

Capacity Crowd Of Pupils Stated In City Schools On Opening Day Enrollment Of At Least 200 More Than Last Year Expected By Superintendent

By EDWINA HAYMES, Reflector Staff Writer. City schools are expected to be filled to capacity on opening day of the 1955-56 term tomorrow. Superintendent J. H. Rose said today...

Rose said an enrollment of "at least" 4,200 children, 200 more than last year, is expected. "Unless a lot of people have moved away, we will have at least 200 more students in school here this year," he declared.

A staff of 146 teachers, five more than last year, has been employed. The schools open tomorrow at 8:40 a.m. observing the same organization as last year. The high school will operate until noon, while the elementary schools will close when all assignments have been given.

Monday, which is Labor Day, will be a holiday, and a full schedule will begin Tuesday. All lunchrooms, with the possible exception of the Elmhurst cafeteria, will open on Tuesday. Rose reported that a refrigeration unit necessary for the operation of the Elmhurst lunchroom is enroute here but has been delayed because of transportation difficulties in the flooded north-eastern states.

A brief ceremony tomorrow morning will mark the opening of the new Elmhurst elementary school, with formal ceremonies to be scheduled at a later date.

The superintendent noted that because of the hurricanes and the recent rains the city has been unable to pave the streets in the Elmhurst area, though the curb and gutters have been installed. Temporary measures have been taken by covering the drives with crushed stone. "We will have them paved as soon as possible," Rose said.

Textbooks and supplies have been delivered to the schools, the superintendent reported, "and everything is in readiness for the opening."

A general teachers' meeting was held this afternoon at the C. M. Epps School, with another scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock at Greenville High School. Guest for these meetings is Dr. Vester M. Mulholland, former Greenville High School principal who now serves as director of research for the State Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. Mulholland is speaking to the teachers on the recent concerning public education. Also in attendance at these sessions are members of the City School Board and Mayor W. L. Whedbee.

Teachers have been working at their various schools all day today in preparation for the beginning of the new term.

Aim To Further Cut Leaf Output

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Action aimed at further reduction of quotas for next year's flue-cured tobacco crop will be considered at a meeting of farm leaders Sept. 10 at Raleigh.

R. Flake Shaw, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, said leaders from the five Southern states in the flue-cured belt will meet to decide on a plan of action with regard to the tobacco surplus situation.

"So many tobacco farmers feel that the 12 per cent reduction in tobacco acreage for next year isn't enough," he said.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson today has set a 12 per cent reduction of quotas for 1956. The meeting was called in the wake of declining tobacco prices, some markets delivering nearly half the offerings to the Stabilization Corp. under the government loan program.

Besides farm organization officials from Virginia, Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas, Clarence Miller, head of the U.S. Agriculture Department's tobacco branch, will attend.

Assigning Pupils Policy Retained

A resolution calling for assignment of students in the Greenville city schools under the same regulations as applied last year was passed today by the City Board of Education.

In a 12:30 p.m. meeting in the office of Superintendent J. H. Rose, the Board resolved "That each child residing in this Administrative Unit shall be assigned to and enrolled in the school to which he would have been assigned under the rules of administrative policy followed by the Board and the State Board of Education during the 1954-55 school term."

Authority for assignment and enrollment of children in the public school was delegated to the county and city boards of education by the 1955 General Assembly.

In its resolution today the City Board of Education pointed out that the organization of the city schools had been completed prior to the passage of the revised school laws of the state, and "insufficient time has been provided for the adoption by this Board of detailed, permanent rules and regulations for the assignment and enrollment of children, and for a study of the new problems presented to this Board by the recent Supreme Court decision and state legislation affecting segregation."

Peron 'Offers' To Resign Leadership

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Juan D. Peron offered to resign today. The response was mass demonstrations of strength by his followers who insisted that he continue in office.

He addressed his offer to the Central Confederation of Labor (CGT) and the leadership of his own Peronista party. Both clearly had been primed to receive and reject it.

The long message said: "The time for fighting has passed. The time has come to work and consolidate our revolutionary gains. I offer my resignation to insure pacification. I do not want to be an obstacle. It is not possible to destroy what we have built."

"I speak of civil war," it continued. "I do not believe it will happen here. There will be peace or dictatorship. I have no taste for dictatorship. If that is the solution, someone else will have to do it."

First word of the message came in a broadcast by Hugo Di Pietro, CGT secretary, who summoned workers to the Plaza de Mayo in the heart of the capital and to plazas in other cities and towns and instructed them to remain there until the President withdraws his resignation offer.

Di Pietro also called a general "stoppage of activities" throughout the country for 15 minutes beginning at 5 p.m. today, excluding only essential public services. Offices, stores and factories began closing soon after he spoke.

Peron arrived at his office in the Casa Rosada (Pink House) government headquarters at his usual early hour. It appeared that he was waiting for the crowd to grow big enough before stepping out on a balcony to address it.

An announcement came from Peron's own office. The CGO, however, is in effect a part of the Peron government and Di Pietro has almost the status of an official spokesman.

Offices, stores and factories quickly closed after Di Pietro's broadcast. The Ministry of War building across the Plaza de Mayo from the government headquarters was surrounded by field guns and companies of troops.

U. S. Disarming Proposal Studied

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Members of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee today studied a U.S. proposal to merge American and Soviet plans for inspection machinery to prevent surprise attacks.

The new American plan was outlined in detail yesterday to the five-nation subcommittee by Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament and the U.S. representative at the arms talks which opened here Monday.

Stassen recommended that Eisenhower's Geneva proposal for a Soviet-American exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection rights be combined with the previous Russian suggestion that ground inspection teams be stationed at key ports, airports and railway and road junctions to check on movements of troops and armaments.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev was expected to comment on the new American plan before the end of the week. A highly placed American source said if the subcommittee, which also includes representatives of France, Britain and Canada, did not adopt the U.S. plan, approval would be sought in the parent 12-nation Disarmament Commission and in the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 20 if necessary.

Stassen told the group yesterday aerial inspection and exchange of defense blueprints, together with ground observer checks, would provide a foolproof safeguard against surprise attack by either Russia or United States.

Leaf Mart Continues To Pick Up

Sales continued heavy on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday as the market continued to strengthen as it has since opening day.

A total of 1,601,400 pounds of tobacco was sold in Greenville yesterday bringing $728,754.58 for an average of $45.50 per hundred.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said the quality of leaf on yesterday's sales was down from Monday's offerings with a large quantity of low grade primings on yesterday's sale. He pointed out, however, that the market appears to be strengthening daily and that the amount of tobacco going under government loan to the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. is decreasing daily.

There was a heavy sale on Greenville warehouse floors today and full sales are expected the remainder of the week as the Greenville market along with other markets in the big Eastern Belt go on short sales schedule.

Beginning Thursday all markets on the Eastern Belt will observe a three and one-half sales day until further notice. The announcement of curtailment of sales from five and one-half hours daily to three and one-half was made officially yesterday morning. Fred S. Royster, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said the cut was necessary because of the large amount of tobacco going to stabilization.

Even with the three and one-half hour a day sales schedule, the Greenville market will be able to sell 7,000 baskets of leaf per day and will maintain its five full sales of buyers, Whedbee said. Sales will begin each day at 9 a. m. and continue until approximately 1 p. m.

Border Belt Has Moderate Drop

RALEIGH (AP)—Most grades of Eastern North Carolina flue-cured tobacco yesterday brought higher average prices but there was a decline in the North Carolina-South Carolina Border Belt.

Prices of $1 to $3 per 100 pounds on the Eastern Belt were reported by the Federal-State Market News Service. Some losses were recorded. Volume was heavy.

The average price Monday of $48.56 per 100 pounds for 13,869,775 pounds was up $1.86 from last Friday and 70 cents over opening day. The Stabilization Corp. took 26.8 per cent of Monday's gross sales, sending to 36.8 per cent of the average price.

Declines on the Border Belt markets were for inferior grades, while cutters, smoking leaf and top quality lugs were unchanged to $1 higher. About 70 per cent of offerings were leaf.

Monday's sales of 9,306,838 pounds brought an average of $55.18 per 100 pounds, up $1.42 over Friday. South Carolina markets sold 5,068,310 pounds for an average of $54.50 and North Carolina markets sold 4,238,528 pounds for an average of $55.69.

Some of the best averages per 100 pounds on the Eastern Belt Monday. Leaf—good lemon 62, fair lemon 59, fair orange 57, low lemon 54, low orange 50. Main Street In Ayden Is Getting Coat Of Asphalt AYDEN—The main street here is getting a new coat of asphalt today. Lee St., which is N. C. 11 through Ayden, is being resurfaced through town.

Highway Engineer R. Markham said the job will involve no widening. It is expected to be finished some time Friday, he stated.

Several alleys in town will also be surfaced while the paving machines are in Ayden. A number of other streets are scheduled to be paved by the town but the work will not be done at present due to the wet condition of the streets.

Boys Trapped In An Old Ice Box

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Two small Negroes were rescued yesterday from an abandoned ice box where they faced possible suffocation.

Juvenile detectives checking vandalism heard a pounding inside the box at Arthur King's garage. Inside they found King's stepson, James Yates, 10, and his half-brother, James King, 11. King said he stayed at Oma Thompson, 8, apparently had put the boys in the box and forgotten about them.

Object To Sharing Blame For Border Violence Israel Balks At Cease-Fire

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel bled today at joining Egypt in a cease-fire on the strife-torn Gaza front, demanding that Egypt first take the blame for starting border violence that continued into the seventh straight day.

Israel's resentment was aimed in part at the phrasing of the U.N.-proposed cease-fire order. An Israeli government spokesman here said it put "Israel, which was being attacked and invaded by terrorist hands on the same level as Egypt, which is the attacker."

It was regarded highly unlikely Egypt would acknowledge itself the aggressor. Egypt agreed yesterday to a cease-fire beginning today. The population was designed to halt the weeklong outbreak of pitched battles, infiltrations, and ambushes that has left more than a score of Israelis and Egyptians dead and many others wounded. In Cairo, an Egyptian communiqué said Egyptian commandos had entered Israeli territory and blown up a broadcasting station only six miles from Tel Aviv. It said the commandos also had blasted two Israeli armored cars near Magdal.

These commandos were believed to be irregulars operating across the frontier in retaliation for continuing Israeli attacks, according to Egyptian observers. Before the Cairo communiqué was issued, Egyptian newspapers said commandos had penetrated Israel for about 25 miles yesterday to carry out a punitive action against the population killing 15 to 20 Israelis.

The only reference to such raids from the Israeli side was the announcement by a military spokesman here that infiltrators fired at or midnight on a military car near Falujah in southern Israel, wounding one of the occupants. Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of staff to the U.N. Palestine Truce Observers Commission, is trying strenuously to restore peace to the troubled border area where at least 21 Israelis and 8 Egyptians have been killed since last Thursday.

A U.N. Commission spokesman said Israeli Premier Moshe Sharet's government replied last night to Burns' proposal for a cease-fire with a request that Burns get Egypt's acknowledgment of responsibility for the past week's bloodshed. A letter setting forth Israel's views was signed by Arthur Lourie, deputy director general of the Foreign Office.

A later U.N. announcement said Israeli authorities, in view of further border incidents last night, "were doubtful of whether to accept the (cease-fire) proposal, and it was stated the final decision would not be made until the morning of Aug. 31."

The Israeli government spokesman took exception to this announcement, saying Israel's answer was contained in Lourie's letter. "We now are waiting for Egypt's reply," he added.

Lourie's letter demanded that Egypt, in addition to acknowledging responsibility for starting the attacks, give "guarantees for immediate, complete, and definitive cessation of all further hostile acts."

Despite the deadlock in getting full agreement over a cease-fire, Burns persevered in trying to get agreement on ending "all raiding, sabotage and mining" in the tense border area.

A U.N. spokesman said the situation in the area is "very serious" and that Burns "is in constant touch with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, informing him of developments."

Israeli sources said two Jews riding in a truck were ambushed and killed on Israel's southern coastal plain north of Gaza last night.

An Israeli army spokesman early today said infiltrators fired at a military vehicle near Savidel, damaging the car, but the troops were not hurt.

Israel also charged that Egyptian infiltrators blew up a radio tower Monday night near Kubeba, on the coastal plain. A spokesman also reported that infiltrators threw grenades into a house in the Nachalim settlement, wounding one person.

Burns' proposal for a cease-fire was transmitted to Egypt through Col. Salah Gohar, director of the Palestine Department of the Egyptian Ministry of War. A communiqué said the Egyptian government accepted immediately.

Further Trouble For 'Forrestal'

ABOARD THE CARRIER FORRESTAL (AP)—Further engine trouble will bring the giant supercarrier, Forrestal, back to the Newport News, Va., shipyard today, powered by only two shafts.

A second of the huge carrier's four propeller shafts developed difficulty late yesterday as the ship was continuing under way at a test speed of 40 m.p.h. The shaft had been knocked out by a burned thrust bearing.

A shipyard spokesman said the second shaft was secured last night and the vessel made plans to return to port about 48 hours ahead of the original five-day trial run schedule. The ship was originally scheduled to return Friday, and yesterday this was upped to Thursday.

The Forrestal is now scheduled to arrive off the shipyard at Newport News between 4 and 4:30 p.m. today.

Following the first shaft knock-out yesterday, builders said they still hoped to deliver the 60,000-ton flat-top to the Navy Sept. 29, as scheduled. There was no indication today whether the new trouble would alter this.

The first difficulty developed yesterday as the carrier was ploughing through the Atlantic about 100 miles off Cape Henry, Va. The loss of power through one shaft forced postponement of speed trials, to the disappointment of the 2,300 persons aboard.

Since the Forrestal left port Monday observers had been waiting to see whether the carrier could better the 40-m.p.h. speed Secretary of the Navy Thomas has said she could attain.

There were indications today tests other than the speed trials would be curtailed on this run. After the first shaft was rendered inoperative, plans were made to continue work on steering and damage control gear, ammunition hoists and radio antenna masts.

If the world's biggest warship is delivered to the navy on schedule, commissioning ceremonies are scheduled for Oct. 1.

Refuses Enroll 2 Negro Pupils

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP)—Two first-year Negro high school students attempted to enroll in Scotland Neck's white high school when it opened yesterday.

Principal W. W. Woodard refused to enroll the two girls who were accompanied by their fathers. The incident was the first of its kind reported in Halifax County where the Negro population outnumbered the white.

The two students were identified by W. H. Overman, Halifax County school superintendent as Flora Moore and Sylvia Manley. They had enrolled Wednesday at the Negro high school, Overman said.

Overman said Woodard told the girls' fathers that the Halifax County Board of Education adopted a resolution in August declaring that the county schools would operate this year under the same practices with respect to transportation, assignment and enrollment of pupils as were in effect last year.

Fathers of the two girls, R. L. Moore and R. D. Manley, were quoted as saying the U.S. Supreme Court had ruled children could attend schools of their choice and the two girls later returned to the Negro high school.

City Tax Notices Being Sent Out

Notices for 1955 city taxes are now being sent out, City Clerk H. H. Lunceau said this morning.

He noted that persons paying their taxes in September will receive a one per cent reduction for early payment. Those paying in October are to receive a 1/2 per cent cut in their tax bill. The full amount must be paid during the months of November, December and January.

After that, late payers must fork over a penalty when they pay their taxes according to the city clerk.

Those paying in February will find their tax bill increased by one per cent. An additional one per cent will be added during March and for every month thereafter an additional penalty of 1/2 per cent will be added to the bill.

Preparation and mailing of all the notices will take about a month, Lunceau said. Those at the top of the alphabet will receive their notices first.

Worthington Raises Old Issue Of 'Whammy' In Speeding Case

The mechanical speed clock, known as the "whammy" and used by law enforcement officers for timing the speed of highway travelers, came under attack in this morning's session of Pitt County Superior Court.

Sam O. Worthington, counsel for Leron Haddock, of Calico, charged with speeding 85 miles per hour, questioned the accuracy of the clock in use by State Highway Patrolman Bill Whitehurst when Haddock was arrested March 11.

The jury, which had not reached a verdict at noon today, had been instructed by Judge William J. Bundy to return a verdict of guilty of speeding in excess of 55 miles per hour or guilty of speeding in excess of 75 miles per hour. Haddock, by between 65 and 70 just prior to being cited by Whitehurst.

Meanwhile, in cases disposed of yesterday, Fred Pugh, alias Fred Moore, received a prison sentence of not less than four nor more than five years on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny. Three similar cases against Pugh, a Negro, were not pressed with leave and he was found not guilty on still another count.

Harold Harper Joyner was fined $100 and costs after he pled guilty to drunk driving. He was arrested by Patrolman D. L. Minshew. Clarence Leo Chapman was fined $25 and costs for speeding and passing at an intersection after the court heard testimony from Highway Patrolman Bill Whitehurst.

Parental Security Risk Cost His Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 26-year-old Navy veteran told senators today he was fired from a Navy civilian job as a security risk on grounds his mother and father were in a subversive organization, but was never told the name of the organization.

Joseph H. Summers Jr. of Providence, R. I., said it was suggested to him it "might be a little different if I didn't live with them."

His mother, Mrs. Pauline Summers, who sat with him at the witness table, testified she never had belonged to any organization she knew to be considered Communist or subversive by the government.

She said she did belong to the left-wing Progressive party, whose 1948 presidential nominee was Henry A. Wallace; to the International Women's League for Peace and Freedom, and the World Affairs Council. None of these is on the attorney general's subversive list.

Summers, who was on active duty with the Navy from 1951 to 1953, got a probationary job as a metal smith's helper at the Quonset Point, R.I., Naval Air Station last January and was a fighter pilot. He was dismissed July 29.

"They told me it had nothing to do with me," he testified. "My record was clean. It was my parents."

"They told me my parents were in some organization on the subversive list. They wouldn't tell me what. I tried to get that information and they wouldn't give it to me."

The Navy could fire him without filing formal charges or giving him a hearing since he did not have permanent Civil Service status.

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC), chairman of the Civil Service subcommittee which is investigating the federal employment security program, commented:

"This case will show the public how they can run these numbers into the hundreds of thousands, and still crucify the characters of many people."

Democrats have contended the Eisenhower administration has pushed up the number of security risks it lists as dismissed from the government.

Summers said he never had belonged to any organization he knew to be disloyal to the country. Asked if he had been a member at all, he said:

"Well, I was in the Boy Scouts."

Neighborhood In Uproar Over Child In America

NEWTON, LE-WILLOWS, England (AP)—A railroad man and his wife who gave their youngest child to an American couple were in seclusion today to escape angry protests from their neighbors.

About 200 neighbors shouted insults outside the Thomas McDonagh home last night when word spread that McDonagh's wife Lillian, 34 had returned from the United States. She left her 10-month-old daughter Joyce in Holly Hill, S.C. with U.S. Air Force Sgt. George Vininsky and his wife.

When the McDonaghs arrived and saw the demonstrating neighbors, they drove off to the country. Earlier at London airport Mrs. McDonagh told reporters: "My little girl is happy over there. She's got a good home."

Miss McArthur Is Honored On Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE—Friday evening Mrs. Stewart McArthur honored her daughter at a dinner party in their home on North Main St. The occasion was the sixteenth birthday of Miss Ruthie McArthur. After the arrival of the 35 guests, a cold plate with iced tea was served to each, followed by black ice cream and cake which carried out the pink and white color scheme. Before the meal, the birthday cake formed the centerpiece for the dining table. This was flanked by candelabra holding lighted pink tapers. Vases of asters intermingled with fern completed the decorations.

After the honoree unwrapped her many nice gifts and put them on display she and her schoolmates enjoyed reminiscing. The young players then furnished entertainment for the group of young people. Mrs. McArthur and her daughter said the goodbyes at the end of a very pleasant evening.

QUESTION: How much Automobile Liability insurance would you say a car owner should carry?

ANSWER: The exact amount is a figure to be decided between the car owner and a good insurance agent. However we can state positively that minimum coverages are not enough and that much greater protection costs very little more.

Another Look At Utilities Rates

It is time for Greenville's Utilities Commission to again consider the possibilities of reducing electric power rates which are charged residents within the corporate limits of the city as well as those in rural areas served by Greenville lines.

The official audit of the Utilities fiscal year which ended last June 30 shows a net profit of $451,775 after paying operation expenses, interest on outstanding debts, retiring its scheduled amount of bonds, and turning over $142,500 to the city's general fund.

That, it appears to us is a tidy profit from utilities operations.

It was a little more than two years ago that Greenville's Utilities Commission last gave serious, official consideration to a reduction in electric power rates. At that time, following an engineer's study, the Commission had about decided to make a five per cent across-the-board reduction in electric rates. Just prior to the move, however, the newly-elected City Council appealed to the Utilities Commissioners to increase the utilities turnover to the city's general fund from $82,500 annually to $142,500 annually.

The Commissioners, in granting the increase in turnover to the city, made it clear that both the increase in turnover and a decrease in electric power rates could not be effected at the same time. The proposed five per cent reduction in rates was shelved and has been gathering dust ever since.

The Reflector feels it is time to dust off the proposal or to work out a new one if the 1953 study is now too outdated to be of value.

Let's compare some figures.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953—a year in which the Utilities Commission turned over $82,500 to the city general fund—the net Utilities profit after its turnover to the city stood at $340,975.

For the fiscal year which ended last June 30—a year during which the Utilities turned over $142,500 to the city general fund—net profit of the Utilities after its turnover to the city stood at $351,775.59, or $10,800 more than when the city was receiving only $82,500 annually from Utilities coffers.

In fairness to the people of Greenville and to its thousands of other customers outside the corporate limits of this city, The Reflector feels it is time for the Utilities Commission to renew the studies of its rate structure with an eye to a rate reduction.

Older Demos Stole The YDC Publicity

By LYNN NISBET

The Governor, the Senators and the Congressmen got most of the publicity at the Young Democratic Clubs "report to the people" rally, and a lot more people heard that part of the program. Even more than listened to the big speakers at the barbecue. The 100 or so Young Democrats (up to 70 years old) who heard the "workshop program" earlier in the afternoon voted it the most profitable part of the rally.

Sponsored directly by the University YDC at Chapel Hill, the workshop idea is in line with educational policies begun when the State YDC was reactivated after the war.

Secretary of State Thad Eure discussed the organization of the Democratic party in North Carolina; Terry Sanford, former State YDC president, State senator and campaign manager for Kerr Scott in 1954, talk about what to do and not do in political campaigns; Dr. E. J. Woodhouse, retired professor of political at Chapel Hill, traced the history of the Democratic party.

EURE — After explaining how the party organization begins in the precinct and works up through counties and districts to the state and national conventions and committees, Eure emphasized the importance of the individual voter in the whole scheme. As to objectives and purposes of the party organization, he said there are five major items.

First in importance is influencing and directing governmental policy. A necessary adjunct to that objective is formulating public opinion to support the policy adopted. On the practical side is the choosing of candidates in the primary to achieve the next objective of winning the election. The fifth purpose of party organization is to procure salaries for faithful party members. Eure believes in the Jacksonian theory that to the victors belong the spoils, and in Democratic governments he wants Democratic officials and employees. He doesn't want any other kind of government than Democratic at any level.

SANFORD — Terry Sanford deplored the increasing high cost of political campaigns, not only in money but in the time of editors and morals. He pleaded for more emphasis upon the virtues of the favored candidate, less upon the incompetence of the opponents. Since Democratic nomination is equivalent to election for most offices in North Carolina, he devoted major attention to the conduct of primary campaigns.

He urged more careful attention to the spending of money in order to reduce campaign costs, tightening of organizations instead of promiscuous payments by several candidates to the same workers; and reappraisal of the value of publicity media. He thinks there had been a lot of money wasted in newspaper advertising, but not nearly so much as in radio and television. Printed publicity is still the most economic method of getting the message across, but radio and TV have definite place in the scheme. Because these media are newer there is less intelligent use made of them. Last minute charges and counter-charges have little real effect on the voters, he thinks, and serve mainly to make the newspapers and other media rich.

In answer to a question from the audience as to where campaign funds come from, he said a large part, "too much of it," comes from sources which hope to exercise some control over the officials after they have been elected. He urged fewer large donations from special groups, more little contributions from individual citizens interested in good government rather than special privilege.

He did not impute to any elected official the inclination to serve the interest of the party. Dr. Woodhouse had provided most of the war chest for his campaign, but admitted that pressure may be great and demands sometimes very hard to deny.

WAREHOUSE — In tracing the history of the Democratic party, Dr. Woodhouse went a lot farther back than did Eure. He said the Democratic party in the United States is one of the oldest continuing political organizations in the world, and in its antecedents goes back to Alfred the Great in the ninth century. Its dominant element is rule of the people, by the people and for the people. In that concept majorities must control, but minorities must be recognized.

He said the Democratic party has pretty well adhered to its original principles through all the years, while the Republican party has forgotten the dictum of its founder expressed by Lincoln in his Gettysburg address—"government of the people, by the people and for the people." It has become a party devoted to the philosophy of "government of the people, by the few, for the few."

One of the weaknesses in the Democratic system is the failure to train leaders to take over the job as older men are forced to surrender their duties. He thinks YDC is doing a fine service in that field, and believes North Carolina is in better shape for leadership than the nation or most other States.

He adverted to the matter of campaign contributions and threw out the suggestion, without positive recommendation, that the British system of nominal membership fees in the party might be adapted to this country. Nobody can vote in a British party convention unless he is in "good standing" with the treasurer, having paid his party dues. He can still vote in the general election, but not in the nomination conventions.

Dr. Woodhouse did not elaborate on that point, but if each of the 796,306 Democrats who voted for Governor in 1952 had paid 25 cents "party dues" there would have been about $200,000 in the party treasury for the campaign. And that's a heck of a lot more than was reported, and probably a good deal more than was really spent.

Insurance Probe Should Clear Away The Smoke

It is entirely fitting that the office of Insurance Commissioner of North Carolina investigate thoroughly the widespread reports of insurance cancellations along the coastal areas lashed by recent hurricanes.

Commissioner Gold's office would be negligent in its duty to the people of the state if it allowed the reports of insurance cancellations to go unnoticed.

A considerable number of property owners in the hard-hit area have reported their insurance cancelled. There are likewise reports that some policy holders had their insurance cancelled by companies while hurricane warnings were up along the Carolina coast. On the other hand there have been conflicting reports by insurance companies, agents and insurance organizations. While asserting that the market for insurance of property along the coast is becoming restricted, one group insists that reports of cancellations "are exaggerated and that incidents of cancellation are isolated."

It is up to the Insurance Commissioner to get to the bottom of the situation and make his own evaluation.

It cannot be denied that insurance companies which carried policies on coastal property suffered heavy losses in hurricane Hazel, and also suffered losses during the two hurricanes this summer. It must also be remembered that property owners themselves—even those who carried insurance—likewise suffered severe losses during the big storms.

With the conflicting reports from insurance representatives and property owners, it appears the only way to bring the real picture into correct focus is for the Insurance Commissioner's office to conduct a complete investigation. A deputy commissioner for North Carolina has been assigned the task. It may take some time to gather all the necessary facts in the case, but results of a thorough investigation will be in the interest of the insurance companies as well as the people of the state.

Parents Have A Part In School Work Too

Some 12,000 Pitt County youngsters have given up their summer vacations, and returned to books, teachers, blackboards and desks.

Tomorrow another 4,500 youngsters in Greenville will follow the lead of other counterparts in other communities of the county and begin another school term.

The beginning of a new school year, significant as it is for the more than 16,000 children who will attend public schools in this county this year, is no less significant for the parents of those children.

Teachers and school officials alone cannot carry out all the tasks and responsibilities for operating successful public schools. They rely upon parents of the youngsters who fill the classrooms for a great deal of support that often spells the difference between a highly successful and mediocre school year.

This year, as in past years, schools throughout the county will need a great deal of help from adults in the various communities.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Why Pamper The Flunkers?

The Tulsa Tribune

The Declaration of Independence notes that one of the inalienable rights of man is the "pursuit of happiness." But the right to pursue it is all that is assured. There is no guarantee of happiness itself.

A similar fact applies to college. The taxpayer is expected to provide youth with an opportunity to obtain an education. But until someone devises a way of injecting knowledge into the skull with a hypodermic needle, there can be no guarantee of an education, per se.

That thought may have been in the mind of Henryetta's Editor, J. Leland Gourley when he suggested recently that, instead of raising college entrance fees too sharply, we might penalize the student who fails to pass his courses yet wants to continue college's privileges and pleasures.

Gourley proposes the doubling or tripling of the so-called "flunk fee," a charge made a student when he fails a course and then wants to try it again. "If the college kids goof off and don't make the grade," he says, "they should have to pay for their own mistakes. It is not fair to make the hard-working taxpayer give the same class twice to a bunch of playboys."

Editor Gourley's point may be weak in economics but it is strong in logic. Only a small percentage of all students at Norman or Stillwater flunk courses then arrange to try them again. The revenue from that source would not solve the financial plight of the institutions.

But such a plan might be an eye-opener to the lackadaisical, loafing boy or girl who really is more interested in social life even though there are but a few of them, they take more than they give. And they do occupy seats which—in view of our overcrowding—could be used by a boy or girl willing to work hard enough not to flunk.

Seldom does life give a man a cost-free privilege of trying again what he did badly the first time, when it was his own fault. That's true whether it is a flubbed golf shot or a defect in the design of a bridge. We're doing a disservice to the college student if we teach him to expect it.

Adult Education Roadblocks

Yesterday Coach Jack Boone came by with Athlete Director N. M. Jorgensen and Assistant Coach Earl Smith. They were contacting Pirates Club members for renewal of their seats before opening the sale to others.

Jack said they had already hit the 700 mark and had not even touched the East Carolina faculty. So it seems that the 1955 season will be a boom season in football attendance here in Greenville, just as it has been a boom year in business and hurricanes.

Yesterday we were discussing at the store the beginning of the school year and how glad we are that we do not have to go. In a way this is an alarming situation. Most adults spend little or no time searching new fields after they leave school. This applies to me and most people I know.

Perhaps the biggest enemy to the private education of an adult is the lack of desire. Second would be laziness and third would be long working hours. Or perhaps you consider the third one, long working hours, to be of first importance.

It's a cliché that the average person doesn't feel like intensive study after a hard day's work. But just a few minutes a day would help. And one of the most important fields for study and meditation that is neglected is of course religion.

In addition to my need for religious study, I personally should learn Spanish. Last night I was talking to Argentina and kicked myself for my lack of knowledge of the language. Bill's English was fine. He was an excellent conversationalist, but after a few minutes his English ran out. What a shame that we couldn't take over in Spanish.

This situation that I am pointing out is not entirely accurate, for there are many adult education courses in session. Many adults are taking time to go to school even after long working hours. This is especially true in many of the large cities. But not enough; many people are just as lazy as I am.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

Notebook On Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—For as long as he could remember, 11-year-old Danny Essoyan dreamed of seeing America.

Danny, whose grandparents were stateless refugees from Armenia, was born in Shanghai and raised in Hawaii.

His father, Roy, an Associated Press newsmen in Honolulu won his U.S. citizenship a few years ago, and it was hard to tell who was prouder that day, father or son.

This summer Roy came to New York in advance of his assignment to the Moscow AP bureau. For Danny this was exciting news: On the way to Russia he would at last get to see the United States.

He did see it. He saw it for three wonderful weeks. And then he died . . . suddenly and unexpectedly . . . at the height of his happiness. Death came to Danny on Aug. 21.

After he buried Danny here in the land of his boyhood dreams, Roy Essoyan went to his typewriter and wrote the saddest obituary of his newspaper career:

"This is a tribute to the most wonderful boy in the world, my son. He was unique as every boy is unique. He was the most wonderful child in the world. The great outdoors was his playground and the blue Pacific his swimming pool. He loved to romp in the surf. He was shy and slim but strong-chested and deeply tanned. Danny spent his first couple of days in New York City riding up and down the hotel elevator making friends with the bellhops, running errands for his mother and baby sister, Catherine. He explored the 5-and-10-cent stores, the Central Park zoo, the busy streets near the hotel. He went to the Museum of Natural History twice and wandered open-

TOO MUCH PAMPERING

It is widely recognized among flower growers that if potted plants are watered too much or watered altogether from the top, they do not develop an adequate root system. They grow lazy and the evidence of their decline is a profusion of yellow leaves. The plants are only healthy if they have to dig down into the soil, hunting for moisture. If it is poured upon them without any effort on their part they soon fall into decline.

Thousands of parents continually say, "I don't want any youngsters to have to scrape and sacrifice as I did. I want them to have advantages. We have enough income to give them everything they want, and we are going to do it."

Demos Prepare Now For 1956 Election

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Representative Francis E. Walter's current investigation of alleged Communist sympathizers in Hollywood and on Capitol Hill is destined basically to free Democrats of repeatedly Republican charges that the party had been "tolerant" of Reds inside and outside the government.

The Pennsylvania Chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee is extremely close to Speaker Sam Rayburn, who originated the strategy of removing any Red stain from his beloved party for the 1956 Presidential campaign. In carrying out the carefully planned program, Walter has pulled no punches.

He seeks to expose Hollywood figures (mostly minor ones), although the movie colony generally supported the New Deal and its exponents—F.D.R. and Harry S. Truman. The Capitol Hill fellow-travelers, under his fire infiltrated the staffs of key Senate Committees, he charges.

Control of Congress. In his zeal to remove this issue from American politics, a consummation also desired by President Eisenhower Chairman Walter will let the chips fall where they may. DEMOCRATS' COUNTEROFFENSIVE Besides providing inspiration for the Walter counteroffensive, Speaker Rayburn has supplied Democratic candidates and speakers with other data to straighten out the cord on Communism in the United States. Party publications at Democratic National Headquarters here will soon issue a campaign pamphlet on the subject.

It will note that it was a Democratic Senate which "censured" the man who once assailed the Democrats as "the Party of Treason"—Senator McCarthy. But it will also emphasize that even the Administration, though Eisenhower profited from McCarthy's indictment in 1952, finally had to disown the Wisconsin Senator. And another GOP-er who echoed McCarthy's jibes a few years ago—Vice-President Nixon—was chosen as the agent to discredit the Democrats' detractor.

RAYBURN'S OUTLINE OF PART. RECORD The shrewd Speaker has quietly outlined for the Democrats an itemized anti-Communist platform and record for use in next year's effort to recapture the White House and to retain its control of Congress. Here it is:

Foreign Policy: The Democrats gave greater support than Republicans did to these Eisenhower efforts to thwart the Soviet's overseas expansion—authorization for use of U.S. Forces to protect Formosa against Chinese Communists; extension of the Mutual Security Pact in Western Europe; ratification of the Southeast Asia Defense Pact against Indo-China Reds; approval of the agreement for restoring freedom and sovereignty to West Germany as a defense bastion.

National Defense: Extension of the draft of civilians for military service for four years; establishment of a long-range and permanent Reserve System to provide a trained stand-by force; renewal of the Defense Production Act as a reserve for production of military weapons; additional funds for expansion of atomic power and warships; enactment of anti-sabotage measures in the atomic field; provision of severe penalties for disloyal or subversive persons engaged in the overthrow of the government.

Economic Offensive: Extension of the Reciprocal Trade Program for three years over stiff Republican Conservatives' opposition; approval of an International Finance Corporation to stimulate foreign trade and investment, thereby strengthening the economies of anti-Communist members of the Western Alliance.

COMMUNISM NO ISSUE IN 1956 Ironically, despite Speaker Sam's preparation to meet and rebut a renewal of this kind of attack on the Democratic Party and candidate, whether he be Adlai E. Stevenson or Governor Averell Harriman of New York, it is probable that communism in any form will not be an issue in next year's Presidential struggle.

President Eisenhower has apparently eliminated it by his present attempt to come to an inviolable terms with Moscow. And it was a distinguished Democrat, Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, who gave the green light for current negotiations to that purpose with the Kremlin and with Mac Tsing-tung. It is therefore, a bipartisan attempt to end the "Cold War."

If the peace movement should collapse between now and the 1956 election, and if the GOP should try to revive the ancient charge of "Democratic softness" toward the Reds, Speaker Sam thinks he has furnished the answer. Moreover, he believes that he has wiped out memories of the Yalta and Potsdam "sell-outs."

Lesson In Houseware Displays

By ELMER ROESSNER

Now it's public utility that is telling retailers how to display housewares. The utility is the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company. Its interest is the fact that the more housewares people buy, the more gas and electricity they burn up.

The utility's seven suggestions are good for far more cities than Cincinnati, and they can be applied to almost every kind of merchandising. That's why they are reported here:

1. Be sure merchandise has the dominant point of interest. Center of window isn't always the focal point. Use strong contrast between the merchandise and the background.

2. Display related goods together: coffee makers and toasters, not coffee makers and hedge shears. Make displays neat and clean cut.

3. Let the merchandise have plenty of air. It's hard to see an individual item when the display is cluttered. One item well displayed will sell more than 100 different ones. A mass display may be used occasionally, but limit it to a single model.

4. Keep the display simple. Show just a few items. Use very few signs, but show price tags. Backgrounds and display fixtures are secondary to the merchandise. Violent colors and designs in backgrounds will make them of primary interest.

5. No display is visible without light. The more light, the easier the merchandise will be seen. Be sure the name of the store is visible for the shopper who wants to phone.

6. Use the display material the manufacturer provides. It is generally well designed and enables the dealer to be part of a national program.

Not one of these suggestions is completely new; not one of them has not been ignored with great success some time or other. But the ideas are worth looking at again by merchants planning new displays.

PHONES REPLACING OLD FIRE BOXES

An increasing number of cities are dropping the familiar red fire alarm boxes and installing telephones instead. The American Municipal Association reports:

This usually makes more business for the phone company and less for the alarm companies.

In Roanoke, Va. the city's telephones at various street corners can also be used for policemen's calls to headquarters and for citizens' calls to officials.

AUCTION IN REVERSE CLEARS SLOW-MOVERS

What's called a "Chinese auction" has been helping a Texas store clear out sluggish merchandise.

Slow-movers are displayed in a special window and the prices are lowered each day for several days until sold. Signs in the window resemble Chinese brush writing and background music for the store's radio commercials. It's "Chinatown, My Chinatown."

CALIFORNIA TAKES LEAD IN REINFORCED PLASTICS

California is one of the booming spots in reinforced plastics, according to reports to the Society of the Plastics Industry.

There are now more than 50 companies in the state manufacturing reinforced plastics, and the total output is estimated at more than $100,000,000 a year. That's about a quarter of all reinforced materials, the most common being fibrous glass.

WANTS STERNER LAWS ON SHOPLIFTING

Laws making third, fourth or fifth convictions for shoplifting a felony are being sought by Walter Laurie, director of investigation for the Associated Furniture Dealers of New York.

Professional shoplifters, he complains, are careful to filch articles valued under $100, usually the dividing line between misdemeanor and felony. The penalty is rarely more than 30 days in duration. Mr. Laurie lamented that a pro can give that time standing on one leg.

In the next few weeks, the popularity of our national pastime, the grand old game of baseball, will get a severe test. Starting tomorrow, nearly all of the colleges around the United States will open up their pickin' plans for the 1955 season and begin the first workouts of the season.

The tight American League race, which has pushed the National League into the very obscure background, will receive its toughest challenge for headlines from the pickin' joys and woes of college coaches.

This area is looking forward to one of its brightest football seasons in many years. The Big Four are very optimistic of their chances in the gridiron wars for 1955. East Carolina and Greenville High School, the two other main points of interest in this section, are expecting plenty of bright moments, too.

BIG FOUR IMPROVED
Carolina, State, and Wake Forest have already sent out reports that they will be improved over their last year's record. Carolina, according to Head Coach George Barclay, has finally covered their quarterback shortage. Barclay has five promising young men at the key position. Teddie Bullock of Ayden tops the list along with Ron Marquette and Buddy Sasser, a pair of top-notch sophomores.

At State the powerful freshman teams of last season will be up for its first season of varsity play. While they were practicing at one end of the field they would holler to the varsity boys, "Have fun now you won't be there next year." Coach Earle Edwards has brought in a terrific group of boys to put State College, always a basketball school, onto the football map.

Wake Forest also is looking forward to a better year in 1955. They still have rugged Bob Bartholomew from Rocky Mount, an All-America candidate, and a host of other first stringers. Coach Tom Rogers says he will have a much better bench than he struggled through last season with.

At Duke Bill Murray says, "We expect to have about as much all-around strength as last year." If that is true, then the other Big Four schools had better watch out. Murray lost a lot of key players, including the great Jerry Barber, but he says he has enough guns to defend the 9-2 record of last year.

JACK BOONE OPTIMISTIC
At East Carolina Coach Jack Boone is optimistic about his team's chances—and who wouldn't be with Dick Cherry and his mates back with some fast and experienced talent in the backfield and a big line of veterans, including ex-service performers, who wouldn't be happy especially when you have Cherry to lead them with his running and passing.

East Carolina again faces a tough schedule, but that is the way the athletic program operates. They want to give the fans the best possible show they can.

GREENVILLE HIGH STRONG
The Greenville Phantoms are looking for another good year this season. It may not be as spectacular as last season's team, but it will be another good one. All of the experienced breakaway runners from last year are gone. Many of the rugged individuals who stood in the shadows of James Speight, Bob Howell, Tommy Smith, Larry Powell, and Mitchell Johnson are back. With a good coach in Guy Lewis, the Phantoms shouldn't be a pushover for any team.

KITTRELL IS PLEASED WITH TEAM
At Hepzibah, Georgia, Coach Bill Kittrell, former Greenville High School coach, is looking forward to the coming year. Kittrell said, "We have some good boys from last year. I think we'll do all right. In a practice game last week, we scored four touchdowns and a rival team did not score. It is too early to tell, however, just how strong we'll be."

With all the optimism around the Eastern North Carolina area, it would seem football is in one of its peak seasons here. By mid-November, however, some of these coaches may be wishing they coached the chess teams.

With college opening next week, and with entrance exams to be passed, a story about an All-America player at one of the Big Four schools was having trouble with the books. In a special exam that determined whether he stayed in school or not, he was asked, "What is the capital of North Carolina?"

The big bruiser replied without a moment's hesitation, "Durham." The professor beamed with pleasure and said, "You did very well on the exam, Kodumanski. Durham is twenty miles from Raleigh, so twenty times a hundred is eighty. You got eighty on your exam."

Jackie Robinson Can Still Steal

By ED O'BRIEN
BROOKLYN (AP)—At 36, Jackie Robinson doesn't exactly qualify for an old age pension.

But you'd hardly expect him to be acting like a speed demon on the base paths — especially with his trick knee and other assorted aches and pains.

In the past five games, though, the veteran Brooklyn third baseman has stolen four bases and has heckled opposing pitchers into tossing two wild pitch-off pegs. Most important, the Brooks have won six of the last eight games in which he has started.

"I felt we couldn't go on the way we were," said Jackie today before heading for Ebbets Field for the scheduled game against the Milwaukee Braves. "We were losing and let down. So I was determined to keep running, safe or not. But I must admit I didn't expect to be safe so often."

The Braves finally stopped him last night, but the Brooks won the ball game 4-6 so it didn't make any difference.

A couple of weeks ago Manager Alton announced he was going to give Robinson a thorough test before deciding whether to use him in the World Series — assuming of course the Dodgers won the pennant. Until then, Robinson had been in and out of the lineup all season.

"I feel pretty good now," Jackie said. "I'm hitting the ball better than I have in a long time. But I'm still not completely ready."

"Something had to be done, though. In the spring, I said this was the most determined club I had ever seen. Everybody seemed driven by a desire to make up for last year's flop. Sure enough that's what happened. We got off winning. Lately, though, that spirit seemed gone."

He pointed out that baseball people all over were talking about the Dodger slump and that something of that sort can get a club down. "Now I think the club has that old determination back again. They want to get this thing over as soon as possible."

White Sox Back In First

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
No matter who wins the pennant of the American League, it will have clay feet and a glass chin.

The four contenders, one of whom has to serve as champ, have been tagged with a sucker punch in 10 of their last 18 games with the second division, and a pretty scrawny second division at that.

Seventh-place Washington and last-place Baltimore banged the Chicago White Sox against the ropes last week, winning four of seven. Then Washington barred Cleveland's way to the top Sunday with a double-header sweep.

And last night Kansas City, 24 games deep in sixth place, dropped New York 4-3, spilling the Yankees from first place into a second-place tie with Cleveland. With that assist, the White Sox moved a half game ahead with a 7-6 decision over Boston.

The White Sox didn't ride into the lead on a white charger. They backed in with five unearned runs, Cleveland, meanwhile, stopped the nonsense and moved up with a 7-4 triumph over Baltimore—but had the help of eight walks that became four runs.

Chicago, playing one less game than either New York or Cleveland for a five-percentage-point edge, tied it at 4-4 in the fourth with the first two gift runs. Then they put it away with the other three unearned runs while reliever Miller Howell checked Boston on three hits over the last five frames.

Ted Williams whose double opened a 4-3 Boston lead, booted a liner by Nelson Fox for a two-base error to set up the final Chicago runs in the sixth. George Kell followed with a two-run triple and Minnie Minoso knocked in the gray marker with a single.

New York bunched three of its five hits off Alex Kelline to tie the A's at 3-3 in the fifth. Then Hec Lopez gave Alex his 10th victory with a home run off loser Bob Grim in the bottom half of the frame.

Rookie Rip Coleman started for the Yanks but gave way in the third when Vic Power homered, Gus Zernial doubled and Harry Simpson singled for a 3-1 Kansas City lead.

Bob Lemon won his 25th for the Indians, but gave up 12 hits and needed help from Don Mossi to get the final out.

Jim Wilson lost it, giving away the eight passes before leaving in the eighth. Al Smith homered after one of the walks. Then the Tribe needed a walk, single and error for a 3-1 tie in the fifth before two walks and three singles got the Indians home safe in the sixth.

Billy Hoelt granted just four singles for his 14th victory as Detroit beat Washington 4-0 in the other AL game. Bill Tuttle and Frank House hit two-run homers off loser Pete Ramos.

In the National, Brooklyn went 13 games in front by beating Milwaukee 8-6 as Don Newcombe finally won his 19th; New York ended a five-game slump with a 5-0 9-7 sweep of Cincinnati; Chicago's Cubs clipped Philadelphia 3-1; and Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 3-1 after the Cards had wrapped up a 1-0 verdict in the completion of a suspended game.

Newcombe, 6-3 since July 31, gave up two-run homers by Bobby Thomson and Johnny Logan, but led 8-4 when he gave way to a back ache after six innings Roy Campanella homered twice.

The Giants had four unearned runs in the first game. In the nightcap the Redlegs' Ted Kluszewski upped his major league home run lead to 43 with a pair, while New York's Willie Mays hit two to tie the Duke Snider for second place with 40.

Reliever Hal Jeffcoat saved Sam Jones' 12th victory after Sad Sam had walked the bases loaded with one out in the eighth at Philadelphia. Jim Bolger's triple and singles by Harry Chon and Dee Fong gave it to the Cubs in the sixth after Sol Rogovin had retired 15 in order, making a total of 32 batters he had set down in succession in two games.

Harvey Haddix, who won the suspended game, lost the regularly scheduled contest as the Pirates scored three runs in the sixth. Ramon Mejias' two-run triple was the big blow against the Cardinals' lefty.

Rocky Gets Ready by Pap

One senses that Rocky Marciano fully expects a hard fight when he defends his heavyweight championship against Archie Moore. The grim determination with which he works to whip himself into the best possible physical condition is characteristic of the Brockton Bulldog. But the jibes of the talkative and confident challenger have goaded him on to a special effort this time. Manager Al Weill showed his concern by demanding that Moore post a bond of $100,000 insuring a return match for Rocky should he lose the title. Only Charlie Goldman, the stubby trainer, talks with any great confidence.

"Condition will win this fight for Marciano," says Goldman. "Rocky's superior strength and stamina will prove the big difference against the ancient Archie."

"They call Moore a great defensive fighter," Goldman continued, "and he is experienced and tricky. But his crab-like crouch, with his head hidden behind his arms, isn't going to stop Rocky from hurting him. You may recall that Roland LaStarza tried that defense against Marciano and Rocky hit him so hard on the arms that he broke a blood vessel in one of them. Ezzard Charles said he couldn't lift his arms after fighting Rocky. Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott had the same experience.

"We've got Keene Simmons imitating Moore's style," he pointed out, "and Keene is getting hit in the body because his arms are protecting his head. Moore isn't going to take many of Rocky's body blows before he drops his guard, and that will mark his finish."

Farmville Meets Rocky Mt. Team

Farmville's Farmers, faced with a desperate position in the Coastal Plain League playoff finals, plan to pitch their ace righthander, Big Fred Pittman, tonight against the Rocky Mount Leafs at the Farmville stadium.

Farmville trails the Leafs in the series 2-0. The series is the best four-out-of-seven. A Rocky Mount win tonight would virtually put the Farmers out of the running. Tomorrow night the same two teams play in Rocky Mount for the fourth game, with a fifth game played in Farmville Saturday night if it is necessary.

Manager Bill Kennedy's team is in a slump at the present. Kennedy's team has been able to get only four hits in the last two games. While the hitting has been low, the Farmville pitching has been even sharper than usual. Roy Vick and Joe Dominguez pitched superb ball last weekend but were downed 2-0 and 3-1.

Al Benson of Rocky Mount is taking out a private war against the Farmers. He has smacked out four hits and one home run already in the two game series.

MARRIAGE for THREE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
Saying nothing, Adam strode ahead of Ann. What with the cars one had to walk single-file in such a street. He heard rather than saw the scuffle behind him, he turned and—
"Great dogs!" he said under his breath.

An Indian lay on the ground at Ann's feet. She was watching traffic for a chance to go around him. "What happened?" Adam asked her.

"That—character!" she gasped. "He came lurching out of the east and fell right on me!"
"And you pushed him."
"Well what else?"
Adam helped the man to his feet. He was undoubtedly drunk. He wore around his head the white band of a chief. Adam said a few words to the "character," then joined Ann, took her elbow in his hand and walked her along. "You can get into some big fights that way," he said sternly.

"Adam—" She drew a deep breath. "I am not going to let Indians grab me!"
"A white man coming out of a door could bump into you unexpectedly."
"He wasn't a white man. And I hate Indians!"

How different Pinky had been last week over that Indian baby. The chances came easily. Almost every evening, when he returned from the Project, Ann would tell him of somebody who wished to see him. Usually he'd say, "I'll look them up this evening."

Then he would look them up, taking Pinky with him to wait in the car while he talked to a rancher about building a guest house, or to an architect who thought that he and the builder could cooperate.

Pinky knew all about the chapel and lodge which had been Bishop Lamby's retreat "way back when." She'd stayed at the swank hotel there when she'd first come to New Mexico. Surely she'd love to go there with Adam. Why not go the next afternoon? It wasn't far.

Next day he stopped at the hotel to say that a storm seemed to be brewing.

Pinky's eyelids flickered. "It's only in the mountains. You know how this country is. Clouds don't mean a thing."

But the clouds meant business that night. Adam and Pinky explored the tiny, jewel-like chapel, read the plaque on the wall of the icy entrance way, and came out to find clouds close against their mountain, wind howling about them, catching the words from their lips. Snow and sand stung their cheeks.

Adam could scarcely see to guide Pinky down the slope to the Lodge where he'd left the car. "We'll get dinner here, and let it slack up. Wheeee, what a blizzard!"

They went in through the wide porch, stepping across skis and poles and gear. The lampit lobby was warm and friendly. A big fire roared on the hearth. A group of airmen from Kirtland had come up for some week-end skiing and it was all very gay in the dining room around the fire afterwards.

Adam told some hilarious tales about the South Pacific; these were matched by what he called the fly boys. One sergeant, a velvet-tongued rascal from Georgia, named Ike, who had a curving scar from one eye to the corner of his mouth, was doing his best to tell how he had been "wounded." He was constantly frustrated in this attempt by interruptions and protests from his friends.

"You ever let Dunning get started on the late war," one of the men told Pinky, "you're right here for all night!"

Pinky laughed and laughed. Adam took a look outdoors, came back and phoned Ann. She assumed that he was up at Los Alamos, and agreed that he shouldn't risk the snowy road at night.

"I might get through . . ." he said.
"Don't try it."
"You'll be all right!"
"If the roof doesn't blow off."
He left the telephone and joined Pinky and a group about the great open fire.

The night of the storm marked a change for Ann. She sat alone in the little cinder-box house, close against the ground, safe from the screaming wind, warm enough physically but cold to her bones' core with loneliness. And a little with a resentment which she would not mark or define. On that night she became a little frightened at this sense of discontent which lately seemed always to be with her. She could perhaps have figured out where the trouble lay, what the trouble was—but it had been simpler to pretend there was no trouble, to go along, doing her daily tasks not happy, but—

That night when dark fell, she pulled the draperies across the windows and roamed about the small apartment worrying about Adam out there on that mountain drive. She'd driven it herself enough to know that there were places . . . Did they have landslides in these mountains? She guessed they could. She jumped violently at the slamming of the service porch door; probably it was Adam coming in that way. She went swiftly through the kitchen to unlock its door and snap on the light.

But there was no one in the white-painted roomlike porch. The outer door was swinging with each vicious gust of wind. She went over and hooked it tightly shut, went back into the kitchen, locked that door and looked about with relief at the neatness of its shelves, the stove and refrigerator, and checked the red curtain. The warmth of the living room and its lampit folded reassuringly about her; she was relieved to return to the couch, relieved to be alone.

She remembered the way she had stiffened at the noise of the door, and the thought of Adam's return. But now—
She hadn't really wanted Adam to come home. She looked steadily at the blue fire of the gas heater. "I can't bear to have him around me," she said aloud. "I can't bear to have him in the house!" In the deep silence her words echoed in her mind, repeated themselves.

But what a terrible thing for her to say! She didn't mean it. Not really.

But, to tell the honest truth—as it was high time to do!—Ann was more content—she couldn't call it happier—when Adam was away from her, out of the house. Then the things she did, sewing, marketing, cooking even her frequent excursions to the movies, were all a proper part of such wifely duties as he had allotted her; she could feel virtuous about the job she was doing for him as his wife.

But when Adam was at home . . . She talked to him, she let him louch her—but then a sense of something's being wrong would threaten her with the knowledge that there was something wrong!

The knowledge had come to her full force out there on the porch. She was as shocked by the revelation as if she judged a strange wo-

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A light airplane left its pilot on the ground today, circled Sydney and its suburbs for almost three hours and finally was shot down by an Australian navy plane.

Anthony Thrower, 30, was practicing takeoffs and landings with the plane, a four-seater Anson, at Bankstown Airfield. He said he swung the propeller to start the engine, the brakes failed and the craft took off.

"I tried to hold it by a strut but I couldn't make it," Thrower said. "Away she went . . ."

TIME'S NOT REFUSE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—L. M. Greenwood, a plumber, filed a $295 claim against the city. That, he charged, is what it cost his business in loss of time when one of his trucks was held up for 30 minutes by a city refuse truck. "The (city) truck," he complained, "was parked squarely in the center of the street while the driver read comic books."

TOUGH WHEELBARROW

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—An- cel W. Hodges, 42, had cuts and bruises on his face and head after a tire on a wheelbarrow exploded and threw the wheel into his face.

Funds Formula Seen In 2 Weeks

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The State Board of Education may receive a formula for distribution of the last $5 million dollars from a state school bond issue, voted in October, 1953, in two weeks or less.

Chairman J. A. Pritchett of Windsor, of a special committee preparing a plan, said here yesterday that the report will not be ready for the board's Thursday meeting at Raleigh.

"I think we ought to have something within a week or two," he told the Winston-Salem Journal. The committee will meet at Raleigh later this week, he said.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market was higher and more active early this afternoon.

Industrials and rails were stronger as the tempo of trading speeded up slightly from yesterday's sluggish pace.

Activity was greater in the first hour than thereafter, and earlier gains were moderated somewhat as the trading pace slowed.

Early gains of around two points by Bethlehem and Chrysler were cut to around a point or so.

Steels as a group were higher. Aircraft, the stars of yesterday's mediocre performance, continued to gather strength.

Coppers and chemicals also showed higher although there were some soft spots.

Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Firestone, Atlantic Coast Line and Lion Oil advanced a point or better.

Republic, Youngstown and U.S. Steel were among the gainers in their group.

Also higher were Boeings, Douglas, Kennecott, Anaconda, Alliance Chemical, Union Carbide and DuPont.

Phelps Dodge, International Nickel and Air Reduction shaded off.

Among the rails, New York Central, Baltimore, Ohio, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio were up fractionally.

U.S. Gypsum was up well over a point and Johns-Manville also was higher.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) — Hog prices steady to 25 higher. Tops of 16.50 at Beaufort and Rich Square; 16.25 at Castle Hayne, Farmville, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern and Benson; 16.00 at Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton, Siler City, Mount Gilead, Elizabethton, Micro, Mount Olive, Dunn, Whiteville, Clarkton, Warsaw, Newton Grove, Bailey, Nahunta, Wilson, Hillsboro, Jacksonville, Plymouth, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Fayetteville, Clinton, Lumberton and Washington.

proceeded with leave.

Willie Lane, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale; Pete Hooks, possession of non-tax paid whiskey; Chester Corbett, breaking and entering; Charles D. Carmon, worthless check; Hayes Henry, drunk driving; John Atkinson, possession of non-tax paid whiskey; Jim Mosely, speeding 70 miles per hour and drunk driving and Fountain Bell, worthless check.

A habeas corpus proceeding in the case of Freddie Martin charged with larceny, was dismissed.

Mrs. Thad Lewis, charged with forgery, received a suspended 12 months sentence while Thad J. Lewis, charged with abandonment and non-support, received an eight months suspended sentence on the condition that he support his wife and three children.

Henry Cole, charged with forgery was given a sentence of not less than 18 months nor more than two years.

Meanwhile a court official said this morning that sentencing for Lloyd Adams, found guilty yesterday of speeding 100 miles per hour, might not be passed until Friday. Adams this morning was lodged in County Jail here.

A jury found him guilty shortly after noon yesterday when Joe Fountain Weatherington, 16, of Ayden, with whom he allegedly was racing, testified that Adams offered him 10 dollars not to testify against him.

Weatherington, who wrecked his car the same night while attempting to escape Highway Patrolman James Boykin, was fined shortly after in Ayden and lost his license for speeding 100 miles per hour.

mouthed around the Hayden Planetarium. He went with us to the musical, "Silk Stockings," a special treat, and stood atop at Times Square at midnight. At times he baby-sat for Catherine, changed her diapers and helped feed her. He took time out from all the exciting things he had to do to play with her.

"Danny went to Rockefeller Plaza rode the subway and the Staten Island ferry, saw the Statue of Liberty and walked down Fifth Ave.

Week after we moved out to Bayville, on the shore, he went aquaplaning in Long Island Sound and stood up the first attempt. The day before his allotted time on earth ran out he was a picture of sturdy health and boyish joy as he had been all his life.

"It rained in the morning and he stayed indoors. Later he ran out to help with the boats that had been battered by the gale.

"Mid-afternoon he came in, glowing with pride in the work he had done, and we were proud of him. Then he went with us for a drive to Sagamore Hill, President Theodore Roosevelt's old home. When we came back, he said he had a sore throat and a headache. He took an aspirin and went to bed. He had some temperature, but not enough to fection . . . a virus we all carry bedtime ritual, 'Good night, sleep tight, don't let the bedbugs bite' wake up in the morning bright.

"The next morning his fever was worse, but he looked out the window and asked if he could go outside and play soon. An hour later in the ambulance on the way to the hospital, Danny's life came to its unbelievably early end. Practically before we had time to be frightened, Danny and all the hopes and dreams that Danny was Danny were gone.

"Danny lived always in the immediate future, what he could do tonight, where he could go tomorrow what did we plan next week. He was a quiet boy and did not talk much of things far away the life ahead of him, growing up and learning to be a man. And now . . . Danny will never be a man.

"The doctor said it was a sudden overwhelming virus infection . . . a virus we all carry with us. For some unexplainable reason this sturdy boy's immunity slipped momentarily.

"We know it is God's will. He gave Danny to us. And for some reason known only to God, He took him away. All there is of Danny now is what we have in our hearts and the hearts of all that knew him.

"His sweetness and gentleness is now a part of all of us, and may God make us the better for it. For when you leave this world what better heritage can you leave behind than the knowledge that you gave yourself to all who knew you. As one dear friend said, 'We must all be thankful to Danny for he gave us all great joy.'

Bloodmobile In Bethel Thursday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Bethel tomorrow with its quota set at 110 pints of blood.

David O. Spier is in charge of the bloodmobile operations. He will be assisted by the Young Men's Bible Class of the Bethel Methodist Church. Mrs. Frances Hardee and Miss Camille Stanc are chairmen of the volunteer workers and will have charge of the canteen. Physicians from Dr. C. G. Garrenton's clinic will serve as medical staff.

The Greenville driver's license office will be closed next Monday and also from Wednesday afternoon through the remainder of next week.

He explained that the local office, like others throughout the state will also be closed Wednesday afternoon through Saturday of next week. Thomas said the closing of the office from Wednesday through Saturday has been ordered so that examiners will be able to attend a special school being held in Chapel Hill for drivers license examiners throughout North Carolina.

Reports Given At Meet Of C-of-C Civic Affairs Committee Meeting

Three subcommittee reports were presented at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee Monday night.

In the first report on recreation, S. R. Brooks, chairman of the subcommittee, expressed the opinion that the city needs a larger recreational building for its activities. If the Board of Directors approves, this subcommittee will meet with the Recreation Commission to discuss a long range plan for obtaining a larger building for recreation activities.

Chairman Joseph G. Proctor reported his group has formulated plans for the observance of Fire Prevention Week here October 9-15. This program is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Greenville Fire Department.

Subcommittee on housing, John D. Grier, chairman, reported a study of the availability of suitable housing in the community has been made. Grier said the study will continue "in the hope of arriving at some plan whereby more and better housing will be made available by private owners to take care of the needs of the community."
