Miss Hyman Speaker For Service Guild

The Wesleyan Service Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met Monday night at the home of Mary Thomas Smith. There were 30 members who answered the roll call. Guests for the evening were Miss Butler and Mrs. Bizzell.

Mrs. Kemp Baldwin, secretary, read the minutes which were approved by the group. Mrs. Alleen Moore, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Oona Shindler gave the devotionals. She included in her devotionals the Indians 23rd Psalm. Miss Frances Wahl reported on the Study Course to be given at Jarvis Memorial Church beginning October 17. Members were urged to attend this Study Course. The Guild voted to buy two of the textbooks to be used.

Miss Frances Wahl presented Miss Elizabeth Hyman as speaker for the evening. Miss Hyman told of her trip out west this past summer. She told, in her usual charming manner, many interesting facts about the Indians, their ways of living and working, and the work which many archaeologists are doing in that part of the country. She expressed the belief that, although much had been done in order to Christianize the Indians, many missionaries were needed there.

Following the program refreshments were served by the hostesses, Miss Helen Perkins, Laura Bell, Mary Thomas Smith and Mrs. Bruce Hooker.

Attend District BPW Meet

These Business and Professional Women's Club members were featured on the program at the regular fall District Seven meeting for BPW clubs in Farmville Sunday. They are, front row (left to right): Miss Lois Frazier of Raleigh, first vice president of the N. C. BPW Federation; Mrs. Dolly Burton of Jacksonville, Seventh District director; Mrs. Blythe of Rocky Mount, N. C. Federation president; and Miss LaRue McKinney, Farmville club president. Back row: Mrs. Ruth Peeling of Morehead City, Seventh District member on the state Legislative Steering Committee; Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson of Greenville, local club president; Miss Evelyn Wilkerson of Jacksonville, Seventh District Secretary-treasurer; Miss Molly Hart of Kinston, recording secretary for the state Federation; Mrs. Ora Nichols of Durham, immediate past director of District Six.

Twenty-six members of the local Business and Professional Women's Club attended the organization's Seventh District meeting in Farmville Sunday.

Farmville club members were hostesses for the regular fall meeting at the Masonic Temple.

A special feature of the afternoon was a panel discussion on "Know Your Federation," in which Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, president of the Greenville club, participated. Other panel members, who discussed the Federation's objectives and projects, were Miss Lois Frazier of Raleigh, first vice president of the state Federation; Mrs. Ora Nichols of Durham, immediate past director of District Six; and Mrs. Ruth Peeling of Morehead City, Seventh District member on the Legislative Steering Committee.

Mrs. Ruby Blythe of Rocky Mount, state Federation president, brought greetings to the 115 representatives from the ten clubs in the district. Welcome was extended by Miss LaRue McKinney, Farmville club president, and invocation was given by Miss Jen Easley, past president of the Farmville group.

Mrs. Blythe also spoke to the gathering on the national Federation project and the state goals for the year. Among these goals, she said, is a membership quota of 100 clubs with 5,000 members.

Mrs. Dolly Burton of Jacksonville, district director, presided over the business session.

Theme of the meeting was that of the state Federation: "The Golden Keys of Achievement," and it was carried out in decoration of green and gold Federation colors, name tags and place cards. Door prizes were contributed by Farmville merchants.

Special musical entertainment was provided by Mrs. Rosemary Turnage, vocalist, and Jack Willford, pianist. Seventh District club representatives at the meeting included Greenville, Farmville, Carteret, Goldsboro, Havelock, Kinston, Mount Olive, New Bern, Onslow and Warsaw.

Organizational Meets For Teachers Near End

Pitt County elementary teachers have recently completed their organizational meetings for the coming school year, and the high school teachers are expected to be organized by the end of this week, according to county supervisors Annie Lee Jones and Edna Earle Baker.

At these organizational meetings the teachers make plans for the year's work, and the supervisors present and discuss the teachers' handbook.

Officers for each group this year are as follows:

First grade—Miss Doris Faircloth of Chocod, chairman; and Miss Anne Butler of Ayden, recorder.

Second grade—Mrs. Sarah Glasgow, of Farmville, chairman, and Miss Nancy Holt of Farmville, recorder.

Third grade—Mrs. Margaret Hux of Belvoir, chairman; and Mrs. Edwena Whitley of Grifton, recorder.

Fourth grade—Mrs. Helen L. Jones of Ayden, chairman; and Mrs. Patsy Jones of Falkland, recorder.

Fifth grade—Miss Frances Warren of Bethel, chairman; and Mrs. Geneva Phillips of Fountain, recorder.

Sixth grade—Mrs. Louise Hellwig of Belvoir, chairman; and Mrs. Sylvia Jackson of Bethel, recorder.

Seventh grade—W. C. Berry of Bethel, chairman; and Miss Annie Lee Whitford of Winterville, secretary.

Eighth grade—Mrs. Ruth Watson of Falkland, chairman; and Mrs. Laura Barrier of Stokes, secretary. The seventh and eighth grades have planned to jointly sponsor a play day this year. Appointed as a play day committee in charge of plans are A. S. Alford, Mrs. Jean Musselwhite and Ed Warren from the seventh grade teachers; and Mrs. Igara Barrier, Bob Williams and Clarence Knotts from the eighth grade. Dr. Taylor Dodson, state physical education advisor, is to meet with the committee to assist in the plans.

Dr. Arnold Hoffman, state supervisor of music, has met with the county public school music teachers and has worked for two days this fall with the high school choruses. Chairman of the county music group is Mrs. Emily Walston of Farmville, and Mrs. Rosa Little of Ayden is recorder.

A visit to the libraries of the county public school music teachers, Miss Celeste Johnston, assistant state school library advisor, Miss Johnstone, with state library advisor Cora Paul Bomar, is recommending the library assistants handbook prepared by the Farmville school library assistants, under the direction of Mrs. Baker, for use by librarians and their helpers throughout the state.

Politics First, Last And Always

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—The statehouse employment situation gets a little funny at times. Came a plea recently to mimeograph the governor's speech to the 1955 legislature. Typists were needed. Lela Ortiz, secretary to Revenue Commissioner Mike Gallegos, said there were too many Republican typists and not any Democrats in the statehouse. She thought the Democratic governor's speech ought to be handled only by Democrats. The windup was the speech was typed by girls in the State Education Department, headed by a Democrat.

As of early 1955, Japan's land self defense force amounted to 110,000 men.

Student-Teaching Program Begins, 166 Taking Part

East Carolina College's fall student-teaching program is now in progress with 116 seniors receiving practical experience in classrooms in Greenville and in fourteen other towns of Eastern North Carolina. Thirty-four of the college students are teaching in the primary or the grammar grades.

Dr. J. L. Oppelt, director of student teaching and placement at the college, is coordinator of the program. Supervisors from the college faculty and from the public schools concerned direct the activities of the East Carolina seniors who are preparing themselves as teachers.

Student teachers now at work in the public schools include 48 men and 68 women. Thirty-four have assignments in the Wahl-Coates Laboratory school located on the college campus and are working in grades one through eight. Three of the seniors, located in Greenville city schools, are teaching art or music on both the elementary and the high-school levels so as to gain a varied experience as instructors.

The sixty-eight seniors teaching high-school subjects are working in the Greenville High School, seven schools in Pitt County, and seven schools in other towns in the Eastern section of the state. Subjects taught include art, business education, English, home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, music, physical education, science, French and the social studies.

Centers where the East Carolina seniors have assignments and the number teaching in each are: Greenville High School and other Greenville city schools, 22; Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, 34; Ayden, 7; Belvoir, 1; Bethel, 6; Chocod, 4; Farmville, 6; Grimesland, 3; Winterville, 2; Bailey, 2; Kinston, 7; Lenoora, 2; Robersonville, 2; Rock Ridge, 2; Tarboro, 2; and Washington, 14.

"Between Us Folks"

By BILL ALDRIDGE

GOOD SERIES . . . Whether you are a Yankee or Dodger fan, you will have to admit it has been a fine series. Since I'm a Yankee fan (probably because my wife is a dam Yankee) I'm spouting off at the mouth again, now that it's all tied up. Missed most of the game today because Burl Dixon was out sick (just an excuse to watch the game on TV). You see, Cliff won't let us slaves have the radio on because he is afraid we won't be working every second. He asked me to stay in the store from 12:00 to 2:00. You guessed it . . . Cliff took those two hours off for lunch and watched the game. What really hurt was the fact he wouldn't even give us a report on the game. Had to wait until I got home for lunch to find out. Our turn will come next week because the boss is leaving Sunday for New York where he will spend a week at the Dutch Boy paint factory. Our paint wizard, Dennis Sutton, is really disappointed because he was scheduled to go but after that good-looking red-headed saleswoman came in from the main office, Cliff decided that it would be more appropriate if he went. Hate to squeal on my own sex, but when his wife Anne, reads this, Dennis will more than likely go to New York. This will fix Cliff for not letting us listen to the radio.

RETURN CALL . . . The phone shrilled in the middle of the night, and the man groggily picked up the receiver. It was a long distance call. His heart hammering, he heard, "Is that you, Son?" "Mom! What's wrong?"

"Nothing's wrong." He could hear his Mother's chuckle. "It's your birthday."

"Holy Smokes! You didn't drag me out of bed at 3 a. m. just to say happy Birthday" did you?"

Well, you made me get out of bed at 3 a. m. 30 years ago tonight and I felt it was high time I paid you back!"

WITHOUT A DOUBT . . . In a Minnesota State Legislature debate on the merits of front or rear license plates, a senator agreed that the rear plate was more help to pursuing police, clinched his point with: "Afte: all, most pinches are made from the rear."

ABOUT TOWN . . . Rosemond Tipton recovering nicely from her operation at the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Since she's a "ball of fire" with personality plus, her many friends didn't pay much attention when she advised that she wasn't feeling well of late because Rosemond isn't the type of person you associate with sickness. The operation was kinda on the serious side and she was really sick before entering the hospital. It's funny but its generally the one's who are sick with themselves that get the sympathy. Hurry home Rosemond because if you don't we will have to take Ed to the hospital. . . . Met two charming ladies in the store this morning, Mrs. J. J. White and Mrs. Mattie Barnes. . . . Ernie Hall showing me his new Motorola TV while "bending elbows" at his house. . . . Passed Freida Steinbeck and my thoughts went back ten years ago when we lived next door to she and Frank at Rockingham. Don't come any better than these two. . . . They were very active in civic affairs in Rockingham as in Greenville. Definitely an asset to our community. By the way Freida and Frank. . . . we have that fifth news for you per Dr. Aycock. "It ain't funny, McGee" . . . Lou Reeves hanging out clothes for wife Mary. Believe Lou works harder at home than at his business (ideal Plumbing and Heating Co.) Lou makes it rough on the rest of us husbands because our wives fuss because we do not do as Lou does. Better keep my mouth shut because Mary might take back the baby stroller she gave us. Thank you, Mary. . . . off again. . . . Blue Dunn and Polly Williams in New York seeing the World Series. . . . Willard Pollard, of Pollard Bros. Plumbing Co. "singing the blues" as usual. Willard and brother Sam have really done well for themselves. . . . Tom Chapin constructing a new building on Boyd Ave. for his operation. Tom is and up and coming contractor. . . . Frank Moseley is up now. . . . went down to his office for a short while today. Frank has really been sick. . . . If you ever go fishing with Victor Ricks and spend the night, be sure and wear a raincoat. . . . See me for further details.

XMAS COMING . . . Xmas is just around the corner again and I would like to remind you that at EDWARDS HARDWARE we have many practical gifts. Particularly, Revere copper ware which makes a very nice gift. Be sure and keep us in mind. . . . We still have some Sherwin-Williams paint which we are closing out at cost. . . . SPECIAL 5-piece ironing pad and cover set for $1.59. Regular $3.95. You ladies should get in on this. . . . Mr. Hunter, now that hunting season is on us, let us take care of your needs. We have some hand warmers in stock. The very thing for those cold days. You can get your hunting & fishing license here. . . . Shallow well pumps at $76.60. We install. . . . Believe me, folks, you will save when you trade at Edwards Hardware. If our prices aren't in line let us know and we will make them right. Improvement can be made only through constructive criticism. See you next week.

RFD Service Fills Very Large Gap

Where would Pitt County be without the rural mail carrier? That would be a complicated question to answer, and certainly we will not attempt here to evaluate such a situation. Yet it is interesting to give some thought to this rural free delivery service of the post office rural areas.

R. F. D. has long been a by-word particularly in rural areas such as Pitt County. People who live in the country take it for granted that each day barring a Hazel or Ione the mailman will drive by and put mail in the box at the lane leading to the house.

Although we take R. F. D. service for granted, few

Major Significance In Those 'Honorary' Jobs

While President Eisenhower is recuperating from a heart attack, the delicate feelings of some people may be offended by newspaper comments concerning changes which would come about in government should the President die.

We, along with 160 million other Americans, pray that President Eisenhower lives to complete his term of office and enjoy many leisure years which he most certainly deserves. Yet newspapers would be negligent if they failed to point out what might be expected.

Events of the past several years should have pointed up to the people of the United States—and particularly to the people of North Carolina—the importance of extremely careful selection of the man who is elected to the number two spot in our state and national governments.

The death of President Roosevelt a decade ago suddenly catapulted Harry S. Truman into the presidency. While he proved himself a great leader, there were many questions and misgivings when the burdens of the post of chief executive suddenly were thrust upon the shoulders of the former Senator from Missouri.

At the sudden death of Governor Umstead, North Carolina was indeed fortunate to have in the state's number two office a man of the ability and stature of Luther Hodges.

What could we expect if suddenly Richard Nixon should have to assume the post of Chief Executive of the United States?

Today more than ever the public should realize the tremendous physical strain which the burdens of the office of chief executive of a state or nation place upon a man. Particularly should this be considered when voters go to the polls to cast ballots for their choice in the number two spot in government. It should be seriously considered as party leaders select the nominee for the vice-presidency.

For decades the people of the United States has looked upon the vice presidency as a sort of honorary office which was filled as a matter of formality. Somewhat the same connotation has been associated with the office of Lieutenant Governor in North Carolina.

It is time we should consider the importance of these offices in their true perspective, and select the men to fill them accordingly.

Farmville Gets Bargain In Plans For An Armory

Farmville's efforts to secure an armory were boosted appreciably this week when Pitt County's Board of Commissioners approved an outlay of up to $7,500 from county funds to aid the town in getting the facility.

While the maximum figure set by the County Commissioners for the project was some $2,500 less than requested by Farmville representatives, the $7,500 in financial support from the county should enable Farmville to see the project through to completion.

Under the terms of the commissioners' action, the county will match dollar for dollar all the funds Farmville raises for its new armory up to $7,500. The $100,000 project is to be financed by $75,000 from federal funds, a maximum of $15,000 from state funds and the remainder from local funds, which in this case must come from either Pitt County or the town of Farmville.

Farmville has placed itself in a position to secure a $100,000 facility for an outlay of 7 1/2 to 10 per cent of the total from its own funds. The people of Farmville have no difficulty in recognizing a "good deal" when they see one. With proper support of its townspeople, Farmville should have little trouble getting the $7,500 from its own resources and by so doing take advantage of the offer by the County Commissioners which will assure the construction of the new armory for Farmville.

It is a project which is worthy of wholehearted support by the people of Farmville. It will prove an asset not only to Farmville, but to the entire county.

people stop to realize just how important it is in the every day life of the United States.

Across the country more than 34 million people depend on the R. F. D. carrier for their daily mail. These men drive more than 1,500,000 daily delivering letters, newspapers, magazines and packages.

In Pitt County alone there are approximately 6,100 R. F. D. mail boxes scattered over almost 1,000 miles of roads which carriers travel daily. Those figures indicate between 40 and 45 per cent of the families in Pitt depend upon the R. F. D. service for their mail. It is not difficult to imagine what effect it would have upon our daily living as well as upon our economy if these families—as it was in the old days had to travel to the nearest post office every time they sent or received a piece of mail.

In spite of the fact that the nation's population trend in the past few decades has been from rural to urban living, the rural delivery service of the post office department is now serving more people over more miles of road than ever before in the 59-year history of the service.

There are a good many people—including The Reflector—who complain about mail service in rural areas; but it is obvious how radical a change would come immediately in the life of Pitt County if all R. F. D. routes were suddenly abolished.

Newspaper Week Is Time For Appraisal

OUR WEEK — This is National Newspaper Week, one of the four or five hundred special weeks impinged upon the calendar's 52 for some sort of special observance.

Newspapers, which throughout the year give generous publicity to other special causes, sort of claim this time for themselves. It is a time of prideful boasting and humble confession. For working newspaper men and women it involves the contrasting features of a gala fair at which achievements are put on exhibition, and of a lenten season when faults are confessed, penitential offerings made, and strength obtained to carry on toward greater service to mankind.

Stated another way, it is inventory time for newspapers, a time for appraising assets and liabilities, successes and failures, in order to find basis for charting future courses.

The comprehensive diversity of newspaper work is perhaps its chief attraction. Newspaper publishing is big business. The ancient concept that a shirt full of type is a hand-propelled press and a strong arm were the essentials for starting a newspaper has long since been abandoned. Capital investment in physical equipment to produce the smallest newspaper runs into thousands of dollars, and the amount for big dailies is in the multi-millions.

The business office of a modern newspaper is very much like the office of a manufacturing plant, a department store or a bank. In Newspaper Week observance more attention is given to the business office of newspapering, the editorial and news writing, the obligations for public service and the responsibilities of the newspaper as a medium of information and the promulgation of ideas. The business office cannot be ignored, but emphasis is upon news rather than monetary profit.

DIVERSITY — There are three major types of newspaper writing. First is the narrative or straight news story. Second, the analytical and interpretive, which attempts to get behind and below the news and explain causes and probable results. Third, the editorial, which combines phases of narrative and interpretive and adds another element of pointing morals and citing warnings.

It is impossible to keep distinctions entirely clear. The news reporter can hardly state a fact without expressing an opinion. Which object is large or small, near by or far away, is relative. A gallon container with half a gallon of fluid is half full or half empty depending upon the viewpoint. Choice between two adjectives either of which is completely accurate, can give different meanings to a sentence. The analyst is expected to express opinion, but he has no right to preach a sermon.

The reporter writes, for example, that "Joe Doakes went fishing on Sunday." The interpretive writer can amplify on who Joe Doakes is and why it is significant that he went fishing on Sunday, and may emphasize the person or the event or the time as he sees fit. Only the editorial writer has the right to express opinion as to whether Joe ought to have gone fishing at any time and whether it was morally wrong for him to do it on Sunday.

There is great temptation for the reporter and the analyst to infringe upon the prerogatives of the editorial writer, but for most part they make diligent effort to avoid encroachment and with fair degree of success. The reporter is concerned only with facts; the analyst is interested in causes and effects of the factual happening; the editorial writer seeks to place responsibility and to point the moral, the right or wrong involved in the occurrence.

SERVICE — Another important service of newspapers is the "Public Forum" or "Letters to the Editor" departments. By means of these letters the newspapers afford opportunity for expression of all sorts of ideas, majority of them directly opposed to the editorial policy of the paper, by citizens who cannot afford to publicize their thoughts in any other way.

Close kin to the public forum section is the detailed quotations of speeches and statements by prominent people which occupy so much of the space presumably devoted to news. Actually there is very little news—and often not much literature—in the thousands of words printed to get across the idea that Senator Sorghum is for appropriations and against taxes; or exposition of Richard Roe's theory that hurricanes can be stopped by shooting them in the eye with a poisoned arrow.

This public service phase of newspapering gives editors and publishers more headaches than all other departments combined. Besides the cost of typesetting and printing, and the use of space for advertisements, the newspaper is by law held responsible for publishing libelous material that so often may be hidden in these letters and alleged "news stories" of speeches. That is why newspapers require the correct name and address of correspondents, and require reporters to attribute statements to the individuals making them. It is also why many letters and statements received are never published.

Summarizing, there are three types of newspaper writing: narrative, analytical and editorial—and a fourth type, the free-for-all public forum which often embodies all the others, that combine to make up the balanced modern newspaper.

Other Editors Are Saying... US Endangered As Well As UN

(Rocky Mount Telegram) The action of France in walking out of the United Nations General Assembly and in threatening to quit altogether because the world organization voted over French objection to discuss the issue of Algerian independence, endangers the life and future of the United Nations as nothing else in its ten year history.

The spectacle of the French delegation staking out of the UN Assembly reminded the world of similar boycotts which the Communists have from time to time resorted to in protest over UN discussion of their sins. But even the Communists never threatened to quit the United Nations.

The boorish and childish actions of the Reds were not unexpected. It was and is typical of their general obstructionist tactics. France's desertion of the United Nations is something else.

If a nation such as France, which is supposedly dedicated to the principles of democracy and Western civilization, can pick up its marbles and go home simply because the game at the world forum is not going to suit them, there is no future whatever for the United Nations.

If the violence and bloodshed which has marred North Africa's bid for independence from France is not a proper subject for the United Nations to discuss, then the world must wonder what is the tragedy which has been compounded by the fact that the United States, which once stood squarely for freedom and independence of all peoples, now in its hour of greatest strength is meekly tied to the kite of the outworn and discredited policy of colonialism for the sake of so weak an ally as France.

While only the United States, Britain, the smaller colonial powers and a smattering of Latin American countries voted with France against suppression of this colonial issue, the vote was carried by members of the Asian-African bloc, the Soviet Union and other Communist nations as well as some of our Latin American neighbors.

Thus the United States stands exposed again before all the world as a champion of colonialism and exploitation while the Communist nations underwrite with deeds their propaganda that they alone offer hope for deliverance to colonial peoples.

The drama unfolding in the United Nations endangers more than the existence of that body. It risks the loss of America's friends throughout the world and endangers our security.

A few French bases is not worth the price of such folly.

While Waiting, You'll Hear...

COURTROOM COMMENTS: City policemen and most law enforcement officers have one major gripe and a justifiable one at that. The complaint concerns the number of hours above and beyond the regular working limit that must be spent in court.

Take for example working from midnight until 8 a.m. Then, instead of going home to some much-deserved rest, having to go to court as a witness, sit there for an hour or two and then have the case continued to another day.

At least one officer, Caesar Corbett, has managed to find some humor in the situation. After having been on duty the night before, Caesar showed up in court the following day, ready to give his testimony.

"What are you here for?" one of the other officers asked.

"Serin' to much and hearin' too much," said Caesar.

Still another officer had this timely comment to make. It was just before court time and a group of patrolmen were standing in the corridor passing comments on a certain gentleman's reputation for being handy with a knife.

"Now just what would happen," one patrolman asked the officer in question, "if so-and-so (the gentleman in question) came at you with a knife?"

The officer thought a minute. "Well," he said slowly, "I'm not sayin' what I'd do if he came at me with a knife but I'll tell you what his folks would be doin' about two days later."

"What's that?" he was asked. "Some slow walkin' and some loud singin'," he replied as he headed for the courtroom.

Notebook On Life

Caught With Adjectives Down

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, guess what? Darned if good old National Newspaper Week hasn't rolled around again.

And, as usual, caught us with our adjectives down.

The public, as usual, hasn't tired of any skyrockets. There have been no mass parades, no wide-spread excitement.

This is pretty much the way we hoped the populace would take the occasion. If no group has showed up to shower laurel wreaths upon us and ferry us twice around the town square in triumph, we are consoled by the more positive fact that no indignant subscriber, on the other hand, has marched upon the school class, it will chronicle this event. It also will of the records, no editor ever has been hanged during National Newspaper Week.

One of the purposes of National Newspaper Week, of course, is to show that no editor really deserves hanging.

The other purpose is to emphasize the importance of a newspaper to a community.

There are all kinds of newspapers and they serve many purposes. At the worst a newspaper is a mirror of community smugness; at the best a newspaper is a community alarm clock.

A good newspaper works from a very simple standard. It alerts and informs the citizens about what is going on. If your daughter is graduated as valedictorian of her high school class, it will chronicle this event. It also will chronicle the fact, even though you are a leading advertiser, if you should run away from home with the strawberry blonde wife of the mayor.

Birth, marriage... life and death... crop failures... new buildings... visits... appearances in court... all these are standard items. It won't wait paper.

A good newspaper will go farther. It will chronicle the dreams and defeats of the community and its members. It won't wait for elected authorities to uncover and attack official wrongdoing. If it discovers wrongdoing, it will cry for remedy itself.

A good newspaper will reflect its community as it is, good or bad. It is the community conscience.

The public often doesn't understand its newspaper. It rarely appreciates the drudgery of newspaper work. It throws a false glamour on newspapermen and overemphasize their financial rewards.

The truth about the average newspaperman is that he is a harried man trying with all the energy and understanding he has to find out and tell what is going on in the most complex civilization the world has ever known.

His final reward—for all the world or his widow can see—is usually a small tombstone; his real monument is the memory he leaves to his friends.

A patient craftsman in the world of news cannot in his heart wish anything better than to be remembered after he is gone by someone in the same business, saying something after the last edition like:

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON BEING OBJECTIVE

A well-known figure whose career had had much publicity and who had been flattered and admired by multitudes once said despondingly: "The great purpose of my life has been to get away from myself."

Now ponder the fact that the best part of this man's life had been spent in a course of fashionable dissipation. Absorbed in self-contemplation, standing out as the hero of many an hour and conspicuous for the abandon with which he sought pleasure for its own sake, he came at last to a tragic end—he became the pitiful object of his own hatred and scorn.

It is hard to endure the hatred of others, but the most terrible hatred man is ever called upon to endure is the hatred he has for himself when the realization comes over him that he is a selfish, self-centered, and miserable creature who works only for his own self-advancement and gratification.

Objectivity is one of the great achievements of which man is capable. Get out of yourself. Take a good look at yourself and see yourself as others see you. If you do, you may be pleased. But it is also true that you may be shocked and horrified. The man who lives only for himself bows daily beneath the blows of a hard taskmaster. It is only when we love our lives that we really find them.

Stress Kinship Of Farm-Labor Voters

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "Any farmer or factory worker who votes against the Democratic Party ought to have his head examined!"

This campaign ultimatum by Harry S. Truman at the Philadelphia convention in 1948 will form the basis of the Democrats' Presidential appeal next year. If the views of the extreme liberals prevail in the inner councils. This strategy was agreed upon at the recent conference of the Agriculture Policy Committee appointed by National Chairman Paul M. Butler.

Two former Truman Cabinet members with leftist ideas Charles S. Brannan and Claude Wickard, are co-chairmen of the group, counted on to round up the supposedly restless farm vote. But equally important in the drive for rural and urban voters are Walter Reuther, CIO president, and James G. Patton, head of the radical National Farmers Union.

In short, if this faction has its way, the Democrats will enter the campaign as an outright Farmer-Labor Party.

CIO PLAN Reuther will be the key figure in trying to sell the idea that farmers and workingmen should form an alliance within the framework of the Party. His CIO agents have been tramping the corn-and-wheat belt to preach this gospel within the last few months.

In preparation for the 1956 operation, Reuther has made unusual efforts to organize industries ever remotely connected with the farm problem. He now controls unions engaged in making automobiles, trucks and other motor vehicles. He has lately been lining up workers engaged in the manufacture of farm machinery, equipment, fertilizers, chemicals, electric appliances, etc.

In fact, the youngish and energetic Detroit leader began his drive early in the last session of Congress. First, he made a surprise appearance before the House Agriculture Committee to testify on behalf of 90 per cent price supports, and against the Eisenhower-Benson flexible system.

ECONOMIC KINSHIP In his testimony, Reuther stressed that there was an economic kinship between the prosperity of the men on the farms and in the factories. Finally, under the frank of Representative Harold D. Coolidge, of North Carolina, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee he sent out more than 100,000 copies of his manifesto, not to the farmers, but to members of his automotive unions.

GOP strategists, already alarmed by the so-called "revolt of the farmers" in normally Republican states, recognize the attempted Reuther-Brannan-Patton-Wickard coup as a real threat. Reuther has demonstrated his political and organizing ability by virtually transforming Michigan, once a rock-ribbed Republican stronghold into Democratic territory.

With Governor G. Mennen Williams as a favorite son entry together with his influence on labor delegates from other areas, the CIO president will be an influential figure at the Democratic

Hoping For Sales Help In Copper

By ELMER ROESSNER

Just as charcoal gray boosted sales of men's apparel, so may copper stimulate sales of housewares and appliances. One tip-off: Westinghouse is bringing out a steam iron in an antique copper-tone finish. With all the consumer research facilities at its command, Westinghouse doesn't fool with passing fads.

For several years, copper and copper colors have been gaining greater acceptance in interior decorating. The metallic hues easily become integral parts of modern designs and they are elemental in early American decor. Copper, aluminum anodized in copper tones and other attractive in plaques, fireplace trim, bric-a-brac and other decorative accents. Curiously, copper colors have richer appearances than many gold tones.

The moderate popularity of copper tones in both men's and women's shoes has pedaled the vogue along. So has the rise of interest in price-minded fabrics. It's in kitchens, however, that copper is gaining fastest. While many claims for conductivity and economy have been made for copper pots and pans, it's probable housewives buy them mostly for their attractiveness and use as wall decorations. As with other rooms, copper accessories are appropriate for both modern and early American kitchens.

Copper colors have been used, a bit cautiously, as trim on large appliances. Now it is beginning to appear on small electric wares and other gadgets. Soon kitchens will become cuprous sun-bursts.

The fact that copper has been rising in price may enhance its desirability. The red metal was down to a low of 5.7 cents a pound in 1932 and even during World War II barely reached 12 cents. It sold at 49 cents last week and traders say it may go higher.

Manufacturers and retailers may gain by watching the copper vogue closely and, if it becomes as strong as clues now indicate, direct their operations accordingly.

U. S. LISTS LITERATURE ON RADIATION STERILIZATION

Possibilities that atomic radiation may someday supplant other methods of sterilizing foods are so strong that the Department of Commerce's Office of Technical Services, Washington 25, D. It now offers: PB 111634, Radiation Sterilization, Review of Literature in Selected Fields, February, 1955; 77 pages, $2. PB 111635, Bibliography on Ionizing Radiations, Part I, May, 1954, 206 pages, $6.75. Part II, 320 pages, $8. PB 111637, Part III, 281 pages, $7.25.

THIS MEANS BUSINESS FOR PRINTERS, LAWYERS

Another record was set this year: proposed new laws.

A total of 81,596 measures was introduced in legislatures in 46 states, Alaska and Hawaii by mid-September, according to the nation's count of Commerce Clearing House. And the end is not yet. Two state legislatures are still in session, two more are scheduled to reconvene and special sessions are likely in several other states.

The previous record: 75,966 bills in 1953.

MAGNETIZED NUMBERS BRING AUTOMATIC BANKING

Some time ago it was predicted here that eventually all punch cards, like government checks, and that most banking will become mechanized.

Now ERMA makes us look part right, part wrong.

ERMA stands for "electric recording machine, accounting." If it had been called an electric accounting recording machine, it would have been EARM, which wouldn't have been so cute.

ERMA was unveiled by Stanford Research Institute at Menlo Park. It is a pilot model built for the Bank of America and it will handle 50,000 accounts in four branches. It will sort checks, credit accounts with deposits, subtract withdrawals, accept stop payment and withhold orders, reject overdrafts and keep customers' balances current.

The checks use magnetized numbers instead of punch holes. But the system is automatic.

Convention. More than any other labor spokesman, he will have a great deal to say in naming the candidate and framing the platform.

AN ADDED ASSET In addition to the Farmer-Labor organization, Reuther will have another asset. By the time the convention meets, in all the vice-president of the united labor movement resulting from the merger of his CIO and the American Federation of Labor.

There have been numerous attempts in the past to persuade the farmers and the workingmen to think alike and to vote alike. Most of them have been unsuccessful.

Never before, however, have the leaders of the two groups of voters who represent more than half of the electorate, labored or planned so hard to achieve their goal of an alliance between the men on the farms and in the shops. And Truman's 1948 slogan will be their rallying cry.

Stock Market Deemed Barometer For Nation

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—American stock markets are watched today by millions of persons around the world who don't own a share of stock. Why?

Because they feel in their bones that broad trends of stock prices may foretell what will happen to their business, their job their savings, their prospects.

Others say: "So what? I don't own any stock." They may dismiss the daily ups and downs of stock prices as the mere carrying on of speculators—the pros who constantly are in and out of the market looking for a fast buck. The detractors hold that the old tradition of the market's importance as a barometer or as a direct influence on business is outdated.

But the way the market rates the success of one corporation, or of most corporations, still can be of real importance to many people. Workers get nervous if the price of their company's stock continues to sink. So does the board of directors.

Price weakness could mean—although not necessarily—that stock traders believe either that management is lax, or that the company's products are slipping in public favor, or that its competitive position is being undermined by rivals.

If the stocks of an entire industry rise or fall, it may be the public's first intimation that the economic pattern is changing. This can affect job and earnings prospects, or telegraph a blow to an entire community or region.

When the entire market mills around the way it did last week, with a sharp break followed by rallies, it could mean either one of two things:

1. That the world and domestic political situation is such a touch-and-go affair that the health of one man, the President of the States, could color overnight the prospects of good times or bad, of peace or conflict.

2. That the public is already nervous about "how high is up", and is farsighted that stock prices are due for a levitation anyway. In either case the initial impact is psychological. It tends to make some individuals think twice about their own plans. Paper profits take on the look of tissue.

New York merchants report that in the past a bear market has coincided with a slump in store sales. Elsewhere in the nation this is much less likely, since New York seems more prone to emotional ups and downs about business. When last week's sharp market break didn't turn out to be "another 1929" as a few may have feared there was great and obvious relief.

This relief was felt by the many Americans who don't own stock and don't stand to make or lose a dollar immediately. But many of them felt that a prolonged market break would make their employers nervous, cut work schedules, perhaps imperil jobs. The market's rally the following day just as surely reassured many that the economy appeared sound to the investing segment of the public.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The first missionary of the Methodist Church of Australia, coming from the aboriginal inhabitants of that continent, has been officially commissioned at a special service in Moeumber, Western Australia. She is Miss Alice Chadd, who was appointed by the Church's Board of Missions after outstanding work at the Moeumber mission. Miss Chadd, who is aged 24 and was born at Mt. Magnet, about 70 miles inland west of Geraldton, spent her early childhood at the Moore River native settlement, but later moved to the Reelands mission station, where she remained until she was 18. Then she returned to the Midlands, saw the need of her fellow natives and volunteered for work at Moeumber. She soon showed outstanding ability and gave excellent leadership at the mission during the past two years.

Dogpatch-style reactions to the fears of the atomic-hydrogen age were discussed recently by Dr. Ina C. Brown, Nashville, Tenn., professor of social anthropology at Scarritt College. In an address to women leaders of the Methodist Church, she said some Americans are making the "Hooray!" response—times are good for them and the homeless millions are far away. They buy speedier cars, newer television sets and refuse to believe that destruction may wait around the corner. "The sob crowd has given up as lost and are resigned to whatever comes," the professor asserted. "Our hope seems to lie in adding to that number of persons who are willing to say 'Gulp' and go on from there with courage and faith."

Miss Constance Hallock, of New York City, formerly with the department of information of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., is enroute to Cairo, Egypt, where she will take up literacy work under Division of Literature of the National Council of Churches, in association with American Mission (United Presbyterian) of Cairo. Miss Hallock will work in close cooperation with Dr. Davida Finney, a United Presbyterian, born and brought up in Egypt, where her people were United Presbyterian missionaries. Dr. Finney is in charge of the literacy work of the mission at Cairo. Miss Hallock will work with English-speaking teachers, writers, and editors.

Here's How Hit TV Comedy Was Born

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Here's how a first-rate comedy series was born. The series is "You'll Never Get Rich" (CBS-TV, Tuesday evenings), starring Phil Silvers as Master Sergeant Bilko. Silvers is talking.

"When I finished 'Top Banana' (the Broadway hit which he made into a movie) I was invited to entertain at a President's dinner in Washington. All the networks were represented. Well, I was really hot that night and I knew it. I'm really a modest, guy but I knew I was hot that night."

"Afterwards I was talking to Hub Robison of CBS (Hubbell Robinson, Jr., Vice President in charge of TV programming) who had attended the dinner, and he said something that really jolted me. He said, 'Phil, what's a typical Phil Silvers show?' That was the nicest thing anybody in television ever said to me. Whenever they made a pass at me before they're signed with CBS and I found myself sitting around in a big plush office with Nat Hiken, an old friend of mine who used to write the Martha Raye show."

"Nat is a deadline writer. He likes to spend a lot of time sitting around thinking before he starts anything. But he couldn't stand our big plush office. Nat insisted we move our office out to an empty loft in a tenement building I think they were tearing down. Noise! I never heard anything like it. I was getting hoarse shouting so Nat could hear me. But he loved it. He'd shout at me and I'd shout at him. We must have shouted 50 ideas at each other.

"Then one day Nat yelled, 'Phil, I think you ought to be in the army!' I yelled, 'No!' The next day he yelled, 'Phil, I think you ought to be in the army!' Well, we took to walking in Central Park so we could hear each other talking, and all of a sudden I began thinking I ought to be in the army. That's the way Nat is."

"All this time, you understand, CBS left us strictly alone. Here we were being paid regular and walking around in Central Park or sitting in that darn office. They're really nice guys at CBS. They leave you alone. So one day we walked into Hub's office and said it looked as if I ought to be in the army, and Hub said swell. Then we said we ought to film the series, and Hub said swell, when did we want to leave for Hollywood?"

"Not and I started screaming 'Not Hollywood!' as loud as if we were back in the tenement. See, New York is our town. They're electric in New York. So we told 'em at CBS if the movies could film 'On the Waterfront' here there was no reason why CBS couldn't film 'You'll Never Get Rich' here. So they said okay and we did it."

The story has a happy ending because everybody we know is nuts about "You'll Never Get Rich."

4-H County Council Elects New Officers

Horace Corbett was elected president of the 4-H County Council at its first fall meeting Monday night. Corbett is a member of the Farmville Senior 4-H club.

Other new officers include Minnie Anderson, Belvoir-Parkland, vice president; Larry Dilda, Farmville, secretary; Alice Waters, Winterville-Greenville, treasurer; Lelia Davenport, Winterville-Greenville, song leader; Edward Earl Lee, Stokes, historian; Della Ann Stokes, Chocod, pianist; and Rosalie Moore, Stokes, reporter.

The new officers will be installed on 4-H Achievement Day in November.

The nominating committee which proposed the new slate was composed of Phyllis Corbett, outgoing president; Peggy Joyner, Move Waters and Bill Farrior.

Council members discussed their plans for the year. Fair with assistant Farm agent Cecil Register, and a committee composed of Horace Corbett, Larry Dilda, Alice Waters and Lois Simmons was appointed to be in charge of the Council exhibit. Three 4-H clubs which plan to have booths are the Fountain junior club, and the Farmville and Stokes senior clubs.

Register and assistant Home agents Elizabeth Johnson and Le's Jones led a training period in which Council members were instructed how to conduct a 4-H club meeting. Responsibilities of each club officer were also discussed. During the recreation period Rosalie Moore trained the song leaders and officers in new songs for club meetings.

Foe Of Alimony Is Shunning Food

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Michael J. Plesco, 67, sipped coffee and soft drinks today but shunned food for the 10th day of his jail sentence imposed for not complying with a court order to pay alimony to his 36-year-old divorced wife.

The retired dentist vowed he wouldn't touch food for 30 days. He argues his ex-wife married him just to gain entrance to this country from Yugoslavia and should not have been granted a divorce.

He looks a little haggard but is chippy and apparently in good physical condition.

Peace Offer By Red Labor Bloc

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions made a bid today for reconciliation with anti-Red unions of the West.

WFTU President Giuseppe di Vittorio sounded the peace overture in an article on the WFTU's 10th anniversary published by the Cominform Weekly at Bucharest, Romania.

Di Vittorio said it is impossible for the "working people of any trend" to reconcile themselves to continuance of a cold war between trade union movements while international tensions are being relaxed.

He said the question of union unity should be posed in a new way "offering greater prospects of success."

Strayed Lambs Won't Go Back

TOKYO (AP)—The Japan Communist party is welcoming back the strayed lambs—but they won't return.

Kyodo news service reported today the party, featuring a "new look," has invited back the members who were thrown out for failing to keep up with the twists and turns of the party line since the war.

But, says Kyodo, the Communists who were told to take their cards and go—either for being too hard, or too mild—are refusing to come back. Of 10,000 approached law enforcement agencies said, only 35 re-entered the party.

Stalled, Pushed Right Into Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police say Joseph E. Matthews, 45, got a push for his stalled auto—right into jail.

Gas station attendant James A. Jackson, 24, said he was looking under Matthews' car hood yesterday when he heard the money till close. Jackson quietly pulled the car's ignition wires and then courtously pushed Matthews and the car from the station.

Jackson returned, discovered $91 missing and called police. Officers said they found Matthews wondering why his car wouldn't start. He was booked on suspicion of robbery.

Alston Predicts His Champions Stronger Next Year

Declares Mound Staff Slated To See Improvement

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Their long-cherished dream finally a reality, the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers loomed today as the team which will represent the National League in the 1956 World Series.

Walter Alston, first of 30 managers dating back to 1890 to lead the Brooklyn club to a world title, modestly predicted his team would be even stronger next year than the one which whipped the New York Yankees in the series, 4 games to 3.

"Improved pitching will make us stronger," the tall, taciturn former Ohio schoolteacher said during a will in the Dodgers' riotous victory celebration after their 2-0 triumph in the final game.

JOHNNY PODRES

"Johnny Podres (who was so superb in his two victories over the Yankees) should develop into one of the game's greatest pitchers," Alston said. "He has all the stuff to make a great one and he may come into his own next year. Those world series victories should give him the necessary confidence."

"Then we have Karl Spooner, Roger Craig, Don Bessent and Sandy Koufax. All are young, strong and have shown tremendous promise. And remember, we still have our reliable such as Don Newcombe, Carl Erskine, Billy Voss, Clem Labine and others."

Alston did not mention such standout stickmen as Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo. All undoubtedly will be at the old stand next year, including the aging but still brilliant Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson. Junior Gilliam, Sandy Amoros, Don Hoak and Don Zimmer, representing the younger elements, will figure prominently in the Dodgers' future plans.

There's no denying that all figured prominently in the great Dodger victory of 1955 climaxed by the pulse-pounding triumph at Yankee Stadium before 62,465 spectators.

Even the staunchest American League die-hards could not begrudge Brooklyn's finest hour as they watched the 23-year-old Podres become the first Brooklyn pitcher to win two games in a World Series. They saw the Dodgers make maximum use of their five hits and marveled at the brilliant Brooklyn defense that five times turned the Yankees back when it appeared they were about to break through.

At the finish, when Reese, the stonewall shortstop, threw out Elston Howard, the big park rocked with human emotion as the entire Dodger team reeled out on the field to embrace the gritty young south-paw.

In one blazing, thrill-packed afternoon, after four decades of trying, a Dodger team finally succeeded in winning a world title, and they won it from a team which had humiliated them in five previous series.

Never before had a team won a seven-game series after dropping the first two games. Another record that brought joy to the victors was the total net receipts of $2,367,515.34, making it the richest World Series ever.

Lewis Seeks 'Combination'

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer
 Greenville head coach Guy Lewis, looking forward to an open date this weekend, is putting his team through a series of bruising practice sessions and experimental drills in search of "working combination."

In two weeks, on October 14, the Green Terrors invade Elizabeth City territory, seeking their second Northeastern Conference victory. The Phantoms hold a loop win over Jacksonville and have been defeated by Kingston's Red Devils and Washington. They smothered Beaufort 33-0 in their only non-conference match.

Elizabeth City Tough
 The Yellow Jackets of Elizabeth City were a pre-season favorite to take the league crown and have shown no evidence of upsetting the experts, thus far this year. They boast a heavy line, made up mostly of seniors, that has been responsible for the squad's success against Northeastern foes during early action. Elizabeth City and Greenville have played a common foe, Washington; the Jackets dominated most of the action and dumped the Pam Pack by one touchdown. Coach

Lewis' group took an 18-12 licking. Also, from the T. Elizabeth City has displayed several good runners that should give the Greene line a real test. Sparking the Phantom forward wall may be any of the following: Pete West, Peter Hudson, Howard King, Wad Jordan, Fred Nobles, Angus Duff, Edwin Wilkerson, Hulton Hunsacker, Charles Hollingsworth, Klutz Fisher, Jack Calhoun, Barney Barrett, Billy Johnson, Kelly Barnhill, Godfrey Oakley.

Two key Phantom stalwarts at the end posts, Hal Edwards and Ike Riddick, are out at the present with injuries. Both boys, however, are hoped to be back in uniform to tangle with the Jackets.

While defense is the thing to be stressed in the Green Camp for the next two weeks, the scoring punch of the Phantoms will not be neglected. Coach Lewis and assistant coaches Stan Jones and Vaughn Fowler have planned all season to perfect a passing attack that will give their team a more versatile drive. "But," as Coach Lewis has stated, "a team must be able to run before it can pass." Quarterback Jerry Drum is a capable passer, but thus far, has lacked good targets and protection.

Sermons Leads Parade
 Husky Fullback Billy Sermons leads the parade of Greenville runners who will attempt to crack the tough E.C. line. The powerful junior's gallops average over seven yards a clip every time he touches the ball. Against Beaufort, he averaged 19 yards per carry.

Others who will collide with the Jackets, jugging the Phantom backfield hopes, will be Robert Howell, Bob Shackleford, Tommy Norris, Charlie Smith, Jim Kelly, Mack Roebuck, Charles Stator and Bobby Edwards. Shackleford's best game to date was last week's Washington encounter, in which he averaged 9.2 yards per run.

The Phantoms are going through a process of remodeling now, as the coaches seek to place every boy at the position he plays best. There definitely will be several changes made in the opening lineup when the locals take to the field against Elizabeth City, but only Coaches Lewis, Fowler and Jones will know of them until the whistle blows.

East Carolina Gridders Working On Offense For Elon Visitors Saturday

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor
 The East Carolina Pirates concentrated on offense in yesterday's workout in preparation for Elon here this Saturday.

Coach Jack Boone whipped his charges through a brisk two-hour scrimmage in which the first two units ran against Elon defenses, set up by freshmen.

The first eleven looked good as they drove the ball everywhere they wanted. Several of the backs peeled off sparking gains against an out-classed third team.

Wide Open Line
 There was no No. 1 line, with the positions wide open and the competition fiery. Only end Ray Pennington, tackle Jerry Brooks and center Lou Hallow are insured of berths.

The other flanker spot is being contested for by Tommy Waggoner, Bobby Clark and J. D. Bradford. This is Bill Helms' old position but he hasn't been able to go full speed because of an injured leg.

Tommy Jones has been relieving Pennington at the other end. Charles Smith works behind Brooks at left tackle. The competitive right tackle has Waverly Chesson and Ray Overton in the thick of the fight. Overton is the 1954 starter but Chesson has gotten the nod in

Host Of Series Records Set By Winning, Losing Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' seven-game World Series victory over the New York Yankees established 18 new records and tied 11 others.

For the Dodgers, Gil Hodges shattered a mark for first basemen by starting three double plays and both clubs broke the twin-killing record with 12. In the hitting department, Snider hit four homers to boot; his series total to nine, the highest total compiled by a National League player.

Phil Rizzuto set a record previously held by his former Yankee teammate Joe DiMaggio as he appeared in his 52nd Series game.

Records broken:
 - Most games played, total series—Rizzuto New York, 52.
 - Most double plays started, first baseball Series—Hodges, Brooklyn, 3.

Ayden Eleven Is Preparing For Non-Conference Clash

ball team began practice yesterday in preparation for its coming non-loop contest with Pamlico County school. Drills are taking place without the aid of regular fullback Tommy Edwards, who suffered a twisted ankle in last week's 6-0 loss to Farmville.

Coach Stuart Tripp commented today that it is "hopeful that Edwards will see action against Pamlico, but not definite." The young Tornado mentor reported no other injuries, but stated that halfback R. L. Collins has not yet regained full strength from an earlier knee injury.

Friday night's loss to Farmville fashioned the Tornado record against over-all competition to 2-1-1. In league play, Coach Tripp holds a 1-1-1 slate.

Offensive Drills
 The Ayden squad will feature offensive maneuvers throughout this week's practice sessions. Coach Tripp said today "We hope to improve our scoring attack. We are weakest in that department and need a lot of practice in our running through the line. Defense has been our best play all season. If we can get our running game to match our defensive play, we'll be alright."

Tripp and assistant coach Tom Craft will review the basic fundamentals of moving the ball on the ground this week, with quarterback Lindy Dunn pacing the backs. Burt Tripp and Latham Dennis, big offensive guns in the Tornado forward wall, will lead the linemen in drill.

Stocks Outstanding
 Defensively the entire Ayden team is powerful. The Ayden coach praised his line for fine play against Farmville last week, and singled out Leslie Stocks, as outstanding.

Rizzuto Regards Reese As Top Troublemaker

NEW YORK (AP)—"Well," sighed Phil Rizzuto, the New York Yankee shortstop today, "it was a long series."

"And do you know who was the most troublesome guy to the Yankees all through the series? Pee Wee Reese."

This was the first series Rizzuto had lost and it made the deepest impression on him.

"Reese is always dangerous at the bat, although he doesn't have a real high average," said Little Phil. "But what he can do to you in the field is murder. He literally is the man to beat."

"He runs when you can't stand it and he walks and he steals. Neither Roy Campanella nor Jackie Robinson had a good series against us. And Duke Snider never has been their sparkplug although he was their power the last two series."

Glenn Flanagan To Fight Chavez

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Chavez of San Jose, Calif., meets Glenn Flanagan, a substitute from St. Paul, Minn., tonight in a 10-round lightweight bout which will be televised nationally.

Flanagan has lost only 14 of 100 bouts. He is appearing for Cisco Andrade a Compton Calif., boxer who suffered a throat infection.

Chavez, who has a record of 52 victories, 8 losses and 3 draws, outpointed Flanagan four years ago. This will be the first outing for Chavez since he was knocked out by Andrade last August in six rounds at San Jose.

The bout will be carried by the American Broadcasting Co. starting at 6 p.m. Pacific Standard Time 9 p.m. EST.

Farmville Team Losing A First-String Tackle

After dumping the Ayden Tornadoes 6-0 last week in a Coastal Conference victory, Coach Elbert Moye's Farmville gridders began drills in preparation for their coming match with Robertsonville.

Coach Moye reported no injuries after the tight struggle Friday night, but stated that the Red Devils would lose first string tackle David Braxton, who is moving to Wisconsin this week. Braxton was an outstanding defensive lineman for the Farmville squad and will leave a gap that will have to be filled.

Returning to practice yesterday was first string fullback Bobby Meeks. Meeks was injured in an auto accident earlier this year. "We don't expect Bobby to play next week," said Coach Moye, "but we'll use him as soon as he gets in condition."

The Farmville squad has been stressing downhill blocking in recent drills. Coach Moye stated that this particular aspect of Red Devil play was weak. Also, the Farmville defense is getting a taste of the single-wing formation for the first time this season. Robertsonville has used this style of play successfully, being undefeated thus far. The Rams hold a 3-2-0 record.

"We're expecting a close game all the way," said Coach Moye of the encounter. "Robertsonville tied Ayden, 0-0, and we only managed to beat them by one score. It could be anybody's ball game." The contest will take place in Farmville and is a loop battle.

Plan Welcoming Tommy Byrne

WAKE FOREST, N. C. (AP)—Pitcher Tommy Byrne of the New York Yankees was scheduled to return home today and awaiting him was a big welcome.

Town officials and civic leaders planned to be on hand along with two bands to honor Byrne, a former Wake Forest College baseball star.

Byrne, who held the Brooklyn Dodgers to five hits in winning the second game of the World Series, 4-2, was scheduled to land at the Raleigh-Durham Airport this afternoon. He gave up three hits in 5 1-3 innings yesterday against the Dodgers, who won the deciding game, 2-0.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

From the kitchen came the muted sound of running water, the tinkles of silver, the scraping of kettles, and the voices of women.

Carol stretched out comfortably. "So that's Jane. I never pictured her like that. Roger was always so generous, never a word against her. He said she was a fine person. But I'd have expected her to be more attractive, wouldn't you? Do you think it's true that she won't write about Roger?"

"We have the same agent," Lois said. "She would never set us at conflicting jobs."

"I suppose not. Still, it's queer that Jane should come back here now unless she wants something. She hasn't been in Stoweville since the divorce and now she comes back just when Roger dies. I heard she was in town and at the services—though I didn't see her myself. Unless she thinks—but Roger didn't leave her a cent. Anyhow," Carol conceded, "I don't believe she is mercenary. She wouldn't accept a cent of alimony from Roger, though he felt awful about it."

She brooded for a moment. "I wonder just how Shandy will get out of taking her to dinner. He's never gone to public places since the divorce because of the way he looked. Getting him here to lunch was an achievement. I can't tell you." Her voice changed. "Unless he wanted to see you again."

With a murmured excuse Lois got up to leave.

"I'm terribly sorry," Carol told her. "You know I made that idiotic mistake about the day you were coming and I'm dining with Dr. Thomas and his wife tonight. They wanted me to get away from the house and my great sorrow for a little while. So I've asked Bessie to fix you a tray. Do you mind?"

Lois assured her that she did not mind in the least and went out into the broiling sun with a feeling of escape. She strodded up the path through the woods that led to her cottage in the dark shade of the trees, watching a tiny orange lizard scramble over a minute twig.

There were voices at her cottage; evidently the Hatterys were at work. But when she came in sight of the place she saw that the voices belonged to Shandy Stowe and Joe Hattery.

"as a second offender," Shandy was saying. "I'm not going back to prison. Nobody's going to railroad me."

"Nobody is trying to. But I warn you to drop this now."

"Yeah? I'm not dumb. Mr. Stowe, I got eyes and 20-20 vision."

"And a big mouth. Watch it, Hattery or you'll be sorry you were born."

Hattery brushed off his hands with a gesture that was vaguely impatient, faintly challenging. Then he straightened and saw Lois. Warned by his eyes Shandy turned around.

"Hi there," he said cheerfully. "The Hatterys have the cottage nearly ready. Ethel has the place cleaned; she's getting fresh bedding and soap and towels. Joe will put that windowpane in for you and bring you an electric heater."

He steered her quickly inside the house as though eager to get her out of Hattery's presence.

Already the cottage looked more cheerful. It was spotlessly clean.

the Dutch door was wide open. On the big worktable were piled a dozen or more heavy scrapbooks.

Shandy looked around dubiously. "Does it look all right? Anything more you need?"

"Sorry, it's fine." "Thank you. I can't kill the fatted calf for you tonight, but Jane—"

"Of course." He looked down at her with a faint smile. "Tomorrow, then. It's good to have you here; better than good. I never really expected to see you again. As though a chapter had ended. Or the whole book."

For a moment he bent over as though he were going to kiss her; then he changed his mind and went quickly out of the cottage.

Lois lit a cigarette, settled down at the oversized table that had been Roger Brindle's and arranged the scrapbooks in chronological order. They contained all his columns from the beginning, twenty years before, with one volume devoted to pictures. She opened this one first. It was, she discovered in surprise, simply an old-fashioned picture album.

Each picture had been neatly dated with name printed underneath. The grim pair on the first page were Sarah and Jeremy Grant; Sarah, comic in leg of mutton sleeves, a large plumed hat and trailing skirt was not comic in the thinness of her mouth, the flaring of her nostrils. She appeared to be the sister of Roger's father and it was she and her husband who had brought up the boy after the death of his parents. Not Lois ruminated, a congenial home for a small child. Her agile imagination pictured the boy being sent back to close doors noiselessly, scraping his shoes before entering a spotless kitchen, being seen and not heard at table.

She studied carefully the pictures of Roger as a small boy, trying to learn something from the child he had been. He had always been homely but even in group pictures, taken with other children, his was a face to which one turned back. He and the elusive, intangible thing called charm.

There was a sound of heavy breathing behind her and Lois who had not heard a footstep, turned with a start. A woman with flaxen braids wrapped around her head and a pockmarked face was looking around the cottage as though seeking for something.

"I am Ethel Hattery," she said. "You must be Mrs. Fleming."

Lois held out her hand. "How do you do, Mrs. Hattery. I've looked forward to knowing you."

Ethel smiled faintly. "That's nice of you." She dropped a heap of linen and blankets on a chair. "The place will be ready as soon as the bed is made up. Then you won't be disturbed. I'm used to writers. Mr. Brindle didn't like to have anyone around when he was working."

Smallpox had left her skin pitted and doughy in texture but her features were good. Her eyes disturbed Lois. Hot eyes, she thought. A volcano. She had a healthy distrust of unleashed emotion.

Ethel Hattery opened the big couch made the bed, hung towels in the bathroom. Lois watched her. Stalking around like Lady Macbeth, Carol Brindle had said, and had added resentfully, "as though she were the widow."

Not Lady MacBeth. Lois thought Roger Brindle's secretary was a heroine straight out of one of the Bronte sisters. Not Lois told herself, that she minded emotion but she respected its control. If only people didn't pride themselves so on their emotional orgies.

Speight Urges Fullest Support

Pitt County Farm Bureau President J. B. Speight is asking local farmers to lend "full support" to Farm Bureau in order to help push North Carolina to the lead position in the South in membership.

North Carolina, currently third in the South in this respect, has the highest membership potential, aside from Texas, of any of the 13 southern states, Speight stated.

"With our high percentage, we could certainly climb above Alabama and Kentucky," the Farm Bureau leader said, explaining that "these two states stand one-two both in number of membership and in percentage of potential membership acquired."

North Carolina has a potential upwards of 163,000, but last year acquired a membership of only 71,066 farm families.

"With a larger membership in the Farm Bureau we could carry a lot more weight in this process," he stated, and then pointed out that Farm Bureau leaders, appearing in the farmer interest before the General Assembly, when it is in session, can be "no stronger than we in the local counties make them by our membership support."

Red Army Base Holds Key Site

By TOM REEDY
STETTIN, Poland (AP)—The Russians have built a giant military base between Stettin and Kolberg in northwestern Poland. All the Soviet army troops stationed in Poland are in this area, about 30 square miles in territory that was German before the war. The sector also contains jet airfields and naval installations along the Baltic.

To try for an estimate of the Russian strength is to invoke stony-eyed silence. Work on the base started three years ago. It serves as the supply center for the 300,000-man Soviet army stationed in East Germany. And it gets the Russians out of sight in Poland. The defense thinking of the Russians makes sense. Poles commented. One semiofficial informant describes this area as "a Prussian field marshal's dream." The reason: It is flat with no natural terrain for defense and once tanks broke out of the Stettin-Kolberg pocket nothing could stop them. These people know. They saw it happen before.

The old Soviet base at Liegnitz was eradicated along with sub-bases through the heart of Poland from Frankfurt-Oder to Brest-Litovsk.

Polish informants describe the situation insofar as they dare speak about it. In the postwar years, the Russians supplied their garrison in Germany by rail. Anti-Soviet partisans kept three Russian divisions busy protecting the lifeline. Double locomotives had to be used, the first one to touch off land mines. In the Rokossovsky plan, relocation of the base was tied in with a master system of supplying by ship. Not only supplies but Soviet troops being redeployed are moved by ship from Koenigsberg (Kalinigrad) to Stettin and there the short hop to the German frontier is easily negotiated and protected.

In two weeks this correspondent has driven 2,000 miles in Poland and by actual count has seen only six Russians in uniform. The western base is the explanation. ## Home Mistaken For Movie House

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Constance Cooper finds it's easier to pretend that her home is a movie theater than to try to explain it isn't. The trouble began a year ago when the telephone directory listed a theater's number as Wan 0256—which is Mrs. Cooper's number.

Mrs. Cooper has been a widow since her husband's death in 1944. Officials were sorry, but nothing could be done for at least a year and a half. A new directory will be published then.

Calls continued to pour in. "I've been summoned from my bed, from my bath, from my garden and my TV set," said Mrs. Cooper. "I've been called from my kitchen and meals have been ruined. Then I gave up."

Each week Mrs. Cooper looks up the titles of the films the theater will be showing, jobs down the starting times and other pertinent information.

"I find it much easier to recite the information than to try to explain the situation," she sighed, "but it does get tiresome."

Last week she answered 200 wrong numbers.

Ten Fingers Or Eight, It's Time To End Mix-Up

LONDON (AP)—It's the medical profession decides whether man has 10 or 8 fingers and thumbs. Another reckons 10 fingers. In the British Medical Journal and Lancet, Dr. Robert Forbes writes:

"There's confusion everywhere. Textbooks disagree. Anatomists generally refer to the thumb, index finger, middle finger, ring finger and little finger, but surgeons often number them 1 to 5 from the thumb."

Savage Mass Murder Rife In North African Uprisings

EDITORS: The following dispatch by Eugene Boissonnade, an Associated Press French correspondent, tells of his visit yesterday to Immuizer-des-Marmoucha, northeastern Moroccan town of 500 inhabitants, including 50 Europeans. An estimated 2,000 Berber tribesmen attacked this and a nearby settlement Saturday night, killing at least 11 Europeans.

By EUGENE BOISSONNADE
FEZ, French Morocco (AP)—I returned here early today from the sacked village of Immuizer-des-Marmoucha. The desolation and the suffering still haunt me.

I got a preview of what was to come when the convoy in which our party of reporters was traveling met a guarded column of trucks and private cars from Immuizer.

Dead and wounded lay in the dust-caked cars. In the first ambulance was Capt. Chausser, one of the survivors of the Immuizer garrison. He climbed painfully out of one of the ambulances with the help of a nurse. His face showed the pain of his wounds and grief from the loss of his wife and their two children, slain by the rampaging tribesmen.

In another ambulance an army chaplain tried to comfort suffering survivors.

"In 30 years of service I have never seen such horror," said the priest.

Scattered between the trucks and ambulances were dusty family cars driven by women—the widows. They and frightened children huddled by their mothers. Some had been able to save a few personal belongings.

Like all the mountain towns of the area, the houses of Immuizer were built of stone and topped with roofs of red-colored tiles. Wild mountain country reminiscent of American Western films surrounds the village. Smoke was rising from dying fires throughout the settlement.

In the village were only troops. All civilians had been evacuated. Some of the soldiers—there were only 50 able-bodied men left of 100 in the military post by the time reinforcements arrived—said the attack took place by moonlight Saturday night.

Tribesmen infiltrated along the ravines, even into the very streets of the village. Then with wild cries they attacked the houses individually and almost simultaneously. Dwellers were wrenched from their sleep. Some were dragged into the street and their throats slit.

Maj. Beau, chief of the military post, tried to escape through his home's cellar and then out through an air shaft. The rebels caught him a few yards away and shot him to death. The thick stone walls and a few charred rafters were almost all that remained of his villa. An electric refrigerator had been emptied and burned. A sewing machine and a radio had been burned, too. In the roofless bathroom some shaving articles were still on a table.

Across the street the government native affairs office had been completely sacked. Smashed typewriters lay in a tangle of telephone wires. Here and there a lizard scurried over the blackened walls.

Inside Capt. Chausser's house—where his wife and two children had been slaughtered—broken furniture was in wild disorder and blood was everywhere. In the yard chickens picked at the last grain Mrs. Chausser had thrown to them. The family dog trotted to and fro, his eyes worried.

Short bursts of a submachinegun fire could be heard from the distance. Troops were mopping up the tribesmen had retreated to the surrounding mountain peaks and beyond.

"How many were there in the attack?" a villager repeated our question. "Maybe a thousand. They weren't so many at the start but when other tribesmen saw the success of the attack, they joined."

The Foreign Legionnaires came to the rescue in the dark of Sunday morning. At daylight they attacked and drove the rebels back, dispersing them to the crests of the mountains. Yesterday they scattered the tribesmen off the crests into the mountains beyond.

White flags hung outside Marmoucha tribesmen's homes in sign of truce. Tanks moved along the streets and occupied crests in the surrounding country.

On the way back to Fez, some 65 miles, we passed a seemingly unending line of convoys—French military strength rolling into the dangerous rebel country. No one travels alone.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced quietly today to a two-day recovery from the severe loss suffered Monday.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were found in most major divisions. Losses were small and scattered.

Trading was on a diminished scale from yesterday's early briskness. The pace, nevertheless, was good.

Steels and motors were in the most demand followed by railroads and scattered individual stocks.

Among other higher divisions were the radio-televisions, utilities, coppers, chemicals, and oils.

Prices were higher at the opening and there was gradual improvement thereafter.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Studebaker, Packard, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Lockheed, RCA, American Telephone, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, DuPont, New York Central, Seaboard Railroad, Northern Pacific, and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Value Of N.C. Cotton Plunges

RALEIGH (AP)—The big drop in the cotton market Monday reduced the value of North Carolina's cotton crop by about $3,600,000, according to M. G. Mann, general manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Assn.

Cotton prices plunged by $10 a bale Monday following wild rumors that the U.S. Department of Agriculture would begin selling its cotton at 4 cents a pound under the world market price, Mann said.

The market was demoralized within two hours he added and dropped the day's limit allowed by law, $10 a bale. Mann said there was no foundation for the rumors.

Mann urged farmers to place their cotton in a bonded warehouse and to borrow the government loan on it. He said "the farmer who will hold his cotton now and sell later in the season should reap considerable extra profit."

Runaway Truck Roars Into Train

WEST NEWTON, Pa. (AP)—A runaway lumber truck, horn blowing frantically, roared half a mile down a steep hill and smashed into a moving train yesterday.

Nine freight cars were flung from the Baltimore and Ohio track. They crushed the truck like a tin can and demolished two buildings.

The truck driver, Claude Brandt, 31, Warrenton, N.C., and four other people were killed.

Three derailed cars contained explosives but did not blow up.

Some of the cars smashed into the Casale Fruit Store on one side of the tracks, others into a hardware store on the other side.

Dead were Jacob Casale, 50, owner of the fruit store; Sheryl Ross, 6, daughter of a West Newton restaurant proprietor; Sheryl's grandmother Mrs. Dora Whiteman, about 70, of Industry, Pa.; and Mrs. Martina C. McConnell, 70, West Newton.

Mrs. William Ross, mother of Sheryl, suffered a broken back and fractured pelvis. Emily Peternel suffered minor injuries.

Engineer William McManus, Connelville, Pa., said he saw the speeding truck "but there was nothing I could do."

Raymond Maas, a civil defense auxiliary policeman, said he heard the truck horn wailing.

"After the truck hit the train all I saw was lumber flying," he related. "Then there was a big cloud of dust. I jumped down and went over to help."

Grimly, Maas told how he saw the body of the Ross child, a blood-stained doll in her arms.

There were few people on the street of this community of 3,800, about 3 1/2 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, when the crash occurred.

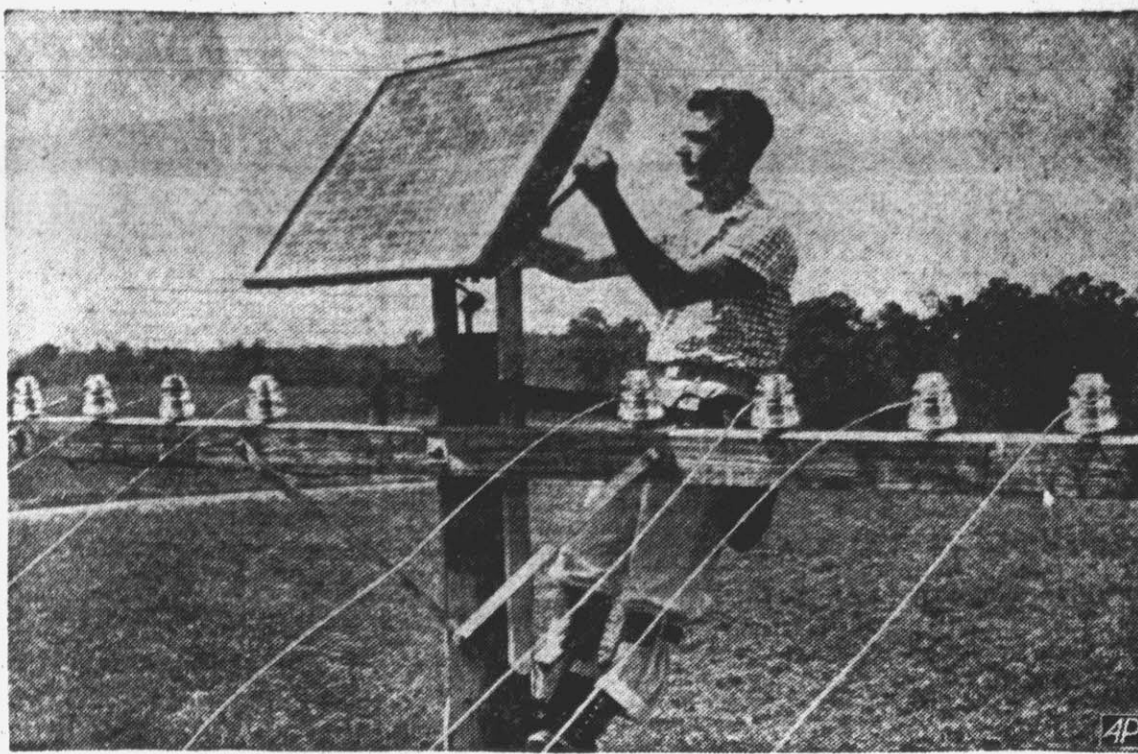

One businessman said: "It was terrible but it would have been worse except for the World Series. Most everyone was indoors looking at television or listening to the radio."

Two railroad wrecking crews worked through the night to clear the B&O's main east-west route between Cumberland, Md., and Pittsburgh.

A large area was blocked off while the dynamite was unloaded. Sheriff Howard E. Thomas estimated total damage might be close to one million dollars.

Meanwhile, several investigations were launched to determine the cause of the wreck. One official said he believed the truck brakes had failed.

Harnessing The Sun

Perched on top of a telephone pole, cable repairman D. W. Kennon adjusts the Bell Solar Battery used by the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. to make the first sun-powered telephone call near Americus, Ga., Oct. 4. An invention of the Bell Laboratories, it generates electrical power by picking up energy from sunlight. Rural telephone lines in the vicinity of Americus were used for the first call. (AP Photo).

Plan Public Relations Classes Begin Friday

Greenville Utilities employees will attend the first of a series of ten public relations classes at City Hall Friday night.

The courses, which are under the direction of East Carolina College Dean Leo W. Jenkins, are to be sponsored jointly by the college and the Utilities Commission.

The employees will receive instruction in the history of city government and public speaking, along with courses designed to teach them the art of getting along with people.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said it is hoped the courses will help Utilities employees "weave a closer relationship between the employees and the customers whom they serve."

Bloxam said that participation in the program is voluntary on the part of utilities employees but almost 100 per cent have signed up to attend the classes.

East Carolina faculty members who will participate in the program in addition to Jenkins are: Dr. Keith Holmes, Miss Rosalind Roulston, Dr. Kathleen Stokes, Frank Fuller, Wendell W. Smiley, James W. Butler and Dr. Clinton R. Prewitt.

Soviet Building Experts On Tour

BOSTON (AP)—Ten Russian construction experts set off promptly today to visit nearby developments after an informal, typical American breakfast.

They partook of fruit juice, baidon and eggs, toast, doughnuts and coffee, then headed for Braintree, south of Boston, and Cambridge, to inspect American construction methods.

After their inspection trip in this area ends Friday, the Russians, guided by the National Assn. of Home Builders and the Rental Housing Assn., will visit several other American cities.

The Russians arrived last night and ran into an anti-Communist demonstration at their hotel.

The visitors, led by I. K. Kozullia, minister of city and urban construction of the U.S.S.R., are in the United States as guests of the National Assn. of Home Builders.

Kozullia told an airport news conference last night that his group does not want to talk about its American experiences until the tour is completed.

"We might underestimate things at first glance," he said through an interpreter. "We might be misunderstood. That would be regrettable."

The Russians arrived in Washington Monday night and yesterday toured a housing development in Virginia.

There was nothing violent about the Boston demonstrations. State police officers mingled with the crowds at both the airport and the Kenmore Hotel, where the Russians are staying.

No Dances And No Fraternities

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—A Board of Trustees decision to ban organizational dances, as well as fraternity houses on the campus of Furman University, was reported today in the Baptist Courier.

The decision was said to be unanimous to have no fraternities on the new 15 million dollar campus near here, and to resolve that no dances be sponsored by an organization of Furman University.

Two Baptist groups had asked a complete ban of fraternities, and the action was interpreted as a compromise in allowing none to have houses on the campus.

Drowned Man's Body Recovered

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—The body of a Negro identified only as "Willie," who drowned when the boat he was riding in the Pungo River, was recovered today.

The Negro's companion, Randolph Watson of Rocky Mount, was rescued after clinging to the boat for 18 hours.

NOMINAL DAMAGE

Fire in a sawdust pile at Garrison Lumber Company's plant, Ridgeway and Factory streets, yesterday afternoon at 4:50 did nominal damage. Firemen from the West End station responded to the alarm.

Tiny Submarine Crosses Channel

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif. (AP)—The Seahorse I, a 16-foot submarine, has crossed the 21-mile Catalina Channel.

The sub, powered by a 25-horsepower engine, stayed submerged most of the time. It burned only three gallons of fuel during the 6 1/2-hour crossing from the mainland yesterday.

The two operators—Gustav Dallas Vank and Dick Anderson—wore diving masks with oxygen bottles on their backs. The 2,500-pound craft, modeled after World War II Italian submarines, plodded along at a steady five knots.

Owner Richard Kline says the vessel has great possibilities for underwater photography, exploration and sightseeing.

Wholesale Food Price Index Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index took the sharp weekly fall of the year this week as a long list of foods declined.

The index stood at 86.17, the lowest since Aug. 30, when the year's low of 86.15 was registered. A week ago the figure was 86.28 and a year ago $6.69.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Lower this week were flour, wheat, corn, rye, oats, bell-pepper, coffee, cottonseed oil, corn-beans, peas, potatoes, prunes, steers, rogs and lambs. Higher were barley, hams, butter, sugar, milk and currants.

Funeral Thursday For Mrs. Ed. T. Barrow

Mrs. Esther Barrow, 79, widow of Edward T. Barrow of Vanceboro, died at her home near Dudley's Crossroads at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night following five weeks of critical illness. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and burial will be in the Barrow family cemetery near Dudley's Crossroads.

The Rev. Henry Armstrong, Free Will Baptist minister of Washington, assisted by the Rev. E. E. Edwards, Free Will Baptist minister of Chocomaity, will conduct the services.

Mrs. Barrow was born in Beaufort County and after her marriage to Mr. Barrow in 1895, she had made her home in Craven County near Vanceboro. Mr. Barrow died in 1939. She was a member of Oak Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

Budget Diet

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Orange juice, cereal, milk and coffee.

"That's all, mister," said Mrs. Burdick Myre today as she and her husband, an airman first class at Goodfellow Air Force Base, finished breakfast today.

The couple were starting on their first day of trying to eat on $8.56 per week, a figure that nutritionists at Utah experiment station say is possible.

Myres, a 6-foot-3-inch lad from Madison, Wis., said he would miss most the half-jar of peanut butter he has been eating before bedtime each night. But Mrs. Myre, a five-foot classed ad taker in the San Angelo Standard-Times office, believes her biggest problem is preventing her airman from eating "snacks" at the base.

The rest of today's menu: for lunch, bacon and tomato sandwiches, raspberry jello with bananas and iced tea; dinner, pot roast, mashed potatoes, corn and lime jello with carrots.

Bible Sales Boom In Graham Visit

TORONTO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said last night Toronto bookstores have sold more Bibles in the last few days than during the first nine months of the year.

In his address to 12,500 persons attending a Graham Crusade rally at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, the evangelist said several bookstores had told him this.

He urged his audience to get Bibles with big print and read them. He advocated the King James version and a modern edition as well.

"The Bible contains God's love letters to mankind," he said.

After 276 members of the audience came forward to "make decisions for Christ," Graham said the full impact of the decision is not felt in the lives of those who come forward until three to five years later.

He compared their "spiritual rebirth" to their physical birth. "They are as babies, needing tender, loving care. They have to grow. Some of them will stumble and fall."

He appealed to friends and relatives of those who came forward to help them.

"Love them and help them grow," he said.

The legends of newspapermen are wonderful things. "Such interesting people." The most interesting people newspapermen meet in the smallest, widest field of newspapermen.

The shop talk of newspapermen is the best conversation in the whole wide world because it covers the whole wide world. Wives of newspapermen are often lonely. They never quite share their husbands' realm although they usually share their husbands' pride in it. They rarely wear fur coats but I never heard one say she would have preferred to marry a banker.

What is news? Like truth, it is hard to say. The best definition I know was written years ago by Gerald Johnson, then of the Baltimore Sun.

"News," he said, "is what interests a good newspaperman." Any nation that has good newspapermen will have good news.

Brothers And Network Sued

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Ames Brothers and the ABC Television Network have been sued for $225,000.

Two writers, Alan Lipscomb and Robert Fisher filed the suit yesterday claiming the Ames brothers' show was illegally copied from their production idea called, "Four Cheers for Mom."
