Formal Wedding Unites Couple

Betty Lois McGowan Weds Kent Lee

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was the setting of a formal candlelight ceremony on Wednesday afternoon, June 8th, at four o'clock in the afternoon when Miss Betty Lois McGowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McGowan of Greenville, became the bride of Kent Edward Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh E. Lee of Greenville.

The Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the bride, officiated at the ceremony which was preceded by a program of organ music and songs presented by Mrs. Paul Toll as organist and Miss Denyse McLawhorn as soloist. Miss McLawhorn's selections included "Beloved It is Morn," "The Wedding Benediction," and "O Perfect Love." As the couple left the altar, the bells from the church tower were rung.

Lighted cathedral candles, white snapdragons, white chrysanthemums, Bermuda Lillies and bridal greenery were used in profuse arrangements to form a background around the chancel for the wedding party. The pews for the immediate families were marked with flowers and nylon tulle. Mr. Lee served as best man for his son, and groomsmen were Louis S. Howe Jr. of Raleigh, Milton Foley of Greenville, Floyd Hendrix of Raleigh, Douglas Allen of Rocky Mount, Graham Flanagan and Leon Moore of Greenville.

Mrs. Louis Collie, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of coral nylon tulle over taffeta. The soft neckline with wide bertha of white lace was heightened by a shirred fitted bodice. Her very full skirt was worn over a hoop and with this she wore matching head-dress and white shantung shoes. She carried an arm bouquet of moss green cymbidiums and stephanotis tied with moss green satin ribbon.

Attending as bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Dupree of Angier, Miss Mary Fendergraft of Durham, Miss Betty Gayle Raynor, cousin of the bride, Miss Sara Lee, sister of the groom, Miss Nancy Procter and Miss Mary Dunn Beatty, all of Greenville. Junior bridesmaids were Misses Carole McGowan, sister of the bride, and Nancy Forehand. All wore dresses like that of the matron of honor's and carried similar bouquets.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was a Maurer Creation of luxurious imported hand-clipped Chantilly lace over glowing satin with tight fitting bodice and a scoop neckline enhanced with tracers of sequin embroidery. The beautiful bouffant skirt worn over a hoop cascaded into a flowing train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a most becoming headpiece of matching lace, pearls, and sequins. She carried a formal cascade bouquet of white cymbidiums and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. McGowan, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a Prima Creation of waltz length mauve silk organza over taffeta with mauve accessories and a corsage of claret cymbidiums. Mrs. Lee, mother of the groom, wore a D Strauss eggshell cotton lace with moss green hat and a corsage of green cymbidiums.

Mrs. Lee is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended St. Mary's College and East Carolina College. Mr. Lee received his education in the city schools and State College of Raleigh. He is now a pilot in the Marine Corps. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Lee will make their home in Jacksonville, N. C., where Mr. Lee is stationed. For traveling Mrs. Lee changed into a Dan Millstein two-piece eggshell silk and cotton suit trimmed in rhinestone. With this she wore cocoa accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Immediately following the ceremony Mrs. and Mrs. Floyd McGowan entertained at a reception in the home on East Ninth Street, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lee and their wedding party.

Beautiful arrangements of snapdragons, double tapers roses and baby's breath in blended summer colors were used throughout the home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Beatty welcomed the guests and presented them to Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Raynor who introduced them to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Edward Lee and their wedding party.

Mrs. Jesse Jordan received at the dining room door.

The bridal table in the dining room was covered with an imported cut work linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white snapdragons and pink roses flanked by spun sugar wedding bells artistically decorated. Silver candelabra with white tapers were placed at either side of the arrangement.

Mrs. Lloyd Allen served bridal fees and guests helped themselves to decorated wedding cakes, rum cakes, salted nuts, mints and tea pastries. Guests passed from the dining room to the terrace where Mrs. Mark Stokes served them punch. At the register was Mrs. James L. Evans, Mrs. John L. Forehand and Miss Ann Stokes presiding in the gift room and goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Redd.

East Carolina College alumni are responding with interest to the new Friends of the East Carolina Library project recently launched by the College Alumni Association. James W. Butler, secretary of the association, states:

A campaign to further the plan of increasing the book collection at the Joyce Memorial Library on the campus will soon be launched, he has announced. Alumni and friends of the college will be solicited for contributions of books, periodicals, and cash donations.

More than six hundred volumes have been received since January of this year at the college alumni office; and most of these have already been placed in the college library. Additional contributions from individuals and from alumni chapters are being received from time to time Mr. Butler says. James L. Whitfield of Raleigh, president of the East Carolina Alumni Association during 1953-1954, heads the project as chairman of the Friends of the East Carolina Library committee. Mr. Whitfield and his wife, the first contributors to the project, presented a gift of more than twenty volumes.

Mrs. Grace Helms Folger of Goldsboro is vice chairman of the project, and Mr. Butler is secretary. Advisory members of the committee include Wendell W. Smiley, East Carolina librarian; Dr. James Poindexter and Dr. Louise Greer of the college department of English; and Mrs. Ellen Buffkin Stanley of New Bern and Floyd D. APRON TRIO... These gay cover-up aprons for the whole family are easy to make at home in bright sturdy denim, with standard patterns. Applique designs individualize each apron. Children's aprons may double as sun dresses, since they are completely closed in back.

Cover-Up Aprons Going Gay Today

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Little girls don't mind covering up their pretty dresses when Mom outfits the whole family in matching wrap-around aprons decorated to the taste of the wearer.

For helping in the kitchen, keeping clean before a party or just saving on laundry problems, the cover-up apron is the answer to a busy mother's needs.

Though the aprons are made from separate patterns, they are exactly alike with snug front buttoning, brightly contrasting binding and big cobbler pockets. The individual touches come from the applique decorations—an apple and a glass of milk for little sister, an ice cream soda and a cupcake for big sister and a doughnut and coffee for Mom.

Local sewing center experts suggest you select lightweight denim in gay colors, perhaps making two aprons each for the children. The grown-up apron requires three yards of 39-inch fabric, the smaller sizes proportionately less.

You can make full use of the attachments for your sewing machine in making these aprons. The buttonholer will make quick work of the buttonholes; the automatic zigzagger will take care of stitching on the appliques; the multi-slotted binder will save hemming and facing by stitching on the binding smoothly and quickly.

Transfer designs for the appliques are included with the patterns. These may be ironed onto the scraps of the fabric used for the

Weather Bureau Finds No Evidence Atomic Explosions Affect Weather

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau says it has been unable to find any evidence that atomic explosions have had — or can have — any effect on the weather beyond a few miles from the blast.

"Although it is not possible to prove that atomic explosions have or have not influenced the weather, it is believed that this study has shown that such an effect is unlikely." The bureau recently told Congress after a study of the question.

The bureau investigators—meteorologists L. Machta and D. L. Harris—noted that their survey was limited to the effects of atomic explosions touched off at the Nevada Proving Grounds up to this year.

But they said also that preliminary examination of available information from the H-bomb tests in the Pacific "does not indicate that any obvious changes in the weather have been produced by these explosions outside the test area."

Background of the Weather Bureau study was this: Both the bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission had been getting letters from people in many parts of the world blaming unpleasant weather on the atomic explosions.

The bureau had not previously been able to pin down any association between the blasts and poor weather, but it wanted to be sure. Questionnaires were sent to most of the organizations in the United States employing meteorologists.

Out of 80 replies received, about 50 per cent said they could see "no possible connection" between atomic blasts and subsequent weather.

The others offered these theories as to how there might possibly be such a link:

1. That atomic "debris"—that is, radioactive particles from the bomb itself, and dust and dirt stirred up by the blast — might serve as a "cloud seeding agent." That is, the debris might touch off rainfall in the same way that dry ice or silver iodide sometimes can if dropped into the right kind of a cloud.

2. That the radioactive character of the debris might produce changes in the electrical character of the atmosphere, possibly leading to observable weather effects.

3. That the dust resulting from an atomic blast might interfere with the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth.

The Weather Bureau—equipped with information from the AEC and aided by cooperative studies carried on by Air Force and private scientists—believes it has knocked down these three suggestions this way:

1. Experiments show. The bureau says, that Nevada dust has "very poor" properties for serving as a cloud-seeder.

2. As for changing the electrical properties of the atmosphere, atomic debris deposited on the ground. But, the bureau says, the conductivity of the air near the ground. But, the bureau says, the change would be in such a shallow layer near the ground that it would be insignificant in terms of usual atmospheric phenomena.

An atomic cloud passing overhead could increase the electrical conductivity of the air in a local sense. But perhaps its most significant effect — and there's no proof of this — would be a beneficial one, in that the electrical change might tend to reduce the amount of lightning from a thunderstorm cropping up coincidentally in the area at about the same time.

3. As for atomic "dust" interfering with the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth, the bureau says this:

It is true that a sufficiently large dust cloud can interfere with solar radiation—a fact demonstrated by the 1883 eruption of the Krakatoa volcano in the Dutch East Indies which tossed dust equivalent to several cubic miles of earth into the air.

"However," Machta and Harris said in their original report in the technical journal Science, "according to the best available information, there appear to be many orders of magnitude separating the amount of dust required to produce any significant reduction in worldwide incoming radiation and that produced by the Nevada explosions."

What about the possibility of weather being affected just by the blast force of the explosion? The Weather Bureau says none of the weathermen it quizzed felt that the energy of the explosion itself could have a significant effect on the weather.

The Weather Bureau also discounts the theory that tornadoes have become more frequent since the United States began testing bombs in Nevada.

Its rebuttal: While there has been an increase in the number of tornadoes reported, it is believed that much of it can be traced to better reporting systems, rather than to a real increase in tornado frequency itself.

Neither was any connection found between atomic blasts and the droughts that have affected areas of the Southwest and the plains states in recent years.

More Spray Cans Than Ever For Future Business
CHICAGO (AP)—Spray dispensers which were first used to spread insect killer in World War II jungle fighting have developed into a major U.S. business. About 185 million units were filled last year by 105 firms for a 190-million-dollar business.

More than 300 products from shave lather to paint remover are now packaged in spray cans under 500 brands. Included are hair oil, deodorants, suntan oil, hand lotion, perfumes.

George Barr who heads one of the largest firms, says prospects are that you will be using even more spray cans in the future. Not only is the market for present products expanding, but more products are being spray-can-packaged, he reports.

Himself handicapped by a missing leg, Barr says the work of filling the cans is important in employment of handicapped people.

Driver E. L. Walden said, "I get compliments from truck stop waitresses—all the way from here to Chattanooga."

see no reason at this time for a special session.

This emphasizes the important influence of the experiences of the next school term. If these experiences show further and more drastic action advisable, a special session can be called next summer and a similar amendment submitted in ample time for the people to vote upon it in November of next year—which is the earliest they could vote in any event.

That gets back to the original premise that no special session will be called this year, but odds are about even—maybe slightly in favor of a special session—that one will be called for sometime next June.

Greenies Cling To Lead, Whip Rocky Mount

Flye Hurls Six-Hit, 7-4 Win For Locals

GREENVILLE (AP)—Greenie's scored. Rocky Mount's left fielder... only one man got more than one hit off Flye... The Leafs' Sam Davis had a home run and a single... The roundtripper came in the second inning with nobody aboard.

The Leafs scored twice in the first inning to grab a momentary lead. B. McZe, second baseman, pounced on a single, followed by S. Parker's one-bagger. A. Denison, shortstop, hit a sharp grounder that was error-ed and Melke scored. Another infield error and Parker tallied.

It was the 13th victory for Greenville against seven losses and its eighth win in the last 11 games. The Greenies now stand one full game ahead of second place New Bern.

The stout-hearted little right-hander allowed as many as two hits in only one inning and sat six Rocky Mount Leafs down on strikeouts. He walked only three men.

Farmville Wants Veteran Catcher

By BRUCE PHILLIPS Reflector Sports Editor
"We'd be with them on top if we could get a good catcher and put Street... Tugwell back in the outfield," Marvin Speight was saying prior to last night's game between his Farmville club and New Bern.

The Farmville business manager, a long time baseball man in North Carolina, couldn't over-emphasize the need of a veteran backstop to go with a team he calls otherwise sound. "Tugwell has been doing a good job there but he's needed in the outfield. We've got every other thing needed to click—good speed, great hitting and able defense."

Although Farmville was two big games out of first place in the Coastal Plain League standings with a 10-9 won-lost record before last night's game Speight supported his speculation with facts. He pointed out that the club was hitting near 300 as a team and that the miscues have been infrequent.

Tribe Batsmen Going For Fences But Losing Games

By ED WILKS The Associated Press
It might be a good idea if General Manager Hank Greenberg told his Cleveland Indians to forget about breaking the American League home run record and got them busy hitting the singles that win ball games.

Particularly since the Tribe is snarled in a slump just when the first-place New York Yankees—the team with the homer patent—are due to pay a weekend call. Greenberg got the homer idea last spring. "Wouldn't be surprised if we hit 196," said Hank, with an eye on the record 182 hit by the 1936 Yankees.

Farmville Tops New Bern By 4-1

NEW BERN—Farmville defeated New Bern, 4-1 in a Coastal Plain League game here last night. After each team scored in the first inning, Farmville clinched the win with a single run in the fourth and added two insurance tallies in the seventh.

Big One Didn't Get Away

Want More Data On Govm't Deals

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee called Chicago hatmaker Harry Lev for further testimony today in the wake of punitive action against two procurement officials linked with his activities.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) said Lev still has "a lot to explain" after two days of testimony about his dealings with the government.

The Air Force announced last night it has filed court - marital charges against Capt. Raymond Wool who formerly headed military clothing procurement activities in New York. Wool is now in New York, where his wife gave birth to a baby Monday, but is assigned to Dayton, Ohio, pending action on the charges. He could not be reached for comment.

The Air Force said he was charged with procuring doctor's bills to be paid for him by an Air Force contractor; with falsification of travel vouchers, and would question Lev at length concerning services rendered.

The Army announced the summary suspension of Ferdinand Tartaglia, former research and development chief of the Quartermaster Corps' clothing purchase division at Philadelphia, after Lev had named him as his partner in a feather business.

At the time of suspension Tartaglia was supervisory military clothing specialist at Natick, Mass.

Wool has denied vigorously hearsay testimony before the subcommittee that he "got $50,000" to swing a big uniform cap contract in 1953 to Lev's Mid-City Uniform Cap Co. of Chicago.

The subcommittee is studying evidence of possible graft in the buying of uniform clothing items for the armed forces.

The committee announced it is studying his relations with Marvin S. Rubin, whom Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) has called a "payoff man" and "fixer" for both Lev and Leon M. Levy, a New York business rival of Lev.

Levy has testified he put up about $7,000 to bribe government workers, and he is the man who swore that Rubin told him Wool "got $50,000."

Levy testified yesterday that he and Tartaglia have been partners in a chicken feather processing business since 1952 or 1953. He said he does not know whether Tartaglia received the proceeds of a $4,000 cashier's check Lev purchased in May 1953.

McClellan sternly told him it appeared the money went "indirectly" to Tartaglia and that Tartaglia got credit for it as an investment in the feather business. Lev said he had put up $31,500 of the capital to organize the firm, the General Feather Fiber Corp., and that Tartaglia invested $18,500, at a time when he and Tartaglia were having many discussions about government contracts. He did not say where the plant is located.

Levy also disclosed he had distributed gifts of $2,600 worth of "very special" smoked sturgeon since 1952 to 38 military and civilian officials who, the subcommittee said, had varied degrees of authority in awarding and supervising military clothing contracts.

Scene-Stealer Jack Oakie Will Be Seen Again

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—That veteran scene stealer Jack Oakie will be up to his old tricks tonight when he appears on CBS' Shower of Stars. But he's had to learn some new strategy for TV.

Oakie is enacting a scene from "Burlesque," which he performed earlier in the season. "I didn't know they had retakes in TV too," he cracked.

But he's just as happy the scene is being repeated. Reason: he gets to uphold his honor as a scene stealer.

"I made a mistake the first time," he remarked analytically. "I was over in a corner of the hotel room dancing with Dan Dailey. I didn't realize the camera was going to cut to the door, where Dick Foran was coming in."

"This time I'll be over by the door. Foran will have to shove me aside to get through."

Yes, the word "honor" is used in connection with a scene stealer. Although the craft has criminal connotations, it is both ancient and honorable. It's the scene stealers who live the show.

"When they ran the rushes, they saw I had the glass in one hand for one scene, then in the other. They had to shoot a closeup of me shifting the glass."

"I used to have fun with Ned Sparks, who was one of the great scene stealers. The only way I could top him was to keep him off balance by pushing him. Finally he blew up and said, 'Keep your blankety-blank hands off me.'"

Oakie explained why he had to learn new tricks for TV: "In pictures, we kept our eye on the cutter. You could usually devise ways to make him cut to you. But in TV, the director is King. If he doesn't put one of the cameras on you, you're dead."

Hardluck Farmer Gets Cotton Bale Windfall

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—A farmer who suffered losses on corn and tomatoes wore a big grin today. He's got half interest in the nation's first bale of 1955 cotton.

That means in all probability a $2,000 windfall may be more, for Jerry Block. He says he can use his share of the auction money.

A hardy strain of cotton that blossomed out of almost bone-dry soil provided the first bale.

They finished plucking it late yesterday from a 240-acre Rio Grande Valley tract operated by Block and Will Wallace some 15 miles east of Edinburg. Picking began Saturday.

Ginned at Edinburg from 1,647 pounds of seed cotton, the 437-pound bale was sped some 35 miles here under police escort. It was officially registered in the Harlingen police station at 48 minutes and 40 seconds after 6 p.m.

Last year's first bale was cashed in for $4,500. The normal price is around $150 a bale.

Block, 50, is a pioneer Edinburg farmer. Wallace, 38, farms and runs a cotton gin and vegetable picking shed at Edinburg.

"We'll split the auction money 50-50," Block said happily.

"What will I do with my share? Man that's easy. I'll pay off some of those bills I've incurred because of crop losses earlier this year."

"I'm not kiddin' you, mister. There's just been no market for corn or tomatoes. Sweet corn roasting ears have gone begging. You can't even give them away. It's been rough."

Block and Wallace planted their cotton Jan. 23. It flourished despite drought and no irrigation. It is paymaster cotton, a type developed for dry West Texas and grown in dryland sections of the valley. Most of the valley is irrigated.

The valley, a semitropical strip at Texas' south tip, annually produces the first bale because of its early growing start.

The Harlingen Chamber of Commerce will auction the bale within a week. The growers get $1,500 from the chamber for bringing the bale here, plus whatever it auctions for.

Last year's winner, Ray Barnick of Mission, auctioned his bale for $3,000.

Although Australia is 200 times as large as this country, each has about 8 1/2 million people.

No Stop Light, But He Waited

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—There it was, a truck as big as a house, parked smack in the middle of a city intersection.

A policeman wanted to know why the truck didn't move by the driver, Charles H. Turner, 22, of Moberly, Mo., said he was waiting for the light to change.

There was only one thing wrong with his story. There wasn't any light at the intersection.

Turner was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail sentence on a charge of drunk driving.

Telephone Cable Will Span Ocean

NEWINGTON, N.H. (AP)—Workmen today are in the first phase of a 40-million-dollar project to link North America and Britain with the world's first transoceanic telephone cable.

When the project is completed—expected in the summer of 1956—2,000 miles of cable will stretch under the Atlantic, which in places is 2 1/2 miles deep.

The cable will contain 36 conversation circuits—30 for Anglo-American calls and six for calls between Canada and England.

That almost triples the present radio-telephone capacity between the United States and Britain.

The cable was planned to do away with the poor connections, electrical disturbances and the voice fading of the present radio-telephone circuits.

The British cable-laying ship Monarch, with a crew of 130, is loading its first consignment of the underwater link at the Simplex Wire and Cable Co. plant in Newington.

The Monarch is expected to leave Sunday for Clarendon, Nfld., where the actual cable-laying work is due to begin June 22.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures...
 A candid camera, at one time some years ago, meant a 35mm camera which you could almost hide. And candid pictures, at that time, referred to a type in which people were caught off guard in unflattering, sometimes embarrassing, poses.

are at their best when they reveal typical individual gestures and emotions. These are the pictures we treasure when we hit it right. The occasional bulls-eyes and the many near-hits come just often enough to keep so many of us snapping so much film so often.

lenses can shoot action pictures indoors with the same as-is lighting; at slower speeds they capture pictures under dim light that were considered impossible till now. Special darkroom processing extends the limits even further.

Make Your Vacation More Enjoyable

BROWNIE MOVIE CAMERA KIT $49.95

This one package contains all the equipment you need to make movies indoors as well as outdoors. Stop in now for the full story. Price of camera alone, $37.50, including Federal Tax.

However, some people are more camera conscious than others. They freeze up when they see a camera pointed their way or their actions become affected or unnatural. A camera fan with time and patience—and if the lighting conditions prevail—can outlast this feeling because eventually the tension disappears.

Thus by eliminating some of the necessity of shooting in the sun or the fuss and bother of setting up artificial extra lighting, a lot of subject tension and awareness are cut, too, and we get better candid-type photos.

A novel method by which an ardent amateur photographer solved this problem was shown to me by Billy Davis, chief photographer of the Louisville Courier-Journal. A local fan, Theodore Klein attached an impressive looking lens to the camera case of his twin-lens reflex camera. Actually, it was just a dummy, part of a surveying instrument. While it pointed in one direction, the pictures were really being taken from another direction, through holes cut in the case.

Many professional photographers get their best candid by careful staging and expert posing of experienced models. Amateur camera fans are usually less successful when they attempt to stage and stop action like a still life. They'll do much better to recreate or reenact a situation, several times if necessary, and shoot from various angles.

Canals Of Venice Ruin Old Palaces

VENICE, Italy (AP)—The canals which make Venice famous also ruin the foundations of its antique palaces.

Take the famous 17th century Ca' Angaran, on the Grand Canal. Ca' Angaran means the House of the Angarans. This family gave the republic of Venice money to fill coffers emptied by war in 1655 and was elevated to nobility as a reward.

Some 'Ailments' Due To Not Enough Exercise

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
 ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—May-be your aches, pains and tensions are due to hypokinetic disease.

That means lack of motion or exercise.

And there's evidence, a medical team said today, that lack of exercise makes you a more likely candidate for heart attacks, for diabetes, backaches, tensions or "nerves," fatness, stiff neck and a few other ailments.

The case for exercise and physical fitness for health and longevity was presented to the American Medical Assn. by Dr. Hans Kraus, Miss Bonnie Pruden Hirschland and Dr. Kurt Hirschhorn of the Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University.

They cited studies, some of them their own, showing:

Heart attacks are twice as common among London bus drivers, who sit down all day, as among bus conductors, who move about.

Fifty six per cent of several thousand U. S. children couldn't pass six simple muscle tests, as against 8 per cent of European youngsters.

Among 5,000 adults with backaches, 80 per cent had no organic or physical difficulty, but couldn't pass six simple exercise tests for strength and flexibility of key muscles for posture. Given some corrective exercises, their backaches disappeared.

The medical team said the physically inactive person shows signs of aging earlier than the exercisers. The nonexerciser is less well equipped to meet stresses and sudden emergencies.

Underexercising "may well contribute to organic disease by storing emotional tension and producing all the diseases associated with stress," the report declared.

It said some studies find a greater tendency in the physically inactive for ulcer of the duodenum or first part of the intestine, for cancer of the lung, appendicitis, cancer of the prostate gland, diabetes and cirrhosis of the liver.

Diabetics who exercise need less insulin, and have fewer blood vessel complications, Kraus said.

He said "lack of movement plays a more or less important role in varicose veins, thrombophlebitis (clots in veins), hemorrhoids and muscle atrophy."

"To protect the health of the individual, and the safety of the nation, it is imperative to increase physical activity from early childhood through old age. The medical profession should restore physical activity and exercise to its proper place in the treatment and prevention of disease."

There are usually more plants and animals in temperate than in tropic oceans.
