Russell OKs Senate Committee Version

Reserves Bill Readied

WASHINGTON (AP)—A military reserves bill... The Senate Armed Services Committee, approving the measure yesterday, voted to require future reserve training service 30 days after the measure becomes law.

The committee action left the Senate GOP Policy Committee... Chairman Bridges (R-NH) said the Senate GOP Policy Committee discussed the reserve bill at length yesterday but "took no action."

The House revised this by eliminating the National Guard and banning such volunteers until they had completed high school or reached 19 years of age... The House also voted to allow volunteers from 17 to 20.

Councilmen Have Budgetary Problem Tonight

$11,896 Question Awaits

City fathers must face a budget still $11,896 out of balance when they meet for the regular monthly session tonight at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

tonight, however, which will probably force them to hold budget talks to a minimum... A public hearing is to be held tonight on the annexation of the Highsmith subdivision.

the annexation of the S. Farmer Blonza M. Roberts of Gallivants Ferry, S. C., admires his bumper tobacco crop with stalks seven feet tall. Visitors have come from miles around to see the giant-size plants.

President Raps Money Bill Rider

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's avowed intent to disregard a provision of the new defense money bill unless the courts tell him to abide by it brought Republican praise and Democratic denunciation in Congress today.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said the President showed "courage and integrity." Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.) protested, "This country is not under martial law."

These activities range from shipbuilding and ammunition making to the manufacture of paint, rope and many other items... The clause provides that, when such notice is given of an intent to abandon such a business activity, the appropriations committee of either branch of Congress may exercise veto power.

Meet 'Blank Wall' In Investigation Of Fire Fatalities

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor... Investigation into the deaths of a Negro family of three whose bodies were found in the ashes of their rural tenant home has hit a blank wall, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said today.

What about the Ford auto key found at the scene of the fire? It does not fit Crawford's car and so far no one has come forth to claim it, officers say... The sheriff is also interested in

Brandon Hodges Named Chairman For Tax Study

RALEIGH (AP)—Former State Treasurer Brandon Hodges has been elected chairman of the newly appointed commission to study the state's tax structure.

Hodges now lives in Canton where he is a top-ranking officer in the Champion Paper & Fibre Co. whose president Reuben Robertson Jr. was named deputy secretary of defense by President Eisenhower Tuesday.

The statement published today said production of consumer goods machine tools and agricultural equipment, particularly had increased. It added, however, that rapid introduction of new techniques was being hampered by conceit and complacency among workers and "weak leadership of ministers."

ABC Sales Show Increase In June

RALEIGH (AP)—The state's ABC stores sold $4,850,567 worth of whiskey last month, an increase of $492,867 or more than 11 per cent over sales in June 1954... As usual Mecklenburg led in sales last month at $801,756.

Senate Probers Blame 48 Errors, Red Tape In Peress Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigation subcommittee today blamed 48 errors and Army red tape—but not subversion—for the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj Irving Peress after he refused to say whether he was a Communist.

It said the Secretary of the Army Stevens or perhaps some of his Pentagon bosses, did "a disservice" to the country by what it termed concealing facts about the case of the New York dentist for almost a year. It also accused "the Department of the Army" of some deceptive practices toward Congress.

The report said that Maj. Gen. Miller B. White then president of the Army Personnel Board, had recommended that Peress be kicked out of the Army, but in doing so had cited "a nonexistent regulation" and another regulation "under which the action recommended could not be taken."

which the Senate voted in December to "condemn" some of the senator's conduct... In his report, Bender contended a "campaign of doubt" had been waged against the Army but did not say by whom he said that campaign had "promoted the Communist cause."

Goldenberg had testified that he believed the paintings to be authentic but the jury heard six prosecution experts label them everything from "lousy" to "intentional forgeries." One expert, Dr. John G. Rewald, of New York City, estimated that the paintings if authentic, might bring more than $100,000.

By BILL BECKER BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood art lovers, up to their eyebrows in French impressionists were given some trembling moments by a jury which convicted a prominent auctioneer of falsely advertising five paintings as the work of celebrated French artists.

Wedding Party Is Honored At Dessert Hour

BETHEL—Miss Jeanne Cullifer and Mr. Frank Hemingway were hosts to the Bullock-Beverly wedding party and other close friends at a dessert hour at the home of Miss Cullifer on Saturday evening. The guests arrived at eight o'clock and were greeted by the hosts and the bride and groom-elect. The spacious home was made lovely for the occasion by the use of artistic arrangements of summer flowers interspersed by candles. The color scheme used in the beautifully appointed dining room was pink and white. These colors were also carried out in the refreshments which consisted of bridal ice, decorated cakes, punch, mints and nuts. The honor guests were presented crystal in their chosen pattern by Miss Cullifer and Mr. Hemingway gave them a silver bon-bon dish. Approximately 35 guests enjoyed the pleasant affair.

Garden Club Has Program On Bird Study

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club met July 12 at the home of Mrs. H. R. Billica, Pineview Dr., Lakewood Pines. The president, Mrs. Raymond Lowe, conducted a short business meeting. A final decision was reached on the type of repairs to be made to the entrance sign of Lakewood Pines. A general workshop will be held at 9:30 a.m. July 18 at the home of Mrs. Lowe for containers and summer flower arrangements. For the program Mrs. Billica gave a most interesting talk on bird study. She mentioned that there are six billion birds in the United States; that our birds need four things to exist: water, food, shelter and nesting sites. Also, she discussed the eating habits of the birds here in North Carolina. A series of records were played giving the songs and calls of the different birds. The hostess served delightful refreshments of coffee-cake and fruit punch Mrs. Rothburg of New York was a guest for the meeting. The August meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. G. Culbertson at which time Mrs. J. E. Waltz will give the program.

Inabelle Coleman Circle Meets
BETHEL—The Inabelle Coleman Circle of the Bethel Baptist Church opened its meeting on Monday night with a prayer by Mrs. J. H. Andrews, leader.

Mrs. Joe Andrews, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. The community mission leader, Mrs. Bert Carson, gave her report and plans for the future were made.

The program, which was given by Mrs. J. H. Andrews, was titled "Inseparable." She used for her scripture Exodus 33:14. Her topic dealt with the feeling of the presence of God and an impressive story about an elevator boy was read as an illustration of God's spirit and help in time of need. The hostess, Mrs. Linwood Briley, served ice cream and cake to the 13 members.

LEGION MEETS TUESDAY
Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion will have a supper meeting at the Rotary building next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Members are invited to attend.

Series of Parties Compliment Bride And Bride-Elect

BETHEL—On Friday morning at eleven o'clock Mrs. J. H. Andrews and Mrs. Grimes Beverly entertained jointly at the home of the former at a Coca Cola hour in honor of Mrs. Jimmy Robbins, recent bride, and Miss Louise Beverly, bride-elect.

Lovely arrangements of mixed flowers were placed throughout the house. The dining room table was beautiful in its appointment with the use of yellow and white as the predominant colors.

Assorted party sandwiches, bridal cakes, iced drinks and other accompaniments were served. The honorees were presented dainty corsages and gifts of china and crystal by the hostesses.

Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst and Mrs. Sam Keel entertained at Mrs. Whitehurst's bridge club honoring Mrs. Jimmy Robbins, Jr., of Rocky Mount and Miss Louise Beverly, bride-elect of this week. Lovely bouquets of mixed garden flowers were used throughout the home. The honorees were presented corsages of pink carnations with matching ribbon. Later they were remembered with gifts of Betty Crocker cook books from the hostesses.

Two tables for bridge and three tables of canasta were arranged in the living rooms. After several progressions of play, Miss Alice Coburn received the high for canasta and Mrs. James Crandell won the high for the bridge. Consolation prize went to Mrs. J. L. Brown.

Mrs. James Robbins and Miss Louise Beverly were honored on Friday evening at a dessert hour by Mrs. F. L. Andrews, Jr., at her home. Colorful flowers and candles of pink and white made the home lovely in its setting which was of the bridal motif. Guests arrived at 8:30 and were greeted by the hosts and the honorees. An informal hour of conversation and merriment was enjoyed, at the conclusion of which, the hostess served bridal ice, cake, mints, and nuts. The honorees were presented gifts of crystal in her chosen patterns.

SHIRTSLEEVE FASHIONS... Here are two advance fall fashions in feminine shirts, designed by Digby Morton of London for sale in America. At left is a traditional Scotch tartan in a trimly tailored shirt with wide spread, short-pointed convertible collar, French cuffs and perfectly matched pocket. At right, a striking Paisley print on fine wool challis, used to a smart tailored shirt for town or country. Morton recommends tweed skirts to team with both shirts.

Installation Of New Officers Held By Degree Of Pocahontas

Thirty-one members of the Degree of Pocahontas met at the Woman's Club Tuesday night for their semi-monthly meeting. Lillie Haddock, Pocahontas, presided over the meeting. The meeting was called to order by the Keeper of Records, Betty Nobles, called the roll of chiefs, noted absences and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Three new members—Margaret Jenkins, Daisy Tripp and Louise Hyman—were adopted by the council. Ruth Cox gave a report on the Auditing Committee.

A letter was read from Great Pocahontas of North Carolina, Mildred Davis, telling of her desire to visit the council on October 2th. Thank-you notes were read from Louise Elks, Mrs. Adell Little and the family of Durward Stanley.

The Hall was decorated with lovely summer flowers and all officers wore white evening gowns. The following officers were installed by Betty Nobles and Emma Phillips for the next six months:

Elected Chiefs:
Pocahontas, Kathleen Fussell; Prophetess, Lillie Haddock; Wrennah, Ruby Hodges; Powhatan, Thelma Vincent; Keeper of Records, Betty Nobles; Keeper of Wampum, Dora Boman; Collector of Wampum, Carrie Jones.

Appointed Chiefs:
First Scout, Jean Bright; Second Scout, Ester McGowan; First Warrior, Elizabeth O'Neal; Second Warrior, Martha Gwaltney; Third Warrior, Malissa Davenport; Fourth Warrior, Emma Phillips; First Runner, Bessie Windham; Second Runner, Fannie Lloyd; Guard of Tepee, Minnie Bailey; Guard of Forest, Jetie Ross.

After the installation of officers, Lillie Haddock certificate and a Past Pocahontas certificate and pin Lillie Haddock then gave each of her officers a gift for their loyal support during her term as Pocahontas and thanked all for their cooperation. Maycie Culbreth contributed to the birthday fund and Annie Lee's name was drawn from the Jackpot for the $2.00 cash prize, but she was not present. Next time, it will be worth $3.00. After the meeting adjourned, punch, cakes and nuts were served in the dining room which was enjoyed by all.

Brotherhood Has Supper Meet

BETHEL—The Brotherhood of the Bethel Baptist Church held its regular meeting in the basement of the church. After the invocation by Rev. Frank Marks of Oakboro, a delicious cold plate was served by members of the Woman's Missionary Society.

The group assembled in the auditorium to have the business meeting at the president, Dr. A. L. Stoddard, presided. The secretary's report was given by Archie Coburn and there were 31 to answer roll call.

A report was given by Kelly Abery concerning the cost of a new and also a rebuilt projector. Discussion was held on this matter. A motion was made and seconded that a screen be bought and money was received for this project. The group decided to take an offering at each monthly meeting to be used for visual aids. The meeting was dismissed with a prayer.

Designers Show Preview For Fall

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—Among the 800 or more dress manufacturers that make up the world's largest garment center, there are many whose clothes are known and worn by women all over America, yet who are not members of the New York Dress Institute's Couture Group, currently previewing fall collections for some 150 visiting fashion editors.

Notable among these nonmember designers is Vera Maxwell, famous for individual tweeds and functional fashions of the kind women live in. Each season this young-looking, silver-haired designer goes globe-trotting to discover new fabrics, new colors, new inspiration for her strictly American clothes. This year she is intrigued by the Florentine colors of the Renaissance, and takes her fabric tones from the glowing palette of Titian, Botticelli and Bellini.

Typical of her wearable fashions is an outfit she calls Standby, consisting of a sheath and loose coat in gray tweed, with a little red velvet collar on the coat and a red velvet kick pleat in the sheath. Miss Maxwell has been doing costumes of coats and matching dresses or suits for years, long before the current furor, and again her coordinated outfits in tweeds and the silks provide the ideal outfit for women who go places and do things.

Dorine Liebert, a piquant Viennese designer known for elegant houses, skirts and hostess gowns, is another non-Couture Group member who is making current news. Her series of lace or embroidery trimmed cashmere sweaters and coordinated skirts for fall are worthy of a place in the top fashion bracket.

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S. NICHOLS

Using as a text Acts 4:13, "Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, they marveled and they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus," Rev. James A. Evans brought a very inspirational message on "Christian Courage" at Piney Grove Baptist Church on Sunday morning. The choir rendered a special selection, "Though Your Sins Be As Scarlet."

There were 189 present for Sunday School.

On a recent Sunday morning the class of the Sunday School taught by Mrs. Frances Casstek met at the home of Mrs. Eliza Pollard for the lesson. Mrs. Pollard is a member of the class and has an eight year perfect attendance record. In March she was taken sick and has not been able to attend Sunday School so as a courtesy to her the class met in her home.

The Young People's League meets each Sunday evening at 6:15 at the church.

The Youth for Christ group will meet at the church Saturday at 8 p.m.

The Women's Auxiliary will meet Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Bernice Causey, Rte. 1 Greenville.

Each and everyone is invited to attend all of these services.

Woman Is Convicted Of Advising Draft Evasion

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP)—Mrs. Lucille S. Miller, 45, stood convicted today on 18 counts of advising young men to evade military service.

Federal Judge Ernest W. Gibson said he will sentence her Aug. 8. However, Mrs. Miller's lawyers have announced they will appeal.

The jury returned its verdict yesterday after deliberating a little more than an hour, after a three-day trial.

Mrs. Miller, the only defense witness took the stand following five unsuccessful attempts by her counsel for a dismissal of the indictments. One of the arguments for dismissal was an assertion that the draft law is a violation of the 13th Amendment against involuntary servitude.

A high point in Mrs. Miller's testimony came when she replied to a question asked her by U.S. Atty. Louis G. Whitcomb. He asked her if she "deliberately intended" to violate the law when she wrote to the nine young men, advising them to evade the draft. Her answer was, "I certainly did."

Mrs. Miller and her husband Manuel, 47, a justice of the peace at Bethel, gained national attention when they withstood efforts of a U.S. marshal and police to serve Mrs. Miller with a court order committing her to a mental hospital.

A tear gas attack finally forced the husband to lay down his rifle after a 12-hour siege. Mrs. Miller was sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D. C., but later was declared sane.

Her husband is scheduled to go on trial next Monday on charges of resisting a U.S. marshal.

During the trial the prosecution called nine young men to the stand. All testified Mrs. Miller had sent them letters counseling them to avoid the draft into military service.

Maximum sentence for Mrs. Miller could run as high as 90 years and fines of $180,000.

The jury returned its verdict yesterday after deliberating a little more than an hour, after a three-day trial.

Mrs. Miller, the only defense witness took the stand following five unsuccessful attempts by her counsel for a dismissal of the indictments. One of the arguments for dismissal was an assertion that the draft law is a violation of the 13th Amendment against involuntary servitude.

A high point in Mrs. Miller's testimony came when she replied to a question asked her by U.S. Atty. Louis G. Whitcomb. He asked her if she "deliberately intended" to violate the law when she wrote to the nine young men, advising them to evade the draft. Her answer was, "I certainly did."

Mrs. Miller and her husband Manuel, 47, a justice of the peace at Bethel, gained national attention when they withstood efforts of a U.S. marshal and police to serve Mrs. Miller with a court order committing her to a mental hospital.

A tear gas attack finally forced the husband to lay down his rifle after a 12-hour siege. Mrs. Miller was sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D. C., but later was declared sane.

Her husband is scheduled to go on trial next Monday on charges of resisting a U.S. marshal.

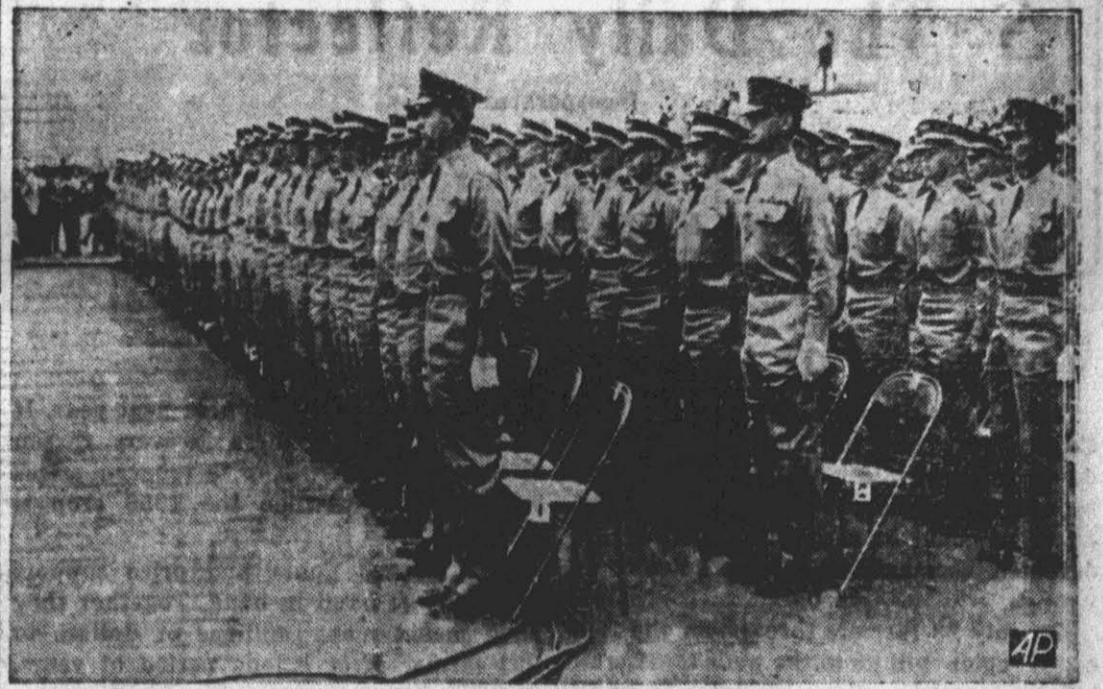

During the trial the prosecution called nine young men to the stand. All testified Mrs. Miller had sent them letters counseling them to avoid the draft into military service.

Maximum sentence for Mrs. Miller could run as high as 90 years and fines of $180,000.

Rainmaker Takes All The Credit

DALLAS (AP)—Dr. Irving P. Krick, of Denver, says his "rain-increasing" service is responsible for 21 billion extra gallons of water which has poured into Dallas reservoirs since 1952.

He said yesterday lakes serving Dallas have gained 84 billion gallons since he was hired in 1952 credit for 21 billion at a total cost of $100,000.

Voting For Big Stakes

There's a big election coming up in Pitt County next week in which farmers and land owners should be sure to participate. No one will be elected in the outcome; but all of us could be seriously shaken if not defeated economically if the outcome is wrong.

On July 23 farmers throughout the flue cured region will go to the polls to determine whether to continue the tobacco quota and price support programs. The outcome of the election will very realistically affect the economic life of Pitt County for the next few years. If tobacco farmers see fit to continue the allotment program, we will be assured of support prices for tobacco. If the allotment program is defeated in the July 23 election, price supports for to-

It Just Took To Much Time

Now that Oveta Culp Hobby has stepped down as Secretary of Welfare and the Dixon-Yates contract has been terminated two thorns have been temporarily plucked from the administration's side. The relief, however, is only temporary.

The Democrats will constantly remind the nation—and the Republicans—of this Dixon-Yates deal which at least has been thwarted and of the complete mess the Department of Welfare made of the Salk vaccine program.

Both moves by the administration were fitting. The only trouble is that they were too long in coming about. The Dixon-Yates power contract should have been dropped months ago. Mrs. Hobby should have resigned immediately after the Salk vaccine foul-up. The nation would have been better off, and the Republicans would have also.

These two incidents will not soon be forgotten by the American people. They will be issues in the 1956 presidential campaign and they will be issues which will do the GOP no good. The Republicans will have excuses and explanations for the incidents; but they will have difficulty in presenting the voters valid reasons for them.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
LIFE—LOWER AND HIGHER TYPES
C. S. Lewis in one of his remarkable books, "Beyond Personality," points out a spiritual truth which is well for us to remember.
The Bible teaches that Christ is begotten but that all of us are made. We are sons of God but not in the way that Christ is the Son of God. He alone is begotten. He has in his nature spiritual life expressed in the Greek word "zoe," while we have only "bios," or animal life which will finally run down and die. Jesus Christ came to share his life with us. He will give us eternal life (zoe) if we will allow him to do so; and if we will allow him to do so then we come to share with him a type of life which was begotten by God the Father, not just made by God acting as our Creator. This spiritual life has always existed and always will exist. When we come to share this life, then we become, as it were, little images of Christ. The only begotten of God, C. S. Lewis declares that the whole purpose of becoming a Christian is simply to share that eternal life. Everything else is auxiliary and secondary to that purpose.

We can become new creatures if we will, and when we do experience this change of nature, we come to share in a quality of life which is eternal and is the thing for which everything else appears to have been made. We can begin to live the higher life right here on earth and real living is ours when we do.

Eisenhower Won A Big Point

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Partisan claims over the outcome of the Dixon-Yates, TVA-AEC controversy obscure fundamental facts. It represents the most serious reverse which New Dealish advocates of a grandiose public power empire have suffered in 20 years, and they admit it privately.
To explain the significance of these current developments requires a brief review of public power history from its Rooseveltian inception to today. I was present when P.L.R. first outlined his TVA program on a Warm Springs veranda in 1933, and it was to be strictly a navigation scheme—flood control, improvement of navigation, land and agricultural development, recreational facilities, reforestation.

Any water power generated incidentally at dams built to carry out the other purposes would be sold without injuring private utilities in order to reduce overall conservation costs.
TVA'S GROWTH—From that small start, TVA has grown until it is now one of the nation's largest public utility systems, serving all or part of seven states. Conservation has become a small side issue. About 60 per cent of its power is generated by steam, not by the flow of water in the area's rivers.

But not even this expansion and distortion of the original Roosevelt idea satisfied such public power zealots as Harry S. Truman, Oscar Chapman and the late Harold L. Ickes. They won victory after victory, with TVA as their show window, at Grand Coulee, Bonneville, the St. Lawrence undertaking, until they envisaged a Federal power system almost girding the country.
They applied their expansionist technique to TVA first because it was the most popular and spectacular experiment in this field. Branching out from strictly TVA domain, they asked for money and authority to build a $90,000,000 steam plant at Fulton, Tenn. Congress repeatedly refused to approve the request, long before President Eisenhower entered the White House.

PRESIDENT'S "PARTNERSHIP" DEVELOPMENT—In the midst of this controversy, along came bacco likewise will disappear next year. If price supports go, there is every reason to believe a sharp drop in tobacco prices will be evident when the 1956 crop is marketed.

The tobacco quota and price support programs go hand in hand. Together they have meant many millions of dollars to Pitt farmers over a long period of years. Farmers for the most part recognize this fact and likewise recognize the need for maintaining allotment quotas and price supports. There are, however, some few, irritated by the goose which lays the golden egg, who would kill the goose.

The Reflector is sure the vast majority of Pitt farmers still favor the quota system as they have indicated by their votes in similar elections in past years. They share confidence that the program will again be endorsed. But in over confidence there is danger. If farmers who favor quotas depend upon other farmers of like mind to provide sufficient votes to carry the election, the issue might be lost.

There is no election of greater economic importance to the life of Pitt County than the referendum on tobacco quotas. With so much at stake, individually and collectively, no tobacco farmers can afford to stay away from the polls.

The Reflector urges every eligible farmer and land owner to participate in the referendum and to vote in favor of continuing the present system under which our agricultural economy has reached its highest point in history.

Much Work Still Remains To Be Done

Pitt County's new Mental Health Clinic is virtually assured now that the County Commissioners and the Greenville City Council have followed the lead of the Greenville Pepsi Cola Bottling Company in providing funds for its operations.

The new clinic will afford a much needed service to the people of Pitt and Surrounding counties. There is not a similar clinic now east of Raleigh. Pitt County's Mental Health Clinic will be the only one in Eastern North Carolina.

Now that initial funds for the clinic's operation for the first six months beginning January 1 have been assured, The Reflector hopes the Mental Health Society recently organized here will push its plans to put the clinic into operation on schedule. Six months is not a great deal of time to effect such an operation.

As other citizens in the county, the Commissioners and the Council members recognize the need for the clinic. They likewise indicated their recognition of the benefits the clinic could mean to the people of Pitt by providing public funds for its operation. To be successful, the clinic will need the moral and active support of the people of the county. An occasion may arise when it likewise needs additional financial assistance from the people of Pitt.

like with his idea for "partnership" development—cities, states, private firms, and the Federal government when necessary—and limitation of further expansion of public power. In lieu of the Fulton steam plant, he proposed that Dixon-Yates interests supply Memphis with power to replace the electricity which TVA would sell to the government's atomic energy plants. TVA is now Memphis's supplier.
The Gore-Lehman-Kefauver public power apostles condemned this idea as "designed to destroy TVA." But House and Senate approved the Dixon-Yates deal, with many Democrats supporting the White House. Congress is definitely against public power expansion, unless justified by geographical and financial considerations.

Next, the New Dealish officials of Memphis did a last-minute rescue act. Although they had never shown any interest in providing for their own utility needs, they refused to buy Dixon-Yates power, insisting that they would build their own substitute plant. And here is where Ike has scored a notable triumph.

YARDSTICK IN REVERSE—Memphis is one of many so-called "captive cities" in TVA territory. Under exclusive contracts which force these municipalities to buy only from TVA at TVA terms and rates and restrictions, they are controlled utterly by remote Federal bureaucrats. They submit willingly to this rule because, in return, and since TVA is subsidized by taxpayers generally, Memphis and all the other cities enjoy extremely low rates.

Thus, it is the public power enthusiasts who are actually "destroying" TVA, for Memphis is the agency's largest municipal customer. Moreover, if Memphis builds and operates its plant in accord with tax and accounting methods required of private industry, enjoying no Federal subsidy, it will have to charge higher prices for electricity than it pays to TVA.

In short, this city in the heart of TVA territory may become a "yardstick in reverse" purchasing the belief that Federal power customers get something for nothing.

Top Qualities In A 'Good Date'

Yesterday I was in Biggs' having my current favorite, a ten-cent lemonade in a five-cent cup, mostly sour. There were two single girls, Dot Whitehurst and Alma Paramore, in a discussion about the qualifications of a good date. Lib Elks was there, but she listened.

It would be difficult to put the qualifications in order of importance, because the girls didn't do it that way. But the first one mentioned was dancing ability. The girls like for their date to know how, but not necessarily to be an expert.

The ability to carry on a good conversation is important, they both agreed. That especially comes in play when it comes to compliments. The girls, like all of us, like to be complimented. On this score, however, the matter of shooting a line must be considered.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

PAPERS OF THE PRESIDENTS (Henderson Dispatch)

In their capacity as the nation's chief executive all Presidents of the United States are public officials, and records and papers created by them in discharge of their duties are and of right ought to be the property of the Federal government. By a voice vote the other day the House voted to vest in the government ownership of these documents. That, of course, is where they should be.

It is strikingly odd that any one should feel the government is obligated to buy these papers. One wonders by what interpretation of the law of possession any man who has been chief executive can claim they are his private property. Such records never could have come into being had the individual not held the high office which made his administration official and important to the country.

Around Capitol Square

DISCOUNTS — A number of counties in North Carolina, particularly the big ones like Guilford, Mecklenburg and Wake, are giving serious thought to abandonment of the policy of allowing discounts for prepayment of ad valorem taxes. Taxes are due on October 1 each year. During the depression period of 20 to 25 years ago many counties adopted the policy of allowing a discount of one-half of one percent a month for advance payment during the summer months; collecting at par during October, November and December, and charging interest of one-half of one percent a month for payments after January 1.

At that time many counties could not borrow money at less than 6 per cent a year and were glad to give the discount of 1/2 per cent a month. Majority of taxpayers who took advantage of the discount were big corporate interests. Those who had to pay the penalty were mainly small individual taxpayers. At first the penalty collector far exceeded the discounts. Then it began to even-up and for several years the discounts have amounted to considerably more than the penalties—with major benefit still accruing to big corporations. The county now can borrow money at low interest and the discount policy is actually a hand-out to the big fellows.

John P. Swain, chairman of the Wake county board, said his group had debated the issue but he doubted action would be taken this year. Receipts have already been given for some pre-payments. It is not contemplated that interest for deferred payments will be taken off. There are some who fear times may get hard and money tight again and the compliments must be sincere. One of the girls said, "I like for my date to know when I'm hungry and insist on my eating. I feel like I have to refuse the first time I mention it."

How to meet and impress the girl's parents is important, they say. Funny how you forget about such things after eight years of marriage. Having a variety of plans is important, they say. Not the same old thing date after date, even if it's a movie. The girls agree that a movie is a good project for a date.

Many months ago I printed a column, using Lib and Dot for information, which favored country boys over city boys, date wise. In the dating age the thing I recall most was the emphasis on policy of pre-discounts should be made permanent. On the other hand, when the county can go to the bank and borrow money for a quarter of one percent a month it seems unsound practice to pay twice as much to a big taxpayer. MUNICIPAL — John Morrissey, general counsel for the N.C. League of Municipalities, has compiled a digest of the 74 general laws pertaining to municipal government enacted by the recent General Assembly. The digest does not attempt analysis of the numerous local acts applicable to only one or two communities. The 74 general laws are divided into thirteen groups: Civil Defense, Criminal Law, Elections, Finance, Insurance, Motor Vehicles, Planning, Retirement, Taxation, Traffic, Water and Sewer, Workmen's Compensation and Miscellaneous.

There is a brief explanation of each law with the identifying bill number and chapter in the Session Laws. This makes it easy to find the full text for those who need more careful study of the acts. One copy of the 12-page mimeographed booklet will go free to each member municipality. Additional copies are available at one dollar each at the League headquarters in Raleigh. DEMOCRAT? James A. Farley, former postmaster general and Democratic national chairman, has found he cannot make the big speech as advertised at the YDC rally scheduled for Senator Kerr Scott's farm at Hay River for July 30. Presently announced substitute speaker is Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon. Morse was first elected in 1944 as a Republican re-elected on that ticket in 1950. Then he became an avowed independent, voted with the Democrats to organize Teapot Dome and other illegal and wrongful conduct that went on, and of which he undoubtedly must have had knowledge. There was probably a great deal that would have been to his discredit had his papers been thrown open to public examination.

Most Presidents issued orders and assented to certain policies on occasion which they probably would have preferred to keep away from scrutinizing eyes. Yet these acts were those of officials and it would seem that the public had and still has and always should have the right to know what went on.

The government ought to acquire such official papers and records and should not have to spend the people's money to get them. Unless there should be something to hide, families of the Presidents ought to be glad to have the documents preserved for posterity.

Swindlers Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER
When the public succumbs to a stock fever, the fast-buck boys move in. They moved in on the uranium craze and they are now moving out with millions. It is probable that they will move in on the excitement over the coming first public sale of Ford Motor Co. stock. The fact that it is a fine stock in a fine company makes it easier for the smoothies.

Stock fever, it was pointed out here yesterday may unduly inflate prices for the stock. But get-rich schemes based on the fever may be far more costly. Unless government officials, better business bureaus and other fighters for honesty are more than usually vigilant, slick operators may reap fortunes.

The most primitive kinds of swindles will be worked by those who issue counterfeit stock or who take checks and orders but fail to deliver. Only slightly more advanced will be those who incorporate companies with "Ford" somewhere in the name, or who buy up defunct companies with such names, and sell the stock at prices slightly less than genuine Ford stock.

The more advanced slickers will form "investment companies" buy a share or so of Ford stock and a miscellany of other stocks and then sell shares in the new firm on the strength of its Ford "holdings."

There's a possible variation. If the Ford stock is of high value, promoters may form a company to buy $1,000,000 worth, and then sell $1,000,000 worth of stock in their company in $10, $5, $1 or even penny shares. On the surface this looks like a beneficial idea, permitting even the smallest investors to share in the rich company. And so it will be—if the organizers don't vote themselves salaries, fees, bonuses and other emoluments that will take practically all the earnings.

The stockholders, of course, could vote the promoters out—if there is any way of getting 200,000 $5-stockholders together. Postal inspectors, Security & Exchange Commission agents and attorneys general will race after these operators, of course. But all too often the promoters will stay either just within the law or just a step ahead of subpoenas and warrants.

Never more important will be the better business bureau slogan: investigate before you invest! URGES DISTINCTION IN PRODUCT DESIGN

Manufacturers are spending millions of dollars advertising brands that are indistinguishable from one another when lined up at the point of sale. J. Gordon Lippincott, New York industrial designer, told a conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

To prove his point, he displayed advertisements of six well-known toasters, with brand names removed. No one could identify them.

JAPAN BEST CUSTOMER OF U.S. AGRICULTURE
Japan is the largest receiver of American agricultural exports. Figures compiled by the Foreign Agricultural Service show that last year $417,700,000 worth of agricultural products were shipped to Japan. The second best customer is Great Britain, which took $326,700,000 worth.

Japan and Britain, together with Canada, West Germany and the Netherlands received more than half the total.

The Hill Folk Have A Dignity

By HAL BOYLE
GATLINBURG, Tenn. AP—

"In saying hill folk live with dignity, I feel that I am not making a statement, for indeed they do."

So said a lady here of whom I inquired what peculiar virtues mountain people have. One example of mountain dignity is Jack Huff, who also superbly exemplifies another continuing virtue of the original Scotch-Irish settlers in the Great Smokies — pride of family.

Would you carry your own mother on your back up a mountain merely to let her see a sunset and a sunrise that you enjoyed and, as a son, felt she should share?

Jack Huff did once. It's a good story. Ernie Pyle told it in 1940, and he'd like to tell it again and bring it up in his book.

About 1900 Jack's father came here with a pocketful of timber money looking for more, and ended up by building the pioneer Mountain View Hotel. It lies here in a cove in the hills, now one of America's leading summer resorts.

Jack loved the mountains and didn't want to lean on his pappy. So he decided he'd build a lodge of his own atop Le Conte, one of the highest peaks in the Great Smokies then reachable only by footpath. This was before the federal government took over the area and made it into one of the nation's most popular public parks.

Jack built the lodge largely with supplies he hauled up first on his own back, then on the backs of horses.

He now has enough cabins here to sleep 48 people overnight. Ernie Pyle figured in 1940 that Jack had climbed some 15,000 miles in creating his mountain eyrie. During most of his trips up the 7½-mile journey he shouldered a 50-pound pack.

His description of the magnificent view at the top of the peak intrigued his mother. She was time-crippled.

Jack built a special-back chair, and put his mother in it. She weighed more than 90 pounds, might not be to we east's advantage. He wanted to find out. He confessed he had not learned much. And he didn't report much from his area.

He thinks people are pretty well satisfied with what the Legislature did. They are not actively disturbed about segregation, although many of them have no idea how they will face up the issue when showdown time comes.

Anyway, a disabled mother boat god Libby Ward interested again in politics.

N.C. Presbyterians To End Segregation Soon

BARIUM SPRINGS, N.C. — The North Carolina Presbyterian Synod was on record today as urging its churches and schools to seek ways to accept Negroes as members and students eventually.

By a vote of 223-153, the synod adopted the report of its special segregation committee here last night at the synod's 142nd annual meeting.

The synod report recommended that sessions of local churches "earnestly consider" having "sincere Negro Christians" attend service. It also urged that ways be studied to ultimately accept Negroes into membership.

Another recommendation adopted proposed that governing boards of institutions of higher education controlled by the synod consider admitting students regardless of race.

The segregation debate stretched into the night and followed endorsement of a move to create a new co-education four-year college in the eastern part of the state.

The proposal calls for the merger of Peace Junior College, Raleigh; Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton; and Flora MacDonald at Red Springs.

Final approval rests on Wilmington, Fayetteville and Orange presbyteries, which own and control Flora MacDonald.

A subcommittee report seeking the Concord presbytery's consideration of a plan to merge Mitchell College, Statesville, and Lees-McRae College, Banner Elk, also was approved.

Dr. William Moffett of Gastonia said the proposed merger of Peace Presbyterian and Flora MacDonald probably would not be completed for several years.

The report said construction would cost a minimum of five million dollars, about a third of which would come from assets of the three institutions.

Bridal Couple Honored At Dinner

BETHEL — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin and daughters, Lynda and Bobbe Sue gave a lovely dinner party honoring Miss Louise Beverly and W. R. Bullock, Jr. who are to be married on July 16.

Mrs. Martin very graciously received her guests which included Mrs. Robert Beverly, mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bullock, Sr., parents of the groom, and Rev. and Mrs. T. N. Cooper.

An appetizer was served in the den after which a turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served in their modern living room and dining room combination.

The table was beautifully decorated with a lovely arrangement of red flowers.

After a dessert of ice cream and cake, the hosts remembered the bride with crystal in her selected pattern.

Court To Sit In S. C. On School Entry Petition

COLUMBIA, S.C. — A three-judge Federal District Court will sit here tomorrow for the first hearing in a school segregation case in the Supreme Court decree of May 31.

The court will hear arguments on what it should do to carry out the Supreme Court directive that segregation must be ended as soon as practicable. It has authority, however, to take local conditions into consideration in formulating an order to school district authorities.

Only the Summerton school district in Clarendon County is affected directly at this time. The district authorities are defendants in the case, which was one of five in which the Supreme Court held in May 1954 that racially segregated schools are unconstitutional.

The three-judge court will be made up of Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, senior member of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals; Judge Armistead M. Doble, of Charlottesville, Va., also of the Circuit Court; and Dist. Judge George Bell Timmerman of Columbia.

All were on the court when it held in 1952 that segregation is constitutional as long as facilities are equal for both races. That ruling was reversed by the Supreme Court and the case now has been returned to the lower court for action in accordance with the decision.

Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, is expected to represent the Negro plaintiffs in the case.

Robert McCigg, of Charleston, and S. E. Rogers, of Summerton, are attorneys for the school authorities.

Marshall has filed a petition making 180 more Summerton Negroes plaintiffs in the case. Originally, the Negro group, contending their rights are impaired by segregation consisted of but a handful of parents representing about 12 or 13 schoolchildren.

Summerton school district trustees have said they will close the schools rather than mix white and Negro pupils. May enrollment in the Summerton district schools was 297 white pupils to 2,478 Negroes.

Gary Cooper Ends Three-Year Absence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — After a three-year absence, the "yep and nope" man, Gary Cooper, is back before the Hollywood cameras.

Coop is playing the air power pioneer in "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell," and it's his first film here since he won the 1952 Oscar for "High Noon." He has made "Return to Paradise" in the South Pacific and "Garden of Evil" and "Vera Cruz" in Mexico since then. He was reportedly one of the stars who went overseas for the 18-month tax deal, but he claims he didn't profit therefrom.

"Enough you like working in Hollywood?" he was asked.

"Sure, I like working in Hollywood."

"Then why have you been gone so long?"

"Cause I couldn't find any worthwhile properties to do. Oh, I could do lot of junk, but what's the use of that?"

"What do you do to keep busy?"

"Well, I figure I read 3,000 film treatments, 425,000 novels and several thousand TV dramas. That was enough to keep me busy," he kidded.

"And I also have done a passel of hunting and fishing. Went up north for a while and killed me a b'ar while I was there."

He indicated that his leisure was over for a spell. After "Court-Martial," he reports to William Wyler for "Friendly Persuasion," a comedy-drama about a Quaker.

Hollywood took a long time in getting around the Billy Mitchell story, but now it's being done in thorough style. The armed forces, which long were touchy about the Mitchell matter, are cooperating with the film. The company just returned from shooting background in Washington, D. C.

Billy Mitchell was a World War I general who was among the first to see the value of air power in modern war.

He was court-martialed in 1925 for statements to a newspaper strongly critical of the Navy and War departments.

The lengthy trial featured Mitchell's beliefs in the value of air power. He was suspended without pay and rating for five years. He resigned from the Army in 1926 and devoted the years until his death in 1936 to writing and preaching about the use of aircraft in modern war.

Dynamite-Laden Platform Plank Revised In Congress

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press New Analyst

WASHINGTON — In their 1952 campaign platform the Republicans had two paragraphs on the Russian satellites: one full of dynamite, which made good political propaganda at the time and the other harmless.

After their election they backed off from the dynamite-laden paragraph. They had failed to carry through on it. Three years later they are pushing for a revised version of the harmless one, with Democrats' help.

The explosive paragraph said the Republicans would "repudiate" all wartime "secret understandings" with the Russians which aid "Communist expansion."

The other said: "It will be made clear, on the highest authority of the President and Congress that United States policy . . . looks happily forward to the genuine independence of those captive peoples."

This is what happened: President Eisenhower, after taking office in 1953, said he knew of no agreements still secret in the sense of not being known. If this country started repudiating wartime agreements, the Russians might retaliate by canceling some which this country didn't want repudiated—for example, the division of Berlin between West and East.

So, instead of repudiating anything, Eisenhower suggested that Congress, then run by his Republicans, adopt a resolution which would say: ". . . The United States rejects any interpretation . . . of agreements . . . which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples . . ."

That was soothing enough to the Democrats who argued the wartime agreements would have been all right if the Russians hadn't deceitfully used them to entrap the Central European countries.

Eisenhower had to consider the Democrats' feelings too. The Republicans had control of Congress only by a hair. But Eisenhower's proposal was too weak to suit some Republicans. The whole thing was shelved.

Last month, as Eisenhower prepared to meet the Russians at Geneva, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) tried to get the Senate to pass a resolution calling upon the President to demand of the Russians that they agree to discuss the "status" of Communist control in Europe and Asia.

The Democrats run Congress now but Republicans and Democrats joined almost solidly — the vote was 77-4 — to kill that idea.

Opponents said it was butting into Eisenhower's authority. It would have tied his hands at Geneva, and it might have wrecked the conference.

Yesterday the Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved a resolution which had joint Democratic and Republican backing, and had Eisenhower's approval.

Briefed down, this proposal proclaims hope that subject countries shall regain their freedom.

It says just about what the harmless second paragraph in the 1952 Republican platform said. It is so far from the dynamite of the first paragraph in the platform that it doesn't even mention Russia or communism or broken agreements.

Why is it being offered at all, on the eve of the Geneva conference which opens Monday?

Perhaps to make the Russians a little self-conscious when they meet Eisenhower. And perhaps because there is a strong belief within administration circles that it is worthwhile to keep the hope of freedom alive in the satellites.

Third Anniversary For St. James Church Here

Yesterday was a birthday—birthday of an already well-known Greenville three-year-old. It was on July 13, 1952, that the Saint James Methodist Church was born. The third anniversary will be celebrated tonight as the families of the young congregation gather in their new, air conditioned building for a "covered dish supper."

The fellowship meal commemorating the birth of the Church was postponed until tonight to enable more members to attend. The event is scheduled for 6:45.

The date being marked is the date on which the Rev. Edwin L. Barnhardt, then pastor, received the first seventy-four persons into the membership of the Saint James Church. The congregation had been organized after a call for volunteers had been issued by the Rev. Leon Russell, then pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Church. Services were held in public school buildings, predominantly in Third Street School, during the ensuing thirty-one

Noted Canadian Lawmaker Dies

OTTAWA (AP) — Federal Sen. James H. King of Vancouver, former Speaker of the Canadian Senate died early today in the Civic Hospital. He was 82.

The Senator entered the hospital June 20 for treatment of a heart condition. He subsequently contracted pneumonia.

His death brought to 23 the number of vacant seats in Canada's 102-member upper chamber. Senators are appointed for life by the Governor General on recommendation of the government.

King, a member of Canada's dominant Liberal party, was a physician in private life. He held posts in both provincial and Federal cabinets.

he then raped the child and hit her when she began screaming.

The farmhand was arrested on a street corner here after a truck driver told police he had given a ride to a hitchhiker fitting the description of a man wanted in the case.

No charges have been filed.

Leaves Today On Solo Ocean Trip

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. — A former Harvard and Boston University football player leaves today on the first leg of a solo voyage across the Atlantic in a homemade 30-foot boat.

George Boston, 33, estimated it will take him 40 days to cover the 2,000 miles to the Azores and another 20 for the 1,000-mile trip from there to Gibraltar in his double-ended auxiliary ketch Tahiti.

Boston said he may continue around the world in the ketch, if he reaches Gibraltar.

November 1, 1953, Bishop Paul N. Garber appointed the Rev. J. Malloy Owen pastor of the new church. On January 17, 1954, the Bishop led ceremonies officially breaking ground for the first unit of the church building. By February 27 of this year the unit was ready for occupancy. Services opening the Church for worship were led by the Rev. Hiram K. King, District Superintendent of the New Bern District. Membership has now passed the 300 mark.

The Church is best known in eastern North Carolina through its Lenten drama "The Passion Play," presented at East Carolina College the past two years, and its telecast "The Circuit Rider," heard on Channel 9 alternate Sundays at 2:30.

Discrepancies Checked In Child-Slaying Confession

JOPLIN, Mo. — Officers checked discrepancies today in a farm laborer's rambling account of abducting 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis from her crib and raping and beating her.

The body of the Sioux City, Iowa, child was found Monday in a farm field near South Sioux City, Neb., just across the Missouri River from the Iowa town.

Detective John Showers said Audrey Brandt, 42, of La Porte City, Iowa, orally admitted taking the girl from her bed Sunday night, raping her and hitting her several times.

Showers said the farmhand claimed, however, that he did not kill her.

He told officers he hitchhiked here from Sioux City.

Officers questioned him late into the night on his story, which they described as incoherent in parts.

Detective F. E. Eichelberger said the FBI and Joplin police were studying certain phases of the story that "didn't jibe."

At La Porte City, Police Chief Henry Kruse said Brandt had a record for petty thievery there. Brandt had been arrested on child molestation charges in 1947 and last April, Iowa authorities reported.

Detective Showers said the farmhand related that he passed the home of Donna Sue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, twice Sunday night and then crept into the child's room through a window, took her from her crib and went across the Missouri River.

Greenies - Falkland Split Two

Dunn Hurls Win In Second Game

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenie and Falkland split two marathon-scoring games in a Coastal Plain League doubleheader here last night, the locals taking the nightcap, 14-1, after losing the opener, 15-5.

The split kept the Greenies' record at the 500 mark of 17-17 and Falkland's at 10-21.

Resuming a rained out game in the second inning, the Greenies ran into some of the best pitching recorded in Guy Smith Stadium all season in the first game. Young Sob Lilley, stocky righthander, struck out Brownie Tripp, who came to bat with two men out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the second, and went on to whiff 20 Greenie batsmen.

The Tarboro youth used a blaring fastball and wicked breaking curve to bewilder the locals. Three times he sat the side down on swings and at no time in the game was he in trouble.

The game was resumed with the Greenies trailing 10-3 and the margin was too much overcome with Lilley throwing his bombs. Manager Pete Carraway's gang could manage but two runs, one in the fifth on doubles by Bobby Clark and Brownie Tripp and once in the seventh on a walk and a single by Earl Tripp.

Meanwhile, Manager Skeeter Webb's crew was jumping on James Earl Pollard and Tom Boyd for five runs. The Falklanders scored twice in the third frame on a hit, a walk and two consecutive errors. Again in the sixth, two runs were recorded on a base hit by Tim Nichols, two straight infield errors and two successive base knocks by Ed Stokes and Bill Simpson.

After some delay, the second game was started and because of the 12 p.m. curfew the game was allowed to last only five complete innings.

Five was enough, however, in this one for the Greenies to come back and give Falkland the rough end of the treatment. Lilley again was on the hill for the community visitors but didn't receive so cordial a welcome as before.

The locals teed-off for 10 hits and worked Lilley and reliever Simpson for seven walks, accounting for 14 runs.

The Greenies broke the ice in the first stanza by scoring on a quick play. Tom Boyd walked to lead off and came home a minute later on Bobby Clark's singling single to leftfield.

Big innings

The winners' biggest innings were the third and fourth. Six runners crossed the plate in the third and four tallied in the next inning. Boyd singled, Mat Hall was on by an error and, after Clark grounded out, Brownie Tripp walked, and little Earl Tripp smacked a long double, driving in three runs.

Before the inning was out, James MacLachorn doubled and was followed on base by Sal Caruso, Bobby Fye and Billy Dunn, all via the base on balls route.

In the fourth, two straight hits by B. Tripp and E. Tripp, an out, and then two straight hits by Caruso and Fye accounted for three runs. An error brought in the fourth tally.

Dunn Sharp

No Falkland man had more than one hit. The team got only two off the slants of starter Billy Dunn. The little leftie pitched his best ball of the season, striking out nine men in five innings and allowing only four bases on balls.

Score by innings:

First Game
Falkland	6-0 002 001-15 7 4
Greenie	5-0 010 100-5 11 2
Lilley and Nichols	Dunn, Yohn, Wollard and MacLachorn.
Second Game
Falkland	000 001-1 2 2
Greenie	126 41-14 10 0

Indians Must Rise; Bums Should Awaken

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The major league pennant races get back to action tonight with two big questions to be answered: Can Cleveland and Chicago survive the one-two invasion punch of New York and Boston in the American? And, just how secure is Brooklyn's 11 1/2-game lead in the National?

New York's Yankees top the AL by five games at the All-Star Game break comes to an end, while only one game separates each of the other first-division teams — Cleveland, Chicago and Boston. That means the runner-up Indians who had a half-game lead on the Yanks at this point in '54, and the third-place White Sox have to worry about kicking off the Red Sox as well as catching the New Yorkers.

Manager Al Lopez, naming Bob Lemon (12-6) to face Tommy Byrne (7-2) and the Yanks tonight, claims his pitching staff is back in shape. It better be. After facing the Yanks for two the Tribe must then take on the buslines' Boston, who have lost only six of their last 34, for three games Saturday and Sunday.

The National presents a different picture. It hardly seems possible, but the Brooklyn, a league and a half ahead of the pack, are hurtling. The only thing that's kept them away out front is oddly enough, the even-Stephen makeup of the circuit.

There's no panic yet, but a team that loses 10 of its last 19 games can't be sleeping too well — even with that 1 1/2-game bulge.

Roy Campanella insists he's ready to go back to work behind the plate tonight when the Dodgers take on the St. Louis Cardinals at Ebbets field, but Manager Walt Alston indicates he has other plans.

That disturbing 9-10 record followed Campy's knee injury, and Alston doesn't want to start his big guy before the leg is healed completely.

PONY All-Star Play In Tourney

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenie's 1955 PONY League all-star team, probably the strongest all-around PONY League squad in the city's history, opens the long tournament grind toward the world's PONY League championship Monday afternoon at five o'clock in Rocky Mount.

The Greenville team is one of the four teams competing for the subdistrict title in a double elimination tourney. Greenville meets Tarboro and Rocky Mount meets Williamston in the first round of play Monday. The Greenville game will get underway promptly at five o'clock.

Winner to Warwick

The winner of the tourney in Rocky Mount travels to Warwick, Virginia, for another subdistrict title. The Warwick winner advances to Greensboro for the district championship.

Last year the Greenville PONY League were second in the Rocky Mount tourney. They lost the tenth inning of a scheduled seven inning game. This year's squad is considerably more balanced with a stronger all-around pitching staff.

McGowan, Kittrell Coach

Ford McGowan, president of the 1955 PONY League in Greenville and long-time sports enthusiast and performer, will coach this year's team along with Bill Kittrell, former Greenville High School mentor. Kittrell's Oldsmobile team won the first half championship in PONY League play.

The two coaches have been working the team for more than a week in an effort to bring them into top form for the Rocky Mount tourney. Rain has hampered their progress in the last few days.

This year's team consists of fifteen players, four from the Redmen, Fords, and Oldsmobiles. Three players come from the National Guard. Both of the alternates are Redmen. The alternates will be used only in case one of the regular players cannot play.

The players are Charles Stator, Billy Cox, Arthur Andrews, Aubrey Harrison, Bobby Edwards, Ronald Riggs, Lucian Bryan, Harry Forbes, Walker Allen, Robin Wilfong, Merrill Bynum, Ronnie Finch, Dick Evans, Howard Garner, and Jimmy Churchill. The alternates are Tommy Braxton and Randy Bass.

Guest Column Conducted By Bruce Phillips

JACK LEE, in the Goldsboro News-Argus

Goldsboro's Henry Helmer was last week's Greensboro Athlete of the Week. As Greensboro's Tom Northington puts it, "Top pitcher in the Carolina League? That's one way of starting a good old baseball argument among the sideline managers around the circuit. But you couldn't go wrong by placing the name of Henry Helmer at the top of the list!"

Certainly, the likeable Goldsboro left-hander is having a tremendous year at Fayetteville. At the moment, he owns the winningest record in the Carolina League—13 and 2.

That's a record any hurler would be proud to claim at this stage of the campaign, especially when many of these victories came at the expense of the league's stronger clubs.

And, of course, at his present pace, Harry has few worries about not finishing above the coveted 20-game bracket which pitchers dream about. Helmer's most productive campaign previously was back in 1948 when he notched a brilliant 26-10 record for the fourth place Rocky Mount Leafs. Helmer, during that summer, hurled 28 complete games and struck out 268 in 292 innings on the hill.

JOHN MORGAN, in the Washington Daily News

Left-handed pitchers have been having it rough in the majors this year. Men like Warren Spahn, Curt Simmons and Harvey Haddix in the national have been taking their lumps, and there's been trouble for left-handers like Mel Parnell, Ed Lopat, Billy Pierce and Earl Stone in the American.

But one south has been denying the jinx, and that's Luis Arroyo of the St. Louis Cards. Out of the Cards' first 26 victories, eight had gone to the Puerto Rican. In that time he had won eight and lost only two... heartbreakers that he had lost by one run. While the major leagues seem early this season, he came near departing from the minors by one pitch.

Now that we're back from vacation at Hatteras, the blues and mackerel will probably start another run such as they had couple or three weeks before we went on vacation. But last week, these fighting fish were on vacation also around Hatteras Inlet, although a few were being caught outside.

My uncle and I spent the better part of each day trolling around the channel and shoals of the inlet, but to no avail. But we did hit some luck angling for flounder, sea mullets, croakers, and grey trout. On Friday afternoon late, we tired of drifting in the channel after not even getting a nibble, and decided to try a fishing hole just off from the channel. My uncle hauled in a little pinfish, then I caught a hogfish. Fish have their moments, too.

BOB WILLIAMS, in the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram

Vernon Sechrist—Rather than write about sports, I'd rather do my pinch-hitting job for Bob Williams, who's on vacation, by telling something about some sports writers and their work.

In the field of sports, there is the biggest opportunity available in any field of writing for the scribe to really let go. He can get by on the sports pages with expressions that would give any news editor indignation. There's hardly a dull moment, because there's always something different coming up.

And the sports editors make good use of any newspaper's headlines too, calmly placing on a routine story about Trukey Root's softball team the denizens of Shady Gulch type the size of which the telegraph editor has been saving for the end of the world.

Because of the freedom which is extended to the sports writer, however, he often learns right there on the sports pages the secret of good readable writing.

Does a sports editor need to be an expert on all sports? Not necessarily. I know one leading North Carolina sports writer (not the Telegram, however), who becomes deathly sick at the thought of some boob's tossing out a lure on the water and mutilating the mouth of a fish. Yet fishing is one of our biggest sports!

One time I asked another of the state's top sports scribes how in the world he managed to hold up under the fierce treatment he would receive under the scrutiny of a baseball-loving barber while the latter was cutting the former's hair.

"There's no problem there, at all," declared the big time sports writer. "I never try to show any superior knowledge of baseball when I'm in the presence of a barber."

This good judgment would have implied even more so had the barber been shaving the sports man.

Ezzard Charles Takes Decision

CHICAGO (AP)—A slowed-down Ezzard Charles plodded to a split 10-round decision over young Paul Andrews last night to keep grinding away on the comeback treadmill.

He proved he still has the heart of a champion if little else. He was decked by a short right for the eighth count in the second round.

But he weathered Andrews' savage left hooks and right uppercuts and fought back. He earned the decision from Referee Frank Bikora 94-91, and Judge Frank Adams, 96-95. Judge James McManus gave it to the 25-year-old ex-paratrooper from Buffalo, N.Y. 62-69.

Charles, outweighing Andrews 193 pounds to 189, opened a gash under his opponent's right eye in the fourth round and it kept bleeding most of the way. He battered Andrews in a sledging body attack to slow him down from the fifth on. But Charles' only impressive punch of the fight was a long right that staggered his lanky foe in the first round.

The Cincinnati fighter, who outside the ring shows little wear and tear for a 34-year-old veteran of 104 bouts, appeared to have lost all the fitness that once carried him to the heavyweight title.

Asked bluntly why he goes on, he said:

"Fighting is my business. I don't have another job. Besides, how can you turn down money?"

Charles' next stop on the comeback treadmill? Probably in Syracuse Aug. 3 against Hurricane Jackson.

Trabert And Richardson Extended Before Winning

ATLANTA (AP)—Favorites, led by top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, met today in the quarter-finals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament.

Of the seeded players, only Bill Quisenberry, rated No. 7, fell out of line. He was topped in marathon match with second-seeded foreign entry Johann Kupferberger of South Africa 6-2, 8-10, 8-6.

Trabert had a rough time of it for a spell against 18-year-old Ned Neely in straight sets 6-3, 6-0 to gain the quarter-finals.

Closest bid for an upset was registered by Frank Willett of Atlanta who came within two points of ousting six-seeded Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex. The final score was 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, but Willett had a 3-3 lead in the third set with a 3-0 margin in the 10th game before Sammy got back on his game.

Jeddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., Gerald Moss of Modesto, Calif., and Jack Frosty of Monterey, Calif., all seeded players, completed the quarter-finals lineup.

Moylan topped left-hander Robin Willner of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-2; Moss, seeded eighth, took three sets to defeat Dave Harum of Miami, Fla., 4-6, 6-4, 6-3; and fifth-seeded Frost ousted Ronald Homberg of Brooklyn 6-3, 6-0.

Quarter-final play, originally scheduled for tomorrow, was moved up to today under threat of rain in today's play. Moylan faced Kupferberger; Richardson met Frost; Trabert played Giammalva, and Bartzon fought Moss.

Defending Champion Bernard Bartzon of San Antonio, Tex., seeded No. 4, took Atlanta's 15-year-old Ned Neely in straight sets 6-3, 6-0 to gain the quarter-finals.

Sports Roundup By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If the harried minor leaguers can hold on only a little longer against the television menace, help is on the way from an unexpected source.

With each passing day the voice which comes along with the picture is driving more and more fans from living rooms and bars into the blessed sanctuary of the ball parks, where they can watch a game in peace and make up their own funny commentary if they feel disposed. After what they've been put through, they mostly just sit and sigh contentedly.

It isn't the commercials between innings. What has become almost impossible for him to take is the incessant boring chatter while play is in progress.

"Look folks, we've got the camera on old Joe Glutz at first base. He's got a strange habit that I don't think I've ever seen before in my long experience. He always leans forward just as the ball is delivered. There did you see that? Yes, sir, he leaned, folks. Now I want to tell you about a wire I just got asking my opinion on whether Ty Cobb could have licked Birdie Tebbets, ha ha. There's a foul coming up right over our microphone."

It's going to be a sad day for somebody when the sponsors learn of the emergency measures being taken by this is an estimate—millions of set owners who wish to watch a ball game and still preserve their reason. They have found it both annoying and soothing to switch off the voice of the "personality" behind the picture and flick on the radio broadcast of the game—softly.

You might not believe it, but there's all the difference in the world, folks. In contrast to his TV counterpart, the radio announcer is a simple child of nature who merely tells his listeners what is taking place on the field of play. He seldom shouts, he permits periods of silence, and his commercials are less drippy. At least, you don't have to watch him emote while he delivers the mail.

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Turley, ace righthander for the Yankees, is the fastest pitcher in the majors according to Yogi Berra.

"I think Turley throws the fastest ball of any pitcher I ever caught," says Berra. "The only pitcher I've caught that compares to Turley is Alie Reynolds. But Alie never threw so hard so often. That Turley can throw the ball past the hitters and do it consistently."

The Kansas City Athletics have two tough combinations. They are Bobby and Wilmer Shantz and Cloyd and Cletus Boyer.

Cleveland Buys Evers; Baltimore Gets Wight

Baltimore outfielder, went to Cleveland today on waivers in exchange for southpaw relief pitcher Bill Wight whom the Orioles claimed off the waiver list.

Oriole General Manager Paul Richards, who announced the deal, indicated he hoped Wight would give his pitching staff some of the hurling, the lack of which has cost so many close games.

Evers, who was among the American League's top hitters early in the season, was batting .354 on May 13. However, he went into a slump and has played only occasionally the last month and a half.

He was picked up as a free agent in the spring after playing with the New York Giants, and Boston and Detroit in the American League last season.

His Oriole record in 60 games and 185 times at bat was 44 hits, including six homers, a triple, 10 double and 30 runs batted in, for an average of .238.

Wight, 33-year-old, 6-foot-1, 180-pounder, had a 17-5 record last season with San Diego, but has seen only relief duty with Cleveland and has no won-lost record.

In 17 games, he has pitched 24 innings, giving up 23 hits and eight runs, seven of them earned, for an ERA of 2.28. He has struck out nine and walked nine.

Wight will be the Oriole roster's left-hander on the Oriole roster, little Art Schalllock being the other.

He is the second pitcher the Orioles have signed in two days.

Hector (Skinny) Brown, bought outright from Oakland where he

Aussies, Mexico In Zone Pairings

CHICAGO (AP)—Australia, an overwhelming favorite, and Mexico have completed their singles pairings for the American zone Davis Cup tennis matches opening Saturday at the Saddle and Cycle Club.

Experts predict the Aussies will sweep the two opening singles competition tomorrow when they send Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig against Mexico's Gustavo Palfox and Esteban Reyes, respectively.

Keen observers believe Australia will wrap up a team victory with the lone doubles match Saturday. In Sunday's final two singles matches, Hartwig will face Palfox and Rosewall will meet Reyes.

The two nonplaying captains, Harry Hopman of Australia and Raul Fernandez of Mexico, can revise their original choices for Saturday's doubles. However, of the moment the Aussies' selection is Hartwig and Lew Hond, newly crowned Wimbledon doubles champions, against Palfox and Francisco Guerrero.

York Giants in 1951, set a National Football league ball carrying record with 271 carries. He averaged 3.6 yards per carry.

Kansas City Now Homer Gardens

NEW YORK (AP)—American League batters, streaking toward a possible home run record, are finding Kansas City's Municipal Stadium the easiest park in which to connect for the circuit.

A total of 107 homers have been hit in baseball's newest major league park, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today. The Kansas City stadium has replaced Boston's Fenway Park as the American League "bandbox."

The Red Sox' park, in which 139 four-baggers were hit in 1954, has been the scene of 102 this year.

Cincinnati's Crosley Field remains the hitters' paradise in the National League with 125 homers.

Brooklyn Dodger fans have seen 106 walloped at Ebbets Field while Busch Stadium (St. Louis) has had 100 and the Polo Grounds (New York) 99.

The major league home run figure is up to 1,269 with 717 in the National League and 552 in the American. At that clip, the existing records for both circuits are being managed to hold up under the scrutiny of a baseball-loving barber while the latter was cutting the former's hair.

"There's no problem there, at all," declared the big time sports writer. "I never try to show any superior knowledge of baseball when I'm in the presence of a barber."

This good judgment would have implied even more so had the barber been shaving the sports man.

Beck Wins Jaycee Golf Tournament

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Larry Beck of Kingston was champion of the annual North Carolina Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament today.

Beck overcame a four-stroke lead held by Odell Massey, 16, of Durham yesterday and won his victory on the final hole of the 54-hole tournament.

Beck fired a 74 for a total of 224, one stroke ahead of Massey, who turned in a 75.

Verner Stanley of Charlotte was third with 225 and George Smith of Durham fourth with 233.

The four will represent North Carolina in the International Jaycee Tournament at Columbus, Ga., Aug. 15-20.

There are 16 bonus players in the American League with five of them on Detroit's young team.

Unfinished Crime

By Helen McCloy

In a ten cent store on Fifth Avenue, New York, Sara Dacre had unwittingly bought the "Fire of India" ruby. To judge police, Moxon had ingeniously secreted this fabulous treasure on the jewelry counter there, but before he could carry out his plan to retrieve it, death claimed him. While making this purchase Sara Dacre unexpectedly met her neighbor, Garry Hone, and had accompanied him to a cafeteria, where in the milling crowd, Hone somehow disappeared. A cat-like Oriental man tried to be friendly with Sara in the cafeteria and as she walked home, a man with limping footsteps followed her. Moxon had served in the China-Burma-India theater of the war and afterward had turned to criminal pursuits. On her way uptown to visit her aunt Caroline that evening, the dime store ruby pendant swung about her neck. Sara was approached by a strange man who courteously offered her a lift in his car. She refused it, politely. Arrived at her aunt's elegant, Edwardian home, Miss Dacre found Dickinson Clive, a noted art dealer, already there.

CHAPTER TEN

For the first time Sara saw how much value is a matter of context. If Clive had seen this great hunk of red glass on a woman swaggering down Broadway in slightly soiled finery, he would have dismissed it instantly as the coarse fake it was. But seeing it in Caroline Larch's drawing room, on Caroline Larch's niece, it never occurred to him for a moment that it was anything but real.

The light was dim. At the moment he was not wearing the pince-nez that dangled from a black cord at his ispel. How should he know that Sara belonged to the poor branch of the Dacre clan? Everything about her fed his illusion. Quiet and demure in dove-gray silk, she didn't look like a girl who would wear a cheap imitation of an outrageously enormous ruby.

What should she do? He meticulously honest and say, "Oh, don't worry, Mr. Clive! This is just a piece of junk I picked up in the 10-cent store this afternoon." Or let the whole thing slide and spare him the embarrassment of finding he had mistaken a fake for the real thing? After all he hadn't said he thought the jewel was real. She had inferred it. She could be wrong . . .

Aunt Caroline cut short her hesitation. "Well, Sara, we're still waiting to hear about the unpleasantness."

She welcomed a change of subject. "A man was run over and killed just as I was coming out of the 10-cent store with a friend of mine, Garry Hone. We were both upset. We stopped at an Automat for coffee and—"

"Automat?" murmured Aunt Caroline.

"Cafeteria," translated Clive.

"And then Gerry disappeared," concluded Sara.

"What do you mean?"

Sara explained.

Clive said to Sara, "Don't you think it might have something to do with that jewel you're wearing?"

"Jewel?" Caroline fumbled in the lace at her neck and brought up a lozenge—a strip of old Italian silver embossed with fruit and flowers. The lozenge that leaped out were tiny and oval.

Sara flushed. "I should have explained before, Mr. Clive. This is silly thing isn't real. It's just a piece of red glass I bought this afternoon at the 10-cent store for 20 cents."

"Really, Dick!" Caroline's voice admonished him gently. "Do you think a niece of mine would have the horrid taste to wear a ruby that size? If it were real it would be something for a duchess' tiara. But anyone can see it's a fake. If Sara will forgive me, it's a crude fake and really quite vulgar."

Clive's mouth opened and closed. His eyes went from one to the other. "Is it possible?" he said at last.

"Are you 'all blind?" His voice rang out. "Caroline, you forget that I am an art dealer. I know a little about such things. I held that ruby in my hand a moment ago. It never occurred to me that it was not real. Don't you recognize its depth, its color, its brilliance?"

Caroline put down her lozenge.

"Sara, did you really get this thing at the 10-cent store?"

"Of course. It was with a lot of other junk jewelry."

"But the whole thing is fantastic!" cried Clive. "This is a museum piece. It must be a famous jewel with a long history. If I knew more about Oriental art, I could probably identify it."

"Let me see it," Caroline stretched out her hand. Sara surrendered the pendant. Her own hand was shaking. A real ruby, this size. . . . And she had been wearing it so carelessly as a 20-cent rhinestone. Her blouse had concealed it this afternoon, but if it were real and if someone who knew it was real saw her buy it and saw Gerry thrust the box into his pocket and then saw that same pocket still bulging, later, at the Automat, when Gerry was alone . . .

Again Caroline lifted her lozenge. "The size is so impossible. What do you think, Edna?"

"I don't know much about such things," Edna Creel put down her knitting and took the ruby from Caroline gingerly, as if the touch of concentrated wealth would scorch her fingertips. She held it between thumb and forefinger and the great, red eye blinked in the firelight.

Caroline fumbled at her laces again and lifted the necklace that lay among them. "This stone in the middle is the largest of the Greville sapphires," she said. "But it looks small beside that ruby. It's not real, I just don't believe it."

"May I?" Clive held out his hand. Edna gave him the jewel. He walked to the nearest lamp. "There is no doubt in my mind, Caroline. This stone is as real as your sapphires."

"Then how did it get into the 10-cent store?" demanded Sara. "It may have been stolen," suggested Clive.

"And then left on a counter at the 10-cent store?" Sara was skeptical. "Why on earth?"

"A counter loaded with fake jewels," Caroline spoke slowly, her eyes on the fire. "Furloined Letter. You say the man who died in the street was a criminal?"

"An embezzler."

"In other words, a thief. Suppose you are a thief pursued by other thieves and afraid to go to the police. You have a stolen ruby, but you'll be safe if you can convince the other thieves you haven't got it. You turn into a 10-cent store, hoping to shake off their pursuit in the crowd. You see a heap of glass jewelry—Anything on this counter for 20 cents. You drop the real ruby among the fakes. Who will find it there, a needle in a haystack? Who will even suspect it's there? Yet the next morning it can be recovered for 20 cents! When were you in the 10-cent store, Sara?"

"A little after 5."

Weathermen Aid At Building Site

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Air Force weathermen are having a part in deciding the locations of buildings for the Air Force Academy on the 17,000 acre site north of here.

Experts at Ent Air Force Base in Colorado Springs advised architects on building locations to reduce heating costs in winter and insure the coolest temperatures possible in summer.

"The site is so large there are considerable climatic differences within the tract," explains Capt. Richard C. Burris, climatic consultant in the Continental Air Defense Command's Third Weather Group.

Burris said a 10 degree slope that faces southeast will have a month longer growing season than the same slope facing north.

"Sometimes during the year you will find as much as 15 degrees difference in temperature between one part of the Academy site and another," he added. "You can even encounter this phenomenon by walking 100 yards or less. On a clear night with no wind you may find that much temperature variation in a dip in the ground."

The academy site is along the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, with rolling terrain that accounts largely for the varying climatic conditions.

A continuing study by the Population Reference Bureau shows that U.S. college graduates are having more children but do not yet have enough to replace their own numbers.

We'll mince no words.

You can buy a Buick SPECIAL like the one shown here if you can buy any new car.

You can boss this big and brawny Buick Sedan for just about the price of the smaller cars—even for less than some models of the three most widely known smaller cars. The price we show here proves that.

But you can't get anywhere else for the money what you get in this Buick, or any other new Buick—and that's something you really ought to look into.

For Buick sales are soaring to all-time best-seller highs this year just because more and more people are discovering how much more automobile their dollars buy in a Buick than the same dollars buy elsewhere.

They find Buick a bigger package of sheer automobile for the money—bigger in power thrill, in stretch-out comfort, in ride steadiness, in structural solidity.

They find Buick size and styling an added

*2-door, 6-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 48, illustrated. Optional equipment, accessories, any state and local taxes, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities. Even factory-installed options are bargains.

prestige—Buick roadability and handling ease an added pleasure—Buick brawn and precision an added reassurance.

And they find Buick performance a thrill without peer—for where else can you get the whip-quick response and bettered gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflow?

Maybe you'd better drop in and see how much real automobile and fun and deep-down satisfaction your money buys in Buick.

Whether you want the low-priced SPECIAL, the high-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, or the custom-built ROADMASTER—you'll find the price more than right and the trade-in deal terrific. Can you make it today?

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

Gags Pay Off On Greeting Cards

By EDWARD S. KITCH
AP Newswire

CHICAGO — Every time Billy Harris meets a stranger he's asked to say something funny.

"Sometimes I say: 'Well, it isn't so easy to say something funny. I can't get anywhere just going around making funny quips. If I have anything to say that's funny, I make a greeting card out of it,'" he says.

As producer of 10 million cartoon-type greeting cards a year, it's one of his biggest problems. Also he must come up with ideas for 200 new cards a year.

Typical is a Tallulah-like drawing bearing a simple but emphatic message: "Dahling... drop dead!"

"My idea is that folks are tired of the gaudy hearts and flowers greeting card. I know when I'd want to send anyone a card that's all I could find. So I thought there must be a lot of people who thought the same about all the mush," Harris says.

One of his cards says: "I don't want to seem nosy but isn't it your birthday again? Many Happy returns." Inside the folded card a cross-eyed character pops out a long nose as the card is opened.

As chief designer and company head, Harris is putting a new look into the 300-million-dollar greeting card industry with his action cards.

His smoking rabbit card dramatizes greetings by a cigarette which is lit by the receiver. Smoke rings puff from the tiny novelty tag.

A jigsaw puzzle greeting card is signed by the sender and taken apart before it is mailed. The receiver must put the puzzle together before he learns who sent it.

Humor comes easy for Harris, 37. His father was Harry Harris, a song and dance man of the vaudeville circuit.

Harris himself is an amateur entertainer, doing a routine at local benefit shows. It's one he used during his tour in the U.S. Army Air Forces at war bond drives throughout the West, after being drafted while working in a defense plant in Los Angeles.

Discharged in 1946, he returned home to Chicago and obtained an established greeting card firm.

About 75 per cent of the new cards he creates last only a year.

He gets ideas for cards from jokes, daily life and the 10,000 letters a year he receives from contributors. Few of the contributions are utilized, however, although he reads all of them on the chance that one may spark an idea.

Harris gives his ideas for cards to an artist who illustrates them with colorful cartoons. Then he shows the samples to anyone he meets—the truck driver, the man on the street or his secretary.

"I see it won't do anything for people, I won't price it, which happens about half the time," he says.

He confidently displays one of his new favorites: "Another birthday? Stop worrying, you'll never get out of this world alive!"

Say Harris: "That will really fracture 'em."

Western Europe Health Records Notably Good

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP)—Western Europe's general health, as gauged by prevailing mortality and morbidity conditions as well as by the expectation of life, is better than ever before despite the relatively short period that has elapsed since the widespread privation of food, clothing, shelter and medical services during World War II, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report.

Each of the countries studied has established a new minimum death rate during the postwar period, according to a survey by the statisticians of recent data from the United Nations and other sources.

The death rate in France, for example, fell from 13.5 per 1,000 in 1946 to 11.9 in 1954, as compared with 15 per 1,000 in the immediate prewar period. Similarly, in Italy the death rate was reduced from 12.1 to 9.9 per 1,000 between 1946 and 1954, which compared with an average of about 14 per 1,000 in 1937-1939.

New low death rates were cited for Austria, Belgium, Denmark, western Germany, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, England and Wales, and Finland. Correspondingly, many of these countries also reported new records for expectation of life.

The excellent postwar health record of Western Europe may reflect in part, the weeding out of impaired lives during the war. But generally the gains have resulted mainly from such planned activities as the restoration, soon after the war of medical, hospital, and public health services, and the subsequent expansion and improvement of these services.

Wide use of the recent advances in medicine, including the antibiotics and other drugs, and a greatly increased food supply which has raised nutritional level of the population also have been important factors, it is noted.

"Further decreases in mortality may be expected in Western Europe as the general standard of living continues to rise," the statisticians comment.

Whatever Its Aims, Kremlin Today Wants Tensions Relaxed At Geneva

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Whatever its ultimate aims, the Kremlin unquestionably seeks a relaxation of world tensions at Geneva. The fate of world communism hangs in the balance.

The most suspicious regime in the world—one that still defines pacifism as "an imperialistic trick"—goes to the Big Four conference seeking trust among nations.

President Eisenhower has pinned down the Geneva dilemma: There can be no trust without disarmament, but there can be no disarmament without trust.

The Soviet hierarchy is not likely to renounce the aims of world communism. Probably the Kremlin has decided the only safe course is a waiting course. Yet the longer the Kremlin waits, the more time there is for evolutionary forces in the U.S.S.R. to take their toll.

Ten, or even five, years of world political peace would have a profound effect on Soviet development. The Kremlin leaders who dreamed with Lenin and Stalin of dominating the world with their ideas are well along in years now.

In the natural order of things, younger men will give way to violent revolution. They will be at the helm of a state vastly changed from the one bolshevism snatched from the womb of a capitalist revolution.

The question before Western statesmen at Geneva will be not whether Soviet leaders have reformed, but whether the Soviet people will reform the leaders.

Despite the relaxation and air of friendliness recently in Moscow, the leaders still feed the people a diet mixed with hope and fear.

One possible conclusion is this: No matter how anxious the hierarchy might be to settle tensions, it cannot go so far as to tell its people the danger of aggression against them is abating. That would remove a prime excuse for the all-out heavy industry program and give impetus to the Soviet public's demand for more and better consumer goods.

This sort of program also raises the question whether the United States is the Soviet Union's only worry. Undoubtedly the Kremlin has been casting some speculative glances to the east and south—first because there is a latent danger of war in Asia, and second because China promises one day to become a mightily powerful neighbor nation sharing a long frontier with the U.S.S.R.

Recently a highly competent source who traveled in China reported indications of a developing Soviet-Chinese mutual distrust in north central Asia. The Chinese took note of the Soviet program to "open up virgin lands" in Soviet Central Asia. A new Russian colonization is under way in these lands, once ruled by China before the Czars seized them.

The informant reports: The Chinese responded with their own program, calling for emigration of 10 million Chinese into Sinkiang province, bordering Soviet Kazakhstan. For a long time Sinkiang was in the Soviet sphere of influence and the scene of heavy Russian infiltration.

The Chinese program will occupy two to three years, concurrently with the building of rail lines and establishment of collective farms in Sinkiang. It seems obvious 10 million Chinese can do much to stop further Russian infiltration.

The non-Communist diplomatic corps in Peiping is reported convinced, for the most part, that Moscow views China's future with a mixture of awe and alarm.

Within 10 years, given no major war, China would be a power with which the Russians would have to reckon in the East.

Some of these diplomats now say the Russians want to relax tensions in their relations with the West because China represents a future danger to the Soviet Union. There is even a suspicion that recent Red Chinese purges were the result of underground Russian agitation to keep China off balance.

There is no sign of any friction in the propaganda pouring from Moscow and Peiping. It insists the Soviet-Chinese alliance is utterly unbreakable. But it is significant that promised Soviet economic aid seems laggard. The U.S.S.R. has undertaken to help China develop 156 major construction projects, but last official word from China was that only half a dozen had been started.

It is also significant that when the summit conference was proposed on world tensions, there was no insistence from Moscow this time that Red China be present or represented.

At the moment the Soviet-Chinese alliance would appear to be of vital concern to both parties. But there are indications Peiping is becoming demanding, seeking a price for continued friendship. The price would be a drain on Soviet resources. Moscow never has and still does not dominate Red China in the sense that it dominates the European satellites.

In the long run, however, Moscow's future with China rests in the hands of Russia's 210 million citizens. If the Soviet consumer's voice becomes more and more demanding, more and more authoritative as time goes by, it is likely to put a crimp in any Moscow efforts to spread Soviet political influence toward Peiping.

N. C. Parks Are Counting Many Visitors In '55

RALEIGH — A total of 648,224 persons visited and used facilities of State parks during the first six months of 1955, Director Ben. E. Douglas of the Department of Conservation and Development reported today.

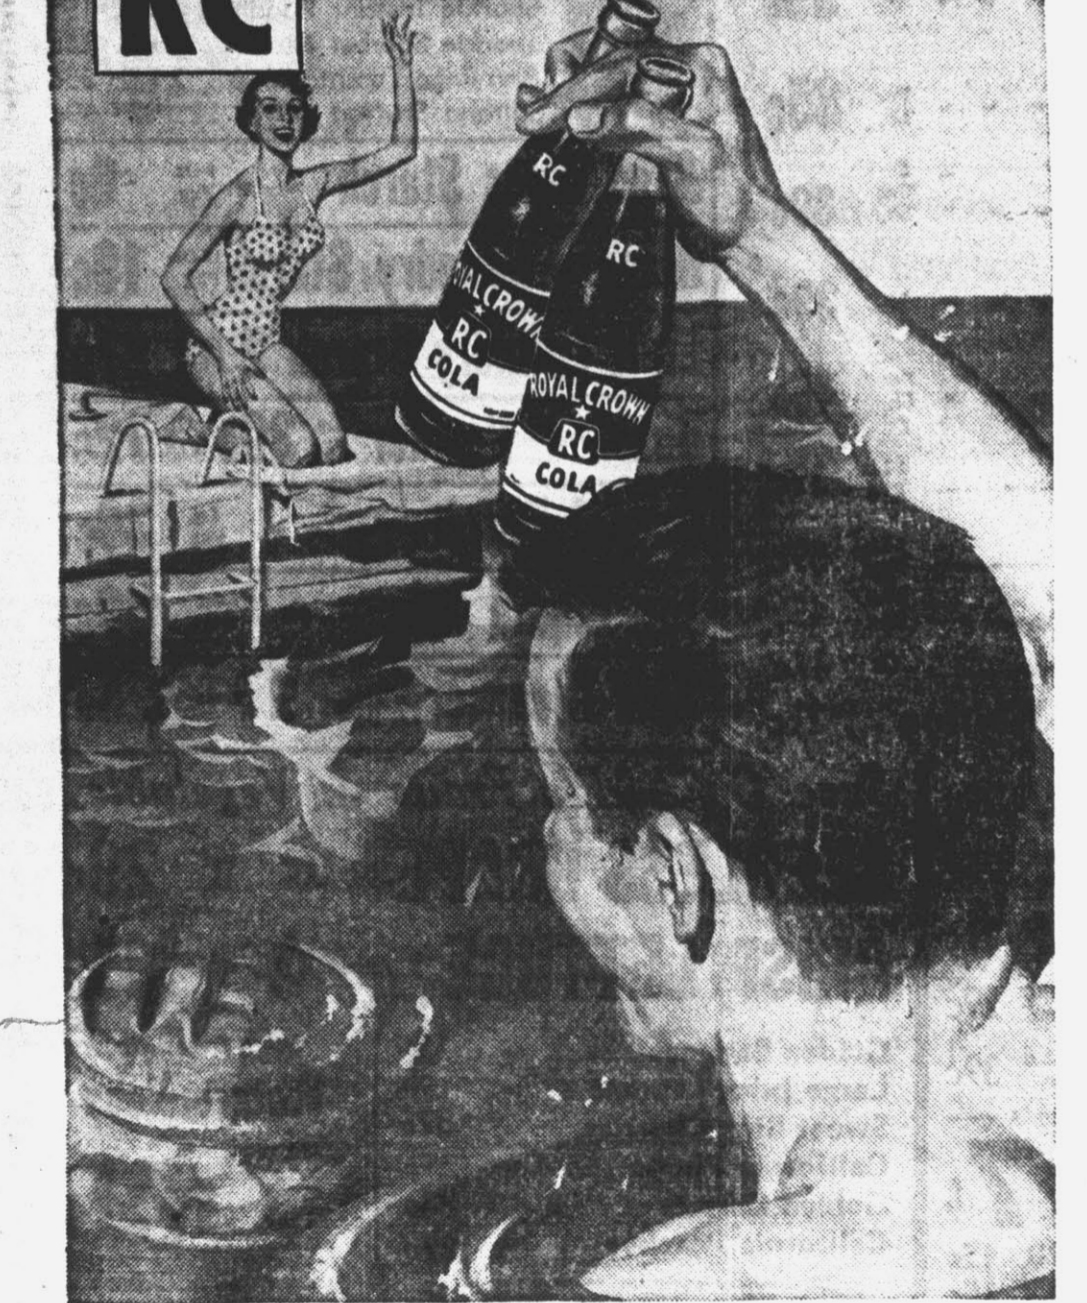

Releasing a report from Thomas W. Morse, State parks superintendent, Douglas said the attendance figures at the State-owned recreational centers "indicate the growing popularity of our State parks as places where people can rest and relax and find the healthful recreation that is so beneficial to all of us."

Attendance and use figures for the parks during the six months period are: Cliffs of Neuse, Wayne county, 64,598; Fort Macon, Carteret county, 191,492; Haggerty Rock, Stokes county, 80,545; Jones Lake, Bladen county, 15,348; Morrow Mountain, Stanly county, 101,431; Mount Mitchell, Yancey county, 92,260; Pettigrew, Tyrrell and Washington counties, 5,024; Reedy Creek, Wake county, 13,113; Singletary Lake, Bladen county, 3,845; Town Creek, Montgomery county, 5,604; and William B. Umstead State Park, Wake county, 76,403.

There is no admission charge to the State parks, which are maintained and operated by the Department of Conservation and Development. Morse said attendance at the parks during the Fourth of July holiday period was very large, taxing the facilities at most of them to their capacity.

Convicts Help Guard U.S. In Ground Observer Duties

(Editor's note: Getting recruits for the Ground Observer Corps may be difficult in some places, but not at this Michigan prison. Here the warden describes this around-the-clock air watch, now three years old.)

By EDWARD B. GARDNER
Warden, Detroit House of Correction

PLYMOUTH, Mich. — Although membership in the Ground Observer Corps numbers about 400,000 at this time recruited from all walks of life and of all ages, it is little known that some of these members are known only by numbers themselves.

Here in the Detroit House of Correction, the larger part of which is a minimum security penal institution having no walls or pacing guards, one of the 24-hour around the clock Ground Observer Posts of the Continental Air Defense Command has been manned entirely and without a break of one minute since July 14, 1952 by convicts.

From the beginning of this watch, 376 men, ranging in convictions for crimes from those which call for life imprisonment down to the minimum of six months, have gone through this Detroit House of Correction Post (known by the code name of Golf Nectar Two Two Red).

At present, 36 are doing duty in it, with another 36 waiting in line for members of the post with chicken as the main course, and one of the Detroit city fathers as speaker.

Our post came about when the suggestion was made by Judge George Edwards, then a juvenile court official, who became, in addition the civil defense coordinator for Wayne County.

Observers took up their watches out in front of the administration building, and used the front door phones to make reports to the Grand Rapids, Mich. filter center when planes were sighted.

With their own hands and salvage materials, they eventually built the tower on top of the prison garage where it still functions. As high as 83 multi-engine plane-spottings have been made in a single day. Considering that as many as 280 international flights move in and out of the Detroit area each month at peak periods, the watch is highly important. With Detroit ranking as high as it must on the list of targets of importance to the Soviet Union, the eyes and ears of the men who are doing time are making an invaluable sentry contribution to the society which is punishing them.

Michigan is one of the few states where conviction for a felony does not lose the man his citizenship. Many of these men, we feel, have been motivated toward a constructive place in society for the first time by post duty. Some of them have gone out of this institution and have sought jobs in other posts as result of this experience.

We are sufficiently proud of our well-established Ground Observer Corps and post, as well as what it appears to be doing for many of the men who serve in it, that when any of these men come up for parole, I have always been glad to point out that he has accumulated a certain number of hours and how faithful he has been in discharge of his duties.

The Parole Board, I'm glad to say has been moved in many borderline cases in favor of clemency because of the Ground Observer Corps notation on our records.

Once, when I was up in the observation tower with one of the men, he told me that he really enjoyed it in every way. He felt he was being useful. And that even his life in prison was not being wasted. Then he said: "With my eyes, from here I can see many miles in all directions, and with my ears, I have a freedom which is otherwise, physically and by law, denied me."

Since then, I have often wondered how many other people who are unconfined realize how much their freedom may depend on the eyes of all of us.

CONVICTS ON GUARD—Two of the 376 men who have maintained a Ground Observer Corps post at the Detroit House of Correction since July 14, 1952.

Industry Returns To The Farm In Classic Example

Lately, 44-year-old Taylor has been painting the turkeys, selling the paintings and once and a while wandering out to pick up the eggs. Taylor says he started farming for a living and picked up his painting technique from reading a few paper-backed books on the 'Old Masters.'

College To Give TV Shakespeare Course

East Carolina College has announced that its fifth televised course of study will be Shakespearean Drama. Beginning Monday, August 15, the course will be taught by Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of the department of English and will be presented over WNCN-TV of Greenville.

The course in Shakespeare is expected to prove popular with teachers of English as well as with the general public. Those officially enrolled may receive three quarter hours of credit.

Programs have been scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday through Friday from August 15 through November 4. Each broadcast will cover a half-hour period.

Dr. Hirschberg specialized in Shakespearean studies as an undergraduate at Harvard and as a graduate student at Yale and at Cambridge in England.

His TV appearances over WNCN-TV will include lectures, as well as film strips, recordings, illustrations, and other devices to vitalize instruction and to lend interest to programs.

"Emphasis," he states, "will be placed on Shakespeare's plays as living, vital, dramatic productions."

Plays to be discussed will include tragedies, comedies, and historical plays. Among these will be Hamlet, Othello, Antony and Cleopatra, As You Like It, Twelfth Night, and Henry IV, Part I.

Dr. Hirschberg has prepared a syllabus which may be obtained without cost from WNCN-TV, Greenville, N.C. Those wishing to enroll in the course should write to Registrar Orval L. Phillips, East Carolina College, Greenville, N.C.

Shakespearean Drama will continue a series of TV courses begun last fall. At that time East Carolina offered Guiding Young Children as the first televised course given for credit in the entire South. Two other courses presented during the winter and the spring dealt with The Pre-Adolescent Child and His Environment. This summer a course in Modern Drama is now in progress.

Mixed Animals Do Nicely

SWITCH!—Babies are babies, these dogs decided. Judy, the Boxer, right, of the Dayton Lowe farm near Watertown, N. Y., has taken on nine pigs besides her own eight pups. Last winter when she had another litter she also cared for a baby goat. Red, the Labrador retriever owned by the Curtis McCormicks of Dunbar, W. Va., went even farther afield. The McCormicks found him licking a baby rabbit on the lawn. They made a bed of rags for the rabbit. Then Red made two trips to the woods and brought back another rabbit on each trip. He watches them carefully, guards them and shows constant affection for them.

102nd Anniversary Of Perry's Reaching Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—Four black ships slipped silently into Tokyo Bay 102 years ago today.

Startled Japanese saw strange red, white and blue flags fluttering over decks lined with menacing snub-nosed cannon.

These visitors who had dared violate the Mikado's "forbidden waters" were the Mississippi, Susquehanna, Plymouth and Saratoga—the fleet of Commodore Matthew C. Perry of the U.S. Navy.

Now Perry's arrival is celebrated here as a link with America that opened Japan to western trade.

Today the great adventure will be marked in ceremonies at Kuribama—midway between Yokohama and Yokosuka—where Perry and 300 "splendidly arrayed" officers first stepped ashore.

U.S. Ambassador John M. Allison will participate. So will Rear Adm. Fitzhugh Lee, chief of the U.S. fleet air arm in Japan and great-grandson of one of Perry's ship commanders.

Stories of the "black ships of evil mien" remain vivid in Japanese memory. The strangers refused to deal with local officials and would not deliver a message from President Millard Fillmore to anyone but the Japanese Emperor in person.

After threatening to land an armed party, Perry finally agreed to the Japanese stand that the Emperor was too exalted a personage to approach in person. He agreed to deliver the letter to high-ranking Prince Toda.

A special house had been erected at Kuribama for the meeting.

Some 134 needy persons received aid to the blind during the month of June, Miss Jennie Manning, case worker for the blind, reported today.

Thirty-eight persons received eye examinations and glasses were recommended for 34, surgery for two, treatment for nine and there was no recommendation for improvement of vision for three of those examined.

During the month seven persons were removed from the classification of blindness and eight children returned home from the State School with their parents.

Those children will be assisted in personal and family adjustment and they will be given Braille reading material, Miss Manning's report stated. They will be assisted in making plans to return to the State School in the fall.

The Pitt County Association for the Blind assisted four needy persons in paying for glasses during the month.

Mechanic Takes Out Snake In Car

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Press Gragg, an auto mechanic for 23 years, has taken a lot of bugs out of cars, but never a snake—that is until yesterday.

Harold Brown brought his car to Gragg "to get the snake out." Gragg tackled the job with a plate of milk and a heat lamp after other mechanics had pulled the seats out of the car without snaring the reptile.

Gragg grabbed the five-foot gopher snake with his hands, when it came out from behind the dashboard to sip the milk. He dumped it into a cardboard box to be returned to Brown.

"It's Mr. Brown's car and Mr. Brown's snake," he said.

REAL HORSEPOWER

BELFLOWER, Ill. (AP)—Clifford Bradbury has for the past 40 years handled 50 acres of corn, 25 of beans and 20 of oats with a team of horses instead of a tractor. Townspeople have joined him in his preference. They often call on him and his horse power for plowing vegetable gardens.

Lana Turner Alsoirate About Painted Panties

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lana Turner is just as indignant about the case of the painted panties as Sen. Kefauver is.

Recently the Tennessee Democrat was here to investigate the effect of movies on juvenile delinquency. The hearings went far afield and one day the matter of movie ads was brought up.

Several exhibits were offered, including one featuring Lana's frame in "The Prodigal." A movie ad censor testified that he had ordered pants painted in an effort to make the picture seem less racy.

"The picture was much worse afterward than it was before," exclaimed Lana when the matter was brought up. "Those pants looked awful. Such a drab green color. Awful!"

She defended the costume, which appeared to expose her hips to a remarkable degree. Actually she wore flesh colored covering underneath the beads.

"I was well concealed," she remarked. "There was nothing pornographic about it at all. There wasn't even any cleavage. It was mild compared to some movie ads."

"The reason it was criticized was because the pose had never been done before. It was new, so people thought it was immoral."

Kefauver could find nothing to complain about in Lana's costumes for her current epic, "Diane." When viewed, she was covered from neck to toe in a suede riding dress of old France. She was riding a horse—sideways yet—in a foxhunt in the film. She'd like to get out of the costumes and into a smart comedy, but so far her studio has not come up with one for her.

It's Nice To Dream Of A Legman Bringing In Data

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In this business you get to see all types. In an old TV movie the other night there was a columnist with an assistant, called a leg man because he did all the leg work while the columnist just sat and thought up sparkling items.

This leg man was named Sam Swerve or something similar. He had no particular talent, but he was eager. He wrote like he talked, in incomplete, machine-gun sentences.

This columnist ticks the luxury of a leg man. But it's nice to dream of Sam, out doing the work and bringing in his report. Like this: As directed checked into CBS there P.A. (press agent) gave rundown on subject: Nita Talbot, 24, blonde, other vital statistics lacking. P.A. excited about her as coming star. Subject has played many big TV shows, currently playing

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A beverage industry official estimates 78 million gallons of intoxicating liquor are produced by illegal stills in the United States each year.

The figure came from Thomas J. Donovan executive director of Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc. who addressed the National Licensed Beverage Assn. here yesterday.

Government agents seized 22,913 illicit stills last year, he said, "and it is estimated that for every moonshine still seized, there is another that is not found."

Tobacco Meeting Friday Night

A meeting concerning tobacco marketing quotas and referendums will be held at the Court House here Friday at 8 p. m. A. C. Edwards, former president of the N. C. Farm Bureau Federation, will speak.

Land owners and tenants are being urged by farm agents Sam Winchester and Sam Weeks to attend this meeting and also to vote on the continuation of the tobacco marketing quota program July 23.

Marion Davies Is Now Hotel Owner

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marion Davies is now a hotel owner.

The former actress announced yesterday that she has bought the Desert Inn in Palm Springs for two million dollars. The sellers were Earl Coffman and George Roberts.

Miss Davies, who said she will be the sole owner, said "It'll cost a lot more by the time we get through with it. I plan to develop it into a miniature Rockefeller Center."

It will be the first meeting of the organization under its new officers. New officers are: W. M. Scates, president; W. C. Smith, vice president; W. R. Nichols, secretary-treasurer.

Lanier To Speak To Underwriters

J. Con Lanier, Jr. will be guest speaker when the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters meets tonight at the Silo Grill.

Lanier will discuss "The Closing of Wills and Estates."

Dallas Studying School Action

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas School Board says it is studying "fair and equitable methods" of desegregating public schools but will be "impatient with any undue pressure."

Board President Dr. Edwin L. Rippey read a two-page statement outlining the problems of erasing color lines in public schools at a board meeting last night.

Kenneth Holbert, secretary of the local chapter of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, told the board the NAACP will be "impatient and disturbed by any prolonged delay."

TOBACCO GROWERS

Of Pitt County and Eastern Carolina

We urge all tobacco growers, both land-owners and tenants, to vote for marketing quotas in the referendum to be held Saturday, July 23rd, for flue-cured tobacco. Since the program has been in effect, growers have been benefitted hundreds of millions of dollars. The government has announced a support price of 48.3c per pound for the 1955 crop now being harvested. Pitt County, the largest flue-cured tobacco county in the nation, has been endorsing this program overwhelmingly in the past. We believe it is as important this year to vote to continue this program as any year in our history. Without marketing quotas, there will be no support price. We also urge support of the Tobacco Associates Program.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARBER, AP Real Estate Editor

If you like to sing in the bathroom, you certainly ought to have your surroundings as glamorous as your baritone or soprano, or what have you. Nowadays bathrooms are among the most dazzling rooms in a house, new or old. Remodeling experts, launching their dreamboats in the bathtub, seem to get farther in modernization than when they start at the front door.

And when it comes to glamor, architects and decorators certainly are going to town with their new bathroom ideas. Last weekend we took a look at a new house at Upper Brookville, N.Y. which had just sold for $78,000. Among the main features that will make us remember that house were the bathrooms. They had miniature flower gardens planted in the countertops surrounding the wash basins.

But you don't have to spend $78,000, or a hundredth of that amount to have a cheerful place to sing and splash. Modern materials and ideas make it possible to glamorize on a budget this hardest-used of all rooms in your house.

The question usually is where to start. In planning a new house this is relatively simple. But with an older house, what are you going to do with a tub on lion-claw legs, a pine board floor and cracked plaster walls? Well, it's not hopeless, especially with today's materials and methods.

If you're a do-it-yourself enthusiast, you can get plumbing fixtures of pressed and enameled steel like automobile fenders that are easy for one man to handle. Or lighter still, you can get plastic reinforced with fiber glass that even a girl can handle. New adhesives make it practicable to put up clay tile over any firm wall surface.

Or if you're a do-it-yourself timor, you certainly can learn a lot about how these things are done and what you are paying your money for when it comes to hiring the job done.

Smart and popular bathroom equipment includes a counter-top around the wash basin with linen storage cabinet below. This combination vanity table and lavatory. One organization distributed 100,000 units of this type in the past year.

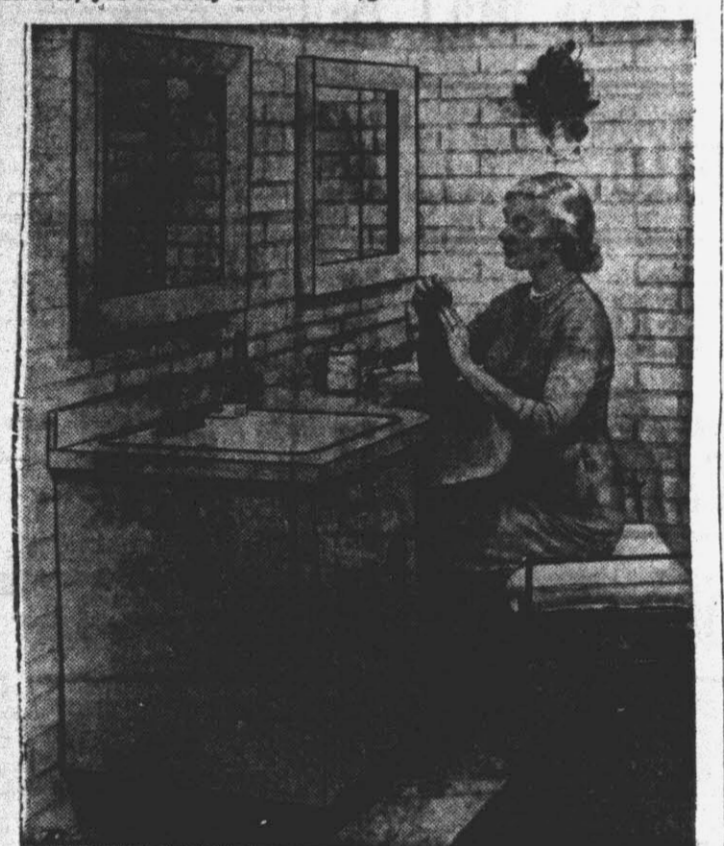

These vanity combinations provide as much storage space as the average kitchen refrigerator—3 cubic feet. Styles nicknamed "Mr. and Mrs." have two sinks, two storage cabinets and two medicine chests. They are not difficult to install for the do-it-yourself handyman, except that professional plumbing connections are recommended. Countertops are the same laminated plastic materials used in modern kitchens.

Spilled perfume and other cosmetics make impervious bathroom countertops very important. Clay tile, of course, provides a virtually foolproof surface.

When you get into all of the tricks that can be done with tile there seems to be no end to glamor in the bath. Tile murals on bathroom walls have been designed by artists in Los Angeles and New York in the old mosaic manner. Sunken bathtubs Roman style, so captivated a Baltimore builder that he plans 80 luxury homes with this feature.

And in keeping with the indoor-outdoor spirit of modern architecture, the bathroom is not neglected. A private garden adjoining the bathroom is fenced off for privacy to provide a place for sunbathing and relaxation.

About all that is missing in today's bathroom is a hamburger grill.

GLAMOR ON A BUDGET—The modern vanity lavatory provides a dressing table with lots of linen storage in bathroom.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market swung idly today in a narrow range into the early afternoon. There were few features in the market, and price changes that way were well within a 2-point range.

Business was restrained and maintained a pace not much higher than two million shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 2,380,000 shares with the market lower.

Prices were down at the opening, and then a recovery movement sent them higher by a small margin. That advantage later was lost, and prices were thoroughly mixed. That was quite similar to the pattern followed by yesterday's market.

Several strong stocks stood out. Youngtown Sheet & Tube was sharply higher. Also strong were Katy Railroad Preferred and Western Maryland.

Railroads as a group were higher as were farm implement issues and many rubbers and movies. Steels were on the lower side together with motors and utilities. Other divisions were mixed.

CHICAGO (U)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 8,000; slow, steady to as much as 25 lower on butchers under 230 lb; decline on U.S. No 3 grade; butchers over 230 lb and all sows fully steady; most U.S. No 1 to 2's 190-225 lb butchers 18.50-19.25; mainly 19.00 and 19.25 on a few mixed No 1 and 2's 190-220 lb, and these scarce; a part deck No. 1's 19.50; and a short deck 208 lb 19.80; most 200-280 lb 18.00-18.50; a few 290-330 lb 17.00-17.75; a double deck No 2's 260 lb 16.25; a few 290-330 lb 17.00-17.75; a double deck No 2's 260 lb 16.25; a few 150-180 lb underweights 15.00-16.00; most sows 400 lb and lighter 14.75-15.75; a few under 300 lb up to 17.25; most 400-500 lb 13.50-15.00; a few head under 600 lb down to around 12.50; good clearance.

More Newsmen Called In Probe Of Communists

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (U)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called three additional newsmen today in a search for past or present Communist sympathizers from Brooklyn to Germany and Korea.

Hans Bruno Meyer, described as a nephew of the late Albert Einstein and as correspondent here for a German radio station, was among the trio called to a public hearing.

Other scheduled witnesses were Ira Henry Freeman of the New York Times and Ansel Talbert of the New York Herald-Tribune. There has been nothing in past testimony to link Talbert to communism.

All of them were called in an inquiry that opened June 28 when Winston M. Burdett, a CBS newsmen named more than a score of persons he said he had known among Communist in the late 1930s or early 1940s.

Burdett did not name any of the three called today.

The subcommittee said in a statement that Talbert, aviation editor of the Herald-Tribune, has "some information" for its indications were this referred to a story about F86 Sabre Jets that broke during the Korean War and which has figured in the inquiry.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) said he had issued a subpoena for Meyer after Meyer's name was injected into the questioning of Charles S. Lewis one of those whom Burdett named as a fellow employee and a Communist on the now-defunct Brooklyn Eagle in the 1930-40 period.

Lewis is now director of public affairs for WCAZ and WCAZ-TV in Burlington, Vt. He testified yesterday he had been a Communist "for a few months" in 1947 while working on the Brooklyn Eagle.

At Burlington, President C. F. Hasbrook of WCAZ and WCAZ-TV said Lewis had given him voluntarily a short time ago the gist of his testimony. Hasbrook said he will withhold judgment in Lewis "until I have read the full transcript. In fairness to him, I'd like to read the whole thing."

Lewis said he had served as director of U.S. radio policy in post-war Germany and that Meyer had been one of his assistants.

Asked if he had ever heard it alleged that Meyer was "pro-Communist," Lewis said that in 1949 Meyer had told him he once was a Communist but had broken away.

The testimony brought out differences of opinion between Lewis and William F. Heimlich over the operation of the Berlin radio station RIAS, which Lewis said he set up after the war to broadcast into the Soviet sector of Germany.

Heimlich was Army chief of intelligence in Berlin after the war and later became director of RIAS. He indicated he felt that Meyer had tipped the Russians to a propaganda show the station was planning in 1949 on the 10th anniversary of the Hitler-Stalin pact.

Tobacco Growers To Vote July 23

July 23 is the date set for growers' referendum on marketing quotas for flue-cured tobacco, according to Jamie L. Wilson, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

As in the past, growers may vote for quotas for one year—1956, or for the next three years—1956-58. Growers may also vote against quotas. At least two-thirds of the growers voting must approve quotas if they are to be effective.

Marketing quotas have been in effect for flue-cured tobacco each year since the enactment of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 except for 1959, when quotas were disapproved by growers. The last previous referendum on flue-cured quotas was held in July 1952, when 97.8 percent of the 250,163 voters approved quotas for the three years 1953-55.

Recently Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson proclaimed a national marketing quota of 1,130,000,000 pounds for the 1956 flue-cured tobacco crop. This quota compares with the quota of 1,270,000,000 pounds for the 1955 crop. The 1956 marketing quota would mean an acreage allotment of about 899,000 acres, compared with an allotment of 1,007,000 acres for 1955.

Wilson explained that if at least two-thirds of the growers voting approve quotas, price support at 90 percent of parity will be available to growers who comply with their acreage allotments. Under quotas, too, farmers who do not comply with their farm allotments for flue-cured tobacco will be subject to penalties on their excess tobacco.

If more than one-third of the voters oppose quotas, no price support will be available on the 1956 crop.

GOP Promises Try Compromise Rival Road Bills

WASHINGTON (U)—Republicans promised a strong effort in the House Public Works Committee today to compromise rival proposals road-building program.

The committee yesterday approved the construction program itself, calling for about 27 billions in federal funds and 10 billions from the states over the next 12 years.

But it defeated 19-14 President Eisenhower's proposal to finance the road-building expansion largely by through bonds to be issued by a special government corporation.

The committee takes up today a substitute Democratic plan to pay for the new roads by immediate increases in taxes on gasoline, trucks and buses, heavy tires and tubes, and diesel fuel.

As approved by a subcommittee, these increases would raise about $50 million dollars a year. Some Republicans and Democrats have protested the increases are too steep, especially on truckers, and drives were under way to reduce them.

Rep. Mack (R-Wash.) said Republicans would make a strong effort to cut in half the proposed increase and raise the rest of the money through a bond issue along the lines advocated by Eisenhower.

The big increase in the 12-year construction program would be 2 1/2 billion dollars to complete 40,000 miles of broad interstate highways. The federal share would be about 24 billions. Lesser amounts would be spent for primary, secondary and urban roads on a 50-50 matching basis.

The committee yesterday defeated moves to cut the interstate funds in half, and to slice 100 million a year from urban roads.

ROCKY MOUNT—The possibility of Tar River overflowing its banks as a result of heavy rains and causing any appreciable damage in the Rocky Mount area was eased Wednesday morning when Rocky Mount Mills opened its clean-out gate to facilitate a more rapid down-stream flow of water. Mill officials said the gates were opened early Wednesday with the result that the water level above the dam had dropped an estimated seven or eight inches.

TARBORO—The Tarboro City Council at its July meeting, authorized the issuance of $100,000 of bonds for enlargement of the city's electrical system, and another $80,000 to get started on other projects that are to be supported by an eventual bond issue which totals $800,000. The $100,000 bond issue will help to renovate and boost the efficiency of the municipal power plant and to improve the service lines.

Counties Dispute Boundary Lines

RALEIGH (U)—The courts, or the Legislature, probably will be called on to settle a boundary dispute between Halifax and Northampton counties.

At stake in the two-year-old fight is which county will collect property tax money from a 34-million-dollar dam Virginia Electric & Power Co. is building across the Roanoke River.

The company also has a big interest in the outcome. Northampton has a tax rate of $1.30 per $100 valuation, while Halifax' rate is $1.

Northampton claims its boundary extends across the river which separates the counties to its south bank. Halifax contends the line runs down the middle of the stream.

E. W. Thompson of Garysburg, chairman of the Northampton Board of Commissioners, commented the matter seems destined to end up in the courts or before the General Assembly.

His statement followed on the heels of a conference in Richmond, Va., yesterday among commissioners of the two counties and officials of VEPCO.

Halifax County Attorney Kelly Jenkins observed that no progress has been made towards settling the controversy.

Wants To Curb In-And-Out Vote Colored News

WASHINGTON (U)—Legislation designed to strengthen the tobacco program by reducing "in and out" quota voting comes up for hearing today.

Rep. Abbt (D-Va.), serving as the first chairman of a tobacco subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee, said the bills would help prevent government losses.

He offered by Abbt and Rep. Watts (D-Ky.) would provide for voting by tobacco growers on quotas for 3-year periods. Under present law the growers may vote on quotas either for one of three years.

Abbt told a reporter Maryland growers "are the main offenders" in voting quotas one year and then voting against them in another year.

If Congress approved the bill, he said, it would benefit growers in Virginia and other states who regularly vote quotas for three years.

The Abbt bill would provide that if quotas are turned down in three consecutive referenda, a referendum would be held only every three years—unless one fourth or more of the growers petitioned for a vote on 3-year quotas before the end of such a 3-year period.

In other words, Abbt said, the bill is aimed at growers who vote for quotas one year, get government support, and then vote against quotas the next year.

Such "in and out" voting, he added, makes it difficult for the Commodity Credit Corp. to dispose of its holdings satisfactorily.

The parents had been drinking heavily. Information also indicated the boy had been given a drink during the night.

Investigators also want to know if any bloody clothes have been found in the area. One bloody shirt which was turned in shortly after the fire was later identified by a person who said the shirt became bloody when she developed nose bleed and it was left in the woods where it was found. The officers are also checking laundries to determine if they have received any bloody clothes recently.

Finally officers would like to know if anyone has left home in a hurry since the deaths.

So far they have found no one who has disappeared without reason since the fire.

The investigating officers know that Crawford was having car trouble on the night of the fire. He was said to have had three flat tires as he drove his car in the area. Since the car had been taken in, it has developed another flat, the officers report.

Sheriff Tyson said today that there still has been no report from the laboratory on the stains found on Crawford's car. The stains were scraped from the vehicle and sent to the FBI laboratory for examination.
