THE LAW SAYS ...

The Laws of North Carolina, in General Statute 14, Section 322, specifically state that a man must provide for the welfare of his children. Of course, no laws can govern a man after he is DEAD. Only through his unselfish love and devotion for his family may a man provide security for his loved ones after his death. LIFE INSURANCE assures this protection—not the laws of our state.

Avery-Harris Vows Pledged In Double Ring Ceremony

AYDEN—In a private ceremony on Friday evening, April 29, at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride in Ayden, Miss Goldie Harris, daughter of Dempsey B. Harris of Oxford and the late Mrs. Bertie Riggs Harris, and Butler Ray Avery, son of Butler Ray Avery of Durham and the late Mrs. Lottie Braxton Avery, were united in marriage by their pastor, the Rev. N. D. Beaman, Free Will Baptist minister of Snow Hill, in a double ring ceremony.

The living room was decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli and Oregon fern interspersed with tall candelabra with white tapers which were lighted by Guy H. Corbett of Ayden, cousin of the bride.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Guy H. Corbett, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music and Miss Barbara Griffin, soloist, sang "Be-cause" by Guy D'Hardelot and "Oh Promise Me" by Clement Scott.

The bride's only attendant was her matron of honor, Mrs. Lyman McRoy, a cousin, who wore a pink dress which had fitted bodice and full skirt. She used white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Lyman McRoy served the groom as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Jesse Corbett of Ayden, wore a street length dress of white nylon organdy. The fitted bodice of Schiffl embroidery had a jewel neckline and was buttoned in the back with self covered buttons. Panels of the embroidery extended into the bouffant skirt. She wore a small white straw hat with a veil and other matching accessories. Her corsage was a purple throated orchid.

Mrs. Avery is a graduate of Ayden High School and is employed in the office of Lutz and Sheramm, Inc. in Ayden.

The groom is a Korean War veteran, having served seven years in the U. S. Navy, and is employed at the DuPont plant near Kinston.

For a wedding trip to Virginia, the bride changed to a white and black silk dress, black patent accessories and her orchid.

The couple will make their home at 517 Snow Hill Street in Ayden.

Following the Avery-Harris wedding rehearsal on Thursday evening Mrs. C. W. Garris entertained at a cake cutting at her home on Montague Ave.

A color scheme of pink, white and green was used in the decorations. A white cut-work linen cloth covered the dining table which was centered with a floral arrangement of white flowers and candles.

After the couple had cut the first slice of the three-tiered wedding cake, Mrs. J. W. Crawley served the cake, and Miss Juanita Garris poured punch, with Mrs. Garris assisting in serving salted nuts and mints.

New Members Welcomed Into Greenville Service League

The Greenville Service League met Monday morning, May 2 at the Elm Street Recreation Building. As customary the members joined together to say the Christian Service Prayer. Mrs. Bob Thompson asked the new members to come forward and gave them a very inspiring welcome. Mrs. James Hughes responded for the new members who are as follows: Mrs. Kenneth Harris, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Mrs. Floy Hendrix, Mrs. James Hughes, Mrs. Knott Proctor, Jr., Mrs. Ben Rouse, Mrs. Holmes Trapnell, Mrs. Paul Scott, Mrs. Jean West, Mrs. Julian White, and Mrs. Milo Smith. Mrs. Bob Green was reinstated.

As a special treat Mrs. George Lautares introduced Mrs. Knott Proctor who is director of girl scouting in Pitt County. Since the Service League is especially interested in this project she told about the progress scouting has made in this area and stressed the fact that they were emphasizing the responsibility of scouts to work and be good citizens but also how to have wholesome fun.

Finance chairman, Mrs. David Evans thanked Mrs. Ed Parkinson and Mrs. George Garrett for their outstanding work on the bridge tournament in April which netted good returns for the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed.

An extra feature for the coming month will be a "rummage" sale which will be conducted by Mrs. John Howard. The publicity chairman announced that the Service League book would be featured on Peggy Kyle's Good Cooking show on Wednesday, May 11.

Two layettes have been given this month and all the wheel chairs are in use. Mrs. Willford requested that if anybody knew where she could get another good wheel chair at reasonable rates to let her know. The emergency charity committee had only one call this month which was answered.

The Laughinghouse Hospital Bed reported the biggest month ever had. Eight patients were given hospitalization through the Service League fund. Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr. for benefit of the new members explained that the league does not take care of patients that the county will care for but worthwhile people who are not on charity and could not possibly afford to stay in the hospital—people who have heretofore stood on their own feet. The league works through the doctors of the city who have always cooperated wholeheartedly.

Mrs. James T. Little reported that the coffee shop was running smoothly and that a summer worker had been secured. She reminded the girls that the tea cart must be left in order for the next worker.

Volunteers were secured for Hospital Day, May 12, when members will act as hostesses to visitors of the hospital.

Since the one social event of the league is approaching Mrs. George Lautares reported the date of the luncheon was May 25. The time 11:30 and the place—the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Moyer invited all new members to be guests of the league on this occasion.

The meeting was adjourned.

Under the direction of Herbert L. Carter, the band appeared before a responsive and appreciative audience from the campus and the city of Greenville.

Playing with the band the Gerbush "Rhapsody in Blue" Mr. Perry gave a technically expert and artistically interesting performance of the popular number and was rewarded with prolonged applause.

He was again honored on the program when his original composition "A Little Too Suite" was given its first performance. A student clarinet quartet composed of Neal Williams, Ralph Chason, and George Knight of Rocky Mount and James W. Alexander of Columbia appeared in the playful modern composition by Mr. Perry.

Light, rhythmic, and tuneful selections, chosen for their popular appeal, made up the program by the band. Stirring marches; a "fantasy" of Stephen Foster melodies; "The Rakes of Mallow" and "Fiddle Faddle" by Leroy Anderson were among numbers. The concert was climaxed by an arrangement of "Dixie" presented as an encore.

Miss Warren Is Complimented At Dessert Bridge

Miss Adelaide Warren, bride-elect of this month, was honored last night when Mrs. Harry Forbes entertained at a dessert bridge as a compliment to her.

Miss Warren was presented a variegated carnation corsage which blended with the color scheme of red and white, which was carried out in the choice of decorative flowers. A mantel arrangement of gladioli and a table arrangement of geraniums decorated the room where guests were served when they arrived.

White tapers surrounded by red verbenas in antique wine glasses centered the refreshment tables. Cake and cream with strawberry sauce accompanied by salted nuts were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. M. Warren, mother of the honoree. Later in the evening cold drinks and potato chips were passed.

Miss Warren was presented a gift of silver and score prizes were won by Miss Margaret Johnston and Mrs. E. L. Clark.

True... From Sunup To Sundown, Mother's Work Is Never Done

With the boys, Richard Neil, Jr., 3, and Edward Foley, 2, dressed and filled with breakfast, they have been sent out to play in the back yard, while Alice cleans the house and starts lunch. In the meantime, young Martha Kate demands attention and must be bathed. After her bath, she will be fed, and then be put to bed again where Alice hopes she will sleep.

A mother is many things to her children, and a familiar sight to her are the many cuts and bruises her youngsters bring with confidence for her ministrations. Here Eddie watches intently as Mother doctors his most recent scratch with mecurochrome. Mother is also a wise woman, and answers thousands of questions every day for her inquisitive youngsters.

Food for the growing family is one necessity which cannot be neglected, but Alice tries to organize her shopping so she only has to visit the grocery store once every two weeks. It's quite a job shopping to suit the tastes of all the family, and it usually consumes an entire morning or afternoon.

Young Mrs. Singletary begins each day at 5 a. m. when she rises to see her husband off to work. He is a farm insurance salesman, and has to be on the job early. Alice will now go back to bed until 6:30 or 7, when her three and two year old sons, and her three and one-half month old daughter will awake and want attention.

Bringing in the clean clothes is an everyday task for Alice, who declares, "Every day is wash day." Alice does all the laundry for her family. She has no household help at all "except these," and she laughingly points to her two sons. Fortunately she has a washing machine.

Light suppers are on the menu for the Singletarys, and Alice and Neil usually feed the boys earlier, so they can eat together after the youngsters are in bed. Neil supervises Dickie's meal, while Alice oversees Eddie's. Alice's preparation of tonight's supper was interrupted by Eddie, who couldn't wait and ventured into the kitchen to eat soap.

After lunch and a nap, during which Alice has cleaned the kitchen, fed the baby, straightened the house again, and dressed for the afternoon, the boys are feeling lively. Before going out to play, they are interested in Mother's telephone conversation. In addition to her other duties, Alice serves as her husband's secretary.

"Good night," Alice tells the boys about 8 o'clock. When Neil is home he usually puts them to bed, but often he works in the evening. "At night I really get to work," Alice declares. Often she irons, or has more washing to do. She also sews, making most of the boys' clothes and all of her own. She plans to soon get started on some sport shirts for Neil.

Once A Year They Have A Day

Tomorrow is Mother's Day, and is dedicated "to the memory of the best Mother in the world, your Mother."

A national holiday, honoring all mothers living or dead, Mother's Day will be observed in appropriate church sermons, irrespective of creed. This week, children in the schools have been made aware of the significance of the day, and have been taught a greater love and reverence for their mothers.

Perhaps the most unsung heroine in the land is Mother, whose presence and services are too often taken for granted 364 days of the year. Too often ambitious men and women look down their noses at the little woman who keeps the house and minds the children, but it has been said: "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

Whether or not this statement is true, at least one woman, Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, thought so much of her mother that when she died not quite 50 years ago, Miss Jarvis set out to fulfill a desire that one day out of all the year be dedicated to all mothers.

As a result of her efforts, state after state has adopted the observance of such a day, and on May 10, 1913, a resolution was passed in the United States Congress to make the second Sunday in May a national holiday.

Mother's Day is now observed through some act of kindness, be it a visit, letter, gift or tribute, to show remembrance of the mother to whom affection is due. Its slogan is in honor of "the best mother who ever lived," and the badge of the day is the white carnation.

In today's feature is pictured the daily routine of one typical young mother. Thousands of young mothers may identify themselves with her as she performs her daily tasks; even a mother who works outside the home is familiar with most of these duties. And many a grandmother may recall earlier days when things weren't quite so modern, but the functions and responsibilities of Mother were the same as they are now.

Mrs. Neil Singletary and her husband, who live at 704 West Fourth Street, have three young children. Here are some of the reasons this youthful mother, and all mothers, deserve special recognition at least one day out of the year.

Reward for Mother on Mother's Day is a box of candy from her children. An expression of appreciation to her in her role of cook, housekeeper, nurse, laundress, seamstress, economist, teacher, gardner, secretary and pacificator. Often she serves as plumber and electrician, too. Mother will take a break from her duties Sunday afternoon when she and the family will go to ride and probably visit grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jones. Perhaps tonight she and Neil will hire a baby-sitter and go out for the evening. And what does Alice think of motherhood? "I love it!"

Deaf Grapplers

In Gallaudet's wrestling quarters, formerly a cow barn, Coach Clayton supervises mass drills. It keeps him on his toes watching all the moves.

The boys are tough, they are in shape, and they don't give up." This sports writer's size-up of the Gallaudet College wrestling team back in 1951 still fits the record. The team's been unbeaten in Mason-Dixon conference competition since February, 1950, although Gallaudet is the smallest of the 15 member schools.

Gallaudet, of Washington, D.C., is the world's only college for the deaf. Its 262 students converse almost entirely in sign language. In many ways the problems of its students in the classroom are the problems of its wrestlers.

Coaching methods usually used in collegiate wrestling are impossible with the deaf. Advice cannot be shouted out on the spot. Coach Tom Clayton must remember it and set up drills to change his athletes' technique. Referees help out, too. Since the Gallaudet lads can't hear the shrill blast that starts—and stops—their bouts, the officials try to give them hand signals simultaneously.

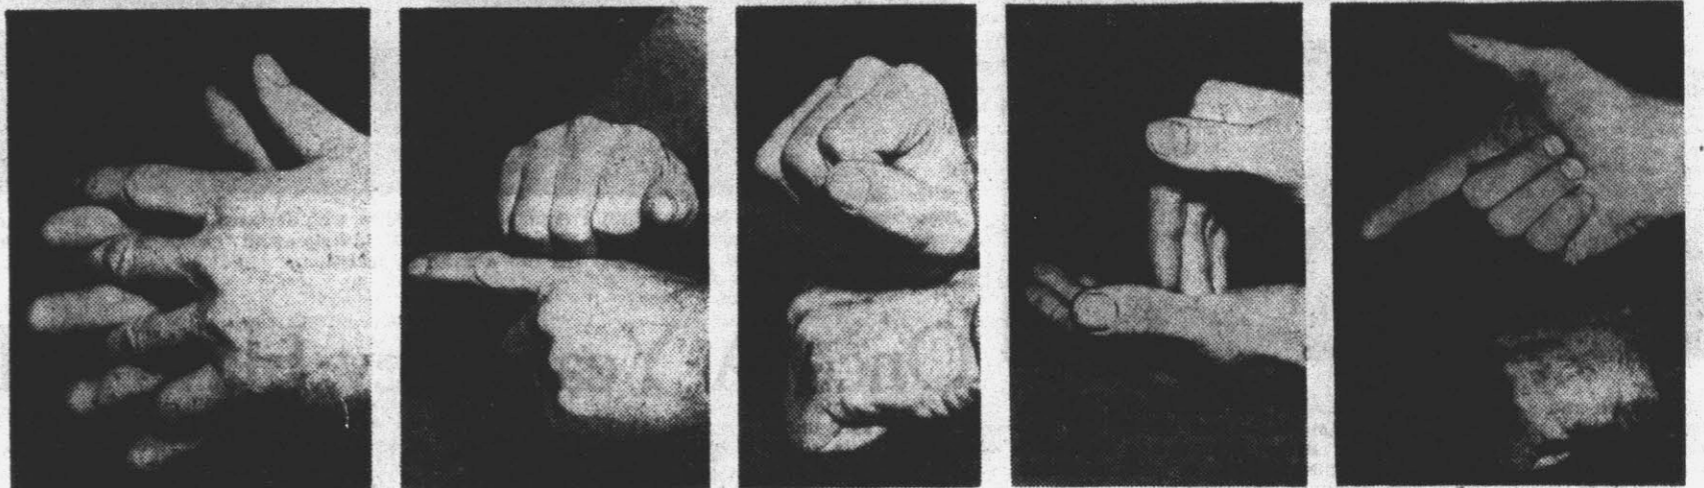

The deaf Gallaudet wrestlers are pictured here, on and off the mat.

Coach Clayton says, in sign language, "Be careful!" to Hal Wright, as Jerry Steinberg, visiting mat champ, gets headlock on John Jacobs.

Enjoying campus stroll, with Chapel Hall in background, are two grapplers with girl friends, Franklin Willis with Ella Henneman and Hal Wright with Dalrene Becher.

HANDY SIGNS: How Coach Tom Clayton "speaks" to his team during practice and play. "WRESTLE"—(both hands move up and down) "PRACTICE"—meaning more practice is wanted "WORK"—meaning more work is needed. "AGAIN"—meaning he wants a hold repeated "SHOOT 'IM"—meaning to pin the opponent

Coach Tom Clayton says "3", indicating an item in the standard drills he has devised to help him with his difficult task of coaching a deaf team.

Wrestler Harry Scofield inspects trophies the Gallaudet team brought back from the Mason-Dixon tourney.

Take My Place

By FRANCES SARAH MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

With the new year and the realization that time was a factor to be reckoned with, if his books were to be finished, Eric allowed himself fewer social breaks in the monotony of research and writing. Occasionally he wondered if he had a fine enough sense of style and the creative ability to master the technique of writing as a profession. Probably not; certainly not unless he had something he burned to say. No. As long as he kept on enlarging the horizons of his mind, the world of the campus was as abundantly satisfying to him as it had always been to his father.

And Maggie did not mind the odd whiff of chalk on his cuffs. Nicer than cigar ash! she'd say.

The book had to be done by April, for Windermere's centennial. Three-day rites; a student assembly, Founders' day convocation and a formal dinner, an honorary degree to Dr. Kimberly Lawrence, head of a Canadian university and the grandson of one of Windermere's founders. To Dr. Lawrence a copy of Eric's book was to be presented. "If it is off the press in time."

"Without mincing or exaggerating the honor, he plugged along at the book, and the long hours of discipline kept him travelling along a groove of concentration so confining that significant highlights in the round of daily living were lost to him.

When Landon approached him with a tentative suggestion that she would like someone to replace her in the cast of "Young Adam," Eric was entirely unaware of her avoidance of all but the necessary contacts with him. With a touch of impatience he snapped, "What's the matter, stage fright? You'll be all right."

Watching her performance on the night "Young Adam" played to a capacity house at the Grand theatre, a look of respect shone in his eyes. She is very good! he thought. He told her so, later, as they read the local drama column together. "The actors," said the reviewer, "each of unusual dramatic heights." Eric said, "You did, too. I was proud of you. With a touch of 'Thank you.' She pushed her hair back from her forehead, looking very tired. I am remarkably good in my real life role, too, she thought ironically. If Eric knew how good I really am, he'd nominate me for the scholarship to the Royal Academy of Arts and pack me off to England."

And good riddance.

The Boss was spooning the batter in rows on the cookie sheet, when Landon walked out to the kitchen one afternoon. Without pausing in her work to look around, she said, "I am making good cookies for you to take to Mrs. Scarffe. She must get heartily sick and tired of institution food that's all run through the sterilizers."

"It really isn't, you know," Landon smiled.

"Tastes like it, I bet," insisted the Boss sulkily. She turned around and looked at Landon a moment. "I hear you got engaged to that young Mr. Wylie."

"Yes."

"Congratulations, I'm sure."

"Thank you, Dora."

It occurred to Landon that the Boss looked unusually nice today. Ordinarily she wore nondescript grays and tans which made her look sallow; today she had on a blue blouse, and Landon discovered that she had really fine eyes. On impulse she asked, "Dora, why have you never married?"

Dora Hendrix showed the cookie sheet in the oven before answering her face its usual cryptic mask. "The man I wanted I couldn't have. And the man I could have I couldn't abide."

Something in the calm acceptance swept past Landon's own hurt and touched her heart. "You'd have been a wonderful wife, Dora."

"You think so?"

Landon nodded earnestly. "You're a grand cook and housekeeper, and if you let yourself go, you'll be jolly company."

Dora wished Omar out of her way with her foot, spun cold water into the mixing bowl and handed Merry-o—who apparently had an unerring instinct for timing—the batter- spoon to lick. Then, with a dubious shrug, the Boss said to Landon, "The only way a woman can be a good wife to a man is by loving him. A poor housewife and a bad cook and a so-so hostess can be a good wife to a man—if she loves him."

Landon lifted a stricken face. She knows, she thought. She felt hollow-eyed and miserable facing the woman with the calm, unwinking eyes who was accusing her, and rebuking her.

Then, in a rare gesture, the Boss laid her hand for a moment on Landon's. In the firm, assuring pressure Landon read a message. I won't tell Mrs. Scarffe. She'll never know from me that you are in love with her husband. Friendliness was warmer than usual in the Boss' eyes, and Landon felt her face crumbling as if she were going to cry. What stopped her was something else she saw in the Boss' face. Almost violently Landon jerked her hand away. For what she saw, softening the Boss' mouth and shocking to Landon into rudeness, was pity. Poor Landon. Poor girl.

I will not be pitied! Landon thought. She turned without another word and ran from the room.

It was the third week in April and the day of convocation. Eric came from the alumni reception in the gymnasium and, driving home, stopped on some unpredictable impulse, left the car and entered the park. He walked aimlessly, projecting his mind ahead to the ceremony that would take place later in the day. He wondered how many of the other faculty members shared his sense of expectancy, his ebullience. A meager handful? Well, years from now, perhaps he too, would consider a day like today prosaic and banal—though Maggie, last night, had vigorously denied it.

"Never!" she had said. "Never. The more you fit into the academic form the more forward-looking and young your viewpoint gets. At every convocation you—you rededicate yourself."

"You are slightly prejudiced," he'd told her. But it was something to feel as sure, now, as when he had made his decision about teaching, that it was right for him.

Maggie was sure that he would some day be the president of Windermere college. "When you grow old enough for your colleagues to respect your real concern for education, and for the recognition and preservation of human values."

Maggie, that was, in an uncommonly serious mood. More blithely, "It is exciting being your wife—even if you always will go around absorbed in abstractions."

"I do?"

"Darling, you do! And there is no one in the world I would rather live with."

"I am not stodgy and dull? I'm not plodding and unimaginative?"

"Whoever put such an idea into your head?" she asked indignantly.

He grinned. "A friend of mine. I hope you punched his head in!"

"No. I think he was half right."

"Well, I don't."

"As I said, my beautiful darling, you're biased."

Maggie should have seen him last night, after he left her, in the nick of time, yesterday, the first copy of his book had come off the presses with the binding glue still wet. It was still wet at midnight, and Eric vividly imagined himself bowing gravely to the distinguished Dr. Lawrence and presenting a book that fell apart in his hands.

So to dry out the glue he had sat on the book half the night. Like a hen on an egg! Maggie would say. But she would have spelled him off, if she'd been there.

THEY DON'T FORGET HER

How dear she is to her sons and daughters and her grandchildren. On this, her birthday, they don't forget her. These flowers are just a token, but in each blossom there is love.

She is who taught them their first words... and their first prayers. She it was to whom they came with their childhood hurts. She it was who stood ready to console them when everything had gone wrong. She it was who taught them how essential religion is to a happy life—how vital it is that they belong to and take part in the activities of the church. On her birthday they remember all of this anew. Men and women now, they are living their own lives and accomplishing their own successes. But the great truths she taught them about faith, hope, gratitude, love and fortitude will remain with them forever.

Grandmother has indeed made a great contribution to their lives. Little wonder each week in church they say a special prayer in her memory.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor for an earth for the building of a character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Fix' Clarified By Englishman

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—An English visitor listened to two American newsmen discussed clarity in news writing and the need for simplified language.

"And how you Americans do simplify it," said Karl Archibald, of London, "I am interested in the use here of the word 'fix'."

"I am invited to dinner and my host asks how I would like a drink fixed. He means mixed. My hostess calls to us to hurry because dinner is all fixed—and she means prepared. My host says he must get a flat tire fixed—and he means repaired. You say you are on a fixed income—and you mean steady and unchanging. You say you will fix something to the wall—and you mean attach. And you say 'I'll fix him'—and you mean revenge."

"Finally you remark that you are in 'a Hell of a fix' and I see that you may have some comprehension of my predicament in trying to follow your simplification."

Firemen Return To Run-And-Yell Alarm Method

WINCHESTER, Idaho (AP)—The Winchester volunteer firemen tired of turning out to false alarms on a new-fangled siren system, are going back to the old-fashioned run-and-yell method.

The fire siren now sounds off when anyone dials the department number on the telephone. The modern system was installed just last December, but City Clerk Walter Dugger said the station telephone will be removed today.

"It seems the siren has been waving false alarms four or five times a day," Dugger said citizens will have to phone someone who lives near the fire station when they discover a blaze or they can run down and report it to the volunteers in person.

Justice's Wheels Turned Swiftly

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The wheels of justice grind slowly, but sometimes there is a change of pace.

State Highway Patrolman Harold Cooke arrested a man on a drunken driving charge, and was subpoenaed for four terms of Guilford Superior Court. Cooke spent, in all seven full days in court, from 9:30 A.M. until adjournment, waiting for the case to be called.

Finally the defendant was brought before the judge, at 5:05 P.M. The man pleaded guilty, testimony was heard, a fine of $125 and costs was imposed. Time then: 5:06 P.M.

False Alarm Showed Up Failures

It is only natural that air defense authorities be keenly interested in the whys and hows of Thursday's false alert which threw eleven Western states into varying stages of preparation.

It is also a matter of course that a false alarm was raised, and truly quite surprising the nation hasn't had more such in the past three or four years.

Real alert or false alert, the important thing was (and is) how well the civil defense organization is functioning. Last Thursday's false alarm demonstrated some alarming failures.

Another Neglected Sore May Get The Red 'Cure'

Another outpost of freedom, South Viet Nam, may be in its last convulsion before falling into the chaos of communism as did its northern counterpart only a few months ago.

If South Viet Nam comes under communist control as the result of the present struggle there for government control, it will be the fault primarily of the French for not giving the people of that country their own independence and government when they should have had it. The United States will share the secondary responsibility for not insisting the French take such action when it could have saved North Viet Nam as well as South Viet Nam for the free world.

Even in this crucial moment—nine years after the Communist-led war began in Indochina there is still no unified policy between the United States and France on Viet Nam. Secretary Dulles now has gone to France in search of some such unity of purpose, but it is only a miracle if it is not too late to prevent South Viet Nam's eventual absorption by communism.

In this situation as in many others of the past few years, we come to the inevitable question: Why did American policy makers in the Truman and Eisenhower administrations allow such international sore spots to fester without attention and eventually come under the Communist heel?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THREE STEPS

When the jailor at Philipp, terrified by an earthquake and the escape of his prisoners, cried out to Paul, "What shall I do to be saved?" Paul's simple answer was, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

But that of course is only the first step in salvation. All salvation begins with belief, but very decidedly it does not end there. What do we believe about Christ? We believe that he comes bringing salvation from sin. Very well; the second step is the step of faith—we accept that forgiveness even though we realize that we in no way deserve it. Nothing is harder than to get into our minds and hearts that the perfectly righteous God is willing to forgive us our sins, and for no other reason than that we ask Him in the name of Jesus Christ to do so.

But still we are not saved when we have taken the gift. One further step is necessary—the step of obedience. We must not only believe that Christ can save us; we must accept the forgiveness he offers; and then in the final step we must submit to his lordship and agree to follow him in every walk of life.

These steps in salvation—and the final step is obedience. The old gospel hymn puts it perfectly in these words:

"Trust and obey,
For there's no other way,
To be happy in Jesus but to trust and obey."

National Whirligig

Budenz' Analysis Is Faulty

Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Louis Budenz," writes H.B.C. of Ashland, Ky., "says that the Communists have split the Republican Party wide open. He also says that if this country is lost to the Communists, it will be the fault of the American press, which he accuses of parroting the 'party line' and keeping the people in a 'conspiracy of silence.' What are your observations?"

Answer: Budenz doesn't know what he is talking about, which is understandable. He is no authority on politics or journalism. In fact, if I were a judge, I would never convict anybody on his testimony unless there was additional, independent and corroborative proof.

OVERWHELMING GOP SUPPORT FOR IKE—For a while, there was a division within the Republican ranks over questions related to Communism, as during the Army-McCarthy hearings. A few Senators—Knowland, Bridges, Jenner, Hickenlooper—still disagree with President Eisenhower's handling of the Matsu-Quemoy problem, even before Ike has reached any decision in this matter.

PRESS WARNED FIRST OF RED THREAT—The American press was far ahead of the leaders at Washington in warning of the Red threat. If Budenz will read back copies, he will find that scores of newspapers predicted that the Yalta concessions would return to plague us.

The American press was publishing full details

Presumed to have originated at McCord Air Force Base in Washington, the alert didn't even reach defense officials in that state at all; a San Francisco operator of the alert system wasted seven precious minutes "re-checking" . . . and by that time the all-clear had sounded; in Nevada no alert was given because the entire staff of civil defense administrators was attending the Las Vegas A-Bomb tests; in San Mateo (California) school children went through an air raid drill, but the city's sirens all failed.

In an age of atomic warfare there is no room for such slip-ups.

Sure, it all turned out all right; nothing happened, no panic, no enemy. The Canadian radar station that reported unidentified planes was performing a routine function, and did it well. We should expect many such reports and accept the accompanying alarms as factual until proven to be "duds" . . . purely as a matter of course.

Civil Defense is not a part-time chore, nor does it function at convenient intervals: it is a full-time job.

At Least The Law Sets A Standard

Where are we going with the legislation aimed at cleaning up the worst of the crime comic books which now circulate among the youths of North Carolina?

Admittedly there is need for such action, and it is The Reflector's hope the anti-crime comic book bill now before the House is adopted by the legislature. But it is likewise evident the new law (if the bill becomes law) is going to be difficult to interpret and enforce. Nonetheless, by having such a law in North Carolina, it should be an incentive for distributors of crime comic books to take another careful look at the "literature" they are distributing throughout the state, and perhaps eliminate a goodly number of the series now being offered for sale.

Specifically the act would prohibit pictures which portray mayhem, "acts of sex or use of narcotics." Getting the law itself on the statute books is the primary concern of the General Assembly at the moment. How to make it work, while that is a secondary consideration for the legislature in this instance, will not be a job for the legislators, but for another branch of the state government.

Obviously the legislators and those in support of the bill do not intend to eliminate all detective, cowboy and space comic books through their action. Their intention is to remove from news stands throughout the state the filth which is reaching the youngsters through the more unwholesome of these comic books.

Following the law to the letter in making it work will indeed be a major undertaking. The fact that North Carolina has such a comic book law, however, should prove an immensely wholesome influence on the comic books sold in the state.

of the Congressional investigation of Hiss and his Communist aides at Washington at the very moment when Harry S. Truman referred to that inquiry as a "red herring." The American press, independently of Capitol Hill, was exposing corruption and Communism at Washington at the very moment when Truman was insisting that "All my appointees are honest."

In short, the American press has spent thousands of dollars in trying to undo the dirty work which Budenz did when he was an active Communist.

"It seems fairly certain," suggests E.H.P. of Northampton, Mass., "that we cannot now count on the support of Britain or Canada, if trouble develops between China and ourselves. However, if Australia and New Zealand back us, don't you think this would throw a monkey wrench into London's policies?"

Answer: This situation is most confusing. A few weeks ago, London and Ottawa gave the impression that they would fight alongside us in a defense of Formosa and the Pescadores, but not for Quemoy and Matsu. Within the last few days, however, under the pressures of the May 26 election, Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons that England had given no commitment to defend the larger islands, if the Communists attack.

PEACE PLEDGE MAJOR BRITISH ISSUE—Eden's major issue in the election is a pledge to seek overall peace with Russia on all questions, which may have led him to modify his earlier pro-American stand.

It is my belief that Australia and New Zealand would provide at least token forces—they could not spare more—in event of an invasion of Formosa. With the Reds gaining ground in Indo-China and Indonesia, any break in our Far Pacific defense ring would be a menace to those two Commonwealths.

In Mother's Eyes

Somebody Told Me

Teaching School In Hawaii

"As you probably know," Libba Wilson of Greenville says in a letter from Hawaii, "I am teaching the fifth grade at Schofield Post school. Although it is called Schofield Post School, it is actually on Wheeler Air Force Base, which is just across the road. I live in a teacher's cottage behind the school and have a house to myself. There are eight cottages in a row; we have a swimming pool and a theater right across the street."

"I have thirty-five little ones in my room and they certainly keep me hopping. I really enjoy my job and the past year I have spent in Hawaii. Most of my children are from the mainland which makes it even nicer for me because they understand my southern accent. These children came in November with the 25th Division."

"Until you have actually seen it for yourself, it's hard to picture the true beauty of the islands. As you probably know, the Hawaii Islands are composed of eight islands, Kauai, Oahu, Molokai, Maui, Hawaii, Kaloolawe, Niihau, Lanai, with the island of Hawaii being the largest. Oahu is probably the most popular island since it has the capital city of Honolulu and Waikiki Beach."

"Hawaii is referred to as 'the melting pot of the world,' as you can find a varied mixture of nationalities, largely Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Samoan, and naturally Hawaiian. Its people are exceptionally friendly, carefree, and happy."

"The three biggest industries in Hawaii are sugar, pineapple, and tourism. Because of its year-around climate, it's ideal for these industries. Oahu also has its natural harbor, Pearl Harbor, which makes it a central fueling base for the Navy."

"A typical Hawaiian feast or luau, as it is called, is similar to our picnics. The main thing on the menu is kalua pig, which is pig cooked in an underground oven called an imu. The pig is filled with hot rocks, called volcano rocks, and laid on a bed of hot coals and around this are placed sweet potatoes, fish wrapped in 'ti' leaves and dirt and left to cook for eight to ten hours. With this they serve tropical fruits like mangoes, papayas, guavas, pineapples, bananas, and others."

"At luau, people generally sit on mats and eat mostly with their fingers. During the meal, Hawaiian entertainment is continuously going on. Hula dancing is an art in itself. Dancers tell the story with movements of their hands and body, while the others sing and play instruments."

And I thank Libba. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

Twisted Thinking Of Anti-antis

As Senator Watkins told the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith, the Communists have been trying for months to discredit the government's practice of using informers to get evidence on subversives.

In this campaign the Communists have had much help from certain non-Communist groups, usually called anti-anti-Communists, whose befuddled thinking leads them to be extraordinarily solicitous about the civil rights of left wingers, but completely indifferent when the same rights of anti-Communists are threatened.

This group seized upon the case of Harvey Matusow and tried their best to make it appear as typical of the informer. All informers, all former Communists who had seen their mistake and were trying to atone for it, became Harvey Matusows.

Such persons were not to be trusted. Wittaker Chambers, Elizabeth Bentley, Dr. Dodd, Max Eastman, and many others who made great sacrifices to atone for youthful mistakes in embracing communism and are now trying to give the government the benefit of what they learned—such persons must not be believed, because they were once Communists themselves.

But a person who merely claims to have recanted from communism but has never volunteered to testify or to give the FBI any information must be protected at all costs. Such a one is an honorable citizen and must not be persecuted. Only those who give information are to be attacked.

That kind of twisted reasoning has become current so long that it has become nauseating. It makes one wonder if those who argue in that vein are as dumb as they seem to be, or do they just think the rest of us are dumb enough to swallow their line?

Hundreds of people in a burst of youthful idealism joined the Communist party or a Communist front. On closer acquaintance they soon learned what a fraud communism is, and many of them tried to correct the mistake by leaving the party or the front and giving what information they could to the FBI or to Congressional investigators.

Among their number there were bound to be a few who were not sincere. Harvey Matusow turned out to be one of that kind—one of very few.

His case, however, does not impeach the vast majority of people who are honestly trying to help their government by telling what they know.

Several Legislators Disappointed In Governor's Talk

By LYNN NISBET
GOVERNOR — Governor Hodges' address to the joint session of the General Assembly was in large measure a reiteration of numerous previous statements of his adherence to the constitutional division of privileges, rights and responsibilities among the co-ordinate branches of State Government.

For that reason it disappointed many legislators who had hoped the Governor would pull their chestnuts out of the fire by urging specific tax levies to balance the budget. His failure to do that occasioned the immediate comment from some members. "He didn't tell us anything," more mature thought convinced them he told them a good deal.

He gave a running account of the changes in economic conditions which have occasioned revised estimates of anticipated revenue. The original budget recommendations which he signed called for some $52 million from new tax sources. This amount has presently estimated new-source revenue at $40 million, or about $12 million a year. These figures I give you today are final," he said.

He reminded that revisions in budget estimates have occurred in many previous years. They are given more attention and emphasis now because this is the first time in 20 years there has been real need for new taxes. He noted that in a $640 million budget a difference of one percent runs to more than $6 million.

responsibility." The confusion resulting from revised estimates of prospective revenue is greater this year than ever before. That is attributed to the fact that the need for new revenue is greater, and in eagerness to make the additional tax load as light as possible many of the estimates have been taken out of context, accepted at face value without the qualifying clauses which accompanied their issuance. It is still true, whether justified or not, that legislators and the public have lost a considerable degree of confidence in the experts who promulgated the estimates.

UNPRECEDENTED — There are other unprecedented conditions. For the first time in 20 years the social service program is faced with drastic curtailment of Federal aid, but not reduction in standards to be met in order to qualify for the lesser amounts from Washington. The public school population, always higher percentage-wise in North Carolina than in the nation, is growing faster as the post-war baby crop demands education.

One of the major breaches in precedent contributing largely to legislative confusion and uncertainty is the attitude of Governor Hodges in adhering to the constitutional division of authority and responsibility. Every Governor since enactment of the Executive Budget Act, from McLean through Umstead, has to greater or less degree regarded his duties as Director of the Budget as justification for assuming legislative authority with respect to fiscal policies. ## Business Today

Buying A Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

When an individual or a company buys a business, it usually makes an analysis of assets, liabilities and markets. But there are other important factors that usually aren't discovered unless the buyer looks for them. Here are nine steps that should be taken in all such deals:

1. Find out if any legal actions are threatening, in addition to the usual check of pending actions. Sometimes the real reason for selling a business is the owner's fear of a threatening suit.
2. In addition to the usual check of labor contracts, find out if there are any oral promises made during the negotiations, such as a promise to grant a sizable increase at the next negotiation.
3. Check the temper of employees to make sure no labor troubles are smoldering.
4. If there is a pension plan, ascertain the ages of employees covered. There may be a sharp rise in pensions in a few years.
5. Determine whether key men will stay on after the purchase.
6. Determine whether any deadwood can be readily eliminated: watch out for long-term, irrevocable contracts covering pets of the old owner.
7. Find out if any of the business' real estate is jeopardized by coming zone changes, sharp tax increases or special assessments.
8. If the business is based on patented devices, make sure you know how long the patents have to run.
9. If the purchase involves only the acquisition of a majority of the stock, find out if the minority stockholders will be happy. They can be troublesome.

OVERNIGHT INCREASE IN INVENTORY

Competition is really tough in New York. Two partners in a furniture manufacturing company are under arrest on charges of stealing a bag of down, some rolls of twine and several bolts of upholstery cloth from a nearby furniture factory.

ONLY TENTH OF CEMENT USED IN ROAD BUILDING

The new road-building program will be nice but not a bonanza for cement manufacturers. William Wallace Main, Jr., president of a San Francisco cement company, points out that in northern California, 30 per cent of the cement is used for housing, 30 per cent goes into buildings and bridges, 25 per cent for power and conservation projects, 5 per cent for farm use.

Annual Party For Pushcart Men

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — The pushcart men who tidy up the streets of fashionable Georgetown are looking forward to the annual garden party given for them by Mrs. Frank West, one of the capital's civic-minded hostesses. Mrs. West, who for 24 years has lived in Century House, which she says was built in 1800, gets a lot of satisfaction from the affair given in her formal box-bordered rose garden as a "boost for morale."

"The men put on their clean shirts, and they couldn't be nicer," Mrs. West told me. "They really enjoy themselves too, and it gives them a feeling their work is really appreciated. My little Georgetown clean-up committee raises a small fund to give each man a $2 gift, and I supply the coffee, doughnuts and ice cream."

Mrs. West, widow of a California wine culturist, came to Washington in 1918. She got interested in the clean-up project just after the start of World War II and, like a lady Pied Piper, is credited with having driven the rats out of the exclusive neighborhood. She said that during the war she couldn't drive her car and had to walk.

"That's when I saw the litter on the streets," she recalled. "You know, even nice people are sometimes careless about keeping their garbage pails covered."

"I started right in to educate and only 10 per cent for road building.

He said ratios in the rest of the country were approximately the same.

WANTS MORE LUMBER HARVESTED ON U.S. LANDS

The lumber industry is still looking hungrily at the national forests. Leo V. Bodine, executive vice-president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, in addressing a Texas lumber group, declared that "private industry is doing a better job than government of managing forest lands."

While more timber was cut in Federal forests last year than in any previous year, it averaged only about 80 board feet per acre which, he said, was far below the growth potential under good management. He said the government owns 20 per cent of the nation's commercial forest land and more than 37 per cent of the country's saw timber.

OPPORTUNITIES ABROAD IN REACTOR BUILDING

The government has agreed to let American firms build atomic power reactors in friendly foreign countries providing the prime contractors get individual authorizations from the government. Negotiations are already under way with several foreign countries. Prime and prospective subcontractors can get further information from the Industrial Information Branch, Atomic Energy Commission, Room 1000, Building T-5, Washington 25, D. C.

BEEF CHIPS, LIMA NUGGETS PROPOSED BY GOVERNMENT

Keep away from cocktail parties. You may run into some of the "snacks" the Department of Agriculture is promoting in an effort to use up surplus products, even though they drive America to obesity and diabetes in the bargain.

The department is actually promoting the use of vegetable chips from sliced carrots, beets and parsnips, and "nuggets" of whole peas and lima beans, prepared for deep fat frying.

"All these products offer potato-chip manufacturers an additional line of foods with appeal to consumers," the department says, failing to add that they offer steady incomes to doctors specializing in obesity. "Mixed with hickory-smoked protein (yeast) products already available commercially, ground pea nuggets provide a packaged soup mix, comparable to old-fashioned ham-and-pea soup," it explains.

Mrs. West, whose daughter, Mrs. Hugh Cummings, is the wife of the U.S. ambassador to Indonesia and whose son Frank is an asparagus rancher on California's delta land, says she gives the special parties for the pushcart men because the trash, ash and garbage men get tips at holiday time and nobody before took extra care of the pushcart men.

In addition to many other civic and educational interests, Mrs. West is also active in Washington's Animal Rescue League and Tail-Waggers Club. She is fond of all animals, especially her Scotty, "Clinker," whom she says is a "surly old lady." She is getting downright impatient, however, with the wild possums which romp in her rose garden and keep Clinker on edge at night.

Personal Approach 'Sells' Farm And Home Development

By ELWOOD MINTZ
Just what is Farm and Home Development? What makes it different from other educational work of the State College Agricultural Extension Service?

Farm leaders say it's a process by which a particular farm family's resources are considered and definite decisions or plans made for realizing their main goals. To be a little more down to earth, just say that it's a direct personal approach used to help farm families improve their income and living standards. Previously, most extension work has been directed toward large groups of people rather than specific individuals.

One of the counties which started the new program through funds provided by Congress last year is Wayne. Farm and Home Development there dates from August 15, 1951. As in other counties, a local committee made up of representative farm leaders met to hear the plan explained by extension personnel from State College. The committee members then went back to their respective communities to find out how the people felt about Farm and Home Development.

Evidently they felt pretty good about it. 94 families signed up for the guidance, counseling, and technical advice the program offers. While there are no "big farmers" among Wayne's Farm and Home Development families, enrollment isn't restricted to any economic, age or educational group. Young people who recently purchased farms are among the most enthusiastic in accepting what the plan offers.

When an agent starts working with one of these 94 families, he gets them to make an inventory of the farm and home, including livestock, equipment, farm machinery, household furniture, home furniture, home furnishings etc. The inventory guides the family in determining its special needs. Then the best means of finding the wherewithal to satisfy those needs are determined.

As a result of such planning conferences, five farm families in Wayne are repairing or making additions to their homes and one family is building a new house. On the farm side, the agents pro-

One of the steps taken by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lancaster, Farm and Home Development farmers of Goldsboro, Route 2, since joining the program, has been to plan the remodeling of their home. vide the families with the latest information available in appraising future development potential on the individual unit. The information runs from economics to agronomy — everything that might influence the farm production and income. Once a plan is adopted by the family, the Farm and Home Development Agents (T.S. Godwin, B.H. Harrell, and Mrs. Aline S. Parker) know the farmer with the best know-how research has provided.

So far, according to Harrell, "results are better than we expected." The Dewey Lancasters, Goldsboro, Route 2, make up one of the 94 families participating in Wayne's Farm and Home Development program. Already the Lancasters have determined a need for a remodeled home and are getting technical help from W.C. Warrick, extension housing specialist. There are seven children in the family — five girls and two boys. The 100-acre farm is largely devoted to crops, although it supports one milk cow, one steer and three

Have 'Til May 31 For Compliance

RALEIGH — Tar Heel wheat growers have until May 31 to comply with their 1955 crop wheat acreage allotments.

Prior to this time, according to H.D. Godfrey, state administrative officer for ASC, the grower must utilize his excess wheat so that it cannot be harvested for grain; otherwise, the wheat will not be eligible for price support, and the excess wheat will be subject to a Marketing Quota penalty.

Growers with excess wheat should receive notice of excess at least 15 days prior to the final utilization date of May 31. By the time the farm operator receives the notice, the excess acreage will largely have served its purpose of protecting the land from erosion, of holding water on the land where it falls, and of providing extra hay, silage and pasture for livestock. Generally, Godfrey explains, it is merely a matter of plowing or discing the excess within 15 days after the notification is received.

The May 31 deadline was set by the ASC state committee in order that the excess will be utilized before there is any chance that it may be harvested for wheat. According to Godfrey, marketing quotas on all crops this year are based on "harvested acreage" and this provision for the utilization of wheat is in line with that phase of the program. Congress in passing the Agricultural Act of 1954 placed all quota programs on a harvested acreage basis.

Barbecued Chicken Adds To Outdoor Eating Fun

RALEIGH It's almost summer time in North Carolina which means that it's also barbecue time.

Outdoor eating is fast gaining in popularity and one main food that's helped boost this business of eating outside is barbecue chicken or turkey. Everyone likes it, according to W.C. Mills Jr., State College extension turkey specialist. He adds that having a barbecue is sure to bring success to your party, whether it's a small gathering or big brawl.

Mills says that, for the small group of friends, you can prepare barbecue on a backyard fireplace, iron wash pot or on a regular grill. Just to show you how easy and how much fun planning a barbecue can be, Mills has just written a leaflet entitled "Enjoy Outdoor Eating with Chicken or Turkey Bar-B-Q." You can use this new State College folder whether you're planning a barbecue for five or 500.

Mills tells you not only how much chicken or turkey you'll need, but also how much of everything else it takes to complete the meal. He includes recipes for an all purpose sauce and for a mild sauce in scaled proportions so that you can figure exactly to the size group you plan to entertain.

If you'd like a copy of this new leaflet, contact your county farm or home demonstration agent or write to Division of Agricultural Information, State College, Raleigh, N.C. for Extension Folder 116.

MILK SHORTED

WARREN, Ohio. (AP) — Farmer Ralph Gallant wondered why the milk output of his big dairy herd had been dropping off. He found out when seven cows were electrocuted. A short circuit had charged the water bowl alongside each stallion. Apparently enough of the current had been reaching the cows for some time before they were killed to make them leery of drinking.

Anniversary Of Nazi Surrender

REIMS, France (AP)—Ten years ago today Gen. Alfred Gustav Jodl strode into the map room at Allied headquarters here to surrender Germany's armed forces.

The big red-brick trade school near the railway cut, once Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters, keeps the surrender room as it was at 2:41 a.m., May 7, 1945. Huge colored maps paper the wall, showing the advance of the Allied forces.

The Germans tried to give up to the Western powers alone, pleading there were six million German refugees in Eastern Europe; and they had to keep fighting the Russians to protect the refugees. But Allied policy called for unconditional surrender of the Germans. Eisenhower insisted they give up to all. He got his way.

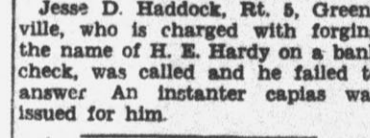

The Western Allies tried to hold up news of the surrender 24 hours, wanting to get a Soviet announcement at the same time. They failed. Eastern Europe still celebrates the anniversary May 9, the date of another signature at Berlin.

In view of the position West Germany achieved this week as a sovereign partner of the West, few Allied bigwigs were expected to attend anniversary ceremonies in Western Europe.

At Reims itself, the celebration was held to a low pitch. Arrangements called for dedication of a plaque on the house where Eisenhower lived and inauguration of a memorial to French resistance forces.

Chances Good Reds Would Accept Bid for German Talks

Business and Labor Nearing Big Battle

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

AMERICAN business and labor appeared this week to be on the verge of their greatest nationwide conflict since the early days of the Wagner Act.

Labor announced its plans through the men who are working out the final details for merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Business replied through the agencies of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

In the background was the possibility, although labor leaders said they would prefer not to have it turn out that way, that through creation of a third party, or envelopment of the present Democratic party, America would get a political labor party.

Roberts

The leaders said they would prefer to keep American unionism to the economic basis on which it always has operated in a general way. But, they added, if more and more restrictive laws are threatened, they will do what they need to do to stop it.

Their chief grievances at the moment are the federal laws against closed shops and expenditure of union funds for political purposes and legislation in 18 states, called "right to work" laws, which forbid the union shop.

Enlarge First

Their chief positive objective is an organizing campaign to compare with the ones put on after the formation of the CIO.

To get it going, the merger is being pushed toward completion this year. It will mean creation of a new, unified committee for political action, financed, at least in the beginning, by voluntary contributions which the law does not affect.

Then comes 1956, the year of another national political campaign.

Labor leaders say they still intend to work independently for office-seekers of their choice, admitting at the same time that these will turn out to be mostly Democrats.

In this the AFL will follow the lead of the CIO, which has

West Germany—Sovereign and Booming

WITH THE DEPOSIT in Bonn by Britain and France of instruments of ratification of the Paris pacts, West Germany became a sovereign nation this week, nearly 10 years to the day after the defeat of the Nazis. The end of 10 years of occupation finds that country with one of the soundest economies in Europe. Shipyards like the one above at Hamburg launched almost a million gross tons of merchant shipping last year, placing West Germany second in world production. The vast Volkswagen plant at Wolfsburg is a mainstay in the country's production of cars and trucks, which almost reached 700,000 in 1954. In both fields the output of West Germany alone now far surpasses what the whole of Germany did before the war.

West's Adversary Now More Subtle

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

IF THE Western Powers, in an attempt to seize the Cold War initiative in Europe, propose a meeting with the Soviet Union on German unification, there is a good chance that the Russians will accept the challenge.

The Cold War in Europe is turning into a subtle battle of wits. As a West Germany bursting with economic vitality puts on the robes of sovereignty and stands among the nations of the West as an equal after 10 years of occupation, the world finds itself dealing with a much more able and much less strait-jacketed adversary than it met in Berlin a little more than a year ago.

At the Berlin conference, the Russians had to stall, both on the German and the Austrian questions. Things have changed since then. The conference took place at a time when the Soviet Union was in a state of internal political turmoil occasioned by the struggle between the groups represented by Georgi M. Malenkov and Nikita S. Khrushchev.

In the political standoff between the two Soviet Communist groups, the Soviet army became a political factor sufficient to swing the balance. While the struggle for power is not ended in Moscow, the situation apparently has become stabilized enough to permit far more freedom of action on the international stage.

Reds Lose Little

The Soviet initiative on Austria was a clear demonstration of that it was evident for a long time that Moscow would have much to gain and little to lose by agreeing to an independence treaty for Austria.

What the Russians gain is a small vacuum in middle Europe which breaks Western communications between Germany and Italy. There is no military loss involved for the Soviet Union. Communist power sits a short distance away in Hungary and Czechoslovakia and the eastern Austrian plain remains fully exposed. But the withdrawal of Western troops gives up the potentially vital strategic mountain passes of western Austria. It is more important for the Russians to deprive the West of that than to remain in the eastern plain.

The Question of Germany

The Russians, therefore, are settling for a neutralized Austria, and an Austria whose treaty commitments are not likely to give the little country any large degree of independence in foreign policy. The Russians then turn their attention to Germany. What worries the Russians most about Germany at the moment? It is the prospect of 12 armed West German divisions being integrated with the NATO forces and controlled by NATO. It would be an important brick in a Western wall forbidding the Soviet Union any freedom of action, political or military, in Western Europe.

What can defeat the arming and integration of West German forces by NATO? It is always possible that it might be killed by delay. What better argument could the Russians have than to shrug off any German reunifica-

Pressures Necessary

It does not seem likely that the Russians are expecting to accomplish anything in their favor by negotiations with the West German government at the highest levels, as matters stand now. The problem before Moscow is to produce pressures which either will force the West German government's hand or cause it to fall.

With this purpose in mind—and with the rich reward of a neutralized Germany as a long-range goal—no implied promise would be considered too extravagant.

With the example of Austria dangled before the eyes of Germans who thirst for unification, the prospect of four-power negotiations on the subject is bound to bring pressure for delaying a West German rush to arms. Meanwhile, the Russians will continue attempting to bring "pressure from below" against the West German government against rearmament—the pressure of the combined opposition to the Christian Democratic government.

Red Talk Is Cheap

A four-power meeting on the question of German reunification could well end in an expensive defeat for the Western coalition. It is by no means beyond the bounds of possibility that the Russians will agree to "discuss" the prospect of free elections.

Western statesmen indicate they are convinced the Russians never will agree to free and untrammeled elections for all Germany, that they never will agree to anything that would take the Russian boot out of the East German door.

But that does not prevent the Russians from expressing willingness to talk about the matter. The Russians are skilled at talking endlessly and getting nowhere. So long as the promise dangles before the Germans, the Russians can hope for more and more expensive delay in completing the Western defense framework.

Sidelights

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery addressed some 250 generals, admirals and their aides during briefing sessions in NATO's annual command post exercises this year, and no one broke the field marshal's order for absolute quiet. One reason: before the briefings began he had 10,000 cough drops distributed in containers labeled in five languages.

A Pittsburgh bakery truck driver was returning from a call with an unmade strawberry ice cake in his hands when a gunman stepped from behind a tree and demanded the day's receipts. Instead he got the day's leftover, full in the face. Driver Darby Shields told police the confused gunman promptly turned on his heels and ran.

Turmoil in South Viet Nam

Storm Weathered

When Gen. J. Lawton Collins reached Saigon early this week after hurriedly ending conferences in Washington and rushing back to his post in South Viet Nam, the situation in that strife-torn country had become more favorable for the United States than most observers would have hoped for 10 days earlier.

While Collins was in Washington, a civil war broke out that nearly toppled the anti-Communist and U.S.-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem from office. However, Diem in the short space of two days had:

1. Successfully weathered an attempt by absentee-Chief of State Bao Dai (who resides in France) to push him out of power.
2. Defeated an attempt by one of his own officers to cause the defection of part of his army.

POLIO: New Battleground

Control Urged

The fight against polio moved into a new battleground this week: politics.

Pressure began to rise in some quarters for rigid control by the federal government to insure that the Salk vaccine—which apparently will be in short supply for private use for some time—is given first to those who need it most.

Twelve senators joined with Sen. Ives (R-NY) in sponsoring a Senate bill to control distribution. A resolution calling for federal controls on the distribution, sale and use of the new vaccine also was introduced in the House.

Sponsors say that generally speaking the legislation they seek would put teeth into the voluntary plans already approved by many medical societies across the nation. These plans proscribe the order of inoculation, placing children in the age groups with the most susceptibility to polio first and then moving down the scale.

Much of the clamor for immediate federal control arose in New York City after discovery that five doctors in the area had administered shots to adults while authorities still awaited the first shipments for school children. Apparently, however, the government was going to remain on

3. Forcefully expelled, after bitter fighting, most of the rebel Binh Xuyen society's private and rebellious army from Saigon and the neighboring region.

The crisis in South Viet Nam appeared to have crystallized, at least partially, the elements of the confused political situation. In a country where two-faced politics is commonplace, the violence apparently had forced various power blocs to make a stand either for or against Diem. And Diem, with the prestige gained by military success, emerged after the first battles with firmer control than he had previously.

There was no great wave of optimism among Western observers on the long-range future of the Diem government, however. It was noted that North Viet Nam's Communists appeared to be keeping hands off during the crisis in the south, lending neither physical nor the sidelines for the time being. An advisory committee, headed by Dr. Chester S. Keefer of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, did not include suggestions for federal control legislation among its original recommendations to President Eisenhower.

The President himself, in his weekly news conference, said he has given "all sorts of consideration" to federal controls over distribution of the Salk vaccine but still thinks that the voluntary method is the best.

GOVERNORS: A Briefing

Little Heat

Governors from 45 of the 48 states flocked into Washington this week to get a briefing on the state of the nation direct from top administration officials. The sessions were closed to the press, but reporters were told something of what went on after each session by a Governors' Conference spokesman.

Apparently the only heated discussion during the two-day meetings—held this spring for the third time—came after Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson described the power of the latest nuclear weapons, including the fact they can totally devastate an area of 80 square miles. The state executives reportedly argued strongly that the Civil

Contagious Success

The 1955 business upturn, once confined pretty much to construction, automobiles and steel, is spilling over into other fields. This doesn't mean that the fast-moving assembly lines of Detroit or the roaring blast furnaces of Pittsburgh have stopped setting records; actually, they're producing as never before. But you don't have to look very hard these days to find impressive signs of recovery elsewhere.

Take transportation. Earnings of the nation's major railroads for the first three months this year were up a whopping 77 per cent over the like 1954 quarter. The comparison looks a little better than it really is, to be sure, because the railroads a year ago were in a state of near-depression. But their comeback, based largely on increased movement of freight, mirrors a strong upward trend in over-all business.

The big airlines are doing nicely, too. The Civil Aeronautics Board says the nation's 13

Defense Law of 1950—written long before the public heard of such things as hydrogen bomb fallout—is no longer adequate. The governors recommended that the federal government take a bigger hand in civil defense planning.

Got a rundown on current developments in international affairs from Secretary of State Dulles.

Heard from Vice President Nixon, who recently toured the Caribbean, that communism definitely is on the decline in South America. Nixon predicted that the present anti-Communist government in Guatemala will "make a better showing in two years than the Communists did

Quote

Secretary of Defense Wilson, in testimony released this week, but given last February before a House appropriations subcommittee inquiring into the decision to cut back Army strength: "If you listen to the military people only, they will bankrupt the nation or else create a military dictatorship."

BUSINESS: The Spillover

Scheduled Success

scheduled airlines are scoring new highs in passenger traffic and profits.

Tobacco companies, hard hit by cancer talk a year ago, now report a rising trend in profits and sales. Manufacturers of machine tools boast a 26 per cent increase, compared to a year earlier, in new business booked during March. Sales of large home appliances have snapped back from last year's doldrums. General Electric Co.'s Major Appliance Division says its sales for the first quarter were 37 per cent greater than in the comparable three months of 1954.

Schools

'Five Bs' Out

What does a school board look for today when searching for a new superintendent? That question was presented to a panel of five educators attending a conference of school administrators in Louisville this week and the answers turned up some of the changes which have occurred over the past quarter century.

The day is past, said Henry L. Willett of Richmond, when a superintendent can concern himself with just "the five Bs": buildings, bonds, buses, budgets and beans—for the cafeteria.

"Today," Willett continued, "the demand is for people who can work with other people." Another type disappearing, according to Martin Essex of Lakewood, Ohio, is "the quiet, retiring Latin scholar," who did well enough when American schools were concerned with only the top 20 per cent of the people. "Today we are concerned with the top 80 per cent."

Superintendent Dean A. Trigg of Ventura County, Calif., offered this summary of the qualities a modern school administrator must possess: Compassion, friendliness, patience, courage, creative vision, plenty of horse sense—and a rugged constitution.

Pirates Spit Double Bill With Elon; 2-0 And 1-3

BURLINGTON — East Carolina moved closer to the North State Conference Eastern Division title by halving a twin-bill here yesterday with defending champion Elon. ECC won the opener 2-0 and Elon rallied to take the nightcap 3-1.

Right-handed ace Tommy Pruitt avenged an earlier loss to the Christians by blanking them on two hits and striking out 10 Christian batters. The win was the sixth for the Sanford freshman against two losses.

Ray Pennington, Buc rightfielder, slammed a 350-foot home run in the fifth inning of the second game. It was Pennington's first round-tripper of his college career.

The split decision left the East Carolina nine holding a one-game lead over the Christians in the battle for title honors in the division. ECC has an 11-2 and Elon a 10-3 record in loop activity, with each team having three games to play in the race.

Mac Cherry started the second game for the Pirates and was the loser. The sophomore right-hander was bothered by a wisdom tooth and could not eat all morning prior to the game. He allowed only three bingles, however, one of those was a two-run homer by Elon pitcher Luther Conger in the second inning.

Elon scored its other run in the second game when shortstop Nick Thompson reached first on a hit and

Hospital Checks Boxer For Evidence Of Dope

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Laboratory tests are expected to prove today whether Harold Johnson, No. 1 light heavyweight title contender, was doped or the victim of a stupefying punch by Cuban heavyweight Julio Mederos at the arena last night.

The 26-year-old Johnson, a 4-1 favorite, failed to answer the bell for the third round of a scheduled 10 rounder and Mederos was awarded a technical knockout victory. Johnson collapsed in his corner and had to be removed from the ring on a stretcher.

Alfred Klein, state athletic commissioner, told reporters there was something "definitely mysterious about what happened to Johnson. The doctors believe he may have been drugged. We will conduct a thorough investigation," he announced.

Nashua Answers Doubters Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—This is the day Nashua, the odds-on-favorite, answers the big question in the 81st and richest of all Kentucky derbies.

The opinionated bay colt from William Woodward's Belair stud places his enviable record of 10 victories and two seconds in 12 races on the line against nine other razor-sharp 3-year-old horses at 4:30 p.m. EST.

And at the end of the mile and a quarter, a colorful $125,000 added test of speed and stamina, some 100,000 spectators and the unseen television and radio audience should know whether Nashua is worthy to have his name written alongside the truly great of the turf.

Many already have attached the label "great" to this royally bred son of Nasrullah.

But there are others who ask that the pride of Belair, conditioned by 80-year-old Sunny Fitzsimmons and ridden by Eddie Arcaro, prove himself again today in the country's No. 1 glamor horse race. They asked him to do it against such worthy rivals as Summer Tan of Galloway, Ohio, Swaps and the one-two punch of Racing Fool and Flying Fury.

There's no doubt, but what he'll be the choice of the crowd packed in the rambling stands extending for five-sixteenths of a mile and overflowing into the infield. He opened at 4 to 5 in the betting.

Some of the experts even have predicted that Nashua will endanger Whirlaway's derby record if the early pace is fast enough. Whirlaway set up the race standard of two minutes, one and 2-5 seconds in 1941.

If all of the 10 overnight entries are in the post parade as the bands strike up "My Old Kentucky Home" the winner will bank a net of $108,500 of the gross purse of $152,500.

For Nashua this would mean a jump in total earnings to $585,840. Nashua rates his lofty position as the horse to beat today chiefly because of his triumphs over Summer Tan, the 2 to 1 second choice.

Swaps, third choice at 5 to 1, gets his big boost from Californians, where he won the Santa Anita Derby.

Newcombe Back In Role Of Hero

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—From doghouse to Dodger hero in 36 hours is the story of Don Newcombe, but the hulking Brooklyn pitcher is $300 or more poorer for it.

There was no indication that the end because of the fact that he helped the Dodgers to a 6-4 12th-inning win over the Philadelphia Phillies. Don was credited with the win.

"We must make an example of this," said Buzzy Bavasi, Brooklyn vice president. "The players must know Walter Alton is boss."

Alton was the first out of the dugout to congratulate Don when the final out was made.

"I never saw you faster Newk," the manager said. "You were great."

Catcher Roy Campanella said Don was "shooting so hard that I'm afraid my catching hand is going to be swollen tomorrow."

Jackie Robinson slapped the big pitcher on the back and said: "If you keep pitching like that they'll have to give that fine back."

Newcombe said he felt "great" and was "feeling strong enough to go nine innings."

He replaced Ed Roebuck at the start of the 11th and proceeded to strike out the next six men in a row, striking out two. His fast ball was steaming. A ball wasn't hit out of the infield.

Earlier in the evening Newcombe had taken the field with the rest of the team for warmup. He shagged files and ran around the outfield, but he didn't pitch batting practice.

It was because he refused to pitch batting practice on Thursday that Don was suspended and ordered home.

Shortly after the incident, however, the big Newk relented and sought out Alton for an apology. "I was just sore because I wasn't getting a chance to pitch," he said.

Yesterday in Brooklyn, before the team entrained for Philadelphia, Newcombe visited the offices of Bavasi where he was told of his fine.

Bavasi said Don would be deprived of one day's pay—$104.79 of his $17,000-a-year salary—and fined an additional sum not immediately disclosed.

Feller's Strikeout Pace Is Matched

The way Herb Score and Bob Turley have American League batters fanning the breeze these days, it may be that Bobby Feller's strikeout record will have to keep an eye on its first real challenge.

Feller's achievement is a phantom that's never been chased, unlike Babe Ruth's home run record that has had to assert itself practically every year. Those 348 strikeouts Bobby whipped home in 1946 haven't even bothered to sneer at recent totals.

Robin Roberts' 198 strikeouts in 1953 were the closest anyone ever came to Feller's mark.

Now come highballin' Herb and bullet Bob.

Score, the 20-year-old lefty Cleveland Indians have touted as a southpaw Feller, actually is ahead of Feller's pace. After his first five appearances in '46, Feller had whiffed 48. Score after five games has fanned 50.

Turley, at the same five-game milestone, has struck out 48.

Both Score and Turley, the 24-year-old righthander of the New York Yankees, are a bit ahead of Feller's season-long average of eight strikeouts per nine innings.

Feller, back from 3 1/2 years in the Navy and 28-years-old, worked in 48 games back in '46, adding up 372 1/3 innings. He won 23 lost 16. Roberts was 23-16 for Philadelphia's Phils in 44 games and 346 2/3 innings in '53.

Turley, who worked only 247 1/3 innings for Baltimore while tying Roberts for the major league strikeout crown with 185 last season, picked up ground on Score yesterday, fanning 13 in a two-hit, 6-0 victory over Boston. Score set down 10 in a three-hit, 4-1 success against Kansas City.

In other AL games, Virgil Trucks two-hit Detroit for a 1-0 Chicago victory while Washington edged Baltimore 2-1.

In the National, Brooklyn remained a winner, beating Philadelphia 6-4 in 12 innings; Pittsburgh made it six straight, 3-2 over New York; Cincinnati beat Chicago 4-2 and Milwaukee beat St. Louis 8-5.

Turley, who one-hit the White Sox just last week, had another one-hitter in hand with two out in the ninth. But Bill Klaus beat out an infield roller and Turley ended it by fanning pinch-hitter Sam Mele. It was Turley's fifth

Greenies Host To Williamston In Tonight's Game

Greenville's Greenies entertain Williamston in a Coastal Plain League contest tonight in Guy Smith Stadium. Game time is 8 p.m.

Manager Junior Yohn has named Johnny Focci to start on the mound for the locals. Focci, a former professional pitcher, will be vying for his first win against one setback. He lost to Farmville in his first assignment but his downfall was the result of errors by his teammates.

Yohn also announced today that Dewey Harris, former East Carolina player, has joined the team and will start at shortstop tonight. Harris is a smooth fielder and reputedly a good hitter.

With no other change, the Greenies batting order tonight will read: Blaney Moye, centerfield; Mat Hall, third base; Tom Boyd, second base; Brower Tripp, first base; James McLohrn, catcher; Fred Soles, leftfield; Pete Carraway, rightfield; and Harris, shortstop.

At the moment, the Greenies are in third place in the CPL standings. They have won three and lost two. Williamston has a 1-3 record and is in fifth place.

In their last outing, the Greenies dumped Farmville 6-0 behind the shutout pitching of James Pollard. Mat Hall led the hitting for the locals with two hits in five official trips to the plate. Last weekend, the Greenies managed a split with Farmville, Greenville lost Saturday's game 12-3 but won Sunday's affair 3-2.

Of late, James McLohrn, former professional catcher, has been the locals' most consistent stickman. He has hit safely in each game he's played so far. He will team with Moye, who owns a home run against Falkland, and Fred Soles to furnish the team power hitting.

Tomorrow, Greenville travels to Williamston to return tonight's game. That contest will be an afternoon affair, starting at 3 p.m.

WESTERN CAROLINA UNSEATS LENOIR RHYNE AS WESTERN WINNER

Western Carolina's slugging Catamounts won the Western Division of the North State Conference race yesterday by turning back defending champion Lenoir Rhyne, 15-7.

The Catamounts exploded for 19 hits to back up effective relief pitching by Dallas Cleer, WCC's ace right-hander. Lenoir Rhyne took the lead in the early innings but the Bear chunners couldn't stymie the Catamount power.

It was the ninth win against three losses in the conference for Western North Carolina. The Catamounts will meet the Eastern winner for the league title. The Eastern winner is to come from either East Carolina or defending champion, Elon.

EAST CAROLINA COULD MAKE IT GRANDSLAM THIS SPRING

After splitting a doubleheader with Elon yesterday in Burlington, Coach Jim Mallory's baseball club has the inside to take the Eastern half of the conference. The Pirates have three more conference dates, two with ACC and one with Guilford.

A loss at this stage of the race would send East Carolina into a two-way knot with Elon. The Christians have lost three league tilts while the Bucs have dropped two.

Should the baseballers win, there would be good chance of ECC taking four North State titles this spring. The golfers of Coach Howard Porter are heavy favorites to cop the links crown again with Claude King to the individual honors. The Frats track team should also win the U. S. tournament meet in a breeze. Coach Ray Martinez' tennis aggregation has more than remote chance to upset High Point for a court championship. High Point was the only conference school to beat the local netters this season.

Championships in baseball, golf, track and tennis would be a fitting finale to a much better-than-average sports year for the local school. They would also reflect on the wonderful job the athletic department is doing.

BOLT HOPES TO KEEP YOUNG BOYS BEHIND HIM IN PALM BEACH OPEN

Tommy Bolt, the top man in the race for the coveted Vardon Trophy and frequent visitor to Greenville, yesterday accepted an invitation to join the select 16-man field in the Palm Beach Golf Championship at Deepdale Golf Club June 1-5.

Bolt often accused of being a temperamental player, has been a model of golfing decorum this year. The payoff has been a pair of brilliant victories in the San Diego Open and the Tucson Open.

Those two triumphs, plus splendid showings in other tournaments makes him the leader in the Vardon Trophy race. This is an annual draw, "its about time we fellows in our 30's made a little hay. I, for one, am going to try to keep the young boys in line behind me when they don't out check."

Bolt, in his thirties, is out to show that while golf's "old guard" may be fading it still isn't time for the youngsters in their 20's to dominate the lucrative pro golf industry.

"If the 40-year-olds such as Sam Snead, Lloyd Mangum and Clark Harbert are moving on, as everybody claims," Bolt says in that Oklahoma draw, "its about time we fellows in our 30's made a little hay. I, for one, am going to try to keep the young boys in line behind me when they don't out check."

DON BUDGE SAYS SEIXAS AND TARBOR'S GAMES UNSOUND

The United States Walker Cup team sailed from New York this week to St. Andrews, Scotland, the site of the international match: May 20-21. The nine members of the U. S. team include Harvie Ward of Tarboro and Bill Joe Patton of Morganton.

Famous tennis master Don Budge said Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, America's top tennis acts, have "basically unsound" games and he considers Dick Savitt the best of the world's amateurs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, by beating Milwaukee 2-0 in a 12-inning thriller Monday night, set a new record for 15 wins in 18 starts.

ECC Netters Whip Bulldog Team Again

East Carolina gained its second tennis win over Atlantic Christian yesterday, whitewashing the Bulldog netters 9-0 in Wilson.

Coach Ray Martinez' team won every match in sweeping to its sixth North State Conference triumph against one loser.

Maurice Everette, the No. 1 man, moved down Bill Widgeon 6-3, 6-2 to post his sixth victory this spring. The stylist, freshman had the best of the match all the way and didn't push to win over ACC's No. 1 player.

James Blake playing in the No. 2 position, turned back Richardson of ACC 6-3, 6-4. No 3 Frazier Bruton won the day's most exciting match from Hester 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Other Pirates winning singles matches were George Burton who defeated Lazzo 6-1, 6-1; Gene Lilley who defeated Craft 7-1, 6-0; and Albert Webb who defeated Price 6-0, 6-0.

The Bucs swept the doubles matches with the same comparative ease. Everette and Gill Underwood teamed up to down ACC's No. 1 twosome of Price and Richardson. Frazier Bruton and James Blake took Hester and Widgeon in stride 7-5, 6-2 and Albert Webb and Lilley trounced Craft and Lazzo 6-1, 6-2 to compete the shutout.

Motorcyclist Crashed Short

GARDENA, Calif. (AP)—At least C. K. Pearson tried.

Pearson's motorcycle hit a crash wall 10 feet from the finish line last night. He was catapulted high into the air and across the finish, but his motorcycle came down in a heap 10 feet short.

George Everett of Pasadena won the race. Pearson, a Riverside rider, finished a flying second, but since his motorcycle didn't cross the line he was disqualified and Jack Schlayman of Los Angeles got second money.

'Grunting' Pays Good Dividends

SOPCHOPPY, Fla. (AP)—Grunting earthworms is a profitable business in many sections of Florida.

Over 100 men, women and children are engaged in grunting, or rubbing up earthworms in Wakulla County alone, packing them in containers with the proper sand, muck and moss and shipping them to various parts of the South.

To get the worms out of the earth workers drive in short wooden stakes and then use an axe, spring leaf iron or any other suitable iron for rubbing the top of the stake. The vibration makes the worm—prized as fishing bait—come to the surface.

You can make more worms come out by using batteries connected to steel rods but more worms are killed that way.

One dealer last year shipped over $12,000 worth to Florida customers alone. Recently one man and his wife grunted up 84 quarts—about 300 worms to the quart—in two days.

Textbooks Are Favorite Loot

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Thomas P. Ayer, Richmond's head librarian, recalls that a Bible was the first book he bought for the library 21 years ago. It was stolen in the first six months.

Ayer says more textbooks are stolen than any other kind. The library is careful not to duplicate the wares of college book stores.

Farm Food Processing Said Necessary In N.C.

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina farmers must turn to the processing of food and take advantage of their home market, State Agriculture Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine declared today.

Ballentine told the closing session of the Eastern North Carolina Press Assn. the eastern region of the state is in an advantageous position to grow agriculturally.

He favored new and modernized efforts in raising poultry, dairy cattle, livestock and vegetables. He pointed out the region has the climate, soil, know-how and capital to advance agriculturally and is within a few hours of the major metropolitan consumption areas of the nation.

This morning the press association held panel discussion on editorial writing and reporting.

Edward L. Fike, editor of the Rocky Mount Telegram, moderated the panel for editorial writers while Dave Whitchard Jr. of the Greenville Reflector led the discussion on reporting.

Director Ben E. Douglas of the State Department of Conservation and Development and Capus Wynn of High Point were speakers at last night's opening session.

Douglas told the editors and publishers that two pilot counties may be selected in carrying out the program recently announced by Gov. Hodges to find ways and means of locating and expanding industry in areas now largely agricultural.

Industry must be brought into balance with agriculture in order to increase per capita income in eastern North Carolina, Douglas declared. He said the greatest opportunity lies in the development of plants through local leadership and with local capital, although efforts will still be made to attract outside industry.

Industrial development in the Piedmont outstripped the east because of Piedmont water power and the east's dependence on agriculture, Douglas said. However, electric power plants in eastern areas now "give that section an equal opportunity for industry," he said.

Sees Portent Of Attack In Korea

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Another attack in Korea is indicated by a Communist military buildup in North Korea, the Korean ambassador says.

The Communist are preparing another attack," Dr. You Chan Yang said here yesterday while en route from San Antonio to Washington.

"The Reds in the North have built up over 40 airfields and underground hangars and brought in 500 planes, including 425 jets," he stated.

Wrong Verdict For His Trial

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Immigration official Armand Hysette, star prosecution witness at a federal court trial, stepped into the courtroom for a smoke while a jury was being chosen.

Five minutes later he returned to the courtroom and stared in amazement as Judge Jacob Weinberger asked a jury to announce its verdict.

"Your Honor," blurted Hysette, "there hasn't even been any testimony yet. How can there be a verdict so soon?"

The jurist laughed and told Hysette that while he was smoking, a different jury had returned with a verdict in another case.

Picnic Staged For City Employees And Guests

Some 125 city employees, their families and guests attended an employees picnic at Elm Street Park yesterday afternoon.

City Manager James S. Hughes said the event was the first of what is hoped will be an annual affair.

"The purpose of the picnic was to give city employees an opportunity to meet each other and the families of one another," the city manager declared. "We hope a better cooperating city team will result. As in any other business more cordial relationships develop into better working relationships."

Claims Reuther 'Is Not Kidding'

HOUSTON (AP) — Walter Reuther "isn't kidding" about a guaranteed annual wage for auto workers, says Dr. Carroll R. Daugherty.

Daugherty, Northwestern University economist who frequently serves as a federal mediator in labor disputes, said yesterday, the CIO-UAW chief's demand may result in a major strike in Detroit this year.

"Unless Ford or General Motors sign up because of their sales battle, I think we'll see real labor trouble in Detroit this year," Daugherty added in a speech before an industrial relations conference.

No One Injured In Two Accidents

Two city accidents did an estimated $275 in property damage yesterday but all persons involved escaped injury.

About 5:30 p. m. yesterday a car driven by Lonnie Gray Briley, 50, of Route 5, was involved in a North Green Street collision with a tractor-trailer owned by Bilbro Wholesale Co. here and driven by Roy F. Everett, 30, of 611 Perkins Avenue.

Damage to Briley's car was estimated at $175. No arrests were made.

A half hour later a Camp Lejeune marine, Kurt Eckhoff, was arrested for passing on the right following an accident with a car operated by Mrs. Martha Cherry Forrest, 60, of 1209 Dickinson Avenue. The accident, which occurred at the intersection of 10th and Evans Streets, did a total of $100 damages to both vehicles.

Issues Call For Tobacco Plants

Assistant County Agent Sam Weeks this morning issued an appeal for tobacco plants to assist farmers in the Rockingham County area who were hurt by a recent freeze.

Weeks said farmers in that Old Belt county near the Virginia line will need plants for at least 25 percent of their crop from outside areas.

The assistant agent called for Dixie Bright 101 and Coker 139 varieties. However, he urged local farmers to take care of their own and neighbors needs first.

Farmers who wish to send plants to the affected area may report the yardage available and the approximate area the plants will transplant to the county agent's office.

Stole Flowers And $250 In Cash

PASADENA Calif. (AP) — From the Mother's Day display in a florist's shop here a burglar took a potted hydrangea and a potted red rose.

To this he added a brass planter and two boxes of gold letters for inscribing ribbons with appropriate sentiments.

Then, police reported somewhat cynically yesterday, he took $250 from the till.

Saber-Swinging Police Break Up Mass March

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Saber-swinging mounted police broke up a mass march through Buenos Aires last night as Roman Catholics demonstrated their loyalty to the church in its current difficulties with the Argentine government.

At least 40 marchers were arrested. One policeman was injured in the scuffle with the crowd, which shouted prochurch slogans. One of the arrested men was identified as retired Army Brig. Gen. Carlos Garcia Cuevas.

The march was staged after an evening Mass at Metropolitan Cathedral attended by an overflow crowd that blocked traffic in the square. Worshipers, unable to get into the cathedral, listened to the service through loud speakers.

The huge assembly shouted "Our lives for Jesus" and "Argentina is Catholic." They sang the national anthem and Catholic hymns. After the service, the march began down fashionable Florida Street.

A handful of police watched as the demonstrators poured through the city's theater district, and along Corrientes Street. After they flowed into the cathedral, mounted police attempted to stop the march, but the demonstrators fought back.

The demonstrators fought back. The mounted police then moved in to break it up.

The demonstration broke up as the Argentine Congress studied measures aimed at separating church and state. Roman Catholicism now is the official state religion.

Peron has been waging a running battle with the church since November when he accused some members of the clergy of attempting to undermine his regime. The church denied the charge. Twenty-eight priests have been arrested since the fight began.

In addition to seeking an end to Catholicism as the state religion, Peron's supporters have introduced a bill in the Senate to outlaw Catholic religious teaching in public schools. This measure is expected to clear both houses quickly and be signed into law by Peron.

The government "temporarily" halted religious education in public and private schools three weeks ago.

Argentine prelates have protested against Peron's efforts to break the ties between church and state. They contend the church does not oppose a division of powers between the two, but strongly opposes their moral separation.

Raymond Martin Named To Get Merit Award

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Raymond L. Martin, 818 College View Place, Greenville, N.C., is one of the 300 additional radio amateurs named today to receive certificates of merit for emergency service during the 1954 hurricanes.

Late reports of amateur emergency communications during the hurricanes indicate a total of more than 1,500 amateurs participated — compared with the 1,200 announced last month.

Jack Edwards of Greenville, nominated Martin for the honor.

The citations were voted by the judges of the annual Edison Radio Amateur Ward sponsored by General Electric's tube department. In granting the honor, the judges pointed out that an unparalleled number of amateur radio operators joined in setting up emergency radio networks during hurricanes "Carol," "Edna" and "Hazel."
