Big 4 Stumped By German Issue

By MAX HARRISON
GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four leaders took up the broad question of European security today, putting aside the specific issue of Germany alone.

won top priority yesterday for German unification, which they considered the most vital problem in Europe today. The Russians after a day of discussion on the German question proposed that the talks move on to the next item of business.

Atlantic Treaty Organization. The text of the communique: "The four foreign ministers at their morning session had a further discussion of the interrelated problems of German reunification and European security."

European security. In the midst of these developments, facilitating West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer summoned his top diplomatic advisers to Muerren, Switzerland, to consider future moves against what German sources called the "extremely negative" Russian view toward the German problem.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Walter Hallstein, secretary of state in the Bonn foreign office arrived at the Alpine resort and were joined by German observers who have been watching developments at Geneva.

Preparations To Launch Atomic Sub Completed

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The Seawolf, world's second atomic-powered submarine, will be launched at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow, and her builders report they are making doubly sure nothing hinders her smooth slide into the Thames River.

Four and a half tons of special launching grease have been applied to the ways, the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. reported today.

And if the 3,000-ton hull still should stick, the company added, two ramps have been installed near the bow. Each can exert 50 tons of pressure, and will apply the starting jolt, if needed.

Electric Boat said it expects 20,000 spectators on hand when the launching will be held exactly 18 months after the first nuclear submarine, the Nautilus, was launched by Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower.

Most of the prospective crew of 102 officers and men will be among the spectators. A few, including the prospective captain, Cmdr. Richard B. Laning of Amherst, Va., will be on the deck, taking the ride down the ways.

The launching will be held exactly 18 months after the first nuclear submarine, the Nautilus, was launched by Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower.

Christmas Party On A Torrid Day

PALISADES PARK, N.J. (AP) — It was 95 degrees on thermometers here yesterday but the kiddies had a Christmas celebration.

It was arranged for them as part of the summer program of playground events. The 150 members of the half-pint set didn't even look at the calendar as they enjoyed themselves exchanging gifts and running in the artificial snow.

Santa Claus even put in an appearance, although he was late because of difficulty getting into his togs.

New Mexico Beauty Early Favorite

By JAMES BACON

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Miss New Mexico, whose every little wiggle spells out sex appeal, emerged today as the morning line favorite to be crowned Miss U.S.A.

But there will be luscious competition from all 14 other finalists chosen last night. They are the Misses Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Nebraska, New York City, New York State, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Brown-eyed Joan Schwartz, a coed from Albuquerque, was the crowd-pleaser as the American beauties paraded before judges and an audience of 3,000. She got even more applause than Miss Iowa, the state where half of Long Beach came from. (Miss Iowa was eliminated.)

Miss South Carolina, Sara Ella Stone, also drew heavy applause as did Miss Georgia, Carolann Connor, and Miss Florida, Marlies Gessler. The South may shine tonight.

The Miss U.S.A. winner goes against the world tomorrow and Friday nights for the title of Miss Universe, the world's most beautiful woman.

Margaret Rowe, a girl whose figure is controversial only in England, was adjudged the most popular girl in the big Sunday parade that was witnessed by a half-million people.

Miss England won that honor in a poll conducted by the Long Beach Independent and Press Telegram. Equipped with the same measurements as Marilyn Monroe, Miss Rowe was criticized as not typically British looking when she won the London contest last month.

But in Long Beach, she's real whistle bait.

There is only one woman (singer Ginny Simms) among the judges. Observers predict a swing to the sex-appeal girls as a result.

In the past, women judges have influenced the selection more toward the sweet, wholesome type such as last year's winner, Miss Miriam Stevenson of South Carolina.

That's why Miss New Mexico, Miss England and the exotic Miss Ceylon (Maureen Hingert) are early favorites in the betting. There are plenty of sweet, all-American girl types to choose from in the Miss U.S.A. finals such as Margaret Anne Haywood of Arkansas; Donna Schurr of California; Dorothy Jean Bewley of Colorado; Miss Gessler, Donna Streever of Nebraska; Patricia Anne O'Kane of New York City; Janet Kadlecik of Johnson City, N. Y.; Miss Stone; Mary Miles Daughters of Texas; Carlene King Johnson of Vermont; Shirley Jean Givens of Washington state and Jeanne Marianne Boulay of Wisconsin.

Diane Daniggels of Chicago and Miss Georgia are definitely in the sex appeal class and may be in there strong at the finish tonight.

WILSON — The search for Thelma Reid's body in Contentnea Creek, near here, who was drowned Sunday afternoon while wading in the stream, was continuing last night. Wilson County Coroner E. E. Goudy said the 23-year-old Negro woman stepped into deep water and was swept under by the swift current of the swollen creek.

GOLDSBORO — A city ordinance amending Goldsboro's water rates was adopted by the Board of Aldermen Monday night. The ordinance increases water rates 15 per cent for all consumers using less than 500,000 cubic feet of water per quarter, and 10 per cent for those using more than 500,000 cubic feet per quarter.

GOLDSBORO — The Wayne County Board of Commissioners had a brief session Monday highlighted by a request of the Goldsboro School Board, headed by Munroe Best, asking the commissioners to look into the possibility of selling the final $1,000,000 worth of school bonds that were authorized in 1952 and have not been sold. Only about $100,000 from the first bond issue remains uncontracted. This is not enough to meet the school construction needs planned, it was stated.

ROCKY MOUNT — Bolstered by the efforts of prominent men in the Presbyterian Church and Chamber of Commerce officials, Rocky Mount Monday was rapidly getting ready to make a serious bid for the new consolidated Presbyterian College, which was recently authorized by the North Carolina Synod. A group of Presbyterians met Monday night at the First Presbyterian Church here and underwrote the costs of a prospectus for the college.

TARBORO — A nine-year-old Warrenton boy was drowned in an Edgewood County sand pit three miles east of Rocky Mount Monday. Edgewood County Sheriff Tom Bardin identified the child as Edward B. Mustain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Mustain of Warrenton. He reportedly was playing in the three-quarter acre sand pit with an inner tube. He slipped from the tube and never came to the surface. He did not know how to swim.

WASHINGTON — Bath's 250th birthday celebration will be a four-day affair to be held October 1-4. That was decided Monday afternoon at a meeting and picnic dinner held at the river home of Edmund Harding, general chairman. In the afternoon, the group expressed its confidence in Governor Hodges' selection by naming Harding as production chairman.

WASHINGTON — The State Highway and Public Works Commission has announced plans for building a new bridge on Highway 294 across Pungo River at Leechville. Plans call for a bridge 595 feet long which would be built upstream from the present site.

KINSTON — Schools in the Kinston School District will continue to be operated on a segregated basis during the 1955-56 school year, with no target set for compliance with the U. S. Supreme Court's desegregation order. This is, in substance, the policy fixed by the Kinston City School Board at its July session Monday night.

KINSTON — Kinston's new administration gave its stamp of approval to a record budget of $2,205,983.67 for the current fiscal year at the City Hall Monday night. The 1955-56 budget compares with the $2,030,963.41 program for the past fiscal year during which the city accrued a cash balance of $58,918.42. Twenty thousand dollars of the June 30 balance was transferred to the power plant improvement fund, and the other $38,918.42 was carried into the newly-adopted budget as revenue. The tax rate has been previously fixed at $1.15 on the $100 property valuation for an estimated return of $386,960.42.

Burdens Of Responsibility Shirked

When a local government official sells out the interests of the people he is chosen to represent in order to feather his own nest, matters have reached a low ebb.

It is not the place of this or any other newspaper to judge the guilt or innocence of the chairman of the Onslow County Board of Commissioners who has been charged with accepting a $500 bribe from a contractor in connection with rehabilitation work following hurricane Hazel. That is the job of the twelve citizens who will sit as a jury to hear the evidence in the case.

If, however, the jury finds the defendant guilty of accepting the bribe, the court should mete out the stiffest punishment under the law to a local official who has betrayed his public trust in order to attain personal financial gain.

Bad government, like good government, begins at the grass roots. That means it begins at the local government level in counties and municipalities. When corruption and bribery eat into local government, the process of deterioration is in an advanced stage. We usually think of corruption in government in terms of metropolitan areas or in situations where government operations are on a much broader scale than county administration here in eastern North Carolina. Nevertheless if the seeds of corruption fall in fertile soil, whether it be in local government in this section or in some far-flung department of the federal government, it can produce devastating fruits.

The primary responsibility to prevent such conditions falls in the hands of the chosen officials whose duty it is to administer local government for the people. The ultimate responsibility for preventing governmental corruption lies in the hands of the general public—the voters. When corruption appears in government at any level, it becomes apparent that elected officials have not carried out their obligations and responsibilities with required diligence. It is likewise apparent that the people whose elect officials, have likewise been lax in discharging their responsibility to local government.

Definite Advances On Adapting Schools

By LYNN NISBET
DEVELOPMENTS — Progress in the basic matter of adapting North Carolina's public school system to essential compliance with Supreme Court non-segregation decrees is necessarily slow, although definite advances have been made. Developments in the more political phases have come so fast during the past week that comment on one aspect is rendered moot by another even before the comment can be published.

The current series of fireworks was set off last Wednesday night when Dr. Beverly Lake, assistant attorney general, made a speech at Asheboro advocating "as a citizen, not speaking as a State official," the establishment of private corporations to operate the state's schools.

Governor Hodges and Attorney General Rodman issued formal statements the next day, admitting the individual right of anybody to express personal opinion, but disavowing the Lake attitude as representing official State policy. These formal statements implied, and the high officers were more explicit in certain off-record comment, that Dr. Lake's superior felt he had unduly embarrassed them and perhaps impeded effectuation of the moderate State policy.

Informed circles were not at all surprised when the North Carolina section of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People jumped on the Lake speech as a platform from which to make demand upon the Governor and the Attorney General for the immediate firing of their assistant.

Not that there was any surprise when Governor Hodges countered with a vigorous condemnation of the NAACP demand, coupled with assurance that he would do all he could to retain the services for the State of the able lawyer and assistant attorney general who has contributed a great deal to studies as best ways to implement the high court's decrees.

NOT PUSHABLE — Governor Hodges attached enough importance to the timing of his comment to telephone it to his office while he was on a brief fishing vacation in the mountains. Attorney General Rodman and Assistant Attorney General Lake were in Richmond, State. They were in Richmond to confer with Virginia attorneys and sit on a Federal court hearing involving the county school system which figured as a direct party in the Supreme Court cases. Dr. Lake also sat by as an observer at the Federal court hearing in Columbia last week, involving a South Carolina county which was a direct party in the Supreme Court cases resulting in the non-segregation decree.

The companion statements of the Governor and the Attorney General last Thursday and the Governor's statement Sunday clearly indicate that high officials in North Carolina are not going to be pushed around by individuals or private groups which apparently are more concerned about immediate political advantage.

age than about the serious long-range problem of maintaining a public school system.

The General Assembly by formal act and resolutions, the Governor in numerous official statements, the Attorney General, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and other agencies which constitute "The State of North Carolina" have clearly enunciated State policy. It is for orderly and timely compliance with the high court's interpretation of the constitution and the statutes, with as little disruption of the social order as possible. This policy does not contemplate open defiance of the court decrees.

Certainly it does not tolerate demands of extremist groups in defiance of orderly process. The NAACP took the surest way to make certain that Dr. Beverly Lake would be retained to handle the legal phases of this matter which is vital in the whole program of preserving the public school system and the fundamentals of North Carolina government.

POTPOURRI — In the Big Four international conference now in progress "at the summit" in Geneva, President Eisenhower is the oldest in years, the youngest in diplomatic experience of all the participants. He is 64, but until he was past 60 his interests had been solely military—and few men have achieved greater distinction in that field. Next in age comes Bulganin of Russia, 59, with military experience but much longer experience in civil government than the President. Eden of Britain is 57, the youngest in diplomatic experience of all the participants. He is 46, but until he was past 60 his interests had been solely military—and few men have achieved greater distinction in that field.

Eden of Britain is 57, the youngest in diplomatic experience of all the participants. He is 46, but until he was past 60 his interests had been solely military—and few men have achieved greater distinction in that field.

An appropriate hot-weather crusade is being waged by Don Hall, youthful editor of the Roanoke Rapids Herald. Don is bothered, almost mad, about the present trend to put watch pockets on men's jackets and slacks at inaccessible places inside the top band, instead of outside and below the belt line as has been the custom for many years. The Roanoke Rapids editor suggests a nefarious combine between the wrist watch makers and the manufacturers of men's britches. He reports surprising and gratifying response. Apparently a lot of men, like the Roanoke Rapids editor and your reporter, prefer pocket watches to the wrist variety have just been waiting for a Voice.

Other Editors Are Saying.... Extremism Offers No Solution

(Greensboro Daily News)
Governor Hodges must have done what North Carolina's generally expected him to do in answer to the NAACP's demand that Dr. I. Beverly Lake be fired from his position as assistant attorney general.

The Governor scored the "effrontery" of the NAACP for making such a demand and declared it to be his intention "to use every means at my command to retain for the state the services of this distinguished lawyer." Dr. Lake's official record, especially his preparation and presentation of North Carolina's brief at the U.S. Supreme Court school integration hearing, will support the chief executive's words.

Even if Governor Hodges had been considering any reprimand for Dr. Lake, which he presumably was not, the NAACP attitude and expression made its enunciation as impractical as unlikely. North Carolina cannot follow its announced middle course by catering to either extreme.

Some where within the bounds of moderation, of earnest study, of good will among men and of realization of our basic obligation to our children, North Carolina can and will work out a saving solution. We have faced crises in this state before and we have survived them, the stronger and the better, through willed soundness of judgment, faith in ourselves and our future and application not always immediately but ultimately, of fairness, justice, decency and common sense. And we shall do so again. It is impossible for us to conceive that North Carolinians, white and Negro, will consent to the collapse of their public school system, repudiation of Aycock, McIver, Aldermen and all our other great educational leaders and the labor sweat and substance which have been expended over the years to give our children the opportunity to develop all that is within them. The state's progress has burgeoned as has its educational program.

We await with unusual interest the deliverance which Governor Hodges promises to make in the near future on his own views on "the public school issue. Meanwhile it is a distinct disservice for anybody to stir up prejudice or project an extremism which makes settlement all the more difficult and costly for those whom it directly affects. That is why we pass along for lasting attention of members of the Governor's own team, especially the equivalent of its field captain, whose private utterances, however invidious cannot possibly be dissociated from their official position, influence and accountability.

Somebody Told Me

AA Observes 20th Birthday

Ever since I've been writing this column (May marked the sixth year) I have given publicity to Alcoholics Anonymous, the organization that has done more for alcoholism than any other single thing.

When I first started writing about it there were a few Greenville members driving to the weekly meetings of the New Bern chapter. Now Greenville has a very active chapter and club room located over Fleming's on the corner of East Fifth and Washington.

In hopes that one more person might learn about AA and be helped, I mention the organization whenever possible. Today the news about AA is national. For last week 5,000 AA members gathered in St. Louis to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the organization, which now includes 150,000 reformed alcoholics organized in 4,000 chapters in more than 60 countries.

When the effort started in 1935 it was a slow process to enroll reformed drunkards; after four years there were only 100 or so organized. But in 1939 they decided to publish a guide to giving up alcohol. Their first choice was "The Way Out," but a check at the Library of Congress showed twelve previous works by the same name. So the authors agreed on their second choice, "Alcoholics Anonymous." It has sold 300,000 copies.

Last week at the national convention the group also celebrated the publication of a new edition of the book, 575 pages. Also the group agreed to change its emphasis. At the beginning many of the members were those who had been in hospitals and jails.

Now AA is working on the preventive idea, catching the alcoholic if possible before he gets that low New chapters of the book dwell on this approach.

The theory of AA is simple. A group of people who have suffered from the same disease ban together in a mutual effort to stay sober themselves and at the same time help other alcoholics. They understand each other, having all been in the same boat, better than doctors or families do. It doesn't always work, because the alcoholic must have an honest desire to quit. Nothing can help him unless he does.

If you want to know more about the organization, let me know. Give me a ring and I'll see that literature is sent your way.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

Wives Have A Secret Quality

By MAL ROYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Wives always have a secret quality. They're odd people.

You can't count on what they'll do — but you always can depend on them to do it.

A wife isn't exactly animal, vegetable or mineral. Sometimes she's all three — and human besides. The average husband finds his wife hard to figure. But then the average husband finds it hard to figure. Bachelors don't have to worry about figuring. They know that in this woman-crowded civilization a single man always rates.

Any bachelor has got wives figured as a "T" but usually it's a T-bone steak.

You have to live with a woman to really misunderstand her — bring her home bacon when she actually desired pork chops, fatted her damn and the Negro to image a son, take her out to the right restaurant but then sit her down at the wrong table, dance a fox trot when she yearned to mambo.

A wife never fits a pattern she will have you out for coming home in the early yawning from a late poker party, then in front of another wife defend your right to live your own life.

She won't buy a dress in a year. Suddenly she'll buy three in a row and make you go out and buy a suit yourself and a pair of shoes. Wives have a strange idea that a new dress makes a woman feel better and that a new pair of shoes gives a man the same sensation. Somewhere they have read that all men have a fear of ending up in this world barefooted.

Wives are often full of sudden and strange complaints, too unexpected for a man to keep up with. They will rebel against the color scheme in their home they picked only yesterday and demand fresher fabrics, brighter tints. Ye if their husband comes home with a bold necktie he gambled on all by himself, they worry.

A wife is a creature that does unexpected things as a lifelong hobby. If you spend all your cash entertaining her, she'll denounce you as a wastrel and a spendthrift. If you don't take her out and become a wastrel and a spendthrift in her behalf, she'll accuse you of being a miser. But if you really need a few extra

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
CATHEDRALS—OLD AND NEW

As the year A.D. 1000 approached, and later the year A.D. 1500, Europe was thrown into the utmost excitement by the belief that Jesus Christ would appear immediately.

Under these circumstances one would expect that people would have dropped their work and sat down to await the coming of the Lord. As a matter of fact, the period between these two dates was a period of intense church activity. Particularly did the people give themselves to the building of cathedrals.

A great English church leader has pointed out that all this has special reference to the age in which we live. This very decidedly is not a cathedral building age; it is a scientific age. It is the most active period world history has known anything about. In fact in the midst of our activity we are in very great danger of losing fundamental spiritual values.

As the European centuries ago feverishly built cathedrals that the glorified Lord would have beautiful temples to which he might return, so we in this age need to be fashioning our marvelous-civilized era in such way that the Spirit of Jesus Christ will enter in now and that when the Lord returns in glory he will find these inspiring achievements of men serving the cause of his kingdom.

We are standing at the threshold of what may be great days, or we may be standing at the beginning of a period of great desolation. It all depends on how we fashion our achievements and to what end.

'Auction Buck' Idea Spreading

By ELMER ROESSNER
"Auction buck" promotions are popping up everywhere. Some are staged by professional sales-promotion companies others are "home made" by participating merchants. Sometimes they are put on by single retailers, more often by groups in shopping centers or retail districts.

This is how they work: With each purchase, shoppers get a number of auction bucks, dollars checks or whatever the promoters happen to call them. These are slips of paper with various dollar amounts printed on them.

Sometimes shoppers get a dollar in this scrip for every dollar spent. Other times the rates vary; $10 in auction money for each dollar spent is not uncommon. Then, at stated intervals, the sponsors stage an auction at which only the scrip may be used in bidding. Appliances, novelties and furnishings are usually offered.

Because the scrip is give-away stuff, bids range high. A toaster may go for 300 or 3,000 "dollars" and a television set may be bid away at 5,000 or 50,000.

The promotion has several advantages over ordinary premium or trading-stamp offers. The auctions draw heavy traffic, a point that makes them very popular with shopping centers and Main Street associations. When well managed, they offer fun and excitement. A good auctioneer can keep a crowd in fine humor. Feeling rich, even in fun appeals to most people. They get a kick out of tossing off hundred-dollar and thousand-dollar bids. And good will is generated because those who lose out in the bidding can save their bucks for the next auction.

And the auctions are good places for announcing special offers and sales, introducing new products or working in other plugs for promoting merchants.

SIX FIRMS TRY TO WIN IN COUPON PROMOTION

Another unusual premium promotion plan is reported by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association. A West Coast packing company prints coupons on the labels of its canned soup. Coupons are redeemable for premiums at various centers. To multiply interest in the promotion, the packing company has decided to tie in with a cigarette and an evaporated milk company, a nut and a coffee company to redeem their coupons. Interest is further heightened by putting bonus coupons worth 10 regular coupons in the company's newspaper advertisements.

JAPANESE SMOKERS SWITCH TO CHEAPER BRANDS

Sales of 31-cent Fuji cigarettes declined 70 per cent in the last fiscal year in Japan. Joseph C. Dodson, an agricultural attaché at the American Embassy in Tokyo, has reported to Washington. Sales of the 23-cent Peace brand dropped 49 per cent, and sales of the 15-cent Hikari brand were down 16 per cent.

However, sales of the 10-cent Shinee brand were up 49 per cent and 8-cent Golden Bats showed a slight gain.

This economy-mindedness on the part of the Japanese is bad news for American Tobacco growers. Fuji, Hikari and Peace brands contain substantial amounts of American blue-cured tobacco; the others do not.

PICTURE'S RISE IN CRANE'S 100 YEARS

One way to get a book-length history of a company read is to tell the story in pictures. That is what the authors have done in "Everything AND the Kitchen Sink," a story of the century-old company a 160-page, $4 volume published by Farrar, Straus & Cudahy. The pictures, plus a minimum amount of text, tell the story of the growth of the company and its rise in the American standard of living over the last 100 years.

SHOE STORE SALES, PROFITS OFF IN 1954

American family shoe stores did not do so well in 1954, according to the third Annual Survey of their operations just completed.

Sales were down 13 per cent from 1953 and the average net profit was down from 5.3 per cent of sales to 3.9 per cent. Stores in cities of 10,000 to 30,000 population showed smaller drops than cities of over 500,000.

The study was made by Dr. Ross M. Trump and Dr. William Emory, Washington University, under a grant from Footwear News.

cause they have large Negro constituencies, find themselves compelled to support Powell, whereas the solid southern bloc must oppose. It would be political death for them to do otherwise. SEEK NEGRO VOTE Republican politicians seek to recapture the Negro vote for next year's national elections, as National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's current campaign reveals. But they also want to line up behind Ike and his legislative program. Despite Powell's stand, it is possible, although not certain, that the military reserves and housing bills will be enacted at this session in some form or other. However, the approach of the scheduled July 30 recess probably means that they will emerge in a mangled and unsatisfactory form.

Powell's demand for "mixed" homes and apartments with the effect it would have on real estate values of privately built residences, seems certain to kill that measure.

SPORTS SHOTS

by Bruce Phillips

PEELE WAS OUTSTANDING AS HIGH SCHOOL FIGHTER

The news that Crowe Peete of Fayetteville is turning pro late this summer and starting a professional boxing campaign makes this writer recall his earlier days at Fayetteville high school.

Crowe was a good personal friend, and, for that matter still is, although his fighting has been mostly out of the state for the past three years.

Back in those days, we, with many other onlookers, tagged Crowe with the "can't miss" label. He took on all comers around the Cape Fear River territory and left 90 per cent of his opponents decked colder than a muddle.

In 1951, 1952 and 1953 he won Golden Gloves titles in the light-heavy weight division at Charlotte. His amateur record reads something like 62 wins in 64 fights, 47 by kayos.

After graduation at Fayetteville, where he also starred in football and baseball, Crowe enrolled at Louisiana State University, the college boxing capital of the world.

He won five straight bouts his freshman year by knockout, adding 11 more in 1953 for a 16-0 college record. He won the NCAA crown in a breeze.

COACH THINKS HE HAS STUFF TO GO ALL THE WAY. Peete follows his Louisiana coach, J. T. Owen, into the pro ranks.

Owen thinks the hard-punching Tar Heel has unlimited possibilities. "He has the one thing that may take him to the top—the Dempsey instinct. It's hard to define, but it's a combination of aggressiveness, confidence and killer instinct."

He has tremendous speed for a man his size. He's quick with his hands and has power, capable of knocking out a man with either hand. He can take it and just goes to fight.

It wouldn't surprise this scribe in the least if Crowe's sitting on top of the heavyweight division in five years. He has been pointing to another chance at Patterson. The latter barely whipped Crowe when the Fayetteville lad was just a rising senior in high school.

KINSTON HAS ONE MORE CHANCE IN SEMI-PRO TOURNEY. Manager Johnny Smith's Kineston Eagles have to win their next game in Roxboro to stay in the state semi-pro tournament.

The loss to Angier wasn't as bad as the score indicates. Kineston was trailing by only three runs going into the final inning when loose infield play proved disastrous.

Falkland of the Coastal Plain League has added three new players in an effort to rid itself of last place. J. C. Thomas, Harry Hayes and Bob Penley should give the Falklanders more depth.

Yankees Stop Sox To Hold Top Spot

By ED WILKS. The Associated Press. Hate 'em or love 'em, but you've got to give the New York Yankees their due.

They had their lumps, losing nine of their last 12, as they wobbled into Comiskey Park last night for a showdown with the runner-up Chicago White Sox.

They got it. Elston Howard's two-run homer in the eighth inning carried New York through, making up for two Yankee errors that had handed the Sox a 3-2 lead in the seventh.

It was one of those "big" games the Yankees usually win. With the victory they moved three games ahead of the Sox and four games up for two Yankee errors that had whacked by Washington 8-1.

The victory wasn't all beer and cheese, however. New York again lost Jerry Coleman just back from a three-month layoff with a broken collar bone.

It was in the seventh that errors by Yogi Berra and Joe Collins and a single by George Kell gave the Sox the lead. Walt Dropo had tied it at 2-2 in the sixth with his two-run homer.

Tommy Byrne was the winner, with relief by Jim Konstanty. In the other AL games, Boston defeated Kansas City 6-3 and Detroit laid the wood to Baltimore.

Carolina Dairy Softball Team Enters Tourney

Carolina Dairies, leader of the City Softball League, leaves today for Raleigh to compete in an invitational softball tournament.

The tourney will run through Saturday with eight teams entered. The meet is sort of a tune-up for the state district tourney which gets underway the first of August.

"We think we'll do better this year in the state rounds," Business Manager Harry Stokes said. "We had only one pitcher last year whereas another reliable man has been added this season."

Johnson has been the big reason for the team's success. The slender right-hander is the outstanding pitcher in the local league.

He and Gordon provide the team with as strong a pitching staff as you would want, Stokes declares. "Gordon is very fast and has a better curve ball than Johnson,"

Bill Dunn To Hurl Against Leafs Here

Rocky Mount at Greenville. New Bern at Farmville. Falkland at Williamston.

Rocky Mount's Leafs, holding down second place in the Coastal Plain League, come into Guy Smith Stadium tonight in hopes of picking up the one run by which they trail Farmville.

Manager Pete Carraway's locals don't have to worry about losing their position in the standings.

The Leafs split two games over the weekend with third place New Bern. Saturday night New Bern's Clarence pitch pitched a neat four-hitter against the Leafs, paving the way for an 11-0 victory for the Bears.

Rocky Mount has picked up several new players since their last appearance here. Their rosters boast such notables as Gene Hooks, Ralph Adams, Eugene Bone and Ray Whitely.

Farmville retained its lead in the loop by halving a pair of games, with Falkland over the weekend.

Williamston should be able to gain on Greenville in its match with Falkland. The Williamston Braves have won something like 10 games in a row and are challenging the leaders.

A real showdown is in store this weekend when Farmville and Rocky Mount tangle in a two game series.

Moose Club Looking Forward To Next Summer

By BRUCE PHILLIPS. Reflector Sports Writer. For a team lacking in size and natural ability, you'll have to give credit to the Moose squad for the fine showing it made in Tar Heel Little League play this summer.

The youngsters, in the words of their coaches, "made up for what was lacking by hustle and persistence." They certainly did enough to make any coach proud as are mentors Freddie Williams and Ken Hall.

Good Defense. Because of size, the Moose outfit wasn't a heavy hitting bunch but they capitalized on breaks at every opportunity.

To compile a winning mark with no outstanding hitters the team had to be better than average defensively. The starting quartet of Emmett Koonce at first base, Joe Reeves at second base, Steve Partridge at third base and Bill Wade at shortstop formed a speedy infield.

The outfield was made up of Mike Martin in left, Ken Joyner in center and Stanley Melton in right. Ken Cox and Malcolm Griffith alternated with Melton and Joyner some.

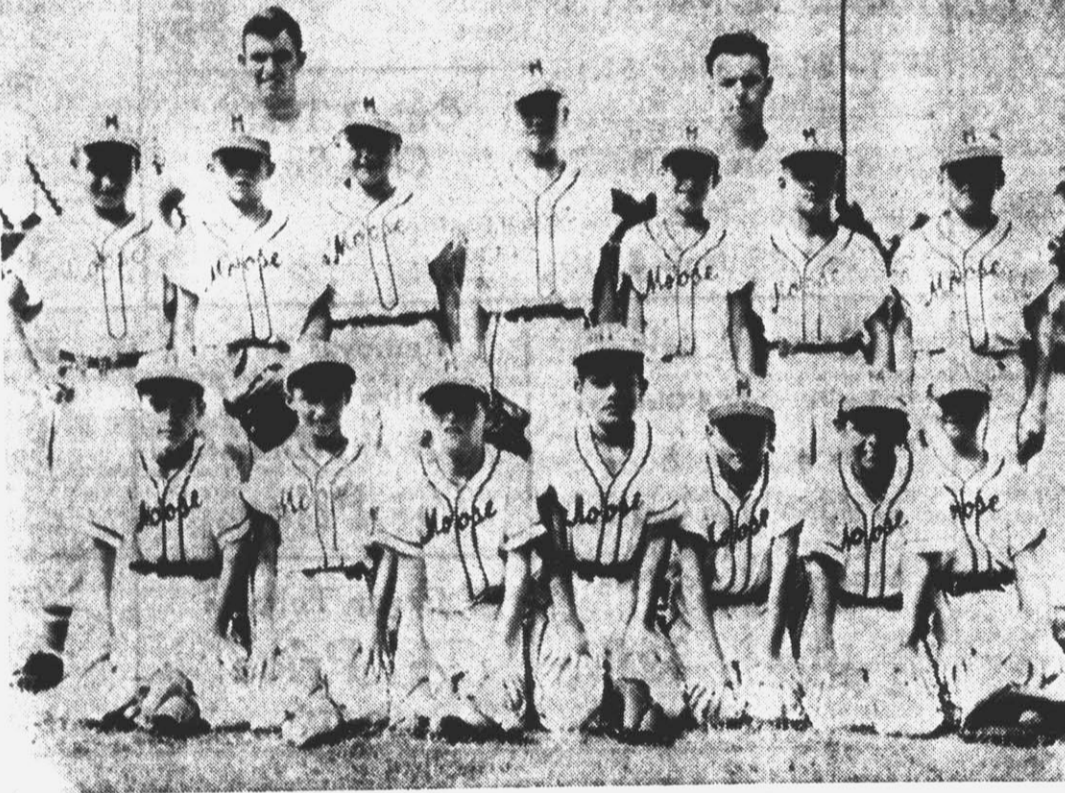

Don Joyner was the valuable man behind the mask. He worked with such apt pitchers as Ken Cox, Ken Joyner and Malcolm Griffith, all of whom were outstanding and will be back next year.

This year's team placed three fellows on the Little League All-Star team. They were brothers Ken and Don Joyner and Emmett Koonce.

Coach Hall considers Don one of the best all-around players in Little League play this summer.

Partridge at third, Charles Forbes at short, Joe Reeves at second and Stanley Melton at first will be back to form a solid infield.

other year and will be around to do most of the pitching. If the Moose players retain their staunch desire to win until the call next Spring, another good season appears quite within the realm of possibility.

BUNCH OF HUSTLERS—Pictured above is the Moose Little League team of the Tar Heel League. They finished third in the first half's play and second in the second half.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

The others . . . A haunting phrase vaguely menacing. Not police or emissaries from Mogur, since the Indian would have known about either. Not ordinary jewel thieves or receivers, since the ruby was unsalable. What then? Had Gerry when he walked away with a box in his pocket, believing he had the ruby?

"Are you sure the ruby is unsalable?"

"No jeweler or fence would dare to handle such a famous stone intact and it can't be cut in half without destroying its value. Monster rubies are rarer than monster diamonds. There is only one Fire of India. I know why Mogur wants it back. I can see how the American government might want it as evidence against Moxon, if they are beginning to believe he stole it now he has turned embassier. But why should anyone else want a stone that cannot be sold or displayed?"

"A rustle in the shadows . . ." repeated Sara, under her breath. "A sense of being watched . . . a footstep behind me in a quiet street—like a limp, only faster?"

"Moxon heard it too—according to Mrs. Moxon. But he never saw anyone who limped." The brilliant eyes gazed with introspection. "A god of death and destruction and—who knows what field of force generated by ancient belief, however mistaken isn't a god the creation of his worshippers? Somehow, I was hardly surprised when Moxon died."

He is trying to frighten me, thought Sara. It's the usual uneasy blend of Western materialism and Eastern mysticism, as fashionable now as in Rome of the decadence, and as absurd. He could have murdered Moxon himself without any feeling of guilt.

"Why were you following Moxon this afternoon?"

"The evening before, I sat near him in a small bar in Greenwich Village. Another man met him there. Moxon didn't know me, so I sat near them. They talked in low voices, but I heard enough. Moxon was arranging to meet the man again today, at Fifth Avenue and 28th, at 5:30. From what Moxon said it was obvious he was going to deliver the ruby. There was talk of money. But Moxon didn't stop at 28th street. He turned into the 18-cent store. Was it because he realized that I was following him? I doubt it. He didn't know me by sight. I think he discovered someone else following him—someone he did know . . . And here my story ends. . . He smiled. "As we say, the Natiyah-thorn withers . . ."

Beyond the windows, the sky grew paler, morning noises came up from the street. A milk wagon. A solitary car.

Her eyelids drooped. She fought to keep them open. . . She opened her eyes with a start. How long had she been dozing? The sun was shining brightly through the venetian blinds. She must have really slept. She hadn't seen the sun rise. Her mind felt dull and heavy as if she had slept more deeply than usual.

She eyed a sherry glass empty and sticky, on the table beside her.

What had awakened her? A street noise? Or the Indian? Where was he? The room was empty.

She sat tense, listening, sure that some sound had awakened her. But now there was only the steady surr-mutter of traffic coming up from the street and she was used to that. Within it was still she could hear her own breathing.

She called out, "Are you in the next room?"

No answer. There was a deadness in the silence that told her he was gone, but when she took the sherry glass into the kitchen to rinse it she glanced into the bedroom and bathroom to make sure. All empty, all as tidy as she had left them.

She looked at her watch. Almost 10 o'clock. She had slept much longer than she had realized at first.

She came back to the living room with a glass of water and drank it slowly. Her mouth was dry, her head ached. Yet she had only one glass of sherry. Looking about the sunlit room it was hard to believe the Indian had ever been there. Her memories of him were blurred and shadowy, like the memory of a dream. She caught her breath. Had the Indian been there at all? Or was the whole thing a long, vivid dream?

She could have fallen asleep in her chair over a glass of sherry, while her subconscious mind combined and elaborated all the chance incidents of the day—a big ruby, Moxon's death, an Oriental with a cat tattooed on his wrist— weaving them into a pattern as birds weave stray threads of silk or cotton into the fabric of a nest.

She heard a heavy footstep, the dragging of a chair. Some sharp, isolated sound like that must have awakened her in the first place, for she was still asleep. It took her another moment to realize the noise came from overhead. There

Three Issues Will Be Voted July 23

Three referendums scheduled for July 23 will involve important issues for tobacco and peanut farmers here. Woodrow Wooten of Falkland, vice-president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, said yesterday. Wooten said fine-cured tobacco farmers will vote in a Tobacco Associates referendum to indicate whether or not they wish to continue to pay 10 cents per acre of tobacco for the coming three years.

If voters approve this program, which has been in effect since 1947, assessment funds will continue to be used for promotion of export tobacco markets.

The sharp increase of foreign fine-cured competition, along with decreased domestic consumption of tobacco, are two factors that "make this program not only valuable but essential to the future of the United States tobacco industry," Wooten emphasized.

The Farm Bureau vice-president said the Tobacco Associates referendum would be conducted jointly with the government's fine-cured marketing quota referendum and the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association assessment vote.

The Peanut Association is basically for peanut growers what Tobacco Associates is for tobacco farmers, he added.

Major difference, he pointed out, is that while Tobacco Associates is a farmer owned organization working for the development of fine-cured export markets, the Peanut Association also farmer owned, is working primarily to increase domestic use of the Virginia type peanut through advertising, sales promotion, research and legislative activities.

The other July 23 referendum, according to Wooten, will determine whether marketing quotas will be in effect through 1956, through 1958, or not at all.

Eisenhower's Personal Plea To Zhukov Was A 'Natural'

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
GREENVILLE (AP)—President Eisenhower's dramatic personal appeal to Russia's Marshal Georgi Zhukov was one of the "naturals" of the Big Four conference.
It had been generally expected that the President would make such a bid to his friend of World War II days. Speculation had centered on how he would go about it. He could have done it privately in a confidential chat with the Soviet defense minister. And he may have done just that on the couple of occasions the two have met under such circumstances since the conference started.
But they have not had much time, or very much privacy, when they have talked.
The other and less expected way was at one of the formal summit sessions. That was precisely the approach Eisenhower took yesterday in his plea that the Soviet Union permit the unification of Germany as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Zhukov made no reply at the meeting and Soviet Premier Bulganin again promptly rejected unification on that basis.
Western hopes that the Kremlin leaders would change their minds were not bright. But American officials still saw a possibility that Eisenhower's appeal could lead the Soviets to take another look at their policy.
The President prefaced his fervent appeal by saying he would like Zhukov to listen carefully to his views on the thorny German problem. Eisenhower then went on to say that Zhukov was an old friend of his and that the marshal knew that the President, speaking as one old soldier to another, never had uttered a word of untruth.
The President then said that when he accepted the command of the NATO forces in 1951, he did so because he believed the security organization was a true agency for peace.

A soldier for 40 years, Eisenhower declared that he had enough of war, that he would have rejected the NATO command if he had not believed firmly that peace was the objective.
The President also assured Bulganin, Zhukov and all the others in the conference room that the United States will never launch an aggressive war. The only time it will fight, he added, is in self-defense.
Bulganin, who is at least the nominal head of the Soviet delegation, replied in cordial and quiet tones that he accepted the words and promises of the President.
But he added that since Eisenhower left the NATO command there have been some individuals who have made statements to the contrary. There was no indication that Bulganin named the individuals.
After the formal conference Eisenhower and Bulganin had a private chat at the buffet before leaving the building. Maybe Zhukov had something to say there about the President's appeal to him. If there was any exchange on the matter, the two were keeping it secret.

Visiting Russian Farm Experts Really Studying

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Visiting Soviet farm leaders continued their search today for the magic secret of American food wealth.
This morning the dozen Russian agriculture chiefs set forth to see the workings of the Wilson and Co. meat packing plant. This afternoon they've been entertained at the Waterloo Chamber of Commerce they pay a visit to the third Iowa farm on their schedule. It belongs to Guy Stover Jr., at Reinbeck, Iowa.
The Russians are proving students indeed. Yesterday they asked farmer George Hora, of Washington Iowa, who was host at a home-cooked dinner of fried chicken and three kinds of pies, to show them his account books. He obliged without hesitation.

The Russians, including statistical expert Boris Savelev, chief of the Soviet Union's farm planning, were delighted. They poured over the books.
Before that they had questioned Hora seriously about his farm machinery, his crop rotation system, his technique for fattening his hogs for market, and a hundred other things.
These Russians are intelligent men. They know a great deal about agriculture.
"They know exactly what questions they want answered!" commented one Iowa farmer who listened yesterday to the questions they asked Hora.
The Russians so far are looking for some special key to the farm problem which they can fit to their Soviet lock. They are certain there is one particular "open sesame," which they will soon discover. Then they can go home triumphantly to present this cure-all to their boss, Nikita Khrushchev.
The answer lies in front of the Russian noses. But so far it's so near they can't even see it.
"People have got to have a motive to work," said an Iowa farmer in George Hora's front yard yesterday.
A neighbor of Hora told me he puts in 13 or 14 hours a day.
"Would you work as hard and as well as you do on a government or collective farm?" I asked him.
"No, I certainly would not!"
Day before yesterday the Russians looked at Richard L. Alleman's farm in Slater, Young Richard works hard and efficiently. He does it because he's working for himself and his family. He knows it. His neighbors know it. Everyone in Iowa knows his secret.
"Richard Alleman's farm is good because Richard Alleman is good!" Vladimir Maskaevich, leader of the Soviet delegation and the Soviet first deputy minister of agriculture, said.
"Richard Alleman would make a good chief of a Soviet machinery and tractor station!" he added.

Three State Officials To Appear On Program

Veteran Airmen Die In Collision

HIGH POINT, Md. (AP)—Two veterans of combat flying plummeted to their deaths in the tidewater country of Chesapeake Bay yesterday after running into another plane 3,000 feet in the air.
Both twin-engine craft were from the Bolling Air Force Base in Washington, a short hop away. The two occupants of one plane walked away from their wounds, while the other two died. One of the pilots died after hitting a house.
The plane carrying 1st Lt. Francis D. Viering, 31, of Washington, D. C., and Maj. Lud Miller, Alexandria, Va., carried them almost directly earthward to their deaths.
Their C-45 Beechcraft transport hit near High Point High School, exploded and burned.
The fliers in the other plane, a B-25, were Maj. L. E. Williams, San Jose, Calif., and Maj. W. T. Phillips, Florence, Ala.
They almost managed to fly their crippled craft to Friendship Airport about 10 miles away. They failed by 1,000 yards, crashing into the house of William, James and Kenneth Murray.
Mrs. Argda Hunter, who cleans house for the Murray brothers, was inside with her two children, 9 and 7 years old. They managed to get out safely.

Nevada Convicts Give Up Strike

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Tired, hot and hungry, Nevada State Prison convicts who Monday afternoon started a bloodless rebellion against the prison routine, gave up the ghost last night without gaining a single point.
More than 200 of the rebels who had spent a night and a day in the prison yard lined up and started filing back into their cell block a few minutes after they had been warned by Warden Art Bernard the time had come for the shutdown.
Nevada state patrolmen called to replenish the guards around the 60-year-old brownstone prison were "tired and won't wait much longer," the warden told a three-man committee representing the convicts.
Minutes later the committee returned with the word that the men were "tired and sick; they don't want anything."
An hour and a half later all were back in their cells.
The prisoners had demanded an interview with Gov. Charles Russell and better food, a change of the guard captain and prison doctor, better opportunities for parole—and more work.
Warden Bernard agreed on one thing, they should have more work and more chance for occupational training but, he added, the prison simply did not have the facilities.

Air Force Plans Reduce Number Of Japan Bases

TOKYO (AP)—Plans are underway to reduce the number of U.S. Air Force bases in Japan from 40 to about 10, it was reported today by Shintaro Fukushima, director of the Japan Procurement Board.
The board is the Japanese government's clearing house for U.S. military needs in Japan.
A spokesman for the Far East Command said FEC headquarters "has no comment on the report."
There was no immediate comment from air force officials in Tokyo.
Fukushima said five of the retained bases would be enlarged and expanded—Tachikawa and Yokota near Tokyo, Komaki in central Japan, Kisarazu in southern Japan, and Niihata in northern Japan.
He listed the other five to be retained, apparently at present size, as Itazuke and Itami in southern Japan, Iwakuni in central Japan, Chitose and Misawa in northern Japan.

Car Fell 3 Floors Atop Another

HOUSTON (AP)—"I thought it was the end," says Fred Reamer of a traffic accident which happened yesterday.
Reamer was sitting in his car waiting for a red light to change when another car plunged off the roof of a three-story parking garage—and fell on Reamer's car.
The second car belonged to Elmer Steen, 35, who had it up on jacks while making some repairs. Steen forgot the engine was running and in gear and let the car down off the jacks. "It just took off," says Steen.
Reamer was not hurt but his car was messed up.

Skids, Drops In 50-Foot Canyon

HINTON Okla. (AP)—D. O. Peeler, 25, was driving along U.S. 66 during a thundershower when his car went into a skid.
Trooper Art Corday quoted a witness as saying the car skidded 122 feet and dropped into a 50-foot canyon where it sailed 45 feet and landed on its front end.
Peeler climbed out of the smashed car, complaining of a sore neck.
Corday said no traffic regulations were violated.

Duke Injured

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Kent, 20-year-old playboy cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, is in the hospital with head injuries from an automobile accident. He was reported improving.

Thieves Routed By Talking Bird

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A talking myna bird was credited with routing thieves in the midst of ransacking the office of Linda Foods, Inc.
Carl Hubner, the firm president, told detectives he had the myna, named Julius, in his office next to the one entered. Julius, he said, greets the firm's employees every morning by screeching: "What do you want? Let's go!"
The detectives figure that's what Julius did when burglars entered and that's why the burglars fled with only a dozen T-shirts and a few cans of boned chicken.

55 Years Late

GORIZIA, Italy (AP)—Sailor Emilio Bressan mailed a postcard home from Cairo, Egypt, in 1902. It arrived yesterday. There was no indication why it took so long.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Trading was quiet and prices were mixed in the stock market today after a fairly active and higher opening.

Prices were up a shade on average but the market seemed uncertain after closing yesterday on a general note of recovery.

Steels, chemicals, tobaccos and manufacturing were on the upside while rails were off a bit except for Pennsylvania which rose following a report of a big gain in earnings.

U. S. Steel was up 1/4, Liggett & Myers 3/4, Goodrich 1/2, Allied Chemical 1, Union Carbide 1, Sears Roebuck lost 1/2, United Airlines 1/4 and American Telephone & Telegraph 1/2.

RALEIGH (AP) — NCDA—Central North Carolina fryers and broilers were steady, farm price 26 f.o.b. plant, no sales reported; Raleigh eggs fully steady, a large 50.

Asheville fryers and broilers steady, farm price 26, f.o.b. plant, 27 1/4; Asheville eggs steady, a large 48 to 48.

CAP Pre-Flight Class Registers 15 New Members

The Civil Air Patrol Greenville Squadron's pre-flight training school at the local airfield last night registered 15 new members of the class.

Capt. Walter Bunch will conduct and instruct weekly classes on theory flight for six weeks. Instrument classes will start July 26. Classes are held on Tuesday nights at 8 o'clock. Teen-agers and adults desiring to join the class should phone 5241 or contact any CAP member, public information officer Gus Beststedt.

The Civil Air Patrol also has agreed to sponsor a CAP rifle club. Teen-agers interested should contact Cadet Commander Henry Fluke, phone 5604.

Clark Gable And Bride On Ranch

ENCINO, Calif. — Clark Gable and his bride, the former Kay Williams Spreckels, are at home today at his ranch.

"We plan to make our home here at the Encino ranch and at our new house in Palm Springs," Mrs. Gable told reporters by telephone yesterday. The ranch gates were locked to visitors.

Gable, 54, and his 37-year-old bride were married July 11 at Minden, Nev.

Comedian Wally Cox Re-Hired By Las Vegas Hotel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Comedian Wally Cox has been rehired by the hotel that fired him last week but a $250,000 suit has been filed against the William Morris agency, which booked him into the Dunes Hotel floor show.

Cox, television's Mr. Peepers, stars again tonight at the Dunes at the same $11,000 a week he was promised at the start for a four-week stand. He finished only three performances before the management dismissed him, saying he had laid an egg and people left the dining room during his act.

Joseph Sullivan, president of the Dunes Hotel, Inc., said a new contract is being arranged with Cox and that Cox has hired writers at his own expense. He said the original contract provided that top writers provide the comedian's acts and he be paid a $5,000-a-week commission, but that Cox brought no new material with him.

Sullivan said one of the reasons why Cox was rehired was that there were many requests and demands for his appearance.

Albert Henry Gay Dies Suddenly Today

FARMVILLE — Albert Henry Gay, 55, farmer, died suddenly Wednesday morning at his home, Route 2, Walstonburg.

Funeral arrangements had not been made, pending arrival of relatives.

He was a son of the late B. R. and Betty Gay of Walstonburg. He was a lifelong member of Howell Free Will Baptist Church and Sunday school.

Surviving are eight sisters, Mrs. Louise McKeel of the home, Mrs. Will Hardison, Rt. 2, Walstonburg, Mrs. Wyatt Parker, Rt. 1, Farmville, Mrs. John Roy Dilly, Rt. 1, Farmville, Mrs. Jarvis Helleman, Rt. 2, Walstonburg, Mrs. Saddle Ruth Jones and Mrs. Rupert Piping of Farmville, and Mrs. Joe Jones, Rt. 1, Snow Hill. Four brothers also survive: W. B. Clay, J. R. Gay, E. S. Gay and R. S. Gay, all of Walstonburg.

Agricultural Group Visits Seed Farm

AT COUNTY SEED FARM—Farmers, county agents and seed dealers turned out in droves yesterday at the Brantley Speight Seed Farm near Winterville to see new varieties of tobacco, corn and other crops. Here, part of the group pauses to examine a field of tobacco and hear comments concerning its growing process. (Reflector Photo by Bob Hilldrup.)

Some 75 farmers, seed dealers, county agents and other agricultural personnel yesterday gathered at the Brantley Speight seed farm near Winterville to examine the last word in new crop varieties. Visitors from throughout North Carolina and sections of Virginia gathered on Speight's lawn shortly after 2 p.m. to hear remarks by E.Y. Floyd, Director of the Carolina-

Virginia Plant Food Institute and Purney Todd, of the N.C. Extension Service.

Floyd told the gathering of the need for a large turnout of voters in Saturday's tobacco and peanut referendum and added that continued supports should mean continued prosperity.

Todd then addressed the group on new varieties of tobacco which had passed various tests both in the field and in the hands of manufacturers. He elaborated of various types which had been developed that offered more resistance to special disease and also cured into better smoking tobacco.

The gathering then left on a tour of the Speight farm where they saw new varieties of tobacco, corn and other minor crops.

New Nat'l Guard Battery Sets Organizational Meet

Greenville's new Service Battery, 296th Field Artillery Battalion, will hold its first organizational meeting at the National Guard armory at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

At that time the unit's commander, 1st Lt. Hubert J. McGee, Jr., will be present along with Sgt. Mayo Allen to answer questions raised by prospective members.

A medical doctor will also be on hand to conduct physical examinations of 20 prospective members. All other candidates are welcome, Allen said this morning, and may take physical examinations tonight. He pointed out however, that receiving a physical exam in no way obligates a prospect to enlist but merely is being conducted to determine physical fitness.

The new unit will have a minimum strength of 30 enlisted men and three officers. Particularly desired, according to McGee and Allen, are veterans who are trained in maintenance and supply.

In addition, Allen pointed out, discharged veterans may reenlist in this unit and retain the rating which they held at the time of discharge. This would not be possible, the sergeant said, if the unit were an old one and not organizing for the first time.

Both McGee and Allen are former members of C Battery, the other National Guard unit here.

Pair Arrested In Fast Chase

Two local Negroes were arrested last night after a high-speed chase by ABC officers in south Greenville.

Taken into custody and charged with illegal possession of bootleg whiskey and transportation of same were Curtis Hopkins, of 1912-A S. Pitt Street and Alfred Lee Moyer, of 407-B Deck Street.

The two were spotted by ABC officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor in a car on Pitt Street. When the officers turned around the defendants' car sped off but after a chase of several blocks during which time a quantity of the whiskey was thrown from the car, Moyer and Hopkins pulled to the curb and surrendered.

They were taken into custody and placed under 300 dollar bond.

In addition, the officers also arrested Jesse Nobles, Negro, at Cross and Railroad Streets and charged him with illegal possession. He was released under 200 dollar bond.

Three Who Had Vaccine Among N. C. Polio Cases

RALEIGH (AP)—Three persons who had received Salk vaccine were among the 20 cases of poliomyelitis reported in North Carolina last week.

The State Board of Health reported yesterday there was no evidence of paralysis among the three and that the interval from inoculation to onset of the disease ranged from 48 to 79 days.

The board observed this was "so long as to indicate that no association exists between vaccination and illness."

Last week's 20 cases compare with nine for the preceding week. Up to July 16, a total of 72 cases have been reported in North Carolina this year compared with 77 for the same period last year.

Except for Dockingham which reported 14 cases, the outbreaks reported last week were fairly widely scattered.

FILES FOR DIVORCE
MIAMI, Fla. — Russell G. Tonigay, serving 30 years for manslaughter in the death of his swimming daughter, has filed suit for divorce from his wife. He says she no longer loves him. Kathy Tonigay, 6, died in 1953 after diving from a 30-foot board on her father's instructions.

bucks and tell her you need them, she digs them up and hands them over to you without a word.

A husband has a steady sense of belonging to his helpmate and heath but rarely has the gift of putting his feelings into words. Wives often do. An example: When I went tromping off to war in 1942, I kissed my girl goodby and that was it, the same staid farewell millions of men in that time made.

My wife packed a lot of gear for me. She didn't catch up to me until I had seen some danger and considerable death abroad, and had got around to feeling a bit sorry for myself.

When I opened the battered trunk Frances had packed I found in the pajamas a note saying, "Wish I were here," and in the rolled up socks another note, "I miss you."

Now who but a wife would have thought of putting her love in the laundry? What a piece to scribble affectionately.

A wife always has a secret quality.

Confirm Actress Suffers Cancer

DUARTE, Calif. (AP)—After a complete evaluation of actress Suzanne Ball's condition physicians at City of Hope Hospital have announced that she is suffering from a recurrence of cancer.

It was cancer that made it necessary for her right leg to be amputated 18 months ago. The hospital did not announce yesterday where cancer has struck again. Unofficial but authoritative sources have said it is cancer of the lung. She has been hospitalized since July 5.

Regional Summer Conference Of English Teachers Is Begun

Carroll's Words Confused By Re-Write Man

BLUE RIDGE, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Charles P. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, was erroneously quoted Monday by the Associated Press as saying the elimination of public schools is not the answer to North Carolina's segregation problem.

The error developed Monday night in an Asheville newsman's rewriting of notes from a correspondent.

Dr. Carroll also was erroneously quoted as saying, "It is easy to fan the fires of prejudice and become a temporary hero. It is more difficult to be an educational statesman like Aycock (the late Gov. Charles Aycock)."

The statements should have been attributed to State Sen. D. J. Rose of Goldsboro who spoke with Dr. Carroll at the conference of leaders in the North Carolina and National Education Assns. here.

Ballad Singer Is At ECC Tonight

Earle Spicer, America's most recognized ballad singer on college campuses, appears in a program of folk music in Austin Auditorium on the East Carolina College campus Wednesday evening. His program begins at 8:15 o'clock.

Spicer's selections include many of the nation's oldest folk songs and also songs from the light operas.

Native of Nova Scotia, Spicer has become a naturalized American. His 1955 summer schedule has included programs at the Universities of Minnesota and Wisconsin; early this week he was at Pennsylvania State University.

Under sponsorship of the East Carolina College Entertainment Committee, Spicer's recital at the college is open to the public. There is no admission charge. Entertainment Committee Chairman James W. Butler has announced.

Temperature Hit 95 Yesterday

The local U.S. Weather Station reported little over one-tenth of an inch of rain in the Greenville area yesterday evening.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 95. Lowest last night 72, and at 8 a.m. today it was 80.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 88. Lowest that night 73 and at 8 a.m. next day it was 82. One-fourth of an inch of rain that day.

Pastor Is Victim Of Drowning Accident

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The Rev. Claude Creason, 38, pastor of the First Baptist Church near Guilford College, drowned in Kimeville Lake near here yesterday.

Witnesses said he removed his life preserver to lie on it and float in the water.

His body was recovered by local clergyman. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.
