Guaranteed Wage Plan And Other Terms Are Accepted Ford And UAW Reach Agreement

By GLENN ENGLE DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co and the CIO United Auto Workers reached agreement today on a historic guaranteed wage plan and other contract terms.

He said the "package" was worth in excess of 20 cents per hour per employee. The average auto worker now earns about $2.10 an hour.

Increased efficiency of men and machines. Continuation of the cost-of-living wage system, which has governed auto industry wages for the past five years.

Change Of Heart Behind 'Curtain'

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—A 24-year-old American soldier who, as a prisoner of war, chose to remain behind the Iron Curtain rather than return to his young wife and daughter in Olympia, Wash., has had a change of heart.

Now he wants to come home. Mrs. Otho G. Bell says she is encouraging her husband to return. "And if he's sent to prison, I'll get a job near the prison so I can see him from time to time," she says.

Mrs. Bell is living at Olympia with the 14-year-old daughter Paula, whom Bell never has seen. He shipped overseas with the 2nd Infantry Division in 1950 before the daughter was born.

Doubts Big 4 Meeting Can Do Very Much Dulles Dubious Over Talks

COLUMBIA (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles expressed doubt today that the top level Big Four meeting by itself would relax international tensions.

"It will take more than words," Dulles said, "and more than one meeting, to create conditions which will justify relaxing the efforts which we have been making."

that is that the meeting will not end the necessity for strong and vigorous national and international security policies and for national unity behind them.

Assailant Turns Self In To Police

The admitted assailant of a 21-year-old Negro turned himself in to police Saturday night following the shooting of George Green, 21, colored, of 1916-A S. Pitt Street earlier in the day.

The four Korean War veterans, held by the Reds more than two years, were reunited with their families here Thursday.

Meanwhile, leaders of the striking stevedores union called a conference in London today to consider their next step in the costly walkout by 20,000 men which has partly tied up seven seaports for two weeks.

The dock strike stems from a jurisdictional squabble for bargaining rights involving the stevedores and the giant Transport Workers Union. Close to 200 freighters are idle.

The status of Otho G. Bell is clouded, legally. He was one of 21 American prisoners of war who refused repatriation, but stayed with Red China.

"I hope that that meeting will be useful," he said. "Surely the United States will do all in its power to make it so."

"But of one thing I am certain—Russia, Britain and France, perhaps beginning July 18. The United States has agreed to Geneva as the site.

"I believe that the American people are sufficiently stout-hearted not to want to be fooled. So long as there is peril, it is far safer, although not pleasant, to see the peril. Then, there is a better chance that it will be avoided."

The Long Wait For A New School

Greenville has been waiting a long time for its new high school. Indeed, it has been waiting too long. Obviously it is going to have to wait a little longer even before bids for the project are let.

It is no exaggeration to say that the people of the city and school officials have been talking about a new high school for at least 15 years. But at present it appears another 18 months to two years will be expended before the youngsters of Greenville can take advantage of the new educational facility. And with each school term that elapses conditions at Greenville High School are becoming more and more congested.

Where did we miss the boat in planning for the new high school?

It was two years ago this month that the people of Greenville went to the polls and voted $1,500,000 for city school improvements. The people recognized the need for the expenditure as 96.2 per cent of the 1,076 participants in the election voted for the bond issue. In that one referendum Greenville citizens approved an expenditure of almost twice as much bond money for schools as had been approved in five school bonds issued during the preceding half century.

At that time (June 3, 1953) school officials expressed the hope that the new high school building would be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the 1954-55 school year. That school year is now come and gone, and we have yet to let contracts for the school, much less begin construction.

At that time also it was stated by school officials that preliminary work already had been done on plans for the new high school building. Why, then, has it taken so long to get the plans completed so bids on the project could be let?

Last week when the latest delay in the letting was announced, it was said that hopes were for the building being ready for occupancy by January, 1957. The new facility was badly needed two years ago when the voters went to the polls to provide the money for the new high school. The need for the school has become much more pressing in the ensuing two years as local school enrollment has increased. In another 18 months or two years the need will become much more acute than it is even today.

The Reflector realizes it is no little task to plan and build a high school such as the one Greenville contemplates. We also have taken into consideration the city has completed a major addition to one elementary school and built another from the ground up in the past two years.

But it is reasonable to suggest that the new high school project, with proper expediting in view of the need, could be planned and completed in less than the three and one-half or four years which now appears to be inevitable?

BEAVER FALLS, PA., NEWS-TRIBUNE: "The people in this country who would like to have their taxes reduced (and who wouldn't?) should take note of this Tax reduction is the reward of having a balanced budget. Our taxes can be reduced again when the administration and Congress get our budget back into balance. Let's hope it won't be too long."

WASHINGTON—The liberal Democrats on Capitol Hill charge that the Eisenhower Administration schemes to "cripple public power," and to hand this lush field over to "the interests."

As evidence, they cite White House efforts to restrict TVA expansion with the Dixon-Yates contract, and Interior Secretary Douglas McKay's opposition to Federal construction of a high dam at Felt's Canyon in Idaho. McKay prefers the Idaho Power Company's proposal to construct three dams at no cost to the government.

Although they receive scant reinforcement from Democratic conservatives, the Humphrey-Lehman-Neuberger advocates of government ownership and operation hope to headline this issue in the 1956 Presidential campaign.

ACTION OF DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS—But the fact is that the most severe blow to creation of a vast Federal power empire was delivered by a Democratic Congress. And even when the GOP controls the National Legislature, they could not hamstring government operations in this field without the support of scores of opposition members on the other side of the aisle. The political vogue of public power has died.

A few New Deal survivors are now waging a behind-the-scenes battle to preserve an Ickes-Chapman program for building a Federal power system in the Southwest that would be comparable to the TVA set-up. The struggle involves the Southwest Power Administration, which was designed to service seven states extending from Louisiana and Missouri to the Mexican border.

The Southwest Power Administration was never authorized by Congress. It was created by executive order in 1943 as a war measure. Its function was to provide power for the great array of munitions oil airplane and rubber plants in that section.

It was the boast of the great Southwest that the United States could not have won World War II without the land "acquired" from Mexico by foresighted Presidents in the middle of the 19th century. But power was needed to develop its capabilities.

Plastics Step Out

By ELMER ROESSNER
The plastics industry, which has grown from almost nothing 45 years ago to its present enormous size, is bidding for still more markets.

Such as: Milk cartons coated with plastic instead of wax; Cigarette packaging with plastic laminated to paper, eliminating need for both cellophane and foil wrappings; Cereal boxes with brightly colored plastic-coated interlayers.

Plastic coated paper cups and ice cream cartons that won't absorb moisture or impart a taste to the contents; Disposable diapers, with absorbent paper or fabric on one side and moisture-resistant plastic on the other; and Disposable and sanitary hospital sheets of paper backed with a thin film of plastic.

Claims for the plastic industry's share of these new markets were staked out a few days ago by H.K. Intemann, Bakelite vice-president in an address before the Specialty Paper and Paperboard Affiliates. Polyethylene, the plastic that is used in squeeze bottles, is the material that will make this possible, he said. This can be produced in film five ten-thousandths of an inch thick. It resists moisture and abrasion, and it can be bonded to paper, glass, wood and other basic materials. It can be heat sealed so that if used on milk cartons instead of wax it could eliminate the adhesives now being used to hold them together.

Mr. Intemann assured the paper processors that the economics of using polyethylene are sound. If a .0006-inch coating on both sides is adequate for paperboard for milk cartons, $8.20 worth of polyethylene will do the work of $11.10 worth of paraffin wax, he said. Similarly, cigarette packaging paper could be treated with the plastic for $6.15 per ream, whereas cellophane is $6.85 per ream. Polyethylene is only 12 years old. A recent development—the production of a high-temperature type under low pressure has made many of these coming uses practical and will probably lead to the development of many more.

MAKE OR BUY QUESTION UP AT PURCHASERS MEETING

The question of whether manufacturers should make or buy components rose again this week at the annual convention of the National Association of Purchasing Agents in New York. Carter C. Higgins, Worcester Pressed Steel president, advised purchasing agents to make if they could beat outside costs or outside quality. Otherwise, he said, buying has many advantages. He cited:

1. Less floor space needed.
2. Less work in process inventory.
3. Greater flexibility in meeting changes in demand.
4. Greater equipment range available to meet changes in design.
5. Suppliers can maintain expensive equipment for several customers no one of whom could invest in it for a few weeks work a year.
6. The manufacturer does not pay for off-specification parts.
7. There's freedom to concentrate on the main line, instead of being sidetracked to study new techniques and problems.
8. Capital investment is conserved.

The Advantages Of Small Cities In World Of Today

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, — I am writing this from Room 15T on the 15th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria overlooking New York City. I have supplemented my fears by talks with leading authorities. I am told that what I see from this window will someday be destroyed; but it is very hard for me to accept.

I like small cities. This is nothing against large cities. In fact, large cities usually have some great national advantage, such as nearness to waterpower, like Buffalo or Minneapolis; or location at the junction of two rivers, like St. Louis, or at the outlet of a river, like New Orleans; or having a wonderful harbor, like New York. Nothing can prevent such fortunately located cities from always being great even if vulnerable. But today I want to tell you why I like small cities.

The H-Bomb and guided missiles will postpone World War III; but Scriptures teach that, there will be one more war some day; and it will be the worst one of all. Just now, much is appearing in newspapers and magazines regarding the prospects for peace. Civil Defense has never taken hold; and it is very difficult to interest people in it at present. It may be that England, France, and Russia are lulling us to sleep with their "Big Four Conference."

WHAT ABOUT URANIUM?

Now speculators are crazy about uranium as an agent which will be switched to peace uses and thus protect the United States from the H-Bomb. Without doubt uranium has many useful possibilities; but these discussions will soon be forgotten as the American people have very short memories. However, the world supply of uranium is very large and is well scattered throughout the leading nations and their possessions.

Certainly most nations will be making H-Bombs which can be used for "blackmailing" purposes and for attempting to get what they want without World War III. All the above will result in further inflation and continued high taxes. Someday one of these "blackmailing" threats may be "called" and some large cities will be bombed. Then several million innocent citizens in these cities could be killed.

SMALL CITIES TO GROW RAPIDLY

All the above could result in a continued movement of families and industries out of the large cities into the smaller communities. These small cities—when located not too near a big city—should have a great future. Many young people will prefer to live in one of these smaller communities, both from a safety standpoint and also to profit by their growth.

Decentralization of industries is also under way. Few manufacturing plants in the big cities are enlarging within those cities; they are building supplemental plants in smaller places. This factor of decentralization will greatly benefit small communities. The big cities are getting more vulnerable to war dangers, labor troubles, and high costs. Corporations are finding it easier to raise money for capital expenditures in the small cities, rather than the large cities. In the end, bankers and investors determine locations.

REAL ESTATE VALUES

I forecast that the prices of the stocks of companies with all their assets in big, vulnerable cities may decline; while those with their assets in small, safe cities may not. My belief is that downtown real estate values in some of the large cities may be at their peak, but that in the smaller cities such real estate is still a purchase. In addition to the factors above, let me remind readers of the curse of the automobile and the downtown parking problem in large cities. Good roads, however are helping the small cities, which should profit by President Eisenhower's proposal for expending $101 billion for good roads.

Workers in the smaller cities have a high character, are intelligent, and may give more thought to the ultimate consumer. Owing to the lower cost of living in the smaller cities, there are fewer labor troubles where management is reasonable. Labor has less turnover in these smaller cities. TO AVOID THE HANDICAPS MENTIONED ABOVE, THE LARGE CITIES SHOULD GET SOLIDLY BEHIND THE NEW FEDERAL "URBAN REDEVELOPMENT PROGRAM."

One Less Gubernatorial Candidate For 1956

The appointment of Hubert Olive of Lexington as resident judge of the new 22nd district reduces by at least one the possible field of gubernatorial candidates for 1956.

Olive has been regarded as a possible candidate for the state's chief executive post since he was defeated by the late Gov. Umstead in the heated 1952 elections. Even after the responsibility of the governor's office was passed on to Gov. Luther Hodges, Olive was still considered as one of the leading contenders who might seek Hodges post if the latter makes a bid for a full four-year term next May.

The appointment of Olive to the Superior Court bench now changes all that. It is extremely unlikely that Olive would have accepted such an appointment from a man whom he considered a possible rival candidate. It is equally unlikely Gov. Hodges would have given such an appointment to a man who might resign the post in less than a year to run for an office Hodges was likewise going to seek.

This latest change in North Carolina's political scene removes from next year's gubernatorial race a potential candidate who was reckoned in many circles to be the man who could offer the stiffest competition to Gov. Hodges in a gubernatorial campaign.

Political prognosticators in North Carolina now will have to shake their crystal balls and take another look at the 1956 gubernatorial possibilities.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
GO
A glance into a concordance of the Bible reveals a frequent use of the word "go" in the New Testament. Everyone is familiar with some of the "go" passages: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations." "Whoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain." "Go and do thou likewise." "I go to prepare a place for you."

There is a lot said in the New Testament about going, for Christianity is a religion of action. Jesus and his disciples were constantly moving about the country, preaching, teaching, healing, helping. The history of the Christian Church is full of almost incredible energy and activity.

There is a significance in this fact. Notice the people who complain about and criticize the church most—they almost never are the ones who are really active in any Christian work. The man who says that he doesn't get anything out of religion is likely to be the man whose religion consists in sitting sleepily in a pew once a week and expecting something to happen to him.

If you don't get much out of religion, try putting more into it, especially a little more "go." There are a thousand deeds in any community waiting for a good Christian to come along and do them. Christian faith began with One who was always doing. Go thou and do likewise!

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The liberal Democrats on Capitol Hill charge that the Eisenhower Administration schemes to "cripple public power," and to hand this lush field over to "the interests."

As evidence, they cite White House efforts to restrict TVA expansion with the Dixon-Yates contract, and Interior Secretary Douglas McKay's opposition to Federal construction of a high dam at Felt's Canyon in Idaho. McKay prefers the Idaho Power Company's proposal to construct three dams at no cost to the government.

Although they receive scant reinforcement from Democratic conservatives, the Humphrey-Lehman-Neuberger advocates of government ownership and operation hope to headline this issue in the 1956 Presidential campaign.

ACTION OF DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS—But the fact is that the most severe blow to creation of a vast Federal power empire was delivered by a Democratic Congress. And even when the GOP controls the National Legislature, they could not hamstring government operations in this field without the support of scores of opposition members on the other side of the aisle. The political vogue of public power has died.

A few New Deal survivors are now waging a behind-the-scenes battle to preserve an Ickes-Chapman program for building a Federal power system in the Southwest that would be comparable to the TVA set-up. The struggle involves the Southwest Power Administration, which was designed to service seven states extending from Louisiana and Missouri to the Mexican border.

The Southwest Power Administration was never authorized by Congress. It was created by executive order in 1943 as a war measure. Its function was to provide power for the great array of munitions oil airplane and rubber plants in that section.

It was the boast of the great Southwest that the United States could not have won World War II without the land "acquired" from Mexico by foresighted Presidents in the middle of the 19th century. But power was needed to develop its capabilities.

CANDIDATE? — Another name is looming on the list of potential candidates for Lieutenant Governor next year. Friends of Joseph Branch of Enfield, Halifax county, are "putting him up for consideration." Branch is an attorney. He represented Halifax county in the General Assemblies of 1947, 1949, 1951 and 1953, and did not seek re-election last year.

MILK — Observation of June as National Dairy Month was given a big kick-off Friday morning with a Governor's Breakfast at State College. With Governor Hodges on the platform was Miss Betty Jo Ring, "Miss North Carolina," and a bevy of other lovelies.

Just before entering the breakfast room the Governor and Miss North Carolina "crowned" Queen Bossy by placing a collar of workers' red on the shoulders of a registered Jersey cow encased in a stall on the south piazza of the union building.

Governor Hodges was in rare good form, mixing humor with serious talk about the importance of the dairy industry to North Carolina and the value of milk as a human food.

REACTION — Editorial comment in newspapers throughout the State has been almost unanimously critical of the recent General Assembly. Majority of editors charge the legislators with wasting time, failing to comply with the constitution on reapportionment, failure to reform election laws and JP courts, and generally accomplishing very little.

This appraisal is not endorsed by most of the individual citizens with whom your reporter has talked. Residents of Raleigh and visitors from over the State, as well as several dozen men interviewed in their home communities on a quickie trip through a dozen or more piedmont and western counties, think the Legislature did fairly well under the circumstances.

The Ailment Of Self-Sympathy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oddity Almanac: Peel sorry for yourself? Here's some advice from Helen Keller, who will be 75 years old this month.

"I often feel deeply grieved for those who suffer from self-sympathy. They allow themselves to be tied in a knot instead of looking around for new things to keep them busy. I find life an exciting business — and most exciting when it is lived for others.

Miss Keller, who lost the powers of sight, speaking and hearing in infancy, became one of the most inspiring examples of victory over personal handicaps in human history. A famous author, teacher, and speaker, she mastered seven languages, found her own road to happiness.

At 74 she made a 40,000-mile tour in behalf of the world's 14 million blind people. Still busy with new projects to aid the handicapped, she says: "When people say I ought to retire, it makes me mad."

Still feel sorry for yourself? Passing the time can get to be quite a problem with a modern company executive, who may spend up to six months of a year on the road.

To foil boredom, Harry Rollnick, a hat firm president from Garland, Tex., kept a diary of his activities in five years of train travel. The diary shows the number of people he met, the number of train windows unaided 88 times; read 113 books; counted 9,516 telephone poles; completed 93 crossword puzzles and left 184 unfinished; wrote 11 poems, 7 of which he tore up because he didn't like the rhymes; played 318 games of solitaire; he lost 290 times at checkers; times; and ate 804 sandwiches.

An even more interesting diversion is to look out the train window and yell "beaver" every time you see a red-haired girl.

farm ponds. The ponds range in size from an eighth of an acre to three or four acres, and many of them are dependent upon rainfall to fill the reservoir. Others are on small streams with fairly constant flow. Farmers are planning for tremendous expansion in field irrigation.

The extension service at State College took cognizance of this trend and has been staging field irrigation demonstrations in all parts of the State for the past six weeks or more. By the time irrigation is really needed nearly every farmer will have been able to get to one of these demonstrations.

Concern has been voiced by some farm leaders that too many people are going blindly into irrigation facilities without making adequate survey of water supply and cost of equipment. They fear there may be a lot of disappointments and financial losses, along with many definite gains while farmers are learning how to handle artificial irrigation to best advantage.

ROOMS — North Carolina has 1,141 hotels, motels and other facilities with 35,586 guest rooms for overnight stops, according to the new edition of the Collins Travelbook now being distributed by the Department of Conservation and Development. The 1955 listing shows 2,799 more rooms than were listed last year. The list does not include guest homes or other facilities with capacity of less than ten guests.

BILL WOULD TIGHTEN PRICE MAINTENANCE

The American Fair Trade Council is supporting a bill in Congress which, if passed would put a snapper in the McGuire Act, which permits manufacturers to fix the retail prices of trade-marked products.

The bill provides that an injured party may sue for an injunction and damages against manufacturers or distributors who set minimum resale prices and then "willfully and knowingly" sell the same product to retailers who habitually cut prices.

The Council, which calls manufacturers' price fixing "fair trade," characterizes the new bill as a "fair play" amendment.

Greenies Crush Farmville Twice To Regain Loop Lead

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenie's power-laden semi-pro Greenies pounded their way into undisputed position of first place over the week-end with two smashing triumphs over the Farmville Red Devils 10-8 and 18-1.

The Saturday night ball game in Farmville was a real thriller, with manager Junior Yohn taking over the pitching chores in the sixth inning to save the win for the Greenies. The Sunday game was no contest at all as the Greenies pounded out 18 hits while James Earl Pollard was limiting Farmville to two safe blows.

Saturday Game
In the Saturday contest young Bobby Coggins weakened in the sixth inning for the first five frames and Yohn went in to pitch. After a walk and a hit Yohn settled down and shut the door on the aroused Farmville club.

In the last of the sixth the Greenies pushed over five runs to trail only by 8-7. While Yohn was holding the Farmville group runless over the last three frames his mates were pounding out the margin of victory.

In the seventh inning Blaney Moye singled over the tying run and Matt Hall singled, scoring Moye with the winning run.

Sunday's Game
Sunday afternoon the Greenies really went to work before a mediocre Ladies' Day crowd. James Earl Pollard had the Farmville team eating out of his hand. He went 4 and 1-3 innings without allowing a hit. After the first single, he gave up only one more safe blow. An error on a sure double play ball robbed Pollard of his shutout.

In two different innings the hard-hitting Greenies batted around. Bobby Clark proved to be the biggest stick man with four hits in five trips to the plate. J. T. Mills, who played a sparkling defensive game at shortstop, came up with three hits. Four other Greenies had two hits each—Blaney Moye, Matt Hall, Tom Boyd, and Hobbie Hobgood.

In the seventh inning Brownie Tripp smacked a home run with one mate on for the biggest blow of the game. The Greenies now have a 12-7 record for the season with Farmville owning a 10-9 mark.

Wednesday night the Greenies play in Rocky Mount with the second place Bears. The next home game for the Greenies will be at Guy Smith Stadium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All Little League and Pony Leaguers will be admitted free if they wear their caps.

STRAIGHT DEAL
CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today announced they have traded pitcher Harry Dorish to the Baltimore Orioles for catcher Les Moss in a straight player deal.

which would have given him a 64. He sank birdie putts of 12 and 25 feet and left two other long, snaking rollers hanging at the cup, but his real mastery was over the five and six-footers—the kind he used to miss.

He had six birdies and four of them came of putts of this length. "I've changed my way of putting," Snead explained. "I now forget the hole entirely. I spot, putt. That is, I pick a spot a few inches in front of my ball and aim for that instead of the hole."

Snead's first place prize was $3,000 with $2,000 going to runner-up Palmer. Peter Thomson of Australia, the British Open champion, was third at plus 19, followed by Marty Furgol, plus 11, Doug Ford, plus 2; and Masters champion Cary Middlecoff and Ted Kroil, even.

Other players were on the minus side in the unique scoring system in which each score is matched with that of each of the others in a foursome.

One Good Round Worth $1,000 To Louise Suggs

READING, Pa. (AP)—It didn't take too much good golf to win the 1955 Women's Eastern Open Golf Tournament—Louise Suggs managed to make one good round earn her the $1,000 first prize.

The Sea Island, Ga., professional trained Faye Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, throughout the first three rounds of the 72-hole tournament but when the chips were down yesterday she sank a 12-foot putt to close out the final 18 with a two under par 69 and capture the $5,000 trophy.

Miss Suggs' total was a fair 291, five strokes over par for the 72 holes. Miss Crocker, after three fine rounds, sank to a 77 yesterday missing a long putt on the 18th that would have tied her with the Georgia lass.

Instead, the South American girl who last week won the Wolverine Open had to settle for a 292 and the $700 second-place money. Her 77 cost her a seemingly unbeatable seven stroke lead that she held entering the final round.

Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., rounded the 6,206-yd. Berkshire Country Club course in 70 strokes for her best performance of the tourney. Her third place earnings came to $600.

Fourth was Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, Tex., who had a 74 for a 300 total. Betty Hicks, of Palm Springs, Calif., and Vonie Colby, Hollywood, Fla., shot closing 73s to tie for fifth at 301.

The last place Pepsi Colas of the Tar Heel League surprised the league leading Exchanges Saturday afternoon 3-2 and handed them their first loss of the season in an overtime struggle at Little League Park.

Jack Whitley pitched the eight inning win for the Pepsis, giving up only five hits over the entire distance. He pitched shutout ball for five innings, but weakened and allowed two runs in the sixth. After the game went into extra innings, Whitley bore down and held the Exchange in control.

Boyd went all the way on the mound for the Exchange. He too gave up only five hits, but wildness and errors hurt him. The winning run in the eighth scored on one of Boyd's wild pitches.

No player on either team was able to get more than one safe hit during the contest. The Pepsis played errorless ball for the full eight innings. The loss means little to the standings. The Exchange have the first half championship sewed up, but the Pepsis are fighting to move into second or third position.

Durocher Has Lost Golden Touch, Fallen On Hard Days

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

These are hard days for the New York Giants. Leo Durocher, the master strategist, has lost the golden touch. The darling leader who always called for the right pitcher and the pinch home run in 1954 has misplaced the combination.

Take yesterday, for instance. It seemed like old times when Dusty Rhodes hit a pinch single to win the opener from Chicago 3-2. Even if it wasn't a homer like Dusty always produced last year, it was enough to please the 18,431 customers.

But the things that happened in the second game seldom happened in 1954. Jim Hearn was rolling along with a 1-0 lead, thanks to Bobby Hofman's homer, and seemed on the way to becoming the first Giant to pitch a shutout this season.

With two out in the ninth, Hearn slipped. A single by Ernie Banks and a walk to Dee Fondy meant trouble. When Manager Stan Hack sent up Frankie Baumholtz to bat for his catcher Clyde McCullough Durocher's bullpen men were warming up. Leo let Hearn throw two balls to Baumholtz and then decided to take him out, shutout or no. Marv Grissom, who always got him out of jams last year, came to the rescue.

Baumholtz hit Grissom's first pitch into the right field seats and that was the ball game 3-1.

"It booted it," said Durocher. "It was all my fault. Hearn was strong and probably would have won the game but I just felt like he should come out. I take all the blame."

Because Brooklyn also split two with St. Louis, dropping the first in 10 innings 9-4 and bouncing back to win the second 10-8, the Giants stayed 12 games back.

It was a day of splits in both leagues. Everybody played two and everybody split except Milwaukee and the Phillies. They probably would have finished all even too, except for the Pennsylvania curfew. Milwaukee won the first game 5-4 but the Phillies were on top 4-0 in the seventh inning of the "suspended" second game. They'll finish that game Monday night before their regularly scheduled contest.

Pittsburgh shaded Cincinnati 7-6 on Ramon Kellias' ninth-inning single but the Redlegs grabbed the second game 5-1 with little Jackie Collum going all the way.

After the heavy firing was over in the American League, Casey Stengel's New York Yankees still were four games in front of Cleveland. Billy Hunter's inside-the-park homer in the 10th enabled the Yanks to square matters with Chicago in the second game 3-2 after Jim Rivera's grand-slam home run and Dick Donovan's lowest woman's score recorded so far was a 72-10-62 by Betty Jane Bobel, playing at the Gloucester, Mass., Country Club.

Life Magazine, which with the PGA, sponsored the competition, estimated close to 35,000 golfers beat Furgol and Miss Berg. The money, paid in fees, goes to the Red Cross and to golfing causes through the National Golf Fund.

Nat'l Dirt Track Racing Champ Is Killed In Wreck

DES MOINES (AP)—Bob Slater, 29-year-old national dirt track champion, was killed yesterday on the same track where he began his big car racing four years ago.

Slater, of Kansas City, was the fourth driver killed on the Iowa Fairgrounds dirt track since September 1951.

The 50-mile feature race was 2 minutes 54 seconds old when Slater's blue Offenhauser roared into the fatal curve and slammed into a retaining wall. He died of multiple fractures.

Slater's wife Mary Lou was among the 12,000 persons who witnessed the accident.

The popular Missourian had come from seventh position to take the lead from Bud Randall, Cincinnati, two laps before Slater, hitting an estimated 90 miles an hour, was 10 lengths in front when the crackup occurred.

Jud Larson, 32, Austin, Tex., transport truck driver, went on to win the race in 45:21.82, an International Motor Contest Assn. record for the distance.

Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, was second and Randall third.

five-hit pitching won the first for the White Sox 6-3.

Washington used Cleveland errorers to thump Bobby Feller 6-4 but the Indians finally caught up with the Senators in the second game 6-3.

Rookie Duke Maas of Detroit shut out Baltimore with three singles 10-0 in the first game. The Orioles snapped a seven-game losing streak in the finale 6-5 as Cal Abrams rapped a two-run homer and a triple.

Kansas City won 5-4 and then lost to Boston 4-3 in a double-header. Hector Lopez' single in the 10th gave the A's the first game. Jackie Jensen threw out the tying run at the plate to save the decision for the Red Sox in the ninth inning of the second game.

In that double-header at the Polo Grounds Sal Maglie won his seventh straight by scattering seven hits in the opener.

Rookie Ken Boyer tied the first game at Brooklyn with a homer in the ninth and hit another homer with two on in the 10th when the Cardinals sewed it up with five runs off Jim Hughes. Eleven Dodgers went to bat in the fourth inning of the second game to score six runs.

Eddie Mathews hit a pair of homers off Robin Roberts for Milwaukee in the opener at Philadelphia and Ernie Johnson pitched fine relief ball.

Home runs accounted for all but one of the day's runs in Chicago. Andy Carey, Mickey Mantle and Hunter homered for the Yanks in the second game and Chico Carrasquel for the Sox. In the first game Rivera and Lollar of Chicago and Carey and Gil McDougald of the Yanks connected for homers.

Vic Avila hit two and Bobby Avila one for Cleveland in their losing first game when a leaky defense proved costly to the Tribe. Al Smith's triple with the bases full featured their winning rally in the second game.

Perennial Softball Leaders Square Off Here Tonight

Johnson last year was these same Granitiers.

This year the Granites have virtually the same team with a few changes at their weak spots of last year. In Dan Gordon and George Fuller they have the next best pitchers in the league behind Johnson.

The game promises to be a thriller with the Darites pitting their outstanding pitching and defensive play against the power of the Granites.

Game time is 7:30 at the south end of the Guy Smith Stadium.

C Battery 295th moved up in the standings with three wins last week but the Carolina Dairy and Granitiers are still far ahead of the pack for first place.

These two perennial leaders square off tonight at 7:30 for the league leadership. The Dairy will be at top strength with hurler L. E. Johnson on the mound. Johnson is the outstanding chucker in the league. Last year he won twenty-five games and lost only four, counting regular season play and tournament play. The only league team to beat

President And Former Classmates At Academy

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—President Eisenhower and his 1915 classmates relived their cadet days at the United States Military Academy today—the 11th anniversary of the Normandy invasion which he led.

For the President, there was a mixture of memories of the happy times of 40 years ago at West Point and the grim day in 1944 when the Allies crossed the English Channel and won a foothold in France.

Eisenhower flew from Washington yesterday afternoon to nearby Stewart Air Force Base, then motored 16 miles to the academy. He was accompanied by his wife.

He started taking part in June week graduation ceremonies a couple of hours after arriving.

Today he planned to march with his classmates of 1915 to a memorial service for the West Point dead. Also on the calendar today: an alumni luncheon at Washington Hall with a brief informal speech by the President; an alumni review of the cadet corps; the traditional graduation parade.

Tonight Eisenhower and his classmates will meet for dinner at the Old Stone Inn.

Tomorrow the President will give the commencement address at graduation exercises for the 469 first classmen being commissioned as second lieutenants. The address will be carried nationwide on television and radio.

It was a happy homecoming for Eisenhower, who is visiting the Point for the first time since 1951, when he still was in the Army.

Natty in a gray suit and soft gray hat, he smiled broadly as he stepped from his plane. He was welcomed by a group of military officials which included Maj. Gen. M. R. Nelson, commander of the Eastern air defense forces.

After a brief rest at his third-floor suite of the Point's Thayer Hotel, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower went to the parade ground for a retreat review and presentation of awards to the cadets. One known as the Eisenhower Award, a large silver tray, was presented by the President himself to Capt. Delbert H. Jacobs, of Seattle.

Women In The Church

Five young women are studying at a National Missions School of Practical Nursing (Presbyterian), opened recently in Cordle, Ga. The school is the first approved school of its kind open to Negroes in the state. An in-service training arrangement with Grady Hospital in Atlanta and the new community hospital in Cordele gives the students additional valuable experience. The school's twin project, a day care center for tots of working mothers maintains an average daily attendance of 15 to 20 children.

The rapidly changing character of the American home challenges the church to keep pace, says Dr. Richard E. Lentz, director of the National Council of Churches' adult and family life departments. "The nation is filling up with children and older adults, and churches are facing the need for more space, more Sunday church school teachers, and completely changed programs for parishioners." This is made evident, he says, by U.S. population changes since 1940, even though the 14 to 24 year old group is ten per cent lower. The number of both those under five and over 75 have increased by more than 70 per cent, and those in the next age groups (five to nine, and 70 to 75) have doubled. Dr. Lentz adds that "it is clear that many adults not now being recruited for that responsibility or thousands of children will either be denied Christian teaching or be crowded into groups too large for good work." With the great wave of children's enrollment now at the threshold of the Sunday church school's junior department, and with no sign of a let-up in the number of children to follow, he points out that "the need for larger quarters and more teachers is permanent."

A combination chapel, social hall and library that has been named in honor of Miss Sallie Lou MacKinnon of Maxton, North Carolina, long-time missionary and missions administrator of the Methodist Church, is under construction in Umtali, Southern Rhodesia. "MacKinnon Hall" will be a part of the African Girls' Hostel, an institution of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. The hostel provides a home for 130 native girls who work in Umtali.

Navy Reservist Is Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Club

At the Kiwanis Club last Friday night, Lt. Sherman J. Husted, executive officer of Naval Reserve Composite Company 6-26, Greenville, was guest speaker.

He explained the operation of the unit and said the men serve without pay, drill regularly, have two weeks' duty each summer, and after 20 years' service may retire at nominal remuneration. Husted showed a sound movie giving the history of naval aviation.

Lt. Com. Elmer R. Linsche, commanding officer of the unit, had charge of the program. President Charles V. Wilkerson presided.

The Kiwanis Club will observe "Family Night" at Kiwanis Park, opposite Elm Street Park, June 17 at 6:30. Supper will be served the members and their wives and children.

Parisians Flock To Hear Graham

PARIS (AP)—Some 8,500 Parisians flocked to a sports arena last night to hear Billy Graham launch his five-day back-to-the-Bible crusade in the French capital.

The 37-year-old North Carolina minister said the opening session in the great Velodrome d'Hiver went "beyond all expectation." A total of 623 persons walked down the aisles to make "decisions for Christ."

The Velodrome, Paris' Madison Square Garden, can seat between 15,000 and 20,000, but the huge stage and podium set up for Umtali, Southern Rhodesia, MacKinnon Hall" will be a part of the African Girls' Hostel, an institution of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. The hostel provides a home for 130 native girls who work in Umtali.

The French world is hungry for spiritual reality. The answer is back to the holy Bible. I believe a spiritual awakening in Paris will have a tremendous impact on the entire world.

Graham said he had not come to ask his hearers to join any particular church but to "give your life to Jesus Christ."

The French Evangelical Alliance is sponsoring Graham's revival campaign.

Wealthy Oilman Dies Yesterday

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A heart attack yesterday killed 92-year-old Paul H. Higgins, who discovered and promoted the famed Spindletop oil field near Beaumont.

Virtually penniless during the 1901-1902 period, Higgins later sold his holdings in it for more than three million dollars.

Many oilmen said he had an unusual ability to spot potential oil fields.

Higgins was one-armed as a result of an accidental shooting during his youth. He quit school in the fourth grade but studied geology and related subjects throughout his life.

Jewelry Stolen As Degree Given

BOSTON (AP)—While Mrs. Helen V. Rose was receiving an honorary degree from Emerson College yesterday a thief was busy stealing $3,000 worth of her jewelry from a nearby cloakroom.

The Newton housewife, a graduate of Emerson who is active in its speech clinic, had worn the jewelry but was advised it was customary not to wear any while receiving a degree.

She placed the jewelry in a hatbox in the cloakroom. After receiving a master of arts degree, she discovered the jewelry and a handbag containing $24 had been stolen.

Sicilians Count A Record Vote

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Sicilians counted a record flood of ballots today. Other NATO nations awaited the outcome as an indication of which way Italy's political currents are running.

The turnout of nearly 2,400,000 voters in yesterday's election was expected to favor the democratic center parties, which man Italy's national government also.

Yesterday's voting was to elect the island's semi-autonomous Regional Assembly. Of those eligible, 86.89 per cent voted. This was 5 per cent higher than in the last regional election, four years ago.

Most observers expected the final results to show a drift away from the Communist left.

American voices played a big part in the election.

On the island where almost everybody has a relative in the United States, thousands of letters from the immigrant kintfolk urged the defeat of communism.

American dollars were another factor. During the campaign Italy received more than 120 million dollars in aid or loans to be spent in Sicily or other regions of Italy's poverty-stricken South.

The last Regional Assembly election was a neck-and-neck race. The Christian Democrats polled 31.21 per cent of the vote and the Communist-Socialist alliance 30.22 per cent. The result in the 90-seat assembly was 30 seats for each of the two big groups, with other representation including Fascist MSI 11, Monarchists 10, Liberals 5, Social Democrats (anti-Communist Socialists) 3, independents 1.

A combination chapel, social hall and library that has been named in honor of Miss Sallie Lou MacKinnon of Maxton, North Carolina, long-time missionary and missions administrator of the Methodist Church, is under construction in Umtali, Southern Rhodesia. THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Sumner

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Jennings and Flint were moving in behind their boss. A brief impulse of common sense moved Kerry to say "Come on, Rusty, let's clear out of here. No use scrapping with him again."

"Your card-sharper friend's giving you good advice, Baines. The both of you better tuck in your tails and crawl for your holes while you're still in shape to crawl."

"I'm just a mindin' my own business," Rusty observed to the world in general. "I aim to keep right on doin' it till I'm ready to quit. Anybody don't like my company ain't obliged to hang around."

He raised his glass. Close as the five of them were standing, no one could have said whether he'd done it on purpose, or whether one of the others had jugged him, but certain it was that the liquor in the glass half-way to Rusty's lips, suddenly splashed upward, and Wharton's face was right there to receive it.

The bartender tapped Wharton with the bung-starter. "You heard me, Wharton, I mean business." Jennings lunged at the big man. The starter described a short, swift arc and he sagged to the floor. "Now, Wharton," the bartender went on imperturbably, "you goint to get up an' behave?"

Cursing, Wharton came to his feet, and Rusty followed his example. Wharton didn't look too good, but Rusty's face was a mess that only Margie could love.

Now Calder spoke.

"If you'd like to clean up a little," he said quietly, "you're both welcome to come up to my room."

Kerry hesitated. There was something about this scar-faced gambler he just didn't trust. And why the sudden interest in him and Rusty, when he hadn't lifted a finger to keep them from being beaten up and thrown in jail last night?

"I've got a bottle upstairs," Calder added. "Lot better liquor than you'd get here or any other saloon in town."

There was a howl of pain as the raw liquor stung his eyes, and then he flung himself on Rusty, the weight of his clumsy rush carrying the leader and lighter man back over a table. Rusty, Wharton and the table went down together with a thunderous crash of splintering wood and breaking glasses that quite drowned out the thud of Kerry's fist against Jennings' jaw, as the latter moved in to help his friend.

"Your boss started this little ruckus all by himself, Jennings. Let him finish it—if he can."

Out of the corner of his eye, Kerry saw a flash of red spangled skirts as Margie edged expertly through the crowd to the bartender's corner. His head turned round to follow her swift progress, and he paid for his unweariness with a jab on the side of the head from Flint.

"Awright now! You boys had your fun. Now cut it out 'fore somebody gets hurt." The bartender moved in a massive man with cold eyes, a rock-like jaw, and a business-like bung-starter gripped in an immense fist. Wharton and Rusty were still thrashing on the floor beside the overturned table, Wharton on top pinning Rusty down with his greater weight and hammering at him with heavy fists.

"You near wrecked the place last night," the bartender declared. "Took the best part o' the day to clean up the mess. Ain't figurin' on doin' it again."

Wharton muttered, "I'm payin' for any damage I do."

Rusty's grin widened. "That's right friendly of you, Lon. We accept your kind invitation with pleasure, don't we, Kerry?"

"Come on back to my place, Rusty," Margie urged. "I'll make you coffee—you need it."

"Sure, honey. You just wait here while we wash our faces an' kinda put ourselves together, an' we'll see you home."

Then glaring at Wharton, he added, "and I'll be seein' you, later, too."

A fist pounding on the door jerked Kerry out of sleep. He sat up and sank back with a groan. What was going on inside his skull? It felt full of hot sand and sore as if a horse had kicked him, and there was a brassy taste in his mouth.

As he gingerly opened his eyes and looked around, the events of last night began to come back. Calder had brought them up here to his room over the Longhorn—and then what? He could remember Rusty, with his stained shirt stripped off, sloshing cold water over his head, and Calder pouring drinks for both of them—and then it was all blank.

The knocking persisted, not very loud, but with the sort of desperate urgency that had wakened him. He sent a look at Rusty sprawled in a chair, his shirt still off, and dragging himself to the door on unwilling legs.

Margie pushed her way past him

Margie pushed her way past him

and pulled the door shut behind her before he had a chance to ask what she was doing there.

"Where's Rusty?" Her voice was a husky whisper, her eyes enormous and dark in a face that was white to the lips. She spotted the sleeper in the chair and flew to him, began shaking him frantically. "Rusty, wake up! You've got to!"

The shaking produced about as much effect as if she had shaken a heap of clothes. She swung her head around to Kerry. "Get some water!"

Kerry discovered a pitcher. "Here you are, Margie—but I sure didn't think he'd had that much to drink."

The girl snapped, "I've seen men like this before. He's been doped."

Her eyes didn't encourage questions. She dashed the pitcher of tepid water into Rusty's face. He came to, spluttering and gasping; then, as his eyes lighted on Margie, he blinked and smiled. "Why, hello there, honey..."

"Rusty, you didn't do it, did you? Oh, I know you didn't!"

"Look, honey," Rusty pleaded. "It's too early in the morn', an' I got too bad a head to be guessin' riddles. What didn't I—?"

"You haven't got time to ask questions," Margie cut him off. "Get up and get your shirt on. You've both got to get out of town fast. I've got horses out in back—and don't stand there gapping at me—" she added, in a tone that allowed of no argument.

Approximate loading time for 150 sticks	60 minutes	60 minutes
Approximate unloading time for 150 sticks	26 minutes	less than 2 minutes
Approximate TOTAL loading and unloading time	86 minutes	62 minutes

86 minutes - 62 minutes = 24 minutes SAVED FROM EACH LOAD OF YOUR TOBACCO

WITH APPROXIMATELY 10 LOADS PER DAY—THIS IS A TOTAL DAILY SAVING OF APPROXIMATELY 240 MINUTES OR 4 HOURS FOR YOUR ENTIRE CREW AND HARVESTER.

- 4 hours—approximately 600 sticks more production with your Roanoke-Holiday over any other harvester.
- 4 hours—approximately $18.00 per day labor saving for you with your Roanoke-Holiday over any other harvester.
- 4 hours—higher production, money in your pocket or both with your Roanoke-Holiday over any other harvester.
- With the ROANOKE-HOLIDAY TOBACCO HARVESTER you can save in actual labor alone over any harvester with an unloading elevator up to $540.00 in 30 days.
- PLUS
- 2 complete handlings of each of your sticks for quantity and quality.
- This is why the Roanoke-Holiday Senior with its unloading elevator can give you up to 1500 sticks in approximately 10 working hours.
- If high production is not desired, your harvesting can be completed approximately 25% quicker with the unloading elevator system.
- THIS SAVINGS IS 1/4 THE PRICE OF THE ENTIRE HARVESTER. THE ELEVATOR ALONE CAN PAY FOR YOUR ENTIRE HARVESTER IN 4 YEARS.

Amoco announces a new way to make gas, a new conception of octane

A few short months ago a man pressed a button . . . the words "on stream" echoed from place to place . . . and a new petroleum giant came to life. Oil pulsed through its arteries. And at Texas City, Texas, the world's largest multi-million dollar Ultraforming unit had begun creating the new Amoco-Gas.

From this mighty oil refinery has come a new, high-octane gas . . . made by a patented method, the most advanced known to science. A clear, white gas with such natural anti-knock quality that it is the only gas that meets modern car engine needs without the use of lead. It's the new Ultraformed Amoco-Gas.

STANDARD ONE-CYLINDER LABORATORY TEST ENGINE
This universal "Octane Rating" engine accurately determines the octane rating of every gas—in the laboratory. It does not measure the harmful effects of lead deposits in an automobile engine.
It tells only half of octane story

THE REAL TEST ENGINE IS IN YOUR CAR ON THE ROAD!
You can only measure the usable octane value of any gas in an automobile engine in use. Here leaded gas can cause metallic deposits that waste octane. All the octane value of

American Cancer Society Still Sees Risk To Smokers

Study Discloses Fewer Cases For Ex-Smokers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Men who quit smoking cigarettes probably cut their risk of dying of lung cancer compared with men who keep on smoking, the American Cancer Society reported today.

The study finds the cancer death rate among a group of ex-smokers was only half that of smokers.

But society officials said that due to the small numbers of smokers and ex-smokers involved, it cannot be "proven beyond reasonable doubt" that quitting reduces the risk of lung cancer. They declared more evidence is needed.

This is a main finding in the latest report of a continuing society study of nearly 100,000 men, aged 50 to 70, and their smoking habits and what they die of.

Criticizing the statistics, Timothy W. Hartnett, chairman of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, said the study "does not establish any cause and effect relationship."

Just a year ago the first report, indicating cigarettes play a role

Poll Attacked By Tobacco Defender

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A poll of 1,000 cancer researchers, chest surgeons and pathologists finds a majority believe heavy cigarette smoking may lead to lung cancer, Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society, said today.

His poll was challenged by Timothy W. Hartnett, a tobacco spokesman, as being considered by "competent opinion research authorities" to be "biased, nonscientific and filled with shortcomings and defects."

Hartnett is chairman of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, sponsoring research on tobacco and smoking.

Cameron, speaking to the American Medical Assn. said he put it in statement to the medical or research experts:

"There is probably a causal (cause) relationship between heavy cigarette smoking and lung cancer."

He said 92 per cent of those who responded agreed with this.

He said 50 to 63 per cent of the respondents agreed that "heavy smoking of cigarettes may lead to lung cancer."

Hartnett declared "the widely known opinion experts, Elmo Roper and Associates, comment that this statement is so phrased

Byzantine Art Found In Restoring Old Church

By FRED ZUSY
ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—A treasure trove of Byzantine art is emerging through restoration work in a little 14th Century monastery church near ruins of the great wall that once guarded this 2,600-year-old city.

The church is Kahriye Djami, also known as the Church of Christ-in-the-Fields. Connoisseurs say it contains the world's finest collection of Byzantine art.

Restoration work, financed by American donations, has uncovered an unparalleled array of rare mosaics and frescoes long concealed behind plaster and whitewash.

Prof. Paul A. Underwood of Washington, D.C., heads the American restoration mission from the Byzantine Institute and the Harvard University-Dumbarton Oaks Research Library in Georgetown.

Underwood's team, working with tiny brushes, scalpels and moistened bits of cotton, has more than a year's labor in front of it.

So much has been uncovered and restored, however, that Underwood says there is no doubt the little church will be recognized as "the jewel of Byzantine art."

Art experts, gathering here Sept. 16 for a world Byzantine congress,

Indians Ask For Use Of Money To Fight Taxes

BARNIA, Ont. (AP)—Canada's Indians are asking the federal government to turn the key to their war chest so they can finance a court battle against paying income tax.

Advocates from the Maritime Caplanos from the Pacific Coast and tribesmen from the forests, plains and farmlands in between votes this week to ask the government to allow tribal councils to dip into tribal funds for the fight.

The funds are earned by rental of tribal lands and similar means.

The action was taken at the annual convention of the North American Indian Brotherhood, which speaks for many of Canada's 151,000 Indians. Indians are not taxed on reservation income but argue the exemption should be extended to off-reservation earnings.

The government holds the purse strings on tribal funds, so permission is necessary.

Locomotive Bell Will Soon Adorn Indians' Chapel

OMAHA (AP)—The "Bell for Patuanak" wore a brassy luster and sported a new clapper today.

It once signaled the approach of a locomotive. But before long it will sound the hour of worship for the Chippewa Indians in the remote village of Patuanak on Pimpu Lake in northern Saskatchewan.

The parish priest, the Rev. Louis Morand, told five Omaha policemen on a fishing trip of his wish for a bell "not too small and not too big."

With the help of Omaha Police Chief Harry Green they obtained the bell from the Union Pacific Railroad. It was removed from an old locomotive at Cheyenne, Wyo., and shipped to Omaha.

A special shop crew refurbished it to gleaming brightness. A new clapper, swivel and rope hinge were fashioned.

Next Thursday the five Omaha policemen, Sgts. William Andrew and Eugene Mahoney, and Patrolmen George Shastak, Floyd Beam and Walter Cooper will load the bell onto a trailer and it will begin its 1,800-mile trip to Patuanak.

Shrimp Gambler Draws Prison

HOUSTON (AP)—Robert Wesley Brewer, 28, who gambled away his employer's $10,000 truck load of frozen shrimp, has been sentenced to 15 months in federal prison.

Brewer claimed the poker game in which he lost the shrimp to five Houston gamblers was rigged. Federal agents recovered $4,900 in cash from the gamblers, who had sold the shrimp.

Brewer was charged with theft from interstate shipment. He was supposed to have delivered the shrimp to Detroit from Brownsville.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former actress Dorothy Merrick and her rancher-husband John M. Knoll went to Domestic Relations Court to talk about a divorce. They conferred for half an hour with Judge Elmer D. Doyle. When they emerged they were planning a second honeymoon in Hawaii. They have four children.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Quiet progress was made today by the stock market as it pushed upward around record high levels.

The return to the old peaks of late April follows a moderate six-week consolidating reaction.

The rise carried prices up around 2 points in a few cases. Most gains and losses were fractional with many leading issues holding unchanged.

Trading was at a moderate pace, less than Friday's 2,500,000 shares traded with the market making substantial headway.

Motors maintained a steady front today throughout crucial stages of negotiations between Ford and the United Auto Workers over a contract.

Steels were firm with U.S. Steel stronger after opening on 8,000 shares up 1/4 at 44 1/2. Metal issues were in demand as were some chemicals.

Brokers have been looking to railroads to provide market leadership because of their good earnings position and popularity right now. The rails, however, maintained a mixed or slightly higher position most of the session.

Silver Service Given Church As Memorial Gift

A silver communion service was presented Memorial Baptist Church yesterday in memory of H. Matt Phillips and Bernard W. Spilman who were killed in service during World War II.

The communion service was given to the church by Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr., mother of Lt. Phillips, and Mrs. J. B. Spilman, mother of Cadet Officer Spilman. Phillips was a member of the Army Air Force, and Spilman served with the Maritime Service.

Presentation of the service to the church was made by E. E. Rawl Sr. In accepting the silver communion service on behalf of the members of the church, Rev. Percy B. Upchurch expressed to the donors the appreciation of the congregation for the gift.

League Of Women Voters' Program Cited

N.C. Consultant Addresses Local Provisional Body

Mrs. Ralph Braibanti, state consultant for the League of Women Voters, gave an outline of the national League program when the local provisional group held its first regular meeting Friday night at City Hall.

Mrs. Braibanti told members of the Greenville League, just recently organized, how the national program is selected, how it is carried out and the net results of the efforts expended. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Philip Handler, state organization chairman, of Durham.

Mrs. Michael Luskin, local League president, spoke briefly to the members of the Greenville group's responsibility. "As League members," Mrs. Luskin said, "we are dedicated to learning together and encouraging participation in political parties of our choice. As members of the League, we never support a candidate, but we do take a stand on issues; however, only after discussion of the facts and consideration of the interests of the community as a whole—and then only after a majority vote."

Mrs. Luskin stressed the steps necessary for the group to become a regular League: show growth in membership, and have a current local agenda. She noted that membership in the League is open to anyone at all times.

Mrs. Samuel Sewall, vice president and resource chairman, who signed to each division of the survey into 12 sections; characteristics: town government; personnel; finance and equipment; public health and sanitation; public welfare; protection; fire, police and jails; streets, public transportation and public utilities; education; recreation; housing; planning and zoning and inducements to industry; political organization and elections.

Mrs. Sewall said two members of the League will volunteer to be assigned to each division of the survey. The findings will be compiled and the finished product printed and made available to individuals, groups, schools and other interested organizations.

Mrs. Luskin told of vacancies on certain committees which need to be filled and encouraged all members to volunteer their services. She also announced that the Greenville Unitarian Fellowship has invited the League to hold a public forum on city government. The group accepted this invitation, and the forum will take place in the fall.

It was decided that regular meetings of the League be held on the third Monday of each month at 8 p. m. in the Council chamber of City Hall. No meetings will be held in July, August or December.

Clean-Up Time On Church Lot

For members of St. Paul's Episcopal Church it's clean up time as they begin the job of clearing away the underbrush in the ravine and on the hill behind the church. The area located to the side and behind the church, between Third and Fourth Sts., was recently acquired by the Episcopal Church for future building. A portion of the area is being made into picnic and play grounds. Pastor of the church is Dr. Wallace I. Wolverton. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor.)

Begin Paving Of New Parking Lot

Workmen this morning began the job of paving the city's new parking lot at the corner of Fifth and Washington Sts.

Paving will constitute the final phase of construction of the lot. Autos will park along paved walkways around the outer edge of the area and on either side of a concrete island which extends into the center of the area. Parking meters are set in the walkways.

Pavers will also hard surface a number of streets upon completion of the parking lot, City Manager James S. Hughes said today.

To be paved are: two blocks of Ridgeway St., one block of Ione, one block of Davis, one block of 12th between Washington and Evans, one block of Hickory, one block of Manhattan and one block of Spruce.

A block of Nash which has been curbed and gutted will be paved at present because water lines have not been installed.

Norfolk Workers Were Picketing Ford Co. Plant

NORFOLK, Va. — Union workers at the Norfolk assembly plant of the Ford Motor Co., threw up picket lines at about 5:30 a. m. today as negotiations between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers continued in Detroit.

Plant Manager G. L. Lemoyne said the picket lines were "very orderly" and that salaried workers were being allowed to enter the plant.

The plant employs some 1,700, of whom 1,440 are hourly workers. The plant has been turning out an average of 441 completed cars and trucks a day.

Lemoyne said local union leaders claim they were notified by the CIO in Detroit to go out on strike.

Meanwhile in Richmond the Ford parts depot manager said he was notified early today by Union Chairman Robert C. Smith that the union workers would not report today.

Local Ground Observer Unit Joins In Exercise

Operating from a make-shift post Saturday, the Greenville Ground Observers unit took part in a test alert involving several southeastern states.

Local observers reported aircraft sightings to the filter center at Durham, according to director Jake Hadley Barring difficulties with a ten-party telephone connection, all went according to plan, he said.

The temporary observation post was established at the fire tower where observers reported at least one instance where they were unable to contact the filter center when the party line was "busy" and its users refused to give it up; the line was tied up later in the evening when for a while someone on the line apparently left a telephone off its receiver.

"Fortunately," said Hadley, "in the midst of the later tie-up, there were no calls necessitated."

The post is expected to be again called into service for another test alert exercise in the near future.

"We're still badly short of observers," says the local director; "over a hundred are now signed up, but we'd need three times as many if an emergency arose... and they'd all need training."

Two observers served on each one-hour shift during the test alert which began at 9 a. m. and ended at 9 p. m.

Approximately 250 observation posts in 87 North Carolina counties in the Durham Air Defense Filter Center Area were involved. The exercise was entitled "Skytrain IV."

ENTIRE CLASS — Elizabeth May Swanscott was the entire graduating class at the high school here last night. Principal speaker at the baccalaureate service was her father, the Rev. Lewis Swanscott, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Government estimates indicate it costs from $13,000 to $55,000 per classroom to build new public schools, depending on location.
