Army Officials Said Urging Peron Resign

Revolt In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Circles in close contact with the army said today unnamed officials in the army had called upon President Peron to resign. There was no official confirmation. Federal police headquarters near the Congress Building were evacuated, possibly indicating fear of an attack. Peron was reported to have gone to the Army Ministry about 3 a.m. This report came on the heels of government announcements that armed rebellion had flared at three key centers in the interior and had been "rapidly" crushed. The government also declared a terrorist plot had been smashed in Buenos Aires with the arrest of 100 civilians. This was the fourth reported plot aimed at upsetting Peron since the major revolt of June 16—just three months ago today. The state radio said "it is understood" the chief of the rebel forces is former Gen. Salimiro Felix Videla Balaguer, who was accused Sept. 8 of leading the Rio Cuarto garrison in a conspiracy which was crushed. Four days later, Gen. Balaguer was reported under arrest, but this never was confirmed officially. Despite earlier government announcements that the situation had been "fully dominated," there still appeared to be rebel activity in some areas this afternoon. The surrender of 300 rebel troops in Entre Rios Province was announced. A state of Seige—virtual martial law—was extended to the entire country. Previously this applied only to Buenos Aires. Peron proclaimed the state of seige and the House of Deputies, completely dominated by pro-Peron deputies, approved it in just five minutes. Unrest was reported also in Rosario, Argentina's second largest city, with a population of almost a half million, 170 miles north-west of Buenos Aires; at Santa Fe 100 miles north of Rosario; and at Patagona, 235 miles northwest of Buenos Aires. Plans were reported over Cordoba but there was no indication of whether they were piloted by loyalists or rebels. The planes were Gloster Meteor jets—the same type that bombed Government House in Buenos Aires in the abortive revolt of last June 16. The new uprising flared before President Peron was set to address the nation at 10 a.m. All commercial activity in Buenos Aires was told to close as a safety precaution. Armed trucks mounded with anti-aircraft guns patrolled the streets. Civilian employees were moved out of Government House, leaving only troops of the presidential guard. This is the pink-colored building where President Peron works. It was the chief target of rebel planes on June 16. Army troops swept into Plaza de Mayo. Three anti-aircraft guns were stationed at the corner and another in the center of the plaza. Trucks loaded with ammunition stood alongside. First word that a revolt had flared came when the government announced arrest of 100 civilians in putting down a terrorist plot against Peron.

Navy To Resort To Draftees

Heavy Expiration Of Enlistments Required Step; Will Need 10,000 Men Monthly

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy, which has prided itself on being a strictly volunteer outfit, finally has been compelled to start drafting some of its sailors. For the first time since World War II when all the armed forces were ordered to get all men by draft alone, the Navy will begin in November to get some of its manpower by levy. The draft became necessary, the Navy said, to replace men whose four-year enlistments are now expiring. A monthly quota, starting at 10,000 men, will be added to the present Army quota to bring the total draft call up to 20,000. The Air Force is confronted with a problem identical to that of the Navy—a high loss of manpower because terms of men who joined during the Korean War are now expiring and men are declining to reenlist. But the Air Force is hanging on grimly to its own volunteer-only record. If called up by selective service, a man may ask for duty in the Navy. But whether he gets it will depend on several conditions, including whether the monthly quotas as allocated between the Army and Navy have been filled. The selections will be made at the Army's forces examination stations. Even though the tour of duty will be only half of that for regular enlistees, the draftee will get the same type of assignments. The Navy said it would not distinguish between those who were assigned to the fleet, shore establishment or schools as the needs of the service dictate.

Two Americans Reach Hong Kong; One Admits Spying First To Leave Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China today released two American civilians—the first of 22 the Communists have promised to free. One of the two asserted he was guilty of spying for the United States. Released was Walter A. Rickett, of Seattle, a Fulbright scholar imprisoned July 25, 1951, on espionage charges, and the Rev. Harold W. Rigney, 54, Chicago, dean of the Roman Catholic Fu Jen University in Peiping. He was arrested on spying and sabotage charges in July 1951. Rickett said, after crossing the border into this British crown colony: "I was engaged in espionage work and there was a (Korean) government. I collected military information." Rickett's wife Adele, when released by the Reds last February, said she was guilty of spying. She praised the Communists highly. She reiterated that today after her husband was freed. American officials said last spring Mrs. Rickett appeared to have been a thoroughly "brain-washed" Rickett is a former U.S. Marine Corps language officer who speaks Chinese and Japanese. "We have waited four years and three months for this day," said Father Rigney. He wore an open nightgown and crew cut. He was in good health. Both talked briefly at the border with Richard Tomlin, American Red Cross representative, and a reporter permitted into the area as a representative for all news agencies. Rickett praised both the Chinese and American Red Cross. "I haven't been speaking English for a long time," he said. He said he confessed to espionage 15 days after he was arrested July 25, 1951—13 months after the start of the Korean War. "I collected the information and I was guilty," he said in a low, steady voice. Rickett wore gray slacks and a gray-brown shirt, his hair was untidy but he was clean shaven. He carried a small shaving kit. "The Chinese government was lenient with me. They could have sentenced me to 10 years but gave me only five and released me after four," he said. "I'm afraid 10 years is a long time in anybody's life. Considering the situation, I was treated excellently. At all times my treatment was the same as the other Chinese prisoners, but... as a foreigner I was given more food." Asked whether he feels he has been indoctrinated by the Reds, Rickett replied, "I have read the Chinese papers and progressive articles." Father Rigney said before reaching the Catholic center he was notified Sunday of his release and had been riding trains since Monday. The bearded moustachioed priest appeared very tired. One of the Catholic center priests who met him said he had lost 80 pounds in prison, but appeared mentally all right. Rickett said he stayed behind when the Reds overran the mainland because "the political situation was such that I felt I could learn more about the Chinese." About 70 correspondents and newswriters cameramen waited for the two at the village. Later, at a news conference at the Gloucester Hotel, Rickett commented: "What I did mostly was collect information about democratic elements in Peiping and to what extent they supported the Chinese Communists." He said he gave this information to an American vice consul whom he identified as John Ferrario who was in Peiping before the Communist overran the mainland. "The red-haired student grasped his trembling right hand to steady it as he spoke. He said at the time of his arrest the Reds told him, 'In spite of the money being spent by the American government for espionage work, American spies could never collect any valuable information.'" Father Rigney said before reaching the Catholic center he was notified Sunday of his release and had been riding trains since Monday. The bearded moustachioed priest appeared very tired. One of the Catholic center priests who met him said he had lost 80 pounds in prison, but appeared mentally all right.

Rebuff To Adenauer In Saluting East German Moscow Greets Grotewohl

By RICHARD KASISCHKE MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Otto Grotewohl of East Germany arrived in Moscow with a government delegation today to start negotiations with the Kremlin. Only three days ago, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer finished similar negotiations. The Soviet government paved the way for the East German's arrival by hailing East Germany last night as a sovereign state and by brushing aside Adenauer's claim that his government speaks for all Germans. Grotewohl was first off the plane from Berlin, followed by Walter Ulbricht deputy premier and Communist party boss; Otto Nuschke, another deputy premier; and Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz. On hand to greet them were Foreign Minister Molotov, party boss Nikita Khrushchev, deputy Premier Mikhail Pervukhin, Lazar Kaganovich and Georgi Malenkov. Premier Nikolai Bulganin who is ill, was not present. There has been no hint so far as to what all the 60-year-old Premier. The Big Three Western ambassadors did not show up for the airport reception because their countries do not recognize the East German government. There was no parade and when Grotewohl and his group drove into town they went through practically empty streets. The Russians set the stage for the Grotewohl talks by rejecting two claims Adenauer had made before leaving Moscow: (1) that the Bonn regime was the only legitimate German government, and (2) that a final settlement of Germany's frontiers must await the peace treaty. The Russians declared through Tass that Adenauer has no more to say about Germany's final borders than East Germany. They also pointed out that the East Germans already had signed away the Oder-Neisse line to Poland and Russia. Tass made clear that the Soviets do not consider the frontier subject to further dickerings. Official circles in Bonn said they had anticipated this Russian reaction to Adenauer's claims. They said the Chancellor had put the points on record so it would not appear he was surrendering the German position on unity and settlement of the frontiers to gain other points. The Oder-Neisse line was laid down at the 1945 Potsdam conference. It was then agreed that subject to a final peace settlement, Poland should administer those parts of prewar Germany lying east of a line from the Baltic Sea, just west of Swinemunde, along the Oder River to its juncture with the Neisse River and from there to the Czechoslovak border.

Demos Told Full-Scale Campaign Is Necessary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania says that if President Eisenhower is the Republican candidate in 1956 the Democrats "are going to need sharp weapons, well laid out." "I want to make it clear that I am not calling for a smear campaign, for personal abuse," he said, but "I am calling for a normal exercise of the two-party system." Speaking last night at the second of two $10-a-plate Democratic fund-raising banquets, Gov. Leader said that "if Mr. Eisenhower is a candidate, he will be running on a record he himself will point to with all of a candidate's pride." "Our duty will be to review that record as we see it—to point to its failures as well as its successes—to illuminate those places where Dwight D. Eisenhower has been less than perfect president of the United States." "Dwight Eisenhower is no constitutional monarch," said Gov. Leader, arguing that the President is responsible for an administration "incapable of an administration, the farmer, the workingman, and the small businessman." Leader said it will take sharp weapons to "penetrate the screen of protective armor that has been put around Eisenhower" and added: "Harry Truman's broad ax alone won't do it. Neither will Adlai Stevenson's rapier thrusts. Every Democrat... has a part to play in this work." The young governor, filling in for former President Truman, swung a few hatchet blows himself. "There is no Benson farm policy that is creating an agricultural depression. It is an Eisenhower policy." "There is no Brownell security policy that has built up a shocking crew of government paid informers and perjurers. It is an Eisenhower policy." "There was no Hobby snafu on the police vaccine. It was the Eisenhower administration's snafu." "The Humphrey blooper that cost the Treasury a billion dollars in corporate taxes, the Humphrey hard money policy that gave us a quick recession, are misnamed. They are Eisenhower's responsibilities. Eisenhower's blooper, Eisenhower's handout to the banks."

Double Fall

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ruth Henrich, 33, a painter from Levittown, Pa., slipped from 100-foot-high scaffolding yesterday and plunged toward ground workers on construction of a Delaware River bridge at nearby Edgely. She was about 30 feet—reached out—and managed to grasp a dangling rope. Workers above began to haul him back up. Just as he neared a catwalk, he slipped again. This time there was no dangling rope. He fell—separately—toward earth. He landed in a tarpaulin piece of tarpaulin ground workers had improvised as a safety net—just in case—as he started up the rope. A hospital spokesman said his injuries were minor.

Hurricane Alert Over Weekend For East Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A weekend hurricane alert was sounded by the Weather Bureau today for the Atlantic Coast between North Carolina and Florida as Hurricane Ione, her winds built up to 90 miles an hour, pushed west-northwestward at a forward pace of about 12 miles an hour. The Atlantic storm was expected to move west-northwestward at about the same forward speed for another 12 hours and swing around to a more northerly course after that. "Although the movement of Ione beyond the next 24 hours is indefinite the hurricane may affect section of the U. S. coastline from North Carolina to Florida before the weekend is over and all interests in this area should keep closely in touch with weather bureau advisories over the weekend," said forecasters in an 11 a.m. EST advisory. Small craft were advised not to take extended trips out into the Atlantic. Ione at the time was near latitude 24.4 north, longitude 69.9 west. That placed the center 480 miles east of Nassau and 650 miles east-southeast of Miami. Her 90-mile winds were wrapped over a small area near the center. Wind gusts extended 200 miles to the north and 90 miles to the south of the eye.

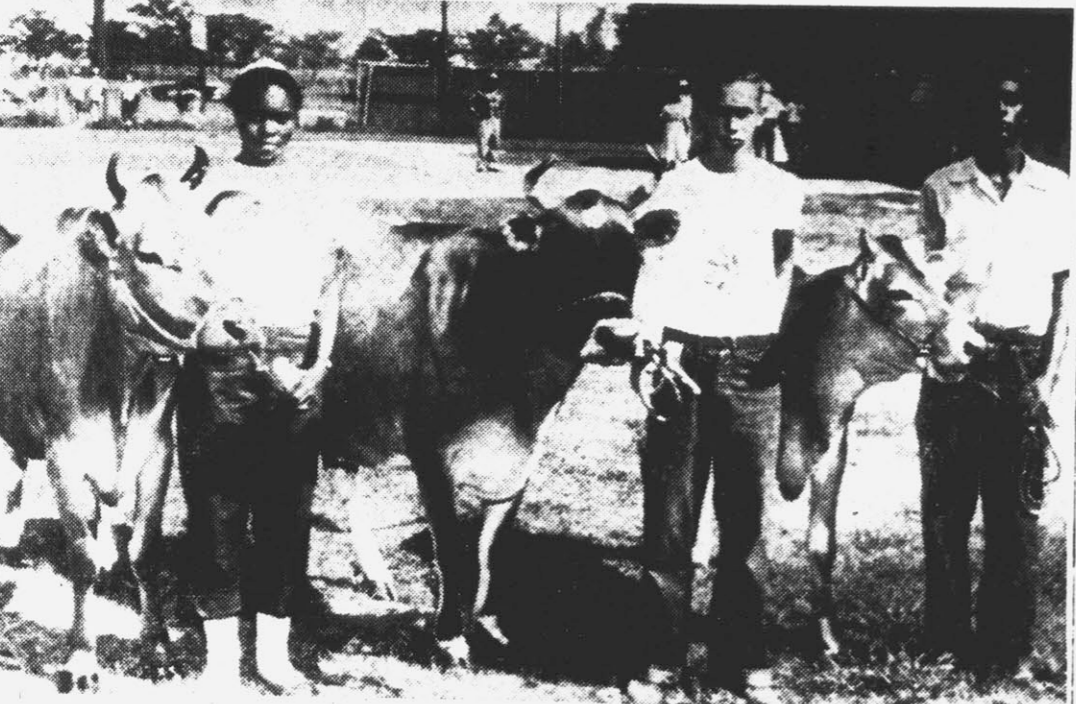

UNC Processing Of 3 Negroes To Conclude Today

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The three Negro youths enrolled as freshmen in the University of North Carolina yesterday were scheduled to complete their routine aptitude tests today. Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong said the three, first of their race to be admitted as undergraduates in the nation's oldest state university, definitely would attend their first class by tomorrow, and possibly late today. Neatly dressed and slightly nervous, the three teenagers were escorted when an examination of their records showed they were academically qualified. Last Saturday a special three-judge federal court directed the university to receive and process the applications of the three without regard to their race. When the three judges informed Atty. Gen. William B. Rodman yesterday they would not issue a stay of execution while the state prepared an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, Rodman told university officials to put through the applications. The boys are Leroy Frasier, 17, his brother Ralph, 16, and John L. Brandon, 18. All are graduates of Durham's Hillside High School. Their present plans call for each to commute to college from his home in Durham. The three will take general college courses. Each of the boys plan to study business administration. R. J. Frasier, father of the two Frasier boys, said he was "proud" they were admitted. "I wanted them to have the best education the state had to offer," he declared. He called the university the "best" supported school in North Carolina. Frasier is secretary of the home office of the N.C. Mutual Life Insurance Agency, a top administrative post in the Negro organization. Frasier, a native of Camden, S.C., attended South Carolina State College before he joined the insurance company. He has worked for the firm in Spartanburg, S.C., Memphis, Tenn., and Winston-Salem. Brandon's parents are employed

CIA Silent Over Vets' Spy Story

By DANIEL DE LUCE FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Officials of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency had no comment today on two young American veterans' story of spying for the Russians in order to spy for the West. The pair, Gregory J. Lima, 30, New York City, and Theo K. Hollie, 28, of Los Angeles, said they were informed by the Soviets "to serve our country by infiltrating Russian intelligence." They charged the CIA strung them along for three months after they offered to work as double agents then turned them down. They accused the CIA of "gross malfeasance" because it did not hire them and said they asked to testify against the intelligence organization at a congressional hearing. The pair told newsmen they got $6,000 from the Russians for their espionage activities. Hollie, a Navy veteran, said they got the idea of becoming double agents last year after Lima was "fired from a civilian job with the Army department in West Germany in 1953 as a 'security risk.'" "Some of the charges against him were that he had tried to get some acquaintance to join the American labor party and that a 'Dear Comrade' letter had come once to his address from the New York Daily Worker," Hollie said. "We decided that if we could do something to help us as spies against communism, it would make Greg a first-class citizen again and remove 'security risk' from his record. It would of course serve our country. So we schemed to hoodwink the Soviet into hiring us as spies, then gave the CIA use there after." The two said their missions for the Soviets ranged from a report on a U. S. military intelligence school at Oberammergau, Germany, to a visit to Belgium's largest arms factory.

Fifty-Eight Cattle Shown In 4-County Event Here Thursday

River Clearance Plea Forwarded

A snagging project to remove logs and other debris from the Tar River between Greenville and Washington is now in the hands of Army engineers. Congressman Herbert C. Bonner, in answer to a request from the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, has asked that the engineers make a survey of the river in this area to ascertain what should be done in regard to a snagging project. Bonner made the request in a letter to Col. R. L. Hill, District Engineer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers in Wilmington. The local Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, meeting this week, voted to ask the Congressmen to aid in the matter, which it believes will assist in flood control in this area. It was pointed out at the Chamber meeting that the debris deposited in the Tar by the hurricanes impedes the flow of the river and is a flood control deterrent.

Death Penalty To Be Appealed

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Robert Conner, 36-year-old Negro, was sentenced here yesterday to die in the gas chamber after a jury found him guilty of killing Lanzetta Roberts, 49, superintendent of the Negro detention home. Conner's lawyers announced they would appeal the verdict to the State Supreme Court. Conner was convicted of the first degree murder of Roberts, who was shot to death May 24, 1954, in a store. Officers said Conner admitted the shooting. Conner was convicted and sentenced to die in a result of the first trial in Sept. 1954. He won a second trial as a result of an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Joyous Reaction To Good News

TITLE (AP)—It's wonderful news! Mrs. A. J. Rickett said last night when informed her son Walter A. Rickett had been released by Chinese Reds after three years imprisonment on spy charges. The reason was in marked contrast to the restraint exhibited Saturday night when old her son would be released. At that time the parents had refused to express any joy because they had been "disappointed so many times." "We just had to know it was true before we could let ourselves go," she said when informed the son had been freed.

Stassen Thinks Odds Lean To Soviet Approval

DENVER (AP)—Harold E. Stassen told President Eisenhower today he believes "the odds are" that Russia will accept the President's plan for the United States and the Soviet Union to exchange military blueprints and agree to mutual inspection. Stassen, the President's special assistant on disarmament problems, conferred with Eisenhower for a half hour after flying from New York to report on the United Nations disarmament talks. A U.N. Disarmament subcommittee has been studying, among other proposals Eisenhower outlined at the Geneva Big Four conference. That plan calls for the country and the Soviet Union to exchange blueprints on such establishments, and to agree to mutual aerial inspection of such establishments. The U.N. subcommittee has expanded its talks to include ground inspection. "At a news conference after his meeting with Eisenhower, Stassen was asked whether he was optimistic that Russia eventually will accept 'some form' of the President's plan. Stassen replied, 'the odds are that they will' accept the plan."

Firemen Stopped At City Limits

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Fayetteville fire department truck stopped at the city limits yesterday rather than proceed about 2-1/2 miles to a fire at a burning house. The incident was the first actual test of a policy of not fighting fires outside the city. Up to last July 1 the city and Cumberland County had a working agreement on such calls under which the department sent men and equipment and the county contributed funds. After a disagreement on the amount of county payments the city decided to stop answering county calls. The alarm yesterday was turned in on a city box. The home of Zora McCall caught fire after a stove exploded. Neighbors organized a bucket brigade and put out the blaze while the fire truck stood by.

Citizens Rally To Ask Leniency For Bootlegger

RALEIGH (AP)—Daniel B. Little, 27, was sentenced to 18 months in prison after he pleaded guilty in court today to transporting 900 gallons of illegal whiskey. In passing sentence, Judge Don Gilliam noted that much legal liquor would yield the federal government $10,000 in taxes. Little is the editor of The Taylorsville Times, a bank cashier, a physician, a sheriff, the head of public schools in Alexander County a hardware merchant, the mayor of Taylorsville and the organizer of public welfare work. He was introduced calling for mercy for Little who was identified as "one of the county's most prominent families." The Taylorsville police chief appeared in court on his behalf. Little paid a $500 fine last year for violating the liquor law, and recently completed parole.

Farmville Market Prices Hit Peak

FARMVILLE—Tobacco reached its highest average of the season yesterday—$52.11. Some 1,470,116 pounds of leaf were sold on yesterday's sales for $770,792.90. Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported. Whedbee said prices were stronger on the market yesterday than they have been at any previous time during the season. Bidding was brisker with more competition on the majority of the grades. Large amounts of wet and damaged tobacco continued to come in. Whedbee said that 27,380,405 pounds of tobacco had been sold on the market through yesterday. The sales committee of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association is to meet tonight to determine hours of sales next week, the sales supervisor noted.

Plan Observances For Oct. 24, Nov. 5

Plans for observance of United Nations Day, Oct. 24, and for World Community Day, Nov. 4, were formulated Thursday morning at a meeting of the Christian World Relations Committee of the Greenville Council of Church Women.

The committee agreed that the Council of Church Women will cooperate with the Greenville Ministerial Association, the A. A. U. W., the League of Women Voters and other organizations to promote a better understanding of the United Nations through the special service on Oct. 24.

World Community Day is sponsored annually by the local Council of Church Women. "Building Lasting Peace" is the theme for 1955 and special emphasis will be placed on the Food and Agriculture Organization of United Nations. The program will be given in St. James Methodist Church at 10:30 a. m. on Nov. 4. A special offering of men's and children's clothing and new denim will be made for rural overseas shipment.

Grifton PTA Hears Dr. Fuller; Committee Chairmen Named

GRIFTON—Frank Fuller of the East Carolina College Education Department was guest speaker at the first meeting of the Grifton Parent-Teachers Association this week.

The professor spoke on the program of the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

He urged support of the proposed mental health clinic and described its operation. In addition, he gave the parents and teachers a number of pointers on how they can aid the mental health program in Pitt County.

Fuller was introduced by Mrs. Walter Murphy of the Program Committee.

Principal E. B. Bright recognized the local school board members, W. A. Gaskins, John Coward, Cletus Hart, F. L. Cox and Larry Jackson. The school faculty was also introduced.

Mrs. Don Carson, music director, requested support for the school band, and the Band Booster Club chairman Mrs. James Hudson asked support for that comparatively new organization.

Mrs. L. O. Vanneman was introduced as the treasurer, replacing Mrs. Kenneth Talton who resigned, and President James Israel named committee chairmen as follows:

Mrs. H. C. Wright, hospitality; Bill Mahler, ways and means; Mrs. Hudson, membership; Archie Rogers, program; Mrs. James Rooley, library and reading; Mrs. Walter Patrick, house and grounds; Mrs. Claude Hart, legislative; Mrs. Paul Whitley, teacher's representative; Mrs. J. ### Installation By Wesley Council

New officers of the Wesley Foundation Council of Methodist students at East Carolina College have been installed and have begun their duties for the 1955-1956 school year. Jane Midyette, junior from Fairfield, is president of the council.

Other officers who with Miss Midyette were commissioned at a service conducted this week at the Jarvis Methodist Church of Greenville by the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr., pastor, are Joan Crawford of Rockingham, vice president; Doris Bryan of Lumberton, secretary; and David Kinlaw of Greenville, treasurer.

Commission chairmen who head various activities of the program carried on during the school year by the Wesley Foundation Council have been announced as follows: Patricia Davis, Raleigh; Lemuel Cox, Goldsboro; Shirley Hargrove, Snow Camp; Wynette Garner, Greenville; Ralph B. Shumaker Jr., Greer, S. C.; June Goldston, Graham; Jacqueline Rouse Havelock; Milton Mann, Sanford; Peggy Jones, Laurel Hill; Carol Lucas, West End; Council Jarman, Kinston; and Douglas Mitchell, Greenville.

Couples Club Meets
BETHEL—Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Jackson were hosts to the regular meeting of the couples club. The home was decorated with vases of pink rose buds and marigolds.

After several progressions of play, Mrs. Jackson served a delicious chicken salad plate with Coca-Colas to her guests. Assisting the hostess in serving were Ann Jackson and Peggy Highsmith.

At the end of play, Mrs. Wadie Ward was awarded the prize for the women and Ralph Highsmith for the men. The guest prize went to Mrs. Burley Bullock.

Others who played were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Whitehurst, Mrs. X. E. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Selby, Mrs. Highsmith, Mrs. Frank Whitehurst, Robert Davis and Mr. Jackson.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSBERG
 Southerners are going to get a brand new view of one of their most mysterious heroes in "Jefferson Davis: American Patriot, 1808-1861," volume one of a two volume biography of the President of the Confederate States of America, written by Hudson Strode. It has just come out, and contains material never before published, as well as a fresh idea of just what kind of a man Jeff Davis actually was—a topic that has been in dispute for many years.

Interesting to Southerners also is the first choice of the newly-formed Civil War Book Club, designed to give you a book a month—if you want it—and at a price—about the War Between the States. . . . Selection is by a famous group of editors and scholars, including Bruce Catton, Allan Nevins and Bell I. Wiley, who have decided on "Three Years With Grant" as the Club's initial offering. . . . Called by Catton "one of the great books of the Civil War," it's a series of recollections about Grant by war correspondent Sylvanus Cadwallader—whose name alone guarantees that the book should be terrific. . . . If anybody wants to join the Club's War Book Club, just ask Your Columnist and we'll supply all needed information.

The New Hits
 On the tenth anniversary of his first-million-copy best seller, "The Foxes of Harrow," Frank Yerby now gives us "The Treasure of Pleasant Valley," blurb as "an electrifying novel of men, women and gold in the reckless California of 1860. . . . He certainly likes to play on a wide screen, this Yerby—and "The Treasure" will, we have no doubt, be on the best-seller lists before he has a chance to write another book, which will be pretty soon. . . . Last year, if we remember right, he had two books on the best-seller lists at the same time—maybe he is ambitious!

Also promising sales up in the millions is "Marjorie Morningstar," the new creation by Herman Wouk, author of "The Cain Mutiny," which also came out as a play and in the movies—all successful. . . . Wouk's new book is about a middle-class girl of Jewish extraction, whose life and dreams go to make what the reviewers tell us is a fascinating story. . . .

$1000 Reward
 A few weeks back this column told you that the author of the famous children's classic, "The Little Engine That Could," had at last been tracked down and was getting her reward. She is Mrs. Frances Ford of Philadelphia, a lady reputedly 101 years old. . . . Now Platt and Munk's publishers, have come through with a denial that Mrs. Ford actually originated the story of the Little Engine, since a version of it was published before she wrote hers. On top of that, Platt and Munk are offering $1000 reward to anyone who can track down the actual author, and can prove that the story appeared in printed form before 1911—so get out your old readers, spellers and primers, and see if you can't find "The Little Engine That Could, in some form or another, in a publication dated before 1911—it'll be worth $1000. Not $94,900, but still, wouldn't $1000 come in a little handy these days?

Today's Review
 Dr. Kelly Crockett contributes his criticism of "The Tender Trap," a popular Broadway play that is this month's selection of The Fireside Theatre, Garden City, New York. . . . The Fireside Theatre will, if you write them, send you a popular hit every month, so that you can avoid the long trip to New York to enjoy it. . . .

"The Tender Trap," by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith, New York: Random House, 1955. . . . The favor with which audience received "The Tender Trap" when it was produced last year in New York was in this case, at least, the reward of sincere merit. It still retains its humor and charm for the reader of plays.

A young bachelor with a host of girl-friends, all matrimonially inclined, involves himself in complications by attempting to encourage them all and marry none, and through his ineptitude suddenly discovers himself engaged to two girls at once. But the authors freshen these shop-worn episodes with original treatment, and people with characters in whom we can believe. The play gains added depth with its undertone of social seriousness. The young girl who in dreaming of career and marriage mistakes the grime of the great city for stardust will receive a rather grim but faithful evaluation of her opportunities there for a normal future. And even men must be appalled at the callous egotism which a decent and likeable young man can develop who finds himself the object of attention and pursuit of too many females. . . .

"The Tender Trap" did not make theatrical history; it is not an example of great dramatic literature; nor does it set any new theatrical style. But neither does it waste the time of the reader or play-goer. Kelly Crockett

Rescue Workers Fear 2 In Old Mine Are Dead

GEORGETOWN, Colo.—U. S. Bureau of Mines experts joined more than 100 volunteer rescue workers today in desperate efforts to rescue two Kansas uranium prospectors trapped in an ancient mine shaft.

Believed dead from lack of oxygen more than 3,000 feet inside the unused shaft near here were Glenn Dew, 33, and Melvin LeBlow, 45, Ulysses, Kan., farmers.

The two were last seen about 2:30 p.m. yesterday when they followed their Geiger counters under the rotted timbers supporting the old mine tunnel, about 35 miles west of Denver.

Two companions who stayed back as a precaution escaped entrapment. They are Kenneth E. Hickok, 50, a mining engineer, and Ernest P. Stubblefield, 32, an airport manager. Both also live at Ulysses.

Clear Creek County Sheriff James Sacra said two miners with oxygen masks got no answer after they went part way into the shaft and started for Dew and LeBlow. Officials said the prospectors had oxygen tanks to support them for about four hours. The officials believed the two could not possibly have survived the hours after their oxygen was exhausted.

Stubblefield and Hickok said they came here Tuesday to do some uranium hunting. At the abandoned shaft next day they found indications of uranium ore around the outside.

Hickok said all except Stubblefield, who is crippled, went into the mine about 3,000 feet Wednesday until they reached a point where an old cave-in had partly blocked the shaft. He said the air was bad and they abandoned the effort for the day.

The trio returned yesterday and after reaching the cave-in Dew and LeBlow climbed over it. Hickok said, "discovered water on the other side and used old lumber to construct a raft, intending to float beyond the water. Hickok said that was the last he heard of the two. He went for aid.

Sacra said both men are married. Dew has three children and LeBlow two.

Jewish New Year Starting Today

NEW YORK—Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year (5716), starts today at sundown.

Throughout the world, Jews will celebrate the holiday with prayers, greetings and messages of hope—which will culminate on Yom Kippur, the fast day of atonement Sept. 26.

From his Denver headquarters last night, President Eisenhower extended greetings to all Americans of Jewish faith, urging a renewal of "devotion to the cause of peace."

The National Jewish Welfare Board has made preparations so that American Jewish servicemen at home and abroad can celebrate the high holiday.

The Air Force will take four Jewish chaplains on a 10,000-mile tour of faraway bases, including remote arctic stations.

On the Mediterranean, a helicopter will carry a Jewish chaplain to the decks of various warships. In Korea and Japan, servicemen will be airlifted to central places of worship.

Scientists Look For 100-Year-Old Egg

CAMP IRWIN, Calif.—Tiny, shrimplike creatures springing up in a recently flooded dry lake today brought a trio of scientists to this desert outpost to search for eggs that may be 100 years old.

The leader of the group, Dr. James P. Welsh, Los Angeles State College zoologist, already has about 40 of the small specimens which thrive only in hot water and look like a throwback to the trilobite, an extinct prehistoric crustacean.

Dr. Welsh will be joined by his colleagues Arthur Lockley and John Reardon of Los Angeles State and Army researchers in the investigation of Bicycle Dry Lake and its riddle of the reborn shrimp.

Here is Dr. Welsh's story: As far back as anyone can remember, and that's roughly 100 years, the lake was dry until last Aug. 23, when desert thunderstorms suddenly deposited a foot of water.

The Army, which had been using the dry lake bed as a landing field, began noticing the small wrigglers, one to two inches long, in the new wet lake. They called in Dr. Welsh.

He found that no other source of water seems to be feeding the lake. There are no wells or underground springs, and the nearest river, the Mojave, flows 800 feet lower.

His theory: The crustaceans were lying dormant in eggs beneath the sun-baked surface, and the rains hatched them.

The little creatures are either bright pink or white, and have tiny leglike extremities underneath, something like a king crab. Welsh says he has classified them as a type of fairy shrimp—a branchpod crustacean of the order Notostraca, genus apus or lepidurus, for the record.

If Dr. Welsh can recover some of the eggs, he believes he may have a vital link with past fossil finds, including trilobites.

Plans To Marry Widow With A Family Of 12

FRESNO, Calif.—Frank C. Bente, a Fresno taxicab company worker, says he proposed to a widow with 12 children because he believes she will help him realize an ambition of many years standing.

Bente, a pipe-smoking, 41-year-old bachelor who lives alone in a 21-room house near downtown Fresno, said he hopes first to acquire a large ranch and later to develop a home on it for delinquent children.

He described Mrs. Clara Margerum, 37, of Dallas, Tex., as the most sincere of the women he has talked with about the plan. Bente became interested in her when he read a story in the local newspaper about her efforts to get her large family under one roof.

Since that time, Bente said, the two have corresponded regularly. Then last week Mrs. Margerum visited Fresno for three days and they discussed his dream for a ranch and his interest in young people.

After she returned to Texas, Bente said, she wrote him that "if you still want me, I'll be back in about three weeks."

Bente said that will be about Oct. 1 and "we'll be married as soon as we can."

Bente's job in the taxicab company is to keep the cabs and rental cars clean.

He said he owes money on the 21-room house, which was inherited from his mother, but plans to fix it up for sale to get money for a down payment on the ranch.

Bente, a lanky 5 feet 10, said his dream of a ranch for delinquent youngsters, a sort of co-educational Boys Town, originally was shared by his mother Mrs. Clara Patterson, who died in March 1952.

"I only have one theory," he said, "and that is that a child helped is a crime prevented."

Accident Victim Was His Brother

BOSTON—James Shaughnessy was driving along a highway last night when he spotted an accident a few cars ahead of his.

He went to the scene and learned that the motorist who had suffered a heart attack and crashed head-on into another car, was dead.

The motorist was his brother, William J. Shaughnessy, 49.

Nixon Kicking Off Campaign By GOP

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON—A speaking tour which will take Vice President Nixon into contested political territory indicated today Republican are beginning their 1956 election campaign now.

Nixon announced yesterday he will open fire at the National Plover Contest in Wabash, Ind., tomorrow on Democratic critics of the Eisenhower administration's flexible price support farm program.

The vice president will follow this up with a speech at a GOP $100-a-plate dinner in Indianapolis tomorrow night.

Republican state chairmen agreed at a meeting here last week that declining farm prices offer the greatest political threat next year. Some of them are known to have suggested to National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that Nixon was the man to answer sharpened Democratic criticism in this field.

Thus far, the chief Republican reply has been that the Eisenhower administration inherited the great crop surpluses which they said were caused by rigid price supports under the Democrats.

But Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said that President Eisenhower will have something "very specific" to propose to Congress as an addition to the present program. He has hinted this might take the form of federally-subsidized withdrawal of some acreage.

Clever Burglar Fooled Pursuers

HONOLULU—Kasuo Asato looked in a window on his return home yesterday and spotted a man rifling a money jar. The thief dashed out the door shouting that children were ransacking the house.

Halfway down the block, the culprit dashed into another house and began changing clothes. But when Charles J. Kolo awoke from a nap and the thief dashed outside in his underwear—right into the arms of a cop.

"The burglar is in the house," the man yelled. The cop went inside and the thief just went.

"Pretty clever guy but we think we'll get him," Detective Lt. Hugh Whitford commented. "He left his wallet behind with his pants."

from crop production. Nixon will have another opportunity to talk about the farm problem at the National Corn Picking Contest in St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 15. Missouri, which Eisenhower carried by slightly less than 30,000 votes in 1952, is classed as a doubtful state next year.

There was every indication Nixon will discuss international affairs in dedicating a statue to Columbus in Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 12 and at the American Legion National Convention in Miami Oct. 13.

Eisenhower carried Florida in 1952 and the Republicans want to repeat that performance. Nixon also has scheduled a talk the following day in Tampa.

Other scheduled speeches: International Fire Chiefs Assn. in Omaha, Neb., next Tuesday; Republican finance dinner in San Francisco Oct. 10; and Investment Bankers Assn. in New York Oct. 19.

Tobacco Growers Need Consistency

The on-again-off-again method with which sales time on the Eastern Belt has been handled this season appears to us hardly to be in the interest of farmers who are marketing tobacco.

The selling season is only three weeks old and already there have been four changes in selling time on markets of the Eastern Belt. The belt started sales with five and one-half hours a day selling time. Selling time was cut back to three and one-half hours a day, increased to five and one-half and then cut back to three and one-half. Before the week-end is over there will be another meeting of the Sales Committee of the Warehouse Association and possibly another change will be made in selling time.

We realize of course that this selling season has been one with a number of extenuating circumstances. There is a bumper crop of tobacco. More than a usual amount has gone to stabilization which threw a heavy load on re-drying plants. Abnormally wet weather has caused a considerable amount of leaf to be damaged in packhouses which necessitated immediate sale before the tobacco reached an advanced stage of deterioration. At the same time the wet weather has kept other tobacco in good marketing order and farmers have not experienced difficulty in getting tobacco in order for market as has been the case in the past few years.

Nevertheless, the many changes in selling time which have been made this season has made it difficult for the grower to accurately plan the sale of his crop. When the market is selling on a full schedule, the grower is fairly certain he can sell about all the tobacco he can grade and make ready for market. If a short sales schedule is in effect, he knows there is little need to prepare large quantities of leaf for market. The main trouble this season is that the grower has hardly been able to tell from one day to the next—and certainly he has not been able to tell from one week to the next—how much tobacco he was going to be able to put on warehouse floors.

If the processing plants which handle tobacco in the Eastern Belt cannot hold up under the pressure of five and one-half hour sales days, it seems to us a better plan to make a minor reduction in sales time to put tobacco on warehouse floors in an even flow. At least the farmers and the re-drying plants would know what to count on. There would be no more of this flooding warehouses with tobacco one week and then cutting sales by one-third the next week only to go back to the longer sales the following week.

The Sales Committee which governs the daily sales time on the Eastern Belt should remember it has a major responsibility to the farmer who is offering his tobacco for sale as well as to the tobacco companies which are purchasing and processing the leaf.

Delaying Action In University's Appeal

By LYNN NISBET
U.N.C. — Decision of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina in denying Negroes admission to the undergraduate school is generally regarded as primarily a delaying action. Majority opinion is that the three-judge court will be sustained. Attorney General William Rodman does not concede the certainty of that result. He thinks the University may be able to convince the higher court that in view of other facilities available there is no discrimination in denying Negroes admission to the undergraduate school. Even if delay is the only accomplishment it might be worth while, in opinion of Rodman and Hodges. It would tend at least to slow the process of transition to a new order, and the gradual change would have less severe impact upon the institution, consequently less likelihood of violence.

It is further pointed out that efforts to exhaust judicial process, while at the same time complying with existing court decrees and orders, is in keeping with practice through the years. In continuing court actions the opponents of integration are following the same course followed by opponents of segregation for more than half a century. The decision in the historic Plessy v. Ferguson case of 1896 was not accepted as an absolutely final decision. Hundreds of attempts made to upset it before it was finally overruled on May 17, 1954.

Governor Hodges as chairman of the board of trustees, and Attorney General Rodman have made it clear they will not countenance overt defiance of the courts, or violence in connection with any incident attending operations of the schools, from the first grade to graduate level. Appeal through channels established by the constitution is regarded by State officials and university trustees as a part of their duty to protect the interests of all the people.

LITTLE STUFF — Jones Fuller of Durham is resigning as press agent for a number of out-of-state corporations domiciled in North Carolina. Each foreign corporation doing business in the state must designate a citizen of North Carolina as the agent upon whom process can be served in event of law suits. Record of that designation is kept in the office of the secretary of state at Raleigh. Every time a change in agents is made the records have to be changed accordingly at the same office of the corporation formally notified.

For the past 10 days one or more clerks in the capitol office have done little else than correct the records and forward the formal notifications.

Last previous flurry of activity in that field occurred when the late Willis Smith went to the U.S. Senate. He also had been process agent for several hundred foreign corporations. All those records had to be revised. "That is a phase of routine activity which few people know about," said Secretary of State Thad Eure. "It takes a lot of work, but the information must be kept up to the minute," he added.

EGGS — The egg grading law enacted by the 1955 General Assembly is working well, according to John Winfield, chief of the markets division of the Department of Agriculture. The law went into effect July 1, and since that time 403 "egg-handlers" have been registered. That is some 90-95 per cent of the potential. Some farmers and grocers are not yet familiar with the provisions of the law, but Winfield said. Eggs offered for sale do not have to be graded, but they must be labeled so the purchaser will know what chance he is taking.

The board of agriculture has adopted regulations, conforming to Federal standards, for the labeling. If the customer wants to take a chance he can buy ungraded eggs. If he wants to be sure of the quality the law prohibits mislabeling. Such designations as "fresh," "selected," and "certified," are specifically prohibited unless accompanied by an official grade label.

To effectuate the egg grading the agriculture department has employed two additional men and expect to put on two or three more. These men devote most of their time to instructing and training handlers in the grading methods, but they also do some of the actual grading. Winfield emphasized that producers and handlers must be graded, but the stated grades must conform to State and Federal specifications and the dealer is legally responsible for the accuracy of the label.

The program is financed by a few of one-fifth of one cent per dozen eggs sold. The smaller dealers buy stamps and affix them to the containers. Larger dealers pay the fee on basis of monthly reports to the Department of Agriculture. From July 1 through September 9, 1955, the program has cost $4,128. It is estimated that when the program gets going full speed the yield will be around $2,500 a month. That means North Carolina handles about 45 million eggs a month. That's a third of an egg a day for every man, woman and child.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . The Industrial Foundation

(Wilson Times)
The fact that Samson, Inc., is contemplating moving to Rocky Mount has brought into focus the necessity of reorganizing the Industrial Foundation.

This was started several years ago and partially dissolved because of many circumstances. But the time has come to revive it. Wilson must obtain industries. To do this it must have an organization with capital that can take over when opportunities present themselves.

The Chamber of Commerce is working constantly to obtain industries. And if none have been gotten recently it is not because of the lack of work on the part of the Chamber and its officers. It is because it takes time, for corporations do not make decisions of this type hurriedly.

The time has come when we must think of industrialization. With the tobacco acreage being cut yearly we must find something for our people to do. And every time five acres are cut from a farm a tenant is out of a job. Today a tenant farmer cannot support his family on the income from tobacco, corn grains and the like. It is true we are turning more and more to grazing in our diversification efforts. But the answer is not to be found in farming alone. The answer is to be found in finding additional work for our people.

The labor supply is here, in fact all facilities are here. What is needed is for our citizens to realize it takes money to promote and further projects of this kind. The Industrial Foundation should have a minimum of $100,000 in it. And as this begins to work for us, the fund should be added to it. It will be administered like any other business. But it will get business for us. And that is what Wilson needs.

The New Russian Currency

Somebody Told Me Run, Don't Walk, To Buy

Run, don't walk to the nearest TV shop and buy a color TV set. They're only $700 and WNCN is running a 90-minute color show Friday.

Seriously, it is time to start thinking about color TV, although most of us are not ready to plunk out $700 for a 17-inch set.

The Ford Star Jubilee, one week from today, will feature Judy Garland's debut into television, with David Wayne as guest star. October 6th Show of Stars will be in color. In 13 weeks of fall telecasting, there will be 10 color shows.

WNCN has two color sets. Friday night one will be used at the station as a monitor and another will be moved out of the station and set up to check the signals away from the transmitter. No doubt as the color programs continue to be telecast the station engineers will move the set to various locations in order to check signals at various distances.

It's a foregone conclusion that the time is near when the color set is coming down in price. So far only two manufacturers have gone in for the sets in a big way, with the rest of the industry holding back and producing only a few sets.

The big expense is the four-gun tube and the time is not too far off when a one-gun tube will be developed for color television. At present there are 40 tubes in a color set. With the use of transistors to replace some of the tubes, this number will be greatly reduced.

One local TV man has checked into the color TV situation in Baltimore and finds that even there color sets are selling exactly like hot cakes.

The black and white set of tomorrow will have a flat tube, which will hang on the wall like a picture. The "chassis" as we know it now will be about the size of and will look very much like a telephone. Size reduction of course is brought about by the use of transistors instead of tubes.

With such strides forward in black and white sets, the same may be expected in color. Meantime, if you have a color set will you kindly invite me to your house for a show?

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

Men, You Would Be Missed

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)— Guess what is the single thing that makes the world most livable to women.

It's you, mister, whether you're single or not. Most girls agree they wouldn't want to live—even doubt that they could live—in a world that held no men.

They simply couldn't get along without our shy manly dimples, our little pointed heads, our bumbling 5s—thumb hands.

Yes, sir, but do you know what the girls would miss most about men if the male sex suddenly vanished from the earth? Well, no matter what you're thinking, you're wrong.

The right answer: The thing they'd miss most is—a man's conversation. At least that's what they claim themselves. The possibility of a manless world exists. Two scientists at the University of Iowa have created a womanless world of frogs by treating some male frogs with female hormones. The confused he-frogs began laying eggs, but all the off-spring hatched out male. Not a girl tadpole in a carload.

Theoretically a one-sex race of human beings is also possible, but it would work the other way. Fathers couldn't become mothers, but hormone-treated mothers could act as fathers. Unfortunately, all their children would be girls. There would be no more little boys.

I polled a dozen ladies—young, middle-aged and elderly on how they would like life in a world made up forever only of members of their own sex. Most of them agreed they'd rather be dead.

Here are a few of their reactions:

"You mean I'd have to pay my own way when I went out? That'd kill me!"

"It would be too lonely without men. Nobody to light with. Sure women fight each other, but it's not fun. It's only fun when you're fighting a man."

"Whose shoulder would I cry on? I hate other women."

"It would be a more sensible world if there were no men. Women have much more common sense. But it would be an awfully dull world."

"Oh we'd never forget men—even if we could no longer see them. Men are in our blood. We'd remember them even in our veins."

"My heart closes even at the thought of it. It would be hell on earth without men. They are the romanticists. They provide the

THOSE ETHERAL PRINCIPLES

Napoleon's Russian campaign cost him two hundred fifty thousand men. He tried to make light of the whole affair. His first announcement when he reached the borders of France was that the Emperor was in the best of health. When someone asked if it were true that many men had died, Napoleon answered jauntily, "Oh, about two hundred fifty thousand men, or thereabouts, but most of them were Germans."

But the Russian Campaign spelled doom for the Little Corsican. He had marched triumphantly across the steppes of Russia. Shortly after he entered Moscow, a few snowflakes began to fall. If the impudent little pretender had had eyes to see, he would have understood that these snowflakes were the vanguard of God's avenging legions. When the snow became so deep that man and beast could hardly plow through it and the air so bitter cold that a regiment lay down at night and a corporal's guard rose in the morning, then Napoleon knew that Jehovah of Hosts was mightier in battle than he. Napoleon marshaled his armies and God vanquished him with a snowstorm.

Let us remember that God's little finger is stronger than the combined armies of men and demons. Statesmen may meet and go through a certain routine, considering that they are settling the affairs of the world; but in the end God not only settles them—God settled them thousands of years ago. He laid down certain laws and to this day men break them at their jeopardy.

Democ. Inspired Most Eisenhower Work

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The Democrats face a difficult task in exploiting anti-Eisenhower issues next year, for the obvious reason that they originated and advocated the major policies he pursues, including his farm, labor and foreign programs. These are admittedly the only important areas of political combat.

In their deliberate wooing of the so-called "labor vote," which former President Harry S. Truman and Walter Reuther, CIO head, began in their Labor Day statements, the Democrats will try to blame the GOP for enacting and preserving the Taft-Hartley Act. That nine-year-old statute has become a symbol although it does not seem to arouse the same concern among their membership.

Its principal author, the late Senator Robert A. Taft, never suffered from his participation in its enactment at the ballot box. His House associate, at the time, Fred Hartley, insists that he has as many friends in labor circles as he ever had.

PASSED OVER TRUMAN'S VETO
Moreover, the law is on the books today because of Democratic votes in the House and Senate. It is true that Truman vetoed it but it was passed over his veto only because men of his own party defied him and disagreed with him on this question.

In the House, 55 more than the two-thirds necessary to override a Presidential disapproval voted for re passage. On this roll call, 106 Democrats lined up against Truman, then at the peak of his popularity, and only 71 supporting him. In the Senate Truman's Democrats divided 22 to 20—22 for him and 20 against him. Without Democratic support, the veto would have been upheld easily in the upper chamber.

Despite organized labor leaders' unanimous hostility, there has been no serious effort to repeal the law in nine years. If it came to a test today, or at the next session enough Democrats would vote for it to keep it in effect.

PLEDGE FOR FARMERS To rally farmers to their candidate, presumably Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democrats will pledge themselves to restoration of rigid 90 per cent parity support of major crops. But it was a Democratic Congress which first voted for the lower and flexible system favored by President Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

In addition, both Republican and Democratic platforms have advocated flexible supports. At one time or another, Truman and two of his Secretaries of Agriculture—Claude Wickard and Charles S. Brannan—have declared publicly and specifically for the Eisenhower-Benson program.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, another former Truman Secretary of Agriculture, is on record for the least costly subsidies. Ironically, Wickard and Brannan now head the Democratic anti-like farm committee for the 1956 campaign.

IKE'S FOREIGN POLICY Despite Stevenson-Harriman criticism of the Eisenhower foreign

Impetus For Amusement Centers

By ELMER ROESSNER
Whatever Disneyland is doing for Walt Disney's personal fortune, it is giving new impetus to an already fast-growing industry. That's construction and operation of amusement places for tiny tots. The Stork, too, has something to do with it.

These places none as elaborate as Disneyland in Southern California, are usually baby animal farms, story villages or a combination of both. They usually feature calves, kids, fawns, chicks ducklings and other young animals. The villages are designed as fairy story or Mother Goose towns with such things as miniature castles, marmoset shoes and pumpkins, candy-stick light poles and other structures out of fiction.

These farms and villages began popping up shortly after the war. Now the excitement caused by Disneyland is attracting both enterprisers and investors in new projects. This summer, scores of new ones sprang into existence all over the nation and this winter scores more will be under construction.

The newest ones are more elaborate. Russell Patterson, artist, perennial beauty show judge and designer, was called in to design Storyland Village at Asbury Park, N.J. It was jammed all summer and now Mr. Patterson is being bombarded with requests to design others.

He's not very much interested because he is trying to start one of his own in the New York City area. The site for which he is negotiating is still a secret, it is many say. "Gee why didn't I think of that!"

"The growing size of many American families, as well as the birth rate, is booming play towns," Mr. Patterson said. "I saw one father buy tickets for seven children at Storyland Village. If he had taken those youngsters on hal, the rides at an ordinary amusement park, he would not be able to make the next payment on his car."

While animal farms require more work they have one advantage. Owners spend little on feed because visitors buy popcorn and other tidbits to feed the animals. Mr. Patterson says one farm took in $20,000 at its peanut and popcorn stand this year and saved almost as much again on feed. Mr. Patterson is thinking in terms of lots of piglets and baby goats at his next play village.

DOOR-TO-DOOR SALES MAY REACH $3.5 BILLION

Door-to-door salesmen will make sales totaling $3.5 billion this year, estimates the National Association of Direct Selling Companies.

Many merchants will look upon this $3.5 billion worth of sales lost to stores that pay local real-estate taxes.

Stores will lose some sales, of course. But some of the door-to-door total will be money that might not have been spent at all, charged for the salesman's share of the bell-pusher with the sample case.

WIDER STOCK OWNERSHIP MEANS MORE AUTO SALES

It was shortly after it became known that some Ford stock would be offered for public sale that General Motors split its stock, and the two actions may have some connection.

People favor the products of companies in which they hold stock. Thus people owning Ford stock may be expected to buy and boost the products of that company.

Furthermore, when stocks are split, the number of owners tends to increase. An investor whose shares jump from 750 to 1,500 is likely to sell 500 of them. And people going into the market are more likely to buy split stocks because of their lower prices.

So both Ford and General Motors may be hoping for more share-holding boosters.

The company appears to be dormant; at least it did not show up for the hearing and so the FTC ordered it to cease using the word "platinoid" for jewelry that doesn't contain any platinum. Now the FTC has a precedent for cracking down on any company that calls "platinoid" policy as "bluff and backdown." The Administration has carried out the principal tenets of the Truman-Marshall-Acheson program. It has supported the NATO theory of "containment" of Russia, and it has extended economic and military assistance to our overseas Allies in accord with predecessor policies.

Ike ended the shooting war in Korea, and although the combined division of that country between Syngman Rhee's Government and Communists is unsatisfactory the whole area might now be in friendly hands, if Truman has permitted General Douglas MacArthur and his replacements to wage all-out war against North Korean Reds.

No Democrat will dare to attack the current attempt to reach an agreement with Moscow on unresolved disputes. Even if it fails Ike's peaceful proposals at Geneva, and since that conference, have won the approval of all, except his most bitter partisan enemies.

Film Club Lists Six Showings

The East Carolina Film Club, sponsored by the Greenville Chapter of the American Association of University Women, has announced that its 1955-1956 program will include showings at East Carolina College of six motion pictures of unusual merit.

This year's program is the second to be sponsored by the local AAUW, the first having been offered in 1954-1955. A limited number of tickets are now available at the East Carolina College Student Union and the Sheppard Memorial Library of Greenville.

Programs will take place in the auditorium of the Joyner Memorial Library at East Carolina College. Each film will be shown twice, the hours being 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

"Kind Hearts and Coronets," an English film starring Alec Guinness, will open the series on Wednesday, October 5.

Other programs announced by the club include "The Stone Flower," produced in color in the USSR and based on Russian folk legends, November 1; "Lysistrata," produced in the American Zone of Austria and based on Aristophanes' famous satire on war, January 3; "The Well-digger's Daughter," French film described as "the most delightful French comedy-drama since 'The Baker's Wife,'" February 7.

Other programs have been scheduled for March 7 and April 3. The films to be shown will be chosen from suggestions offered by members of the film club.

FAILED TO SHOW
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The city fired one of its laborers, claiming he failed to show up for work. The laborer appealed the dismissal to the City Civil Service Board and the board agreed to hear him yesterday. He failed to show up.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 16, 1925

The Greenville market is selling more tobacco this year from a wider range of territory than at any time since the market was established 30 years ago.

William S. Tyson, cashier of the Flood Industrial Bank, has resigned to study law.

The condition of L. W. Gaylord, who is suffering from an infected arm, shows an improvement today. Mr. Gaylord received a small scratch on his arm a few days ago and a day or two later it began giving him trouble. He has suffered much pain and his friends will be glad to learn that he is somewhat better today.

Mrs. H. L. Tetterton Hostess For Meeting Of Bethel HD Club

BETHEL—Mrs. H. L. Tetterton was hostess for a meeting of the Bethel Home Demonstration Club this week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, assistant home agent, presented the demonstration on "Pattern Types." She also gave a list of the exhibits that can be entered in the county fair.

A garden report was given by Mrs. Russell James, and the club discussed methods of drying flowers to be used in the booth they plan for the fair.

A committee was appointed to nominate new officers for the coming year.

During the social hour a telephone game was played and the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Horace Tetterton, served a salad course.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Jim Warren, Mrs. D. C. Carson Sr. and Mrs. Joe Andrews.

Methodist Circle Has Study On Indian Tribes

BETHEL—Mrs. Eugene Carson was hostess to the regular meeting of the Sallie Tucker Circle of the Methodist Church on Friday night at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Burton Ray Ayres called the meeting to order. The devotion was given by Mrs. O. H. Roebuck Jr., spiritual life leader, who read a few verses of scripture, made a few remarks about these and closed with a timely prayer.

The program was given by Mrs. Roscoe Everett and was one of the most interesting and well-planned programs ever given. Her discussion was taken from the study book "Within Two Worlds," and a map with the name of each Indian tribe and the state in which they settled was used. The Indians in this country are confronted with the problem of making another life off the reservation and accepting the ways and ideas of the white man.

During the business meeting, Mrs. W. C. Bonner read the secretary's report and Mrs. James Alton Manning gave the treasurer's report. The three groups were read and the month which they will serve the Lions Club. Other routine matters were discussed and transacted. The circle benediction was recited.

The hostess served delicious refreshments during the social hour.

F.H.A. Council Plans Year's Work

Tuesday afternoon, September 13, the officers of the Belvoir-Palkland F.H.A. met and tentatively planned this year's work. The advisor, Mrs. Dorothy Gurganus, met with the officers. President Linda Garris presided and led the group in discussing the projects, programs, meetings, and banquet for the year.

The council group decided to hold meetings once a month on the second Monday night.

Ideas on observation of National F. H. A. week were presented to the group.

Chairmen for the committees were appointed and are as follows:

Program Committee—Sheila Wooten, vice president of F.H.A.

Recreation—Janice Manning, song leader

Public Relations—Ange Harris, reporter

Banquet—Shirley Clark, historian

Finance—Evonne McLawhorn, treasurer

Project—Dorothy Harris, devotional leader

Membership and Degrees—Barbara Jenkins, parliamentarian.

Hostess To Bridge Club
BETHEL—Mrs. J. C. Gurganus Sr. was hostess to members of her bridge club and invited guests at her home one day last week. A lovely arrangement of zinnias and other mixed flowers were used in the home.

Between progressions, a salad plate with Coca-Colas was passed.

Those who played were Mesdames W. M. Mizelle, J. L. Brown, J. H.

Drama Club Begins Work

Members of the East Carolina Playhouse student dramatic club at East Carolina College, are now organizing their program for the 1955-1956 term and have begun work on a full-length drama, two one-act plays, and a series of workshop productions.

James W. Corum of Reidsville, senior, heads the club as president. Dr. Joseph W. Withey of the department of English serves as faculty advisor. Other student officers who will assist Mr. Corum are Nancy Cooke of Dunn, vice president; Jane Lingle of China Grove, recording secretary; Patricia Goodwin of Memphis, Tenn., corresponding secretary; James L. Thompson of Durham, treasurer; and Laura Credle of New Holland, director of public relations.

"Darkness at Noon," drama by Sidney Kingsley, has been chosen by Playhouse members as their first major production for the year. The play will be presented in three performances Nov. 2, 3, and 4. "Home Life of the Buffalo," by Richard Harrity, and another one-act play still to be chosen, will be given Oct. 6 in two performances, the first in the afternoon for high school seniors attending High School Day on the campus, and the second in the evening for college students and the public.

P.T.A. Members Meet New Teachers
BETHEL—The first meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association held its first meeting in the Elementary School. The meeting was called to order by the president, W. P. Thigpen.

The song "Onward Christian Soldiers" was the opening song. Miss Norma Williamson, introduced by Mrs. W. C. Latham, gave a very fitting and impressive devotion and closed with a prayer. "America the Beautiful" was then sung in unison.

Miss Carolyn Willis, public school music teacher, directed the fifth and sixth grades, separately, in two songs. The last song was a patriotic one with both grades singing.

The business meeting opened with the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Willard Whitehurst. Various committees were read for the coming year. Mr. W. C. Latham, principal, made a few remarks concerning the schools and the teachers were introduced.

The fifth and tenth grades had the largest percentage of parents present.

The group was then invited for refreshments in the hall.

Andrews W. C. Whitehurst, X. E. Manning, W. H. Andrews, Grimes Beverly and the hostess.

When the scores were tallied, Mrs. J. H. Andrews received high score prize and the consolation went to Mrs. Beverly.

Baptist Circles Meet In Bethel

BETHEL—Mrs. Beba Harris and Mrs. O. T. Whitehurst were co-hostesses to the Business Women's Circle of the Baptist Church in the home of the former on Monday night. After the watch words, a prayer was given by Mrs. Harris.

The missionary program was given by Miss Joanna Abeyounis. Her scripture was taken from 1 Timothy. She explained where the $75,000 goal in the North Carolina Baptist mission work is used. All of the phases of the Baptist works are Sunday School, evangelism, colleges, rural churches, seminary, liquor problems, brotherhoods and Negroes.

The business meeting was then held with Mrs. Ruth Thomas, leader, presiding. Mrs. A. F. Council, community mission secretary, gave her report after which the minutes were read and 14 answered roll call. The College Chapel Fund was also used and the members were reminded of the Federation meeting to be held in Scotland Neck on Oct. 10.

Mrs. Ernest McLawhorn read as her scripture Psalm 118. A prayer was given by Miss Irene White.

Mrs. McLawhorn introduced Mrs. J. H. Weeks who chose as her topic "Along the Elephant Trail." This discussion concerned the Southern Baptist Mission in Thailand and their fight against Buddhist religion.

The refreshments served during the social hour was strawberry shortcake.

The regular monthly meeting of the Inabell Coleman Circle of the Baptist Church met Monday night with Mrs. R. L. Martin.

Mrs. Jessie White opened the meeting with a short prayer.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. H. Andrews, leader. The secretary, Mrs. Joe Andrews, gave her report with 11 to answer roll call. The officers were elected for the coming year and will take over their activities next month. Plans were made for the Brotherhood Supper on Friday night.

Mrs. Martin was in charge of the program. After a few verses of scriptures, she had as her subject "Fellowship." This was given in a most pleasing manner and was a discussion of the Christian Fellowship.

Mrs. J. H. Andrews closed the meeting with a prayer.

The hostess served sherbet, cake and coffee during the social hour.

Delegates Elected To W.C.T.U. Convention

BETHEL—Mrs. J. P. Harris was hostess to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Monday afternoon. The opening song, "Onward Christian Soldiers" was followed by a prayer given by Mrs. O. E. Brown.

Mrs. Leman Tetterton read Proverbs 23 for the devotion.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Athaleen Rollins, and there were 11 to answer roll call.

Mrs. R. L. Whitley, president, announced that the State Convention will meet in Winston-Salem from October 5 through 7. Mrs. J. S. Moore and Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst were elected delegates to represent the local Union.

Mrs. Whitley gave a very interesting and informative program on temperance. Her items were taken from "The White Ribbon" and "Union Signal." Mrs. Dan Nicholson read an article entitled "My Brother Bill."

Departmental reports were heard at this time.

Mrs. Tetterton, flowers mission leader, reported that cooking utensils and clothing were donated to the tornado stricken families. She read an appeal from the national president, Mrs. Hayes, to contribute to "Save Children's Federation."

Mrs. Brown, spiritual life leader, talked on "What Is Prayer and Why Pray." Her thoughts were based on the scripture from the 18th chapter of St. Luke: "Men ought to always pray."

Mrs. Whitley quoted a portion of the state president's speech on "Kansas and Alcohol."

The Aaronic benediction was used to dismiss the group.

Mrs. Harris served pineapple sherbet and cookies for refreshments. The ladies were then invited to the grape vine.

Music Club Meets Tuesday Night

BETHEL—Miss Camille Steton, Mrs. Clara Roberson and Mrs. Wade Ward were joint hostesses to the Bethel Music Club on Tuesday night in the home of the former.

Mrs. W. R. Hunnicut, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Irvin Taylor gave the secretary's report and called the roll. One new member, Miss Carolyn Willis, was welcomed into the club. There were 22 present.

Mrs. Roberson gave a most interesting program on "Opera." She explained operas and then gave a short sketch on the life of George Gerahwin. Several records from the excerpts from Gerahwin's "Porgy and Bees" were played and enjoyed by all.

During the social hour, the hostesses served cake, nuts and coffee and coffee.

Those who are interested in painting should register at the Recreation building at Elm St. Park Saturday, Sept. 17, between the hours 9:30 through 11:30 a.m. There is no charge for these classes; however, all participants will need to furnish their own materials.

At the beginning of the emphasis will be on painting since many of the children who attended the summer session professed an interest in that direction.

Children's classes will be under the direction of Donna Taber each Saturday hereafter from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m.

Adult classes in arts and crafts including painting are held each Wednesday morning and Thursday evening.

The Recreation Department invites you to come out and join the fun. "Every man, his own Rembrandt."

Phants Ready For Beaufort Test Tonight

Greenville Squad In Good Shape For Second Test

By BILLY ARNOLD
 Reflector Sports Writer
 Greenville High School's Phantom football team enters its second trial of competition under Coach Guy Lewis tonight against Class A Beaufort. The game will take place in Beaufort at 8 o'clock.

The new coach and his 1955 Greenies made their debut last week by overpowering Northeastern Conference opponent Jacksonville 12-6 in East Carolina stadium. Lewis (a former resident of Greenville and graduate of ECC) had his boys in good physical condition for the opener, a factor that contributed much to the win. Assisting the new mentor this season are line coaches Marshall Tatum and Vaughn Fowler.

Norris Wins Berth
 Directing the Green attack tonight will be quarterback Jerry Drum, a 145-pound senior triple-threat. Drum is a three-year veteran of the gridiron and served as first-string quarterback last season.

The rest of the backfield will be composed of fullback Billy Sermons and halfbacks Bob Shackelford and Tommy Key Norris. Norris played his way into a starting berth in this week's drills and will get the nod over Charlie Smith for the Beaufort tilt.

The starting linemen will be led by All-Conference candidate Harold Edwards at end. Another newcomer, Billy Johnson, will open at the other end. Co-captain Pete West and Howard King will command the tackle slots on defense and offense. The guards will be Peter Hudson and Charles Hollingsworth and Wade Jordan will be at center. Most of these boys play full time on both offense and defense.

Beaufort On Warpath
 Beaufort opened its season with a defeat at the hands of AAA Wilmington and is expected to be on the warpath against the Phants. Coach Lewis warned his squad over confidence yesterday in practice and commented that Beaufort would be "a lot tougher than the boys think."

Practice sessions this week have been used to highlight a more versatile scoring punch for the Greenville offense. Lewis installed several new plays and reviewed the basic ones carefully. A complete second team, with backs Riddick, Stason, Smith and Roebuck, have been receiving much of the coaches' attention. The two teams have also been studying passing techniques during the greater part of the week.

New Defense
 Coach Fowler installed a defense designed to stop Beaufort's single wing thrusts yesterday afternoon. Beaufort's running attack is tricky and they are expected to accompany that ground strength with air power that grounds strength with air power. "We'd better be ready for them," the line coach stated, "our offense can't win by itself. We've got to be able to stop them."

The first-team offensive backfield will switch to defense when Beaufort takes possession of the ball. Most of the regular linemen will do the same, with a few exceptions. Riddick, who will be alternating with Johnson at offensive end, will sit out the defense. Guard Barney Barrett may see action when Beaufort has the ball, as will tackle Fred Nobles. Edwin Wilkerson, a promising prospect at center, will probably see some contact on defense.

Boone's Pirates Depart Early Today For West Chester Game

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
 Reflector Sports Editor
 The East Carolina College Pirates moved out of Greenville around 8 a.m. this morning en route by bus to West Chester (Pa.) for tomorrow night's intercollegiate football meeting.

Head Coach Jack Boone and assistants Jim Mallory and Earl Smith loaded with a contingent of 42 players and two managers for the 500-mile haul.

They were due to arrive late this afternoon and workout tonight for their second grid encounter of the season — and what could be their toughest on the entire schedule!

East Carolina's squad made the trip without tackle Chester Rogers and halfbacks Bobby Gay and Lawson Jackson. Rogers twisted his knee in the Norfolk Navy opener. Guy is suffering from a kidney disorder which didn't result from a football injury, and Jackson sprained his ankle in Tuesday's practice.

No Line-Up Change
 Boone said before departing that he didn't anticipate any line-up changes. "We'll go with the same unit that started against Navy," the Buc head man said. "Charlie Suggs will replace Gay on the second unit. That seems to be the only change as far as we know."

Last week's line-up read like this: Ends, Ray Pennington and Bill Helms; tackles, Jerry Brooks and Ray (Bull) Overton; guards, Dickie Monds and Paul Popov; center, Lou Hallow; quarterback, Dick Cherry; halves, Emo Boado and Injun Jim Henderson; and fullback, Harold O'Kelly.

Boone and the other coaches have expressed enthusiasm about the second unit. Mallory said earlier this week that the second eleven looked so good in the opener that they would be pushing the regulars at every turn.

Therefore, players like ends J. D. Bradford and Tommy Waggoner; tackles Charles Smith and Waverly Chesson; guards Ken Burgess and Don Hoover; and center Tom Mickson can expect to see plenty of clock time.

Also, backs like Gary Mattocks at quarter, Bobby Perry and Suggs at the halves and Bobby Maynard at fullback are assured of getting in on at least a third of the action.

Mattocks came in for special praise from the coaches on his performance against Navy. The Southern Pines junior called plays brilliantly and got off several nice punts. Behind Mattocks, Milton Collier will start ready.

Maynard showed potential of being a great runner in the first game. The big Cary sophomore averaged over seven yards per try when he was in the line-up. Perry, a Greenville boy, also ran well and is counted on for break-a-way's this Saturday.

West Chester whipped the Pirates last year, 6-4. The Teachers pushed across an early score and held on to win, although the Pirates got two safeties. Emo Boado scored what appeared to be the winning touchdown in that one but a penalty nullified the marker.

East Carolina led West Chester in every department besides scoring. The Buc gained 226 yards rushing as compared to the visitors' 125. West Chester, though, lost 72 yards to drop their yards gained to a measly 53.

West Chester lost right much via graduation and so did East Carolina. This will be West Chester's first game, consequently there isn't much on which to base its strength. The game is rated pretty much a toss-up, with the home team probably given a slight edge.

The game will be broadcast back through the facilities of WGTC.

 The 1955 college football season explodes with a bang this weekend in the midst of a sports scene already packed with the drama of a tight American League pennant race and the windup of the National Amateur Golf Championship.

The pros have been at it for more than a month in exhibition games. A scattering of small colleges arrived on the scene a week ago.

But tonight and tomorrow it'll be the big boys—those who seek national major conference titles and a possible bid to one of the postseason bowl games. No warmup games for the majority of them—it'll be all-out from the opening whistle.

It's been many a year since the colleges opened a new season with such a stellar attraction as UCLA-Texas A&M, which is on tap at Los Angeles tonight. The Uclans rated No. 2 in the final Associated Press poll last year and were voted No. 1 in this year's pre-season poll. The Aggies won only one of their 10 games last year but Bear Bryant is building and might worry the Pacific Coast Conference favorites.

On a preseason rating basis, the Maryland-Missouri game at Columbia Mo., and the University of Miami-Georgia Tech contest at Atlanta rate top interest. Maryland, big favorite to win the Atlantic Coast conference title, was voted No. 5 in the preseason poll. Miami was tagged No. 9 and Georgia Tech No. 10. The Miami-Georgia Tech game is the TV Game of the Week.

California and Pittsburgh add additional flavor to the intercollegiate program, meeting at Pittsburgh in the only major Eastern game.

Conference races usually don't get under way until after the first week or so of the season, but three games are on tap in the South-eastern Conference and two in the Pacific Coast circuit.

 So now the American League thriller comes to this: Cleveland has eight games to play, New York 10. Both have to win 'em all.

If they do, it's a tie.

The Indians and Yankees start the final run for the money tonight all even on the "lost" side. Each has dropped 56. Cleveland has played two more than New York and won both.

Cleveland is at home to Detroit tonight. The Tribe plays six of its final games with the Tigers, two with the still-hopeful Chicago White Sox.

New York plays Boston at Yankee Stadium. The Yanks have seven left with the Red Sox, three with Washington the club "that's kept us up there," says Manager Casey Stengel, by taking 13 of 22 from Cleveland.

Cleveland Manager Al Lopez thinks the difference in games remaining will decide it. "We have eight and they have 10. We have two days off next week and they have only one."

"We can rotate three pitchers and they're going to have to use four or five starters, especially in that last weekend in Boston. They have four games in the last three days."

"We've won two more than the Yankees and they've got to catch up. Maybe it won't be easy."

Boston Manager Pinky Higgins promised it won't "be easy."

Knowing his Red Sox are out of it, he said "We'll be up for the Yankees. We like nothing better than to beat them."

Stengel was more whimsical going into the showdown. "I've been reading for two weeks how them two fellas (Lopez and White Sox boss, Marty Marion) have been claiming the pennant. I'm surprised neither has won it yet. Maybe they don't want it and maybe we'll win it ourselves."

Marion, four games back with eight left, simply stated a fact: "We're still in it until we're mathematically eliminated."

Only one game was scheduled in the majors yesterday and Brooklyn, the National League champ, lost its fifth straight, the Dodger's longest slump of the year. It was a 3-2 decision in 12 innings at St. Louis as Brooklyn ended its last Western trip of the year.

Stan Musial and Rip Repulski, with back-to-back homers off rookie Sandy Koufax in the third, pulled the NL even with its own major league home run record of 1,197 set in 1953.

NORTH STATE CHASE TO BE CLOSE ALL THE WAY
 Although there are no North State Conference battles in the fire this weekend, a great deal of interest is looming in the circuit. The league is supposed to be as tight as a hatband, with no team given a profound edge in the pre-season ratings.

It's anybody's guess right now who'll be hoofing it across the finish line first. There won't be a better balanced pigskin race in the country, so the coaches declare.

In a recent poll of the coaches of five North State schools only one was daring enough to attempt to name the winner. The others either selected several title possibilities or evaded the issue altogether.

Following are their predictions, plus tearful comments on their own team's chances:

JACK BOONE, East Carolina College: "I predict that the conference will be stronger this season as many of the clubs have been building for the past few years. We lost 30 boys from last year's squad 16 going by graduation and the others dropping out for various reasons. We have only four starters back from the 1954 team. We will be a little faster and aggressive. The race looks wide open to me. We are awfully happy to have Dick Cherry back with us this season."

CLYDE BIGGERS, Catawba: "It appears to me that either Elon or East Carolina should be tops with West Carolina also a strong contender. East Carolina will have Dick Cherry back. Elon certainly wasn't hurt by graduation, and West Carolina has a fine group of experienced men."

"Lenoir Rhyne, losing only one or two men by graduation, should be the most improved club in the league."

"Our squad will be composed of over one-half freshmen. We hope to give these boys some experience this fall, and if we can keep the majority in school, may have a fairly good team in a year or two."

As far as the championship race is concerned, we would appear to have about the least chance of winning since we lost more boys by graduation and academic failure than any other school."

E. C. DUGGINS, Appalachian: "I think Elon, West Carolina, Lenoir Rhyne and East Carolina will finish in that order."

"We had several boys injured in our spring practice game, and we still do not know what kind of shape they're going to be in this fall. We will also be hampered by the absence of boys like Hal Quinn, Neu Pennell, Colon Nifong and Harold Lakey. We are searching frantically for a quarterback to replace Pennell."

CLARENCE STAVISH, Lenoir Rhyne: "I look for the three top teams to be Appalachian, Elon and East Carolina."

"West Carolina and Catawba will be greatly improved. Guilford should be better, and our club should be a little improved."

"I see little to choose between the top three teams."

"It looks like we will start a freshman at center, and the way our fullback situation turns out, will determine to a large extent what our club will do this fall."

TOM YOUNG, West Carolina: "This year's race is hard to predict. I believe our league will be about as evenly balanced as any in the country."

"The team which gets off to a good start will win the title. And any of us could be that team."

"Our offense should be as good as last year. I think that we have a better defensive team. We will be happy if we can win half of our games."

"We have a good schedule and a rough one."

It seems that every mentor in the league is a pessimist, doesn't it? You can hardly blame them. What's the advantage of sticking your neck out and saying "We'll win." It's best to say the other fellow is favored then so out and beat the daylight out of him... if you can!

In any event, the North State should be a dandy race this year. It's interesting to note though, that only one coach gave defending champ Appalachian a chance of winding up on top. That's strange when the Mountaineers made such a fine showing in 1954. Sure, they lost a couple of first-string backfield men but most of last year's line is back.

Another interesting angle was that almost all the coaches cited East Carolina for a comeback. After taking the conference crown in 1953, the Pirates fell to third last season. But we're inclined to go along with Coach Boone—too big a loss via graduation to rank first in the league.

MARRIAGE FOR THREE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

Early the next morning, Ann phoned for an appointment with Dr. Baker in Albuquerque.

Early the next morning, too, Pinky Haggard made the fatal error of doing one of the things which Ann had decided not to do. She rushed about telling her story, making it common property hoping to drag Adam into subjection.

She talked of the matter to the waitress in the coffee shop; she was up early, said Pinky, because "I had a fight with my one and only. I'll need a long day to set that man straight about a few things—mainly me."

She told her story to the desk clerk when she asked for a rented car. "What makes men act the way they do? And don't say it's women like me! Or maybe you can say it because I sure plan to make my man come around and behave! Why, do you know?"

She told it to Hermann when she came out to the house about ten. Hermann Williams was a quiet man, about forty, dark, with fine black eyes. He was a clever workman, and he fairly worshipped Adam Laird, who had given him a chance to earn a good living at a time when that chance meant everything. And Ann had been good to him, just sick wife. Hermann was not the person to listen to Pinky's charges against the Lairds.

Pinky may have known this, but certainly didn't care. Hermann watched the red-haired young woman whirl the shiny rented car into the yard, ignoring nails and other sharp debris. She got out and slammed the door, strode into the house past Hermann without acknowledging his "Good morning," called through the living room out to the garden space came inside again and let out a screech at the man setting tile into the bathroom wall.

"Where did you get that poisonous shade of green?" The man, Hermann, said something and Pinky threw something. By then, Hermann had reached the scene. "Mrs. Haggard . . ."

She whirled on him, her red hair flying out like a flame, her eyes shooting sparks. "You see what this foul man is doing?" she asked the foreman who was painting.

"Yes, of course." "I don't want a green bathroom—and certainly not that green!" "Mrs. Haggard . . ."

"Quit saying that! Just tell this man to rip out those awful tiles. What happened? Couldn't Adam get enough pale yellow?"

"That's what I'm trying to tell you. The Carmichaels want green."

"And who the devil are the Carmichaels?" She wore black that morning, a sheath of black linen, sleeveless, with enormous pearl buttons. Her hair hung loose, without even a pin to hold it in.

place. She reminded Hermann of some comic-strip adventures, exaggeratedly beautiful and alluring.

"The Carmichaels," he said quietly "are the people who have bought this house."

She stared at him. "Didn't you know that Adam had sold it?" His black eyes began to shine.

"I don't know it now!" she said flatly. "How can he sell my house?"

"I don't know Mrs. Haggard, except that he did sell it."

"Ha!" She kicked her sandal toward the tile setter. "Stop putting in those green things!" she said imperiously. "This is my house. I intend to live in it. Yes, and with Adam Laird." She whirled on Hermann. "You can tell him that!"

"I shouldn't have to tell him," said Hermann softly. "It's true."

Pinky glared at him. "Oh, he's like all men. Trying to get out of paying for his fun. Everybody in town knows he's been hanging around me for a year, telling me how abused he is at home, how lonely. And those same everybody will agree that he owes me a lot! If he tries any funny business with me, I'll tell enough about him so that there won't be a woman in town who will let him build an outhouse for her! I'll fix him, but good. If I have to. But, of course, he won't let it come to that. He knows he owes me plenty."

Hermann said nothing, eloquently, and the Mexican carefully set another green tile. Pinky stalked out into the main part of the house again, and finally went outside.

"Tell Adam I want to see him," she called to Hermann.

"I'll tell him," he agreed, standing in the doorway.

She looked at him sharply. "What are you grinning about?"

"I don't think I was grinning," said Hermann. He took out his rule, and began to fold and unfold it. "I was wondering if I might tell you something, Mrs. Haggard."

"The only way to find out is to try," she said hardily, leaning back against the car.

"Well—it's just this. You can't get Adam to do much of anything for you by using a club. You don't get him with a club, and you won't get him with one. Or any man, I guess. You couldn't work things that way with me, I know." He took a deep breath. "Maybe Adam took some liberties with you—and maybe you let him. But he's got a nice wife, while you—well, you're not his wife. The outside one. And, at least in this case you don't have a leg to stand on."

She opened the car door, flounced into the seat and leaned out the window to say, "I've got two legs. Hermann, nice one's. You'd probably noticed them a few times yourself." Her face was twisted ugly with fury.

"Nice legs don't do you women much good, Mrs. Haggard," said Hermann steadily. "If the man's wife is the right sort. And I think maybe Adam's wife is the right sort."

Pinky started the car with a roar. "My God," she breathed. "To get preached at by a carpenter!"

"Success in any marriage," said the counselor, "depends on many things. But the one fact I am sure of is that there is only one way to beat the 'other woman.' You, Ann, will have to convince Adam that you love him more deeply and truly than Pinky does or ever could. And you must do more than say so. You must prove your greater love by restraint, unselfishness and a forgiving spirit."

"Must I do it all?"

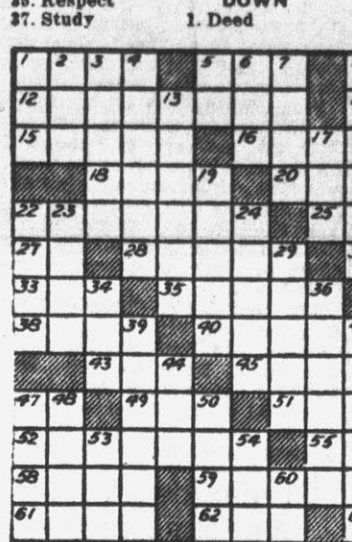

"The third side of your triangle is another woman."

"I see. But, I've gone through a lot."

"Yes, but you've come through your trying ordeal with your head up and your heart willing." He broke off to glance at the young wife, then at her husband. "Love," he said gently, "can restore love. And it is the only thing that can restore it. Pressure, coercion—they're no use at all in such a

Malachi Calls for Righteous Living

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Leviticus 22:21-22; Malachi.

Malachi, called "the last of the prophets," reproached the people of Judah for bringing lame, sick or blind lambs for offerings to the Lord.

Malachi also accused the priests of offering spoiled bread upon the altars, showing contempt for the Lord's table.

The prophet warned against divorce, denouncing men who married young, and cast their wives aside for heathen women.

Malachi prophesied the coming of John the Baptist as the forerunner of Christ.

MEMORY VERSE—Malachi 2:10.

Scripture—Leviticus 22:21-22; Malachi.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

MALACHI is called "the last of the prophets." His short book of three chapters is the last in the Old Testament.

Malachi writes, the Lord says He has loved His people and they ask, "Wherein hast thou loved us?"

The priests, says Malachi, offer polluted (spoiled, unfit for food) should check on this matter, each one of us.

In another matter the people of Israel were greatly at fault—a matter which is also true of our generation.

"Have we not all one Father? hath not one God created us?"

Why is man so cruel to man? We grow heartless at the crimes committed every day in our own country and which are duplicated over the entire world.

And in the matter of divorce, which is such a problem in our modern world, Malachi has a word for that too.

MEMORY VERSE

"Have we not all one Father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother?"—Malachi 2:10.

bread on the altars. "And if ye offer the blind for sacrifices, is it not evil?"

The law distinctly says: "And whosoever offereth of peace offerings unto the Lord to accomplish his vow, or a freewill offering in beaves or sheep,—it shall be perfect; there shall be no blemish therein."

So, after all the blessings they had received from Jehovah, they were cheating Him, showing contempt for His ordinances.

How many of us do likewise when we bring our offerings to the house of God? Do we spend money for luxuries which we could do without and give a pittance to God's work?

woman. He warns such to "take heed to your spirit, and let none deal treacherously against the wife of his youth."

Beginning with the third chapter of his book, Malachi prophesies the coming of John the Baptist.

"Behold, I will send My messenger, and he shall prepare the way before Me; and the Lord whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in; behold, He shall come, saith the Lord of Hosts."

How can we live righteously on earth? By loving God our Father with all our hearts and worshiping Him. But we must never forget that with this worship of God we must always consider His other children all over the world.

'Fire Sale' Of Concert Tickets

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—The Pacific Coast Music Festival is having a "fire sale" of tickets for the last two Leopold Stokowski concerts tomorrow and Sunday.

Festival officials said the huge, 10-day Los Padres National Forest fire, now under control but which once threatened the outskirts of Santa Barbara, had caused a substantial number of ticket cancellations from Los Angeles area subscribers.

Therefore the $5 and $3 seats for the last two concerts are being cut to $2.

Simple Solution To Smog Problem

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Solution of the smog problem is quite simple, said the Associated Plumbing Contractors of Los Angeles in a resolution yesterday.

"We hereby petition smog control officials and all others who have talked much on how to solve this problem to gather all of these groups together, travel to the highest mountain, face the wall of smog and start talking all at once," said the resolution.

The resultant wind is sure to dissipate in short order the smog hovering in the air.

Changes Mind, Pleads Guilty

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Gussie Edelman, 60, who went to jail rather than sign a jaywalking ticket police officers gave her last Tuesday, has changed her mind.

She pleaded guilty yesterday to the traffic citation. She had been accused not only of the traffic violation but of resisting officers.

Municipal Judge F. Ray Bennett fined her $25 with the alternative of five days in jail, then suspended all but $2 of the fine, which she paid.

Prices Continue To Creep Upward

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Prices of many things from automobiles to coffee continued their creeping advance this week. The higher automobile price tag reflected higher wage rates and increased cost of metals. In coffee the blame was laid on a temporary U.S. shortage of green coffee beans due to earlier confusion over Brazil's currency policy plus a dock strike on the U.S. East Coast. Price hikes spread through many sections of industry. Another maker of stoves is raising the price of gas ranges by five per cent, following similar hikes by other manufacturers. A furniture manufacturer is upping prices of his entire line by three per cent. This also follows a widespread trend in the industry. Hiking the home's cost of living is the most costly this winter for many folk. Fuel oil prices as well as those of coal have gone up. A cement manufacturer has raised his prices by 25 cents a barrel. Wholesale prices of work clothing are going up, reflecting earlier hikes at the manufacturing level. Many manufacturers are facing increased material costs. This week a leading maker of copper tubing is raising prices. This reflects an earlier hike in the price of refined copper by producers to 43 cents a pound. And still another copper price hike is shaping up. The metal is in such short supply that some users caught empty handed have been paying as high as 51 cents. Ferro alloys used by the steel industry to make stainless and other special steels also are going up. The price hike on 1956 model cars is a typical example of what is happening—and why. The first of the new models to be priced are the 1956 Lincolns. One is going up by $10.90, but another is going up by $244. In the industry there is talk of an average five per cent hike generally in prices on next year's cars. But the prices the auto makers are setting on their new models are merely "suggested" retail prices. Many a buyer of 1955 cars knows that the suggested list price isn't the one he paid. Bitter competition has given consumers a big break this year, and it may next year, too. It is competition, and the increased industrial production capacity, which are keeping these creeping price rises from setting off another serious whirl of inflation.

Giant Weather Balloons Go Up Fourteen Miles

By WAYNE ANDERSON
DENVER (AP)—The release order is given and a shimmering, transparent weather balloon slides away from the concrete launching site. Within 60 seconds it is more than 500 feet aloft, and on its way to that area of silent nothingness 70,000 to 80,000 feet above earth, bearing a 500-pound load of sensitive electrical equipment. In hours or days, to some unskilled observer, it may be a flying saucer or space ship from Mars and cause all kinds of fantastic reports. At Denver's Lowry Air Force Base, the launching of another weather balloon in an 18-month series is an almost daily occurrence. At a demonstration launching yesterday, Air Force spokesmen admitted a balloon 14 miles up in space may actually create an optical illusion. Alternately slimmed down by night and mushroomed by day in the heat of the sun, the hydrogen-filled balloons appear at separate times to be red purple and orange. Their greatest actual speeds are about 200 miles an hour, but basically are dependent on wind velocity. The bags are made of polyethylene, the thin cellophane-like material in which carrots and other vegetables are wrapped. Inflated, they are about 175 feet tall and 120 feet in diameter. They carry sensitive gear which records data on wind velocity and direction. Aloft for three to five days, the balloons lose their burden when an electric timing device cuts loose this gear and floats it to earth by parachute. The balloon, relieved of its weight, rises and explodes. All but a few of more than 1,000 bags launched at Lowry have been recovered. Air Force radio stations track the balloons in flight across the country and record their path. Planes also maintain contact to guard against a possible collision of the balloon with aircraft.

Homes Whipped Up Like A Cake

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Someday you may have a home made mainly of air and plastic, whipped together like a cake right at the building site. The walls, floors and roof would be made of foamed plastic, full of little air bubbles, giving good insulation at low heating cost. Inside you could take the bare frames for furniture and upholster them with soft, fluffy plastic material which you sprayed on by yourself. Predictions of this home of tomorrow came today from Miss Betty Lou Raskin, research associate of the Johns Hopkins University radiation laboratory, in describing present and future marvels from foamed plastics. Most foamed plastics are familiar plastics chemically treated to expand so they contain thousands of either closed or open cells, or both. The process is the same as whipping up a cake. They can be made as fluffy as cotton or as rigid as wood and woodlike in appearance, Miss Raskin told the American Chemical Society. Other types can give you longer-wearing shoe soles and heels, resilient plastic tile floors, sterilizable stuffed toys and hundreds of other new products. Some are fire-resistant, others resist acids or sunlight or fungus, others stay supple at arctic temperatures. Prices are gradually becoming competitive with other synthetics and some natural materials, Miss Raskin said.

Code Links Tax Office And Men

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—How does the tax assessor communicate with the tax collector in Pinellas County's modern courthouse? By Morse code. Assessor H. H. Sterling used to be a railroad telegrapher about 40 years ago on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. And collector Lester Lambert once was a telegrapher for the Atlantic Coast Line. They recently worked out a two-key system, complete with old-time wet plate batteries. Now there's no need to worry about a busy signal on the phone or to walk from end of the big building to the other to talk business. THIRSTY OPERATOR SHREWSBURY, N.J. (AP)—Ham radio operator Watson P. Cserwinski built himself a ground plane type antenna out of empty beer cans. He soldered together 82 cans for the 32-foot mast. It works.

Demo, GOP Nat'l Committees Matched Each Others Outlay

WASHINGTON 15.—The two big national political committees matched each other almost dollar for dollar in spending during the three months ended Aug. 31.

Reports filed with the clerk of the House showed that the Democratic National Committee spent $209,750 and the Republican National Committee $209,077 during the three months.

Most of the money was spent on operating overhead such as salaries, printing, travel and general expenses. The big spending in support of political candidates comes next year.

Republicans fared considerably better of the income end.

The GOP committee reported total receipts of $340,465 during the three-month period, while the Democratic committee said it took in only $179,938. On that basis, Republicans ended the period with an operating surplus of some $160,527, while the Democrats went $160,527 in the red.

Neither committee reported how much money, if any, it had on hand on Aug. 31. The law under which the reports are filed requires listing only of receipts and expenditures.

The National Republican Congressional Committee, charged with keeping Republicans in the House, reported receipts of $93,927 and expenditures of $102,714 during the period, for an operating deficit of $8,787. Its largest benefactor was the Minnesota Republican Finance Committee, which chipped in $25,000. Another hefty contribution was $9,500 from the Texas Republican Finance Committee.

The Democratic National Congressional Committee said it took in $17,500 and spent $4,558 during the three months. All but $2,500 of the revenue came from the Democratic National Committee.

The Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee which looks after the interest of GOP candidates for the Senate, reported receipts of $44,999 and expenditures of $53,162 for an "in the red" operation of $8,163. The Texas Republican Committee dumped $8,000 into the senatorial till.

The Democratic Senatorial Committee said it spent only $228 during the period and took in nothing.

Scout Council To Seek $104,000 In Funds Drive

WILSON.—The East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America will launch a campaign for $104,000 for its 1956 operating budget with "kick-off" breakfasts in approximately 150 communities throughout the eastern twenty counties on October 4, according to an announcement made today by Penn T. Watson, Wilson, Finance Chairman.

Mr. Watson explained that the budget was determined by a group of outstanding leaders representing all communities of the East Carolina Council who attended the Annual Council Budget Planning Conference on June 14th. He said that more than 150 volunteer Scouters had a hand in preparing the budget, and that in view of the amount of careful study which went into the development of the budget and the large number of men directly connected with it, the budget represented a true picture of the needs of the Council for the coming year.

The total goal of $104,000 will be raised through the following sources: United Fund of Onslow County, Greenville Community Chest, Wilson Community Chest, Cranoke Rapids Community Chest, Rocky Mount Community Chest, Lenoir County United Fund and fund drives in over 110 non-west communities in the 21 counties of the eastern section of North Carolina served by the Council.

The membership of the East Carolina Council has more than doubled during the past six years. The present membership is 9,200 and it is estimated that by the end of 1956, at least 11,000 boys will be officially registered in the program.

Camera News

HAVE A LOOK at the most expensive hand camera on the market. The price tag reads $1,850. It's a 70mm motor driven camera originally made for the Army by Graflex and is now available for civilian use.

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

More than three years ago, the Army Signal Corps lifted a veil of secrecy and gave the nation's photographers a quick glimpse at its newly developed, revolutionary 70 mm combat camera. Some day soon, the Army said, it would be available for civilian use... and some photographers started dreaming.

Now a report has just come through from Rochester, N.Y., which tells us that the day has come true—but at a price!

According to the manufacturer, Graflex, Inc., a limited number of these complete 70 mm outfits are to be had at $3,320 each. They consist of the camera with a basic 4 inch f 2.8 lens at $1,850, a telephoto 8 inch f 4 lens at $550 and a wide angle 2 1/4 inch f 4.5 lens at $920.

The new camera looks like a giant-sized version of the familiar 35 mm type. It measures 9 1/4 inches long, 5 inches high and 2 1/2 inches wide. To keep the weight down, the body is of magnesium and the lens mount of aluminum. With normal lens, camera alone weighs just over five pounds.

It is loaded with cassettes which hold 15 feet of 70 mm film. These yield 50 pictures, each 2 1/4" by 2 1/4". A spring motor drive operates the camera's shooting for 10 consecutive pictures before needing rewinding. Each click of the shutter automatically advances the film to the next frame and cocks the shutter. Fully wound, it is possible to take ten pictures in six seconds.

In shooting position, the camera is held by a unique right-hand pistol grip while the left hand operates the focusing and diaphragm adjustments. The shutter release button on the back of the camera is set off by the right thumb in the normal position of holding the camera.

Lenses are changed in a matter of seconds with automatic correction of view and parallax for each lens. The shutter is fully synchronized and able to operate under extreme range of temperatures.

Automatic numbering devices keep track of each exposure and the number which shows up in a window in the rear is imprinted on the edge of each negative. When the last exposure is shot, a red flag pops up in the viewfinder. However, it is possible to process part of a roll by operating a built-in knife which cuts the film at any point, then removing the cassette.

All in all, the new 70 mm camera is a rapid fire job with many unique features for photography specialists. As for most individual camera fans they'll have to go right on dreaming... the price of waking up is too high.

As I get ready for a snap-shooting vacation of my own, one of the items that's coming along for more leisurely study and enjoyment just arrived in the mail. It's the 1955 Annual of the Los Angeles Press Photographers Assn. called "Just One More."

This well printed collection of its members' pictures throws a pictorial spotlight on life in its many aspects and moods. It's a dramatic variety show captured by alert and competent cameramen, headed by this year's winner of the Pulitzer Prize, John Gaunt Jr. His photo, "Tragedy in the Surf,"

Tobacco Growers Urged Help Hold Export Mart

RALEIGH.—An appeal for flue-cured tobacco growers "to help hold their export markets" by giving more attention to preparing their current crop of leaf for sale has been made by Tobacco Associates, Inc., whose job is to promote world markets for U.S. flue-cured leaf.

In the organization's July-August report released today, growers were told that "foreign tobacco growers are taking your market by better grading and handling."

The report pointed out that some U.S. growers are creating serious problems by dipping their tobacco in water. "This practice is harmful to all segments of the industry, and should be stopped," the report said, warning that "when tobacco with dipped heads is found on the warehouse floor, it may be rejected or sold at a greatly reduced price."

In regard to "mixed grades" the report said "foreign buyers don't want mixed tobacco. They are exacting in their requirements and refuse to buy some of our tobacco because of a 'lack of uniformity'."

To aid farmers in correcting this unfavorable position regarding mixed grades, Tobacco Associates urged growers (1) to keep all green leaves separate; (2) to keep all heavy leaf—no mix them in the same pile; and (3) to keep all trash and very short leaf out of good grades.

The report also warned against (1) poorly tied bundles; (2) bundles

Famed Leipzig Fair Reflected Transformation

Editor's Note.—Reinhold Ensz, an American on the AP staff in Germany, received Russian permission to visit the 1955 Leipzig fair. Here is his report.

By REINHOLD ENSZ LEIPZIG, East Germany

One way to sum up the Communist transformation of Leipzig is to tell what has happened to the F. W. Woolworth store.

The store front still carries a red sign with the familiar lettering, "F. W. Woolworth Co." Window displays are arranged in the tradition of the worldwide chain.

Inside, the counters are neatly laid out, displaying many of the items one always looks for in "the dime store." But all the merchandise is from East Germany, and a close look at the sign out front reveals the significant words: "In Verwaltungen" meaning under administration, Communist administration, that is.

"Things have certainly changed around here," one clerk told this reporter. "The difference is like day and night."

The Communists have chopped the building in half, converting the other part into a clothing store.

Ten years after World War II, long lines regularly form in front of the state-operated food stores. Meat, fat, sugar and coffee are frequently unavailable. Restaurants still feature "ersatz" coffee, just as they did under Hitler.

The nicest thing about the 800-year-old fair, from the viewpoint of the Leipzigers, was the hundreds of shiny autos it brought from the West.

Entire families spent an afternoon or evening walking along the streets, fingering chrome headlight covers, auto club insignia and paint textures. They tried guessing how to pronounce such names as Buick and Chevrolet.

Most of the local cars were built long before World War II. A large number of them are still fueled from compressed gas tanks, an other hangover from Hitler days. "Old sies," the Leipzigers contemptuously call them.

As a rule, store windows were tastefully decorated this year, and the merchandise frequently appeared to be of fairly good quality. Some shopkeepers went so far as to feature peck-a-bao brassiere and girde ads. Foam-rubber "falsies" were liberally displayed.

The only U.S. exhibit at the fair was an English-language book display presented by Ben Russack, formerly of New Jersey and now living in Stockholm.

Tenth In Family Receiving Degree

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP)—When Grant Bartholomew Martin, 21, receives his bachelor's degree from Maryland State Teachers College today in the spring, he will be the 10th member of his family to receive a college degree.

It will also mark the end of Louis Martin's dream of educating his entire family. Grant is the youngest of 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. Martin, and his sheepskin will be the 13th in the Negro family. Three of them hold master's degrees.

The event will be all the more unusual in that Louis Martin, the father, has worked most of his 66 years for not more than $90 a week. Most of his working life, he earned about $30 a week.

"The Martins' philosophy of life?—Life is a struggle. But it is good to have a struggle. It strengthens your character."

Louis Martin had to build his strong character at an early age. His father died when he was 3. His mother died when he was 10 and he was sent to a Philadelphia orphan's home.

Martin entered the Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va., when he was 19 and majored in agriculture. But that was only the start.

His family kept growing, but it grew as a team and it kept working together.

When the first children went to college, the younger ones at home worked harder than ever to help pay their way. When the first students were graduated, they in turn helped send the younger boys and girls through college.

Six of the children are now employed as teachers.

Brazil normally produces more than half the world's supply of coffee.

Objections Listed To Internal Security Law

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON 15.—A law carrying the names of 360 Americans tells from a "non-Communist viewpoint" why the signers think the Supreme Court should strike down the McCarran internal security law.

The Communist party has asked the court to declare the law unconstitutional, contending it violates fundamental liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

The party is appealing from a government order that it register with the attorney general as an agent of the Kremlin. The case, to be argued this fall, brings the controversial law to its first major legal test.

The signers yesterday asked permission to file their brief as "friends of the court." The court will decide later whether to accept the brief.

The brief called the 1950 law "the most terrible threat so far devised to freedom in America."

The law, whose leading sponsor was the late Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), was passed over former President Truman's veto. It provides for registration of organizations found by the Subversive Activities Control Board to be Communist-controlled. The Communist party is challenging an SACB ruling that it register. The brief said the law "represses the organizational activities of non-Communist Americans wherever they are found to have associated with the Communists for any purpose, however innocent, to have collaborated with the Communists for the attainment of any objective, to be ever lawful and proper, or to have agreed with the Communists concerning ideas and policies, even though the points of agreement may have been very remote."

Listed as signers were some 80 clergymen, 76 educators, 26 physicians, 12 lawyers and others.

One of the group, Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), said "The McCarran Act attempts to take away the basic right of free association guaranteed to the American people by the Bill of Rights."

"While I abhor the Communist party," McNamara added, "I was happy on this occasion to join with a group of public spirited citizens who, while they make no defense of the Communist party, are deeply concerned about the liberties of the American people."

Among others listed as signers were Prof. Harold C. Urey, Nobel Prize-winning scientist; violinist Yehudi Menuhin; composer Deems Taylor; Henry Seidel Canby, chairman of the Saturday Review's editorial board; the Rev. Henry Hill Crane, Detroit; Robert W. D. Davidson, president of Westminster College; and Prof. John P. Peters, Yale University School of Medicine.

No Tour With Blindfold Driver

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche yesterday declined an offer to make an opening day tour of the Ohio Turnpike with a blindfolded motorist.

The unidentified driver said he would start his trip from near Cleveland on Oct. 1 and cover the entire 241-mile toll road in both directions without being able to see.

"We will leave at 8 a.m. and will return (I hope) some seven hours later," wrote the man, who termed himself "the source of the magic world."

Lausche sent his regrets and notified the state highway patrol "just in case" the writer was not joking.

QUESTION: Is it wise for a new business which is heavily in debt to take on the added expense of Business Interruption insurance?

ANSWER: Much more so than an established, financially stable firm. Without it the new firm can be bankrupted by a fire which shuts off its income for even a short time. The debts would still be there.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of little gainers in the stock market today added up to a moderately higher position in the early afternoon.

There were no outstanding price movements in either direction. Most price changes could easily be covered by 2 points either way.

Trading was at a good rate around 2,500,000 shares for the day. Yesterday's total, boosted by heavy trading in low priced issues, was 2,890,000 shares.

Motors were at the top of the rise, and they got help from railroads and from individual stocks in the steels, aircrafts, and chemicals. The rubbers were lower along with the radio-TVs and airlines. Other divisions were mixed.

Among higher stocks were Southern Railway Northern Pacific, Du Pont, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Mack Trucks, and Boeing.

Lower were Goodrich, Zenith Radio, Anaconda Co., American Cyanamid, General Electric, and Boyl Ditch Petroleum.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 higher. Tops at 16.75 at Goldsboro and Rich Square; 16.50 at Beulaville and Castle Hayne; 16.25 at Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton City, Mt. Olive, Mt. Gilead, Snow Hill, Farmville, Wilson, Kenly, Dunn, Warsaw, Newton Grove, Clarkton, Whiteville, Baley, Jacksonville, Plymouth, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Lumberton, Fayetteville, Clinton and Washington.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers unsettled, farm price 24, no f.o.b. plant sales reported; Raleigh eggs steady. A large 56.

Asheville—Fryers and broilers unsettled, farm price 24, f.o.b. plant 25 1/2; eggs steady, a large 55-60 mostly 55.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 6,000; uneven; butchers averaging around steady; some sales strong early; trade closed slow and weak; trade generally fairly active; soy steady to weak; mixed, milled U.S. No. 1, 2 and 3s 200-280 lb butchers 16.00-16.50; a few hundred head mixed 1 and 2s 200-280 lb and 2 and 3s 230-260 lb 15.75-16.00; 85 head lot mostly 15 215 lb 16.00; bulk mixed grade 170-190 lb 15.25-16.00; a few lots mixed 1 and 2s 190-195 lb to 16.25; larger lots some 400 lbs and lighter 14.50-15.75; a few lots 280-310 lb 15.75-16.00; most 400-500 lb 13.50-14.50; a few head up to 600 lbs and heavier as low as 12.50; good clearance.

Chairmen Work To Start Farm Bureau Drive

Township and district chairmen were working today in preparation for the Farm Bureau drive for membership scheduled to take place next week.

A meeting Tuesday night at the Flamingo Restaurant saw Bureau leaders explain to drive chairmen plans for the drive's operation. Another meeting, this one in the form of a "kick-off" will be held Monday 7 p.m., at Respass Brothers on N. Greene Street.

The membership drive is being set up on a competition basis with the host of prizes including $200 in cash being offered. In addition, other prizes include a $50 gift certificate from Blount-Harvey, a ton of fertilizer from H. L. Hodges & Co., 100 gallons of gasoline from Quality Eastern Oil and two bushels of hybrid seed corn from the Speight Seed Farm.

The drive, which starts officially next Wednesday morning, has as its goal the enlistment of as many Farm Bureau members as possible.

A leading speaker is expected at the kick-off meeting for workers and chairmen Monday, H. L. Hodges Jr. said this morning.

The prizes, he added, will go to the township that has the highest percentage of memberships written. The program is being conducted in this manner, he said, in order that smaller townships may compete on an equal footing with larger ones.

at Duke University.

Several years ago the University of North Carolina's doors were opened to Negro graduate students as a result of a similar federal court ruling. But the Board of University Trustees continued to bar Negro undergraduate students on the grounds that equal facilities were available at Negro colleges.

Rodman said the failure to obtain a stay of judgment will have no bearing on the trustees' decision to appeal the case to the nation's highest court.

"We will prosecute the appeal as diligently and effectively as we possibly can," he declared. The state has 60 days in which to perfect its appeal but Rodman indicated it would be filed in less than that time so the high court could "expeditiously" review the matter.

Meanwhile, Louisiana State University turned down one Negro undergraduate applicant but said another, A.P. Tureaud Jr., was eligible for undergraduate arts and law.

The 19-year-old Tureaud, son of the chief counsel in Louisiana for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, did not enroll, however. Later the father said he plans to send his son back to Xavier University at New Orleans.

The father explained that as long as LSU apparently intends to ask a rehearing in the court case, his son might lose a semester of study in any new legal dispute. The youth sought to transfer from Xavier to LSU.

LSU turned down the undergraduate application of another student identified as Tolor White, Negro Army veteran of Independence, La., who attended Southern University last year. He tried to register in the College of Commerce.

LSU has been admitting Negroes to its graduate and professional schools for several years under federal court order. The university of North Carolina also opened its doors to Negro graduate students several years ago as a result of a similar ruling.

In Arkansas, two Negroes have been admitted to state-supported colleges at the undergraduate level.

Arkansas Tech at Russellville and Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia each have accepted one Negro student for the fall term.

Much Egyptian farmland is 30 to 30 feet higher than in the time when the pyramids were built because of continuing deposits of silt from the Nile floods, says the National Geographic Society.

Clearing Area For Outdoor Theatre Construction

This is the site of the new outdoor theatre which is being constructed on the western edge of the East Carolina College campus. Work on the theatre has already begun. The sum of $10,000 was given by Mrs. Rosa M. Flanagan and the theatre will be a memorial to her husband, the late E. G. Flanagan. (Reflector Staff Photo).

poetry, the music, the dreams in life. Women are too practical. Besides, men smell so good—with their woolly clothes, their sweat and their stinky old pipe smoke."

"It wouldn't be enough for a woman to mother a little girl baby. It wouldn't satisfy her. She wants to mother a real big baby—a man."

What would women miss most about men if they were gone? Surprisingly—at least it amazed me—they spoke out quite frankly. None, it seemed, would miss man's handsome face, his strong muscles or his admittedly noble character.

Two of the girls conceded they'd miss man as the family breadwinner—"You mean I'd have to work in an office myself all my life?"—and a third said:

"Men are nice to cuddle up to. Can a hormone cuddle you?"

Another, a dashing blonde, replied, blushing:

"What would I miss most? Good heavens, what a silly question! Please consider me censored."

The other lassies stubbornly insisted that in an all-feminine world the thing they'd pine for most would be the opportunity simply to talk to a man.

Asked what made the conversation of men so attractive, one girl said:

"It's so funny. All men try to sell you the same stupid line. But the rest of the girls agreed with an older woman who remarked:

"Woman talk is really nothing but selfish yappy-yappy-yap. A man is more interesting to talk to than a woman because he is more tolerant and broad-minded."

All I can say is, boys if we're that important to the ladies—then why don't they whisper a little of that honey praise in our big flapping ears while we're still alive and doing our best to keep 'em from widowhood?"

Struck By Car, Injuries Minor

An 11-year-old boy apparently escaped serious injury shortly after 1 p.m. when he was struck by a car operated by Arthur Lee Mabry, 20, Negro, of Route 1.

Johnnie L. Tyson, 11 of 807-B Vanderbilt Lane received bruises of the left leg when hit by the car on Vanderbilt Lane. He was taken to the hospital by Mabry.

No charges were made.

Suspended Road Terms For Drunk, Resisting

A 40-year-old Route 1 resident received two suspended 30 day sentences, 60 days on the roads and fines totalling $25 in police court here today after conviction of being drunk, resisting arrest and two counts of assault on an officer.

Frank Parker, the defendant, pled not guilty to each charge before Judge Charles H. Whedbee Parker did not testify.

City policeman H. F. Lawson testified that he, in the company of patrolman J. W. Jenkins, went to the Dixie Warehouse about 1 p.m. yesterday and found Parker in a drunken condition.

Parker, Lawson testified, cursed them and told the officers he was not going to jail. The police succeeded in getting Parker to police headquarters without trouble however, but there, Lawson said, Parker suddenly struck him in the face and knocked him down.

Jenkins, who had been to get the jail keys, heard the scuffle and came to Lawson's assistance. Then, Lawson said, "we all three went to war."

"He hit me," Lawson summarized, "hit Jenkins; we hit him, he went to the hospital."

Lt. Hugh D. Cox Killed In Crash

LT. HUGH COX

Air Force Lt. Hugh Donald Cox, 24, of Kinston, formerly of Greenville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cox of Kinston, was killed in a plane crash near Tyndall Air Force Base at Panama City, Fla., Wednesday night.

The Air Force is investigating the wreckage of his T-33 trainer plane which reportedly exploded over the Gulf of Mexico just south of Panama City about 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Lt. Cox attended East Carolina College where he graduated and received his Air Force Commission in 1954. He received his wings at Webb Air Force Base at Big Spring, Texas. He was a 1949 graduate at Riverside Military Academy at Gainesville, Ga.

Lt. Cox was a popular and well-known student at ECC. He was a member of Phi Sigma Pi fraternity and held several offices in student organizations at the college. He was treasurer of the Student Government Association.

He was married to the former Elizabeth Allen, daughter of Mrs. Matt Allen and the late Major Allen of Kinston. They have one daughter, Charlotte, age 1 1/2 years. $300,000 to help rehabilitate six flood-ravaged Northeastern states.

some 20 stitches taken in his scalp, was found guilty on all counts. A periodic visitor in police court here, he was given concurrent 30 day sentences for being drunk and resisting arrest. Both were suspended however, on payment of a total of $25. He received consecutive 30 day sentences on two counts of assaulting an officer.

Whedbee, in addressing the defendant, pointed out to him that the police represent the law and as such must be treated with proper respect. He added that law enforcement officers are called upon to risk their lives in performing their duties to the public. "They are on call at any time, to come to your assistance or to the assistance of anyone," the judge said.

Crowd Of 200 At Park Dedication

GRIFTON—A crowd estimated at 200 persons was on hand here last night for the dedication of the Griffon Ball Park.

The park, a town project begun in 1953, was officially turned over to the Griffon school in the ceremonies last night.

Lions Club spokesman Joe Quinler presented the key to the park to Wiley Gaskin, chairman of the local school board, Principal E. B. Bight and Mayor W. H. Gover also participated in the presentation.

Following the dedication games between the Reds and the Blues, the Small Fry baseball teams, and the town women's softball team were played.

Dr. Frank Jeter Dies In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP)—Dr. Frank Jeter, director of agricultural information at North Carolina State College, died at a Raleigh hospital this morning of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Jeter had been afflicted with the disease since 1944.

He was rushed to the hospital this morning after he was stricken about 3 a.m. Death came about an hour and a half later.

Jeter, 64, was a native of the Santee community of Union County, S.C. He graduated from Clemson College in 1911 and was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of science by Clemson in 1948.

Survivors include his wife, the former Irene Annie Albert, a daughter, Mrs. William Black of Atlanta; and two sons, Frank H. Jeter Jr. of Forest City, and Dr. Vernon Jeter of Plymouth. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Jeter was nationally known for his pioneering work in agricultural journalism. He was president of the National Assn. of Agricultural Editors in 1919-20. In addition to writing articles for newspapers and national farm magazines, he conducted radio farm programs for several years and recently conducted television farm programs.

He first became agricultural editor at North Carolina State College in 1914. From 1920 until he returned to the college post in 1922 he was editorial representative of the Southern Fertilizer Assn in Atlanta.

Ruritan Hears Goodman At Its Tuesday Meeting

WINTERVILLE—At the Winterville Ruritan Club's supper meeting Tuesday night, Assistant Pitt County Farm Agent C. J. Goodman presented a program, highlighting 4-H activities. Program Chairman Ward James presented the speaker.

Jimmie Hendrix son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Hendrix of Greenville, who recently returned from the National 4-H Camp at Washington, D.C., recited some of his experiences on the trip. He illustrated his talk with color slides of scenes in the National Capital. He said one of the highlights of the trip was having dinner with North Carolina Senator W. Kerr Scott in the Senate Restaurant.
