All But Perhaps One Of 58 Aboard Considered Dead

Israeli Airliner Shot Down

ATHENS, Greece (AP)— An Israeli airliner was forced down in flames in Communist Bulgaria today. Greek authorities said Bulgarian antiaircraft gunners shot it down near the Greek border and that all but perhaps one of the 58 persons aboard must be considered dead.

At least three Americans were aboard. The airline said they were Mrs. J. Sheinbaum, a Mrs. Katz and the latter's small daughter. It did not release their home addresses, but said they were en route from London to Tel Aviv.

Israel, alerted that the Constellation had crashed from some cause, said it had no official information that Bulgarians fired on it. A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said the Israeli legation in Sofia has been instructed urgently to investigate circumstances of the crash.

A special Greek government statement, based on observations of soldiers of the 10th Greek army division in Macedonia, said the four-engine, American-built craft of the El Al Airlines was felled north of Petritsiu on a flight from London to Lydda, Israel.

The crash in rugged territory of Bulgaria, a member of the Communists' Warsaw military alliance, came only four days after the windup of the Big Four summit conference to ease world tensions.

The first word that anything was amiss with the Constellation, which took off from Vienna's Schechat Airport at 4 a.m. today on the Vienna-Istanbul leg of its southward journey, was an SOS intercepted by the airline operations office and Rom Monitors. Themessage said the plane was going down in flames.

Then came an announcement by the El Al office in London that the plane, which took off from London last night, was believed to have gone down, afire, near the Greek-Bulgarian border. A crew of 7 and 14 passengers were aboard when the plane left London. Other passengers were picked up in Paris and Vienna.

In Tel Aviv, the airlines general manager said the Constellation made a forced landing in Bulgaria after being fired on by Bulgarian antiaircraft guns.

"At 8:37 a.m. local time the operations branch of El Al Airlines received an SOS from an El Al Constellation on its way from Vienna to Israel from the Bulgarian border," he said.

"Soon afterward a cable from Athens airfield reported the Constellation made a forced landing near Tsibalovo, in Bulgaria near the Greek border, after fire had been opened on it."

Israel is investigating the possibility of sending a commission of inquiry to the scene.

Bulgaria has an air corridor over which certain Western planes are permitted to fly on the Vienna-Istanbul route.

The Greek government's statement did not make clear how its information on the probable casualties was obtained. Presumably the crash was close enough to the border for Greek soldier observers to spot the wreckage through binoculars.

There were eight Britons on the plane.

S. C. Leaf Marts To Open Thursday

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina flue-cured tobacco farmers will start collecting on their 1955 crops tomorrow.

Opening day sales are expected to average around $54 a hundred pounds. The second largest crop on record is in prospect, on the smallest acreage since 1950.

The South Carolina markets holding first sales tomorrow will be Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Hemingway, Kinstree, Lake City, Lamar, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico and Timmonsville.

The opening day price estimate comes from W. Phil Hedrick, marketing specialist for North Carolina. He based the prediction on the opening average of $49.12 on the Georgia-Florida markets last week. There is a $5 difference in the support price for tied tobacco, which is sold on the South Carolina markets.

A South Carolina crop of 174 million pounds on 118,000 acres was predicted by Frank O. Black, statistician of the state - federal crop reporting service. This would be an increase of 26 million pounds, and 18 per cent, over last year's production. The biggest South Carolina crop was 175½ million pounds on 132,000 acres in 1951. This year's indicated yield per acre is 1,475 pounds, compared with the previous high of 1,415 in 1953.

Black said a 174 million pound crop would bring 85 million dollars if prices average the same as last year. Some tobaccomen think prices may be somewhat higher than 1954 over the entire season.

North Carolina's Border Belt markets start their sales next Wednesday. The July estimate of production for the South Carolina and border North Carolina markets was 300,625,000 pounds, about 9 per cent more than last year.

North Carolina border markets are Chadbourn, Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Fairmont, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tabor City and Whiteville.

Georgia-Florida Leaf Prices Gain

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Sales volume was expected to continue heavy today on the 28 Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets. Meanwhile, last minute preparations were under way for the opening of South Carolina markets tomorrow.

The season's highest prices generally were sustained yesterday and the overall quality of the tobacco was described as improved in Georgia-Florida.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported considerable fluctuation in prices by grades but said the general level was about the same as Monday. At that time the beltwide gross average was $49.44 a hundred, up $1.94 from Friday and 32 cents above Thursday's opening.

Grades of leaf and cutters were generally unchanged to $2 lower, the report said. However, most lugs and primings were steady to higher, with gains amounting to $2 to $3 in many instances.

Yesterday's price upsurge sent the average above $50 a hundred at these eight Georgia markets: Baxley $50.90; Blackshear $53.57; Douglas $50.96; Fitzgerald $51.37; Hahira $52.77; Hazlehurst $50.33; Tifton $51.82 and Waycross $53.25.

The average for the 23 Georgia markets was the same as the belt, $49.44, and only two cents below that for the five Florida selling centers.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on a limited number of representative U.S. grades follow:

Leaf, good lemon $58, fair lemon 56, low lemon 51.

Cutters, fair lemon 62, low lemon 60, low orange 58.

Lugs, good lemon 61, good orange 59, fair lemon 55, fair orange 53, low orange 43.

Primings, good lemon 52, fair lemon 47, fair orange 43, low lemon 40, low orange 29.

Nondescript, best thin 13.

Sales Probe?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga) asked the Department of Agriculture today to investigate flue-cured tobacco buying in Georgia and Florida markets.

George forwarded to the department's tobacco branch a telegram from D. R. Tanner, president of the Coffee County Chamber of Commerce, Douglas, Ga., one of the big markets in that area.

Tanner said in the telegram that some tobacco buyers are getting together and offering "entirely unsatisfactory" prices and that nearly one-third of the tobacco sold has gone to one company. He said the situation indicated collusion among buyers for the big companies.

Earlier this week Rep. Blitch (D-Ga) said she had received reports that the buyers for the big companies are withholding bids to force tobacco into government loan program and beat down prices.

Spilled Gasoline Fire Is Put Out

Firemen yesterday were called to Garris-Evans Lumber Co. when spilled gas around a tractor caught fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished and damage was minor.

REPORT GAIN

NEW YORK (AP)—R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. reported today that its net income for six months ended June 30 was $25,135,000 equal to $2.37 a share. This compared with $21,383,000, or $1.99 a share, for the like period last year.

Talbott Severing Ties With Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott told investigating senators today he is getting out of the management consultant firm of Paul B. Mulligan & Co.

Even as Talbott was giving this word to the senators, President Eisenhower was telling a news conference he will decide after the Senate inquiry ends whether Talbott has used his office improperly and should be fired.

Eisenhower said that in general the actions of a public official must be impeccable from the standpoint of both law and ethics, and should avoid giving any impression of wrongdoing.

Talbott told the Senate Investigations subcommittee he decided five days ago to get out of the Mulligan firm from which he has received $132,032 in profits since becoming Air Force secretary in early 1953.

The air secretary said he has already written his partner, Mulligan saying he is taking legal steps to divest himself of his role in the partnership.

It was Talbott's partnership in the firm which led to the hearings by the subcommittee on the propriety and legality of Talbott's role in the private business enterprise.

The Mulligan firm is a management engineering concern. It specializes in instructing businesses on ways to cut costs in record keeping and clerical hire.

Some Mulligan clients have government contracts.

Talbott told the committee he is convinced he had done nothing illegal or unethical in connection with the company but that he now realizes he was "mistaken" in allowing his Pentagon office to be used for letter writing dealing with Mulligan activities.

"My greatest concern is the Air Force," Talbott said. "Rather than injure the Air Force, I would divest myself of my interests 10 times over."

Therefore, he said, he decided on July 22 to write Mulligan that he had "decided to dissolve our partnership."

Talbott had a 50-50 interest with Mulligan in the firm.

Talbott said he wrote the letter after an earlier appearance before the subcommittee in which he said he would give up his partnership if the senators thought he should do so.

The reason he hadn't mentioned his letter before, Talbott said, was because he didn't want to create the impression he was trying to "cut short" the hearings.

Talbott said that he has been so busy as air secretary he has not had much time to examine the Mulligan company affairs.

He said he didn't mean this to appear to be a reflection on Mulligan.

But, he said, "in the past two and a half years, I don't believe I have devoted 2½ days to the Mulligan Company."

Talbott said nearly all the firm's activities have been directed by Mulligan ever since Talbott became air secretary.

Eisenhower indicated that what decision he makes about Talbott will turn on ethical considerations.

Eisenhower Believes He Would OK Aerial Check

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he believes he would allow peaceful foreign planes to fly over any area of the United States to carry out his Geneva proposal for exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection.

The Eisenhower proposal was made at the Geneva summit meeting, contingent on agreement by Russia to allow the same inspection and provide the same full information this country would give.

At a news conference at which Eisenhower again stressed gains at Geneva but minimized the hope of any new era of peace right now, he also touched on these subjects:

TALBOTT—In connection with a Senate inquiry into the business affairs of Secretary of the Air Force Talbott, Eisenhower said he personally will handle the matter eventually, but his feeling is one of suspended animation.

He said a question of ethics — rather than any illegal activity— is involved and the determination of Talbott's future will be on a basis of ethics.

Eisenhower said he does not believe any man can hold public office merely because he is not guilty of any illegal act.

RED CHINA — The President said he cannot guess now as to the possibility of a U. S.-Red China meeting on the foreign ministers level. What the next step will be after next week's Geneva conference between the two countries on the ambassadors level, he said he is not sure.

DIXON-YATES — Eisenhower disclosed that former Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, who initiated the controversial project, will go before Congress to tell complete details of the matter.

The President said he is sure that Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission has given the entire story of the role played by Sherman Adams, No. 1 aide to Eisenhower.

He said Adams told a Senate Investigating subcommittee he could add nothing to Armstrong's story, and that is all there is to it.

Armstrong told the senators that Adams suggested a delay in an SEC hearing on Dixon-Yates financing to give government lawyers time to decide whether to get into the case. Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) has suggested the delay was sought to prevent Congress from learning about the activities of Adolphe Wenzell, New York investment banker, in the Dixon-Yates arrangements. An appropriation for Dixon-Yates was up in Congress at the time.

Reserves—to a question whether he is satisfied with the compromise military reserves bill dispatched to him yesterday by Congress, Eisenhower replied with a negative. At least one or two items, he said, strike him as having been thoughtlessly handled. He mentioned one item, a differential in pay, but said he would have to study the bill.

Ceremonies Mark Start Of High School Construction

Ground Broken For New School

By EDWINA HAYMES
Reflector Staff Writer

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new Greenville High School building were held here this morning.

On hand for the event were members of the City Council, the County Board of Commissioners, and the city and county school boards. Also present were members of the faculty of the city schools, former members of the school boards, representatives from East Carolina College, members of the city Parent-Teacher Associations, members of the Chamber of Commerce and interested citizens.

Ground for the new $822,855 high school structure was officially broken by City School Superintendent J. H. Rose, Mayor W. L. Whedbee, Joseph M. Taft, vice chairman of the City School Board, and Hal Edwards, president of the high school's student government association.

Invocation was offered by the Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church.

The ceremonies were televised and will be presented over WNCT tonight at 6:25.

According to an agreement between the City School Board and W. G. Dunn, general contractor for the building, the high school should be completed by November, 1956.

The building, located across from the Elm Street Park, will be a fireproof brick structure. Facilities will include 15 regular classrooms, three science classrooms, two home economics classrooms, three rooms for the commerce department, two and one-half band rooms, two vocal music rooms, a library, kitchen and cafeteria, gymnasium and offices.

Because bids on the building ran higher than was anticipated, construction of the auditorium is being omitted for the present. The school is planned for future expansion and additional wings may be added until there are 50 classrooms with accommodations for 1,500 students.

State Utilities Board Hearing Set For Aug. 23

Further hearings on Vanceboro charges of poor electrical service from Greenville Utilities have been set for August 23 by the State Utilities Commission.

That session is expected to be taken up largely with rebuttal testimony by the local utilities although Vanceboro attorneys indicated at the end of the last session on June 30 that they still had additional evidence to offer.

Around 100 residents of Vanceboro and the surrounding area appeared at the June 30 formal hearing and a number of them testified that service from Greenville is inadequate.

Electrical customers of Greenville Utilities in the Vanceboro area originally filed a petition with the State commission charging the local utilities with furnishing poor service on March 16.

A hearing was set for April 16 and, after several postponements, the first hearing was finally held last month.

Greenville attorneys, R. B. Lee and L. G. Cooper are expected to attempt to show that service has been constant for the complaining customers and power failures have been held to a minimum.

The hearings are set to begin at 10 a.m. in Raleigh.

Vance Perkins of the County Board of Commissioners, chairman of the local welfare board, and Vernon Cox of Winterville, representing the State Board of Public Welfare, and vice-chairman of the Pitt board.

Flags Of Big Four Come Down In Vienna

Austria Independent Today

VIENNA (AP)— After seven years of Nazi rule and ten of Allied occupation, Austria finally became a free and independent nation today.

With the depositing of France's ratification of the Austria treaty in Moscow, the four-power regime over Austria came to an end.

The United States, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union had already deposited their ratification documents at the Kremlin.

The capital was a sea of Austrian flags. Thousands gathered in front of the Allied Council building in Vienna's Stalin Square watched the flags of the Big Four come down.

Prior to the flag ceremony, the four high commissioners met for the last time in a formal meeting and adopted a resolution dissolving their council and ending the occupation. All four commissioners wished the Austrian nation well.

One final big step remained for the Big Four — withdrawal of their occupation forces within 90 days, or by the end of October. Part of the 70,000 troops already have pulled out.

"The final remains of the walls which separated Austria from its freedom have now fallen," President Theodor Koerner said in a broadcast to the nation, adding:

"With a unanimity which gives just cause for new hopes of the establishment of peace in the world the great powers of the world have leveled the road for the just solution of a much disputed problem."

Koerner also referred to Austria's neutrality pledge, stating, "We Austrians will keep our promise never to take part in a fight other than the battle for peace and justice. Bitter experience has taught us to guard independence and freedom as our highest treasures."

But the day had a sad note for local radio fans. It marked the closing of their favorite station the American-controlled network. Newspaper polls showed about 80 per cent of the Viennese preferred the U.S.-type fare of quiz shows, musicals and jazz recordings. The two stations of the government broadcast system said they would take over some of the most popular American shows.

The first statesmen to congratulate Austria on winning back her freedom were President Eisenhower and French Premier Faure.

WENT ON A TOOT

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Hiram Walker's steam whistle went out on a toot last night. The distillery whistle was short-circuited. First it began hiccuping. Fifteen seconds of noise, 15 of silence. A little later it jammed completely and blew steadily for five minutes. Then somebody corked it up.

Fate Of Missing Bank Funds Still A Mystery

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) —What happenel to the $678,000?

That's question No. 1 today in Twentynine Palms, an oasis where the financial well has run dry.

The doors of Joshua National Bank, the only banking facility in 50 miles, have been closed by the federal government, and the bank's vice president and chief cashier, Roscoe D Coon, 46, is in San Diego County Jail.

Bank examiners closed the doors Monday when an audit showed $687,000 missing. Coon, owner of a racing stable, was arrested at the Del Mar race track on a federal embezzlement charge. He is accused of keeping $10,000 ordered from the Federal Reserve Bank in Los Angeles for deposit to the Joshua National.

Coon yesterday sought to have his case transferred from San Diego to Los Angeles, but the request was denied. His preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 19 and he was returned to jail in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Other officials of the Twentynine Palms bank said that the deposits were insured for up to $10,000 by the government and that not more than a dozen depositors had accounts over that amount. The little desert town's big trouble is doing business without a bank.

A Riverside bank, with a branch in Banning, 50 miles distant, is seeking government permission to establish another branch in Twentynine Palms.

House Leaders Gird For Fight Over Rival Highway Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders marshaled forces for a showdown today in the fight over rival Democratic and Republican plans for a multibillion-dollar road-building program.

Democratic chiefs displayed cautious optimism that President Eisenhower's proposal to raise highway construction money through long-term bonds would go down to defeat.

That would still leave a big question mark as to whether the Democratic-sponsored bill would pass. It calls for $12,423,000,000 in added automotive taxes over the next 16 years.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex) said the with-taxes bill "is in danger" because a lot of House members "would like to put it over to January."

But Rep Steed (D-Okla) reported "a growing feeling" among Democrats in favor of at least sending the measure to the Senate.

The Senate has already passed a highway bill with no financing provision. Steed hoped some of the disputed tax provisions could be "straightened out" in a House-Senate compromise.

Yesterday, by a 178-89 standing vote, the House knocked down a substitute proposed by Rep. T. A. Thompson (D-La) for both the Democratic and Republican bills. It called for a more modest stepup in federal spending and no new financing to pay for it.

That cleared the decks for a vote today on the Eisenhower program, contained in a measure offered by Rep. Dondero (R-Mich).

The GOP measure proposes about 38½ billion dollars in federal-state road building over 10 years. The federal outlay would be 31 billions, including 25 billions for the 40,000-mile interstate superhighway system.

The Democratic bill, offered by Rep. Fallon (D-Md) and approved by the House Public Works Committee, provides for about 50 billion dollars of federal-state spending over 13 years. That would include 36½ billion dollars in federal funds, of which 24 billions would be for the superhighways.

The key difference is in financing:

Eisenhower wants a federal highway corporation set up to raise 21 billion dollars worth of 30-year bonds. The bonds would not be calculated in the federal debt. The Republicans say they can be paid off from income from existing automotive taxes as the country's prosperity grows.

The Fallon bill takes a "pay-as-you-go" approach with $9,281,000,000 to be brought in over 16 years through a boost from 2 to 3 cents a gallon in the federal gasoline tax. The other tax increases would be mainly on diesel fuel and on truck-size tires, tubes and camelback for making larger retread tires.

Senator George Renews Appeal For Early Red China Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) renewed today his call for an early foreign ministers' conference with Communist China—the time for which Secretary of State Dulles says has not arrived.

George, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, expressed surprise at Dulles' news conference announcement yesterday that U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson will sound out his Red Chinese counterpart at Geneva next week on the Peiping government's attitude toward a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

George said he has no objection to such probings but that he doesn't think any substantial progress will be made toward relieving Far Eastern tensions until Dulles sits down with Chou En-lai, Communist China's premier and foreign minister.

"In my opinion," George told reporters, "the only talks that will be profitable will be those that take place in direct contacts with Chou En-lai and other high officials of their government. I am satisfied in my own mind that such a conference will be held within a reasonable length of time."

Dulles said Johnson will seek to find out if Red China is prepared to abandon the use or threat of force to achieve its objectives and whether it woud be willing to accept a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait. There have been sporadic clashes there with the Nationalist forces.

Dulles indicated these conditions must be met before the United States will agree to a higher level session. This country does not negotiate with a pistol at its head, he said.

George said he hadn't thought that Johnson's conversations would cover anything but the repatriation of Americans held in China and of Chinese in this country who want to return home, plus other issues directly affecting the two countries.

"I did not think the meeting in Geneva would touch on any question affecting Formosa, in which the Chinese Nationalists are concerned," he said.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, made it plain in a separate interview he doesn't believe Johnson will be empowered to do more than assess and report Red China's general attitude toward a possible Far Eastern settlement.

"Congress has been given categorical assurance that there will be no negotiations affecting the sovereignty or population of any friendly people without the participation of those people," he said.

"It seems to me that anything relating to Formosa, Quemoy and Matsu, along with the Nationalist naval blockade of the coast, falls into that category because it affects the sovereignty of the Republic of China.

"Therefore I do not believe those issues will be brought to any negotiated settlement without the active participation of the Nationalists."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) told the Senate yesterday he fears there is in operation "a carefully prepared plan for appeasing Red China." He said he doesn't know but suspects that the Far Eastern situation was brought up informally at the Big Four Geneva meeting.

Young Wife Has Moved Home 5,000 Miles

By FRANK TIFFANY

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP)—Blue-eyed, auburn-haired Emilie Turney has just finished the task of moving her household—some 5,000 miles.

Emilie is an Army wife whose husband is among the thousands of soldiers participating on Operation Gyroscope. In this gigantic move, 9,000 members of the 1st Infantry Division in Germany are trading places with the 10th Division at Ft. Riley.

The vanguard of the 1st Division arrived here Monday.

Today Emilie, her two children and her husband, C.W.O. Vale Turney, are established in a rented house in nearby Junction City—and already are talking about buying a home of their own.

Emilie's task of setting up a new household in the United States has an added complication. In addition to her household duties and caring for her 16-month-old daughter Patricia and 4-month-old son Billy, she has a language barrier.

A German girl, she speaks and understands a little English but her husband still must interpret fast-moving conversation for her.

She loves the supermarket. "It's good fine. You can buy anything there," she said.

She added that over here "everything's bigger — the shops, the cafes—but the service is not equal to Germany. A young man there has an apprenticeship — studies three years to be a waiter. Dresses cost less here, but they're made better in Germany, I think."

With her husband's coaching plus special classes at Ft. Riley to help the wives adjust to life in America, the Turneys figure the language problem will be solved shortly.

Unmarried soldiers had few problems. They went to barracks to live.

Almost 200 enlisted men and officers, plus 31 dependents, were in the group arriving Monday. Two smaller advance units came earlier. The movement will continue into December.

After the delicious meal the honored guests received china and crystal in their chosen patterns.

The other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jake Westbrook, Mr. Roy Wilson of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Taylor, Dr. Joseph Ward, Mr. Neo Everett of Robersonville, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eason Lilley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winslow, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maples, all of Williamston.

Green-Griffin Vows Pledged In Double Ring Ceremony

ROBERSONVILLE—The marriage of Miss Diantha Elizabeth Griffin and William Marion Greene was solemnized in a formal candlelight service in the First Christian Church in Williamston Saturday afternoon at 5:30. The Rev. John L. Goff officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Darrell Taylor, organist, and Miss Janice Manning, soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Orlando Griffin of Williamston and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lafayette Greene Sr. of Robersonville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza and lace with the bodice designed with very short sleeves and a low-cut bertha of princess lace trimmed with seed pearls. The bouffant skirt had panels of lace ending in a circular train. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a cloche of seed pearls. She wore matching mitts and carried a bouquet centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Frank Hill of Greensboro, her sister's maid of honor, wore blue crystalette mauve with princess lines and a square neck. She wore a matching headpiece with a face veil and carried a cascade bouquet of lillies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sallie Roberson, cousin of the bride, Miss Harriet Peel, Miss Betsy Horton of Williamston, Mrs. Billy Brown of Greenville, sister of the groom, and Mrs. John Jones of Hickory.

Their dresses were similar to that of the matron of honor's and their rubrum lily bouquets were identical.

The bridegroom's father was best man. W. O. Griffin, brother of the bride, Claude L. Greene Jr. of Robersonville, Dick Greene of Raleigh, brothers of the bridegroom, Frederick Bynum of Edenton, Irving Smith and William Taylor of Robersonville served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Griffin chose a pink lace, a matching hat and white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a mauve chiffon and silk lace dress and an irridescent sequin hat which complemented the decorations on her beautiful dress. They had orchid corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

For traveling the bride changed to a black and white dress with a black velvet collar. With this she wore a black velvet hat and patent leather accessories. She removed the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Greene, a 1955 graduate of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, will teach in Jamesville Elementary School.

In July the bridegroom received his diploma from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The young couple will make their home in the Barnhill apartment in Robersonville until Mr. Greene enters the military service.

New Military Reserve Bill Affects Most U. S. Youths

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON, (AP)—This is an ABC on the military reserve bill just passed by Congress to build up a pool of trained men. President Eisenhower is expected to sign it into law shortly. It will go into effect at that moment.

First look at the reserve program as it stands under a law passed in 1951.

Under that law everyone discharged from the armed forces, unless he served eight years, must then go into the reserves so that his total active and reserve service is eight years.

There are three kinds of reserves:

1. Ready reservists who train. They drill one night a week, from 12 to 48 weeks a year, and spend 17 days a year in camp. They get paid according to rank, for the days and nights they drill.

2. Ready reservists who don't do any training. They get no pay.

3. Standby reserves. They, like the second group of ready reservists, do no drilling.

Both groups of ready reservists, in case of war, would be called into active service ahead of the standby reserves. Who, under present law, goes into the ready reserves and into the standby reserves?

1. Anyone with less than five years in the armed forces must, upon his discharge, go into the ready reserves. But whether or not he takes reserve training is voluntary. If he doesn't take the reserve training, he must stay in the ready reserves until his eight-year obligation is up.

2. Anyone who has had five years in the armed forces, or a total of five in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, can ask for a transfer into the last-to-be-called standby reserves until his eight years are up.

That's the way it is now. It will remain that way for all those who enter the armed forces before Eisenhower signs the new bill: they have a total obligation of eight years on active service and in the reserves.

For those who enlist or are drafted after the new bill becomes a law, the total obligation will be six years instead of eight.

They will have to put in combined service of five years in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, and one year in the standby reserves.

They won't have a choice — as exists now — of choosing to go into the nontraining ready reserves when they get out of the armed forces. They'll have to go into ready reserve training.

Examples: Jones gets out of the Army after two years' service. He must go into the trained reserves for three years. Then for another year he is in the standby reserves.

Congress made a special provision for men already in the armed forces. When they get out, since they're covered by the old law, they can choose to go into the nontraining ready reserves.

But Congress said the government — in limited numbers and only until July 1957 — could offer them this deal, which they could take or reject:

A man in active service for 12 months can be discharged provided he agrees to to into the trained ready reserves for a period which, when added to his active service, would total four years. Then, since under the old law he still has an eight-year obligation, he could serve his remaining four as a standby.

Or a man who has filled out his enlistment or draft term, if he volunteers to go into the trained ready reserve, will have to serve only one year in that group. Then he'd serve out the rest of his eight-year obligation as a standby.

This is what the new law will also do — but again only for a limited number — for predraft youths under 18½:

They can become exempt from the draft by volunteering for special training of three to six months, followed by 7½ years in the trained ready reserves.

A high school student who volunteered for the trained ready reserves under this arrangement could defer his required active training until he graduated or reached 20. Meanwhile, he'd be credited for the ready reserve drills he attended.

Under present law a youth who joins the National Guard before he's 18½ can avoid the draft, provided he agrees to stay in the Guard until he's 28. Under the new law he can shorten his term in the Guard to eight years by volunteering for three to six months of active training at some armed force post.

Hear Few Cases In County Court

A Negro laborer from Bethel was sentenced to six months in jail after being found guilty of larceny in County Court here yesterday.

Jesse James Clark, 25, received the sentence in one of the lightest county court dockets this year.

In other cases, Frank Harris, 57, Negro, of Route 4, was found guilty on charges of no operator's license, public drunkenness and resisting arrest.

He was fined 25 dollars and cost after the court heard his testimony and that of State Highway Patrolman D. L. Minshew.

In the only other case, Ludell Moore was found not guilty on a worthless check charge.

Over $5 Million Tax Liens Filed On Ex-Gambler

FREEHOLD, N. J. (AP)—Gambler Frank Erickson has been slapped with federal income tax liens totaling more than five million dollars.

The liens, filed yesterday by the Brooklyn office of the Internal Revenue Service, were recorded here and in New Orleans.

Erickson, onetime kingpin bookmaker, has served five months in Milan, Mich., federal penitentiary for income tax evasion, and spent 10 months in New Jersey State Prison for bookmaking and conspiracy.

Since his release from the Michigan penitentiary last May, Erickson has led a quiet life in New York.

Details of the government's claim were withheld. One lien lists unpaid taxes of $1,801,415 on 1947 income. A second, against Erickson and his wife Amelia, lists nonpayment of taxes of $3,212,010 for the three-year period of 1948-1950.

Showings will be in the morning at 9:30, 10:00, 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock. Employers will be requested to arrange for all their employes to see the picture at one of the four showings.

The film was produced by Protective Films, Inc. of New York.

Pastor On Trial By His Synod; Heresy Charged

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pastor of a small-town Lutheran Church accused of heresy by his synod acted as his own counsel today as he faced a trial board of the Northwest Synod, United Lutheran Church in America.

The Rev. George P. Crist Jr., 31, is charged with "adulterating the word of God" and mixing his own "opinions and surmises" with the Scriptures. The trial is the first in the church's 65-year history and is closed to the public and press.

Crist is pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Durham, in nearby Waukesha County. He has headed the 225-member congregation for six years.

The charges, made public by him, spell out these accusations:

That he has denied Jesus Christ was actually resurrected from the dead or that he was assumed bodily into heaven, that he denied Jesus was actually born of virgin birth or that Jesus performed all the miracles with which a literal interpretation of the Bible credits him, and that he has abandoned fundamental principles of scriptural interpretations which guided Martin Luther in the Reformation.

"It is true that I hold these views," he said. "This is not simply a matter of interpretation of the Bible, although that is involved. There is a truth behind the Bible.

"As far as Jesus is concerned, it is not the facts about Him which are important, but Jesus himself. Belief in Jesus Christ does not rest on the nature of His birth.

"One does not believe in Him because he was born of a virgin, because He arose from the dead or because He worked miracles. Belief is a matter of accepting as true the claims that He made, not about himself, but about the meaning of life."

The charges against Pastor Crist were returned June 30 by a five-member committee that investigated the accusations against him.

Crist was born in Chicago and is a graduate of Northwestern Lutheran Seminary at Minneapolis. He lives with his wife Evelyn and their three children in a home adjoining the church.

200 Prisoners Riot In Jail; Costly Damage

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—More than 200 prisoners rioted for nearly three hours last night at the Bexar County Jail.

The riot came to an end shortly before midnight after promises were made that no one would be punished. A reinforced crew of jailers stood guard through the night.

Some prisoners claimed insufficient food caused the disturbance.

Nobody was seriously injured but damage done to the fourth and fifth floors of the jail was extensive. Sheriff's officers said some of the rioting prisoners suffered "bumps and cuts." None of the scores of officers who tried to quell the riot was reported hurt.

Some jailers who tried to stop the disturbance with fire hose had the hose taken from them and were themselves driven from the floor with the high-pressure torrents.

Plumbing was ripped from the walls. Prisoners hooted and catcalled at officers.

"Everything was soaked," one officer said.

Driver Cited In Traffic Mishap

A 17-year-old Greenville youth has been cited by police for following too close as the result of an auto accident near the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Ficklen Streets yesterday afternoon.

Kirby P. Branch, 17, of 2601 S. Dickinson Avenue was cited by investigating officers H. E. Wooten and R. B. Elks after the wreck.

No one was injured. Police listed the driver of the other vehicle as Kelly Robert Rowe, 56, of 2113 E. Fifth Street.

Damage was estimated at 250 dollars.

Musical Group Entertains Club

A musical group from the summer music camp at East Carolina College entertained Greenville Rotarians at their meeting here Monday night.

The musical program consisted of a saxaphone solo by Miss Perry Pike, a 14-year-old Sumpter, S. C., student who last year won the South Carolina alto saxaphone competition. Also participating in the music program was a trombone quartet composed of Jack Pindell of Raleigh, Ben McHorney, Washington, Henry McFayden of Raleigh and James Myrick of Roanoke Rapids.

The group was under the direction of Herbert Carter of the East Carolina music faculty. Carter told the Rotarians the summer music camp at ECC this year had 260 students from the Carolinas and Virginia. That number is approximately 60 more than attended the first music camp for high school students at ECC last year.

The schedule followed by these special music students, Carter explained, is similar to that of other summer camps. The students live in dormitories and follow a daily schedule of rehearsals, classes, recreation periods and social functions.

How Many More Will Pitt Kill In '55

July has been a staggering month for Pitt County's highway accident record. It has been a month which will long stand out as one of the worst in Pitt's history in terms of highway fatalities.

Four days remain in the month, and already in July six persons have met death on roads of the county. Five persons met death in Pitt's most tragic of July 4th holiday week-ends. Sunday another victim of the county's roads was claimed.

So far in 1955 nine people have been killed on the highways of Pitt County. That is only one less than was killed during the 12 months of last year. Unless there is a sharp upswing in the safety record of Pitt, 1955 will prove one of the worst years on record for highway fatalities in the county.

To be sure there are other counties in North Carolina which have worse records for the first seven months of 1955 than Pitt. But these are few in comparison with the number of counties whose highway safety records are much better than Pitt's so far this year.

Law enforcement officers, regardless of their untiring efforts, can not prevent highway deaths, injuries and accidents. If Pitt is to hold down its number of highway deaths for the remainder of the year—when normally the accident rate is higher—it is going to take full cooperation on the part of the drivers throughout the county. The drivers in the final analysis, are the ones who make a county's highway safety good or bad. By extreme caution and extra care to abide by traffic regulations, motorists in any given county can produce an excellent safety record. But in a few careless moments on the part of a few drivers, a good safety record can be shattered beyond repair.

It is not enough for a driver merely to watch his own handling of a car. He must likewise watch out for the other fellow who perhaps is not as cautious.

He Shares Pitt's Concern But For Different Reason

It should be consoling at least to the great tobacco producing county of Pitt to note that someone outside this tobacco section is grieved by the fact so many people have given up smoking entirely.

Admittedly the editorial writer of the Roanoke (Va.) Times was not concerned about the abstainers from cigarettes for the same reason most Pitt County tobacco producers are, but we thought it would be nice to pass along what he had to say.

"It grieves us no little to learn that an estimated 1½ million Americans who were smoking cigarettes have quit entirely within the last 18 months. Up until now we had taken in stride all this talk about giving up smoking.

"Secretly, we had said to ourselves when friends announced with great smugness and superiority that they no longer smoked: 'Bah! Humbug! You'll be smoking again in two weeks.'

"Now comes the government with word that all these others have given up smoking entirely. It's that word 'entirely' that bothers us. We have given up smoking many times, most frequently on a Sunday morning, but never, never 'entirely.'

"In the face of these facts, an inveterate cigarette smoker begins to lose faith in himself. Are 1½ million Americans more strong-willed than we? Impossible! Still 'Big Brother' says so and who can argue with 'Big Brother?'

"Bah! Who wants to live to a ripe old age anyway?"

Beginning Of New School Important Day For City

Today marks the beginning of the transition of Greenville's new high school from paper to steel and concrete. It is a day local school officials and citizens have long looked forward to. It is a day which puts us one step closer to the time when the new facility can be utilized by the youth of Greenville to further their education.

Greenville has talked and planned for a new high school for many years. There have been disappointments and delays, but perhaps now most of these are behind us. Before World War II the city was talking in terms of a new high school. Bonds were voted to finance the facility, but before work could be done the war years were upon us and school construction had to be halted. By the end of World War II the pressing need of elementary school facilities to accommodate the bumper crop of war youngsters had to take precedence over the need for a high school. The money provided for schools at the beginning of the war had to be put into elementary facilities. So did a major part of the two and one-half million dollars in school bonds voted by the citizens of Greenville several years ago.

With the elementary school facilities much improved, school officials once again turned to the matter of the high school. It will be at least 18 months and probably two years yet before the new high school will be ready for occupancy. The intervening school terms may bring a number of problems in housing the growing number of high school students in Greenville. With the beginning of construction today on the new high school, however, we will at least be able to see progress in more concrete terms.

This marks an important day for Greenville schools. It will be eclipsed only by the day when the new high school is completed and opened to students.

Continuous Problem In Fishing Industry

By LYNN NISBET

PROBLEMS — Regulation of the commercial fishing business presents continuing problems, new ones arising as rapidly as probable solution for others are found. Every meeting of the Board of Conservation and Development has to deal with situations, and almost every time public hearings are held. These questions are particularly important at the summer meeting in Morehead City.

The old Fisheries Commission was a major component which went into formation of the Department of Conservation and Development 30 years ago. For a long time, in fact until about 1950, the Division of Commercial Fisheries which maintains headquarters in Morehead City was practically autonomous in its budgeting and law enforcement activities, although technically under similar Raleigh supervision as other activities in the C&D department.

It is difficult for the fishermen, especially the oldtimers, to recognize the change in administrative policy. They cannot understand why the Commissioner or the commercial fisheries committee cannot adopt or rescind regulations on the spot. And the fishermen do not hesitate to express their opinions, as was demonstrated in a two and a half hour committee session Saturday afternoon, preliminary to the regular Board meeting Monday and Tuesday.

The problems are continuing and recurring because conditions change more rapidly in this business than in most others. No permanent solutions are possible for the same reason. There were two items on the agenda this year which have not claimed attention before. Crab pots are relatively new in North Carolina waters; and there has not been previously needed specific regulations about long haul and purse nets in the open waters of the Chowan and Albemarle sound.

FEW FACTS — The newness of the proulem and the absence of authoritative information on probable value or menace did not prevent numerous and long expressions of opinion—generally given as fact. These fisheries hearings represent about the purest examples of pure democracy and freedom of speech to be found in the state.

Most of the fishermen seemed satisfied with committee decision to defer action on the crab pots matter until further information can be gathered and studied.

The basic question, which nobody could answer, in the purse and haul net matter was: Why should these operations be permitted all the year when there are long closed seasons for the use of pound nets? The pound netters contended if "they can fish, we ought to be allowed to operate." There is also conflicting authority of the commercial and sport fishing agencies. A formal public hearing will be scheduled in the Edenton area soon on this matter. In both instances the desire of the committee was to get facts before acting.

Another heated argument developed over the matter of shrimpers and other fishermen selling undersize food fish for scrap to go into dog food or fertilizer. One group claimed that the inevitable result of trawling or net fishing is to catch a lot of little fish. To waste them instead of channeling them into industrial use is unsound conservation practice, and runs afoul the present program for developing industry in North Carolina. The other side of the argument is that some shrimpers and trawlers when they fail to make a profitable catch are tempted to deliberately raid schools of little food fish because of the profitable market offered. It is a safe bet that a lot more will be heard about this phase of the overall problem.

MAIN TROUBLE — The main trouble, and the cause of most of the controversies, is simply that shrimp and fin fish are becoming scarcer along the coast, the fishermen find it more and more difficult to make a living out of their ancestral occupation along traditional lines. While fish are scarcer, catches smaller, the investment in boats, nets and other equipment has pyramided. Many fishermen are desperatley seeking new ways to earn a livelihood, while some are just as diligently seeking to prevent encroachment of new methods and gadgets which disrupt the time honored practices.

An effort toward aiding the industry is being made by the employment of Bill Ellison, recently assigned to the job of promoting the processing of seafood products and other industries allied to commercial fishing. Here comes the question of how far manufacturing plants should be allowed to go in buying undersize food fish, even though already dead and which he otherwise wasted and would pollute the waters if dumped overboard.

The conservation end of the department's program calls for outlawing the sale of undersize food fish. The development end calls for utilizing and processing for good purpose what otherwise might be wasted.

Attendance at one of these fisheries hearing quickly dispels the idea that fishing is fun for everybody. It is deadly serious work, life and death work, for hundreds of North Carolinians living along the coast.

Other Editors Are Saying.... George, 'Another Vandenburg'

(Greensboro Daily News)

In suggesting a "face to face" meeting between U.S diplomats and the Chinese Communists Senator Walter George of Georgia again demonstrates his practicality and breadth of vision as leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

It was Senator George who championed Sir Winston Churchill's suggestion for a "summit" meeting between the Western democracies and Russia. He made that idea eminently respectable in Washington. When George pushed the conference, the Knowland-Bridges clique came meekly along, it had no other place to go.

Senator George's statesmanship adds impact to the widely-expressed theory that U.S foreign policy has a much better chance for success with a moderate Eisenhower Republican in the White House and a responsible Democratic majority in Congress. Then the Wild Men of the Middle West are bridled. Bipartisanship in foreign policy flowers as once it did in the days of Senator Vandenburg (of a far different midwestern school) and the opportunity for strong U.S. world leadership grows.

One definite result of the Geneva Conference, confirmed by all who watched the cordiality at the summit was the emergence of President Eisenhower as an off-beat diplomat of surprising effectiveness. The achievement of the conference lay, as James Reston put it, "in the field not of specifics but of imponderables." While little or no progress was discerned in resolving the differences between East and West on German unification and disarmaments, the impact of President Eisenhower's "will for peace" was marked and powerful. It destroyed a Russian propaganda theme, even if it brought no specific agreements, only a determination to meet again this Fall on the secondary level.

Senator George's proposal for a Far Eastern conference, on the foreign minister level, holds promise that the same kind of persona contact may be a crucible in easing Asian tensions. The hope for agreements again lies more in the field of imponderables than specifics. Nobody expects Red China to give up her claims to Formosa any more than one expects the United States to withdraw its fleet to other Pacific bastions.

But the possible value of such a conference lies in the chance for personal evaluation of the principals and the interminglings of men of diverse viewpoints. Nobody can foresee what the establishment of these personal contacts may hold for the future.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

ELK GROVE, CALIF., CITIZEN: "With the completion of the 10 millionth home in the United States since 1945, it is safe to say that America has built more homes in a decade than any other country in history. . . It illustrates how the many cogs in the free enterprise machine work in harmony, for building construction is not merely a matter of putting materials together. Back of the construction industry is the vast army of producers and suppliers, along with the banks and other financial institutions, which gather individual savings and mobilize them for building and other useful purposes."

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR. "Automation does not necessarily mean fewer jobs. It means greater production by more skilled and better trained workers. It also should mean a higher standard of living for the workers who can qualify as the new operatives as well as to the public generally through greater production."

When Congress Adjourns

Somebody Told Me

Floundering Is Never 'Dull'

If you like to fish, I suppose any kind of fishing is fun. At this point it's hard for me to say whether I prefer trolling for blues and kings or floundering. Saturday night was my first whirl at floundering.

Some wade while floundering but Elmo Dupree and I used a special boat, equipped with a bracket to hold the gasoline lantern at the bow. As the front man in the boat stands ready with his gig, the back man slowly stakes the boat along. The course of the boats is just off shore, about as close in as you can be.

Pretty soon you'll begin to see prints in the sand, where the flounder has been lying. Then you'll see the flounder and give him the gig.

If any kind of fishing never has a dull moment, this is it. The bottom of the river becomes an aquarium, for the simple reason that the lantern reveals all. Small fish, an occasional mullet, crabs, gar fish—there's always something to see. And of course the intent search for the flounder.

Those who know say that the best floundering comes after midnight. We tried it early, came home with plenty to eat but no big catch.

Since the Republican administration took over in January 1953, the government's Commodity Price Index has varied less than three-tenths of one per cent, and the value of the dollar less than one-fifth of a cent.

This is not to say that the Republicans have not made plenty of serious blunders, but in contrast to the belief in this area by some the Republicans would ruin us, it's a pretty good record.

It seems that SWL's are on the increase. SWL's, short-wave-listeners, simply listen to amateur radio operators and send them reports on their signals, hoping to get a QSL card in return.

The QSL card is printed with station call letters and used for confirming contacts. So the SWL's are collecting QSL's.

In foreign countries there are plenty of listeners, too. I have received cards from Italy, Sweden, England, Netherlands and Germany. It's a hobby within itself.

And I thank you.

Mornings Are For The Men

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP—Curbstone reflections of a pavement Plato:

What is a man's time of day — and a woman's time of day? When do they feel most important?

Everybody knows that weather affects people and they talk about it a lot but very little has been done about it. But little has been written about the way different periods of a single day affect the contrary sexes.

My theory is that, basically, morning is a masculine time — and that evening is a woman's hour.

Right or wrong here's the idea:

To a woman morning is duty. . .

Noon to man is morning.

To a woman morning is duty. taking care of the baby. . .bringing her husband tea in bed does not every wife do this still?, then routing him out and serving him a hot meal and sending him off to his daily chores.

Morning is twilight to a wife. This done, she crawls back into the vacated bed space left by her husband and dozes in the male warmth he's left — sleepily alert for the baby's awakening movement or dawning cry.

But once he is a—foot and pawed the sleep out of his eyes, morning is a magnificent adventureland for a man. It's his time, his prime.

He steps out his front door. . . and back through 20 centuries, or 30 hundred centuries.

He lifts his nose and tones the air like a dog. His shoes touch the earth and he feels the crunch up to his temples. He is miraculously aware, every sense is honed he is a fluid part of the morning. Nature has given him the pep pill she thinks he should have at the time she thinks is best for him — and, well, she's still the doctor.

It was night only so soon ago, the last lonely depths of night when people who maybe once counted sheep to go asleep now count their breaths to stay alive . . .and become weary, and cease to count, and do not count again ever.

The temperature falls. A coolness spreads. Usually a breeze springs up, and whatever it touches it stirs to the limit of being. To leaf or man it says, "Now is the time to arise and move."

Morning has a special magic to a man. An energy flows through him then that doesn't at other hours, when his will to endure the old or dare the new is subjected to the quiet discipline of the sun's hot yellow thumb or the doubts that crowd the dark.

Forever a man remembers morning when he stood on a peak and, whether he knew what

Strength for the Day

THE HORIZON AND BEYOND

Christianity is destined eventually to win the mind and allegiance of the world because it is a way of life. It is not a philosophy. It is not a set of rules or system of ethics. While the Church is an organization, it is not primarily an organization . . . it is primarily a reservoir of vital life. Men hoid up the little vessels of their lives, and the Church, in the name of Christ, fills them full to the brim. Christianity is a way of life. How different from Mohammedanism, which is a system of legalism. How different from the religion of Buddha, in which peace is sought without righteousness. How different from humanism, which diagnoses the world's ills and declares that there should be a cure but furnishes no such cure. How different from philosophy, which gives itself to an endless series of reflections—as Goethe remarked, "thinking about thought."

Christian truth in the plainest, simplest fashion declares that life here on earth is preparation for another life, that the seen things of life are only shadows, as it were, and symbols of an unseen glorious order which is round about us all the time. Christianity teaches men how to walk a pathway which leads to eternity; and in walking and conversing together, they find peace while they are here on earth and hope as they look to the horizon and beyond.

Promoting An Eisenhower - Dulles Rift

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The more extreme enemies of the Eisenhower Administration, political and journalistic, have set out to promote the impression that serious disagreemtns separate President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles on the conduct of foreign policy, especially with respect to future relationships with Russia. It is an aftermath of the Geneva Conference, although the campaign was hatched several months ago.

Emphasizing and exaggerating several minor differences between the two men on foreign problems, the purpose seems to be to accuse Ike of being too agreeable to concessions to Moscow, while Dulles is portrayed as favoring a stiffer and sterner policy. Regardless of future developments, the President's conciliatory attitude and remarks at Geneva have been interpreted as proof of a top-level clash.

WHICH POLICY? Adopting the same tactics numerous British and French commentators, who usually reflect the viewpoint of their Foreign Offices, ask whether the soft "Eisenhower" or the harsh "Dulles" policy will prevail in any forthcoming showdown with the Russian and Chinese Communists.

The underlying scheme is, of course, to cast full responsibility on the President, not the Secretary of State if agreements germinated at Geneva can be made to appear as another Yalta sellout. For months and in defiance of the strategy of the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill, opposition extremists have insisted upon a direct frontal attack on the man in the White House in preparation for the 1956 election.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE. The critical politicians and columnists cite what they regard as circumstantial evidence for their theory of a White House-State Department division.

They note that Dulles maintained silence while Ike was acting and goodwilling with top Red delegates at Geneva. Although protocol demanded that the President act as official host and spokesman, Dulles' subordinate and silent role and behavior are represented as proof that he and Ike disagree on basic policy. Eisenhower's wartime friendship with Marshall Georgi Zhukov, Russian Minister of Defense, was ballooned far beyond its intrinsic importance.

RECALL EARLIER DIFFERENCES. Earlier disagreements have been recalled. Eisenhower, according to the opposition's contention, did not support Dulles' demand for an "agonizing reappraisal" of foreign aid to Europe, after the death of the European Defense Community program. Instead, Ike backed Prime Minister Anthony Eden's one-man effort to organize Western European nations through the Paris pacts.

Dulles fought bitterly with Eden during the Indo-China truce talks at Geneva, figuring that the outcome was a complete victory for Ho Chi Minh, the Chinese Communists' puppet. But Eisenhower approved the settlement, as he had earlier rejected Pentagon proposals that the U.S. intervene to carve out a triumph for the French forces.

REBUKED FOR REMARK. On the eve of Geneva, Dulles told a Senate Committee that Russia was on the "verge of an economic collapse," and he was rebuked mildly by the President—not once but twice—for that indiscreet remark. The Secretary's conviction of internal Soviet weakness, rightly or wrongly, is listed as another reason for his insistence on a tougher policy toward the Reds, both at Geneva and in future negotiations.

Finally, whereas Ike professed to be optimistic over Geneva results in his public and private statements, State Department spokesmen quietly tried to warn against American overconfidence.

In fact, so widespread has this propaganda of an Eisenhower-Dulles clash become that Ike answered it by praising his Secretary of State in a radio-television report to the nation on Geneva and prospects for an accord with Russia in Europe and the Far East.

Net Worth Is Clue For Tax Agents

By ELMER ROESSNER

When the Supreme Court upheld the "net worth" theory of proving income a few months ago, it provided a peek into a curious phase of the American economy.

The net worth theory is that person's spending, plus his increase in net worth over a given period, is evidence of income. For instance:

Suppose the Internal Revenue Service can prove that Joe Doakes (he's always getting into trouble) had assets of $10,000 on January 1, 1950. Then suppose that the IRS proves that between that date and January 1, 1955, he spent $75,000 and that his bank account and property went up in value to $100,000. And if the man did not receive an inheritance, a personal injury award or other tax-free payment, the courts may conclude that he had an income of $165,000 during that time. And if he didn't pay taxes on that—Leavenworth, here comes Joe Doakes!

In prosecuting tax evaders under this theory, the Internal Revenue Service has shown that offenders have bought fabulous homes, expensive autos, buckets of jewelry and fine yachts.

Just as some segments of the economy are sustained by horse players, alcoholics and neurotics so is part of the economy shored up by free-spending tax evaders.

A businessman told us: "If tax cheating were to stop at 9 a.m. tomorrow, not only would certain industries come to sudden death, but the economy itself would freeze."

At various times in history the smuggler has been an important and useful member of society. During the Napoleonic wars the English smugglers were fairly respected; during the War Between the States the Rebel smuggler was a hero, and during prohibition many of us would have remained thirsty and sullen if it were not for smugglers. In fact smuggling, which is a kind of tax evasion, has gained such popular approval that the government has consented to the naming a whisky "old Smuggler."

Since tax evaders' spending keeps so many jewelers and boat-builders employed and so many waiters and hat-check girls prosperous, the evaders may some day win social approval. Some day someone may bring out an "Old Tax Cheat Whisky."

COMPLETE—MEAL IDEA TO INTEREST GROCERS

"Sell a meal instead of an item" is the theme of the trade-paper part of a big new campaign to sell (Tasti-Diet) low-calorie foods.

There is so much appeal to the theme that many grocers will not limit their efforts to low-calorie combinations. They will find extra profits in offering combinations of canned meat, soup, vegetable and dessert at a single price. These will be especially acceptable (a) in hot weather and (b) among working housewives.

Good complete-meal selections will help shoppers with their planning and save cooking time. Some grocers have already promoted combinations as "FIVE-MINUTE MEALS."

TEACHING EMPLOYEES TO WRITE PAYS OFF

All employees who wrote dealer orders were given a handwriting course by a Charlotte, N.C., housewares distributor.

It paid off doubly. Clear handwriting reduced losses from errors. (One wrong order can waste the profits on three correct ones.

Then it permitted the installation of an efficient, coordinated order-invoice-billing system that saved even more.

PEACE AIDS TRADE— BUT NOT RIGHT AWAY

Lessening of international tensions is being urged as a step toward increasing world trade.

But, paradoxically, when tensions ease the first consequence is a drop in international deals. The Foreign Agricultural Service notes:

"During the past year vastly improved economic conditions abroad have been a bolstering factor for exports. Moreover, a clouded world outlook encouraged foreign buying ahead of current needs. With the change in outlook since March however buying has largely shifted to immediate requirements. This change was undoubtedly a factor in the sharp decline in April and May exports."

Greenville PONY Stars Wrap Up Crown

Clinch District Title By Felling Warwick, 7 To 1

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

WARWICK, Va. — Greenville's hard-hitting PONY League All-Stars wrapped up the District Seven championship yesterday with a decisive 7-1 win over Warwick behind the tight, five-hit pitching of big Charley Staton.

The Greenville gang now will go to Greensboro to enter the Region Five playoffs. The winner of the eight team, double elimination tourney at Greensboro wins the right to enter the World Championship in Washington, Pennsylvania. For Greenville, it was their second consecutive win over Warwick and their fifth straight of the tournament season. They have not lost as yet.

Staton Gets Win

Staton went all the way on the mound despite an infected foot. The husky fireballer fanned ten and walked four, coming through with the strikeout pitch in the clutch. It was Staton's fourth win of the tournament. He took two wins in Rocky Mount, going the distance once, and won both games here. He pitched one inning yesterday but left the game with a 9-0 lead, good enough to give him credit for the win by PONY League rules.

Staton and Gene Brooks hooked up in a tight pitcher's duel yesterday for six innings. The Greenies broke loose with a five run attack in the seventh frame to lock the game up.

Greenville scored first in the fourth when Dick Evans laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt to squeeze a run across. In the sixth, Bobby Edwards put the Greenies ahead 2-1 with a line drive home run over the right centerfield fence. Warwick had scored on Staton in the last half of the fourth on a single, a stolen base, and another single.

Break Loose

In the top half of the seventh the Greenies broke loose and piled across five runs. Edwards' sharp two-run single was the big blow of the rally. Three errors by the Warwick team hurt considerably in the seventh when Greenville pieced together their most productive inning.

In the last half of the seventh the first two Warwick batters singled. Staton then bore down to fan the next two hitters and force little Jay Lambiotte to ground out to first baseman Ronnie Finch.

Edwards Leads Hitting

Edwards was the hitting star for Greenville. The slender centerfielder spanked out three hits in four times at bat. He had a home run, two singles, and scored twice. Ronnie Finch had two hits. Walker Allen, Billy Cox, and Charles Staton had the other Greenville hits.

Greenville outhit the Warwick team 8-6 and got their hits in the clutches for the big factor in the win. Warwick could not take advantage of their scattered hits off Staton.

The Greensboro tourney starts August fourth and runs through August tenth. The pairings have not been announced as yet.

Score by innings:

		R	H	E
Greenville	000 101 5	7	8	1
Warwick	000 100 0	1	5	5

GREENIES MANAGER SHOOTING FOR THIRD IN CPL

Aim high, and even if the shot falls short, the fruits are good. That's Greenville manager Pete Carraway's philosophy. And he figures it ought to result in his Greenies winding up in third place in the current Coastal Plain League race.

"I think we'll overtake Rocky Mount before the season ends," the big skipper said. (The Greenies currently occupy fourth position, two games behind third place Rocky Mount.) The Leafs have lost their last four games and appear a weaker outfit than the one of several weeks ago.

When the Leafs were in town a week ago to do battle with the locals, unfamiliar names were in the lineup. Manager Frank Johnson had neither Jack Whitley at shortstop, Billy Melke at second nor Simon Davis in the outfield, all regular members of the Leafs. Nor were the Leafs' standout chunkers traveling with the club. Al Denson, a natural outfielder, had to come in to do the throwing.

Carraway, always the optimist, commented, "We should be able to move to third or at least retain a playoff position by winning six of our remaining 11 games." You say six out of 11 is not so hot an average! It is, however, when you consider that the remaining contests are all with the leading clubs.

The Greenies, in winding up, play three games with league-leading Farmville, two with Rocky Mount, two with New Bern and four with Williamston. No games remain with last place Falkland.

FARMVILLE SHOO-IN FOR LEAGUE TITLE—CARRAWAY

"I don't concede Williamston a chance of catching Farmville in the chase" Carraway pointed out. "Not because Farmville's a much better ball club, in fact I consider Williamston the hittingest club in the circuit but because Williamston got such a poor start." Williamston, incidentally is the best looking club we have seen. The Braves have won 15 out of their last 19 games and have come from last place to second.

Business manager Floyd Nichols added, "Our club looked like the team that was on top about a month ago against Falkland Sunday. They hit the ball well, fielded well and had winning zest. I believe we'll play a lot better ball the rest of the way. We sure want a part in that playoffs."

Many observers, on the outside looking in, sum up the Greenies needs in one term—clutch hitting. Of late, the locals have left countless runners stranded on the sacks. The Greenies have no trouble putting runners on, but sending them around is a horse of another color. But strategy doesn't help in this matter, it's the players who must remedy the situation. After a fine showing Sunday that may be happening.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD STORY—ROGER CRAIG

Last week, a big 24-year-old righthander from North Carolina made his debut in the major leagues by pitching a superb three-hitter against the Cincinnati Red Legs. That young man was Roger Craig of Durham who worked his way up through the minors to grab some of the juicest headlines of the 1955 baseball season.

Craig has since won another game for two straight wins against no losses, but his first game was the real beaut. He struck out six and walked only five. He got Gus Bell on whiffs twice and Wally Post, Gerry Staley, Bobby Adams and Ray Jablonski once each. The three hits were made in the first inning by Bob Thurman, Ted Kluszewski and Adams. Thurman's blow was a single that became a triple when it went between Gilliam and Snider.

Roger attended North Carolina State for a year, where he played baseball and basketball. He was the smallest man on the freshman basketball squad at 6-4. He first signed a Brooklyn contract in 1950 and was assigned to Newport News in the Piedmont Class B League There he lost one, won none, and moved on to Valdosta, of the Georgia-Florida Class D loop. With Valdosta Roger won 14, lost seven, struck out 152 and walked 150.

In 1951 he was back at Newport, winning 14, losing 11. In 1952 and 1953 he was in the army. Last year he was at Elmira, Pueblo and Newport. In the latter spot his control had improved. He fanned 108, walked 56, in winning eight and losing three games.

He was impressive enough in spring training to be assigned to Montreal. When called to Brooklyn Roger had won ten, lost only two with the Royals, had fanned 67 and walked 62.

Rube Walker, who caught Craig's first major league game, was very high on the lean youngster. "He has a good curve ball and he made fine use of a change of pace," said Rube. "He also has a good fast ball and his control was pretty good, too." Jackie Robinson, who watched Roger from the press box for much of the game, commented: "I like what I seen of him. He has impressed me greatly."

Greenies And High-Flying Farmville Club Play Tonight

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

The Greenville Greenies will endeavor to do tonight what no other club in the Coastal Plain League has done much of lately — trim league-leading Farmville down to size.

Manager Bill Kennedy's Farmers are setting a wicked pace in the loop, having won 26 games while losing only 15. They stand a solid four games out in front of second place Williamston and are more than a half-dozen games ahead of the locals.

The leaders have won their last six games in a row, three of those being over Rocky Mount, the club many figured would be the team to beat in the stretch run.

Little Millard Webb, busy second baseman, has been leading his Farmville comrades at the plate and in the field. He has been whacking the ball at an unbelievable rate during the past five games. His four hits Sunday brought his five-game total to 16. He has raised his batting mark to .350, a 50-point hike in little over a week.

Pittman To Start

Kennedy will doubtlessly throw big Fred Pittman against the locals. The tall righthander has been extremely effective against the Greenies (and everybody else, for that matter). Pittman won two last weekend for a 9-2 won-lost record.

Manager Pete Carraway has named slender Bill Loving to face the Farmers on the mound. Loving owns one victory — over Rocky Mount — and was beaten by Williamston in his debut two weeks ago. Loving mixes a lot of breaking stuff with a deceptive fastball to be effective.

The Greenies line-up will be the same, unless James McLawhorn doesn't play. If McLawhorn is absent, Sal Caruso will go behind the plate and J. T. Mills at shortstop. Caruso caught against Falkland Sunday and was impressive there.

Brownie Tripp, Mat Hall, Tom Boyd and Mills give the locals a fast infield. Hall had been in a hitting slump of late but got two knocks against Falkland. Tripp has been slugging heavy in recent games. He smacked a long double against Rocky Mount to score two runs last Wednesday.

Bobby Clark, Earl Tripp and Blaney Moye will patrol the outer garden. Moye has been hitting well lately and can field with any centerfielder in the circuit. Clark had four hits in the two-game series with Falkland.

Stell Out

Kennedy's club will be minus the services of its leading hitter, Sam Stell. The big outfielder was pacing the Farmers with a .358 mark but has quit baseball because of business obligations. However, Kennedy has a long line of .300 hitters still available. Pittman is hitting .322, Streeter Tugwell .308, Barry Jones .300 and Kennedy .300, besides Webb's .350.

The Farmers can send in pretty fair reliefers too, if there is a necessity. Johnnie Hinson has won three games against one loss. Vince Jones is 8-5 and Roy Vick is 1-1.

The game tonight will get underway at 8 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium.

Other games in the loop have New Bern at Falkland and Rocky Mount at Williamston. The Greenies play here Saturday night against Rocky Mount.

TUESDAY'S STARS

PITCHING — Tommy Byrne, Yankees, stopped the White Sox on four hits, none after the third inning, for his third shutout, 1-0, and a 9-2 record that makes him the best percentage pitcher in the AL.

HITTING—Ray Boone, Tigers, drove in six runs with four hits and a sacrifice fly, including the tie-breaker in the 12-inning opener, as Detroit whipped Baltimore in a twi-night pair 8-6 and 7-2.

Browns Begin To Cut Down Squad

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns have cut three more players from their original 57-man roster, leaving a total of 49.

Latest to go were Pete Caristo, halfback candidate from Clarion Teachers College, Pa., who accepted a high school coaching job near his home in Moon Run, Pa.; Pat Canamella, linebacker from Southern California; and Jim Greer, end from Elizabeth City (N.C.) State Teachers College.

An 'Old Yankee' Continues To Win For Stengel When Chips Are Down

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

It was the young pitchers, Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley, who were to give New York an American League pennant this year. But now that the heat's on, it's Tommy Byrne, an "old Yankee," who's winning the big ones.

A week ago, the Yanks needed an opening victory in their showdown series with Chicago to hold the lead. It was the 35-year-old Byrne who answered the call and won.

Last night the situation was the same and Manager Casey Stengel again called on his southpaw surprise. Byrne clicked again, holding Chicago to four hits and wrapping up a 1-0 decision as Yogi Berra slammed his 17th home run.

That made New York's lead two games while Chicago stayed in a virtual second-place tie with Cleveland beaten 5-1 at Boston.

Byrne, from the Reynolds-Raschi era, was in a bases-loaded, two-out jam in the third, giving a single and two walks. But he came through it and from then on didn't give Chicago another hit.

Dick Donovan was the loser.

Elsewhere, fifth-place Detroit swept a twi-night pair at Baltimore 8-6 and 7-2. Washington split two with Kansas City, winning the first 9-3 and losing 3-1.

In the National, ever-winning Brooklyn and Don Newcombe stayed at it, beating Cincinnati 4-2 for his 17th victory. Runner-up Milwaukee chilled Philadelphia 6-3. New York beat Chicago in 12 innings 6-5, and Pittsburgh made it five straight, clipping St. Louis 3-1.

Boston rapped Herb Score, the rookie who's failed five times against the Red Sox, Pants Santiago and Don Mossi for 11 hits—including home runs by Ted Williams and Sammy White—to snap Cleveland's five-game streak. Frank Sullivan gave five hits, one Larry Doby's 17th homer for his 13th victory.

Baltimore earned a 6-6 tie with the Tigers when Al Kaline lost a two-out fly in the lights in the ninth. Then Ray Boone doubled home the tie breaker in the 12th with his fourth hit. Ned Garver took charge in the nightcap, winning his 10th while topping the AL with 13 complete games. Jim Wilson, turning wild, was the loser.

Newcombe was touched for seven hits, three by Ted Kluszewski, and was in a bit of a jam in the ninth when Carl Furillo dropped a two-out fly ball to leave runners on third and second. Newk got rookie Milt Smith on a fly ball.

Five runs in the fifth—with Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron bringing home two each with a double and single, respectively—carried Milwaukee in ahead of the Phils, who had won 14 of 15. Warren Spahn won his ninth against 10 defeats. Herm Wehmeier was the victim.

Dee Fondy dropped Al Dark's foul pop with two out in the 12th at Chicago and Dark followed it up with a run-scoring single that beat reliefer Hal Jeffcoat and the Cubs. Don Liddle was the winner, relieving Sal Maglie, who gave way as the Cubs packed away at a 5-0 New York lead in the first.

St. Louis could have replaced Chicago in fifth place except for Dick Littlefield's six-hit pitching and home runs by Johnny O'Brien and Gene Freese. Luis Arroyo was the loser.

Bob Porterfield snapped an eight-game losing streak as Washington pelted the A's for 17 hits, one Roy Sievers' 16th homer, in the opener. Then Alex Kellner and Tom Gorman checked the Nats on seven hits in the nightcap. Kellner chipped in a single with Enos Slaughter's triple and a double by Vic Power in a two-run third off loser Spec Shea.

New PGA Champ, Doug Ford, Hurries To Akron

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Doug Ford, the new PGA champion, is a go-go golfer.

No sooner had he finished off Cary Middlecoff in yesterday's PGA finals, winning a 4 and 3 thriller, than he was packing his pretty wife and three children into their house trailer and heading for Akron, Ohio, and another golf tournament.

He didn't even wait around for all the congratulations due a new champion. He said a nice thank you, picked up his $5,250 check and was off.

But the hurry-up antics were no surprise to those who followed him through the seven-day PGA, watching him, quickly and surely, smash Meadowbrook's par each day—finishing 39 under par for 191 holes.

Ford won medal honors with a 7-under-par 135, and in match play disposed of George Fazio, Ted Kroll, Wally Ulrich, Fred Hawkins, Shelley Mayfield and finally, Middlecoff.

Each victory was clean, sure, decisive—and quick. He even made the notoriously slow-playing Middlecoff speed up his tempo. And this, possibly, may have been the turning point in their 33-hole struggle for one of professional golf's biggest prizes.

Through the morning round—with temperatures in the low 80s—Middlecoff held the upper hand all the way. He shot a 67, four under par, and was 1-up at the lunchtime break.

But as the temperature and humidity increased during the afternoon, Middlecoff's game slowly, painfully started to fall apart. The machinelike Ford, meanwhile, kept clubbing his ball with the same incisiveness as he did in the morning. He caught the fading Middlecoff for the fourth time on the 22nd hole and finally passed him on the 26th, where Cary started a run of errors by hitting three poor shots and conceding the hole.

Ford dropped birdie putts of 25 and 5 feet on the 29th and 30th holes, to go 3-up, and Middlecoff never recovered. The match ended on the 3rd green in typical fashion, with Middlecoff taking a bogey 5.

Sugar Ray Advances In New Ring Ratings

NEW YORK, (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson came back with a bang today into the monthly boxing ratings issued by Ring magazine, and is rated the No. 3 challenger to world middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Sugar Ray wasn't even in the first 10 last month, but his split decision over Rocky Castellani recently at San Francisco moved the former champion right back into contention. Robinson takes over the third place of Joey Giardello, who was left out because of his sentence on assault charges.

France's Charley Humez retains the No. 1 challenger role, although the International Boxing Club has selected Sugar Ray as the next opponent for Olson. Holly Mims, of Washington, moved from third to second place, and Castellani, of Cleveland, dropped to fourth.

Archie Moore, of San Diego, the light heavyweight champion, remains the No. 1 challenger for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown, and Floyd Patterson, of Brooklyn, moved into the No. 1 spot as the light heavyweight contender.

Patterson changes places with Harold Johnson, of Philadelphia, and Yolande Pompey, of Trinidad, moves from fourth to third place. Germany's Gerhard Hecht is now fourth, and Willie Pastrano, of New Orleans, who defeated Joey Maxim, is No. 5.

Wallace (Buddy) Smith, of Cincinnati, forced a change in the lightweight ranks when he lifted the lightweight title from Jimmy Carter, New York, who dropped to No. 1 challenger. Ralph Dupas, of New Orleans, the leading contender last month, now is second, with European titleholder Dulio Loi of Italy, third.

Flash Elorde, of the Philippines, who defeated Sandy Saddler, the featherweight champion from New York, in Manila, now is rated seventh. France's Ray Famechon still is the No. 1 contender.

Pastrano Fights Speiser Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Pastrano, a 19-year-old from New Orleans with hopes of some day taking over the light heavyweight championship, meets Chuck Speiser of Detroit in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The 10-round bout will be televised nationally (ABC 9 p.m. EST).

The nimble and shifty Pastrano's last bout was with Joey Maxim, the Cleveland spoiler. Willie outsped and outpointed Maxim, who had previously beaten both Floyd Patterson and Paul Andrews, a pair of promising light heavies.

Pastrano's trainer, Angelo Dundee, is convinced Willie is ready to move to the top.

"This boy can't miss going to the top," said Dundee. "That fight with Maxim was just what he needed. It gave him confidence in himself.

"Eventually Archie Moore will have to give up the light heavy title. When he does, we intend to have Willie ready to succeed him."

Pastrano has a record 31 victories, 8 losses and 4 draws and is a 3-1 favorite over Speiser.

Speiser, an ex-Michigan State and Olympic fighter, has had 17 pro bouts with 15 victories, 10 of them by knockouts.

It'll be Speiser's first main event in Chicago Stadium. Pastrano defeated Al Andrews in the same ring and battled Willie Troy to a draw.

Fifty-Five S. C. Little League Teams Back Out

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — The racial issue left a Negro team as South Carolina's Little League champion by default today after the state's 55 white teams withdrew.

The Cannon Street YMCA Negro team of Charleston had been given permission by Little League headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., to compete in the state playoff next week at nearby Donallson Air Force Base.

Daniel H. Jones of Charleston, director of the state Little League program, resigned Saturday, charging entrance of Negro teams in Little League play "may be used in an attempt to overthrow the laws and established customs of South Carolina."

Jones advised white teams to enter competition to be known as the "Little Boys Tourney" sponsored by the State Recreational Society.

Okinawa Has Evolved Into Key Base Of U. S. Pacific Defense Planning

By MURRAY FROMSON

KADENA AIR BASE, Okinawa (AP)—Ask the name of the most likely—and most vulnerable—target for the Communists in any all-out war in Asia and the answer probably will be Okinawa.

Its importance speaks for itself.

Only 380 air miles east of Shanghai, it's the nearest U. S. base to Communist China's industrial complexes spread along the central mainland coast.

This is one reason Okinawa has been developed as the forward base for the Strategic Air Command's big B36 superbombers and B47 jet medium bombers.

It also is home base for two jet wings of the 5th Air Force and the central link in a huge air defense radar network arching across the Pacific.

The Army governs the island, but militarily speaking, it's an Air Force show.

Its proximity to China probably serves as the best existent deterrent at this time to any warlike ideas Peiping might entertain. Conversely, the Communists by overt aggression could use Okinawa as a base from which to launch attacks on U. S. bases guarding the western approaches of the United States.

The Army keeps a regimental combat team on the island. There are also two antiaircraft battalions and a regiment of Marines which just moved here from Japan

Present plans call for the movement here of the rest of the 3rd Marine Division — less one regimental combat team now in Honolulu.

The Army could also use Okinawa to stage troops for movement elsewhere. It could accommodate at least seven divisions.

How do Americans on Okinawa feel, being so close to the front lines?

They're not worried.

"If they bomb us here, they're going to have to bomb us in Chicago, Detroit or Los Angeles too," says M. Sgt. William MacMillan, who flew in B26s in the Korean War.

His is the stock answer on Okinawa when airmen and soldiers are asked about the safety of their more than 9,000 dependent wives and children who live here.

"We feel a man is going to be a better soldier if he has his family with him and his morale is good," says Maj. Gen. James Moore, the Army's deputy governor for the Ryukyus command.

Americans here have good reason to feel safe.

Day and night, the roar of the swift, all-weather F86 Sabre Jets rumble across the Ryukyuan skies, guarding the approaches to this strategic outpost.

On the ground at Naha, the Okinawa Air Defense Command keeps a close eye to the west. Radar stations are tactically set throughout this archipelago which stretches from the southern reaches of Japan to the waters above the Nationalist stronghold on Formosa.

Sabre Jets of the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing can be scrambled within five minutes to investigate any unidentified aircraft which shows up on the air defense radar screen.

There can be no delays, says Col. Hilmer Nelson, deputy commander for air defense on Okinawa.

"High-performance enemy jets, flying with the jet stream which moves south during the winter months, could be over Okinawa in 25 or 30 minutes," he says.

"That doesn't give you much time to get your planes alerted and at the target before he can hit you."

Nelson's nerve center can trigger air defense warnings for U. S. bases in the Philippines, Formosa, Southern Japan and the mid-Pacific.

Despite the emphasis on air here, Okinawa—once called the "junkyard of the Pacific"—wears several other faces too.

For the men who serve her, life can get boring. The men with families find the living conditions much better. For the bachelors it is not very exciting duty.

The glittering night life afforded GIs in Tokyo is nonexistent here. There are few outside recreational diversions although the men can visit Okinawan women in the villages. They are not allowed to bring them on the base.

The post exchanges are about the best stocked in the Far East, however. By comparison with any other military base in the Far East, material life on Okinawa is plush.

The United States has poured about a billion dollars into the rehabilitation and improvement of the island. Roads are the standout feature. Without them, the military would have no links between the two key air bases here and the harbors and supply areas.

The prospect of a return of the Ryukyus doesn't look good for Japan, which would like the United States to give back the entire island chain.

This onetime stepchild of the East military picture is rapidly coming of age as America's most important Pacific bastion—and it looks more permanent every day.

With the shift in important military and political developments to Southeast Asia, there are those here who look for eventual transfer of Far East Command headquarters from Tokyo to Okinawa.

Old-Fashioned Parlor Game Clicking On TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The old-fashioned parlor guessing game is just as popular as in Grandma's day. The only difference is that it's played on television now with a slightly changed name — the panel quiz show.

This thought line is voiced by Ogden Nash, baseball fan, poet, successful innovator of the unbalanced rhyme — and for a couple of years now a regular panelist on "Masquerade Party" (ABC-TV, Wednesday evenings).

In case you'd forgotten, Nash is the fellow who wrote, "Candy is dandy but liquor is quicker" besides several thousand other lines of wonderful sense and nonsense. It's heartening to see television helping subsidize a poet—any poet—and Nash is having fun.

On "Masquerade Party" he and fellow panelists Ilka Chase, Buff Cobb and Dagmar, kept in line by moderator Peter Donald, have guessed—or failed to guess—the identities of disguised politicians, actresses, sportsmen and nearly every other category known to man.

"The idea is to have fun," says Nash. "When you guess a guest's identity you have a real feeling of personal triumph—a feeling you have to subdue or you'll become offensive. Sometimes you'll go for long periods when you're really hot, like a hitting streak in baseball, and then you'll have a slump. We all have those slumps and none of us knows what causes them."

The most embarrassing failure Nash recalls was when he couldn't guess the identity of his very close friend and fellow panelist Ilka Chase, who lives in the same Manhattan apartment house.

"She was supposed to be on the west coast at the time," mutters Nash. "Everybody knew she was back—except me. Even the elevator boys in the apartment house were in on the secret. Everybody but me."

Turned Caboose Into His Home

SEWARD, Neb. (AP) — When Henry Weitzel of Seward retired in 1951 after 42½ years of working for a railroad, he had time on his hands and railroading still in his system.

So he acquired an 1871 railroad caboose, transplanted it to his back yard and made it into an attractive cottage.

He did all the work except plumbing and wiring, and figures the job cost about $1,100.

Turnabout Deed In Rescue At Sea

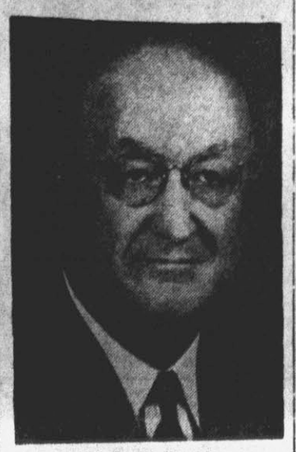

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Haakon Sande of Long Island, N.Y., a crew member of the tug, M. Moran, enroute to New York, fell overboard several miles from shore and saw the vessel chug right on northward and out of sight.

A shrimp boat, heading into port, picked him up.

Only two days before Sande as a member of the crew of the tug had gone to the aid of the S.S. Surna a big cargo ship which had lost a propeller 250 miles off Jacksonville.

Champagne was first invented by a French monk named Dom Perignon in the 1600s. He was in charge of wine making at the Abbey of Hautvilliers and discovered the formula by accident.

Rotary Governor Sets Ayden Visit

E. Frank Ruble

The Rotary Club of Ayden on Friday will be host to E. Frank Ruble, Governor of the 279th District of Rotary International, who is making his annual official visit to each of the 43 Rotary Clubs in the 279th District of North Carolina. He will address the club and confer with President Harry W. Stillman, Secretary Mac Edwards and committee chairmen on Rotary administration and service activities.

Ruble is manager of the Beaufort County Storage Warehouse in Washington, N. C. and is a member of the Rotary Club of Washington. He was elected District Governor of Rotary International for the 1955-56 fiscal year at Rotary's Golden Anniversary Convention in Chicago, last June. He is one of 238 District Governors supervising the activities of some 8,700 Rotary Clubs which have a membership of 414,000 business and professional executives in 92 countries and geographical regions throughout the world.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, President Stillman asserted in discussing the Governor's visit, their activities are similar to those of the Rotary Club of Ayden because they are based on the same general objectives—developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community-betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Each year, this service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength. During the past fiscal year, 416 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 50 countries of North, South and Central America, Europe, Asia, Africa and the Islands of the Pacific.

U.S. Farm Group Popular In Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)— Twelve visiting American farmers are making a big hit in the Soviet Union by both their friendliness and inquisitiveness.

They are asking all kinds of questions. They want to know about Soviet tractors, soils, corn, hogs and chickens, taxes and state loan subscriptions.

They are also going over big with the kids they meet at the collective farms, schools and hospitals. They dance and sing with the children and take their pictures.

At Odessa, Ralph Olsen of Ellsworth, Iowa, reaped applause as spokesman for the group in his reply when Odessans asked what they had seen in their tour of the Ukraine.

"It's a wonderful region," Olsen said. "The first thing that struck our eye was your people and their hard work. This is most wonderful."

The Soviet press is generally giving liberal space to the Americans' visit.

The News Agency Tass has a special correspondent filing at least two stories daily from the tour.

A special correspondent of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, is filing stories occasionally.

Soviet Agriculture, the thrice-weekly newspaper of the Ministry of Agriculture, runs a big story and a picture in every issue. The latest issue, a four-page edition, devotes three full columns to the Americans.

It takes about seven miles of thread and 700 hours of labor to make a mink coat.

Prosperity In Britain Is Given Cool Welcome

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, (AP)—Prosperity—that pleasant companion—is being cited today as the villain that is inducing a new brush with inflation in England and could just possibly be pushing the United States into a return bout.

Good times are favoring both nations. Employment is high, wages rising smartly, incomes up and stores full of tempting items. So people put out cash freely for gadgets, homes or services, and increasingly buy more on time.

In the United States, so far, inflation is just something that the cautious fear might recur if prosperity induces speculative excess. In England it's already back, in spite of government efforts to forestall it.

The cost of living has just taken a jump there. Retail prices are at a record high. And the price of coal — a prime budget item for most British householders — has just been hiked 18 per cent. This week steel goes up an average of 5 per cent, and most other metal prices have been climbing fast.

There is fear higher prices will soon spread to coke and the many products made of steel, and rates for electricity, gas and freight will climb higher.

With the British worker prosperous, amounts spent on consumer goods and services have been growing steadily.

Rising labor costs in Britain tend to make British exports less competitive in world markets. At the same time increasing home demand for consumer goods tends to attract into the domestic market goods Britain makes for export.

To combat this new inflationary pressure, the British government is trying to check spending by hiking interest rates, squeezing credit and imposing stiffer curbs on installment buying.

In the United States price hikes have so far been confined mostly to the primary industrial materials. Steel, copper, lead, zinc, aluminum and silver have gone up. Further price hikes are expected by some.

Wages have climbed this year much faster and further than last.

Some factory list prices on consumer goods are already rising. Whether the retailer can pass all this along to price-conscious and bargain-happy consumers is a question.

The cost of eating is pretty stable, and may be even lower in the future, however. Clothing prices also have leveled off. Rents are fairly stable.

The real threat of future inflation here, therefore, seems to lie in the chance that so much prosperity may foster speculation — may induce consumers to ignore rising prices and stock up on goods bought on time — may cause businessmen to build up excess inventories, to expand their plants too optimistically — may lead to excess use of credit.

Barring a spree of overbuying and overborrowing, however, prosperity could be our pleasant companion for quite a spell yet.

Busy Bees Tied Up City Traffic

PORT HURON, Mich (AP)—A swarm of bees lit at a busy intersection, diving on pedestrians and swarming into cars before surprised motorists rolled up windows.

Their queen took a liking to a traffic light. The swarm followed. Soon nobody could tell whether the light was green or red and there was a traffic jam.

Then the bees left for the Elk's Temple and someone called a cop. He called the dog warden. He called conservation officers. They all passed. Then a wise guy dragged a no parking sign near them, but they didn't bite.

Henry Johnson drove up, plucked the queen been into a hive and the rest followed.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Clive and Sara discussed Gerry.

"Do the police know about this?" Clive asked.

"Yes. They don't know what to make of it. This man wears cuff links. Gerry never did. His voice is lighter and higher than Gerry's. He calls me Sara. Gerry called me Dacre. But it isn't only the little things. It's his walk, his expression, his whole personality. He just isn't my Gerry."

"Have any other friends of Gerry accepted him as Gerry?"

"Only one who knew Gerry well. His partner in radio production a Mr. Peters."

"Then you must be wrong, Sara."

"Why couldn't Mr. Peters be wrong? Just because it's more natural and less troublesome to believe the man is Gerry?"

"What are you going to do about it?"

"There's nothing I can do but Aunt Caroline can do something and she's going to. She's inviting Mrs. Caleb Harrison to tea this afternoon. Mrs. Harrison is a cousin of the real Gerry. The fake Gerry will be there without knowing why he's invited. Then, perhaps, we'll get at the truth. But, meanwhile, where is the real Gerry? What is happening to him now?"

Clive said, "Sara, I'd like to be there this afternoon when Mrs. Harrison meets this young man who claims to be her cousin. Would your aunt object?"

"Of course not. She's always delighted to see you."

When Sara came out into the street the bright day had tarnished. The sky, like a brilliant blue mirror at noon, was paler and duller, as if someone had blown a clouding breath upon it.

In the library she went back to the small research room on the second floor that she had used yesterday. She had no typewriter today, but she had pencil and paper in her bag.

She found the book she had used yesterday and the paragraph where she had left off reading.

" . . . when it was discovered 'dove' instead of 'dived' the whole edition was hastily suppressed and the number of copies extent today . . ."

She stared at the words until the print blurred. Oh, Gerry, will we ever know what happened to you? Is there anything I might have done to find you that I haven't done?

We'll know something when Mrs. Harrison sees this man. Not much but something. He's not Gerry, so she can't say he is. Peters might be in it, but not Mrs. Caleb Harrison.

Or could she?

Who was Mrs. Caleb Harrison? Sara shut her book with a snap and went down the hall to the stairs. On the third floor, she went to the main reading room and found a late edition of Who's Who on the reference shelves open to the public.

Harrison, Alexandra and Dorothy Mercer, b. Cleveland, O., 1903, John and Dorothy (Wells) Mercer; Briarcroft, Bryn Mawr, 1925; m. Caleb Harrison, 1924, one s. Caleb one d. Elizabeth. Founder, Briarcroft Placement Service; Director, Friends of European War Orphans; Chairman, Mayor's Committee For Harlem Children.

No, Mrs. Harrison couldn't be, as Peters might be. And she was Gerry's cousin. She had known him since he was a child. So this afternoon she was going to say that this man was not Gerry and then—what?

It was nearly 5 o'clock when she came out of the library. Sara left the bus in the 80's and walked east.

"Only Mr. Clive is here," Stevens told her at the door.

There was no fire this afternoon. The tall, pale room was dim as a mirage in the dusk. Caroline sat in her wheel chair, near the cold hearth. Her sallow skin looked yellow against a white lace dress. Fatigue darkened her eye sockets and blued her lips, but her voice was indomitable as ever, about her with gestures of anti-

"Good evening, Sara."

Again Dickson Clive hovered about her with gestures of antiquated gallantry. Again the click of Edna's knitting needles punctuated the silence.

"This room is dark, Aunt Caroline," said Sara. "Shouldn't Mrs Harrison see the impostor for the first time in a clear light?"

"Of course." Caroline sighed. "I must be getting old. I'm so fond of tea by twilight I quite forgot. And we must tell Stevens not to announce anyone but Mrs. Harrison herself. Will you see to it, Edna?'

Now the room blazed brilliantly as a lighted stage. Silver and crystal and polished parquet dazzled like ice in the sun. But the glare was unkind to Caroline's worn face. Sara could see that the skull underneath lay close to the surface.

As if the lights had been a cue on stage, the doorbell rang.

Stevens appeared. "Mrs. Caleb Harrison."

"Dear Mrs. Larch . . . Please don't rise . . ."

"I had no intention of doing so," said Caroline drily.

Mrs. Harrison saw the wheels on the chair and flushed. "I didn't realize . . ."

"I should thank you for suggesting that I look better than I feel," returned Caroline. "My niece, Miss Dacre; my companion, Miss Creel. Do you know Mr. Clive? It's really very good of you to come on such short notice."

"I was only too delighted." Mrs. Harrison sat with her ankles crossed and loosened her furs. She wore the uniform of her kind—black, pearls and mink, all the best taste.

Sara heard footsteps. Capt. Sanders stood in the doorway, beside him the man who looked so much like the real Gerry Hone. Sara sat where she could see both Mrs. Harrison and the young man at the same time.

He was advancing toward the group, uncertain of himself, as if he had no idea why he was here. Halfway across the room, his eyes fell on Mrs. Harrison. His look of recognition was unmistakeable.

He paused where he was, irresolute. Sara sat motionless, feeling as if she had turned to stone. Would Mrs. Harrison never turn her head?

" . . . volunteers to eke out the shortage of registered nurses," Mrs. Harrison was saying.

She looked around for a spot to set down her empty teacup. Her small, anxious eyes fell directly on the young man, who stood in the center of the room under the blaze of the big chandelier.

It was all over in a few heartbeats.

For a moment her eyes lost their anxiety and her smile was spontaneous. "Why, Gerry dear, I didn't expect to see you here! Did you mention my hospital work to Mrs. Larch?"

A loud silence. Sara looked down at her hands. She didn't want to see Caroline's face or Clive's or, least of all, Capt. Sanders. You're losing your mind. There was no Indian. You dreamed it. And this is Gerry Hone. Perhaps there was no ruby. Clive and Sallust and Judith could have been mistaken. It could have been red glass. . .

" . . . a friend of my niece's." Caroline was saying. "They happen to have apartments in the same building."

"What a pleasant coincidence!" Mrs. Harrison's eyes rested speculatively on Sara and Sara could read her thoughts as easily as if she had shouted them. Will this quiet little girl get any of the Larch money? Would she be a good match for this impecunious cousin?

Mrs. Harrison was corial. Dear Gerry must bring Miss Dacre to dinner soon.

"Dear Mrs. Larch, it has all been so delightful . . . I'll call the board this evening and tell them to expect your check, they'll be so happy . . . Goodby, Miss Dacre, and don't forget about dinner . . . Mr. Clive . . . Mr. . . . ah . . . Landers . . ."

Mrs. Harrison's unfailing instinct had spotted Sanders immediately as a person of no importance in her world and so spared her memory the burden of his name. Edna Creel had to content herself with a nod. "Can I give you a lift, Gerry?"

"No, thank you, cousin Alix, I'm staying."

Mrs. Harrison swept out of the room. At last Sara trusted herself to look at the others.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Activity and strength in a higher stock market today were confined to a relatively small area.

The steels, motors, oils and railroads cornered most of the attention and a large part of the gain.

Oils had advances running to between 3 and 5 points. Elsewhere, however, advances to between 1 and 2 points weren't numerous. Losses were found in a number of areas of the list. Most of them were under a point.

Honolulu Oil on news of a two-for-one stock split proposal and a higher dividend opened on a block of 1,200 shares up 4 at 88, and it held near the price in later trading.

Standard Oil (NJ), up 2¾ yesterday, was ahead between 3 and 4 points today. With its high price, Jersey Standard is a stock split candidate.

Burlington Industries, yesterday's most active stock up 1⅛, opened today on 5,000 shares unchanged at 20⅞. Thereafter it traded quietly around that level.

A block of 10,000 shares of Melville Shoe traded at 36⅝ up ¼.

New York Banks today began to raise their interest charges on loans to brokers to 3 1-4 per cent from 3 per cent, a move that is in line with hardening money rates in Wall Street. The rise will tend to make speculation in the stock market on credit more expensive.

Plan Resurface Bumpy N. C. 43

At least a portion of bumpy N. C. Highway 43 will be resurfaced.

Bids were received for resurfacing the Greenville-New Bern highway from Vanceboro on N. C. 102. White Construction Co. was low bidder on the job. Their bid was $62,608.80. The project was included in 21 other road and bridge projects on which low bids totaled $4,016,992.

Highway commissioners will review the low bids Thursday in Raleigh.

Governor Names New Appointees

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges reappointed Dr. Fred Hale of Raleigh and Dr. George Carrington of Burlington to the State Medical Care Commission yesterday.

He named Earl H. Tate of Lenoir to the commission to succeed Dr. P. L. Pearson of Apex. All appointments were for terms expiring June 30, 1959.

The governor also named five state legislators to participate in the Legislative Work Conference on Southern Regional Education which will be held in Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 31-Sept. 2.

They were Sens. B. H. Winters of Elk Park and Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg, and Reps. Gordon Maddrey of Ahoskie, Oscar Barker of Durham, and Kemp Doughton of Stratford.

The conference is sponsored by the Southern Regional Education Board so that members of state Legislatures may attend as representatives of compact states.

The governor also named Rep. Edward F. Yarborough of Louisburg and Sen. A. Pilston Godwin Jr. of Gatesville to the State Advisory Council on Regional Education.

10,000 Parade In Eva's Memory

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, (AP)—Ten thousand Argentines paraded silently before President Juan D. Peron last night on the third anniversary of the death of his wife Eva.

A congressional resolution lauded Mrs. Peron, who died of cancer, as the "spiritual chief of the nation." In several towns in Buenos Aires province, however, monuments and posters erected to her memory were defaced.

No Developments

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported no new developments in the search for Henry Lee Darden, Negro farm worker, who is alleged to have shot and fatally wounded his mother-in-law Sunday afternoon.

Law enforcement officers of several counties in this area have been searching for the missing man since the shooting took place.

Dead is Mrs. Georgiane Williams who was shot with a .12 guage shotgun in a bedroom of her farm home in the Grifton section last Sunday. Taken to a Kinston hospital by her son, the woman later died from the serious head injuries inflicted by the shot.

C&D Board Ends Its Mid-Summer Meeting Today

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—The State Board of Conservation and Development wound up its annual mid-summer meeting today after acting on committee recommendations.

The committees met yesterday after the board re-elected Miles J. Smith of Salisbury as chairman and Walter J. Damtoft of Asheville as vice-chairman.

Other action saw steps taken to form a State Tourist Council to promote the tourist industry in North Carolina.

Among the committee recommendations the board was scheduled to act on were:

That a regulation be adopted prohibiting fishermen from carrying any fish directly to dehydrating or other processing plants.

The recommendation also provided that fish dealers could sell fish refuse and small dead fish caught in nets used for catching edible fish provided they do not exceed more than 25 per cent of the total catch.

The purpose of the regulation is to curb the taking of small fish in wholesale lots by commercial fishermen who sell them to dehydrating plants for making animal food.

Another recommendation would prohibit commercial and sports fishermen from fishing from a boat within 300 feet of any fishing pier on the ocean side of the state's coastline provided the pier owner owned land 300 feet on either side of the pier.

Another recommendation called for naming a committee to confer with firms interested in mining the black sands of the coastal waters for ilmenite.

Deposits In N. C. Banks Show Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — Deposits in North Carolina banks rose 73 million dollars during the last fiscal year.

In his annual report, State Banking Commissioner W. W. Jones reported yesterday the deposits rose 6 per cent during the year ending June 30.

Demand deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations totaled $795,356,798, an increase of $51,078,112 over the previous year.

Deposits of states and political subdivisions totaled $170,656,755, up $692,610, while time deposits were up $16,777,000 at $321,019,000.

Total deposits were up $73,443,474 at $1,566,071,872.

Jones reported total resources of all banks — state and national—amounted to $2,369,910,512, up $140,558,833 from the previous June 30.

He said there were 179 state banks and 245 branches June 30, 1954, compared with 176 banks and 262 branches at the end of last month.

Combined resources of state banks at the end of last month amounted to $1,747,838,512, an increase of $89,737,833 from the previous June 30.

Parliament OKs New Credit Curb

LONDON, (AP)—In a 290-231 vote along party lines, the House of Commons last night endorsed the Conservative government's anti-inflation program to check the British buying spree.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler insisted the British economy is sound.

The Labor opposition, however, described it as "gloomy and depressing."

Butler rejected the Labor demands for more restrictions on dollar imports.

The chancellor on Monday increased the down payment for installment purchases of automobiles and household appliances from 15 to 33 1-3 per cent and called for a sharp reduction in capital expenditures by public and private bodies.

Congress Reduces 'Must' Items To Six Major Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The remaining legislative program for the 1955 congressional session appeared today to have dwindled to six major bills. But the final adjustment date remained uncertain.

Sen. Clements (D-Ky), acting majority leader, said he was quite hopeful the lawmakers can head for home, or on trips "by Saturday night or sooner."

House leaders kept Saturday as their official windup target. But they had more work on hand than the Senate, and some said privately they expected the session to spill over into at least a few days of next week.

The six measures which constitute the bulk of the remaining program include three money bills—all "must" items—as well as a housing bill, a minimum wage increase bill and the multi-billion-dollar highway construction bill.

The House votes today on the controversial highway bill, with the issue in doubt. Senate leaders have promised quick consideration if the House acts. The Senate already has passed its own bill, but without any of the disputed tax features of the House measure.

The minimum wage bill is deadlocked in conference, but the Senate and House delegates get together again today in an effort to reach agreement. Both branches have passed bills to raise the floor from 75 cents to $1. They differ on the effective date.

The housing bill, continuing a wide assortment of government aids to that industry, is stuck in the House Rules Committee, but there were indications it might be dislodged today.

A bitter fight over public housing is in prospect.

One fight which might delay adjournment involves the foreign aid money bill. The Senate voted for almost 600 million dollars more than the House, and House managers of the bill have said they will not accept a penny of this increase.

Conferees make their first attempt to get together on it today.

Another of the money bills, a $1,850,000,000 supplemental clean-up measure, cleared the Senate yesterday. It probably will go to conference tomorrow.

The Senate fulfilled House expectations by restoring more than 1½ billion dollars which had been deleted from the bill there on a parliamentary technicality.

The last of the appropriations measures, carrying funds to run Congress, has passed the House. It may be called up in the Senate today or tomorrow.

Congress yesterday crossed off its list an upper Colorado River authorization bill, which President Eisenhower requested. House leaders decided to put it over until next year; the Senate has passed it.

Eskimos Honored By Govm't For Rescue

GAMBELL, St. Lawrence Island, Alaska (AP)—Old Moses Soongarook, toothless and 69, didn't understand a word of what was said but he nodded happily, clutched his certificate and shuffled away as fast as his mukluks would allow.

Soongarook couldn't stay to see the rest of the ceremony here yesterday. He and 59 other Eskimos of this St. Lawrence Island community were given medals and certificates for their work in rescuing the 11-man crew of a U. S. Navy patrol plane shot down by Russian fighter planes June 27.

He couldn't stay because it was time for him to go on duty at the Ground Observer Corps post from which a constant watch is kept on the shores of Siberia only 38 miles away.

The Eskimos have a clear view of the Asiatic mainland and can see two Soviet bomber bases and one MIG fighter base. The whole community of 300—except for the man in the GOC post—turned out for the ceremonies.

The Eskimos were at the scene of the wreckage of the Navy plane in less than an hour after it crashed. They carried blankets, first aid kits and coffee in their little skin boats.

Seven injured men were among the 11 crewmen who were waiting about 300 yards from the still-burning plane and first aid was quickly given.

Rescue planes soon reached the fliers and took them to Fairbanks.

The ceremony yesterday was the official "thank you."

Local Family To Be On TV Show Here Tomorrow

"Welcome Travelers," the television program on which Mr. and Mrs. T. Jarvis Tripp, Jr., and their three-year-old son are scheduled to appear tomorrow will be shown over station WNCT at 12:30 p. m.

The Tripps won the expense-paid trip to New York after Mrs. Tripp wrote to the program, describing how she and her husband live with their two children, Tommy, three, and Angela, six months, in a remodeled filling station on the Farmville Highway.

Mrs. Tripp finished a four-year course at East Carolina College this spring, graduating with the class she started with in 1951. Her husband finished school this summer. Both have teaching positions in Maury next year.

The average American family uses 788 tin cans a year.

Plans No Inquest In Man's Death

Coroner Griffin Rouse said today no inquest was planned in the death of 21-year-old Percell Flythe, of near Bell Arthur, early Tuesday morning.

The Negro farm hand on the R. A. McLawhorn farm, Greenville Route 1, apparently suffered from a heart attack, said Rouse.

Hal Boyle . . .

he saw or not, at least wasn't afraid to look in all directions.

Across America if, in any town, large or small, you will stroll through any public park in clear weather just before the sun begins to ride the sky you will often see old men. They may be just strolling, or, if the benches are dry, they'll just be sitting, admiring the new day, or remembering an earlier one.

You will see few old ladies abroad at that hour, nursing their cats, although there are old men. And it isn't because the old ladies are afraid to be out at that time. If old ladies are afraid of anything, it is to be alone in houses at night.

The elderly men hobble out, not because their beds are uncomfortable, but because of a pull deeper than they know.

They may be retired from a job, but they are called forth by the majestic summons of morning, as all men are, and they live again earlier mornings gone before, in the days when they cast a longer shadow than they do not at sunset.

Morning always has blown a bugle cry to the heart of man, and will forever on this spinning earth until it halts, and we all fall off.
