Clark-DeVine Vows Spoken

Lieutenant and Mrs. Joseph Oliver Clark are en route to Gatlinburg, Tenn. following their marriage Sunday afternoon, June 19, at 3:30 o'clock at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church in Greenville, N. C.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the groom.

The church was artistically decorated with baskets of saia, huckleberry, plumose ferns, and mixed bridal greenery. Seven branch wrought iron candelabra holding cathedral candles were used, along with matching baskets of white gladiolus, pom poms, and carnations. To complete the floral decorations was a wrought iron kneeling bench, with a white satin cushion, flanked on each side by two single candelabra, entwined with bridal greenery. The family pews were distinguished by white satin ribbon, flowers, and greenery.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Bill Taylor and Mr. Ralph Sullivan. During the repetition of the vows, "To a Wild Rose" and "The Wedding Prayer" were softly rendered by Mrs. Taylor. Before the ceremony, Mr. Sullivan sang "If I Could Tell You" by Firestone and "Oh Promise Me" by D'Hardiet. As the couple knelt for prayer, "The Lord's Prayer" by Mallette was sung.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and father. She was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Robert Allen Clark, of Norlina, N. C., who served as best man.

Her bridal gown was of white Chantilly-type lace and tulle over bridal satin, fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a yoke of illusion which emphasized the off-shoulder neckline. The bouffant overskirt, which was worn over hoops and crinolines, scalloped at the hemline with the lace pattern worn over net dust ruffles, and opened in the back to show narrow rows of ruffles that extended into a chapel train. Her two-tiered veil, fashioned of imported silk illusion, was attached to a half-hat of pleated tulle encircled with lily of the valley. She carried a cascade bouquet of white bridal roses, and lily of the valley, centered with a white, purple-throated orchid. The bride's father carried for her a white Bible, which was a gift of her mother. Her only ornament was a silver cross, a gift of the groom.

Miss Ann James, friend of the bride, of Greenville, N. C., and Miss Peggy Ann Holland, cousin of the bride, of Marshall, N. C., served as maids of honor. They wore floor length gowns in ice pink crystallette, featuring a strapless bodice with accordion-pleated treatment, covered by a miniature shrug jacket. Their headpieces were half-hats of gathered net, interspersed with white summer flowers. They carried cascade bouquets of pink briarcliff roses and pink tulle, centered with a chartreuse cymbidium orchid corsage, tied with pink satin and tulle streamers.

Attending the bride as bridesmaids were Miss Jewel Costner, cousin of the bride, of Shelby; Miss Frankie Walker, fiancée of the bride's brother, of Morganton; Miss Constance Vincent of Greenville, and Mrs. Denny Lee Hardee of Ayden. Their floor length gowns were of Nile green crystallette, fashioned with a long torso bodice having a soft gathered V neckline and a bouffant skirt. Their headpieces were fashioned after those of the honor attendants. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow carnations, centered with moss green cymbidium orchid corsages, with Nile green and yellow satin streamers.

Flower girls were Dorothy Ann Powell, cousin of the bride, of Richmond, Va., and Janet Gail Blanchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Blanchard of Greenville. Their dresses were yellow net over tulle, with a ruffled neckline, and a wide sash which was buttoned on either side of the bodice in front, and tied in a colonial bow in back, with the streamers falling to the length of the dress. They wore ruffled headpieces, lined with pastel summer flowers, and matching mitts. They carried baskets covered with baby blue satin and tulle, tied with yellow satin ribbon. The handies were covered with tulle ruffles, and lined with lily of the valley. Their baskets were filled with pink rose petals, which they scattered down the aisles before the bride

Potent Stuff Given To Teetotaler Butler

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Paul Butler arrived here last night for talks with Mrs. H. H. Weinert, Texas' Democratic national committeewoman, and received a quick present—a bottle of tequila, potent Mexican drink. The Democratic National Committee chairman said he didn't know what to do with it. He's a teetotaler. But a woman's voice floated out of the audience suggesting that if he decided to drink it to take three days off—to recuperate.

Although the United States uses more electric power than any other country, its per capita use is less than that of either Norway or Canada.

Business Today

Retreat By Govm't

By ELMER ROESSNER

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the process has been like pulling teeth from a reluctant dinosaur, but the government is gradually getting out of business. The big departures are, of course, well known. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been closed, although the Small Business Administration is still the lending business in a small way. The Inland Waterways Corporation was sold. And 25 of 27 synthetic rubber plants have been sold for $10,000,000 more than they cost. And Bluebeard's Castle a Virgin Islands hotel, passed into private ownership for $410,000.

And, slowly the government is getting out of some less pretentious enterprises. Since the first of the year the Defense Department has shut 14 bakeries—but still operates 37. It has closed two clothing reclamation projects—but keeps five going. And it has abolished one furniture repair shop—out of three.

According to Howard Gaetz, an administrator in the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce, other closures include: 2 aluminum sweating operations, 7 scrap metal hauling plants, all but one logging and sawmill operation, one chain factory, 13 laundries and 2 dry cleaning plants, 1 chain factory, 10 auto repair shops, 1 chlorine and caustic soda plant, cement mixing plants, 17 office equipment repair shops, 1 tire retreading shop and 2 tree and garden nurseries.

In addition, the Navy has closed its "hope" where rope was made for naval purposes, the Navy has gotten out of the office machine repair field, and the Army and Navy are out of coffee roasting.

On another front, the General Services Administration is also relying more on private industry for the maintenance of government buildings, machines and equipment.

NOTE: The government rarely gets out of a business unless somebody complains. If a businessman feels that Uncle Sam is unfairly cutting into his field he should write to the government department operating the venture, he should write to Howard Gaetz (BDSA Commerce Department, Washington 25, D.C.) and he should write to Congressmen. If he and other businessmen similarly beset complain loud and long enough, something probably will be done about it.

CONTAINERS REDESIGNED TO PROTECT THE ARMY

The packaging of one of the best-known brands of salted peanuts is being changed at the request of the Military Sea Transport Command. The peanuts have been put up in air-tight, key-opening cans. But it seems that military personnel being shipped hither and yon not only may lose the empty cans, but they often leave the empty cans around. Barefoot soldiers frequently cut their feet on them and, in one instance, a sergeant emerging from a shower room can carelessly left on a chair.

PRICES OF OLDER HOMES FIRM UP A BIT

The downward drift in prices of existing homes has been reversed in some cities, the National Association of Real Estate Boards reports today at its Washington headquarters. In a check of some 100 miles east of Chicago, 48 per cent of the responses predict that prices of existing homes will continue firm and 43 per cent expect a further decline. U.S. USE OF TIN

A Mental Health Clinic For $4,000

Progress toward obtaining a Mental Health Clinic for Pitt County has moved another step forward with the official organization of a local Mental Health Association.

There is still a great deal of spade-work to be done before Pitt will have this much needed facility; but we may as well face the fact that without local funds to support the clinic, it will never become a reality.

Local government units are now in the process of making their budgets for the coming fiscal year. Most may find themselves in a position similar to that of the city of Greenville where proposed expenditures will have to be cut or revenues increased to balance the budget.

Decade Of Progress Toward Preserving Peace

On its tenth anniversary this week the United Nations can look back on a decade of accomplishment and lasting contribution to world peace.

It has been a difficult decade for the new international organization which grew out of the chaotic conditions immediately following World War II. Tension between the two major camps of world powers has alternately increased and eased slightly during the decade. Open warfare has erupted at various spots around the globe during the period; but through all the conditions the United Nations has managed to hold itself together and contribute to the preservation of peace.

The U. N. has not lived up to all the high hopes the rank and file citizens held for it when its charter was signed in 1945. There have been times when the organization appeared as merely a debating society through which opposing nations could give vent to their propaganda programs. At other times the U. N. took a firm hand in international situations in an effort to prevent or halt aggression.

During its first 10 years the United Nations has shown it could hold together in the midst of most trying international conditions. During the coming decade, if the organization gets the support it has shown it deserves, its contribution toward peace and international understanding will be much greater than it so far has been.

Strength for the Day

SUNDAY, MONDAY, AND ALWAYS

What happens to Christianity on Monday morning? There is a question that many clergymen would like to be able to answer about his own congregation. And many a layman has asked it about himself, too.

Churches are likely to be crowded these Sunday mornings, and that is a good sign. But how many men and women there are who sincerely seek God through worship on Sunday and then forget all about Him during the next six days!

It would not be practical or perhaps even possible for most of us to attend a public worship service every day. But there are countless ways of seeking God outside of church. God speaks to us with many voices, and surely no more audibly than through other people. Family and community relationships offer daily opportunities to testify quietly but unmistakably that we believe in full-time, not a part-time, God.

And we should never forget prayer—a form of worship and communion which is not dependent on the day or the place or the time. It is a stairway to God's throne whose steps are always there for those who truly wish to climb them.

Sunday is important, of course—very important. But remember Jesus' words, "Lo, I am with you always." Not for one hour, or one day, but always.

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has been accused, frequently of surrounding himself with conseratives and complacent "Yes Men." His critics attribute the trait to his military background and experience, where commanders brook no opposition or insubordination.

But the ironic fact is that no recent President has faced or tolerated so much disagreement within his official and political family. F.D.R. reveled in Cabinet feuding over minor matters, but he cracked down on serious policy divisions, as when he let go one of his ablest public servants—Jesse H. Jones of Texas.

Harry S. Truman resented differences among his appointees because, in secret at least, he recognized his own limitations, and regarded disagreement as a reflection on his judgment. He got rid of such a close friend as former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, and also of the late Harold L. Ickes.

Technically Byrnes and the "Old Curmudgeon" resigned, but there was no regret at the White House over their stormy departure.

DIFFER WITH ADMINISTRATION—Ike, however, has not complained or retaliated against revolt that involves two of his major and basic policies—namely, his proclaimed attempt to narrow the field of Government activity and regulation. The two antagonized offenders are Controller General Joseph Campbell and Jerome K. Kuykendall, Chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

As a former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Campbell voted against the Dixon-Yates contract, which is designed to circumscribe the Tennessee Valley Authority's jurisdiction and operations. As Controller General, he opposes the plan to permit TVA to issue its own bonds, thus relieving the budget of this financial burden.

Campbell likewise condemns the Eisenhower highway program because of the indirect means of financing it proposed by the President. His attitude has furnished fuel to Capitol Hill Democrats.

creased to balance the budget. Even so, the Pitt County government and municipal governments within the county should consider a contribution toward the establishment of a Mental Health Clinic during the coming fiscal year.

If local funds are available for approximately one-third the cost of operating the clinic, state funds will be available for defraying the major cost of the operation. Without minimum funds from local government units, we will not be able to obtain the supplementing funds from the higher level of government.

Officials have estimated Pitt could establish a "starter" clinic with limited operations for an annual cost of approximately $26,000. Under such a set-up local funds would have to amount to some $8,000 while the remaining $18,000 would come from the state.

A target date of January 1, 1956, has been set for the opening of a mental health clinic in Pitt County. On the basis of the above figures, it would mean about $13,000 would be needed for the operation of the clinic from January to the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1956. Therefore if local government units of the county could appropriate a total of $4,000 between them for the operation of the clinic the last half of the 1955-56 fiscal year, Pitt could begin its Mental Health Clinic.

That is an extremely moderate outlay for local government units within Pitt County for the establishment of a clinic which offers so great a potential service to people of the county. If members of the governing boards of the county and municipal governments put forth an effort to do so, The Reflector is confident they can squeeze the necessary $4,000 into the expense items of their 1955-56 budgets.

Really They Do Not Deserve Consideration

It would probably be just punishment for the American GIs who refused repatriation at the end of the Korean War for the United States to refuse to allow them to come home.

They had their chance to choose between communism and freedom and chose the former. Now some of them—probably all of them—want to come home. Their Red-tinted dream of a communist utopia apparently has faded, but fast.

The United States of course will allow the former GIs to return to this country; but they certainly should not be the object of great displays of welcome. Obviously the Reds have calculated far in advance in this move. They realize the announcement that the Americans want to return to their native land rather than remaining in a communist country will be a blow to the Red propaganda program at least for the time being. Yet we expect the Reds have calculated to recoup any losses in this respect by highly propagandizing anticipated trials of the returning GIs under the American military code once they have reached the United States.

Portents Would Indicate Global Issues Will Fade Away

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — So many readers are worrying about Formosa and China that this time, when the "World's Biggest Worries" is being dedicated here, I take the liberty of discussing Asiatic problems. First, let me say that I have never met Chiang Kai-shek, but I have known Madame Chiang, who attended Wellesley College, which is only two miles from the Babson Great Globe and Institute. She is a remarkable woman of the highest character and keenest insight; she has great influence with him. He was a poor boy when he married her; but a determined type like the late Henry Ford and a very great man.

HISTORY OF FORMOSA

When forecasting the future of any country, it is well to recognize the history as well as the present status. Formosa is a large island, about the size of Massachusetts and Connecticut, lying 100 miles east of China. A mountain range runs north and south, with fertile plains to the west. A combination of heat and moisture gives it marvelous crops: it produces gold, silver, copper, oil, coal, and uranium.

Population is about 9,000,000, mostly of old Chinese descent. This great island was originally settled by the Dutch, who were expelled by the Chinese during the seventeenth century. It was taken by the Japanese in 1895, World War II, when, in 1945, it was ceded back to China. Whatever our opinion as to the government of China—whether Nationalistic under Chiang Kai-shek, or Communist under Chou and his gangsters—we must realize that Formosa inherently is a part of China. Whether the Communists want to "liberate" it or "en-slave" it is debatable. From a strategic viewpoint, the United States and Japan should not now allow Formosa to get into the hands of Communist China.

One of the chief lessons I have learned from Madame Chiang Kai-shek is the importance of patience and of avoiding giving ultimatums. Human nature is the same on both sides of a conflict and if "the ball can be kept in the air" long enough most problems will solve themselves. Many serious problems are solved by leaders becoming older and finally dying. (Today's Bible reading is Psalms, 49th Chapter, which has given me the inspiration to write this column.)

To apply the above philosophy for the Formosa problem—it may be impossible to get a satisfactory settlement as long as Chiang Kai-shek is in the saddle. If, however, he should be removed by death or become incapacitated (he is about 70, and has had a hard life). I forecast that President Eisenhower could bring about a settlement which would both insure our position and "save face" for the Peking Government.

WHAT ABOUT WORLD WAR III?

Although the present Big Four International Conference will probably amount to nothing and the possibility of World War III will be hanging over us for many years, yet the best advice is that World War III is not now to be feared. None of the big nations, including Russia and China, now want World War III; but the threat of using the H-Bomb will constantly be used to blackmail the Democracies. With the cost of manufacturing H-Bombs constantly becoming less, every nation will have some, enabling revolutionary forces in these nations to get them. Some crazy dictator may try to conquer the world with them; but, if so, he would be quickly subdued. This would be an opportunity for the United Nations to fulfill its real mission.

All the above means that our defense program may gradually be curtailed so-called Federal money be used for the building of roads, hospitals, schools, and especially the new industry of Urban Redevelopment. Uranium oxide is being found almost everywhere, and could also be stave off the so-called "inevitable" depression. I still believe in the business cycle; but its duration is now determined by politics. Therefore, let us forget the troubles which we read so much about. Let us concentrate on our business and make better products for less money and sell them all over the world. This is the most practical kind of patriotic service we can render.

COOPERATION — The Departments of Conservation and Development and Wildlife Resources are working out a scheme for using the same type of film for "shooting" color moving pictures. Experiments are now in progress to determine the particular kind best adapted to joint use.

Speaking of color movies and television shows reminds that the general development of the electronic industry has brought residual benefits in related fields. For instance, there is now at

Films Have Role In N. C. Affairs; Tourist Crop Down

Charlotte the Double S Film Productions which processes films for sound movies and television, competing with similar enterprises in New York and Washington. Operated by Holly Smith and Duke Sanchez, who joined forces about a year ago after some 20 years competition in photographic studies, the firm has attracted clientele from all over the country. It is the only business of its kind in the Carolinas.

This makes possible the processing of films about North Carolina in North Carolina, and is in line with the current campaign for a more self-contained industrial State. Somewhat ironically Smith came to this State from New York and Sanchez from Florida.

The firm is now working over some 2,000 feet of film taken by C&D and Wildlife photographers to reduce it to about 450 feet for a 15 minute movie or TV show in either black and white or color. The fact this job can be done at home instead of some northern city means a saving to the State of several hundred dollars a year, plus the development of diversified industry and complete processing which is the aim of the current campaign. It has been recognized for a long time that one of the most serious problems in raising the average income of North Carolinians is the necessity of sending so much of our raw products out of the State for finishing touches.

TOURISTS — North Carolina's $350 million tourist industry, ranking as the State's third largest "cash crop", has been as hard hit by weather as were the field crops last year by drought and the fruit crop this year by freeze.

The coastal resorts are slowly recovering from the near-fatal blow dealt them by Hazel last October. Early season business in that area has been very good, considering the handicaps of inadequate facilities.

The mountain resorts have been almost as badly handicapped by prolonged cold and rainy weather—the rainy weather still not yielding enough rainfall to supply needs of the fields and maintain streams at normal level.

Numerous operators of motels, tourist homes and roadside stores report business far less than expected during late May and early June. The busy season is just beginning and operators are hoping that customers who postponed visits because of the weather will double up for the rest of the summer.

A fast trip through the area suggests the question whether the slack business. The fact is that as some places the operators showed little inclination to serve the few customers who came. Basic facilities of beds and meals were available at the regular seasonal prices—even though half the beds and tables were not occupied—but no special effort was made to provide the extra "niceties" in little things that might induce patrons to return or to tell their friends about how well they were treated.

Gatekeepers at paid concessions and attractions took the money of late arrivals with an attitude of "go in and look, and then get out, because it's time to

EXPERTS SAY STANDARDS CAN SAVE $100 A HOUSE

Almost $100 a house can be saved if builders will standardize on six factors, say experts at a round table conference sponsored by the American Standards Association, the National Association of Home Builders and House and Home magazine. As a consequence the American Institute of Architects' Committee on the Home Building Industry has announced it will recommend standard window and door sizes, and Libby-Owens-Ford and Pittsburgh Plate have agreed to offer their double glass in sizes to fit the new standard doors and windows. Several builders have also announced that they will adopt the standards as soon as the doors and windows are produced in volume.

Items From An Oddity Almanac

NEW YORK (AP)—The oddity almanac.

An executive looking for a stenographer who can spell might do well to hire a deaf one. As a matter of fact, many employers now are doing just that. They have found that office workers with hearing impairments have a large vocabulary and know how to use it because they learned to spell properly early in life.

The reason: deaf children, undisturbed by distracting noises, develop a good visual memory of words and letters. Those with normal hearing often try to spell the 66 basic sounds of English speech by ear instead of by sight.

Big crisis in industry note: Australian rabbits aren't multiplying as well as they did—and that may add up to your paying a higher price for your hat, mister.

The faraway bunnies have been riddled by a disease called myxomatosis, and the price of their pelts has risen from $2 a pound to $6.

"If this keeps up we'll all be wearing beavers again," says I. Benjamin Parrell, president of Adam Hat Manufacturers, Inc., which converts nearly 10 million Australian rabbit pelts a year into felt topers.

It now takes about five skins to make a hat, but as a result of the disease epidemic the Australian hoppers are growing smaller and soon it may take six to eight.

Parrell's plant is in Corsicana, Tex., where plenty of wild rabbits abound nearby. But this is no consolation to him.

"They're Texas Jackrabbits and no good for hats," he said. "Too tough."

Kluckhohn Free On $10,000 Bond As Appeal To Supreme Court Prepared

RALEIGH (AP)—While Richard Kluckhohn and his parents headed home today, his attorney made plans to carry an appeal to the State Supreme Court in an effort to win him a new trial. Kluckhohn, a husky 21-year-old, was sentenced to five to 10 years in prison Saturday after an all-male jury found him guilty of involuntary manslaughter. He was indicted for the fatal shooting here May 13 of Miss Bernice Seawell, 43, government worker of Arlington, Va., at a parking lot. The jury deliberated four hours and 42 minutes. Judge Clawson Williams turned down a request by Defense Attorney Howard Manning to put the youth on probation. "I can't do that," Judge Williams said. "I am in deepest sympathy with this family. . . . But the law is designed for the purpose of the protection of people against this sort of thing and if it doesn't do that, we may as well have no law at all." Kluckhohn was placed under $10,000 bond pending the appeal. His attorney has until Aug. 29 to perfect the appeal. Miss Seawell and a sister were standing at a rain-swept parking lot back of a hotel here the afternoon of May 13 when she was felled by a bullet. The state contended the shot was fired from a hotel room occupied by Kluckhohn. Kluckhohn testified he picked up his German Luger pistol, snapped the trigger and it fired. He was not aware, he contended, that a bullet was in the chamber. Kluckhohn and his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Kluckhohn, members of the Harvard University faculty, left today for Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Kluckhohn said that despite the tragedy he and his wife will "have a warm spot in our hearts for this state to the end of our lives." "We've been treated wonderfully. Everywhere we've met with kindness," he said. He added that he and Mrs. Kluckhohn had received hundreds of letters, wires and telephone calls from persons expressing sympathy. Dr. Kluckhohn said his son and Ellen Waldron, 21-year-old graduate student at the University of Chicago, have not yet decided on a wedding date. She was by Kluckhohn's side throughout the week-long trial.

Prof Critical Over Calendar Mix-Ups

NO SENSE!—Dr. Martin Fleck looks over a modern calendar and wonders how it got that way.

By JULIUS GOLDEN
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Our present calendar is an abomination, says Dr. Martin Fleck, University of New Mexico biology professor. He has made himself an expert on the subject. Now he has turned salesman for the World Calendar which has been approved by the United Nations and more than 30 countries including Great Britain and Russia. "I blow my top when someone declares that our present-day calendar is a divine document and infallible," he says. "It has been changed many times. I counted 63 different calendars ranging from 7,000 B.C. to 1934 A.D. and I'm sure I didn't get them all."

Fleck has been making speeches on the calendar for almost 15 years. He says Sen. Mundt (R-SD) has introduced a bill in Congress to have the World Calendar approved by the United States. Fleck bases his talks on the calendar's "impact on civilization." He uses believe-it-or-not illustrations to prove his point. For instance, a calendar initiated the first deck of cards and started the Gypsy occupation of fortune telling. The present calendar is not stable, he says. "We know our birthdate but not our birthday. Some months have four Saturdays and Sundays and some have five making the number of working days in two months vary as much as 12 1/2 per cent at times. The World Calendar never changes, Fleck says. Jan. 1 would always be a Sunday, January would have 31 days, February 30, March 30, April 31, and so on in a 31-30-30 line. Every quarter would have 91 days, he said, instead of the present 90 in the first quarter, 91 the second and 92 in the first quarter. 91 the second and 92 each the third and fourth. "Every month would have 28 working days and every day of the year would have the same date every year," he said. "Of course, this only adds up to 84 days so the 365th day would be an international holiday dedicated to peace and good will. It would not be on the calendar."

"Take a look at one of the jacks," he says. "He has a staff in his hand with lines on it. It seems that one of the sons of the Pharaoh had to measure the depth of the Nile. Also, add up all the numbers, counting the jack as 11 and queen as 12 and king as 13. The 52 cards equal 364. "For the 365th day, the Egyptians had a special holiday card considered jokers. I'm told if you get a joker in an inside straight, it's still a lucky card. "Some Egyptian priests had a good racket by telling fortunes from the cards. They traveled to new fields and became known as Gypsies," he says.

Falkland Rallies In Ninth To Defeat Greenies 9 - 8

Flye Walks Home Winning Run In Last Inning

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

If they aren't careful the Greenies are going to let some other club "walk" away with the Coastal Plain League title. Yesterday, for the second time in five days, a Greenie pitcher walked in the winning run. This time it was last place Falkland the winner by a 9 to 8 count.

With the score all knotted at 8-apiece, Bobby Flye issued free transportation to pinch-hitter Herb Corey with the sacks jammed and Bob Lilley, Falkland leftfielder, stroled home with the winning margin.

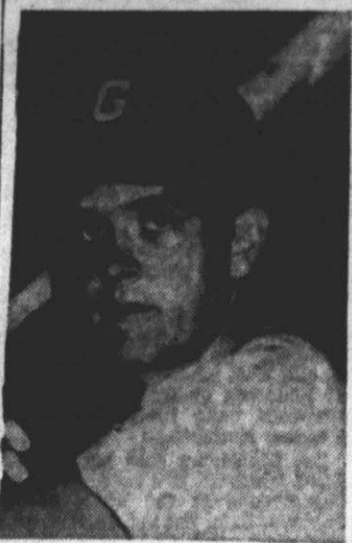

It was just Wednesday night in Williamston that James Pollard lost the plate and walked in the deciding tally. The count of that one was 11 to 10.

Thus the locals are fumbling along in a two-game losing streak and dexterous Farmville has jumped out in front of the pack. The loss was number 10 for the Greenies against 14 wins. Falkland, who has found the win column very elusive, racked up victory number seven against 15 losses.

Flye Pitched Well

Little Bobby Flye came in to replace starter Bobby Coggin in the third after the Falklanders had reached him for six hits and six runs. Flye pitched good ball, allowing only three hits the rest of the way, but got himself into jams with his shaky control.

Although Falkland scored three in the opening frame, it didn't take the lead until the third. Greenieville retaliated with four runs of its own in the bottom of the primal. The scores came on four hits and a hit

TOM BOYD . . . RBI leader

MATT HALL . . . two timely hits

After Bobby Gaskins struck out Mat Hall and Tom Boyd singled, Bobby Clark was struck by one of Mark Stancill's slants and that loaded the bases.

Dependable Brownie Tripp hammered a single out past the second baseman, sending two runners home. Ed Tripp lined a sacrifice fly, scoring another run. Then Blaney Moye drove a long single to left and everybody scored.

Take Lead

The Greenies took the lead again in the fifth by scoring twice on three straight hits and three bases on balls. Hall, Boyd and Clark hit safely. Hall scoring on B. Tripp's hard grounder. Boyd lammed it home on J. T. Mills' cross-up high hopper to the first baseman.

A single run was added in the seventh on the third successive hit by Clark and B. Tripp's booming triple.

Falkland caught the locals in the eighth by scoring a couple on two walks, an error and a single. Corey, one-bagger accounted for the mark-

ED STOKES . . . BB Nemesis

In the disastrous ninth, Flye struck out the first man up but gave up a hit to B. Lilley. Mac Stevenson then hit an apparently easy-out fly ball to leftfield but the newcomer Gaskins erred it. Flye lost his repose and walked Stancill and Corey, the latter forcing in Lilley.

For the winners Ed Stokes and Bob Lilley were the big noises at the plate with three hits apiece. Lilley also had the biggest blow for the visitors—a long three-bagger in the third. Lilley drove in four runs and Stokes had two RBIs.

No other Falkland man got more than one hit. As a team, it had nine hits altogether.

Clark with three hits, Hall, B. Tripp and Boyd with two each led Greenieville. Both Boyd and Clark had doubles and Tripp had a triple.

The Saturday night Greenville-Falkland game was rained out. The Greenies play Williamston here Wednesday at 8 p.m.

One Mark Tied, Five Broken In College Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bunch of record-breaking collegians have shown that the United States next year could have its best Olympic track and field team in history.

"From the standpoint of performance, I think it'll be the greatest we've ever had," said Minnesota's Jim Kelly, chairman of this nation's Olympic Track Committee.

He had watched five NCAA records broken and one tied in the meet ending Saturday, and this week goes to Boulder, Colo., to see many of the same college stars and other amateurs compete in the national AAU event.

"I don't think any nation is going to beat us in track and field," the veteran Kelly added. "That goes for the Russians and anybody else. We're not leaving a stone unturned in our efforts to obtain and develop the best talent in the nation."

The University of Southern California won the NCAA but not as easily as expected. It wasn't until two Trojan pole vaulters collected 10 points by finishing in a four-way tie for second place in that final event that the meet was decided.

USC scored 42 points, UCLA 34; Kansas 30; Oregon 29; Northwestern 20; and Manhattan and Villanova 18 apiece.

Champions included: broad jump, Joel Shankle, Duke, 24 feet 3 1/4 inches.

Yankees Whip Chisox Twice To Regain AL Leadership

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The New York Yankees perched atop the American League again today in the see-saw battle for first place. They got there by whipping their No. 1 rivals, the Chicago White Sox, twice.

That's never been any problem for the Yanks, who could always fight the pretenders to their throne on even terms.

In the view of Manager Casey Stengel, it's the league have-nots that make the difference. After Cleveland grabbed the pennant last year, he complained that the Indians had managed to fatten themselves on the second division clubs.

That makes Boston's 11-7 victory over Cleveland yesterday significant. The Red Sox couldn't lick the Indians in Boston at all last year and, in fact, beat them only twice in 22 games.

It's different this year. The fifth-place Red Sox have won 7 of 12 from Cleveland, and have taken three of a four-game set.

Ted Williams blasted a pair of home runs yesterday as the Sox lead off on Indian rookie ace Herb Score for eight hits in the four plus innings he lasted. Mel Par-nell and Tom Hurd handled the Sox pitching.

The Yanks beat the White Sox 7-1 and 5-2, using the home run to good advantage. Elston Howard and Bill Skowron homered in the opener and Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle in the nightcap.

The first game was no contest with Ed Lopat scattering seven hits for his fourth victory. The second game, however, presented more of a problem.

The game was tied at 2-all going into the last half of the seventh and Sox pitcher Jack Harshman had the Yanks worried. Then McGowan hit the tie with a blast into the lower right field seats. Hank Bauer tripped and in came Sandy Consuegra, who was greeted with a home run off the bat of Mantle. Rookie Johnny Kucks needed help from Jim Konstanty who was credited with the win.

There was no other action in the American League.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers stretched their lead to 11 games by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 while the second-place Chicago Cubs were splitting a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Phillies won the first 1-0 behind Ron Ne-gray and Jack Meyer and the Cubs took the nightcap 8-7, a curtailed 6 1/2-inning affair because of darkness.

Milwaukee whipped New York 8-7, and Pittsburgh and Cincinnati split a pair, the Pirates taking the first 5-2 and the Redlegs the second 4-0 with Joe Nuxhall wielding the whitewash brush.

The Brooks peppered an assortment of five St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits—including a home run by Sandy Amoros—in their victory. Carl Furillo was the only regular except pitchers Carl Erskine and Karl Spooner, who didn't get a hit. Spooner, who relieved Erskine in the fifth, was the winner.

The Phils won the first game in the 15th when Marv Blaylock singled and Willie Jones doubled him home. Cub reliever Hal Jeffcoat's six-game winning streak was broken, while Meyer, who gave up only four hits in the last eight innings, snapped a six-game losing skein.

The second game was a slug-ging battle with the Phillies scoring three runs in the top of the seventh with darkness closing in. They fell just short of the Cubs and the umpires called the game. Warren Hacker saved the game for Howie Pollet, who, in turn, relieved Dave Hillman in the fifth.

Kinston Takes Over Loop Lead In Tobacco Belt

Kinston's Eagles moved into first place last weekend with two wins over Grimesland 2-0, 8-4, while second-place Tarboro had both of its games rained out. The Eagles and the Tars were tied for first before the weekend games, but now Kinston leads by a full game.

Pinetops handed Belvoir two defeats in the only other weekend action to remain in third place. The Pinetops team is still within striking distance of the first two place teams.

Kinston Wins Two

Kinston had its Saturday night game rained out but made up for the cancellation with a double-header Sunday afternoon. Johnny Rice went all the way on the hill in the opener for Kinston to pitch the win. Rice pitched a four-hit shutout and won the pitcher's duel with Tom Hodges.

Hodges had a five hitter for Grimesland. Kinston scored two runs in the first on two errors and failed to register the win. After that neither team tallied.

Tom Grant pitched a four hitter to win the second game for Kinston. Bobby Coustings got two hits in each game for Kinston to lead the batting. Mickey Smith had a home run for Grimesland.

Pinetops Takes Two

Pinetops won their two games with Melford Waters pitching both wins. Saturday his team's strong hitting and fielding got him by amply enough but Sunday he bore down to pitch a sparkling nine-hit shutout. Billy Webb had three hits for Pinetops and Ted Pollard had four for Belvoir to lead the first game hitting. Pinetops pulled off a triple play in that game.

In the second game Jack Harrell and Linwood Jones had three hits each for Pinetops and Bobby Nunn had three for Belvoir.

Farmville Wins One And Loses One Over Weekend

FARMVILLE—In a rescheduled game with Williamston here Friday night, Farmville took over first place in the Coastal Plain League with a decisive 10 to 2 victory.

Manager Bill Kennedy's crew exploded for 12 hits off Williamston's Van Sexton. Meanwhile little Johnny Hinsen was scattering little hits among the Braves. The crafty southpaw was very effective in the clutch in winning his third game against one loss.

Pete Stewart, Millard Webb and Kennedy led the winners at the plate. Each collected two hits in four tries. Williamston's hits were all of the single variety.

Yesterday in Rocky Mount, Farmville took it on the chin, 4 to 2. The Rocky Mount Leafs ganged up on Vince Jones for seven hits, including a homer by George Davis, to grind out the win.

The Leafs jumped off to a quick 2 to 0 lead in the first inning. Farmville came back to score a run in the second but Davis walloped his rountripper with a mate aboard for a 4-1 margin. Farmville added another run in the late innings but couldn't catch up.

Ralph Adams, former Wake Forest chunker, pitched for the Leafs, allowing five hits.

Millard Webb and Norman Catlett led the losers at bat with two hits each.

Farmville's Saturday night game with Greenville was rained out. Falkland on Wednesday, Rocky Mount on Friday and New Bern over the weekend comprise Farmville's schedule this week.

Hogan Retires From Competitive Golf

By Chris Edmonds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tournament golf has seen the last of Ben Hogan, he says but it'll see a lot more of a hitherto unknown Iowa who used the old master's style—even his clubs—to win the National Open golf championship yesterday.

Jack Fleck, 32, operator of two municipal golf courses at Davenport, Iowa, played the four-time links king off his feet in the first 18-hole playoff of the Open in five years. He took the lead on the fifth hole and held it grimly, posting a 1-under-par 69 as Hogan skidded to a 72 over the heavily skidded and lightning-fast greens of the Olympic Country Club's lake course.

Fleck's triumph was a dandy—and a heartbreaker. It was the first tournament of any kind he'd ever won outright and it apparently marked the decline of the Hogan era in golf.

"I'm through with serious competitive golf," Hogan said in a choked voice to thousands of fans packed on the hillside overlooking the 18th green after it was all over.

"I want to become a weekend golfer. It's too hard to train for a big tournament."

Just how he meant it defied interpretation. He was a tired man, discouraged at his failure to reach the coveted honor of being the first man in history to win five Open titles. The feeling was that he might—probably would—make another bid for the crown by the time next year rolls around.

Fleck's victory made him top man in the nation's golf picture and netted him $6,000 in cash prize money plus thousands more from other sources. He is the longest shot to win the Open title since Sam Parks pulled the trick 20 years ago.

Hogan won $3,600.

The actual triumph was almost too easy, an anticlimax to the sensational surge of birdies Fleck rode into a 287 tie with Hogan late Saturday to force the playoff.

Fleck took command on the fifth hole when Hogan decided to play his second shot safe after slicing his drive into the rough and wound up with a bogey. The one-stroke lead was all Fleck needed.

World's only gas with OCTANE BONUS!

No octane wasted fighting lead deposits

Some refiners have found that the cheapest and easiest way to increase octane rating is by adding lead. But lead in an automobile engine can leave harmful deposits. And lead deposits waste power, cut down usable octane on the road where it counts. That calls for higher octane at the pump. And still more lead. Except in the case of the new Amoco-Gas!

STANDARD ONE-CYLINDER LABORATORY TEST ENGINE

This universal "Octane Rating" engine accurately determines the octane rating of every gas—in the laboratory. It does not measure the harmful effects of lead deposits in an automobile engine.

It tells only half of octane story

THE REAL TEST ENGINE IS IN YOUR CAR ON THE ROAD!

You can only measure the usable octane value of any gas in an automobile engine in use. Here leaded gas can cause metallic deposits that waste octane. All the octane value of new so-lead Amoco-Gas is usable road octane—none is wasted. You get an Octane Bonus on the road.

Your car engine tells whole story

A great new Amoco-Gas with an Octane BONUS

It's a white, unleaded gas, made by the patented Ultraforming Process—with such natural high octane that it doesn't need lead!

Every bit of octane-energy in the new Amoco-Gas is used to run your car. Because every drop can burn. No lead deposits form to waste octane—it all reaches the road. The result is an exclusive Octane Bonus that no gas containing lead can match.

REMEMBER THIS! No matter how much octane you pay for at the pump, the only octane you get is the usable octane that reaches the road! With unleaded Amoco-Gas, that's bonus octane . . . worth trying, worth buying! Come in—try something wonderful!

Roadblock Seen Ahead For Expanded Social Security

... By JACK BELL ... WASHINGTON — There were signs today that the Senate may raise some roadblocks against enactment this year of a Democratic-sponsored proposal to expand social security benefits.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee said preliminary studies indicate it would be "very costly" to put into effect plans agreed on in principle by House Democratic leaders to give immediate benefits to the disabled and to lower the age at which women may draw payments.

Sen. Martin (R-Pa), a member of the Finance Committee, said that if the bill clears the House he will propose public hearings before the Senate committee takes any action.

Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee said in an open letter to Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) made public yesterday that it is "unthinkable" that no public hearings be held in view of the "tremendous... ultimate social and economic implications."

Cooper has announced plans for three days of closed hearings, starting tomorrow.

The GOP members told Cooper they will insist on public hearing. "The public is entitled to an opportunity to decide whether these proposals are an honest attempt to improve the system or whether they simply constitute a political raid on the (Social Security) trust fund," they said.

"It is difficult to escape the conclusion that legislation which is presented in this fashion is not honestly and sincerely conceived."

The Democrats have been silent on plans for financing their proposals, which the Republicans said would cost between 1 1/2 and 2 billion dollars a year.

"This vast sum of money," the fund only to find that the money to which they have looked for their old age security has long since been spent."

The Republicans said they are "deeply concerned" about the problems of the disabled and of women workers.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, has told colleagues he personally favors enactment of a benefit expansion measure. However, he has said he will await House developments before attempting to schedule the issue for Senate action.

House leaders agreed last week to get behind a measure which, among other things, would lower the age at which women become eligible for pensions from 65 to 62 years. This would affect about one million women and cost around 350 million dollars annually.

Another major provision would make immediate, continuing benefits available to persons totally disabled. About 1,200,000 workers would be affected at an annual cost of about $1,400,000,000.

Byrd said he was especially concerned about this proposal but wanted to study it further before taking any positive stand on it or on the measure generally.

The union has not publicly made known its demands.

The 600,000 USW members in the steel industry now earn an average of $2.33 an hour. Observers figure the union is asking about 25 cents an hour but probably will settle for between 12 and 15 cents.

The steel union is bound by a two-year contract, signed last year, to discuss only hourly wages now. It cannot raise any other issues, such as a guaranteed annual wage plan.

If no agreement is reached the union is free to strike June 30. Most observers don't foresee any such action.

Pace-Setter To Give Reply Today

PITTSBURGH — U.S. Steel Corp., traditional pace setter for the steel industry in labor matters, gives its answer today to the CIO United Steelworkers demand for a substantial wage increase.

The union and Big Steel resumed negotiations after a recess of more than a week in which the company has been preparing a counterproposal. Its answer was expected to set the trend for the nation's five other top basic steel producers whose negotiations with the USW are still recessed.

I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of the union, said over the weekend that the major steel companies would probably offer a 7 1/2-cent hourly pay raise.

That, he told the USW's District 20 convention, won't be acceptable. The booming basic steel industry is in position to pay a much greater amount, he said.

The union has not publicly made known its demands.

CHICAGO — Ambassador James B. Conant said today the United States will back the people of Berlin against any Communist effort to "tamper with the present status or harass the population."

of a Germany reunited in peace and freedom." In an address prepared for the Union League Club, Conant said Russia is well aware that "We will not tolerate any changes that would interfere with the lifeline of the city, or that would arrest the city's gradual process of recovery."

Conant expressed confidence that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government would never barter away its security in exchange for "the doubtful promises of the Kremlin" involved in any sham reunification plan. Adenauer and his government realize, he said, that German unity is not an isolated problem but "part and parcel of a global problem." "The forthcoming summit meeting will provide a strategic opportunity to probe the nature and the scope of the Soviet government's recently developed symptom of flexibility," he said.

States May Be Pushed Into Auto Union Plan

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Employers, looking at the guaranteed wage plan granted by Ford and General Motors and faced with the possibility of union demands on them for some of the same, may ask themselves:

Would it be cheaper for me to agree to the same plan or try to take the steam out of union demands by trying to get the states to increase their unemployment insurance for laid-off workers?

President Eisenhower has complained states don't give laid-off workers enough unemployment pay. This year 26 states have boosted the amount.

The kind of guaranteed wage plan which Ford and GM just agreed to is a form of recognition that the states' unemployment benefits are too low.

Ford and GM emphasized the contracts they signed with the CIO United Auto Workers do not call for a guaranteed wage in the real sense but are a supplement to states' unemployment insurance.

All states have such insurance. But how much they pay, and for how long, varies. Some states will pay an idle worker for no more than 16 weeks. In some the limit is 26 weeks. And all states have minimums and maximums on how much they pay.

Alaska tops them all with a maximum of $45 a week for 26 weeks for a man with no dependents. Alabama pays the least: $22 for 20 weeks. Ten states give an unemployed worker an extra allowance for dependents.

Eisenhower urges all states to pay for 26 weeks. Ford and GM agreed to make their payments for a maximum of 26 weeks. Neither the states nor auto makers have shown any intention of making payments for 52 weeks of idleness.

The unemployment insurance is paid for by employers through a tax on their payrolls. In most states, employers make no contributions. Ford and GM will add a maximum of $25—the minimum is $2—to what their laid-off workers get from states to bring an unemployed man's total compensation up to 60 to 65 per cent of his take-home pay when working.

Ford and GM will now be making two kinds of payments toward unemployment benefits: the tax to the states for unemployment insurance and the supplemental pay they give their laid-off workers.

This double payment would be true for any employer who gave a similar contract to a union. If an employer tried to make the supplemental pay seem less necessary by pressuring his state to pay higher unemployment insurance, he might eventually have to pay more into the insurance fund through increased tax.

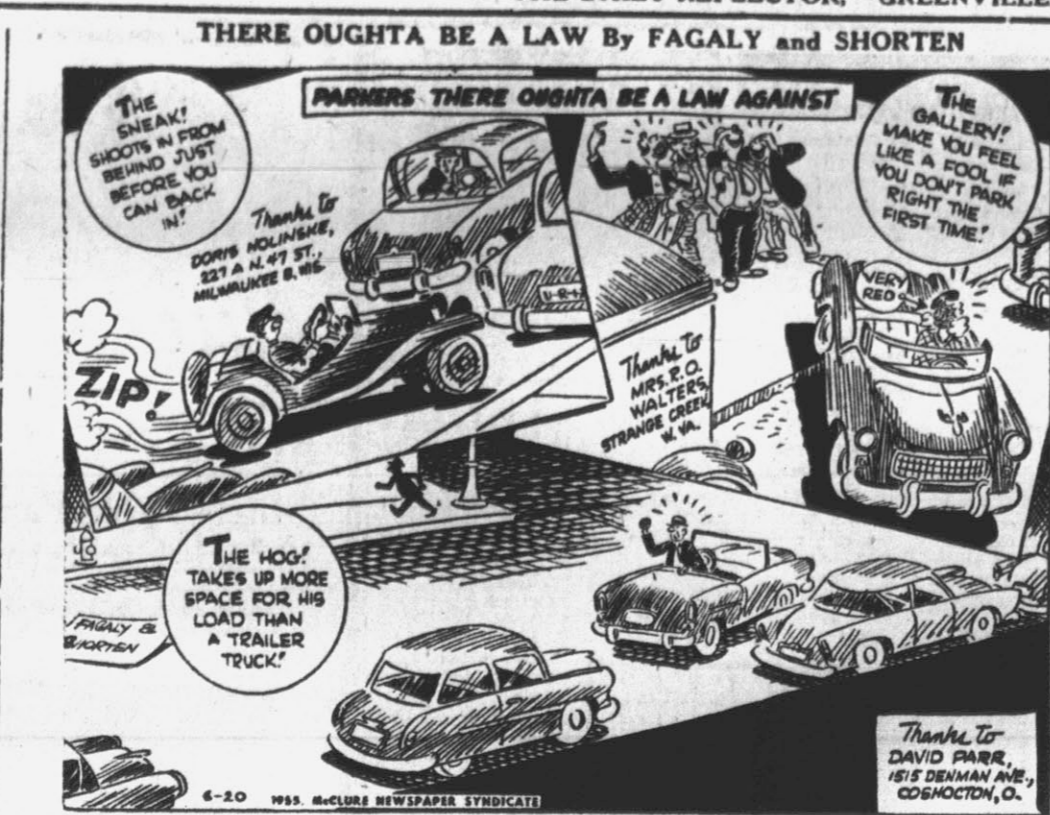

Mayor Glad To Have Woman On Town's Council

GATESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Mayor Paul F. Edmond said today he is glad to have a woman on the town council of Gatesville because, "It gives us the women's viewpoint in our efforts to improve our little town."

His attitude contrasted with that of the mayor of Suffolk, Va., who resigned this week after a woman was elected to the council.

Edmond, who also is executive vice president of the Tar Heel Bank & Trust Co. in this northeastern North Carolina agricultural town of 350 population, supported Mrs. Conrad N. Plyler when the housewife became a write-in candidate for the council in last month's election.

Mrs. Plyler was elected easily to the three-member council. She became a write-in candidate when one of the men candidates discovered he was ineligible to run because he had not registered to vote.

Ray Milland Happy TV Career Is Ended

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—TV's reluctant star is now through with the medium and he couldn't be more pleased.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," says Ray Milland. Some TV performers would be singing the blues if their show got canceled. Not Milland. When General Electric dropped sponsorship after two years of the Ray Milland Show (originally Meet Mr. McNutley), he was tossing his hat in the air.

"I never wanted to do the show in the first place," he explained. "My agent talked me into it."

In December 1952, he was heading for a three-month Swiss vacation after a heavy film schedule. His agents invited him to a luncheon in New York.

"I thought surely they would present me with a platinum cigarette case or something like that, after all the money they had made from me," he remarked.

But he was in for another kind of surprise. Reluctantly, he had made a sample program for a TV comedy series. At the luncheon, he was told that the series had been sold to a big sponsor, General Electric.

Milland said he was against the series from the start, but agreed to do it after the three-month rest brought him home eager for work. At least that's his story. He has virtually backed himself into a corner.

"We didn't have to wait for the reruns to turn a profit," he admitted. "We were in the black from the start. And now General Foods has picked up sponsorship for the summer."

After that, the films will probably be syndicated. But the actor appears unconcerned about the hefty profits involved. "So what?—the government takes most of it anyway," he said.

Having washed TV out of his hair, Milland is bucking down to his film career. He said he has more assignments than he can handle. At present he is playing Stanford White in "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing."

If he had it to do over again,

Pentagon Enters Helicopter Age

WASHINGTON (AP)—The helicopter age is coming to the Pentagon, speeded by the just-concluded Operation Alert.

The Army plans to install a helicopter "landing pad" on the west side of the Defense Department headquarters, to be used when officials need to take off or land quickly close to their offices.

The pad, a 100-foot square of blacktop, will be spotted on the side opposite neighboring National Airport and somewhat to the south of the take-off and approach pattern for airliners operating out of the big civilian and military field.

Strikebound Mill May Be Closed

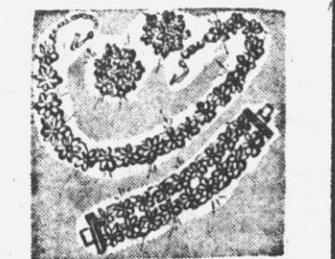

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP)—The nation's northernmost cotton mill, strikebound since April 15, may soon be liquidated. Randolph Brandt, president, said in New York yesterday that directors of the Lockwood-Dutchess Mills have recommended such action to the stockholders, who will meet here June 30.

The AFL Union Textile Workers struck for unchanged renewal of its contract. The company sought cuts in pay and fringe benefits amounting, according to the union, to nearly 10 cents an hour.

AIRMAN — Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, the U. S. Air Force's first Negro general, is the vice commander of the 13th Air Force and heads Air Force Task 13 on Formosa.

As Of Today, Communism In Central America Is Out

By CARLOS ESCUDERO
GUATEMALA (AP) One year ago Guatemala was a Red Blot on the face of Central America, and communism was spreading to its neighbors. Today, although the government and some groups keep harping on fighting communism to death, and just about everybody stresses "anticommunism," the Reds are gone.

Communism in Central America, in the opinion of many observers, is no long a serious factor. It stays barely alive in Honduras, under wraps, and it's resting on its sickles in the other Central American states.

The man who erased it in Guatemala, with a timely and determined push from Honduras, is President Carlos Castillo Armas. "Communism in Guatemala is on the downgrade," he said in an interview, "but I shall not rest until it is completely exterminated."

Occasionally the Communists quietly distribute copies of a little sheet called Verdad (Truth, as in Pravda) or send them through the mails. On such occasions as national holidays and labor day leaflets appear, probably printed in Mexico.

The Communists under the pre-war regime, although few in number, influenced the government from President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman down, controlled the biggest unions and had a vociferous press. Castillo credits himself with having purged the government payrolls, the unions and just about everything that showed Red or pink. The Communist papers Tribuna Popular and Octubre are gone.

The Communist party was outlawed by Castillo and he has not allowed political activity by parties in the full meaning of the term. The so-called political parties now extant are dehydrated copies. The unions, trying to get reorganization going fully, are by decree nonpolitical.

Castillo has his troubles from the lunatics of the left, as he calls them, and the "petrified brains of the extreme right."

The liberals and leftists, still uncertain of their future, lead the growing clamor for quick return to a constitutional regime with full autonomy of the courts and the right to strike, now in abeyance.

Rightists pull the other way. Clericals want to give the Roman Catholic Church the pre-eminence it once had, materially as well as spiritually.

The country, still under a de facto regime regulated by a political statute, may get a new constitution in a few months.

El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama, Castillo's immediate friends and neighbors, all have definitely anti-Communist governments.

In Honduras Communists are quietly trying to sneak back into the struggling young unions. The new chief of state, Julio Lozano, aware of the damage caused last year by the Communist-supported strike of banana workers, rules by decree. It is believed he would not allow labor disturbances that could upset his five-year economic reconstruction plan.

Rug experts estimate it would cost 10 billion dollars to replace all the rugs and carpets now in use in the United States.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Summer

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

Nate Cullen answered for them. "It's open range, and we're movin' in!"

"You're an old man, Cullen," the puncher told him. "You oughta have some sense. Turn this bunch of jugheads around an' get back where you b'long 'fore somebody gets hurt."

"Who's goin' t' hurt us?" Fred Cullens voice raked him with its hot contempt. "You?"

"There's fourteen more men on Broken Spur ain't goin' t' let you get away with this, an' you know it!" The masses of horses kept coming in inexorable as death. Tip leveled his gun. "First man sets a foot over the line is a dead man." The muzzle of the gun pointed straight at old Nate's head.

Instantly young Nate's gun—an old Army rifle, polished this morning as it hadn't been since Appomattox—came up. "You pull that trigger an' we'll blow you outa your saddle!"

A dozen other guns were pointed at him. However little respect a cowboy might have for nester marksmanship, he couldn't expect them: all to miss. Tip had nerve, but he wasn't a fool. His death wouldn't do Broken Spur any good.

"Howdy—very slowly for this knuckling under to the despised nobusters was the toughest thing he'd ever done— he lowered his Colt and replaced it at his belt. A shout of jeering triumph rose from the younger nesters as they pushed their horses forward so that Tip was forced to give ground.

The tough little puncher cursed an impotent fury as he realized that the unbelievable had happened. The invaders were actually on Broken Spur land. The enormity of it seemed to hold even them silent for a moment; then a wild, exultant yell broke out of a dozen throats. Tip cursed them again savagely, and turned his mount around.

"He's goin' for help!" Fred shouted. "Drop him 'fore he gets away!"

Tip felt ice along his spine, but old Nate interrupted sternly. "Put up your gun, if there's goin' to be any shootin', let them start it."

He took his time till he was out of sight—he wouldn't give that bunch the satisfaction of making him run—but afterward he put the spurs to his horse and rode hard for headquarters.

Sandy was there, and Bill Larned and Chuck Downs, with two new hands, red-headed Mike Prescott and Dell French, a slim blond kid of eighteen. Tip blurted out his story, seeing it reflected in the excitement on the open faces of the two youngsters, the somber eyes and set jaws of the older men. But it was Sandy's look that held him. He'd never seen the steady old ramrod betray so much emotion. When he stopped speaking, they all looked to Sandy for their orders.

"Mike," he snapped, "you ride out to the east range an' bring in the bunch that's workin' there. Dell, you pick up the three that's patrolin' the west side. Tell 'em to high-tail it back here."

The two youngsters hit the saddle and the oldtimers set down to wait. Bill voiced the thought in all their minds. "Wish Rob was here!"

"Well, he ain't!" Sandy rapped out. "But he pays us wages t' look after his property, don't he? We'll show 'em we're worth 'em!"

It took some time to get all the outfit together. The sun was high in the sky when Broken Spur rode out. They covered the ground fast, and silently. Sandy, in the lead, held a tight rein on himself to keep from looking back at them. He'd worked side by side with some of these men for a long time—and he knew it wasn't likely that all of them would be riding back.

The nesters were standing together in a ragged huddle near their picketed horses. Fighting on horseback wouldn't be their style—and only men utterly unused to any kind of fighting, Sandy thought impatiently, would have bunched together like that offering a perfect target. But they were set to make a stand; he didn't mistake the determination in those weather-beaten faces. Still he made his try.

"You men," he told them, "are trespassin' on Broken Spur. I'm givin' you a chance to go peaceable."

"Big talk, old man!" Fred Cullen jeered.

Sandy ignored the boy and turned to his father. "Cullen, you seem t' be the leader here. If there's men killed, it'll be on your head. Will you tell your crowd to go home like they came, or do I order my men to use their guns?"

The old man's fanatical eyes didn't waver. "We've got the law and the right on our side. If you fire first, the Lord have mercy on you!"

"The Lord may," a high voice yelled, "but we sure won't!"

Sandy raised his hand, and the Broken Spur crew came forward at a run, firing a volley over the nesters' heads. That had been Sandy's orders. He had a faint hope that it might panic the men on the ground into a retreat. They broke and scattered, firing as they ran. Most of the shots went wild, but one of them found its mark. With a wild cry, young Dell French pitched out of the saddle.

A sobbing curse broke from Mike Prescott. He spurred his horse ahead of the line, emptying his gun at the nesters. "Mike!" Sandy shouted at him. "Come back here!"

The redhead was too crazy with grief and rage to hear him. His gun spat flame again and a nester dropped to his knees. Then a rifle cracked, and Mike toppled slowly sideways, and fell to lie a few yards from where his friend fell.

The two youngest men of the Broken Spur crew, the fullest of life and high hope an hour ago—Sandy swallowed down the lump that rose in his throat. Time for grieving later. He had business on his hands now, a cold grim business of killing. He lined his Colt on young Nate Cullen's blue shirt. The heavy weapon bucked in his hand, and the tall young nester coughed once, and sprawled on his face in the dust.

"One wild keening cry broke from the old prophet, then he stooped and straightened with amazing swiftness, clutching the rifle that had dropped from his dead son's hand. Lead whistled past Sandy's ear, and he heard a choking gasp just behind him, and turned to see Tip Clancy sagging in his saddle.

"Did he get you bad, Tip?" instinctively his arm went out to steady his old friend. Tip shook his head, with a twisted ghost of a smile.

"Nest' min' me, Sandy—I'm done." He slumped over his horse's neck. The horse, sensing something wrong, let out a long, lamenting neigh, and bucked wildly, unrestrained, for the hand that had always held him in check was dangling as limp as the useless reins.

Grief wouldn't be held back now. Its hot tears blurred Sandy's old eyes, but he sighted through the fog, and saw another nester go down. His hammer clicked on an empty chamber, and he re-loaded with hands that shook. A cry somewhere down the line drew his eyes to another emptied saddle—Chuck Downs' grey. And even as he looked Bill Larned clutched at his chest and crumpled.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A little progress was made in the stock market today in early dealings.

Most major divisions of the market were slightly higher. A few were mixed. None was definitely backward.

Gains at the best went to between 1 and 2 points. Scattered losses usually were in the smaller fractions.

The best improvement was shown by the larger motors, distillers, chemicals, most railroads, airlines, motion pictures, and building materials.

The rise today was right in line with the trend of the market in recent weeks.

Last week the market registered its fifth straight weekly rise. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 60 cents at $171.30, a new record high—the eighth in the past 10 sessions.

Three persons sustained injuries in a pair of county auto accidents Saturday.

Louise Barnes, 33, Negro, of 210 W. 10th Street, received a back injury about 8:30 p. m. when the car in which she was a passenger overturned on US 264 near Ballard's X Roads in a heavy rain. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Fire Department Rescue Truck and admitted.

Driver of the car was listed by investigating patrolman James Boykin as Milford J. H. Cooper, 25-year old Negro, of Route 4, Wilson. Damage to the car was estimated at $350.

Meanwhile, two other persons had been treated and released at the hospital here after a two-car collision on a dirt road one mile south of Clay Root. Leon Ambers Clark, 47, of Route 2, Ayden, received a chest injury and Sarah Forrest Buck, 17, also of Route 2, Ayden, received an injured leg. Damage to both cars was estimated at $600 and Clark was cited by investigating officer James Boykin with driving on the wrong side of the road.

Father Returns Home To Find 3 In Family Dead

SEATTLE (AP)—A bleak and bloody Father's Day greeted 30-year-old Charles Reimers early yesterday.

He returned to his small South End home to find his sons Thomas, 5, and Jerry, 1, battered and stabbed to death. In another room he found his wife, Mrs. Josephine Reimers, with knife slashes in her throat, wrist and groin.

Mrs. Reimers, 29, eight months pregnant with twins, died in a hospital last night. The King County sheriff's office called it a suicide and double slaying.

Reimers, an airplane company employee, had been downtown. He said he stopped at a tavern before heading home early yesterday morning. He found the two boys battered with a rolling pin and slashed with a knife. Authorities said apparently the younger boy had been slain in his crib, then thrown on the bed of the older boy, also slain.

Reimers said he and his wife had not quarreled. But he told officers she had been despondent. He said funeral arrangements were being held up pending word on whether Mrs. Reimers' parents from Okarche, Okla., wish to attend.

Reimers had just finished a fence about his modest home Saturday afternoon. Toys belonging to the two boys still were scattered in the yard.

Last evening he left his home "to get away from the memories" and moved in with friends.

It was Father's Day. But he said simply: "I'm homeless now."

Blood For Child By Court Order

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—A 10-day-old baby girl was reported slightly improved but still in critical condition today after new blood was pumped into her veins. Her parents had blocked the transfusion on religious grounds until the state stepped in and took custody.

Several transfusions have been given to Gail Bertimato, of Palisades Park, at Englewood Hospital to correct an rh negative condition of red corpuscles.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bertimato, refused to permit doctors to make the transfusion—something they believe to be in violation of the Biblical injunction against use of blood for food (Leviticus). They are members of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Doctors who examined the baby Friday said she had only a 50-50 chance to survive unless she was given a transfusion. When the parent refused permission, Dr. C. T. Markert notified police, who advised Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Callisi.

Callisi and Asst. Prosecutor William J. Arnold found a little-used statute dealing with the protection of children.

The state's Probation Officer John Ott filed a complaint with Juvenile Court Judge Martin J. Kole.

The judge called an emergency court session in the Palisades Park police headquarters late Saturday night and three physicians testified that only an immediate blood transfusion could give the baby a chance to live.

Kole ordered the baby placed in custody of the County Welfare Department, and the baby was taken to the hospital.

Couldn't Save His Children In Cellar

QUANAH, Tex. (AP)—A frantic father dived into a dark flooded storm cellar yesterday in a futile effort to save three of his children.

"I heard my little boy call out, 'Help, Daddy,' and that was all," said farmer Ira Keeney. "I dove back in there and tried to save them, but I just couldn't find them."

The three Keeney children, Doris, 5, Thomas, 4, and Alma, 3, all drowned.

The family had taken refuge in the cellar about 4 a. m. when Mrs. Keeney saw threatening clouds and awakened her husband. They feared a tornado.

Keeney told reporters he opened the cellar's horizontal door to investigate a trickle of water. A flood poured in upon him.

"My wife and one of the babies was standing right there by me," he said. "I grabbed the baby and set her outside. When I turned back water was already almost up to the top of the cellar."

"The lantern went out and there was a lot of sticks and trash on top of the water. I tried to dive back into the cellar to find my babies, but I just couldn't get back far enough."

Keeney walked to a neighbor's and called Quanah, 20 miles southeast, for help. By the time an ambulance could get over the muddy roads with the help of a wrecker, it was judged useless to try to revive the trapped children. Their bodies were taken from the flooded cellar about 9 a. m.

A sudden, 1/2-inch rain caused a dike on a nearby draw to break and flood the storm cellar, located in a low spot, Hardeman County Sheriff M. C. Owen said today.

The torrential thunderstorm in this northwest Texas area was one of a series of squalls that pounded the state from Dallas to far west Panhandle-plains region. Much of the area is among the state's worst drought country.

Flood threats, posed earlier, subsided early today. More thunderstorms were in the forecasts.

Four Arrested In Bootleg Raids

Four Greenville Negroes ran afoul of ABC officers and members of the Sheriff's Department Saturday and as a result were charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey.

Willie Harris, of 217 Center Street was arrested when officers found three gallons of bootleg whiskey hidden in a table in his bedroom. He was released under $200 bond.

Lillie Mae Whichard was arrested at her home, 1116-A Pitt Street when officers allegedly found a gallon of illegal spirits there. She too was released under $200 bond pending her appearance in court.

Also released under $200 bond following her arrest was Eleanor Brockett, of 1308 Factory Street, who was taken into custody when the searchers found a half gallon of bootleg buried in her chicken yard. Cora Bell Duncan, of 611 Allens Alley, also was arrested when officers found a small quantity of bootleg in her home.

Taking part in the raids were ABC officers J. M. Ward and H. B. Lilly and Deputy Sheriffs J. L. Mills, Jack Russell and Duke Andrews.

Pilot Unscathed In Jet's Crash

RALEIGH (AP)—A 26-year-old Air Force lieutenant prepared today to return to his home base in Texas, leaving his F86 jet fighter in ruins 15 miles south of here.

First Lt. D. C. MacNerland of Oak Park, Ill., parachuted safely from his plane when it spun out of control in a rain and thunder storm Saturday night. The jet crashed and exploded near the hamlet of Oaks community of Chatham county. Lt. MacNerland, who spent the night bundled up in his parachute, hitched a ride to the wreck scene the next morning, whence Civil Air Patrol members took him to Pope Air Force Base at Fort Bragg, N. C.

MacNerland's plane was one of four on a training flight from Foster Air Force Base in Victoria, Tex. to Johnsonville Naval Air Station 20 miles north of Philadelphia, Pa. Three other pilots rode a radar beam to safe landing at Charlotte. They are Lt. John P. Jones of Decatur, Ga.; Lt. Donald B. Hall of Davidson, Okla.; and Lt. James A. Bustle of Sharonville, Ohio.

French Prison Guards Protest

PARIS (AP)—Nobody was admitted in any of France's 115 prisons today, but nobody was able to go out, either.

The reason was a 24-hour strike of all 8,000 prison guards.

The guards present many complaints. The biggest is that some prisoners, they say, earn more than they do and often benefit from housing conditions far better than their own.

A French prison guard gets the equivalent of $71.42 to $85.71 a month. Some prisoners, a spokesman for the strikers declared, get as much as $114 when they are allowed to work inside their cell for outside firms.
