Surgeon General Hopes For Resumption By Week's End New Vaccine Delay Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has urged that the nation's polio vaccination program be held up for at least a few more days while federal health authorities make a new safety check.

As late as last Friday, Scheele himself had recommended that the inoculations be continued where the vaccine was available.

"There should be a scientific basis before such delay is put into effect. I would not want to take responsibility for arbitrarily asking a delay in giving the vaccine unless there was some good reason for doing it."

Cosmos Book Club Elects Officers

The Cosmos Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Richard Gaylord on Tuesday, May 3. The house was beautifully decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. George Martin. The club voted to contribute $5.00 to the Cancer Drive. The party for the husbands was announced for May 21 at the Moose Lodge.

The new slate of officers for the coming year was presented as follows: President, Mrs. Robert Ross; vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Davenport; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Richard Gaylord, and librarian, Mrs. George Garrett.

Mrs. H. G. Haney gave a most interesting and informative talk on North Carolina mountain resorts, including such well-known places as King's Mountain, Chimney Rock, Lake Lure and many others. Of singular interest was her reference to Asheville known as the Valley of Religion due to the conference grounds, Lake Junaluska, Ridgecrest, Luther Ridge, Montreat, and Christ Mount.

The hostess served a delicious salad course and coffee, assisted by Mrs. Quinn Bostic and Mrs. George Garrett. Mrs. Burney Warren was a guest. The books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Scouting Needs In Pitt District Reviewed Here

Scouting needs in the Pitt District of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, were reviewed by a budget-planning group at meeting in Greenville Saturday afternoon.

Duncan, Commissioner John Behr, Field Executive Lester Dollar, District Vice Chairman Ercell S. Webb, and the following committee chairman, Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, Charles P. Gaskins, and James V. Butler. More effective service to troops and scouting units, and initial phases of the 1955-56 finance campaign were discussed.

Tea Is Given For Miss Messick

Miss Rose Messick, who will become the bride of Lyman Melvin in June, was honored Saturday afternoon when Mrs. W. W. Howell and Mrs. Kenneth Cuthbert entertained at a tea at the home of the former.

Miss Messick, attractive in a torso model gray and rose cocktail dress, was presented a corsage of white rosebuds. The traditional bridal green and white color scheme was further accentuated by a mantel arrangement of white gladioli and daisies in the living room where guests entered. Receiving with Miss Messick were her mother and Mrs. J. L. Melvin, mother of the groom-elect.

Mrs. Fred Willetts Jr. of Wilmington directed the guests to the tea table artistically arranged on the porch in a garden setting of ivy and clusters of white bells. Silver candelabra with five white tapers garlanded with lilies of the valley and from which hung miniature white prayer books, sprays of lilies of the valley, wedding rings, and white satin bows, centered the refreshment table covered with a green cloth overlaid with organza. Seated at the table were Mrs. C. C. Colston and Mrs. W. T. Melvin of Rocky Mount, aunts of the groom-elect. Mrs. John Reynolds and Miss Ardis Messick of Washington assisted in serving lime ice, bridal cakes, dainty ribbon and open-face sandwiches, cheese, nuts, sweets, nuts, and mints in flower molds.

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr. directed guests to the north porch, where Miss Barbara Holler, pianist, and Mr. Donald Hayes, violinist, delightfully entertained the guests during the tea hour with appropriate music. Here in another garden setting of ivy, rose-covered trellises, and variegated peonies and irises, goodbyes were said to Mrs. Wilcher Dudley III.

The hostesses presented Miss Messick a silver punch ladle.

Four Arrested At Fish Fry On Varied Charges

A Saturday night fish-fry came to an untimely end near Bethel this weekend when ABC officers, Bethel police and members of the sheriff's department cited four of the fryers for various law infractions.

Arrested at the fry, which was taking place at the home of Acie McCray near Bethel, were McCray, charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale; Jessie Peel, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale; John Harris, drunk, and William Riddick, interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty.

Some 75 people had gathered at McCray's home for the fry but, in the opinion of investigating officers, had carried things too far when a home-made whiskey bar was established in the back yard.

Church Women Of Greenville Observe May Fellowship

"Worship, love, security, and understanding are the foundations of a Christian home," stated Mrs. E. G. Peoples of Oxford, recording secretary of the N. C. Council of Church Women, in her talk to the church women of Greenville Friday. Mrs. Peoples was guest speaker at May Fellowship Day which is observed annually across the nation on the first Friday of May. Friday's luncheon meeting at the First Presbyterian Church was sponsored by the Greenville Council of Church Women. The women of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church were hostesses.

In developing the theme, "The Responsible Christian Family," Mrs. Peoples said that the first step in building a home is taken when two people decide to live for each other. She stressed the importance of couples being married in churches and also of turning to their church and minister for counseling in order to build security for a Christian family.

"The first baby makes a couple realize that they have a responsibility. It also teaches them the appreciation of an individual, because each child has its own personality," stated Mrs. Peoples. She then discussed the opportunities offered parents to teach Christian principles through play, work, and worship in the home.

Landscape Architect Speaker For Community Arts Festival

On Friday afternoon at the Woman's Club the Greenville Garden Club presented as its annual contribution to the program of the current Community Fine Arts Festival, Mr. Edwin Gilbert Thurlow, distinguished landscape architect, who spoke to an appreciative audience on "Landscaping the Small Home."

Mr. Thurlow was introduced by Mrs. W. I. Wooten as a person who "with a background of many big things accomplished can still come down to our level and talk to us about the thing that all of us either own or long to own—the small home." He is presently Professor of Landscape Architecture in the School of Design at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. He was born in Nova Scotia and had his academic and professional training in the United States, having received degrees from Purdue University, North Carolina State College and the Graduate School of Design of Harvard University. As a landscape planning consultant, he has served on many important commissions and, as a private consulting landscape architect, he has made plans of the grounds of numerous familiar places in North Carolina and elsewhere.

Much interesting and valuable information relative to landscaping Small Home Grounds was given by Mr. Thurlow. Each house is considered separately for the same house on a different lot would require different landscaping. The first important consideration is the proper location of the house on the lot. Many small homes are tailored to the way and tempo of present day living and welcome the out-door counterpart of indoor rooms, for there is a definite trend to more out-of-doors living. Yards should have privacy and be made both beautiful and functional for the enjoyment and relaxation of all members of the family. Colored slides of attractive homes and yards were shown to illustrate the possibilities of what may be accomplished with average size lots in average sub-divisions by well planned plantings, to achieve a feeling of greater space and privacy for more satisfactory family life.

Pre-nuptial Party Fetes Miss Warren

Mrs. Dink James and Mrs. P. K. Andren entertained on Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. James on East Ninth Street as a pre-nuptial party to Miss Adelaide Warren, bride-elect of this month.

A profusion of spring flowers in many unusual arrangements were used throughout the home and in the dining room a color note of pink and white was accented. The table, spread with a white linen cut work cloth, was centered with white dutch iris, pink roses, fever few, and dainty pinks in a tall white urn. Branched candelabra, tied with pink sweetheart rosebuds, held burning white tapers.

With Coca-Colas, ham biscuits, ribbon sandwiches with cucumber and parsley, banana bread sandwiches, heart shaped canapés with pineapple and cream cheese and other party refreshments were served.

Miss Warren was presented a corsage of pink sweetheart rosebuds upon arrival and as honor gifts received china in her pattern and four crystal and silver coasters.

Make-Believe World Is Declared 'Poor Start'

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why do so many child stars have unhappy lives as adults?

"Because they live in a make-believe world," observes Mrs. Gladys Hoene. She ought to know, because she has been teacher, friend and confessor to kid actors 20 years. She's head of the school at Universal-International.

"Child actors don't become the best wives and husbands," she observed, commenting on the high divorce rate among former moppet stars. "The world they have been brought up in is completely unreal. When they walk on a set, they start to play roles that are apart from reality. You can't expect them to have a down-to-earth attitude toward life."

Ann spent most of her school years as a pupil of Mrs. Hoene, but she wasn't as angelic as you might expect. "When Ann and Donald O'Connor got together, they could cut up," recalled the teacher.

How was Donald as a student? "Very, very adequate," she said smilingly. "when he became 18, he was getting married and going into the Army so he didn't finish high school."

Another student who was no Phi Beta Kappa: Elizabeth Taylor. She was at Universal two years before going to MGM and "National Velvet."

"Elizabeth was the most beautiful child I have ever seen," said Mrs. Hoene. "she was charming, too, but she had absolutely no use for school."

After years of transient pupils, mostly kids in the kettle series, the U-I schoolhouse once more has a steady student. He is Tim Hovey, a bright young nine-year-old. The lad made such a hit in "The Private War of Major Benson" that the studio is hoping to build him into a star.

Mrs. Hoene, a soft-spoken woman with a son and daughter of her own, came to Universal 17 years ago after a session of teaching the Our Gang Kids at Hal Roach.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. Louis Nelson

Mrs. Verna Causey Nelson, widow of Louis Nelson, died at her home Sunday morning near Epworth Church in Craven County. She was 66.

Funeral services will be conducted at Riverside Christian Church near Grifton at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Ruper Phillips, Christian minister of Washington, assisted by the Rev. James Hemby, the pastor and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mrs. Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Olivia Hart Causey of Epworth and the late Joe S. Causey, had spent all her life in the Epworth Community. She was a member of Riverside Christian Church.

Surviving are two sons, Joseph Nelson of the home and R. B. Nelson of Grifton; four daughters, Mrs. Clarence Galloway of Greenville, Mrs. H. W. Broughton of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Luther Hugh Hardison of Jamesville, and Mrs. John C. Coughlan of Arlington, Va.; 12 grandchildren; her mother; a brother, Roy C. Causey of Epworth; and two sisters, Mrs. Dixie Cannon of Ayden and Mrs. oe Ippock of New Bern.

Women In The Church

The United Nations' International Children's Emergency Fund expects to care for about 32 million mothers and children in 1955, compared to the 23 million who benefited from UNICEF disease control and nutrition programs in 1954. Maurice Pate, UNICEF director, announces. Of the various 1955 targets, the largest calls for the vaccination of 15 million children against TB; 1,700,000 children and mothers are expected to be treated for the tropical disease, yaws; nearly 9 million will be protected from malaria.

Children at Selva Social Center in Osaka, Japan under the leadership of Miss Sallie E. Carroll, a missionary of the Methodist Church, have created a toy-lending library. Some of the toys were given to the Center at Christmas by the Kobe Women's Club; some came as gifts from friends in America. How could the children best use these for the good of all? The leader took the problem to the children. It was they who suggested that they borrow the toys and take them to their homes for a week at a time and return them and get others. When plans were completed invitations were sent to the Kobe Woman's Club, the City Welfare Department and parents of the children.

The Rev. Mrs. James D. Wyker, national president of United Church Women, representing ten million Protestant church women in the U.S.A. has recently returned with three other church leaders (representing the U.S., India, and the P.I.) from a two-month visit to lands overseas. Her object: "promoting greater unity in fellowship and prayer among Christian women." Women in many countries around the world, Mrs. Wyker reports, are "surging ahead in areas of political life and social welfare." She said this is seen in the formation of a number of national women's organizations which are crusading for better marriage and divorce laws, property rights for women and child welfare legislation. In many lands, she commented, women's new found independence can be attributed to the job done by missionaries in preparing them for public service. She urged also that the U.S. government send abroad "more diplomats who represent all races" as a means of winning more friends for the U.S. and achieving world peace.

Newberger's Bill Has Disadvantages

We can just visualize politicians' appearances on TV if Sen. Newberger's bill passes requiring candidates to tell their audience whether they are reading their speeches and whether they are wearing make-up.

Sen. John Doe, campaigning for reelection, would spend half his television time giving the audience the inside dope.

We can see and hear it now:

"I'm Senator John Doe and I'm here to ask you voters to re-elect me. Before I do that though, I must tell you I'm reading this speech which I did not write and couldn't memorize. This ruddy complexion didn't come from the great out-of-doors. Without make-up I really have sort of a barroom pallor which comes from spending so much time looking after your business in the Capitol and attending cocktail parties of the Washington social circle. This toupe which covers my receding hairline likewise came from the make-up kit. The fuzzy fringe is mine.

"I'd also like to call your attention to my invisible jowls and wrinkles which you can't see because of the magnificent work of the young man in charge of make-up here at the studio.

"This suit I'm wearing is a gift from John Jones, president of Whazzit company for a little favor I did him several months ago in connection with a tax case. This shirt really isn't a shirt at all, but just a front like all our politicians have. It's too hot to wear shirts under these Kleig lights.

"This necktie you see and my socks you don't see are really mine. My wife gave them to me last father's day.

"Now ladies and gentlemen . . ."

If the politicians and voters don't shout down Sen. Newberger's bill, certainly the actors guild will. Not even "I Love Lucy" could compete with that sort of political comedy every campaign year.

It Isn't War; Only A Contract Dispute!

Like the telephone strike, the South's 14-state Louisville and Nashville Railroad strike evolved into more of a war than an orderly contract dispute. Frequent dynamite, shootings and sundry instances of violence and vandalism all over the place.

Again, no union spokesmen professes to know anything about destruction of property running into hundreds of thousands of dollars (except what they read in the press or hear over the radio); but when a striker died of a bullet wound, "it's murder" says a union spokesman, and goes on to lay full blame at the company's door.

Such simultaneous professions of ignorance, innocence and outright accusations of murder are wholly unreasonable.

Strong-arm tactics, unshots, dynamite settlements . . . none are conducive to amicable settlement of legitimate dispute. To be sure, machine guns, tanks, bazookas and artillery haven't been brought into play yet; but if present measures are to be accepted as commonplace in labor disputes, just think what developments in contract negotiations tomorrow could bring.

"Right To Work" Law Should Be Maintained

North Carolina's "right to work" law is a reasonable provision for the protection of the people of the state and it should be maintained.

A bill has been introduced to do away with that law by allowing management and unions to sign union shop agreements which would require workers to be members of the union as a condition for employment in plants covered by the contract. The new bill would legalize contracts which specify that if a majority of a firm's employees are members of the union, all employees hired thereafter shall become union members.

North Carolina's "right to work" law was adopted in 1947 and has proved satisfactory since that time, giving the individual employe the protection he deserves and at the same time not working an undue hardship on labor organizations. North Carolina will be wise to retain its "right to work" law in the present form.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE OPEN DOOR
St. Paul declares (I Cor. 15:26) that "the last enemy that shall be destroyed is death."
The Bible pictures death as the most horrible thing man can confront. Often today we hear people making light of death as if it were a gateway and the opening of a door to greater opportunities. So it is if the door is Christ. But, death, according to the Bible, is a solemn thing, because it marks the end of our period of probation and brings us face to face with the necessity for final evaluation and judgment.

The greatest victory Jesus Christ won was his victory over death. He took the horror out of death. Everyone will some day be judged before the divine throne. If one has Christ standing at his side, there is nothing to fear; if not, there is everything to fear. Fallen man, unregenerate man can only look upon death with horror and foreboding, but in Jesus Christ the experience of death is made indeed the door by which we enter into the infinite possibilities of eternal life.

New Look By Organized Labor

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Leaders of organized labor have taken a "new look" at Dwight D. Eisenhower, and they begin to believe they can "coexist" with him and his "Cabinet of millionaires." Although he shows no such partiality toward them as his two predecessors did, they now admit that he has been unexpectedly fair and friendly.

Strange as it may seem, the merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations into one big union should operate to Ike's political advantage. According to plans, George L. Meany, AFL president, will head the new setup, Walter P. Reuther, CIO boss, will be second in command.

Under this dual control Meany will manage trade union problems, while Reuther will be the political operator and propagandist. He will seek to mobilize the unions into a ballot-box mass, as he has done as head of the Automobile workers. Political flamboyancy is his forte.

TO IKE'S ADVANTAGE—The selection of the dynamic Reuther for this assignment is counted on to make votes for Ike and the GOP. For all his admitted brilliance, the Detroit man does not have the confidence of the officers and membership of many great local and national bodies. Leaning toward the conservative side, and more concerned about bread-and-butter matters than ideologies, they regard him as too lofty and liberal in his ideas.

Moreover, as an official of the Americans for Democratic Action, Reuther is a confirmed and extreme New Dealer. He will be at a disadvantage in negotiating with Administration officials, Republican politicians and a generally conservative Congress. Many Democrats on and off Capitol Hill have voiced the belief that A.D.A. should disband for the good of their party.

WANT LESS PARTISAN ATTITUDE—As a condition to the merger, many influential labor strategists insist that the new organization adopt a less partisan attitude. Past experiences motivates them. They note

Business Today

Overfull Employment

By ELMER ROESSNER
While large-scale unemployment is one of the worst evils to which mankind can be exposed, the price for "overfull employment" is large. Paul Einzig, noted economist writes in the May issue of "Challenge," the New York University economic magazine. Overfull employment is defined as the "state of affairs in which the number of vacancies exceeds the number of people seeking work."

In Great Britain, where there were at least 100,000 more jobs than workers last year, overfull employment has enabled workers to enforce wage demands. Each rise in wages has been followed by an increase in prices, "one following the other in never-ending succession," Dr. Einzig writes. Employers take the line of least resistance and grant increases, then raise prices. Newly established or expanding firms cannot recruit the labor they need.

"This," Dr. Einzig points out, "has gone a long way toward undermining the kind of industrial discipline which is essential for efficient production. The turnover rate is high and wildcat strikes are on the increase. Workers tend to be careless about the quality of their product."

"Even more serious, the number of highly paid jobs available to untrained workers discourages young people from acquiring specialized skills requiring prolonged preliminary training. . . . Worst of all, with more than enough jobs to go around, workers tend to be careless about the quality of their product."

The fetish of full employment has greatly impeded mechanization in Great Britain, Dr. Einzig reports. "Owing to their powerful bargaining position, unions can force British firms to continue to employ workers who have become superfluous as a result of the introduction of labor-saving machinery."

"Employment is something that must be deserved," the writer concludes. "An important reason for Britain's postwar troubles has been the assumption of the average Britisher that it is his birthright to be fully employed under all circumstances. . . . THEY NEED A LIVING, TOO"

"After attending some recent tax huddles," writes Herbert A. Leggett in the newsletter of the Valley National Bank of Arizona, "we suspect that the 1954 Revenue Act was a perpetration of accountants by accountants and for accountants. This is no reflection on accountants. We love them and need them now more than ever."

MEN'S WEAR TRENDS
In men's suits, "green is anticipated to be much in discussion in 1955 as a style factor," Men's Wear Magazine concludes after its 15th annual fall and winter clothing survey. Brown is expected to show a 2 per cent increase in 1955, but a 10 per cent expected 20 per cent increase, and blue a 6 per cent increase.

There is a strong trend toward the three-button, single-breasted style. There will be fewer suits under $45 this fall, and more above $45, with "extraordinary strength in the $65 to $75 class."

In a survey of men's outerwear, the magazine found that wool has taken a commanding lead from the synthetic blends, and will increase the lead next season.

TO GET MILK TABLETS
Compressed milk tablets, with flavor and sweetening added, are to be given British schoolchildren under that country's Milk and Meal regulations. The Ministry of Education has decided that in schools where fresh milk is not available, children should be given tablets instead of recombined milk drinks. Each child will get tablets equal to one-third of an imperial pint of milk a day.

Competition Has Bad Side Involving Employee's Loyalty

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — We have an enemy in this country eating away at us from within in a way that may be very destructive to our national well-being. That enemy is COMPETITION, which forces us to put an employee's loyalty to the business ahead of his loyalty to his family. When praising the "American Way" of free enterprise, let us not forget that it has serious dangers.

BUSINESS CAN HELP WRECK THE HOME
Big Business is surely contributing to juvenile delinquency by the high priority it claims on a man's evenings and week ends. When father should be spending time with his wife and children he is entertaining customers or whittling down the paper work on his desk. He is a stranger in his own home. This almost hysterical pursuit of company business at any cost to family life is evidence of the decline in moral values that has hit too many of our young men.

There are millions of sad homes across the land, homes where fathers have awakened with a jolt to find sons already grown up. Sons have gotten into serious difficulties because they never received the kind of guidance and discipline they needed from father. I recall a plaintive cry from a "corporation wife" which appeared in Fortune magazine a couple of years ago. She particularly condemned the type and amount of entertainment that she, as a corporation wife, was expected to offer to her husband's business associates. In this case, the corporation lent little time for either parent to spend with the children.

CONSTANT CHANGE IS DANGEROUS
It is a mistake for companies

not to allow sales managers to stay in any one place long enough to become part of their community. They must move every two or three years. Of course, the wives become irritable; children have a hard time in school; and husbands develop ulcers. Marriage and the family don't have a chance.

Graduates of Colleges of Business Administration have been criticized in recent years for being unwilling to be away from home five nights a week for their dear old employer; but these graduates may be justified. The present generation of fathers and mothers of teen-agers haven't a very good record. Perhaps the new crop of prospective fathers and mothers will do a better job!

PARENTAL GUIDANCE LACKING
A father tells about the very good prep school to which he is sending his teen-agers. Says he, "Why I don't have to be bothered with the kids at all. This winter the school taught my boy how to ski and to skate. Saved me a lot of time and trouble!" School and college guidance officers are filled with records of young people who are emotionally unstable because their parents never played with them enough, never gave them the understanding and guidance they needed.

A friend recently stated that when he suggested a plan for fathers and sons to raise money together by planting and marketing certain garden crops, he was nearly booted out of the meeting. "Who ever heard of such a ridiculous idea? We're all too busy," was the reply. Don't blame the schools for all the shortcomings of the younger generation.

RESPONSIBILITY OF "BIG BUSINESS"
How often have you heard a business executive say that he doesn't want his children to work as hard as he has had to? So he hands them out fat allowances, automobiles, expensive education, and perhaps even subsidies for marriage. This eases his conscience; he can say he has given his children everything,—"everything," the children will tell you, except what they really wanted most—companionship.

Such prolonged well-nursing can develop a generation of young people who are egocentric, emotionally immature, and who believe the world owes them a living. Who is to blame? I have a hunch that the pace business sets has something to do with the situation. In fact, when asked as to what will bring on the next depression, I forecast: "Employers, executives, wageworkers, and even consumers will some day get tired and just quit the struggle."

New Hodges Budget Estimates Entail Calculated Risk

By LYNN NISBET
CALCULATED RISK — Governor Hodges elaborated at his news conference on the address he made before the General Assembly on the revenue situation. He pointed out that the reduction of $32 million from original estimates of required new $22 million of the total is attributed to improved economic conditions. Another $4 million has been "saved" from current biennial appropriations by spending less than was originally allocated, and $6 million is anticipated to come from tighter col-

Leaves From Oddity Almanac

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Leaves from an oddity almanac:
The century of the common man has also turned out to be the century of the common dog.
A thoughtful men's clothing firm has just installed a "Dog bar" in its storefront—the first so far we know of on Fifth Avenue. As yet, the bar only offers water as refreshment for thirsty wayfaring pooches, but all Manhattan is waiting to see what happens when the first gentlemanly St. Bernard shows up with a small cask of brandy under his chin.
A new form of animal crackers is now on the market to tease Rover's appetite. They are dog biscuits colored and shaped to represent different foods, such as a red heart for meat, a brown bar for a white milk bottle, an orange wedge for cheese and a green fish. Presumably it would be in bad taste to offer Rover a cat-shaped dog biscuit. Might stir him up emotionally.
The Changing Homefront: A new Mrs. America will be picked this week at Ellinger Village, Fla. A survey of the original entrants showed that scrubbing floors was the household chore they despised most; that cherry pie is replacing apple pie in popularity; that some 40 per cent were nonvoters for the title of America's top housewife by proud husbands or chivalrous mothers-in-law. Which brings up a point: Why doesn't someone run a contest to pick the nation's best all-around mother-in-law?
It has become another heartening year for American can openers. They snipped through four million miles of tin-coated steel, a distance equal to more than eight round trips to the moon. Some 68,591 cans are opened every minute now, about 738 a year in the average home. More than 3,000 edible and nonedible items are packed in cans today. Incidentally, have you ever thought of canning your money? Stored in cans kept in a dark cool place, money will stay fresh

NEW PROFESSION: COMMERCIAL ENGINEERING
There's a new profession in America, the Illinois Institute of Technology reports. It's commercial engineering.
The profession is so new, says Dr. Henry Ludmer, associate professor that only two companies have commercial engineering departments and only Illinois Tech has courses on the subject.
Dr. Ludmer describes commercial engineering as the application of engineering skills in the selling of technical equipment, and including demand forecasts, commercial research and development, patenting, linear programming of sales management, technical aids to procurement agencies, and the estimating and control of distribution costs.

Truman Begins Library Project On Birthday

INDEPENDENCE Mo. (AP) — A jovial Harry S. Truman did a bit of digging yesterday—his 71st birthday anniversary—on a project that's been closest to his heart since leaving the White House.

The former President used a couple of shovels, both gold plated, to make an official ground-breaking start on the Truman Memorial Library.

It will be a $1,750,000 structure housing the official and personal papers he collected during more than seven years as President.

Dr. Elmer Ellis, University of Missouri president who was the principal speaker at the ceremonies, called the Truman papers the core to an expanded library and museum of items and relics "which in the next 100 years will come to light as bearing in important ways on President Truman's career."

Three quarters of the cost of the library, being financed by public contributions has been raised.

At a birthday dinner attended by more than 550 persons last night Truman called the memorial "the thing dearest to my heart" and expressed gratitude to the thousands who have made it possible.

Dr. Franklin Murphy, the University of Kansas chancellor, told the dinner audience the library "will put into perspective this complex part of a complex century."

He turned to Truman and said the papers "will stand forever as

Numerous Awards Presented In Farmville High School Ceremony

FARMVILLE — Numerous awards were presented students at Farmville High School's third annual Recognition Day ceremonies held last week.

Principal Sam D. Bundy served as master of ceremonies for the occasion.

Receiving the DAR citizenship awards were Faye Mewborn, senior; and Martha Hardy Johnson, junior. These awards were presented by Mrs. Pat Hart, English teacher who also gave Nancy Jane Carroll, junior, a certificate recognizing her as local winner in the National French Contest.

Senior recognitions went to Emille Cannon, editor of the "Archway" for this year; Bertie Clark, associate editor; Clara Flanagan, art editor; Sybil Crumpler, associate art editor; and Carroll Allen, business manager.

Other seniors recognized included Carrol Allen, as president of his class for three of four years; Bertie Clark, as treasurer of his class during junior and senior years; Norris Spencer, as chairman and narrator of student night; and Curtis Worthington and Sue Flanagan for their dramatic roles in "The Road to the City."

The following seniors were recognized for perfect school attendance records for a number of years: Billy Baker, perfect attendance for 12 years; Emille Cannon and Gray Heath, for eight consecutive years; Nancy O'Geary, for five consecutive years; and Sue Flanagan for three years.

Various school departments were also recognized with their members receiving awards. In the business education department Geneva Flake was recognized as state reporter for the Future Business Leaders of America for the coming year; Marion Pickett, for winning second place in the county typing writing contest; Amos Tyson, for his work as president of the Farmville FBLA; and Sam Namey, for his work in mimeographing in typing.

For improvement in English, Joseph Fulford, Billie Mayo, Carl Blackwood, Patsy Askew, and Bobby Murphy were recognized. Chandler Cox received note for his "New 'n Views" layout.

Wayne County Student Is Chosen Outstanding ECC Campus Citizen

Charles B. Bedford of Pikeville, senior at East Carolina College, received from the college Student Government Association this week the annual award presented to the Outstanding Campus Citizen. Announcement of the 1954-1955 award was made Friday afternoon in the "East Carolinian," student newspaper.

Bedford will be graduated from the college in May with a major in the social studies and a minor in English. Described by the student paper as "one of the most popular, and well-rounded students" at the college he has an enviable record in scholastic work and extra-curricular activities.

As president of the Class of 1955, he has acted as chairman of the May Day Committee and other student groups. He has served also on the Legislature of the Student Government Association and as a member of the Board of Directors of the campus Circle K Club, student branch of Kiwanis International.

Last year he headed the college YMCA as president. Recently he was chosen as president of the Southern Area Council of the YMCA and in this capacity has attended a number of national and regional meetings of the organization. He has also been a leader in activities of the Wesley Foundation of Methodist Students on the campus and in the college Inter-Religious Council, made up of representatives of student religious organizations.

Rodney Brodie Is Said Improving
CHICAGO (AP) — Rodney Dee Brodie has taken a turn for the better, but still is listed in critical condition at Illinois Research Hospital.

The 3 1/2-year-old boy—first head-injured Siamese twin to survive separation—came out of a 51-hour coma yesterday. Rodney's eyes flitted happily over the faces of his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie who visited at the hospital on Motter's Day.

Rodney, seemingly well on his way toward a normal life after separation from his twin 29 months ago, was returned to the hospital Tuesday with a deep, mysterious bleeding in his brain.

A hospital spokesman said Rodney was resting comfortably but that doctors could not tell for certain whether the brain hemorrhage had stopped.

Rodney was separated from his brother, Roger Lee, in a 12-hour operation Dec. 17, 1952. Roger died 24 days later.

Mrs. Hart and Bundy also expressed their appreciation to the Future Teachers of America club for its work during the past year. Members of this group served as substitute teachers on numerous occasions.

Library assistants, Nancy O'Geary, Neil Willoughby, Alice Little, Dean Allen, Betty Sue Dall, Mavis Hardee and Marion Pickett, were recognized.

Mrs. Lurline Wheeler, science teacher, presented certificates to the students who participated in the District Science Fair held recently at East Carolina College. Winners receiving certificates were Mack Holmes, Chandler Cox, Faye Mewborn, Janice Atkinson, Marion Pickett and Beth Baker.

Junior class recognition went to Barbara Dilda, for the lead in the class play; Jane Joyner, as student director; Nan Williams, as chairman of the prom; Jane Joyner, as chairman of the banquet; and Bob Harper, as best all round assistant in both banquet and prom.

Eighth Grade Awards
Awards for the best North Carolina booklets from the eighth grades were given to Jackie Nolan and Garry Bergeron.

Cheerleaders, Jane Russell, chief; Beth Baker, Mary Lou Moore, Linda Mewborn, Ann Morgan, Marion Pickett, Jane Joyner, Theodora Albritton and Clara B. Flanagan, were recognized and awarded letters.

William Glasgow band director, presented certificates to the senior members of the band.

Recognized as having an average of above 90 for each of the five-week parking periods, on the mid-term exam, and for the entire term were Nancy Jane Carroll, Martha Johnson, Jane Joyner, Camille Simpson and Nan Williams.

At the conclusion of the program, Carroll Allen, senior class president, expressed thanks to Bundy for his work with the class during the year, and presented him a gift on behalf of the graduating class.

Water Safety, Beauties And Acts At Water Show

A beauty contest, comedy, music and tips on water safety all will highlight the first annual East Carolina College Aquatic Club Water Show at Memorial Gymnasium here tonight and tomorrow night.

The show, which begins at 7:30 and runs for at least an hour and a half, includes 11 separate acts plus the presentation of campus beauties. Tickets now on sale are 35 cents with admission at the gate being 50 cents.

Among the acts scheduled on the program are a world champion underwater swimming comedy routine, synchronized swimming to the popular song "Tenderly," a vocal water number featuring the "Indian Love Call," comedy diving and swimming, an intramural swim meet plus the water safety demonstration. Some 20 members of the Aquatic Club will take part.

Underwater lighting will be used as part of the routine at the pool, one of the best in the state. Seats for spectators will be provided by reversing the portable stands regularly used for basketball games.

The show is being staged under the direction of Ray Martinez, coach of East Carolina's newly-formed varsity swimming team. Proceeds from the show will be used for a water clinic next year, possibly for the physically handicapped.

Saturday Tilt Saw Big Hitting Spree

Greenie lost a close 5-2 contest to Williamston yesterday afternoon after slaughtering the same Coastal Plain League club 21-8 here Saturday night.

The Greenies broke out in a 23-hit rash Saturday night before the home folks and literally wore the base paths out. They scored nine runs in the first three innings and coasted the rest of the way to their fourth win of the season.

Bobby Coggins pitched and hit the locals to victory. The Williamston high school chucker allowed the visitors just seven scattered hits and banged out two base hits himself.

Les Coggins hit a grand slam homer in the 7th inning for Greenville.

Every single man in Manager Junior Yohn's line-up collected at least one base hit. Centerfielder Blaney Moye, second baseman Tom Boyd and catcher James McLawhorn and four safeties apiece.

The Greenies blasted six extra-base blows during the game, which bore much resemblance to a merry-go-round. Among the barrage were four triples. Mat Hall, McLawhorn, Fred Soles and Gay collected three-baggers.

The locals drove three Williamston hurriers to the showers. Keel started on the mound for Williamston but gave way to Wilford, who in turn gave way to Sexton. Either one could not stymie the Greenie onslaught.

Williamston managed nine hits off Coggins and Gay, Greenville's pitchers. Hardison and Sexton each got two of those. Only one extra-base blow was collected by a visitor: Sexton doubled in the ninth inning.

Greenie's big frame was the third in which it scored six runs. During the outbreak, four one-base hits and four bases-on-balls accounted for the scores.

The locals tallied four times in the fifth and four more times in the seventh. The fifth was highlighted by the successive triples of McLawhorn and Fred Soles. In the sixth, the Greenies bunched four straight singles to rack up scores.

Hall collected three hits for the win and Brownie Tripp, Hobie Hobgood and J. T. Mills had two each.

Yesterday afternoon, Williamston erased some of the humiliation of Saturday's margin by handing Greenville its third loss in Williamston.

Flythe threw a beautiful three-hitter against the locals for his first loss against two wins.

The leading hitters for Williamston were first baseman Roger Thrift and catcher Bill Wobblenton, with two safeties each. Only two extra-base blows were recorded off Flye, doubles by Thrift and James Stalls.

Blaney Moye, Bill McRoy and Tom Boyd had hits for Greenville. The Greenies' biggest blow was Boyd's first inning homer.

Further Medical Tests For Boxer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission scheduled further medical tests today for light heavyweight Harold Johnson to determine if he should be drugged before losing a two-round technical knockout to heavyweight Julio Mederos Friday night. Two commission officials said that until results of the forthcoming tests have been studied, initial reports that Johnson was not drugged must be regarded as inaccurate. Johnson, although apparently not suffering a damaging blow, was unable to answer the bell for the third round of the nationally televised encounter.

Indians Apparently Using Same 1954 Formula For American League Title

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

One week left in April; May, June, July.

"Hello!" called Kay Ireland, coming along behind him and catching up. "Isn't the spring sunlight lovely?"

"Hello," said Eric. And, "Yes, it is a fine day." His tone held the surprise of sudden awareness.

She shook her head at him indignantly. "Lost in your inner world! Conventionally oblivious! You are the type-cast college professor after all."

"Oh, now," he grinned. "I don't wear glasses, and my tweeds are good, and I do a very careful samba. Once in a while I even feel almost human!"

"You're remarkably alive-looking, for a faculty member," she agreed, solemnly, and they were both taken by a spasm of merriment.

"Finally," "Were those thoughts I barged in on worth more than a penny? Or are they incommunicable at any price?" Kay asked him.

"I was thinking about Maggie—and my book—and convocation."

"Why, it's today—the university's 100th birthday, isn't it?" She had fallen into step beside him, slim in a tweed skirt and a leather belt and a yellow cashmere cardigan.

"And it is your big day."

He opened his mouth to tell her how he had spent half the night; to burlesque it for her. Then abruptly he changed his mind. Maggie first; before it lost the keen edge of comedy. He said, "What brought you to the park today?"

"What takes everyone outdoors in April?" she countered. "I began thinking about the farm I grew up on. Did you know that Jarvis and I were going to buy a farm when the war was over?"

Eric was incredulous. "For Pete's sake I can't imagine him in overalls striding across pastures and mending fences and milking cows."

Her smile was sad. "He often talked to me about his friends here. You, among them. He said he never could picture you pushing chalk across a blackboard and correcting themes and passing sugar and cream at the dean's teas all your life."

"The small, haunting smile came again. "You never can tell about people, can you? What they are really like inside, what they are thinking."

"No, you never can," he agreed. "And the funny thing is, that's what really counts—what's inside."

"They walked on in a companionable silence; at the path's end they stopped, stood a moment facing each other. Kay said, "You promised me your book, remember."

"I haven't forgotten. . . It's almost lunch-time. Can I drive you home?"

As naturally as the offer was made she accepted it, and they crossed over to Eric's car. He put her in walked around and got behind the wheel. She had the radio turned on before he started the motor. "Do you mind," she asked, lifting her face to him. She went on fiddling with the dials.

Eric reached over. "You'd better tune in the local station. All you'll get anywhere else is noise. This set is old and temperamental. Maggie jiggles wires and things, but I just tune in the local station."

She sat back. "I try not to listen. I try not to go near a radio—since the news started coming through from Freedom village and Pannunjom. But it draws me. I had to get out of the house this morning. I couldn't bear watching Mother Ireland glued to her radio with such an averted look on her face."

Waiting; waiting for her son's name to be listed among the war prisoners freed from behind Communist stockades. What was the source of so profound and positive a faith? Intuition? A spiritual insight stronger than logic, making illogical the official pronouncement of Jarvis Ireland's death?

Kay said "I am afraid to believe I'm afraid not to believe. I heard someone say that about God, once. . . I have told myself over and over that she is ill. That she is in the grip of an obsession. But if that were true she would be pitiable, wouldn't she? And she is not. Far from it. I can't imagine anyone less in need of pity than Mother Ireland."

She turned her face to him, her lips tremulous. "If she knows he is alive—if some knowledge, hanging suspended, has swept over her—why hasn't it touched me? Why don't I know, too?"

"I don't know, Kay."

Then unforeseeable as always, a special bulletin came through. After dozens of similar ones, each a cleavage in a passage of music, the introductory words were formulated and familiar. We interrupt this program of recorded music to bring you a special bulletin from Pannunjom.

Beside him, Kay's drooping body went tense. Eric pulled over to the curb and stopped the car.

She looked at him, tormentedly. "I have to listen."

"Yes," he said.

Ordinarily said the announcer, the names of Allied prisoners freed in the Korean war's prisoner exchange would be held pending notification of next-of-kin. Making the names immediately available, however, was felt to be a vital service to the public. The men whose names he would read in a moment were at the Evacuation hospital in Seoul, and would be flown to a military hospital for treatment at Kure, Japan.

"There are," he said, "17 men."

He began to read.

Eric was never quite sure whether or not some inner enlightenment appraised him beforehand that he would hear the name of Lieut. Jarvis Ireland. Hearing it, he was not surprised. It was as if fanned-out prescience had pinpointed, though whatever he had of rationalism whatever understanding he had of life was lost in a spiral of mystery and unbelief and awe. . . and then he knew, and pure joy swelled up through him. More for the girl beside him than for himself.

"Kay," he said. Softly. And again, "Kay."

With a little gasp she straightened and turned her face to him, her eyes searching his beseechingly.

"Yes, yes, yes," he said to her. He took her icy fingers and held them. "I heard it, too. We both heard it."

The long breath she drew in shuddered through her. "We couldn't—both hear something that was not there to hear, could we?"

"No."

"But. . . casualty lists aren't wrong. They're never wrong!"

She couldn't believe it yet. "The casualty list must have been wrong," Eric said. And thinking it through step by step, he saw what could have happened. "Jarvis after being listed as missing in action, not dead. His plane could have been hit. He could have crash-landed in enemy territory. Working his way back to his base, he could have been captured, sent to a prison camp. . . His identity lost in a welter of records."

"Yes, Yes. . . Take me home, Eric please," Kay whispered.

He threaded through the downtown traffic, watchful of the girl beside him. Her feet were braced but it didn't stop her body from trembling. No wonder, with a tremendous thing like this happening to her. He had thought at first that she might faint, or cry, but he knew now that she wouldn't. A red

THE PHANTOM

He that will not reason is a bigot; he that can not reason is a fool and he that dares not reason is a slave.

William H. Brewster

THE ONLY INTELLIGENT WAY TO APPROACH ANY PROBLEM IS WITH AN OPEN MIND

Everyone, in this country at least, has a right to their personal opinion. How accurate or intelligent their opinion is based on their knowledge of the subject.

Since the witch hunts in New England some 300 years ago, great numbers of people have always been influenced by a few — not to reason, not to think, but to accept and believe what they are told to believe, regardless of the facts or the truth.

The Prohibition Mania is a surviving example of the same sort of influence and methods used 300 years ago.

In North Carolina where we have a workable system of "legal control" the advocates of prohibition continue to try and influence a return to their negative system of no control — which is exactly what prohibition would mean.

If you are a registered voter in North Carolina ask yourself these two questions:

Is your opinion on this matter of "legal control" vs. prohibition based on the truth and the facts?

Are you willing to stand up and be counted?

Editors, Educators, Ministers and citizens throughout North Carolina are invited to write to this address for a FREE copy of the 72-page booklet, "North Carolina Tax Facts," a six-year study of state and municipal finances, plus pertinent information about the malt beverage industry.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

Kitchens and bathrooms, when they are not entirely finished in some such permanent material as tile, need redecorating more often than any other rooms in a house. Grease and smoke in a kitchen, constant moisture in a bathroom give paint and wallpaper a rough time.

Of course, you can dodge this frequent redecorating problem by using some of the wonderful finishing products now on the market. You can get vinyl and plastic wall coverings, similar or identical to those used for counter surfaces. You can use colored glass panels to cover the walls and cleanable and paintable acoustical tiles for the ceilings. But most people continue to paint and let it go at that.

There's a big difference in paint in a kitchen or bathroom and painting other rooms in a house. More preparation is called for. Different paint is advisable. A semi-gloss oil base paint or enamel is preferred in a kitchen or bathroom, while a flat finish is used in other rooms. The reason is that harder finishes wash off more easily when grease and dirt collect on kitchen walls. Also gloss finishes are more resistant to moisture produced by baths and showers.

Ceilings of both of these rooms are painted in the same finishes as the walls although color and shade may vary.

In a kitchen it is highly important to remove all grease film before repainting. Paint will not stick to a grease film. If it ever does dry, it is likely to peel off. The best cleaner for kitchen walls and ceiling is a solution of trisodium phosphate, a detergent which can be purchased under various names for a few cents in any paint or hardware store.

All woodwork in kitchen or bathroom—window and door frames and baseboards—call for semi-gloss or gloss finish. This makes it easier to wipe off finger-marks and other smudges. And you have to prepare woodwork carefully, wiping off all dirt and grease and filling all cracks, crevices and nailhead indentations with spackling compound or plastic wood.

"No enamel will make a rough surface smooth," warns a paint expert. So sand these surfaces lightly with a fine grade of abrasive paper. Then clean the sanded surface thoroughly with a cloth moistened in turpentine, mineral spirits or odorless thinner.

A single coat of enamel is usually enough when redecorating woodwork unless the color change is too great. Two-coat work calls for whatever primer is recommended by the paint manufacturer.

In using enamel, try to keep the room closed and as free from dust as possible during the drying period. This is especially important for a high finish on kitchen cabinets.

You can avoid a lot of kitchen and bathroom redecorating by the proper use of ventilating fans. A ventilating fan in a kitchen window, or above the window, may go far toward keeping grease-laden fumes from circulating into other rooms but it won't help much in keeping your kitchen walls clean. A metal hood directly over the stove, with an adequately powerful exhaust blower, is the most efficient.

Such over-stove fans feed into a concealed stove-pipe vent to the outdoors and this pipe should be tight at all joints.

In a bathroom, any exhaust fan blowing to the outside, is a big help in ridding the room of moisture and odors.

Another smart grease guard for kitchens is the use of filter covers for all frying pans. These gadgets, commonly called "filter-lys," have been developed by manufacturers of cleanable metal mesh filters and prevent grease from splattering without tightly covering a pan.

Big Cattleman Suddenly Dies

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Richard M. Kleberg Sr., cowboy and congressman, was a Texan in the grand manner, a giant in the storied tradition of the ranch country.

He died yesterday at 68 in Hot Springs, Ark., a victim of a heart attack. Kleberg was chairman of the board of the 1,250,000-acre King Ranch, an empire of cattle and horses, oil and cotton. He was a grandson of Richard King the founder.

Even casual acquaintances called him "Mr. Dick," a good name, by his easy democratic manner. A tall, dark-haired, striking man, he loved a crowd and the crowd usually came to "Mr. Dick," his friends said.

"He was an able man," said John E. Lyle today, "a good man, a gentleman. He served his country well." It was Lyle who unseated Kleberg in 1944 after the latter's 13 years in Congress.

Kleberg and his brother Robert expanded and brought to national prominence the big ranch. They developed breeds of cattle and dogs, worked with thoroughbred horse development and brought the King Ranch stables to the top of the racing world with such horses as Assault and Stymie.

Richard wrote some of the early New Deal farm legislation and sponsored it through Congress. He was a leader in cotton and cattle organizations and was a devotee of wildlife conservation.

Although he went to Congress a staunch supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal he supported Republican presidential candidates after the Supreme Court controversy and FDR's third-term bid.

SAYS STEVENSON MUST CAMPAIGN
KANSAS CITY (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler says if Adlai Stevenson wants the Presidential nomination at the 1956 Democratic convention "he is going to have to declare himself a candidate and be active in his campaign for it."

Butler, who was here to attend a birthday dinner for former President Truman last night, made his comment in an interview after being asked if he thought Stevenson would be a nominee again.

He said the 1956 convention will not draft a candidate as it drafted Stevenson in 1952.

Ford is winning friends faster than any other car!

Proof of Ford's extra worth is its sales gains ... numerically greater than any other car in '54. And this year, with Trigger-Torque power and Thunderbird styling, Ford is more than ever America's most wanted car!

You'll recognize the Thunderbird heritage in the new Ford almost everywhere you look—from its visored head lights to its stunning tail fins. And a look inside Ford's Luxury Lounge interiors reveals rich new upholstery and exciting trim schemes that are color-keyed to the new super-enamel exterior color you select.

When you take the wheel of the '55 Ford, you'll discover the thrill of Trigger-Torque power ... reflex-quick response that makes you master of any traffic situation. And Ford's new Angle-Pointed Ride brings you the "feel" of cars costing hundreds more.

Among Ford's other "exclusive" in its field also: new Speed-Trigger Fordomatic; new 10% larger brakes; Center-Fill Fueling; new 18 mm. spark plugs; full-flow oil filter. Test Drive a 1955 Ford today!

FORD the New BEST SELLER ... sells more because it's worth more!

Veterans Feted By Soviet Hosts

MOSCOW (AP)—The reunion of Russian and U. S. veterans of the 1945 Soviet-American linkup at the Elbe River got underway today with a post-midnight airport reception and a banquet of caviar, steak and vodka.

The nine American veterans of World War II arrived by plane shortly after midnight for a five-day stay as guests of the Soviet Union.

Col. Evgeny Porfiriev, chairman of the welcoming committee greeted them at the airport as "Our friends, our comrades-in-arms who fought against Fascism!"

Murray Schulman of Queens Village, N. Y., replied: "We sincerely appreciate your welcome and we, too, hope it will be a happy stay."

Movie, television and still camera recorded the arrival of the Americans. They had flown via Paris to Prague, where a twin-engine Soviet airliner picked them up. The visit is being given wide publicity in the Soviet Union.

James Leonard second secretary of the U. S. embassy, and his wife also greeted the veterans at the airport.

At the National Hotel the Americans and Russians had an early morning banquet of red and black caviar, steak, ice cream, vodka and red and white wines.

"Let's admit it, we don't eat like this at home," said Elijah R. Sams Jr. of Pinnacle, N.C.

Smoldering Fire Rode 650 Miles

DENVER (AP)—Firemen here are blaming some unknown resident of the Kansas City area for putting them to work yesterday.

The firemen, wearing special gas masks, fought through heavy smoke to extinguish a blaze among 1,400-pound rolls of roofing paper jammed into a boxcar.

Asst. Chief Art Becker said a cigarette apparently had been tossed into the car before it was sealed and sent out of Kansas City last Tuesday. The paper had smoldered the four days and 650 miles to Denver.

Suggests Topic For Barber Talk

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A union president urged barbers and hairdressers today to toss in a few plugs for "beneficial" labor laws while chatting with customers.

"The barber and beauty shops today," said Ernest Hebert of East Meadow, N. Y., "are America's miniature town halls in which public opinion can be molded to support measures beneficial to labor and the welfare of the country."

Bruce HD Club Has Open House

BRUCE—The Bruce Home Demonstration Club celebrated "National Home Demonstration Week" last Friday night with "open house" at their community building, the old Bruce School, with 65 clubwomen, and husbands and children present.

The program centered around the theme, "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World." President Mrs. Annaliza Rodgers presided. In her welcome message, she stressed the importance for "Home Demonstration Club members to serve as community leaders and encourage better family relationships."

Dr. A. A. Best discussed "Improved Health Practices," and he encouraged the clubwomen to pay more attention to health improvement and community understanding.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Pitt county home agent spoke briefly and emphasized the importance of "security in the home as a means of building tomorrow's world."

Following recitation of "The Collect" and a song, "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder," refreshments were served.

Assistant County Home Agent Miss Julia E. Evans, spoke briefly and thanked the Bruce community leaders for their cooperation.

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A policeman halted motorist Floyd Robinson yesterday on a Topeka street and asked:

"Did you lose something?" Robinson, of Eskridge, Kan., looked around. His 10-year-old daughter Shirley Ann was missing.

A patrol car picked up Shirley Ann at the service station a mile away and returned her to her father.

Eppes Students To Give Concert

G. M. Eppes High School will present its annual music concert Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The program includes solos, trios, selections by the Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club and the Mixed Chorus.

This group of singers won five No. 1 ratings at the recent District Music Festival.

A small admission fee will be charged. The public is invited.

No Monkey For Island In Zoo

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—What's a monkey island in a zoo without monkeys?

Hogle Zoological Gardens here ren, monkeys for the summer because it has no winter quarters. But this year, so many of the Rhesus monkeys from India—the kind which always have inhabited the island—are being used in the manufacture of the Salk polio vaccine that none are available for the zoo.

License Office To Close 2 Days

License examiner James A. Grady, of the state drivers' license examining office here, said today that office would be closed Tuesday and Friday of this week.

Tuesday is a holiday, Confederate Memorial Day, and on Friday there will be a highway patrol troop meeting.

Large Turn-Out For 4-H Club Program

FARMVILLE—Eight hundred 4-H Club boys and girls and parents and friends attended the sixth annual Pitt County Negro 4-H Health Coronation exercises at H. B. Sugg High School here last Wednesday night.

Miss Julia E. Evans and Talmadge T. Mitchell, assistant Negro home and farm agents, respectively, sponsored the event.

The program centered around health skits, songs, dances and the crowning of the kings and queens of health, with Miss Dorothy Brown of the Winterville Senior 4-H Club presiding. The H. B. Sugg High School Band played "The Star Spangled Banner." Robert Mosely of Farmville welcomed the guests.

Ralph Boyd of the Farmville 4-H Club outlined the projects of 4-H clubs. The Harpers 4-H Club sang "The Good Health Children." The Sallie Branch 4-H Club presented a health skit, "Voices." The Falkland 4-H Club sang "The Health Song" to emphasize the need of good health habits.

The Ayden Senior and Junior 4-H Clubs presented the play, "Murder in the Kitchen." The play emphasized the importance of proper cooking of vegetables.

The H. B. Sugg High School Band, under direction of J. L. Burge, provided the music for the occasion.

Parents are urged to arrange to let their children remain one hour at the primary building in the first grade rooms before going to the doctor. Principal Sam D. Bunday stated.

The climax to the coronation exercises was the crowning of the health kings and queens by Mrs. Hannah Brown, Pitt County health nurse. Master Rudolph Tyson was crown bearer.

The senior queen and king were Bettie Perkins of the Bethel club, and Joe Louis Evans of the Grimesland club.

The junior queen and king were Marie Barrett of the Nichols club and Elmina Carr of the Stokes club. Twenty boys and 20 girls were attendants of the royal couples. They were selected on the basis of health examinations and improvements in health during the year. All Pitt County 4-H clubs were represented by queens and kings. Members of the Stokes and Fountain clubs danced before the royal couples after the coronation.

The Farmville Senior and Junior 4-H clubs were hosts to the visitors. Ushers were: Louise Gorham, Shirley Fields, Mary Foreman and Barbara White.

Assistant Farm Agent Mitchell said, "The success of the program and the health improvements made by the boys and girls during the year was due largely to the cooperation of parents, 4-H Club teachers, leaders and 4-H Club members, and Miss Evans, assistant home agent, and I extend thanks to all who helped."

Hold Pre-School Clinic Tuesday At Farmville

FARMVILLE—Pre-school clinic will be held tomorrow at the Farmville School for all beginners in the first grade next year.

The children are to report to the primary building, where they will visit the rooms, be served refreshments, and receive physical examinations.

Parents are urged to arrange to let their children remain one hour at the primary building in the first grade rooms before going to the doctor. Principal Sam D. Bunday stated.

Local Temperatures Back In 90's Sunday

The temperature in the Greenville area was back in the 90's yesterday afternoon for the first time in over a week.

"A light sprinkle of rain, a little thunder and scattered lightning flashes reminded that there is still some water up there where the rain comes from," local U. S. Weather Station observer Mrs. Carl E. Maiden stated in her report today.

Highest temperature here yesterday was 92. Lowest last night was 55, and at 8 a. m. today it was 60.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 77. Lowest that night 44, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 60.

No Injuries In 2 Traffic Mishaps

All persons escaped injury in a pair of traffic accidents reported to police over the weekend.

Saturday night a car operated by Ervin Ray Arnold, 17, of Grimesland was reported to have struck a parked vehicle belonging to an East Carolina College student, Avis Alton Armatron, 22, of New Bern, near the intersection of E. Fifth and Pitt Streets. Damage totaled $450 to both vehicles but investigating officer Kenneth Warren made no arrests.

Meanwhile, a second accident at the intersection of Third and Reade Streets Sunday afternoon inflicted a total of $175 in property damages on cars operated by Alfred James Martin, 58, colored, of Ayden and Mrs. Virginia King Perkins, 49, of 400 Summit Street.

Investigating officers J. E. Gurganus and C. D. Doss cited Martin for failure to yield the right of way.

Claims Bombing Won't Stop War On Gambling

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Police Commissioner Russell T. Beebe says he won't let what he terms a "lay off" bombing of his car stop his drive against gambling.

No one was injured in the blast which wrecked Beebe's car and blew out three windows in his home Saturday. Beebe planned a top-level meeting with other officers today to discuss the situation.

The bombing came three days after Beebe led a raid against what the St. Louis Post-Dispatch called the headquarters of Frank (Busier) Wortman and Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, who the newspaper said "have taken control of the $500,000-a-week growing baseball betting business in the St. Louis area."

Wortman in 1933 was sentenced to 10 years for beating a prohibition agent. Dowling was sentenced to 10 years for beating a prohibition agent. Dowling was sentenced to a Missouri reformatory at the age of 17.

One Arrest, 2 Warrants Issued In Local Break-In

One person has been arrested and warrants for two others have been issued in connection with one of three break-ins reported to Greenville Police Saturday night.

Douglas Pittman, 16, Negro, of Whitakers, has been charged with breaking and entering in connection with the forcible entrance of the Swift & Co. building at 10th Street and Grand Avenue extended. Warrants in the same case are on file for Julius Cherry, 44, Negro, address unknown, and Geraldine Cherry, 16, Negro, address unknown, in the same case. The building was entered through a back door but a preliminary investigation showed nothing to be missing.

Meanwhile, officers were seeking the person or persons responsible for a similar break-in at the Cascade Laundry. Entry at the laundry also took place through a back entrance and the number of items missing had not been determined this morning.

The third break-in occurred at a store owned by Caesar Corbett, Negro, the father of a Greenville policeman. Corbett's store, located on Pitt Street, was entered through a front door but police officials were unable to say this morning just what was missing.

Orson Welles On Third Honeymoon

LONDON (AP)—Orson Welles, one-time boy wonder of the American theater, honeymooned today with his new bride. She is dark-haired Countess Di Girfalco, an Italian actress better known as Paoula Welles, 40 Friday, was wed to the 24-year-old starlet yesterday in an early morning ceremony at London's Caxton Hall Registry.

British producer Peter Brook and his wife were the witnesses. The couple kept their honeymoon destination secret.

It was Welles' third marriage and the Countess' first. The showman married Virginia Nicholson in 1934 and movie star Rita Hayworth in 1943.

GOING AHEAD
OTTAWA (AP)—Canada is going ahead with its mass inoculation of school children against polio despite the U. S. government's "strong recommendation" that the immunizations in the United States be halted temporarily.
