'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We really felt as though we had a new lease on life yesterday when we took our 6-year-old to school for the first time, at new and wonderful Elmhurst. . . Greenville should be proud of it—really a beautiful school, and we're happy that so many children are going to be able to spend their early school years there. . .

And talking about schools, the new buildings are nothing but empty shells without the teachers. For elementary teachers especially, we want you to know about a fellowship grant that's offered every year by Macmillan Company, the book publishers. . . They've given Columbia Teachers College $10,000 to advance the knowledge of reading and other language arts on the elementary school level, and this year an elementary teacher from Denver received a grant of $3000. We'll be glad to give information about the Macmillan Fellowships to any elementary teachers in the area who want to know about them—just write us here at The Reflector. . .

Horse Race We saw Nashua beat Swaps in Wednesday's upset. . . on TV, of course — which reminds us that there's a lot about horse racing in the new Literary Guild selection, THE TONTINE, by Thomas Costain. . . The choice for October, all we know about it is that the setting is in England, Jamaica, Bermuda and the U.S., and that one of his heroines wins a lot of money betting on the horses in Bermuda— which, Mr. Costain confides, he did himself while he was staying in Bermuda soaking up some local color. . . So he wins on the horses and publishes a best-seller talking about it—don't some people have all the luck in the world, though? . . .

Kentucky Culture Dr. James D. Allison of the E.C.C. English Department contributes the following impressions of WILDERNESS ROAD, the historical pageant by North Carolinian Paul Green that was produced for the first time this summer at Berea, Kentucky. . . Paul Green's "Wilderness Road" is off to a successful start. Paul Green's pageants are familiar to North Carolina, as is the direction of Prof. Samuel Selden. The performance is financed by Berea College, with the help of some of the school's wealthy friends, and the cast and operating personnel are drawn largely from the college. The pageant carries the usual ethical lift that is familiar to Green's audiences. The instrumental and vocal music contribute much to the performance, while the dances add a feeling of gaiety that is contagious. The scenery and lighting localize the action without wasting too much energy on realism. The pace of the show is fast and the final scene leaves the feeling that the play can't be over yet. The action is primarily concerned with the work of John Freeman in establishing a country school, the local partisanships that destroyed it in the days before the war, and the faith that will rebuild it in the days after the war. The pageant carries the subtitle, "A Parable for Modern Times," and offers the suggestion that education is concerned with truth not partisan politics.

Fireside Theatre For those who can't go to Broadway personally, The Fireside Theatre publishes every month a current hit play. . . If you want to get on the subscriber's list, just write to The Fireside Theatre, Garden City, Long Island, N.Y. . . Here is a brief review—also by Dr. Allison—of the July selection, ANNIVERSARY WALTZ. . . "Anniversary Waltz," a comedy (more nearly farce) by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Field, published by Random House, opened in New York April 7, 1954 and managed a successful run for the present Broadway theatre. The play will probably be welcome at some of the larger civic, community, and college theatres. It is second-rate theatre and third-rate literature.

The action of the play is concerned with the fifteenth wedding anniversary of Bud and Alice Walters, the "perfect" couple. Included are their children Debbie and Okkie, products of progressive education, and the parents of Alice, products of a lifetime of domestic warfare. The dialogue is a shade too outspoken for television or movie consumption, as it stands, but has enough of the customary shock and violence to intrigue Broadway. Perhaps a century from now some misguided social researcher may mistake it for a picture of American family life in the 1950's.

Mrs. Eure Is Hostess To Book Club

AYDEN—The fall meeting of the Book Lover's Club was held at the home of Mrs. May J. Eure on Tuesday night, August 23. Mrs. Eure's fine collection of antique china was emphasized with lovely arrangements of fall flowers.

The roll was called and the members responded with either a new word, or an interesting event. The program chairman, Mrs. May J. Eure, passed out the new sheets for the year book. It was decided to begin book circulation at the October meeting.

The president appointed Mrs. Robert Booth and Miss Elizabeth Johnson on the Courtesy Committee for the year. The hostess had charge of the program and gave a very interesting talk on "The History of the Making of Currency." She showed bills and silver of various denominations and explained in detail all of the markings. At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments to the following club members: Mesdames Robert Booth, G. G. Dixon, Ralph Hardee, C. C. Little, Jack Quinerly, L. L. Kittrell and Misses Virginia Belle Cooper, Elizabeth Johnson, and Clyde Stokes. Miss Anna Johnson of Raleigh was the guest of Mrs. Eure.

The $10,000 bill is the largest in American currency.

The house was decorated with assorted arrangements of summer flowers. Masses of roses and crepe myrtle were used. A corsage of yellow roses marked the bride's seat.

The guests were served at the candle-lit bridge tables a beautifully arranged plate of chicken salad and a bridal cake.

Mrs. Woodrow Worthington won the club's high score bridge prize and Miss Janice Worthington won the highest score. Miss Worthington, the honoree, received a gift of a bronze letter holder.

Besides the regular bridge club members, guests included Misses Janice Worthington, Denyse McLawhorn, Carolyn Evans, Gail Evans, Joan Ann Liverman, Betsy Castelleo and Mrs. Ben White.

Mrs. Lloyd Worthington and Miss Elaine Worthington entertained at a dessert bridge honoring Miss Barbara Worthington, bride-elect, and Mrs. Gurman Worthington, a recent bride, in their home in Winterville Monday evening.

Highsmiths Hosts To Couples Club

BETHEL—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Highsmith were hosts to the couples club at their home on Monday night. The home was decorated with vases of late summer flowers.

Between the second and third progressions, the hostess served a delicious frozen dessert and salted nuts to her guests. At the end of play, when the tables were scored, Mrs. Wadie Ward was the winner of the high score prize for the women and Dennis Hardy received it for the men.

Others who played were Mr. and Mrs. X. E. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Everett, Mrs. Hardy and Mr. Highsmith.

The hostesses greeted the guests at the door and directed them to their places at the bridge tables, covered with white linen bridge cloths centered with candles and greenery. Summer flowers were used throughout the home.

The honorees were presented with corsages of white carnations tied with tulle and ribbon and bridal spray, and gifts of crystal and silver. The guests were served colorful plates of congealed dessert salad with accompaniments.

There were 32 guests present.

Weak Outposts Will Have Trouble

Japan has a stake in its own defense and in the maintenance of peace in the Western Pacific. But to immediately turn over to Japan full responsibility for the defense of its islands would be utterly foolish.

The United States has long since decided it will allow the two major aggressor powers of World War II to re-arm, this time on the side of peace and freedom. The program of rearmament in Japan has moved much more rapidly than has been the case in Germany. But without U. S. forces, Japan for all practical purposes would be defenseless now.

Japan is now the major outpost of the free world in the Western Pacific. Despite its crushing defeat in World War II, the influence of Japan still is felt throughout Asia. The United States and the free world can ill afford to lose Japan to the encroaching Red Tide. Were the U. S. to withdraw its troops from Japan, it would be only a matter of months before the communists, either by direct attacks or by activities within the country would take over Japan. Russia has major military bases within easy striking distance of Japan. The communists even now are hard at work to undermine the foundations of freedom and democracy which have been established in Japan since it came under American control.

measured financial responsibility if this nation could afford to withdraw even its ground forces from Japan, such a move would be utterly beyond consideration until such time as sufficient native military forces can assure the security of the Japanese islands. In spite of the desire of American taxpayers for lightening the burden of taxes necessary to maintain troops around the globe, the United States has learned in the past two decades that firmly established outposts far from our own continent are as vital to the protection of our own shores as shore batteries and air bases along the coast.

Coast Almost Over Ravages Of Storm

By LYNN NISBET
RECOVERY — Wrightsville Beach and adjacent areas along the South-eastern North Carolina coast have almost completely recovered from the ravages of three hurricanes within the past ten months—Hazel last October, Connie and Diane last month. It was quite obvious to newsmen visiting Wrightsville Beach this week that reports of damage by the two recent storms had been grossly exaggerated.

Fishing piers which had been reported as completely destroyed were doing business as usual, with little evidence of storm damage. A few TV aerials were down, and there were occasional places where there was evidence of erosion. There was considerable evidence of repair work completed after Hazel's disastrous visit, restoring to full use the damaged fishing piers.

Agricultural and business losses due to Connie and Diane were greater than those caused by Hazel in the southern corner of the State. Actual damage to beaches and buildings were not nearly so heavy.

Recovery has been almost complete with respect to physical property. The heaviest impact of the two recent hurricanes was psychological. The real damage to public morale is hard to compute in dollars and cents. Owners of beach cottages and fishing boats, with most of their capital investment wiped out by Hazel, went into debt to replace the destroyed property, hoping for a profitable season this year to keep them going.

Business was good during the early summer and caters to vacationists were fairly happy and optimistic. At the peak of the season on Connie and Diane knocked business for a loop. Operators who began the summer with eager optimism that they might be able to end this year no worse off than they were last September, know that goal cannot be attained. The eager optimism of a few months ago has been replaced by a sort of stolid determination to hold on and rebuild. Anyone who visits the beach area is constrained to join Governor Hodges in enthusiastic commendation of the courage of the people.

Beach people insist that all they want is for the rest of the country to get the facts. They resent sensational stories about damages that did not occur. Almost equally they resent propaganda suggesting that nothing happened to them. They know they were hit hard, but they also know they were not wiped off the map.

Your reporter joined a group of newsmen from up-state upon invitation of the combined Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach chamber of commerce, to visit the area. The immediate group included Ed Fike, editor of the Rocky Mount Telegram and writer of a widely used sports column; Fred Flagler of the Winston-Salem paper; Mrs. Rabb and Miss Evelyn Covington of the State advertising division; Heath Thomas and George Raynor of the Salisbury Post; Sgt. George Borstell editor of the Cherry Point "Wind Sock"; E. J. Jones and Bert McLean, vice chairman of the group. It was the Governor's request is carried out that that membership includes far-minded, level-headed Wemar Jones editor of the Franklin Press Association, and legislative representation from Guilford and Mecklenburg County, both of which have been victimized by steadfast refusal of past General Assemblies to reapportion.

We are confident that commission members are thoroughly cognizant of their difficult assignment. The 1955 legislative session will be a busy one for them. They will be called upon to make decisions in view of the complicated factors but getting elected out of the Legislature leaves the height of difficulties ahead.

The commission's duty, however is to draft a fair, square and statesmanly report, with full realization that representative government, the very bedrock of our governmental structure, is at stake. Its sworn responsibility is to forestall any untoward move and politically motivated business of re-apportioning and to see that the people of North Carolina, with sitting hosts—but not as guides. The visiting newsmen were told to "go where you want to go see what you want to see—and tell the truth about it all."

This party "crossed the bar" in two fishing boats—"Martha Ellen Too" with Capt. Jonny, and "Sea Raven" with Capt. Milton Brown. We proved there are fish in the Atlantic Ocean, but most of them want to stay there. Without going into too much detail as to number and size, let it suffice to say that the party caught blue fish, Spanish mackerel, cobia, dogfish, pigfish and perch. And it might be added that "Speedy" Covington, Heath Thomas and Bert McLean fresh topped honors as champion fish catchers of the party.

The fact is that conditions around Wrightsville Beach were "normal"—almost no visible evidence of storm damage. If there was determined effort to overcome handicaps rather than the sometimes prevailing attitude of conceit and disregard for the comfort of guests, it might be concluded that this spring presages better service next season.

HUMAN NATURE — An interesting study in human nature was presented at the Governor's office Wednesday morning. A delegation from New Hanover county had an appointment for the avowed purpose of asking allocation of surplus funds to finance a preliminary survey of a new crossing—most likely a high bridge, but maybe a tunnel—of the Cape Fear river at Wilmington. The delegation was led by the avowed purpose of asking allocation of surplus funds to finance a preliminary survey of a new crossing—most likely a high bridge, but maybe a tunnel—of the Cape Fear river at Wilmington. The delegation was led by the avowed purpose of asking allocation of surplus funds to finance a preliminary survey of a new crossing—most likely a high bridge, but maybe a tunnel—of the Cape Fear river at Wilmington.

The delegation wanted some money, so Ralph Horton, chairman of the New Hanover board of commissioners and chief spokesman, led off by telling Governor Hodges how much the whole eastern area appreciated his personal interest and attention to hurricane relief problems. Then he more or less casually mentioned the main purpose of the visit. After briefly reviewing the developments to date Spokesman Horton explained the need for some financial aid in making the preliminary surveys, and concluded his statement with the quip "We are at your mercy."

The Governor replied that he knew of the great need and said "I have your sympathy." The group joined an chairman in a chorus to the effect that "We know that, but what we need is a little money." The Governor smiled, made a few pertinent comments, and promised a minimum of $2,000 out of highway surplus to initiate a survey. That was less than the visitors had hoped for, but they were reasonably happy. It put them on the "mailing list" for future commitments by way of State official recognition of the project.

There's a whole of a gap between the $2000 presently allocated and the approximate $12 million needed for the toll job. But that's the way such projects as the West Asheville bridge, the Old Port-River crest road, the bridges at Edenport, Lake of the Sound, and other facilities too big for regular allocations to finance, got started.

Other Editors Are Saying... After Recommendations, What? (Greensboro Daily News) Governor Hodges has named a capable, balanced commission, headed by 1955 legislative session, to study legislative representation in North Carolina and submit recommendations to the 1957 General Assembly.

We are particularly pleased that Carroll W. Weathers, Wake Forest Law School dean, will be chairman of the group. It is the Governor's request is carried out that that membership includes far-minded, level-headed Wemar Jones editor of the Franklin Press Association, and legislative representation from Guilford and Mecklenburg County, both of which have been victimized by steadfast refusal of past General Assemblies to reapportion.

Somebody Told Me

As For Meeting Deadline...

Somebody asked me about meeting the deadline five times a week. Frankly, I haven't thought about it in a long time. During the six years of this column's publication I've missed it twice. The first time was my fault; the second time I was out of town and the friend I entrusted with the column's delivery let me down.

In order to meet a deadline a columnist must have standards that are easily adjusted to the situation. As the deadline approach the terrific idea he was holding out for is abandoned and he quickly picks up anything at all in order to meet the schedule.

Comeback By Fabulous Ranch

By DAVID RODWELL
Editor, Raton Range
RATON, N.M. — "Men don't get rich enough any more to build places like that," says one awed visitor to Vermejo Ranch.

The fabulous 600,000-acre northern New Mexico ranch, which sprawls into two states and four king-size counties, is being built into perhaps the most extensive, exclusive hunting and fishing haven in the nation.

Fort Worth Oilman W.J. Gourley bought the ranch in 1952 for a reported 1 1/2 million dollars. It was created by W.H. Bartlett, a wealthy Chicago grain dealer in 1902.

big-time ones, so the experts say, often come up with ducks.

What happens to the deadline when the columnist gets sick? Fortunately, I wouldn't know. A few times I've been sick enough to dictate the column to Wife Rachel, who pecked it out on the typewriter while I lay in bed moaning. As you can imagine, the stories at times like that are real masterpieces, fit only for the trash can.

Then there's the out-of-town trip. Big columnists telegraph their stories in from the spot, giving a fresh account of their trip. In my case, I pile up some trash to fill in for a few days after I leave and mail the copy in. Then I continue to write about the trip after I've been back in town until the inspiration runs out.

My duds run in spells. Be quiet; don't say that this thing is one continuous dud. But it does seem that for a solid week no decent topic will come to mind, while the next week there are news items right and left.

Writing a column is plenty of fun if you don't weaken.

Everybody Is Paying The Loss

By ELMER ROESSNER

When hurricane-borne water flooded areas in six states it was frequently said that "everybody in the country will share the loss."

While this was often uttered as a pious hope, almost every businessman is now beginning to see how true it is.

Manufacturers of almost every product sold in stricken areas have lost sales because plants and stores have been closed down or washed away, and being cement steel and other materials for roads and bridges, cause consumers are limiting purchases to urgent needs. And the suppliers who have been selling to these manufacturers have therefore lost sales—and those firms that have sold to those suppliers have lost sales—and the ripples spread until practically every business in the nation has shared the loss.

Companies selling to businesses or individuals in the areas flooded have been granted extensive credit, and this will increase their own financing costs. The disaster will inevitably force some of the victims into bankruptcy which will result in more losses for firms in other parts of the country. Some bankrupt mills, while not bankrupt, may find it too costly to try to open again, and suppliers will lose customers. There have been other losses suffered by distant firms because goods on consignment or in transit have been destroyed.

Merchants in other parts of the country will suffer another kind of pinch when they fail to receive goods and materials from the flooded areas. And report owners from California to Quebec will lose because many prospective buyers have fled their homes to repair storm damage.

There are some gains for business, however. Practically every responsible businessman today is making a new check to make sure his plant is insured against flood and other unusual damage. (Most of the time flood insurance is not covered.) Demand for building materials and replacement stocks is already peaking up in stricken areas. Cities and states are ordering cement steel and other materials for roads and bridges. And flood control work will probably be stimulated over the next decade.

SKIN DISEASES WORST INDUSTRIAL ILLNESS
Skin diseases cost more losses of industrial production than all other occupational ailments combined.

RUBBER PRICE RISE
AIDING PLASTIC FOAMS
The sharp rise in rubber prices may increase the demand for plastic foams. Many of them can be used in some, though not all, applications of foam rubber.

However, the name must also include the area of production, such as "California light sweet Tokay."

New School Added To City's System

ELMHURST SCHOOL EXTERIOR—The Elmhurst elementary school opened for the first time this school term. The building was completed this summer. It is constructed of brick and contains 12 classrooms, a library, auditorium, cafeteria and kitchen and offices. The structure is built so that additional wings may be added as needed. James W. Griffith, Jr., was architect for the project. (Reflector Photos by Edwina Haymes.)

SELF-CONTAINED CLASSROOMS—Each of the 12 classrooms are self-contained, eliminating the necessity for halls. Each room has two doors which open onto a covered walk extending the length of the wing. Other doors also lead directly from one classroom to another. This photograph shows one classroom wing with the doors leading to the outside. The large wing to the right contains the auditorium, cafeteria and offices.

Explosion, Fire Wreck Big Area

CHICAGO (AP)—A terrific explosion and flash fire last night destroyed half a square block in a near Southwest Side factory district, injuring at least 36 persons and causing an estimated million dollars damage.

No deaths were reported but a hunt for possible victims will be made after weakened walls of the burned buildings are destroyed. It was believed all factory workers had escaped.

A Salvation Army canteen truck driver was killed in a collision on route to the scene at 38th Street and Ashland Avenue.

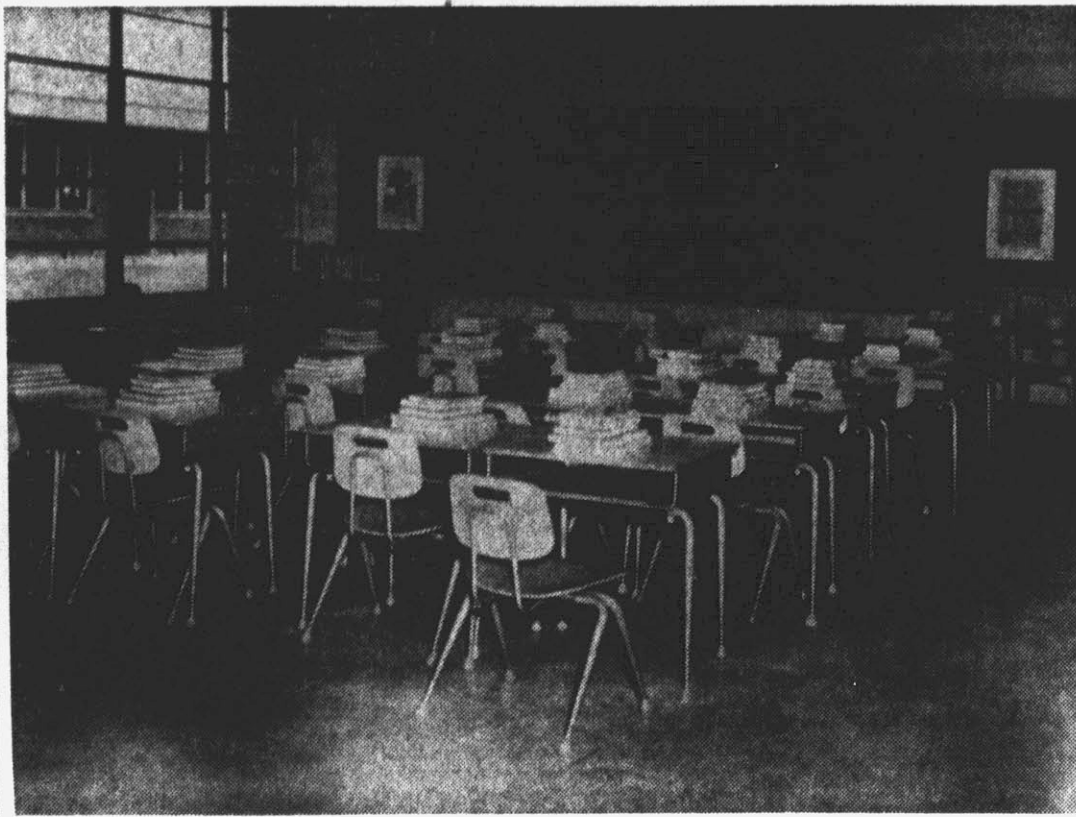

Of the injured, eight were hospitalized. One was reported in critical condition, another in serious condition. Most of the injured suffered from burns.

Chief Fire Marshal Albert Petersen estimated the damage. Destroyed in the 3 1/2-hour fire were the three-story Griffith Laboratory building, where the explosion occurred, and two adjoining structures occupied by the Carr-Consolidated Biscuit Co. One building was three stories, the other six.

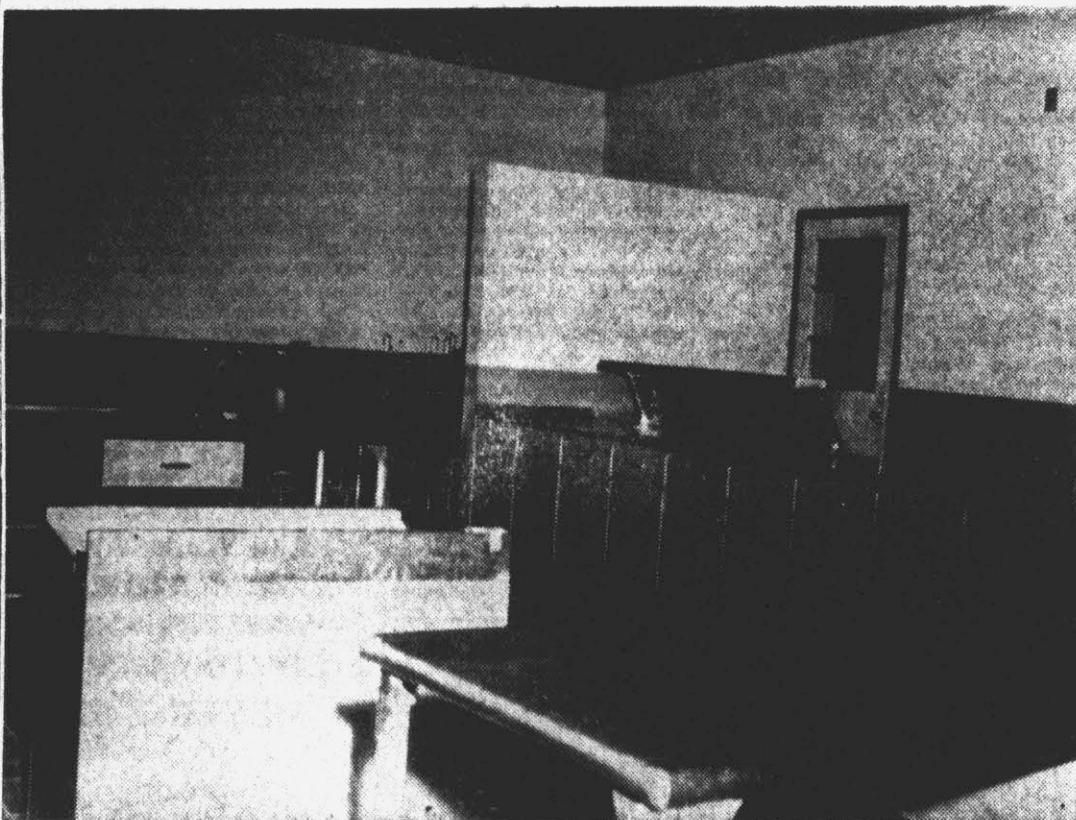

The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately. It sent flames racing through the Griffith Laboratory. They quickly spread within three or four minutes, witnesses said, to the adjoining biscuit manufacturing structures.

Some 90 workers, most Negro women, were at work in the biscuit plant, Randolph Buchwelle, the plant's general manager, said he believed all had "ample" time to escape. The fire brought out some 70 pieces of fire equipment in answer to the city's highest alarm, a 5-11, with five special alarms.

Witnesses reported seeing three persons leap from second and third floor windows.

WELL-EQUIPPED CLASSROOMS—Elmhurst classrooms are well equipped not only with modern educational facilities, but also with good lighting. While artificial lighting has been provided, plenty of nature's sunlight will shine into the rooms. One wall is completely glassed in, while the other contains windows overlooking the covered walk.

CAFETERIA FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS—This is a view of the school cafeteria, where students and teachers will be served lunch. The cafeteria will open Tuesday, the first full school day, if a refrigeration unit necessary for its operation arrives in time. The unit has been delayed enroute here by transportation difficulties in the flooded northeastern states.

SPACE FOR WORK AREA—A long counter and sink provide plenty of space for a working area in the classroom. In addition to this sink, each room contains another lavatory, plus its own toilet facilities.

Angry Wife And Union 'At Peace'

CHICAGO (AP)—A housewife who locked her husband out of their house because of a strike has made peace with all concerned, including the president of the local union involved.

Mrs. Esther Quigley, 35, appeared in Woman's court yesterday with Nicholas Prete, president of Local 1214 CIO United Auto Workers, on charges of disorderly conduct.

She and Prete were arrested last Friday in front of the Harrison Sheet Steel Co. after a disturbance in which she allegedly pushed a carton of milk at Prete and ripped off his shirt.

Earlier this week she had allowed her husband Andrew a local union steward, back into their home after a one-week lockout for his participation in the strike. She declared the strike, now settled, was illegal because the contract had not expired.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Quigley's attorney said all had been forgiven. He asked that the charges be dropped.

"The union holds no grudge against Mrs. Quigley," Prete's counsel said.

All charges were dismissed by Judge Erwin J. Hastings.

NO CHICKENS
HOBBS, N. M. (AP)—When Jack Jackson reported chicken thieves had raided his hen house, an officer was assigned to investigate. His report read: "Found feathers. Unable to locate any chickens to go with same."

AL Leaders In Same Place

No Progress Made In Aug. Batting

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
For all the huffin' and puffin' they did during August, the three leading contenders for the American League pennant might just as well have taken a month's rest. It just didn't do 'em no good, no how.

For the past 32 days, Chicago, Cleveland and New York (all idle yesterday) have been scraping to a standstill. Going into the final 3 1/2 weeks of the season today, they're practically in the same spot they were Aug. 1.

On that date Chicago was in first place with a .614 percentage. Cleveland and New York trailed with .603, each one game behind. Today Chicago leads with a .608 percentage. Cleveland and New York half a game behind, are tied for second with .603.

The only difference between them is that the White Sox, catching up in games played, had one more game than the Yankees and Indians and lost it.

For the month, New York was on top 13 days, Chicago 12 and Cleveland 5. The Indians, who also shared the lead for a day with New York had the biggest August lead, two games. The Yanks led by 1 1/2 Chicago by one.

And with Chicago's Marty Marion and Cleveland's Al Lopes agreeing all the way, Yank manager Casey Stengel says it's just "too awful even."

"All I know is," says Casey, "that we have 23 more to play and make a damn sure I realize that's 97 wins, but that's what it will take. I thought before it could be done with 94."

The Yanks were in the best position to get off quick on their way to 97. They opened a home stand this afternoon with the Washington Senators whom they've beaten 11 times in 16, while the White Sox and Tribe go at each other in the first game of a four-game series at Cleveland tonight. The Sox and Indians are 8-8 for the season.

The only action yesterday was in the National League, where Brooklyn made the most of seven hits to thump Milwaukee 6-3; Cincinnati defeated New York 7-4; and Pittsburgh again edged St. Louis 7-4.

The Brooks got their hits in the third and fifth innings to score their runs. Roy Campanella singled home two runs and scored another as Brooklyn trimmed the magic number to 10—an any combination of 10 Dodger victories and Milwaukee defeats gives the Brooks the flag.

Joe Nuxhall won his 15th—most by a Cincy hurler since Ewell Blackwell won 16 in 1951—the seven-hitting the Giants. He gave up two homers to Dusty Rhodes and one to Al Dark, but drove home two runs himself while Chuck Harmon batted in four with a home run and a single.

The Pirates now just 2 1/2 games shy of seventh-place St. Louis after spending the last three years in the cellar, won their sixth straight with Gene Freese knocking in the clincher in the ninth to break a 6-all tie. Ramon Mejias had four RBIs with two doubles and a single for the Bucs.

Blue Devils Moan "Too Much Fat"

ACC FOOTBALL
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke football coaches were moaning today that easy summer-time living put too much fat on some prominent members of the squad.

Coach George Barclay said North Carolina will hold off rough workouts until next week. He added that in early drills he would concentrate on building up reserve strength at ends and center, and try to shape up over-all defensive play. He pulled a surprise with the announcement that sophomore Jim Jones would be shifted from center to guard.

Trainer Lou Onesty said the physical condition and spirit of the Virginia squad was good. Emphasis was on offense fundamentals as the squad got right down to business.

Coach Earl Edwards of North Carolina State had a different story as Atlantic Coast Conference schools started football drills yesterday.

"Almost all the boys reported in shape and are ready to play football. The spirit was unusually high for the first day."

Two drills a day are the rule at the eight schools.

Duke which is m o t h e r e d Nebraska in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1, wasted no time getting down to business, holding two thorough drills. Other teams took it easier.

Forest got right down to brief contact work. Coach Tom Rogers said he was satisfied with the general condition of the squad. Rogers said his tentative first team would be: ends David Lee and Jack Ladner, tackles Bob Bartholomew and Lowell Little, guards Tony Trentini and Mark Viola, center Joe Dupree, quarterback Nick Consoles, fullback Gerald Hutts, and halfbacks Bill Barnes and Dick Travagline.

Don King directed the first team and another veteran quarterback, Charlie Bussey, called signals for the second team as Clemson opened practice with a squad of 55, smallest in several years. Completing the first team backfield were halfbacks Jim Coleman and Joel Wells, and fullback Billy O'Dell.

Salisbury Team Ousted In World Legion Tourney

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Cincinnati meets unbeaten Washington, D.C. tonight in what may be the chips down game of the American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament.

The Ohioans drew the berth by doubling Salisbury, N.C., from the double elimination tourney, 6-5, last night in 10 innings. A victory for Washington settles the championship. If the capital citizens lose, a second game will be played Saturday night.

Cincinnati made it a score-book finish last night by scoring four runs in the bottom of the 10th inning after Salisbury had broken out of a 2-2 tie with three in the top of that frame.

The Carolina team got its tie-breaking counters when three men singled and Al Smith doubled to send them all home. The Ohioans countered with their four tallies on three singles, a double, an error and a hit batsman.

Lincoln, Neb., had been eliminated with two losses earlier. Cincinnati suffered its only defeat, 6-5, at the hands of Washington. The national capital finalists have a record of 17 victories in legion play, including their two tourney triumphs.

Rained Out

Farmville and Rocky Mount, playing a best four-out-of-seven series in the finale of the Coastal Plain League playoffs, had their series interrupted last night by rain.

The same two teams will continue the series in Farmville Saturday night with Roy Vick of Farmville opposing Eugene Bome of Rocky Mount. Rocky Mount leads 2-1 in the series so far. Game time in Farmville Saturday night is eight o'clock.

Swaps Surprised Jim Fitzsimmons

NEW YORK (AP)—Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, 31 year old dean of American trainers, admitted today Nahua stepped away from Swaps at the start of their match race at Washington Park Wednesday.

"From what I had heard I didn't think my horse could outrun Swaps," said Mr. Fitz on his return from Chicago, where Nahua won by 6 1/2 lengths. "I knew Nahua could break fast if necessary but from what they told me I thought it would be swaps first out of the gate."

Mr. Fitz was not on hand when Swaps set practically all of the pace in beating Nahua by a length and a half in the Kentucky Derby early in May.

"Actually, I didn't care if we got to the front at the start," the veteran trainer continued. "Eddie (Jockey Arcaro) and I agreed it would be the best if he could go right to the front but if he couldn't then I told Eddie to keep that other horse busy."

Grifton Dedicates New Lighted Park

GRIFTON—Grifton Ball Park will be dedicated in ceremonies here tonight at 7 o'clock.

Taking part on the program will be Wiley Gaskins, chairman of the Grifton School Board, Joe Quinley, president of the Lions Club, and Chuck Kilme of the DuPont plant. Following the dedication a baseball game between the Grifton and Ayden Small Fry will be played. A woman's softball game has also been scheduled.

The ball park was a town project begun in 1953 when the $1,000 prize money won by the town in the Finner Carolina Contest was applied for the development of the park. Since that time several thousands dollars have been spent on the park facilities, and the project has just been completed paid for.

The park is lighted and contains bleachers. It is planned to use it also for high school football this year.

Bucs Prepare For Opener

Coaches Stress Conditioning, Defense, Passes

with the first game of the East Carolina College Pirates a week and a day away, drills and conditioning went on Friday as the second day of practice got underway shortly after dawn.

All 11 boys were hard at work against Friday morning, and Coach Jack Boone noted happily that the opening day's drills had been successfully completed.

Two major problems confronted the Pirates as the field was filled with many new men on the squad. These were work on defense and the passing game.

Most of Friday morning's sunrise session was spent on pass protection, pass defense, pass patterns, and offense, but Coach Jim Mallory was pointing up the importance of the conditioning phase of the training and the running drills.

Veterans who had been here during the Spring training reviewed the offensive patterns of play.

Typical of the opening day drills was the breaking up into groups for blocking, churning.

At that twice-daily program will be followed for the rest of the next few days.

A 2 o'clock skull session for blackboard drills and movies of former Pirate games is on the schedule, and the team takes the field again at 3 o'clock.

Coach Boone noted the quartet in the backfield is about set. In this combination will be Emo Boado of Wilmington, Jim Henderson of Portsmouth, Va., Dick Cherry of Washington, N.C., and Harold O'Kelly of High Point, N.C. This unit will have speed and the reserve strength is adequate, says Boone.

Problem with the line is at the tackles, says Mallory, as he surveyed the roster of players in the line, most of them freshmen and inexperienced varsity men.

Rain did not stop the squad. The field was wet Friday from rains of Thursday afternoon and night, but the drills went on and the boys are still in high spirits.

The freshmen have been getting a lot of work under direction of Assistant Coach Ed Smith, and have also been working with the entire group.

Pointing to the opening here with Norfolk Navk on September 10, it was noted that Louis Hallow of Goldsboro is a definite starter at center, Paul Popov of Kingston and either Dickmonds of Dunn or Ken Burgess of Burlington at tackles and Bill Helms of Monroe or Raymond Pennington of Greensboro or J. D. Bradford of Fayetteville at ends.

The eligibility of freshmen in the North State Conference is a consolation to Coaches Boone, Mallory and Smith. They keep working away, knowing that the 1955 schedule is tough, but that it will end all right if the pre-season drills contribute to the development of a good team which makes few mistakes during the regular season.

Tennis Officials Eye Giammalva

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—American tennis officials, desperate for a new court hope who might help win back the Davis Cup, will have their eyes focused during the next days on a young, bowlegged Texan named Sam Giammalva.

Idle today when opening salvo are discharged in the National Championships at the West Side Tennis Club, the 22-year-old Texan alumnus of the University of Texas bid tomorrow against Laurence Schaffer of New York.

He has a rather favorable draw. His next opponent will be the winner of the match between Italy's Giuseppe Merlo and England's Bobby Wilson. Blocking his path after that are Japan's Kosei Kamo, the eighth-seeded foreigner, and Gilbert Shea of Los Angeles seeded fourth.

Shea was Giammalva's final victim in the Texas' surprising sweep to the Western Grass Courts championship at South Orange, N.J., early in August.

En route, the unseeded and unheralded Giammalva whipped Vic Selix, the national champion, in straight sets and then conquered Kurt Nielsen. Blocking his path this year's Wimbledon runner-up.

If Giammalva can squeeze past his early obstacles, including Shea, then he can test his explosive though erratic big game against Australia's Lewis Wood, now being hailed as the best of the world's amateurs.

The would meet in the quarter-finals with the winner taking on top-seeded Tony Trabert, the Wimbledon king, assuming of course, that the latter's matches go according to form.

These are rather large expectations for so inexperienced a youngster, but Bill Talbert, the U. S. Davis Cup captain, is among those who wouldn't be surprised to see Giammalva throw a monkey-wrench into the favored ranks.

"He stands right now as our most promising comer," Talbert said. "I'd like to see him find himself in this tournament."

Giammalva has tremendous power off both his backhand and forehand. He tears into a service like a m ad at the ball and there's nothing timid or hesitant about his volleying.

Today's first-round matches weren't enough to whet the appetite of a tennis gourmet who has been feasting on Davis Cup fare. But the spectators who dropped in at the West Side Club had a chance to see Trabert, the favorite, in action against a pretty good Englishman 21-year-old Roger Becker.

Less than half the seeded list was scheduled for an appearance.

Sooners Top Pick In Big Seven Conference

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Coach Bud Wilkinson's amazing football factory down at Norman is considered almost a cinch to turn out its eighth straight championship model.

You can't get an argument in the sprawling midlands that Oklahoma won't again nab the Big Seven banner and represent the conference in the Orange Bowl next Jan. 1.

The Oklahoma front office mentions prominently the loss of two All Americas—center Kurt Burris and end Max Boydston—and numerous other stars of 1954 by graduation. But the fact remains the Sooners annually lose great football players and Wilkinson turns to the production line belt to come up with sufficient talent to make a successful battle for both regional and national honors.

Wilkinson says he can't possibly field as strong a first team as last seasons when the Sooners won all 10 of their games and rated third in the Associated Press poll. He admits though, that the squad could be a little deeper.

"We might do okay after we get a few games under the belt," Wilkinson commented.

Frank Lane Apologizes But Claims Ump Wrong

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Lane publicly apologized for his vocal outburst against an umpire during a game in Chicago last week, but the general manager of the White Sox insisted the umpire was at fault.

Lane berated Umpire Larry Napp before American League President Will Harridge in the seventh inning of a game between Chicago and Boston last Tuesday. He was summoned to New York yesterday, fined $500 and ordered to apologize.

Commissioner Ford Frick said: "For conduct unbecoming a baseball official and for using violent profane language Frank Lane is fined $500. . . . It is understood Lane will make a proper public apology to Mr. Harridge, the American League and to the Chicago fans."

The stormy Chicago official readily apologized and then gave his own explanation:

"I went to Mr. Harridge's box to complain about Umpire Larry Napp but my remarks were directed at Cal Hubbard, chief of the league's umpires who also was there.

MARRIAGE FOR THREE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
The next time Ann called Pinky it was to invite her to share some crabs which she and Adam had bought in Albuquerque when they went down to the Cathedral for Easter Service—Pinky refused flatly, and then told Adam about it, the next time she saw him.

Her eyes were glinting, her mouth drawn thin and unsmiling. Adam put on his hat, took it off, rubbed his hand back over his hair. "Great dog, Pinky!" he said unappreciatively.

They were standing in the courtyard of the Governor's Palace, tensely examining the escort. It was a secluded spot; only tourists came there; the only local eyes would be those of the museum personnel, and their two Scottie dogs.

"It was not a 'date,' Adam, coming down from Los Alamos, had seen Pinky on the sidewalk, and had pulled up beside her. 'Let's go in here,' she'd suggested. 'I want to tell you something.' And she had told him.

"I don't want you and Ann quarreling," Adam protested.

"You surely don't expect us to go on being friends?" Her tone was sharp.

"Well—"

"Oh I see," said Pinky. "You want to eat your cake and have it, too."

"It's a nice arrangement," he drawled.

"Not for this cookie," she said, with a return to her usual manner of gay and challenging impudence. Adam grinned. "You'll have Ann wondering about us."

"I doubt it," said Pinky. She gave the wagon a push. Wives are born dumb, and stay stupid. They dole out love-making like they do pie to their husbands, or drinks on Saturday night. Her voice thinned. "You drank a bottle of beer before supper," she squeaked.

"You can't have a highball now."

Then she whirled about, her green denim skirt flipping up around her bare knees. "It makes me wonder, often, why girls—women—a man's grasp the elemental truth that a man expects to be treated like something other than a cash register. Any normal guy wants to get some fun out of life. He wants to pal with a wife who is something besides his cook and bottlewasher."

came here. Maybe if I'd snap out of that feeling, I'd find my other trouble tied up to it. I've been nasty to Adam. I haven't helped him one bit with his work. He's been busy, and I could have helped—at least, been decent to come home to." She broke off and studied the young doctor's face.

"Mental attitude is very important," he said quietly. "I think that part of your trouble may be illness. If you had a child—"

"I want children!" said Ann quickly.

"And I'm sure you'll have them! But for right now you're not busy. Your husband is gone all day and you have a small apartment. Did you ever do any outside work, Mrs. Laird?"

"Oh yes!" She told him of her job at the lumber yard, her bookkeeping for Adam and then she spoke of her work for the blood bank.

"Wonderful!" he cried. "We have a bank at the hospital here."

"Yes, I know."

"I don't think that you could work there, exactly—the technicians do it—but Mrs. Gore, who sent you to me, is active in the Hospital Auxiliary, and I'll bet they could find things for you to do. You'd only need to say you were willing to help."

"Do you really think that would help me, Dr. Bates?"

"I'm not promising it will solve your domestic problems, Mrs. Laird," he said kindly. "But it will help you to get out of that mood you say you've been in. And if your temper has been behind your troubles—"

"Yes!" She stood up. "I'll be worth trying!"

He smiled. "I think so, too. Come back and see me in a week, will you? Take the vitamins I've ordered. You're too pretty a girl to lose your husband unless you want to."

That same afternoon Ann went to see Mrs. Gore.

"Of course, we can use you!" the handsome woman said emphatically. "We'll go right over and tell Sister you're available."

Ann laughed and watched with envious admiration the way this woman, probably the most socially eminent in town, just smoothed down her blue chambray skirt and went out to the station wagon with Ann.

"The hospital is Catholic, of course," said Mrs. Gore as they drove along, but the Auxiliary is nondenominational. However, we all have to get along with the Sisters."

Ann laughed and watched with envious admiration the way this woman, probably the most socially eminent in town, just smoothed down her blue chambray skirt and went out to the station wagon with Ann.

Ransom Money Is In Circulation

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The discovery of two more $20 bills of the long-missing $308,730 bill of Greenlee ransom money—third and fourth in recent weeks—has bolstered the theory that the money is at last being put into circulation.

The FBI reported the discovery of the two bills yesterday at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis and announced they had been traced to banks in Springfield and Sedalia, Mo.

J. Earl Milnes, special FBI agent in charge here, said the bills were found Monday and Tuesday by FBI agents making a routine check but declined to say when the two most recent bills were received by the bank here.

New Military Reserve Act Of '55 Explained

(Editor's Note: This is an explanation of the Army's policy in implementing the recently passed Reserve Forces Act of 1955, offered by the Greenville Army Reserve Advisor Group.)

Five special enlistment programs into the U.S. Army are listed in the new Reserve Forces Act of 1955, which the President recently signed into law. The bill was signed in an effort to build the Army's Ready Reserve strength to its requirement of 1,002,000.

Following are the five new programs:

- (1) Six year enlistment in the Army Reserve, by persons who have not yet been ordered to report for induction. Of these six years, two will be spent on active Army duty. Service as a member of the Ready Reserve for a period which, when added to active duty, will total five years, and the remainder of the enlistment as a member of the Standby Reserve.
- (2) As a member of the Ready Reserve the enlistee must attend 48 weekly drills of his Reserve unit, and perform 17 days active duty training with the unit annually. An alternative is 30 days active duty training annually, when authorized.
- (3) The Ready Reserve, which participates in training as outlined above, can be called into active service upon Presidential order in a national emergency. The Standby Reserve does not involuntarily participate in training, and can be called to active service by an act of Congress only.
- (4) Persons between the ages of 17 and 18½ may enlist in the Army Reserve, with a draft deferred status. These enlistees will be required to serve satisfactorily on active duty for training for a period of six months, at $50.00 per month. This six months active duty time for training may be delayed by the enlistee in order that he may finish high school. In the event that he drops from school or becomes 20 before completing his course, he may be called for the six months service.
- (5) The remaining seven-and-a-half years of the enlistment will be spent in a unit of the Ready Reserve.
- (6) The third plan, not to be implemented at this time, concerns

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

- provisions of plan (2). Persons applying for enlistment under the special programs (1), (2) and (4), will be accepted promptly. They will be enlisted directly by the Reserve units and they will be required to sign a written agreement acknowledging training and service obligations incurred by such enlistments.

Leaf-Feeding Worms On Peanut Plants Can Be Quickly Controlled
By S. C. WINCHESTER
County Agent

Infestations of leaf feeding insects on peanuts, particularly corn ear worm, have increased considerably since hurricanes Connie and Diane. The damage is first noticed on the newly formed leaves where the small worms begin. As the worms become larger they begin working down the plant ending up on the young pegs. Yields may be reduced considerably because of loss of leaves and the direct attack of the worms on the young pegs.

All of the leaf feeding worms on peanuts may be controlled by applying 10-15 lbs. per acre of either 10 DDT or 20 pct. Toxaphene. Control measures should be taken as soon as possible after damage is detected since it is much easier to kill these worms while they are small. Most peanut fields have a rank growth by now and farmers may be reluctant to go over the field with dusting equipment. However, it is felt that much less damage will be done by the dusting equipment than by the worms.

Where large acreages are involved, airplane dusting may be used with good results.

Growers are advised not to feed to livestock foliage treated as described above within 30 days of treatment.

The U.S. $5,000 bill has on it the picture of President Madison.

Pitt Bar Ass'n Honors Judge Bundy

Judge William J. Bundy, newly appointed Superior Court Judge was honored last night by the Pitt County Bar Association at a buffet supper held at the local Moose Lodge.

Members of the Bar Association, guests from surrounding county Bar Associations and their wives attended the meeting.

Bundy was appointed a Superior Court Judge by Gov. Hodges after the Legislature approved a number of new judges at the last session.

The Pitt County attorney had served several terms as solicitor for this district and held that office until he ran against Judge J. Paul Fritzel in the last election. He was defeated in that race by a narrow margin.

Judge Bundy told the group that he would try to uphold the standards of his office while serving as judge.

He expressed regret that his father could not have lived to see the honor which had been bestowed upon him.

The judge offered his thanks to the Bar Association for unanimously supporting him when the appointment of the new judges was being considered.

He said that the bar's support had a great deal to do with his selection.

Eli Bloom acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion and Burt James was toastmaster.

Judge Bundy was introduced by Judge Albion Dunn.

The new judge's wife, daughter and mother were introduced by James as was his brother S. D. Bundy and his wife, of Farmville and president of the Craven County Bar Association Charles Abernathy.
