Revenue Commissioner Reports Record Collections

General Fund Tax Take Up

RALEIGH (AP)—Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw had cheering news on the state's financial conditions today. He reported that the general fund collected a record total of $189,106,046 during last fiscal year and exceeded by 1 1/2 million dollars the estimates made while the Legislature was working out a budget for this biennium.

Shaw gave these reasons for his optimism: (1) Sales tax collections have exceeded by 1/4 million dollars estimates made about two months ago, (2) individual income tax collections passed the 40 million dollar mark and exceeded the estimates by $150,000, (3) privilege taxes indicate "an increased number of occupational license and exceeded estimates by about $191,000, (4) franchise taxes, which went over estimates by $137,587, reflect "greater investment of capital and gross receipts derived." Shaw said corporation income tax revenues came within about $17,000 of reaching estimates. General fund tax collections for the fiscal year which ended June 30 amounted to $186,401,644, an increase of $5,108,060 over the previous year, Shaw reported. Non-tax revenues are estimated at $2,704,402. The total collections of $189,106,046 compared with the estimate of $187,603,514 made when the Legislature was figuring the budget for the biennium.

The sales tax brought in $58,354,853 for the year, a gain of $2,848,036. Income tax collections for the year showed a drop of $1,725,577 compared with the previous year with the total amounting to $75,610,071. Franchise tax receipts totaled $19,543,044, an increase of $1,112,009. The privilege license tax brought in $6,041,041, up $230,665. During June, the sales tax collections amounted to $4,711,734. This was a gain of $296,470 over June of last year. Income tax collections in June which totaled $3,404,723 showed a drop of $165,615.

Declares Russia Can Count On Honest Negotiations

President Says Trip 'In Good Faith'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Russians can be sure the United States will negotiate in good faith at the Big Four meeting in Geneva. Eisenhower said today that no member of the United States government ever has said the Russians will be in a position of weakness.

The President's remarks at a news conference amounted to a reply to Soviet Communist Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev's Fourth of July denial that the Soviet Union will be negotiating from weakness in the talks. Khrushchev said nothing good can come of the Geneva conference unless the West treats the Soviet Union as an equal.

Eisenhower said he is going to the mid-July conference with very hopeful attitude. But he added, quickly, that American hope will need a good deal of food to nourish it before the hope becomes expectation. The President said he does not expect disarmament to come up at Geneva except that it might be possible to agree on what would be the best channel for conducting disarmament talks. The whole question he said, boils down to getting an armaments inspection system that both sides would accept. On the domestic front, Eisenhower described himself as delighted that the City of Memphis has decided to build an electric power plant. He said that decision will make the Dixon-Yates project unnecessary if it turns out the Memphis plant definitely can and will be built. Eisenhower replied with a "Trinity," indeed, when asked if he regarded as proper the role of Adolph E. Wenzell in the Dixon-Yates project. Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) and some other lawmakers have raised a

U.S. Officials Divided Over Significance

Soviet Moves Split Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP)—A difference of opinion has developed among U.S. officials as to whether Moscow's current peace talk shows that Russia genuinely wants to end the cold war. A majority of policy makers seems to believe such recent Russian gestures as the unprecedented apology for shooting down an American plane means Moscow at least plans to offer concessions aimed at easing East-West tensions.

The Geneva summit conference opening July 18, in the view of these officials, promises to lead to a series of negotiations which could slow down the arms race and make a start toward solving critical European and Far Eastern problems. An evidently smaller group of officials, however, describe this view as dangerously optimistic. They argue that no end to the cold war is in sight and that any concessions Russia may make will be superficial.

Russia's soft talk is explained by them as another and more skillful Soviet maneuver to block German rearmament. Both sides appear to agree on one major point: apparent agricultural difficulties and the arms burden are straining Russia's economy, and so the Kremlin leaders would like a breathing spell to concentrate on mechanizing farms and building up Russia's industrial base. These two groups disagree, however, on how much Russia is prepared to give up in order to gain such a breathing spell. The most optimistic officials say Russia could be pressed to lay a sizable price—arms reduction

3-Floor Fall

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—A boy and his faithful dog fell three stories yesterday without serious injury to either.

Charles King, who will be four next month, was playing with toys on the window ledge in the bedroom shortly after his father, Everette King, had left for his job at the Veterans Administration Hospital. A few minutes later Gene, 10-year-old brother of Charles, sleeping in the same room, awoke to see the window screen move and the youngster fall backward out the window. Inky, a two-year-old black cocker spaniel, immediately followed Charles out the window. Charles landed on an abelia bush directly beneath the window and escaped with a few minor scratches. Inky fared even better.

Nine Men Held In Prison Revolt

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Nine Washington State prison officers, seized at knifepoint in a sudden revolt against discipline, were held captive today as officials and inmates argued over terms for their release. A check by penitentiary authorities disclosed that a total of 11 men were seized yesterday morning when 33 of the big institution's toughest convicts rioted violently in an attempt to force changes in parole and classification procedures and other practices.

Medical Student Will Work At Health Dept.

Thomas E. Castellone, a rising University of North Carolina senior medical student from Winterville, has reported for two months of work with the Pitt County Health Department. Castellone is recipient of one of two fellowships granted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for two months of public health work in North Carolina this summer.

Grifton Board In Lengthy Session

GRIFTON—Grifton's new Town Board was in session until 11 o'clock last night, finally adjourning to meet again at 8 p. m. tonight to conclude unfinished business and to swear in a new town night policeman. Mayor W. H. Gower reported that much time was consumed in the Board's first regular meeting by work with the auditor, D. H. Hollowell, who was present to prepare the books to turn over to the new commissioners. As a result, Gower stated it was necessary for the Board to recess until tonight to complete its present business.

Tot Takes Own Life On Tracks

KOBE, Japan (AP)—An 8-year-old second-grade pupil committed suicide yesterday by refusing to get out of the way of a freight train. A classmate who was walking the tracks with him said the boy screamed: "I want to die! I want to die!" The reason, Asahi said, was that the boy, together with a dozen others, was scolded by his teacher for playing practical jokes.

Doubly Careful, But Got Shot

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP)—Tom Mounts, doubly careful, put his 22 revolver in the glove compartment of his car and the cylinder in his shirt pocket. Driving home with his family, he stopped to pick a wild flower. As he stooped, the cylinder fell out on a rock. A bullet fired into his chest. He was reported in critical condition at Seaside Hospital.

Two Local Firms Entered In Night

Two Greenville businesses were entered last night and a check-up today showed 40 packages of cigarettes, $32 in cash and a portable typewriter missing. All of the loot was obtained from Kares Egan Street Restaurant. At the same time Jimmy Smith's printing office on Cotanche Street was entered and a filing cabinet-type safe was entered. Nothing was missing, however.

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of General Motors Corp. have announced plans for a three-for-one stock split, subject to stockholders' approval at a special meeting Sept. 23.

Quirks' Noted In Tax Returns

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington was telling the State Board of Equalization yesterday about "quirks" in county tax assessment returns this year. With a wry smile he said Grant County's list of milk cows no corn and no wheat on its farms are failures on assessment day. He promised to look into it.

Dixon-Yates Controversy Swells Over Use Of FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Dixon-Yates contract swirled into new controversy today over the Eisenhower administration's use of FBI agents to check on plans by the city of Memphis to build its own power plant. Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) called it "shocking misuse of the FBI" and asked in a statement: "Is there no limit to which this illegally minded administration will go in order to carry water for the private power interests?"

The Justice Department said the FBI men were simply assigned to get facts helpful to a determination of whether the Dixon-Yates contract should be cancelled, and were not making an investigation. Kefauver, saying he would "demand" a full accounting, declared the FBI was intended to enforce laws and "not to investigate the good faith of city administrations."

Gore said there was no question but that Memphis plan to build its own plant rather than take Dixon-Yates power had soured the death knell for the controversial project which Eisenhower ordered. The FBI was disclosed last night to have been directed to inquire what a Justice Department spokesman termed "merely a fact-finding mission into Memphis plans. The spokesman, G. Frederick Miller, said he did not know what facts were being sought and did not elaborate, except to say it was not an investigation."

In addition to the $137,577,000 bill, Congress set $25,000,000 for TVA, $75 million dollars for the Atomic Energy Commission $40,755,000 for reclamation projects and $51,263,000 for rivers and harbors and 1900 contract projects. The bill now goes to conference with the House.

When Four Buses Went Boom, Boom, Boom

Frantic Building Pace Continued Through June

Greenville added eight new dwellings, one apartment building and two commercial buildings in June as the city's frantic building pace continued. Fire Chief George Gardner, who acts as building inspector, said permits were issued for new buildings during the month valued at $154,500. Cost of the eight dwellings and one apartment is to be $123,500 while the two commercial buildings will cost $31,000.

Drivers Charged In 4-Bus Mishap

Three Carolina Trailways bus drivers have been charged with following too close as the result of a four-bus wreck one mile north of Farmville on US 258 yesterday morning. No one was injured. Those charged by State Highway Patrolman D. L. Minshew are: Walter Roscoe Norwood, 24, of Norfolk, Va.; Richard Henry Gayle, 25, of Suffolk, Va.; Willard Person Moore, 22, of Norfolk, Va. Minshew listed the driver of the remaining bus, who was not charged, as Jesse William Spivey, 42, also of Norfolk.

Farmville Board Meets, Re-Hires Key Personnel

FARMVILLE—All the town government's department heads and the town attorney are assured of their jobs for another year. The town board, meeting for the first time with new Mayor Charles S. Edwards presiding, officially re-hired all the department heads last night. The new Board of Commissioners, with all members present, approved a petition from a group of Negro citizens to name the new Negro cemetery Sunset Memorial Park. Town fathers also adopted a resolution necessary for the employees of the town to vote in October on the merger of the present retirement plan with social security.

Nineteen Terms Of Court Slated

Nineteen terms of Superior Court have been scheduled for Pitt County from August through June of next year. After July, Pitt County will have at least one term of court each month for the next year. Judge W. J. Bundy of Greenville, resident judge of the new third judicial district, will preside over the eight weeks of Pitt Superior Court slated between August and December, while Judge Malcomb Paul of Washington will preside over the terms of court between January and June.

Clements Takes Up Senate Reins For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Clements of Kentucky took over as acting Senate Democratic leader yesterday with expressed determination to carry on the program of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Johnson suffered last Saturday what was described as a moderate severe heart attack which will keep him away from the Senate for the remainder of this session. The Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital where he is a patient, said late yesterday his condition remains serious but that he is now taking nourishment and is reasonably comfortable.

Navy Is Looking For 31 Admirals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy board under instructions from Secretary Charles S. Thomas to seek out younger men and scientific specialists started yesterday looking for 31 men to become admirals. That many will be chosen from the approximately 1,600 Navy captains to fill 21 vacancies caused by retirement. Thomas' directive to Adm. Gerald Wright, head of the selection board, was also circulated throughout the Navy, an unusual step. Soft-pedaling the traditional emphasis on sea-going experience, Thomas asked the board to pay special attention to specialists in such fields as atomic power, electronics and guided missiles.

Tax Report

Pitt County tax collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $816,963.85. County Tax Collector Henry Andrews reported this morning. Collection of the 1954 levy amounted to approximately 94 per cent of the total levy, about two per cent better than collections last year on the previous levy. Through June 30 a total of $793,387.18 had been collected on the 1954 levy which amounted to $880,311.70. A total of $81,575.87 was collected in back taxes by the county during the past fiscal year.

ECC Adds New English Teachers To Its Faculty

Three new members will be added to the faculty of the department of English at East Carolina College for the 1955-1956 term, college President John D. Messick has announced.

Dr. Frank L. Hoskins, Jr., of Tucson, Arizona, Rosalind Rouillon of Boston, Mass., and Dr. Floyd E. Overly of Baton Rouge, La., will begin their work at East Carolina at the opening of fall quarter, September 5.

President Messick has also announced that Dr. Lucille H. Charles, who has been on leave of absence for the past two years while studying abroad, will return to the college in September and will teach in the fields of composition and speech. Dr. Joseph A. Withey, director of dramatics in the department of English during Dr. Charles' absence, will remain at the college in this position for the 1955-1956 term.

Dr. Hoskins is a graduate of the University of North Carolina from which he received the A.B. and M.A. degrees, and of Columbia University, where he has just completed his work for the doctorate in English. He has taught at the University of Virginia and the University of Arizona.

Miss Rouillon received the B.A. and the M.A. degrees at Emerson College, Boston. Her work at East Carolina will be in speech, radio, and television. At present she is educational TV producer-director for United Community Services, Boston. She has had a wide experience in both radio and television as writer, actress, director, and producer. She has served as assistant professor of broadcasting at Emerson College and as instructor in motion picture and TV performance at Boston University.

Dr. Overly holds both the master's and the doctor's degrees in English from the University of Chicago. His experience as a teacher includes work at Roosevelt College in Chicago, the University of Kansas City, and Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, where he has been located since 1953.

Hostess T.E.L. Class Mrs. Upchurch

The T. E. L. Class of Memorial Baptist Church held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, June 28, at the Baptist Parsonage on Greene St. with Mrs. Percy Upchurch as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Porter, the president of the class. Mrs. J. B. Spillman, teacher of the class, gave a prayer. Mrs. N. C. Brooks, alternate teacher, had charge of the devotional, and took the scripture from Matthew 8:23-27, with excerpts from "Life's Extras," a book by Archibald Rolfe, which fitted in with the scripture. The several committee chairmen gave their reports, after which other business and plans were discussed at length. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The business part of the meeting then adjourned, after which the group was invited into the dining room for refreshments served from a table covered with an imported linen cloth and centered with a lovely arrangement of spring flowers. Mrs. Spillman served fruit punch and Mrs. Porter served an ice cream angel cake loaf. The guests served themselves to sandwiches and salted nuts.

Legion Commander Voices School-Control Concern

By JAMES DAILEY
CHICAGO (AP)—The commander of the American Legion expressed concern today that the nation's schools may drift into federal control "if we fail to provide an alternative."

Legion Commander Seaborn P. Collins told delegates to the National Education Assn. convention that, although federal control is not the right answer, "something must be done, and done quickly."

"Frankly," said Collins in a prepared address, "I can offer no panacea today. I can only say something must be done and done quickly to meet the estimated shortage of approximately 290,000 elementary schoolteachers by 1960."

The NEA currently is supporting a bill pending in Congress which provides for a 400 million dollar per year expenditure of federal funds for four years, to be distributed to the states for school construction.

"You and I know," said the Legion commander, "that the primary responsibility for establishing and maintaining an adequate educational system in America rests with the individual citizen, and with his community and state governments."

"But we also know this," he added. "The future leaders and citizens of America have a right to adequate education. They're going to get this education. If the local communities and the states can't provide the answer, then the pressure for a different approach will continue to build up."

Another speaker at today's convention session, S. M. Brownell, of Washington, U.S. commissioner of education, in a prepared speech said the nation "is witnessing the most dramatic upsurge it has ever seen in citizen activity on behalf of education."

"No nation has ever seen anything like the way the American people are studying their schools, and deciding on action programs for improving conditions for education," he said.

Collins praised the NEA for its stand on combating Communist subversion and its support of the policy of not employing members of the Communist party in the nation's schools.

ESCAPE HATCH
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Somebody fashioned a 15-inch hole in a mesh grating atop the elevator shaft at the city jail. Police, reasonably sure nobody had broken into jail, believe some trusty used the escape hatch to come and go as he pleased. The mesh screen had been worn shiny by someone crawling through it many times.

About 18 million U.S. people were hospital patients in 1952.

English Conference Scheduled July 20

Teachers of English in the northeastern counties of the state will hold their annual summer conference at East Carolina College Wednesday, July 20.

Dr. H. Kelly Crockett of the college department of English, conference chairman, has announced the program for the day. "Problems of Creative and Informative Writing in High School and College" will be considered in a series of talks and in a panel discussion.

A morning and an afternoon session will be held in the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House at the college at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., respectively. A luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will be held in the North Dining Room on the campus.

Speakers at the morning meeting will be Mrs. Lucile Noell Dula of Hillsboro and Lois G. Grigsby and Mary H. Greene of the East Carolina department of English. They will present and analyze problems of teaching composition on the high school and the college levels. Mrs. Dula will appear on the luncheon program in a reading of selection from her own poems.

Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of East Carolina will act as moderator at the afternoon panel discussion. Participants will include Dr. Martha M. Pingel of East Carolina; Jessie Belle Lewis of Chapel Hill, editor of the "North Carolina English Teacher"; and Vernie Wilder of Rocky Mount.

The program for the conference was prepared by Dr. Crockett with the assistance of Dr. Lucile Turner, director, and Emma L. Hooper, faculty member, of the East Carolina department of English.

No Old-Fashioned Tramps Anymore, Just Runaways

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Young Englishmen running away from their wives have jostled the old-fashioned tramp off Britain's highways.

"The tramp, the old knight of the road," said Sir Geoffrey Hutchinson, chairman of the National Assistance Board, "is dying out. His place in Britain's reception centers is being taken by younger men and these seem to be running away from something."

Sir Geoffrey said several reasons lie behind this flight from home, based on case workers' observations, they are:

Feelings of insecurity by men who have been in prison. Efforts by others to get away from the police or military authorities.

More often than any other excuse given to officers at hostels operated for the homeless is this one: "It's my wife."

Figures show the tramp has been liquidated. In 1951 more than 17,000 persons nightly used the public reception centers. In 1939 the figure was 7,000. Last year the total had swelled to 2,300—but many of the men were young.

Geoffrey Gorer, anthropologist, has published a book exploring British character, based on 11,000 answers to questionnaires. He says the husbands found these faults with their spouses: Nagging, scolding (fault-finding), lack of intelligence, gossiping, extravagance, domineering ways, bossiness, henpecking, selfishness.

Britishwomen—who apparently do not run to reception centers—gave these husband faults: Selfishness, unintelligence, taking things for granted, laziness, sleepiness, refusal to help about the house, untidiness, complacency, conceit and obstinacy of opinions.

Electrocuted On Opening Freezer

DETROIT (AP)—A 9-year-old girl, wearing a wet bathing suit, was electrocuted in a dairy store.

Sharin Kiro and a playmate had been called from a back yard swimming pool to run an errand for Sharon's mother Grace.

Mrs. Gertrude Kirby, a clerk, said she saw the girl approach the freezer.

"The next thing I knew, she just fell over backwards," Mrs. Kirby said. Police said the freezer had a short-circuit. Sharon was dead on arrival at a hospital. An inquest was ordered.

'Miss North Carolina' Entry

Miss Harriett Hobby (left) was chosen Miss Farmville last week in a beauty contest sponsored by Farmville merchants and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hobby of New Bern. Harriett is employed in Farmville and will represent Farmville in the Miss North Carolina contest at Wrightsville Beach. # Three Pitt 4-H Contestants Take Part In Wilson Elimination Event

Three Pitt County 4-Hers are participating in a sub-district elimination contest in Wilson today. This contest will determine the 4-H winners to compete in district eliminations in Raleigh Friday.

Representing Pitt County in the sub-district contest are Linda Garis and Sheila James of the Belvoir-Falkland Club, giving a team demonstration on "Eat a Lunch That Packs a Punch." Phyllis Corbett of Farmville will present an individual demonstration entitled "Evaporated Milk for Supper."

These county finalists were selected in an elimination contest held two weeks ago.

In addition to the sub-district winners in Wilson, five 4-Hers will represent Pitt at the district contest Friday. They are Hazel Wilson of Chocod, public speaking; Joyce Jackson, Arthur and Edith Nelson, Stokes, talent; Sheila Haddock and Patsy Porter of Chocod, a vegetable-use demonstration.

British Prepare Highway Program

LONDON (AP)—Britain plans to spend 85 million pounds (238 million dollars) the next 10 years for construction of superhighways to ease growing traffic congestion. The House of Commons was told today.

The program calls for London to be linked to the north by six-lane highways that will cost an average of 250,000 pounds ($700,000) a mile to build.

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP)—A housewife returned from a shopping trip to find a pan of cinnamon rolls, a jar of jelly and a carton of milk gone. But the thief was well-manered enough to wash the dishes.

Program On Problems Of Handicapped Child

The handicapped child and his problems will be discussed at a conference at East Carolina College, Thursday.

Help for young people with defects of speech or hearing losses and the education of the mentally retarded will be emphasized through talks by experts in the field of special education and through demonstrations of work now being done in the Speech and Hearing Clinic at East Carolina.

Crayton Walker, executive director of the American Hearing Society, Washington, D. C., will be a featured speaker on the program. Others who will address the conference are Felix S. Barker, director of special education in the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction; Dr. John R. Peck, director of special education in the Greensboro public schools; and Frances V. Henry, visiting professor of special education this summer at East Carolina College.

Courtney Stromsted of the college department of education and Miss Henry are directors in charge of the conference.

The program will open at 9 a.m. in the Flanagan building. Events will include observation of the work of the Speech and Hearing Clinic, a luncheon in the North Dining Room, and a meeting of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina will give a welcome to those attending the meeting, and will make a brief introductory talk on the special education program at the college.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman today appointed a Negro as a justice of State Supreme Court.

Judge Harold A. Stevens of Manhattan's General Sessions (Criminal) Court is believed to be the first of his race to serve on the Supreme Court. He fills a vacancy caused by death. The post pays $28,000 a year.

Stevens, 48, is a Democrat and a former assemblyman. He will serve until Dec. 31, 1955.

Stevens was born in John's Island S.C. He is a governor of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers.

Despite its title, the Supreme Court is not New York's highest tribunal. The Appellate Division and the Court of Appeals are above it.

TURKEYS FOR CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California again led all other states in turkey production in 1954. Growers turned out 9,998,000 birds or 16 per cent of the national total.

We'll Underwrite This One Delusion

The Great American Delusion: what is it?

Well, part of it is the conviction of every male between the ages of 8 and 80 that, given the opportunity, he can demonstrate inborn abilities as a woodsman or a fisherman that would put to shame Dan'l Boone or Isaac Walton. Particularly is this true in the Nimrodian field.

Show him a lake or slow-moving stream and your American male (ages 8-to-80 inclusive) can conceive himself as cannily luring and hooking the wildest and scaliest old denizen out of the deepest waters. It calls for no effort to imagine this angling skill and no amount of failure can quench that dream. Excuses are a dime a dozen. Examples:

The tide wasn't right; the moon was wrong; too much rain recently; not enough rain recently; too late in the day; too early in the day; too much light; too many clouds; these fish prefer any and every kind of bait besides that used today . . . and so on, ad infinitum. But The Dream is untarnished after one night's sleep.

The American male (aged 8-to-80, inclusive) spends considerable sums to prove his faith in himself and his angling talents. It may be his bubble gum money or a part of his carefully hoarded vacation savings, but somehow, somewhere, he'll raise the money for a few hooks, some extra lures or tackle to be used on some forthcoming occasion. We've heard tell that more money is spent on fishing than on baseball, football and basketball games combined. One small success or near-success makes it all worthwhile, and we can see one shining blessing that comes whether the fishing jaunt is acclaimed success or failure. That is the rare occasion of getting out into the open and inhaling all that country-fresh air, viewing the beauties of the land in its natural setting and some small measure of relaxation that brings peace to the mind and loosens taught nerves.

We hope no delusionian ever debunks the Great Angler Delusion enjoyed by American males (ages 8-to-80, inclusive) by pointing out that most of our part-time fishermen bring home at best only a few undersized fish for their efforts. Because it doesn't take a single fish to make a fishing trip a success nor one nibble to keep

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DON'T BE DISCOURAGED
We read in the Bible that God made man in his own image and after his likeness. We also read in the Bible that Jesus Christ is God entering the stream of history.
So one side of our nature is human and the other is divine. And one side of Christ's nature is human and the other side is divine. Here is a correspondence between our nature and Christ's nature which should encourage us as we confront the hard situations of human life. Christ is human and divine; we are human and divine. Because he won a victory over life's temptations, he has entered into the destiny which God prepared for him. But we in nature correspond in a measure to Christ. We can never be as great as he is or as good as he was or as wise. But he was like us and he came and lived the life we have to live. He won a great victory, and because our natures correspond to his, we can share the victory he won.
When we are downcast, feeling that we cannot go on, we should remind ourselves that we are divine beings as well as human beings, that we have a nature which is both human and divine just as our Lord's nature was human and divine. There is a spiritual grandeur in our lives which corresponds to the spiritual grandeur of Christ's life.
In that correspondence of nature is our hope. In his light we see light. We share his strength.

UAW Pact Draws Antagonism

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Many labor leaders have begun to take a dim view of Walter P. Reuther's new biennial unemployment compensation benefit contracts as a result of further study of its possibly adverse political and economic effects. Its reception in union circles outside his automobile area has been less than enthusiastic.
The practical problem of procuring more than a score of states to change their unemployment compensation statutes baffles union politicians. They require amendment because they now provide that state payments shall be decreased in proportion to the companies' unemployment grants, thus robbing the Reuther-Ford-General Motors agreements of their essential gains.
CHANGE IN UNIONS' SPHERE—In the past, especially during the Roosevelt-Truman era, the three big unions—American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the United Mine Workers—have been able to achieve their aims by concentrating and influencing a few high officials at Washington. They have centered their lobbies and public relations offices and activities at the Capital in fine new buildings.
Now, they will have to decentralize and fan out to more than 20 state capitals, where they do not possess the power and influence that they once did around the White House or on Capitol Hill.
Moreover, most State Legislatures are controlled by rural members under topside and unskilled appointment arrangements. They may not be sympathetic to schemes that will undoubtedly raise the cost of living, especially as farm income has been dropping.
Thus, it may be years, if ever, before the Reuther hope alive. If the angler only briefly escapes from the strains of his everyday affairs and can find some bit of nature's peace, he'll return home rested and with a new enthusiasm for his accustomed chores.

Ordinarily The Reflector doesn't defend delusions, great or otherwise; but today we'll underwrite that greatest of them all . . . Americans, statistics and experience notwithstanding, are just natural fishermen at any age . . . from 8 to 80, inclusive.

We Didn't Observe Our Biggest Birthday

Perhaps our thoughts were overly-preoccupied with contemplating the dreadful carnage on the Glorious Fourth; but as of now, the other side of Independence Day is foremost in our minds.

At least two people have commented to us on how Greenville didn't mark the birthday of the United States. One gentleman even came to the office to talk about it. "You ought to write an editorial about it," he said. "Only three flags flying in the business district . . . one in front of the Court House, one at the Post Office and one at . . ." (here he named one of our local firms).

We suggested he ought to write a Letter To The Editor, and The Reflector would be more than happy to print it. Not very many of those come to the editorial desk these days. But he said no, he couldn't write; which was an exaggeration the size of a house . . . so we agreed the shame of our Fourth was something to think about.

"I'm an old woman" about things like this, the visitor ventured, and sort of smiled when he said it.

Well, if that's the way old women are, then that's all right. We can still get a sort of choked-up feeling on seeing Old Glory ourselves.

It's much too hot to call out public speakers for speechmaking, parading and such stuff. Uncomfortable for the guests (who'd probably prefer a day of rest, and for the hosts, who would rather lie in the shade with a cool drink within easy reach.
But we can fly flags on the country's birthday, even if it does mean a little thing like getting up early one holiday morning to go down to the store to raise it. After all, such a thing as the birthday of a nation is worth a little extra trouble on our part.
Sure hope we remember all this on the next Fourth of July.

Selected Shorts

ODESSA, TEX. AMERICAN: "It may be true that unionism protects some persons, but for every person added by union compulsion, at least one other is injured. A man who is kept in at his job by a union after he has demonstrated his incompetence, is merely keeping some other man who is more competent from having gainful employment. The incompetent is protected the competitor discriminated against. Economically the result is less production per dollar spent, wherefore higher prices for consumers."

WEST POINT MISS. DAILY TIMES LEADER: "While sound spending and economy are all important, it is well to remember that if people would only what they need this would be a poor country indeed. Our actual needs, you know, are simple. It is for this reason that we encourage folks to wear better clothes, to ride in automobiles, to invest in labor-saving appliances, and to attend the ball games and the movies. Otherwise, business volume would diminish a lot of folks would be thrown out of employment, and our civilization would be little better than that maintained by the Indians."

SOUTHERN OPPOSITION: "The labor mission-aries will face stiff opposition in the Southern states, where the unemployment allowances are far below those in other manufacturing areas. In the South, introduction of the Reuther plan would only be more differential which that section now enjoys over rural plants elsewhere. The textile industry would be especially vulnerable.
Labor may receive unexpected help, however, in its law-revision drive. Manufacturers' organizations, normally hostile to such demands, may favor them because the more a state pays its jobless, the less the company has to hand out.
Incidentally, Reuther's rejection of the Ford offer to sell its stock to employees at bargain prices, was eminently sound from his viewpoint. He does not want his members to become so financially involved that they might vote against strikes, or favor management in future negotiations."

OTHER FLAWS IN REUTHER PLAN—Labor students point out other possible flaws in the Reuther plan. In order to reduce wage costs, it is expected that management will accelerate the "automation" process. Reuther has frequently assailed increased technology and mechanization as cutting down the number of jobs.
The new financial burden on corporations may also make it more difficult for middle-aged or older men to obtain employment. Partial compensation for acceptance of the reform is supposed to be greater productivity, and for that the young and strong and ambitious will be needed on the payroll.

What Could Be Fairer?

Somebody Told Me Post-Weekend Paragraphs

Monday I had a short-wave radio contact with a transplanted yankee in Rome, Ga. Dick Baer moved to Georgia when General Electric built a transformer plant there.

"Nancy, I said, "when you get big enough to go to dances I'm going too, so I can dance with you." She smiled and said, "I'll be bigger but you'll be the same size, except you'll be fatter."

Rumor: Greenville hardware dealers are trying to get the hose fad started, but as yet they have found no soil in this area that will suck up a hose. Of course it's a plan to help get rid of over-stocks of garden hoses. In California, where the earth is sucking em up fast, people have wised up and cut the hoses off, giving up the loose end which is en route to China.

Asked to compare the North and South he said, "The skiing in Massachusetts is better than in Georgia, but on the other hand the snow shoveling is better in Georgia."

What I don't understand is why people don't think of the cow! Be grateful for the few winks you've had so far in your life. Think how much worse off the cow is than you are. And remember that, sleepless though old Bessie may be, she still manages and so can you.

Wisdom of a four-and-one-half-year-old: Daughter Nancy and I were dancing around the kitchen as we often do. I was holding her up to the correct level.

What I don't understand is why people don't think of the cow! Be grateful for the few winks you've had so far in your life. Think how much worse off the cow is than you are. And remember that, sleepless though old Bessie may be, she still manages and so can you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

RATHER SEE THAN BE ONE.
Dr. James Cleland, the famous and popular Scotsman, who is dean of the Duke University chapel, has observed that as a people we Americans suffer from what he terms "the ultimate anxiety."
That ultimate anxiety manifests itself in many ways: stomach ulcers which have become a sort of wound stripe of our civilization; an abiding fear of death; a mounting rate of divorces and insanity; increasing divorce; increasing crime and so on.
One of the most obvious manifestations of our anxiety is insomnia. We are a sleepless people. Statistics on the subject are not readily available, but Americans collectively gulp tons and tons of sleeping pills every year. The sleeping pill has become a sort of national pacifier.
It is insomnia on which our fate today hangs.

We noted the other day that British scientists have discovered that cows are probably the world's worst sufferers from insomnia. They never sleep — not even once in lifetime.
Next time you roll and toss and worry and fear, don't count sheep — just think of the cow! Be grateful for the few winks you've had so far in your life. Think how much worse off the cow is than you are. And remember that, sleepless though old Bessie may be, she still manages and so can you.
The British National Institute of Dairying Research rigged up all sorts of automatic recording devices to record the movements and breathing habits of bovines. Scientists spent hours watching the cows and trying to sneak up on them without attracting their attention. They never could. The machines showed that a cow's deep breathing — a pretty good sign of sleep or the approach of sleep — seldom lasted more than five minutes.

There are some good reasons, the scientists learned, for a cow's sleeplessness—even as there are apparently few good reasons for human sleeplessness.
If a cow lies on its side for more than a minute or two, the workings of its stomach are interrupted and it develops indigestion. To rest, the cow must lie down and even then it has to keep its head up all the time. Also, the cow must keep its jaws moving most of the time it is lying down to chew its cud—and cud-chewing makes sleep impossible.
Funny thing is that cows are perhaps the calmest and most philosophically creatures of all—notably free of anxieties.
As we say, here is comfort for the insomnia. Let him in his misery think of the cow. Here again is a good reason for him to say that he'd rather see than be one.

Summer Doldrums Haven't Hurt

By LYNN NISBET
POLITICS — The summer doldrums have not hurt the political gossip this year as much as in years past. The House of Representatives is partly responsible, but the chief cause is the unique situation of having a Governor in office eligible to succeed himself. Normally in the summer before a gubernatorial primary the gossip is about the possible candidates for Governor out of an unlimited list of prospects.
The field is more restricted this year because Luther Hodges, having succeeded to the Governor's office upon the death of Governor Umstead, is re-elected as having the inside track. The question now is not who may or might not run for the No. 1 office, but who will have the temerity to challenge the incumbent, Governor Hodges in the coming election.
There has been in recent weeks some very interesting, and in some respects unexpected developments. To get anything like accurate perspective it is necessary to go back and review political history. The whole story is too long, so for present purposes discussion will be limited to the past three or four years, mostly the past eight months. The Johnson-Scott race for Governor, Broughton-Umstead race for Senator, in 1948; the Graham-Smith Senatorial campaign in 1950 and the Olive-Umstead campaign for Governor in 1952 have material bearings on the present situation. So numerous campaigns before — and the Lennon-Scott senatorial race last year.

One of the things that new voters have difficulty in evaluating is the long range continuity of Governor Umstead in the Democratic party in North Carolina. For 50 years the State has had no serious two-party threat, not for at least 40 years there has been just as definite cleavage between so-called conservatives and liberals in the Democratic party as if there was real bi-partisan government.
CONTINUITY — Sulfate issues change color and personalities affect these changes, but there has been remarkable continuity in the factional rivalry for domination and control of the State government, ever since the popular primary was legalized more than 40 years ago. Let's skip all that and come down to the 1954 fall campaign.
PRESIDENT — Governor Umstead was then in office and active, with reasonable prospect he would serve out his term. Luther Hodges was Lieutenant Governor and a recognized candidate for Governor. His expected main opponent was Hubert Olive, who had been in the Democratic primary, Kerr Scott had been nominated for the United States Senate over Umstead's appointee, Alton Lennon. Umstead was in, Scott was in, as accepted fact, Hodges was Hubert Olive, who Governor and looking up to be a candidate for Governor. Although then Governor Scott had gone all-out for Olive in the 1952 gubernatorial race, it was quite evident to observers in the fall campaign that Scott supporters would vote for Olive, along with Hodges for Governor than for Olive on a second try.
Early in November Governor

Umstead died and Governor Hodges took over the office. That changed the picture tremendously. There were still a lot of folks who wanted Olive to run against Hodges. Then Governor Hodges appointed Hubert Olive to be resident judge of his new district, removing him from the race for Governor — and getting a judge of the courts and an official in the Truman inaugural parade in Washington, D.C.
That same year, at 70 he was further complicated by the fact that Henry Jordan is a brother and business associate of Everett Jordan, former Democratic State chairman and now Democratic national committeeman for North Carolina—and also associated with Luther Hodges in some business enterprises.
Information gathered from usually reliable sources have it that the Cheek-Jordan movement has full support of some right point factors who were close to the late Governor Umstead, apparently in some quarters that Hodges and Scott had designs for building a political organization to "take over" control of the State. Angrily, some of Governor Hodges' actions and appointments lent credence to the idea. Developments of recent weeks tend to discount, if not completely abolish that concept. Because even though it has been suggested as a probable opponent of Hodges for Governor next year Scott-appointed commissioner of comes from the heart of the Kerr Scott faction.
CANDIDATES — Walter Cheek Scott appointed commissioner of insurance, now executive of an insurance company in Charlotte, is quoted as having said on a recent visit to Raleigh that Governor Hodges had to have opposition. Implication was that he himself also provided it. He would Dr. Henry Jordan, textile executive of Cedar Falls, Scott-appointed chairman of the highway commission, has been putting out some feelers. There is some belief that Cheek and Jordan are working together, and when — or if — a showdown comes they will combine strength for one or the other or for some third person. That situation is

Success, If It's Fun

By ELMER ROESSNER
The successful small store has three characteristics, the Small Business Administration says in a current leaflet, No. 3 in a new series of "Small Marketer Aids."
"Study the operation of an outstandingly successful store," it says, "and you will usually discover: (1) It does something in a unique and better way—something which expresses the personality of the owner; (2) that the owner is doing something he enjoys, something he wants to do the way he wants to do it; and (3) that the owner has planned his business to attract, as customers, the kinds of people he understands and enjoys serving."
The leaflet, which was written by John Perry, a Washington, D.C., consultant, concedes that there is no pat formula for attracting customers to a retail store. However, it offers a variety of suggestions.

Some retailers, it says, leave price tags on merchandise, but turn them over so they can't be read, perhaps fearing that the prices would frighten people away or that curiosity will bring them in. However, the personal charm of the salesman will make them forget price. But, it adds, there is no evidence to support such notions.
"On the contrary, people are keenly interested in prices," it states. "Retail newspaper advertising puts heavy emphasis on prices. If the price on a displayed item is hidden, many customers may decide not to investigate further."
"Another point," it says, "is that people are frequently a little reluctant to enter unfamiliar places. What's happening when a pedestrian stops to look in a shop window? Sometimes, and especially if he sees something interesting in the display, he is trying to take a look at the interior of the shop. Hundreds of thousands of sales may be lost because shopkeepers arrange their storefronts to keep off the view."
Analysts often wonder, still whether a roadside restaurant serves $5 dinners or 20-cent hamburgers, it points out, because their signs are uninformative. That's why the famous roadside chains do so well: customers know what to expect.

The publication cites many ways in which merchants have attracted customers and have induced them to return again and again. Copies are free for writing to the SBA, Washington 25, D.C.
TEACHERS STUDY PLANS TO ANSWER QUESTIONS
Pupils are asking teachers so many questions about aviation that many teachers are going to summer school to learn more answers, says Planes, the publication of the Aircraft Industries Association. It says 31 major colleges and universities are holding summer aviation workshops for educators this year.
U. S. EMPLOYEES NOW 7.5 PER CENT BETTER CUSTOMERS
The increase granted Federal civil service workers a few days ago is prompting many merchants to step up promotions among beneficiaries.
The bill, made into a law by President Eisenhower's signature grants a 7.5 per cent pay increase. It is retroactive to March 1, and along about August 1 government workers will get the retroactive part in a lump sum.
The average raise will be about $325, and will go to more than 1,000,000 workers. That's almost a third of a billion dollars, much of which will go for autos, appliances, furniture, better food, better clothing and so on.

Davis Plays Uncle Sam For Free

By HAL ROYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Davis cut himself while shaving 20 years ago and became a new man.
The man? Uncle Sam, symbol of America.
Today Davis, a lanky, 76-year-old retired postal worker from Rocky Mount, N.C., has become beyond quibble the nation's leading amateur portrayal of Uncle Sam.
"Some who do it for money may have a more expensive uniform," he said, "but they don't really look like Uncle Sam. Why, some don't even know how to raise their own goatee."
There is no doubt that Davis, who has white hair, keen blue eyes, and a lean leathery face lined with kindly wrinkles looks like dear old Uncle Sam. He looks so exactly like the famous star-spangled gentleman in the recruiting posters that draft-age youths jump nervously when they see him in his uniform. They wonder if he's going to point a finger at them sternly and say, "I want you."
"It all began in 1935 when I nicked my chin while shaving with my old straight edge razor," Davis recalled. "Until the cut healed I couldn't shave it, so I grew a goatee."
An official planning a tobacco festival parade in his home town noticed the goatee and said, "Why you look exactly like Uncle Sam. How about being Uncle Sam in the parade?"
"If it'll help any, I will," said Davis. "I'll do anything to help anybody."
Friendly neighbors helped fashion his first uniform—his top hat was one his own uncle had worn during the first Cleveland administration—and Davis was a big hit.
After that no regional parade was complete without him in the role of Uncle Sam. In 1948 he won national attention leading the North Carolina delegation in the Truman inaugural parade in Washington, D.C.
That same year, at 70 he was only not because of special love for either of the men, but in order to assure opposition for the incumbent Governor.

That is the situation which has developed and which adds zest to what might otherwise have been a very dull summer political rally around Raleigh. Meantime, there is considerable speculation about who will challenge the newly appointed Attorney General William Rodman in

Construction Of Segregated Schools Termed Now Illegal

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The construction of segregated schools now is illegal, according to Federal Judge Wilson Warlick, who dismissed a case in U.S. District Court here yesterday on that ground.

Judge Warlick pointed out the McDowell Board of Education could not legally build such a school in his dismissal of a suit brought against the board by a group of Negro parents.

Judge Warlick said the U.S. Supreme Court ruling against segregation in public schools made such a construction illegal. The parents, acting as "next friends" for their children, sought construction of a Negro school in Old Fort, which has none. Negro children there must be transported to Marion, leading the parents to claim their children lacked "equal educational facilities" under the setup.

Judge Warlick answered a request by the Negroes' attorneys to amend the complaint by stating that grounds for such a suit would only result from an express statement by McDowell school officials that Negro children would not be accepted in white schools.

McDowell School Superintendent Melvin H. Taylor did not comment on that possibility but said he feels "integration is inevitable."

He said other McDowell school officials agreed with him and that "we expect to obey the law."

Taylor said it was hoped intense U.S. spending for home gardens increased from 211 million dollars in 1940 to 689 million dollars in 1950.

gration could be brought "into effect so gradually that there will be no sudden strong sentiment aroused, particularly among the white people."

Near Accord On Plan To Extend Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Ways and Means Committee Democrats reported near-final agreement today on a three-point plan to expand social security payments and to raise the money to pay for them.

The House group arranged to take up the program behind closed doors, with a possibility the day may bring action to send the bill to the House.

Committee Democrats conferred secretly on the plan yesterday. Some, asking not to be quoted by name, said the majority members decided to vote for:

1. Lowering from 65 to 62 the age at which women can become eligible for social security payments.
2. Allowing payments after age 50, instead of 65, to disabled workers covered by the system.
3. Continuing benefits for disabled children past the age of 18.

To pay for this, the informants said, a social security tax increase of 0.9 per cent was found to be necessary to keep the social security fund from running in the red. When the tax hike would take effect remained to be decided, but Jan. 1, 1957, was regarded as the most likely date.

The probable method of doing this would be to advance to Jan. 1, 1957, the date on which social security taxes are set to go up from the present 2 per cent to 2½ per cent paid by both worker and employer. The present schedule calls for the 2½ per cent rate to take effect in 1960, with further increases at five-year intervals thereafter.

ROTC Officer Completes Tour Of College Duty

Capt. Thomas W. Harper will complete his tour of duty as a member of the staff of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College in August, according to an announcement by Lt. Col. Lewis T. Partridge, professor of air science. Captain Harper has been assigned to the 309th Troup Carrier Group, Ardmore Air Force Base, Ardmore, Oklahoma. He will be on duty there as a pilot.

He joined the Air Force ROTC staff here in June, 1952, and has served as education and training officer since that time. Major Edward J. Maloney will replace Captain Harper on the Air Force ROTC staff at the college. Major Maloney has just completed a tour of duty in Korea. His home is Littleton, Colorado.

Peron's Relations With U.S. Improve

Editor's Note—The writer of the following article began a year ago as an AP reporter in Buenos Aires and for two years observed Argentine developments from Rio de Janeiro.

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cry "Peron, all Braden, no!" is a thing of the past in Argentina today.

The mobs which gather in front of Government House during mass demonstrations recently changed their shout to "Peron, all Priests, no!"

That change in a way symbolizes a two-year turn in relations between the U.S. and Argentine governments. Unlike the past, those relations are now described as friendly, although not close.

The essential fact is that the United States no longer is the whipping boy for President Juan Domingo Peron. He has turned his attention toward Roman Catholic priests. And he may be finding a more formidable opponent than former U.S. Ambassador Spruille Braden.

There has long been, however, an undercurrent of resentment against the United States in Argentina, one of the most literate and formerly one of the most democratic of the South American republics.

The resentment in part was based on economic and political rivalry. Argentina, an agricultural state, produces principally meat and wheat. It found the United States in competition in certain markets. It also had ambitions to be the leader of the American republics, and felt itself thwarted by the bigger more powerful United States.

The differences became acute in the 1930s when the United States refused to admit fresh Argentine beef. It wanted to protect its own herds from hoof and mouth disease.

The Argentines construed the ban as a national insult. Ever since, except for relatively brief periods of warmer relations, Argentina has shown distrust and little liking for the "colossus of the North."

Peron, in beginning his climb to power in 1943, found it convenient and useful politically to fan anti-American feeling. Relations tumbled to an all-time low after the closure and expropriation in 1951 of La Prensa, the great Buenos Aires newspaper which had long been an independent critic of Peron.

A wave of unprecedented criticism, largely from elements in the United States, broke around the head of the Argentine ruler. He resented it bitterly and the anti-American attacks stepped up. Throughout 1951 and most of 1952, the almost completely controlled Argentine press blasted the United States and yelled "Yanqui imperialism" on every possible occasion. The State Department was accused of sponsoring unrest against Peron, and seeking to obtain Latin-American soldiers for Korea.

President Harry S. Truman was a favorite target. One Buenos Aires newspaper for months carried a daily front-page photograph and text belittling the American President.

With the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower, however, olive branches began to appear. Eisenhower it was said in Argentina was a general and he could understand and get along with Gen. Peron. All the presumed difficulties with the United States were said to have been Truman's fault.

This shift, however, could have been motivated by several reasons. 1. Peron's anti-American campaign in Latin America proved a complete failure. The Argentine ruler had made himself slightly ridiculous in the eyes of realistic Latin diplomats.

2. Argentina had spent all its war-accumulated foreign reserves, and needed money for an ambitious second five-year plan Peron had announced. A bitter drought in 1951-52 and low government fixed prices had halved its wheat harvest and decimated some of its herds. Its wool was overpriced in world markets. The nation was in a grave economic crisis. Foreign investment, it was thought, could help.

3. Peron's papers said "a new era of friendship" would result from the visit of Milton Eisenhower. Peron began receiving American businessmen. The remittance of earnings, sometimes blocked for years, was eased. Although businessmen say much still could be done, curbs on the foreign press were relaxed.

In this more favorable climate, Peron announced a plan to have foreign oil companies help in the development of Argentina's considerable oil resources. In his anti-American days he had attacked the "oil trusts" bitterly. He also outlined a plan to erect a steel industry, to utilize Argentina's mineral resources, improve its transportation system, and increase electric power facilities—all with foreign help.

The Argentine President said he did not want U. S. government aid for this, but rather the investments of private individuals and firms. New laws were passed to attract such investments. Firms with money already in Argentina were promised better treatment.

In late 1954, the first results of the campaign began to be noticed. Kaiser Motors signed an agreement to invest 10 million dollars in Argentina and build 40,000 cars a year there. Early this year, Standard Oil of California agreed to invest 13½ million in Argentina during the next four years, in a hunt for oil in the southern provinces.

The United States Export-Import Bank has approved a 60-million-dollar loan to buy U.S. equipment for a projected 250-million-dollar steel mill. The Foreign Operations Administration said Argentina 20,000 tons of surplus edible oils, for payment at favorable rates in Argentine pesos, in order to tide the nation over another drought-induced shortage. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and the State Department also worked out an atomic energy agreement with Argentina.

The attacks on the church and the attempted revolution on June 16, however, may have raised some doubts in the minds of the private investors Peron is hoping to attract.

Argentina would like to buy more from the United States but lacks the exchange necessary. So it is buying more and more from Germany, Britain, Japan and Russia, to which it can sell its wheat, meat and hides. The trade with Russia has raised in some quarters the fear that Argentina might go under the Communist influence. The Communists in Argentina, they say, is better small in number—perhaps 50,000 to 75,000.

On the Communist score, U.S. government and industry officials are not too nervous. The situation in Argentina, they say, is better than in some other Latin-American countries.

The chief threat of any new decline in Argentine-United States relations would appear to lie with Peron himself. In the past, he has changed almost overnight. He could do so again for reasons which might have little to do with any U.S. action.

Freighter Hit By Egyptian Gun

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The British freighter Anshun was holed between decks 16 feet above the waterline when Egyptian shore batteries shelled her Sunday at the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, a British embassy spokesman said today.

He added that no casualties or heavy damage had been reported and that the British government will not consider asking for compensation until the full facts have been received from the Egyptian government.

VISITING SOVIET BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—radio Belgrade said tonight seven Yugoslav journalists would leave July 13 for a two-week visit to the Soviet Union.

Alternate Plan To Save Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Johnston (D-SC) says he is asking President Eisenhower to use a procedure different from that proposed by Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) to save the textile industry.

Johnston, backer of Thurmond's plan for a tariff commission study of cuts in Japanese textile duties, says it is a step in the right direction, but does not offer the "real" solution on textile duties. He says on 22 of the 23 items under authority to "correct" the tariff, the President is authorized to prevent export duties to America of a price support.

Johnston said the section gives authority to "correct" the tariff. He said the blundering of the State Department's blundering (Cleveland) recently.

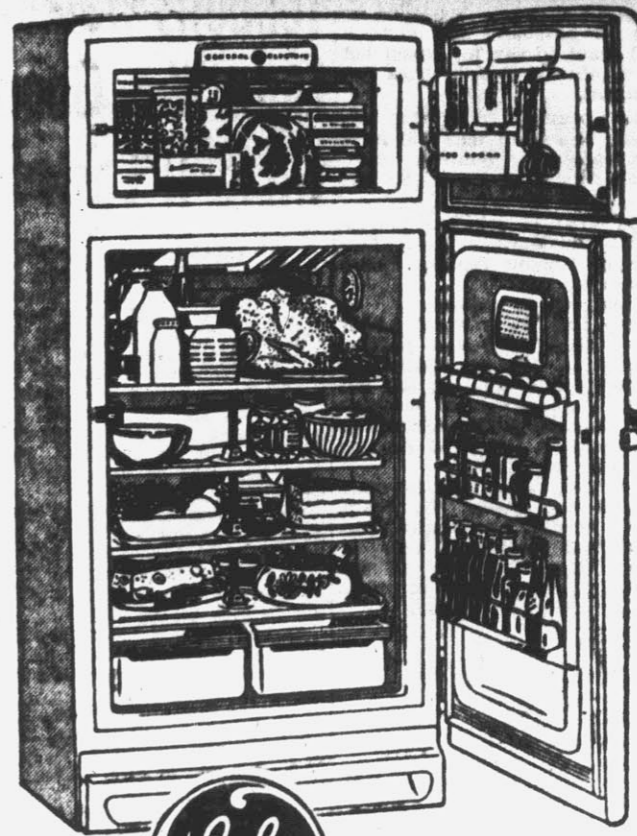

Thurmond, meanwhile, expressed "high hopes" for passage of his resolution, now before the Senate Finance Committee which has not fixed a time to act upon it.

Johnston said, "The situation is extremely grave. I don't want the administration to wait until it's too late. Our entire cotton producing and manufacturing economy...is involved."

A BASEBALL PERSONALITY: FLOYD NICHOLS

Of the few hundred spectators who saw Greenville shake off a six-game losing streak against New Bern here, there were none more delighted than Floyd Nichols, the Greenville general business manager.

Nichols broke into his familiar smile for the first time in over two weeks as he saw his club beat out a 9 to 1 victory over the league-leading Bears. He watched the club he'd organized descend like a run-away elevator in its last half-dozen games and the grins came hard.

But a devout optimist, the business manager looks for his luck to change. By playoff time in August he figures his club should be among the leaders again. It wasn't two pay days ago that the Greenvies were nestled on top, and Nichols says he kind of liked the feeling.

If the Greenvies do regain the leadership, all well and good. But if they don't, Nichols still deserves a lot of pats on the back for bringing baseball back to Greenville.

It was through his ingenuity that the club was organized. The first thoughts of a semi-pro club here were developed in the device of his mind last fall when baseball was the farthest concern of other sports enthusiasts.

But, unlike so many others, Floyd didn't leave the idea in the form of thought. He got busy and, almost single-handed, got support for a team. He got local businesses to buy uniforms and necessary equipment. He went out and solicited ball players from around the city and county. All the expenses he footed himself.

Nichols' movement here actually had much to do with the establishment of the Coastal Plain semi-pro loop. After neighboring towns got wind of his planning other teams were formed and work began on schedules. The respective teams found there were six towns about with teams of pretty equal strength. Nichols met with other business managers and before long the league was a thing of reality.

Although not too active as a player, the 37-year-old Nichols occasionally dons a suit to fill in as emergencies. He has doubled at many other jobs during the campaign. Several times Manager Pete Carraway was forced to miss games and Nichols directed field activities. His responsibilities are varied: transportation, eating arrangements on trips, handling the box office, arranging the park public address system and many more.

Greenville has a good baseball man in Floyd Nichols. Its energetic fellows like him that retains baseball as our national pastime year after year.

FORMER ECC GRID STAR SIGNS PRO FOOTBALL PACT

David Lee, massive East Carolina College tackle of a year ago, tells us that he's signed a professional football contract with the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League. The 245-pound tackle reports to the 49ers' camp in California during his stay here and made honorable mention on two All-State aggregations. This summer he is working as a policeman at Atlantic Beach.

The towering athlete says he'll probably be used at guard on defense. He's looking forward to it very much and hopes he can make the grade. He says he's worried however by a trick knee which he sustained his senior year at ECC. Gridgers as a rule, don't last long in the big time with bad knees, and Lee knows it. He hopes a lot of work will condition the joint okay.

Bosox Get Pennant Fever After Wins Over Yanks

BOSTON (AP)—The season is only at the halfway mark but pennant fever began to grip Boston fans today with even the Red Sox players casting glances toward World Series glory and gold.

"I can smell pay dirt," said shortstop Billy Kious, a key man in the torrid streak which vaulted the Red Sox into pennant contention.

A month ago, the Red Sox were stumbling along in sixth place, 15 games behind the first-place New York Yankees. Now, with 24 victories in 29 starts, they are in fourth place only eight games out of the pace.

"The rest of the league is just finding out we're not hamburgers," said the outspoken Kious. "They know they've got to beat us to win. And who's going to beat us? The Yanks? Just show me more than four really good players on that club."

The amazing streak, capped by a doubleheader sweep against the Yankees in New York Monday, has the entire team thinking about pennants now. But most don't want to say too much for fear of hexing the team.

Ellis Kunder, the veteran relief ace, cautiously agreed with Kious that the Red Sox were a real threat and said: "We can be 1-2 with the pitching and without injury."

Yankees Plan To Have All-Mantle Outfield

COMMERCIAL AP—Imagine it's 1957 and you are sitting in Yankee Stadium in New York waiting for the Yanks to take the field.

The public address announcer calls out: "Playing in leftfield, Roy Mantle in rightfield, Roy Mantle in rightfield, Roy Mantle."

Impossible dream? Three Mantle brothers playing together as the Yankee outfield?

Not according to Marshall Lerner, now high school coach at Jenks, Okla.

"I'm not sure that the twins will ever approach Mickey's tremendous stature," Ishmael said. "But I'll certainly be surprised if they don't become the other two-thirds of the Yankee outfield, flanking their famous brother."

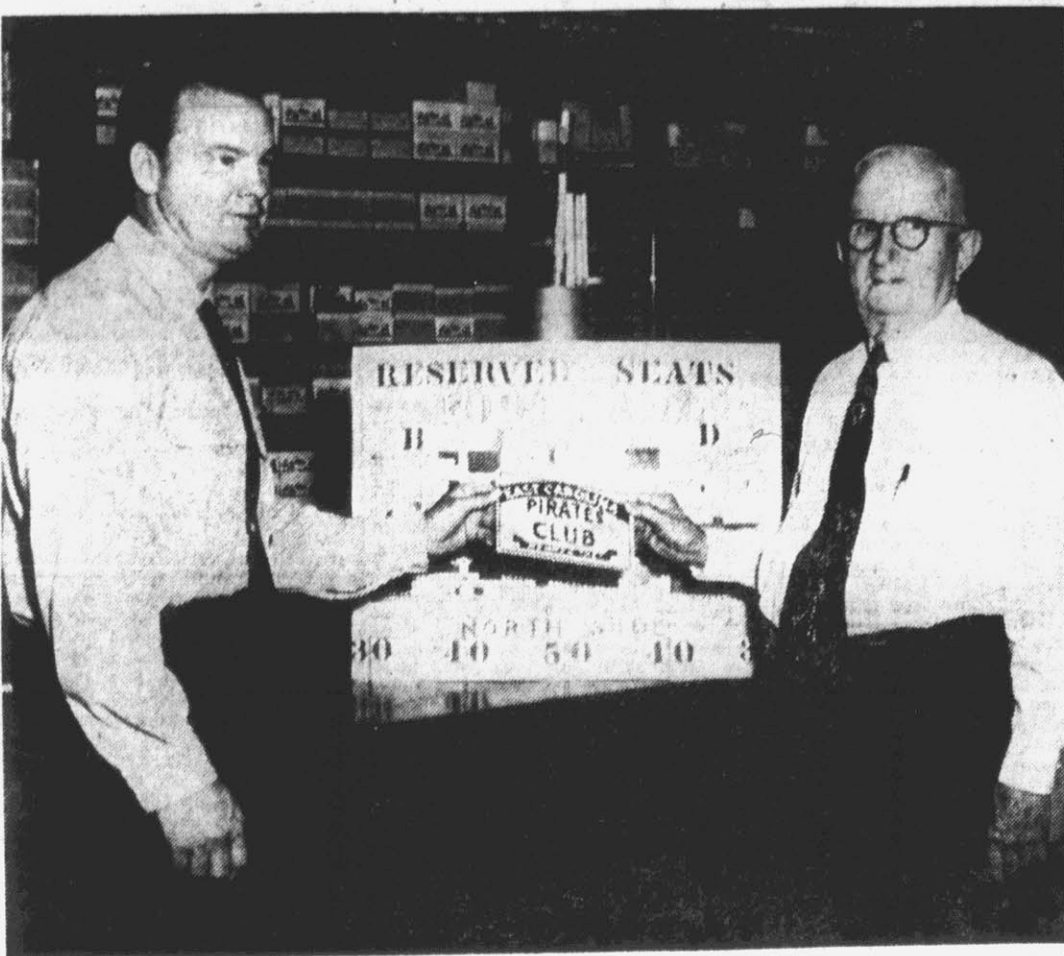

Right now, just two years out of high school and only 19, the twins are playing outfield for Monroe, La., in the Class C Boston States League, a farm team of the Yankees.

Roy is hitting around .300 while Mickey's batting average is down below .250 after a slump.

Mickey once said he'd be the youngest athlete on the Yankee roster if the younger brothers do.

"All they're ever going to need is a decent chance and not be burdened with my name ahead of them on the road up," Mickey said.

Ishmael said the brothers never had "to ride along on Mickey's

Yankee Deal Paying Off For Athletics; Cards-Reds In Fight

By ED WILKS The Associated Press There were snickers when the Kansas City Athletics shelled out $50,000 to get Tom Gorman, Ewell Blackwell and Dick Kryhoski from the New York Yankees last March—but maybe it wasn't such a bad deal after all.

The A's took sizable risk in the deal and it looked worse when Blackwell and Kryhoski departed for the minors. But now Gorman has come through with the big payoff.

Only a so-so reliever in three times with the Yanks, Gorman has looked almost brilliant for the A's. He flashed his stuff again last night putting down an eight-inning rally and going on to beat the Cleveland Indians 4-3.

It was the 10th victory in the last 12 decisions for the A's—and Gorman, a 29-year-old right-hander, has won two of them and saved five others. For the season Gorman has made 29 appearances, nailing up a 4-1 record (the defeat came on an unearned Boston run May 13 and saving nine other games).

The bespectacled New Yorker who won his chances with the Yanks off his minor league showing with the old Kansas City Blues came on against the Indians with the score tied at 3-3 on Jim Hegan's homer off starter Bobby Shantz. The little lefty left with two on and two out and Gorman got Al Rosen on a foul pop with his first pitch to end the inning.

Edot Al Rosen on a foul pop with his first pitch to end the inning. Gorman retired the Tribe in order in the ninth.

Joe DeMaestri and Hector Lopez, unlikely power sources, each homered to bring the A's home safe. Lopez smacked his third of the season in the eighth for the big run. DeMaestri unloaded the No. 3 belt to leadoff the first inning, ending a 29-inning scoreless streak for Early Wynn, who lost his third against 11 victories.

The defeat suffered in the lone American League game scheduled, dropped the Tribe to third place, five percentage points behind Chicago. Both now are 5 1/2 games shy of the Yankees.

In the National, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 5-4 after a ninth-inning free-for-all. Philadelphia defeated first place Brooklyn 6-4; and the New York Giants whipped Pittsburgh 11-1. Chicago and Milwaukee were idle.

Tebbetts-Walker Fight Was Good While It Lasted

By CHARLES FRANKEL CINCINNATI (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, the philosophizing manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, said today his fight last night with Hestatin Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals proved his first cuffs and wrestling were rusty.

Tebbetts and the Cardinal manager traded lefts and rights in the ninth inning of the ball game. They wrestled to the ground and rolled over and over.

"I got stepped on pretty often," Tebbetts grinned. "There must have been 50 guys on the field and they all must have stepped on me. It was one time I wish I was on the bottom of the pile."

Walker, who is getting a reputation as a staller around the circuit, also was good natured about the bout.

"It was just one of those things, when we were all teed up trying to win," Walker said. "I'm not mad at Tebbetts and I know he's not sore at me."

Tebbetts, a philosophy major at college, agreed.

"I had no objection to the way Walker was managging the ball club," Birdie said. "If they were taking extra time, that was up to the umpires. But when an out-felder and an infielder were warming up, I had to protest the violation of a league rule."

The Reds had tied up the ball game 4-4 in the ninth on Gus Bell's double, a single and a punt. Then Walker sent Ken Boyer to third and Pete Winceknet to first field.

Then catcher Bill Sarau and pitcher Paul Linaigne entered on the mound. Umpire Jacko Conant went onto the field and when he returned to the plate Tebbetts protested what he considered the warmups taken by Boyer and Winceknet.

Greenie Snap Streak; Leafs In Coastal Plain Loop Lead

COASTAL PLAIN LEAGUE STANDINGS

Table with 3 columns: Team, Won, Lost. Rocky Mount 16 11, Farnville 15 14, New Bern 15 11, Greenville 15 14, Williamson 12 16, Falkland 8 19.

Don't look now but there's somebody new on top in the Coastal Plain League. Rocky Mount's surging Leafs have taken over the top rung and last week's leader New Bern has descended to third.

These erratic movements came as no surprise, however. The first four positions have been tight as a hat band since opening day. First it was Williamson, then Greenville, then New Bern and now the strong Rocky Mount nine.

Greenville helped glide the way so Rocky Mount could slip into first place. The Greenvies trounced New Bern here Sunday afternoon by a 9 to 1 count. New Bern beat the locals in New Bern, though, Saturday night 6-5.

Meanwhile over in Rocky Mount, the Leafs were handing last-placed Falkland defeats in two games, 11-7 and 7-6. The wins were the Leafs' eighth in a row and gives them a respectable won-lost record of 16-11.

Farnville moved up a notch to second by halving a two-game set with Williamson 4-2 and 3-9. On Friday night of last week, Manager Bill Kennedy's Farmers really made a killing by humiliating New Bern 13-0 in a replay of a rained out game.

Stars over the weekend's play included James Earl Pollard of Greenville who hurled a neat six-hitter to snap the Greenvies' six-game losing streak. Jim Carbone of the New Bern team was its hitting star, collecting four hits in seven at bats in the two-game series.

Farmville's Fred Pittman stopped New Bern Friday night on three hits. Pittman also had three hits as did Streeter Tugwell for the winners. James Perry of Williamson hurled the Braves to their win over Farnville Sunday.

Yanks Must Win Without Scooter

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—The power-packed National Leaguers today were made early favorites over the American Leaguers as opposing managers rounded out their 25-man squads for the 22nd All-Star Game at Milwaukee Tuesday.

The Americans hold a 13-5 edge in the midsummer series and last year won at Cleveland 11-9 in a field day for batters.

Most experts believe another high-scoring game will result this time with the Nationals equipped for home run bombardments behind such siege guns as Cincinnati's Ted Kuszewski and Brooklyn's Duke Snider leading with 27 through the holiday weekend; Chicago's Ernie Banks with 21; and Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews with 20.

On paper, the Americans cannot match this. Their top home run producer is New York's Mickey Mantle with 18.

And it is questionable also if the junior circuit's pitching staff selected by their All-Star manager Al Lopez of Cleveland can surpass that of rival skipper Leo Durocher of the Giants.

Lopez has named nine hurlers, including four lefties, with a combined record of 76-43 through Monday's games. They are rookies Dick Donovan, 9-2, Chicago; Herb Score, 7-6, Cleveland; Whitey Ford, 10-3, and Bob Turley, 10-7, New York; Early Wynn 11-2, Cleveland; Billy Hoft, 8-3, Detroit; Bill Pierce 5-5, Chicago; Frank Sullivan 11-7, Boston; and Jim Wilson, 5-8, Baltimore.

Durocher failed to name any of his own Giant pitchers as he bottled his staff to seven with a combined 65-39 record. His right-handers will be Don Newcombe, 14-1, Brooklyn; Robin Roberts, 11-7, Philadelphia; Gene Conley, 9-5, Milwaukee; and Same Jones, 9-9, Chicago.

The lefties will be Harvey Haddix, 5-9, St. Louis; Joe Nuxhall, 6-5, Cincinnati; and rookie Luis Arroyo, 9-3, St. Louis.

The remainder of the starting lineups were determined in a vote of fans and each player winning out in the poll of a record 6,562,064 ballots must be used a minimum of three innings.

The opening lineups, including batting averages through Monday's games: American—1b, Mickey Vernon, Washington .282; 2b, Nellie Fox, Chicago .337; 3b, Jim Finigan.

Evans Wins Golf Junior Title

GOLF TOURNEY—sports Dick Evans won the Greenville Junior Boys Golf title at the local Golf and Country Club by defeating Wesley Topping, 4-3, in the finals.

Lucien Bryan Jr. was the medalist of the tournament. He posted a 79 in the qualifying rounds.

Not until the final month, the record shows, did Phil begin taking to the bench for extended periods and, to all intents, turn the job over to Miranda. And it was only in that month that the Indians were able to throw off their pursuers and pull away to their final comfortable lead of eight games.

National League Favored Tuesday

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—The power-packed National Leaguers today were made early favorites over the American Leaguers as opposing managers rounded out their 25-man squads for the 22nd All-Star Game at Milwaukee Tuesday.

The Americans hold a 13-5 edge in the midsummer series and last year won at Cleveland 11-9 in a field day for batters.

Most experts believe another high-scoring game will result this time with the Nationals equipped for home run bombardments behind such siege guns as Cincinnati's Ted Kuszewski and Brooklyn's Duke Snider leading with 27 through the holiday weekend; Chicago's Ernie Banks with 21; and Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews with 20.

Durocher's spare outfielders will be Willie Mays, New York; Hank Aaron, Milwaukee; and Frank Thomas, Pittsburgh.

The fans failed to select a single player of the league champion Indians for a starting spot. But Manager Lopez remedied that by naming, in addition to pitchers Score and Wynn, his own infielders Bobby Avila and Al Rosen and outfielders Al Smith and Larry Doby.

He also selected catcher Sherm Lollar and shortstop Chico Carrasquel of Chicago, infielder Vic Power of Kansas City and outfielder Jackie Jensen of Boston.

Veterans Meet Little Leaguers

It will be the young versus the younger tomorrow afternoon at Elm Street Park when the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 7032 meet the VFW Little League baseball team.

Following the baseball game, the Veterans Post will be host to the Little Leaguers and their parents at a weiner roast with cold drinks. VFW members and their families are invited.

Sid Allen will manage the Veterans and Elvie Forrest will manage the Little Leaguers. The game will start immediately following the regular Little League game.

Office Is Right For Boy Deputy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who visited here as national Selective Service director, was a deputy sheriff when he first visited Louisville 42 years ago.

His father, he said, was sheriff of a Northern Indiana county. "The office wasn't big enough for two men, and too large for one, so my father put a boy in the job of deputy," he said.

Things Look Up For Larry Parks, Wife

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Things are picking up for Larry Parks and his wife, Betty Garrett.

After a period of some drought in their careers, they are doing very well. They just finished their first film together, a Ford Theater show for TV. They play a husband and wife team of screen writers and a blood chameleon, Joy Lansing, complicates their marriage.

"We've appeared together in almost every other medium," Betty said on the set of the Screen Gems production. "Our next objective is making a feature together."

That plan will have to wait for their other activities. Larry is leaving for Syracuse, N.Y., where he'll play the Barney Greenwald part in "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" in summer stock. After that, Betty joins him and they'll head for England, where they'll play five weeks of vaudeville in the provinces.

"Those English audiences are wonderful," he explained. "It's the third time we've been back. Once they take a liking to you, you're in."

When they return, Larry goes into the touring company of "Tea House of the August Moon," playing the role of the Okinawan interpreter.

Betty's career is also getting its biggest push in years. She won the prize role in the film musical version of "My Sister Eileen," the part Rosalind Russell played in the 1942 movie and later in "Wonderful Town" on Broadway. Betty is tied up for a picture a year with Columbia for the next seven years. The preview reaction to "Eileen" indicates she's got a winner.

The Parks-Garrett activity contrasts with their life of the last few years. Both careers hit a slump after Larry testified about his one-time Communist connections. That was four years ago, and he hasn't made a feature film since.

He was asked if the major studios still decline to hire him. "Let's say I haven't worked for them yet," he replied. "Oh, I could have made lousy pictures. But what's the percentage in that?"

Prosperity, Inflation Start Out Like Twins

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Prosperity and inflation look much alike at the start. Prosperity is an accepted and welcomed guest this month.

But many fancy they see inflation hiding behind prosperity's skirts, tagging along with prosperity's friends, rising labor costs and booming demand.

Wages have been rising rapidly this year—as has just been dramatically pointed up by the settlements in the auto and steel industries.

The question is: How much of this is the reshuffling of the shares in prosperity between employer and employee—and how much of it will just mean higher prices for everyone?

Many businessmen, doubtless—and many stock traders, obviously—have bet on a rise in steel wages and prices as a sure thing. Stock traders have been bidding up prices of stocks in industries that would "profit" from inflation.

As a basic raw material for many industries, costlier steel will mean higher production costs in for that to trickle down (in whole or, more likely, in part) to the retail cost of goods those factories produce. And management faces the risk that customers may balk at price hikes, and thus make the whole wage-price structure shaky.

Between the end of World War II and this year, the base wage rates in the steel industry have risen seven times for a total of 60 1/2 cents an hour. Steel prices have risen seven times too, for a total of $36.84 a ton.

Now wages are going up an average of 15 cents an hour more. Price hikes, after they're worked out for various steel products, may average about $7.50 a ton.

The reason that wages and prices can go up at this time is simple: present prosperity.

If steel and auto leaders didn't really believe that good times are here for awhile, that plans for extensive plant and equipment spending are musts to meet even greater demand in the years ahead, they wouldn't have been willing now to grant as big wage increases as they did.

The question now is: Can they hold down other costs enough to keep price rises from getting out of hand and bringing on another round of inflation that hits everybody.

Chessplayer Is Feted In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Whom do you think was the big attraction for the Russians in yesterday's Independence Day party at the American Embassy here?

None other than American chess whiz Samuel Reshevsky of New York, a member of the team playing the Russians. Reshevsky already has whipped Mikhail Botvinnik, Russian ace, who was thought to be unbeatable.

All the Soviet bigwigs, including Premier Bulganin, Communist Party Secretary Khrushchev and Dept. Premier Malenkov insisted having their pictures taken with the shy chess player.

Unfinished Crime

By Helen McCloy

SYNOPSIS
The man with the dragging foot following Moxon down Fifth Avenue, New York, might be a cop. So, Moxon slipped into the nearby ten cent store which was just closing for the day, and deposited the fabulous "Star of India" ruby on the jewelry counter there. He'd be first in the store in the morning to retrieve it. But when Moxon stepped out into the street again, a blow felled him and he died beneath the wheels of a car. And as he died, Sara Deere bought the "Star of India" ruby for twenty cents. She was amazed to find Gerry Hone, an acquaintance in the house where she resided, standing at the counter beside her.

CHAPTER THREE
The policeman lost interest in Terry and Sara. "What color was the car?" he asked the sailor. "Black. A Hudson, I think." "License number?" "I didn't see that. But the driver was a little guy with white hair." "Hold it, sailor. You've got it wrong." Sara turned toward the drawing voice—a tall man, his face shadowed by a hat wider and paler than those easterners wear. "A woman was driving that car. A big wig and with blonde hair. And the car was dark blue. Not black. Looked like a Cadillac to me." "Yeah?" The sailor was truculent. The steely eyes ignored him. The calm voice went on. "It wasn't the driver's fault. That fool jumped right into his path. Suicide, maybe. Or drunk. I doubt if the driver saw him at all." "Did you notice the license number?" persisted the policeman. The tall man hesitated. "No. It was all so quick." "I don't see how anybody could have seen that license number!" This was a woman's voice. The precise form she gave each syllable contrasted with the untidy hair under her shapeless felt hat. "He was coming out of the 10-cent store and he seemed hurried. He reached the corner of 38th and Fifth just as the light on 38th turned red and we were all waiting. He stopped at the curb and then—it happened. He tripped. I think. Anyway, he fell suddenly. I was looking and—the car struck his back. I pulled myself together and went to see if there was anything I could do for the poor man. But this man and a woman with a dog had got there before me. They said he was dead. I don't see the woman now. The dog was a poodle and—"

"Lissen here, Mr. Policeman, they got it all wrong!" Another woman was pushing her way through the crowd to the policeman's side. "That guy didn't fall. He was pushed!" Her dress was a size too small for her conspicuously mammalian body—lime green printed with roses of a peculiarly insistent pink. But there was a warmth of compassion in her dark eyes the other faces had lacked. "Is that so?" The policeman could not be expected to welcome a witness who wanted to complicate a simple street accident. "And who pushed him?" "I didn't see. The crowd was packed too tight. But—" "Mom! I wanna niccream-soda!" Everyone but the policeman looked down at the small, shaven head beside her. "Just a minute hon. Mom's gotta tell the nice policeman about the killing she seen and then we'll get that soda. Like I says, Mr. Policeman, the guy didn't trip and he didn't jump. I was right near him and somebody shoved him. I don't mean on purpose. Just somebody in a hurry to be right on the edge of the curb when the light changed again. Maybe he meant to shove him aside." "OK. I'll have to take all your names and addresses." "Marguerite Weston. The woman with the book gave an address on West 23rd St." "And I'm Dora Balch," put in the lady of the roses. "Mrs. David Balch. I live in Stuyvesant town over by the East river." "And you?" "The man in the wide, pale hat looked as if he wished he had slipped away as the sailor had after giving his version of the story." "John Patterson, Hotel Pierre." "Home?" "2308 Locust Ave., Berkeley, California." Sara's voice stumbled. "If I could just sit down a minute—" Gerry himself looked startled and white. "There's an Automat at 42nd." He held her hand in his as they walked two blocks north. Around the corner, a flight of steps led down to a big cafeteria. They found an empty table near the door. "What a crowd there is!" marvelled Sara, used to tearooms. "And it's only 5:30." "We eat early. The place closes at 7—about the time your Aunt Caroline is giving the butler orders to break out the cocktail shaker." "Aunt Caroline drinks nothing but sherry and Stevens is not a butler. I wouldn't know the difference. What about some coffee here before we move on?" "Just what I need." Sara started to rise but Gerry shook his head. "Sit still. Chivalry is not dead at the Automat. But save my seat." He pulled Sara's cardboard box out of his side pocket. "Let me see it again." She took the box from him. He frowned as he turned to the cashier's counter just beyond their table. She lifted the lid. The smooth lump of red glass burned like the coal of a dying fire and seemed to tremble with its own heat. "Gee, ain't that pretty?" A stout woman in a white apron stood by the table. "Where'd you get it?" "At the 10-cent store up the street." "Then I'm going to get me one Group I of the Christian Woman's Fellowship met Monday night of last week at the church with Mrs. Ralf Evans as hostess.

In the absence of the chairman, Miss Agnes Quimery presided over the business meeting, at which time the budget for next year was discussed.

Mrs. Evans was devotional leader. Her subject was "Unconquered Highways." Mrs. J. B. Davis led the program of Hidden Answers from the World Call.

After the benediction the hostess served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. G. M. Shirley was hostess Tuesday night, June 28, to 13 members of the Christian Woman's Fellowship. Mrs. R. D. Rouse presided. Mrs. Fred Smith conducted the inspiring devotional meditation. The program of Hidden Answers from the World Call was led by Mrs. W. A. Frost.

During the business session plans for the coming year were discussed. The meeting was closed with the benediction.

The hostess served a delicious sweet course of salted nuts and fruit punch.

Mrs. Sam Flanagan was hostess to Group III of the Christian Woman's Fellowship at her home on Tuesday night of last week.

An inspiring devotional, "How to Cultivate the Habit of Sympathy," was led by Mrs. Ted Albritton. She found her text in Romans 12:15. Mrs. Lloyd Smith conducted the program of Hidden Answers from the World Call.

After a brief business session during which church duties for the month were assigned to the group, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Group 4 of the Christian Church met Tuesday afternoon of last week with Mrs. Robert Lee Smith, Mrs. S. D. Bundy presided and reported on the executive meeting.

Mrs. R. L. Corbett, using a text from Timothy 2:1, 3 and 10, spoke on "Give Me Courage O God" for the meditative period.

Mrs. Z. B. T. Cox led the program of Hidden Answers from the World Call.

Delicious refreshments of sherbet cookies and salted nuts were served by the hostess.

Group 5 of the Christian Woman's Fellowship met on Monday night of last week with Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

The devotional was given by Mrs. T. A. Mizelle, who read the topic "Happiness, Kindness and Responsibility." Scripture reference was Proverbs 15:1-23.

Mrs. W. A. Pollard Jr. gave a report from the executive committee, stating the new goals for the coming year. She announced that the circle is planning a school of missions.

The World Call program was led by Mrs. A. C. Turnage. At this time the group welcomed the new secretary for the year, Mrs. J. E. Bynum, and a new member, Mrs. Addie Moore. Mrs. J. B. Frizzle of Maury was welcomed as a guest to the meeting.

The hostess served lime ice with ginger ale, cheese rounds, fruit bars, cookies and salted nuts during a delightful social hour to 12 members.

My boy friend is on the stingy side." She hoisted her tray and moved on to the next table.

It was "pretty" in its own peculiar way. Much more so than the bracelet of green glass squares. This single blob of red was almost beautiful in its shameless size and glitter.

The hinged lid fell back in place as she lifted the pendant out of the box. She fastened the chain around her neck. No safety catch, of course, just a hook and eye. The pendant lay at the base of her throat, cold, surprisingly heavy. She took a small mirror out of her handbag to study the effect, but there was none. The chain was too long for her rather high necked blouse. The pendant had slipped down under the lapels of white silk that hid it completely, and the chain itself was masked by the collar around her neck.

"White coffee or black?" Gerry was at her side again.

"Black, please."

He saw the closed box on the table, stuffed it into his side pocket. "Now I'll see the cashier."

Sara turned her head to watch. Halfway down the room he fought his way expertly through the long, double line at the steam table. A voice called: "Hi! Roast beef tonight and we just got down to where it's rare!" Sara could not hear an answer, but she saw his

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors dominated trading today in the stock market with a jump ahead of more than 15 points on the strength of a proposed three-for-one split.

The market as a whole was higher at the start and then eased back from its best in the early afternoon. There were many gains of 1 to 3 points.

Trading was at a fast pace throughout with the rate hitting the three-million mark. Yesterday's total was 2,680,000 shares with the market higher.

General Motors closed yesterday at 113 3/4 up 3-6, and after the close directors proposed that the stock be split three-for-one. The stock in 1950 reached a price of 99 1/2 and was split two-for-one.

Today there was a delay of one hour and 45 minutes on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange while members who specialize in trading in the stock and governing all orders received to that time. A burst of trading began immediately, and the price began to fall back. Most of the stock on that initial burst of trading was on the tape at around 125 to a top of 128 1/2.

Du Pont, up 10 1/2 yesterday, opened today on a block of 3,500 shares up 6 at 240 1/2. It spent a great part of the session around that figure. Du Pont owns some 21 million shares of General Motors common stock and reaps a direct benefit from gains in GM.

Chrysler opened on 7,000 shares up 3/4 at 82 and then pushed its gains rapidly to around 3 points as General Motors surged into the spotlight.

Standard Oil (N.J.), long a candidate for a split, rushed up between

Bingo Operators Given Support

MANTEO, N. C. (AP)—Bingo operators at Nags Head, facing a hearing Saturday on court injunction aimed at closing their stands, got support from the Dare County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

The commissioners voted 4-1 for a resolution favoring operation of the bingo stands for the period for which such concessions have already been licensed.

The bingo operators pointed out that the county has collected a $500 license fee from each stand for operation this year.

A petition signed by Mrs. Marjorie Wescott and Mrs. Virginia P. Wescott, both of Manteo, challenged the bingo operations on the ground that the local law legalizing bingo in Dare County is unconstitutional. Superior Court Judge Chester Morris will hear a hearing in the matter at Orluituck Saturday.

Mrs. Marjorie Wescott said that since the petition was filed she had received an anonymous letter, postmarked from Elizabeth City, threatening to kidnap her 15-year-old daughter, Janet. F. B. I. agents are investigating.

Complications In One Little Word

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—One little word complicated a million-dollar bequest today.

Dr. C. T. Young, of Plant City, who died March 27, left a will specifying that the bulk of his estate go to the "Presbyterian Church of the United States (Southern Division)."

The executor noting that the correct form of the name of that church is the "Presbyterian Church in the United States," asked County Judge William C. Brooker if the million dollars would properly be turned over to that church.

Wrecked Truck In Safety Move

BECKETT, Mass. (AP)—Although driver Wallace Danson, 23, of Grand Rapids, Mich., knew his tractor trailer was loaded with 513 crates of eggs, he deliberately caused his truck to turn over on its side.

Police credited Danson's move with saving life and limb—even if it did smash the eggs.

Danson brought the truck over on its side when he discovered his brakes were out of order on a downgrade. The truck skidded 150 feet but Danson was unhurt.

Extra Power For Local TV Station

Workmen are shown above as they unload equipment which will increase Television Station WNCT's power to 316,000 watts video and 158,000 watts audio. The station presently operates on a power of 100,000 video and 56,000 watts audio. A station spokesman says the increased power will add about seven miles to the perimeter of the station's coverage area. It will also give a much stronger signal for set owners in fringe areas. ### Fifty-Four Cases Heard In Friday's Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court last Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 54 cases, 15 of them involving violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws.

Theodore C. Nelson, address unknown to police, worthless check, paid check and costs.

Roosevelt Langley, Negro, 606-A Tyson street, hit and run, prayer for judgment continued.

Ben F. Gwaltney, 1213 Washington street, drunk and public nuisance, was called and he failed to answer. An instant capias was issued for him.

Clarence Tripp, Rt. 3, Greenville, driving drunk 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The judgment also provides that he shall not drive a motor vehicle for a year. He appealed. The court recommended that his operator's license be suspended pending appeal. For careless and reckless driving, Tripp was given 30 days, suspended on payment of costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be suspended pending appeal.

Kenneth R. Harris, of Washington, failure to stop at a red light, paid $10.

Wesley Braxton, Rt. 4, Greenville, driving drunk, 90 days, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a year.

Paragiotis I. Kanaganian of Weldon, paid $10 for failure to give hand signal. This case was retained for further order.

Preston Brown, Negro, drunk and disorderly, ordered to pay $12.50 hospital bill.

Ray Jones, 206 Grande avenue, drunk and disorderly, $20, costs deducted.

No operator's license: James E. Hardee, Negro, was not guilty.

Harger G. King, Negro, of Ayden, paid $50 and costs for carrying a concealed weapon. The court gave him 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25 and costs, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for six months.

Affray: Carrie G. Grimes, Negro, 1102-B Broad street, and Doris L. Hines, Negro, 706 Roosevelt street, each paid court costs and they are to be of good behavior for six months.

Thomas Hardy Jr., Negro, 1308 Mill street, no operator's license, paid costs.

Sylvester Vick Jr., Greenville Hotel, drunk and disorderly, was called and he failed to answer. An instant capias was issued for him.

Drunk: J. C. Clark, Negro, 106 Pitt street, $10; Hilton Adams, Rt. 6, Greenville, $10; Ruby Bass, Route 1, Greenville, $15.

John B. Barrett, 805 James street, was not guilty of making an improper turn.

Herbert L. Lewis, Rt. 2, Greenville, was found guilty of driving drunk and given 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for 12 months. The charge of careless and reckless driving was combined with this case. The court did not press the two cases about possession of non-tax paid whiskey and transporting illegal whiskey.

Possession of non-tax paid whiskey: Almata L. McCoy, 204 West 14th street, $25; Matilda Bunch, 1409 Green street, illegal whiskey for sale, $100 and costs and she is not to possess intoxicating beverages; David E. Fleming, Negro, address unknown to police, 30 days to be served consecutively. News N

Marston Begins Duties At Bank

John T. (Jack) Marston, Jr., former vice president of the First and Merchants National Bank of Richmond, Va., today assumed his duties as executive vice president of the State Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville.

Marston began his duties today as chief executive officer of the bank succeeding Cashier John Mitchell who has been the bank's top executive officer for the past 24 years. Officials of the bank have said Mitchell, who informed the directors of the bank more than a year ago of his desire to retire, will remain with the bank as long as necessary for Marston to become acquainted with local operations.

The announcement of Marston's appointment as executive vice president of the State Bank and Trust Co. was made here June 11 by bank officials. Marston, 42, has been associated with the $200 million Richmond bank since 1929 and served in various capacities with that financial institution rising to the vice-presidency in 1954. Local bank officials termed the new executive vice president of the State Bank "a top man in banking circles."

Arrested For Dumping Melons

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A farmer was arrested yesterday for trying to dump a truckload of his cantaloupes on the downtown square.

W. Carl Wester, 59, claimed Tyler stores were selling Arizona melons and "I can't get 2 cents for mine." He began dumping his melons at 11 a.m. but Wester must appear in City Court on charges of disturbing the peace.

Claim Backing In ROK Buildup

Opines Traffic Safety Practiced

RALEIGH (AP)—In view of the heavy volume of traffic, North Carolina's highway fatality toll for the July 4 weekend might have been higher had it not been for the way Tar Heel drivers conducted themselves.

This opinion was voiced yesterday by Highway Patrol Commander James R. Smith. He said traffic during the weekend was "consistently the heaviest on all the roads I traveled that I ever saw."

Smith extended his "personal and official appreciation to the public for the cooperation they gave us."

A total of 17 persons were killed during the holiday weekend as compared with 19 for the same holiday period last year.

Smith said he drove a total of 1,500 miles checking on traffic conditions and patrol operations. He added:

"My observation was that the majority of the people realized the seriousness of the problem and were complying with traffic laws. I did not see a single traffic violation I could have made an arrest on. Generally, the motorists were driving between 45 and 50 miles per hour and were properly spaced."

Radar Warning Lines Progress

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Construction of two radar warning lines across Canada is "really rolling," officials say. But it probably will take two years more to complete them.

Each of the warning systems will be nearly 2,000 miles long. The DEW (distant early warning) line runs roughly along Canada's arctic coast. It is costing 250 millions of U.S. money. The mid-Canada line along the 55th Parallel, is costing 190 millions of Canadian funds. The U.S. and Canadian governments are cooperating in the projects.

Equipment moves in by both air and sea. Last winter 4,000 flights carried 20,000 tons of equipment to the DEW line, and now the flights are increasing with better weather. Twenty-ton tractors and heavy earth-moving equipment have been taken north in U.S. C-124s.

Some of the larger stations will need 1,200 tons of diesel fuel a year. That indicates the size of the job of maintaining the stations once they're built.

Though purely military, the stations may provide information for development of mining or other industries in the north.

Rains Take Toll In North Japan

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—The Hokkaido prefectural government today estimated the damages from Hokkaido's worst rainstorm and flood in 10 years at 15 billion yen (about 44 million dollars).

Up to 5 inches of rain lashed the area Sunday night and Monday.

Hokkaido is Japan's northernmost island. Incomplete figures placed the death toll at 12 dead and 32 missing. Thirty-six people were seriously injured, while 24,000 houses and 53,900 acres of land were inundated.

U.S. helicopters rescued more than 60 Japanese adults and children from the three towns worst hit by rampaging floodwaters.

Iron is 11.5 times as heavy as water.
