Rollins-Stansill Vows Spoken In Candlelight Ceremony

FARMVILLE—In a candle-light ceremony Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Miss Janet Stansill became the bride of Robert LeRoy Rollins, Jr. White gladioli, gypsophelia and Oregon fern formed a lovely setting for the wedding at the Farmville Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. E. S. Coates officiated at the double ring rites.

Mrs. Rollins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McQueen Stansill. Mr. Rollins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeRoy Rollins.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Haywood Smith, organist, played a program of traditional wedding music. Mrs. Tommy Bullock sang "Through the Years" and was joined by Miss Ruthie Tyson in singing "The Want of You." Through the ceremony Mrs. Smith played "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell. Mrs. Bullock sang "Wedding Prayer," by Dunlap, as the benediction.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a long-length gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace fashioned with a square neckline, short sleeves, and a bouffant skirt ending in drifts of nylon tulle, which gave sweep to the train. Her elbow length mitts were of pleated nylon net. A short veil of tulle was attached to a princess crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses with sprays of stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Stansill chose her sister, Mrs. James Bennett, to be her matron of honor. Her gown of delphinium blue organza was waist length, styled with a camisole bodice of embroidery, covered with a short fitted jacket. The full, shirred skirt fell over drifts of net. She wore a tiny cloche of platted net and shoes of blue, matching the dress. Her flowers were a nosegay of pink asters tied with pink ribbon streamers. Little Miss Beckie Cross, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pale pink matching organza dress over taffeta and a matching organza bandeau. She carried a basket fashioned of blue tulle filled with pink sweetheart roses.

James Bennett, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Robert W. Morgan of Durham and Farmville, Dick Steele of Asheville, Carroll Shoemaker of Durham, and Wilbur Rollins, cousin of the groom, of Farmville.

Mrs. Stansill chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of powder blue lace over taffeta with a matching lace hat, and accessories. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

The mother of the groom wore a dress of navy lace with a pink flowered hat, navy accessories, and a pink rose corsage.

Following the wedding members of the bridal party greeted guests in the vestibule of the church. Mrs. Emerson Smith served as directress of the wedding.

For traveling the bride changed to a suit of blueberry silk, bengaline, with which she wore a white cloche of Venice lace, navy accessories, and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the couple will make their home in Durham.

Mrs. Rollins is a graduate of Farmville high school and East Carolina College, where she received her B. S. degree in primary education. She is presently employed at Lakewood school in Durham.

Mr. Rollins, a graduate of Farmville high school also, was graduated from the University of North Carolina, and is presently a senior in the Duke University School of Medicine. This summer he is working on a research fellowship in the Department of Psychiatry at Duke Medical School.

Smith-Quinerly Vows Spoken In Grifton Christian Church

GRIFTON—In a ceremony of simple dignity at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, June 23, in the Grifton Christian Church, Miss Jessie Pugh Quinerly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Patrick Quinerly of Grifton, and Mr. Sterling Price Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Milton Smith of Elizabeth City, were united in marriage.

Floor baskets of white gladioli arranged against palms and greenery formed the altar decorations. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph L. Roberson, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Ralph White organist, rendered a program of nuptial music prior to the ceremony. Miss Theima White of Beviders, soloist, sang "Through the Years" and as the benediction "The Wedding Prayer." Traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bride and groom entered together. For her marriage the bride wore a French blue silk parchment dress fashioned with princess lines. The three quarter sleeves had cuffs of matching lace. Her hat was a small blue silk veil and ribbons trimmed. She used blue shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of white daisies and delphinium tied with pink satin ribbons.

Ushers were Joe Quinerly of Grifton, cousin of the bride, and Phillip O'Berry of Elizabeth City. The bride's mother wore a black and white sheer and a corsage of white pom poms. Mrs. Smith wore a shell pink two piece dress and a white corsage of pom poms.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple greeted friends in the vestibule of the church. Mrs. Smith is a graduate of the Grifton School and Atlantic Christian College, Wilson. For the past two years she has been a member of the Elizabeth City school faculty. Mr. Smith is a graduate of the Elizabeth City school, served in the Air Force and has attended the University of North Carolina and VPI division in Norfolk.

On Wednesday night preceding the rehearsal for the Smith-Quinerly wedding Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Quinerly and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tucker were hosts at a dinner party for members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests and members of the immediate families at the Woman's Club in Kingston.

On Wednesday evening following the rehearsal for the Smith-Quinerly wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Bissette entertained at a cake cutting at the Bissette home for members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests and a few close friends. Guests were greeted by the hosts in the den where a yellow color note was observed in the arrangements. In the living room and hall beautiful arrangements of lavender and salmion gladioli were used. In the dining room a color scheme of white and pink was used. The mantle was banked with magnolia leaves and blooms and held white candles. On the buffet was a similar arrangement. The table was covered with a lace cloth and held a five branched silver candelabra in white perennials filled with pom poms, ferns, baby's breath and festoons of fern, tied with white satin ribbons.

The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride couple on a silver tray was at one end of the table and the punch bowl at the other. After the cake was cut in the traditional manner Mrs. Quinerly, mother of the bride, completed the serving. Fruit punch was served by Miss Waleah Quinerly, sister of the bride. Guests served themselves to mints and nuts. There were forty guests.

Mrs. Tom Gower, Mrs. L. L. Mewborn, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. M. B. Hodges, Mrs. G. L. Tucker were hostesses at a lovely tea on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gower on Queen St. Miss Quinerly was becomingly attired in blue and white dress and a carnation corsage which was presented to her by her hostesses. In the entrance hall, where Mrs. Robert Mewborn received, a beautiful arrangement of salmon gladioli in a silver bowl was used. Lavender gladioli and yellow roses graced the living room. Mrs. Gower directed callers to the dining room where the table was covered with a lace cloth over pale green. The centerpiece was a silver epergne filled with pom poms, snapdragons, baby's breath and tendrils of ivy.

HD Federation Elects Officers

RALEIGH (AP)—Mrs. C. H. Berryhill of Charlotte is the new president of the North Carolina Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, and E. V. Vestal of Kenansville is the new head of the North Carolina Farmers Convention.

The two leaders were elevated from the first vice presidency of their respective organizations yesterday as the 47th annual Farm and Home Week, sponsored by the two groups, ended at North Carolina State College.

Mrs. Mildred B. Flagg of Newtonville, Mass., spoke last night at the final meeting of the four-day program. She predicted an eventual victory over the forces of communism by the spiritual unity of democracies.

Mrs. Berryhill succeeds Mrs. E. P. Gibson of Laurel Hill, while Vestal took the office held by Loy Howard of Davidson.

Other new officers of the demonstration clubs are: Mrs. Ralph Proffitt, Bald Creek, first vice president; Mrs. L. B. Pate, New Bern, second vice president; Mrs. C. B. Strickland, Goldsboro, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles W. Gooding, Hamptonville, treasurer; and Mrs. L. T. Caviness, Fuquay - Varina; coordinating treasurer.

Miss Harrison received a corsage of white mums and a gift of silver from the hostesses. She also received from the guests many useful gifts, which were effectively displayed in the den. Mrs. Avery's home was decorated throughout with lovely arrangements of summer flowers.

Announcement Party Honors Couple

BETHEL—On Monday evening, June 13, Mrs. Ralph Carson and Mrs. A. M. McWhorter were hostesses at a canasta and bridge party at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. Carson. The party was given to announce the marriage of Betty Marie Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchin Andrews of Bethel, to James Waddell Robbins Jr., son of Mrs. James Waddell Robbins Sr. of Henderson, which took place on March 25 in Dillon, S. C.

Tables were pre-arranged to seat 20 guests and the home was made festive throughout with colorful arrangements of summer flowers and candles.

Mrs. James Crandell was awarded a prize for high score in bridge and Miss Louise Beverly won the award in canasta. Delicious refreshments consisting of bridal ices, cakes, mints and nuts were served at the conclusion of the games. During the refreshment course, a miniature pony express rider, bearing a scroll as a package, was placed on each table. When the scroll was opened the surprise message was "Jimmy and Betty, March 25."

The honoree was presented china and silver in her chosen patterns by the hostesses, and Janie Ruth Edmondson and Miss Louise Beverly, brides-elect, were presented gifts of crystal and china.

Considerate Congressman We think it was very nice of Congressman Herbert Bonner to send us the particular little gift that came to us from him this week—a book called — of all things — "Infant Care," a publication of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. . . . How, we wonder, did Congressman Bonner know that we would be especially happy, just around now, to have a book on Infant Care? Anyway, we are reading it, and also learning plenty by personal experience. Maybe we will write a book on that same subject some day—and then we'll be sure to send a copy to the Congressman, just to show him how much we appreciate his thought.

That's what "Bonjour Tristesse" means in French, the title of the new novel by Françoise Sagan that is sweeping the country and has been Number One on the best-seller lists for the last month. . . . Miss Sagan is an 18 year old French girl who took last summer off to write a novel after she flunked her entrance exams to college, and she certainly made good use of her time. We read "Bonjour Tristesse," more or less out of curiosity—how does a book rocket to Number One position without being a book club selection or anything?—and were quite impressed. # Song Recital At College July 5

Muriel Birkhead, soprano, and Charles Dunn, baritone, will present an Excursion in Song at East Carolina College, Tuesday, July 5, at 8:15 p. m. in the Austin auditorium. James W. Butler, chairman of the college Entertainment Committee, has announced.

The program, which will feature hit songs of musical comedy, will open the summer entertainment program on the campus. The concert will be admission-free and will be open to the public.

At their East Carolina appearance, Miss Birkhead and Mr. Dunn will present their special program of Selections of Musical Comedy, and selections will stress the light and the tuneful side of good music. Samplings from the works of such composers as Jerome Kern, George Gershwin, and Rodgers and Hammerstein will be included.

In addition, Miss Birkhead will present a group of European popular songs in idioms that have found their way into some of the great Broadway scores. Mr. Dunn will sing examples of Broadway borrowings from British and American folk songs.

We Can't See A Fee For TV

There's a humdinger of an argument going on before the Federal Communications Commission over "pay television" for the viewing public.

Advocates promise an infinitely superior programming, and, no commercials.

Briefly, this is how it would work:

For maybe a nickel the viewer could see first-run movies, a championship prize fight, a choice variety program, educational features, cultural presentations of all types, etc. No one who hadn't paid the set fee would see the show, because of a scrambling device engineers have ready to apply to the system.

The big idea is to provide "superior box office attractions" for the televiewer.

But... we aren't convinced.

"Free" television isn't really free; everybody knows they are paying a minute fraction of the program costs each time they buy a pack of cigarettes, a car, a box of soap powder or almost anything you can name. But it's pretty painless as such things go, and taken all-in-all the viewer (rich and poor) gets a wide variety of programs to choose from. The quality of dramatic, comedy and cultural presentations has been growing as experience and know-how in the field has grown.

Off-hand, we can visualize little opportunity for broadening the scope of entertainment and information in television; the industry can offer (and does) a menu suited to the tastes of children, the adolescent, the adult and the savant.

Further, we suspect that with even a modest audience of five million, for a given program, fees for pay-as-you-see TV would permit usurpation of the best in free television... destroying the quality of programs in the medium of the many... and creating a "favored" role in the pay field. One can't go much further in presenting "superior box office attractions" than in the Disney program, Studio One, Omnibus, Medie, or any one of a hundred shows the individual chooses to call his favorite. We have seen performers ranging from opera companies to the best of Broadway and Hollywood. Not much room for improvement there. Would sort of hate to think a fee might be charged to continue seeing them.

As a matter of fact, most people figured they bought the right to see the best the television industry could offer when they made their down-payment on a TV set, and began supporting their repairman on the side.

Now To Develop The Processing Plants

Prospects for more processing plants in Eastern Carolina were kicked up another notch with the appointment of an engineering and marketing economist to work with farmers and fishermen in this area in developing processing and marketing centers for the raw materials they produce.

The eastern part of the state produces large quantities of farm produce and seafoods. It processes and markets only a small fraction of what it produces. The major portion of North Carolina's farm and seafood produce is transported to other areas for processing, distribution and marketing.

Some progress has been made in the development of processing plants in this area, but it has been extremely slow. With the appointment of a new engineer and economist to work in this field, the Department of Conservation and Development will put more emphasis on this phase of industrial development. That in itself will stimulate more emphasis toward the same goal from individual communities in the east.

From the standpoint of transportation, power, labor and capital, there is no reason for the produce from North Carolina's fields and waters to be transported into other states for processing. The job can be done equally well at home with the individual communities of this section of the state reaping not only the benefits of growing the crops and catching the fish but also the benefits of more plants and more jobs in those plants.

The Department of Conservation and Development cannot do the job by itself. The degree of success this new undertaking enjoys will depend largely upon the response given the program by individual citizens and communities in the eastern section of the state.

item in agricultural areas, fell by 8 per cent from last year's levels.

The future looks bright for the consumer, but not for the producer, according to Ikes' truth-bringer. Hog prices have slumped by 18 per cent because of increased slaughter. More cattle have been fed for marketing, presaging lower beef prices in forthcoming months. Broilers, poultry, turkeys and eggs are down by about 10 per cent. Corn and other feed grains are selling for 6 per cent less than they brought a year ago.

Farmers are not "going broke," for they had their years of plenty during the postwar period. But Arthur P. Burns, Ike's chief economic adviser, is concerned over this decline on such an important sector of the economy. He recalls that the long and corroding agricultural slump in the early and middle 20's contributed to the 1929 crash.

NATURAL GAS CONTROVERSIES - Official statistics on the cost of producing, transporting and distributing natural gas seem to disprove charges that freeing the interstate producers of Federal regulation would result in gouging of retail consumers in and throughout the country. It is one of the most bitter sectional and politico-economic controversies on Capitol Hill, splitting Party lines.

The official breakdown reveals that the producer receives less than 10 per cent of the actual retail price, depending on the distance of the consuming center from the wells in the South and Southwest. For Washington, D. C., for instance, here is the cost allocation for 1,000 cubic feet:

The actual charge to the consumer is $1.37. Of that amount, 12 cents goes to the producer, 29 cents to the pipeline transporters, and 96 cents to the local distributors. In New York the total cost is $2.08, divided as follows: Producer, 8 cents, 23 cents to the transporter, and $1.77 to distribution. In Minneapolis, where the hauling distance is less, the 32-cent retail charge includes 10 cents to the producer, 22 cents to pipelines, and 50 cents to distributors.

As is true in so many other fields, these figures suggest that the New Dealish "regulators" are stronger on politics than on economics. Even a 20 per cent increase in the producers' charges would have only a minor effect on retail prices.

Gift Of Sight Easy To Make

Yesterday the subject of the eye bank came up and it occurred to me that it's been several years since I wrote about it.

At the time I was inspired by an address by Dr. Melvin Hoot, who was then in charge of the bank in this area. Since then the duties have been turned over to Dr. E. W. Larkin.

It's almost an understatement to say that the eye bank program is one of the most wonderful in operation today. By simply signing an official form, you may will your eyes, giving sight to two people who are totally blind. Because of the demand for eyes, no person gets two. Therefore, you have the opportunity to give sight to two people!

Naturally time is a big factor. In order to get the best results from the transplanted eyes, they must be removed and put on cold storage within a few hours after death. In our case the State Highway Patrol will rush the eyes to Winston-Salem, where there's someone always standing by to receive eyes. This does not mean that all of the recipients are from Winston. They come to the center from all sections of the state and wait for eyes when their name gets to the top of the list.

All of the work is done without charge. Ridgeway Opticians donate glass eyes to replace those removed.

There are many types of blindness that may be conquered by transplanting of eyes. People blinded by accidents or disease may have their sight restored. In order to be effective for reuse the eyes must be transplanted within 24 hours. However, experiments are underway on a new method to make them transplantable as late as a month after removal.

If you are interested in giving sight to someone who is now blind you may pick up necessary forms at Dr. E. W. Larkin's office on W. Third Street. It's important to impress upon your family that you are making this move and it's your wish that your eyes be donated. There have been cases in some localities that the families have refused to comply with the will although they could have been forced to if there were time or inclination to take the matter to court.

What would you leave your fellow man that would be more valuable than eyesight?

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE NEW BUDGET AND THE RECREATION PROGRAM

One of the items in the new $2,051,470.30 budget now under consideration by the City Council calls for an outlay of $97,205.68 for the Recreation Department. This item has come in for criticism by Councilman Charlie Taylor because of its size. He thinks that is too much to spend for recreation.

The Recreation Department operates as a separate entity, getting a lump sum budget and using it to best advantage and staying within its confines each year. The only cutting the City Council can do is in the overall figure. It is natural that the Council members should look closely at all departmental expenditures—that is their function at budget time.

The rise in the Recreation Department's budget was inevitable in view of the fact that the new Fairfield Recreation Center was pressed into service—without a maintenance budget—in February of the current fiscal year.

The County Board of Commissioners, in appropriating some $65,000 for one-half of the original cost, made it clear that maintenance would fall on the City. The rapid and full usage of the building, plus the manifold activities at the adjacent park area have made the supervision a full-time job. This had to be provided for in the new budget and that accounts for most of the rise in the budget.

The record of Kinston's investment in public recreation is not only good, but it has had approval of the electorate. In 1952 the vote was 1,275 to 208 for an item in a bond election for recreation facilities. That was the last public expression of approval, but it is not the only one which supports the current high investment in recreation in Greater Kinston.

Law enforcement authorities have been loud in their praise in the reduction in juvenile delinquency during the past decade. Kinston is one of the few cities in the State or the Nation in which such delinquency is on the decline. He Du Pont Company brought its vast Dacron Plant here because of the fine public recreation program and other advantages. The leisure time of the people is expanding and eventually it will be much more than it is now. The time is at hand when there will be greater need for more parks and playgrounds—instead of fewer. A public golf course is sorely needed.

Mr. Taylor's questioning of public recreation expenditures was more in the vein of assuring the City its money's worth than it was a condemnation of the fine program here. That questioning should be regular and periodic. It is a check and balance against waste and inefficiency. But the record of public recreation is a good one which merits the support and confidence of the public. It is a program which must be continued on a basis which will include the growing recreational needs of all our people.

Sales Drive Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER
Great new advertising and selling drives may result from the "supplementary unemployment compensation" provisions in the new union contracts in the auto industry. The drives may be stronger outside the industry than in it.

Many industries have sharp seasonal swings in sales and these lead to seasonal layoffs in production with layoffs during off seasons. The success of the auto workers in winning a semi-demi-annual wage is sure to make workers in other seasonal industry seek similar benefits. And the best way to head off such demands is to provide year-round employment, and the only way to do that is to gain year-round sales. Thus there will be tremendous campaigns to keep products moving in what would otherwise be dull seasons.

But year-round sales are practically impossible for some products. Ice skates, for instance. Many companies making purely seasonal sellers will therefore add contra-seasonal lines. The ice-skate makers may start making roller skates, too — or beach umbrellas. And as they extend their lines, they will have to launch new advertising and selling campaigns.

The situation in the auto industry is slightly different. In theory, the companies that have agreed to set up funds for lay-off benefits do not worry about layoffs. They have plenty of money and if those companies should abolish seasonal layoffs, the unions would insist that the funds be used for something else. So having paid for the privilege of laying off men, why not take advantage of it?

That's theory only. In actual practice, if layoffs get worse—or even continue at rates of recent years—organized workers will demand larger and longer benefits. So the companies will certainly work harder to iron out the seasonal wrinkles.

There will be stronger drives to sell cars in what are now dull seasons. There may be a staggering of new models, with new low-priced models being introduced in the winter, middle-bracket models in the spring, and high-priced cars in the fall. And some companies may try the long-discussed perpetual ownership plan. Under this plan, the buyer gets a new car and pays monthly installments. Once a year or every two years, the company delivers a brand new car and takes away the old one. The installments, of course, continue. If replacements could be arranged for slow months it might help solve the layoff problem.

The union contracts have other far-reaching possibilities. Some of them will be discussed here in the next few days.

Behold, Our Daydreams Shrink

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone reflections of a Pavement Plato: One trouble with life is a fellow gets too old to feel at ease while wearing a Davy Crockett hat in public. He no longer can openly act out his daydreams.

So his fantasies go underground in his mind. And they stay there, itching him mentally, for years and years.

In time they gradually grow smaller and smaller in scale. Haven't you noticed you remember when maybe you dreamed of running into a burning building and rescuing a beautiful lady? Or of robbing a great liner in mid-ocean and escaping by motor boat. Or of finding $100,000 in the street?

Today none of those daydreams flicker through your head. They don't even make sense as daydreams after 40.

If the loveliest woman in the world leaned her head out the window of a flaming dwelling, I'd merely stand there on the pavement and help her yell "Help!" I know my limitations. I wouldn't run up a flight of steps now to rescue anything except my social security card—and it would have to be in terrible peril at that.

In middle age a man no longer pictures himself in his daydreams as a great hero or a great rascal. He realizes he no longer has the desire—or energy—to be either.

His dreams of glory come down to small daily drama. A which he sees himself mastering some ordinary social situation that has always frustrated him before. For example, he has just got a haircut. The barber holds up a perfunctory mirror and says, "Okay?"

For 500 times in a row in the last 20 years the victim has meekly murmured, "Uh—uh," and paid. But in his daydream he suddenly rebels and says: "No, it certainly isn't okay, Tony. You got it parted wrong. They're at least 8 hairs too long on the right side. And I told you to lift the sideburns, and you didn't. Want me to look like a sheeppod? Now get out your scissors and do the job right—for once!" The abashed barber bends anew to his task. When he is finished, our little hero steps from his chair with a crisp, "That's better!" As he swaggers from the shop the other customers break into admiring applause.

Or suppose you are on a bus making the long voyage home. The driver says "Piez-moovebackinabuss, movebackinabuss," and you try to. And a fat lady says, "Who you shovin' Gargantua?" Instead of subsiding in mumbling apologetic apology, you sing out loud and clear:

"Out of my way fat lady. I'm going to get to the back of the bus if I have to carve my way through a wall of living, flesh-and-I do mean your flesh!"

Well, the driver stops the bus. Tears streaming down his cheeks he comes back, shakes your hand, and mutters, "Pal pal—after all these years, somebody done it at last. Somebody moved upinabackinabuss."

I have two simple daydreams myself. In one I am cashing my paycheck and the bank teller asks, "Do you have any identification with you?" Instead of fumbling through my pockets, I merely fix him with a pair of steel blue eyes and tell him coldly, "My face is my identification in this life, sonny." He takes one hurried look—and cashes the check pronto.

In the other I go with a guest into one of the velvet rope restaurants, and when the headwaiter smoothly asks if I have a reservation, I tell him:

"Me have a reservation? Look, mister, I don't even own an Indian. Now quit stalling, and show us a table."

Overcome by this bit of swift repartee, the humbled headwaiter drops his velvet rope and steers us to the best seats in the place.

In another variation of this daydream I merely take out a Boy Scout knife back the rope in two, and stalk right by the headwaiter as nearby guests look up and ask, "Who is he? Who is he?"

Around Capitol Square

New Year's Day, Next Friday, Around State Offices

By LYNN NISBET

NEW YEAR — Friday of next week will be New Year's Day around Capitol square and at State agencies and institutions based elsewhere. The fiscal year and the biennium for which the General Assembly of 1953 made appropriations will end at midnight June 30. That happens every two years, but it is a little bit different this time.

It has been the custom for agencies and departments which have not spent all the money appropriated to speed up buying during the final weeks, because any balances must revert to the general fund account. Unexpended money cannot be carried over into another year, as can be done at the mid-biennium period.

Months ago, anticipating decreased revenue and continually growing needs, the Director of the Budget warned the department heads that no acceleration would be permitted this year, that in fact they should cut even closer to the bone than usual.

The recent General Assembly in making appropriations for the next two years took into account this unexpended amount, as best it could be estimated, and re-appropriated it.

Furthermore, the reorganization bills enacted into law require the abandonment of some projects, consolidation of functions in several departments and expansion of activities in a few. All of this makes the upcoming New Year's Day more significant than usual and means a busy time around State offices for the next week.

Most of the new tax schedules become effective next Friday, and the revenue department is already adjusting manpower and facilities to take care of the extra work load.

The New Year Day will be dramatically celebrated by the mass swearing in of 15 Superior Court judges by Chief Justice Barnhill. Never before has the oath been simultaneously administered to as many judges, and the entire judiciary of the State has been invited to participate.

PROCESsing — By creating a new position of engineering and marketing economist and selecting W. A. (Bill) Ellison for the job the Department of Conservation and Development takes another step toward keeping a larger share of the consumer price for seafoods in North Carolina. Ellison will work primarily in commercial fisheries in processing, packaging and marketing seafoods, but it is stated there will be close cooperation with the agriculture marketing division. In many instances the same plants and personnel can be used for processing seafoods, poultry and vegetable products.

For many years it has been recognized that North Carolina has suffered tremendous economic loss by shipping out raw materials while other States reaped major profits for processing. So far that much has been done about it. The marketing division in the Department of Agriculture, the Extension service at State College and other agencies have accomplished a lot, but there is still many times as much spent to encourage production as to aid in processing and marketing. Major contribution in this field has been by private enterprise.

The State has through the years spent millions of dollars to conserve and restore seafood resources, but until now practically nothing—and even now pitifully little—toward keeping profits accruing between salt water and the dinner table at home. The outlook is a little bit brighter.

Cooperation and coordination efforts among the departments of agriculture and C&D, the Little Point IV "Operation Bootstrap" now being promoted by Capus Waynick and to be taken over in about six months by C&D, and the new industrial development corporation sponsored by Governor Hodges, can and might result in making North Carolina seafoods as well known and relatively as profitable as North Carolina pickles, kraut, furniture and textiles.

POTPOURRI — The calendar and the thermometer, which have been feuding for three months, finally got together. Temperature of 85 degrees in March and 45 in June testified to the feud. Wednesday was officially the first day of summer and thermometers registered around 90 degrees. (Shakespeare and the modernists don't agree on the first of summer business. Esther Would See Everybody In Swim

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Esther Williams launched a campaign this week to get America into the swim. "People ought to swim more," she argues. "Not only so they'll be safe in the water, but because it's healthful and fun, too."

European audiences, she said, are used to seeing shows "in the round."

"So that is how we'll do our show," she said. It will have three rings—a round, 100-foot diameter swimming pool made of fibreglass; another pool of transparent plastic for diving and underwater ballet; a stage for 'dry' acts.

Said Considering Benefit Tax Hike

Democrats were reported considering the social security tax to pay for today a future 1 per cent hike in the social security tax to pay for the new benefits they want to give older women and disabled workers.

House Ways and Means committee members were armed with this estimate of the more unpleasant, "how to pay for it" side of the Democratic-sponsored plan as they went into a fourth straight day of closed sessions.

The Democratic majority has already tentatively approved proposals to lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women can receive social security benefits and to allow low payments at any age to workers under the system who become totally disabled.

Committee sources said the group has heard from government specialists that the changes would eventually cost the social security program nearly $2,200,000,000 a year and require about a 1 per cent hike—one half per cent each on the worker and employer—in the social security tax rate.

Payments into the social security fund now come mainly from a 2 per cent tax paid by the worker on his income up to $4,200 a year plus an equal amount paid by the employer. Under present law this combined 4 per cent, still to be split half and half, is due to go up to 5 per cent in 1960 and another 1 per cent every five years thereafter until reaching 8 per cent in 1975.

Thus an added 1 per cent from the Democratic-proposed changes would boost the percentages that much all along the line until it reached 9 per cent in 1975, 4 1/2 per cent each for worker and employer. The committee was reportedly told that the extra 1 per cent would certainly have to go into effect by Jan. 1, 1958, and probably by Jan. 1, 1957, if the social security fund isn't to go into the red.

Endorse Studies On Local Level

RALEIGH (AP)—Studies on the local level of problems arising from the U. S. Supreme Court's school segregation decision are the first recommendation of the state's new Advisory Committee on Education.

After a lengthy meeting with Gov. Hodges and Atty. Gen. Harry McMillan, the committee said yesterday the people of North Carolina are faced with grave problems. It named them as "whether and how the public school system of this state can be preserved."

The committee, named by Gov. Hodges earlier this week, promised to direct its major effort to the solution of the problems. It added that much more study, thought and discussion and more factual and legal information will be needed before it can make detailed recommendations.

As a start, it recommended that each administrative school unit "as soon as may be practicable, make a thorough study of the varied local problems" in its district resulting from the court decision. It also suggested that each school unit "seek the factual information necessary to the elucidating, assessing and solving these problems."

The committee requested that it be advised "of the progress and of the result" of the local studies. The recommendations were included in the committee's initial report to the governor. The last Legislature authorized the group to give continuing study to the segregation issue.

The report twice used phrases from the May 31 U. S. Supreme Court's decision. The high court, in its implementation decree, said putting the decree into effect "may require solution of varied local school problems." School authorities have the primary responsibility "for elucidating, assessing and solving these problems," the court added.

The last Legislature, following the recommendation of an earlier segregation study committee, gave local school authorities the responsibility for assigning pupils to schools and to school buses. Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount, who headed the advisory committee named by the late Gov. William B. Umstead, is chairman of the new group. Its members are: W. T. Joyner of Raleigh, E. O. Huffman, Morganton, State Sens. Luskford Crew of Halifax and William Medford of Wayneville and State Reps. M. Cloyd Philpott of Lexington and Ed Yarborough of Louisville.

Revival Services To Begin Sunday

A series of evangelistic services will begin at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church Sunday night and continue through Friday night of that week. The hour for the services each evening is 8:00 p.m. Mr. Daniel E. Crutch from Washington, N.C. will conduct the services. There will be a congregational song service each evening in addition to special music.

The meeting will close on Friday night with a special service for the reception of new members into the fellowship of the church. The public is cordially invited to participate in these services.

Boom Sights Raised As Confidence Strengthens

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—Once more the sights are being raised on the business boom. This time business is feeding on its own growing confidence.

Consumers led the way with purchases that more than made up for the drop in government spending for defense. Now industrial leaders are aiming higher than a few months back and their spending for new plants and modernized equipment is pushing general prosperity to new peaks.

Summer with its heat and vacations may slow the economy down for a spell. But now, almost daily, come reports of new records in autos, steel, aluminum machine tool ordering, shoe making, construction, incomes, stock prices in industrial output in general.

Businessmen's own spending is now backing up the gains in consumer spending, the Department of Commerce reports. Fed by higher incomes, the willingness of Americans in general to spend more this year has given businessmen the confidence necessary to plan for increased capacity to produce.

General Motors, for example, has just announced a new $500 million dollar expansion program for more floor space, new machine tools and presses.

The Commerce and Labor Departments join in boosting their previous guesses on total construction expenditure this year. They now think the total will come to about 42 billion dollars, a record for any year, and at least 11 per cent above last year's mark, the previous record. About 21 per cent more will be spent for new homes this year. The departments note "a trend toward larger and more expensive homes."

Spending on new commercial buildings will be up 30 per cent, on industrial plants up 8 per cent, and on private utilities up 4 per cent.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce is even more optimistic than the two government departments. It sees the speedup in construction assuring that current good times will last well into 1956.

Some solid backing for the optimism comes from current industrial reports. Steel masters this week are turning out the greatest tonnage of any year in history. Blast furnaces making pig iron also report a record—the steel-making ingredient poured from the furnaces in May at a record total of 6,804,935 net tons.

Aluminum is selling so well that the Office of Defense Mobilization says demand will top supply this summer, even though 200 million pounds is being diverted from shipment to the government stockpile.

Auto makers have already turned out their four millionth new car this year. In their previous record year it took them until August to reach that mark. In the stock market new all-time highs are being set regularly of late.

How long can it last? Some caution against overconfidence. One, Henry H. Heimann executive vice president of the National Assn. of Credit Men, warns: "One mistake that could set us back for quite some time would be to assume that business can continue without pause at its present high speed. Or that the stock market can go in only one direction—up. Or that debt is limitless."

New Bern Takes CPL Lead

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

On the basis of their eight losses, the least defeats had by any team in the league, New Bern's Bobbies have taken hold on first place in the Coastal Plain.

Acting Manager Ed Woody's club had a 13-8 won-lost mark going into last night's game with Rocky Mount. The tilt was a rescheduled game that was originally to be played Wednesday night but was postponed because of the conflict with the Archie Moore-Bobo Olson fight.

Farmville, with the most wins in the league, holds down second place with a 15-10 mark. Manager Bill Kennedy's nine won over Falkland Wednesday night by a 13 to 7 count.

Roy Vick got 13-hit support as he pitched the win, allowing seven scattered hits. It was Vick's first win against one loss.

Harry Jordan started on the hill for Falkland but was immediately shelled and replaced by Ken Hall. The latter also got into trouble and Bob Lilly had to finish up.

Big First
Falkland pushed across four runs in the top half of the first but Farmville bounced back to score three in the bottom half of the same stanza. Farmville added seven runs in the third to drive Falkland into total submission.

Streeter Tugwell, rampaging left-fielder, led the winners' hitting with four hits in five at bats. His knocks included two triples and two singles. Sam Stell and Sandy Sanderson had three hits for Farmville.

Only one Falkland man got more than one hit. Peck Stokes had two for five.

Meanwhile, Greenville was getting pushed farther behind the leaders in the race. Williamston's James Perry shut the locals out on two hits for a 6 to 0 defeat. Perry, an All-State high schooler, struck out 16 Greenies and didn't allow a man to reach first until Earl Tripp singled in the eighth. Blaney Moyer touched Perry for another single in the ninth. No Greenie ever reached second.

6-Hit Loss
James Pollard pitched a fine six-hitter but it had to take a back seat to the performance of Perry. Williamston's Perry was the only man to get two hits off the local right-hander.

Greenville engages Rocky Mount in two games over the weekend. The Leafs will come into Guy Smith Stadium Sunday and the Greenies are in Rocky Mount Saturday night.

Manager Frank Johnson has named Norman Gay to pitch against the locals Saturday and Stack Parker on Sunday. Johnson's club will be at top strength with the addition of Gene Hooks at third base.

Manager Pete Carraway of the Greenies will probably go with Bobby Coggins in Rocky Mount and send Bobby Flye to the mound here Sunday.

The Greenies will be out to snap a three-game losing skid and get back in the fight for top position. Two weeks ago the Greenies led the pack. Bobby Clark, hardhitting outfielder who has been leading the locals at the plate, has returned from National Guard camp and should bolster the locals' attack.

Flashy Fighter ..... by Pap'

Ralph Dupas is rated the No. 1 contender for the world lightweight championship, but his manager, Whitey Esneault, is in no rush to get him in the ring against champion Jimmy Carter. The New Orleans youngster is a brilliant boxer, but he is only 19. Esneault wisely figures Dupas needs more experience. Ralph is a fine fighter at this stage, and with added experience, could become a great fighter.

Dupas has a puzzling style and dazzling speed. He darts in and out, relying on his great speed of foot and hand to score points. Naturally, he isn't a killing puncher because he seldom gets set for a finishing punch. And there's a lot he has to learn about the art of in-fighting. Two of Ralph's most impressive victories this year were scored at the expense of Cisco Andrade and Frankie Ryff. Ryff, you may re-

Seixas' Ailing Shoulder Dims Wimbledon Outlook

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Vic Seixas' ailing shoulder and the decaying center court cast shadows today over the Wimbledon lawn tennis championship.

Seixas hoped overnight treatment would take the pain out of his powerful serving arm. The Philadelphia planned a morning workout on a back court to see if he could again make overhead shots.

If he so, he and his Davis Cup doubles partner, Cincinnati's Tony Trabert, will take the court against a young British pair—Bobby Wilson and Tony Pickard.

The match was postponed a day to give Seixas an additional rest for his shoulder. He injured the muscle two weeks ago, playing in the French championships.

If Seixas and Trabert top-seeded doubles pair in the tournament, are forced to scratch, much of the glamor will be gone from the Wimbledon competition.

And if Seixas' injury proved serious, it would be a tremendous loss to United States' chances of retaining the Davis Cup this autumn.

Seixas already has been eliminated from the Wimbledon singles, losing to Gil Shea, of Los Angeles, two days ago.

As for Wimbledon's faded center court, the question is whether the ground keepers can patch it up to last through the tournament, which still has a week to run.

The ground around both base lines is breaking up. And there are bare patches in the grass at the base lines and around the net. One match on the center court was called off yesterday.

Martinez Meets Varona Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Third-ranked welterweight Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., is an 8-5 favorite for his 10-round scrap tonight with the tough - punching Cuban, Chico Varona.

Both are itching to meet the new welter king, Carmen Basilio.

It will be Martinez' first 1955 start. He has contended that a dispute with the Boxing Managers' guild prevented him from getting fights.

The bout will be televised nationally (NBC) from the War Memorial Auditorium.

Martinez sized up Varona yesterday as "very underestimated. He's a tough kid. He takes a very good punch and he's a good puncher with either hand."

Varona's manager, Jack Friday, commented: "It'll be a terrific fight if Martinez will stay in there and throw punches. Chico will beat him if Vince really wants to fight."

Varona, who came to New York from Havana, has been sparring with ex-welter champion Johnny Saxton. He had a light workout yesterday. He has won 65 of his professional bouts, 42 by knockouts, losing 19 and drawing in three. Martinez has won 40 of his 43 pro fights, 22 by knockouts. He has won 13 straight since he lost to Danny Giovannelli in May, 1953.

Rampaging Sox Are Just Having A Little Fun

BOSTON (AP)—Boston's torrid Red Sox, on the threshold of the American League first division with 14 wins in 16 games, are "having a little fun," the may manager Mike Higley tells.

But the Sox opponents aren't enjoying themselves at all. Take Detroit, which arrived Tuesday three games ahead of Boston in fourth place. After a three-game Red Sox sweep, the Tigers hold a .001 percentage edge.

No single factor brought about the meteoric rise of the Red Sox but Ted Williams deserves much of the credit. Since returning to the lineup May 28 he has hit .387 with nine home runs, two triples, eight doubles, 24 runs batted in, scored 20 runs and drawn 20 walks.

In addition, he has given valuable batting tips to the younger members of the club which have paid off.

In the Detroit series he:
1. Hit a three-run homer that beat the Tigers 5-4 in the first game.

2. Clubbed three doubles in the second game for two RBIs and scored twice in a 12-7 win.

3. Got a single and three key walks before retiring for a pinch runner in the sixth as the Sox blanked the Tigers 7-0 on tall Frank Sullivan's two-hitter.

Though pained severely recently with a sore back, Williams is hustling like never before. He's making fine catches in left field and even stolen a base.

His enthusiasm is catching. The Sox have been getting solid pitching lately. Suddenly, shortstop Billy Klaus, hitting .299, flowered batting ahead of Ted while right-handers Jackie Jensen and rookie Norm Zauchin cut loose behind him.

Right-handed batters are important in Fenway Park with its friendly left field wall but the team hasn't had real long ball hitting from that side of the plate since 1950.

Zauchin broke loose May 27—the night before Williams returned—for three home runs and a double against Washington. Since then he has tagged nine of his 13 homers. Jensen has 14 home runs and 51 RBIs.

Yesterday, while Williams was being given three walks, Jensen hit a grand slam homer, Zauchin a four-bagger with a mate aboard and Klaus, stretching his hitting streak to 12 games, singled in the other run.

"We're having a little fun," Higley grins. "Let the other guys worry for a change—that's the way we like it."

It's no picnic to pitch to the Sox' newfound power. Only three pitchers have gone the distance against Boston since May 26 and only one of them—Cleveland's Ray Narleskie—won.

The Sox came from nowhere to a virtual tie for fourth place as they enter a four-game series with second-place Chicago tonight.

Orioles Traded Top Stars

The Exchange infield was certainly behind Larry Roberts yesterday as he pitched his team to a 21-0 win over the Elks. They are left to right: third baseman Jeff Fountain, who smacked a home run; shortstop Jackie Harrington, who got four hits; Billy James, the regular second baseman who caught yesterday and got four hits; and first baseman Charles Taft, who scored twice. This infield played errorless ball in the field.

Exchangites Slam 16 Hits, Two Homers in 21-0 Win

Pounding out sixteen hits and two home runs, the Exchange club of the Tar Heel League mauled the Elks team 21-0 yesterday afternoon in Little League play.

The Exchange scored in four of the five times at bat. Nine runs in the fifth inning was their most explosive frame. Larry Roberts and Jeff Fountain contributed a home run apiece. Three players got four hits each for the Exchange. Billy James, Jackie Harrington, and Larry Roberts all smacked out four hits in five times at bat.

Roberts went all the way on the mound to record the win. The young fireballer gave up only one hit in pitching another shutout. The hit was a bunt single by shortstop Gene Briley. The Exchange played errorless ball in the field.

Rick Sauve, Tommy Whichard, and Bill Greene were all smacked for base hits by the Exchange. They were the only three pitchers used by Coach Tom Rowlette.

NCAA Tennis Meet Shows Many Upsets

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The National Collegiate Tennis Tournament moved into its semifinal rounds here today with the top-seeded players in the doubles and singles eliminated.

The big match set today was in the singles where fifth-seeded Bill Quillian of the University of Washington was to meet Pancho Contreras of Southern California, eighth seeded. The other match pitted Jose Aguero of Tulane against Jacque Grigory of Southern California.

The doubles pairings sent Mark Jaffe and Barry MacKay of Michigan against Contreras and Joaquin Reyes of Southern Cal, and James Read and Craig Garman of UCLA against Sammy Giammalva and Johnny Hernandez of Texas.

The first-seeded players in both divisions were stopped in yesterday's quarter-final action. Quillian, a quarter-finalist in the 1954 tournament, staged the biggest upset, stopping Giammalva, the No. 1 seed, 6-8, 6-3, 8-6.

Lucian Bryan started on the mound for the Olds and received credit for the win. Bob Edwards relieved Bryan in the fifth with the bases loaded and one out. Edwards struck out the next two batters to get out of the trouble.

Bryan allowed only two hits in the game. Four walks and seven errors by his teammates kept him in constant trouble, however. Albert Crawford went all the way on the

Woodling, Byrd, Turley Produce For Other Teams

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

If Baltimore Manager Paul Richards. The Boston's whipped Detroit players he has traded away, he can call it "Poor Richards' Diary."

Give a look. Richards, who doubles as general manager for the last-place Orioles after leaving the pennant-contending Chicago White Sox, has palmed off, among others, pitchers Bob Turley and Harry Byrd and outfielder Gene Woodling.

Woodling, traded to Cleveland last week, really boomeranged. He got 4-for-4 and batted in four runs as the Indians' trounced the Orioles 9-2 yesterday.

Byrd, a 30-year-old right-hander bundled off to the White Sox nine days ago, gave just four hits and blanked Washington 7-0. It was his second victory in two starts since leaving the Orioles.

And Turley, the young fireballer who was with New York's Yankees in an 18-player deal that whipped Woodling and Byrd to Baltimore last winter, fanned six, walked just one and shut out Kansas City on three singles 3-0.

The other American League game was won by the Boston Red Sox without any help from Richards. The Boston's whipped Detroit 7-0 behind Frank Sullivan's two-hitter moving to within one percentage point of the fourth-place Tigers.

The results—with each winner sweeping a three-game series—left the Yanks out front by two games over the White Sox, who in turn were two ahead of Cleveland. Boston and Detroit are both 10 games behind New York.

In the national, first-place Brooklyn was won by the Boston Yankees, dropping the Philadelphia Yanks by winning 7-4. The Cubs, in second place since May 25, slipped one percentage point behind idle Milwaukee.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 7-1 in the only other game scheduled, dropping the Philadelphia Yanks to behind idle Cincinnati.

Woodling, who Richards had hoped would give the Orioles a big bat but hit only .221 in 47 games, now is batting .444 for Cleveland in six games. The Indians had 15 hits for the second straight day in Baltimore, pitching while Bob Feller tossed a four-hitter for his second victory of the year.

Only one Washington runner reached second against Byrd, who had a 3-2 record in 14 games with Baltimore. The White Sox got 7 of their 11 hits off loser Camilo Pascual. Nellie Fox doubled home the first two Chicago runs in the third.

Turley was wild as he is fast on most occasions, held off until the eighth inning before giving his lone walk. He retired the first 15 men he faced, fanning the first four. Bobby Shantz was the only Detroit hit off Sullivan.

The only Detroit hits off Sullivan were doubles, by Bill Tuttle and pinch hitter Ferris Fain, as the big right-hander made his record 9-6. Boston, zipping along with 14 victories in the last 16 games, romped in on a grand-slam homer by Jackie Jensen and a two-run clutch by Norb Zauchin. Ted Williams was walked three times and singled in his only official trip.

Brooklyn kept winning as bases-loaded singles by Pee Wee Reese and Gil Hodges scored four runs in the seventh to overhaul the Cubs and loser Sam Jones. Unbeaten Clem Labine won his sixth with help from Karl Spooner.

The Cards had 12 hits off loser Herb Wehner and two relievers, including homers by Wally Moon and Bill Virdon. Rookie Floyd Woodriddle scattered seven hits, giving the Phils just one after the fifth.

God and the Nations

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Zephaniah 3

The prophet Zephaniah lived at a time of great corruption in Judah, before Josiah's reign. He prophesied that because of these sins the Lord would utterly destroy the nations and all created things.

Jerusalem, stormed Zephaniah, is filthy and polluted, her princes are corrupt and oppressive; her prophets are light and treacherous persons, and her priests have polluted the sanctuary and done violence to the law of God.

After the destruction, Zephaniah foretold, the Lord would turn again to His people, purify their language, that they might call on His Name to serve Him and bring to Him their offerings.

"Sing, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart. The Lord hath taken away thy judgments, and is with thee. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 67:4.

God and the Nations

AFTER ZEPHANIAH'S WARNINGS, BLESSED REST ON ISRAEL'S PEOPLE

Scripture—Zephaniah 3

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THE PROPHET ZEPHANIAH was a young man in the time of Judah's worst period of corruption, before the reign of good king Josiah. His book is short, only three chapters, but it is very forceful. He did not mince words with his erring people, but in the most graphic language described to them what the outcome of their sinning would be, for he felt that the Lord was very angry with His people, and not only with them, but with all nations.

prophet of doom sees after his denunciations, if the people would only be true to their God and put away wickedness! "Sing, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem. The Lord hath taken away thy judgments, He hath cast out thine enemy, the king of Israel, even the Lord, is in the midst of thee; thou shalt not see evil any more."

People may be very ill of a disease which can only be overcome by having an operation. After that they may be in fine health and happy again. So Zephaniah may be said to have cured his people by an operation, or at least with warnings of painful things to come.

Later, this was true of Israel. The people did give up their iniquitous ways of life and turn back to the Lord, and were blessed. So it may be with all of us if we, too, turn to God and live so as to deserve His blessings. We may not be wicked people—worshipping idols instead of our God of love, but don't many of us, large or small, have our idols judgment to light, He fasteth not, but the unjust knoweth no shame."

MEMORY VERSE

"O let the nations be glad, and sing for joy for Thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth."—Psalm 67:4.

whom we unconsciously put before our Father in Heaven? Little girls may have their hearts set on being better and more smartly dressed than their classmates or playmates, forgetting to show the consideration due these other youngsters. Boys may make sports and the winning of games the most important thing in their lives. Sports should, of course, be part of every normal youngster's life, but not to the extent that unless their team wins they are not good sports who play fairly and take the results in good part.

All nations should be cut off, said Zephaniah, the Lord's prophet; their streets would be made waste and desolate. The cities would be destroyed. After all the earth was "devoured with the fire of My jealousy," however, Zephaniah declared that "then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve him with one consent."

Men may make idols of making money and business success so that they have no time to be good, thoughtful, companionable husbands and fathers. Women may be too much interested in their clubs, even in their church activities, or social position to the detriment of their families.

"In that day shall thou not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against Me: for then I will take out of the midst of thee them that rejoice in thy pride; and thou shalt no more be haughty because of My holy mountain."

Let us put first things first, separating the important things in our lives from the others; they are important, yes, but not of first importance. Let us humbly ask God to direct our feet, too, into the right paths, and lead us by His clearer vision.

"The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak lies; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth; for they shall be down, and some shall make them afraid."

What lovely, blessed words the Lord has given to His people! Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Summer

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

Farrell wasn't being stubborn. He was a bewildered man, seared out of any power of making decisions that he'd ever had and clinging to the spar of the rules. He shook his lank head regretfully. "Sorry, Kerry. I wouldn't be regular." He turned to move away. Rusty's long arm shot out between the bars.

"I hate to do this, Sheriff, but we just naturally ain't got time to reason with you." One hand, hailing up the cloth of the deputy's shirt front, dragged him close to the bars. The other doubled to a fist, drew back and connected with the point of Farrell's weak chin. The deputy sagged limply, held up only by Rusty's grip on his shirt, while the redhead fumbled for the gun and keys at his belt.

Heavy fists were pounding on the jail door now, angry voices shouting for Farrell to open up. Rusty released his victim and let him fall to the floor. The lamp in his hand shattered with the fall, and the cells were enveloped in blackness. Somehow, the dark made everything seem more ominous. Kerry shivered.

He heard the grating of the key in the lock of Rusty's cell. A moment later, his own door swung open. The pounding and the shouting were growing more violent. "They'll be breakin' the door down soon," Rusty said calmly. "Is there a back way out here Kerry?"

Kerry tried desperately to remember the plan of the jail. "I don't know."

"Well, we better start findin' out."

Necessity gave Kerry strength to stand up. With Rusty's supporting arm about him, they groped their way down the corridor to the sheriff's office. Rusty struck a match, and his small glow revealed

Lacey's spare gun hanging over his desk, and a bolted door in the back wall. Rusty reached for the gun and thrust it into Kerry's hand. "Here, Kerry. You hold the matches while I get that door open."

Kerry leaned against the wall for support, his hand trembling with weakness so he could hardly hold the matches steady. The weight of the gun in his other hand seemed enormous. The shouting outside had died away, and the silence was ominous with possibilities.

Rusty's hands worked at the bolt with a desperate swiftness, but nothing happened. The door probably hadn't been used in years, and the old bolt was practically soldered in place with rust. The redhead wrestled with it like a man in a nightmare. And then the stillness was broken by the thud of a heavy body hurling itself at the door.

They didn't look at each other. The jail was a ramshackle structure that wouldn't withstand many minutes of that furious attack. Rusty threw all his weight on the bolt, as the men outside were throwing theirs at the door. It was a grim race between them. The bolt uttered a protesting screech, gave a painful fraction of an inch—Kerry's eyes were fixed on it chingly—then with a rending crash, the door burst in, and the room was swarming with men.

Rusty whirled tigerishly. Farrell's captured gun covering the leaders of the mob. Kerry gripped the barrel of Lacey's gun with all his strength, only to find it unloaded.

Rusty's gun spat flame—four or five times in quick succession, a sharp cry telling that at least one of them had found a mark. Then it clicked on an empty chamber, and the mob surged forward. Rusty fought like a wild-cat smashing out with his fists in all directions, trying to keep his wily body in front of Kerry like a shield. But the sheer weight of the mob bearing down on him forced him back brought him to his knees. Their bodies hemmed Kerry in, crushing him so he couldn't breathe.

A shot cracked out of the night, from the darkness beyond the fallen door, over the heads of the crowd. In the frozen surprise that held them, a loud voice laid its weight on them. "This is the sheriff! In the name of the law, I'm orderin' every one of you to clear out o' here an' go home peaceable."

As the crowd shifted, Kerry could make out that behind Lacey's heavy figure in the doorway there were others—maybe three, maybe a dozen, it was too dark out there to tell.

As the first edge of the shock wore off someone in the crowd shouted, "You're not givin' no orders here, Farran. We've had enough o' your kind o' law!" A growl from a dozen throats seconded him. "We're takin' the law into our own hands, aren't we, boys?"

"You're taking nothing!" A tall figure crowded Lacey out of the door and fronted the mob alone. "Who's goin' to stop us, Malory? You—an' that bunch o' riders we licked once already today?"

"Feeling your oats aren't you?" Rob's deep resonant voice lashed at them. "Because you came swarming onto my range when my pack was turned—like a bunch of packrats—and killed six better men than you'll ever be, you've got the notion you're men. But you had to be two to one before you got up the nerve to try it, didn't you? And that set you up so, you decided the whole pack of you were big enough and tough enough to take on two men—when one was hurt too bad to fight back! I'm stopping you—because the first one of you that lifts a hand, I'll make him wish he'd never been born!"

It should have been grotesque—one man threatening a mob—but it wasn't. There wasn't a man in the crowd who didn't feel convinced that Rob would do just as he said. He stood there a moment, poised like a taut bow-string, waiting for some move from them—and none came. He rapped out a command. "Get out of my way and let me get to my boy," and they parted before him. He strode across the room and lifted Kerry in his arms. "You all right, Rusty?" he asked shortly as the redhead climbed unsteadily to his feet.

"Yeah." For once, Rusty had run out of words.

"Come on, then, let's go!" When the Broken Spur crew had ridden out, the chastened nesters gathered themselves together

July 1 Premiere For Lost Colony

MAN'EO — What is expected to be the greatest opening in the history of The Lost Colony, will be the 15th season premiere in Water-side Theatre here on Friday evening, July 1. It was started today by R. E. Jordan, general manager of the drama, which has lived longer than any other outdoor production.

"Already we have sold scores of tickets for the opening performance in addition to more than 800 memberships to Roanoke Island Historical Association, each of which represent a season's ticket to any or all showings this year," he said. Jordan pointed out that he expected large attendance of season ticket owners on opening night, due to the fact that The Lost Colony this year with some minor and some major changes will have a new look. In addition to the usual opening night attractions which normally draw a large audience, there will be many new actors in the cast this year, especially principals, and in show business this always attracts attention from those who like to be first nighters.

Director Clifton Britton states that rehearsals have been progressing much better than some had anticipated with several new faces in leading roles.

Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo, a city of 12,000 Europeans and 325,000 Africans has grown from 40 Europeans and 20,000 Africans 40 years ago.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A quiet decline today took the stock market moderately lower in the early afternoon. All sections of the market were gathered in by the decline. Losses went to between 1 and 3 points at the outside with most changes either way small.

Trading never was rushing and hit a pace well under yesterday's 2,900,000 shares traded in a rather mixed market. Selling was spread evenly in the major divisions—steels, rails, motors, rubbers, coppers, airlines, aircrafts, radio—televisions, and chemicals.

This is the sixth straight week of advancing markets. New record high marks have been established with regularity in the last three weeks. Yesterday the Associated Press average of 90 stocks managed to add 30 cents at $172.80, the 11th new record high in 14 sessions.

There were signs yesterday that the market was trying to go down. More losers than gainers were in the list, for example. Today at the start, prices were lower all around and then continued to slip.

A number of large blocks were on the tape initially. Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton yesterday's most active issue off 2 1/2 on a halved dividend, started today on 10,000 shares unchanged at 14 1/2 and within a short time it improved a little.

Du Pont, which gained 3/4 yesterday, opened today on 1,400 shares off 2 at 215. A block of 12,500 shares of Callahan Zinc traded at 3 1/4 up 1/2. Allegheny Corp. 7,000 up 1/2 at 10 1/2. Glidden 10,000 off 1/2 at 41 1/2. General Precision Equipment 8,000 off 3/4 at 58 1/2.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Wag prices irregular. Top of 20.35. Castle Hayne and Rich Square, 20.00 at Tabor City, Shallotte, Beulaville, Dunn, Newton Grove, Nahunta, Clarkton, Warsaw, Whiteville, Bailey Smithfield and Lumberton; 19.75 at Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton, Kenly, Wilson, Jacksonville, Plymouth, Snow Hill, Farmville, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Rocky Mount, Washington.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers weak trading very light, too few sales to quote prices; Raleigh eggs steady following advance of 2 to 4 cents, a large 45. Asheville fryers and broilers unsettled and weak, farm price 26.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs generally steady to 25 higher on all hogs; most choice No 1 to 3's 180, 230 lb butchers 20.25-21.25; a 30 head choice 21.35-21.50; most 240-270 lb 19.25-20.25; 280 - 210 lb 18.50-19.25; heavier weights scarce; most sows 400 lb and lighter 15.00-18.00; a few to 18.50; 400-500 lb 13.50-15.50; weights up to 600 lb down to 12.50; good clearance.

Salable cattle 500; salable calves 200; steers and heifers nominally steady; cows slow, weak to 25 lower; bulls about steady; vealers fully steady; stockers and feeders slow, about steady at the week's decline; a few at the week's advance and steady at the week's decline; a few at the week's advance and steady at the week's decline.

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—High McKenna, 33-year-old insurance executive from Omaha, Neb., is the new president of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

May was 169 votes shy of a majority when Van Richardson, 34, of Greenwood, Miss., polled 748 votes. Richardson released his delegates after the second ballot went the same way. Texas and Alabama swung their support to the Nebraska and other Southern states followed.

Omaha Jaycee Is New President In Hot Election

McKenna swept into office on the third ballot after trailing Edwin H. May Jr., 30, of Hartford, Conn., 1,204-794.

The final vote was 1,450 for McKenna, 1,197 for May. McKenna is an administrative assistant of Mutual of Omaha Insurance Co. He has been granted a year's leave of absence and will move to Tulsa, Okla., to become the first occupant of the "Little White House" just completed for use by national Jaycee presidents.

The new Jaycee president served in World War II as an Air Force captain. He is married and has three children.

The Jaycees also elected 10 vice presidents: Harold J. Salen of Atlanta; Robert E. Cook of Springfield, Ill.; William B. Wolfe of Memphis, Tenn.; Wendell Ford of Owensboro, Ky.; Mike Maloney of Fort Smith, Ark.; Paul Baldwin of J. W. Waverly, Va.; Vic Faust of Delit, Minn.; and James Cashman Jr. of Las Vegas, Nev.

Officially the Jaycee convention, largest in its history, ended last night. Several executive sessions were held today.

Lamar Buckner of Ogden, Utah, the outgoing president, was elected to life membership.

Big Still Found Near Pitt Line

A 200-gallon still and 900 gallons of mash fell victim yesterday to Pitt and Beaufort County ABC officers and an ATU agent.

The still, discovered approximately one mile from the Pitt County line in Beaufort County, was dynamited by the investigators.

Two car radiators were being used for condensers on the still which also was equipped with pressure tank and oil burners. It was not in operation at the time of discovery and no arrests were made.

Participating in the raid were Clyde Stubbs, of the Beaufort ABC office; Pitt ABC officers J. M. Ward and H. B. Lilley and ATU agent Joe Fowler, from New Bern.

Lt. Col. J. D. Bowen To Graduate From Command School

PORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. — Lt. Col. James D. Bowen, son of Mrs. John M. Bowen, 601 W. Main St., Williamston, N.C., will graduate June 24 from the Army's Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Colonel Bowen will complete the school's regular command and general staff officer course and is scheduled for assignment in the Far East.

A member of the ninth postwar class to attend the school, he was instructed in the theory of high command and the techniques of staff officers.

Found Guilty Of Netting, No License

In Magistrate Frank E. Brooks' court last Saturday, Furney Laughinghouse, Rt. 3, Greenville, was found guilty of netting fish in Tar River on June 8 without having proper fishing license.

The magistrate taxed the defendant with $9.50 court costs. Fish and Game Protector Jo Teel was the prosecuting officer.

COTTON BLOSSOMS

George Briley, on the Nobles farm, on the Pactus highway across Tar River, sent a cluster of cotton blossoms to the Daily Reflector. Another farmer sent in cotton blossoms several days ago. Farmers report the crop as well advanced for the last of June.

Merged Retirement Systems Discussed

Nathan H. Yelton of Raleigh, executive secretary of the North Carolina Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement System, speaking at East Carolina College Thursday, advised an audience made up largely of classroom teachers that the proposed consolidation of the state system with Social Security would benefit those concerned in a large majority of cases.

Mr. Yelton's appearance in the McGinnis auditorium on the college campus attracted an audience of approximately 350 men and women from various parts of Eastern North Carolina. His talk gave a detailed analysis of his state retirement system now in effect and of the problems and issues involved in the proposed merger.

He urged that school administrators should provide opportunity for teachers to inform themselves about the proposed consolidation. Classroom teachers, he stated, are affected by the merger in that a vote on the change. Before a fall, it is desirable, he advised, that those concerned should be fully informed about the matter.

A question-and-answer period after the talk gave opportunity for a lively discussion of issues posed by the merger. Many individual cases were presented by members of the audience with requests for analyses by Mr. Yelton.

Careers In Business Get Emphasis At Conference

That interesting and profitable careers in business, particularly in office management, are open today to well-trained young people in this country was emphasized by speakers at a conference held at East Carolina College Thursday. The college department of business education sponsored the event.

Approximately 140 people were present for the program. Included among events were talks by W. E. Hand of Wilmington, comptroller of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co., and Durward T. Roberts, salesman in the Accounting Machines Division of the International Business Education students led by Hurler Simmonds of New Bern, chairman.

Practical, down-to-earth suggestions about choosing a career, obtaining the proper training, and learning the techniques required by the job made the meeting one of the most rewarding conferences to be sponsored by the college business education department in recent years, according to Dr. Elmer R. Browning, director of the department.

Mr. Hand presented a detailed and comprehensive analysis of office procedures in the Atlantic Coastline Railroad Co. He emphasized the type of training which the prospective office worker or manager needs as preparation for his work.

Basing his remarks on eighteen years of experience as an office manager, Mr. Roberts discussed the problems arising in four types of offices, ranging from the small business to the large corporation. Particular attention was given to personnel problems and the use of office machines as aids to efficient operation.

As chairman of a group of students now enrolled in business education courses at East Carolina, Mr. Simmonds led a discussion of business opportunities for young people, job requirements, and training for business careers.

Tobacco Crop In Pitt Reportedly In Good Shape

Tobacco in the county is in good condition as a whole, County Farm Agent Sam Winchester said yesterday.

"We have a better crop than the average of the last four crops at this time of year," Winchester declared. However, he noted that there are some sections of the county in which tobacco has been slower developing than in other areas. That has been true in the Griffon area and in Stokesstown, Winchester declared. Those two areas have had less rain than other sections, he said.

For the entire county the amount of rainfall has been "just about right" with the exception of Stokesstown and the Griffon areas, the county agent said. "Soil moisture conditions are the best they've been in months," he noted.

Damage caused by the storm has been light with the exception of that in the Bethel-Penny Hill area which was hit recently by a devastating tornado. Winchester noted that there was a small spot of hail in the Winterville area some time ago and the Griffonland-Pactus area received some hail.

Some Black Shanty has been reported in the county but "no more than usual," Winchester said. However, more than a normal amount of metametodes has been reported.

Elderly Woman Hurt In Accident

An elderly Negro woman was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital early last night for cuts and abrasions received about 5:30 p. m. near Five Points when she apparently was struck by a car operated by Joseph C. Boyce, Jr., 26, of 911 W. Mumford Road.

Nancy Foreman, of Allen Farm, Route 6, Greenville, was crossing the street when struck. She was taken to the hospital by the Fire Department Rescue Truck. No charges were placed against Boyce by investigating officers James W. Jenkins and R. D. House.

The second accident, which occurred shortly after 9 a. m. yesterday, resulted in property damage to a car operated by Marilyn Jeanne Hengham, 24, of 202 E. Elm Street. Her car sustained damages of $125 at the intersection of E. 2nd and Meade when it was struck by a city-owned motor grader operated by Lloyd L. Coward, 48, of 303 Church Street. No injuries or arrests were reported by investigating officers W. E. Peterson and H. H. McGowan.

Court Recessed In Brief Tribute

In Police Court today, Judge Charles H. Wheabee recessed the Friday morning session for a few moments out of respect to the memory of Clerk E. Johnston Dees' father, Mr. J. E. Dees, who died about 8 a. m. today.

Judge Wheabee said after polling members of the Pitt County Bar Association, it was decided to take a brief memorial recess instead of adjourning court. The docket was unusually heavy, there were witnesses and defendants from distances. Court was resumed shortly after the memorial period.

Capitol Square (Continued from page four) Alvin Hicks Howell of the State Auditor's department discovered the other day a group picture of the freshman class at the University in 1915 (class of 1919). Lots of the fellows he could not identify without recourse to the class roster, but he found a goodly number of VIP's. There is Luther Hodges, presently Governor of North Carolina; Congressman Graham A. Barden and Thurmond Chatham; Raymond Maxwell, secretary State Board of Elections; Harry Davis, director of the State Museum; John H. Fowler, assistant attorney general; J. Y. Jordan, Buncombe legislator; Hugh Dorch, well known Goldsboro attorney, and lots of others. Howell thinks his class will stack up with any that ever graduated from the University in aggregate contribution to leadership in North Carolina.
