Foreign Ministers Of Big Four Going Home, Lay Plans

VIENNA Austria, (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers started home today to begin preparations for the meeting this summer of their government chiefs. Jittery Western Europe hoped the two major accomplishments of the ministers' weekend reunion in Vienna — agreement on the "summit" conference and signing of the Austrian independence treaty — had brought the West and the Communist world two steps closer to a lasting peace. Ranking Western officials hinted that Stockholm might be chosen as a compromise location for the meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and the British and French Premiers, July or August, appeared to be the likeliest times. Russia had proposed Vienna as the site while the West advanced Lausanne, Switzerland. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov accepted the West's invitation to Bulganin late Saturday night. In a 13-minute speech yesterday at the signing of the Austrian treaty, he indicated the Russians in the coming high-level meetings will demand as their price for German reunification the same neutrality they exacted of Austria — a pledge not to join any foreign alliances and not to allow foreign military bases. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who last week brought West Germany into the North Atlantic Alliance, has already said his government could not accept such neutrality. In his speech at Vienna's Belvedere Palace Molotov expressed "conviction that other states also will follow the pattern" of Austrian neutrality. He referred directly to Germany later, asserting, "The danger of a reborn German aggressive militarism has revived, and it is forcing the peaceful countries of Europe to take new measures toward insuring their security." He said the Soviets would continue to seek "ways for a peaceful and democratic settlement of the German question which would correspond to the legitimate efforts of the German people for re-establishing their unity without reviving their militarism." The other foreign ministers — U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, Britain's Harold Macmillan and France's Antoine Pinay — confined their much shorter speeches entirely to Austria. Dulles was the first of the four to leave Vienna, taking off by plane last night for Washington. He will report to the American people tomorrow night by television and radio. Few Allied statesmen here believed the Soviets have changed their long-term aims. They consider the agreements reached with the Soviet result from Russia's desire to seek at least a limited reconciliation in international affairs. The theory is that internal economic difficulties, especially in agriculture, are mounting, and the Soviet program of aid to Communist China also is straining the Red motherland. Observers here consider the Soviets will use Austria as the model for a neutral belt of states they hope ultimately to carve from Scandinavia's neutral Sweden, south through Germany to Yugoslavia, and then across the sprawling Moslem empire to neutral India and Indonesia. Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev are expected to press this neutrality idea on Yugoslav President Tito when they visit him in Belgrade late this month.

Federal Aid To Low Income Families Proposed Polio Vaccine Fund Talked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today proposed a 28 million dollar federal fund to help the states provide polio vaccine for children in low income families. This was one of 11 recommendations submitted by Secretary of Welfare Hobby to President Eisenhower. The White House said Eisenhower approved the report and endorsed the recommendations. The aid-to-states program would become effective after the completion of the free immunization program now being conducted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The Foundation's program applies to children in the first and second grades. The administration's proposed federal fund contemplates an immunization program for all Americans through the age of 19. The administration also proposed an additional two million dollars for extra inspectors and technicians in the Public Health Service "to insure maximum precautions in continued testing of the vaccine for safety and potency." Resisting demands in Congress for government allocation of the now scarce vaccine, Mrs. Hobby and her advisers said they are convinced "the most effective and equitable distribution of the vaccine will be accomplished through the voluntary cooperation of all concerned, within the framework of existing law." No other kind of distribution, Mrs. Hobby said, "can be mobilized quickly enough to be effective during a brief period of shortage." She stressed her view that the present voluntary system, which leaves distribution of vaccine to the states, "will get the vaccine to the children who need it most with the greatest speed, fairness and effectiveness." The nationwide vaccination program itself, temporarily halted a week ago pending new safety checks, was slowly getting back into stride with vaccine from two laboratories already freed for use. The U.S. Public Health Service yesterday approved all supplies shipped by Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis. This raised to about 1,400,000 shots the vaccine "cleared" since the safety check was started. On Friday, it approved principal shipments by Parke Davis & Co., Detroit. Secretary of Welfare Hobby presented the written report to the President. He is expected to sign it in on the discussions with Dr. Chester S. Keefer, chairman of the President's Advisory Commission on Vaccine Problems. Also attending were Surgeon General Leonard Scheele and several aides to Mrs. Hobby, among them Asst. Secretary Rowell B. Perkins, Asst. Secretary Bradshaw Mintner and Parks M. Banta, general counsel of the welfare department. A Lilly spokesman said enough vaccine for several million more shots is nearing completion, but will not be ready for shipment until about June 1 because of necessary testing. Release of that already shipped permitted at least limited resumption in 16 states: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Louisiana, Mississippi, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia. Some of the states moved to go ahead immediately but others had such limited supplies that they withheld announcement of any such plans. Scheele said the inspectors would go next, perhaps today, to the plant of Wyeth, Inc., at Philadelphia, but there was no estimate how soon a third release could be expected. The laboratories are being checked in the order in which they started producing the vaccine. Secretary of Welfare Hobby prepared, meantime, to deliver to President Eisenhower a full report on the inoculation program, with possible recommendations for federal action.

Chancellor Says Cold War Lessened By Pact Austria Hails Independence

VIENNA Austria (AP)—Austria's independence treaty shows that world peace may be achieved by negotiation, Chancellor Julius Raab said today. "Freedom for Austria was of the greatest importance and joy for Austria," he told a news conference. "But not only that. It indicated that pending world problems can be solved—or, at least, that the powers can sit at the same table. "I regard this act as a lessening of the cold war and a step toward world peace." As he spoke, the flags of the Big Four Powers whose troops had occupied his country 10 years were lowered and only Austria's red and white banner remained where five flew yesterday. Raab said the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union have made no commitment on when they will withdraw their 70,000 occupation troops. The withdrawal of the troops, including about 10,000 Americans, need not be completed until 30 days after all five governments have ratified the treaty signed yesterday. But, said Raab, the armies are beginning preparations to leave and some installations may be turned back to Austria sooner. Austrian police reported that Soviet troops already have pulled out of some villages in the Russian zone. The bells and waiters were set off yesterday when Russia's V. M. Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, French Foreign Secretary Antoine Pinay and Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl signed the thick, leather-bound treaty promising Austria as far back as 1943. A few minutes after the signing, cheers of 18,000 Austrians welled up from the streets outside Vienna's historic Belvedere Palace, where the ceremony took place. The great bell of 700-year-old St. Stephen's Cathedral pealed the joyous news. Churches throughout the Alpine country took up the call. Later thousands went to the square in front of St. Stephen's for a mass conducted by Theodor Cardinal Innitzer. Others waited in Vienna's rain-drenched Ringstrasse to the music of street-corner bands. Similar celebrations were held in Linz, Salzburg, Innsbruck and other Austrian cities and villages. Chancellor Julius Raab to the palace of 80-year-old President Theodor Koerner to relay the message. Koerner also received this message from President Eisenhower. "The American people are proud and happy at the prospect of Austria being able to play its full part in world affairs with dignity, self-respect and freedom."

Youth's Attorney To Ask Charges Dismissed Pistol Death Hearing Opens

RALEIGH (AP)—Preliminary hearing on a murder charge against Richard Kluckhohn got under way in Raleigh City Court today. The tiny courtroom had been jammed for more than an hour when the case, which grew out of the mystery shooting of a woman shopper here Friday afternoon, was called. Summoned as the first state witness was Police Sgt. O. C. Wilkerson who arrived at a parking lot downtown Raleigh shortly after the shooting. Police said he had checked out of the Sir Walter Hotel here less than 10 minutes after the shot that, felled Miss Seawell was fired. Police said the shot, fired from a German Luger, came from a hotel room overlooking a parking lot where Miss Seawell was standing. Miss Seawell, who had accompanied her sister from Sanford on a shopping trip, collapsed and died almost instantly. Young Kluckhohn, described as a brilliant student who had graduated from the University of Chicago when he was 18, was arrested about 3 1/2 hours later in Chapel Hill, 29 miles from Raleigh. Kluckhohn's attorney said the youth had no indication the woman had been hit until he was arrested. Manning added, "It was a case of an 'unloaded gun.'" Kluckhohn's father, Dr. Clyde E. Ray Maben Kluckhohn, an anthropologist, arrived here yesterday by plane from California where he has been engaged in research. Mrs. Kluckhohn, a lecturer in sociology at Harvard, came by plane from Cambridge, Mass. Young Kluckhohn's fiancée Miss Ellen Waldron, 21, a graduate student of the University of Chicago, came here Saturday to visit him. She and his parents visited him yesterday in jail.

Veterans Didn't Talk Differences

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine American veterans are back from a Moscow trip last week brought West German officials and the Soviet soldiers they met in the historic Elbe River linkup in the closing days of World War II. The nine arrived yesterday by air via Paris with the memories of a five-day stay in the Russian capital, marked by vodka-and-caviar parties, toasts to peace and sightseeing tours. Joseph Polowsky, of Chicago, leader of the group, said the Americans and the Russians avoided "controversial matters" while in Moscow. The American group did not meet "with the people themselves" and were only in touch with Soviet officials and veterans. Polowsky said. He added, however, that the reunion was a "great success" and said he hopes it will become an annual affair. Originally, Polowsky's group, calling itself the American Veterans of the Elbe Meeting, had invited Soviet veterans to come to Washington for a reunion. The Russians, however, refused to be fingerprinted by U.S. consular officials and the trip was called off. Soviet authorities then invited Polowsky's group to go to Moscow, and paid their way from Paris. Polowsky told newsmen at the airport that at a Moscow farewell dinner, Soviet Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky expressed hope for peace and said the Russians and Americans would be "good friends in the future." Members of the American group returning from Moscow are all former enlisted men, members of the companies "G" and "H," 273rd Regiment, 69th Infantry Division. The group includes Charles C. Forrester, Greer, S.C., and Elijah R. Sams Jr., Pinnacle, N.C.

Legislative Accord On Finance Bill Seen Could Adjourn Next Week

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Legislature, which begins its 20th week tonight, may reach agreement on a finance bill this week and clear the way for adjournment early next week. The Senate, which amended the House-passed finance bill Friday, has the tax measure on its calendar for second reading tonight. If the Senate approves the bill tomorrow on a third reading, the measure could go to the House then for first reading. If the House should approve the bill, that chamber could complete action on the measure Thursday. If it should fail to go along with the Senate amendments, this would result in a conference committee being appointed to work out an agreement on the deadlock. This could lengthen the session several days. Regardless of whether agreement is reached this week on a finance bill, since the adjournment isn't likely until next Wednesday, according to Rep. W. B. Rodman, House Finance chairman. Rodman said yesterday that so much work remains to be cleared away that it will be the middle of next week before the legislators can wind up the session. Senate President Luther Barnhardt of Cabarrus agreed that it would put too much of a strain on the enrolling office to try to complete the work this week. He said many bills still remain to be acted upon by the committee. The Senate amended the House finance bill by substituting a tax of 2 cents on each bottle of beer in place of a House proposal to increase by 25 per cent the privilege license fee. The beer tax would yield $1,700,000 per year, and the privilege license increase would bring in $1,450,000. The amended bill calls for tax increases totaling $9,768,000, compared with the House bill's $9,751,000. The Senate also amended the bill by knocking out: (1) a proposed 3 per cent tax on newspaper circulation, (2) an increase in taxes on the premiums of nonprofit hospital associations, and (3) a $2,000 income tax exemption to wives who are the principal breadwinners in their families. Gov. Hodges has said the state will need an estimated 9.1-10 million in new taxes to balance the 640 million budget during the next biennium.

Bonner Committee Seeks Second Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key members of the House Merchant Marine Committee today launched a drive to build a second atomic merchant ship in addition to the one already projected by President Eisenhower. Chairman Bonner (D-NC) said the ship proposed by Eisenhower to sail around the world as an exhibit of peaceful atomic energy uses would be some kind of an "international side show, carnival or Mississippi River showboat." Bonner declared the committee is more interested in an experimental ship which would help the Merchant Marine develop atomic vessels that would be economically feasible and "actually carry some freight." A bill to authorize the second ship, Bonner said, he was introducing would require a completely different type of atomic reactor from the one planned by Eisenhower. He was backed immediately by Rep. Tolleson (R-Wash) senior GOP member of the committee, and by Rep. Cederberg (R-Mich). Bonner announced his proposal after Dr. W. Kenneth Davis, director of the reactor division of the Atomic Energy Commission described prospects of developing atomic power plants for merchant ships. Davis said the power plant to be used on the ship proposed by Eisenhower would be almost the same as one already developed for use in the atomic submarine Nautilus.

Humbert Elected Officer In Ass'n

Pitt County Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert was elected vice president of the Health Officers Section at the 23rd annual meeting of the Southern Branch of the American Public Health Association in New Orleans, La. last week. Attending this meeting with Dr. Humbert was chief sanitarian for Pitt County, W. M. Fate. Dr. Humbert served as secretary of the Health Officers Section at the meeting, and presided at a panel discussion by nurses and health officers on the subject of field training. Some 800 persons from 16 Southern states, five Latin American countries, India and Iraq were present for the session. Thirty-one representatives from North Carolina were in attendance. Next meeting of the group will be held in Tulsa, Okla. in April, 1956, with North Carolina serving as host in Asheville in May, 1957.

Polio Shots Resume In Pitt This Week

With the announcement today that all previously released lots of Salk polio vaccine manufactured by Eli Lilly & Co. of Indianapolis have been pronounced safe, Pitt County health officials are going ahead with plans to give the second inoculation of the vaccine to first and second grade school children Thursday and Friday. Pitt County Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert said this morning that all the vaccine which has been administered to some 3,330 first and second graders here was manufactured by the Lilly company. He stated the Health Department has received no reports of any bad effects resulting from the first vaccinations given in the schools April 21 and 22. The Health Director reported there is now on hand about one-half the supply of vaccine needed for the second inoculations, but he said an additional supply has already been ordered and he expects to have enough for all the eligible school children to receive their second dose this week. The same clinic schedule will be followed for the second inoculations as was followed in April. Pitt County physicians will administer the vaccine, assisted by nurses and volunteer workers.

Tito Assures West That Talks With Soviet Unaffected Policies

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito has assured the West that his coming conference with top leaders of the Soviet Union does not mean Yugoslavia is "changing sides." He still intends to keep his country out of all blocs — Western, Soviet or neutral "third force," he declared. Speaking at the North Adriatic port of Pula, Tito said yesterday he wants good relations with both the West and the Soviets. He promised there will be no secret deals "behind the curtains" at his meeting in Belgrade late this month with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. "The whole West will know what we have discussed and what we have agreed upon," the President declared. "Yugoslavia is grateful to the West and particularly to the United States, which has given and is still giving aid." Tito restated his previous policy is still giving aid. "I do not intend to change sides," he said. "I do not intend to accept aid with political conditions attached. 'Aid is not a bribe,' he added. "They in the West should not think that we are changing sides," he continued. "We wish best relations with the West. We are not going to turn aside from this road, but we wish to have free hands to strengthen peace." It was Tito's first comment on the announcement, Saturday of the Russians' visit. Implying that Moscow had asked for the meeting, Tito said he told the Russians Yugoslavia wants to keep its friends and will tolerate no foreign interference in its internal affairs. He said the Kremlin had consented to this condition. The Yugoslav Communist leader told his listeners the visitors would be "new people." Not those responsible for "the tremendous pressure and insults" which his regime had suffered from the Soviets in the past. In breaking with Russia in 1948, Tito charged that the Kremlin was trying to dictate to him and that Soviet agents were meddling in Yugoslavia's internal affairs. In Italy, meanwhile, newspapers generally considered the Soviet-Yugoslav conference would wreck the Balkan alliance of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, which indirectly links Tito's country with the North Atlantic alliance. Many Western diplomats consider Russia in the conference will try to interest Tito in a policy of strict neutrality, similar to that imposed on Austria as the chief condition for Soviet agreement to sign the Austrian independence treaty.

Storekeeper Cut; Assailant Flees

A Bell Arthur storekeeper was severely cut Saturday night, allegedly by a Negro man whom he was questioning about an overdue bill. The service station-store operator, Clem Colville, was cut on the left arm and the right hip and was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he remained this morning. Colville was said to have been cut by Floyd Mercer, a farmer and laborer of the Bell Arthur community. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson quoted Colville as saying that Mercer came into the store about 8:30 Saturday night. The store operator asked him about the overdue bill and the fight ensued. Two other men, Henry Foskey and Arnie Foskey, both white, came into the store and both were also cut. Henry received a cut on the right arm while Arnie was cut on the left side. Both were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released. Mercer, who is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, has not been apprehended as yet. Around midnight Saturday sheriff's deputies were called to the home of Eddie Smith, Negro, of the Venters Crossroads section, where they found Smith with cuts on his throat and on both arms. Officers charged John Allen Smith also Negro, with assault with a deadly weapon and placed him in county jail. John Allen Smith received a slight cut on the head and hand.

Sees Support Of Army Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) says he thinks there's a good chance the Senate will support a suggestion that the Eisenhower administration's planned cutback in military manpower be delayed a year. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told a newsman yesterday he advocates such a delay "because I believe the over-all reductions are being made too rapidly." Sen. George Russell's Democratic colleague from Georgia, has said he'll support the administration plan to cut Army strength from 1,404,600 men to 1,027,000 by mid-1956. The House approved the reduction last Thursday.

Rubber Tile Offers Use In Baby's Room

Rubber tile makes an ideal flooring for the new baby's room. Resilient rubber is noise muffling as well as slip resistant. It's easy to keep dust free and even light pastel colors are entirely practical because just a once over with a damp mop easily removes soil.
Because rubber is easy to cut, you can include special decorative designs in your do-it-yourself project for the flooring or a matching table top.

May Bride-Elect Honored At Luncheon And Showers

Miss Adelaide Warren, bride-elect, was honored at a luncheon on Saturday at 1 o'clock given by Mrs. N. O. Warren and Miss Iva Shelburn at their home on Eastern Street. Miss Warren will marry Ed Mathews of Raleigh on May 22.
The home was decorated with a green and white wedding motif. A beautiful arrangement of white glads, flanked by white candles centered the mantel. Antique vases of white roses and gypsophylla were used on a chest and console table and in the dining room four white tapers in antique wine glasses encircled with baby's breath centered the bride's table. Similar smaller arrangements were used on auxiliary tables in the living room. The buffet held a large silver epergne with candles and white roses.
The color motif was also carried out in the delightful three course luncheon. Bridal place cards designated each guest's place.
Following luncheon Miss Warren was presented a green umbrella showered with miscellaneous gifts from the guests present.
The hostesses presented the honoree a corsage of white chrysanthemums and gifts of silver.

One Company Trying Silver Trade-In Plan

Women now can afford to change their minds even when it comes to the family silver.
It used to be that when one picked a silver pattern it had to last a lifetime. Now one company is trying a trade-in plan on a national scale experiment for 10 weeks. You can trade in old silverplate and sterling toward new patterns through your local jewelry, silverware and department stores.

Mothproofing And Wash In One Package

A new product that is said to mothproof and wash woolens in one operation makes it possible to wash and then store woolens with perfect safety, say manufacturers of the product. A half ounce of the liquid in two quarts of warm water is said to be sufficient to treat a sweater or several pairs of wool socks and one ounce added to a gallon of water will wash and mothproof a blanket or other item.

Mrs. Bost Reviews Book For Clio Club

On Tuesday afternoon, May 10, at 3:30 at her home in Brookgreen, Mrs. R. G. Lang was gracious hostess to the members of the Clio Book Club. Special guests included Mrs. Face Fuller, Mrs. Reid Perkins and Mrs. J. L. Winsand.
Lovely arrangements of mixed spring flowers were used throughout the home.
Mrs. Lawrence Smith presided over a short business session and at this time club members voted to give a check to the Cancer Fund.
Mrs. Lang then introduced Mrs. W. S. Bost, a club member, who very entertainingly reviewed "It Runs in the Family" by James Lee Ellenswood. Mr. Ellenswood is an author who takes himself and life, too, with a sense of humor, answers a range of questions on running a home with vivid, real problems from little things that only bother to big things that actually break the morale of the home. Humor and quality mixed with sound advice are rarely found in books of this kind.
The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jesse Moye, served a delicious salad course with iced tea. After books were exchanged, the club adjourned.

Only One Flaw In Queen's Coronation

ALBANY N. Y. (AP)—There was only one flaw in Suzanna Schuster's coronation as Albany's tulip queen. The Netherlands flags lining the New York State Capitol steps were upside down.
W. Baars, second officer of the SS Darnel, saw the tail end of Wednesday's ceremony. He wrote a good-humored letter to Mayor Erasmus Corning advising him that the "Dutch flag is not blue, white and red—but red, white and blue."

June Brides Love Organdie

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

As brides grow younger, wedding gowns grow simpler and prettier.

The stately bride who goes up the aisle in ancestral lace and antique satin is becoming a rarity, outnumbered by the bright-eyed young brides who choose as inexpensive dress cut on simple, youthful lines, for the most important occasion of their lives.

Though there are many new miracle fabrics available for today's brides, the old favorites remain in high demand—fabrics such as cobweb-sheer organdie, veil-like batiste, old-fashioned eyelet-embroidered sheer cotton—all as well-loved in grandmother's day as today.

New finishes and treatments make these traditional wedding-gown fabrics even more beautiful and durable today. The new Swiss organdies come in many versions—embroidered, embossed or plain, in snowy white or a range of delicate pastels. Eyelet-embroidered batiste also is newly popular, and even old-fashioned lawn is staging a comeback.

Many of today's bridal gowns are so designed that they may be transformed into summer dance dresses after the ceremony, by such expedients as removing a bottom tier of ruffles or train, subtracting a bolero or switching skirts or tops, the case of the increasingly popular wedding separates.

The short circular veil of nylon tulle, attached to a simple head-dress, is the choice of most brides today, rather than the long veil of priceless lace.

Since so many current brides are still under 30, youthful charm rather than ostentation has become the new fashion in wedding gowns and veils.

YOUTHFUL CHARM . . . This radiant young bride wears a romantically simple gown of white Swiss organdie, with scooped and shirred décolletage, designed by Pandora, as she tosses her bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and forget-me-nots, matching her bridal crown.

Quartet Sings For Kiwanians

At the Greenville Kiwanis Club last Friday night, the Christian Church Quartet—Ralph Sullivan, Cliff Sullivan, Tom Swain and R. S. Moye—presented a program of spirituals and popular songs.

Kiwanian Albert Bennett had charge of the program.

Ruth Taylor was accompanist.

President Charles V. Wilkerson, who presided, announced that May 27 will be the day for the official opening and operation of the Greenville Kiwanis Club's "Choo-Choo Train" at Elm Street Park.

This will be "family night" for the Kiwanians. The assembly at Elm Street Park will take the place of the regular Kiwanis meeting, Kiwanian R. E. (Dick) Rogers is chairman of the Train Committee.

Four Kiwanians had birthdays and they donated a dime for each year of their age to a club fund. They were David A. Evans, Dr. M. P. Hoot, A. C. Howard, W. O. Moore.

Iowa Girls Meet Own Problems

AP Newsfeatures

UNDERWOOD, Iowa—Adults concerned with juvenile problems might encourage the "Lucky Leven" treatment in their own communities.

The Lucky Leven is a group of Underwood girls ranging in age from 12 to 16, who decided about a year ago to form a club because "There isn't much for teen-age girls to do here."

The club was formed with 11 members, no constitution, by-laws, rules or regulation, except that membership be limited to 11, and the goal be community service plus companionship and fun.

They meet each Monday night, unless a school or church activity interferes. At three meetings a month the girls work on individual needlework projects—and gab. Meetings rotate among the various homes in alphabetical order. On the fourth Monday they have fun, and concentrate on sociability.

Their community service projects are planned well in advance. Last Fourth of July they operated a concession stand and made more than $60, which was donated to a community building fund. Last Halloween they sponsored a party for the young people in town, and kept 60 boys and girls off the street and out of trouble.

Recently the girls sponsored a bake sale, turning the $100 proceeds over to the band uniform fund at Underwood School.

They have made basaar items for the Red Cross and plan a sale of the needlework they have made.

Their current goal is to be guests on a TV show where they can win a cash prize to swell their community service funds.

Progress Committee Appointed By Stokes HD Club At Meeting

STOKES—Committee chairman for the Pitt County Progress program were appointed when the Stokes Home Demonstration Club met last week at the home of Mrs. J. A. Tyson.

Mrs. H. C. Cole, Mrs. J. I. Gray and Mrs. Tyree Stokes, club president, will serve on the Central Committee, in charge of correlating all materials and records.

Other committee chairmen include Mrs. Lydia Barnhill, survey of accidents, and rat campaign; Mrs. Gray, clean-up campaign; Mrs. Cole, roadside development; and Mrs. Stokes, beautification of homestead.

Demonstration for the afternoon was presented by Home agent Mrs. Lillie Little on "Using Dried Milk in Main Dishes."

Mrs. Barnhill gave a poultry report, and Mrs. Stokes gave a garden report.

There were surprised cries of "There's M a m i e" when she shopped at a grocery store and 8 and 10.

The President has begun playing golf at the Gettysburgh Country Club, close by his farm. The members try to make him feel at home by keeping the routine as close to normal as possible when he is there.

He and Mrs. Eisenhower returned to the White House last evening.

Yesterday the Eisenhowers, regular churchgoers in Washington, attended services for the first time in Gettysburgh.

They worshipped at a vine-covered Presbyterian church where Abraham Lincoln attended a patriotic service a few hours after delivering his Gettysburgh Address Nov. 19 1863.

It was Mrs. Eisenhower's second appearance in downtown Gettysburgh in four days, last Thursday.

There was nothing good about the "good old days" when it came to fighting infectious diseases. Today, modern antibiotics frequently enable physicians to bring down dangerously high temperatures in a matter of hours—and to get patients back on their feet in days instead of weeks.

When your physician prescribes an antibiotic, it is usually important to start treatment as soon as possible—which is why our prescription department carries a complete stock of all leading antibiotics on hand. For service without delay, form the habit of bringing your prescriptions to us.

It will do North Carolina no harm to have a law providing harsh punishment for individuals convicted of black market operations in connection with the Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Already there have been reports from the western part of the state that the new vaccine is being offered on the black market. Certainly the state should have a law

They Were Eager For Pitt's Prison Story

A community can rock along for years without anyone much outside a radius of a hundred miles or so showing much interest in what is happening in the community.

Then something happens in the community which catches the eye of newsmen far and wide. It seems suddenly everyone wants to know about the incident. Such was the case with the trouble at the Pitt County prison farm last week.

When The Reflector informed the Associated Press of the story—as this newspaper does when local happenings have more than local interest—suddenly many people from far places became interested. Associated Press teletype wires in North Carolina yesterday devoted as much space to the local prison riot as they did to major national and international stories. National trunk wires of the news services picked up the story for transmission to newspapers, radio and television stations throughout the country.

The AP dispatched a photographer from Raleigh to Greenville to pick up Reflector pictures of the prison trouble for transmission on AP wire photo circuits. Before noon The Reflector had received a call from International News Photos in Washington, D. C., wanting pictures air expressed to the nation's capital for dissemination to clients of that photo service.

It has been a long time since an incident in Pitt County attracted as much interest from the news services as did the local prison trouble. Pitt County may go years before another local story makes headlines around the country. On the other hand a similar incident might occur at any moment. Who can tell?

Strength for the Day

House moving is quite an undertaking. There are firms which do nothing else. They move even huge buildings. Within the building being moved are all sorts of instruments which record every second whether or not the building is getting off level. The building must be kept absolutely level during the whole time of its being moved.

As the instruments inside a house being moved inform the contractor as to whether his project is on the safe side or the dangerous, so there are physical, emotional and mental devices in the lives of every one of us which perform a like service. Of course there is a complicated mechanism which enables us to stand upright and balance ourselves as we walk. More significant, however, are the inner factors which keep our minds poised and our characters dead on the level.

Experience and self-restraint teach us to bridle our tempers and not to go to extremes in anything. The conscience keeps ringing a little bell every time we turn off the highway of rectitude. Family life, fidelity, background, eagerness to be well thought of—all these influences like delicate instruments go clicking along as a great rate as we move along the highway of life.

The great implication is—always stay on the level.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Carmine G. De Sapio, ambitious Tammany Hall boss, is the man who is spurring Averell Harriman's political desire to the point where the Governor of New York is openly challenging his old friend, Adlai E. Stevenson, for the 1956 Presidential nomination. Having wrested New York City Hall and Albany from the GOP, De Sapio yearns to become a maker of Presidents.

The build-up for Harriman has assumed unexpected proportions within the last month. He was given a tryout before a distinguished audience when he was invited to speak for the Democratic opposition before the recent Gridiron dinner, with Governor Goodwin J. Knight of California as his opponent. The New York man never misses a chance to air his views, and always discusses national rather than state issues.

Whereas he was known at Washington as a modest, unassuming and taciturn individual, he has become a political extrovert. He has followed F.D.R.'s policy of surrounding himself with able advisers and publicists, including men who once wrote the late President's flowery and fiery speeches. Their labor in his political vineyard is beginning to bear fruit at Washington and elsewhere.

HARRIMAN'S LIBERAL LINE—The publicity before for the Harriman promotion is that he is a "dedicated man." In order to offset any prejudice against his multimillionaire status, it is pointed out that he deserted the Party of wealth and conservatism to support the late Alfred E. Smith. It is also noted that his acceptance of low-paid Federal posts under Roosevelt and Truman actually cost him money.

Since many of his official and unofficial household at Albany were Roosevelt New Dealers or Truman Fair Dealers, Harriman has adopted an extremely liberal line. He has chided Capitol Hill Democrats, albeit mildly, for not pressing a more beligerent attack on the White House. He thinks that Administration blunders should be laid directly at Ike's door.

Men's Wear Drive

By ELMER ROESSNER
The men's apparel industry is out for a larger share of the consumer dollar. It is working on short-term, medium-term, and long-term plans.

In the next 18 months, the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishiers is planning to spend $5,000,000 in a campaign to "trade up" in their garments. The promotion will stress the importance of wearing quality clothes. Men will be urged to dress for success with the slogan, "Your clothes never stop talking about you."

The first step in this campaign will be the formation of the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, which will enlist the support of all elements of the industry, including yarn producers, mills, manufacturers and retailers. Meanwhile, the association is working on the television industry, pointing out to networks that too many announcers and performers wear something less than up-to-date clothes.

For the medium term the association plans a five-year campaign, trying to inculcate the idea of better dressing more deeply into the American consciousness. Incidentally, it is probable that a lot of the promotion will be directed to women. A recent survey by Daroff & Sons, a major clothing manufacturer, showed that only 1 per cent of 2,170 retailers do not believe women of importance in the sale of men's wear. Of the total, 99 per cent use window displays to attract women, 90 per cent said they would use advertising written by women, and 91 per cent said they would welcome aid in teaching their salesmen to deal with women customers.

For the long term, the association is co-operating with New York University in establishing a regular seminar at the university to discuss the men's apparel field at the university level. Men from all parts of the country will be invited and it is hoped that the seminars will induce some of the best young talent to enter the field. In addition, courses now offered at the university will be coordinated into a continuing night-school training program for men already working in the men's wear field.

By infusing fresh blood and fresh ideas into the industry, the association hopes to bring about better styling, better production and better merchandising.

SALES SOAR IN MIAMI, WICHITA AND OKLAHOMA CITY
Judging by Federal Reserve reports, Miami, Wichita and Oklahoma City are the "boomiest" spots in the country. In the first quarter department store sales were up 26 per cent over last year in Miami, 23 per cent in Wichita and 20 per cent in Oklahoma City. Even greater rises since then are reported from Wichita, and almost as good marks in Miami and Oklahoma City.

SEEKS TO FINANCE LAND SUBSIDIZERS

CIVIL SERVICE WORKERS NOT HANDSOME CUSTOMERS
For more than a year, merchants have cultivated the patronage of civil service employees because of the regularity of their income and because they faced discipline if they did not pay their bills. Special promotions, easy terms and special discounts have been used to attract these buyers.

Many People Overextending Credit In Prosperity Era

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — If you should lose your job tomorrow how much of a financial hardship would you and your family suffer? Are you up to your neck in installment payments? Have you borrowed too heavily on your insurance? What if serious illness should strike your family?

MANY ARE GETTING OVEREXTENDED
A thirty-year-old worker of a small New England machine-tool producer was laid off the other day. He had been making $96.00 a week. That is $416 a month before taxes. He has fixed monthly installment commitments: $68.00 (interest and mortgage) on his new house; $31.25 on a 1953 automobile; $18.75 on a TV; $22.00 on a trip to Bermuda for his wife; $19.90 on a food-freezer, that I know about. In addition, he has several hundred dollars outstanding with department stores. He owes a winter fuel bill of $135.00. He is behind in his telephone and light payments. The local grocer, dry cleaner, milkman, and other merchants who he owes have put him on a cash basis. He cannot pay $250.00 on an insurance policy, and now finds he cannot pay the quarterly premium due.

Perhaps this young man is an exception and not typical of most young workers. But I believe he is more typical than many of us want to believe. He comes along, and might even work himself out of his financial difficulties, if he could keep fully employed and not get involved in strikes. But he has seriously overextended himself. What if he cannot not quickly get back to work?

WAGEWORKERS' DEBTS MAY PREVENT STRIKES
This man is a product of our postwar wave of prosperity. In a way I cannot blame him. He has been encouraged—yes, even bullied—by radio, magazine, and TV salesmen to overload. This young man had more money to spend than ever before. What has happened to him might happen to you. Here is why.

Right after the war, in 1946, people were spending only about 45 per cent of their incomes for life's necessities, leaving about 55 per cent for whatever took their fancy. Since 1946, fixed charges such as rent, food, and installment commitments have been taking a larger share of the income. Last year, 53 per cent of the average consumer's income was spent for fixed charges, leaving 47 per cent for discretionary buying—8 per cent less than in 1946. As long as business booms, there is little need to worry. But should strikes this summer, or overproduction or layoffs, catch up with us, the heavy load of fixed charges which many consumers are carrying could be serious. When labor leaders realize this situation, they may not call strikes this summer.

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS GOOD INSURANCE

I am concerned about this because I know that major cycles of prosperity and depression will always be with us as a result of the unforeseeable and inevitable vagaries of human judgment. I am concerned about the present degree of installment buying. For example, on February 28 total consumer credit outstanding was $29.5 billion—the highest February on record, and almost $15 billion higher than in February 1954. Most people are unable to spend their money wisely; many undervalue it and spend it carelessly. In times of prosperity, just as a matter of good financial common sense one ought to take advantage of the times and increase financial reserves. Savings accounts should be built up, careful investments made.

This period of prosperity is by all means the time to build protection for future unemployment. Certainly in a period of great prosperity one ought to go into needless debt. It will be the first to admit that money in the bank is not doing much good, except as insurance; but this kind of insurance is as important as any other. Pride of ownership in a house, the satisfaction of a new car, the comfort of air conditioning, the joy of TV—all of these things bring satisfaction and contentment. But what will happen to that contentment if tomorrow the pawnbroker moves in? It takes intelligence, courage, and will power to plan for tomorrow as well as to spend for today; but every reader—whether landlord, employer, or wage-worker should now plan for tomorrow.

CD Role Of Small Cities Shown In Arkansas Test

Civil Defense leaders throughout Eastern North Carolina should give careful attention to information which will be available from the recent unique large scale air raid drill at Forrest City, Ark.

The role played by the Arkansas town of 7,500 people is similar to the role most cities and towns in this section of North Carolina will be called on to play in case of an atomic attack on some near-by military base or metropolitan area.

At Forrest City the drill sent scores of bus loads of children into the town. The people of Forrest City bore the responsibility of providing facilities to take care of this tremendous sudden influx of population which represented people fleeing from a nearby large city under mock atomic attack.

New Weapon Against Housefly

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone knows American people are getting healthier. But did you know American houseflies are getting tougher and more durable, too?

They are so rugged now that Herbert F. Tomasek of Pittsburgh is employing a variant of a German wartime nerve gas as the killing agent in a new fly trap he developed. Tomasek, who spent a year perfecting his "fly-charmer," learned a great deal about houseflies during experiments in which he reared, then trapped and killed more than 150,000 insects at the rate of 5,000 a week.

"We found, for example," he remarked, "that it is easier to trap male flies than female flies, and that flies are somewhat color conscious. They are attracted to a black landing surface but repelled by a yellow colored one."

Over the years inventors have probably tried as many different kinds of fly traps as they have can openers. Tomasek, general manager of the Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical Co., agricultural chemical division, set out in September, 1944, to see the world's first fly trap using as the lethal ingredient a new insecticide called L13-59 or Dipeptex. It is an organic phosphonate developed by Dr. Gerhard Schrader, a German scientist. Operating on the same principle as nerve gas, it destroys the fly by attacking its central nervous system.

"But it is only mildly toxic to human beings," Tomasek said. "A 200-pound man would have to drink 60 bottles of the insecticide to see a fatal dose."

Early in the 20th century glass fly traps baited with beer and sugar were common. Tomasek experimented with the same principle, but sought to employ psychology to create a trap that would be even mentally attractive to flies.

House Revenue Bill Generally Displeasing To Readers

He feels his fly trap is the first that has landing fields especially geared to the fly's own preferences. In essence it is a bottle with a pylon in the center around which are four flat black landing surfaces in tiers. The tiers are baited with insecticide mixed with a perfumed sugar base to attract the insects.

"We discovered the flies preferred horizontal landing surfaces rather than vertical or sloping surfaces," he said. "Flies land ingest the bait and die within 40 seconds. Flies ordinarily live about 20 days. We found it harder to kill a 4-day-old fly than an 8-day-old one. But oddly, a 15-day-old fly was harder to trap than either."

His explanation for this anomaly is that the older flies aren't necessarily either wiser or senile. They simply are probably less adventurous or are less moved by hunger. The older fly seeks a new meal about every three hours.

Why is it easier to trap male than female flies? "The male flies roam more," said Tomasek. "They are looking for girl friends as well as food. The female flies seem to move about only when in search of food. They don't search for boy friends. They let the gentlemen of the species do the courting."

Tomasek doesn't expect his "fly-charmer" or any other man-made flytrap will rid the earth of mu. ca domestica, the common housefly.

"All you can do is keep them in a given area," he said. "It is unlikely that man will ever find a way to get rid of all insect pests. This is as much the age of insects, historically speaking, as it is the age of man."

"Science has figured that if all the insects in the world were put on one end of a giant teeter-totter, and all other forms of animal life, including man, were put on the other end, the insects would outweigh them."

"No, we'll hardly wipe out the housefly in our lifetime. For several years the number of flies has been actually increasing."

House Revenue Bill Generally Displeasing To Readers

manufacturing machinery. The net estimated gain in sales tax revenue by these adjustments approximates a million dollars a year.

MISCELLANEOUS—Other provisions of the bill, mostly increasing rates on existing levies but including some entirely "new" tax sources, are expected to bring the total yield of general fund revenue to $10 million above present level. The biggest single item is extension of the sales tax to building materials for $3 million. For the first time in history the State of North Carolina will levy a sales tax on newspaper subscriptions.

Principal differences in the House version and that approved by the Senate committee is the Senators would leave off the building material and newspaper taxes and substitute two cents a bottle on beer. It appears very unlikely that any serious attempt will be made to re-instate the tobacco or soft drink taxes.

PROSPECTS — Several times during the session the money-raising groups have appeared to be close to solution of their problems at week end recess time. A visit with the homefolks has usually convinced them the proposed taxes just wouldn't do, and early the following week the whole plan has been reworked.

Opponents of the building material tax are hoping similar re-suits will come from the current weekend at home, and that senators will return Monday to vote it out of the bill. Majority opinion among the recognized leadership of both branches is that the Senate will accept the House bill and pass it on final reading not later than Wednesday.

Additional pressure is expected from local government officials on the Schedule B levies. For many years county commissioners and municipal officers have urged the State to withdraw from the privilege license tax field and leave that to the local units. The "temporary" further invasion of that area by the State is coupled with provision that local units may not increase their levies.

FAST WORK — The full House membership made up by fast work the time lost by vacations in the finance committees. During the sessions of the early thirties the revenue bill came out of committee some two months earlier than the 1955 model, but required another two months for enactment. A total of less than two hours was required to put the present bill through its second and third readings in the House, and chances are not much more will be required in the Senate.

Tempers flared several times in the committees, but by the time the bill got to the floor members were too tired to fight

Telephone Negotiations Go On During Weekend

ATLANTA (AP)—Hopeful negotiators planned to resume talks with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service today in a renewed effort to settle the 63-day-old Southern Bell Telephone Co. strike.

Negotiating teams spent the weekend studying proposals and counterproposals in an atmosphere described as the most optimistic since the nine-state walkout began March 14.

As far as damage went, the weekend was one of the quietest on record. Only sporadic cable cuttings were reported in Georgia, Louisiana and Kentucky.

The first real break in the stricken strike came Saturday night when Joseph A. Beirne, president of the CIO Communications Workers of America, reported the two sides were "drawing nearer together."

"While there is no basis for assuming that settlement will come immediately," Beirne said in the statement, "I do see hopeful signs that the company is becoming desirous of reaching agreement. Some progress has been made. We are drawing nearer together."

Youth Charged In Father's Death

MEXIA, Tex. (AP)—Joe David Pounds, 18, was charged with murder after his father I. B. Pounds, about 60, was shot to death on his front porch last night.

Pounds was shot in the chest with a .22 rifle. The son, a high school senior, put his father in a car and took him to a hospital, but Pounds was dead on arrival.

The youth waived examining trial and was released on $1,500 bond. Officers were not able to determine the cause of the shooting.

Milford Voters Choose Pro-Segregation Board

MILFORD, Del. (AP)—Voters of the Milford school district, turning out in more than three times their usual numbers, have named a new four-man school board which has promised continued racial segregation.

A total of 3,260 votes were cast in the election Saturday, which had reflected undercurrents of the integration squabble here last fall.

The School Board election usually draws only about 1,000 votes.

The vote counting was completed early yesterday.

Bryant Bowles, president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People supported the winning ticket. He said his support wasn't solicited and the pro-segregation slate said it wasn't connected with the NAAWP.

The winners who promised to use "every legal avenue available to protect the rights of residents of the Milford district in the matter of segregation," included:

George A. Robbins, 1,933 votes; Crerar Bennett, 1,924; Max R. Corder, 1,912; and Ernest C. Macklin, 1,876. Robbins is a member of the present board, which has been serving temporarily since last fall's flareup.

Three members of the present board were defeated. George F. Adams collected 1,279 votes; Edmond F. Steiner, 1,251; and David B. Greene, 1,241. Another member of the slate Ray C. Scarborough, also got 1,241 votes.

Three of the four losers had said they were for segregation, but added that they would follow any subsequent directive handed down by the Supreme Court.

Trouble began here last September, soon after the School Board admitted 11 Negro students to the Lake wood Avenue High School.

Bowles set up a branch of his organization and urged parents to keep their children out of school until the Negroes were ousted.

When the State Board of Education refused to back the local board's action in admitting the Negroes, the four members quit.

The interim board ordered the Negroes out of the school, and the Delaware Supreme Court upheld the ousting, ruling the local board had failed to comply with a requirement of the state board to submit a plan of integration before admitting the Negroes.

Finding Of Body Opens New Hunt

JAY, Okla. (AP)—Discovery of the decomposed body of a 310-pound chief touched off an extensive search today for his Auburn-haired wife, a onetime beauty contest winner.

Delaware County Atty. Don Hampton said the body was that of 41-year-old Joseph Werner, a former employe of the Triple X Restaurant in Fort Worth. He had been missing almost a month.

State Crime Bureau agents have radioed a pickup order for his wife, Leota, 44. She sold the family home for $4,500 three days after her husband failed to show up for work. She stated the two had been divorced and she had been given the house.

Fort Worth Detective A. C. Howerton, who inspected the residence, said he found two .22-caliber bullet holes in a back bedroom.

Werner's body was found on a vacant farm near here owned by Ralph DeGarmo, Oklahoma City, brother of Mrs. Werner. Unslaked lime was used to speed decay of the body.

DeGarmo said he had received a letter from his sister, written from St. Louis, in which she indicated she intended to destroy herself and ended with the statement, "If I am found it will make sensational news."

Long Fight Ends As Killer Caught

GROESBECK, Tex. (AP)—A sharp-shooting former mental patient killed the Limestone County sheriff with one shot through the head at 40 yards yesterday. Then, with a rifle, he held off an army of 100 officers and an armored half-track several hours before being flushed by a mass charge of lawmen.

The sheriff, J. Harry Dunlap, 47, had gone to question N. J. Tynes, 44, who was due to be recommitted to a mental hospital.

After he was shot, Dunlap lay in the crossfire two hours until officers created a disturbance at the front of the story-and-a-half farm home to draw Tynes' attention. Other officers then pulled back the sheriff but found he apparently had died instantly.

The half-track obtained from the National Guard lobbed 10 to 15 rounds of tear gas into the house. When this failed to flush Tynes, officers charged the rear of the residence.

Tynes rushed out of the house to meet them, screaming and firing wildly. Officers had to use force to subdue him.

His condition was considered critical but improved today.

He was shot in the right shoulder, left leg, left hip and left forearm, and was also burned and cut.

Dr. Stanley Cox said he signed documents Saturday to return Tynes to the Terrell State Mental hospital and was waiting for the signature of another doctor before having officers commit him.

A neighbor of Tynes, Johnny Ray Bentley, 17, was shot and seriously wounded Saturday night while plowing. Sheriff Dunlap went to Tynes' to investigate but was driven off by three shots.

He returned yesterday morning with a dozen officers. The numbers mounted as the siege began. After an hour the sheriff stepped from cover into the back yard to talk to Tynes. A shot felled him immediately.

Ayden Grads To Hear McMillan

AYDEN — Graduation exercises will be held in the high school auditorium here, May 23 with R. L. McMillan as commencement speaker.

McMillan was voted the most outstanding speaker in Law School at Columbia University, and he made the principal address for the opening of the Medical School of the University of North Carolina. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College and Columbia University Law School, and has taught law at Wake Forest. He is also a past vice commander of the American Legion of the United States and past commander of the American Legion of North Carolina.

The commencement exercises will begin May 20 when the annual Class Night play is presented by the seniors. This play is "A Feather of Gold," by Mary S. Kelley and pictures the class at their last senior party, recalling to them all the nuggets of the Golden Age of their four years in high school. The program begins at 8 p.m.

On Sunday night, May 22, the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by the Rev. C.M. Fogleman, pastor of the Ayden Methodist Church. Another feature of the evening will be the singing of "The Lord's Prayer," "Hallelujah Chorus," and "Thanks Be to God" by the high school chorus.

On Monday night the graduates will receive their diplomas from Ayden High School principal E.F. Johnson. In addition to McMillan's speech, other addresses will be made by Barbara Neil Hart, valedictorian; and Carolyn Corbett, salutatorian.

After the graduation, he said, the rows will be treated with Solution 60, a liquid form of ammonia nitrate as a side dressing and post emergence treatment at the rate of 40 pounds to the acre. The test will be made on the first cultivation. Later a comparison will be made with the regular cultivated row of corn.

planted two-tenths of an acre to Dixie Bright 101, Coker 139, Coker 140, Com. 711, Virginia Gold and Oxford 1-181. Smith will record results on first plantings and of weights and grades.

Negro County Farm Agent Goode said these experiments are being made to more intimately acquaint farmers with agricultural research. He said one day will be set aside during the summer for a "countywide Negro farmers and homemakers day."

Eleven Farmers Start On Test Demonstrators

By CHESTER WALSH

Pitt county Negro farm agent James M. Goode reported today that 11 farmers have started test demonstrations for the purpose of increasing yields and reducing labor requirements for field and horticulture crops and livestock.

Nelson Hopkins of the Greenville community and Boston Tetterton of Clark's Neck are experimenting with 21 varieties of hybrid corn. Each hybrid was planted on similar soil, same row spacing and width, and same fertilizer practices are being used. Each hybrid will be checked several times during the growing season for quality, weevil resistance, grain rot, stalk strength and ear height.

Redmond Payton and Ulysses Payton of the Grimesland community started a pre-plant anhydrous ammonia corn demonstration. Comparisons will be made on similar acres side-dressed with anhydrous ammonia when the corn is knee high, and against other solid forms of nitrogen such as nitrate of soda and ammonia nitrate.

The Negro farm agent explained that anhydrous ammonia is a liquid type of nitrogen and it is 82 percent pure. He also said that pound for pound it is cheaper to get a custom operator to side dress an acre of corn than it is to get the solid forms to a storage place.

This, Goode stated, means that the liquid is easier to handle, cheaper and more available to the plant because it is readily soluble.

Lyman Hardy of the Grimesland section has started a two-acre watermelon demonstration. Comparisons and records of production will be made on one acre of Congo variety and one acre of the Charleston Gray variety.

Goode, who encourages the use of chemicals for weed control in the fields, announced that tests are being made by Norman Hawkins of Grimesland and B.W. Chance of Bethel and Nelson Hopkins of near Greenville. In these experiments several rows of cotton were treated with Karnex D. L., as a pre-emergence spray at the rate of three-quarters of a pound per acre. The rows will be checked later. If the remedy works, Goode stated, it will mean that farmers can control grassy weeds and broadleaf weeds for four to seven weeks without cultivation and at the nominal cost of $5 an acre.

Norman Hawkins of the Grimesland section, started a pre-emergence corn weed control on his farm. He is using a 24-D Amine solution on 12 rows of corn. He said the treated rows will be cultivated when corn is about 12 inches tall. After the first cultivation, he said, the rows will be treated with Solution 60, a liquid form of ammonia nitrate as a side dressing and post emergence treatment at the rate of 40 pounds to the acre. The test will be made on the first cultivation. Later a comparison will be made with the regular cultivated row of corn.

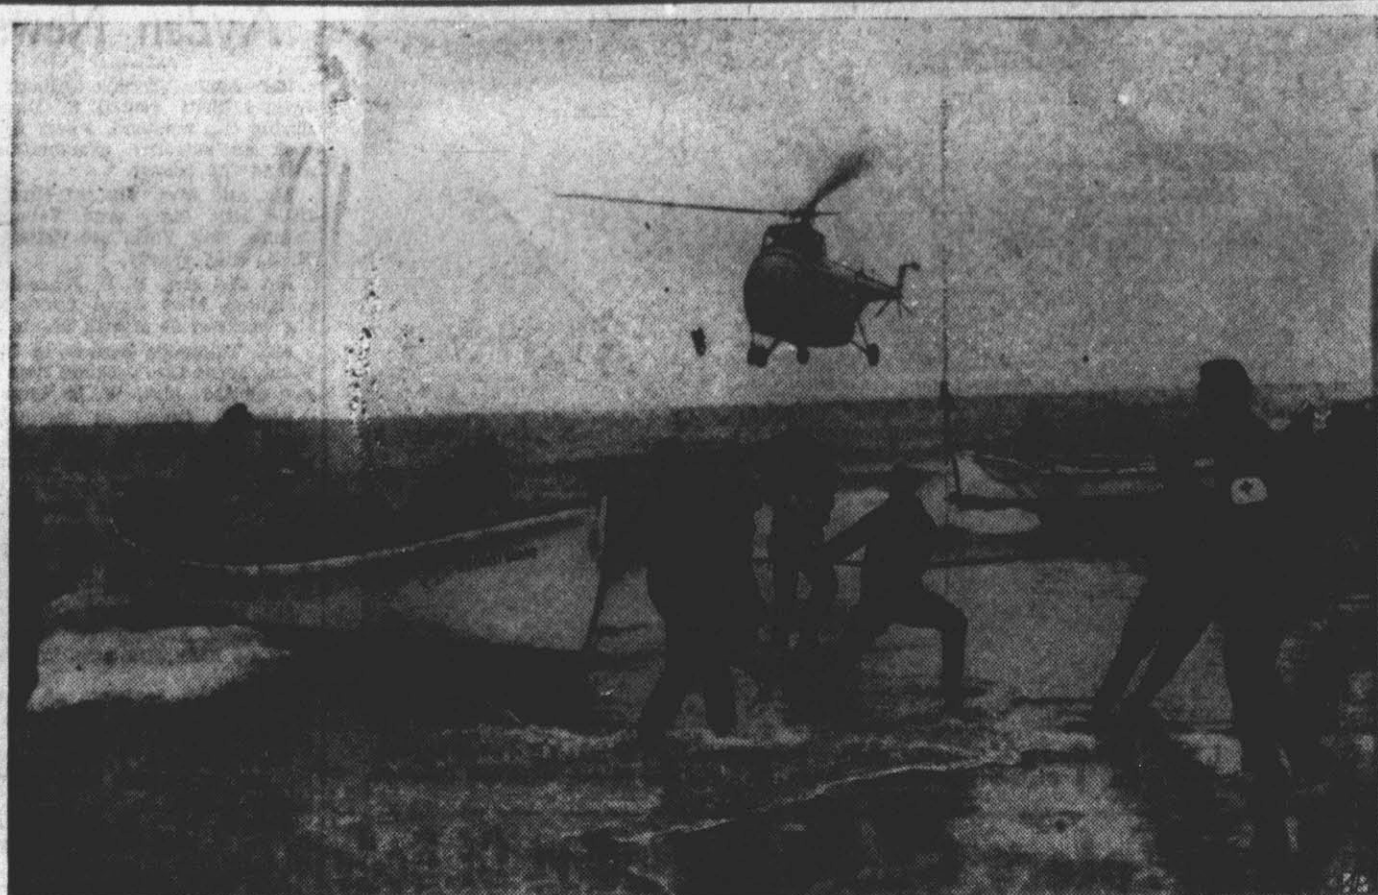

Boston Tetterton, has started a sweet corn demonstration. He is using Iochief, Huron, Iowona and Aristogold. He planted two five-foot rows. Field and quality for home consumption on each variety will be checked.

Richard Leary, Calico farmer, is testing a soybean variety known as the "Lee," and he is comparing it with the Ogden, Roanoke and Jackson varieties.

Stokes community farmer H.C. Clemons and Clark's Neck farmer Boston Tetterton are experimenting with peanuts. The experiments are planted in one-acre plots of 24 inches and one acre to 36-inch rows. Stake rows will be made at harvest time to determine yields.

Richard Leary of Calico has started a two-acre alfalfa experiment. His object is to establish the quality of the land for satisfactory production of alfalfa and as a substitute for Ladino clover. Alfalfa may be used as a day or grazing crop, Goode stated.

William Smith, farmer of the Greenville section, is working on a tobacco variety experiment. He

Virginia Vet Is 109 Years Old

FT. BLACKMORE, Va. (AP) — Virginia's only living Confederate veteran has passed another milestone, complete with a three-tier birthday cake, a new hat and greetings from the President of the United States and the governor of Virginia.

"Gen." John B. Salling was 109 yesterday. He sat on the porch of the home he shares with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hughie McKaney, and passed the time of day with the friends, visitors and well-wishers who were coming and going most of the day.

The peppery old gentleman, one of four survivors of the Civil War — three are Confederates — was decked out in a Confederate uniform given him several years ago. He wore plenty of medals, most of them souvenirs of reunions of Confederate veterans he has attended.

His cake was a surprise, the gift of a Bristol bakery. It contained 100 candles. The hat, with a wide brim like he wanted, was the gift of a Bristol department store.

He rarely is seen without a hat. He says this plus the fact he "never washed it" has kept his hair black.

Sale Of Savings Bond Still Grows

The sales report for April, released today by J.H. Waldrop of Greenville chairman of the U.S. Savings Bond program for Pitt county, shows that "Savings Bond sales are continuing to grow in popularity."

For the sixth consecutive month, sales in North Carolina have ranged from 17 to 21 per cent greater than in the corresponding months of the previous year. During April, the combined sales of E & H Bonds were 18 per cent greater than in April 1954. For the four months period of January-April, state sales were 19 per cent higher than for the same four months last year. In dollar volume, the increase this year over last year amounts to $2-

959,990. January-April sales amounted to 34 per cent of the 1955 sales quota for North Carolina.

Nation-wide sales in April were up 15 per cent with the cumulative sales for the first four months being 13 percent over last year. Gross sales for 1955 have now passed the two billion dollar mark.

Total liquid savings held by the individuals in America now amount to 225 billion dollars, cash value, including 50 billion dollars in U.S. Savings Bonds owned by some 45 million persons. This huge back log in liquid reserve today is about 5 1/2 times what it was in 1941, Waldrops report states.

Long Series Of Atomic Tests Over, But Specialists Plan Undersea Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—The longest, most diversified atomic test series yet held—14 blasts in three months—is over, but U. S. nuclear weaponeers today looked forward to an imminent underwater detonation off the coast of California.

The Pacific test will be held several hundred miles out in the ocean with the Navy in charge and, for the first time, apparently no top Atomic Energy Commission scientist on hand.

Surprisingly, Dr. Alvin C. Graves, the AEC's test chief, left for his home at Los Alamos, N.M., and not the Pacific—after yesterday's closing blast at Yucca Flat.

Both Dr. Graves and Test Manager James Reeves hailed the 1955 Nevada series as "entirely successful" and "a major contribution" to the U.S. arms program.

From an AEC spokesman came an indication that the same winds which delayed the final test, here probably had foiled the Navy's attempt to set off the underwater shot earlier. Many of the units of Joint Task Force 7, commanded by submarine warfare expert Rear Adm. C. M. Momsen, are believed to be in position at sea for the test.

The Defense Department, announcing the test May 9, said it would take place "within a few days." The test area was described as several hundred miles from the closest land and completely clear of fishing grounds and shipping lanes.

The test is to obtain information vital to defense against submarine attack. Yesterday's Nevada blast—perhaps the last here for two years—was one of the largest in the series. The force was estimated at 35 kilotons, or 35,000 tons of TNT, more than 1 1/2 times the nominal A-bomb's strength.

It gave Indian Springs, 35 miles away, a substantial shake, rattle and roll. The control point, 14 miles back of the 500-foot blast tower, received a very sharp crack. Pioche, Nev., 100 miles northeast, got a good roll, but the blast was barely heard in Las Vegas, 75 miles southeast.

Two supersonic F100 Super Sabre jets simulated bomb runs just before the big blast. Ninety aircraft took part, bringing to 2,600 the number of sorties flown during the series by Air Force, Navy and Marine planes.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The underwater atomic explosion off the West Coast to evolve antisubmarine tactics may produce little or no atomic cloud and air contamination.

This will be partly the result of the extreme caution the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department are using to avoid complaints about drifting radioactivity like those which followed the 1954 hydrogen test in the Marshall Islands.

It also may result from the conditions under which the test presumably may be conducted, an explosion of a small nuclear gadget in relatively deep water.

Protests against the forthcoming test have been lodged by commercial fishermen in California, who are concerned about destruction or contamination of fish. An AEC—Defense Department announcement of the project a week ago emphasized that "no hazard is involved to mainland or island inhabitants, or to the fishing industry or consumers of fish."

A test of an atomic depth charge for combatting enemy submarines undoubtedly will be conducted at depths at which submarines operate when in escape and evasion tactics. This ranges from 200 to 500 or more feet.

A "small yield" nuclear device, such as the announcement mentioned, could be as little as one kiloton or slightly larger. A kiloton is the energy released by 1,000 tons of standard TNT.

Such an explosion, at a depth of several hundred feet—and in water a mile or more deep, producing little or no "reflection" of the blast from the ocean floor—could produce only a small burst into the air.

Austrians To Try Swiss Neutrality

By LYNN HEINZERLING

VIENNA (AP)—The Swiss believe neutrality is the best policy. Today Austrians are looking to their Swiss neighbors for some lessons.

With its newly signed treaty of independence, Austria will proclaim its intention to take no sides in the cold war.

But neutrality comes hard in this part of the world historically exposed to aggressors and aspiring conquerors. How does a small, vulnerable state with six foreign borders suddenly acquire an immunity from foreign attack, such as the Swiss have enjoyed for 140 years?

The Swiss formula isn't easy. You teach every man in the country from 19 to 60 how to handle a rifle and the most modern weapons. You arm the nation to the teeth as long as the budget permits. You proclaim frequently and unendingly your readiness to fight for your neutrality. You zealously follow the principles of nonparticipation laid down for neutrals. Then you hope everyone has heard and believed you.

The most important precept is: "Stay out of a war."

Swiss scholars hold that their neutrality policy commits them to refrain from taking any side in war, from sending troops to either side or permitting either army to cross their territory. It also forbids them to send ammunition or military supplies with the exception of food and clothing to either warring party.

The Swiss tried to go along with the League of Nations and became entangled in the Italian-Ethiopian War along with the League. When the United Nations came, the Swiss did not join.

The Swiss hold that their neutrality rules must prevail even if the country is invaded by one warring party. Such an invasion in Swiss eyes "does not release the second warring party from its obligation to respect Swiss territorial integrity."

In 1917 the Western Allies declared they would not respect Swiss neutrality if Germany invaded the country. The Swiss government rejected this interpretation of neutrality and reserved its right to decide the conditions under which it would call for foreign help.

Operating on that basis, the Swiss escaped unscathed the hostilities of the two world wars at her borders. But it was close. Hitler at one time was contemplating an invasion of Switzerland, but decided it would be too costly.

At Yalta, Stalin urged President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to attack Germany through Switzerland, but the two Western statesmen declined.

Stalin's conception of Swiss neutrality and his lack of compunction about violating it are of interest in Vienna since the new Soviet leadership urged on the Austrians a neutrality like that of the Swiss.

Demo Leader Of Senate Ignores Ike's Suggestions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas outlined today a legislative program proposing passage of highway, housing, minimum wage and other bills but ignoring several of President Eisenhower's major recommendations.

Johnson told reporters he will call the Senate Democratic Policy Committee together early this week to discuss a schedule under which the Senate may go to work late in the week on a Democratic substitute for the President's 101-billion-dollar highway program.

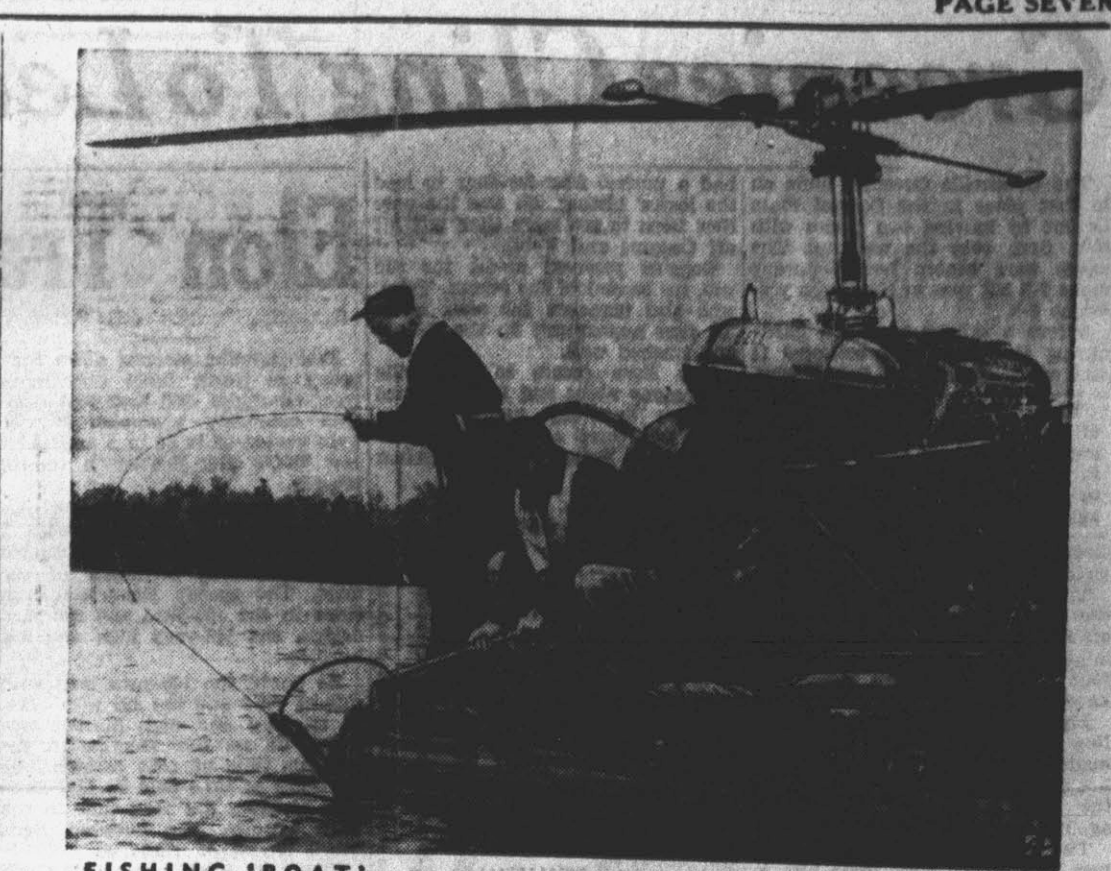

He said he will ask Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), author of the substitute, to explain it. He said he will call on Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) to recite objections to the administration's plan of financing road building through a bond issue.

Besides the highway, housing and minimum wage bills, Johnson said he expects the Senate to approve bills for foreign aid, health research, draft extension, military reserves pay increases and government workers, a House-approved bill to close tax loopholes, and the regular departmental money measures.

He said no decision had been reached yet whether action will be taken on a school aid bill.

Johnson's program apparently would ignore in this session Presidential recommendations for a postal rate increase, Taft-Hartley labor law revisions, amendments to the immigration laws, reinsurance of private health plans, a proposed constitutional amendment to reduce the voting age and creation of a national transportation policy.

Republican Leader Knowland of California predicted in a separate interview that Congress will finish up the first week in August, and he said he hopes there will be a "good batting average" set on Eisenhower's proposals.

Greenies Cling To Lead By Halving Games

The Greenville Greenies hung on to first place in the Coastal Plain League by halving two games with New Bern over the weekend. The locals were beaten here Saturday night 7-3 but won in New Bern yesterday 8-7.

Before a skimpy crowd, a hard-hitting New Bern nine collected 11 hits off the slants of Bobby Flye.

Floyd Nichols, business manager of the Greenville Greenies, announced today all Little Leaguers in uniform will be admitted free to Wednesday night's game against New Bern here.

Greenville ace, to chalk up their victory.

The visitors pushed runs across in the third, fifth, and sixth frames off Flye. Their biggest outburst was in the fifth when they bunched four hits, two of them extra base knocks.

Flye struck out an even dozen New Bern batters. His teammates made six costly errors behind him, however. The loss was the first for the hard-throwing righthander against two wins.

The leading hitter for the winners was Moran with three hits in four times at the plate. Westbrook had two hits, including a triple for the winners.

Woodie started on the mound for New Bern and lasted although he was hit freely. Greenville connected for five hits off him, including a ringing triple by Tom Boyd. James McLachorn was the only local batter to collect more than one hit. He had two singles in four official tries.

Yesterday, Bobby Coggins and Junior Yohn, teamed up to hurl the win. Between them they allowed 10 scattered hits, on which New Bern scored seven runs.

The Greenies touched three New Bern pitchers for 15 hits and eight runs. Johnson started on the mound for the locals but took an early shower as the Greenies scored four runs off eight hits in the first three innings. Gaskins and Berry followed Johnson on the mound.

Blancy Moye led the Greenville hitters with five hits in six times at bat. The speedy centerfielder collected a long double in the fourth stanza and drove in the three runs.

Several other Greenies had two hits. Matt Hall, McLachorn and J. T. Mills collected twin bingles. Tiltman, New Bern third baseman, had a perfect four-for-four to lead the losers' hitting. He was the only New Berner to get more than one hit off Coggins and Yohn.

Coggins received credit for the win, his second of the season. Yohn, who also manages the club, made his first appearance on the mound and pitched well.

New Bern comes to Greenville Wednesday night and Rocky Mount is here Saturday night. Johnny Foell will start against New Bern and James Pollard will go against Rocky Mount.

abolishment of its split setup in baseball. The last combined slate was played in 1951.

Titleholders were recognized. They are Atlantic Christian, basketball; High Point, tennis; and East Carolina, golf. Elon won the track meet Saturday.

Earl Ruth, chairman of the basketball committee, said the last tournament at Lexington netted about $3,200. He said the Lexington contract would be renewed.

In announcing a clinic at Catawba College Aug. 19-20, Joby Hawn of Winston-Salem, secretary of the new Carolinas booking office, said 78 officials have signed up to serve the North State, South Carolina's Little Four and other schools in football.

Appalachian failed to get a second in a motion to tighten up scholastic requirements for eligibility. The proposal asked an increase of 9 to 12 hours required for one semester and 16 to 24 over two semesters.

In further action, Clarence Strass, avich of Lenoir Rhyne and Jack Boone of East Carolina were named to the booking office committee. Boone was replaced on the major sports committee by Jack McComas of Atlantic Christian.

Exchange Defeats Moose As VFW Trips Up Lions

Exchange trounced Moose 6-4 and V.F.W. downed Lions 7-3 Saturday as the Little League schedule got under way at full blast.

Roberts and Harrington of Exchange held the Moose to four scattered hits in their victory. Roberts came in to relieve Harrington, who pitched good ball but was wild.

James was the only man for Exchange that got over one hit. He had two doubles in three official times at bat. Donald Joyner had two hits, both singles for Moose.

Griffin went all the way on the mound for the losers. He pitched good ball, though, allowing only seven hits.

The difference in the game was narrowed to faulty fieldings on the part of the Moose. While Exchange was playing perfect ball afield, Moose was making six costly errors.

Both Lions and V.F.W. collected six base hits, however the latter's were more timely. Also, five Lions errors made a difference.

Owens pitched the win and Brock expected the loss. The latter was relieved by McArthur in the late innings.

Allen was the leading batsman for the winners. He had two hits in three at bats. Starling had two hits for the Lions.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Harvey Kuenn, Tigers, rapped seven hits as Detroit divided a double-header with Boston. Kuenn collected two singles and a double in the Red Sox's first game 10-4 victory and added three singles and a two-bagger in the Tigers' 9-3 second game triumph.

PITCHING — Dick Donovan, White Sox — The 27-year-old righthander pitched a three-hit 3-0 victory over Washington for his fourth triumph of the season and his third shutout. Chicago also won the second game 5-4.

New Record For Speedway Trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—John James (Smiling Jack) McGrath hasn't won the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race in seven attempts but he's the Indianapolis Speedway champion when he has the track to himself.

He powered qualification records for the 2 1/2-mile track yesterday and won his favorite outside spot in the front row for the fifth time in the last seven years.

He set a one-lap record of 143.793 mile an hour and a 10-mile record of 142.580. Nobody ever before hit 142 officially on the 4 1/2-year-old track.

The wiry Inglewood, Calif., master mechanic and driver watched Bill Vukovich take the year-old record and then removed it from Vukovich.

Vukovich, of Fresno, Calif., who has won the last two Memorial Day races, drove his Hopkins Special 10 miles at 141.071, beat-off McGrath's old mark of 141.033.

After McGrath won his own record, veteran Fred Agabashian, of Albany, Calif., beat Vukovich's performance with 10 miles at 141.933.

With eight cars qualified over the weekend, leaving 25 spots open in the field for next weekend's race, McGrath found himself in the middle of the second three-car row, or fifth place.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Sumner

CHAPTER ONE

Kerry put his horse in the corral and started slowly for the house. The last of a red sunrise was fading to faint pink along the eastern rim. A light, fresh breeze wafted blowing with a sweet smell of sage on it. It was going to be a beautiful day—or it would be but for three things. Kerry had a hang-over, his pockets were empty, and the third thing he was trying not to think of till he had to.

Sandy Weaver came out of the bunkhouse and put up a hand in greeting. "Hi, Kerry!"

"Hi!"

"Where you been the last three days?"

"Town."

"Last Chance or the Palace?"

Sandy grinned.

"Both."

"Musta been a big time." Sandy's grin widened as he looked Kerry over.

He wasn't bad to look at, even with rumpled clothes and hair, reddened eyes and a three-day beard. A long, slim youngster in his early twenties. Light in build but with tough muscles and a lithe, springy way of moving. The blood of his Irish forebears showed in curly, almost blue-black hair, in eyes that were startlingly blue against his weather-darkened face. In his quick, devil-may-care smile. But he wasn't smiling now.

Sandy's grin widened. "Rob was pawin' up the ground when you didn't come home."

"Figured he would be," Kerry agreed tonelessly. "Reckon I might as well go up to the house and get it over with."

The thought of what he knew was coming slowed Kerry's feet. It always followed the same pattern. Rob would be waiting and at first sight he'd start in on him, leading from demands about where he'd been and what he'd been doing to blistering comments on his general worthlessness. And Kerry's temper would flare into hot red toris till pretty soon they were both shouting all the hurtful things they could think of. Then for days Rob would be going around in one of his black moods. And Kerry lounging about the place, idle and insolent and provocative, to show he didn't care.

"Maybe if I hadn't grown up around Rob, I wouldn't have so many of his habits," he told himself, in sullen self-justification. But his fundamental honesty wouldn't let the excuse stand. Rob had built Broken Spur up from a two-bit spread to an outfit known and spoken of respectfully wherever cattlemen gathered. And he'd never let his hell-raising interfere with his keeping a firm hand on the reins of the ranch, even with a foreman as reliable as old Sandy.

Whereas he, Kerry, had never done anything but live on Rob's charity since the day thirteen years back when Rob had found him huddled by his dead mother's body in a broken-down prairie schooner, and carried him home to Broken Spur, as he might have carried a stray pup. A stray who'd somehow drifted into the position of Rob's foster son. Yes, Rob certainly had a right to expect him to earn his keep. Well, why didn't he say so? Why didn't he tell him to buckle down to work or clear out? In all the bitterness of their endless quarrels, Kerry's dependence was one thing Rob had never thrown up at him and sometimes Kerry found himself unreasonably resenting that one piece of forbearance.

He closed the front door quietly, but not quietly enough. Rob had ears like an Indian's. As Kerry took his first step down the hall a voice rapped out, "That you, Kerry?" and without waiting for an answer, "Come in here!"

Kerry entered the living room and stood lounging against the door-frame. His nerves were tense, but his pose flaunted a careless ease more challenging than plain defiance would have been. "Well, Rob, the bad penny's turned up again."

"About time!" the older man rasped. "Where've you been?"

"I was in town." Kerry laid the words down flat. Rob's lips tightened.

"Good. Then I suppose I'll have to smooth down the sheriff again. Though, if you've got yourself in another mess, I've got a good mind to let you squirm out of it by yourself this time. Maybe seeing the inside of a jail would knock some sense into your head."

That threat had an old familiar ring to it. Kerry knew Rob would never act on it. He also knew it was true that he'd have ended more than one of his sprees behind bars except for Rob's influence. Sheriff Lacey Parrish was on which side his bread was buttered.

"Sorry to disappoint you," he drawled, "but all I did this time was play poker."

"How much did you lose?"

"How you know I lost?"

"Doesn't take much guessing. You always lose. How much?"

"Two hundred," he admitted reluctantly.

"Could you pay it?"

"All but a hundred and fifty."

Kerry's grin felt forced and stiff. He knew what came next, and it bothered him worse than Rob's tongue-lashing.

The boss of Broken Spur rose from the couch and left the room with his long, smooth stride. Kerry could hear him in the office opening the safe where he kept the payroll. In a moment he was boldly tossing a handful of crisp greenbacks onto the table. Reluctantly Kerry's fingers closed over them. "Thanks, Rob." He wished desperately that he could have just let them lie there—but a poker debt had to be paid. And at the same time, he felt the need to express something more than bare, grudging acknowledgment—but the words stuck in his throat.

Rob sank back onto the couch. Over the rim of his glass, his eyes, wide open, hot and steelbright, pinned themselves on Kerry's face.

"We had a visitor yesterday. Or anyway, I did. At least, she said she came to see me."

"She?"

"The Toland girl.

Just the sound of the name brought to Kerry's mind the picture of Christie as he'd seen her last her silvery-fair hair shining in the sun and her blue eyes sparkling like ice, as she'd sat her big sorrel tall and straight as a man, and denounced him. The rush of anger that came with the memory couldn't blot out how beautiful she'd looked, and Kerry fought down a wild, unreasonable hope.

"What did she want?"

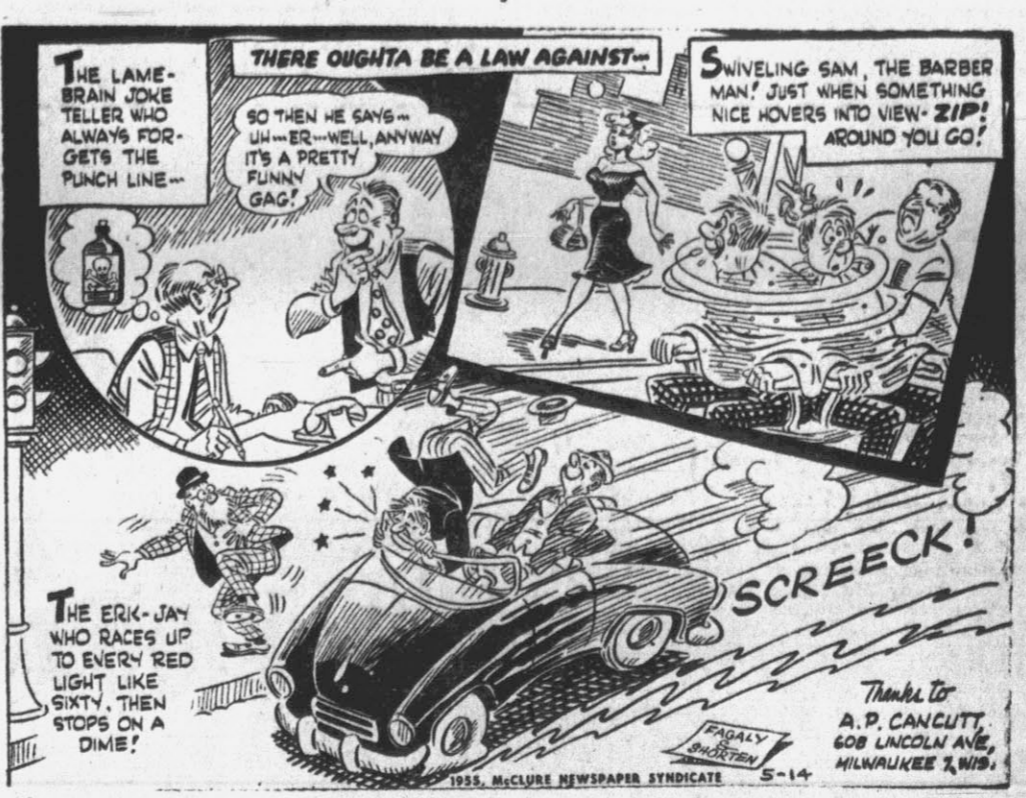

"She said the old man sent her to talk about arrangements for a round-up. He's laid up again. But she acted kind of disappointed when she found out you weren't around."

Describes Ideal Board Member

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Neal Gross, head of the Harvard School of Executives Studies says an "ideal" school board member is a sort of King Solomon who does everything quickly and cheaply, even when he knows nothing about it.

Gross told a conference for school board members, school officials and laymen the ideal school board member should have:

1. A heart of gold, a mind of steel and a nervous system of elastic.
2. A built-in telephone holder on one shoulder and a tear absorber on the other.
3. The ability to make wise and penetrating decisions on subjects he doesn't know anything about.
4. The desire to be hooked by educational jargon.
5. The ability to tell parents that

NEW YORK (AP)—The 20-year dream of a trip to her native Italy has become a nightmare for Mrs. Rose Colavito.

She and her husband, Mike, saved meagre sums over the years while they raised their seven children. Recently reaching a total of $3,000 the couple decided to fly to Italy July 6.

Yesterday 55-year-old Mrs. Colavito took the money out of the bank to buy plane tickets and get ready for the trip.

Near her Brooklyn home two young thugs robbed her, beat her and slashed her arm with a knife.

No Delivery By Canton Police

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Within a few hours after a woman reported that someone stole her radio, police proudly phoned her that they had caught the thief and recovered the radio.

But it took a lot of arguing to get the woman to stop at the station for it. She told the detective in charge: "I didn't bring it up here, and I can't see why I have to carry it back home."

Competition Serves Consumers Best

Why scrap free competition?

In the production of Natural Gas or any other product

Millions of homes like yours have natural gas because more than 8,000 producers compete at great financial risk to find it and get it from the ground. The producers also compete to sell it to the pipelines who bring it to your local gas company.

Now, over the opposition of responsible groups and authorities, Federal price-fixing threatens your long-term gas supply and the very principle of free competitive production.

Read what these representative groups and individuals say:

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

FEROME K. KUYKENDALL, CHAIRMAN

"We believe that no sound fuel policy can be erected upon such discrimination as presently exists against natural gas and in favor of other competitive fuels . . . Congress should not single out natural gas as the only one among those fuels over which an artificial ceiling should be placed." March 22, 1955.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON ENERGY SUPPLIES AND RESOURCES POLICY

"In the interest of a sound fuel policy and the protection of the national defense and consumer interests . . . we believe the Federal Government should not control the production, gathering, processing or sale of natural gas prior to its entry into an interstate transmission line." February 26, 1955.

FLORIDA LEAGUE OF MUNICIPALITIES

"The extension of Federal regulation to competitive producers of raw products—whether such raw products be natural gas or some other product—and the assigning of a regulated utility status to the producers of such products, is a policy contrary to the true American political philosophy." November 23, 1954.

AMERICAN NATIONAL CATTLEMEN'S ASSOCIATION

"Gas is an important product of ranch and farm land. This decision . . . may well be the beginning of laws to regulate all industries in this country, including the livestock industry." January 12, 1955.

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

"Since the field price of natural gas is adequately regulated by competition we favor legislation providing that field prices of natural gas shall not be regulated by the Federal Power Commission." December 16, 1954.

TENNESSEE MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

"Regulation of the price of natural gas . . . constitutes a serious invasion of established States' rights too ominous to disregard by any business or industry even though not affected in the first instance." January 26, 1955.

Protect the Public Interest Through Free Competition

NATURAL GAS

NORTH CAROLINA NATURAL GAS AND OIL RESOURCES COMMITTEE

Frank J. Whitehurst, Chairman
200 South Tryon Street, Charlotte, N. Carolina

Made up of individuals and companies concerned with natural gas and the broader basic issues of a free economy. This Committee believes that it has a responsibility to place the facts before the American people, that they may form a judgment of their own free will.

Forty-Four Big Companies Earn Third Of Profits

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-four of the nation's biggest companies made about one third of all the profits reported by U. S. corporations in 1954.

The giants, by and large, had a more comfortable time than many smaller companies that found last year trying to cope with the business slowdown. During the larger company could call on resources the small one often didn't have.

Financial reports for 1954—a period of highly mixed business experience with 334,000 business casualties—emphasize the trend in recent years toward bigness. But the big getting bigger didn't discourage newcomers. The Department of Commerce says 241,000 new companies started up in 1954, making the total in the United States about 4,200,000.

One stock brokerage firm, W.E. Hutton & Co., lists today 44 companies making in excess of 40 million dollars each last year in net income after taxes. It omits a 45th, Ford, from the list because its 1954 earnings aren't available. Ford's 1953 profits are estimated at 105 million dollars, however, and 1954 seems sure to have been at least as high.

The top 44 earners listed by the brokerage firm ranked in a total of 5 1/2 billion dollars. This was 32 per cent of the total amount earned by all U. S. corporations reporting for the year.

Since World War I this trend toward ever increasing bigness has been notable. In the last 30 years most of the growth has been from within—that is, from self-generated capital, or earnings plowed back into expansion—rather than from without, through raising funds by selling stocks or bonds.

The tendency of the big to grow bigger has worried many persons, and has spawned legal regulations and antitrust suits, has brought pressure for governmental aid for small business.

Big business has many defenders too. They point to its greater efficiency, its ability to develop and merchandise new products and thus raise the national standard of living, and its power to mass produce and thus be in a position, at least, to lower the price of goods.

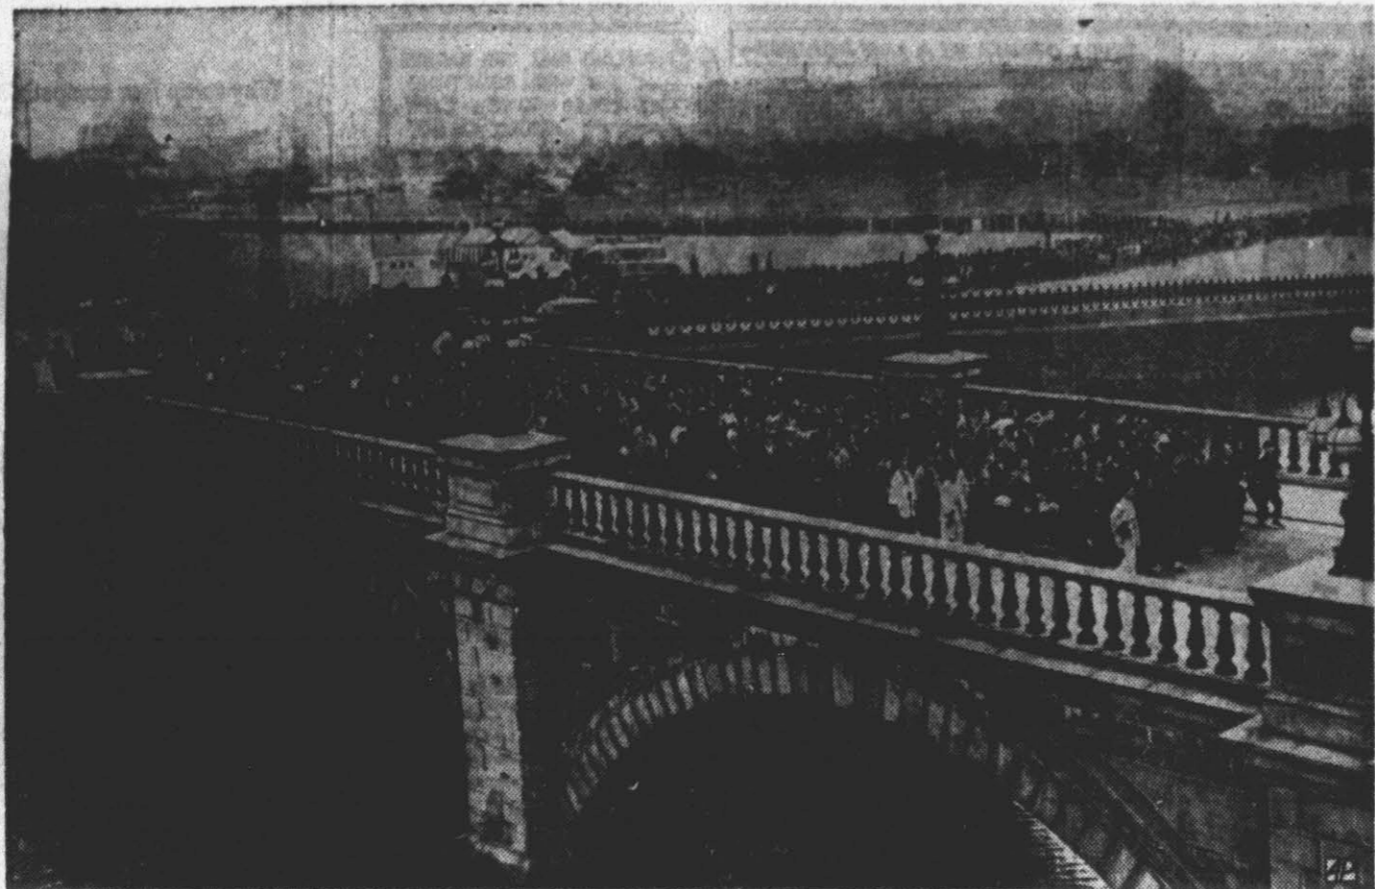

'Possum Booked By Police Dept.

CHICAGO (AP)—Police hauled in an opossum found straggling on a northwest side street yesterday.

Upon arrival at the Racine Avenue Station, the animal gave birth to four little ones.

"I think," said desk Sgt. Robert Conley, "I'll book her for carrying concealed 'possums.'"

The classic Greek theater at Syracuse, Sicily, where Pindar is reputed to have sung his odes is again being used to stage classic Greek tragedies.

TV Actors Can Now Afford Independence

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There was a time when Eastern actors would come to Hollywood with hat in hand, hopeful for what the movies could give them. Television has changed all that.

TV actors can afford to be independent, and they are. Most of them realize that the films can help build their names and bank accounts. But movies today provide steady employment for only a choice few. And so New York actors need not wait around for roles here. They can head East and keep active.

One such performer is Rod Steiger, the chunky young actor who won an Oscar nomination for his second film, "On the Waterfront." He said he was happy with the nomination, which improved his professional standing and earning power.

"But he was even prouder of the Academy Award. Reason: he got the Academy honor for just one role. The TV honor came for a variety of portrayals, from Andrei Vichensky to the love-starved Marty.

"I like doing pictures," Steiger said. "But I'm convinced that you should never come to Hollywood until you've established your name in another medium. If you don't you can get lost here."

He feels that Hollywood has underestimated the power of TV to establish names.

"They say that TV actors have to go to Hollywood or Broadway to make a name for themselves," he declared. "That's a lot of baloney. Last summer Kim Stanley took 'The Traveling Lady' to Michigan and turned away 500 people every night. It was not because of her Broadway reputation, but because she had done the show on TV.

"It's the same way with names like Ariane Francis and Wally Cox when they go out and do summer theaters."

Romance Tied Up Heavy Traffic

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Jess Blowers' girl said "Yes" when he proposed yesterday while driving. He jammed on the brakes and they went into a prolonged clinch at a major intersection while unromantic motorists honked and shouted.

Policeman Bland Watkins, when he heard Blowers' explanation for the traffic holdup, offered his congratulations — and a ticket for failing to observe traffic signals.

At the big municipal swimming pool at Casablanca, Morocco, Moorish girls often arrive in robes and veils and then emerge from dressing rooms in brief bathing suits.

Adenauer Has Trained His Probable Successor

BOON, Germany (AP)—The man in line to become foreign minister of West Germany is a handsome, chain-smoking bachelor who may one day be chancellor. Heinrich von Brentano is often called Germany's Anthony Eden. He dresses impeccably. More than that, he has been to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer what Eden was to Sir Winston Churchill—a loyal deputy, confidant and friend. Adenauer has been serving as foreign minister as well as chancellor but for five years he has been training Brentano to take over the ministry. And some political observers predict the Churchill-Eden parallel will be carried further when one day Von Brentano succeeds Adenauer as chancellor. Adenauer is 79, Brentano 50. Like Adenauer, Brentano advocates European federation. He says: "The only solution of the European question is the coordination of the continent into a pan-European federation. The countries of Europe must realize that they can only guard their interests together. Singly, they will go down." He hammered away at that theme in Strasbourg, where he was a prominent representative of West Germany in the European Assembly. Other European parliamentarians showed their respect for him by making him vice president of the assembly. In West Germany Brentano is best known as parliamentary leader of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party. Trained as a lawyer he has won admiration in the young Parliament for his mastery of strategy and fine oratory. He has virtually run the party machine although Adenauer retained the title of national chairman. Up to now he has not held cabinet office. He comes of a family of Italian descent, linked for generations with German intellectual and political life. He entered politics in 1945 and helped found the Christian Democrats. Later he represented Hesse in the council that drew up the national constitution. He was elected to the Bundestag (Parliament) in 1949 and immediately became leader of the Christian Democratic faction. Brentano describes the West European Union as "the greatest guarantee for world peace."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined quietly today in the early afternoon. Prices dropped back around 3 points at the outside. There were a number of small gains scattered through the list. Trading was subdued at a pace near the 1,860,000 shares traded Friday when the market was moderately higher. Almost all major divisions fell back including steels, motors, airplanes, radio-televisions, utilities, coppers, and railroads. The chemicals held to modest gains while the oil and gas stocks were narrowly mixed and motion pictures steady. Few features cropped up in the market. A handful of large blocks was on the tape. A block of 5,000 shares of R. H. Macy traded unchanged at 30 3/4. 3,000 shares of Fairchild Engine was off 1/4 at 14 1/4. General Electric had a block of 4,000 shares up 1/4 at 50 1/2 and 3,500 shares of RCA went at 47 7/8.

Freed On Bond

Robert L. Crain of 106 S. Sylvan Drive, posted $2,000 bond last night and was released from Pitt County Jail. The 23-year-old Crain is charged with larceny of an automobile. He was spotted Friday afternoon by the owner of the automobile which had been stolen earlier last week. A search party was quickly organized and Crain was finally captured in the Pictolus section. Crain bought bond from a bonding company represented by Frank Brooks locally.

New UN Delay Over Freedom Of Information

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A proposed international agreement on freedom of information, in the works since 1948, is about to come up in the U. N. again. It seems headed for more delay. The pact is due for debate in the Economic and Social Council, opening the second part of its 19th semiannual session today. The majority of the 18 countries on the council so far have been either opposed to the draft "convention" or lukewarm. The council will formulate recommendations for the General Assembly. The United States is among those opposed to the agreement. It has argued that a revision of the agreement which inserted restrictions on information instead of promoting it. As the agreement stands now, signatory governments would guarantee freedom of information but would have the right to bar particular persons from their territories and reserve newspaper ownership to their own citizens.

'Chain Reaction' Traffic Mishap In City Saturday

Four vehicles ended up bumper to bumper Saturday afternoon as a result of a "chain reaction" collision on the River Bridge in which one person was injured and damage estimated at $515 was done to the vehicles involved. Operators of the cars were listed by police as Henry B. Harris, Jr., 28, of 301 Church Street; George W. King, 26, of Ayden; William H. Worsley, 40, Negro, of 1505-A Fleming Street and Mrs. Ella C. Thomas, 21, of 1206 N. Pitt Street. Mrs. Thomas, the driver of the fourth car in line, was cited by police for following too close and was reported to have been without a drivers license. She sustained lacerations of the forehead in the accident. All four vehicles were apparently traveling toward Greenville across the Green Street extension on the Tar River Bridge when the accident occurred. Meanwhile, $800 damage was done Saturday on E. Fifth Street in a collision between vehicles operated by Roger L. Mann, Jr., 25, of 1913 E. Fifth Street and Juke Jones, 26, Negro, of 527-A Boyd Avenue. A third accident, this one at Clark and 13th Streets yesterday afternoon, brought $90 damage to cars operated by Willie Lester Jones, 33, Negro of Winterville and Grace Phillips, 36, Negro, of 1313 Mill Street. Jones' car was parked at the time of the accident and police cited the Phillips woman for careless and reckless driving and no operators license.

Wife Uncovered Gambling Games

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sgt. Vincent Serior of the Baltimore vice squad got a call from a woman who told him her husband was spending all his money in poker games and she was starving as a result. Where was he? asked the sergeant. She gave him an address, and he dispatched two patrolmen to the spot. They broke up a card game, hauled six men to jail. But the phone rang again. "You didn't get him," said the same voice. She explained she had learned that her husband had floated from the game before the police got there. She gave Serior a new address. Off went the vice squad again. They broke up two games, took in nine players. But the phone rang again. Same woman, same complaint, new address. The next call brought in 13 more sporting gentlemen. It made a grand total of 25 players arrested in five card games. The woman never did give the police her name, but Serior figures they got her husband in the last haul. She didn't call back.

Roads For N.C. In Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill sponsored by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) for new highway construction over a five-year period would provide $309,600,000 for new highways in North Carolina. Overall the bill would provide $12 1/4 billion in federal funds. The Senate Public Works committee approved the bill last week, 8-6, substituting it for the $6 billion dollar, 10-year program proposed by President Eisenhower. The bill also calls for state expenditures boosting the total spending for roads over the five-year period to $17,941,000,000. The Gore plan proposes spending $8,610,000,000 in federal state money on interstate highways on a gradually increasing basis over a five-year span. This would include $7,750,000,000 (B) in federal funds. The President's proposal would allot 26 billions, including 25 billion in federal funds, for interstate highway building over 10 years. The major portion—21 billions—would be raised by a bond issue. Under the Gore bill, North Carolina's share of the federal money would include $22,400,000 a year for primary, secondary and urban roads and $197,600,000 for the interstate highway network.

'Hodge-Podge' Weather Across The U. S. Today

Today's weather was a hodge-podge—clear and mild from the Great Lakes eastward into New England; snow, rain sleet, thunderstorms and freezing temperatures to the west; thunderstorms in the South; and blowing dust in Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. Just east of the Continental Divide in Montana, snow was falling. It was a continuation of yesterday's fall that disrupted air travel and blocked highways. Most of it melted as it fell except in the mountain passes. All along the Canadian border states from Minnesota to eastern Washington and Oregon there was rain, snow and sleet, or a mixture of them. Precipitation amounts generally ranged downward from Miles City, Mont.'s 1.05 inches. Winds which had gusts Sunday up to 60 miles an hour continued to hurl dust far aloft; in the drought areas of eastern Colorado, southeastern Wyoming, western Kansas and Nebraska and northeastern New Mexico. It was continued mild and warmer—as much as 15 degrees—along the northern tier of states from Minnesota eastward, but heavy thunder showers fell in parts of the South. Hopkinsville, Ky., reported a six-hour fall of more than 2 inches early today. Houston had a 3-inch rain yesterday and damage from golf-ball-size hailstones.
