House Committee Sets 45-Years Maximum

Doctor Draft Age Lowered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee voted today to reduce from 50 to 45 the maximum age at which doctors and dentists may be drafted into the armed services.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.), who indicated he'll take a lot of convincing, said the committee withheld final approval of the draft extension legislation so administration officials could have another chance to argue their case for the reserve plan, now hung up in the house over the segregation issue.

New Parking Lot Officially Opened

The city's newest parking lot was opened yesterday afternoon as Mayor W. L. Whebedee cut the bright green ribbon stretched across an entrance to the area.

Following the remarks the mayor cut the ribbon officially opening the lot. The new parking area adds 55 off-street parking spaces locally. Spaces are metered and the automatic type parking meters will provide any number of hours up to ten for a nickel or all-day parking for a quarter.

Ayden F.W.B. Church Scene Of Smith - Wooten Nuptials

AYDEN—In a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. I. J. Blackwelder in the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church Saturday afternoon, June 4, at 3:30 o'clock, Miss Mamie Wooten became the bride of David Harold Smith.

The church was decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli, feverfew, gypsophelia and fern, interspersed with palms and candelabra of burning tapers.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Janice Worthington, organist, and Miss Barbara Griffin, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bridesmaids, Misses Jo Ann Williams and Sheila Jean Cannon, both of Ayden, wore blue nylon net dresses fashioned with strapless fitted bodice and bouffant skirts, and carried colorful bouquets of painted daisies and pink roses.

A sister of the bride, Miss Margaret Wooten, was maid of honor. She wore a pink nylon tulle dress which was styled with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt, with which she used a matching stole and carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Serving as ushers were W. S. Howard of Ayden and Arthur Williams of Winston-Salem.

The groom had as his best man Walter Lee Williams of Farmville.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Norman Wooten, wore a dress of white nylon tulle. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace had a sweetheart neckline and crushed straps. The full, three tiered skirt was walk length. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones and she also wore gauntlets of the Chantilly lace. Her bridal bouquet of white roses was centered with a purple throated orchid.

Mrs. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Wooten of Ayden, was a member of this year's Ayden High School graduation class.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Smith of Ayden and is a graduate of State College in Raleigh and a veteran of the Korean War.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua crepe dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The groom's mother was dressed in a black and white silk shantung outfit with white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony the members of the bridal party greeted the guests in the church vestibule.

For traveling the bride changed to a white rayon faille dress, made praline style, with which she used matching accessories, and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points the couple will be at home on Ayden Route 3 where the groom is engaged in farming.

Lucille Edwards - Aaron Tyson Are Wed In Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Lucille Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Edwards, and the Rev. Aaron

G. Tyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Tyson of Farmville, took place Wednesday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock at the home of the bride in Greenville. The Rev. Tommy Tyson performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. William Stanley at the piano. Miss Linda May, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of embroidered nylon organza with white accessories. Her flowers were a bouquet of chrysanthemums, gladioli, baby's breath and fern.

Following the ceremony, guests were invited into the dining room for an informal reception. The Edwards home was decorated throughout with chrysanthemums, gladioli, baby's breath and ferns.

Mrs. Tyson is a graduate of New Hope High School and East Carolina College. She has been a member of the faculty of Brogden School. Rev. Tyson was graduated from Farmville High School and Gullford College. He attended Duke Divinity School in Durham and is presently pastor of three Methodist Churches in the Goldsboro area. The couple will make their home in Goldsboro.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 14, 1925

The second week of the summer session of East Carolina Teachers College opened with an enrollment of 661, the largest number of students ever in attendance at a term of the college. The plan of operating the summer term for 12 weeks and making this term the equivalent of a regular college term was tried out last summer for the first time and has proved an unqualified success. In order to take care of the large number, the dining room and kitchen are compelled to run double shifts, serving six meals a day instead of the usual three, and the teaching force is taxed to its full capacity.

Coffee Hour Honors Out-of-Town Guest

GRIFTON—Mrs. R. H. Bates entertained on Friday morning at an informal coffee hour to compliment Mrs. C. C. Stout of Star who was a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, and Mr. Tucker last week.

The home on Cannon Blvd. was attractive with arrangements of gladioli, feverfew and other garden flowers. Guests were invited for 10 o'clock and on arrival were presented to the honored guest and later enjoyed refreshments. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth and Mrs. Robert Mewborn poured coffee from the silver service and Mrs. W. M. January served a sandwich loaf. Guests served themselves to crescents and other dainties.

Guests included Mesdames Stout, Tucker, Mewborn, January, R. E. Nelson, W. I. Bisette, Clifton Jackson and Cecil Cobb.

HOW TO RAISE A FATHER

When properly trained, fathers can be loads of fun.

It's terribly important to make them feel needed. Give them constant attention so they won't be driven to TV or their favorite sports page. A toy to be mended, a story to be told, a drink to be fetched—these little things mean a lot.

On Father's Day it's not necessary to spoil him with sport cars or sailboats or power saws. But don't carry this too far: a happy compromise would be something by Fabergé.

The most successful fathers are brought up on Fabergé toiletries for men... "Aphrodisia" if he says he's sophisticated, "Woodhug" if he sometimes wishes he lived in a tent. You'll find these father-type goodies—Men's Lotion and Talc—at

Farmville Country Club Scene Of Bridal Luncheon

The Farmville Country Club was the scene of a beautiful bridal luncheon last Thursday when Miss Anne Elizabeth Moye, bride-elect of Tarboro, N. C., was honored by her aunt, Mrs. George Caswell Moye. Miss Moye will be married to Mr. Ben Cookley Mayo II, also of Tarboro, at the Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church on the evening of June 18th at 8:00 o'clock.

The highly fashionable color of pink was used exclusively in the decorating, floral arrangements, gifts, luncheon menu and the attire of the hostess and those assisting her at this event.

As the guests assembled they were served cranberry juice cocktails from a large crystal chalice in a ring of pink ice with canapés of meba toast rounds and pink shrimp pate and pink tinted cheese dips for potato chips. The cocktails and snacks were served from two pink ten carts decorated with pink bows by Mrs. M. E. Pollard and Miss Ann Pollard.

The focal point of the ballroom was the long buffet table elaborately decorated in tones of pink. The table, covered with a soft pink cloth reaching to the floor, was centered with an exquisite floral arrangement of delicate pink carnations, deeper pink rose buds and gypsophelia interspersed with flesh pink moulins and darker pink satin loops. Many loops of pale pink moulins encircling and completely hiding the low silver bowl container gave the design an ethereal illusion of floating on a pink cloud.

Placed on silver pedestals on opposite sides of the centerpiece were two interesting creations in the bridal motif: One, a large pink bird cage, the top of which was decorated with pink satin bows and trimmed around the base with pink roses, housed a pair of pink lovebirds perched on a swing. The other, two large pink satin bound hearts nestled in ruffles of lace, cellophane and silver foil, embodied with shades of pink flowers. These were flanked by contemporary flowering trees of silvery metallic fringed branches and pink blossoms.

A profusion of roses placed at random and silver wedding rings scattered over the top of the buffet table was a high spot in the decorating scheme. Each guest received a ring as a memento.

Harving from the ceiling surrounding the bride's table and the buffet table and accentuating these points of interest were beautiful pink garlands.

The mantels at each end of the ballroom were very attractively ornamented with huge floral designs of shell pink gladioli in large brass containers. On the ends of the mantels were five-branched brass candelabra holding shell pink candles and tied with pink satin ribbon.

Elsewhere about the room were pink flowers in novel designs. Placed in front of the green shutters screening the fireplaces were large planters of gladiolus.

The auxiliary luncheon tables were laid with lovely pink cloths, centered with lace and silver doilies. Centerpieces of silver heart base with frills of lace and cellophane, from which extended two pink satin bound hearts, bedecked with a nosegay and holding pink candles were used.

The guests' places were marked by individual place cards decorated with miniature pink wedding bells and flowers tied on with pink satin and silver metallic ribbon. At each place was a pink rose formed with the napkin and centered with a real pink rose. Favors were pink metallic match holders imprinted with the bride's name and a miniature bridesmaid with a large floppy pink hat holding a bouquet and pink mints.

The bride's place was marked with a pink rose wrist corsage and a large bride doll.

The delectable luncheon menu consisted of large silver platters of sliced turkey and ham garnished with cranberry hearts and parsley; apples with pink tinted cream cheese petals and green rose leaves formed realistically-looking rose salads; an unusual assortment of relishes in a beautiful silver lazy-susan graced the table, assorted fancy breads in heart-shaped butter sandwiches were a novelty; pink dyed stuffed eggs and pink potato salad added much to the appetizing food and the artistically arranged table. Iced tea was served at the tables.

Later the hostess sliced and served a tiered mold of pink peppermint stick candy and strawberry ice cream frosted with pink whipped cream and pale pink loaf cakes with deeper pink rose decorations.

Mrs. W. A. Pollard Jr. and Mrs. S. H. Aycock assisted the hostess in serving the dessert course. Pink bonbon mints were served to the guests by Mrs. William C. Garner.

The bride was remembered with two beautiful pink, gold and silver custom-made ceramic pieces called "Surf Ballet" by the famous ceramic designer, Sacha Brastoff. Miss Gale Cheek Flanagan, bride-elect, and Mrs. Thomas Mixon Byrd, recent bride, were remembered with gifts of sandwich plates in the same design.

Forty guests from Tarboro, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Maury, Scotland Neck and Farmville enjoyed this delightful occasion.

Sub-Killer Goes To Ex-Enemy

BOSTON (AP)—Less than 24 hours before the Germans surrendered in World War II, the U.S. Navy destroyer escort Atherton sank the German submarine U835 off Block Island, R.I.

The Atherton thus was credited with being the last American vessel to sink a German sub.

Today, the Atherton becomes the loaned property of another former enemy the Japanese government.

The Atherton and the USS Amick, also a Navy destroyer escort, were the latest vessels assigned to Japan under the mutual defense assistance program.

Sub-Debs Going For Bloomer Swim Suits

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Tops with the younger set this summer is the bloomer swim suit, a cinch to make at home.

Now that the high school crowd is vacation bound, local sewing center experts suggest a profitable summer pastime—making your own bathing suit and matching beach robe.

The bloomer swim suit may be made with a standard pattern, which comes in junior sizes. It's easy to make and fit, using a pattern with rulers printed right on it.

The bloomer suit so flattering to the slender figure may be improved by the addition of a skirt for chubbier girls. The skirt, included in the pattern pieces, is attached to a dropped waistline the very latest silhouette in fashion news. For a smooth fit underneath, straight shorts are then substituted for the bloomers.

The wide cuffed bodice higher than last year's, shows the new covered-up look in swim wear. A terry cloth beach coat trimmed in plaid to match the suit, completes the outfit.

The suit, which is effective made in plaid gingham, is lined in wool jersey, and elastic is used for a trim fit in the bloomer legs. Light boning in the bodice keeps the top up, with or without straps. The back zipper can be inserted in jig time by using the zipper foot attachment on your sewing machine. Binding on the beach coat is quickly applied by using the multi-slotted binder attachment.

If extra fabric is left over, a matching triangular scarf can be made, to keep curls covered and protected from sun and wind.

For a smooth fit underneath, straight shorts are then substituted for the bloomers.

Mrs. Umstead Is Invited To Event

RALEIGH (AP)—Mrs. William B. Umstead widow of the late governor, will be invited to take part in ceremonies Aug. 28 dedicating Crabtree Creek State Park to the memory of her husband.

The date for the formal dedication, changing the name of the park to the William B. Umstead State Park, was set yesterday by a special planning committee. Gov. Hodges will make the principal address at the dedication.

The 2,846-acre park is located midway between Durham, Umstead's home, and Raleigh, the state capital. At its January meeting, the State Board of Conservation and Development voted to change the park's name to honor the late governor.

Hodges, who became chief executive after Umstead's death last fall, named the special committee to plan the dedication. The group yesterday appointed Mayors Fred B. Wheeler of Raleigh and E. J. Evans of Durham as co-chairman of a committee on arrangements for the event. Further plans will be made at a luncheon meeting in Durham July 28.

BEACH STAR... Plaid gingham bloomer swim suit and white terry robe trimmed to match are easy to make.

ECC Group Is At FTA Meet

East Carolina College will be represented at the Leadership Conference and Delegate Assembly of the National Association of Future Teachers of America by Carol Lucas of West End and Doris Mae Bryan of Lumberton, students, and Emma L. Hooper, faculty sponsor of the Robert H. Wright chapter on the campus. The meeting is scheduled for June 24-July 8 in Chicago.

During the national meeting Miss Hooper will be an honored guest at the Third Annual Notables Dinner of the NAFTA, July 3, at the Congress Hotel. She has served as faculty advisor and sponsor of the Robert H. Wright chapter since it was chartered May 10, 1953. The East Carolina FTA organization is the oldest active chapter in this state.

Miss Lucas, who is president of the Department of College FTA Chapters of the North Carolina Education Association, will represent both the East Carolina FTA and the state organization during the Chicago meeting. She has served as secretary of the campus chapter; and last summer, as a prospective teacher and an FTA leader, she appeared a speaker on programs offered by the North Carolina Council of English Teachers in Chapel Hill and the North Carolina Superintendents' Conference at Mars Hill. At the college she is a senior majoring in English and library science.

Miss Bryan, a sophomore taking teacher-training courses in elementary education at the college, is an active member of the Robert H. Wright FTA chapter.

It Is No Time For Switching Horses

Greenville occupies a key position in the maneuvering which will go on between now and June 30 over the proposed extension of U. S. highway 13 from Windsor south to Goldsboro.

Already wheels are in motion developing a plan which will attempt to show the State Highway Commission efforts should be made to extend the federal highway south as far as the South Carolina line rather than stopping it at Goldsboro. Likewise there are indications other groups are making plans to place before the Commission arguments asserting the highway should not follow the route outlined by

The Idea Should Not Be Forgotten Entirely

Since the untimely death of the proposed joint airport for four counties and cities in Eastern North Carolina almost a year ago, there have been indications from time to time there remains in this section of the state a great deal of interest in such an endeavor.

Communities which were not included in the original venture have since voiced interest in seeking alignment with other communities to try to establish a joint airport which would attract sufficient traffic to justify service by one or more major airlines. The Reflector is sure that a joint airport between several communities is still the only avenue by which this section of the state can expect to obtain adequate air service. We are confident the leaders in the recent ill-fated project still hold the strong convictions which spurred them to set up the joint airport authority and carry the fight for the facility until it was obvious the heavy odds against them could not be overcome at the moment.

The time is not yet ripe to again attempt a joint airport project in this section. Yet the idea, which was founded on sound reasoning, is still a good one. At some date—perhaps in the not too distant future—it will prove practical. Certainly this section of North Carolina should not completely forget about a joint airport to serve this area.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
GREAT HOPE BROUGHT DOWN TO DATE
Propaganda can produce the most startling and incredible results. People can be made to believe almost anything if the propaganda machine can be kept in good working order.
But there are some ideas that cannot be driven out of people's minds. One such idea is the conviction held from the earliest days of human history that life does not end with death. The Egyptians prepared their mummies and buried their kings sometimes in sailing craft that would take them to a new and better world, Socrates died maintaining that the soul of a man lives on forever. Aristotle declared that something within, which feels, thinks, desires, and animates is a factor essentially divine and consequently imperishable. Another great pagan wrote that since the soul of man came from God, this heaven-born thing will fly back at last to its native seat.
Many people think that the belief in immortality was introduced into the world by Christianity. This is not true, nor does the New Testament make this claim. It simply says that Christ brought immortality to light. He illuminated with added splendor what man already knew. The doctrine of the resurrection of the body is Christianity's distinctive contribution to the concept of immortality. Everyone will some day be given a body adapted to the eternal conditions which his moral choices have made in his mortal life.
It has been said that in the desire for immortality, we have full proof of our capacity for it.

Labor Peace Is Boon To GOP

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The Ford-Reuther agreement on a "guaranteed, semi-annual, unemployment wage" system of benefits has far more political impact and importance than appear in the provisions of the three-year contract. It is expected to help the Republicans in 1956.
It may not be without significance that this labor advance, which ranks second only to Rooseveltian legislation requiring collective bargaining and a virtual closed shop, was obtained on "Eisenhower time" and during the regime of the "millionaires' Cabinet."
It will be even more advantageous to Ike, if General Motors, which contributed Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson to Washington, Administration leaders kept strictly aloof from the Detroit deal, in accord with Ike's belief that labor disputes are the concern of the directly interested parties, unless they affect adversely national welfare or security. But certain high officials have been dubious about the effect of the "guaranteed wage" plan, as originally presented by Walter P. Reuther. However, they kept their doubts to themselves.
Thus, for perhaps the first time in 30 years, an historic labor agreement in a key industry was negotiated and signed without an iota of Federal intervention or pressure. There was no Roosevelt, no Truman, no Ickes, no Hugh Johnson in the background to reinforce the labor negotiators.
It was the accomplishment of labor and management, regardless of the long-range, economic consequences on the Government and the two major political Parties. It was, perhaps, the greatest victory for advocates of free enterprise in the United States, a phase of the operation not sufficiently noted.
HELP TO LONG-RANGE PROSPERITY—Before examining these future potentials, it should be emphasized that the Ford-Reuther agreement will last halfway through 1959. If it enriches the nation's economy, as predicted by Henry Ford and Reuther, Commissioner Maynard Hicks of the second division, but rather another route south from Greenville.

Greenville's support of the various proposals will be much sought-after by the several factions expected to enter the contest to get the highway through their respective communities.

Obviously Greenville's primary interest in the matter is getting the highway extended through our own city. A look at the map will show that the only practical route for U. S. 13 to follow south of Windsor is through Williamston, Robersonville, Bethel and Greenville as proposed by Commissioner Hicks. So far as we have been able to learn there is no dispute over that particular part of the route, other than the possibility there may be opposition to any extension of highway 13 at the present time.

The real dispute in the offing is the argument over what route south from Greenville should be designated. If Mr. Hicks' proposal is adopted, U. S. 13 would go from Greenville to Snow Hill to Goldsboro, the exact route being left to highway engineers to work out. That would mean Kinston, which has shown considerable interest in securing the highway, would not be included in the route. Likewise some communities south of Kinston which have eyed the possibility of having U. S. 13 pass through their corporate limits would be excluded from the routing.

Greenville's City Council already has endorsed the proposal made by Commissioner Hicks. It is the wise course for Greenville to present a unified front behind this endorsement of the proposal which has been offered by the highway commissioner from this division.

One Meeting Can't Produce A Panacea

Now that Russia has accepted the Big Three invitation for a big four conference at the summit in Geneva on July 18, hopes for easing world tension will soar again among the American people.

The Reflector joins with the other citizens of the Western World in hoping the Big Four heads of government can pave the way for the easing of world tension at the conference. But we do not expect miracles.
Tension between freedom and communism around the globe has not been built to its present status in a few short months. It has gradually increased over a period of years with peaks spotted along the way. Neither can the tension be dispelled at one meeting of the major powers of the world. The Big Four may be able to reach some sort of understanding on a few of the factors which account for the distrust and bitterness between the two blocs; but if they accomplish even that, it will mean a great deal

NASHVILLE, ARK., NEWS: The Chattanooga Times showed that Tennessee, since TVA has killed in population, farm production, retail sales, payrolls, manufacturing output, where her neighbors without the burden of such fraud, have pushed ahead in economics. In effect, socialism damns the giver and the taker.

It should help to insure good times through the 1956 election period, and for almost the whole term of the President who serves afterward.
The politicians have not missed this connotation of the pact between Ford, an enthusiastic Eisenhower admirer, and Reuther, an official and hero of the "radicalish" Americans for Democratic Action.
Washington, however, still asks which was the lion and which the lamb in this politico-economic lying-together.
WHAT FORD-REUTHER DEAL MEANS—Unquotable Washington officials are also concerned about the long-range results of the Ford-Reuther pattern, if it becomes such. They are thinking along these not altogether happy lines:
It is estimated that the plan will mean a 10 per cent increase in Ford's production costs, which will probably be passed on, wholly or partially, to car buyers. Since retail prices are already high, a boost may cut purchases of new and used machines, and lead to serious unemployment. Then, how will the guarantee stand the test?
HOW ABOUT INDEPENDENT MANUFACTURERS?—What will happen to the independent automobile producers who sold less than 10 per cent of the market last year? Can they accept a 10 per cent increase without losing more customers to the "big three"—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler? Will they be wiped out in trying to meet the new demands, or by strikes designed to force their acceptance?
Will the immediate wage increases, together with the assurance of greater economic security, lead to heavier consumer buying and inflation, thus offsetting current gains? Will other mass unions strive to match Reuther when contracts in rubber, steel and electrical equipment expire?
These are only a few of the questions which the new experiment has yet to answer. As of today, however, both politicians and economists here choose to welcome this revolution in labor-management-Government relations.

Know It By The Enemies It's Made

Somebody Told Me

When Politeness Is Overdone

Women slay me with their de-layed-answer tactics. "Come on over and eat supper with us," a neighbor will say on the spur of the moment.
"Oh, no. We couldn't. You weren't expecting us. . . . It's too much trouble. . . . Maybe some other time when you've planned for it."
The first round isn't so bad. It's polite, I guess, to the person doing the inviting to ask a second time. But have you ever stopped to think what would happen if the above statement received an answer like this: "That's right, we really aren't prepared. And it's too much trouble anyway. We didn't really mean it. Just asking to be asking."
Somehow it's just a characteristic of women to want their arms twisted. Unless you ask 'em several times they don't think you mean it. There might be men like that, too, but I haven't met any such. When you ask a man you'd better mean it, because he'll accept before you can bat an eye.
Usually the man has no choice but to stand there with his mouth watering while the wife insists that we shouldn't stay and eat. We recently had some visitors from Virginia like that. The husband made it evident with his silence that he was willing to stay, but we had to practically beg the little woman over the head to get her to agree to it.
It's always easy to tell whether or not the people really mean it when they say they can't stay. The ones who really want to, but want you to insist a few thousand times, let you know with some statement that they intend to but want to be begged.

Perhaps this problem is brought about by people who ask others to stay "just to be polite." So therefore all of us have reason to wonder whether or not the invitation is sincere.
Here's the way to eliminate the whole situation: Accept right now! That'll teach 'em not to give fake invitations. And if you're on the other end of the stick, be frank. Say, "I wish we could ask you to stay and eat but we don't have a crumb in the house."
With a little more honesty the person invited would know his invitation is genuine — and the person doing the inviting wouldn't open his mouth unless he really wants guests.
And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

(Henderson Dispatch)
It was inevitable that there should be speculation as to Governor Hodges' action in appointing Hubert E. Olive of Lexington to a Superior Court judgeship. Olive was the opponent of William B. Umstead in the 1952 gubernatorial race in North Carolina and missed victory by a comparatively narrow margin. Since then it has been rated as a possibility that he would make the race again in 1956.
Governor Hodges was elected lieutenant governor in 1952. Last November he succeeded to the governorship upon the death of Governor Umstead. It appears almost the consensus of opinion that he will be a candidate in his own right next year. Indeed, many had thought he would be in the fight even had he not become chief executive last fall.
Theory in some quarters is that appointment of Judge Olive removes him as a possible opponent of the present governor. No one has said that it was done for that purpose. We think his elevation to the bench, where he served once before, was more the result of the governor's desire to place a thoroughly able and qualified man in the office than to eliminate potential competition in the 1956 primaries.
Hodges is not the man to run out on a problem. And he has played politics to lesser degree, if indeed at all than most men could do under similar circumstances. He has brought to the State's highest office rare business ability and integrity and has won the acclaim of the State generally for the manner in which he has served since the weight of responsibility descended upon his shoulders.

It is easy to find those who doubt that Hodges will even have opposition if he decides to run next year, as most people think he will do. Certainly it would be an uphill fight for those who would challenge him.
The fact that Hubert Olive is ascending the Superior Court bench does not bar him from seeking the governorship next spring, although he would hardly accept the appointment and in so short a time resign to become a candidate, and even less so against the very man who has given him the office.
We do not think Hodges was acting to rid himself of a potential opponent, but it appears that he may have done just that, at any rate.

Black thinks it is a good idea and he may seek endorsement of the North Carolina YDC at its forthcoming State convention.
SAMPLE CASE — For many years North Carolina has been nation in field crops, farm animal called the "sample case" of the mals, forestry and minerals. It has been authoritatively said that this State can produce all but about a dozen of the field and garden crops listed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as producible in the United States. We rate recognition in Federal reports for production of dairy products, beef cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and seafoods.
There are more different species of trees and shrubs in North Carolina than in the entire continent of Europe. Sub-arctic growth on mountains more than a mile high and sub-tropic growth on the coast adjacent to the Gulf Stream affords unmatched variety of trees, shrubs, fruits and flowers. More than 300 different kinds of minerals, ranging from lowly mud for brickmaking to semiprecious stones for costume jewelry, are found in varying degrees of commercial value in the State. Many of these minerals, like the products of fields, forests and ocean from sounds and streams, are found in quantities justifying commercial production.
On June 17 there will be formally dedicated an official "sample box" on these minerals at Gillespie Gap on the Blue Ridge Parkway. The project is a cooperative venture of the National Park Service and the State Department of Conservation and Development. The dedication ceremonies will be featured by appearance of Governor Luther Hodges and National Parks Director Conrad Wirth. The minerals museum then opened will have on permanent display more than 300 different species of soil, stone and gems found in North Carolina. It is expected to be one of the major attractions for visitors from all parts of the world, because it is doubted that anywhere else there can be displayed as wide variety of mineral products indigenous to the area where they are shown.

OFFSET — Back in the days of World War II the late Senator J.W. Bailey was taken to task by some of his friends for his attitude toward alliance with Stalin in the war against Hitler's Nazis. The Senator is quoted as having said "If I'm in a fight with a rattlesnake and a mad dog offers help, I'll accept the help—and then try to take care of the dog after the snake has been killed."
This incident is recalled in connection with a current news release from the agriculture extension service at State College about wasps being used to combat hornworms in tobacco. No body loves a wasp, but if the wasp can get rid of hornworms many farmers will accept the help—and then try to take care of the wasp. This business of wasp vs. hornworm is one of the numerous things that will be discussed by specialists at the upcoming Farm and Home Week at State College June 20-23.
Senator Bailey did not live to see just how much trouble wasps could cause after Hitler, and some farmers are not enthusiastic about breeding wasps to combat hornworms. But it is an interesting idea, the moral pro-

Business Today

Fortunes For Some

By ELMER ROESSNER
There's optimism and hurly-burly in New York today.
This is the week that buyers of women's apparel from stores all over the country converge on New York and add to the congestion in the Seventh Avenue show rooms, the hotels, cocktail lounges, restaurants and places of entertainment.
This is the week when designers find out whether the ideas they had nine months ago will be seen in show windows from Bangor to San Diego—or added to the jammed racks in basements or outlet stores. It is the week in which many an entrepreneur will find out if he can take his family to Miami next winter, or whether he'll spend the rest of his life trying to pay off the men who financed him.
Those who have garments that buyers order will reap fortunes; those whose designs are scorned are destined to have long scoured talks with their creditors.
The buyers started coming in last week. They will reach the peak this week, and many will linger on until the July 4 holidays.
The early arrivals spread the optimism. Almost all of them said the fall selling season will be great. Some think it will be the biggest fall so far.
From St. Louis and Kokomo, from Charlotte to Omaha, and from Boston to Boise, they say that incomes are high, women are in a buying mood, and that business prospects, heightened by the settlement of the Ford labor troubles, is causing husbands to unzip their wallets.
At the moment, the greatest interest is in sportswear. Many buyers say their budgets for this department have been increased. The nation is going casual, they say, and many women are now buying sportswear for occasions that used to call for slightly more formal wear. Buyers of dresses, coats and suits were slightly less enthusiastic. Their sales averaged somewhat lower last year, but most of them expect moderate gains this year.

Fur, intimate apparel and accessory lines blossom in the showrooms this week. The ballroom of one of the swankiest hotels is being taken over (by Julius Kayser) this (Monday) afternoon for what is being promoted as the biggest show of lingerie, hosiery and gloves of the season. And throughout the week there will be style shows, soft drinks and champagne for buyers and eager salespeople, with pencils poised over order blanks.
PERSONAL INCOME HEADING TOWARD $300 BILLION MARK
There is a good prospect that personal income may reach an annual rate of $300 billion before the year is over. It is doubtful, however that it will total that much for the full year.
Income, at annual rates, rose $1 billion from March to April, bringing it up to a rate of $295.5 billion. It appears to have been even higher in May and when figures for that month are available in July they may be up to the $307 billion mark.
April income was running $11 billion above a year earlier, with the biggest gain in wages and salary income. Even agricultural income, which has lagged often in recent years, was up $400,000,000 at annual rates.

Mama Finally Sold The Old Barn

By HAL BOYLE
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mama has sold "that old barn" at last. "That old barn" is the name she calls the big old-fashioned 10-room white house in which she has lived for more than 34 years. During that time Mama raised five children, and saw most of them fly away, one by one.
But always they have come back to the white house. It has remained the family center.
Mama's feud with the house began the day she moved in. She threatened to move right out, and she's been threatening to do so every year since.
"Who wants to rattle around in an old barn like this?" she has said a thousand times. "It's just too much trouble to keep up."
"I'll sell it and move into a one-room apartment with a hotplate and a hot water heater," she said at one time.
At other times Mama has decided to turn the house into a duplex and rent out the second floor. She never quite got around to it.
She never has liked the idea of having strangers around since. Years back during hard times, she briefly rented two rooms to a couple Dad knew. Dad didn't know some odd people. In this case the husband, a robust fellow in a 10-gallon hat, turned out to be a snake oil salesman, and Mama learned to her horror he was keeping jars of embalmed rattlesnakes in his quarters. The couple moved out very soon after that.
In recent years my sister, Dolores, her husband Don Newton, and their two children have shared the old home with Mama. This spring they bought a newer house out south and asked Mama to come with them.
So, after all her long years of quarreling with "that old barn," she has to make up her mind whether to stay on in it, rent it, or dispose of it. Mama decided to make a clean break with the past. She put the old house on the market. She was startled—perhaps a little dismayed—at the speed with which it was sold. A young veteran bought it. Before turning it over to him,

Mama and I went back to the house to clean out some boxes of boyhood belongings of mine that had lain mouldering in the basement for 20 to 30 years.
Mama, who likes to sit in the cool basement on hot summer days, rested on a chair while I sifted through the boxes, reliving my childhood as I did so.
"Why don't you throw away all that old junk?" she asked. "You always were like a crow, collecting everything you saw."
To keep her from getting restive, I let her read some of my old love letters, and she settled back, contented. Mama always did enjoy reading her children's love letters.
I asked Mama if she remembered the time when Dad, who was a bit farm crazy, bought a calf and brought it home. Mama had been very angry at first, but she had been born on a farm in Ireland herself, and she fell in love with the calf, named it "Sugar" and weaned it herself there in the basement. After Dad moved it out to a farm, she visited it regularly for years.
"Poor Sugar," said Mama, laughing and sighing. "She must be dead now. I haven't thought of her in a long time."
When we went back upstairs, Mama paused in the empty living room—the room from which Dad was buried more than 17 years ago—and said reflectively: "Well, there's been a lot of living here."
We stepped out on the porch. An elm tree in the front yard, as slender as Mama had been when we first moved in, had grown so stout you couldn't put both arms around it. So had Mama.
She turned the key in the lock, and it made a lonely sound. We got in the car and drove away, and Mama never looked back.
"I don't see any reason to feel sentimental about that old barn," she said firmly. "I'm glad to leave it at last."
Perhaps she really is. But nobody in the family really believes it. You can't feud with something for 34 years—and not fall in love with it.

Twenty-Eight Finished 2-Year Business Course

Twenty-eight students in the two-year business course at East Carolina College will receive certificates this week indicating the completion of their work at the college.

Certificates will be mailed from the office of Dr. Orval L. Phillips, registrar. Those receiving them have successfully completed 95 quarters hours of work in secretarial science or in accounting. Barbara Earl Modlin of Portsmouth, Va. is the honor student in the group. She has the highest scholastic rating among the twenty-eight students receiving certificates.

Others who have completed the two-year business course at East Carolina are: Barbara Jane Brothers South Mills; Richard Curtis Byrd, Hamlet; John Royster Dupree, Angier; Jean Harvey Edwards, Snow Hill; Anne Barton George, Richmond, Va.; Bernice Joyce Gaylord, Pantego; Ruth Jones Hankins, Greensboro; Bobby Gene Hathaway, Farmville; Virginia Blanche Hearne, Mt. Women Jurors Unable To Agree

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—The first all-woman jury ever to serve in Bourbon County was summoned recently for a drunk-driving case.

Deputy sheriffs roamed Paris to find six jurors. One woman said the officers would have to fix her hair if jury service made her late for the beauty parlor. Another said they'd have to baby-sit for her if the trial lasted long.

And the climax of this history-making event? The ladies were unable to agree on a verdict.

Marines Called As Witnesses In Railway Hearing

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Marine Corps witnesses were called to testify here today concerning a Southern Railway proposal to acquire the state-owned Atlantic & East Carolina Railroad.

Examiner J. Herman Bond of the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) is conducting the hearing into the Southern's proposal to acquire control of the 98-mile line which runs from Goldsboro to Morehead City. Under the proposal Southern also would lease the 36-mile railroad serving Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point. Southern officials testified last week that the proposal would be sound only if both lines could be acquired.

Three officers were to testify today, ending the Marine Corps side of the case. Cross-examination of Norfolk Southern Railroad officials was to be held also. Norfolk Southern is opposed to the Southern proposal.

Testifying for the Marine Corps yesterday were Lt. Col. E. B. Robertson of Washington, D.C., assistant head of the operations branch of the Marine Corps; Col. Zebulon C. Hopkins of Cherry Point, chief of staff of Marine Corps air bases and air stations; and Maj. H. G. Bostart, a Marine official at Camp Lejeune.

Col. Robertson testified that the two bases serve as training sites for thousands of reservists each year. He said the present railroad route through eastern North Carolina involves an additional half-day service each way in the movement of troops. He said this means the government must pay for two additional meals for reservists being brought to the bases.

The loss in time and the cost of the payment of extra meals at railroad company rates will represent $48,940 this year and $79,200 a year on a long-term basis, Col. Robertson said.

If the time delay in moving troops to and from the bases could be eliminated, Col. Robertson testified, it would result in a savings of one-fifteenth of a reservist's training time.

Col. Hopkins said better railroad service would mean a decrease in the present number of automobile accidents now experienced by men in his command. He said the present railroad service is "completely unsatisfactory."

Maj. Bostart said the present railroad facilities take too long in supplying cars for shipment of ammunition and other Marine and Navy supplies. He said many of the cars have rotted decking and bad doors and result in delays.

All three testified the railroad serving the area is essential to the defense of the nation.

Tack Collection Is Inside Cobbler

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A man who had been a cobbler for 30 years asked the Florida State Employment Service to help him get started in another occupation.

Most cobblers, he said, hold tacks in their mouths while working, spitting out tacks as needed. Over the years, he had gulped too often when he should have spat. He produced X-rays to show the large collection of tacks in his digestive tract.

He now works happily on a label machine in a canning factory. Modern automobiles average about 125,000 miles, on the average throughout their lifetimes, although a third that figure used to be considered satisfactory.

Anderson Back In Wildlife Work

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Wildlife Resources Commission has returned Walters F. Anderson, former state prisons director and SBI chief, to state service as chief of its wildlife protection division.

The appointment of Anderson to succeed W. C. Bumgarner was announced yesterday by Clyde P. Patton, commission executive director, following a commission meeting. Bumgarner resigned the post last April.

Anderson served as police chief at Winston-Salem and Charlotte before he was named to head the State Bureau of Investigation in April, 1946. He left that post to become prisons director in August, 1951.

A prominent Methodist lay leader, Anderson has been active in church work since the summer of 1953 when the late Gov. William B. Umstead appointed W.F. Bailey to take over as prisons director.

Associate Justice Jeff D. Johnson Jr. of the State Supreme Court swore in three wildlife commission members for six-year terms. G. E. Beal of Red Oak and O. L. Woodhouse of Grandy were named to new terms and Robert M. Carr of Wallace was named by Gov. Hodges as a new member.

Value Of City Planning Noted In Rotary Talk

City Manager James S. Hughes asserted last night one of the greatest needs of Greenville's city planning program is for the citizens of the city to have a better understanding of what will be accomplished through long range planning.

Speaking before the local Rotary Club, Hughes pointed out the purpose of city planning is to map a program for orderly growth of the city with definite long range objectives in mind. Such planning, he asserted, must cover every phase of municipal operation to make sure there are adequate facilities and service to meet the needs of the community in the future.

Every city should have a master plan for its future growth, Hughes declared. The master plan must include subdivision control, zoning, provision for utilities, public facilities and a long range revenue program to supply funds with which to provide the needs. Needed improvements which cannot be financed through current revenues, Hughes said, must be financed through carefully planned bond programs.

Greenville's six-year capital improvement program now under consideration by the planning board, he pointed out, is partly a pay-as-you-go program and partly a bond program. Hughes also asserted a city's master plan for development must be under constant study and must be sufficiently flexible to be altered to meet changes in local conditions.

Three Convicted Of Violating Fishing Laws

In magistrate's courts in Greenville last Saturday three defendants were convicted of violating the North Carolina fishing laws.

In Magistrate Luther D. Moore's court, Robert E. Bolton of Danburg, Georgia, was convicted of fishing without having the proper fishing license and taxed with court costs ($9.50).

Willie B. Lee of Decatur, Georgia, was taxed with costs ($9.50) for fishing without a fishing license. Magistrate H. T. Savage found Mrs. Samuel A. House of Stantonsburg, guilty of fishing without having proper fishing license and taxed her with court costs ($9.50).

Pitt County Game and Fish Protector J. O. Teel was the prosecuting officer.

Will Open Bids On Equipment

Bids for equipment for the new Pitt County Health Department building will be opened tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the Commissioner's Room in the county courthouse.

Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert said it is hoped the new building will be completed by August 1. Work on the $82,000 structure was begun last October.

Ford gives you more
Year after year, Ford's "expensive car" features keep adding up. This year, only Ford's price tag keeps it in the low-price field. Its Thunderbird styling and new Trigger-Torque power put Ford on a par with cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And even most of these cars don't offer such Ford advances as baked-enamel finishes, new anti-fouling spark plugs and Ford's gas-saving Automatic Power Pilot.
It has that Thunderbird look!
In every one of Ford's 16 body selections, you can trace the exciting lines of America's fastest-selling personal car—the Ford Thunderbird.
It has Trigger-Torque take-off!
Ford acts like the Thunderbird, too! All three of Ford's mighty new engines offer the swift, sure response of new Trigger-Torque power.
It has interiors seen for the first time in any car!
Ford's rich Luxury Lounge interiors show further marks of the Thunderbird's good taste and workmanship. There are new distinctive interior trim schemes to suit every taste.
It has a new Angle-Poised Ride!
This year, Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension has been angled back to iron out even tiny flaws in the road! No car in Ford's price class can match this new Angle-Poised Ride.
Advances galore make it America's worth-more car!
Ford's deep-block-designed engines (either I-block Six or Y-block V-8) . . . 10% larger brakes . . . 5-cross-member frame . . . Astra-Dial Control Panel . . . Center-Fill Fueling—are all extra dividends found in no other car at Ford's price.

Cards Reported For Sale - Busch Says No

Poor Showing, Bad Deals Given As Main Causes

NEW YORK (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals were reported up for sale today because they weren't making money.

Club President August A. (Gussie) Busch Jr. vigorously denied the report, which was published in a copyrighted story by Sports Editor Bob Cooke in the New York Herald-Tribune.

Cooke said the Cardinals were on the block "because the poor showing of the club and certain deals which the club has made, are believed not to have been an asset to the sale of Budweiser beer."

The bear is the major product of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., one of the nation's largest breweries which has its main plant in St. Louis.

Cooke said Busch and other brewery officials are "willing to sell the ball club and the ball park for what they put into it or, falling that, even to take a loss."

Anheuser-Busch purchased the National League club and its extensive minor league holdings for $3 million dollars in 1953 from Fred Saigh, who was forced to sell after being convicted of income tax evasion. The ball park—formerly Sportsman's Park but renamed Busch Stadium—was purchased for $800,000 from Bill Veck, then owner of the old St. Louis Browns.

Busch termed the report "perfectly ridiculous" and added:

"There's no more truth to it than there is a man in the moon."

Cooke, however, wrote that he had asked Busch in a telephone conversation whether the denial meant the Cardinals would not be sold in the near future. He quoted Busch as replying:

"Not in my book, but that would be up to my stockholders and my board of directors."

Cooke reported that the Cardinals, who stated they lost $700,000 in 1953, had operated at a loss of one million dollars last season.

That was denied by a Cardinal spokesman, who said "We practically broke even. We did spend some money for players—noting like a million dollars—but you can hardly consider that a loss."

Cooke did not reveal the source of his report of the sale but said it had been confirmed by baseball officials in both major leagues.

He quoted one unnamed baseball executive as saying "Baseball is such a controversial business. You can't run a ball club like you do an industry. It's everybody's business. . . . That's why the Cardinals want out."

Winning Dodgers Want To Win On Western Swing

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Those frolicking Brooklyn Dodgers, fattened up again on home cooking, started a second swing through the West today, determined to look more like the National League leader this trip.

It was only their fantastic get-away at the start of the season that kept Brooklyn comfortable on the last tour of the West. The Dodgers dropped five of nine against the four Western clubs, yet never were in danger of losing their lead.

And what little was trimmed off their first-place margin the Dodgers got back at home. They won 13 of 16 in the last Ebbets Field stand.

Brooklyn is at Cincinnati tonight, opening a 12-game road trip with a mere 10½-game edge over the runner-up Chicago Cubs. The Bruins are 3½ ahead of the New York Giants, who have a three-game stay in Chicago.

Milwaukee, falling back to 500 in a 6-4 defeat at Cincinnati in the only major league game scheduled last night are home to Philadelphia, with Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

Home runs marked the game at Cincinnati. Three were swatted by the Redlegs, including Ted Kluszewski's 18th and a three-run blast by Ray Jablonski in the fifth that put the Braves behind to stay. Ed Mathews got his 13th homer for Milwaukee, but Jackie Collum, who relieved Gerry Staley in the fourth, kept the Braves scoreless as the Redlegs replaced St. Louis in sixth place.

In the American League, the Eastern teams are back home again and the picture isn't much

Banks, Zernial Lead Changes In All-Star BB Poll

CHICAGO (AP)—Shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs jumped into first place for the all-star baseball poll today moving ahead of Johnny Logan of the Milwaukee Braves.

Banks topped Logan by 232 votes in one of two changes among the leaders.

Gus Zernial, Kansas City, passed Minnie Miñoso of the Chicago White Sox in the race for left field in the American League. Zernial polled 3,188 votes to 3,006 for Miñoso.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals overtook Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs in the battle for the first base spot in the National League.

Musial had 3,417 votes to 3,153 for the Cincinnati slugger.

Another change saw Cleveland's Bobby Avila move ahead of Nelson Fox of Chicago in the American League battle for second base. Avila polled 3,281 votes and Fox had 3,147.

The Granitiers and the Southern Bread remained in their deadlock for second place in the Recreation Softball League last night as both teams recorded wins over second division teams.

The Granitiers won their game the easy way—by default from Harris Super Market Southern Bread had a 12-0 shutout win over the Western Auto Store.

Charlie Yates pitched the win for Southern Bread allowing ten hits and no runs. Southern Bread got only twelve hits for their twelve runs off Blanton of Western Auto.

Yates led the hitting for the Southern Bread with three for four. Blanton had three for four for the Western Auto team. The Bread was held scoreless for two innings, then came back for four runs in the third, one in the fourth, and seven in the fifth for all their scoring.

Hodges also was the hitting star of the game. He broke a 3-3 tie in the last of the sixth with a bases-loaded home run. Jackie Conway of the Jaycees got three doubles in four trips to the plate.

Jack Foley went all the way on the mound for the Kiwanis and pitched steady ball until the last inning. He gave up five hits and struck out 13 Jaycees batters.

Twin Defeats Drop Guard Deep Into Cellar

PONY LEAGUE STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Pct.
Oldsmobiles	5	2	.714
Redmen	3	3	.500
Fordomatics	3	3	.500
National Guard	2	6	.333

Two defeats last night in a doubleheader dropped the National Guard deep into the cellar of the PONY League and moved the Oldsmobiles farther away in the race for the first half championship.

In the first game last night the Olds whipped the Guard 16-1 in a game that was halted after four and one-half innings of play. The second game was a good pitcher's duel with Walker Lee Allen of the Fordomatics besting Carl Bestedt of the Guard 4-1. The win brought the Fords their third consecutive win and put them only one-half game behind the Redmen.

First Game
The first game was a slugfest all the way. Dick Evans, Bestedt, and Bill Clapp were all pounded hard by the Olds batters. The Olds batted around in both the third and fourth innings. They scored four times in the third and eight times in the fourth to wrap up the game.

Dick Evans brought his Guard teammates some consolation in the fifth inning when he smacked a long home run over the left-centerfield fence. It was only the second homer of the league this year.

Evans and Burton Jenkins each got two hits for the National Guard. Steve Noble, Billy Jenkins, Bobby Edwards, Joe Moyer, and Harry Forbes all got two hits for the Olds.

Ronald Riggs was the winning pitcher. He started and went four innings before he retired in favor of Steve Noble. Noble pitched one inning and gave up only one hit, Evans' homer.

Second Game
In the second game Walker Allen fired his second consecutive win of the season. The curve-balling right-hander gave up only three hits and one run. He struck out eleven batters and walked only three.

Bestedt went all the way for the Guard. He walked eight to keep him constantly in trouble. He gave up only six hits.

The Fords got single runs in the fourth and fifth and two runs in the seventh to sew the game up. That was enough runs for Allen,

Ty Cobb Argued With Ump Once

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—One thinks of Ty Cobb as a fiery type of ball player, but it is the recollection of H. G. Salsinger, veteran Detroit Tiger historian, that Cobb argued with an umpire only once in his long career.

That occurred, Salsinger recalls when Umpire Tom Connolly called him out for having stepped across the plate to hit a double. "Cobb made 4,191 hits during his career but he never forgave Connolly for taking one away from him," Salsinger tells his readers in the Detroit News.

To place Cobb's hitting in perspective it is necessary to realize that only six other players ever have made over 3,000 big league hits—Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Paul Waner and Adrian Anson. Speaker is runner-up with 3,515.

Only one player suiting up today, Stan Musial, has an outside chance of joining the 3,000 Club. The St. Louis thumper went into the current season with 2,418 hits. Ted Williams went into this season with 1,827 hits.

Chuck Dresser, who hasn't dodged an issue yet, says that Bob Turley of the Yankees is throwing the fastest ball in the American League today, but that Herb Score, the Cleveland rookie, has a "liver" fast one. . . . The Washington Senators could have had Al Kaline, the beauty from Baltimore, by meeting Detroit's $13,000 bonus offer, but Clark Griffith said $9,000 was his limit.

Bobby Edwards Is Star Hitter In PONY League

Bobby Edwards, star pitcher, shortstop, and catcher for the 86 Oldsmobiles, is the leading hitter in the 1955 PONY League play after six full games of play. Through last week's games Edwards was pounding the ball at an even 500 pace.

Only six boys are hitting 300 or more so far this year. The league this year is definitely a pitcher's league with the team averages very low.

Of the six batters hitting 300 or more, three are Fordomatics two are Redmen, and one is an Oldsmobile player. The Olds are leading the team hitting with a .183 mark. The Redmen are second with a mark of .168. The Fords are third with .162 and the National Guard are fourth with .129.

Billy Cox is the second leading batter with a .389 figure and Walker Allen, last year's hitting champ, is third with .357.

The figures through Friday's games are:

Falkland Manager Grieves Over One Run Losses

aged about 18 years of age.

"They're a good defensive bunch but so far haven't started hitting like I had hoped. They have pulled several twin-kills and played well together," Webb said.

The two leading hitters on the Falkland squad are Bill Simpson, center fielder, and Ed Stokes, rightfielder. Both are hitting over .300 and lead the club in runs batted-in. Simpson, especially, has been on a recent spree. He collected six hits in the two-game series with Farmville. Scott McPhail is the other outfielder.

Tough on Pitchers
"What really makes it tough is that our pitchers throw good ball and have to take these one-run defeats," Webb continued. "Sob Lilley and his brother, Bob Lilley, both of Tarboro, have been pitching very well but our hitters can't get runs for them. Sob in particular, has looked good. He is our workhorse, having pitched in some nine or ten games. He owns only a couple wins, however."

Mark Stancil was Falkland's only unbeaten moundman until Sunday. He suffered his first loss after having won four in a row. Herb Corey of Greenville rounds out the Falkland staff.

Ralph Zeaheing, also of Alexandria, is the Falkland catcher. The stocky backstop has been hitting well and is a college prospect, according to Webb.

Webb hopes it's not too late to make some headway in the league. His club should improve as it plays more, giving the youngsters more experience. A word of warning, anyway: If the Falkland hitters started producing with men on base, other Coastal Plain clubs had better watch their toes, they're going to do some stepping.

SPORTS SHOTS

by Bruce Phillips

SKEETER WEBB: A BASEBALL PERSONALITY

Falkland's manager Skeeter Webb reminds one of the old school of ball players—the leathery old timers who played with 60 per cent desire and 40 per cent ability.

As he talked, and a real loquacious guy that Skeeter, you remembered such corn pone immortals as Dizzy Dean and Peppy Martin—tobacco-chewing characters, like Skeeter, with hardball talents you can't learn in school.

Skeeter is a former Coastal Plain League member, having spent all his time in that circuit with Rocky Mount. He was with the Leafs when they captured the championship in 1946. A standout teammate that year was Bill Kennedy who set a new world's record for strikeouts.

Skeeter, though, didn't resign his talents to the Class D leagues. He moved up the ladder steadily, finally reaching his peak in the Southern Association with Little Rock. Skeeter spent several seasons in the strong Triple-A loop before he called it quits.

The Falkland pilot is still going strong. He often plays his old third base position with the Coastal Plain semi-pro club and can still show the youngsters how it's done. Mostly, though, he's concerned now with ridding his team of its last place standing. If the players will give Skeeter that little something extra he always gave, Falkland should be moving up in no time.

ECC LANDS OUTSTANDING EX-GASTONIA ATHLETE

A couple of weeks ago, a husky 6-foot-4 boy visited the East Carolina campus and worked out for the basketball coach, Howard Porter. This week the Charlotte Observer carried a story saying the athlete, Gastonia's Durward Hoffman, had accepted a scholarship at the Greenville school.

If so, and it appears quite likely, East Carolina is getting one of the most outstanding cagers to come from high school circles this past year.

Hoffman, a transplanted Gastonia boy, graduated from Nakina High School in Columbus County two weeks ago. He played every position for Coach Ted Carter's Gastonia Green Wave for 2 1/2 seasons and was thought one of the most promising college prospects about.

The 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hoffman of Gastonia, began his basketball career in community leagues and Red Shield cage play in the Gaston County city during his boyhood days. Then, he played at Arlington Junior High for a year and also participated in football and baseball there.

However, on the advice of his coaches, he dropped other sports and concentrated only on basketball at the college. The big boy has an assortment of shots that made college coaches notice him sometime ago.

He is particularly adept with the push shot while playing guard, uses the ambidextrous hook if he's working at the pivot post and also has an overhead set which he depends upon from the coffin-corner, especially from the double-pivot.

He went to Nakina High School to be with Paul Weatherly, coach at the Columbus school. In January, Weatherly was a former instructor of Hoffman's in Gastonia. Hoffman came to Greenville for a tryout in March after Coach Porter had invited him.

A second trip to the Pirate camp netted the scholarship, according to the Observer. The 180-pound blond plans to major in physical education and minor in history.

PONY LEAGUE SUPPORTERS NEED HELP

It seems a lot of people around town are not familiar with the operation of the PONY league in Greenville. Here is a thumbnail sketch of how it works:

The league is composed of boys whose ages are 13 and 14 inclusive and generally speaking have been playing baseball in the Greenville Little Leagues.

There are four teams operating at the present time. Each of these four teams is sponsored by organizations or businesses in Greenville. Each sponsor is required to pay $100 per year. This amount just about covers the cost of uniforms only as they're approximately $16 each. Sponsoring this year's teams are the National Guard, The Red Men, John Flanagan Buggy Co., and Stafford Oldsmobile Co.

Each of the four teams is coached by a man who donates his time without compensation. These men are Bill Kittrell, Junior Yohn, Bob Watson, and Paul Johnson.

The Greenville Recreation Department is doing all that it can to help make the PONY league a success. It furnishes the grounds, maintenance, practice balls bats, supervision and utilities.

The supporters of the PONY league therefore have to furnish these items: catching equipment, umpires, scorekeepers, insurance on each boy and all major improvements to the field. This year two dugouts and a concession stand with press box have been built on the present site at a cost of approximately $1500. This money is above the regular operating budget of the league and is now an outstanding debt of the supporters.

Won't you help? A benefit supper has been planned to help meet this expense. It is planned for June 29th at 5:30 and 7:30 p. m. at the PONY league field. Get a buck out and attend the supper for a good meal and a worthwhile deed. Your boy'll appreciate it a lot!

Large Attendance For Vacation Bible School

Pictured above is the Vacation Bible Class which attended the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. The class averaged a daily attendance of 21 youngsters and a total offering of $42 for Chapels for Cuba was received. Mrs. John Langley was general director of the Bible School and she supervised a staff of 36. Church pastor, the Rev. Mr. R. B. Crawford said that two conversions were recorded during the two week school. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor.)

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 10 cases, five of them involving drunkenness.

Drunk: Tobe Freeman, Watha, N. C., $10; Robert Gaskins, 1017 West Third Street, two charges, 30 days in jail on each charge, the first charge suspended on payment of $10; the second charge, $15. Tom McLawhorn, Negro, Route 1, Greenville, $25, costs deducted. Albert J.

Tripp, Route 3, Greenville, $10.

Disorderly conduct: Allen Moore, Negro, 711 Fleming Street, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and he is to remain of good behavior two years. James Langley, Negro, 1218 Pitt Street, same sentence.

Willie Garner, Negro, assault on a female, and Etta L. Garner, Negro, Route 2, Greenville, affray, each taxed with court costs.

Kenneth Biggs, 207 East Third Street, no operator's license, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to drive without an operator's license.

At last Friday's session of Police Court Judge Whedbee disposed of 16 cases, four of them involving traffic or motor vehicle violations, failure to stop at a traffic sign, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $5. The court gave Clark 30 days in jail for speeding 80 miles an hour, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Clark is not to operate a car for 60 days.

Kurt E. Eichloff, Camp Lejeune, improper passing, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs. Rufus Stepps, 618 Dickinson avenue, drunk and disorderly, $10.

Drunk: Sylvester Vick, Sr., Rt. 1, Greenville, $15; Abram M. Williams, 210 Pamlico Avenue, $10.

William O'Neal, Jr., Negro, 1212 South Greene Street, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and he is to pay doctor's bill for Walter H. Council.

Stephen Farish, Ayden, paid $10 for failure to stop at a traffic light.

Arnold Taft, 106 South Reads Street, assault on a female, 60 days suspended on payment of costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to harm his wife and he was placed on probation for two years. Judge Whedbee ordered that Taft begin June 18, 1955, to pay $18 a week for support of his children.

Jennis Taylor, 617 Howell Street, paid costs for not having a driver's license, and prayer for judgment was continued for reckless driving. Jarvis A. Causey, Route 2, Greenville, paid $10 for being drunk. For assault with a deadly weapon (knife) the court gave him six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is not to harm George Entwistle. For assaulting Entwistle, the court gave Causey 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and $5 to Entwistle.

Mary S. Bunting, Route 2, Greenville, 40 days for being drunk and disorderly. This sentence is to be served concurrently with the six months sentence to the women's division of State Prison for being a public nuisance.

France Suspends All Auto Racing

PARIS (AP)—The French government has suspended all auto races throughout France until a new safety code can be formulated.

The semi-official French Press Agency reported last night, however, that the new regulations are expected to be ready in time for the next major race, the Grand Prix de Reims July 2.

The ban followed the smashup Saturday during the 24-hour sports car race at Le Mans in which a driver and 78 spectators were killed. It was the worst tragedy in the history of racing.

Mass funeral services for the victims were scheduled today in the Le Mans Cathedral.

Ayden Minister Wins His Degree

A former Ayden resident was graduate from The College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., at its 90th commencement. The Rev. C. Goodwin Moore, son of C. G. Moore of 308 Park Avenue, Ayden, was awarded a Bachelor of Divinity degree. He now is visiting with his parents before going to Washington where he will be minister of education at First Christian Church.

Mr. Moore is a member of the Ayden Christian Church and was ordained to the Christian ministry from there. He has been active in Christian youth work and for two years was president of the North Carolina Christian Youth Fellowship. He represented North Carolina on the International Christian Youth Fellowship Commission.

He served a term as chairman of the international commission's worship committee. In 1952 he was responsible for preparing the worship materials which were used in high school youth conferences throughout the United States and Canada.

Mr. Moore attended East Carolina College and earned his A.B. from Atlantic Christian College. At The College of the Bible he took three years of graduate work with a major emphasis on religious education.

He has served as director of religious education in First Christian Church of Wilson, as associate minister at the Ayden Christian Church and while in seminary he was minister to youth at Madison Avenue Christian Church in Covington, Ky. Mr. Moore will begin his work in Washington in mid-July.

Women In The Church

There are 35,000 students from overseas countries now studying on some 1,600 college and university campuses in the U.S.A., according to Miss Dorothy A. Nyland, secretary of student work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Church. One third of all those who come are Protestant, one third are non-Christian and one third are Roman Catholic, says Miss Nyland. There are twice as many Asian students as European; 26,000 men and 8,100 women. More than half of those who come are only here for one year. There is an increase in the number of graduate students. The average age is 25 years, which makes them a little older than the average student. Over 1,300 campuses have appointed foreign student advisers, Miss Nyland reports. They are also on the faculty though only 27 are full-time foreign student advisers.

Some advisers have an interest in the spiritual development of student and some do not. Church people have a missionary opportunity to do something about these students now that they are here. And some of these students are missionaries to the U.S.A.

Midwifery training—desperately needed in Korea—is given by the Australian Presbyterian Maternity Hospital at Pusan with a team of nurses, one of whom is provided by the Congregational Church of the United States as a contribution to Korea Church World Service's program. Successful classes of graduate nurses, with six months postgraduate work in obstetrics, have graduated from this course, and are working in various hospitals and schools of nursing throughout the country to improve the standards of care of mothers and babies and teach obstetrics to student nurses. In addition, gifts of equipment—midwives' bags—have been donated by churches overseas.

Miss Prudentia Fabro, principal of the Harris Memorial School in Manila, the Philippine Islands, has arrived at the Scarritt College for Christian Workers at Nashville, Tenn., for six months of study. Miss Fabro is a former Crusade Scholar and a graduate both of the Union Seminary and the University of Manila.

Sunday. Newspapers are full of store ads urging a material expression of admiration and affection for the nation's dads. And this year the variety of items is wide and wilder than ever.

But maybe some merchants are missing a bet. Dad has changed in more ways than just in the color of his plumage.

Some time back women discovered that the way to solve the problem of the disappearing servant class was to initiate husbands into the mysteries of housekeeping rites. So it's as likely to be the man of the house who dreams of an electric dishwasher as it is to be the wife.

Washing machine salesmen might do well too to watch a trend that could develop fast. This summer various textile firms are bombarding the market with fabrics for wash-'n-wear clothing. They assure Dad he can dunk one of these suits with ease and after it's dry wear it with aplomb.

The next short step is for the husband who never before has given thought to the family wash to be led firmly into the utility room of his ranch house for instructions in how to wash his own suit. And then, of course, he might as well do the family wash while he's about it. When he isn't in the kitchen, today's father is likely to be in the garage or the basement trying to turn out the book shelves or patio furniture desired by the little woman—almost invariably a great believer in the do-it-yourself movement for husbands.

The market for tools, paints, lumber and maybe Geiger counters should offer a gold mine for Father's Day promoters.

If it's the standard items of apparel you want to give father Sunday, the stores are full of them this year, both in variety and depth. But you may find that father's appearance is changing these days.

Executives of a leading suit and accessories chain report that in the last year or so the shift in men's notions of how they should look has shaved two inches off the shoulders of business suits, trimmed lapels down to 3 inches from the former 4 1/2 inches, and tightened trousers at the knee by one half inch.

Even greater changes have come in the weekend appearance of the American male—walking shorts, fancier sport shirts and, this year, flamboyantly colored slacks.

French In Indochina Are Bitter Over American Attitude In Viet Nam Issue

By PRESTON GROVER
 SAIGON (AP)—The French here are as bitter at the Americans over Indochina that they scarcely speak to them. The French hardly ever speak to members of the Vietnamese government now in office, which they bitterly oppose. The Americans, in turn, rarely speak to the French but talk happily, at the moment, with the Vietnamese government headed by Ngo Dinh Diem. And Diem, so the French say, speaks mainly to God.

As a correspondent I have spent much time in colonial areas, but I have never found a situation so personally bitter as this one.

Even at the peak of the troubles between the Indians and the British from 1942, the year of the Gandhi arrest, to 1947 the year of liberation, the British were speaking comfortably to Indians and Americans were speaking with both of them, despite a well-known undercurrent of American sympathy for the Indian effort to quell the empire.

"We have very little contact with the Americans," said a spokesman of French general headquarters.

The French and American colonies live almost wholly apart.

The animosity stems from widely differing policies which the two countries have tried on high levels to reconcile. But there is no effort at reconciliation on the lower levels on either side. Quite the contrary, it is clear that some of the "juniors" in service on either side are trying to whip up even more animosity.

It is a situation shocking to newly arriving observers and must bring great happiness to the Communist Vietnamese, who control the north half of Viet Nam under the aegis of the Geneva conference. They doubtless are in full agreement with many French, American and Vietnamese here who think the dispute inevitably will end in the Communists' gaining the southern half of the country.

A part of the problem is that neither America nor France has a hard and well-defined policy. Such policies as they have are opposed to each other. American subordinates here are not always following the directions of their bosses, and the same goes for the French.

These cross purposes came to a glaring conflict in the recent shooting battle between the government forces and the Binh Xuyen society, which controlled the Saigon police organization.

This conflict in itself was especially shocking to Americans, who cannot conceive of a police chief refusing to take orders from the head of the government. To the Vietnamese, and in a degree to the French, it was just another act in the political drama.

Both Gen. Paul Ely, French resident and commander in Indochina, and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, then American ambassador, urged restraint before the fighting became general. Both knew that the intention of the government was to begin at noon April 28 to shoot its way into police headquarters, held by the Binh Xuyen. They knew it would result in a bloody battle in the center of the city.

"If you do not withdraw your orders, you will find me at the front door of the surete (police headquarters) when you open fire," Ely told Premier Diem. Collins supported Ely. Diem postponed the firing.

At the moment of the crisis, a priest, going to police headquarters to recover his automobile, saw several French officers in consultation with the rebellious police.

No one could say definitely that they were helping prepare the defense, but topmost French officials admit they encouraged the Binh Xuyen to resist.

Nor could anyone say that the American director of psychological warfare, Col. Edward Lansdale, had counseled the government to cut out the nonsense and go in shooting. French officers privately insist he did and the colonel acknowledges his support of the position taken by the government.

In this kind of atmosphere, there's little meaning to the promise of "cooperation" between the French and the Americans as published by Secretary of State Dulles and Premier Edgar Faure of France after their conference in Paris. The two sides aren't cooperating except in the starchy upper reaches of the high command. On the working level, they are fighting each other.

The United States Information Service here is openly pro-Diem and anti-French, while the French

THAR SHE STAYS—Fishermen attempt to refloat whale which grounded itself in water off Danish island of Tassings. It was shot as try failed and carcass was towed to shore.

supervised newspaper and information service here are conducting an unremitting anti-American campaign. On both sides there seems a glaring lack of a boss who can enforce his orders all down the line.

Gen. Collins has returned to the United States, evidently somewhat at cross purposes with the State Department which did not heed his recommendations for trimming all-out support for Diem, and favoring more careful examination of the French position.

Gen. Ely clearly beaten by the combination of American and Viet Nam operators, has asked to be relieved of his assignment. Their successors may find ways of improving "cooperation," but they first will have to have an agreement on policy at high levels, lacking now and authority to see that the policy is carried out on the lower levels. At present, the two countries are far from either goal.

U. S. Communist Leader Prepares Appeal Ruling

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Steve Nelson, Western Pennsylvania Communist leader, today prepared an appeal of a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling upholding his conviction under the federal Smith Act.

The Appellate Court for the 3rd Circuit yesterday upheld 5-2 the conviction of Nelson and four other Communist party members, ruling they "were not convicted because of (Communist) membership or the holding of party office (but) their guilt was shown to be personal and individual."

Nelson, William Albertson, Benjamin Lowell Careathers, James H. Dolson and Irving Weissman were convicted in federal court in Pittsburgh and sentenced to five years each on charges of violating the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to teach or advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

All are free now under bail.

Bus Passengers Went Along, Too

DETROIT (AP)—Tired of arguing with a woman passenger who wanted him to honor an expired transfer, bus driver Cleonard Osborne, 26, detoured his load of rush-hour passengers to police headquarters.

There he escorted the package-laden woman to Lt. Edwin Johnson.

Hot and crowded, passengers waited until Johnson decided police had no grounds on which to act.

Osborne left the station, climbed back into his bus and drove back to his route. The woman, unidentified, was left standing on the curb.

Guaranteed Wage Plan Linked With Unemployment Insurance

By JAMES MARLOW
 Associated Press News Analyst
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Guaranteed wages and unemployment insurance are not the same. They are being pulled closer together by the auto workers' efforts to wring some kind of wage guarantee from the auto industry.

This is the main difference: 1. Unemployment insurance (hereafter called UI) is money which a state gives a worker for a limited time and in limited amounts—when he loses his regular job.

2. The kind of guaranteed wage now in the news is money given by an employer—for a limited time and in limited amounts—when a worker is laid off.

This is what the CIO United Auto Workers had in mind when it got its first guaranteed wage contracts from Ford and General Motors.

That the guaranteed wage, when added to the UI which a laid-off worker would collect, would give him a figure closer to his regular pay than he would get from the UI alone.

Now it's up to the states to decide whether they'll give UI to a man collecting money from his employer. Some states don't permit that now.

Unemployment Insurance All states, plus the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii pay UI, collected through a tax of 3 per cent or less on employers' payrolls. Amounts vary from state to state and so does the length of time each state gives these benefits.

The UI payments have been averaging around $25 a week. Some states pay for no more than 16 weeks, some for as many as 26.

Before he can collect UI payments, a worker generally must meet requirements like these: almost all states require him to wait a week, without pay, before he starts collecting; he must be willing to take another job if it's suitable; he may be penalized, or get no money at all, if he's been fired for misconduct.

The Guaranteed Wage is of two kinds: 1. For years some companies—like Nunn-Bush, Hormel, Procter and Gamble—have had guaranteed wage plans assuring their employees steady work or income. This is not linked to unemployment insurance.

2. The Ford agreement first for the auto industry, is tied directly in with UI payments. This is how it works:

A man is laid off for lack of work. He can get up to $25 a week

—many will get less—for a much as 26 weeks. How much he gets, up to $25, and how long he gets it depends on how long he worked for Ford and how much he earned weekly.

This company payment, when added to the UI payment he gets from the state, can, but won't necessarily add up to 65 per cent of his base take-home pay. That is, the pay he has left after federal income tax has been deducted from it.

And that guarantee of 65 per cent of take-home pay is only for four weeks. For the next 22 weeks the guarantee is for no more than 60 per cent. So even the combined Ford-UI payment will not give a jobless worker what he had earned regularly.

Civil Defence Program Is Likened To Insurance Plan

American communities for the first time have a comprehensive insurance policy against natural disasters in the Federal Civil Defense Administration's disaster relief program.

This view of FCDA Administrator Val Peterson stems from his experience in coordinating relief in 74 major natural disasters since 1953.

These disasters include 41 drought situations, 11 floods, 7 tornadoes, 9 hurricanes, 2 earthquakes, a forest fire, and a flood and erosion condition.

Prior to the relief programs of the thirties, there was no central coordination of relief. The Federal government haphazardly aided States and cities after a disaster. Usually with funds Congress appropriated specifically to meet that one calamity. Duplication of effort and delays resulted.

Beginning in 1947, Federal branches were given authority to give aid during specific types of disasters. The Army's Corps of Engineers could restore flood control protective works, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation make certain disaster repair loans, and the Secretary of Agriculture could make loans to farmers and stockmen whose production was hard hit.

Meanwhile the American Red Cross was giving, and continues to give, aid in the form of emergency housing, food, clothing and some monetary grants. Its relief activities, however, are devoted to providing direct relief.

On Sept. 30, 1950, the President approved the Federal Disaster Act authorizing Federal assistance to State and local governments in major disasters, and coordination of disaster relief activities of all Federal agencies.

On January 16, 1953, with the rise and strengthening of natural Civil Defense an executive order made the Federal Civil Defense Administrator coordinator of all Federal National disaster relief.

This wider authority, coupled with greater State and local utilization.

Safety Patrol Is Motorized For Hazardous Area

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP)—The Schoolboy Safety Patrol has been motorized. The junior high school faces Highway 27, a busy traffic artery on which motorists try to make time. It was a dangerous situation.

Charles M. Conrad, the principal, had a talk with police officials. The upshot was that five safety patrol boys who own motorcycles or motorbikes were given the job of patrolling the road in the vicinity of the school.

They make no arrests, but when a motorist whizzes along at dangerous speed, they ride beside him and signal him to slow down. They make posts at intersections to remind motorists they're in a school zone.

Traffic which formerly averaged 40 miles an hour through the zone now moves at 20 miles an hour.

Parrot Drowned Sorrows In Beer

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—D-D, the pet parakeet of John Gibbons, drowned his sorrows. A glass of beer caught his fancy. He perched on the rim, dipped his beak into the foam for a nip and fell into the glass.

Gibbons rescued the drenched bird but D-D was found dead on the floor of his cage next morning.

Most Modern Trucks on any job with the most advanced truck features the industry has ever seen!

Only new Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks bring you the shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck and today's most advanced sixes—plus all these truly modern features!

They're the marks of a modern truck, and they out-date any make without them!

Beginning with Work-Styling, an entirely new development in truck design. For the first time in any line of trucks, Chevrolet brings you two styling treatments—one for light- and medium-duty models, another for heavy-duty jobs! Styling that's matched to the model and the job.

The latest in cab comfort and safety. Inside you can count on the same ultra-modern touch—softer seat action that reduces driver fatigue, and more durable construction throughout.

New concealed Safety Steps. Chevrolet's new Safety Steps are out of sight with the doors closed—stay clear of snow, ice or mud.

New panoramic windshield. For a wider, virtually unobstructed view of the road!

Fresh air in all kinds of weather. With new High-Level ventilation, air is drawn in through louvers at cowl level. That means air is constantly circulated through the cab, regardless of disagreeable weather conditions.

High-Voltage power—V8 or 6. The new lineup of Chevrolet truck engines includes the shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck, and most advanced sixes. All have a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage for quicker, surer starting and more efficient spark plug firing.

Tubeless tires standard on 1/2-ton models. Here's greater protection against blowouts.

Every Power Helper in the book. Power Brakes are standard equipment on 2-ton models, an extra-cost option on others. The new handling ease of Power Steering, another extra-cost option, cuts turning effort up to 80%.

There's new gas-saving Overdrive, as an extra-cost option on 1/2-ton models... and truck Hydra-Matic on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton jobs.

The new Cameo Carrier. Long and low, with smooth, fleet lines, here's the Custom pickup that may well create a new class of truck owner!

One final word. When the time comes to trade in '55 models, the man without a really modern truck stands to take a good-sized loss. Come in and see us soon.

Mario Lanza To Pay For Damages

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mario Lanza, by court order, will have to pay $49,361.66 for damages to a $200,000 Beverly Hills home which he leased for 28 months for himself and his family.
 Superior Court awarded that amount to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kaiser yesterday, the owners.
 Mrs. Kaiser said at the end of the $1,250-a-month lease she found her home and grounds a shambles of "debris, dirt, filth and desecration."
 Kaiser was known in silent films at Norman Kerry.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Summer

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Cameron reached to a shelf behind him and hooked down a pint of whiskey. "All right here's what you came for. But be sure to ride back tonight an' tell me what happened."

"Don't see the point of all this rigmarole," Calder grumbled after the old man had gone.

"If Larabee kills Riordan, then I'm rid of him. If he kills Larabee—over another woman—he'll be finished, far as Christie's concerned. And, a tight smile played briefly over Cameron's thin lips. "A man killed—defendin' a woman's honor—is just the kind o' thing that might get these nesters fightin' mad."

"I see all that, but why bother? If you want Riordan out of the way, why not let me take care of him?"

"You're my hole card. I'm savin' you for Mallory. I want nothin' to happen to you before then."

"All right. If the point of the whole deal is getting rid of Mallory, why not send for me and let me settle his hash three months ago? Why? The gambler demanded irritably, "a whole campaign to handle what one bullet would do?"

"Lon," Cameron told him impatiently, "you'll never be anything but a poker player. You don't see any further ahead than the next hand. Sure we could kill Mallory an' Riordan an' grab Broken Spur—maybe hold it. But I'm playin' for somethin' bigger than just land an' cattle. Look, I'll explain it to you once more. The nesters get worked up—never mind how 'cause nobody else is goin' to time all the smoke clears away—into movin' in on Mallory's range. There's a lot o' shootin', and Mallory gets killed. Who gets blamed for it? The nesters, o' course. A bunch o' nesters on the prod, stealin' other men's graze, killin' ranchers for defendin' their own property—the cattlemen round here ain't goin' to stand for that, are they?"

"But somebody's got to head 'em up. Mallory's dead. Toland's old an' sick, the sheriff's never handled anything bigger'n a saloon fight, the other ranchers are just little fellas that always looked to Mallory an' Toland to tell 'em what to do—they'll be millin' round like cattle in a storm, makin' a lot o' noise an' gettin' nowhere. That's where I step in—just a cattlemen that wants law an' order."

"An' when the nesters are cleaned out, there's Broken Spur without an owner, beggin' somebody to take it over. Who's got a better right than the man that saved it from the sodbusters? Then, in a year or so—maybe sooner, when her old man's gone an' she needs a man—I marry Christie an' take over Slash T. I'll be one o' the biggest cattlemen in Texas—an' the most respectable. I'll swing more weight in the state than Rob Mallory ever did. Why, a glow came into the icy-grey eyes. "I might even be governor some day!"

As soon as Lita had pulled Kerry inside he found himself clasped in her arms, her warm, vibrant body pressed close against him and her lips seeking his with an abandon that left him breathless. He could hardly thrust her away—and for the first moment, since he was only a normal flesh-and-blood young man, he didn't particularly want to. But, that moment ended, he freed himself gently from the clinging arms, and stood back to look at her.

"What did you want to see me about, Lita?" he asked.

"Well!" she turned away from him, and he thought he saw her shoulders shake. "It's bad enough I gotta ask you to come an' see me, after I ain't seen you in months an' months—an' then you hafta ask why I wanta see you." Her voice trembled. "Right off, before you even say you're glad to see me or anything."

"Well, of course I'm glad to see you, Lita," Kerry had seldom felt more uncomfortable. He stammered. "Only—the way you wrote—I thought it was something important."

"I reckon I'm not important any more." She swung around to face him again, blinking her long lashes rapidly, as if to keep back tears. "I reckon nobody's important now 'cept Christie Toland."

"Well, Christie and me are going to get married pretty soon now." Kerry felt a relief in getting it out in the open. "After all, Lita, you knew I was going to marry her some time, didn't you?"

"Sure," Kerry. Lita blinked once more, hard, and gave him a smile. "Sure, an' I—I hope you'll be awful happy. Only—I guess I won't be seein' you any more, huh?"

"We'll still be friends, Lita," Kerry protested unhappily. "She won't be wantin' to be friends with other girls—an' I don't blame her. I wouldn't either, if you was mine." Lita's smile grew wistful and tremulous. "Don't think I'm awful silly, Kerry, but I—I wish you'd kiss me once more—just for goodbyes. She wouldn't mind that would she? She wouldn't need to know."

She was leaning toward him, offering her lips. Kerry tried to make the kiss brotherly but it wasn't—at least on her part. Somehow he found himself sitting beside her on the sofa.

"I really did have a reason for writin' to you, Kerry," she told him softly, "—sides wantin' to see you, I mean. Kerry, I been so worried!"

"What about Lita?"

"All this trouble 'tween our folks an' Broken Spur. I been scared 't death wonderin' what was goin' to happen!"

"Nothing's going to happen to you, honey." The endearment slipped out unconsciously.

"I've heard 'bout nester wars. Kerry. Some o' the folks here been through 'em before. They're awful specially for women. Oh, Kerry—!" with a little wail, she buried her face against his shoulder.

It was only natural for him to put his arm around her. He patted her with reassuring little murmurs. She snuggled up to him, clinging round him as a frightened child might cling—and then suddenly not like a child at all. Both arms were tight around his waist, straining her body to him, and her avid mouth felt fever-hot against his skin. "Kerry Kerry—" Her voice was a throbbing murmur deep in her throat, like the purr of a big cat.

Suddenly Kerry felt as if he were choking for air. With a strength that had no gentleness in it he thrust her away and stood up. The hot, soft hands reached out to draw him down again. He stepped back. "Quit it, Lita!" His voice had a rasping sound. There was no chivalry in him at that moment. He thrust her away from him so that she stumbled.

Her hip struck against the table. She recovered her balance with one hand clawing at the table edge, came erect with her spine arching like an angry cat's—and flew at him, the fingers of her right hand crisped into talons that raked his face from cheekbone to jaw.

Almost gently he pinioned her wrist and forced it down to her side. "Thanks, Lita. I needed that."

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Her voice followed him out of the house and down the road, spitting and snarling. His cheek burned where her nails had torn it, and the sting was welcome. The hot, dusty air felt unbelievably clean and good.

When she knew the sound of her voice couldn't reach Kerry any more, Lita turned back into the cabin, but her fury was far from spent, and it had to have an object. There was one thing no man could do to Lita Dawson, and that was scorn her.

Goaded with the whip of mortification, Lita raged around the library in venting her feelings on the shabby furnishings, since there was nothing better at hand. She kicked at a splint-bottomed chair and it went over with one rickety leg broken. She thrust her weight against the table, still littered with the greasy dishes of last night's meal, till she sent it all to the floor with a satisfying crash. She flung pans and crockery about the room, till there was nothing left to fling, and then threw herself down, spent panting and half-sobbing, across the bed.

The chance is 1 in 3 your family will have a hospital bill plus a doctor bill within a year.

Does your policy say— doctor bills, too?

Chances are 2 to 1 that you have hospital bill protection only.
But you probably won't have a hospital bill without a doctor bill.
so you need protection for both! Only Hospital Saving gives you both!

Here is a simple precaution you can take that may save you hundreds of dollars and weeks of worry.

Right now, check your health insurance contracts to make sure you are covered for doctor bills as well as hospital bills.

Many people assume they are covered for both when they are only protected on hospital bills. Since you rarely have a hospital bill without a doctor bill, you need protection for both.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield is the most complete protection you and your family can get for hospital and doctor bills. And in North Carolina, only Hospital Saving Association of Chapel Hill gives you both Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Chapel Hill Blue Cross covers all or a major portion of hospital charges for room and board and the expensive hospital extras.

It provides this protection for each enrolled member of your family for up to 70 days.

Daily room allowances range from $5 to $10—and Hospital Saving covers dependents from birth to age 19.

Chapel Hill Blue Shield helps pay your doctors for surgery and maternity care. A special plan provides full payments to participating physicians if your income is within certain limits—the only such plan available in North Carolina.

Last year, the Chapel Hill plan paid out over $7,700,000.00 in North Carolina for hospital and medical expenses of its subscribers.

And Chapel Hill Blue Cross-Blue Shield does not terminate your certificate because of age or chronic illness.

Protection when you need it most!

PACKAGE PROGRAMS

Now, Hospital Saving offers employee programs which include Blue Cross-Blue Shield plus Life Insurance and Loss of Time Benefits through H.S.A. Insurance Services, Inc.

Quoted From Reader's Digest

"Buy hospitalization from Blue Cross and medical services from its associate, Blue Shield. These are non-profit, community-sponsored organizations. They are the only such programs operating nationally."

Congress Looks For New Site If Capital Bombed

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said today the government is looking over places where Congress might move if Washington is hit by enemy attack.

Martin spoke in an interview as President Eisenhower and 15,000 key executive branch officials prepared to leave the capital tomorrow on Operation Alert, a three-day civil defense exercise in which they will practice running the government from selected posts in nearby states.

Congress is slated to go on with its business as usual during this test.

It was learned, however, that congressional leaders have accepted an offer by the Office of Defense Mobilization to undertake a survey of sites where the lawmakers could carry on their business should Washington come under attack.

Martin said discussions on the choice of an alternate Capitol are under way and the spot picked would have to be:

1. Not too far from the President's emergency headquarters at an undisclosed location.

2. A place where large buildings are available. There are 531 House and Senate members, not counting their staffs.

3. Comparative safety from enemy attack. A location equally as vulnerable as Washington, for instance, would not do.

Washington (AP)—Rep. Don Hayworth (D-Mich) reported he was waylaid last night by three masked holdup men in a park bordering the Capitol. Police said the bandits got nothing since Hayworth was carrying no money. Hayworth, 57, told police the armed leader of the gang ordered

White Collar Group Is 'Next'

NEW YORK (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther says white collar workers are "the forgotten men and women of modern industry" and are due for an intensive union organizing campaign.

In a statement sent to the annual convention of the AFL Office Employees International Union, Reuther promised a drive among white collar workers as soon as the AFL-CIO merger is completed.

Referring to tasks that face the united labor organization once it is formed, Reuther said:

"We must immediately begin the important task of organizing workers into unions which best serve their interests . . ."

Taxicabs Join In Singapore Strike

By LARRY ALLEN SINGAPORE (AP)—Singapore's 2,000 taxicabs disappeared from the British colony's streets today as drivers joined in a Communist-backed general strike protesting the arrest of six Chinese union officials.

About 80 factories and firms were closed.

The taxi walkout left thousands stranded. All 13 bus lines were shut down Sunday when 6,000 employees walked out.

The general strike so far was only partially effective. The government estimated about 17,000 workers were idle of 70,000 ordered out by leaders of 36 unions.

The union leaders said the rest of their members would join the walkout shortly. This threat came after Singapore's Labor government turned down a union offer to call off the strike in exchange for the release of the six union officials arrested Sunday under emergency regulations.

No major violence was reported so far but authorities kept a sharp lookout for any outbreaks. Strike-sparked riots last month cost the lives of four persons, including Gene D. Symonds, an American correspondent for United Press.

Police said "intimidators" forced the taxi drivers to join the strike. Cabs did a roaring trade yesterday with the bus lines out.

Housewives jammed the stores yesterday to lay in emergency supplies when rumors spread that all store employees planned to go on strike. A similar rumor caused a run on filling stations.

Malik Trying Hard To Show A 'Friendly' Look

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—Jacob Malik, Russia's ambassador to Britain, is trying hard to prove that Russian diplomats really are the friendly type. The hulking, square-faced Kremlin trouble shooter, friend and confidant of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, has told his embassy staff to wipe off their cold war look. Malik himself is setting an example.

British and American diplomats are being invited to lunch parties at the once forbidding Russian Embassy on Kensington's swank "Millionaires' Row."

"They find few chinks in the Iron Curtain on information. But the vodka flows freely, the helpings of caviar are generous, and their Russian hosts spill over with good fellowship.

Malik has been setting some kind of a record for informality in carrying on London negotiations with the Japanese for a World War II peace settlement. He initiated the negotiations by splitting a bottle of cordonnet at the Soviet Embassy with the surprised Japanese envoy, Shunichi Matsumoto.

Next day he strolled leisurely down "Millionaires' Row"—without the usual bevy of secret security police hovering in the background—to the neighboring Japanese Embassy for more talk with Matsumoto.

Once the Russian Embassy buildings were buttoned up tight and a guard surveyed you through a peephole or a door slightly ajar before letting you in. Inside were bulky characters in ill-fitting dark blue suits with policeman marked all over them. The blue-suited men have been either changed clothes or gone back to Moscow.

Reporters telephoning the embassy got at least a reply from a press spokesman. Until a few weeks ago, they usually got a grunt, sometimes a "I no speak English," or "Nobody is here now."

Graduate Heads For Home With 7 Of Her Family

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Richard Kautz headed for home in Iowa today with her husband, six of her seven children and a degree from Northwestern University.

She studied at Northwestern for more than three years, but her campus career ended with her marriage in December 1939.

Recently she resumed her formal education by correspondence and in Saturday classes at the University of Iowa—40 miles from her home in Muscatine, Iowa.

She received her bachelor's degree in education yesterday at Northwestern's commencement.

In the audience were her husband, vice president of the Grain Processing Corp. in Muscatine, and six of their youngsters: Linda, 13; Judy, 11; Terry, 10; Tommy, 7; Susan 5, and Sarah, 3.

The other child, Cathy, 2, stayed at home.

Mrs. Kautz, 37, now plans to remain a housewife. She said she hopes her achievement will be a "stimulus" to the scholarship of her children.

Gunmen Beat Up Aged Widow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two disguised gunmen pistol-whipped Mrs. Anne Emmett, 69-year-old widow, and robbed her of $800 last night at her tiny neighborhood grocery store in the Mission district.

Mrs. Emmett fought so hard that she pulled the false nose off one robber. She said they hit her with a revolver and threatened to kill her when she refused to give them her money.

She was treated for lacerations of the head and hands.

Boy Saved From Refrigerator

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Because 18-month-old Lloyd Odom Jr. has a healthy set of lungs, his 4-year-old brother Jimmy is recovering from a close call in an abandoned refrigerator.

Mrs. Odom rushed into the yard yesterday when she heard Junior's screams.

She noticed the door on the old refrigerator was closed. Jerking the door open, she found Jimmy soaked with sweat, his eyes bulging. He was barely able to talk.

He had bitten his arm in several places. Jimmy will be all right, a doctor said after a day's rest, but a few minutes more and it might have been a different story.

Watched Blaze From A Distance

CORINTH, Miss. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cochran were watching a drive-in movie last night when flames shot across the sky.

For nearly half an hour they divided their attention between the screen and the fire.

Then they learned it was at their woodworking plant, the Douglas Cochran Co.

Firemen brought the blaze under control after a three-hour battle. Damages were estimated at $25,000.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Everyone who buys a new home does not buy a house—some buy an apartment in a cooperatively owned building. Of course, they do not actually own the apartment they occupy. They own stock in a corporation which owns the building. This entitles them to occupy and maintain their apartment—so it amounts to about the same as owning the rooms.

However, lots of people would rather establish their homes in or near the heart of a crowded city, where they can be within walking distance or a short taxi ride from their jobs, than travel a long distance for the pleasures of lawn mowing, snow shovelling and falling off painters' ladders.

So the other day we took a look at how the other half lives, visiting a swank new cooperative project on New York's Fifth Avenue, directly opposite the Metropolitan Museum of Art. We found a very fine apartment that compares favorably in space with a nice house in the country—7 rooms, 3 baths, extra lavatory and a private porch in the form of a roof terrace overlooking Central Park.

The price for this apartment is $26,325 and the estimated total annual charge, including maintenance and other fixed expenses is $5,872.50.

Now of course you can find cooperative apartments for much less money. In the past 10 years many cooperative apartment buildings were erected for the average man with the aid of subsidies or FIA assistance. In each case the advantages of real estate tax deductions on your income tax return were stressed.

So in this luxury building, where income taxes are no joke for the apartment dwellers, the salesmen point out that if you are in the 50 per cent tax bracket (if, he says) your deduction for real estate taxes will amount to $1,822.50 yearly, which leaves you only $397.50 for an actual monthly charge to live there.

But luxury certainly has changed its meaning in the past generation. Back in the 1920s, before the 1½-room apartment had been invented, 7-room apartments were ordinary. Sometimes you had to enter through the dining room and apologize to the sauerkraut and pig knuckles fans for inspecting their quarters at that hour—but John Markle, the coal man, was then living in a 40-room Fifth Avenue apartment, all alone—except for 14 servants.

We remember having printed an item in the early 1930s when documents in the county clerk's office showed that a famous banker paid $380,000 for his cooperative apartment. Although the price had become a matter of public record, he was furious when he read the item and called up to ask if we didn't know men were selling apples on the street.

And Arthur Brisbane, the famous editor and real estate speculator, had 32 rooms on the top two floors of another Fifth Avenue building. His living room was 60 feet long, 30 feet wide and two stories high with fireplaces at each end big enough to barbecue a Texas steer whole in each one of them, but Brisbane never was that informal.

The biggest apartment we ever saw was that of Mrs. Marjorie Frost Close Hutton (later Davies)—totaling 66 rooms. She was so much in love with the Hutton mansion on upper Fifth Ave. that she couldn't bear the thought of losing it when skyrocketing taxes dictated the construction of an entire mansion reproduced, exact to every detail, on the top three floors of the new building.

What became of such luxury homes? Times changed. And architects had many a headache trying to cut such apartments down to size.

Dates Set For Vote On Strike

DENVER (AP)—June 20-22 has been set for a nationwide strike vote among workers in the non-ferrous metals industry by the independent International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers.

The union said last night six weeks of negotiations with the industry's Big Four—Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps-Dodge and American Smelting & Refining—has produced nothing more than "piddling offers."

Mine-Mill is demanding a 20-cent hourly wage increase; lost-time pay to protect the worker who is forced off the job by accident, illness or layoff so that his income continues at no less than $60 a week; and other benefits.

RESCUER DIES

MONTREAL (AP)—William Mulcahy, 38, of the Humane Society, was electrocuted while trying to rescue a raccoon from an electric power pole. He had been reaching out with a 14-foot metal rod toward the animal from the roof of a building. The raccoon escaped.

The disabilities of old age not complicated by the consequences of disease or infection are rare in human beings.

RARE HEART OPERATION—Mona Parsons, 11-month-old tot of Minto, N. B., Canada, looks up at Nurse Margaret Calberry in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children where she is recovering from a rare heart operation performed three weeks ago. During the operation the lungs from a dead monkey were used to purify her blood. Note the long incision and sutures across the tiny girl's chest. (AP Wirephoto)

Military policeman stands guard at entrance to War College grounds at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

There is a quiet atmosphere at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., an old Army post, but looks are deceiving. Officers who stroll along the shaded walks carry secrets that are among America's most guarded possessions. Sharp-eyed sentries keep close watch.

Carlisle Barracks is the site of the Army War College, top "brain factory" of our ground forces. Nearly 200 hand-picked officers—all colonels or lieutenant colonels—are there for a year of concentrated study, to be prepared for duty as commanders and General Staff Corps officers at the highest Army levels. There are also 15 Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and State Department representatives among the students. The officers must have from 13 to 21 years of commissioned service before they are admitted. Brig. Gen. T. W. Dunn is acting commandant of the school.

Much of the work at the college is, necessarily, shrouded in secrecy. The scope of the courses cover virtually every phase of strategy and war planning, national and international affairs and the army's operations. The school's functions are reflected in its motto: Prudens Futuri—Providence for the Future.

Peron Supporters Strike To Display Their Loyalty In Feud With Church

By SAM SUMMERLIN
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U-P) President Juan Peron's massive labor following rallied for a nine-hour nationwide strike today to demonstrate their loyalty to their leader in his feud with the Roman Catholic Church.

Peron appealed to the people to be "calm... alert and vigilant" in the wake of a three-day wave of clashes and demonstrations. Attacking the clergy as "a wolf in sheep's clothing," he threatened to crack down with all his might on future outbreaks. Shortly before he spoke, fresh fighting erupted in the Plaza de Mayo in downtown Buenos Aires. Church supporters hurled back a crowd of Peron adherents who charged the Metropolitan Cathedral and the adjoining Archbishop's Palace in an effort to mount an Argentine flag on the palace. The Peronistas shouted "Peron yes! Priests no!" as they rushed the building. There were no reports of any injuries. Twenty-nine persons were injured Sunday in rioting around the cathedral. Some 470 persons were arrested over the weekend, most of them Catholic faithful who took refuge in the Episcopal Palace when the rioting broke out. The nationwide strike demonstration was called by the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), whose six million members constitute one of the strongest pillars of the Peronista movement. It was welded together by Peron and his wife Eva during the last years of her life.

The CGT called for the stoppage of all but a few activities in the country, between 3 p.m. and midnight. Workers will gather for mass rallies here and elsewhere over the land. Transportation and newspaper workers planned a 15-minute sympathy strike in the late afternoon. The CGT called the gatherings "vindication" rallies for the alleged burning of the Argentine flag and destruction of a plaque on the Capitol honoring Mrs. Peron during the giant Corpus Christi Catholic parade Saturday. The government which had banned the parade but did not interfere accused Catholics of those acts, but a church spokesman asserted anyone attributing the acts to Catholics is "guilty of solemn lies." Asserting his regime would act "with discipline and energy" if the occasion arose, Peron accused high Argentine clergymen of trying to provoke disorder with the aid of "armed people." But he declared that "for every man they are able to muster, we are able to raise 10 and 10 times more."

The President charged the clergy in recent years had waged a systematic fight against his late wife and her social program. He said churchmen refused to say Mass on occasions during her illness and after her death. He also accused clergymen of directing calumny against members of the women's Peronista party, of campaigning relentlessly against the ideology of his party and of spreading rumors abroad designed to discredit his government. The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said yesterday that Argentine Roman Catholics "are in the position of accused persons who have no possibility of defending themselves even from the most odious calumnies." In a front-page editorial, the newspaper said the Peron government has "an almost total monopoly" of information and is the only agency in a position to appeal to Argentine public opinion. Some Vatican sources expressed fear that more clashes in Argentina would result in Peron's breaking off diplomatic relations with the papal state. The President's appeal for calm appeared to ease the tension in Buenos Aires somewhat and police redoubled efforts to scatter gangs roaming the streets. But Argentines generally remained jittery.

Flash Floods Hit Area In Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Flash floods unleashed by torrential desert cloudbursts hit Nevada last night, blanketing out this city of bright lights and derailing a passenger train in the northern part of the state. There were no injuries reported but the damage in Las Vegas was expected to run over $100,000, and perhaps as high as a half million. While power was quickly restored in most sections, an estimated 80 per cent of all telephones remained out of order early today. Mayor C. D. Baker said there was a strong possibility he would declare a state of emergency and ask for federal flood control aid. It was the worst storm here in 30 years, he said. Meanwhile, the Western Pacific Railroad's California Zephyr was bogged down 58 miles west of Winnemucca. The engine and 10 cars went off the track when the flood-softened roadbed gave way. The railroad said it would take at least 12 hours to clear the track and get the train and its 300 passengers moving again. None of the cars overturned, railroad spokesmen said, because engineer Eddie Lamberi had noticed the sagging roadbed and slowed the Chicago-bound train to less than 15 miles an hour. The cloudburst here lasted an hour, depositing between two and three inches of rain and hail on the downtown area. Scores of shops and homes were flooded and hundreds of cars were stalled in water which swirled a foot deep on main streets.

Texas Democrat Party Feud Has Blazed Up Again

DALLAS, Tex. (U-P)—Texas' old Democratic party feud blazed high wide and angry today as Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler started his six-day Texas "peace tour." Butler tried to calm the snarling party members last night soon after arrival from Portland, Ore. He said he would meet Gov. Allan Shivers "or any other state official" in any of the Texas cities on his tour. Earlier, Shivers said Butler's rejection of a luncheon invitation for Austin June 20 was "regrettable for the future of the Democratic party." Shivers in 1952 led the party machinery in Texas—with its votes—into the Dwight D. Eisenhower camp. Texas went Republican for the second time since the Civil War. And Texas Democrats have been divided sharply since. Shivers last night accused the Texas Democratic Advisory Council, sponsoring Butler's trip, of trying to keep the national chairman from hearing both sides of the party fuss. Shivers, State Democratic Chairman George Sandlin and Mrs. Hilda Weinert, Texas' national committeewoman, already had said they would attend none of the Butler meetings. Butler said at a press conference he already had talked twice with Shivers concerning the party split, once at the Democratic governor's conference in Washington and the next day at a breakfast honoring Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.). Of the June 20 luncheon he said, "It was impossible for me to accept" due to a two-week-old schedule. "However, I will be happy if the governor comes to any of our meetings in Texas," Butler emphasized. The 10-city tour begins today in Lubbock, is in Dallas tomorrow and ends Saturday in Uvalde. Mrs. Weinert said she was staying away from the meetings because of the way Chairman James Sewell of the advisory council had handled invitations. It was she whom Speaker Rayburn had asked to help Sewell with the Butler tour. Sewell apologized after Mrs. Weinert called him "ungallant and rude" and Butler said he intended to see her while in Texas. "She's an old friend," he said. To Sandlin's statement that the trip was sponsored by the "anti-Shivers Democratic advisory council," Butler said he didn't think that the council was "anti-Shivers" and that he would have come to Texas at the invitation of Sandlin and the pro-Shivers State Democratic Executive Committee had they invited him.

Burglars Return To Take Safe

DENVER (U-P)—Safe burglars who missed the boat a week ago returned to the Santa Fe Finance Co. and met with success. Clayton Sites, firm manager, said burglars entered the establishment June 5 and ruined a safe while attempting to break into it. Sites replaced the safe with a new 500-pound model Saturday. When Sites arrived at the office yesterday he found the safe carted away. It contained only petty cash and checks.

Wishes For 80 More Good Years

AUSTIN, Tex. (U-P)—Ma Ferguson blew out the one big candle on her birthday cake last night and wished for 80 more years as happy as the last 80. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, twice governor of Texas and like her late husband, ex-Gov. James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson, was a highly controversial figure for 25 years in Texas politics. Nearly 300 government officials, state and national, relatives and friends gathered for her birthday dinner last night. Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, said he would have traveled 15,000 miles instead 1,800 to attend. President Eisenhower wired his congratulations.

Widmark Is Against Incorporating Self

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U-P)—Richard Widmark is not joining the scramble by top stars to incorporate. His reasons give some insight on the man and the financial situation in Hollywood. Such names as Burt Lancaster, Jane Russell, Rita Hayworth, Frank Sinatra, Henry Fonda and Kirk Douglas are now corporate bodies with the intention of producing pictures for themselves. The advantage is obvious: money. If they can produce money-making films, the stars will profit more and over a longer time than if they worked on straight salary. Widmark goes against the trend. "Sure, I've had offers to incorporate," he said. "But I've turned them down. Why should I tie myself down to an office? If I had been interested in business, I would have gone into the business world instead of becoming an actor. Sure, I might make more money. But how much money can you use? After you've got clothes and food, a house and a car, what more do you need? The problem, he said, was with the tax laws. In order for the deal to be legit, a star has to make several films with his own company. The federals long ago got hep to the gimmick of making one or two films, then dissolving the corporation and collecting the loot on a capital gains basis. "You've got to put out several pictures," Widmark explained. "And you just can't find enough good scripts. The important thing in this business is quality. Sure, you can go after the fast buck and live like a king for a while. But when you make inferior pictures, there's only one way you can go down." It's generally conceded here that

New Tariff Bill Near Final Test

WASHINGTON (U-P)—A compromise bill to give President Eisenhower new tariff-cutting powers was headed for final congressional action, perhaps today. House leaders expected little opposition in that chamber. The Senate was expected to follow suit quickly—possibly sometime late today and send the bill to the President. The compromise bill, giving Eisenhower most of what he sought, would extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for three years. It would allow him to cut tariffs up to 15 per cent—5 per cent each year. It also would let him slice to 50 per cent of value any import duty now above that rate. Such reductions would be in return for like concessions from other nations. Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn.) of the tariff-writing House Ways and Means Committee and Rep. Mills of Arkansas, a senior committee Democrat, both prepared speeches saying they "reluctantly" were going along with the compromise. They objected to Senate-written amendments aimed at giving added safeguards to American producers who fear competition from cheaper foreign products. Cooper and Mills centered their criticism on Senate amendments that would: 1. Give the President new power to impose higher tariffs or quotas when he finds that import "threatens to impair the national security." 2. Stiffen the "escape clause" procedure under which an industry can ask the Tariff Commission to recommend withdrawal or modification of a trade agreement on grounds the duty reduction involved has caused it "substantial" damage.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made progress today, but gains were limited. Demand was spread over several major groups—oils, steels, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, and a long list of individual issues.

Prices were up around 3 points at the outside while losses went to 2 points at the most. Most changes either way were small.

Business was brisk at a pace near yesterday's 2,770,000 shares traded in a rising market.

Motors were quietly steady. Leaders traded unchanged for long periods. Railroads were higher, but they weren't particularly active.

The rails were a focal point of demand yesterday and broke through to a new high mark since 1928.

Goodyear, which announced plans to raise 50 million dollars by offering common stock to its present stockholders was down fractionally at the opening and then weakened further. It was moderately active.

Lickhead and Bell Aircrafts were active and relatively strong as conjecture was renewed in Wall Street over merger possibilities.

Pennsylvania Railroads, yesterday's most active issue up 3/4, trended off today on a block of 6,000 shares up 1/2 at 30 1/4. A block of 5,900 shares of American Can sold at 42 1/2 off 1/2. A block of 4,000 shares of Standard Oil (NJ) went at 119 1/4 up 1/4.

Yesterday's stock market was strong, and the Associated Press average of 90 stocks was up $1.00 at $170.20, a new record high. It was the fifth such record in the past six sessions.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold said today there has arisen a "duty to what I shall call international service, with a claim on our lives equal to that of the duty to serve" family, neighbor country and creed.

It was spawned, he said, by technological and economic developments which "have, as never before, brought us together as members of one human family, unified beyond race or creed on a shrinking globe, in the face of dangers of our own making."

Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations, addressed more than 300 graduates of Johns Hopkins University and received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

International service, he said, "requires that we should be true to none other than our ideals and interests—but these should be such as we can fully endorse after having opened our minds, with great honesty, to the many voices of the world."

There were 87,055 foreign visitors to Japan in 1954, nearly half of them Americans.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hogs were mostly steady today. Tops at 20.50 at Rich Square; 20.25 at Castle Hayne. Siler City, Beula-ville; 20.00 at Micro, Elizabeth-town, Dunn, Newton Grove. Nu-hunts, Clarkton, Warsaw, Whiteville, Bailey Snow Hill, Farmville, New Bern, Tarboro, Enfield, Ham-ilton, Kenly, Wilson, Tabor City, Shallotte, Jacksonville, Plymouth, Goldsboro, Kinston, Benson, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Fayetteville, Clinton, Lumberton and Washing-ton.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina fryers and broilers steady. Farm price 27, f.o.b. plant 29. Raleigh eggs steady, A large 41 to 43.

Asheville fryers and broilers steady. Farm price 27 f.o.b. plant 28 1/2. Asheville eggs steady, A large 39 to 43.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent to the Senate today the formal nomination of Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina, to be an assistant secretary of defense.

The President's plan to appoint Gray, a former secretary of the Army, was announced last Friday. Gray, a Democrat, will succeed H. Struve Hensel, who resigned.

Asked how it happened a Democrat was being brought into the Eisenhower administration White House, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty replied:

"He's a very good man." Asked further whether the selection of the 46-year-old Gray was a gesture of bipartisanship, Hagerty replied with a smile:

"I haven't any answer to that." The White House also announced the Army will name Maj. Gen. Robert Nicholas Young as commanding general of the Sixth Army which has headquarters in San Francisco. Young will succeed Lt. Gen. Willard G. Wyman, July 1. Wyman is to become deputy commanding general of the Continental Army Command.

No Action Taken By C-of-C Board

Because a quorum was present for only part of its meeting last night, the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors took no official action on any matter.

The group, instead, went into a conference and held a general discussion on items of the agenda.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard T. Kyzer said a large number of the 24 directors were out of town, accounting for at least part of the lack of attendance at the regular June board meeting.

Picnic Held Yesterday For 4-H Members

Approximately 40 Pitt County 4-Hers attended the annual County Council picnic yesterday at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baker on the Pamlico River. Here some of the group are shown boarding the hay-filled truck which transported them to the riverside. Chaperoning were Mr. and Mrs. Baker, whose son is a 4-Her; Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, assistant Home agent, and her husband; C. J. Goodman, assistant Farm agent; and Alton Moore, 4-H leader from Fountain. (Reflector Photo by Edwina Haynes.)

Peron Press Opens Attack On Argentine Churchmen

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The semiofficial newspaper Democrazia today listed Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, Roman Catholic Primate of Argentina, and three other members of the hierarchy in a "Who's Who in Infamy."

Under the Cardinal's photograph was the word "Moneylender." The accompanying biographical notes asserted that he had imported luxury automobiles for resale on the black market and continued:

"Of him it may be said that he descends in a direct line from that other moneylender that history knows under the name of Judas, raised to the category of a universal symbol of delirium for gold."

Also listed were the Rt. Rev. Miguel de Andrea, 78, titular Bishop of Temnos and originator of the Workers' Homes project later superseded by the work of the Eva Peron Foundation; the Rt. Rev. Daniel Figueroa, head of the Argentine Catholic Action societies; and the Rt. Rev. Emilio Antonio di Pasquo, bishop of San Luis, who was called "general of the shock troops" of the Catholic Church in Argentina.

Democrazia also published an editorial calling the Catholic Church "the Trojan horse of all democracies."

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano accused the Argentine press today of unleashing a violent campaign against Catholics. The Vatican newspaper said the news from Argentina "is constantly more grave."

L'Osservatore said the Argentine press is conducting a violent campaign, "often with blasphemous language," in which Catholics "are accused of treason and bishops are charged with having gravely violated both their duties as Christians and their functions."

L'Osservatore repeated its denial of reports that Catholics had burned an Argentine flag.

The Vatican newspaper said yesterday it could absolutely deny this report. It repeated the denial today and said it saw proof of the denial in the fact President Juan D. Peron did not refer to any such incident in his radio speech to the people of Argentina last night.

L'Osservatore sharply criticized Argentine authorities for arresting Catholic refugees in the Buenos Aires Episcopal Palace rather than pro-Peron demonstrators who sought to break into the adjacent cathedral.

Vietnam Premier Shelves Plans For Saigon Talk

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem was reported today to have shelved his idea of a Saigon conference with the Western Big Three on major problems facing South Viet Nam.

Reliable sources said instead the Premier would send trusted advisers to Paris, London and Washington for bilateral talks on such questions as the unification elections due next year, withdrawal of the French expeditionary corps and ways to counter the Communist Vietminh government in North Viet Nam.

Diem proposed May 21 that the Big Three foreign ministers come to South Viet Nam. Already facing a summer crowded with international conferences, they indicated they would have to be represented by their ambassadors to Saigon.

It was believed here the chief spokesman for Diem in the talks abroad would be his brother and No. 1 confidant, Ngo Dinh Nhu and Nguyen Huu Chau, another close associate.

ROUTINE MEETING
The Greenville Utilities Commission will meet tonight in City Hall at 7:30.

Only routine items are expected to be discussed.

Dr. Humbert Speaks At Lions' Meet On Vaccine

"I have all faith in the Salk Vaccine... it's good... and I believe it will be the answer to our polio problem." Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer, told members of the Greenville Lions Club here last night.

Humbert, speaking informally at the club's regular meeting, discussed the problems which have arisen in the manufacture and distribution of the new vaccine.

"With so many different groups involved in this task it has almost been a case of 'too many cooks spoiling the broth,'" Humbert asserted. He qualified this statement by adding that reliable sources have stated that Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, and his co-workers wanted another year to study the results of earlier tests before beginning mass inoculations.

Judge Cautions Against Tribute

NEW YORK (AP)—The judge who jailed Crime Investigator William J. Keating for his refusal to answer grand jury questions says a citizens group is making a mistake to honor Keating after his release today.

Commenting on a testimonial luncheon for a citizens' committee plans for Keating, General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein wrote:

"Your newly formed committee plans to glorify him for his defiance of the law. No one is above the law, and no one should be honored for setting himself above the law."

Goldstein's comment was in a letter to William Zeckendorf, a real estate executive and a member of the citizens' committee.

"It was never the intention of the committee to honor William J. Keating for his defiance of the law. We are honoring him because we believe that a higher issue is at stake—the right of crime commissions, newspapers and certain others to reveal crime and corruption wherever it is found and not to be forced to reveal the names of their informants."

While counsel for the New York City Anticrime Committee, Keating last February touched off a big wiretap scandal by telling of an unpublicized police raid on an illegal Manhattan wiretap center.

News From Nearby

KINSTON—What may have been the first curings of tobacco from the 1955 crop in Lenoir County were burned on the Currin Howard and Glennie W. Harper farms in the Deep Run community last Thursday. Howard and Harper had put in three barns of tobacco to be cured. They said the leaf appeared to be of excellent quality for lugs. These primings covered only a part of the tobacco field.

ROCKY MOUNT—M. F. Nelms, former member of the Rocky Mount Police Department, was found guilty in Recorder's Court Monday of the larceny of eight gallons of gasoline from a music company's tank the night of May 25. Judge Norman Gold sentenced Nelms to 90 days on the roads. Testimony was that while two policemen watched the gas tank to check on missing gasoline, they caught Policeman Helms in the act of taking eight gallons of gas. Helms' attorney gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

WILSON—Extensive hail storm damage has been reported from the Buckhorn section of Wilson county as a result of a severe storm which swept over the countryside last Saturday afternoon. Wilson county farm agent W. D. Lewis said that extension tobacco experts are assisting farmers in salvaging what is left of the crop. Residents of the area said the storm "struck in streaks" for a distance of eight or 10 miles.

WILSON—A special committee of Wilson aldermen were in session behind closed doors Monday to interview applicants for the job of city manager. Other interviews are scheduled to find a suitable replacement for F. Talmadge Green, who resigned last month, effective July 1. He has consented to stay on the job until a successor is hired. The committee indicated that it plans to recommend a replacement by the first of next month.

WASHINGTON—One hundred per cent of the Sampson Shirt Factory here have signed up to donate blood to the blood bank when the Bloodmobile will be at the Washington High School gymnasium on June 24 for the first of five annual visits. The local Red Cross chapter reported. A woman worker at the factory said she could not donate blood, "but I have three healthy sons who will give blood for the blood bank."

SPECIAL DELIVERY
McCALL, Idaho (AP)—When Jim Larkin had to deliver 100 baby chicks to the isolated Francis Zollmiller ranch he dropped them by parachute. The ranch reported no injuries.

Rev. P. M. Mumford wishes to remind the public that the Vacation Bible School will begin Monday, June 20, at 8:30 a.m. The following persons will have charge of the various departments: Mrs. J. J. Lane, chief supervisor; Mrs. N. W. Cherry, Mrs. L. E. Lathan, Mrs. Mable Wilson, Mr. D. D. Dupree, Mrs. M. J. Garrett, Miss Elvora Vines and Mr. John Weldon.

Colored News

The Cosmetologist Club, Chapter 24, gave its annual affair Monday night, June 6, entertaining their husbands and boy friends with a delicious barbecue chicken dinner at the West End Tea Room. The table was adorned with an ivory colored cloth with candles at each end and an arrangement of summer flowers in the center. The decorations were elaborate in keeping with the traditional color scheme of the respective organizations. Greetings were extended by the club president, Mrs. Annie Pugh. Mrs. Mary L. Butler introduced the club officers. The club's ex-president, Mrs. Lillie Shiver was presented a lovely gift. Response was made by Mr. Charles Shiver.
