Quantity Of Salk Vaccine Released

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service today released approximately 300,000 shots of Salk polio vaccine, tested under new standards. It is the first vaccine to be released since June 6.

The vaccine was produced by the Wyeth Laboratories of Marietta, Pa. A health service spokesman said the vaccine had been in process when revised production standards were laid down on May 28.

The health service said the release brings to 1,837,000 cubic centimeters the total amount of vaccine made available for use since the adoption of the revised standards. Prior to that date, approximately 9,000,000 ccs had been made available since the beginning of the vaccination program on April 12.

Each vaccination shot requires one cc of vaccine. The health service also announced:

- 1. It has formulated a "tentative program for developmental research aimed at discovering new knowledge immediately applicable to the further improvement and testing of poliomyelitis vaccine." 2. It has assigned scientists to plants of the six vaccine manufacturers who "will visit the plants frequently in order to facilitate more rapid exchange of information between scientists of the pharmaceutical industry and the federal government."

The statement said that the six scientists—one is assigned to each company—"will serve as technical aides on poliomyelitis vaccine production and testing procedures and will help in the coordination of industry's participation in development research seeking improvements in vaccine production and testing techniques."

The statement added: "This will insure that all knowledge concerning vaccine production and consistency of test results will be available to the interested groups."

"The closer liaison provided by this activity is also expected to strengthen the expanded research program of the Division of Biological Standards. The scientists will make their first trips to the pharmaceutical plants within two weeks."

As to the "tentative program for developmental research" on the vaccine, Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele said:

"Obtaining this type of information is one of the principal responsibilities of the Division of Biological Standards, assisted by the technical advisory committee on poliomyelitis vaccine. The program as presently planned will consist of a series of research projects especially directed at securing scientific information in the shortest possible time."

The Public Health Service said the research program "will consider other strains of poliomyelitis virus for inclusion in the vaccine, improved tests for potency, the improvement of monkey safety tests, the development of concentration methods for use both in safety testing and in routine production processes, and studies on standardization of tissue culture susceptibility to poliomyelitis virus."

Dulles Convinced Soviet Is Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles' June 10 comment that the Russian economic system "is on the point of collapsing" raised new questions today of Soviet aims and strength at the July 18 summit conference.

Dulles expressed his view in testimony made public yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee. He said the Soviets are "over-expanded, unable to meet their commitments," and are seeking "some respite against strains" of trying to keep pace with the West.

Release of his testimony, given in connection with foreign aid appropriations, brought up again the question whether the Russians will be negotiating from strength or weakness at the Geneva conference of President Eisenhower and the Prime Ministers of Russia, Britain and France.

The testimony which was released did not show Dulles giving any details about possible Russian collapse.

Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist Party leader, took occasion recently to comment that the Western nations would be disappointed if they believed Russia was going to the Big Four meeting in weakness. Such an attitude, he said, might foredoom the conference.

Asked about the Khrushchev statement, President Eisenhower said at his news conference Wednesday that "so far as I know there is no individual in this government that has ever said that the Russians, the Soviets, are coming to any conference weak."

"Of course, we recognize their great military strength in the world."

The State Department declined to comment last night when asked how the Dulles and Eisenhower comments could be reconciled.

Names Five New ECC Trustees

Gov. Hodges yesterday announced the appointment of five new members of the East Carolina College Board of Trustees.

New appointees are C. H. Larkins of Kinston, Mrs. William B. Dimstead of Durbin and Sen. Elton Aydtelt of Elizabeth City. They succeed Jane Hall of Raleigh, Janet Palmer of Hookerton and R. J. White of Conway whose terms expire.

In addition Rep. W. W. Taylor Jr. of Warrenton was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Ralph M. Garrett of Greenville and former Judge Luther Hamilton of Morehead City is to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Merrill Evans of Ashoket.

The three who were appointed to full terms will leave the board June 30, 1961. Taylor's term expires June 30, 1957 and Hamilton's term will expire June 30, 1959.

Inconclusive Results In Exhuming Victims

DO MURDER VICTIMS LIE HERE?—That was the question local law enforcement officers were hoping to answer yesterday when the bodies of three Negroes were exhumed from their grave near Roundtree. In the above photo workers are shown hauling theasket from the ground but when it was opened an examination showed only that the victims probably had been breathing at the time of death. Suspicions had been aroused concerning the death of the husband, wife and 12-year-old son, after an axe-bearing human blood was found following their deaths early Saturday morning. The condition of the victims yesterday was such as to prevent discovery of whether or not they had been struck by the axe prior to the fire. (Reflector Photo by Bob Hilldrup)

Coast Guard Calls SOS Signal Hoax

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard called off a search today for a ship which was reported sinking yesterday. The alarm was "undoubtedly a hoax," the service said.

The search began at 2:25 a.m. yesterday when a distress call was received over radiotelephone. The call purportedly came from a fishing boat which identified itself as the Blue Star. It said it was sinking after striking a "strange object" off the New Jersey coast.

An immediate search by ship and plane began. No sign of a disaster could be found. "Our evaluation is there is nothing out there," Lt. Cmdr. James Doyle, Coast Guard public information officer, said today.

He noted that the search found only a defective life preserver and an oil slick in the area where the boat was supposed to have sunk. Such discoveries are not uncommon, the Coast Guard said. A boiler room explosion reportedly set the craft aflame, blocking access to rafts and lifejackets.

The last report from the mystery-shrouded craft was relayed to the Coast Guard by a commercial vessel at 3:50 a.m.

Tornado Strikes In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A tornado which cut a five-mile swath through a section of western Minnesota late yesterday killed a 20-month-old boy, injured at least 13 others and cut a path of destruction as far east as Twin Cities.

Hardest hit was a 30-mile stretch west of Marshall, Minn., where the fury of the winds tore down farm buildings, flattened crops and ripped power and telephone lines. Hail, then a heavy rain fell over most of the southern half of the state.

Believes Russian Jet Is Stronger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Russian bombers paraded over Moscow apparently have jet engines more powerful than any now used by American aircraft, says John R. Alison, vice president of Northrop Aircraft Co.

He said pictures of the Russian engines indicate they develop 15,000 or more pounds of thrust—more than any American jets flown operationally.

Flashing New $100 Bills At Las Vegas Dice Game Starts Big Police Probe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two men brightening the dice tables with new $100 bills touched off a transcontinental police investigation of their possible connection with the biggest cash bank robbery on record.

New York police summoned victims of the bank robbery to view photographs of the two today. And experts are checking their fingerprints in search of a link with gunmen who took $305,000 from Chase Manhattan Bank in Queens, N.Y., last April 6.

Police here arrested Frank Ellsworth, 36, and Roy Wilson, 33, after casino cashiers told how they moved from one gaming table to another buying chips with crisp $100 bills.

U.S. Will Warn Turncoats They Might Be Tried

HONG KONG (AP)—U. S. and British authorities today announced their plans to receive three turncoat American POWs expected to come out of Red China tomorrow.

British immigration authorities will meet them when they cross the bridge over the Shumchun River frontier, 32 miles north of Hong Kong, and take them to the colony immigration office.

The three men are Lewis W. Griggs of Jacksonville, Tex.; Otto G. Bell of Olympia, Wash.; and William A. Cowart of Dalton, Ga. They were among 23 American prisoners who chose not to return to the United States after the Korean armistice. All three were corporals when they were captured but were given dishonorable discharges after they chose communism.

S. M. Backe of Calexico, Calif., chief of the U. S. consular section here, will interview the men to determine if they have renounced American citizenship. He will inform each man that should he return home he will be "subject to American law and to the United States Code of Military Justice for any wrongful act" he may have committed.

The U. S. consulate will supply passports for the men to travel only to the United States. The consulate today booked third class passage for the three aboard the liner President Cleveland, sailing Monday.

Ex-Marine Swims Difficult Strait

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—Bert Thomas, a former U. S. Marine, swam Juan de Fuca Strait today after being held for more than an hour just 300 yards off shore by the icy current. It is the first time the strait has been conquered by a swimmer.

Thomas reached shore at 6:06 a. m. (8:06 a. m. EST), 11 hours and 10 minutes after he started. The 270-pound logger from Tacoma, Wash., had made four previous attempts to swim the 18.3-mile stretch of icy, tide-swept water that separates southwest British Columbia and northwest Washington. He headed from the American to the Canadian side this time.

House Committee Advises 20 Per Cent Slash Cut Foreign Aid Sum

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended a 20 per cent cut, amounting to $677,900,000 in funds requested by President Eisenhower to finance the foreign aid program.

In sending to the House floor for debate next week a $2,638,741,750 money bill, the committee complained of a "chaotic fiscal situation" in the military aid part of the program. It estimates that over last-minute obligation of funds in what it said was an obvious move to prevent them from being rescinded.

The biggest cash cut imposed by the committee was 430 million dollars chopped from the 1 1/2 billion requested for military assistance. The 705 millions approved, the committee said, "should prove adequate."

The committee commented in a report drafted by Rep. Passman (D-La.) that estimates of unobligated balances in the military part of the program on June 30 ranged from 100 to 932 million dollars, as said the Defense Department lastly obligated $61 million during June despite a written understanding with the committee that 430 million of unobligated balances should not be released for "reservation" by the department. For direct forces support, the committee recommended 305 million, a cut of $12,220,000. This program is designed to give friendly nations military equipment other than tanks, guns and planes.

For defense support—economic aid to countries maintaining military forces—the committee allocated the full 70 million requested for Europe and the entire 103 1/2 million asked for the Near East and Africa. It cut $52,800,000 from $27,800,000 requested for Asia, noting that on April 30 this program had $1,056,900,000 in unobligated balances.

For development assistance—economic aid for underdeveloped countries—the committee recommended: Near East and Africa, 73 million; Asia, 61 million, a cut of 10 million in funds requested for India.

American Republics, the entire $6 million requested. It allotted 125 million for the 146 1/2 million requested for technical cooperation of underdeveloped areas and approved the entire $4 million asked for United Nations technical programs. For other programs it recommended:

The full 100 million for a special presidential fund to cover unforeseen contingencies; 21 million for special assistance in West Germany and Austria; 10 million for the intergovernmental committee for European migration; a millior for the U. N. refugee fund; 6 million for the program of aid to escapees from Iron Curtain areas; 14 1/2 million for the U. N. children's fund; 60 million for the Palestine refugee program; 11 1/2 million for ocean freight charges on voluntary relief shipments and surplus agricultural commodities; 23 1/2 million for administrative expenses, and 100 million for the President's fund for Asian economic development.

The latter allotment represented a 50 per cent cut.

Russell Fighting Call On Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Cal.) moved today to prevent compulsory reserve training for veterans. He proposed instead a $400 "bonus" for any veteran who volunteers for three years of active reserve training with "combat units of the Army or Marine Corps."

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thus proposed a drastic change in President Eisenhower's program to strengthen military reserves. The program is aimed at building the present 700,000-man force to 2,900,000 by 1960.

As passed by the House, the bill would provide that a reservist who fails to keep up with his training schedule may be recalled for 45 days of active duty. Under present law, a service man is supposed to serve eight years of active and reserve duty but reserve training has not been enforced. The House-passed bill would cut the total to six years.

Russell contends that 800,000 World War II veterans were recalled to the Korean war while many young men with no prior military service escaped duty altogether.

Announcing his plan, Russell said he also would propose that training for the national reserve program could be assigned to National Guard units. "This could raise a new fight over segregation."

House Leaders dropped all reference to the National Guard from the reserve bill after Rep. Powell (D-N.Y.) won approval of an anti-segregation amendment that stalled the legislation for six weeks in the House.

Powell failed in another effort to attach an anti-segregation rider to the revised bill which finally passed the House last week after urgent appeals by Eisenhower and defense officials.

Among witnesses listed today was Clarence Mitchell, spokesman for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People who has been pressing for anti-segregation amendments to reserve, school and housing legislation.

Russell said his bonus plan would not apply to the Air Force or Navy reserves "because they have testified they can get all the men they need through volunteers."

Burmese Premier Says Statement 'Own View'

DETROIT (AP)—Prime Minister U Nu of Burma explained yesterday how he got the impression in Washington "that most of the responsible people are not against" the admission of Red China to the United Nations and that it was a matter of timing. U Nu said it was his own "view" and nothing that was said specifically by anyone.

Announcing a policy of answering no more questions by newsmen during his stay in the United States, U Nu explained his remark on Red China at a news conference in New York.

U Nu's statement said the question did not come up specifically "as an item of discussion during my stay in Washington. The matter of the easing of tensions between the United States and China was discussed generally, my view being that the seating of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations would contribute toward the easing of tensions."

When that was mentioned, the response I got was that China should first behave.

"From this I formed the impression, for which of course I assume sole responsibility, that the entry of the People's Republic of China into the United Nations was, therefore a matter of timing."

His remarks in New York had stirred up a number of Congress members and led to a demand by Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.) that the Prime Minister name the "responsible officials" who gave him that impression.

In Washington yesterday, the State Department authorized a statement that "there has been no change in United States policy to oppose the seating in the United Nations of a representative of the Chinese Communist regime."

Peron Fires 105 Officers Taking Part In Revolt

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Juan D. Peron has fired 105 officers of the Argentine navy and 25 of the air force for the aerial bombing of his office in the Government House in the June 16 revolt.

The decree of dismissals was issued last night after the Supreme Council of the armed forces declared these officers to be rebels. Most of them are refugees in neighboring Uruguay. They flew there after the rebellion fell through.

The Council is trying others caught in Buenos Aires including the navy minister at the time of the revolt, Rear Adm. Anibal O. Olivieri, and two other admirals. The Council at one time had 800 prisoners but most have been found blameless and freed. It has not said how many more are still being questioned.

Federal Judge Rules Virginia Park Cannot Keep Segregation

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge has ruled Virginia cannot continue racial segregation in a state-owned park hitherto reserved for whites under private lease.

Judge Walter Hoffman ruled yesterday the state cannot deny Negroes the use of Seashore State Park near Cape Henry and cannot make any lease with a private operator that would discriminate against any race.

Authorities indicated the ruling unless upheld, would prevent the lease—possibly even the sale—of public schools for private, segregated operation.

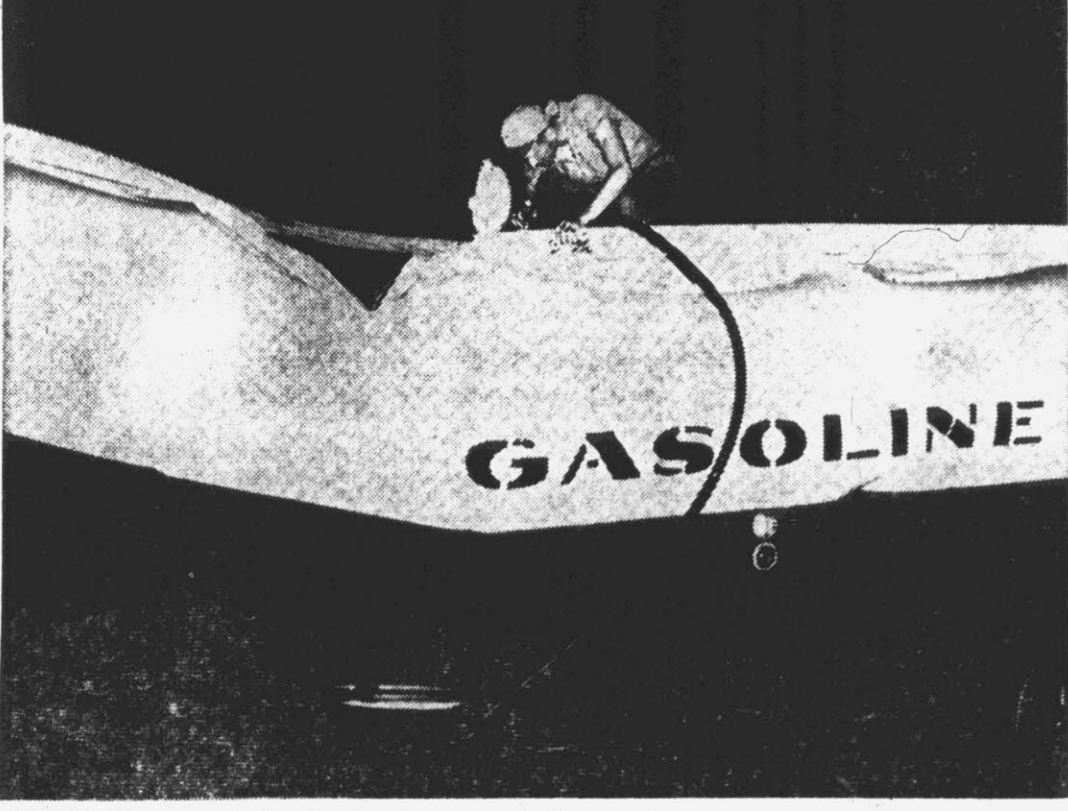

Hoffman said he was aware of "the impact of this decision on the state park system in Virginia. The state operates eight parks exclusively for whites and a ninth for Negroes."

The judge said the "contention that a normal lessor-lessee relationship should be permitted in leases of public property must give way to the constitutional rights of citizens as a whole."

Virginia Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. said in Richmond he had expected the state to be enjoined from excluding Negroes from Seashore Park under state operation. A precedent had been set earlier this year by the U. S. Circuit Court ruling out segregation in Maryland public parks.

But Almond indicated he regarded as highly debatable whether the state could be prevented from leasing the property to a

Well, We Do Have Buckling Gas Trucks

California may have its burrowing gas trucks. Greenville has its crumpling gas trucks. Attendants at Clarence Waters Service Station on North Green St. were waiting last night for a hose to siphon out the cargo of this gas truck when all of a sudden the truck buckled in the middle. An investigation showed that the hose through which the siphon hose was drawing off the tanker's contents had closed, preventing air from going into the tank to replace the fluid. As a result a vacuum was created and the air pressure from the outside flattened the tank. Reflector photo by Bob Hilldrup

Methodist Circle Reviews History Of Society

BETHEL—Circle Number One of the Methodist Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Charlie Whitehurst and Mrs. H. V. Staton in the home of the former. There were 13 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Winfred Thigpen gave the devotion. She read the Beatitudes and made a few remarks about each. She closed with a timely prayer.
Mrs. D. T. House, program chairman, described the purpose of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She also explained the duties of each officer after which she read a history of the local society which was organized in 1940. The first president was Mrs. C. M. Burton and the secretary and treasurer was Mrs. J. L. Brown.

Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. House presided at the business meeting. The secretary, Mrs. Thigpen, read the minutes of the last meeting which stood approved. Other regular matters were discussed and transacted. The benediction was pronounced.
The hostesses served a salad course with iced tea during the social hour.

Gay Riverboat Party Is Staged For Princess

LONDON (AP)—Empty champagne bottles floated down the muddy Thames today, final survivors of a riverboat party that saw Princess Margaret dance the Charleston under a big mellow moon.

"I gave one of these parties five years ago," said the 35-year-old Duke of Devonshire. "It was a jolly good show, so I decided to do it again."

London papers hailed it as the gayest fling of the year and one said it cost the Duke $4,300.

The host hired two riverboats, rented the Dixieland music of Humphrey Lyttelton and filled the two craft with nobility. The top-ranking guests were Margaret and her 18-year-old cousin, Princess Alexandra.

Margaret came informal in a black short sleeved blouse and a white calypso skirt decorated with dancing figures.

Coming aboard, Alexandra almost fell into the Thames as she plunked between the two boats moved an inch or so. The plank righted itself. The only casualties were three straw hats that floated off in the warm summer night.

A police boat and a speedboat in which two expert lifesavers were chugged behind the party, just in case. Their services were not needed.

Princess Margaret danced all evening. After a dinner of salmon, lobster chicken, ham and strawberries and cream, and some more dancing, she got off at Richmond at 3 a.m.

Princess Alexandra stayed on until the last Charleston—London's rage step of the moment—at 4:30.

Special training for the child with special problems was emphasized at East Carolina College Thursday at a conference dealing with the education of children having speech or hearing disorders, or both, and of mentally retarded children.

Approximately a hundred parents, teachers, and school administrators from Eastern and Piedmont North Carolina participated in the activities of the conference.

Featured speakers included Crayton Walker, executive director of the American Hearing Society, Washington, D. C.; Dr. John R. Peck, director of special education in the Greensboro public schools; Julia Fisher, nurse in the Pitt County Health Department; and Frances Henry, visiting professor of special education at East Carolina.

Dr. Peck, speaking at a morning session, defined and analyzed the characteristics of four types of mentally retarded children. It is important, he emphasized, to determine to which type a child belongs so that the education provided may be suited to the needs. His presentation also a clear and practical discussion of methods of teaching the mentally retarded.

Miss Fisher told of the aims and activities of various community agencies helpful to those engaged in special education work.

"Hearing conservation," Mr. Walker declared at a luncheon meeting, "is everybody's business." About four per cent of the children in the nation's schools have a hearing loss, he stated. Discussing the value of a community-wide hearing conservation program, he urged early diagnosis and an effective follow-up of treatment and rehabilitation.

Miss Henry was guest speaker at an afternoon meeting of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children. Mrs. Vero H. Davenport of Washington, N. C., president, acted as chairman. Miss Henry discussed body chemistry and nutritive factors related to the child's level of learning.

Work at the East Carolina Speech and Hearing Clinic, including both group and individual therapy, was demonstrated during the morning. Fourteen North Carolina teachers and school administrators now enrolled for work there illustrated methods of instruction as they worked with sixteen young people from seven to eighteen years of age who have received help with their problems this summer at the college.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
As everybody knows—though we didn't—this week marks the 100th anniversary of the first appearance of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," which came out on or about July 4, 1855. . . . One of the most famous and least understood of all American poets, it has gone into numerous editions and has circulated in almost every country where English is read and spoken. . . . We salute Walt Whitman, and quote for you from one of our favorite, "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd," written on the occasion of Lincoln's death in 1865—when it was lilac time in Brooklyn, where Whitman wrote it:

When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd,
And the great star early droop'd in the western sky in the night,
I mourn'd, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring,
Trinity sure to me you bring,
Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star in the west,
And thought of him I love.

Detective Story
There's a fascinating piece about detective stories and what has happened to them in this week's N.Y. Times Book Review, by Anthony Boucher, who writes detective stories himself and reviews them with unerring rapidity. . . . He bemoans the fact that modern detectives don't act the way they used to do in stories about them written a few decades ago. He also reminds us that just 25 years ago on July 7, 1890, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle died, Doyle, as you certainly remember, created the inimitable Sherlock Holmes, who, with his alter ego, Dr. John H. Watson—"Elementary, dear Watson, elementary!"—was once the ideal of perfection of all private detectives. . . . And we still like him a lot better than Mike Hammer, for instance, whom Mickey Spillane has made famous, but who will never survive as Sherlock Holmes has, but will, we trust, die as violently and finally as the many youngsters he has beaten into bloody pulp.

Futures
For August, the Literary Guild has picked "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit," by Sloan Wilson, to be published by Simon and Schuster on July 18. . . . And from Macmillan, on the 26th of this month, comes a book about something we always wonder about, "The Future of American Prosperity," by Philip Wernette, who answers such intriguing questions as these—or at the least the publisher says he does: How can we avoid depressions? (That is a hot one, no?) How can we insure expanding production and a rising living standard? Will the U.S. population skyrocket or level off? We know the answer to that one already—just visit the maternity ward at the Pitt Memorial Hospital if you want to find out for yourself! If Dr. Wernette—who is a professor of Business Administration at the University of Michigan—answers all these questions, "Gone With the Wind" with no trouble at all. . . .

Coming in September: "Love Poems," by Gloria Vanderbilt, no less—described by her publisher, World, as "intensely personal" expressions about "young love" and "the ecstasy of fulfillment." Coming from a girl with as much money as Gloria Vanderbilt has, these poems certainly should have value—and we know she never had to worry about whether or not the man she married could make a living, as most girls do these days. . . .

Paperbacks Again
Viking Press is coming out with a series of reprints of its famous "Portable" editions of great authors. In proper covers and priced miraculously low at $1.25. . . . We think these are some of the best bargains on the book market, and we hope some of the local emporiums will stock a title or two—there are Portable editions of Walt Whitman—see above—Oscar Wilde (coming in September), Mark Twain, Rabelais, D. H. Lawrence, Dante, Chekhov, Hawthorne, Voltaire and Plato, just to name a few. . . . Portable Books are Viking's venture into the Great Books field, and a very successful one, too. Each edition contains examples of the best work of the greatest authors, and at $1.25 any one of them is a steal indeed.

Today's Review
THE DARBY TRIAL, by Dick Pearce, Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co., 1954. $3.50
For those readers who enjoy the unfolding of a courtroom drama, with some accompanying cloak and dagger activities, The Darby Trial will provide some hours of interesting reading. . . . It is the account of the attempt of young assistant attorney general Tom Rogers to expose Dr. Claude T. Darby, the prophet of the Congregation of the Militant Meek, as one of the top underground functionaries of the Communist Party in the United States. In this effort Rogers is aided by a brisk F.B.I. agent and by a collection of ex-Communist witnesses, all unhappy souls ridden by guilt and frustration of varying degrees and kinds. On his side, Dr. Darby has the efficient apparatus of the Communist underground plus a devoted following of assorted individuals who have fallen under the spell of the Doctor's persuasive charm and his announced purpose of establishing a Kingdom of Heaven on earth. . . . When finally the complex network of relationships uncovered in the trial begins to involve the assistant attorney general's wife, the action is stepped up to a climactic battle of open violence. . . . Since The Darby Trial is primarily a piece of reporting by an experienced reporter and not a piece of reflective writing, perhaps it is unfair to observe that, to this reader at least, many of the characters seemed to be less than fully drawn and the political, economic, and theological discussions less than completely developed. . . .

Slays Housewife For 'Teasing'
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An Atlanta housewife was bludgeoned and shot to death in her home last night and a 16-year-old high school pupil was charged with the crime, police said. . . . The body of Mrs. Sarah White, 46, a bullet hole in her face and the head covered with marks of blows, was found in a bedroom. . . . Sgt. G. H. Christian and Detective N. W. Flanagan said Ray Coggin, a neighbor boy, made an oral admission and led them to the weapon. The gun, a .32-caliber revolver belonging to the slain woman, had one chamber fired officers said. . . . "She was always teasing me," the boy was quoted, "so I hit her and she was laying there screaming, so I got her gun and shot her."

Receives Medals After 32 Years
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Frank Lechneider, World War I infantryman who saw action in France in 1917, has a couple of new medals from the Department of the Army. Proudly displaying a Silver Star and Purple Heart, he said they arrived only this week, more than 32 years after they were awarded. The 73-year-old Portlander says he was told of the decorations upon his discharge from the Army in 1923. But it took all these years and three letters to Washington, he said, before he got action. Lechneider said the latest query was mailed two weeks ago.

Haircut To Hurt Her Feelings

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—James Milton Waters, 32, mentioned to his wife that he planned to move to Oklahoma City and she, of course, should come along. . . . No, said Mrs. Waters, she wasn't going. . . . Then, according to Mrs. Waters' testimony yesterday in court: Waters grabbed her and started whacking at her hair with a butcher knife. . . . She, petite and 22, was proud of her hair. It was red and waist-length. (It's sort of crew-cut now). . . . The butcher knife was dull and Waters switched to a razor blade, said Mrs. Waters. "He cut it a curl at a time and dropped it on the floor." . . . Waters, a tile-setter, admitted he cut her hair but said, "I just wanted to hurt her feelings." He did. . . . Anyway, he said offhand in court her hair is really blonde; she dyed it red. . . . "My hair," snapped Mrs. Waters, "is not dyed. It is naturally red."

Waters was fined $250 on aggravated assault charges. Mrs. Waters also is asking for a divorce. . . . COMPOSER DIES
PINSON, Ala. (AP)—Dr. Charles Paulkner Bryan, 43, composer and authority on American folk music, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday. . . . Flag Pole Champ Plans Buy Land

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The fellow perched on the pole today says he's up there because it's the quickest way to land—about five acres of it. . . . William (Happy) Howard 35, calls himself America's flagpole sitting champion and says no one has challenged his mark of 196 days, set at Portland, Ore., in 1952. . . . "I've been up here 12 days," he said yesterday. "I'm going to try and stay a year. But this is my final curtain in show business. If I make any money I'm going to get a five-acre tract of land and try to raise chickens."

Vietminh Chief Visiting Moscow

TOKYO (AP)—Vietminh President Ho Chi Minh left Peiping for Moscow today with a Red Chinese gift which may keep him Peiping's satellite instead of the Kremlin's. . . . The Peiping radio broadcast a communique, announcing Red China was giving Vietminh 800 million yuan "without compensation" to rebuild its economy. . . . It said the agreement was based on "long and traditional ties"—ties which have included several hundred years of Chinese hegemony over Indochinese kings. . . . Based on the prevailing rate of exchange in pounds sterling, the grant would amount to about $328,000,000.

We Feel Stevenson Was 'Grandstanding'

We got the impression that Adlai Stevenson was grandstanding the other night when he proposed, among other things that the loyalty oath for teachers be done away with.

The titular head of the Democratic Party drew a long round of applause from his teacher audience when he made the statement. Perhaps the teachers feel the loyalty oath which is now prescribed for

A Tough Decision For Board Of Education

The County Commissioners tentatively have left the Pitt Board of Education the choice of dipping into surplus school funds for accelerating school construction in the county during the fiscal year, or using only $40,000 from local tax collections for that purpose.

By its tentative action on the school budget the Commissioners rejected the School Board's proposal that $70,000 be raised from local taxes during the next 12 months for capital outlay. The Commissioners tentatively approved the levying of taxes for only $40,000 for the county school capital outlay program. In addition, however, the Board of Commissioners gave its approval for the School Board to use up to $100,000 from its surplus funds, which have accumulated over a period of years, for capital outlay.

The Pitt Board of Education, like every other local board of education in the state, is in a quandry over what to do about new school construction because of the school segregation matter.

Should they scrape together every possible dime and construct as many schools as possible as rapidly as possible? Should they accelerate the county's school construction program appreciably through the use of local funds? Or should they maintain the steady pace of new school construction which they have set over the past few years? Should they dip into the surplus now for capital outlay, or save it for perhaps a rainier day in the future?

It's a tough decision for the Pitt Board of Education, but it is a major policy decision which must be made in the not too distant future.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
STREAM OF LIFE

An elderly minister tells the story of being called on one occasion to go into a home where a husband and wife had decided that their marriage was a failure and could not go on. When the minister asked the husband to state to him as plainly as possible the facts of the case, the young man replied, "Pastor, there's not enough Jesus in this house."

Every day as we pick up the papers we read of the mounting divorce and juvenile delinquency rate. In fact the squabbles between husbands and wives have become the spiciest copy with which some newspapers deal. There are acts of cruelty, neglect, infidelity, and drinking. And in more than 50 per cent of the cases, drinking is a factor. Money matters loom large and so do differences in taste, but regardless of what the trouble may appear to be, it is almost always quite evident that in a broken home the spiritual values have been either cast out or disregarded or openly defied.

Jesus Christ came into the world to teach people the divine way of love. The Bible tells us that God is love, which means that love is the substance of his being. We are in the stream of life when we love; we are washed up corpses on the shore when for any reason we do not live the life of love.

Politicos Fear Issues Fading

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Political observers inside and outside both major Parties begin to ask themselves whether almost every major difference at issue between Republicans and Democrats will vanish as a result of their current "love feast" at the Capitol. Important long-range consequences, in their opinion, may flow from their unusual legislative harmony.

Some suggest that "Ike wants it that way," recalling his nonpolitical background and his military preference for straight order drill. They note that he shows a distinct preference for the more "liberal" members and factions of the GOP, both on Capitol Hill and throughout the country.

In fact the charge of "me-tooism" that was leveled against Thomas E. Dewey in the 1948 campaign has been raised against President Eisenhower, although without the rancor that was directed against the 1948 Presidential nominee.

The strange factor is that, with a few notable conservative exceptions, there seems to be no organized or serious hostility toward Ike's reorientation of Republican direction or philosophy.

LIKE LIBERALS—The majority of Eisenhower's White House staff, as well as Secretary of State Dulles and Attorney General Brownell, were Dewey's principal advisers in the 1948 "me-too" contest. Eisenhower's Cabinet consists of middle-of-the-road progressives, with the possible exceptions of Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and Postmaster General Arthur G. Summerfield.

Ike shows a distinct liking for "liberals" within the GOP organization, in Congress and in the state machines. Included among this group are Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, the Dewey-Javits faction in New York, Senator Clifford P. Case in New Jersey, Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, and Vice-President Nixon of California.

Eisenhower's legislative opponents number such so many government employes, attaches some undesirable stigma to their profession. In reality, that is far from the truth.

Actually, the loyalty oath does not prevent communists from infiltrating the teaching profession any more than it prevents communists from infiltrating government offices. Nevertheless, it provides an expedient means of relieving an individual of his responsibilities if he makes false statements in taking the oath and is later discovered.

If any facet of governmental function needs protection from communist infiltration, it is the public schools. While the loyalty oath is no impregnable guard against communist infiltration into the teaching profession, it does provide a safeguard of some degree for school children and their parents.

Of course we do not expect to find communists among the school teachers of Pitt County. On the other hand, we seriously doubt there would be any objection on the part of local teachers if they were required as a matter of policy to take a loyalty oath in conjunction with their jobs.

Perhaps Mr. Stevenson really feels that the loyalty oath for teachers and other government employes should be thrown out the window. Nevertheless, we had the feeling on hearing his statement that he was seeking a favorable teacher reaction to his address rather than laying groundwork for proposing the guards against communism in this country be let down.

Encouraging Words On State's Finances

Final reports of state tax collections for the 1954-55 fiscal year brought cheerful news for North Carolinians along with Revenue Commissioner Shaw's assertion that the record collections indicate "there will be a continuation of the upturn in business and improvement in general economic conditions . . ."

The fact that the record general fund collections were 1 1/2 million dollars above the final estimates given to the General Assembly little more than a month ago indicate a steady rise in business conditions throughout the state. Upward revisions of estimated collections even while the legislature was in session substantiate Shaw's prediction of continued improvement in business and economic conditions in the state.

Sales tax collections, a barometer of what the buying public is spending, advanced almost $300,000 during the past month compared with the same month a year ago. With the outlook for a bumper crop, particularly in eastern North Carolina this fall, there is little indication sales tax figures will fall below those of 1954 for the final six months of this year.

Not only is it a comfortable outlook from the business standpoint which directly affects the economic situation of practically every citizen, the figures cited by Shaw likewise give the public a more comfortable feeling so far as the state's financial situation is concerned.

Somebody Told Me

Uncle Sam Is The Big Winner

Since TV has been in Greenville I don't know of any program that has caused as much talk as "The $64,000 Question" (Tuesdays, 9:00 p.m.). If you haven't seen it, certainly you are in the minority.

The star contestant, Mrs. Kreitser from Camp Hill, Pa., last week correctly answered the $32,000 question. Next Tuesday she must decide whether or not she'll take the $32,000 or take a chance on winning $64,000. Of course if she misses she goes home with a consolation prize of a $5,600 Cadillac. Uncle Sam is sitting around licking his chops. He's the one who'll get rich if Mrs. Kreitser wins and he doesn't have to worry about knowing the Bible backwards and forwards.

Let's start at the bottom. Suppose she goes home with the Cadillac. Even though the car sells for $5,600, let's assume that it would bring $4,000 on a forced sale. If Mrs. Kreitser were single she'd have to give Uncle Sam about $1,000. Being married, she would only have to give him $888. Let me insert this very important fact: All of these figures are based on MINIMUM taxes, assuming that she has no other income.

Now let's assume that she takes the $32,000. Minimum federal tax would be $9,178. If Pennsylvania has a state tax structure comparable to North Carolina, she would have to give the State $1,810. This leaves her $22,012.

Now let's go for $64,000, or I should say $10,000 more? Minimum federal tax would be $27,556. State tax $4,050. That's a total tax of $31,606 leaving her $32,394.

In a way I'm sorry I got these figures. It will detract considerably from the program. When the emcee says, "Do you want to go for $64,000?" I'll be laughing up my sleeve. Actually, she'll be taking a chance on losing $22,000 in order to win $32,000.

Another TV show, "The Millionaire," gives away a fictional million bucks with taxes prepaid. The cute little history teacher who took the category "Men Named Sam" has already passed the $4,000 hump and will next be confronted with the $8,000 decision. From the $4,000 point on, the Cadillac is sitting around as a consolation prize.

How can Revelation afford such giving? You tell me. I suppose if you take into consideration all of the lipstick that gets kicked off in a single evening, multiplied by the number of people going the kissin', it adds up.

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

A TIMELY MANDATE
(Washington Daily News)

Governor Luther Hodges gave the State judiciary a timely mandate when he told the judges to work diligently to clear the court dockets in North Carolina.

He is quoted as telling the judges that "only by self-analysis and correction can the courts and the bar hope to hold the respect and confidence of the people."

Then he is quoted again as saying, "I feel the courts could hold the respect and confidence of the people by installing better procedures by de-emphasizing unnecessary technicalities by refusing to put up with dilatory tactics, causing cases to remain on dockets for months and even years, and by always keeping in mind that the State of North Carolina is an interested party to every lawsuit and its interest demands expeditious settlement of every case."

In short, if we interpret correctly, the editor tells the judges to get the cases off the docket, not waste time or allow time to be wasted, and to give a full week's work for a full week's pay.

The court history of North Carolina in recent years is one to which we cannot point with full pride. Justice has been good for the most part, but delays and hours of wasted time and adjournments in the middle of the week have caused the public to wonder about the responsibility which the courts have accepted.

Particularly in civil cases have the delays, early adjournments, and dilatory tactics been most evident. It has been pointed out many times in North Carolina that there are civil cases on the books which have been there for years and never tried. In some cases there have been no satisfactory reasons advanced as to why some cases should have been on the books eight or 10 years and never tried.

Governor Hodges as much as anyone else in North Carolina realized the real problems before the judges as they took their oaths of office. And the governor more than anyone else, we suspect, wants the courts to get busy and do the jobs assigned to them.

Another person well acquainted with the court delays and unnecessary tactics of procedure is the average juror who has recently served in court. He comes away from the court often disillusioned and sometimes disgusted. He has seen so much time wasted and so little accomplished in the few days he has spent in court that he comes away with a feeling that the court is not accepting its full responsibilities.

Governor Hodges' mandate should prove an excellent tonic. After all he is the "boss" in North Carolina. Many of the judges owe their positions to him. He is aware of the needs over the state. He has called for these judges to clear the dockets before the next legislature meets. In a sense he has made all the judges responsible for the clearing of the dockets. As a result we have a reasonable right to expect added effort on the part of the judges to speed up the court processes in North Carolina.

Do-Nothing Tag For Legislature Proven All Wrong

By LYNN NISSET

LEGISLATURE—Those who have contended that the 1955 session was a "do-nothing" Legislature are beginning to realize that it did a right smart. Many of the acts became effective upon ratification but are only now being appreciated or understood. Most of the acts affecting re-organization of government agencies, changes in the tax laws and education-health-welfare policies became effective on July 1 the beginning of a fiscal year and a new appropriation session.

Folks who sell and buy automobiles will quickly discover that the Legislature did something to them. Dealers and individual salesmen must be licensed by the Department of Motor Vehicles under provisions that certainly will bar some of them from doing business. Car buyers will find that the former $15 maximum sales tax has been upped to $80, with some changes in application of the sales tax, but no material change in interpretive regulations governing what constitutes a "unit" sale.

Purchasers of hard liquor, beer and wine will pay more, and those who spend a night at a hotel or motel or rent a beach cottage for a month will be apprized of the fact the Legislature did something to them. So will those who buy a few bricks or building blocks or pieces of lumber for repairing houses or constructing new ones.

Seekers after appointment as justices of the peace will find it somewhat surprising to get to the job will find they have to make fuller reports and chances for losing their commissions are enhanced.

Operators of accident-health and small loan companies face much tighter controls designed to protect the public. Farmers, industrial plants and municipalities will find their use of water has been placed under more restrictions in order to conserve the vital water supply for the benefit of all the people.

Positive — Most of the foregoing items are on the negative or restrictive side of the picture. On the positive or credit side are listed other acts of the General Assembly. By revoking the new taxes, which actually were not "new" but represented extensions of existing schedules, assurance was given that the services which the people have come to expect from State government will be maintained. In areas of education, health and general welfare.

Citizens of North Carolina can buy health insurance with a little more confidence that their premiums will provide real protection. Workers injured on the job will be a little better compensated. There is somewhat better chance that selfish interests will not be permitted to "hog" the precious water supply. The increase in judicial manpower, and extra weeks of courts assures prompter adjudication of issues arising out of criminal violations of the public rights and civil differences among citizens.

On the completely new and provocative problem of segregation in the public schools, the Legislature provided methods of essential compliance with the U.S. Supreme Court integration decrees which most students of the problem concede are fair and reasonable, and will enable transition to a new order with minimum friction. That these acts to considerable degree undo accomplishments of 50 years in developing stability in a public school system is no fault of the General Assembly.

On the positive side also may be listed acts of the Legislature designed to promote conservation of natural resources, development of agriculture and industry and submission of constitutional amendments to make State government more effective in its major purpose of serving the people of North Carolina.

FAILURES — To offset these positive accomplishments the 1955 General Assembly must be indicted for many failures to meet its obligations. There seems to be one consideration here that should not be overlooked. The major failures must be shared with other sessions, while the accomplishments can be credited to the one Legislature.

Federal Debt Down?

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Federal debt is only half as big as it was at the end of the war.

The dollar figures, of course, are pretty close together. At the end of the war, the government owed $292.6 billion. As this being written, the debt is $273,730,804,089. But 292 billion in 1945 was almost twice as big as 273 billion today.

In 1945, the average hourly wage in manufacturing was $1.023. So in terms of purchasing power, the debt is the equivalent of 286,021,505,000 hours of work to earn enough to pay off the debt.

The average hourly wage is now about $1.80, according to official statistics. So it would take only 152,111,111,000 hours of work to pay it off.

Measured by almost any other index, the debt is correspondingly smaller today. The government's consumers' price index went from 128.4 at the end of the war to around 190 today, when both are rounded off from the 1935-39 average. So in terms of consumers' 1945 dollars, the debt is a burden of only about $160 billion. And measure it by the price of eggs, pies, steel, autos or almost anything else and you'll find the debt is only about two-thirds as big as it was 10 years ago.

The basic reason is inflation. The government borrowed 80-cent dollars and now owes only 52-cent dollars. And if we have enough inflation, it is, at the moment, about 162 million today. Raising the pay of government employees and by increasing minimum wages. It is keeping prices up by farm and mine supports. The purposes of these, of course, are not deliberately inflationary. But the size of the Federal debt can soften the will to resist inflation.

The debt burden has grown lighter in another way. The population has increased from 141 million in 1945 to 162 million today. That has reduced each person's share of the debt from around $2,000 to about $1,685. ANTIPHONE SELLING.

LAW STRIPS PROTESTS

Portland, Ore., is about to prohibit telephone selling.

An ordinance effective September 3 makes it unlawful for any person to solicit the sale of merchandise or service by the use of a telephone unless invited. While some smaller cities have experimented with similar ordinances, Portland is toughening it with heavy penalties: fine up to $500 and jail up to 180 days.

Storms of protest are brewing. Newspapers denied the right to real estate dealers and hundreds of other businesses—including bedridden persons who sell magazine subscriptions by phone—arguing repeal. And telephone companies and the stockholders all over the country are watching the situation closely.

FACTS ON JELLY-MAKING
From time to time the government has had occasion to look into the manufacture of jellies, jams, preserves and the like, to check on Federal purchases and to develop better techniques. PIANO SALES UP 50 PER CENT OVER 1954 PERIOD

The United States is becoming more musical—or richer. The sale of pianos during the first five months of this year was 30 per cent higher than in the same period in 1954, the National Piano Manufacturers reports. 50 PER CENT CAPITAL GOODS RISER FORESEEN IN NEXT DECADE

Crockett Can't Match Houston

By HAL BOYLE
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Davy Crockett, king of the wild frontier

Why, man, there are people here in Davy's old home state who'll tell you he was nothing but a well-to-do, in an oversized coonskin cap compared to Sam Houston.

Davy died in the Alamo, but Big Sam, who spent his youth here was an ever greater soldier and statesman. He led Texas into the Union. It is hard today to imagine what Texas would be like if it hadn't been for Sam Houston—and oil wells, of course.

Young Sam might have been judged a juvenile delinquent by modern standards, but he outgrew it. And to Mrs. Boyd McKenzie, one of a group trying to preserve as a historic shrine the old one-room log cabin in which Houston once taught school, Davy isn't in the same class with Sam as a frontier hero.

"We'd never even heard much of Davy Crockett until six months ago," she said firmly.

Mrs. McKenzie is the descendant of a family which owned land next to the farm on which Sam Houston's widowed mother settled in Tennessee. She made the trek here from Virginia with her nine children.

Young Sam was an avid reader and avid to farm work. He used to run away and live with the Cherokee Indians who named him "The Raven."

"His first mention here was for public drunkenness at the age of 18," said Mrs. McKenzie. "He walked up and down the streets beating a drum and was charged with disturbing the peace."

During the next year he opened a school here to pay off debts of $100—a big amount in those days. He had run up the bill buying presents for his mother and some Indian maidens.

"The previous teachers had charged $8 a semester tuition," said Mrs. McKenzie, "but Sam raised it to $8 and insisted that a third to be paid in cash."

"His pupils ranged in age from 6 to 60 years, and so many came that he had to turn some away."

Houston's teaching career was brief. He ran up more bills, as he himself later admitted, in "riotous living." In March, 1833, a recruiting officer came to town, beat on a drum and called aloud: "Hear ye, hear! If we want to join Gen. Jackson's army to fight the savage Indian, come and take a dollar from the drumbeat and this will regularly enroll ye."

Young Sam, egged on by a friend stepped up and took his dollar and became a soldier.

His military and political rise after that was swift. He became a governor of Tennessee; he later commanded the army of Texas, led the Republic of Texas, served as a U.S. senator and governor of Texas. He was deposed as governor because he opposed the entrance of Texas into the Confederacy, and died in 1863 at the age of 70 with the fate of Union still unsettled.

During his last years someone once asked him which of all his posts he valued most. He answered the most pleasant was the wistfully old frontier hero said he remembered best the task of being a schoolteacher in the floodtime of his youth.

The simple old school house weathered by the winds of 161 years, still stands. Wealthy Texans have tried to buy it and move it to the Lone Star state, but Tennessee isn't about to sell it.

Out about to fix it up properly either judging from its present look of disrepair.

In 1924 a pair of ancient lead knucks with Sam Houston's name scratched on them were found hidden above the doorway. Did young Sam enforce discipline on his pupils with lead knucks? Nobody knows.

"But it isn't likely he needed them," said Mrs. McKenzie. "At 18 Sam Houston was 6 feet 6 and weighed 200 pounds."

Big enough even to handle Davy Crockett.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A man says he has seen it seriously suggested that the Brooklyn Dodgers can win the National League pennant merely by playing .500 ball the rest of the way, and he wants to know if this is true. The answer is that they might, provided the other clubs cooperate, but that they had better not try it.

In looking back over hat fabled season of 1951, the one in which the Giants passed their little miracle, it still comes as mild surprise to realize that the Dodgers held a 1 1/2-game lead in the middle of a double-header on August 11. Also that from that point on Charley Dressen's bewitched athletes played better than 500 ball—97-26 to be exact—and did not get into the World Series.

So, it all depends upon whether there is a team in the league which starting within the next month, can put together a victory streak some approximating the 39-8 drive that carried the Giants into a tie on the final day and set the stage for Bobby Thomson's dream home run in the last inning of a three-game playoff.

It is possible of course, that even such a streak by, say, the Milwaukee Braves would not turn the trick this time, for it is generally acknowledged that today's Dodgers are a sounder outfit than the '51 club deeper in reserve strength and in pitching. Barring a series of crippling injuries to key men, it is difficult to imagine them settling for an even break the rest of the way.

Delving into how the '51 club contrived to dissipate its great lead—70-35 to the Giants 59-51 on the day the world began to tilt—is struck by luckless Ralph Branca's role in the skid to oblivion. Plainly, it was meant that the young right-hander should throw the ball that Thomson poled into the Polo Grounds balcony.

Through Aug. 11 Branca was sporting a gaudy 10-3 mark and appeared to have a bright future as a fine career. He was to win only three more games while losing nine, and was never to regain his skill and confidence after Thomson's climactic belt.

Branca has some help, of course. Don Newcombe—who hit 15-5 at the zenith, hung up only a 5-4 record while the Giants were closing in; Carl Erskine 12-8 at the peak, went 4-4 from there on. Only Preacher Roe stood the gaff, going on from a 1-0 record to a 2-1 record in the last 10 games, and only three losses.

While all the Dodger hitters fell off to some extent there was no real collapse in that department. Peewee Reese's drop from .316 to .286 probably hurt the most. Roy Campanella still wound up hitting .325 and knocking in 106 runs. Jackie Robinson had a .338 season, and both Gil Hodges and Duke Snider drove in more than 100 runs. When you get that kind of hitting and don't win a flag you're just not living right.

One of the main reasons the present Dodgers are not likely to give a repeat performance is the very fact that they may have won through the '51 ordeal and still suffer from the recollection. Some were around even back in 1942 when the club held a 9 1/2-game lead in August and lost to St. Louis.

They say it will not happen again, and declare that if Milwaukee starts streaking they will match the Braves victory for victory. They do not strike an observer as over-confident, as both the '42 and '51 editions did while they were flying high, but sober and determined to keep a lot of daylight between them and any pursuer.

The cape buffaloes of Africa are noted for their even disposition—always angry—says the National Geographic Society.

Wonderful Willie On Homer Rampage; Bosox Win Again

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press
Say hey! Willie Mays is thumping, not slumping, these days. It was a long spring for the New York Giants' 34-year-old phenom, but now that the weather has turned hot so has Willie.

With two home runs in the Giants' 8-5 victory over Philadelphia yesterday, Mays has hit 10 in the last 10 games after going without a homer in the preceding 11. The spree leaves him just one shy of the National League leader, Brooklyn's Duke Snider and Cincinnati's Ted Kuszewski who have 23.

Mays now has hammered two home runs in one game six times this season, putting him within reach of the league record of 10, set by Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh in 1947, and the major league mark of 11 set by Detroit's Hank Greenberg in 1938.

Neither Greenberg nor Kiner had as many as six "pairs" at this stage of the season. Greenberg didn't make it for the sixth time until July 28. Kiner's sixth two-homer game came on Aug. 15.

Mays hasn't been going exclusively for the homer, however. Willie, who hit 41 homers and took the batting crown with a .345 mark last season, has been hitting at .390 clip in the last 10 games. That's upped his average from .283 to .298.

With Mays hitting one of three

Giant homers in a six-run sixth, New York overcame a 5-0 deficit to beat the Phillies and strengthen its hold on fourth place. Half of the Giants' 10 hits were home runs. Windy McCall won in relief after the rally chased Murry Dickson, who had one-hit for the Giants for five innings. Reliever Jack Meyer was tagged with the loss.

Brooklyn extended its league lead to 1 1/2 games again, beating Pittsburgh 4-3. Milwaukee moved a percentage point ahead of third place Chicago, defeating the Cubs 3-2. St. Louis beat Cincinnati 9-8.

With New York idle in the American, Cleveland clipped the Yankees' lead to four games, beating Kansas City 8-1. Third place Chicago whipped Detroit 12-1. Boston won its seventh straight, 6-0 over Washington.

Art Occarrillo held Cleveland to one hit for six innings, but the Tribe got rolling in the last three frames for all its runs. Larry Doby homered twice and Al Rosen once in the prolonged rally. Winner Mike Garcia and Don Mossi gave the A's just six hits.

Boston scored three in the first on Norb Zauchin's 18th homer but had to break a 3-3 tie with three more in the seventh. George Susce saved it for reliever Ellis Kinder, shutting off a two-run Nat rally with none out in the ninth. Singles by Jackie Jensen and Hy Ladd sparked the winning rally, while Zauchin's blast off loser Bob Porterfield tied him for the AL lead with New York's Mickey Mantle and Detroit's Al Kaline. The White Sox stayed a game behind Cleveland and 1 1/2 up on Boston with a 16-hit attack behind Dick Donovan's five-hitter. It was Donovan's 10th victory. Walt Dropp drove in five Chicago runs, smacking a grand-slam homer in a six-run sixth. Rookie Duke Maas was the loser.

Brooklyn's Billy Loe won his ninth, but had to close down a two-run Pirate rally in the ninth inning. Junior Gilliam homered and tripled for the Brooks, who scored their run off loser Ron Kline. Johnny O'Brien had a double and three singles in four at bats for the Bucs.

Bobby Thomson's single drove home the winning Milwaukee run in the eighth at Chicago after Andy Pafko, an ex-Cub, hit his first 1955 homer in a pinch-batter role with a man on to tie it 2-2 in the seventh. All-Star pitcher Sam Jones losing his 10th.

The Cards moved within a game of fifth-place Cincinnati with Bill Virdon's seventh-inning homer providing the edge. Each club used four hurlers with starters Harvey Haddix and Joe Nuxhall, both All-Star game choices, the pitchers of record. Kuszewski closed a three-run Red rag rally in the seventh, lining out with the bases loaded.

Elsewhere, the Greenville Greenies were making their challenge more serious by trouncing Falkland 11-6 in a slugfest. Manager Pete Carraway's boys tagged Falkland pitching for 18 hits, including a two-homer by second baseman Tom Boyd. Bobby Coggins and Junior Yohn teamed to pitch the win, the latter having come in to relieve in the fifth and setting Falkland down on just one hit the rest of the way.

The New Bern Schlitz-Bears played what amounted to a comedy of errors at Kafer Park there Wednesday night and dropped a 9-2 decision to the red-hot Williamson club. During the game, the Bruins committed six errors and provided pitcher Charlie Price with very little hitting support.

Williamson scored five runs in the second inning on but one base hit, a single into leftfield and four New Bern miscues.

Van Sexton pitched the win for the Braves, allowing five well-scattered New Bern hits. Meanwhile, the Braves collected 11 bingles off the slants of Price.

As the fourth-place Sox moved to within 6 1/2 games of first-place New York, the five relief men have appeared in 19 of the 31 games in Boston's headlong dash.

In the stretch since June 5 they have pitched 61 1-3 innings and given up nine runs for a collective earned run average of 1.32 per nine innings.

The two runs off Kinder last night were the first given by Sox relief men for 25 innings dating back to June 28.

In his assisting an eye-opening 1.80 earned run average for the season to date (40 innings), has a phenomenal .050 in the last 10 contests. Kinder and Keliy have 1.80 ERA's over the same period while Delock is a perfect 0.00 in relief.

Eagles, Tars Meet In Three Weekend Games

A high spot in the Tobacco Belt League will be reached this week-end when the Tarboro Tars and the Kinston Eagles, the two leaders in the fast semi-pro loop, lock horns in a three-game duel.

The Eagles at the present own an 8-2 game lead over the Tars, but the three weekend games could change the whole picture very easily. Pinetops, the third place team in the league, trails by only three games and could easily move into a definite challenging position. Pinetops has two games with fifth place Falkland.

The three teams' records are:
Kinston..... 13 1 929
Tarboro..... 12 2 857
Pinetops..... 11 5 688

The Tarboro-Kinston series will start with a single game in Kinston Saturday night and will be followed by a doubleheader in Tarboro Sunday afternoon.

Tarboro is expected to pitch its big three in the series. They are Curtis Baker, Ray Bottom, and Nick Johnson. Kinston will undoubtedly go with (No-Hit) Johnny Rice, Jimmy Bracey, and Tom Grant.

An expected duel in the series somewhere will pit Rice and Baker against each other. The two rank as the best chokers in the league with Rice hurling one no-hitter already this season.

Other games in the league over the weekend will have:
Pinetops at Falkland (Sat.).
Belvoir at Grimesland (Sat.).
Falkland at Pinetops (Sun.).
Grimesland at Belvoir (Sun.).

Bosox Have Ablest Relievers In Loop

BOSTON (AP)—Five hard-working relief pitchers, the core of Boston's forgotten bullpen staff, loom as the key men of the onrushing Red Sox.

Ranging in age from 22-year old George Susce Jr. to 40-year old Ellis Kinder, the group also includes clutch specialist Tom Hurd, Ivan (Ike) Delock and Lefty Leo Keliy.

Manager Mike Higgins proved the value of his "miracle moundmen" last night in the Sox 6-5 victory over Washington—seventh in a row and 26th in their last 31.

Kinder came on in the sixth inning when starter Bill Henry yielded three hits as the Nationals rallied to tie the score 3-3. His mates gave Kinder three runs in the seventh but Ellie weakened and was pounded for three hits and two runs with none out in the ninth.

"Junk man" was out of it in relief. Tom Umphelet popped up. Ed Fitzgerald fanned and on the pitch pinch runner Pedro Ramos was thrown out trying to steal second for the final out.

While frequent mention has been made this year of the work of relievers like New York's Jim Konstanty and Tom Morgan, Cleveland's Ray Narleski and Don Mossi and Chicago's Sandy Consuegra, the Sox players feel Boston's firemen have been slighted.

Jerry Barber Shoots 63 To Lead Assault On Par

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Keller golf course, which held up pretty well for the National PGA last year, was left a shambles yesterday by the nation's top golf professionals in the first round of the St. Paul Open.

Little Jerry Barber of Los Angeles knocked nine strokes off the par 72 with a 63, today's only lead. Barber took off, however, only a stroke ahead of Fred Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., and Art Wall Jr., Peconic Manor, Pa., who holed out with 64.

Two strokes off the pace were Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, Tenn., Walker Imman, Augusta, Ga., and Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., the National Amateur king in 1954.

No less than 50 professionals in a field of 140 starters shattered Keller's par of 72 and 24 of the players broke 70 in the greatest opening day scoring burst in the 25 years tournaments have been played here.

Lloyd Mangrum's course record of 62 withstood the first withering assault. But the first nine record of 6-under par 30, held jointly by Joe Corn of St. Paul and Mangrum, was equaled twice.

The first to do it was Barber and a few minutes later, Palmer also matched it. Coria missed the second nine record of 29 set by Herman F. Coelho, by a stroke. Hawkins and Wall both shot 5-under-par 31s on the second nine.

Coria, the tournament's early leader Thursday with a morning round of 66, had slipped back to within by nightfall. George Bigford of Kansas City, Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., were doublelocked with 68s.

Fourteen players were tied at 69, among them such tournament favorites as Mike Souchnak, the nation's leading money winner, Dow Finsterwald, Bedford Heights, Ohio; Bob Wittinger, Oklahoma City; Bob Rosburg, San Francisco, and Frank Stranahan of Toledo.

Sammy Snead, who won at Keller in 1937 and captured the Western Open here in 1949, was in an eight-way tie at 70 as were Bud Holscher and former National Open Champion Julius Boros.

The tournament's 72-hole record is a 22-under-par 266, shared by Mangrum and Cary Middlecoff.

Williams Signs Pro Contract

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sam Williams, former end at Fayetteville, N.C., Teachers, has been signed by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

The Pittsburgh native, who stands 6-6 graduated in 1954 and taught school at Fayetteville last year.

Farmville Leads CPL Flag Chase; Greenies Fourth

Wednesday's Results

Farmville 11, Falkland 6
Farmville 5, Rocky Mount 0
Williamston 9, New Bern 2

Just like the weather, this Coastal Plain League. For the third time in three weeks there's been a big change. Wednesday night Farmville retained its first position by topping Rocky Mount, who had held the lead for over a week.

Farmville pitcher Fred Pittman came within a whisker of tossing the loop's first no-hitter against the Leafs. For four innings he pitched perfect baseball, Rocky Mount finally getting a man on base via a base on balls in the fifth. The Leafs' only hit was an infield bouncer by Dudley Whitley.

The game went only six innings, as rain intervened. The loss made Rocky Mount's venture into first place a shortlived one. The victory moved the Farmers out front a half-game ahead of the Leafs. Farmville is 19-14 and Rocky Mount 16-12.

Don Newcombe returned to Ebets Field with the Dodgers after their highly successful swing around the Western circuit and found that a new name had been pinned on him: "Superman". And all because his prolific hitting has been as sensational as his pitching. Don is the big gun of the Dodgers as they threaten to completely ruin the National League pennant race by running away from all rivals.

Newcombe won three ball games in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis—to bring his victory total to 13 and start the press box busy-bodies speculating over Don's chances of winning 30 games this season. Newcombe reeled off a string of ten straight victories before the Cubs upset his apple-cart on June 12th. He has beaten every other club in the league at least once. And his booming hit has been very active in helping him win his own games.

And all because his prolific hitting has been as sensational as his pitching. Don is the big gun of the Dodgers as they threaten to completely ruin the National League pennant race by running away from all rivals.

Newcombe won three ball games in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis—to bring his victory total to 13 and start the press box busy-bodies speculating over Don's chances of winning 30 games this season. Newcombe reeled off a string of ten straight victories before the Cubs upset his apple-cart on June 12th. He has beaten every other club in the league at least once. And his booming hit has been very active in helping him win his own games.

Two Service Players Should Help Football Bucs In 1955

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Although the familiar crack of helmet and shoulder pad is two months pre-mature, Coach Jack Boone will tell you that now is the time when teams are made.

The East Carolina College grid mentor can be found each day lost in his cluttered office, busily working both the money and player ends of the football business in an endeavor to bring better eleven into Greenville.

Through the growing Pirates Club he has already enlisted the most greenback support of any past years and by way of recruiting has enrolled several promising new players.

Two of the most noted are Richard (Dick) Conder and Tom Mixon, both of whom have enrolled in summer school.

Hamlet Boy
Conder is from Hamlet and has previously attended two schools. The 245-pound, 6-2 tackle was enrolled at the University of South Carolina after finishing high school. There, he played first string tackle on one of the Gamecocks' most promising freshman eleven.

That was back in 1949. After one year at USC, he transferred to Carolina of the North State Conference. He sat out a year of eligibility and at the end of the second semester joined the Air Force.

He received his honorable discharge from the service this past spring and is now ready for football here with three more years of eligibility.

All-State Twice
As a high school griddler, Conder was one of the most ballyhooed players in the state. He made the Charlotte News All-State team twice and played in the first Greensboro All-Star game. He was named the outstanding lineman of the classic and was contested most for the honor by none other than opponent Tom Mixon.

Mixon is a 6-foot, 200-pound center from Statesville who has won his most acclaim by outstanding gridiron feats while in the service.

No Stranger
He has already been on the field with an East Carolina team but in an enemy uniform. He was snapping the piskin back for the Tars when the Pirates met Norfolk Navy in 1953 and 1954.

He played two years with the powerful Pensacola, Fla., base team. He was instrumental in his team's undefeated season in 1952. His naval football career reached its optimum in 53-54 when he was named All-Navy two years in a row. A teammate at Pensacola was Bill Baley, former Duke All-American, and a sidekick at Norfolk was Dick Scott, former All-American at the Navy Academy.

High Point Star
As a lineman with the Statesville High School team, he won All-State acclaim his senior year. He earned three prep football letters and was a star in the Optimist Bowl. He enrolled at High Point College and played there for two years. High Point dropped the grid sport and Mixon joined the Navy.

He has two more years here and then he'll belong to the professional Cleveland Browns. The Browns drafted him after he left High Point.

With new players like Conder and Mixon coming into the fold, the 1955 football season looks bright, huh fans?

Johnny O'Brien Sparkles At Bat

PITTSBURGH (AP)—When the O'Brien twins were signed by the Pirates, Johnny was the basketball star but brother Eddie was regarded as the better baseball player.

Johnny's performance to date is making the experts think again. While Eddie rides the bench, Johnny is making good as a second baseman. He has delivered 14 hits in 40 attempts for a .350 average.

Johnny hit safely four times yesterday as the Bucu bowed to Brooklyn 4-3.

N.C. Teacher Ranks To Be Increased 1,158 Next Year

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's force of school teachers and principals will be increased by about 1,158 to a total of 32,445 next year. A large part of the increase is to cope with an expected increase in enrollment.

The State Board of Education yesterday adopted a budget calling for spending of approximately 123 million dollars to operate public schools during the coming school year. A large part of the increase of the past year's 117 1/2 million spending will go for salaries for new teachers.

Salary scales will remain unchanged with pay ranging from $2,430 to $3,420 for a certificate teachers up to $3,807 for teachers with graduate certificates.

Dallas Herring of Rose Hill was sworn in as a board member to fill the vacancy left by the death of A. M. L. Graham of Clinton before the board's monthly meeting. A. S. Brower of Durham was elected to replace Graham as vice chairman of the board.

The board disregarded recommendations of the Watauga County Democratic Executive Committee in naming a board of education for the county. A dispute within the county over retention of W. H.

Walker as superintendent led to a stalemate between Watauga's legislators in the recent General Assembly. As a result, the legislature failed to name a county board and the issue came to the State Board.

The new board will replace the old one which favored keeping Walker in the post he has held for 19 years. Spokesmen for a delegation which wanted Walker ousted said the superintendent had been convicted twice in 1948 and 1951 for drunken driving.

Members of the new board are: Dr. Charles Devant, Blowing Rock; Dr. W. G. Whitener, Boone; and W. H. Mast Jr., Valle Crucis.

Charles Hodges, a retired school teacher, defended Walker and told the state board if it appointed a new county board the issue would be appealed to the courts.

Report Senator Stricken With Little Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Associates of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) agreed today he had little warning before he was stricken by a serious heart attack last weekend.

Johnson, now under strict orders to rest and relax, is in the Naval Medical Center at nearby Bethesda, Md. Hospital attaches said he had his "best day" yesterday since the attack Saturday. He was described as making "steady progress."

Johnson was understood to have pushed himself in recent weeks in an effort to wind up Senate business preparatory to adjournment expected around Aug. 1.

Although he was scheduled to take a day off last Saturday, he met with a small group of newsmen in the early afternoon. This is a customary routine for Senate leaders.

An aide said Johnson noticed brief pains several times recently, but thought nothing of them.

Dr. James C. Cain, a personal friend of Johnson who flew here to help him, told newsmen that even if Johnson had been checked by physicians at the time they probably could not have diagnosed the impending attack.

After talking with the newsmen, Johnson got in his chauffeur-driven limousine for a drive of about 50 miles to the Middleburg, Va., home of George Brown, a Houston industrialist and a long-time friend.

The Senate leader suffered the heart attack on that drive and a doctor was called to the Brown estate. Later, Johnson was rushed by ambulance to the Naval Hospital.

Dr. Cain said Johnson is cooperating in a program of several months of rest and recuperation.

A few senators who have visited him in the hospital reported Johnson as cheerful, but finding it difficult to avoid discussing Senate matters he was handling when stricken.

Convicts Spend Night In Open; Cells Searched

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—The bulk of 1,700 inmates at Washington State Prison traded bars for stars last night—and didn't like it—as they reaped the first fruits of their two-day revolt.

Meanwhile, penitentiary officials harvested another crop—of weapons, broken glass and damaged fixtures, totting up a bill that may run into six figures.

Jammed cell locks and other damage plus the slow job of shaking down the whole prison for hidden weapons kept the prisoners outdoors last night, milling about on an athletic field within the walls.

Around them stood guards and state patrolmen carrying guns and clubs, alert against any revival of the revolt which started Tuesday with the seizure of nine hostages and control of most of the prison.

The prisoners were herded outdoors yesterday after guards objected to trying a cell check with inmates in them.

Officials ordered the 33 tough convicts who sparked the revolt into cells with new locking devices.

The cell shakedown produced large piles of weapons ranging from clubs to meat cleavers. A personal search of the 1,700-odd prisoners will be made before they are returned to cells.

Officials said original damage estimates were too conservative, that the rampages cost may go as high as $150,000. This includes ruined locks, broken windows, damage to cells, fixtures and plumbing, loosened bricks and battered doors and machinery.

Still Determined To Finish Trek

BOONSBORO, Md. (AP)—After 66 days and nearly 1,000 miles, Mrs. Emma Gatewood is still pretty determined to become the first woman ever to hike the 2,050-mile Appalachian Trail alone—even if she is 67.

The Gallipolis, Ohio, grandmother emphasized this yesterday as she paused at Washington Monument State Park.

At the rate she's going, grandma Emma should make it to Mt. Katahdin Me., about mid-September. She left the Mt. Oglethorpe, Ga., starting point May 3.

Lugging a pack of about 35 pounds and spending the nights in her sleeping bag or lean-to shelters along the way, she has worn out two pairs of shoes but none of her enthusiasm.

"I'm a great lover of the outdoors," she explained.

Boat Operators Driving Drunk

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—Sheriff Wiley Barnes says this practice of drinking a lot of beer and then tearing off at high speed has got to stop. He's talking about boat operators.

Four drunken boat operators blends with their background.

Whippoorwills are seldom seen because they are active at night and in the daytime their plumage were nabbed last week on Lake Dallas, he explained. Later another man paid a fine for operating a motorboat while intoxicated and running it through a group of swimmers then running the boat into another boat, knocking a girl into the water.

Whippoorwills are seldom seen because they are active at night and in the daytime their plumage

U.S. Chess Team Lauded In Defeat

MOSCOW (AP)—While they suffered a crushing defeat, the American chess players who lost to the Russians took solace today in the fact they succeeded in exploding the theory that Mikhail Botvinnik was unbeatable.

The final count was 25-7, which was even worse than the 20-12 winning margin of the Russians last year in New York. But every member of the Russian team was a grand master of the game. Only Samuel Reshevsky and Isaac Kashdan of the American team were grand masters. The other were masters.

So with it all, the Americans performed creditably, and many officials here expressed the opinion that no other country could have done as well against the powerful Russians.

Reshevsky turned out to be the big focal point with his victory over Botvinnik. He whipped the great Russian player by 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 and became virtually the toast of the town. Even the Soviet political chiefs asked to have their pictures taken with him.

Two other members of the Russian team have played Botvinnik to draws. They were Vassily Smyslov and David Bronstein. But they have never beaten him.

Larry Evans, at 23 the youngest member of the United States team, forced Bronstein to three draws before bowing in the fourth match. Evans and Kashdan each scored 1 1/2 points, while Don Byrne won one game for 1 point and Bob Byrne had a half point with a draw.

Prison Will Make Municipal Tags

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina cities and towns will give a boost to the State Prison Department's metal working industry and get a helping hand in return.

The North Carolina League of Municipalities announced yesterday the cities can save money by placing orders for city motor vehicle license tags with Central Prison's metal working shop.

Warden K. B. Bailey of the prison said some 108 cities already have placed orders for about 168,000 tags. "We're right proud of the deal," he added.

Mrs. Devetta Steed, executive secretary of the league, said municipalities also can get metal traffic and steel signs, traffic paint, and mattresses from the prison at favorable prices. The league acts as agent for its member municipalities in placing orders with the prison industry.

Warden Bailey said cities which have placed orders include Raleigh, Greensboro, Wilmington, Gastonia, Goldsboro, Henderson and Salisbury.

Prison Will Make Municipal Tags

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP)—The switchboard at the Crystal Sugar Co. probably was the busiest one in Chicago for a couple of hours yesterday, but not with business calls.

The callers wanted 30-second inspirational messages in a new service of the Young Men's Christian Assn. The telephone number to call had appeared incorrectly in a newspaper and the company received 300 calls in two hours.

The calls were switched to the YMCA which reported callers kept the service busy all day at its capacity of 800 messages an hour.

Quarter - Million Dollar Motel Plans Formal Opening Here This Sunday

EXTERIOR VIEW OF MOTEL LOBBY—Visitors to the new Kenland Motel will get this view of the entrance to the new facility when they approach from the drive which leads to the front of the motel. Floor to ceiling glass panels form the front and back walls of the beautiful lobby.

A quarter million dollar motel rivaling anything in the Carolinas will have its formal opening here Sunday evening.

Kenland Motel, located on highway 11 south adjacent to the Greenville City limits, is owned and operated by Kenneth Phillips of this city.

Accommodations for 120
The new motel, completely modern in every respect, has 54 bedrooms and will accommodate 120 guests. The modernistic single story structure contains more than 20,000 square feet of floor space and is of brick and concrete construction.

Under construction approximately seven months, the new motel was begun last December and completed this week.

Its spacious lobby features full width glass panels which form the front and rear walls. Guests will enter the lobby under a covered entry way through a glass door. The lobby, with its wall to wall carpeting, is arranged with modern furniture, and the lobby desk is constructed of brick like the exterior of the building.

Completely Air Conditioned
The building is completely air conditioned with individual thermostats for each of the bedroom units to afford guests the room temperature they desire. Like the lobby each of the bedrooms has wall to wall carpeting and a color scheme of deep modern tones is followed throughout the interior of the motel. Each room is furnished with solid walnut furniture specially designed by Groff and manufactured by a North Carolina concern for the motel. Each bedroom unit has its own ceramic tile bath.

The drive leading from the highway to the motel completely circles the structure to afford guests easy access from their automobiles to rooms on both the front and rear of the motel.

In announcing the formal opening of the new motel Sunday evening, Phillips issued an invitation for the public to visit the motel from 7 until 9:30 p. m.

"Best Features"
Phillips said the new motel has been designed to afford guests the best features of both motel and hotel service. In addition to other conveniences, each room will have its own telephone.

Located on a six acre plot of land, the lawn between the new motel and the highway has been landscaped. The owner asserted the size of the motel lot will provide sufficient space to double the size of the facility when the need arises.

Commenting on the new motel, Phillips stated, "It has been built to meet all the specifications and requirements of quality hotel-motels."

Years of Experience
The owner of the new Kenland Motel has had many years experience in hotel management and operations. He came to Greenville in 1947 to take over the Hotel Proctor operations. Prior to that time, Phillips had been manager of the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh.

Phillips was associated with the Meyer organization for 12 years and has worked in Charleston, Miami, Washington, Raleigh and Greenville.

Shooting Dice Is His Main Job

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—While being arraigned on narcotics charges yesterday, James Curtis, 28, said shooting dice is his main job.

"I don't get in any game unless I know I'll win," added Curtis.

U.S. Commissioner W. M. Hill asked: "How can you be sure?" The answer: "Because I only play with my dice."

A 1932 survey showed that a million classrooms were then in use in U.S. public schools.

Habakkuk's Faith Tested

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Habakkuk.

The Prophet Habakkuk cried in agony to God for his people whose sins were bringing destruction upon them: "O Lord, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not answer."

Habakkuk foresaw that the Chaldeans would overrun his country, for they were a "bitter and hasty nation," whose horses were swifter than leopards and more fierce than wolves. He would trust in Jehovah who was punishing His people for their correction.

The Lord answered Habakkuk as he stood upon a tower (a fenced-in place) and said: "Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it." The vision is not yet come; wait for it.

Through all his anguish of spirit, Habakkuk never lost his faith in Jehovah, crying: "Yet will I rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation. The Lord is my strength."

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 56:3.

Habakkuk's Faith Tested

HIS TRUST IN THE LORD IS STRAIGHT IN SPITE OF HIS PEOPLE'S AFFLICTIONS

Scripture—Habakkuk.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. HABAKKUK is a prophet of whom we know very little. He is presumed to have lived and prophesied during the reign of Manasseh, from 687 to 642 B.C. His book is only three chapters long, but in it he not only calls on the Lord to help His people in their many troubles, but his trust in their Jehovah never wavers even in the midst of injustice within the kingdom and conquest from without.

That was Habakkuk's problem, as he saw the righteous being punished and the evil prospering. Many good Christian people are being punished in some countries today simply because they are good and loyal to their religion. Habakkuk, too, was in agony because he too saw God's people suffering, and he turned for help to his Maker.

At the beginning of his book he exhibits such anguish of spirit that though he prays fervently to God for help to his oppressed people and defense from the Chaldeans, "that bitter and hasty nation," his prayers seem not to be answered. He cries: "O Lord, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not save."

He sees the Chaldeans about to attack and destroy his land and the people in it.

The Chaldeans were a nation of fierce fighting men and whose horses were "swifter than leopards and more fierce than the evening wolves."

"Why dost Thou show me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me; and there are that raise up strife and contention."

"Therefore the law is slackened, and judgment doth never go forth; for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore wrong judgment proceedeth."

MEMORY VERSE

"What time I am afraid, I will trust in Thee."—Psalm 56:3.

"How long shall I cry?" How many are there in the world who can echo that cry? It is the wall of the oppressed all over the world; it is the cry of those who are in great grief, and who wonder why they are made to suffer. Do we not at times, in our troubles, think maybe we are forgotten of our Lord? Habakkuk's lesson to us all is not to lose faith, to trust in the Lord, do right, and He will strengthen us to bear our sorrows.

"The Lord is in His holy temple," Habakkuk later said, "let all the earth keep silence before Him."

Our editor of the Notes suggests that for the younger children the lesson might be brought home by suggesting that they can imagine children playing a game in which one is to close his eyes while the others hide. If the child who was supposed to be blind did not close his eyes, but peeked through his partly-opened fingers, he would be cheating and the game spoiled.

Though he seems to doubt that God is with him in the beginning of his book, he never loses his faith, but "O Lord, I have heard Thy speech, and was afraid: O Lord, revive Thy work in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy."

Uruguay Cheers Efforts To Oust Peron; Aids Refugees

By ROMAN JIMINEZ
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Most of Uruguay stands by and cheers at every attempt to unseat President Juan D. Peron in big-neighbor Argentina. When such attempts are defeated, Uruguay has new problems to meet.

People came out on the streets here to rejoice June 16 when news arrived that a revolt had broken out against Peron. Despondency set in when two score rebel planes took refuge in Uruguay.

Today this country of 2 1/2 million is wrestling anew with the problem of Argentine refugees, reinforced by 100 men in the June revolt. There previously were about 100 military and 200 civilian refugees here—fugitives from former revolts or from political justice in Peron's country.

The refugees are a matter of pride—but also a headache. They enjoy the freedom of this country, probably the most democratic in Latin America. They can say or write what they please, even about Peron. Argentina holds this responsible for strained relations with Uruguay.

In an exchange of diplomatic notes just before the June revolt, Argentina asked Uruguay to put a stop to attacks on the honor of Peron and other Argentine officials by the refugees.

Uruguay replied that every resident here has full freedom of speech. Another Argentine note insisted that the Uruguayan government, if it wants to improve relations, should see that attacks stopped. It is still waiting for an answer.

Some days before the revolt flared in Buenos Aires, it was reported here that the Argentine government had told business firms with branches in Uruguay that drastic measures would be taken against them in Argentina if they continued advertising in three Montevideo newspapers. These three, El Dia, El Pais and El Plata, often print contributions by Argentine political refugees—men like former Congressman Silvano Santander, Gustin Rodriguez Araya, Raul Damonte Taborda, Americo Ghio, Ernesto Sammartino. All earn part of their living here by writing for the press.

The refugees have gone in for a variety of activities. Some have part-time jobs as librarians, or clerks in government offices. Others, better off financially when they left Argentina, have entered business.

Some former army and navy officers are earning a hand-to-mouth existence. One army captain is a cab driver. Another, in partnership with a naval colleague, operates two second-hand trucks. A former air force brigadier, who earned some pesos on the side giving guitar concerts, installed an open-air stand to sell Argentine-style meat pies (empanadas). Then he sold the stand to other Argentines and established a shoe repair shop.

Other refugees, headed by a former army major, own a downtown, second-run movie house that is the meeting place for all those who have fled from Argentina.

Uruguay once received a quarter million Argentine tourists in summer time. This country has some 200,000 nationals residing across the river and now unable to come here due to travel restrictions. Similar restrictions have meant a practical stoppage of trade relations, including the import of grain, salt and cattle, and the export of sand and other Uruguayan goods.

Some Uruguayans say privately their government should curb anti-Peronist comments by refugees. But most of them, devoted to their country's freedom-ensuring laws, seem opposed to any such step.

Bob Wagner's Fans Soon To Be Shocked

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The youthful following of handsome Robert Wagner is in for a shock.

Until now, the bright young actor has titillated female hearts by playing the all-American boy on the screen. Or, as in "Prince Valiant," the all-Norse boy.

Whatever the nationality, Bob has nearly always been the clean-cut, clean-living, clean-faced lad girls dream about.

Look at him now. He's working in a chiller called "A Kiss Before Dying." He looks as clean-cut as ever, but he's up to dirty work. He plays a convincing lad who leads a gay life with a copper heiress.

She falls pregnant and insists upon marriage. He takes her to the roof of a building, says he'll marry her, kisses her and pushes her over the side. He has arranged it to look like suicide, but a friend doubts it. So our Rob shoots the nosy fellow's brains out. He is about to bring a speedy end to the dead girl's suspicious sister when something goes awry and he meets stern justice.

"But I don't think the role will be entirely unsympathetic," he commented on the set. "In the boy's twisted mind, he thinks he is doing what is right."

He added that he wasn't worried about how this departure from type would affect his fans.

"Four years ago I was voted the most promising newcomer," he explained. "At that time, the girls who liked me were in their mid-teens. By now many of them have grown up, married and have families of their own."

"My roles have to mature with them, too. I've been very lucky. The pictures I've had have all been top-budget productions. Nobody could ask for a better build-up. But the roles I've played have been pretty much surface characters. They haven't had much depth."

"The boy-next-door buildup is all right. But eventually you've got to mature. I think it happens with a lot of actors. Like Frank Sinatra. He tried doing something different and it did wonders for him."

Bob, who is now 25, has been sensitive to the need for a boost to his career. He soared to fame quickly, reaching the top in popularity on the fan magazine polls. That would indicate that his greatest following is among teen-age girls. He needs to corral the older audience, especially males. A suspense story such as "A Kiss Before Dying" could help.

Been Pawning Money, Policemen Are Baffled

CHICAGO (AP)—A butcher who says for about three years he has been pawning money—and getting cash and pawn tickets—was seized by police Wednesday.

But police said they don't know what to do about it. Sgt. John Doyle of the Police pawn shop detail says that pawning money didn't seem to make sense. But, he added, there is no law against it.

The man Doyle arrested in a pawn shop, Joseph K. Johnson, 48, admitted pawning between $750 and $1,000 in the last three years, mostly in small amounts.

Liquor Violator To Go To Church

WALDO, Wis. (AP)—Because of liquor law convictions, tavern operator Sam Zolp will have to go to church every Sunday for a year.

In Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting's court, Sam was charged with letting a minor loiter in his tavern, selling liquor to two minors and selling beer to a minor.

Schlichting placed Zolp on probation, ordered his license revoked and said he fails to attend church as prescribed he will have to spend his probationary period in jail.

WHAT, NO BEER?

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—This story leaked out yesterday: elective state officials were too busy so deputy State Treasurer Charles N. Lentz happily agreed to go out last weekend and officiate at a beer contest. Turned out it was a bear contest.

Foes Of Peron Refused Right To Use Of Radio

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's opposition Radical Party, which challenged President Peron to back up his peace talk with deeds, says it has been denied radio time to answer a presidential speech.

In a broadcast earlier this week Peron absolved the political opposition of any part in the June 16 revolt and invited anti-Peronista factions to come to terms with him.

The Radical Party responded that Peron could show his sincerity by letting it reply over the state radio, Argentina's only network.

The party's national committee said last night the Communications Ministry had advised that "regulations" prevent the granting of free radio time for the Radicals to answer.

The opposition leaders said they would continue to press for radio time which they have been denied since Peron came to power.

U.S. senators of 1950 had a median age of 50 compared with 56 today.

Joint Stand By Tito And Nehru
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav President Tito and Indian Prime Minister Nehru published a joint declaration today again advocating world disarmament, use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes only and peaceful coexistence of all nations.

They also called for peaceful solution of "the questions relating to Germany and Taiwan" (Formosa) and a U.N. seat for Communist China.

The two worked out the statement during Nehru's week-long state visit to Yugoslavia. The Indian flew to Rome yesterday.

The Tito-Nehru declaration in general followed the lines of statements each made earlier this year jointly with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The statement said Tito and Nehru agreed to exchange missions to foster trade between their countries.

They also expressed "earnest hope" that the Big Four conference in Geneva this month "will make a new contribution toward the improvement of the international situation."

They called also for "broad international cooperation in the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes" and for "effective measures" to develop underdeveloped countries.

Claim Chance To Save Ike's Plan
WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leaders said today they still have a good chance to salvage President Eisenhower's proposal for a 90-cent-an-hour minimum wage.

The House Education and Labor Committee yesterday defeated the Eisenhower plan on a 15-15 tie vote and approved instead 21-9, a Democratic bill to increase the minimum to $1 from the present 75 cents.

Key Republicans predicted a lively House floor scrap next week. They said they expect strong support from southern Democrats for the 90-cent figure.

If administration officials put up a vigorous fight, these Republicans said they probably will be able to pass the figure the White House requested.

The Senate already has approved an increase to $1. Republicans suggested an eventual compromise could put the 90-cent minimum into effect next year and $1 in later years.

GOP House members said White House officials have expressed concern that raising the minimum above 90 cents in a single step would unduly burden some industries and could drive many small firms out of business.

Unfinished Crime

By Helen McCloy

The man with the dragging footstep following Moxon down Fifth Avenue, New York, might be a cop. So Moxon slipped into the nearby ten cent store which was just closing for the day, and deposited the fabulous "Star of India" ruby on the jewelry counter there. He'd be first in the store in the morning to retrieve it. But when Moxon stepped out into the street again, a blow felled him and he died beneath the wheels of a car. And as he died, Sara Dacre bought the "Star of India" ruby for twenty cents. She was amazed to find Gerry Hone, an acquaintance in the house where she resided, standing at the counter beside her. She tucked her purchase into her purse and left the store with Hone. They stopped at a cafeteria uptown and there in the milling crowd, Hone disappeared, leaving the bewildered Miss Dacre alone. Here an Oriental with a clawed cat tattooed on his arm, joined her at the table. He tried to be friendly, but Sara quickly left the place. And as she walked home alone pondering the riddle of Gerry Hone, a man with dragging footstep walked behind her. In her apartment on East 52nd Street, she sat listening to the ominous silence in Hone's apartment above her.

CHAPTER FIVE

SARA lit a cigarette. It was just as she dropped the dead match in the ashtray that she first heard a sound overhead. It was a light crash as if some object about the weight of a big cardboard box had fallen on the floor, and it seemed to be directly above. Yet she had heard no footsteps.

She ran into the vestibule where the telephone stood and dialed Gerry's number. There was no sound from upstairs, but inside her own receiver she could hear the buzz of a telephone bell, faint and far as if it were on the other side of town. The buzz came once—twice—thrice hoarsely: "Hello?"

"Gerry! I'm so glad you're back! I was worried. What happened?"

The hoarse voice mumbled: "You must have the wrong number. This is Susquehanna 8-9955."

She hung up and dialed again, more carefully. She was sure there was no mistake this second time. Once more the receiver brought her the buzzing of a telephone bell that seemed far away—one, two, three, four.

She waited until the 10th ring. Then, slowly, she put the receiver back into its cradle.

What should she do? Who would advise her? Aunt Carolyn was old and tired and conventional. It would be hard to make her understand. A man you don't really know who just happened to live in the same apartment house with you? Have nothing more to do with him... But who else was there to ask Sara had no other relatives, no close friends in New York.

She came back to the open window, stood still, listening. After dark, light in Gerry's windows was always reflected by the building across the street. There was no reflection tonight but her own light made three squares of faint yellow on the opposite sidewalk and there were three similar squares in the middle of the street. That meant Judith Jenkins was still at home on the floor below.

Sara put on a fur cape fastened high at the neck, picked up her bag and gloves. She went out into the hall and ran down one flight of fire stairs. Without giving herself time to think things over, she rang Judith's bell.

Judith herself opened the door. This was the first time Sara had seen her without a hat and coat. She was short and slim and wiry in Turkish lounging pajamas, raw silk of a screaming sulphur yellow. Her hair was black, straight and glossy, probably dyed; a long bang hung sharply as a knife edge, hung just above the thick, black brows. She had the small creased face and hooded, unhappy eyes of an ape in captivity. She scorned face powder. The dingy skin was rather shiny as if she had rubbed it with olive oil. But the toenails in the gilt mesh sandals were a vivid cherry red like the lips and fingernails. In one small swarthy hand she carried a lit cigarette in an onyx holder set with diamonds.

"Yes!" The rising inflection was

"Sara hated herself for flushing. 'I live on the floor above. We've been nodding to each other in the elevator for the last six months.' 'Oh, You're Sara Dacre. You look different without a hat.' 'I hate to bother you, but I'm worried about Gerry Hone, the other tenant on the top floor.' 'Come in and sit down.' The living-room had three windows on the street like Sara's, but everything was different. Judith had had the partition between living-room and kitchenette removed and the whole was a complicated poem in birchwood beige and various shades of blue and green as artfully plotted as the harmony of a Broadway actor's ties and socks. Sara exclaimed dutifully, 'How charming!'

Judith said: 'You're upset. What is your complaint against Gerry Hone? I pick my tenants carefully and his references were impeccable.'

'Then you own the building?'

'Of course. Didn't you know?'

'The agency said nothing about it when I signed my lease.'

"I built this house as an investment," said Judith crisply. "The rentals from the two apartments upstairs pay the mortgage and upkeep, while in my shop and my apartment rent-free. I was glad to get Gerry for a tenant because I didn't like the idea of three women alone in a building where there is no man superintendent. It never occurred to me that he would cause any trouble."

"H hasn't," said Sara swiftly. "But I'm worried about him." She told her story briefly. "He went off to get coffee," she concluded. "He said: 'Back in a minute.' I waited and waited, but... Her voice rose a little. "He never came back."

Judith fitted another cigaret into her onyx holder, lit it and leaned back against turquoise cushions. "Is that all?"

"Yes but... it was so unlike Gerry. And then, just now, I thought I heard someone in his apartment upstairs. It wasn't you, was it?"

"No."

"I called his number on the telephone. There was no answer and his windows are still dark. But there was someone there."

Judith was troubled. "Suppose you take it from the beginning again and tell me all the details."

When Sara had finished, Judith was silent for a moment. Then: "This business of hearing someone upstairs bothers me most. Could be the person with a limping step who followed you home. And then that first telephone call

Are you sure you dialed a wrong number?"

"I was in a hurry. I could have dialed a wrong number."

"Suppose you didn't. Suppose someone in Hone's apartment answered to see who was calling Hone. Someone who didn't dare pose as Hone while talking to a woman who knew him well enough to call him Gerry, and so got rid of you by saying it not going to cry 'Wolf.' You may wait here, if you like." Judith opened a desk drawer and took out a small revolver as compact and businesslike as herself. "I learned how to use this when I decided to save money by being my own superintendent." The small, muscular hand curled around the steel grip competently, almost lovingly. "Now where's that pass a key?"

Sara followed her into the hall. "Not going to wait?"

"Of course not."

Judith pressed the elevator button. There was a whir of machinery as the door rolled to one side. Sara didn't feel her usual qualms. A machine would treat Judith with respect. But as Sara had once explained to Gerry: "Machines don't like me. Cars, typewriters and fountain pens work for years for somebody else and then balk the first time I use them, so why not elevators, too?"

In the upper hall their footfalls were loud in a stillness that felt uninhabited. Even before Judith threw the door open, Sara was sure there would be no one inside. (To Be Continued)

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market was quiet in the early afternoon today after its big drop yesterday, and prices held fairly steady.

General Motors, source of most of the fireworks of the past two days was steady and showing either small gains or losses in relatively moderate trading.

Gains and losses in significant areas of the list were within a 3-point range either way with most changes small.

Trading hit a pace around 2 1/2 million shares for the day. That was in sharp contrast with the 3,300,000 shares traded yesterday when the market slumped under profit taking.

Motors as a group were mixed. That also held true for the steels, rubbers, coppers, chemicals, airlines and the oils.

Railroads were depressed. Aircraft were steady to higher. Utilities were steady.

General Motors on Wednesday shot up 14 after directors proposed a three-for-one stock split, and then it fell back 2 1/2 yesterday under profit taking. Today it started on a block of 15,000 shares off 1/4 at 125 1/2.

Chrysler, up 1/4 yesterday despite general market weakness, opened today on 2,500 shares up 1/4 at 84 1/2, and at times posted sizable gains.

National Department Stores was depressed quietly after directors took no dividend action. Beech Aircraft was in demand following a stock dividend.

The stock market yesterday was flattened by selling for profits built up in recent strong sessions. The market Wednesday hit a record high peak with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at $176.40. Yesterday it dropped $2.50, the biggest fall in four months.

RALEIGH (N.C.D.A.)—Hog prices steady to 50 lower. Tops of 18.75 at Goldsboro, Beulaville and Rich Square; 18.50 at Biler City, Castle Hayne, Snow Hill, Farmville, Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton, Tabor City, Shallotte, Kenly, Wilson, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Rocky Mount and Lumberton; 18.25 at Micro, Elizabethton, Jacksonville, Plymouth, Fayetteville, Clinton and Washington; 18.00 at Dunn, Newton Grove, nubunta, Clarkton, Warsaw, Bailey, Whiteville and Smithfield.

RALEIGH (N.C.D.A.)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers firm, farm price 24 1/2; Raleigh eggs fully steady. A large 48.

Asheville fryers and broilers firm, farm price 24 1/2, f.o.b. plant price 25 1/2; eggs steady following advance. A large 45-48.

Local funeral home operators must be among the best if their handling of a problem during a recent funeral procession is any indication.

A shiny, black Cadillac hearse was seen pushing the evidently stalled lead car as the procession moved slowly out of town.

Cars behind the hearse were presumably unaware of the mishap.

Funeral home attendants have a reputation for smoothing over any bad situation which might arise during the course of their work.

Fire Destroys Tobacco Barn

Fire destroyed a tobacco barn containing approximately 600 stacks of tobacco on the Mary Smith farm early this morning.

Local firemen were called to the farm located on the Old Stantonburg Road but were unable to save the barn.

'Lonesomest Man' In Prison Is Dead

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Tony Duley "dean" of lifers and reportedly the "lonesomest man" in southern Michigan prison died yesterday.

At 77, Duley was the oldest inmate and had served the most time—48 years.

Death ended a fight for freedom which Duley had waged for most of his adult life and seemed finally to be winning. He frequently was considered for parole but always was turned down for a lack of a sponsor.

He was said to have gone 10 years in one stretch without receiving a letter or a visit.

Then three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Marion Baron of Grand Haven, Mich., read a story that described Duley as the "lonesomest man in prison." They became interested.

At their urging, the corrections commission last March ordered Duley's case processed for possible parole. But while Duley waited, death intervened.

Duley was convicted of killing a ticket agent at Oscoda during an argument about the price of a boat ticket to Detroit.

"I was leaving when he came at me with a gun," Duley said. "We wrestled and it went off."

Duley admitted, however, that he fired two shots into the agent's body before he dropped the gun. He was given a life sentence in 1907.

Despite his age, Duley looked hopefully to life outside prison. He said recently he was leading a clean life, and added: "I wouldn't surprise me if I lived to be 100."

Capitol Square

(Continued from page 4) any session in recent years. Another recurring or continuing issue, and still not adequately met, involves election laws—particularly use of absentee ballots. That has been an issue for 30 years and not much has been done about it any time except in 1939, when absentee ballots were banned in primaries. Then there is the question of a statewide referendum on the sale of alcoholic beverages, which the current Legislature handled exactly as every other session since 1937.

COMMON — The point sought to be made here, solely for the purpose of keeping the record straight, is that accomplishments of the 1938 General Assembly should be individually credited to that session, while most of its failures must be shared with the past two or three decades, although the current session cannot avoid responsibility for them.

The major difference between your reporter and a minority of editorial commentators on the one hand and majority editorial comment on the other is that we emphasize the positive individual accomplishments, which we recognize both achievement and failure, and differ only as to emphasis.

During yesterday afternoon's thunderstorm, lightning struck a packhouse in J. Harvey Britley's farm in Carolina Township and started a fire that destroyed the building and contents. The building, four miles from Greenville, was partially insured.

Britley said the packhouse contained a lot of hay on the top floor and a little over 75 bushels of corn and a large quantity of soybeans below. Some miscellaneous farming machinery was stored in the packhouse.

Building and contents were a total loss, he stated.

A nearby packhouse caught fire several times from flying embers and neighbors helped to extinguish the blaze.

Estimated $400 Damage In Crash

A collision between a car and a truck near the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Inc., on Dickinson Avenue yesterday did an estimated $400 damage but the occupants escaped without injury.

The accident, which occurred at 5:55 p.m., apparently came about when a car operated by Mrs. Dorothy Cobb Smith, 25, of 1615 Longwood Drive, stopped suddenly in the street. A pickup truck, driven by George Preston Haddock, 44, of Rte. 1 Grimesland, collided with the rear of Mrs. Smith's car on the wet and slippery street.

Investigating officers W. E. Peterson, J. E. Gurganov and W. R. Elks made no arrests.
