French Cold Over Russian Vote On Algeria No Official Moscow Visit

PARIS (AP)—The French Foreign Office announced today the proposed visit of Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay to Moscow has been postponed. The announcement was made after Pinay had received the charge d'affaires of the Soviet Embassy to give him the news.

The Foreign Ministry said the French government thought it preferable to put off the visit to a later date. The explanation was that the government considers, in view of recent events in the United Nations and the reaction of French opinion, the atmosphere is not favorable now for a trip of this type.

The trip had been scheduled for Oct. 14-16.

Russia voted with the majority last Friday in the U. N. General Assembly to debate troubles in Algeria. France insists Algeria is an integral part of France and Assembly's debate about it would be a violation of the U. N. charter provision barring interference in the internal affairs of any member state.

As a result of the 29-27 vote, the French government withdrew its delegation to the Assembly, and also its permanent delegation, but kept one foot in the U. N. door.

The Cabinet last night announced withdrawal of its U. N. delegation and an end to participation in all activities of the international organization except those of the Security Council, its Disarmament Commission and subcommittee and its Military Staff Committee.

But the communists left the door open for France to return and avoided any mention of withdrawal from the U. N. as a whole. By remaining in the Security Council, France kept her preferred position as one of the five veto-holding permanent members.

The Cabinet also was reported to have approved plans of Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay to call off their visit to Moscow, planned for Oct. 14-16, because Russia cast a decisive vote in the Assembly to take up the Algerian question.

Announcement of this decision was reported withheld only until the Soviet ambassador could be notified.

The Cabinet, meeting in full-dress session with President Rene Coty in the chair, decided to withdraw the U. N. delegation after nine members of the delegation returned to Paris.

The U. N. Assembly's 29-27 vote to look into affairs in Algeria aroused the French fury because under France's constitution Algeria is an integral part of the nation, not a colonial territory.

France will not permit having its territorial integrity in Algeria today after a series of weekend guerrilla attacks in eastern Morocco and along the Spanish Moroccan border.

French authorities said 11 Europeans, including three women and two children, were slain in a Marmoucha attack, 65 miles southeast of Fez.

Several hundred Berbers in the band of 2,000 were reported killed before the tribesmen began their retreat in the face of French tanks, planes and troops. The tribesmen were friendly to the Sultan who left his throne Saturday.

Four other outposts defended by Moroccan in French uniform were attacked Saturday night and Sunday and two were temporarily given up by the French.

Officials said the post at Tizi Ouzi, a former fort of Abd el Krim in the 1925 Rif war, was still under attack, and another, Bou Zined, on the Spanish Moroccan frontier. Bou Zined is within the Spanish zone and is reached from the French zone only by an international road.

The outbreaks came on the heels of Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat's departure from his palace in Rabat to a villa in the international zone of Tangier.

His going was the first step in a French plan to meet the demands of nationalists in the turbulent protectorate, but he left new problems in his wake.

In leaving, Moulay Arafat delegated his seals of office to a cousin, Moulay Abdallah Ben Moulay Abdel Hafid. This apparently was a concession to French colonialists who had bitterly fought the government's ouster of the Sultan.

In an effort to quiet aroused nationalists, Pierre July, French minister for Moroccan and Tunisian affairs, termed the delegation of powers an "intermediate" step. The French resident general for Morocco, Gen. Pierre Boyer de Latour, in a broadcast asked all Moroccans to support Abdel Hafid "at the moment" as a symbol of unity.

Nationalists termed the Sultan's action illegal and urged that France go ahead immediately with its original plan of naming a three-member regency to take over powers of the throne.

The guerrilla attacks in the eastern Atlas Mountains and near the border with Spanish Morocco were the first serious outbreaks since the uprising of Berber tribesmen Aug. 20 in which more than 100 French and 1,000 Moroccans died.

Like the Aug. 20 attacks, the fighting over the weekend spread the violence to new rural areas. Moroccan nationalist activity previously has been confined to the major cities in the western part of the protectorate.

The biggest of the guerrilla strikes came at Imouzzer-des-Marmouchas a small outpost in the middle Atlas Mountains about 65 miles southeast of Fez.

Some 2,000 members of the Marmoucha Berber tribe swept down on the small garrison of 120 Moroccan troops serving in French uniform. The French tried to parachute in reinforcements but the tribesmen's ground fire prevented the drop.

The French last night reported troops "in some strength" had arrived overland and the battle raged into the night. When the reinforcements arrived, only 50 of the garrison were still able to fight.

Moroccan Tribesmen Retreat

Fall Back To Mountains After Guerrilla Attacks; Women, Children Slain

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—Berber tribesmen were reported in retreat in the Atlas Mountains today after a series of weekend guerrilla attacks in eastern Morocco and along the Spanish Moroccan border.

Anxiety Briefly Felt By Temporary Change Of Condition President Raises Concern

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower "slept soundly" for more than seven hours last night after his physicians had reported him "a little tired" and not feeling well as usual.

The doctor's bulletin at 8:55 p. m. Denver time Sunday stirred new anxiety over the chief executive's condition and brought to an abrupt end the string of encouraging reports which had come from the hospital bedside more than a week.

James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, announced a few minutes after 7 a. m. today that the bulletin usually issued at that hour would be delayed because the President was sleeping later than usual. Word came a few minutes later that he had awakened at 7:10 a. m.

From Fitzsimons Army Hospital, Hagerly sent this statement to newsmen:

"The President went to sleep last night at 8:45 p. m. He slept soundly until 4:25 a. m. when he awoke.

"At that time his temperature and pulse were checked and found to be normal.

"He went back to sleep within the half hour and is presently sleeping."

Hagerly explained that the President's physicians decided it would be best to awaken him to assure him maximum rest. Eisenhower received a sedative, second, before retiring for the night. No additional dose was given him when he awakened at 4:25 a. m.

Last night's bulletin said that the President is a little tired this evening and did not feel as well as usual. Otherwise his condition is good. His temperature, pulse and blood pressure are normal.

It was the 35th Fitzsimons Army Hospital bulletin on Eisenhower's condition since he entered there a week ago last Saturday—and the first, since the early hours after his "moderate" heart attack that day, that failed to report his "making satisfactory progress" "without complications."

Newsmen asked James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, whether the change in the President's condition could be considered a "setback."

"I am not going beyond what I said," Hagerly replied in allusion to the medical bulletin he has just read to reporters, or beyond "what the doctors have given me."

How would he say whether the change amounted to development of complications?

"How can I?" Hagerly asked. "All I can say is what is in the (medical) bulletin."

As soon as the change in Eisenhower's condition came, his hospital physicians telephoned Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, one of the world's foremost heart specialists.

"It makes us suspicious that there may be something behind it," the doctor said.

White, who flew to Denver to examine the President shortly after his attack and returned to Boston

Monday said in Belmont, Mass., last night that the chief executive "may be all right" by today.

"If he is not," said White, "they (the physicians in Denver) will have to make some studies to track down the trouble."

He added that the doctors at Fitzsimons had shown no alarm in reporting to him. It was one of the two daily calls the Denver doctors have been making to White who had been planning to come back here the weekend for a new check-up on Eisenhower's condition.

White said last night he had no plans to go to Denver sooner than Saturday.

Another purpose of White's scheduled return was to decide, in consultation with the other doctors, how to proceed. Eisenhower should be permitted during the rest of his hospital stay.

Last Friday night the physicians, with White's approval, permitted the President to sign two federal documents. It was the first business—minor, but significant—he had transacted since being hospitalized.

The doctors looked on that step as a morale booster for the President, and indicated Saturday that he probably would be allowed to sign more papers, sometime this week.

White and the other physicians have said, along with the first two weeks after Eisenhower's coronary thrombosis would be the critical period. They have said repeatedly that complications could come any time during those first 14 days.

They and folks all around the globe breathed a bit easier when Eisenhower safely passed the halfway mark on the hazardous road Saturday.

Yesterday the outlook still looked cheerful. A 7:15 a. m. bulletin reported—as had so many earlier ones—that he had spent "a very good night" and was continuing to "progress satisfactorily without complications."

A second bulletin at noon was in the same encouraging vein—condition satisfactory "without complications"—and the President enjoyed a good breakfast which included one of his favorite dishes, beef bacon.

That bulletin also reported Eisenhower again listened to record and music "and was reading new stories of the World Series and the Army-Penn State football game" of Saturday.

"He continues to be comfortable and cheerful," the doctors' midday report concluded.

At that time Hagerly told newsmen the evening bulletin would be issued about an hour earlier than usual—about 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m.

Nevertheless, it was about 7:30 p. m. when Hagerly showed up with the bulletin in the temporary White House press room at Lowry Air Force Base, about four miles from the hospital. By that time reporters were beginning to suspect that something might be up.

Many Pitt Children Missing Vaccine Salk Shot Interest Waning

Interest in the Salk polio vaccinations here seems to have waned with the passing of this year's polio season, according to reports from Pitt Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert and Medical Society Polio Committee Chairman Dr. G. Earl Trevathan Jr.

Dr. Humbert said today that only 12 children got their second inoculation of the vaccine at the make-up clinics held in Greenville and Farmville Saturday. This still leaves some 715 of last year's eligible first and second graders who have not taken the second shot.

In addition, Dr. Trevathan reports private physicians are giving less polio vaccinations than they had anticipated.

A total of 2,349 first and second graders took the first free shot when it was given in the schools in April. Approximately 80 per cent of this number, or 2,086, received the second inoculation last month.

Because a number of the eligible children were absent when the second shot was given, make-up clinics have been held for the past three Saturdays in both Greenville and Farmville. Only 44 youngsters have made up their shots.

In addition, the vaccine has been offered to a second priority age group, five through nine, at the clinics and in the offices of private physicians. Sixty-five youngsters in this group have gotten their first Salk vaccination at the clinics.

Dr. Humbert said this Saturday will be the last scheduled date for the polio vaccination clinics, and he urged that the remaining eligible children come to get their second shot.

Both Dr. Humbert and Dr. Trevathan declared that "this is the right time to be immunized for protection next spring." Dr. Trevathan pointed out that there seems to be no question by this time of the year that there will be plenty of vaccine available for all children under ten years of age to receive it, "but the important thing is that for any child to get expected protection for next summer, he should receive the vaccine this fall, longer it is put off, the less likelihood of sufficient protection."

The original vaccination schedule calls for an initial shot, a second inoculation two to four weeks after the first, and a third or booster shot seven months later.

If Peron Should Call, She'll Go

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—The newspaper O Globo today quoted the 16-year-old girl friend of exiled Juan D. Peron as declaring, "If he calls me, I will go anywhere in the world to be at his side."

Nelida Haydee Rivas, the school girl linked with the fallen dictator was interviewed by O Globo's Buenos Aires correspondent at her parents' home near Peron's weekend hideout in Olivios, a Buenos Aires suburb.

She told the reporter: "I am at the disposition of my great friend and benefactor, Peron. If he goes to Paraguay, as he said in the letters intercepted by the police, and if he calls me—wherever it be—I will go resolutely to make him happy for the rest of his life."

Nelida's connection with the former President was discovered through letters he wrote her after he had taken refuge on a Paraguayan gunboat.

Clung To Upset Boat 18 Hours

WASHINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A Rocky Mount man clung to a capsize boat for 18 hours after his fishing companion had drowned in an accident at the mouth of Pungo River yesterday.

Randolph Watson, a native of Edgecombe County, was reported in poor condition at the Pungo District Hospital in Belhaven suffering from exposure following his ordeal.

Volunteer searchers under the direction of Claude Selby, Beaufort County deputy sheriff, are dragging the waters near Oyster Creek for the body of a Negro man known only as "Willie."

Watson, who was rescued easily, said the accident occurred at 1 p. m. yesterday when the Negro stood up in the 14-foot plywood boat to put on a raincoat. The boat capsized, he said, and both men were dumped into the choppy waters. Watson told officers that after he had towed his companion back to the boat, the other man suddenly let go.

"He went under and I never saw him again," he said.

Though yesterday afternoon and last night the boat drifted some six miles down the river and was sighted this morning by John Foster, of Pamlico Beach near Oyster Creek on the south side of the Pamlico River.

Delegation Before Pitt Commissioners Today Farmville Asks Help On New Armory

By BOB HILLDRUP
Reflector Staff Writer

A delegation from Farmville, headed by State Legislator Walter Jones, this morning requested financial assistance from Pitt County Commissioners for the construction of a $100,000 armory in Farmville. No action was taken immediately.

Jones, in making the request, told the Commissioners that a Farmville armory would be an asset to a large rural area in that vicinity. He pointed out that the new National Guard unit there draws more than 50 per cent of its membership from outside the town and that the armory therefore would be serving more than the town itself.

In addition, Jones said the armory could be used for "conventions, recreation" and many other similar undertakings.

Financially, he said, the armory would cost about $100,000. Some $75,000 would come from the federal government, a maximum of $15,000 from the state government with the remainder to be raised in the area where the armory would be located.

Jones also said however, that the Farmville-Pitt County area would probably have to pay about $15,000 rather than the $10,000 left after federal and state allocations. This, he said, was due to the large number of requests from various towns for armories and therefore local groups might have to pay more than the bare minimum in order to insure receipt of the structure as soon as possible.

Farmville, Jones said, would provide the site for the building and $5,000. He asked that the commissioners provide $10,000.

Any money appropriated by the commissioners would not, however, come from this year's fiscal allocations. It would have to be set aside from the budget established next July.

In addition to hearing the four-man delegation from Farmville, the commissioners heard routine reports from county agencies, requests for rural drainage improvements and more welfare assistance.

Trio Took Wrong Turn, Landed In Hands Of Law Israeli Talk Arms-Buying

Three Greenville area Negroes took the wrong turn Saturday night and wound up in the hands of State Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry within three minutes after the patrolman had received a radio message describing the fugitives.

The three, a father and his two sons, were listed as Jimmy and Jessie Junior Williams, both 26 and their father, James Williams. They were being sought in connection with a gunfight a short time earlier in Robersonville.

Perry who was at the Circle Y on the Rutherford Highway, received a call about 10 p. m. describing the wanted men. Less than three minutes later a car fitting the description drove up and the officer placed all three in custody.

Earlier, the Williamses were alleged to have attempted to run down Robersonville Chief of Police William T. Smith. He sought to stop their car. They were wanted, he said, for questioning in connection with a gunfight in which Emanuel Stancil, 26, Negro, of Robersonville was shot in the leg on the town's main street.

When Smith, along with officers George Ross and Ed B. Donaldson, went to the scene, the Williamses jumped into a car and attempted to run. The officers fired at the fleeing vehicle but failed to stop it.

Three bullet holes, Perry said, were found in a front door and another in a rear fender.

Smith sent out a radio alarm as soon as the Williamses had escaped from the scene and minutes later they were apprehended by Perry.

Smith said that Jimmy Williams would be charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and assault on an officer; Jessie Junior Williams with assault with intent to kill and the boys' father, James Williams, with being an accessory to the charges against his sons.

The trio will be given a hearing at 7 p. m. tonight in Martin County Recorder's Court.

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP)—The Israeli government today forecast "additional arms purchases for the Israel army if reports regarding the great increase in arms supply for Egypt should prove to be true."

A communique issued after a Cabinet meeting emphasized the government's resolve to "take all necessary steps to increase the defense power of Israel" because "additional arms help about to be given" to the Egyptian army will still more increase the gap between Egypt's and Israel's military power and encourage Egypt to aggression against Israel.

CAIRO, Egypt—Egypt and Israel have finished pulling back their troops from the demilitarized El-Az-Sisiya zone, but the diplomatic front the battle words continued over Egyptian plans to buy Communist arms.

Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told military academy graduates in a speech that Egyptian intelligence had intercepted a message from the British Foreign Ministry to the British Foreign Office that Egypt would work to avoid aggression "but we have little confidence that Israel will follow the same policy."

There was no immediate comment from the British.

On the Israeli side, the Jewish nation's ambassador to the United States, Abba Eban, told an American television audience the United States should sell Israel arms "if the balance of power in the Middle East is going to be disturbed."

Moscow radio demanded the right of Egypt to buy arms wherever she chooses. A broadcast heard in London said the Soviet government had so informed Egypt, Czechoslovakia, from which the Egyptians plan to buy heavy arms. The West won't sell them, and Britain and the United States.

On this point, the Soviets and the American government were officially in agreement. Asst. U. S. Secretary of State George Allen told reporters in Cairo Saturday that "a sovereign nation has the right to get arms from any source." Allen is continuing his conferences with Egyptian officials and the British and French ambassadors here in an effort to persuade the Egyptians not to get their weapons from the Communist bloc.

Nasser in his speech blasted the U. S.-British-French promise to Three vehicles were damaged in a chain of collisions on a rural road three miles east of Ayden yesterday afternoon about 4 p. m.

Damage to the three vehicles amounted to approximately $550.

Final Round Of Policy Debate For United Nations Assembly

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly came back today for a final round of general policy debates with France and the green-tinted deck in the big Assembly hall empty in a protest gesture.

The French declared a boycott of the Assembly and its committees in protest against a 28-27 vote in the Security Council last week ordering a debate on French administration in Algeria.

France kept her permanent seat on the U. N. Security Council, along with its places on the Disarmament Commission and subcommittee and the council's Military Staff Committee.

Herve Alphand, French president of the council for October, flew home with Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and several others in the delegation appointed especially for the Assembly sessions. Others of the Assembly delegation planned to leave tonight.

Only Jules Moch and two aides working in the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee, were authorized to attend current meetings here. The French consider that the subcommittee meeting this afternoon for another session, is here because the Big Four summit parley, not the U. N., ordered it to meet in preparation for the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting scheduled to begin in Geneva Oct. 27.

Bitterness growing in the U. N.

since the glowing words that opened the meetings Sept. 20—crediting the San Francisco 10th anniversary sessions and the "spirit of Geneva" for good feeling—headed for another climax today.

French Ambassador Abba Eban, fresh from talks in Washington with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles about Soviet bloc arms promises to Arab countries, was prepared to bolster U. S. and British protests about such sales in Assembly policy debate.

Eban, in a television interview last night, criticized the sale by the Soviet Union of arms to Arab countries. He charged they would use them to crush Israel.

Dan Morgan is in charge of the bloodmobile operation there. Farmville physicians will assist in the program, and Miss Tabitha DeVisconti will be in charge of the canteen.

Musicians Are His Favorite Painting Subjects

Artist, model and portrait are caught by the cameraman as Walter Joseph Stell III, student artist at East Carolina College, works on an oil painting of Frances Smith, college senior. Stell, who paints portraits as a hobby, is studying art at the college with the idea of becoming a commercial artist. He seems to prefer musicians as subjects and has painted "for fun" likenesses of Dr. Elwood Keister and Dr. Robert Carter of the East Carolina department of music and of James Rodgers, director of the Greenville High School Band. A sophomore at the college, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stell, Jr., of Greenville. Miss Smith, a soprano, has had leading roles in "Blossom Time" and "Brigadoon," musical productions staged by the college Student Government Association. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Smith of Robersonville. Both Miss Smith and Mr. Stell are members of the East Carolina Choir and other campus music organizations. (East Carolina News Bureau Photo by J. D. Henry)

Royal Romance Being Discussed

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Sketch said today that weekend talks between Prime Minister Eden and Princess Margaret may lead to a public statement about her rumored romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend. It added that if such a statement had been decided on, it would be issued only after consultation with commonwealth dominions. Margaret, 25 in August, is now free under British law to marry the divorced, 40-year-old Royal Air Force officer without permission of the Queen. But as "protector" of the Church of England which frowns on the remarriage of divorced persons the Queen could hardly grant such permission to her sister.

Oriental Art Is Exhibited Here

Chinese prints, Oriental dolls in native costume and brightly-colored baskets decorated with Chinese figures are among the art objects now on display at the art gallery. The exhibit also includes a number of ivories. Some of the items are for sale. (Reflector Photos by Edwina Haynes).

These Japanese water colors are among the Oriental paintings now on display at the Sheppard Memorial Library art gallery, which has just reopened for the fall season. These paintings, along with Chinese works and other objects of Eastern art, have been loaned to the gallery by Mrs. Mary Savage Crosthwaite of Washington, D. C., former Greenville resident.

The local art gallery at Sheppard Memorial Library has reopened for the fall with an exhibit of Chinese paintings, ivories and other art objects from the Orient. The exhibit represents a collection gathered by Mrs. Mary Savage Crosthwaite, a former Greenville resident, who has lived for some time in Hong Kong with her husband, whose business is there. Art gallery director, Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, described the paintings as original works by well-known Chinese artists depicting such subjects as natives in costumes, flowers, birds, tropical fish and animals. In addition there are carved buddhas, elephants, horses and other objects in ivory, as well as dolls in native costumes. There are some colorful Japanese water colors, a handmade tapestry from Java and a few objects from India. Mrs. Moore said a number of the items are for sale. The art gallery is open Monday through Saturday from 2 until 5:30 p.m.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Like most expectant parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tempalski pondered on the name they would select. Finally, they decided if it was a boy they'd name him Michael, Matthew or John. They used all three names as Mrs. Tempalski gave birth to triplet sons on Labor Day.

Pilot Killed In Reservoir Crash

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Rescue teams probed the muddy waters of a reservoir today for the body of a B-57 demonstration pilot who swooped to his death as more than 1,000 picnickers at an Air Force barbecue gasped in horror. John Birt, 28, was demonstrating the plane just above the treelops yesterday when one of his two jet engines failed and the craft skidded into the 20-foot-deep Yuma Air Base reservoir. He worked for the Martin Aircraft Co. of Baltimore, manufacturers of the craft. He was the only one aboard. The barbecue was being held to celebrate the Air Force's world wide rocketry shootoff, which began today.

Eggs Hatched With Tape's Aid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Add to the imposing list of scientific tools and complicated equipment of a wild game biologist: gummed tape. Roy Hunt of the Conservation Department's Mason game farm was brought a clutch of wild turkey eggs that had been run over by a mowing machine. Several had been broken, but Hunt fastened the shells back in place with tape. And five of eight eggs, including two of those taped, hatched into healthy poults.

New Suspicions Aimed At Smog

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—New suspicion was directed toward smog today as a factor in lung cancer. A top researcher reported he had produced lung malignancies in mice by forcing the animals to breathe synthetic smog. This researcher, Dr. Paul Kotin of the University of Southern California, previously produced experimental skin cancer in mice with hydrocarbons taken from smoggy air. The new results of this work, reported to the California Division of the American Cancer Society, fall far short of incriminating smog as the actual cause of human lung cancer. But someday, Dr. Kotin said, polluted air may be tagged as one of the chief causes.

Eisenhower Unlikely To Run Risks

If questions about President Eisenhower's possible candidacy for re-election have lingered since his heart attack, they should have been dispelled by the recent statement of one of the nation's leading heart specialists.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, who has been attending President Eisenhower said the other day when asked about the possibility of the President's seeking re-election:

"Many things are possible that may not be advisable. It is up to him to make the decision. He may or may not have complete recovery. If I were in his shoes I would not want to run again, having seen the strain."

Patriotic as he is, we do not believe President Eisenhower would run the risk of intentionally committing suicide by undertaking another presidential campaign. Though he may outlive many of the potential candidates now maneuvering for Presidential nominations, we believe he would consider it unfair to the American voters to seek re-election knowing full well that another heart attack might cut short his life at any moment.

Frankly, we think Mr. Eisenhower already has made up his mind about the 1956 campaign. We've had the notion that Mr. Eisenhower had decided not to seek re-election even before he suffered the heart attack. Nevertheless, we do not expect him to announce for several months at least his intentions.

Reforestation Work In State Is Gaining Ground

North Carolina is getting somewhere with its reforestation program is the number of seedlings being planted in any indication of progress being made.

So far this year the state has received orders for more than twice as many tree seedlings as it did last year. The state has reported orders for more than 22 million seedlings this year compared with orders for slightly less than 11 million during the same period last year.

Woodland is becoming an increasingly important agricultural crop in North Carolina. Once heavy growths of timber spread throughout the Tar Heel State from the mountains to the sea. Over many decades the vast supply of timber was cut, sawed into lumber, and the cut-over woodland left to nature for restoration.

Fortunately for North Carolina the picture is now changing. Agricultural leaders have long since realized that our supply of standing timber has reached a critical low. Their realization has been impressed upon farmers throughout the state, and gradually an impressive reforestation and forest management program is being developed throughout the state.

Through this program thousands of acres of marginal land, unfit for other crops, have been put to work growing the money crop of timber. It remains a fact, however, that there are still thousands of idle acres of land in North Carolina which could profitably be planted and cultivated as timber land.

We wonder whether Pitt County is giving sufficient attention to its own reforestation program. Pitt has made progress in this direction within the past few years, but it has a long way to go to catch up with the pace set by other counties which have placed a great deal of emphasis on reforestation.

Nobody Enjoys Steady Harping About Safety

Maybe newspaper readers get tired of editorials about the staggering toll of motor vehicle accidents and the bloody American saga of death on the highways.

If it's any consolation, editorial writers get tired of writing such editorials too.

Nevertheless we cannot overlook the fact that American motorists are killing and maiming more people than by all logical reasoning seems necessary. So far this year the number of highway deaths across the country stands at a thousand more than for the first eight months of last year. Twenty three thousand, four hundred seventy people were killed in motor vehicle accidents from January through August, this year. And with shorter days and worse weather in the latter months of the year, we are entering the period in which the traffic toll normally climbs at a higher rate.

All sorts of programs have been undertaken to impress the need for greater caution on highways. New law enforcement devices have been put to use, more officers put on patrol duty, and many high pressure educational campaigns launched. These, of course, have made some contribution toward the goal which is desired.

In spite of all these efforts, it still remains the primary responsibility of the guy behind the wheel to prevent and avoid traffic accidents. When every driver individually accepts this responsibility with the proper degree of seriousness, we will have won a major round in the battle to reduce highway slaughter.

With the probability that he will not be the GOP standard bearer next year, President Eisenhower will find it difficult enough to whip Republican members of Congress into full support of whatever program he offers to Congress in January. So long as he allows his future political intentions to remain a matter of conjecture, he may be able to retain some support from those who would otherwise line up behind another potential candidate.

The Other Side Of Storm-Relief Delay

Now the government folks are complaining about lack of cooperation on part of the people who need help.

True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture, pointed out at a recent conference in Governor Hodges' office that government officials are responsible to the Congress and the people for their handling of public funds. Regulations are necessary and loans or gifts however be section of accurate information as to need. Such information is mighty slow coming in.

The Governor told newsmen that he had been advised by agents of the agriculture department and FHA that requested data has not been received from a number of communities.

Trouble may still be with government folks near the bottom of the line rather than with individual farmers and business men. A lot of the little people don't know how to process applications. Apparently welfare workers are spending long hours on the job, but the task is so big they just haven't gotten around to certifying recipients of free food which is ready for distribution.

Farmers Home and Small Business administrations have relaxed rules, one of the main demands of State officials, but still few applications are being received. This situation obviously is not the fault of the government at Washington which, considering the magnitude of the project, seems to have moved fairly well needs of hurricane sufferers. It is up to the local people to speed action.

SEER TROUBLE - Resignation of Kyle Matthews, chief of the malt beverage section of the State ABC board, and the promise by ABC Chairman Tom Allen that he expects to overhaul the entire division, represent only a part of the trouble the beer folks are having. There are changes brewing in the industry's own promotional and policing agencies.

Much of the trouble stems from the divided authority of municipal authority for licensing retail beer outlets. Matthews said one group in the industry wants to close nearly all the outlets, another group doesn't want them distributed.

In several counties wine sales are handled by the local ABC board in the same manner as liquor although beer is not connected with ABC. Less complaints come from these areas than from others. ABC boards generally do not want the responsibility, contending that distilled liquors are in different category from beer and wine. Some county men suggested that they would better to double the malt beverage and wine sections from the state ABC board rather than combine them with local boards.

CLUB ROOMS - Testimony to the increasing leisure time business and professional men have for recreation is the upsurge of improvements and enlargement in social club facilities. Raleigh Elks Lodge is considering a $75,000 building on site of its present home. The Raleigh Sphinx is launching a remodeling and refurbishing program for its quarters in the Sir Walter Hotel to cost some $20,000 including air-conditioning. Similar improvements were recently completed in the ToBac Club at Durham. Half a dozen Elks Lodges throughout the state have lately moved into new homes or have expansion plans under way.

Another phase of expanding recreational facilities is found in the millions of dollars being spent on State and National parks and municipal playgrounds.

POTPOURRI - Seventy-five or more newspaper carrier boys all over the state made their annual trek to Raleigh Friday as a part of Newspaper Week observance. Most of the young business men had pictures taken with the Governor, visited points of interest around the capital, and had a good dinner and heard Secretary of State Thad Eure tell them how fine they are.

Ben. William Medford of Haywood and ex-Rep. Frank Brown of Jackson stopped over in Raleigh enroute home from an appearance before the National Park Service at Washington. As members of the National Parks, Forests and Parkways commission they had been seeking additional facilities in the recreation areas in Western Carolina. Asked if they felt that accomplished anything, Medford grinned and said: "We'll have to wait until next year when the new budget is made up to answer that question." Originally appointed to coordinate the Federal agencies in development and promotion of the Great Smokies and Pisgah Forest section, the commission also has obligation to Croatan Forest and Hatteras Seashore.

Several libel suits are now pending in North Carolina in which persons who feel they have been damaged by newspaper publicity in connection with an aggregating almost half a million dollars. That recalls what the late Ed DeCamp, long time publisher of the Gazette (S.C.) Ledger said when Cole Blaise threatened to sue him for a libel. Asked how he felt about it, the paper editor quipped: "Nothing that could be said about a man who thinks I've got $50,000 would be libelous."

FISHERS OF MEN

When Jesus sent forth his disciples, he declared that he was sending them forth to be fishers of men. They would cast out their nets and bring in great schools of fish. Or they would bait hooks and bring in fish singly. But they would be fishers catching something.

Too much of the original idea of the Church has vanished in modern times. The Church has become an institution. It is the dwelling place of the faithful, the stronghold of sound and orthodox belief, the kindly helper to those in need. All these things are good, but Christianity started out as a fish-catching expedition. The disciples were to become fishers of men. They were to enclose great masses of converts in their nets, as the apostle Peter did on the Day of Pentecost when 3000 entered the church in one day. But also they were to bait their hooks and catch fish individually. The evangelist Philip did this when he was directed by the Spirit to seek out the Ethiopian eunuch. Persecuted Christians, scattered far and wide, talked to people in the market place, on the highway over the back fence in the new communities in which they had settled.

When the Church has been nearly it has been intent on making converts. The overwhelming majority of the people today are outside the Church, and Jesus said to his disciples, "I will make you to become fishers of men."

Business Today . . . Advantages Introducing Items

By ELMER ROESSNER

Featuring new products offers advantages and profits to most retailers. New items may flop. In fact studies show that more than 90 per cent do. But between the introduction and the fading away lie bountiful opportunities. Consider the merchant who consistently displays new products. He gains these advantages:

1. He builds traffic, because one word gets around that he features new items, more shoppers will drop in.
2. He challenges people to watch his displays closely.
3. He causes customers to feel that they are dealing with an alert and progressive merchant.
4. He gains profits because new products offer larger margins than older products.
5. He obtains opportunities to broaden his lines. Drug, cigar and food stores are in so many fields today because they experiment with new products.
6. He keeps regular suppliers both salesmen and manufacturers, on their toes. They know they'll lose sales there unless quality and price are competitive with new items.
7. A retailer must be cautious, of course. Newness alone is not sufficient. A new product must have qualities to make it saleable. Even then, some will gather dust on shelves. However, newness itself often causes articles to sell fast. Many people want to be among the first to own new things.

There are many sources of information about new products. Retailers can watch newspapers, and read trade papers in their own field, look at incoming mail offers, and listen to salesmen. Merchants in smaller communities can often get leads by following advertisements of large, prominent-minded stores in big cities.

LESSON IN ECONOMICS FOR ORGANIZED LABOR

Outside the headquarters of a dining-room employees' union in New York is a large sign for passersby to read: "Going to Florida? Thousands of Miami Beach hotel and restaurant workers are on strike. You can help them by spending your vacation somewhere else."

Let's see. If everybody stays away from Florida this season, it will throw thousands of workers out of work, including unionized railroad bus, gas and oil, truck, warehouse, food, clothing, cleaning and beverage workers, mechanics, musicians and entertainers.

That will help the striking restaurant workers only a little. All the unemployed can join their picket lines.

Come to think of it, the sign sounds like a call for a secondary boycott.

HAT COMPANY INVADES

Many companies have ventured into far distant fields in the current trend toward broadening of lines. But the broadest diversification of them all may have been negotiated by Adam Hat Stores. It has just acquired the franchise rights for the manufacture, bottling and sale of Canada Dry beverages in West Germany and the Far East. TRINIDAD'S SONGS STOLEN - An international culture theft has been reported to the Department of Commerce. Trinidad businessmen have complained that Americans, sometimes masquerading as tourists, have come to the island, made tape recordings of steel bands and calypso singers, and then made records for sale in the United States. Trinidad song writers and musicians get no royalties and STATES HIT DEALERS - State governments are encroaching on used-car dealers. Demand for cars has increased and we have the fullest employment ever. Your cash income is probably also the highest ever. While all this is true, it is not necessarily good in the long run if only 15 short years ago your prices climbed correspondingly. Only 15 short years ago your dollar bought you twice as much as it does now. Remember when you paid $995.00 for a new Ford car? One reason for today's conditions is that you have worked shorter hours and borrowed more money. I am not advising against more installment purchases, but I do appeal to you to work harder and longer to produce enough to match your increased borrowings.

Notebook On Life

Where Wives Are Scarcer

By DAVID HINNAWI
CAIRO (AP) - Wives are getting scarcer every day in the Arab strip.

Living there are 250,000 refugees who fled Palestine homes at the outbreak of hostilities between Arabs and Jews in 1948. They are in U.N. camps in the Egyptian held part of Palestine. As soon as the marriageable girls receive their school diplomas they are off to seek jobs in distant Arab countries where demands for teachers, nurses and secretaries are great.

In many camps the result has been a shortage of eligible maidens. Bachelors have complained of the fabulous sums demanded as dowry. An average figure reached recently is equivalent to $3,000.

This desire of the refugee teenagers to support themselves is revolutionary in this part of the world. In the rest of the Arab countries the girls often remain dependent on their parents until they are well in their 20s. The girls after their schooling remain home until they are married.

But apparently the last thing this generation of educated refugee girls want to do is marry a fellow and live in poverty.

Almost all the refugee girls of age attend schools financed by the United Nations. Passing in examinations is in many cases 100 per cent.

As soon as the girls receive their diplomas they apply for jobs in Kuwait, Iraq, Libya or Saudi Arabia.

Demand for educated people ages people from working in these underdeveloped but oil-rich countries kept wages high. Salaries are often tenfold those for similar jobs in Cairo, Alexandria or Beirut.

Many girls plan to work two or three years in order to obtain money for a college education. Some plan to go to the United States. Most of these girls send money to their parents back home - a novelty in the Middle East.

Are Your Own Debts Too High?

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. - If you're an average American, this last year has been an unusually successful one. You've had good employment, you've probably "collected" more money than ever before in your life, and you've bought a lot of things, including several of the most costly items purchased on the installment plan. For your own safety, do you owe too many people too much?

BAD DEBT BOOM DUE TO SHORTER HOURS

There is a boom of a new sort which has been shaping up in recent months - a bad debt boom. Collection agencies are having the most business they have had in many months. The with increases in their business of from 30 per cent to 100 per cent. This means, of course, that a great many people are not paying their bills. As a matter of fact, the American Collectors Association estimates that about 10 million families, or one in every five, are over their heads in debt. Do you realize that Americans today own more than $125 billion in car-installment loans, that mortgage debts are close to the $125 billion mark? And these are but two items people purchase on time while working shorter hours.

Why are people so deeply in debt in such good times? The collection agency will tell you that the credit delinquent is not usually a person who is in difficulty. It is that he is increasing his debt while working fewer hours. He may be earning $4,000 per year, but due to shorter hours prices have gone up and his spending at the rate of $5,000. He buys $300 items on $5-down bait. He doesn't want to miss a good thing. So, before he knows it, he may be overloaded with monthly installment payments.

STUDY ECONOMICS

Of course, the more you buy, up to your ability to pay, the better business is. But watch out! Periodically make a Babson poll of Business Conditions. I ask people like you what they think about different things. My latest poll reveals that 69 per cent of those polled express definite confidence in the future of business. Only 2 per cent feel that general business prospects are poor. Now when people have confidence in the future, they spend what they should be saving. The good they will match it by work.

I have found that when all the world begins rushing in one direction, it is time to start looking the other way. Ever since World War II, while business has been booming, there has been raised almost constantly one skeptical question: "How long will boom times last? The entry in business has been viewed as the possible start of a new depression. Since the last dip in 1953-1954, a kind of "optimism unlimitation" has set in. There seems to be a belief that we never can build too many houses or automobiles. Perhaps such a time is many years ahead, but for the good of your family and your community, you should avoid getting into too much debt while working shorter hours.

NO IMMEDIATE DANGER

Our economy, both business and industry, has advanced and we have the fullest employment ever. Your cash income is probably also the highest ever. While all this is true, it is not necessarily good in the long run if only 15 short years ago your prices climbed correspondingly. One reason for today's conditions is that you have worked shorter hours and borrowed more money. I am not advising against more installment purchases, but I do appeal to you to work harder and longer to produce enough to match your increased borrowings.

The trouble is that too few people really care what is happening now. They say that this generation will have to liquidate our present Government Debt. This is true regarding the big Federal debt, but it has nothing to do with your personal debts. You must pay these up yourself. Let us remember that with the material prosperity which we inherit, there goes a responsibility to our children and our country to leave our country financially strong for them.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 14:27 - "Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you."

There came to my study a few years ago an all American football player who said, "I want to get right with God. I am not satisfied." In his heart and mind was confusion, frustration, turmoil and a deep sense of his need of God. Truly this young man was a picture of life devoid of peace, serenity and spiritual happiness.

After speaking with him about his condition and how he might be placed in the proper relation to God, I referred to the peace that is implanted in one's heart as a result of true repentance and acceptance of Christ as Savior and Lord. How thrilling it was to share with him in prayer as he poured out his heart to God and humbly accepted Jesus and became a recipient of His peace.

GOP Weighs 8 Possible '56 Candidates

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON - Despite faint hopes that President Eisenhower will run again in 1956, Republican politicians throughout the land are discussing the political appeal and talents of at least eight possible substitutes. In view of Ike's known distaste for a second term and his spirit of independence, the precautions in taking these precautions are - Politics being what it is, they are making lists of these men's ballot-box appeal and only secondarily their intrinsic qualifications and experience. They recognize that they must put up their most attractive personality in order to defeat the resurgent Democrats, whose earlier defeat at complex has been replaced by an almost overconfident attitude.

Without any attempt or intent to pass judgment on the roster of prospective candidates, now under review, here is a candid and unvarnished report on the general Republican analysis of the men even remotely available as that 1956 nominee.

WARREN BREWER, Vice-President. R. J. and M. Nixon of California. His appointment under Eisenhower, the most thorough any VP in history has enjoyed, will be advanced as his principal asset. Should Ike disqualify himself, he would be the 42-year-old Nixon's next best bet. Under Brewen he would be untestable, as Calvin Coolidge was after Harding's death in 1923.

But the Vice President has many enemies within the Party and within his own state. Until he is pitched onto the Eisenhower star he was regarded as ultra-conservative. It is doubtful if he would carry a general labor and independent bloc. He has been a vehement anti-Communist, however, and would be satisfactory to the Republican right wing in this respect.

WARREN PRIFERLID BY GOP LIBERALS. Chief Justice Earl Warren of California. Republican liberals prefer him to any other prospect, but he is suspect to conservatives. To businessmen and to professional GOPers, his decision on segregation would hurt him in the South and border states, though helping him in the great urban centers.

Season-High Price Levels For Flue-Cured Leaf Marts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sales resumed today on the flue-cured tobacco markets of Virginia and the Carolinas, against a background of season-high price averages last week on the North Carolina Middle and Eastern Belts.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported price averages by grade as fairly steady last week on the North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt and the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt.

The new season high average of $52.21 per 100 pounds on the Middle Belt was paid for total sales of 20,019,568 pounds. This was an increase of 59 cents from the preceding week.

Season sales on the Middle Belt total 74,374,655 pounds, averaging $51.41. Stabilization Corp. last week look about 13 per cent of sales under government loan, contrasted with about 15 per cent for the season.

Gross sales last week on the Eastern Belt totaled 55,987,813 pounds for an average of $54.41, a new season high and 59 cents above the previous week. Demand continues to strengthen, and volume was heavy with quality somewhat better.

A season average of $50.98 has been paid for a total of 311,000,176 pounds may mean look about 26 per cent of last week's sales, compared with about 25 per cent for the season.

The general average for last week's sales on the Old Belt dropped slightly below the figure paid during the first two days of sales the previous week. Total sales were 35,483,058 pounds averaging $52.21, down just 68 cents. Quality was poorer but volume fairly heavy.

Only six auction centers remain in operation this week on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt — Clinton, Fairmount, Whiteville, Tabor City and Lumberton in North Carolina, and Mullins in South Carolina.

Gross sales on the Border Belt last week were 21,816,283 pounds for an average of $50.92, down $1.18 from the preceding week. About 25 per cent of season sales have gone under government loan compared to 18 per cent last week.

Many growers have now completed marketing their crops and quality was somewhat lower.

Here are gross sales and averages by states last week: North Carolina 19,000,331 pounds, $51.41; South Carolina 6,039,231 pounds, $49.89; For the season: South Carolina 104,622,000 pounds, $50.90; North Carolina 104,286,813 pounds, $52.77.

Old Belt markets in operation last seven days, sold a total of 91,974,403 pounds for an average of $52.44. About 15 per cent of sales have been delivered to Stabilization Corp.

Here are sales and averages by states last week on the Old Belt: North Carolina 17,880,581 pounds, $52.24; Virginia 17,602,377 pounds, $49.29. For the season: North Carolina 25,877,793 pounds, $52.69; Virginia 25,519,662 pounds, $52.19.

Thief Picked Up Priceless Loot

NEW YORK (AP)—Police searched today for clues leading to the nimble-fingered thief or thieves who took eight tiny but priceless statues from the Brooklyn Museum.

The case was a museum director's nightmare. The little silver figures had been loaned from eight other collections for a special exhibit called "Sculpture in Silver From Islands of Time."

Although police were not notified of the theft until yesterday, Museum Director Edgar C. Schenck said it had been discovered nearly 24 hours earlier. The delay was to give museum officials time to tell the lending institutions, he explained.

The theft occurred while the museum was open. A guard was stationed in the hall outside the second-floor exhibit room. He did not have the exhibit of statues in view all the time, but checked them periodically.

The missing figures were among 30 on display and were enclosed in four separate cases. The cases were not damaged. Police figured a thief could have gotten into them however, by removing two screws from a glass panel in each case.

If this was what the thief did, he was careful to replace all the screws.

The stolen figures could have been carried out of the building easily in a coat pocket or woman's handbag. The largest missing item was only 4 1/2 inches tall and the smallest was 1 1/2 inches high.

The exhibit had been assembled by the American Federation of Arts, and all the items were insured by the lending museums, Schenck said. He declined to set a value on the missing pieces, saying they were "unique and irreplaceable."

Passenger pigeons "took their name from an early Indian name that meant 'wanderer.'"

Rev. Bradshaw Delivers Opening Youth Week Talk

REV. BRADSHAW

Three hundred and fifty persons, of whom half were young people, heard Rev. Pastor W. Bradshaw of Wilson, former pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, open the annual Youth Week services at Jarvis Memorial.

Speaking on "God's Greatest Gift to a Young Christian," he stated that the "greatest gift" was the power to choose between right and wrong.

During the service Betsy Karnak, a high school senior representing the youth who were present, posed various questions which are to be treated in Youth Week.

A turkey dinner for all attending the Methodist Youth Fellowship meeting at which Youth Week officially opened was served by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Church.

All young people, with any adults interested in teen-agers and their problems, are invited to attend the services October 3 through the 6th. Beginning with group singing at 7:15 p.m. each night, the inspirational talk by the Rev. Bradshaw will be at 7:30. Discussion groups, recreation and refreshments will follow.

The spokesman said the couple came here with their 2 1/2-month-old son Michael for a visit with Benny and his wife Mary Livingstone over the Labor Day holiday. Baker returned alone to New York two or three weeks ago, he added.

No Shortage Of Water For Only Three States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen years ago the residents of Grand Rapids, Mich., complained bitterly at the expense of building a 35-mile-long pipeline to bring water to the city from Lake Michigan.

Today the city's taxpayers are grumbling: "Who built that one-horse system back in 1940? Now we've got to build one a lot bigger."

A 48-state survey by The Associated Press shows the Grand Rapids episode is typical of hundreds of U.S. cities and towns.

Caught in a three-way squeeze between fast-growing population, dry spells, countless communities are suddenly discovering their water facilities just won't do the job.

Only three states — Idaho, Mississippi and Rhode Island — reported no water shortage problems. Inequities, amounting to 150,000 and open conflicts have arisen in many areas as water supplies run low. Laws involving water rights have become extremely complicated and conflicting. In the East, where the old Roman and English law of riparian rights prevails, you can be sued by just about anybody who thinks your use of the water is "unreasonable."

In the West, which still clings mostly to the pioneer law of "first come, first served," some water rights date back to the gold-rush era.

Just a few months ago, in Texas, the State Supreme Court ruled that the city of Corpus Christi acted within its rights when it pumped huge quantities of water from wells near the town of Pleasanton and transported it via the Nueces River more than 100 miles to Corpus Christi—even though the Pleasanton wells suffered from the city's "invasion."

Texas is desperate for new water supplies and even Michigan, surrounded on three sides by 87,170 square miles of fresh water, has its tongue hanging out in many places.

In the booming Detroit area, some 20 outlying communities which have sprung up in the mass suburbs have been tapping the city's water supply. As a result, Detroit has been forced to install a new 200-million-gallon pumping station, and police-enforced water bans have been clamped down in the area.

Detroit's giant auto industry is watching the situation with serious concern: it takes 15,000 gallons of water, mostly for cooling, to produce a single automobile.

In Arizona, officials report that unless new water supplies can be found, 800,000 acres now under cultivation may go idle. The state's underground water table in some places has dropped as much as 150 feet in 10 years—18 feet in the last 12 months.

California, with a population of 13 1/2 million which is expected to reach 23 1/2 million by 1975, is working feverishly to bring in new supplies, but is pumping water from ground sources at an alarming rate. The overdraft is estimated at a staggering 1,000 billion gallons a year.

Colorado, with water shortages in nearly every section of the state, gloomily watches the Colorado River quench the thirst of distant states while its mile-high capital, Denver, sweats out a critical shortage.

Experts say New Mexico's underground water table is dropping so fast in the eastern High Plains that supplies may be exhausted within 40 years.

Contrary to the picture in many states, North Dakota reports that its ground-water tables have risen "tremendously" as a result of abundant rains over the last decade. Officials say the state hasn't had a crop failure stemming from drought in the last 15 years.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A closer working relationship between state and county governments will be the purpose of a conference Oct. 27 in Raleigh between Gov. Hodges and representatives of the North Carolina County Commissioners Assn.

Forsyth Commissioner Wally Dunham, president of the state association, announced yesterday that the group will name representatives to 13 or more state agencies and commissions as part of the plan.

Dunham said J. M. Pleasants of Southern Pines and Del Alford of Rocky Mount, association vice president, also will be present at the Raleigh conference to make final arrangements.

Closer Ties Will Be Meet Topic

The proposal was first made for a close county-state liaison at the commissioners convention in Asheville this year.

Dunham said these state agencies so far have agreed to the plan:

The Merit System Council, Department of Public Welfare, Board of Veterans Commission, State Alcohol Beverage Control Board, State Blind Commission, State Board of Education, N. C. Hospital Board of Control, Conservation and Development Board, N. C. Library Commission, State Board of Elections, State Board of Health and Local Government Commission.

He really meant Campaign Pledge

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. (AP)—When Alderman Seymour Gerson was elected on an economy platform, he apparently meant it. Rather than vote for a $100 appropriation for Morristown's annual clean-up Gerson said at a board meeting that he would donate $10, personally. Undaunted, the other city fathers voted to appropriate the other $90, Gerson voting "no."

No Meteor Came Out Of The Blue

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Just after W. C. Vaughn walked around the counter in his market what sounded like a pistol shot caused him to duck.

An 18-inch piece of metal had crashed into the glass of the counter over which he had been leaning. An insurance agent called in thought it part of an aerial from a plane. It crashed through a two-inch asphalt roof before striking the glass in the counter.

"I don't know what made me move," Vaughn said, "but I'm glad I did."

No Defense Test For Woodchucks

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Not to woodchucks relax. Richmond's Operation Ground Hog, a civil defense test set for Oct. 23, is not aimed at you.

Yo, woodchucks, cant talk, but H. T. Angell, president of the Ground Hog Club of Roanoke, Va., has been busy convincing you. He wrote State Civil Defense Coordinator J. H. Wise asking that no ground hog suffer indignities or disabilities during the test. The official replied that "we will not scare a single ground hog or trespass against one."

SALISBURY, Oct. 1 — Catawba College's Indians completed only one pass in the game but it was the big pay-off as they rolled to an impressive, 13-7, triumph over East Carolina College here tonight.

Quarterback Sonny Butler, a former All-State at High Point, threw a perfect 35-yard touchdown strike to end Bob McKelvey in the final period to snap a 7-7 standstill and give the Indians their second straight win, their first in North State Conference competition.

The Pirates of Coach Jack Boone played hard but it was a hungrier Catawba bunch that won, handing the Greenville visitors their third straight setback and their second conference defeat.

Catawba, making its first home appearance of the season, leaped off to a quick start when it, oddly, scored first.

But this time, it was an East Carolina aerial that the Indians grabbed and turned into a touchdown before the game was four minutes old.

Pass Intercepted
With their backs to the wall and the ground attack stalled, the Pirates tried to throw. Quarterback Dick Cherry went back and was trapped on the 10. In desperation he cut loose and the badly thrown pass was intercepted on the 25 yard line by end Richard Snyder who scampered untouched for the six points.

Guard Richard Cassels booted the extra-point on the second attempt after East Carolina was offside on the initial try.

The Indians continued to hold the Pirates at bay during the remainder of the first half and went into rest at intermission with a seven point advantage.

East Carolina came roaring back in the third stanza to tie the count at 7-7 when it capitalized on a short Catawba punt to set up the score.

Halfback Les Swanner got off a poor boot from his own 15 and the pigskin went out of bounds on the 30.

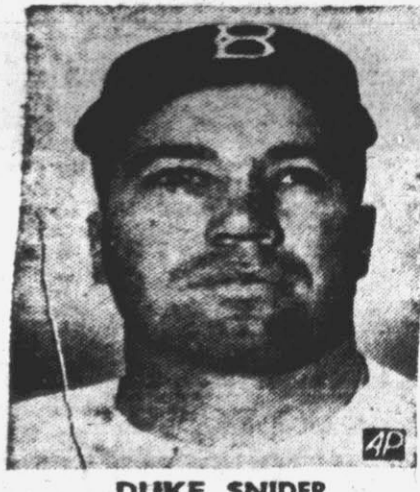

Cherry To Perry
From that point the Pirates moved to the 5 on Cherry's pass to halfback Emo Boado. With first and goal, the Catawba line hardened and held the Pirates for three downs. On fourth, Cherry faded and hit Bobby Perry in the right front corner of the end zone. Perry made a nice falling catch and for the moment East Carolina was back in the ball game.

Reserve quarterback Milton Collier came and booted true the pointer after the 7-7 tie.

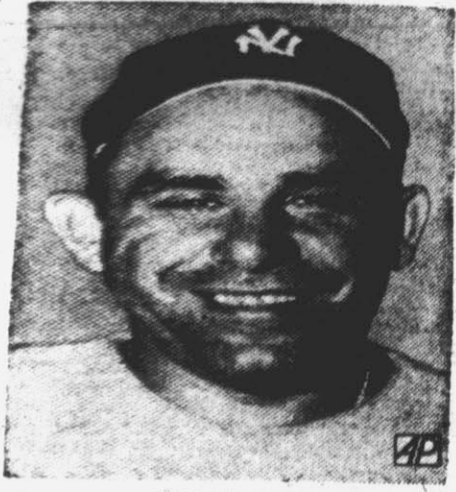

A few minutes later, however, the Indians had completed their one pass for the touchdown and victory.

It was Catawba's first win over East Carolina on a football field. The closest they had come before was the 7-7 tie in 1952.

Pirates' running game. Only in the regular department did the ECC team excel.

Cherry was a busy man in the game. He led the air barrage that consisted of 29 tosses. Ten of which found their mark for 207 yards.

The Pirates, though, were held to 78 yards on the ground. Catawba used a band of hard-punching backs, led by Dick Smith and Les Swanner, to grind out seven first downs and 117 yards.

Highly-Favored Elon Rests Near Bottom Of Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Catawba and Lenoir Rhyne schools in the South State Football Conference lead today while highly favored Elon rested close to the bottom in loop standings.

Catawba dumped East Carolina, 13-7, Saturday night, while Elon fell before Appalachian, 19-0. The loss put a damper on Elon hopes of grabbing Appalachian's title this season.

Catawba's victory gave the Indians a 1-0 conference record, the same as Lenoir Rhyne's. Lenoir Rhyne turned in a repeat performance in tying Newberry, 13-13, the same as the 1954 battle.

In other weekend action, Guilford and Randolph Macon plodded to a scoreless tie on a soggy field. Western Carolina tied East Tennessee, 7-7, in a game that counted in league standings because of special dispensation. The result gave Western Carolina 1-0 record.

Appalachian is in the nich below with a 1-1 performance followed by Elon, 0-1. Guilford has not played a loop game.

Catawba snared victory on end Dick Snyder's 30-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Appalachian's attack on Elon was sparked by fullback Jim Klise's two-touchdown performance. Bill Ackard returned a punt 71 yards to highlight Lenoir Rhyne's deadlock with Newberry.

Western Carolina gained the tie with East Tennessee on a pass interception followed by quarterback Tommy Lewis' touchdown.

Randolph Macon was outplayed but Guilford couldn't slam the big one over.

Three conference tilts are set for this weekend with Lenoir Rhyne at Appalachian, Catawba at Western Carolina, and Elon at East Carolina. Guilford is host to Hampden-Sydney.

GHS Coach Still Searching For Winning Combination

Football Scores

By The Associated Press
GREENVILLE, Oct. 1 — Greenville high school football coach Billy Arnold, commanding the helm of the Phantom outfit as its new coach, is still searching for the combination that will make the machine click. The former Murfreesboro instructor stated today that his team's 18-13 showing against Washington Friday night was "poor."

"Our defense," wailed the young coach, "was poor in pursuit of Washington backs. The last touchdowns should never have been scored." Lewis was referring to Pam Pack quarterback Mickey Cochran's 55 yard gallop through the entire Greenville squad for the winning tally.

"Defensively, our team just wasn't well-schooled," continued Lewis, "and we played a team that was. Our line didn't charge as well as we expected and our tackling was not as well as it could have been."

Lewis and assistant coaches Vaughn Fowler and Stan Jones will have two full weeks in which to drill their team, make corrections, and have them ready for more action. After an open date this weekend, the Greensies travel to Elizabeth City for another Conference contest.

"Our backs ran well against Washington," Coach Lewis said, "and we hope to make them work as a unit with the line against Elizabeth City. We still haven't found that combination that will make our boys work as a unit."

Practices for the coming week will proceed in this fashion: There will be two days of defensive drill, two days of offensive drill and one day of scrimmage to wind up the first week of work. The following week will be dedicated to the Phantoms' weakest link, as determined during earlier drills.

Stress Defense
Coach Lewis said, "We intend to stress defensive fundamentals for a while. The boys are still trying hard, and as long as they are willing to work, we'll make progress."

Elizabeth City was a pre-season favorite to win the Northeastern Loop crown and the top super-ball throughout the early season. They defeated Washington week before last by one touchdown.

Prospects Never So Bright Before

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' long-sought goal—their first world championship—appeared within sight today.

They were leading the New York Yankees three games to two as action shifted back to the wide-open spaces of Yankee Stadium. It was there Brooklyn lost the first two games of the World Series.

After winning 5-3 yesterday, the Brooks from Manager Walt Alton on down believed they could win at least one in the Stadium. If not today then tomorrow for sure.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel growled: "I'm not predicting anything except that it will go seven."

His starting pitcher, he said, would be Whitey Ford today and Tommy Byrne tomorrow.

"Either Don Newcombe or Karl Spooner will be my pitcher," Alton said. "I can't make up my mind. But if there is a seventh game, Johnny Podres will pitch Tuesday."

Newcombe himself may make up Alton's mind for him. The Dodgers' 20-game winner, who lost the first game, complained that the stiffness in his arm hadn't left him.

"It's still sore," he said. "I didn't even bother to throw today because of the pain. I don't know whether or not I'll be able to pitch."

Spooner, who worked three fine innings in relief in the second game, said he was ready to go. The target crowd of the series—some 65,000, is expected to watch the sixth game. The forecast was "fair and continued cool" with the temperature in the high 60s.

Although the Yankees were a 5-5 favorite to win today's game, the odds-makers, for the first time, made the Dodgers the choice to win the series—a standout 13-5.

Never before were the Dodgers' prospects so bright, although once before, back in 1952 Brooklyn led

Golf Tourney Is Set Oct. 8, 9

The third annual Greenville Medal Play Golf Championship Tournament will be held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club here next Saturday, October 8, and Sunday, October 9.

This trial is the fall golf classic of this area, differing from the spring tournament, in that this is a medal play tourney. In a contest of this type, every stroke counts for the 36 holes. There will be 18 holes Saturday and 18 Sunday.

W. L. "Bill" Allen won the tournament in 1953 and again the following year. He will be seeking his third straight victory and permanent possession of the medal play championship cup.

Allen will be contested strongly by Reynolds May, Ercell Webb and Simon More, all past club champions. Ben Harrison will lead a brigade of other good Greenville golfers, who have their sights aimed at the crown.

Tobaccoists are invited to participate in the event, as well as any others who might be interested. The tournament will be in flights, which will be determined by the tournament committee.

Those wishing to participate must signify by registering at the Pro Shop before Saturday morning, October 8.

Defeated Williamston To Play Ayden

Williamston high school's footballers begin preparation for their fray with the Ayden Tornados this week, by reviewing errors made in their 19-13 defeat at the hands of Spring Hope Friday night.

Coach Roger Thrift's crew will concentrate on defense throughout most of the coming week, being weak in that department against the Indians. They were racked up against Thrift's charges Friday night through sheer brute running force. A 60 yard march spelled T.D. for Spring Hope's first score.

71 Yard Drive
A 71 yard drive resulted in the Williamston foe's second marker of the night and their final touchdown came from 41 yards out for most of their initial gains. They also passed several times.

The Williamston offense, led by fullback Gaylord Perry and Gerald Robertson, was effective in short smashes and accounted for one of its scores. The other came on a 26 yard pass from quarterback Herbert Ward to Dickie Clayton.

Spring Hope ground out 15 first downs to Williamston's eight, most of which came on handoffs slashed through the middle of the Williamston line. Thrift's drills this week will be devised with the aim of building up that center section of the defensive front.

Ayden dropped a thrilling 6-0 battle to Farmville Friday and will be gunning for a win next week over Thrift's men. The Tornados squad has been primarily a defense power during their early games, therefore, Friday night's contest may feature a tight brand of ball between two forward walls.

Spring Hope relied on power plays through tackle and guard positions

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
"What will you think of us, Mrs. Fleming?" Carol exclaimed after Paula's emotional exit. "I can't imagine what's come over the child."

"She seems rather nervous," Lois said. "Girls of that age are apt to be a bit unstable emotionally." She longed to add, "What that little self-dramatizing exhibitionist needs is to be turned over someone's knee and paddled."

Shandy was pulling a piece of bread apart, crumbling it in his fingers, and Lois recalled having watched him do that one night in an Austrian farmhouse. Behind a flimsy door an armed man had waited and Lois' nerves were screaming. Shandy had continued to "chew" as if an easy, casual way, his voice even, only his restless hands betraying his tension as he pulled at the bread and crumbled it.

To his mother's despair, Clyde had stopped eating. He looked as though he wanted to go in pursuit of Paula but did not quite know how.

"Another cinnamon bun," Bessie said anxiously, pushing the plate toward him. "Eat them while they're hot."

Clyde tried to smile at her and shook his head.

"But I thought you liked cinnamon buns. You used to eat all you could hold."

Carol went on in her soft voice. "Joe Hattery hasn't done a stroke of work since Roger died and Ethel goes staking around like Lady Macbeth. Anyone would think she was the widow, Shandy," she leaned forward, one ringed hand on his arm. "Shandy, do it for me, will you? Tell them to leave—in a nice way, of course."

Shandy's face tightened. "Do you think Shandy's wise, Carol? There's nothing to be gained by antagonizing the Hatterys." He added quickly, "I think you are right, of course, to want to be rid of them. But let's see what we can figure out without actually throwing them off the place. Why don't I put an ad in the New York papers, saying that Roger Brindle's secretary is looking for another employer to whom she can be as useful as she was to him?"

Something in the inflection of his voice made Lois look from Shandy to Carol. There was an undercurrent of meaning that escaped her.

"Anyone who can read," Shandy went on blandly, "knows a boatload of Ethel the Faithful Secretary. That ought to bring her any number of good offers."

Lois shifted uneasily in her chair. In spite of the spontaneous manner in which Shandy made the suggestion, it sounded to her like something that had been rehearsed.

"What a wonderful idea! I'd never have thought of that," Carol's face clouded. "But would anyone else put up with her husband?"

"Joe," Shandy assured her, "is adept at being taken care of. If Ethel gets a good job he will have no objection. And if he knows what is good for him, Shandy's voice grew hard, "he'll learn to behave himself."

They had nearly finished lunch when the doorbell rang. Bessie got up and went to answer it. There was a murmuring, a murmur of voices, footsteps, and Bessie stood in the doorway between the dining room and the drawing room. Behind her was a tall woman with graying hair and a plain, charming face. Shandy got to his feet, an odd expression on his face.

"Carol," Bessie Kibbee said unable to control her excitement, "I guess you two ought to know each other. This is Jane Brindle, Roger's first wife."

Carol looked with unconcealed curiosity at her predecessor. "I am so glad to see you," she said tranquilly.

"Forgive me for coming," said the lovely voice which was the older woman's only beauty.

"You couldn't have come at a better time. Because you know Roger when he was young," Carol made the words sound light-years away. "I'm going to write his life story and I want to know about him when he was a boy. And anyhow," she added simply, "we have so much in common."

Lois saw Jane Brindle's big, ugly humorous mouth twitch for a moment and felt her firm handclasp when Carol had performed the introductions. Jane gave her a keen glance that weighed her but was not unfriendly.

"Lois Fleming? Then we have a mutual acquaintance. Mignonne is my agent, too, and I've heard her mention you. Wonderful gal with articles isn't she?"

Queer, Lois thought, she had never realized that the Jane Brindle who wrote articles had any relationship to Roger Brindle. Probably because their work was so utterly different, his warm and personal, hers brilliant and pungent but impersonal.

Jane brushed aside Carol's introduction of Shandy and kissed him exuberantly. "I've known this boy since he was five," she said. "Shandy reached for a chair but Carol failed to suggest that the first Mrs. Brindle sit down. In the pleasant way possible she was making clear that the older woman was an intruder in her home, an invited guest with no recognized status whatever, Jane Brindle said.

Sam Goldwyn Walks To Keep In Condition

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (AP)—Memo: If you ever go for a walk with a Hollywood name, Samuel Goldwyn, bring along your hiking boots.

I had heard that the producer walks five miles every day. But that might have been part of the Goldwyn legend. Seeing is believing, so I arranged to join him on his morning walk.

The producer was waiting outside his Beverly Hills mansion when I arrived. He signaled his chauffeur to go ahead. Then Goldwyn took off down the hill, walking with a brisk, spry pace. I hastened to catch up.

"We'll walk for 40 minutes," he announced. "I am going to make it easy on my uphill walk."

LONDON (AP)—Horse breeder Fred Unwin says his old gray mare Stephanie has given birth to a jet black filly at the unheard-of age of 30. "It's as though a human being had a baby when 120 years old," Unwin told a reporter.

"But I bought Stephanie as a yearling myself in 1926 so there can be no doubt of her age."

After two and a half miles of steady walking and talking, we encountered the limousine, which returned us to my car. "I hope I haven't overextended you," said the refreshed Goldwyn as he was driven off to work.

"Part of him, did," Jane said quietly. "When can I see him?"

Bessie, always so forthright, was embarrassed. "I'll tell him you are here. But he won't see many people."

Lionel Hampton And 20 Of Band Hurt In Wreck

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Hospital authorities and physicians say 21 persons hospitalized after a bus carrying Lionel Hampton's dance band crashed Saturday are recovering.

One of the members of the nationally known band said a front tire on the special bus blew out, and the big vehicle plunged off a bank 22 miles south of Socorro.

Hampton was among the injured. He was placed in a Truth or Consequences, N.M., hospital, where the attending physician said he had a broken ankle, but was "out of shock and doing well."

One of the more seriously injured was the bus driver, George Allison of Newark, N.J. His condition was reported "poor" and a doctor in the Truth or Consequences hospital said he still was in shock and had a severely injured left leg. Crumpled metal had to be cut away to get him out of the wreckage.

Cutting Down Of Nat'l Debt Can Delay Tax Cuts

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Since the cold war turned into the smiling war there has been a growing hope that the U.S. budget could be balanced—and taxes cut.

But some bankers are urging today that we do better than that—more than balance the budget so that the huge Federal debt can be cut. To do this probably would mean putting off the longed-for tax cuts for awhile.

Budget making time is here. It is one of the most controversial and important functions that will be going on while the President isn't on hand to referee.

Already Washington reports that the Secretary of the Treasury would like to see on billion dollars trimmed from present spending plans, and that the Secretary of Defense fears that any cut in defense plan at this time would be dangerous. He apparently suspects the Russian smile is warmer than his heart is likely to be.

The plea to put Federal debt reduction ahead of tax relief is made by the Guaranty Trust Co. in its October survey, out today.

The bank's idea that tax cuts should wait is unlikely to prove very popular—either with individuals or with company management.

Corporations pay more than half of their earnings to the Federal Government—not to mention taxes rates on individual incomes range from 20 to 91 per cent. Heavy excise taxes discriminate against some industries and their customers. And state and local tax rates continue to climb.

"The need for tax relief is only too obvious," the bank concedes. But it argues that debt retirement now would contribute to future tax cuts by paring the considerable cost of carrying the present huge debt.

The debt can be cut only by paring government expenditures or by keeping the present high tax rates, or by both.

Defense spending has been reduced from its peak. But non-defense spending has been creeping higher.

Currently the annual battle over the budget is on. The budget director, on the President's known wishes, will presumably try to knock down some of the spending requests of the department heads. How good his chances are remains to be seen.

Tax cutting however, with or without expense paring, is going to be very popular in Congress—especially with the elections coming up and the voters anxious for tax relief.

Scientists sometimes deplore the fact that, although the United States spends more than 3½ billion a year on research, only 10 per cent of it is basic research, the remainder being spend on applications of known facts.

New Era Of Heart Surgery Has Inspired Fresh Hopes

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Sick and hungry human hearts are being transformed to healthy by a new era of bold, brilliant surgery.

Surgeons, dreaming of things once considered impossible, went pioneering so that today:

Several different operations can bring renewed life and strength to hearts damaged by attacks such as President Eisenhower suffered.

Heart-lung machines can put human hearts and lungs on complete vacations while they are opened and repaired.

The blood circulation of a sick child and healthy adult can be linked together during surgery.

Spare arteries taken from the dead are banked, then used to replace damaged or missing sections of living persons' arteries. Even animal arteries have been transplanted into human.

Plastic valves have been substituted for damaged heart valves.

Most of these surgical advances have blossomed within the last 10 years.

There are two main techniques for helping some victims of bad heart attacks. In a coronary thrombosis similar to President Eisenhower's, a clot blocks one or more of the branches of arteries that bring nourishment to the heart muscle. Recovery depends upon expansion and extension of other arteries or growth of new arteries.

to nourish the area deprived of blood supply.

Bad attacks leave many persons weak, short of breath, subject to pain on exertion, often true heart cripples.

One remedy is to irritate the heart, stimulating the heart muscle to create a new blood supply. Sterile talcum powder or asbestos powder is put inside the sac surrounding the heart. The talcum technique was devised by Dr. Samuel Thompson, New York, and the asbestos treatment by Dr. Claude S. Beck, Cleveland.

Secondly, the heart hungry for blood can, in effect, be given a new artery. Dr. Beck takes a piece of vein from the arm, then hooks it on the heart so some blood being pumped from the heart is fed into the heart muscle.

Dr. Arthur Vineberg of Montreal, Canada, snips an artery that runs down through the chest, swings one end of it over and buries it in a tunnel in the heart muscle. It becomes a third artery feeding the powerhouse of life. In time, he reports, an additional network of little blood vessels appears, distributing the new supply of blood.

Even more dramatic perhaps are heart-lung machines, steadily pulsing blood through the human body, putting oxygen into the blood while the human pump rests.

Still pulsing but "dry" of blood, for 20 to 70 minutes, heart-lung machines have worked on while surgeons plugged holes in the walls separating chambers of the heart, or fixed malformed or diseased valves.

Doctors C. Walton Lillehei, Richard Varco and Morley Cohen and associates, University of Minnesota, achieve a dry heart by connecting the bloodstream of the child patient with that of an adult volunteer—usually a parent. They have done this successfully numerous times.

And at least once, this team used the lung of a dog to oxygenate the blood of a boy during heart surgery. Pumps sent his blood through the lung and back into his body while his own heart rested.

Another technique used by numerous surgical teams is just cold temperature—chilling the human body 20 degrees or more. Bodily processes slow down, the brain's demand for oxygen is lowered, and the heart, its rate slowed down, can be opened for a brief time to make repairs.

Another method, by Dr. Robert E. Gross of Boston, is to use a kind of rubber wall to contain the blood while the heart is opened.

For many heart repairs, the heart need not be opened. "Blue baby" operations devised by Dr. Alfred Blalock of Johns Hopkins Hospital, and other techniques by others, straighten out some heart defects without opening up the heart.

To overcome certain valve trouble in the aorta, the main artery from the heart, Dr. Charles Hufnagel, Georgetown University, finds some patients are greatly benefited when a ball-valve, made of plastic, is put into the aortic arch.

Artery banks are spreading, with arteries preserved either in dried form in deep-freezers or in salt solutions. Artery banks saved the limbs of soldiers in Korea so wounded as to have lost entire sections of arteries or veins.

And there's much experimentation now with artificial arteries made of special fabrics coated with plastic.

A number of excellent surgeons are excited about and interested in another dream—transplanting entire human organs. They could be taken from healthy persons killed in accidents, and replace defective, diseased organs in the living.

As yet, nature has thrown up roadblocks. The borrowed tissue breaks down in the new body, destroyed perhaps by a kind of allergic reaction. There are some experts who say transplantation will never come. Others say it falls only because not enough is yet known.

If they succeed in finding the answers, the day could come when you could exchange an entire healthy new heart for your tired and ailing one.

Monroe Lawyer Is New Head Of State's YDC

DURHAM (AP)—Henry Hall Wilson, Monroe lawyer, is president of the North Carolina Young Democrats Clubs, having won the office by acclamation after he was nominated by the only opposing candidate.

Robert M. Davis of Salisbury, the other candidate, nominated Wilson during a closing session here Saturday of the YDC convention from Union County, was elected unanimously.

The Young Democrats also elected other state and district officers for the coming year.

The delegates heard Saturday night from Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), who said Democrats hope President Eisenhower will run in 1956—and added that Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), another heart attack victim, might also be a candidate.

Mansfield, speaking to the closing banquet, said, "We (Democrats) want to go up against the champion because we think we can take him and his party." He declared that the GOP is pinning all its hopes on one man, while the Democrats have several good men—Adlai Stevenson, Sen. Russell (Ga.), Gov. Harriman of New York, Sen. Kefauver (Tenn.) and Johnson.

Before their elections the YDC delegates gave their stamp of approval to the following:

A resolution calling for annual rather than biennial sessions for the North Carolina General Assembly; a state highway safety program; a minimum wage for workers not covered by the federal minimum wage act; and a memorial to the late Gov. William B. Umstead.

The rules and resolutions committee refused favorable reports to any of the three resolutions dealing with school integration policy, and the resolutions committee gave an unfavorable report to a resolution calling for lowering the voting age in North Carolina to 18.

Elected without opposition as national committeeman was Victor S. Bryant Jr. of Raleigh. Mrs. Mildred Morgan of Concord was re-elected national committeewoman. Bob Roberts of the University of North Carolina was named secretary and Claude Hamrick of Winston-Salem, treasurer.

Vice presidents include: Eastern District—Bradford Tillery of New Hanover County and Elsie Jordan of Raleigh. Middle District—John Hayworth of High Point and Betty June Hayes of Hillsboro. Western District—Winifred Ervin of Charlotte and Mrs. Shirley Brown of Hickory.

Indonesia Votes On Border Line Of Communism

By LARRY ALLEN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The vote in Indonesia's first general election piled up on the border line of communism today as the Nationalist "Proletarian Front" party increased its commanding lead over its major opponent.

Mohammed Natsir, general chairman of the Moslem Masjumi party in effect conceded defeat. He told newsmen: "We no longer can expect to get a working majority in the new Parliament."

With more than a third of the estimated 34 million votes counted, unofficial results gave the nationalists 3,988,864; Masjumi 2,710,951; Communists 2,059,616; and Moslem Orthodox Radicals 1,600,314. The rest were scattered among the other 186 parties on the newspaper-size ballot.

Although the Nationalists were far short of a majority in the popular vote, they could count on the support of the Communists, whose backing kept Nationalist leader Ali Sastroamidjojo's Cabinet in power for the past two years.

The Reds had high hopes of top Cabinet posts should Sastroamidjojo again take the helm. Previously the Communists had said they would form a coalition government if they were victorious.

The Nationalist organ Suluh Indonesia headlined: "Proletariat Winning Java." The key central island will elect 168 members of the 200-seat Parliament. The final outcome will not be known for weeks as voting continues by stages in the 3,000 islands of the archipelago.

Nationalist leaders, whose platform on key points dovetails with the Indonesian Communist party's, demanded that President Soekarno immediately order Masjumi Prime Minister Burhanuddin Harahap's caretaker government out of office. The Communists joined in the demand and also urged the immediate dissolution of the appointed provisional Parliament of 230 members in which they hold only 17 seats.

The Indonesian News Agency said Masjumi Chairman Natsir warned that Indonesia was in danger of being engulfed by communism.

The big Nationalist vote amazed the non-Communist Indonesian press and business community, who helped to force the Sastroamidjojo government out nine weeks ago with complaints that nothing was being done to halt spiraling inflation, the worsening

High Tribunal Is Convening Today; Big Issues At Stake

WASHINGTON (AP)—Faced with legal controversies of far-reaching importance, the Supreme Court reassembled to begin a new term today.

Communism, military justice and racial segregation stood out among the questions raised in an unusually heavy docket.

And with the prospect that President Eisenhower might not seek re-election next year, greater-than-usual political interest focused on the chief justice—former Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Warren said last April he would not be a candidate for president "under any circumstances or conditions," and he has since given no sign of changing his stand. Yet, after Eisenhower's heart attack, Warren's name again sprang up in speculation about possible GOP presidential nominees.

Brief opening-day formalities were all that was expected of today's court session. The heavy work on the docket of more than 700 cases gets under way next Monday.

This term's stack of cases is an increase of some 300 over the same time last year. Despite this, the justices plan to go on a five-day work week by holding hearings Mondays through Thursdays and closed conferences on Fridays. In previous years the court heard arguments Mondays through Fridays, then sat in conferences on Saturdays.

The nine-month term is expected to produce a decision on the U.S. Communist party's challenge of the constitutionality of the Subversive Activities Control Act.

The law is the keystone of the government structure for registration and control of the Communist party, Communist "fronts" and Communist-infiltrated organizations. If allowed to stand, the party asserts, "there remains no limitation on the control by Congress over political expression."

Scheduled for reargument early in the new term is an attack on a key section of the Code of Military Justice. The question raised is whether Congress could authorize military court-martial of a civilian for a crime alleged to have been committed while he was in the armed forces.

The case specifically affects former Air Force Sgt. Robert W. Toth, a steelworker of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was arrested in 1953 for court-martial on a charge that he took part in the killing of a South Korean civilian, Toth, honorably discharged in 1952 after service in Korea, says his appeal presents the question whether Congress "can convert our democratic civil government into a military oligarchy."

Toth's appeal was first heard by the Supreme Court last February but the justices were unable to reach a decision.

In appeals filed during the summer the court has been asked to rule whether racial segregation is illegal in public parks, playgrounds and golf courses; whether states may ban interracial marriages; and whether states may require Negro candidates for public office to be listed as "Negro" on election ballots.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock market ran into a flurry of selling today and fell sharply in the early afternoon.

Prices were hammered down 1 to 3 points in many instances, and some losses went on out to around 6 points at the worst.

Volume mounted swiftly as the selling progressed and prices fell, and it reached a pace around three million shares for the day.

It was a week ago today that the market tumbled in one of its greatest declines on news of President Eisenhower's heart attack.

Today the market started out with only moderate activity. Within a short time, prices steadied around their lows and in some cases negotiated some recovery from their work.

However, near the start of the third hour there was a gradual pickup in the selling speed until finally the ticker was forced to lag behind in reporting actual transactions.

Heaviest losses were in steels, motors, oil, and railroads, and they also were the most active of the major divisions.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway, Amerasia Petroleum, Anconda Co., International Nickel, International Paper, Bethlehem steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, and Douglas Aircraft.

Highway Employees To Convene During Week

J. L. McDonald of Greenville, president of the State Highway Employees' Association, will preside over the organization's tenth annual convention in Winston-Salem Thursday Friday and Saturday.

In addition, McDonald will give the annual address. Other local delegates will include J. L. Phillips, who will give the report on the Credentials - Registration Committee; and J. G. Gibbs, who will serve as master of ceremonies for the Friday night program.

Way Chairman A. H. Graham, Chief Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr., Highway Personnel Director Earl Crump, Mayor Marshall Kurfess of Winston-Salem, and Executive Secretary Nathan Yelton of the Teachers and State Employees Retirement System.

An important feature of the convention will be a final discussion of the proposal to merge the State Retirement System with the Federal Social Security.

An added attraction to the program this year will be the selection of a Miss and a Mrs. Highway Employees Association of 1955. The two winners, to be chosen from a field of candidates from each of the 15 units of the Highway Association, will be crowned and presented trophies following a buffet dinner Thursday night. The two runners-up will each be given a $25 Government Bond.

He presently supervises the work of some 50 equipment employees, coordinating their work to insure that highway cars, trucks, motors graders and such are kept in good working condition. McDonald's department has the job of insuring mobility for the Second Division, composed of Pitt, Beaufort, Carteret, Craven, Pamlico, Greene, Jones and Lenoir counties.

Among the principal speakers at the convention, expected to draw more than 300 delegates, will be State Treasurer Edwin Gill, High-

Byrd is chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of non-essential Federal Expenditures, which keeps a continuing check on federal payrolls.

The increase, all of which was laid to new civilian hiring by the armed services, raised overall civilian employment to 2,385,077 persons.

Byrd said in a statement that the Navy and the Air Force reported a net civilian employment increase of 3,891 while the Army reported a net decline of 3,071.

To Promote Ore

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. (AP)—Uranium lease holders in east Tennessee and western North Carolina have been invited to a meeting here Thursday to form the Appalachian Uranium Assn.

Three Elizabethton men said the proposed group would foster development of uranium resources in the two areas.

Ivan Hodge, George F. Dugger and J. P. Leath issued this statement: "It is believed that by concerted effort the uranium deposits in the Appalachian area can be brought to the attention of the outside world. A higher grade of uranium has been found in east Tennessee and western North Carolina than in any place in the United States."

Tennessee geologists have said they have seen no ore deposits among those discovered in the state of what they term "mineable proportions."

Halt Freedoms Hearing Due To Disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee's scheduled hearing today on religious freedom has been postponed indefinitely, partly because of disagreement over the wisdom of such a public hearing.

A spokesman for the Constitutional Rights subcommittee said the backstage controversy figured in the postponement decision, which Chairman Hennings (D-Mo.) announced Friday. At the time, Hennings said the delay would give added time for analyzing replies to 10,000 questionnaires which have been sent out.

The spokesman said no single religious faith was involved. He said Protestants, Catholics and Jews have taken both sides on the question of holding the hearings.

Some persons, however, contended that hearings might unnecessarily open up scores between religious faiths, he said, while others have contended they would clarify and promote understanding of religious issues that have caused controversy in the past.

Each North Carolinian owns about 57 feet of highway yet by sharing with others he can drive like a king over 70,000 miles of road and often does.
