Councilmen Split On Several Issues

Council Moves Toward Budget Goal

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor
A number of pet projects fell by the wayside last night but City Councilmen brought the proposed city budget to within $4,721 of balancing.

$1,500 appropriation for acquisition of land for park sites.
Councilmen cut $2,000 from the administrative and general government contingency fund and $500 from the city clerk's contingency fund.

The Councilman objected to the removal of the tractor shovel from the budget. He said it could be used to begin the filling in of First St. West and occasionally Harvey.

The city fathers also tentatively added a five per cent pay raise to Hughes' salary at last night's meeting. The city manager had made no recommendation for an increase in his own salary when the proposed budget was prepared.

30 Years Ago Today
THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 22, 1925
The wedding of interest to many friends in the state took place at high noon yesterday in the Episcopal Church, Beaufort, when Miss Nancy Rogers Lay became the bride of Mr. Charles Alexander White of Greenville. The betrothal service was performed by Bishop Thomas C. Darst, Bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina, while the wedding service was performed by Dr. George W. Lay, the bride's father. The bride and groom were in the following order, first the ushers, Messrs. Ed Williams and Curtis Perkins of this city. They were followed by the junior bridesmaid and junior groomsmen, Miss Helen Forbes White, sister of the groom, and Master Allen O'Bryan Jr. Miss White wore a dainty frock of pink taffeta with maine and tulle hat. She carried an old fashioned nosegay. The bridesmaids, Misses Lucy and Virginia Lay of Beaufort, sisters of the bride, Mary Hoke of Raleigh, Maude Lee, Ruth Andrews and Louise Fleming, of this city, were attractively gowned in pale pink chiffon over crepe de chine, with pink maine hats to match and carried arm bouquets of Shasta daisies with pink tulle. The groomsmen were Messrs. William H. White, brother of the groom, Robert Greene, D. J. Whichard Jr., Dall Laughinghouse and Leon Kittrell of this city and Mr. Henry Lay of Beaufort, brother of the bride. Mrs. Sam T. White was matron of honor. Miss Ellen Lay, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. George B. Lay of Greensboro, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of bridal satin, embroidered in pearls and rhinestones, with court train. She wore a coronet of pearl and the veil worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a shower bouquet

Mrs. Roberson Is Hostess To Club
ROBERSONVILLE—When Mrs. Harvey Roberson was hostess to the Homemakers' Club Thursday night, she received many compliments on her floral arrangements. The living room had a dozen pale yellow gladioli in full bloom nicely arranged in a pretty crystal vase on a table near the entrance. Pink gladioli in a green vase called attention to the corner table. The dining room was beautified by these flowers in a very deep shade of pink.
The vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Keel called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and presided for Mrs. House who was visiting relatives at Morehead. Useful household hints were given in response to the roll call, then the group went into a wide discussion of insect extermination. Many good suggestions were offered for the various pests.
It has been the custom of the club to disband during July and August and this subject was brought up for consideration. Mrs. Walter Roberson invited the group to her home June 30 which will be the last meeting until September, due to the fact that many of the members will be out of town during the summer.
After the business session Mrs. Roberson entertained with many contests.
Mrs. Roberson served ice cream, delicious homemade coconut layer cake, salted peanuts and chocolate candy to a large group including three invited guests, Mrs. Stonewall Parker, Miss Gladys Bailey and Mrs. Pitt Roberson. The hostess gave each person present a nice souvenir.
Everyone is urged to be at the club Thursday, June 30.

Sixty-Two Complete Study Of Alcohol In Workshop At ECC

Sixty-two men and women, mostly teachers, completed this week an intensive study of "Facts About Alcohol" in a workshop conducted at East Carolina College.

The two weeks' course of study "generated considerable interest" on the campus, according to Dr. Nephi M. Jorgensen of the college health and physical education department, director of the workshop.

Study was directed, he states, toward creating a keener insight into a major social problem. Participants, many of whom teach facts about alcohol in the public schools, received suggestions on how to develop an objective, constructive, and effective approach to the problems involved in the use and misuse of beverage alcohol.

Fourteen of these enrolled in the workshop attended it under the sponsorship of various church and welfare groups throughout the eastern part of North Carolina.

A television program Sunday of this week, over the facilities of WNCN of Greenville, brought to a large audience the results of the two weeks of intensive study at East Carolina. The telecast summarized in an objective, scientific manner the sociological, psychological, and physiological implications of the use of alcohol.

The study was conducted on the East Carolina campus this summer for the fifth consecutive year. The North Carolina Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program co-sponsored the workshop here in 1953 and 1954, as well as during the present summer term.

Other speakers included Dr. Fred W. Ellis, associate professor of pharmacology at the University of North Carolina, and three representatives of the state Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program: Dr. Norbert L. Kelly, education director; S. K. Proctor, executive director; and Roberta E. Lytle, psychiatric social work consultant.

A similar workshop will be held at Appalachian State College in Boone July 8-15.

Leave For Europe
Miss Nancy Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Proctor, and Miss Mary Warren Collier of Warrenton, Va., niece of Mrs. B. S. Warren, sailed today on the Empress of France from Montreal, Canada, to spend the summer in Europe. Their itinerary includes nine countries.

Garden Party Fetes Brides-Elect

The garden of the home of Mrs. F. B. Haar on East Ninth Street was the setting for a morning party on Tuesday given to honor Miss Rose Messick and Miss Barbara White, brides-elect.

Guests were greeted by the honorees, their mothers, Mrs. J. D. Messick and Mrs. Charles A. White, and the hostess.

The refreshment table was spread with a green and yellow cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow flowers. Coca-Colas were served from an ice-filled wheelbarrow and party accompaniments were served by Miss Elizabeth James, assisted by Miss Anna Louise White and Margaret Ella Greene.

The brides-elect were remembered with gifts.

The guest list included about 100.

Miss Kay Braxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Braxton of Ayden, and Miss Mary Alice Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Hart of Ayden, attended Tar Heel Girls' State at W. C. in Greensboro last week. They were selected by the faculty of Ayden High School and representatives from the American Legion Auxiliary who were the sponsors of Girls' State.

The girls, to be eligible to attend 1955 Girls' State, must be entering the graduation class and be outstanding in the following qualifications: leadership, character, courage, honesty, scholarship and cooperativeness.

Local Persons Back From Meet

Nurses from the Pitt County Health Department, and Mrs. J. B. Spillman, executive secretary for the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association, have returned from Wilson where they attended a two-day seminar and institute on tuberculosis.

The meeting, held Monday and Tuesday, was conducted at the Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium by tuberculosis specialists from the state hospital system, the State Board of Health, various county health departments, and private practice.

A case study taken from Pitt County was analyzed by the group. The institute was attended by interested persons from approximately 25 eastern North Carolina counties.

Representing the local health department were the following nurses: Miss Julia Fisher, supervisor; Mrs. Nan Noble, Mrs. Addie Griffith, Mrs. Evelyn Whitehurst, Ginsberg and Mrs. Hannah Brown, of Greenville; Miss Jane Johnston and Mrs. Lucille Tucker, of Farmville; Mrs. Goldie Hemingway, of Bethel; and Mrs. Lois Tripp McLawhorn, of Ayden.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wynne attended the funeral of her uncle, Mr. Henry Jordan in Suffolk, Va. Monday afternoon.

Dorothy Bland is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Cora Lee Bland, of Norfolk.

Messrs. Billy Greene, Julius Budacz and Clayton R. Keel have returned to Chapel Hill where they will attend summer school at the University of North Carolina.

Pvt. Bill Roberson of Warrenton, Va. spent last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Roberson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Everett and Mr. Sam Everett attended the Farm Bureau Convention at Carolina Beach last week.

Mrs. Martha Dell Gray, who was confined to her bed for many weeks due to a heart ailment, is able to be out.

Three-year-old Lindsey Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, who underwent major surgery at Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, returned home June 14 greatly improved.

Joseph Halslip, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Halslip of Robersonville, is at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas where he is completing his military training preparatory to taking Air Force technical training or for Air Force duty assignment. He expects to visit his parents the first week in July.

Mr. C. D. Forbes and Mr. Russell Oakley have returned from a sight-seeing trip to New York City and a visit with Mr. Oakley's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Oakley, in Bronxville, N. Y.

Best Peace Hopes Found In Big Four

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is accidental irony that the best hope for peace in the past 10 years—the Big Four meeting next month—lies outside the United Nations which, created to keep peace, is celebrating its 10th birthday.

The U.N. had nothing to do with arranging the Big Four attempt to get results in a closed-door meeting outside the U.N.?

Perhaps because the big powers, so accustomed in the past to doing business head to head, have not yet advanced to that point in civilization where they can work in an open, parliamentary way through the world's biggest parliament.

To future generations this kind of personal diplomacy, a frank acknowledgment by the big powers that they, may seem childish and primitive.

That long view may be why the U.N. members celebrating their anniversary at San Francisco this week do not appear downcast. They know where there's life there's hope and the U.N. is still very much alive.

Skyscrapers Now Giving American Cities New Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's skyscrapers—airy castles of glass, steel or aluminum, some walking on stilts—are giving our cities a new look.

Their gleaming facades mirror our changing times and way of life. In their train come new problems of crowding and traffic jams, of lunch hour rushes for counter stools.

Built of new materials with new engineering techniques, the big office buildings tend to huddle around central transportation exits to the suburbs. They boast air conditioning, advanced lighting, new floor space utilization, striking decor.

Builders seek to grab the maximum yield out of each square foot of scarce land space in crowded business centers—even out of the air above land put to some other fundamental use, such as railroad yards, or slow traffic expressways.

Use of air space isn't new. The Waldorf Astoria, other hotels, many luxury apartment houses and tall office buildings are astride the yards of Grand Central Station.

Now the rush to find office space for America's fast expanding giants of industry is sparking a new set of plans to use air rights. New York Central and the New Haven Railroad talk of replacing Grand Central Station with an underground utility passenger station topped by a skyscraper with acres of high rental office space.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is at the option-granting stage for tearing down its huge station here, putting passenger accommodations below ground and a commercial and office skyscraper above. On the far side of the Post Office, another huge merchandising building may rise over the final two-block stretch of exposed Pennsylvania tracks.

Their Gift Should Pave The Way

A gift of $10,000 by the Greenville Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. and the Minges family for the operation of a Pitt County Mental Health Clinic during the next five years is indeed a magnificent gesture for which all the people of Pitt should be grateful.

The gift in itself virtually assures the establishment of a Mental Health Clinic for the county. The vast benefits such a clinic will bring to the people of the county over a period of years are immeasurable. By its gift of $2,000 per year for the next five years for the operation of the clinic, the local business concern has supplied almost one-fourth of the local funds which will be necessary to operate the clinic on a beginning scale for the next five years. Certainly the gift by this one firm and one family will influence the Greenville City Council and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners to supply the funds they have been requested to appropriate for the What's Worse Than Peddling Dope To Minors?

Is the death penalty too harsh a punishment for those convicted of peddling dope to minors?

We think not. But we likewise doubt Congress will endorse the proposal of Rep. Henry J. Latham who has introduced a bill designating selling dope to minors a capital offense under federal law.

Dope peddling has become one of the most heinous of major crimes in the United States today. Thousands of youngsters have become addicted to narcotics because an unscrupulous person induced them to sample dope; then persisted until the kid became an addict. Some of these youngsters will be cured of their addiction. Countless others will commit all sorts of crimes to get money with which to purchase more "jolts." Hundreds will degenerate into worthless, useless creatures, only the shell of the human being they once were.

Is first degree arson worse than dope peddling? The victim at least has a chance when a house is burned. Is first degree burglary worse than selling a kid narcotics?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
One out of every twelve patients will spend some of his life—perhaps the most of it—in a mental institution. More than half of the hospital beds in our country at the present time are occupied by mental patients.

There is at least a little comfort in the realization that these figures are not quite as bad as they seem. Many people are in institutions today who, fifty or a hundred years ago, would have been at large or in their own homes. But certainly it is true that the more refined and sophisticated a civilization becomes, the more do people suffer from nervous disorders. Some say this is due to frustration, but the frustrations of the past apparently have been much more severe than the frustrations of the present. Tension certainly has a great deal to do with mental breakdowns. Alcohol is still the same vicious factor it has always been in the situation. Living cooped up in cities and especially in slums has done our generation no good.

We need to ponder the fact that the most enlightened generation is statistically worse than any previous generation, as regards mental diseases. The more enlightened we become, the more money we have to spend for insane asylums. Since mind and soul are so closely related, may it not be that this dire modern situation may be chiefly a spiritual problem rather than a social, economic, or psychological problem?

European Radio Has Trouble

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Radio Free Europe, which was established in Berlin and other West German cities to broadcast American propaganda into "Iron Curtain" countries, may not receive a license from the new and sovereign Bonn Government, unless it is house-cleaned and reorganized. Adenauer members of the West German Parliament declare that pro-Communist have sneaked into the organization.

Radio Free Europe is not the United States agency, although it was sponsored by a highly respected group of well-intentioned Americans. The board chairman of the National Committee for a Free Europe is Joseph C. Grew, former Undersecretary of State and former Ambassador to Japan. The Chairman of the Executive Committee is Allen W. Dulles, brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and head of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Other distinguished committee members are President Eisenhower, James A. Farley, General Lucius D. Clay, General William J. Donovan, Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York, A. A. Berle Jr., former Assistant Secretary of State, and Clark M. Clifford, White House legal adviser during the Truman regime. CRAFTY REPS IN ORGANIZATION—Like so many "honorary" committees, however, this group apparently has not had the time to police or check up on Radio Free Europe's organization or operations.

Unknowningly, according to pro-American Germans and exiles from satellite states now living in Washington, New York, Chicago and overseas, the organization is suspected of supporting a Communist propaganda cell instead of a "liberation" outpost.

Ferdinand Peroutka, for instance, heads the broadcast desk for Czechoslovakia in Radio Free Europe. Here are a few excerpts from a book which Peroutka, a Czech Socialist, published in Prague in 1947:

"Capitalism means anarchy in production and operation of the clinic beginning January 1.

If the city and county officials are so short-sighted as to refuse to make the appropriations, The Reflector is hopeful other business firms and individuals throughout the county will follow the lead of the Minges in private contributions for the establishment and operation of the clinic.

The County Commissioners have been asked to appropriate $2,000 for the operation of the clinic during the last six months of the 1955-56 fiscal year. Greenville's City Council has been asked to appropriate $900 to apply on the clinic's operation costs for the same period.

Realizing the need for such a clinic, plus the fact that state and federal funds are available to defray more than two-thirds of the operation costs, the governing bodies certainly can be expected to make the requested appropriations.

At present there is no such clinic in the section of North Carolina east of Raleigh. Pitt County is on the threshold of having a clinic established here for the benefit of local residents and eventually, we suspect, for the benefit of people in surrounding counties.

Pitt County can ill afford to allow this opportunity to slip through its fingers. The Reflector is confident the people of the county will not allow this important undertaking to die for lack of support, financial or otherwise.

Another Pretty Feather In Pitt County's Cap

Greenville Jaycees have won additional honors for themselves, for their city and for their county.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce by acquiring a rescue truck for Pitt County through the cooperation of local government units throughout Pitt has been acclaimed by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce as the second best public safety project carried out in comparable community in the nation during the past year.

The Jaycees started the ball rolling on the project; but they do not take full credit for it. Without the cooperation of the county and municipal governments throughout Pitt the $4,500 of local funds needed to purchase the standard Civil Defense rescue unit could not be had. All of Pitt County pulled together on the project. Each community contributed its part and did its share to see that the dream of having a fully equipped rescue truck became a reality.

Key to the accomplishment proved to be the mutual cooperation between the various communities in Pitt County. That single factor has proved the key to success in many county-wide projects undertaken in Pitt over a long period of years. It will prove the key to success as other larger projects are undertaken by the county in the future.

The Reflector salutes the Greenville Jaycees and all the people of the county for their part in the achievement for which Pitt has received this national recognition.

Somebody Told Me

Are Local Folks Snobbish?

May I be so brazen as to pose this question: Is Greenville a snob town? Is there a normal amount of social distinction, or are we over-loaded with it?

Yesterday I was in a discussion with someone who contended that we certainly have our share of social distinction. For a small Southern city, I maintain that we have very little.

When it comes to this very touchy subject, there's only one approach to take, and that's one of comparison. There's social distinction everywhere, there always has been and no doubt there always will be. But the question is: what degree?

Age has a lot to do with it. During the years 1937 to 1942, when I was in high school, I noticed more social distinction than any other time in my life. Whether or not the high school age is still this way I do not know. We had

FIRST IN WHITE LIQUOR

We Tar Heels have had our pride hurt by a rain of statistical blows telling us that North Carolina ranks close to the bottom in annual average income in the literacy of its people, and in their general health (the State had the highest percentage of draft rejects during World War II). But from the Alcohol Tax Unit office in Washington comes news of another sort. North Carolina is tops in the production of white liquor.

Moreover, to gain this distinction, North Carolina caught up with and passed West Virginia—a strong-willed state that yielded no laurels only after tough Federal judges began dispensing justice in droughts too long and mean for the mountain boys to swallow.

Justice Barnhill's Opinions Provoke Many Comments

By LYNN NISBET

INTEGRATION — Chief Justice M.V. Barnhill's observations on the impact of the U.S. Supreme Court's de-segregation decisions on North Carolina have occasioned more interest than most comments on this subject. The Chief Justice told newsmen at Asheville that in his opinion the decisions carry no mandate for integration of schools in North Carolina at this stage.

Reaction has been varied. Majority of editorial opinion commends the chief for speaking out and largely endorses his views. State officials more directly concerned with handling the problem are less pleased. They fear effect may be to null the people into a sense of false security from impact and tend to lessen popular cooperation with inevitable provisions for ultimate compliance. Governor Hodges, State Superintendent Charles Carroll and Attorney General Harry McMullan had previously warned against complacency, as they have warned against precipitous and ill-considered action.

It is known that the Governor regards selection of the personnel for the commission authorized by the recent Legislature to advise on this matter as one of the most serious tasks confronting him. He is limited in the field from which to choose because the statute requires two of the seven members to come from the Senate and two from the House, leaving only three from outside. He said the other day he is seeking men or women of courage but without emotional prejudice —and this is an area in which it is almost impossible to find anybody free of prejudice.

When the late Governor Umstead was selecting members of his prelegislative advisory committee on education, he said any person who wanted to serve on the group was automatically disqualified. Whether Governor Hodges takes that attitude toward his statutory commissions is not known, but intensions are felt much as did his predecessor.

CROP-DUSTING — The recent Legislature tightened the laws affecting crop-dusting from the air, and L.Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture who has primary responsibility for enforcing the law, is calling upon the sheriffs of the several counties to assist in enforcement by checking planes used in their bailiwicks to see that they are properly licensed and insured. Crop-dusting by plane has developed into sizeable business in North Carolina. Through June 10, according to State Chemist E.W. Constable, 22 contractors and 31 applicators have been licensed. The department does not have sufficient personnel to adequately enforce the law without full cooperation on part of local officers, Ballentine said.

TRAFFIC — Couple of highway patrolmen, who for obvious reasons asked not to be quoted by name, were discussing the effect of recent legislation upon the efficiency of the patrol. Request had been made for 100 additional men. The Legislature authorized fifty, 25 this year and 25 next. Then, in view of the officers talking, the same Legis-

GOP Relations Bad

By ELMER ROESSNER
WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower Administration suffers from poor public relations. Poor? They're lousy.

This seems strange because so many of the top men have been recruited from business. And business is supposed to know all about public relations, advertising and mass psychology.

It does. But most of the recruits came from another part of the forest. And the break-down of the administration's public relations are two broad divisions of businessmen.

One group consists of production men. The other group consists of marketing men. It is the latter group that knows about dealing with the public which is the essence of public relations. The first group has had little experience in the public relations field. They are, generally, the kind of men who get the product out and who regard publicity and advertising as a commodity to be purchased when needed—like salt when pavements get icy.

Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense; Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce; George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury; and Roger M. Eyles, once Deputy Secretary of Defense, all came out of production. In the opinion of Washington correspondents, there have rarely ever been four such ranking men so inept in public relations. Except in formal addresses, they are inclined to make thoughtless statements. They seldom consent to meet the press.

One of the reasons is that during their business careers, they rarely met newspapermen except under painful circumstances such as strikes, fires or explosions.

On the other hand, the few men brought into the Administration from marketing enjoy fairly pleasant press relations. Arthur Summerfield, Postmaster General, who used to sell autos, not make them, handled the popular matters of higher postal rates and junk mail with considerable credit to the Administration. Douglas McKay, Secretary of the Interior, who also sold cars before he became Governor of Oregon, has so far avoided the lachrymose of the correspondents' corps. You have to have good public relations to sell autos! And Louis Rothschild, Undersecretary of Commerce, an old Sears-Roebuck man, is popular with the press.

SINGULAR EXCEPTION TO BROAD GENERALIZATION
The outstanding exception to the production-marketing differentiation is Olivia Oulp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. She is a newspaper woman, not a factory tycoon, and yet her public relations are in a sorry state.

There are extenuating circumstances. For one thing, newspaper people are often poor public relations managers. And, for another, she has organizational problems. Her department is less of a department than is an aggregation of bureaus, some of them almost entirely independent. Many of these bureaus were created during New-Deal days and all of them were staffed under Roosevelt and Truman. That includes the information men in each agency.

Death Comes To The Dairy Farm

By HAL BOYLE

LONG VALLEY, N.J. AP — It was an ordinary Sunday outside the big cool dairy barn. The dressed up people from the city enjoyed the sunny country side.

Inside the big cool dairy barn it was even more of an ordinary day. Cows have no Sunday. The daily drama of life and death among the herd went on unchanged except for one thing.

There was a young girl who saw the drama for the first time. The events of the day changed her. I am sure forever.

The three cows involved were numbered 204 and 140 and 219—and the first was old and through, the second was young and having middle age, and the third was her third or fourth calf.

No. 204 was at the head of the barn and lying, too weary to get up, with her head in its stallion. She was 14, very old for a cow. Her milk had freshed a thousand distant children she had never seen. But now she lay there, unprotestingly, waiting for the slaughterer's truck to come and take her away.

During the morning No. 140, the young heifer, delivered her first calf after a rugged ordeal. Worn out by the struggle and oblivious to the responsibilities of motherhood, she wandered away from her sprawling weak tan calf.

A group of summer residents who came down to see the calf found that No. 219, the middle-aged cow, had taken up the duties of the confused young mother. She was carefully and methodically cleaning the sprawling calf with her tongue as animals do.

Suddenly it became apparent the middle-aged cow's own ordeal of maternity was at hand. One of the men turned to a young girl, his niece, and said:

"If you're going to get back to the city before the traffic ties you up, you'd better leave now."

"I've never seen anything born before," she said. "I want to stay."

"But it may be hours," he said. "You can't tell."

"Just for a little while," she pleaded. "Then I'll be off."

Her uncle and the others left and the young girl was alone in the filtered light of the barn, sweet with the deep rich scent of hay and animal bodies. Old cow No. 204 a factory worn out, glanced at her with the idle and placid non-interest of age.

The young girl knelt beside No. 219. The miracle of approaching birth made the two one. She knitted her fingers and tugged at them tensely in an unconscious rhythm with the laboring cow.

"Please, please, please!" cried again. Harder.

All at once they were three—or almost three. The calf was half-born, then something was wrong.

"Please, please, please!" cried the girl. She heard a noise. Two dairy hands had come into the far end of the dairy barn.

"Quick!" she cried. "The calf is strangling!"

The two men ran up. One grabbed a rope. With it they completed the rough obstetrics of the farm, and the calf was delivered, its forehooves raised to its muzzle in the posture of prayer.

The calf lay there—warm, wet and motionless. One workman bent and wiped its muzzle, to clear the nostrils then massaged its ribs in an attempt at artificial respiration. The calf lay still.

"But I saw its eyes move," said the girl. "If I could have called you in time..."

The rough workmen looked up at her, puzzled. A calf is $20, more or less, and they come often on a big dairy farm.

"I don't think," said one of the men, not unkindly. "These things happen, you know."

As one of the men dragged the dead calf away mother cow No. 219 set out a bellow of anguish that had a human ring of despair in it, and washed into a chain barrier. She whined about wildly for a moment, then lowered her head and again began licking the living calf of cow No. 140, the bewildered young heifer who hadn't yet risen to the chores of motherhood.

The young girl got into her car.

"But I saw its eyes move," she said, half crying. "I I could have just..."

She turned the car and headed it toward the city. She had seen the sadness of death taking life at the portal of birth, and she would always remember this Sunday, just another ordinary day on a busy farm.

New Structure Near Raleigh

Above is a sketch of the new office and library building for the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of North Carolina to be constructed in Raleigh. An informal groundbreaking Friday culminated two years of planning and designing. Laying of the cornerstone is scheduled in the early fall and the building is expected to be completed in the spring of 1956.

A new office and library building for the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of North Carolina is to be located on a 5-acre site near the city limits of Raleigh on U.S. Highways 70 and 15-A North. The announcement of the award of the contracts was made by Watson N. Sherrod, Enfield, Chairman of the Building Committee. J. M. Thompson Company, General Contractors, Raleigh is contractor for all phases of the work. The exact amount of the contract was not given (but is understood to be approximately $250,000.00). The building was designed by Leslie N. Boney Architect, of Wilmington, North Carolina. Dr. Charles H. Fugh, Gastonia, is Grand Master of Masons in North Carolina, and Wilbur L. McIver, Raleigh, is Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge.

The new facility will allow expansion of the Grand Lodge activities and will fill a long felt need for additional executive office and library space. Present offices are in the Land's Building, located at the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett Streets, that building (formerly the Masonic Temple) having been constructed by the Grand Lodge in 1906, and sold by the Grand Lodge in 1946. The new building will be of modern design and employ the latest materials in its makeup. The predominant exterior material is crab orchard stone from Tennessee quarries, and limestone from Indiana. There will be large tinted glass areas on each facade. The building opens on the west to a terrace and spacious rear lawn. The lawn will be serviced by an automatic sprinkler system. All exterior windows and doors will be aluminum of special design. The glass reducing glare areas on each facade. The building is crisscrossed with a network of stone masonry walls. The building will be finished with the Masonic Square and Compasses emblem. The grounds are to be fully developed with appropriate trees, shrubbery and ground cover. Drives, walks and parking facilities for both staff and visitors will be provided. The ground floor will contain library, museum, archive areas and mechanical equipment rooms. A small refreshments area will be provided for the convenience of office personnel and visitors. The main floor will house the executive offices for the Grand Lodge. The Grand Master's suite on the southern end of the building, contains a private office and a conference room for 30 or more persons. The Grand Secretary and his staff will occupy the opposite end of the building, which contains three individual offices, a conference room, and a large clerical area. A fireproof vault and a mailing area complete the Grand Secretary's suite. The main stair and elevator lobby with marble walls will be centrally located in the building and will open directly into the spacious library and lounge. For special gatherings and committee meetings this area will accommodate approximately 200 persons. Included on the main floor will be ladies' and men's lounges.

Sweet Gum Grove HD Club Reports, Demonstration Presented

SWEET GUM GROVE—Mrs. Eric Whichard and Mrs. John Whichard were joint hostesses at a meeting of the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club last week at the community building. Reports on food preservation and home dairying were given by leaders, Mrs. John Whichard and Mrs. Lewis Whitehurst, respectively. Mrs. D. N. Nobles Jr. reported that a contact had been made to make mail box posts for those who wished to order them to further the club's participation in the Pitt County Progress program. A summary of the County Council meeting, held last week, was given by Mrs. Eric Whichard, after which members discussed their picnic meeting to be held in August. Demonstration on "Good Vegetable Dinners" was presented by Mrs. A. C. Barnhill, club foods and nutrition leader. During the social hour refreshments of strawberry shortcake and salted nuts were served by the hostesses. Club members also sampled the vegetable dishes prepared by Mrs. Barnhill in her demonstration. Recreation for the afternoon was led by Mrs. John Whichard.

Wheat Vote

A wheat referendum for growers planning to raise more than 15 acres of that crop next year is scheduled for the county farm building here Saturday from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Some 146 growers are registered in the county this year but voting is expected to be light due to the small size of the crops generally planted.

Business Frat Receives Honors From Nat'l Group

The East Carolina College chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America has just received two national awards for outstanding work during the past year. In events sponsored by the national FBLA, the East Carolina chapter was selected for honors in competition with other groups in this country. In the Installation Team Event, the East Carolina chapter was determined outstanding in the Southern Region. The campus organization here installed more new chapters of FBLA during the past year than any other of the 600 chapters in this region. The local chapter was given second place in the Most Unique Project Event. A certificate suitable for framing and a plaque have been received here in indication of the national honor won by East Carolina FBLA members.

Powell Reverses Position On Amendments

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Powell (D-NY), in a reversal of position, today accused House leaders of trying to force through a "dishonest" compromise military reserve bill that would bypass his anti-segregation amendments. Powell whose amendments have stalled President Eisenhower's reserve program in the House, said he has withdrawn his previously announced support of compromise proposals and will fight them. He said in an interview his switch was prompted by a prediction made by House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts. Leaving the White House yesterday, Martin said he expected the final reserve bill to come close to the measure originally asked by Eisenhower. The President has publicly indicated his disapproval of the attaching of anti-segregation riders to such legislation as the reserve bill. A compromise has been proposed by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.). Martin described Eisenhower yesterday as "not too pleased" with the Vinson bill. Members of the House Armed Services Committee rebuffed Vinson, their chairman, yesterday and voted 16-14 to send the bill to a subcommittee for polishing. Vinson had urged the full committee to approve the compromise at once. Interviewed after the weekly meeting of Republican congressional leaders with Eisenhower,

Martin said the final version of the bill to strengthen the reserves would be worked out in separate House and Senate action, then in a conference of the two houses. Martin also said the President wanted a bill providing for more reserve expansion than would come about under the Vinson bill. Powell said Martin's outline of strategy meant that the final bill could contain features he is opposing—assignment of reservists to National Guard units and some provisions construed to contain elements of universal military training. The month long House impasse was created by adoption of Powell's amendment to bar assignment of reservists to National Guard units practicing segregation. The Vinson compromise would eliminate all reference to the Guard. Powell originally hailed this as a "clear-cut victory for me." Powell said he accepted the Vinson measure "as a sincere compromise. But if the Senate can take care of these features, this is nothing but a subterfuge and a dishonest attempt to win our votes" in the House. Powell said he would fight all compromises unless given assurance the final bill will eliminate the National Guard and other provisions he is opposing. Because opponents of various elements of the reserve program are backing him, Powell's stand could be significant. The Vinson bill would eliminate various provisions backed by Eisenhower, including a proposed new six-month training program for teen-age volunteers who then would be liable for 7½ years in the active reserves. Elsewhere in the defense field, a Senate-House conference committee yesterday agreed on legislation to extend the doctor draft for two years beyond June 30 and to reduce the maximum age of draftable doctors from 30 to 45. Both Senate and House already have approved a four-year extension of the regular draft, which also is due to die on the last day of this month.

Maximum Secret Sessions Ready In Switzerland

By LYNN HEINZERLING
GENEVA (AP)—Any celebrity-loving Swiss who succeeds in getting a long look at one of the Big Four leaders here next month will become a celebrity himself. President Eisenhower, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Edgar Faure are going to get security Stateside accorded any visiting dignitary in Switzerland.

Swiss police have never forgotten that someone threw a tomato at the late Eva Peron, the Argentine President's wife, when she toured Switzerland in 1947. It missed hitting Swiss Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre, seated beside her in an automobile. Four companies of Swiss troops will help police guard the hotels and villas where the delegates will live. They will patrol every foot of road along which the Big Four ride and guard their airplanes at Geneva Airport on a 24-hour schedule. Detectives from all other Swiss cantons will augment Geneva police.

In their calculations, Swiss security officials went into the recent political history of the United States, Soviet Union, France and Britain. They studied the police reports of the shooting in the U.S. House of Representatives last year. They looked into the earlier attack on President Truman's residence, Blair House. Because of French difficulties in Morocco, police have been told to keep a close watch for Moroccan extremists in the protection of Faure. Avid anti-Communists will be watched in Bulganin's interest.

Bulganin is expected to stay at the villa occupied by the permanent Russian delegation in Geneva. The rest of the Russians will live in the Hotel Metropole. Faure is expected to live in a villa, still not chosen. As far as is known, President Eisenhower will stay at the Rhone Hotel overlooking the Rhone River. Secretary of State Dulles lived there during last year's conference. Hotels used by delegations and their heads will be inspected by Swiss detectives every morning. All hotel employees will be investigated. Swiss detectives will be on duty at the hotels 24 hours a day to assist the security forces of the delegation.

The conference likely will be held in the council chamber of the United Nations Building, the old League headquarters used last year for the conference on Korea and Indochina. Eisenhower, Eden, Faure and Bulganin will be greeted at the airport by Swiss President Petitpierre. Geneva officials will be in guard of honor. They will then disappear, as far as the public is concerned, into the maze of security.

Sen. McCarthy Concedes Loss In Senate Fight

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) conceded today he has "no chance of success" in efforts to win Senate approval of a resolution aimed at forcing discussion of Russia's satellite states at the Big Four talks.

A 14-0 vote by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last night to recommend rejection of the proposal apparently foreshadowed an overwhelming tally against it on the Senate floor. It had the united opposition of the administration and of Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate.

Committee members generally agreed adoption of the resolution might tend to tie President Eisenhower's hands in talks with the Premiers of Great Britain, France and Russia opening July 18 at Geneva.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.), a member, said approval of the resolution would leave Eisenhower "with both hands tied behind his back and his tongue locked in his teeth."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the majority leader, denounced the resolution as an effort to "place a loaded gun at the President's temple." The Republican leader Sen. Knowland of California, told McCarthy he was seeking to intrude on "an executive function." McCarthy replied that the Senate has a right to advise the President.

McCarthy told newsmen in advance of debate the committee decision was "disappointing" and a "great blow to the peoples in the satellite states" of Eastern Europe, North Korea and elsewhere.

His resolution would express as the sentiment of the Senate that the United States should get prior approval of Russia to discuss the question of liberation in the satellite nations. Barring such approval the resolution would in effect put the Senate on record as opposed to any Big Four conference.

McCarthy said, however, that "maybe we could get a resolution that didn't appear to the President Eisenhower's hands but would express the sense of the Senate."

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have repeatedly indicated they will attempt to bring the question of "liberation" of the satellite areas into the big four conference.

Uphold Sentence Of Japanese Man For Rail Deaths

TOKYO (AP)—In an 8-7 decision Japan's Supreme Court today upheld a death sentence for Katsuke Takeuchi, leftist labor leader convicted of sabotage deaths in the country's 1949 rail strike crises under American occupation.

Defense attorneys for Takeuchi, 34, said they would ask the court to review its decision.

About 500 Communists thronged around the court building although Takeuchi was not a party member. More than 200 specially mobilized police were on guard. The only demonstration was a display of protest placards.

Takeuchi was specifically accused of deliberately starting an unmaneuvered tram car in a runaway ride that killed six and injured 20 at the Mitaka marshaling yard in western Tokyo June 15, 1949.

Greatest Threat Not From A-Bomb But Germ Warfare

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Army's top chemical officer said today the potential threat from germ and chemical warfare is as great as the danger from atomic weapons.

Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy, chief Army chemical officer, said that in an all-out war an enemy would want to save the productive facilities of this nation and therefore might concentrate his assaults on people rather than on machines. "The hazard is insidious," Creasy declared in a speech prepared for the Texas Chemical Council, because "chemical and biological munitions are generally invisible in action, while the physical destruction weapons can be seen."

The general also spoke of the possible use by an enemy of chemical or biological agents that would affect people's brains and leave victims unable to do anything constructive toward a defense effort. He said it is "questionable" that anyone has yet discovered the secret of how to use such mental derangement processes on a large scale, but he said that "we must assume that any potential enemy would, in order not to overlook any factor in planning our defenses."

Creasy listed several advances made by the Chemical Corps in developing means to protect people.

Among these he noted a new poison gas identifier which employs chemical compounds that change color when exposed to different kinds of gases.

Another is the aeroscope, which he said will count airborne particles, including germs, "a thousand times faster than any previous method."

There is also a new kind of wall-board which families could use to line bomb shelters and keep out biological agents or radioactive dust, he said.

Liberace "Lover" In Motion Picture

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Liberace has met the challenge of big-screen movies, kissing scenes and all. So far in his professional career, the candelabra king hasn't been allowed much more affection than kissing his mother on the forehead. But now he's making his first starring movie, "Sincerely Yours," and you know how Hollywood can change things.

Oh, he's getting the romance, all right. His amours in the film are brown-haired beauty Joanne Dru and Dorothy Malone, the shapely blonde who sizzled the screens in "Battle Cry."

His first screen kiss was with Miss Malone, and it was a lulu. "We had to hold it while the camera panned over to William Demarest and Joanne," he said. "Then the camera panned back to us, still kissing. Wow."

But his kiss with Joanne was even more notable. "For three days, her neck had been out of joint and she had been having massages for it," he related. "When I grabbed her and kissed her, I heard a strange noise—you can even hear it on the sound track. It turned out I had put her neck back in joint."

How some of Liberace's possessive fans go for all this smooching remains to be seen. But at least they will be satisfied in seeing a lot of him in the picture. Liberace plays a popular pianist, but not really Liberace. At least Mom is missing. George, too. The story shows him afflicted with partial deafness at the beginning of the picture. Toward the end, he faces an operation that will either restore his hearing or make him completely deaf. You can guess how it turns out.

CHESTERFIELD, England (AP)—Norman Bircumshaw, a 17-year-old high school student, has eloped with the prettiest teacher in his school.

He disappeared a week ago with Celia Timmins, 23, a physical training instructor. They left letters saying they were heading for Scotland to marry.

The last trace of the couple was at a hotel near the Scottish border. They stayed the night in separate rooms, then headed north in her car.

Friends said Norman and Celia had been planning to elope for some time. "She's very pretty — prettiest schoolmarm I've seen," one boy said.

PITT HAS SURPLUS OF BASEBALL THIS SUMMER

Although professional baseball may be defunct in Pitt County, there is a profusion of good semi-pro hardball around here.

Just in this county alone there are six clubs, three in the Coastal Plain League and three in the Tobacco Belt loop.

The Tobacco Belt has drawn many former Greenville high school stars. The Belvoir team has locals in Bobby Conway, Joe Sawyer, Bobby Nunn and Dave Dickinson.

Falkland has on its roster four transplanted Greenvilleites. Ken Hall, Fred Williams, George McCully and H. T. Trevanthen attend East Carolina College during the winter.

GOOD OVERALL BALANCE AMONG TEAMS Although Kinston, Tarboro and Pinetops, all non-Pitt County teams, apparently have the race all to themselves, league president Blackie Trevanthen declares the loop is pretty well balanced.

"It has just been the case of the leaders getting the breaks. Close decisions that could have gone either way have featured the entire schedule. Grimesland, in particular, has lost many heartbreakers."

Kinston is two games ahead of Tarboro with a 9-1 won-lost record. Its success has been attributed to the outstanding performance of crafty southpaw pitcher Johnny Rice.

Rice has won four games without a loss now and all his victories have been gems. He shunted Falkland, Belvoir and Grimesland in succession. The last effort was a two-hit job. Rice, who is considered the outstanding player in the circuit, started out the season as a first baseman but manager Johnny Smith at Kinston quickly placed him on the hill and it looks like he's found a home.

GRIMESLAND IS THE DARK HORSE—TREVANTHEN Smith Wilber, a former CFL pro player with Greenville as a catcher, is the pilot of the Grimesland club. His team got off to a bad start, losing its first couple games. The club has begun to jell now, though, and Trevanthen is the league "dark horse."

"Pinetops is hitting the league's 'dark horse,'" Trevanthen said. "They get anywhere from 15 to 20 hits a game, and could slip in ahead of Kinston or Tarboro before the season is over."

The Tobacco Belt hasn't reached midseason yet. The 26-game season will conclude on August 7. There after a playoff of the top four teams will commence to decide a champion. Also coming up in August will be an All-Star game pitting standouts from the Tobacco Belt against stars from another league of comparable strength. The game will probably be played at Guy Smith Stadium if the park can be obtained.

SPORTS SHOTS FROM HERE AND THERE Lee Allen, noted baseball historian, has published a new book, "The Hot Stove League," containing a lot of interesting tidbits on the National Pastime.

Rocky Moseley, former Wake Forest white, made his debut with the Rocky Mounts last night. He played leftfield and failed to get a hit, but three times he lofted home drives that would have won for extra bases. He backed the leftfielder up against the wall his first time up. Hooks will take over third as soon as he gets in shape. The hot corner is his old college position.

Linwood Holt, catcher on the 1955 Wake Forest national championship team, was the only Deacon to receive an All-American award. Another club, Oklahoma, placed two men and did not get past the quarter-finals in the college world series. This "neglect" brought many "unfair" cries from North Carolinians, especially Baptists.

Jaycees Take Over First In North State League

NORTH STATE LEAGUE W L Pct. Jaycees 5 1 .667 Lions 1 1 .500 V.F.W. 1 1 .500 Kiwanis 1 3 .333

Taking advantage of every opportunity, the Jaycees took over the lead in the North State League yesterday afternoon with an 8-3 win over the Kiwanis.

The Jaycees were able to get only five hits off Jack Foley, but they took use of six bases on balls and four Kiwanis errors to score their eight runs.

The game was moving along at 4-3 in favor of the Jaycees until the top half of the sixth inning when the Jaycees broke the game wide open with four runs. Sonny Hodges, Jaycees pitcher, was the hero of the big inning with a home run with two mates on base.

Hodges held the Kiwanis check for all but one inning during the entire game. In the fifth inning the Kiwanians pushed over three runs on a walk, a hit, and three errors. Other than that inning Hodges twirled no-hit ball.

Jackie Conway was the hitting star of the game with three hits in four times at bat, including two doubles. Hodges' homer was the only four base blow in the game.

This afternoon a doubleheader will be played, starting at three o'clock. One of the games in the doubleheader will pit the Kiwanis and the Lions against each other for the first half championship. These two teams tied for first in the first half and are using this game as the playoff game.

Score by innings: R H E Jaycees 201 014-8 5 4 Kiwanis 000 030-3 5 4 Hodges and Conway; Foley and Conway, Henderson.

Bosox Won Eight Of Ten Games With Williams

By ED WILKS The Associated Press Ted Williams doesn't call it quits for good this season, the Boston Red Sox management is going to be in one heckuva pickle—how can you give a raise to a guy already making a hundred grand?

A player in that salary bracket (which means Williams, although he's getting a scaled-down check because of his late start) doesn't figure to get a bonus no matter what he does. But he is worth $100,000 to the Red Sox and baseball, at the gate alone, just by putting on a uniform.

Take last night. The Red Sox made it 12 out of 14 by beating the fourth-place Detroit Tigers 5-4. It was Williams' home run run with two on in the eighth that did it.

When Williams came back May 28, Boston was 17-24 for the season. They won seven of the next 12 with Williams, still getting into shape, appearing only infrequently.

Then, 10 games ago, Williams took over left field as a regular. Boston has won 8 of the 10, pulling up to 500 at 32-32. Ted has hammered seven home runs, driven in 14 and batted .429 for the 10 games.

The homer last night was on a 3-0 pitch by Ned Garver. Ellis Kinder, another old pro like Williams, came on in relief in the ninth to preserve Tom Hurd's victory.

In New York's Yankee Stadium Mickey Mantle blasted a 486-foot homer as the Yankees beat Kansas City 6-2. It was one of the longest balls ever belted in the stadium.

The second-place Chicago White Sox beat Washington 6-1 and third-place Cleveland trimmed Baltimore 3-1.

The National Brooklyn boosted its lead to 12 games over Chicago as Don Newcombe won his 12th by beating the Cubs 7-2 in 11 innings. Milwaukee moved to within 1 1/2 games of the runner-up Cubs by trimming Pittsburgh 6-4.

Carl (Boo) Olson, the middleweight ruler in a 15-round title fight tonight at the Polo Grounds.

A loss to the 160-pound titleholder not only would cost the 38-year-old Moore his crown, but would ruin forever his chances of getting a whack at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Even a close victory could prove fatal to Moore's prospects of moving up to a top pace. I don't think he can. Sure, I know he can hit awfully hard but he'll have to catch me with it first."

So why is Moore on the threshold of achieving his long-sought goal, risking all against the lighter Olson?

The answer is money and supreme confidence. Moore figures to gross around $60,000 from probable gross gate of around $225,000 plus the $100,000 radio-television money. And the old Gypsy of the ring firmly believes that he can whip any fighter around today.

Greenies Play Williamston Here Wilfong's Homer In Sixth Starts Ford Rally

Robin Wilfong (in the left hand photo) is shown as he smacks one of Dick Evans' deliveries for a home run in last night's Pony League game. Wilfong's homer was the third of the year in Pony League play. On the right, W. L. Allen cuts at and misses one of Evans' curves. Allen went the distance and won the game for the Fordomatics. (Reflector Photo by Bruce Phillips.)

A last ditch rally ignited by Robin Wilfong's two run homer gave the Fordomatics a 4-2 win over the National Guard last night in PONY League play at Guy Smith Stadium.

Right-hander Dick Evans had rolled along for five innings without allowing a run until the bottom fell out for him in the last of the sixth inning. The Guard was leading 1-0 up until this point.

W. L. Allen walked to start the inning and then Wilfong smacked an inside pitch far over the left-field barrier. Merrill Bynum then lined a double over the rightfield fence on one bounce. Evans settled down to get Buddy Murray on a pop up, but he then walked Buster Daniels. Cecil Cherry topped a slow roller that the second baseman erred; then Daniels and Bynum scored when the second baseman threw the ball into leftfield. Albert Crawford, who had relieved Evans to pitch to Cherry, gave up another single before he retired the side. Four runs had scored and the Guard trailed 4-1.

In the top half of the seventh the Guardmen came back to push over one run, but W. L. Allen stopped the rally before they could score again. Allen went all the way on the mound for the Ford to record the win. He gave up two runs on five hits. Allen walked five batters and struck out eleven.

William Stancell had two for three to lead the National Guard at the plate. Ronnie Finch had two hits for the Ford.

Score by innings: R H E National Guard 010 000 1-2 5 3 Fordomatics 000 004 2-4 5 1 Evans, Crawford (6) and Crawford, Evans (6); Allen and Bynum.

Carraway will likely start Coggins or James Pollard on the hill tonight. Coggins appears the most probable because of his early victory over them.

James McLawhorn will be behind the plate tonight, according to business manager Floyd Nichols. Bobby Clark will go in rightfield with Blaney Moyer and Ed Tripp in center and left respectively.

Nichols said this morning that two new players have been signed and will be eligible to play tonight. There are catcher and outfielder J. D. Bradford of Fayetteville and infielder Sam Cruson of Boston, Mass. Both are East Carolina College students.

Tonight's probable lineup: Greenville Williamston Moyer, cf. Cherry, ss. Hall, 2b. Shalls, lf. Boyd, 3b. Bradwood, c. Clark, rf. E. Tripp, 1b. Brown, 3b. E. Tripp, lf. Lee, rf. McLawhorn, c. Forbes, 2b. Mills, ss. Coggins or Pollard, p. Sexton, p.

Moore Expected To KO Olson In Tonight's Title Fight

By MURRAY ROSE NEW YORK (AP)—Aging Archie Moore gambles his light heavyweight crown and his hopes for a heavyweight championship fight this fall when he faces ambitious Carl (Boo) Olson, the middleweight ruler in a 15-round title fight tonight at the Polo Grounds.

Davis Wins ACC Pitching Crown; McGinley Second

GREENSBORO (AP)—Lowell (Lefty) Davis of Wake Forest, although he was allowed to pitch only one game in the NCAA championship Deacons in the College World Series, won the 1955 Atlantic Coast Conference pitching crown with a record of 10-1, and eight ACC records were broken by pitchers and batters according to final figures released today by the ACC Service Bureau.

Davis, who could pitch only one game at Omaha because he was attending summer school and could not miss classes, also paced the conference in strikeouts with 83, walked only 33 in 104 innings and posted an 8.34 earned run average.

Top challenger to Davis was Wake Forest's Jack McGinley, who won three games at Omaha to finish the season with an 8-2 won-lost record. He struck out 60 in 67 2/3 innings.

Little Jackie Colburn dumped the world champs to their sixth straight defeat as the Redlegs finally beat Johnny Antonelli. Willie Mays was back for the Giants, but was hitless in four trips.

Back-to-back homers by Richie Ashburn and Gran Hantzle gave the Phils three runs in the ninth to beat the Cards.

The Greenville PONY League will give a benefit supper Wednesday night, June 29, at Guy Smith Stadium for adults and children.

The supper will help to pay the costs of operating the league for the year. Tickets can be bought from any member of the teams or from the Recreation Department.

The improvement of the PONY League park this year ran the league's bill up somewhat higher than the budget allows. The park has been built up now, however, so that it is one of the best in this area. Anyone desiring information on the supper or the league should contact Mr. Dick Evans.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Sumner

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
As the gambler listened, though his poker face showed no change, the indifference drained out of him. He was beginning to see the glimmering of an idea.

The swinging doors pushed open for a moment to admit a gleam of daylight and the figure of a tall, heavily-built young man, a bit red around the eyes and grim as to mouth and chin. Evidently he had some importance in this crowd; heads turned at his entrance, and as he clumped across the room, his progress was halted by handclaps and low-toned words, accompanied by looks of respectful gravity. He was drawn into the most noisily belligerent of the groups which quieted at his entrance. Heavy hands clapped him on the shoulder; drinks were sympathetically pressed on him.

"When's the fun'n' goin' t' be, Fred?" Calder heard one of the men ask, and the muttered reply, "Tomorrow, two o'clock."

"We'll all be there," the speaker assured him, with a solemnity that wasn't altogether sober. "Nate was a good man—a mighty good man."

"I'll tell the world he was," the grim-faced young man brought a clenched fist to his forehead. "A those murderin' sons that finished him ain't heard the last of the Cullens yet—they ain't!"

His companions growled their approval. Calder signalled the bartender. "Who's that young fellow that just came?"

"Fred Cullen." The barman eyed him with a touch of uneasiness. "Stranger in town, ain't you?"

"Just riding through," Calder agreed. "Seems like there's been some trouble here."

"Sure has. The bartender lowered his voice. "Bunch of nesters raided Broken Spur—biggest cattle outfit in the country. Fred, his brother was killed. What's your pleasure, friend?"

"Give me a bottle of your best." Calder paid for it, and walked over to Cullen's table. "Beg your pardon. The man at the bar's just been telling me about your sad loss. If you wouldn't consider it presuming for a stranger to offer his sympathy—"

Young Cullen raised bloodshot, suspicious eyes to the gambler's face. Calder continued smoothly. "I'd take it as an honor if you'd have a drink with me—you and your friends."

The others at the table made room for him; glasses were filled. Calder lifted his solitary glass. "To the memory of a brave man—God rest his soul!"

His liquor and his toast won his acceptance as a friend. Listening to their talk, he managed to insert his sympathy with farmers fighting for their rights against the arrogance of cattlemen.

For once, he didn't try to rush things. Cameron would have approved of his methods. There were still several hours of summer daylight left; for what he had in mind, he knew darkness was best, when men couldn't see each other's faces. And the two men in the jail were safe; they weren't going to run away.

The noise of the nesters crowding into town had reached up even to the cell into which Lacey Parran, looking more like an unhappy bloodhound than ever, had finally admitted Christie, after receiving her assurance that she wasn't going to slip Kerry a wasp on or a key. Kerry's fever had gone down, and the pain of his wound was easier but he was still weak, and content to lie back quietly on the lumpy cot, with Christie's hand in his, until they heard the trampling of horse-shoes and the mutter of voices in the street.

"What's going on?" he demanded fretfully. "Look out the window, Christie."

"Just a lot of nesters riding into town," she reported, keeping her voice as cool as she could. She'd watched the open wagon with a tarpaulin stretched over it, and didn't need much imagination to guess what lay underneath.

"What the devil—" Kerry tried to get up to see for himself, and she was almost thankful for the weakness that made him drop back.

"Call Lacey," he insisted. "He'll know what it's all about."

Lacey was a long time answering her call, and when he came at last, she needed only one look into the heavy face to know she hadn't been imagining things.

"You'd better go back to the hotel, Christie. The streets might be gettin' kinda' rough in a little while."

"What's happening, Lacey?" Kerry raised himself on an elbow. The sheriff hesitated. "I don't know. You'd have to know sooner or later, Kerry. All hell's busted loose," and he told them.

Kerry cursed with futile savagery. Christie demanded "What are you going to do?"

"I'm ridin' out to talk to Rob, get straight about just what did happen. Can't take too much stock in these crazy nesters. And then maybe we can figure out what—"

Christie, he demanded unhappily, "what you expect one man to do against the crowd? Come on now—you got to leave so I can lock up."

"Are you going to leave the jail unguarded with that crazy mob loose in town?"

"Jim Farrell'll keep an eye on things here."

"Jim Farrell!" He was Lacey's deputy, a lank, ineffectual elderly man who had subsided for ten years on his deputy's salary without doing anything visible to earn it. Christie swore her disgust.

"What you expect one man to do against the crowd?" Lacey conceded, "but he's as good as we can get for the sal'ry we pay. Would you want the job?"

"I'd be more use than he would!" "Wouldn't be surprised if you would," Christie said. "You can take it up with the town council next time they meet. Now clear out an' let me lock my jail."

Outside, Christie paced restlessly up and down the main street, watching the nesters going in and out of the two saloons. This time she really looked at the crowd, and she didn't like what she saw or felt of their temper. More and more she wished she hadn't sent P'eb away. Since he'd been too late to deal with the trouble at Broken Spur, he'd better have been here, dealing with whatever might be going to happen. She fought with an impulse to ride after him. Her pride rebelled at the idea of running for help, when there might not be anything to need help against. And she didn't like the thought of leaving Kerry, even though there was nothing she could do locked away from him. Besides, Rob had enough to worry him—but Kerry was his as well as hers. If there were any danger threatening him—

Her abstract steps led her back toward the jail. Walking blindly, she brushed against a couple of nesters standing spraddle-legged on the sidewalk. They didn't step aside or tip their hats with the

His widow and Dr. Irving L. Ershler who took over Dr. Haft's practice when he died in 1952 wanted to give it to Israel. But red tape surrounding international shipments of scientific equipment stopped them.

It was surplus because Dr. Ershler had his own machine and it lay in storage until Mrs. Mark Silverman came to the rescue. She packed it in two 35-pound units and took it as hand luggage on a tip to Israel. She reports the crates proved a bit uncomfortable sliding around the stateroom in a

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Motors and railroads excited the most buying interest today at the stock market in the midst of a general advance.

Throughout the list, gains ran to between 1 and 3 points, and some individual issues went up even more. Losses ranged to around a point.

Trading was quite active and neared the three million mark. Yesterday's total was 2,720,000 shares with the market moderately higher.

Motors and railroads held the key spot in the advance, and they had able assistance from many other divisions including the steels, oils, coppers, chemicals, machine tools, and a long list of individual issues.

Aircraft didn't do very well, and the utilities and building materials were neglected by buyers.

Two Are Slated For Army Duty

Two men were sent to Raleigh for induction this morning, and 24 went for pre-induction physical examinations.

The local Selective Service office listed the inductees as Cleveland Dixie Gilbert, Jr., of Greenville, and Richard Earl Randolph, Negro, of Greenville, Route 4.

L. D. Howard, Negro, of Stokes, was sent for induction as a delinquent.

Falling to report for pre-induction were Douglas Lee Filmore, Greenville; Riley Moore, Grifton Rt. 1; Chester Roosevelt Corbett, Winterville Rt. 2; James Edward Barnes, Greenville; James Earl Adams, Greenville; Luther Junior Cox, Tarboro Rt. 1, all Negro; and Anthony Joyner Weed, Greenville and Beverly Hills, Calif.

These men will be ordered for induction as delinquents.

Seven men who failed to appear for induction as delinquents will be reported to the FBI. They are Jessie Lee Johnson, Ayden Rt. 2; Jimmy Lee Dixon, Greenville Rt. 5; Robert Lee Anderson, Greenville; Leroy Junior Grimes, Greenville Rt. 5; Jesse Lee Johnson, Bethel Rt. 1; Gray, Greenville Rt. 2; Russell J. Haven, Conn.; and Elbert Lee Grimes, Everetts, all Negro.

Next draft call is scheduled for July 28 with induction for six men and pre-induction for 31.

S.C. Flue-Cured Market To Open On July 28

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. — South Carolina's flue-cured tobacco markets will open on July 28 this year—compared with the 1954 opening date of Aug. 2—the South Carolina Warehouse Assn. decided yesterday.

The dates were set and other marketing regulations adopted at the closing session of the organization's annual convention. D. M. Dew Jr. of Dillon was named president succeeding A. A. Munn of Pamlico and Marion S. Fowler of Lake City was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The association set the 1955 daily sales time for each set of buyers at 5½ hours with the maximum sales rate at 400 baskets per hour or 2,200 baskets daily.

The group prescribed marketing regulations for all South Carolina markets with the exception of Mullins, which operates as a part of the North Carolina Border Belt. Regulations in other flue-cured States are set by the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., which opens a meeting June 28 at Virginia Beach, Va.

Prof. Ray Kumar Coubey, 59, of Banaras University India, says he has 15 separate M.A. degrees and plans to acquire at least one more.

Steel Industry Moves To Stop Pending Strike

PITTSBURGH — The booming steel industry moved another step closer today to a definite wage offer which may determine whether 600,000 steelworkers will strike.

Three of the industry's top producers have promised a wage hike. They haven't said yet how much.

James & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. scheduled resumption of wage talks today with the CIO United Steelworkers.

The three producers who committed themselves this week to pay increases are U. S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp.

The steelworkers, who now earn an average $233 a month, will be free to strike at midnight June 30 if no agreement is reached.

U. S. Steel is expected to spell out its offer either tomorrow or Friday. It usually is the pace setter of the industry.

David J. McDonald, president of the union, has said that he wants a "substantial" wage boost.

The current talks are being held under a wage reopener clause of a two-year contract signed last June. Under that agreement, only wages can be discussed this year.

Both sides have expressed optimism about a settlement, before the strike deadline. Most observers feel the union will agree to a raise of from 12 to 15 cents an hour.

Sailor Killed While On Way To His Wedding

MORGANTON, N. C. (AP) — A truck driver was being held under $1,000 bond today in the traffic death of an altar-bound sailor near Rutherfordton early yesterday.

Duane Clark, 42, of Pineola, was held on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Bobby Dean Cash, 18, of Morganton. Cash was to have married Miss Nina Covey of Valley Falls, S. C., last night.

Cash, stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., was struck by a truck. Police said Paul Dale, 24, told them he passed the scene about 30 minutes before the accident and saw Cash sitting cross-legged in the middle lane of the highway.

He said he turned around and asked the sailor if he had been to the side of the road.

A coroner's report said the body contained no alcohol.

Vegetables Are Prepared At Meet

FOUNTAIN — Mrs. Alton Moore, assisted by Mrs. Ruel Dilda, gave the demonstration on "Good Vegetable Dinners" at a meeting of the Fountain Home Demonstration Club last week.

The two club members prepared several vegetable dishes and gave a number of recipes.

Mrs. Dilda was hostess for the meeting.

During the business session several book reports were given and plans were made for the club's annual picnic.

Refreshments of salad and iced tea were served by the hostess to the 13 members present.

EXCHANGE DONATION — Chick Newell, secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Exchange Club, is shown as he presented a $30 check yesterday to Mrs. Hugh Carawan, of the Salvation Army. The check will be used to send two deserving girls to camp for 10 days this summer. In addition, the club plans to send two Boy Scouts and two Girl Scouts to camp this summer. Watching the presentation is Dave Hardee, Crime Prevention Week chairman for 1955, of the Exchange Club. (Reflector Photo by Bob Hilldrup.)

Begs Czech Minister Let His Child Join Him

SAN FRANCISCO — A department store sales clerk who fled Europe in 1948 pleaded ardently by mail today with Czechoslovakia's foreign minister for a permit to let his motherless little daughter join him in the United States.

Philipp Heller, 39, of Sacramento, came to San Francisco in hope of winning diplomatic backing from United Nations bigwigs to fulfill his great wish.

He found people sympathetic, but "awfully busy" with U.N. conferences and festivities.

He didn't see the Czech foreign minister, Vaclav David.

But his letter tells the pathetic story in capsule form:

"The United Nations is commemorating a great occasion—the 10th anniversary of the charter signing of the United Nations. My daughter is also 10 years day in separate meetings. He also met with some of his closest political associates and leaders of both the men and women's Peronista parties.

The continuing prominence of Lucero in the post-revolution period was emphasized again when the press secretariat revised a previous announcement of the President's call, putting himself at the top of the list.

The communique, Lucero advised the public to be with effect of rumor mongering. He in effect denied there were any disagreements inside the armed forces or between the armed forces and the government by saying such reports were "not worth comment."

Lucero also scoffed at rumors he said have been coming from "our friends of Montevideo." Argentine exiles in the Uruguayan capital have said that negotiations were under way in Buenos Aires to set up a three-man junta, including Peron, to govern the country.

Whether any new political adjustments result or not, the withdrawal of the troops from Buenos Aires may help to relieve the tension that has gripped the capital since the revolt.

The powerful national police force was left to keep order under the existing state of siege—a form of martial law. The police are also under Lucero's command.

The Ministry of Finance said it had instructed national banks to make loans for the repair of damage without affecting normal credit lines.

Most of the damage from the revolt itself was suffered by buildings in the area of Government House on the central Plaza De Mayo. But Roman Catholic Church properties in the downtown section suffered vast damage from fires set by street mobs after the fighting was over.

Police announced the arrest of two men charged with setting fire to a Roman Catholic church in a Buenos Aires suburb. They also reported an attempt was made to burn a Catholic school at Mar del Plata. Authorities said that several men they identified as Communists were arrested after an exchange of gunfire between police and a group fleeing the Mar del Plata School.

Boating Group Elects Officers

GRIFTON — Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of Grifton's newly organized Boating Club last night.

George G. Suggs was chosen as Commodore and other officers include Mrs. James F. Hudson, secretary and Mrs. Clarence L. Bennett, treasurer.

Plans were made to give swimming instruction to club members, and in the interest of safety, the new method of artificial respiration was demonstrated by Nathan Harrison, a club member.

Commodore Suggs read rules for outdoor owners and suggested that each boat owner obtain and carry with him a first aid kit and a suitable fire extinguisher.

An article on water skiing was read by Harrell Burkeley, club member.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bennett.

Assault Charged To 'The Terror'

LOS ANGELES — Four-year-old Teddy Levy, called by his parents "The Terror," is the youngest defendant ever sued for battery in Superior Court here.

His grandmother, Mrs. Ann Rubin, claiming she suffered two fractured vertebrae after baby sitting with Teddy, asked $150,000 damages yesterday. She named the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Levy, as codefendants.

Mrs. Rubin said she spent several weeks in a hospital after Teddy vaulted the davenport and landed on her. Teddy's parents said they called their son "The Terror" because of the zest with which he portrays Superman. Dick Tracy and Davy Crockett as fancy strikes him.

Earlier Opening?

KINSTON (AP) — Members of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Assn. heard a recommendation yesterday for an earlier opening of tobacco sales on the Eastern Belt this year. The recommendation was made by outgoing President R. E. Shepard of Kinston.

W. H. Harris of Wilson was elected president, Johnny Carlton of Farmville, vice president; and A. B. Boswell of Smithfield, secretary-treasurer.

Forrest Chosen To Head Legion

ROCKY MOUNT — Formal dedication ceremonies for the H. Lee Large Health Center will be held here Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. City health officer Dr. Robert Walker extended an invitation to local residents to attend the program and Richard R. (Dick) Forrest, Greenville contractor, was installed as commander of Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion at a supper meeting here last night.

Retiring Commander Sam A. Whitehurst, who presided, introduced Attorney M. E. (Red) Cavendish, who officiated at the installation ceremony.

Sidney Moore and O. W. Dall are vice commanders; C. E. Williams is adjutant; J. L. Page, treasurer; Dr. H. Glenn Hancey, chaplain, and Tom Swain is sergeant-at-arms.

Legionnaires Jack Wallace and Connor Eagles reported on the dedication of the memorial table to Pitt county's war dead on the courthouse lawn.

Eagles reported on the progress of the plan to place flags at the graves of all of Pitt county's war dead on Memorial Day.

Herman McLahorn, who attended the state convention, reported briefly on the body's deliberations. The dues for the coming year will be $4 instead of $3.50, the extra 50 cents going toward the building fund for Raleigh headquarters.

Lester Turnage reported about the Pitt County Fair and commented that Hurricane Hazel interfered with the success of the fair last October, "but we are planning to have the best fair next October," he stated.

Japanese Said Drinking Tea

TOKYO — Pour that story back through the tea leaves again, folks. Something was left out the first time.

A Tokyo dispatch June 14 said the Japanese are drinking more coffee than their traditional green tea.

Well, it's true enough—but only in the nation's booming coffee shops.

A new look at the figures shows this is just a drop—well, maybe a spoonful—in the nation's teacup. Counting farm, home and coffee shops, here are the annual Japan totals in pounds:

Black tea: 2,400,000
Coffee: 5,000,000
Green tea: 120,000,000

That's a lotta tea.

Electric Storms Bad For Augie

WHITNEY POINT N.Y. — Augie Tappan was sitting at home watching television when an electrical storm broke yesterday. A lightning bolt struck the house, damaged several timbers in the attic and blacked out the TV set.

Two minutes later Tappan received a phone call informing him that a concession stand he owned, about 15 miles from his home, had been smashed by another shaft of lightning and had blown away.

Lee Returns To Assume Old Post

ROBERSONVILLE — Robert Lee has returned to Robersonville to become director of recreation. Mrs. Lee and daughter, Miss Brooks, are living at the Frances Bryan Arnold house on Green street.

Lee left here two years ago to accept a similar position in his hometown of Jackson, N.C. In returning here he succeeds recreation director Moye, who resigned to accept a position in Farmville.

Miss Jo Ann Warren, a student at East Carolina College, will be assistant recreation director in charge of small children. They will have their meetings at the American Legion Hut during the summer.

Grifton Women Form Softball Loop; Open Play

GRIFTON — First game in the new women's softball league just organized here was played yesterday with the Blue team winning 6-4.

The two teams, on which 22 women players are divided, have been temporarily designated as the Red and the Blue teams, with Mrs. Elva Hardison captain of the Blues.

Next game between the two teams is set for tomorrow morning at 8 a.m.

According to Mrs. Clifton Baldwin who has been in charge of organizing the group, the league was formed in cooperation with the recreation program for the Finer Carolina project.

The first organizational meeting was held last Friday, following answers to an ad Mrs. Baldwin ran in the local paper requesting the women to turn out for softball participation.

The teams hope to play women's teams in other communities, "and we might even play the Grifton men," Mrs. Baldwin said.

"We are all having a good time," she declared, "and we hope later to organize a swimming team for women, too."
