the sacks. James Pollard came in to run for Flye and scored on pinch-hitter Pete Carraway's long fly ball to left-center.

No Greenville player got more than one hit nor did a Farmville player. After nine innings, the score was knotted at 2-2. Farmville was handcuffed by Flye in the top half of the 10th to set the stage for Greenville's winning tally.

Greenville's next game is with Falkland in Farmville Wednesday night. Their next home game is next Sunday against Williamston. Farmville is at Rocky Mount Wednesday and at home against Falkland Sunday.

Zaharias Wins In Comeback Drive

SPARTANBURG (AP)— Babe Zaharias, whose comeback over the effects of cancer stirred the sports fans, won the 18-hole round of the 1955 Masters yesterday in the third annual Peach Blossom - Betsy Rawls Women's Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Zaharias, who either led or shared the lead during the entire 72 holes of play, went into yesterday's final 18-hole round over the Spartanburg Country Club course tied at 217 with Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan.

At the end of the front nine, Miss Zaharias had a two-stroke lead over Mrs. Zaharias. Buh the Babe settled down, collecting a birdie on No. 16 to draw even. The Babe parred the last two holes while Miss Smith bogied both holes.

Mrs. Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla., shot 76 yesterday, her poorest round, for a 293 total and $1,000 first prize of the $5,000 prize money. Miss Smith collected $700 for her second place 295. Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., had 297 to win third place money of $600.

Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., fired a one-under-par 70 yesterday for a 298 total and $500. Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., who won the two previous tournaments here, had 76 yesterday for 299 and $425.

The best of the final day's rounds was carded by Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., who shot 69. She ended in a tie with Betty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio at 300. Each collected $303.33.

Betsy Rawls, the Spartanburg native for whom the tournament is named, could do no better than a ninth place tie at 302.

Low amateur was Wilfrid Smith of Pine Needles, N. C., at 305.

Wide Margins

They were saying that Dr. Cary Middlecoff won the Masters with his terrific second round of 65, but that's not the whole truth. While the sparkling round did put him in the lead with a four-stroke advantage over his nearest pursuer, Ben Hogan, it also put him in the spot where everyone was shooting at his score. In addition, it presented the pitfall of trying to protect a four-stroke lead by playing it safe. Middlecoff didn't weaken and finished with rounds of 72 and 70. His final putt for a birdie was a casual effort. He knew he was home free.

There is nothing casual however about Middlecoff's actions on the golf course. He's one of the most nervous golfers in the game. He runs back and forth from the ball to the green, and then fidgets over his putts. Only his nerves have kept him from being one of the greatest golfers of all time. At 34, he seems to have won his greatest victory—over himself.

Middlecoff's margin of victory in the Masters was seven strokes a new high. On two previous occasions, the winner paced the runner-up by five strokes—in 1948, when he won, and in 1953 when Ben Hogan won the Master's record of 274. The 1955 Master's was Middlecoff's first important victory since he took the Houston Open, Goodall Round Robin and Carlings Open. He was winner in 1954, and folks were wondering if he hadn't passed his peak. Actually, he was just maturing—just calming down.

Racing Driver Killed In Langhorne Mishap

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP)— Mike Nazaruk, one of the nation's top auto racing drivers was killed yesterday when his Offenhauser rammed through a fence during a 30-mile race at the Langhorne Speedway turned over four times and burst into flame.

The 33-year-old North Bellmore, N.Y. driver was doing better than 100 miles an hour when his racer hit the backstretch fence on the 16th lap. The car then ricocheted on the track and careened through the fence 100 yards farther along before coming to rest in a field.

The impact tore the safety straps from the car and most of his clothes from his body. He was thrown from the car on its first roll. Dr. William L. Goldfarb, deputy coroner of Bucks County, said Nazaruk died of a broken neck, severance of the jugular vein and multiple injuries.

Nazaruk, an entry in this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race had finished second in that Memorial Day classic in 1951 and was fifth last year when the first five cars to complete the grind broke the track record.

Nazaruk was the second Indianapolis entrant to die here this season. Larry Crockett of Columbus, Ind., "Rookie of the Year" in the 1954 Indianapolis race after finishing ninth, was killed March 10.

The 30-mile event was halted following yesterday's accident and from a restart, Charlie Musselman of College Pa., won in 16:48.01.

Moore, Valdes Clash Tonight In 15-Rounder

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Veteran Archie Moore, the world lightweight champion, and Nino Valdes of Cuba the No. 1 challenger for the heavyweight title, put their reputations on the block late today in a 15-round fight in the Cushman ball park.

Both the 38-year-old Moore, from San Diego, Calif., and 30-year-old Nino have been demanding a chance to battle Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight championship.

The winner, Valdes particularly, might get the Marciano shot—provided Rocky gets by Don Cockell in San Francisco May 16—so the outcome of tonight's struggle could be important.

Bob Feller Restores Indians To Loop Lead With 1-Hitter

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

The American League champion Cleveland Indians were back in first place today and who do you think put them there?

Bob Lemon? No! Early Wynn? No! Mike Garcia? No! None of the fabulous Big Three had anything to do with it.

It was 36-year-old Bob Feller, who wasn't even trusted to pitch in the World Series last fall and 21-year-old Herbie Score who did not even join the Indians until this spring.

They put two brilliant pitching exhibitions back to back as the Indians twice conquered the Boston Red Sox 2-0 and 3-1 to forge into a half-game AL lead.

Feller, only pitcher since 1900 to turn in three no-hitters, came with eight putouts of getting his fourth as he won his first game of the season and 263rd of his career in the opener. He permitted only one hit—a one-out seventh-inning single by Sammy White. It was his 12th no-hitter.

Score, who was only 4 when Feller set the American League strikeout record of 18, came within two of Bob's mark striking out 16 in the second game.

Three teams—New York, Detroit and Chicago—were locked in a second-place tie, a half game behind Cleveland which the Yankees snapped Detroit's seven-game winning streak with a 6-1 triumph and Baltimore held the White Sox even in a double-header. The Orioles took the opener 9-8 in 11 innings and the White Sox won the second game 6-3.

Kansas City's surprising Athletics moved into fifth place past the Red Sox, taking a 16-10 slugfest from Washington with a six-run seventh inning. Jim Finigan paced a 16-hit attack with a double and triple, scored four times and drove in three runs.

Brooklyn's jet-propelled dodgers made it 15 victories in 17 starts, defeating the Milwaukee Braves 5-4 on pinch hitter George Shuba's run-scoring single in the eighth. The St. Louis Cardinals were held to a split in their double-header with Pittsburgh but took over second place by percentage points from Milwaukee. The Cards won the opener 4-3 but lost the second 7-0 as Ronnie Kline made his first major league victory a shutout.

The New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds played 16 innings before Johnny Antonelli beat the Redlegs 2-1 with a dazzling six-hitter. Pinch hitter Bill Taylor's long single scored Whitely Lockman from third with the winning run.

Chicago's Cubs edged Philadelphia 8-7 on Ransom Jackson's two-run single in the ninth inning of the opener and led 4-2 with the Phillies at bat in the ninth when the game was halted because of the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law. The game will be completed tonight. Gene Baker's seventh-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh.

Larry Doby figured in both Cleveland victories. He singled in the second inning of the opener and scored what turned out to be the deciding run on Jim Hegan's infield out. Hegan tripled home Ralph Kiner for the other run. In the second game, Doby's first-inning double scored Bobby Avila and Vic Wertz.

The Yankees' Bob Turley fanned six Tigers and yielded 10 1/2 hits as he chalked up his fourth victory without a defeat.

A bases-loaded single by pinch hitter Jim Fyburn, a bonus rock, scored two Orioles who runs in the top of the 11th in their first-game victory. Billy Pierce scattered 12 hits to win his second game of the season for the Sox in the nightcap.

Gil Hodges, who earlier had hit a home run and double, singled to open the Dodger eighth after the Braves had scored twice in their half to tie the score at 4-4. Hodges advanced to second on a two-out single by Carl Furillo and scored the winning run when Shuba blooped a Texas leaguer to center.

Little Leading Parade To Ft. Worth Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The golf-victory in the $7,500 Tournament of Champions.

Knocking off his third major tournament this year, the 25-year-old professional from Pal Springs scored a runaway triumph in the windup yesterday.

He shot a final par 72 over the Desert Inn Country Club course and outdistanced the field by 13 strokes. It was not a record. Ben Hogan once won the Portland, Ore. Open by 14 strokes.

But Litter's win was a smasher, with a 72-hole total of 290, eight strokes under par for the distance.

Tied for second place and winner of $2,566.66 apiece, were three mighty mites, Bob Toski, Jerry Barber and Pete Cooper.

Farther down were National Open Champion Ed Furgol, Billy Maxwell and Cary Middlecoff, tied at 296.

In the headache division were Sam Sneed, with a final 78 for 299, and a pretournament hope, Mike Souchak, last in line at 310.

All 20 finishers plus Lioyd Mangrum—each the winner of at least one major PGA open tournament in the preceding 12 months—collected prize money. Mangrum got the $1,000 guarantee although a rib separation forced him to the sidelines after his first round 70.

Air General Likes First Hand View Of Problems

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—At Dayton, Ohio, last year a tall, lean, soft-spoken general climbed into the cockpit of a captured Russian-built MIG jet fighter plane.

Off he took, and for the next half hour he rocketed that MIG through the Ohio skies.

"I wanted to see what it could do," the general said after a perfect landing.

That's the way he operates—Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the Far East Air Force, who on June 1 becomes the new continental air defense commander in the United States.

Partridge likes to get his information first hand.

In the Korean War, as commander of the 5th Air Force, he racked up more than 300 combat hours in one year flying over Communist lines, seeing what the enemy was doing and assessing the damage wrought by U.S. air raids.

To his new job of protecting the United States from enemy air attack, Partridge takes years of experience in air combat, command, administration and in research and development of new planes and weapons.

He was an enlisted infantry engineer in World War I. Then he went to West Point. Since 1925 he has been an Air Force pilot. He has flown all combat planes the Air Force has in operation, including the six-jet B47 Stratofortress bomber.

In 1936 he was a test pilot at Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton. In World War II he served in Africa and then commanded the 8th Air Force in England and on Okinawa.

In 1952 and 1953 he was head of the Air Research and Development Command. He used World War II combat experience and Korean War experience in directing design and development of many of the Air Force's top aircraft of today as well as guided missiles.

As Far East Air Force commander, he has stressed constant alertness and extreme mobility of Air Force units against surprise attack. That includes:

1. An early warning network to sound an instant alarm if unfriendly planes approach the outer perimeter of defense.

2. The deadliest U.S. interceptors based where they can knock down invaders before they get within striking distance.

3. Aves of long-range bombers capable of knocking out enemy airfields.

4. Ground and operations crews ready to move an entire Air Force base at a moment's notice.

In the critical period just before the Tachen Island evacuation, Air Force Sabre Jets moved from the Philippines and Okinawa to Formosa. They were flying missions an hour after they arrived.

By the time the Sabres were back from their first missions, huge C124 Globemaster transport planes had landed with maintenance crews and equipment.

In less than 24 hours, two airfields in Formosa had been turned into effective operational Sabre bases.

Arming Of West Germans Will Require 3 Years; Maybe More

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
BONN, Germany (AP)—German and Allied military experts calculate it will take at least three years to make West German armed forces ready for combat.

Some German sources think that, for political reasons, it may take until 1960.

The three main factors affecting the speed of rearmament are:

1. The Germans have to start from scratch to create modern forces for the atom age. There's a serious shortage of qualified young officers and noncoms.

2. A mass of legislation is required to legalize the raising of armed forces.

3. The public is so reluctant to rearm that it will be politically impossible to put too much steam behind the drive until all possibility of a settlement with Russia has clearly disappeared.

The top limit for the West German forces is 500,000 men. They will be divided into 350,000 soldiers in 12 divisions, 85,000 airmen in a 1,300-plane tactical air force and 65,000 sailors in a small coastal navy.

At least nine major laws will be necessary to implement the Paris treaties in Germany.

The first will be a "volunteer law" to establish a 150,000-man cadre for the armed forces. A conscription law will be needed to enable 350,000 men to be called up for 18 months training and then kept on reserve.

A new democratic military code is to replace the strict Prussian-style regulations of the past.

Powers to requisition land and property and raise funds for military purposes must be granted by Parliament.

Parliament must decide the question of whether the commander in chief, which is sure to stir controversy.

Parliamentary sources doubt this process can be completed much before the end of this year. That means the first recruits would be taken into service in January 1956.

For all their services, there will be a cadre of 22,000 officers, 40,000 noncommissioned officers and 88,000 enlisted men. There is already doubt whether so many volunteers can be found.

Present plans for the army call for the creation of 12 skeleton divisions at first. In emergency these could be combined to make four full-strength divisions.

After about 18 months training, these divisions will be ready to take on strength through the draft.

Initial air force training, especially of pilots, is expected to be carried out in American and British establishments.

The service commanders as well as the commander in chief have yet to be named. The leaders chosen, the cadre trained, the forces will be ready for the draft.

The day when the summonses go out to the nation's young men is also subject to political influence.

Federal elections are due in September 1957. Political observers believe the government would not risk its election chances by calling the draft just before the vote. They speculate that this might delay the draft until late 1957 or even January 1958.

On that basis the divisions would not be fully trained and ready for battle until 1960.

Will Cash In On Their TV Show

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gale Storm and Charles Farrell approached the end of a long, long trail this week—the last of My Little Margie on TV.

The lively pair made No. 126 of the TV series and it may be the final one. Although it has lost its sponsor, My Little Margie is still popular and could probably snag another one. Then why is it going off?

The answer concerns the economics of the TV film business. Many producers break even or perhaps take a loss on the first run. The loot is gained in reruns of the shows. And now My Little Margie is going after the loot.

That's all right with Gale and Charlie, because they share in the profits. But during the last days of production both seemed a little sad that the long run was about over.

The present producer, Roland Reed, says he won't make any more films. He wants to cash in on the reruns. But there is some question as to whether Hal Roach Jr. will continue making them. At any rate, we'll still be doing Margie on radio.

She plans to get reacquainted with her husband and three sons. Her future plans include a return to Las Vegas for a night club date. She also hopes to do an hour TV drama, something she never had time for in the past.

'Little TVA' Being Built In Morocco By Frenchmen

By CARL HARTMAN
MARRAKECH, French Morocco, (AP)—At the edge of the snow-capped Atlas Mountains, French engineers are building a "little TVA" for Morocco.

Moroccans who were fighting France to the death 26 years ago. France shows off the project proudly as an answer to Arab nationalists clamoring for independence. The nationalists, however, don't let it keep them from their favorite sport of throwing bombs at pro-French Moroccans. They say it doesn't answer their demand for freedom and that anyhow the French are building to make a profit, not for love of Morocco.

Nationalists are few, however, among the Berber mountaineers of the Atlas. To celebrate the dedication of Bin-el-Ouidane Dam, 800 turbaned horsemen put on an equestrian display of riding and noise, repeatedly firing their ancient rifles in honor of a French Cabinet minister.

Energie Electric du Maroc (Moroccan Electric Power) is a French firm, working with French government aid. It has just completed nine years of work on the project, designed to produce both electric power and water for irrigation.

By American standards the development is small. The artificial lake holds less than 400 billion gallons of water, compared with more than 10 trillion at Hoover Dam.

Still, Bin-el-Ouidane is the biggest multipurpose dam in Africa, the sixth largest in all French territory. And on Morocco the impact can be immense. The land to be irrigated, for example, is expected eventually to provide homes and a living for 500,000 of the nine million Moroccans in the Tadla Plain, about 100 miles northeast of Marrakech.

It will grow wheat, rye and—if successful experiments can be repeated on a large scale—valuable long staple cotton.

No Money For A 'Kissing Room'

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The new airport here won't get a "kissing room"—not for a time, anyway.

Gen. Gustavo Salinas Carranza, head of the Civil Aviation Bureau, explained:

"We get at least half a dozen wedding parties a week at the airport—that is, the bride and groom are leaving on their honeymoon. Those newlyweds are ridiculous to everybody except their friends."

"So I thought we ought to have a goody salon so they could have some privacy. But the newspapers took it up and called it a 'kissing room.'"

"I can't spend government money on a 'kissing room.' The papers have got to be more dignified about it or we won't have one."

There are two sides to every Question!

Take the question of prohibition vs. "legal control".

Quoting from a recent Open Forum letter in a North Carolina daily newspaper, "Alcohol is the underlying cause of most divorces." This charge is made as an argument in favor of prohibition.

Do the facts back up this argument?

One fact available to anyone is published in the World Almanac for 1955 . . . The states having the highest beer consumption and the states having the lowest beer consumption have almost identically the same per capita divorce rate.

Another fact shows the per capita divorce rate of the country has risen steadily for over the past 60 years while the per capita consumption of alcohol has decreased during the same period.

These facts show there is another side to this question. Would prohibition solve, or even help to solve, the divorce problem? There is no factual evidence that it would affect it one way or another. The divorce rate increased during the years of our great prohibition experiment at the same rate as before and since.

No one would claim that "legal control" offers a solution to the divorce problem either, or that it affects the problem one way or another. What we say is that "legal control" is a better system than prohibition because "legal control" can be made to work and prohibition cannot.

Take MY PLACE

By FRANCES SARAH MOORE

CHAPTER NINETEEN

By mid-afternoon of Christmas the house had settled down into a quiet cadence of happiness. Rigidly obeying rules, Maggie forced herself to relax in the big chair near the tree. Her eyes were reminiscent over the satiny plumpness of cushions, the Teague hang of grapes, the waxed surface of a table.

"Everything in shining order," she whispered.

"Thanks to the Boss," said Eric.

"Bless her,"

Eric hardly moved from Maggie's side sitting close in magical silences, letting the minutes and hours unfold slowly lest one precious moment elude his too-hurried grasp.

Consumed with the bitter longing that swelled painfully inside her, Landon found the vicinity of their love unendurable. She fled to the kitchen on a dozen plausible errands—to taste the turkey, make carrot curls and turnip tulips, keep the water level up in the steam-er—thinking, I'll have to go away.

It was like releasing a lid and having a grotesquely leering Jack-in-the-box spring up at her, spitting questions. So you'll run away . . . and who will look after Gran? And Merry-o? What can you say to Maggie when you go—the truth? Hah! You know perfectly well, don't you, that you can't tell Maggie the truth? Not possibly, not ever.

She swallowed a little of the brandy for burning on the fruit pudding, and returned to the living-room.

Maggie was admiring the custom-tailored, snug look of the slip-covers. "I had no idea you were so smart Landon! I never could get a pattern to go together properly. Gran, remember the dungarees I made once? Three legs!"

"Eric cut out the slipcovers," said Rowena.

"Darling, you didn't!"

He made a why-not shrug. "Landon was in a midnight tizzy absolutely sun-so—" airy—"I took over with the shears."

He had kept it light, made it amusing, censored the wrongness from the episode. But that, of course, was unintentional. As far as Eric was concerned there was nothing to be hidden from Maggie. There had been a moment for him—of awareness? startled recognition? withdrawal?—but so slight, so brief, so unbelieving that it had made no more lasting impression on his mind than a shadow. Landon knew by now that the emotional experience of that night was hers, alone, and—mercifully—her secret.

Merry-o came clanking in on her now skis.

"Come with me, Mommy while I try them," she begged.

Maggie stroked her daughter's silky braid across her cheek. "I can't, Pumpkin. It's against the rules."

"Hate rules?"

"So do I. But you can't get away with breaking them, darling. Once or twice if you are lucky. But it's really not much fun and you usually end up in trouble."

It hit Landon. Her mouth felt dry and coppery-tasting. She was dimly aware of Merry-o tugging at her arm, saying, "You come t h e n, Landon. Please? You can wear Mommy's skis—can't she, Mommy?"

Landon swallowed hard; heard herself saying something about moths in her ski pants.

"Oh, wear mine," Maggie said. Take my place, wear my clothes, live my life . . . It seemed to Landon the crowning irony that of all things with the power to hurt her, to push her toward everything she ought to be running away from it should be Maggie's love.

"Come on!" cried Merry-o.

The air was piercing cold outside. Landon drew in great punishing gulps of it. The snowy golf club slopes were alive with laughing shouting skiers—mostly children, with a scattering of adults too timid for the higher hills.

Merry-o said, "Mommy has a silver cup she won for skiing. The champion's trophy."

"Yes I know."

"Next year," said Merry-o. "Mommy will teach me to ski." Landon locked her hands together. And I'll be far away, learning how to live with myself again.

On top of the beginners' slope Merry-o looked smaller than she actually was.

"Are you afraid? Don't be afraid," Landon said beside her. "Maybe I am. Yes, I am."

"You'll fall, the first time. But the snow is soft. You won't get hurt. And I'll be right behind you to pick you up."

"I wish Mommy was here!" Nevertheless, they had a boisterous happy hour. Merry-o quickly said, "Yes Pum—Merry-o, I do. And stop worrying darling, will you, please? We will keep things straight, I promise you."

Merry-o's face crumpled into a strangely helpless look, as if she were going to cry. Then her mouth straightened. She ignored Landon's outthrust hand and walked stiffly on ahead . . . and Landon knew that although she seemed adjusted, she was not reconciled.

The warmth and peace of the living room entered achingly into Landon's senses as she went in. Maggie was napping under an Afghan Gran had crocheted, with tiny woolen flowers in relief all over it. Eric sat on the floor beside her, holding her hand. Landon moved quickly by him with a hand-wave, and went to her room. The heat made her cheeks tingle as she shed her ski things, put on velveteen slacks and rolled on thick woolen socks.

When she returned to the living room Maggie was still asleep on the Chesterfield. Merry-o was on the floor now, too, her body fitted spoon-like into Eric's, her hand holding on to his thumb. The two breathed in unison, softly carefully, not to waken Maggie. Landon's heart twisted. They hadn't seen her enter the room. All they saw was Maggie. And that was as it should be. Exactly.

lost her first fear, and went tumbling and rolling down the hill, gradually improving, gradually rising downhill longer on her feet. Finally, seeing signs of fatigue in the little girl as they started the uphill again, Landon called a halt.

"You have had enough for one day. Come on! Home."

A voice rang out behind her and she half turned to see a big woman in red hurtling at her, flailing her poles, and with an "Oop!" she collapsed at Landon's feet.

Landon hoisted her up.

"Thanks," laughed the woman, brushing herself off. "I feel like a snowball! Can you get me out of this harness? I'm a fool to get my self buckled into skis at my age. The time to start is when your bones are rubber—like your little girl's."

Landon opened her mouth for a casual explanation that Merry-o was not her daughter, as the woman obviously assumed, but Merry-o was a fiercely indignant breath ahead of her.

"She's not my mother! She's just my aunt."

It was superbly scornful. It was rude and violent.

"Merry-o," began Landon uncomfortably, "please—"

Merry-o waited until they were beyond the woman's hearing. "You were not going to tell her," Darkly. "Why?"

Landon sighed. "I was. Anyway, does it matter? We'll probably never see her again."

"I like to keep things straight," said Merry-o, fixing her eyes on Landon penetratingly. "Don't you?"

Landon felt her gaze waver. She did not try to smile. "Yes," she

Diplomat Robertson Is Opposed To Appeasing

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (U-S)—Walter Spencer Robertson has more the look of a prematurely gray college cheerleader than of a 61-year-old diplomat.

Slim and jauntily dressed, he never looks more at ease than before an airport microphone saying a few words just before racing to Formosa or Geneva or Paris.

He has done it nearly a dozen times during the past two years as Secretary of State Dulles' trouble shooter and specialist on Far East affairs.

His latest, a hurry-up mission to Formosa with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. This trip, made amid a worldwide uprising in hopes for a Formosa cease-fire, had about it the hubbub on which Robertson seems to thrive.

Uncommon vigor is the first thing you see in him. It belies the soft voice of a lifelong Virginian—an investing banker and scholarly country squire turned diplomat.

He is consistent in his support of Chiang Kai-shek, the Nationalist Chinese leader whom he met and grew to admire as a patriot during a 1945-46 tour in China. And he is consistent in his militant opposition to the Chinese Reds.

Those factors played an important part in the two prime trouble-shooting missions he has performed for Dulles: in mid-1953 when he flew to Korea and persuaded South Korean President Syngman Rhee not to upset the truce, and last October when he made an unannounced flight to Formosa to wind up the U. S. Nationalist China Defense Treaty committing America to safeguard Formosa.

Robertson never countenances any doubt about what the Communists are up to, who they are and how to stop them.

What he said in a speech a year ago last fall at Louisville, he has repeated many times: "The things we are doing in the Far East are things we could never forgive ourselves not doing. We have no choice."

"For the conflict with the Moscow-Peking axis will be a protracted one, and given our national psychology, it will often be a frustrating one."

"We like jobs that are well defined, to which there is a recognizable conclusion, but the task before us will seem to go on and on."

Of how to deal with the Chinese Communists, Robertson says, as he did to a House Appropriations subcommittee last Feb. 10: "The greatest threat to our security and to world peace in Asia is Red China, and you do not appease them by giving them the things they demand."

Robertson's look at the Far East is on the basis generally of what he sees as a Communist blueprint drawn to a patient timetable.

As he puts it, the Reds made a grab for Japan when they moved into North Korea; their ultimate goal was Japan's industrial potential.

Thwarted there in what he has called a "turning point" in mankind's attempt to end the war, the Reds shifted to Indochina's breadbasket, Japan's industry, and China's manpower.

"To thwart this master design, Robertson has held consistently to a policy of blocking Red expansion on the one hand and building partnerships on the other. That is on our side."

Banker And His Abductor Killed

KAMPSVILLE, Ill. (U-S)—A bank official and one of two men who abducted him and his wife were killed last night in an automobile wreck while being pursued by peace officers.

The dead were Harry Waldhuser, 63, cashier of the Calhoun County Bank at Kampsville, and a man identified by Sheriff Paul L. Aderton as Thomas Underwood, 26, of Washington Park, Ill.

Mrs. Lela Waldhuser, wife of the cashier, and a second abductor, Eugene Clifford Hubbard, about 26, of Collinsville, were seriously injured, the sheriff said.

He said an apparent attempt to force Waldhuser to go to the bank was forestalled when Mayor Jesse Campbell and his wife, neighbors of the Waldhusers, became suspicious of a car parked between the Campbell and Waldhuser homes and of the strangers in the Waldhuser house.

A crowd of about 30 persons gathered about the Waldhuser home after Mrs. Campbell telephoned an alarm. Campbell said one of the men shouted to the group: "You better get back or we'll kill them both. If you'll move away, no one will be hurt. We're going to take them with us for protection."

The mayor said there was an exchange of shots as the two men, who were being held in the car as hostages, sped out of this town of 450 population about 45 miles north of St. Louis, but no one was hit.

The speeding car overturned on a curve about a mile out of town.

Four People Injured In Three-Car Crash

Four colored persons were injured early Saturday night in a three-car smash-up at the intersection of the Farmville and Ayden highways near the Greenville city limits.

Totally demolished was a car operated by Uah Lee Carr, 16, of Route 2, city. He suffered lacerations of the face as did ALEX Carr.

Jr. Arthur Hunter received a brain concussion, lacerations and bruises while Fred D. Smith also sustained lacerations of the face.

Operators of the other vehicles were Loopert E. Wilkes, 31, of Route 1 Greenville, whose auto sustained $200 damage and Roosevelt Wilkes, of Ayden. Roosevelt Wilkes was arrested after the accident approximately a mile from the scene and charged with hit and run driving.

Meanwhile, Smith, a passenger in the truck operated by Wilkes, was charged with assaulting Rosa Anderson in an argument which occurred before the accident.

Another city accident meanwhile, did some $300 damage to cars operated by Alfred B. Cooper, of Baskerville, Va. and Charles E. Pittman, of Smithfield. The wreck occurred Sunday at the intersection of Charles and 10th streets. Cooper was cited following the smash-up for failing to stop for a stop sign.

No personal injuries were reported.

Constitution Of Merger Talked

WASHINGTON (U-S)—Top AFL and CIO leaders today tackle the biggest problem still in the way of merging their union organizations—a constitution for the proposed combined federation.

A joint union committee of AFL and CIO chiefs planned to act on a draft carefully worked out beforehand. It was not made public but was said to follow closely the general merger principles agreed upon in Miami last February.

Approval of the constitution by separate AFL and CIO conventions would be required later, but this was considered to be a formality once leaders of the two organizations agree.

It was learned that the AFL and CIO may move their separate conventions so as to meet simultaneously in the same city. The AFL has been scheduled to hold its annual session in September in Chicago. The CIO had set its meeting for mid-October in Buffalo, N. Y.

Under a plan advanced today by AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther, the two principal architects of the labor merger, the AFL and CIO would hold separate but simultaneous conventions in New York City in December and then go right into the joint convention.

One of the reasons for holding all the conventions in one place was said to be that it would give many AFL and CIO union leaders—some of them bitter rivals for two decades—a chance to get together and start the new 15-million-member federation off in a spirit of friendship.

Secret Parleys On Austria Pact

VIENNA, Austria (U-S)—Ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union begin secret meetings today in an effort to reach final agreement on the long-delayed Austrian Independence treaty.

They will bring the 30,000 words of the draft pact up to date so that their four foreign ministers can sign it at a later meeting here.

After 10 years of deadlock, the Russians have said they now want to end the occupation of Austria. The ambassadors' talks will show whether the Soviets mean it. Most Western diplomats here believe this time they may.

If the ambassadors agree and the foreign ministers approve, the 44,000 Russian and 25,000 Western occupation troops will have to leave the country within 90 days after ratification of the pact. This could come by fall.

The ambassadors' meeting also was watched closely as an indication of prospects for further Big Four conferences on East-West differences.

Austria's government has said that once free she will remain militarily neutral. Although her government is strongly pro-Western neither Russia nor the West would be able to use her strategic crossroads or her Alpine strongholds.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., as the senior Big Four diplomat in Vienna, was the chairman for the first session of the talks. The gavel will rotate each day among Soviet emissary Ivan I. Ilyichev, British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Wallinger and French Charge d'Affaires Roger Lalouette.

Thief Took Church Money In Break-In

Yesterday's nomination for Meanest Man of the Day should go to the individual who yesterday stole $61.90 of King's Cross Roads Free Will Baptist Church funds from the home of C. C. Corbett who lives at Joyner's Cross Road.

Corbett had closed his store around 8 o'clock last night to attend church. When he returned he found the money missing.

The theft is being investigated by the sheriff's department and the Farmville police department.

Thieves also entered a smoke house belonging to Frank Brooks, local magistrate, last night and took three hams, three shoulders and three sides. Brooks, who lives on the Washington Highway, discovered the theft this morning.

Investigation is continuing.

Whose Hughes?

HOLYHEAD, Wales (AP)—The voters of the Anglesey district have a problem: Whose Hughes is whose?

In the national election May 26, Anglesey's House of Commons seat will be won by Mr. Hughes. That's certain. But which Hughes?

The Labor party candidate is lawyer Cledwyn Hughes, 38, who holds the seat now. The Conservative party is running schoolmaster Owen H. Hughes, 43, the Liberal party, not to be outdone, has entered newsman John William Hughes, 45.

Although which Hughes to choose may yet confuse the voters are not without clues.

Cledwyn is running as "Hughes the law," Owen as "Hughes the school" and John William as "Hughes the news."

Winterville Boy Wins Honor At Annual Conclave

Fourteen-year-old Boyce Cox of Winterville was elected Ambassador-in-Chief Saturday at some 300 boys attended the annual Rocky Mount Divisional Royal Ambassador Conclave held at the Memorial Baptist Church here.

The Rev. W. W. Lawton, Southern Baptist missionary to the Philippines, was guest speaker for the conclave, delivering the morning message and also the closing message at the afternoon session.

The Rev. W. E. Cholerton of Wilson, Divisional Royal Ambassador Counselor, was in charge of the annual conclave, assisted by the Rev. B. W. Jackson, state secretary of Royal Ambassadors. A number of Royal Ambassadors and Counselors presented reports on various phases of R. A. work during the meeting.

Mercury Down To 44 In Night

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 76. Lowest last night 44, and at 8 a. m. today it was 64. One-tenth of an inch of rain fell during the 24-hour period.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 80. Lowest that night 56, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 71, the local U. S. Weather Station reported.

Colored News

Deacon Richard Solomon, 61, died Saturday at 5 a. m. at his home on Turnage St. in Ayden following a brief illness. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the St. Paul Christian Church in Ayden with the Rev. D. A. Mumford officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Deacon Solomon was the son of the late Mr. Thomas and Mary Emily Solomon, and was born and raised in the Ayden community for the past 40 years where he has served on the deacon board of St. Paul Christian Church for many years. At his death he was a member of the deacon board and chairman of the trustee board.

Deacon Solomon is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dora Solomon of the home; four daughters, Miss Annie and Pauline Solomon, both of the home, Mrs. Arcana McCafferty of Ayden, and Mrs. Ruby Venson of Inwood, N. Y.; three sons, Richard Jr. of the home, Eddie Herman (Dick) Solomon of Ayden, and Mr. John F. Solomon of New Haven, Conn.; three sisters, Mrs. Malissa Turnage and Mrs. Addie Spencer, both of the Battle Crossroads community, and Mrs. Lucy Tucker of Newport News, Va.; two brothers, Willie Solomon of Boston, Mass., and Walter Solomon of Winterville; nine grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends.

The body will lie in state at the Norcott & Co. Funeral Home Chapel until one hour of the funeral.

American Legion Notice Edgar Barnes Post No. 222 will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Norfleet's Tea Room on West 5th St. All members are requested to be present.

C. C. McCLONE, Cmdr.

Mrs. Hattie Hooks and Mrs. Helen Mooring have returned from New York where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Hooks' brother, A-1c Clinton Wimbley.

Revival services will begin at Mt. Calvary tonight through May 6. Rev. L. E. Edwards of New Bern will be the evangelist.

Grandstand Lost In Sunday Blaze

GREENSBORO, N. C. (U-S)—A windswept fire burned a wooden grandstand at the Greensboro Fairgrounds track yesterday. It collapsed minutes after more than 2,000 stock car racing fans had rushed to safety.

Four minor injuries reported. Twenty cars parked near the grandstand either were destroyed or badly damaged.

There was no estimate of damage. Officers theorized a lighted match or cigarette was dropped through a crack in the wooden floor, starting the fire.
