Armed Soldiers On Guard In Buenos Aires

City Street Dept. Budget Strained By Clean-Up Job

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Operation mop-up after Hurricane Ione is restoring conditions to normal locally.

City Manager James S. Hughes said this morning that street department workers are still cleaning up broken limbs and other debris left by the storm and tree trimming crews are cutting dead and broken limbs left hanging by the winds.

In addition the street department is faced with a large amount of street patching in spots where pavement has settled due to the heavy rains.

Cost of the clean up operations has not been estimated, but Hughes said, the work is putting a heavy strain on the street maintenance budget.

The city manager said it is too early to tell whether additional appropriations will have to be made to the street department.

"We might be able to make it up somewhere else," he declared. "For instance the winter might not be too bad if at all possible we will make it up and try not to go over the budget, but we just can't tell yet."

The unanticipated cost "might mean some of the normal maintenance we would have done won't get done," Hughes said.

Meantime Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said that service had been restored to all customers who have reported power failures yesterday noon.

"We still have a lot of temporary repairs, however," he declared. "We feel that we did a better job than during Hazel. On Monday when the wind stopped blowing we had as many customers out as after Hazel but this year we restored service two days earlier."

Bloxam paid tribute to the linemen who repaired the damage left by Ione.

"I think those boys are to be commended," he stated. "They really did work."

Utilities workers were handicapped in restoring service in certain parts of the county due to the high waters.

"One place we got a boat and an outboard motor to get into the area and repair lines," he noted. "While we were here today, water rose an additional two feet."

Bloxam said the recently installed two-way radio equipment proved "invaluable" during the storm.

"The equipment has paid for itself during Connie, Diane and Ione," he declared.

Approximately 70 to 80 utilities poles were lost during Ione, mostly due to the ground being soft and trees being uprooted.

The utilities superintendent estimated the total repair bill after Ione would run $10,000. Cost of the two preceding storms to the utilities was estimated at $6,000.

In keeping service on, the utilities gave first priority to the hospital, Bloxam said, and their service was interrupted for only a few minutes.

Next, attempts were made to keep electricity flowing to the radio station, the television station, the business area, and the college.

All Available Federal Aid Ordered By President Help For Storm Area

RALEIGH (AP)—President Eisenhower has directed "that every federal government resource be utilized as fully as possible" in extending assistance to hurricane stricken areas of eastern North Carolina.

Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson wired Gov. Hodges this morning in sending word he is coming to the state for an inspection tomorrow of the disaster area.

At the same time, the governor's office announced that True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture, will come here tomorrow for a discussion of assistance to farmers whose crops have been wiped out by a one-two-three punch from hurricanes Connie, Diane and Ione.

The governor has invited every member of the state's delegation in Congress, including Sen. Sam J. Ervin and W. Kerr Scott to attend the meeting with Morse. Farm crop losses from the three storms have been estimated in excess of 130 million dollars.

Peterson planned to fly to Raleigh today for a flight tomorrow over "hurricane alley." He planned to make several stops with possible side trips by automobile, but a definite itinerary has not been worked out.

Peterson told the governor "everything the federal government can do under the law is being and will be done in North Carolina" and he assured Hodges, "we will spend the money necessary to do our part of the job fully."

He also said he had found in dealing with disaster relief "it is extremely difficult to make accurate monetary estimates of damages in the immediate wake of a disaster" and that it is impossible to estimate accurately the amount of federal funds "needed to carry out the federal government's part of the federal government's part."

Peterson will be accompanied tomorrow by Thomas H. Goodman, southern regional CD director, and Brig. Gen. Edward Griffin, state CD director.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine made new efforts to obtain federal aid for eastern livestock farmers whose pastures and feed stocks were damaged by the hurricanes. Ballentine said he would send to federal officials in Washington today "additional information" on the need for emergency feed supplies "in the hope that we can get them to move."

The agriculture commissioner last night wired K. L. Scott, director of Agricultural Credit Services in the agriculture secretary's office, of the "desperate need" for federal aid.

This morning, Ballentine said he received a letter from Harvey A. Dahl, Scott's assistant, replying to a Sept. 14 request for help.

Dahl informed Ballentine that so far federal emergency feed programs have not included farmers suffering water damage from hurricanes, but has been limited to drought relief. However, he promised that consideration would be given to further information supplied by Ballentine.

Ballentine said the hurricane damage to pastures and hay crops has been more severe than would have resulted from drought conditions. "After pastures have been flooded by salt water, there's not much left," he explained.

Triumphal Entry For Argentina's New Chief Big Welcome For Lonardi

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi made a triumphal entry into Buenos Aires today to take control of the provisional government of Argentina on behalf of the victorious rebels.

A 21-gun salute roared over the River Plate as Lonardi stepped from the DC3 which brought him here. He wore the green field uniform of the Argentine army, with a red and white general's cap.

Despite tanks and guards, the crowd surged toward the plane. It was halted for a moment as a band played the national anthem, then pushed on again.

A motorcycle escort helped the provisional President reach the airport building, about 100 feet from the plane, but he appeared to be more carried by the crowd than walking. Women waved white handkerchiefs in a traditional gesture of welcome and the crowd shouted:

"Viva Lonardi!"

Greeting him were Rear Adm. Isidro Rojas, who led the Argentine navy to victory in the rebellion, and Gen. Leonides Forcher who led the delegation of Loyalists which negotiated peace terms with the revolution leader's entry into Buenos Aires was preceded by an order from the provisional government for the arrest of all Peron supporters in the national Congress. Earlier, the new regime had dissolved the Congress, in which Peronista party members held all 34 Senate seats and all but 12 places in the 155-member lower house.

Violence flared here and in Rosario, Argentina's second largest city, as students and other foes of the ousted dictator moved to eradicate evidences of Peron's power. Street fights occurred throughout Buenos Aires yesterday despite efforts of armed patrols to keep crowds from gathering. Several Peronista party buildings were wrecked. Pictures and busts of Peron and his late wife Eva were torn from walls and destroyed.

A Rosario, several people were beaten up when Peronists attacked a group cheering a column of troops. The soldiers restored order and many Peron supporters were arrested. A short time later a Peronista demonstration was organized, but police and rebel supporters, they broke it up. It was one of the few organized pro-Peron demonstrations reported since the revolution succeeded.

Rebel authorities closed all Peronista headquarters in Rosario and surrounding Santa Fe province.

Primaries Might See Big Turnout

By D. HAROLD OLIVER, WASHINGTON (AP)—More voters than ever before will have an opportunity next spring to take part directly in the presidential nominating process.

Between March 1 and June 5, both parties will hold presidential primary elections in 18 states, Alaska and the District of Columbia to pick delegates to the August national conventions or express nomination choices by law. A 19th state, Alabama, will probably confine its primary voting to the Democrats.

In 1952, both parties held primaries in only 15 states, and Democratic primaries only were held in Florida and the District of Columbia.

A survey by the Republican National Committee research staff today showed that since the 1952 election, two more states—Indiana and Montana—and Alaska and the District of Columbia have adopted presidential primaries or laws. Florida enacted a revised law.

Nevada passed a law in 1952 providing for direct election of pledged national convention delegates, but repealed it this year without giving the system a chance to operate, the survey showed.

In nonprimary states, national convention delegates are selected in state and district conventions, and in a few instances by party committees.

No two presidential primary laws are alike. Some provide for election of definitely pledged delegates. Under others, delegates may be pledged or not. Still others have no presidential preference or popularity contests where the people vote directly on presidential choices as well as for delegate candidates.

Next year, delegate candidates will be or may be pledged in a dozen of the primary states.

Here are the dates for next year's presidential primaries: March 13, New Hampshire; March 20, Minnesota; April 2, Wisconsin; April 10, Illinois; April 17, New Jersey; April 24, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Alaska; May 1, District of Columbia; May 7, Maryland; May 8, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia; May 15, Nebraska; May 18, Oregon; May 29, Florida; June 5, California, Montana, New York, South Dakota.

Looked Like Boiling Buttermilk, Says Pilot 'Janet' Churns Sea White

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Janet, so powerful that her winds made ocean waters look like "boiling buttermilk," whirled westward in the Caribbean Sea today.

Big-eyed and capricious, Janet was bowling along in a northwesterly direction at about 15 m.p.h. at 5 a.m. EST Navy reconnaissance planes spotted her about 425 miles south-southeast of San Juan, P.R. She had changed her course somewhat, and all warnings were hauled down in the Windward Islands. Several of the smaller islands in the Windward group had been in the storm's path last night.

The Leeward Islands, to the north and northwest of the Windwards awaited further word on Janet's behavior.

In a pre-dawn estimate by observers at the San Juan Weather Bureau, Janet, the 10th tropical storm of the season, was throwing her weight around with winds up to 115 m.p.h. over a small area in the center. She was described as having a well-defined eye about 20 miles in diameter; her future development was listed as uncertain.

Gales whipped up to 140 miles to the north and 90 miles to the south. A pace of about 15 m.p.h. was expected to continue throughout the morning.

"The water looked like boiling buttermilk," said Lt. Cmdr. Kenneth M. McKee, who was on a Navy Neptune hurricane-hunting plane into the eye of a storm 11 miles southeast of Barbados. "The storm's turbulence is extremely severe. I don't understand why that plane did not fall apart."

The hurricane smashed across Barbados Island, flattening flimsy wooden structures in which the poorer of the island's 200,000 inhabitants live. Shattered buildings and fallen trees blocked the main highways.

Communications lines were down and the airport at Bridgetown was closed.

No accurate estimate of the damage was available but relief work was under way.

Janet followed quickly on the heels of hurricanes Hilda and Ione.

There was no indication that Janet would strike the mainland. Forecasters pointed out she is a small, intense hurricane and may be on the weather map for a week or 10 days.

President Prepares Make Message Public Await Bulganin Note Text

FRASER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower prepared today to make public Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's personal message to him on the President's plan for mutual aerial inspection and exchange of military blueprints.

In advance of Eisenhower's scheduled departure from Fraser for the Denver White House, aides said the Kremlin leader's note might be released for publication by the day's end—or it might be held up until tomorrow.

The timing depended on when the President gets a go-ahead from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who is in New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Meanwhile the chief executive was drafting a reply to Bulganin. It will be made public, an associate said, "as soon as it can be done readily," but probably not before 8 p.m.

At Eisenhower's Rocky Mountain fishing camp near here, Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, still declined any direct comment on the content of the Bulganin message, which the President received yesterday.

It sources elsewhere said it deals with Eisenhower's Geneva Big Four proposal that the United States and Russia swap military blueprints and agree on mutual aerial inspection of military establishments.

In Washington, U.S. officials were reported to regard the Bulganin reply as generally encouraging in tone. Some of them were understood to feel the Premier attached strings. Others felt it was not even a conditional acceptance but rather essentially a restatement of long-standing Soviet policy on disarmament.

Bulganin's message it was learned, contained these three main points:

1. Any aerial inspection arrangement and swapping of military establishments blueprints must be elements of a general disarmament program.

2. This program should provide for prompt renunciation and abolition of all atomic weapons.

3. It should apply to all military bases of both countries, including those on foreign soil.

USS Forrestal Passes Her Test

ABOARD USS FORRESTAL (AP)—The star-carrier Forrestal, which flunked her first sea trials three weeks ago, apparently has passed her second examination in excellent style.

The 59,000-ton giant had her "big day" Thursday when she was put through a series of rugged trials and was opening up full speed for a five-hour endurance run in the Atlantic.

Afterward, officials of the Newport News Shipyard, which built the warship, said they had never seen a big vessel handle any better.

The Forrestal underwent her full speed run between the Virginia and Delaware capes. She was clocked at approximately 35 miles an hour or 31 knots.

After the speed run, the ship was put through a series of sharp-angle turns. At times she speeded noticeably, but in each instance she righted herself without difficulty.

On her first trial runs, the Forrestal was forced to return to port Aug. 31 because of mechanical trouble. Officials indicated the trouble—an overheating problem—has been solved with the installation of pumps on the lubricating and cooling system.

This is scheduled for delivery to the Navy Sept. 29 with commission set for Oct. 1.

'Ghost Ship' Is Moved By Gales

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—After 34 years, the ghost ship Carroll A. Deering has found another resting place in the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

The Deering, a five-masted schooner, created one of the modern maritime world's great mysteries when she was sighted off Diamond Shoals Jan. 31, 1921.

When Coast Guardsmen got aboard four days later, they found her stove and on the table and the lifeboat and crew gone.

The only sign of life was the ship's cat.

The Coast Guard dynamited her but the ship's bow drifted ashore on Hatteras Island. This week Hurricane Ione shifted the remains. They were found about nine miles north of their previous site on Hatteras Island.

What actually happened to the Deering's crew never has been determined. There has been considerable speculation of piracy. Federal investigators have concluded, however, that the ship, her rudder gone, went on the shoals causing the crew to take to the lifeboat which they figure, capsized and drowned those aboard.

Britain To Tell Full Spy Story

Engineer Says Lifting Secrecy Can Speed Job

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A General Electric engineer said today that the government could speed up the peace time Atomic power program in the U.S. by declassifying "great quantities of material without endangering our military security."

O. B. Falls, manager of the Atomic Products Division of General Electric, said here yesterday that nuclear power plants will be in a position to compete with steam generating power plants in some sections of the United States within five years.

Falls spoke at a conference of the Southeastern Electric Exchange. The conference closed today.

Falls said that General Electric is proceeding on faith in its contract to build a 45 million dollar, 180,000-kilowatt nuclear power plant 40 miles south of Chicago for the Commonwealth Edison Co. He said GE will be ready by 1957 to begin construction of the plant which should be completed within three years.

No insurance company has agreed to underwrite the plant, Falls declared, but "the odds against a nuclear incident from such a plant are tremendous. There are four different levels of safety devices in such an operation. All would have to fail simultaneously to produce—not an explosion—but a radio-active fallout."

He predicted, however, that within the next two years the insurance business will find a way to cover the program or else the federal government will.

Florida was one area Falls predicted that nuclear plants will able to compete with steam power within five years. He said in Florida fuel costs run higher than in states closer to coal, oil and gas sources.

Falls attended the Geneva Conference. He said the Russians are "on top of" development of nuclear power for industrial productivity. He declared the Russians "have developed some basic quantities that coincide with ours but were arrived at by a different method. They have built a small nuclear power plant already and are moving ahead," he told the more than 300 delegates.

The Public Information Office identified the dead man as Frank W. Peck Jr., Negro, son of Frank Peck, Cedartown, Ga. The other was Walter W. Ellswick of Ironton, Ohio. He suffered multiple fractures, an internal injury.

The men's parachutes tangled shortly after they jumped. Both pulled the cords on their reserve chutes but one of them was fouled and did not open.

Freed Prisoners Of China Ready To Sail

HONG KONG (AP)—Two American civilians long detained in Red China reportedly boarded a ship at Shanghai today. U. S. consular officials said. Four others are expected to leave by ship in the next two weeks.

The six are on the list of 13 citizens detained in China up to 5 years for lack of exit permits. The Reds announced recently at Geneva that they were free to leave.

U. S. Vice Consul Robert Aylward said he had received word that Emma Angelina Barry, 10, and Robert Howard Parker, 82-year-old Philadelphia-born businessman were aboard the British freighter Hunan due in Hong Kong Sept. 27. Emma, whose American father's whereabouts is unknown, was reported to be with her White Russian mother. Parker was believed to be accompanied by his White Russian wife.

The four others expected to leave by ship:

Sister Eva Stella Dugay, 62, Boston Carmelite nun, known as Sister Theresa; Mrs. Marcella Ellen Hulzer of Walcott, Ind., who consular officials said would board the British freighter Surat leaving Shanghai next week for Hong Kong; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Ricks of Coscobol, Wis., booked to Yokohama in the Dutch ship Straat Bali leaving Shanghai Oct. 6. Mrs. Hulzer is believed accompanied by her Dutch husband Pieter.

Mystery deepened today when the Reds are freeing Dilmus T. Kanady, Houston cottonman the only unreturned prisoner of 16 Americans promised immediate release at Geneva. Speculation was growing that Kanady, too, is exiting by ship because of his reported poor physical condition.

Family Picket Line Ties Up Big Manufacturer

BESSEMER, Ala. (AP)—A stubborn family picket line blocked the multimillion-dollar operations of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co. plant here for the third day today.

E. S. McClain, 31, and his wife marched in front of the plant entrance and hundreds of workers stayed away from their jobs, though union officials said the picketing is unauthorized.

McClain is protesting being fired from his job as a Pullman-Standard guard. Aided by his wife and two of his four small children, he picketed the plant since Wednesday.

The determined family carries signs saying that McClain was framed and fired and urging other workers to stay away from their jobs until he gets his old position back.

McClain is a member of Local 1466, CIO United Steel Workers of America.

McClain said he has paid his union dues for five years, "and when they don't help me, I decided to help myself."

So, he set up his picket line. More than 900 workers observed a "sit-down" today.

Steelworkers, informed the Bessemer local that the strike is unauthorized, and the union must abide by its contract with Pullman-Standard.

Many workers refused to enter the plant Wednesday, however, and the shutdown became complete yesterday morning. McClain said:

"I'll stay out there until I go back to work as they run me off."

The McClains carried crudely printed signs saying he had been framed, and urged other workers to stay out of the plant until he was reinstated.

Nothing doing," said McClain. "I'm here until they run me off, or give me back my job."

A company official said McClain was fired after he had a fight with another guard.

McClain said he was fired after he went to the union hall and complained that Bessemer steelworkers were being worked as guards at night, but that regular plant

Speech, Hearing Clinic Tests Given

Speech and hearing tests given to new students at East Carolina College this fall are now hearing completion, and students with serious deficiencies will be given individual therapy in the college Speech and Hearing Clinic.

The tests were conducted under the general supervision of Courtney Stromsta, faculty member of the department of education and director of the clinic.

A modified form of the Massachusetts Group Hearing test has been administered to date to 903 students who entered East Carolina this fall for the first time. Speech tests, given by members of the department of English, have been administered to 941 students.

Individual examination of those students who failed either the group hearing test or the speech screening, or both, is now in progress, Mr. Stromsta states.

Those in need of medical attention will be advised of the fact and assisted in obtaining proper treatment. Serious cases, determined by tests, individual examinations and the advice of doctors, will be given individual therapy during the school year in the college clinic.

Of the 903 men and women who have taken the hearing test at East Carolina, 92 were found to have a hearing impairment in one ear outside the frequency range necessary for the perception of speech. Fifteen had a hearing impairment in one ear within the frequency range necessary for the perception of speech. Thirty-one had a hearing loss in both ears.

Thirty-five students among the 941 who were screened in speech are being given individual speech examinations because of performance outside the normal range.

Faculty Wives Club Meets At Messick Home

The Faculty Wives Club of East Carolina College met for the first time this year Tuesday night, Sept. 20, at the home of President and Mrs. J. D. Messick.

Mrs. Wendell Smiley, president, presided over a short business meeting after which the new members were introduced by Mrs. Charles Risher.

Petticoat Problem?

DALLAS Tex.—Nancy Vickrey has come up with a decorative solution to the young girl's problem of how to store myriads of petticoats. On a wire that extends the width of her bedroom, she hangs more than a dozen of her colorful nylon net petticoats. Some are as much as 15 yards around the ruffled bottoms. Nancy lifts the hangers off easily with an old mop handle with metal cross piece attached.

Two Careers In Family 'Okay'

Two careers in one family work out all right, just so one does not try to influence the other, says Simonetta, Italian designer, whose husband, Fabiani is head of the Roman fashion house which is one of her chief competitors.

In New York during a tour of the country to introduce a new perfume along with her fall fashion collection, Simonetta laughed gaily as she discussed the phenomenon of living in marital bliss with a rival genius. Said she:

"Both of us were well launched in our own careers at the time of our marriage, so we just carried on. There never was any question of joining our two businesses. My husband is known for his own particular style of design, just as I am known for mine. We discuss generally our plans for each new collection, and then we leave each other alone."

Teachers Presented At P.T.A. Meeting

The West Greenville P.T.A. met Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium with Mrs. Thomas Carawan presiding.

Mr. J. G. Gibbs gave the devotional, reading Psalm 121 and Exhortation 2-8, then speaking on the nurture of the child in the school.

Highlights of the P.T.A. Congress were given by Mrs. Amos Evans after which she gave an amusing skit. Group singing was led by Miss Jane Hadley, accompanied by Miss Marian Polk at the piano.

The teachers were introduced by Miss Agnes Fullilove, principal, and corsages presented to the teachers, officers and committee chairmen. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee to approximately 100 parents and teachers.

Altrusa Club Hears Report On International Meet

The Altrusa Club held its first meeting of the fall on Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Ruel Tyson North Carolina's significant part in the convention of Altrusa International in Toronto, Canada in July was one of the most gratifying bits of news presented by Mrs. J. B. Spilman, chairman of the committee on Altrusa information, who gave the program. Other important items were the establishment of new chapters, the simplifying of the by-laws, and the extension of grants-in-aid (one of Altrusa's three major projects) to several European and Asiatic countries.

After the program, Mrs. Tyson thanked the members for accepting so graciously the responsibilities she had asked them to assume. Then she called upon Mrs. Mary Moore Dunn, program coordinator, to sketch briefly plans for the coming year. The following committee chairmen are responsible for seven of the nine programs: Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Altrusa information; Dr. Kathleen Stokes, international relations; Miss Frances Wahl, public affairs; and Dr. Hazel Taylor, vocational information.

In addition to Mrs. Tyson, president, the officers for 1955-56 are vice president, Mrs. Mary Dunn; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Copeland; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Quinley.

It was decided that a local project started earlier would be completed soon, and new projects would be agreed upon at the next meeting after members have had a chance to think about the possibilities suggested and about other possibilities. Dr. Stokes will give the next program.

Mrs. Tina Baker and Miss Margaret Underwood were guests. The hostess served an ice course which members and guests enjoyed as they watched the $64,000 Question program.

Feel Women Need Political Interest

NEW YORK (AP)—European women think American women need to take a keener interest in political affairs.

That's the report of Miss Margaret Rewalt, of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., which has 3,300 chapters in this country.

Back from a meeting in Switzerland of the federation's international board, she said European women felt "many American women lacked the consciousness of the amount of power they could exert to safeguard American democracy."

Sign Trade Pact With Bulgaria

LONDON (AP)—Britain and Bulgaria have signed a new trade agreement. Bulgaria will buy about seven million dollars worth of British goods in the next year, including machinery, textiles, fish copper sulphate and woolen rags.

Britain will issue import licenses for about $4,200,000 worth of Bulgarian fruit and vegetables. Bulgaria also agreed to settle British financial claims against her totaling $1,120,000.

Training Begins October 3 For First Reservists

The first group of young men between 17 and 18 1/2 years of age who have enlisted in the Army Reserve for the six months active duty-for-training program authorized under the new reserve law will start the active duty training cycle October 3, according to Major Marcereau, USAR Advisor in Greenville.

All men enlisting for this program by September 23 will be included in this first training cycle unless granted a delay for special reasons. After September 23, personnel enlisting prior to the 15th of each month, unless granted a delay, will enter the active duty-for-training program beginning the first week of the following month.

High school students may be granted a delay from call to active duty-for-training while satisfactorily pursuing instructions in high school until they graduate or until they reach age 20, whichever is earlier. Major Marcereau pointed out that college students and those engaged in seasonal employment may be deferred up to 120 days.

Details of the program, which offers a draft deferred status and enables young men to plan their futures, are available at the Army Recruiting Office in the Post Office and Army Reserve Training Center in town.

Earlier this month the Army announced that volunteers for the new under the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 will receive their basic combat training at six established combat arms training establishments. These are Fort Jackson, S.C.; Fort Ord, California; Camp Chaffee, Arkansas; and Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and possibly Fort Bliss, Texas, and Fort Knox, Kentucky.

CAP Cadets To Get Plane Rides

Civil Air Patrol Group 3, representing seven towns—Kinston, New Bern, Greenville, Washington, Wilson, Henderson and Rocky Mount—will conduct a special program for senior and junior cadets at the Greenville Airport Sunday morning at 10:30.

All cadets will be given rides in various types of planes. Stallings Air Base at Kinston has been requested to send a satisfactory display of the T-28 and T-6 type aircraft.

Maj. Daniel T. Lilley, CAP commander, said plans provide for the use of CAP-owned and on-loan aircraft and privately owned aircraft in the day's events. Bomb diving and spot landings will feature the program.

Pilots arriving by plane are requested to circle the airport to determine right or left hand traffic as indicated by the airport marker. Squadron Commander Charles E. Steinhilber Jr. said there is a possibility that cadets from Stallings Field may be using the field here, and suggests that pilots use good judgment in the traffic pattern and observe all light signals.

CAP units having "blue dog" (short wave) stations or megaphones are requested to take them to the field Sunday.

Public Information Officer Gus Bland said Sunday program was planned to stimulate interest among senior and junior CAP cadets and to arouse more public interest in flying.

Christian Science Announcements

How righteous thoughts and actions lead to lasting health and happiness will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Reality."

Scriptural selections to be read include Paul's advice to the Philippians (4:8): "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (2:14): "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionately to their occupancy of your thoughts."

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah (51:19): "The Lord hath brought forth our righteousness: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God."

Fail To Indict Anyone In Probe Of Threat Case

TAHOKA, Tex. (AP)—The Lynn County grand jury failed to indict anyone in alleged threats against a 16-year-old Negro student, attending Tahoka's formerly all-white school.

The jury said its probe included damage to three new automobiles owned by the school board president, possibly in revenge for the board's allowing Andrew Nance to go to the white school.

Grand jury foreman J. B. Reasonover, in his report said the jury spent considerable time probing young Nance's report that he had been threatened with personal harm if he continued to attend the school where his white classmates had elected him vice president of the junior class.

"We find no evidence of actual physical violence against the person of any individual." It also expressed confidence in local law enforcement officers and Lynn County citizens.

Gasoline From His Water Well

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Free—the gasoline you can drink.

That's the situation in which the C. Webb family finds itself. Webb's private water well is producing quantities of almost pure gasoline.

Webb says he believes the gasoline is escaping from an oil field pipeline and seeping into the well. But he hasn't been able to find the source thus far.

The gasoline showed up in the water Aug. 4, Webb said. It increased to the point where water drawn through faucets would flash and burn briefly when ignited.

A neighbor is supplying the family with water.

Shall We Go First Class Or Third?

It's the old story of which comes first the chicken or the egg. The answer one gives depends, of course, entirely upon the individual viewpoint.

Somewhat similar is Greenville's quest for new industry. There is one viewpoint which maintains that in order for Greenville's Chamber of Commerce to be able to go out and attract industry to this community, it must first have more financial support than it now receives from the people of the city. The other viewpoint, meanwhile, maintains that before the organization can expect more financial support from the businessmen of the city it must first "strike oil" by bringing in a big new industry.

This latter group asserts that once the city's industrial development begins to make more progress, there will be little difficulty in obtaining whatever financial support is needed for future development projects.

The Reflector subscribes to the first of these two viewpoints. We believe that in order to promote the type of industrial development Greenville needs local business people must show more active interest in local industrial development than has heretofore been exhibited. In this day of highly competitive bidding between communities for new industry, it takes a great deal of pump priming to get things flowing smoothly. We seriously question whether Greenville has done a sufficient amount of pump priming on its industrial program to honestly expect the results for which most local residents are hoping.

Greenville, as most other communities of its size in this area, looks to its Chamber of Commerce for industrial promotion. It is the organization which takes the leadership in projects of that sort. When we see that another community has attracted a new industry, it is the natural thing to wonder why our own community hasn't been selected by an industry for a new plant site. This often results in unfounded criticism of the local Chamber of Commerce.

It is only natural, we suppose, for any community to expect its Chamber of Commerce to accomplish as much as that of the next town. Too often we fail to realize that perhaps our Chamber of Commerce is handicapped in its activities toward industrial promotion simply because it does not have sufficient funds with which to compete with other communities.

'Steady Customers' Of Court Pose A Problem

Our courts of justice have a responsibility to the defendants who appear before them, and likewise to the state.

It is often difficult to define this fine line of demarcation which separates the two facets of this responsibility. Crime is ever present in our society, and thus we have courts, jails, prisons, police and other law enforcement agencies. Were it not for crime, all of these could be eliminated. But in our scheme of life, they are necessary to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Our courts, particularly our lower courts, or Recorder's Courts, are faced with a particularly difficult problem in deciding what to do with "regular customers."

Take the record of any Recorder's Court in North Carolina and you will find in the course of a year a relatively few individuals make up a large percentage of the cases heard by the court. These repeaters are usually involved in petty crimes such as larceny, assault, drunkenness and the like. More often than not their police record spans over a period of years and reads like a broken record. The punishment meted out by the court on each count likewise reads like a broken record more often than not. Court cost here, $10 fine there, $25 fine, fine and cost, suspended sentence, fine, cost, and suspended sentence.

Seldom do these habitual petty violators draw a jail or road sentence for an appreciable length of time. When they are put away by the court for a brief vacation, they are soon back before the bench again facing the same old charges. The courts of course realize that our jails and prison camps are already crowded. If all these regular customers were sent to the roads every time they appeared in court, the state would have to undertake a gigantic building program for its prison camps to accommodate them.

Looking over Recorder's Court records, however, we often have the feeling that these courts are too lenient on their regular customers for the good of the customer, the good of society, and the good of the court.

It is no secret that the Greenville Chamber of Commerce operates on a much smaller budget than do its brother organizations in other cities of comparable size in this and other sections of the state. Why? Simply because Greenville's citizens do not put into their Chamber of Commerce work as much money as do the citizens of other comparable communities.

The local Chamber of Commerce is constantly using all the facilities at its disposal to bolster the local industrial development program. It is obvious, however, that these facilities are limited by lack of adequate financial support.

It takes not only time, but money to build a first class industrial development program in any community. Greenville cannot expect a first class industrial program so long as its people are willing to pay only third class rates for the development of such a program.

Impact Of Storms Will Influence Votes

By LYNN NISBET

POLITICAL LULL—The office dictionary defines the word "lull" as a temporary calm that fits the political front in North Carolina right now. Hurricanes, water and wind have displaced political discussions only temporarily. That is especially true in the area east of Raleigh where damages by water and wind run into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Experienced observers are well aware that conditions created by the storms will have material bearing upon later political discussions and voting. This is a lull after a physical storm but before a political storm. Impact of hurricanes Hazel, Connie, Diane and Ione on eastern North Carolina will have considerable, perhaps controlling, influence on the outcome of next year's elections, both in the counties and state tickets, in half of the counties.

AGRICULTURE—It becomes more apparent every day that despite the millions of dollars damage to beach and town property, the farms are the major sufferers. The loss is incalculable because in so many instances the damage not only means near complete loss of the growing crops but includes destruction of soil which has been built up through the years and virtual removal from productive potential of hundreds of thousands of acres of farm land.

The plight of eastern Carolina farmers now gives them a different view of the much discussed national farm program. It is understandable that the man who looks out upon acres of muddy water, salty marshes and mosquito-breeding swamps will have a different attitude from that of mid-August when those same acres gave promise of record-breaking production of corn, cotton, peanuts, soybeans and winter feeds. Most of the tobacco was out of the fields, but the harvested leaf suffered damage from weather. There are thousands of acres of pastures in the third or fourth year of improvement cycle in worse shape than before improvement programs were begun.

NATIONAL—The farm situation will have more influence upon votes for Representatives and senators in the Congress and for President than upon candidates for state and local offices. The degree of response on part of Federal agencies to municipal and welfare needs will also influence votes for national officers.

In municipal and individual welfare relief matters North Carolina will benefit indirectly from the disastrous effects of hurricanes Connie and Diane in the North Atlantic and New England states. Accredited spokesmen for the Federal defense at the recent regional CD conference at Knoxville very frankly stated that relief would be more speedily mobilized for the whole country because of the experiences of communities in New York, Pennsylvania and New England. That speedier action will help North Carolina beaches, cities and towns. The Federal attitude toward the plight of agriculture is not so clearly defined. Governor Hodges, Commissioner of Agriculture Bellentine and the folks at State College are doing all they can to impress upon Washington the need for extended and immediate aid to farmers.

ROADS—Most serious damage to public property as contrasted with privately-owned farms, homes and business houses, was to roads and streets and to health-sanitary facilities. This is another place where statements about loss come in the category of guesstimates rather than audited estimates.

Highway engineers estimated damages resulting from Hazel, Connie and Diane in the loss of a million dollars to State maintained roads and bridges. Preliminary guesses on lone damage put the loss as more than caused by other three storms combined. No estimate is available for losses to municipal streets, sewerage and water lines and other local government properties.

RESPONSIBILITY—There has developed a concept, without much basis in law or fact, that responsibility for aid to individuals is vested in the Federal government and quasi-public social service organizations such as the Red Cross. Major responsibility for highways rests with the State and for municipal sewer-water services with local agencies. In some of these matters the Federal agencies move too slowly and in others the job is too big for local handling. To greater extent than ever before there is a sort of combination of responsibility among all the agencies for all the needs.

During the emergency at height of the storm red tape was cut and facilities of the civil defense organization, the army-air force-navy-marine corps, highway commission and highway patrol, civil air patrol, ham radio operators, Red Cross and all other agencies were thrown together and used where and when needed. In the reconstruction after-math there is danger of getting tangled in red tape and contrary views about who should do what. That's where politics may come into the picture.

The candidate, the official or the party that promises and can get credit for delivering the most assistance will get the most votes. It is not a question of "selling votes" for promises; it is a matter of survival and appreciation. It is of record that the 1955 General Assembly did not seriously challenge any requested appropriation for civil defense and the Legislature cheerily agreed as increase in the contingency and emergency fund. That attitude stemmed from experiences with Hazel. Now that Connie, Diane and Ione have added their contribution—with nobody knows how many other evil sisters to follow—the next Legislature may be more liberal in contingency-emergency relief allocations. In fact, it is expected that in some counties the local campaigns for legislative seats will be waged on this issue.

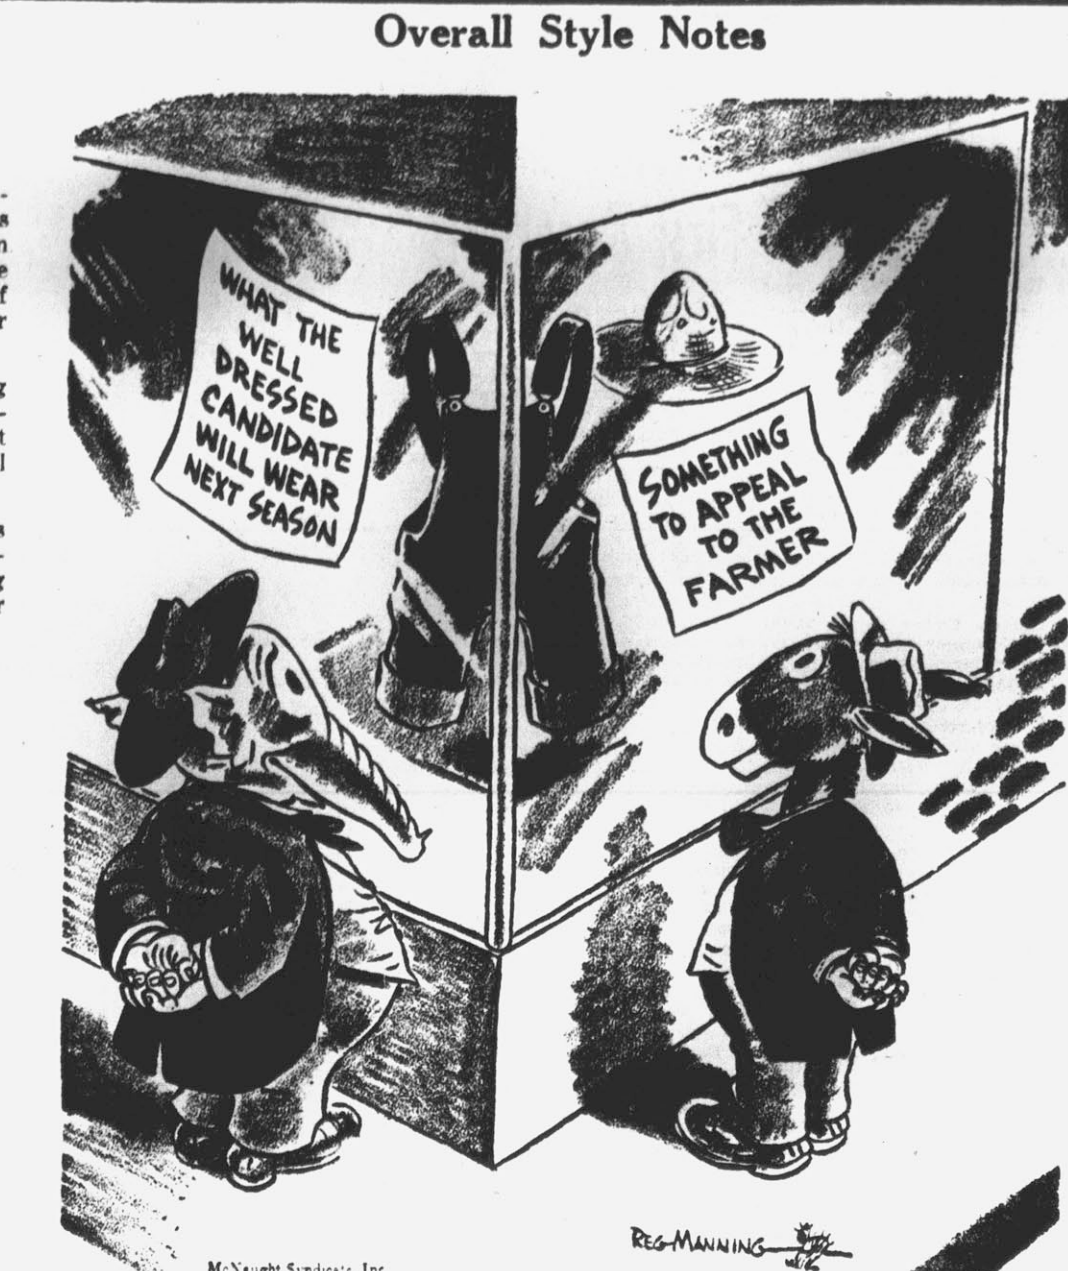

So it is that while hurricane talk has displaced politics the displacement is only temporary.

Other Editors Are Saying... Lessons In Safety That Count

(Rocky Mount Telegram) Return of the millions of American children to their classrooms spotlights the need for further progress in safety measures against school-age accidents, currently causing about 6,000 deaths yearly in the United States.

In Rocky Mount, it is cheering to note that there has been created a new organization, the Rocky Mount Safety Council, which has as its big goal the business of promoting safety among school-age children. This council, which is also affiliated with the National Safety Council and its program director is Sgt. Kenneth Sutton, who has been working closely with school organizations as the schoolboy safety patrols and the patrol women who watch our children at the vital street intersections at the schools.

Among boys five to fourteen years old the loss of life from accidents is seven times that from acute poliomyelitis, and nine times the loss from pneumonia and influenza combined, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's statistics. Among the older elementary school boys—those at ten to fourteen—accidents take a greater number of lives than all other causes combined.

Somebody Told Me Friday's Passing Thoughts

Response to the sale of garbage can racks by the local Jaycees last night was excellent. If you missed setting your rack last night, call 2051 and a Jaycee will deliver one to you tonight.

Last night daughter Nancy five wanted to know the name of that "scratch" picture that we saw. Wife Rachel thought for a minute and knew the answer. Daddy wasn't as sharp; had to be told that she was referring to "The Seven Year Itch."

"You'll Get More in Greenville" is a slogan that is doing good. I think. Not only are people in outlying sections continually hearing the claim, but it helps us here in town to be more sold on our city.

Recently I was talking to a friend who had traded cars. "Where did you trade?" I asked him. "In Greenville," of course, "don't you know that you always get more in Greenville?"

With further questioning I found that he had checked out of town and got a better trade in town. Let's face it; if he could have gotten a better trade out of town he would have traded there.

This campaign should help the merchants, in the respect of living up the slogan. Perhaps this particular car dealer shaved his profit a little to live up to it.

How did Godfrey make the cover of Collier's? Maybe the magazine is right in trying to give him a boost that he badly needs.

Three years ago when W. R. and I were in New York we got tickets to the show. New Yorkers claim they had to wait six months, but we had the fortunate connection with the local tobacco company. At the time Godfrey was it. Now with all his firing of talent, careless airplane flying and the like he's slipped. Collier's thinks he still has it, but instead of being the care-free personality he once was, the enlargement of his career has caused him to be burdened down with worries.

His popularity dates back eight years; that is, when he became a national institution. He hit his peak in 1933 and since then the direction has been downhill.

John Crosby, author of the story, says, "The plain fact is that there is no simple explanation for Godfrey. Some of the people he has fired hate him. Some pity him. Some still have admiration for him as a showman, but no love for the man."

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

Notebook On Life How To Meet A Millionaire

NEW YORK (AP)—Practically everybody alive today sooner or later will meet a millionaire—and feel worried about it. It was feared for a time that millionaires would die out in this civilization, that they would go the way of the dodo or the extinct passenger pigeon.

Ha! No, it hasn't worked out that way. The millionaire class has proved a hardy breed. If millionaires aren't quite multiplying like the rabbit, they are at least increasing faster than the whooping crane.

The average person, told he is going to meet a millionaire for the first time, finds his heart suddenly beating a bit faster. "How shall I act?" he asks. "What shall I say to him?" Nervously, he thumbs through his wife's etiquette book. He finds no help there. Oddly, no etiquette writer ever thinks to include a chapter on "The care and proper treatment of millionaires."

This a strange oversight indeed. The etiquette writers seem to have the idea that you should treat a millionaire just you would any other social equal. They are on the right track here, but they don't go far enough. Millionaires are even more equal than your other social equals. A helpful thing to remember is that, while you are uneasy at the prospect of meeting the millionaire, he may be even more uneasy over meeting you. A millionaire always has the uneasy feeling someone is trying to get at his money, and how does he know you aren't, too? As a matter of fact, he is probably right. Whoever meets a millionaire will out the wild secret hope he could help the fellow share the burden of his wealth?

Here are a few time-tested tips on how to get along with a millionaire. 1. When you first shake hands with him, avoid staring at his right hand hip pocket. It will only make him more nervous. If your eyes go instantly to where you think he keeps his wallet, you'd be wrong anyway. All veteran millionaires carry their inside coat pocket, where they can reach in and pat it gently from time to time.

2. If you are at a bar, insist on buying the first round of drinks yourself. This will throw him off guard, and he will begin to relax. 3. Talk about harmless topics like politics, sex or sports. Avoid when a millionaire wants to talk about money, he likes to be the one who brings up the subject. 4. Don't make ridiculous remarks like, "Well, after all, money won't buy everything." The millionaire knows you aren't

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLASS WE ALL LOVE COMFORT. Perhaps it was Einstein with his theory of relativity who got us off on the idea that everything is relative.

Is a thing wrong? Well, we are told that depends on circumstances. Is this or that desirable? It is all a matter of personal taste. The result of such a personal taste is that moral standards have practically ceased to exist. According to the moral theory, theory of relativity, almost anything can be twisted around, to be right, provided it turns out to be comfortable and almost anything can be shown to be wrong if it produces discomfort. If we will just delve down into most moral conclusions, we will see that comfort or the desire for comfort lie at the basis of most moral judgments.

And this is not true among any one class. The fact is, that there is any group above all others which likes comfort and decides on the basis of comfort, it is the educated, and particularly the highly educated group. Given enough education, a person can find justification for practically any form of vice and evil.

To say this is not to disavow education, but only to say that the more educated people become, the more are they prone to rationalize their weaknesses.

Split Over Internal Security Act Change

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — A fundamental division over prospective legislation to split the Eisenhower Administration is developing chiefly among its weakest organizations. Former President Truman vetoed the McCarran-Walter Act but it was passed over his veto by an overwhelming vote.

President Eisenhower is caught in the center of these conflicting forces. He has urged modification of the McCarran-Walter Act, but he has brought no pressure for Congressional action. He and Secretary Dulles have retained Scott McLeod, State Security Officer, in spite of complaints that he has administered these statutes too harshly and restrictively. It will be impossible for Ike to satisfy both elements.

Highway Campaign Is Coming

By ELMER ROSSNER

From how on we are going to see one of the most powerful drives ever launched for the Federal State, county and city spending for new and better highways. It will be steamed up by the lot of money—and no small measure of desperation.

The large number of unsold 1955 model autos is shocking the auto industry into realization that if it wants to maintain the production rates of this year, it must induce more people to buy cars. Encourage those who already have them to use up mileage left in them. And about the only way to accomplish those ends is to improve streets and highways—

—if possible—to ameliorate the parking problem. No one knows how many more people would buy cars if they knew they could park them after driving downtown.

The Eisenhower Federal Highway Program was fairly well chewed up in Congress earlier this year. The situation will be different when Congress reconvenes.

The large auto manufacturers, naturally, will step up the campaign for better highways they began several years ago. Now, dealers are joining the drive. The National Automobile Dealers Association, through its NADA Magazine is warning members that they face a "slowly contracting market for their products" if Federal road legislation in 1956 does not relieve the situation. It adds that the condition of streets and highways "has reached emergency proportions."

Labor is joining manufacturers and dealers. The auto workers' union has won lay-off benefits that may be a long step toward the guaranteed annual wage. If the auto industry suffers a setback, hopes of this kind of security will be set back everywhere. Organized fishermen in Boston and dishwashers in Los Angeles stand to lose if auto sales dip.

All this is interesting beyond a lot of votes, and 1956 being an election year, it is interesting. GROCERS WANT PAY FOR HANDLING EMPHIS. The management of two supermarket chains in upstate New York have demanded brewers pay them 25 cents a case for handling returned beer bottles. The demand is being opposed by the National Association of Retail Grocers asking that grocers be paid for work in handling deposit bottles.

If the demand spreads—and it is the kind that could sweep fast across the country—it could lead to (a) higher prices for bottled beer and (b) a fresh shift to nonreturnable bottles and cans.

SIGNIFICANT SIGNALS OF BUSINESS WEATHER. Here are some signals that show how business has been recently and which may contain some clues to the future: Steel production in August was 9,583,000 net tons, a new record for the month. In the American Iron and Steel Institute's report, National Advertising in the first seven months of this year was 11 per cent higher than in the same period last year. Printers' ink says.

Shipments of all major appliances, except ironers, were higher in the first seven months of this year than in the first seven 1954 months, according to the Retailing Daily index.

Retail sales of television receivers set new records in July and August. In the first seven months of this year, the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Association announces.

There were 147 fewer business failures in the first seven 1955 months than in the same 1954 period. Dun & Bradstreet reports.

AUXVASSE MO REVIEW. According to a recent survey, the average service station is open and at your service 160 hours every week and seven days a week. When customers were asked their reasons for patronizing a particular station, the replies were: good service, location, cleanliness, and the dealer and the price of gasoline sold. Over 20,000 service stations in the United States compete for your business, and 95 per cent of them are operated by independent local dealers.

Renewed Allegiance to the Law ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Nehemiah 8; 9; 10:28-39; Ezekiel 20:19-20.

Thirteen years before our lesson begins, Ezra the scribe was sent from Babylon to Jerusalem on a mission of inspection.

Thirteen years later all the people of Jerusalem gathered together in the street before the water gate and requested Ezra to read to them the book of the law.

The people wept when they heard the words of the law, but Ezra, Nehemiah and the Levites told them not to weep, for this was a holy day and they should rejoice.

A great feast was kept for seven days, then the people assembled with sackcloth and earth upon them and confessed their sins and worshipped their God.

Renewed Allegiance to the Law

EZRA'S READING THE WORD OF GOD RESULTED IN A GREAT REVIVAL

Scripture—Nehemiah 8; 9; 10:28-39; Ezekiel 20:19-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THIRTEEN years before today's lesson begins, the scribe Ezra had been sent to Jerusalem on a mission of inspection.

He was able to accomplish some reforms, including the divorcing of Israelites from foreign women.

What became of Ezra after this visit we do not know. Possibly, it has been suggested, he went back to Babylon in grief of the condition of his people and their indifference to Jehovah.

Since the first great revival, told to us in the seventh chapter of Nehemiah, seven years have gone by. Ezra has returned to Jerusalem (if he ever left it), and the people gathered together in the street before the water gate and asked Ezra to read to them the people learned that they were instructed to celebrate the Feast of the Tabernacles in booths, so they gathered olive branches, and pine branches, branches of myrtle and palm, and made booths upon the roofs of their houses and sat under the booths.

"Now in the twenty and fourth day of this month the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackcloth clothes and earth upon them.

"And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all strangers, and stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers."

Toward the end of the prayers of confession, the people were commanded to stand up and bless the Lord their God, and the whole history of the blessings which the Book of the Law. Ezra stood on a pulpit of wood which had been made for him, and he opened the book and read the laws of God to the assembled multitude, who listened attentively.

After the reading the people answered: "Amen, Amen, with lifting up their hands; and they bowed their heads, and worshipped the Lord with their faces to the ground."

So touched were the people with the reading and interpretation of God's laws, explained to them by Nehemiah and Ezra, that they wept. They were told not to weep for "this day is holy unto the Lord," therefore rejoice, feast and be merry. So the people went home to feast and be happy.

On further hearing of the law, Ezra had bestowed upon them from their creation unto that day were reviewed. Then a covenant was made with written and the princes, Levites and priests put their seal upon it.

The people of Israel then promised not to marry their daughters or sons to foreign people; also to observe the law concerning their offerings to the Lord—giving the firstfruits of all they produced and tithes in all the cities; also the heave-offering of the new wine and oil.

"I am the Lord your God; walk in My statutes, and keep My judgments, and do them."

So the people of Israel turned back from their idolatrous ways and once more worshipped God who had forgiven and blessed them.

First Presbyterian Announcements

Sunday is Rally Day. The program "Go—Make Disciples of All" will be presented during Church School with Mr. Morton Johnston, Superintendent, leading and Mr. F. B. Johnston, Miss Sally Beard, Miss Christine Johnston and Mr. Fred Webb reporting on "People Who Need To Be Reached By The Church." The basic task of the church is to bring people to Christ. This is a personal task and it means that you must go and call on that family next door, or in the next block, to invite them into the Church School that we and they together may become faithful disciples of Christ.

The Senior Hi Fellowship and the Pioneer Fellowship will meet Sunday night at 8:00 for supper and vesper. Come early for recreation and informal singing.

The Westminster Fellowship of College Students of East Carolina College will meet at the Manse, 401 E. 9th St., Monday at 5:30 p.m. for vesper program, fellowship and supper. A most cordial welcome is extended to all college students.

A Worker's Conference has been planned for Wednesday night, September 28, at 8:00 in the Fellowship Hall. The program will emphasize the evangelistic imperatives of the Church School teacher's task as we seek to heed Christ's command, "Go—Make Disciples of All."

September 26-October 2 is Christian Education Week. The theme is "Go—Make Disciples of All." Pray for the revitalizing of our faith. Yield your life to God and let Him work through you to bring children, youth and adults into a deep and saving relationship with Jesus Christ.

The choir will meet for rehearsal Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The nursery for little children during the 11 o'clock church service is sponsored by Circle No. 3, Mrs. Tige Gardner, chairman.

Christian Church Announcements

The Sunday School of the Eighth Street Christian Church will observe Promotion Day at 9:45 Sunday morning. James L. Harris, superintendent, has announced. The one class of each department which is being promoted to another department will receive a certificate of promotion. The entire school will meet in the sanctuary and the promotional exercises will be concluded in time for the departmental superintendent to take her graduating class to the superintendent immediately above her.

The male quartet—Ralph Sullivan, Cliff Sullivan, Tom Swain, Robert S. Moye—will sing at the morning service. The pastor will speak on "Christ's Church Is One." The service will be broadcast over the local radio station.

The Chi-Rho and the CYF youth programs will have as their program Sunday evening at 8:00 the theme of the Fall Banquet last Sunday evening which was "The Fall Kick-Off." Nancy Harris is in charge of the study and Millie Bowden will conduct the worship. The Disciple Student Fellowship will have as its theme at the same hour "What Do You Choose?"

A program of church-wide visitation of its members will be preparatory to the Rally Day on Sunday, October 2, which is also World-wide Communion Sunday. Every member is encouraged to make at least five visits among the church membership during the week.

The following representatives will go to the Area Assembly of the Disciples of Christ held at Lynchburg, Va. next week: Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Haney, Mrs. Agnes Settle, and Mrs. Paul T. Ricks.

Greenville's undefeated high school team battles Kinston tonight in its second, and possibly its most important Northeastern Conference contest of the season, in Kinston.

Coches Guy Lewis' squad will be treading on dangerous ground tonight, for the Red Devils are rated by the majority of Eastern Carolina football observers as the number one group in the league.

Frank Mock, the Kinston mentor, has fielded a fast, light crew that features a sizzling attack of ramble-dangle ball along with the pinpoint passing of quarterback Foo Rochele. The K-Town gridders opened their 1955 schedule with an impressive 56-0 win over a class A opponent and dropped their second match 7-0 last week against the tough Raleigh Caps.

Even-Stevens
Though they looked strong in smashing Jacksonville 12-6 and Beaufort 22-0, most experts have rated the Greens on an even par with the Red Devils. Either team is capable of victory.

Greenville's coaching staff, composed of Lewis, Vaughn Fowler and Stanley Jones, wound up the week's practice last night with a two-hour session of skull drills that began at eight o'clock. There were 32 boys present and all of them will make the trip to Kinston.

Earlier yesterday, the Phants worked on kick-off and punt formations for both offense and defense, with both the first and second squads participating. Afterwards, there was a dummy scrimmage as the Green attack lined up several passing and running techniques. The starting backfield will probably include Jerry Drum at quarterback, Tommy Key Norris and Bob Shaeckleford at halfbacks and Billy Sremons in the fullback slot.

There have been some changes in the line, which find Bill Johnson, a regular defensive end, filling in on offense for the injured Harold Edwards. Coach Jones, end instructor, stated that there was a chance that Edwin Wilkerson (formerly a center) might take over a defensive terminal position. Other members of the forward wall who will start tonight are Howard King and Pete West at tackles; either Charles Hollingsworth, Kelly Barnhill or Peter Hudson at guards; Wade Jordan at center and Ike Riddick at the other end.

The game will be at eight o'clock and the action will take place in the Kinston baseball stadium.

Chadwick Tries Channel Again

DOVER, England (AP)—Florence Chadwick, 35-year-old swimming star from San Diego, Calif., plunged into the English Channel early today for an attempted England to France and back crossing.

Miss Chadwick entered the water at Shakespeare Beach near here at 3:47 a.m. (9:47 p.m. EST Thursday).

An eastbound leg she beat the England to France record of 14 hours, 6 minutes set this year by England's Bill Pickering.

It was raining heavily, but the waters of the channel were nearly dead calm.

"I'll stop on the French side just long enough for another coat of grease before starting back," Miss Chadwick told a reporter.

Pitched 4 TD Passes For Win

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Elmer Clark pitched four touchdown passes here last night as Kentucky State dropped Winston-Salem Teachers College 31-6.

The Tar Heels, opening the football season, managed only one score that in the second quarter on a 55-yard jaunt by Johnny Rus-

Old Story Of Single-Wing Against The 'T' When Pirates Play Bears

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

Preparation for Lenoir Rhyne was about over in the East Carolina camp today, with a brief pre-game workout scheduled for this afternoon.

Coaches Jack Boone, Jim Mallory and Earl Smith will get some idea of how their club should fare in the small college North State circuit after the Lenoir Rhyne clash.

So should Clarence Stasovich of Lenoir Rhyne get some picture of the Bears' future in the conference, since it's their first game inside the league, too.

Old Rivalry
It'll be the old story of single-wing against T-formation when the two clubs square off. Stasovich is one of the few mentors who still employs successfully the ram-rod power formation. Evidently, he has the horses to make it go. The Bears trampled Newport News Apprentice School, 40-0, last week to open their card.

Bone's version of the straight T is considered somewhat unorthodox but it carried the Bucs to the conference crown in 1953 and to a better-than-average season last year.

The Buc skipper has added several new variations that resemble the fabulous "T" style utilized by football specialists in the east a couple seasons back. This tricky offense has one of the halfbacks running behind the fullback. It was very successful in its few uses last year, and is an exciting formation to watch.

The Big Wheel
The man that makes the Buc offense go is Washington's Dick Cherry, candidate for Little All-America honors. The Blond Bombshell, as he has become to be known, is rare in that he not only directs the team at quarterback, but passes, runs and kicks—an usual thing in T-formation offense.

With Cherry in the starting backfield will be Emo Boado and Jim Henderson at the halves, and Harold O'Kelly at fullback.

The starting forward includes three sophomores, end Bobby Clark, tackle Jerry Brooks and guard Ken Burgess. Clark and Burgess just broke into the starting line-up this past week, along with tackle Waverly Cheson.

The remainder of the line will have Lou Hallow at center, Ray Pennington at end, and Paul Popov at guard.

Hallow Leader
Mallow, the Bucs' other Little All-America candidate, is the pacer on both offense and defense. Property of the Los Angeles Rams when he graduates this May, the Goldsboro senior packs a powerful wallop as a linebacker.

Boone has indicated that he will use a lot of boys in the battle. With a squad primarily sophomore, he plans plenty of experimentation.

Outwardly, Lopez Clings To Hope For The Miracle

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Al Lopez says his Cleveland Indians still can fight, wait and hope.

But the long odds are that this will be the Indians' last day as American League champions.

Luc would have to come their way three times in less than 12 hours for the Tribe to keep alive their pennant aspirations. For the past week the Cleveland club hasn't had as much as a nodding acquaintance with luck.

A Yankee victory in either of its games against the Boston Red Sox ends the pennant chase. So would an Indian defeat.

"We'll play the games one at a time," Lopez said. "Anything can happen. We lost four straight. Maybe the Yankees will."

But he couldn't bring any real conviction into his voice.

He has seen the Indians lose five out of six games since last Sept. 14, three of them to the Tigers.

Lane said he had "reasonable assurance" his resignation will be accepted. Chuck Comiskey, Mrs. Comiskey's son and Sox vice president, said acceptance of the resignation is a "foregone conclusion."

Mrs. Comiskey has made no comment.

Lane is quitting because of a long feud with Chuck Comiskey, which burst into the open after Chuck criticized the general manager for a scene in Comiskey Park.

BUC SPEEDSTER CAN REALLY TRAVL

More so than ever, football coaches around the country are placing emphasis on speed rather than brawn. Thus is the situation at the East Carolina camp. The Pirates' first-string backfield can travel the 50 yards in an averaged 6.77 seconds. That's picking 'em up and laying 'em down in anybody's league.

Next in actual speed is Bobby Perry, a home-grown Greenville boy. The 160-pound scabback can scoot over the 50 in 5.8 seconds.

Last season Perry played a lot of ball in reservist roles. He carried 26 times for 103 yards and a 4½ average. He crossed the double stripes once and snagged one forward pass. He led the team in kickoff returns, bringing back two for 56 markers. He was second in punt returns, having trotted back three for 49 yards, 16.2 yards a clip.

Perry is the type of back you can only measure under fire. "He never reaches his maximum speed and ability until he is pushed," Boone explained. "His performance depends on the competition. The tougher the foe, the better the performance."

BOADO LIKES TO BE HEMMED

The other real speed-merchant in the backfield is Wilmington's Emo Boado. The fiery senior is the most shifty of the backs and is greatly effective in tight line play. He covers the 50 in 5.9 but his get-away speed is really his biggest weapon. The little fireball is not-d around the conference for his ability to give you a hip and take it away so fast you fall flat on your face.

Last season he led the club in punt returns with 11 for 190 yards and was high in all offensive departments. He scored twice and ate up 180 yards rushing. He caught six aerials for 11 yards and returned one kickoff for eight.

His most outstanding performance in 1954 was against Lenoir Rhyne. He darted 56 yards to set up the Pirates' only score for a 7-6 win. In all other games, he managed to bring the crowd to its feet at least once with thrilling scampers.

TRACK STARS

Henderson, Perry and Boado were all members of East Carolina's first track team that dubbed North Carolina State 58-55 in its initial intercollegiate meet. Henderson has never been beaten in the 100-yard dash and beaten only once in the 220 high hurdles. He has run the dash in 9.9 and better.

But the Pirates' speed lies not only in the above-mentioned trio. The other two members of the first string backfield, Dick Cherry and Harold O'Kelly can run the 50 in a remarkable 5.8.

In 1954, the entire first eleven averaged a phenomenal 6.15 for the 50-yard dash . . . and all the real heavy men are gone this year!

RAE FOLEY

Death of Roger Brindle, an extremely popular syndicate newspaper columnist, opens new chapters in the lives of those whom he wrote so well. He leaves his young widow, Carol, and an entourage of persons whom he had befriended. Carol learns that Roger left her more than five thousand dollars. When he learns from his wife, Bessie, that Roger's first wife, Jane, has come to Stoweville for the funeral, Albert Kibbee, one of those befriended by Roger, refuses to see her. Bessie expresses the hope that Carol will get rid of Joe Hatery and Ethel Hatery, another couple whom Roger had helped. Carol tells Shandy Stowe, descendant of an old village family that she has received a cryptic note regarding Roger's death.

CHAPTER FIVE

Shandy was silent for a long time. The woman watched the fading scars become suddenly sharp on his cheeks. His jaw had a rigid look as though his teeth were clamped hard together. At length he said noncommittally, "We don't know what kind of person anyone might be." Their eyes met and then they looked away. "Carol, why don't you take a trip some where, go off for awhile?"

"No money," she said briefly. "My lawyer was just here. Roger left only five thousand dollars and I don't even know when I can touch that."

"If I can help—but you know that."

"Yes, I know. I can't imagine what I would do without you, Shandy." She waited for a reply which did not come. She stirred uneasily. "I'm glad I never had to find out. And yet—why you go on living in this place when you could afford to live anywhere—"

Her eyes demanded an answer. Shandy looked around. "What's the matter with this?"

He, mouth twisted, Carol was accustomed to having her demands met immediately and Shandy was proving difficult. "You've let vines grow up around the windows. Your furniture is stuffed and it needs to be reupholstered. The whole cottage should be done over, repainted, refurnished."

He said indifferently, "I hadn't noticed. You are probably right."

"I'll redecorate it for you," she offered eagerly.

His dark eyes searched her face with alert speculation and then they were opaque again. "Let's worry about your problems, Carol, not about mine. We've got to solve your money difficulties first. How much—"

Carol leaned back in the big chair one hand plucking at the worn slipcover. Shandy watched her through half-closed eyes. For the first time in her life she was driven to thinking. Always before she had evaded the unpleasant. He wondered how she would cope with it now. He was pleased to find that, in spite of the strength of his physical attraction for him, he could watch her with detachment.

"Later," she said. "But in a little place like this—if I took money from you now—the way the people in the bank talk—and someone would be bound to be unkind."

The impassive face revealed none of his grim amusement. "Anyhow, she went on, 'a woman called me. A literary agent. She offered me ten thousand dollars to write some articles about Roger.'"

For a moment Shandy enjoyed the thought of Carol Brindle writing articles. "That would be a big job," he cautioned her.

"That or another," she said almost angrily. "I tell you there's nothing left. Roger squandered everything he had on all these worthless 'anyhow' she became aware of the unpleasant sound of her own voice and automatically it became soft and lazy again. "Anyhow, they'll send a woman on the fifteenth to help me get it all down. She's a widow and very respectable but I don't want a stranger prying around the house just now."

Shandy's eyes opened wide and closed quickly. "She might be company for you."

The yellow eyes were on his face now, fixed and unblinking like a cat's. "I was hoping you'd do that," she said plainly. "Mrs. Fleming would just be an outsider."

"ho?" Shandy's face stiffened although his voice did not lose its detachment.

"Mrs. Lois Fleming. You know, Shandy. I think I'll put her in Roger's cottage. She'll be out of the way there and it would be morbid to keep the place locked up. As soon as when they took Roger away I locked the door. But if I leave it like that it will be haunted by his death. And, anyhow, it will have to be put in order. After a stranger has lived there for awhile it will be easier to go back; the place will have different associations." A long shudder ran down her body. She got to her feet, her eyes on the crumpled sheet of his said hand. "Are you sure it is all right?"

He did not look at her. "I'll handle it."

"Who did it? Who wondered about the way he died?"

"God knows."

"No one could—make a n y trouble could they?"

As the color bled from his face the fear appeared again. "There's nothing to be afraid of. Doc Thomas is in love with you or didn't you know?"

She smiled faintly. "I guessed." She rested her tawny head against him. "Shandy," her voice was pitched against his chest. Her hands clutched at him. His arms hung at his sides. She stepped back.

For a moment she was a blurred figure in the doorway walking toward the door. She walked across the wide lawn toward the gracious white house, a slim, black-robed woman moving with feline grace.

Shandy watched until the side door of the house closed behind her, his right hand deep in his pocket, clenched around the crumpled message. Then he too went outside but not across the stretch of emerald green lawn. He plunged into the trees that climbed a hill behind his cottage. When he was tired tramping, he sat on the stump of a tree and looked down through a clearing onto the white colonial house set in its deep lawn, with four small cottages scattered over the grounds. And beyond was the village with its slim church spire thrusting up among the trees.

Lo's Fleming. The syllables beat remorselessly on Shandy's nerves, like the ticking of a watch, the dripping water from a faucet. Lo's Fleming.

How long was it since he had seen her, heard from her? Six years? Seven? This government had assigned him to help her find her husband, who was reported missing and who had in his possession essential information. They had never got that information; instead they had learned how well he had kept it and how he had died to protect it. Even then, with the barrier of the man's death between them, with a fiancée of his own awaiting him, he had known that what he felt for her he could feel for no other woman. Even then he had known what the future could be if he were to meet her under other circumstances. Now at last she was coming. He found a grim humor in the situation.

"Kismet," said Shandy Stowe.

Terrorists Brake Morocco Economy

By CARL HARTMAN

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—French farmer Pierre Robin won't bottle much wine this year. Terrorists burned 200 of his vines the other night, within 10 miles of Casablanca.

Moroccan textile importer Babi Berrada won't be doing any business at all. Terrorists shot him down at the door of his home for disobeying their boycott of French goods.

French officials say terrorists have actually destroyed only a tiny part of Morocco's great potential wealth. But the terrorists obviously hope the French will be frightened enough to pull out. Some are doing just that. Others are pressing Paris for a "tough" policy to protect themselves.

If the nationalists get a start on their rule they may be able to halt the terrorists. It will be some time, though, until businessmen get their confidence back.

France has made great strides in developing Morocco's wealth. Visitors are always struck by the skyscrapers gleaming white under the African sun. But a few hundred yards away they can find some of the world's most wretched slums, built of scrap lumber and old tin cans. There is plenty of building to do.

Outside the cities farm and mineral wealth are only beginning to be tapped by modern methods. Many thousands of potentially fertile acres await irrigation. The Khourigba phosphate mines, heavily damaged by nationalist saboteurs last month, are among the world's greatest. Coal, iron, zinc, lead, cobalt, antimony and manganese are also among major exports.

The nine million inhabitants of Morocco have an annual income equal to not much more than a billion and a half dollars. The half million European colonists who have a large share of this sum are already avid buyers of foreign goods. The Moroccans would doubtless imitate them if they had the means.

But instead of developing Morocco's economy is stagnating. Fearing taxation and nationalization in France, many French businessmen sent them away to North Africa after World War II. Since terrorism started to develop in Morocco 2½ years ago, the movement has shifted in the other direction.

Production and exports are holding up fairly well, but imports from France are down. Tourism has few attractions in times like these.

Israeli Troops Refuse To Move

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Israeli troops clung today to a section of the Negev Desert demilitarized zone, refusing to leave until Egyptians quit two posts they allegedly hold in the area. Egypt denied it holds the posts.

Gen. Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, United Nations trustee supervisors' chief in Palestine, reported to U.N. headquarters that 70 Israeli troops had taken up positions yesterday in the Nizana sector of the demilitarized zone, 50 miles due south of Egyptian-held Gaza.

Burns lodged a strong protest with the Israeli Foreign Ministry.

Farm Income For 1954 Shows Rise

RALEIGH (AP)—With tobacco leading the way, North Carolina farmers received nearly 23 million dollars more for their livestock and crops last year than in 1953.

The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service reported yesterday that the total cash income from farm crops and livestock was $927,823,000. Tobacco brought in $497,287,000. Cotton and cottonseed accounted for $76,820,000.

Poultry products totaled $190,910,000, while income from dairy products amounted to $55,528,000 and hogs $52,270,000.

The total for all crops was $705,849,000. Livestock sales amounted to $221,974,000.

Guard Erred In Looking Outside

RENO, Nev. (AP)—William P. Oell's tool shed had been broken into twice in recent weeks so he armed himself with a pistol and an automatic shotgun and settled down to spend the night in the shed. But he made the mistake of stepping outside for a while. When he returned, the pistol and rifle were gone, along with an electric grinder. They're still looking for the burglar.

Long Search To Find 'The Little Rascals'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sometimes you really have to work to make a buck in this town.

Take a fellow like Mel Schlank. He had been an agent in Hollywood for many years. Sometimes his 10 per cent from the clients' labors mounted up. Sometimes it didn't. Lately the moola wasn't rolling in.

He started thinking. As anybody in show business knows, one of the most profitable sidelines is the tie-up industry.

Nearly every TV star appealing to kids does it. You see Howdy Doody on cereal boxes, Guy Madison on cereal boxes, Davy Crockett on everything.

But Schlank reasoned, one of the most popular shows on TV had no tie-ups. That was The Little Rascals.

The reason was obvious. Hal Roach made the comedy shorts 20 years ago. He sold them to a TV distributor after the war to get his studio out of hock. Now the child stars in the comedies have grown up and scattered.

His first objective was Spanky McFarland. He was located in Texas, where he had gone after an unsuccessful comeback try in Hollywood. Schlank convinced him to return again and signed him up for tie-ups as well as acting.

"I went after Alfalfa Switzer next," Schlank recalled.

Alfalfa had become a bear hunting guide in Northern California, then returned to Hollywood for a couple of roles. He married and retired to a farm in Kansas. Schlank located him there through a casting director who knew him.

"Next came Daria Hood," the agent said. "She was the easiest to find, because she had been working in Jimmy McHugh's night club act. But because she was the only one still active in show business, she was the hardest to sell."

But he signed her and went on to his greatest challenge, finding Buckwheat Thomas.

"I tried several leads, but they all failed," Schlank remarked. "Finally I got his social security number through MGM and located his mother."

"His mother was suspicious and didn't want to tell me anything. Finally she told me that he was in the Army at Ft. Lewis, Washington."

Schlank enlisted the Army brass in the search for Buckwheat; and finally reached him.

"Now we're ready to make deals for all kinds of merchandise," Schlank said.

Fifty-Fourth Session Of OES Is Held Here

The Fifty-fourth Annual Session of the Grand Chapter Order of Eastern Star of North Carolina, affiliated with the Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge Free and Accepted Masons of North Carolina convened in the beautiful and spacious auditorium of the historic York Memorial A.H.E. Zion Church, located on Albemarle Avenue, Greenville, N.C., Rev. P. H. Mumford, minister, on September 5, 6, and 7.

Ladies Delight Chapter No. 10, Pride of the East Chapter No. 524, Mrs. Willa G. Williams, District Deputy assisted by Brother Masons acted jointly as host to the Grand Chapter Session and put forth every effort possible to make the stay of the huge delegation a most pleasant and lucrative one.

Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock the Grand Chapter assembled to commemorate the passing of deceased members who had passed to the "Great Beyond" since the last Grand Chapter, Rev. A. C. Cook, Grand Chaplain, presided at this session. Rev. J. McNewkirk, State Grand Lecturer, delivered the eulogy.

Tuesday morning, at eleven o'clock the Grand Chapter assembly joined in singing "Holly Holly" after which the Grand Officers marched to a musical composition rendered by Mrs. Daisy Erwin, Grand Organist.

Grand Patron Charles Costener, Gastonia, presented the mallet of authority to Worthy Grand Matron Mrs. Maggie L. Strong, Ayden, and the Grand Chapter was opened in ritualistic order.

Grand Worshipful Master of Masons C. D. Carnes, Mrs. Carnes and G. E. Moore, Grand Treasurer, were escorted to the rostrum as special guests. The Worthy Grand Matron was presented to deliver her Annual Grand Message.

Mrs. Strong expressed profound gratitude and appreciation to the Grand Body for the very fine cooperative spirit of refined sisterly and brotherly love that had existed throughout the Jurisdiction during the year.

The speaker declared that through this fine spirit of cooperation this Grand and Noble Order has grown both financially and numerically.

Mrs. Strong's Grand Chapter proclamation urged the assembled delegation to pledge anew their support to the Oxford Orphanage, Sallie Evans and James E. Shepard Fund.

Mrs. Corinne Pickenpack, State Grand Lecturer, Winston-Salem, held the immense delegation spell-bound as she delivered the most informative and instructive annual report ever to be delivered in the history of the Order of Eastern Star. She related in general the fundamental principles of the organization from the time of its inception.

"We are here today," declared the speaker, "to review the activities of our work as to counseling together for the upbuilding of our beautiful Order, to gain inspiration and knowledge for the future welfare, prosperity, and happiness of our subordinates throughout our Jurisdiction, to strengthen the bond of fraternal friendship, and to go forth with a new vision for the great work that we are striving to do."

In her message the speaker urged that all our instructions be in accord with the ideas and teaching of the Order. This message was highly appraised and received with much applause.

Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock, the program of welcome was given. Mr. Jessie W. Williams Jr., Worthy Patron, of host Chapter Pride of the East No. 254 presiding. The Grand Body was extended a most hearty and cordial welcome from religious, educational, civic and professional business enterprises throughout the city including a welcome from Mr. James H. Hughes, city manager. Music for this occasion was furnished by the York Memorial Gospel Chorus.

The Brides Contest, crowning of "Miss Eastern Star" of North Carolina Jurisdiction, under the supervision of Mrs. Fannie T. Newsome, Rich Square, Worthy Matron of No. 7 District and chairman of the Brides Committee was indeed an interesting feature of the program of the evening. There were sixteen districts represented in the contest.

District No. 10 — Mrs. Erma L. Pittman, Burlington, District Deputy, Mrs. Beala Baldwin, Prospect Chapter No. 379—Durham, District Bride, won the crown and title of "Miss Eastern Star," with the amount of $1,100.00.

District No. 7—Mrs. Addie B. Byrd, Rocky Mount, District Deputy, Mrs. Zeophia Castelow, Good Will Chapter No. 567, Woodland, District Bride, won second prize with the amount of $594.00.

District No. 6—Mrs. Willa G. Williams, Greenville, District Deputy, Mrs. Aila Mae Joyner, Sunbeam Chapter No. 49, Farmville, District Bride, third prize with the amount of $396.00.

Total receipts from the Brides Contest—$3,755.36. At the close of the contest the delegates were escorted to the Eppep High School where a lovely banquet was given with a delectable menu to the satisfaction of all present. This closed the activities for the evening.

Reports of the various committees, presentation of gifts and election of officers highlighted Wednesday, the closing day session.

The presentation committee, Mrs. Lucy Bullock, Mrs. Nora Bailey, Mrs. Lucy Hines, and Mrs. Temple Saunders, all of Rocky Mount, which represented Rose Bud Chapter No. 29, Prince Hall Chapter No. 362, District No. 7, and Matron's Administrative Council District No. 7, in a very impressive Grand Matron, a gorgeous corsage of one-dollar bills entwined with a lovely spray of white gladioli, a hand painted plaque in the colors of the Order which bore an inscription of five milestones of progress for the five years of untiring services rendered as Worthy Grand Matron of the Jurisdiction of North Carolina.

Mrs. A. B. Byrd of Rocky Mount was also presented a corsage of one-dollar bills and white gladioli as a token of love and esteem for outstanding achievements she has made and is still making as Grand District Deputy of No. 7 District.

Officers elected—Mrs. Maggie L. Strong, Ayden, was re-elected Worthy Grand Matron, Charlotte, W. Costner, Gastonia, Worthy Grand Patron; Mrs. Barbara J. Taylor, Cleveland, Worthy Grand Associate Matron; Clark S. Brown, Winston-Salem, Worthy Grand Associate Patron; Mrs. Rhoena B. Brown, Washington, Grand Treasurer; Lillian E. McDonnell, High Point, Grand Secretary; Rev. C. W. Lawrence, Greensboro, Grand Benevolent Secretary; Mrs. F. J. Harris, Salisbury, Grand Condustrass; Mrs. Lillian Duers, Elizabeth City, Grand Associate Condustrass.

F. C. Hester, Washington, installed the officers with a most impressive installation ceremony. This closed a very successful Grand Chapter session.

"We are here today," declared the speaker, "to review the activities of our work as to counseling together for the upbuilding of our beautiful Order, to gain inspiration and knowledge for the future welfare, prosperity, and happiness of our subordinates throughout our Jurisdiction, to strengthen the bond of fraternal friendship, and to go forth with a new vision for the great work that we are striving to do."

In her message the speaker urged that all our instructions be in accord with the ideas and teaching of the Order. This message was highly appraised and received with much applause.

Tuesday morning, at eleven o'clock the Grand Chapter assembly joined in singing "Holly Holly" after which the Grand Officers marched to a musical composition rendered by Mrs. Daisy Erwin, Grand Organist.

Two New, And Good, TV Programs Begin

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—There are almost as many debuts in television these days as at the debutantes' cotillion. You can't romance all maybe by Christmas we'll have danced with most of them.

Two new programs, spotted one after the other on CBS-TV this week, presented the Army and the Navy.

You'll Never Get Rich, starring Phil Silvers as M. Sgt. Ernie Bilko, bids fair to be the most hilarious comedy series of the new season. This show offers about 10 million a little stouter in the girth now, the opportunity to seat their wives before the set and say, "This is just the way it was, dear, before they shipped me over."

You'll Never Get Rich concerns the peculations and chicaneries of Sgt. Bilko, a swiftable charlatan who concerns both naive and knowing men in the Army. By understatement rather than belaboring, it warmly tells all mothers whose sons face the draft that their boys may lose a little money in camp but they'll gain much knowledge of life.

It was a risky theme to tackle, for the series could collect every cliché of the century. But it doesn't. Thanks to Nat Hiken, who wrote the script and directed the show at the studio, and thanks especially to Phil Silvers, this is grand entertainment.

While You'll Never Get Rich is basically a pretty realistic — or doughfoot's — view of life in the service, Navy Log, a good official view, Navy Log, a good program, presents carefully documented and beautifully photographed studies of various aspects of life in the U.S. Navy.

The first program was an exciting dramatization of the work of frogmen. Specifically it showed an underwater demolition team working out of a submarine in Korean waters. Civilians played the frog roles, but the program had full Navy cooperation.

Godfrey Flying Case Referred To Legal Body
CHICAGO (AP)—The case of whether Arthur Godfrey flew too close to an airliner in his private plane has been turned over to the Civil Aeronautics Administration's legal section at Kansas City.

Harry Troxell, CAA investigator in Chicago said the file, including Godfrey's formal reply to charges, was forwarded to Kansas City yesterday "for whatever action" the legal section "finds necessary."

Ozark Airlines complained to the CAA that Godfrey flew his DC3 plane within 100 feet of an Ozark passenger plane shortly after both took off from Chicago's Midway Airport Sept. 7.

Godfrey denied to newsmen that he flew too close to the airliner. He said he merely "waggled" his wings in a greeting and that there was no danger of a collision.

JOHNSTON, S.C. (AP)—Johnston, population about 2,000, has never had a traffic fatality as far as anyone seems to know.

Also, no one ever has been hurt seriously in the comparatively rare accidents here, it is believed.

The records came to light when the Junior Chamber of Commerce undertook to put up a sign on Main Street telling the number of days since the last traffic accident and last fatality.

The JC's traced the records back 13 years without finding a single person killed or seriously hurt. So 13 years is the time put on the sign.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Price rises—starting at the production level in the summer—are now popping out on consumer items. Testing time lies just ahead.

Automobiles, gasoline, television sets, hats, floor tiles—one or more "hot" in these fields have raised prices this week. And the parade of higher prices continues in fields that consumers encounter only indirectly and later on after the boosts raise production costs.

Electric transformers, oil field equipment, bleached sulphite pulp, nickel-chromium alloys.

Testing time will come when the consumer reacts. Manufacturers argue that prices must go up because the cost of labor and industrial materials have gone up. Retailers argue that one of the chief reasons for the booming demand for consumer goods has been price paring—that the demand could shrivel under the frost of higher prices this fall.

The consumer's first interest is likely to be in the higher price tags on the 1956 model cars.

Ford is taking the first step. Its new Fords will be higher by from $46 to $99. Its Lincoln already have been raised.

Others in the industry haven't announced yet. But many expect price hikes of roughly 5 per cent.

The Hat Corp. of America and the John B. Stetson Co. are raising prices on some of their hats, although not all. This follows the doubling of prices of hatter's fur in world markets because of a shortage.

But some of the price news this week makes good reading for the consumer.

Heavy supplies of meat pouring into Midwest markets have been lowering wholesale prices there. The Agriculture Department estimates that the meat supply is currently 14 per cent greater than a year ago.

And the National Assn. of Tobacco Distributors says there are still lots of five cent cigars. It reports that 38 per cent of all cigars sold in the United States are of that old standby. They're topped, however, by ten-cent smokes—41 per cent of all sales.

Mink Blue Jeans For A Stylish Cowboy At Hand

By JULIUS GOLDEN
ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Lavy Crockett, as any red-blooded American boy knows, had his fur cap.

And it seems that every woman, as many a hard-working spouse knows, dreams of a fur coat.

Well, men, your day has come. When the little woman shouts for the fur and the young'un choruses for a genuine Davy Crockett coonskin cap, draw yourself up proudly, give 'em a stoney-eyed stare, and proclaim:

"Now look here! I haven't even paid the first installment on my mink blue jeans. My jeweled cowboy buckle is being readied and what good would that be without my six pairs of cowboy boots—a pretty $1,000 a pair."

This year, at the New Mexico State Fair, ranchers will have a chance to see a $10,000 wardrobe for the cowboy (at least they're billed that way, even if rodeo queens do wear them). The mink jeans have been making the rounds of the country at the biggest state fairs. But Simon Goldman, who sets up the display in the dairy building, added the rest for a complete ensemble.

"I wanted something real unusual and outstanding," he said. "I'll probably have to hire a couple of gunnie."

The entire outfit is valued at $10,000. The blue jeans, costing $3,800, are lined with silk.

"They had to get 22 matched skins to make the blue jeans," Goldman said. "You have to admit, they're luxurious if you like mink."

The cowboy buckle, made entirely of gold and silver and richly studded with jewels, was fashioned by a silversmith. It costs $1,000. The boots come in sets of six.

Germany Expects 600 Prisoners

HANOVER, Germany (AP)—Six hundred German war prisoners are expected to return to Germany from Russia this weekend, welfare officials disclosed here today.

They are the first of 9,626 prisoners which Premier Nikolai Bulganin promised the West and East German governments to release.

Some of the returnees may stop in East Germany at former homes. Most, however, are expected to continue to West Germany.

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa Fair Bureau has approved a plan to reduce agricultural production, raise farm prices and combat surpluses. The plan would cost the government about a billion dollars a year.

Drafted by E. Howard Hill, Iowa bureau president it will be presented to an American Farm Bureau meeting in Chicago next week.

It calls for government leasing of up to 20 per cent of farmlands for five years, with the land being seeded with soil-building crops. This is one of the proposed solutions to the farm problem now under consideration by the Eisenhower administration.
