Florida Dentist On Hunger Strike In Jail

Dr. Michael J. Plesé, 67, a retired dentist, refuses food offered by an attendant in the county jail at St. Petersburg, Fla., on the eighth day of his self-imposed hunger strike in protest against a court order in a divorce action. He was jailed Sept. 26 after being held in contempt of court for failure to pay alimony to his 36-year-old estranged wife. Dr. Plesé vowed he won't touch food for 30 days in defiance of the jail sentence. (AP Wirephoto).

Some Rebel Towns Giving Up Under French Attacks

RABAT French Morocco (AP)—White flags went up today over small villages in the mid-Atlas Mountains and along the Spanish Moroccan frontier, indicating that some rebel tribesmen are ready to call it quits.

French officers on the spot were not optimistic that all trouble was ending. Fighting still continued at Tizi Ouzil, in eastern French Morocco near the frontier of the Spanish zone.

Although the military situation seemed to be getting slightly better, the political situation worsened both in Morocco and in France.

In Paris Premier Edgar Faure fired four Gaullist critics of his North African policy, including Defense Minister Pierre Koenig.

There was speculation whether the Cabinet could survive the break.

In Rabat, a French colonial group known as the "French Front" insisted they had a promise from Resident Gen. Pierre Boyer de Latour that he would not put fully into effect the reform program outlined by the government in Paris.

There was no confirmation from the resident general, who was touring the troubled areas in the vicinity of Fes.

Troops from Bouard and Tizi Ouzil fought through ambushes and past mountain marksmen yesterday and finally linked up with Moroccan cavalry from Akouil.

The beat off a series of mass attacks that began Saturday against the triangle of outposts along the border between French and Spanish Morocco.

Refugees at Taza said the rebel columns came from Spanish Morocco and carried Spanish and British-made submachineguns.

Mayor Tries Halt Indiana Plant Strife

Hold Peace Meeting

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—A Bible-conscious mayor today brought warring union-management officials together to try to reach a truce at the struck Perfect Circle Corp. foundry here.

Eight persons were shot yesterday as 5,000 CIO-United Auto Workers sympathizers moved on the small three-story brick foundry building about 100 nonstrikers.

The plant was closed today and tightly ringed by national guardsmen who were set in after midnight by Gov. George N. Craig.

Mayor Paul F. McCormack, a husky bald man with a bow tie, presided at the conference of company officials and representatives of the UAW-CIO. It was the first formal meeting of the two factions in more than a month. The strike began July 25.

McCormack told the group it was his custom to open City Court with a passage from the Scriptures. He then read to them from 1st Romans, 2nd chapter, which begins, "Therefore, you have no excuse, Oh man, whoever you are, when you judge another."

In urging an immediate truce in the bitter strike, McCormack called this "the darkest day New Castle has had since the Civil War."

That, he added, was the last time the state militia had been sent into this eastern Indiana town of 18,000 persons.

Six hundred National Guardsmen with rifles and walkie-talkies barricaded the street around the struck foundry today. Two half-trucks with weapons aboard were in reserve at the New Castle armory. With the plant closed, the union made no attempt to post pickets.

The guard was sent in after the mayor proclaimed a state of limited emergency.

The shooting broke out yesterday as demonstrators gathered from throughout Indiana and marched on the little plant, which normally employs only 260. The union said the nonstrikers fired first.

The strike over wages and a union shop began July 25. Tension and disorder has mounted steadily since. The dismissal of 35 pickets Tuesday apparently touched off yesterday's mob demonstration.

The former board chairman of Perfect Circle—a piston ring manufacturing firm—is Asst. Secretary of Commerce Lottin from the Washington, it was learned that the Eisenhower administration is dropping Teetor, via the resignation routine. He quit as board chairman of Perfect Circle to become assistant secretary in 1953. The CIO has been gunning for his scalp because of his public statements on labor matters.

Teetor, however, said he has no direct hand in management of Perfect Circle now and has not talked to company officials since the strike began. His resignation apparently had been in the works for weeks.

Meanwhile, a union-management conference was scheduled for later in the day. For the time being, there was no plan to try to reopen the struck foundry.

In calling out the Guard, Gov. George Craig—vacationing in Miami, Fla.—sent word through a spokesman that "there will not be a repetition of what happened Wednesday."

He added he intends to keep the plant closed as long as there is any danger of disorder.

Shortly after last midnight, in a gloomy rain, the guardsmen rolled into town in trucks, half trucks and tanks. They came from a mobilization center in Muncie, 20 miles away.

The guardsmen's assignment was to keep streets clear, close taverns, set a curfew and prevent further disorder at the plant.

Will Provide Armory Site, To Ask Gov't Funds

Farmville Accepts Offer

FARMVILLE—Local representatives will appear before the National Guard Armory Commission to request funds for the construction of a local armory backed by pledges of $7,500 each from the Pitt Commissioners and the local Board of Commissioners.

Farmville Town Fathers Tuesday night agreed to accept a proposal by the County Commissioners to match any amount appropriated by the town up to $7,500. In addition the town will provide the site for the $100,000 building which will eventually house Farmville's recently organized National Guard unit.

Thus local representatives will be able to appear before the commission in Raleigh with $15,000 in local monies pledged along with the offer for the armory.

The Federal government will pay approximately $75,000 of the total cost of the building and the state, a maximum of $15,000, leaving a minimum of $10,000 to local governmental units. The additional $5,000 was requested to insure receipt of the structure as soon as possible.

Originally the Farmville delegation, headed by State Legislator Walker Jones, had requested that the county appropriate $10,000 with Farmville to pay $5,000. The county commissioners parried with the offer of matching funds appropriated by the town up to $7,500. Funds from both governmental units are to be set up in the next fiscal year's budgets. The new fiscal year begins July 1, 1956.

In the meantime, however, the Farmville delegation, headed by Jones, will appear before the Armory Commission and the application for the armory will be formally filed.

Jones said this morning that the group hopes to appear before the commission in the near future.

The local National Guard unit, Co. H, 11th Infantry Regiment, 30th Division, was organized earlier this year. Temporarily the company has been housed in the Boy Scout hut located next to the swimming pool.

A number of squad rooms, a weapons room and other facilities were added to the building by the town to make the building suitable on a temporary basis.

Turning to other business as its monthly meeting, the local Board of Commissioners offered its support to the Town of Snow Hill in its efforts to have the proposed Presbyterian four-year college established in that Greene County town. The board voted to back the movement after a letter from Snow Hill requesting the support was read by Mayor Charles S. Edwards.

The commissioners also offered to exempt a lot owned by Irving Morgan Jr. from taxes if the owner will allow the lot to be used for off-street parking. The lot is located on the east side of Main St. across from the colored police station. If Morgan accepts the offer the lot will be operated by the town.

Chief of Police L. T. Lucas was authorized to establish two crosswalks on Main St. at other than intersections. The walks will provide crossings for pedestrians along two long blocks in the business district of town.

Town Clerk Cleveland Paylor was asked to call for bids on either a 1955 or 1956 four-door sedan for use by the water and light department.

Finally the board agreed to purchase an ad in the Farmville High School annual. Cost of the ad is not to exceed $30.

Electronic Brain To Guide Planes

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—A potent new electronic brain may be the jet fighter pilot's best friend and the Air Force says, perhaps our best defense against invading enemy bombers.

The Air Force and industrialist Howard Hughes took the wraps off the latest Hughes development yesterday. It will relieve the pilot of every responsibility except taking off and landing.

The brain will carry the jet into operation to its target, fire rockets or missiles, and return the plane to its home base.

The advanced firing system was designed because human reactions are not always quick enough to handle jets in combat.

Hughes said every interceptor guarding the United States and Canada already is equipped with a primary version of the deadly "Automatic Marksman."

The newest model, putting navigation, communication and attack up to the electronic brain, will be housed in a box taking up a small space.

A chicken barbecue luncheon was served at 12:30 p.m. in the college cafeteria. The social event served as a "get together" for college students and visitors.

Events of the afternoon, planned for the entertainment of visiting seniors include the presentation of two one-act plays produced with all-freshman casts by the East Carolina Playhouse; a tea in the Flanagan building, with college home economics students as hostesses; a demonstration of physical education activities in the Memorial Gymnasium; and a tea and dance in the Wright building, with music by the East Carolina College band.

Today's program is East Carolina's High School Day to be staged in the fall. In the spring of 1956 junior classes from high schools will be guests on the campus, when a second high school day will be staged in their honor.

Dr. Ed J. Carter, director of the Bureau of Field Services at the college heads a faculty-student committee in charge of arrangements for both events.

Five People Die In Auto Collision

ZEBULON, N.C. (AP)—Five persons were killed when two automobiles collided head-on early today on Highway U.S. 64 near here.

Four young Zebulon men burned to death when their car overturned and caught fire following the collision, officers reported. A fifth occupant of the car was hospitalized with serious burns.

Also killed was C. L. Burns of Norfolk, Va., the driver and only occupant of the other car.

The other victims were identified as: Randolph White, 23; Gerald Taylor, 20; Preston Hicks, 22; and Jerry Thomas Pearce, 20; all of Zebulon, Rt. 2. Nathan Hicks was taken to Rex Hospital in Raleigh with serious burns and other injuries.

Wake County officers said the wreck was discovered by a passing motorist, Oliver Proctor of Rocky Mount, a short time after it occurred. The time of the accident was placed at 12:30 a.m.

Highway Patrolman J. T. Rowe said the car in which the four men were killed was owned by Mrs. Otis Hicks of Rt. 2, Zebulon, and was driven by her son, Preston.

The wreck occurred a short distance from the Hicks home, and Mrs. Hicks heard the sound as the two cars collided near the crest of a hill, Rowe added. She did not know what had happened until later.

Rowe said the Hicks car was "obviously exceeding the speed limit" and was straddling the highway center line when the wreck occurred.

The car traveled for 126 feet after the impact before landing in a ditch on its top, he said. The

Two Trials For Murder Fail To Bring Conviction

Pitt County's special October session of Superior Court opened its fourth day here this morning with testimony in the case of Paul Whitehurst charged with breaking, entering and larceny.

Whitehurst is alleged to have taken a chain saw from a shop on the Bethel Highway sometime during November 1953.

Meanwhile, in yesterday's action one murder case was declared a mistrial when the jury was unable to reach a verdict, and a second was dismissed after a successful motion by the defense for non-suit.

Counsel for Willie Greene, Negro, of Ayden, charged with the slaying of Herman Brown, Negro, of Ayden last August, instituted a successful non-suit motion yesterday afternoon. Brown was stabbed fatally the night of August 12.

In the second murder case that of Richard Jones, Jr., of Lenoir County, the jury was unable to reach a verdict and a mistrial was ordered. Jones had been charged with the slaying of Allan Arthur Newton, Jr. near Falkland in December, 1953.

Other cases yesterday found George Perkins, Jr. paying court costs on charges of assault on an officer and resisting arrest. A charge of drunk driving against Willis Bentley Murphy was dropped with leave. Pearl Ray Morgan was ordered to pay a fine of $25 and costs and $200 to the city of Greenville after being convicted of drunk driving and damaging city property.

Walter J. Corey was given 60 days suspended on payment of $100 upon conviction of drunk driving no operator's license and stopping on the highway with no lights.

Robert Lee Humber, nationally known lawyer of Greenville, will be the principal speaker. He will discuss the Foundation and the benefit it will mean to this area, according to W.W. Exum of Snow Hill, chairman of the College Project Committee.

Leading citizens have voted to organize the Educational Foundation as a means of providing continuing financial support to the new college if it is located in Greene county and to send deserving students from Greene county to the school if it is located somewhere else in Eastern Carolina.

Charges $4.50 Was Taken At Point Of Gun

A Negro man has been charged with armed robbery after he was alleged to have taken $4.50 from Parker Coward, also Negro, at the Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home at gun point.

A warrant charging Cobin Ward with the crime has been signed by Coward.

Coward told officers that Ward entered the funeral home on Second St. yesterday and pointed the gun at him. He said he was ordered to turn the $4.50 over to Ward who then left.

Coward called police and Ward was picked up on Dickinson Ave. Detective R. T. Rogerson said that $4.50 was found on Ward when he was brought in but no pistol was found in his possession.

Narcotics, Money Dropped By Thief

A beat-walking police officer last night spotted a thief as he emerged from a Fourth St. alley and thus recovered a considerable quantity of narcotics and petty cash taken from Bissette's Drug Store.

The robber was spotted by city Patrolman J. W. Jenkins who chased the man a few feet to the microwave tower on Fifth St. where the culprit dropped the bag containing the money and merchandise.

The unidentified man lost the patrolman at that point, however, and made good his escape.

Chief of Police G. Gibbs said the bag contained the narcotics taken from the Evans Street store plus the petty cash box containing $59.20. Store officials were unable to say how much cash was in the box at closing time last night. An additional $25 taken from the cash register was not found.

Gibbs said the thief apparently broke open a back door to the building to gain entrance. Once inside, he also broke open a cabinet containing the narcotics.

Jenkins was said to have spotted the thief as he emerged from the Fourth St. entrance of the alley which runs behind the store. The officer was standing at the corner of Fourth and Evans at the time.

Chief Gibbs stated that the theft apparently took place between 2 and 3 a.m.

Investigation is continuing.

Another Restful Night For Ike

DENVER (AP)—Another cheerful bulletin came from President Eisenhower's bedside today. He had 8 1/2 hours of sound and refreshing sleep.

The President's recovery from his heart attack progressed to the point that his staff began to talk hopefully of the future.

The 7 a.m. Denver time medical bulletin said:

"The President had another good night. He slept soundly and almost continuously for 8 1/2 hours from 9:30 p.m. to 6 a.m.

"He awoke feeling refreshed and relaxed. The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

The private opinion, which no one would put into words for quotation, was that the crisis has passed, and that the President soon will be taking a firmer hold on administration policy.

A complete examination is scheduled this weekend when Dr. Paul Dudley White returns to Denver. He will join the staff of presidential physicians at the time of a thorough check at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

White, the noted Boston heart specialist, will fly here Saturday with Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, and his chief administrative check at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

Arab Claims No 'Balance' Sought

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Asst. Secretary of State George Allen flew back to Washington today after warning Arab leaders of the dangers of accepting arms from the Communist bloc.

Allen did not persuade Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to cancel his controversial arms deal with Czechoslovakia. But, the U.S. envoy declared, he thinks the week's flying mission to Egypt and Lebanon has alerted Arab leaders to the possibilities of increased red penetration of the Middle East.

The main effect of Allen's special trip—in Arab eyes, at least—appeared to be increased East-West rivalry in the Middle East. Most observers agreed Red propagandists and arms merchants are scoring, largely because of increasing Arab hostility toward Israel.

Allen said on his way back he thought the trip had been fruitful "in clearing up misconceptions about U.S. policy," but some Arab leaders are skeptical.

"When Mr. Allen speaks of keeping the balance of power between Arabs and Israel and relaxing tension, he is talking about something we Arabs simply do not comprehend," one Western-educated Lebanese official commented.

"We Arabs do not want a balance of power. We must be stronger than Israel and if that's an arms race, let's go."

The Arabs never have ceased blaming the United States for supporting Israel and stronger feelings have flared up as result of Israeli-Egyptian clashes along the Gaza Strip.

Orders Cumberland Grand Jury To Probe Rumored Corruption

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A special called session of the Cumberland County grand jury has been instructed to determine whether there is "corrupt government in the county."

Judge Q. K. Nipecks Jr., resident judge of the 12th Judicial District, told the jurors yesterday to examine under oath "all parties who might be able to give information on corruption."

Nipecks said he discovered with suggestions that the question of discord and discontent in Cumberland should be held in abeyance and determined in the 1956 primary.

wholesome," he said, "many citizens of Cumberland County are sharply divided, are moving into the camps—each spreading rumors and engaging in whispering campaigns against the other."

This, he said, results "in confusion to all fair and honest citizens as to the truth or falsity of the rumors and whispered charges being circulated."

Nipecks quoted parts of a letter from Atty. Gen. W. B. Rodman in answer to a request made last week for the SBI to investigate charges of criminal corruption.

ness" of "some specific piece of evidence" or document which may be brought into question. Rodman pointed out that the SBI has no power to subpoena witnesses or administer oaths. Therefore, it would be impossible for the SBI to make any finding of fact which would settle a political controversy or, in fact, determine whether a crime had or had not been committed.

Nipecks urged the grand jury to "clear the political atmosphere."

He said, "If you find corruption, say so and name the guilty parties. If you do not find proper justification for doing, speak out clearly and plainly."

Fall Flowers Decorate Home For Club Meeting

AYDEN—One of the prettiest parties of the fall season was given by Mrs. Moses Phillips Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when she delightfully entertained members of the club and other invited guests at her home on Park Avenue.
Many varied and beautiful arrangements of fall flowers were used to decorate the rooms where the guests played cards. On the coffee table was a lovely bouquet of flowers consisting of roses, dahlias and gladioli interspersed with fern. On the dining room table was a graceful autumn arrangement in an antique silver basket. This was composed of deep red lilies, ageratum and dwarf chrysanthemums. The table was covered with linen cloth with hand embroidered designs in soft pastel colors.
Mrs. Dixie Cannon, club member, and Mrs. C. Y. Griffin, guest, were each given attractive boxes of stationery for high score. Mrs. Dalton Gardner, club member, and Mrs. Mrs. Bure, guest, received note paper for second high and Mrs. Guy Taylor was presented note paper as consolation.
Ice fruit drinks were served during the progressions. At the conclusion of the progressions, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Taylor, served a delicious salad course with ice tea, followed by a dessert of home-made cake topped with peaches and cream and salted nuts to the following guests: Mesdames Cannon, Griffin, Gardner, Bure, Taylor, Grady Dixon, Ralph Gardner, William Everett Lyman Baldrée, W. W. Salsburg, P. R. Taylor and J. R. Taylor.

Youth Week Meetings To Conclude Tonight

Resume of Books Constitutes Program For Atheneum Club
Mrs. J. H. Rose was hostess on Tuesday to the Atheneum Book Club at their first meeting of the 1955-56 club year.
Mrs. Rose greeted her guests and invited them into the living and dining rooms where they were seated at card tables amid a setting of lovely fall flower arrangements. A delicious two course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. J. White and Miss Mattie Barnes.
After lunch the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Reid Perkins, and turned over to the hostess who gave the program.
Being chairman of the book committee, Mrs. Rose presented to the club the title of each new book and in her attractive and efficient manner gave a two minute resume of each book with a few remarks about the author. This proved to be a very interesting program and club members were delighted with the selection of books.
Following the program there was a short business session where Miss Mattie Barnes and Mrs. Carl Richardson were guests of the club.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 6, 1925
Mrs. Walter Linden entertained at one of the pretties bridge parties of the season or Wednesday afternoon. The affair was to honor Miss Frances Whedbee who will be married to Dr. Malcolm Thompson in two weeks. Eight tables were placed for bridge. At the conclusion of the games a salad course was served. A large tray was then brought in and the guest were asked to view the Thompson-Whedbee bridal party which consisted of boudoir powder covers. These were cleverly made of collie. They were awarded Mrs. James Picklen, Mrs. Luther Bowling, Mrs. Dail Laughinghouse, Misses Bessie Brown, Hennie Long, Ada James and Jessie Myers. The hostess presented Miss Whedbee a choker of pink and white Delta pearls.

Some Top News For The Working Girl

SMART SEPARATES . . . Versatile as a one-man orchestra is the flannel jerkin and matching slim skirt at left, worn with a paisley shirt which may be switched at will. The long jersey cuffed overblouse at right has a removable striped nylon turtle-neck gilet, which may be removed for a dressy look or traded for a bright scarf to vary the color scheme. Both are designed by Dorothy Korby.

The variety of tops a smart girl can assemble to vary her blouse-and-skirt outfits is becoming astronomical these days.

There are overblouses and tucked blouses, middles, jerkins, neckties, torso sweaters, bolero sweaters, dress-up sweaters and dress-down sweaters. Today it is possible to put together a complete wardrobe of separate tops and skirts, ranking from school-and-office outfits to formal costumes.

The advantage of such a wardrobe plan is well understood by the working girl, who must look smart at all times on a pin-money budget. With a sufficient supply of separates she can switch tops and skirts to make the wardrobe do double or triple duty.

One versatile sweater, for instance, may be worn with a matching skirt to look like a dress, with Bermuda shorts for the country or lounge wear, with its turtle-neck dickey for office wear, without the dickey for a low-necked dressy look. By substituting various scarfs for the dickey she can vary the neckline and the color scheme ad infinitum.

A flannel jerkin and matching slim skirt can change partners, vary blouses and generally behave like an extensive wardrobe.

Mrs. Porter Is Speaker For Round Table Meeting

Mrs. Howard Porter, Mrs. Milton White and Miss Lella Higgs were gracious hostesses to the members of the Round Table at the Country Club on last Tuesday night. Mrs. John Fleming from Elm City, a former member was a welcome guest.

On arrival, guests were served appetizing hot cranberry juice by Mrs. J. E. Winslow and after exchange of summer reminiscences the hostesses invited guests into the sun porch where a delicious turkey dinner with all the tasteful accessories was served. The table decorations were in keeping with the fall season, featuring an unusual, artistic and lavish arrangement of fruit, flowers and greenery around lighted candles. Place-cards were in the form of miniature books with the name and author of the book, assigned by the library committee, to be taken home and exchanged at the next meeting.

The president, Mrs. H. H. Duncan, voiced the thoughts of those present when she spoke of the loss of a faithful and loving member, Mrs. Wiley Brown, after which Mrs. Milton White graced the table.

After the dinner Mrs. Howard Porter, as always, gave a splendid program, reviewing a trip she made last summer up the Hudson River by automobile. This 300-mile-long river with many rapids, rock cliffs, harbors, tunnels, bridges rises in a small lake called Tear-of-the-Clouds in the Adirondacks, discovered in 1824 by an Italian sailor and named for Henry Hudson who explored it in 1609. This river flows almost straight south near the eastern boundary of New York State and empties into the Atlantic Ocean at New York City. Many rapids in upper course make possible current for waterpower used in cities and industrial areas, then further south are fertile farming areas and the beautiful Highland region south of Albany.

Robert Fulton ran the first successful steamboat on the Hudson in 1807.

Mrs. Porter made history come to life with her descriptions of famous historical places along this river. In Washington Irving's home is to be found the most accurate restoration of its kind in America with authenticated possessions of America's first recognized author.

Between Tarrytown and North Tarrytown she described Phillips Castle with the Mill Dam and Old Mill of Sleepy Hollow, the old Dutch Church and Burying Ground Cemetery where Irving was buried. She also spoke of other interesting places—Sing Sing Prison at Ossington, then on across Bear Mountain Bridge in West Point, then Hyde Park and the W. K. Vanderbilt Mansion, always interesting.

In Poughkeepsie she noted Vassar College for Women, opened in 1861 and was the first woman's college to have equal equipment and facilities with men's colleges at that time.

In closing, the library committee, Mrs. D. S. Spain, Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne and Miss Lella Higgs, gave reviews of books selected for exchange for this club year.

Couples Club Meets For Supper, Bridge

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb entertained members of their Couples Club on Tuesday night in their home, 501 Queen Street. Early fall flowers made pretty decorations in the rooms in which the guests were received.

A delectable turkey supper was served buffet style. The supper table was covered with a green damask cloth. A centerpiece of garden flowers in shades of lavender and purple was used with tall pink candles in crystal holders. Three tables were in play after supper. Mrs. L. L. Mewborn and Mr. Henry Oglesby were highest scorers for the evening for club members and Mrs. Robert Mewborn was remembered with the visitor's prize. Others playing were Mr. Mewborn, Mrs. Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Bissette and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Williams.

Brazil Is Topic For Club Program

GRIFTON—The Grifton Book Club met in regular session on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 with Mrs. G. L. Tucker on Sunset Blvd.

Mrs. Tucker presided at the business meeting and discussion of new books and program was had. Members were asked to have a choice of book ready to report at the October meeting.

Mrs. Tucker gave an interesting talk on Brazil. The club study this year is far off interesting places, and this was a continuation of the study. She gave something of the history, the climate, people, government, religion and cities of this country.

At the refreshment hour delicious coconut cake with coffee was served. Those present were Mesdames Alton Chapman, J. L. Tucker, Bryan Davis, Tom Gower, W. I. Bissette, Thurman Williams, Robert Mewborn, Cecil Cobb and Miss Bert Johnson.

Religious Emphasis Week Plans Drawn

Plans are now being made at East Carolina College for the observance of Religious Emphasis Week on January 23-26, 1956. Speakers who will appear on the program have been announced by Martha M. Johnston of Paw Creek, president of the Inter-Religious Council of the college.

Three speakers who are prominent in religious work among students will be guests on the campus during Religious Emphasis observances and will appear as speakers, consultants, and counselors. They are Dr. Benkey Blanton, president of Grover Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa.; the Rev. D. D. Holt, executive secretary of the North Carolina Council of Methodist Colleges, Greensboro; and the Rev. Roger Ortmyer, editor of "motive," Methodist youth magazine.

Religious Emphasis Week is scheduled each year on the college calendar as a period for special emphasis on religious thought and activities. The 1956 program is being prepared by the Inter-Religious Council at the college, an organization made up of representatives of eleven student religious organizations on the campus.

Heading the council this school year are Miss Johnston; Eugene Hayman, of Coileck, vice president and representative of the Baptist Student Union; Jane Midyette of Fairfield, secretary and representative of the Methodist Wesleyan Foundation; and Bruton Taylor of Grifton, treasurer and representative of the Free Will Baptist student group.

Members-at-large include Grace Jones of Kinross and Frank Moore of Farmville, presidents, respectively, of the YWCA and the YMCA; and Edith F. Rogers of Raleigh, representative of the Canterbury Club of Episcopalsians.

Dr. John B. Bennett, director of Religious activities at the college, and Ann Gardner, representative of the Danforth Foundation on the campus this year, are assisting students with plans for Religious Emphasis Week. With their help, the Inter-Religious Council is now preparing a program including preliminary, major, and follow-up events related to the observances of January 23-26.

Several tables remained for bridge in the afternoon. Mrs. Charles Gaskins won a beautiful rose colored pottery bowl for high score and the hostess presented Mrs. Dowd a knife and dessert plate in her chosen pattern.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Clara Shackell, Mrs. Rose Farnborough and Mrs. Bruce Hadley.

COSTLY PET LOSS
NEW YORK (AP)—A pet shop fire last night killed four cats, four chimpanzees and four gorillas valued at a total of $39,000.

If a car wheel is out of balance 1 oz. at tread, the imbalance increases to 11 lbs. at 60 mph.

United Fund Talked By Garden Club

GRIFTON—The Grifton Garden Club met for their October session on Monday afternoon at 3:30 in the Episcopal Parish House. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Bill Mahler and Mrs. Thurman J. Williams.

Mrs. M. B. Hodges presided at the business meeting and heard reports from various committees. Mrs. Robert Mewborn reported on a recent meeting in which an effort to set up a United Community Fund was discussed. Discussion on the possible organization of additional garden clubs for the town was had.

The club voted to send four delegates or representatives to the 9th District Garden Club meeting on October 28th at Bladenboro.

A shrub sale was announced for October 25th which will be sponsored by the Garden Club. At this time a variety of shrubs from the Orton Gardens will be on sale.

Mrs. Bill Dawes and Mrs. Frank Davis brought arrangements of flowers to the meeting for discussion and helpful criticism.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostesses served iced drinks and sandwiches to the 18 members present.

Trousers Left In Council Chamber

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Found yesterday in Norfolk's city council chamber: one pair of gray flannel trousers. A quality silk handkerchief found in one of the pockets failed to give any clue to the owner. One city official observed: "All sorts of schemes and pet projects have been abandoned there, but this is the first time anyone left his pants."

Anti-Polio Vaccine Is Here For Using

When new things become a part of our lives, we must alter our habits and our living to allow the new innovation to fill its proper place. Whether it is something to make life easier, happier or healthier, we must make the necessary adjustment.

With the advent of the automobile, America changed radically its travel habits, and revolutionized its transportation system. When electricity became plentiful the American people altered their pattern of doing things to allow this labor-saving discovery to lighten the load of daily chores. When medical science developed vaccines against typhoid, diphtheria, small pox and countless other dreadful diseases, the people learned not to wait until the disease had struck to take preventive measures.

If the new Salk vaccine is to realize its potential in eliminating polio, we must alter our habits to allow the vaccine to do its work.

Last spring when the first anti-polio inoculations were given to first and second graders in Pitt County schools, more than 3,300 children received the vaccinations. The second shots offered this fall to the same children did not receive the response which was evident when the initial inoculation was administered. The Pitt County Health Department has offered special clinics in recent weeks to the youngsters who missed the second in the series of shots. It has likewise authorized free shots for age groups which include literally hundreds of other youngsters in Pitt County. Yet, this fall the response to these special clinics has been somewhat disappointing.

On Saturday the last of these clinics for anti-polio shots will be held for this fall by the County Health Department. Youngsters who fail to take advantage of the opportunity to receive the vaccine will not have the chance at free vaccine within the next few months.

Now that the peak of the polio season has passed, people are less conscious of the ravages of the disease than they were a few months ago. Come next spring, the desire for youngsters to receive the Salk vaccine will become more prevalent. Yet, officials have pointed out repeatedly in the past few months that in order for children to be assured of immunity to the disease next summer, they should receive the vaccine now.

Sooner or later the new polio vaccine will become accepted as a necessity just as vaccinations against smallpox, typhoid, and diphtheria now are. The sooner that day comes, the sooner the killing, crippling menace of infantile paralysis will be reduced to a matter of minor concern in America's health picture.

He Digs Into Mud, Walks Amid Stars

By LYNN NISBET

VARIETY — For 51 weeks in the year newspaper folks write about other people. During the first week in October, Newspaper Week, they devote some time and thought to their own place in the scheme of things. They find their job has infinite variety.

The preacher, the doctor and the lawyer come into intimate personal contact with people. It is doubted that any of them get as complete picture as does the news reporter. He runs the whole gamut of human emotions. His daily work puts him in touch with the sordid and the sublime, love and hate, oaths and tears. He digs into mud and walks among the stars. He talks with judges and murderers and listens with patience to both.

And then he has a half hour or less to digest all the information gathered and put it into a few words for the readers of his newspaper.

He strives for accuracy and achieves an amazing degree of it. But no one reporter can tell the complete story of a big event. It required four gospel writers to give the story of Jesus' life and a dozen others to present the history of the beginnings of Christianity.

BIBLE — That reminds of the similarity between the Bible and the modern newspaper. One often hears the complaint "you can't believe all you read in the newspapers," and the further complaint that there are frequent divergences in accounts of the same event. Of course there are divergent accounts by different writers, and of course you can't believe everything in the newspaper, any more than you can believe implicitly every statement in the Bible, when taken out of context and without comparison with other accounts. It is amazing how like the Bible is the modern newspaper.

MAKE-UP — About the only change a good managing editor would make in the arrangement of the New Testament would be to put the Gospel by Mark first and the Acts of the Apostles next.

There are the news stories, the factual accounts of happenings, without conscious effort to explain or interpret or editorialize. The Gospel by Matthew, written by a Jew for the primary purpose of proving to other Jews that Jesus was the son of Mary who was the wife of a carpenter, was in fact the promised Messiah of Old Testament prophecy. Traces the lineage of Jesus from Abraham and argues from an accepted promise to prove a point. It is an analytical and logical statement. Luke, a converted Gentile, addressing his letter to other Gentiles, seeks to explain and interpret his present and former associates to each other and to demonstrate the universal appeal of Christianity. That is analogous to the foreign correspondence sections of your newspaper.

Written probably last of all the books in the authorized canon, after the author had read the other gospel writings, the Gospel according to John is the editorial page. Little concerned with chronology, John picks the important items from other writings and his own experience, correlates the whole story and makes it meaningful.

The Epistles correspond to the public forum section and the Book of Revelations to the mystery serial in your paper.

The Old Testament does not adhere so closely to newspaper style as balanced and comprehensive reading diet. It is the policy of the papers to carry two or more contrasting columns by recognized commentators giving different viewpoints, all of which are often in violent disagreement with the papers own editorial policy. Many daily papers have more than one wire news service as well as special correspondents at important news sources.

And an increasing number of North Carolinians subscribe to more than one daily newspaper in order to get the variety of treatment accorded news happenings.

Newspapers published in North Carolina have aggregate circulation of approximately one million papers a day. Add to that the papers that come in from outside, especially on Sundays. Compute the subscription and news stand sales, and you will find that North Carolinians are spending in excess of $50,000 a day, more than $18.2 million a year, for newspapers to read.

That is not a bad showing for a state that ranks low in per capita income and far down the list in reported literacy. Result is that North Carolinians are fairly well informed on what is going on around them.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Rehabilitation Is Important

(Washington Daily News)

William Bailey, Director of North Carolina prisons, said in a speech recently that rehabilitation is one of the biggest problems prison officials have to face in the matter of dealing with offenders. It seems that we place all the emphasis on punishment. A man is found guilty of some crime, tried in court, sentenced to prison for a term, and when the sentence is meted out, he is told "you are being punished for what you have done." Seldom is he told anything about rehabilitation.

When a man goes to prison he goes there because he has been found guilty of some crime and he also goes there to be rehabilitated so that he can come back to society and take his place in decency and respect. Prison officials need to push a man. He is punished by keeping him behind the walls and by forcing him to perform duties for the state as a prisoner.

But when it comes to rehabilitation, that is a most difficult assignment. It is difficult for the state to find ways and means of changing a criminal into a self-respecting citizen. It is particularly difficult if the prisoner is not interested in being rehabilitated. Prison officials can offer recreation, vocational guidance courses, occupational training, religious services and personal attention. But if the prisoner is indifferent, then officials have a problem to begin with of creating interest.

It is only natural to assume that when a man goes to prison, he is bitter and disillusioned. He looks forward to only one thing — getting out again. In so many cases when he has served his time he goes right back to his old habits and lands back behind the prison walls.

Too few laymen really understand the difficult problems connected with rehabilitation. Since all of us know that punishment is to give, does it not make good practical common sense to say that rehabilitation is the greatest problem confronting our prison officials today? It seems to us that it is a safe statement.

Most states find it most difficult to attract personnel to do the job of rehabilitation. And in many states sympathizers do not generally lie in the direction of rehabilitation. Many people even look upon it as "coddling," and they point out that the main reason a prisoner is where he is, is that he must be punished.

Our attitudes need to change. As laymen the citizens of North Carolina need to look upon prison problems with a more understanding eye. We need to realize that the greatest and most difficult problem is rehabilitation. Unless we have made a man ready to reenter society when his term is completed, we have done only a half-way job.

The Army Still Remembers Me

The Department of Army is in a hurry to get you out of the Army. Now don't go throwing any parties. I've not that I'm being drafted. I've already been had. In fact it was four years ago almost to the day that Uncle Sam ordered me to bid farewell to the home folks and two years ago that he waved goodby and pushed me back into the cold civilian world. But that's the point. It's been two years since The Department has even seen their former charge and still the old keepers are interested in my welfare.

Imagine how my tired old heart jumped for joy when I tore it open and read "Headquarters, Third Army, Ft. McPherson, Ga. Department of Army is interested in insuring that withdrawal of reservists from civil life will result in a minimum of personal hardship; and at the same time not create a shortage of critical skills in civilian industry." (Just when I was thinking they had forgotten me.) "Therefore it is to your advantage to complete the enclosed questionnaire as an annual check-up on your personal status." (Oh, Oh, I might have known they wanted something.) "Department of Army directs that this headquarters obtain certain information from reservists." (Okay, quit shoving.) "Therefore, failure to complete and return annual questionnaires or to notify this headquarters of a delay may result in your being ordered to active duty for accomplishment of attached questionnaire." Um same old army. One thing is just like the old days though. The Department looks after it's every need: "The original questionnaire will be returned in the envelope provided. Postage stamps are not required." Anyway it's nice to know The Department hasn't forgotten. After all it's sort of an anniversary.

Notebook On Life

The Oddity Almanac Says . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—Facts and figures from the Oddity Almanac: Friends of the vest may be pleased to learn that this handy item of male apparel is making a quiet but steady comeback. Time was when a clothing salesman sneered at you as old-fashioned if you demanded a vest. But some New York stores are now featuring the three-piece suit again. There are also signs of a revival of the double-breasted suit, the fat man's friend.

For a single person" cost six cents or if two slept in the same bed, it was four cents each. Do you like to make a phone call while making a shower? The Tucson brags it is the only hotel in town that has a telephone in every bathroom. Signposts of the atom age: Carl Thrasher of Seagoville, Tex., built his own backyard atomic shelter for $2,800 — complete with bed, electric heater, food supplies and snorkel-type ventilation pipes, it will hold 25 people.

Odd ways to make money: Mrs. Ruth Nagle, a Billings, Okla. farm wife, learned to "paint" with a sewing machine. Her needle stitched portraits and rural scenes now sell for $50 to $75 each. Almanac nature study note: The average hen thinks she is doing the farmer a favor if she lays an egg every morning. But she's a piker compared to a queen honey bee. This busy little lady can lay more than 2,000 eggs in a single day—totaling four times the weight of her own body.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
END OF THE MESSAGE
On the day the Battle of Waterloo was fought, the entire population of London turned out into the streets awaiting news of the battle. A signal system which spelled out a message had been devised and was to be displayed from a large public building. A silent, anxious crowd of many thousands was gathered before this building. At last, little by little, two words were spelled out — "Wellington defeated," but before the second word had been spelled out completely, a heavy fog descended upon the city and with it, of course, disappeared despatch of the part of the population. At last after some hours, the fog lifted. Then the signal spelled out the rest of the message — "Wellington defeated the enemy." How often the fog comes down upon our understanding and upon our faith before God's divine message is fully comprehended by us or before the events of life have fully revealed their meaning. We conclude that the end of all hope has come, but we have reached this conclusion because we have not heard the message to the end.

God's last word to our souls is always a word of love, encouragement, and joy. For if we will allow the circumstances of life to teach us the lessons God wants them to teach us, they will spell out for us a message not of defeat but of victory.

Some Light Cast On Political 'Faking'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's illness throws a clear and honest light on the political faking in which leaders of both major parties indulge in during normal times. It furnishes an insight into practical politics rarely vouchsafed to the unwary voters.

The Republican politicians' panic over his possible loss demonstrates conclusively that there is a one-man band wagon, and no, a solid or cohesive national front. Without Eisenhower at the head of the ticket, they constitute a minority group. It re-iterates National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's claim that their record even under Ike, has endeared it to a majority of the people.

In short, it proves that there has been no real rebuilding of the GOP. It also suggests that the Republicans must henceforth pursue a middle-of-the-road course, or even swing slightly leftward to remain in power. Party conservatives of the Taft wing accepted Ike only grudgingly in 1952. They adopted him only because he could win, not because of his philosophy and principles. Taft was the professional's real preference. Ike was the idol of the amateurs. Even now the Knowland-Bricker-Capewhart faction question his domestic and foreign policies. They regard him as too New Dealish on domestic problems, and too sympathetic to the Truman-Acheson foreign program. Ike HAS DEFIED ISOLATIONISTS He has extended instead of curtailing the Social Security system. More money was spent on farm price supports in 1954 than in any previous year. He favors Federal aid to health and education. He has not cracked down on labor.

He has favored government development of several power projects. He has permitted the Department of Justice to indict numerous Wall Street corporations and law firms. Defying the "isolationist" wing, he has assumed heavier military and economic commitments and responsibilities around the world than did F.D.R. or Harry S. Truman. WARREN MORE LIBERAL THAN EISENHOWER Nevertheless, they concede that it will be difficult, perhaps impossible, to win without him. Whether they like it or not, he has remade the Republican Party in his image. Since his supporters enjoy control of the White House and the National Committee, there can be no return to a small conservative or laissez-faire form of government and no scrapping of fundamental New Deal reforms. As confirmation of this conclusion there is the fact that Chief Justice Earl Warren of California is regarded as the strongest candidate, if Ike cannot make the race. He is far more liberal than Ike himself. DEMOCRATS "COME CLEAN" The Democrats have also "come clean." They had pooh-poohed the reports that they knew they had no chance to defeat Eisenhower and that they would merely go through the motions of trying to win next year. They scoffed at talk that they would renominate Adlai E. Stevenson as a "sacrifice," and to get him out of their hair. Their new confidence born of Ike's prospective retirement, belies their protestations. They concede now that the Democratic nomination is more than an empty honor. It has become a prize so worth-while that candidates never before mentioned are blooming like flowers in a late spring. Instead of a solo act in which Stevenson would be the only performer the Democratic Convention will be more crowded than an opera stage during the triumphant march in Aida. There won't be room enough to hold them all on the platform—Harrisman, Kefauver, Lyndon Johnson, Paul Douglas and "Dick" Russell. Speaker Rayburn, Governors Williams, Lausche, Legder, Meyner etc. IRONICAL SPECTACLE Ike's business in short has swept away the normal political hypocrisy, the false boasts, the partisan misrepresentations and all the phony stuff to which the professionals are prone when they are kidding themselves and the voters. There is irony in the spectacle Eisenhower has been the most nonpolitical President in American history. But he found it impossible not to be a partisan. Now his unfortunate heart attack has exposed and discredited the breed more thoroughly than if he had planned it that

Highway Plan Gets Attention

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Malloy plan for bringing the nation's highway program up to date is attracting considerable interest in and outside of Congress. The author is Paul H. Malloy, a Houston, Tex., financial advisor.

The plan is simple—dismayingly so. Mr. Malloy proposes that Congress insure investments in bonds for toll roads built by states in accordance with state and Federal specifications.

This guarantee, Mr. Malloy pointed out in a presentation to Senator Dennis Chavez (D., N.M.), chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee, will channel huge amounts of investment superhighways.

Extending this guarantee, according to the Malloy plan, will make it unnecessary for Congress or states to appropriate huge sums for new highways. This is important because it is estimated the nation needs about $100 billion worth of highways to keep the economy humming.

Furthermore, Mr. Malloy points out, at the rate present toll roads have been meeting obligations, the insurance need to cost the Federal government anything.

Toll road bonds are already prized investments because yields are usually tax free. With a Federal guarantee behind them, they would be even more desirable—so much that interest rates could probably be cut. The insurance would enhance their desirability by insurance companies, trust funds and other accumulations that by law must be invested in the safest places.

The plan is that it seems to parallel the workings of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which has been thoroughly successful. And while the Malloy plan looks like magic, there is rarely something for nothing in the world of economics.

Guaranteed, tax-free highway bonds attract huge sums, there will be less money for investment in business expansion, and business will have to pay higher rates for borrowed money. And if a greater share of American capital is put into tax-free securities the loss in taxes will have to be made up elsewhere—probably at the expense of us who can't afford big chunks of tax-exemption.

However, the Malloy plan has interesting points and is worth the study it is beginning to get.

TV COLOR PROGRESS SLOWS DOWN TV COLOR

Progress, it seems, sometimes stumbles over its own toe-taps. One of the biggest possibilities for technical and economic advancement, at the moment, lies in color television. A surge of buying sets and telecasting programs could build boom on top of boom on top of boom.

Progress is steaming ahead so fast that the outstandingly produced 22-inch color tube and promises mass production next year. And W.L. Stickle, Hoffman sales manager is quoted in the trade press as predicting color TV sets at $500 by the end of 1956.

And so consumer purchases of TV sets—one thing essential to bringing these wonders to pass—slows down to await fresher miracles.

CHEAPER INSURANCE FOR NONDRINKING CANADIANS

Teetotalers can soon save money on insurance in Canada. The Ontario Temperance Federation is forming an insurance company to offer auto insurance at 15 per cent below rates charged drinkers. Rates on renewal will go down to 40 per cent below other rates.

ONE PRIZE CAN WIN ANOTHER IN BIRD GAME

Win every purchase of $50 or more, a quality electrical store gives a parakeet. If the customer teaches the bird to pronounce the store's name within six months, he gets $25.

DESIGNS DOLL, WINS PRIZE, MAKES MONEY

Sharon Neva, 18, of Rochester, N.Y., designed a doll in a magazine contest. It won the prize and now a toy company (Ideal) is manufacturing the doll and distributing it nationally on a royalty basis.

Doubts Spreading That Krushchev Is Top Man

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Western diplomats are no longer so sure as they once were that jovial, back-slapping Nikita Khrushchev is the dominating figure inside the Soviet government.

At least a few believe that the key man—the chairman of the board within the ruling group—may be Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The distribution of power among Soviet leaders has provided a continuous guessing game for Western diplomats and foreign affairs officials ever since Joseph Stalin died. Each contact between top Russians and Western leaders is therefore carefully analyzed for signs of personal power positions. The latest such occasion of substantial importance was the September visit to Moscow of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his foreign minister, Heinrich Von Brentano.

Von Brentano recently came to the United States and conferred with the American, British and French foreign ministers in New York as well as with State Department officials here.

He is understood to have remarked in these conversations that Bulganin rather than Khrushchev was clearly the dominant figure in the negotiations.

Adenauer and his associates went to the meeting prepared to find Khrushchev playing a lead role and doing the tough bargaining. Instead, they found that Bulganin took the lead in virtually all the talks and was an extremely able and tough bargainer.

On occasion they gained the impression of great personal strength which when necessary could be very harshly used. There were times when Bulganin appeared to crack down on Khrushchev with a look or word disapproving something Khrushchev had said a moment before.

The impression gained by the Germans was at variance with that reportedly gained by Yugoslav negotiators when the two Soviet leaders visited Belgrade earlier in the summer.

Irish Terrorists Get Life Terms

READING, England (AP)—Three members of the outlawed terrorist Irish Republican Army were under life sentences today for their part in an unsuccessful raid on a British army barracks in August.

The trio and at least seven others, posing as British soldiers, stole large quantities of arms and ammunition from an army depot at Arborfield, England, Aug. 13. Scotland Yard operatives recovered the loot from a London hide-out. The rest of the raiders were not captured.

During the two-day trial the three sat glum and silent. After sentence was pronounced last night, Joseph Doyle, 30 the eldest of the trio, spoke up.

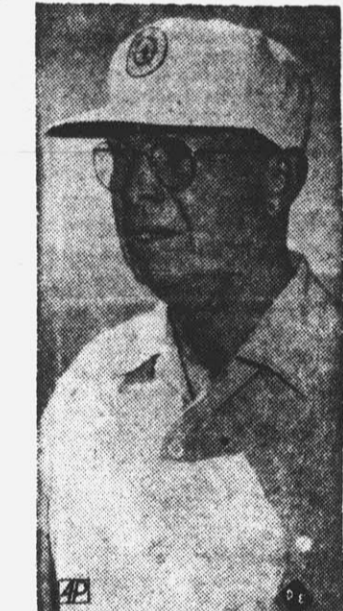

"We are soldiers of the IRA. Those arms and ammunition were to be used against the British army of occupation in Ireland. We have no regrets—our only regret is that it (the raid) was not a success."

Doyle comes from County Wicklow. Sentenced with him were Donald Murphy, 23 of Dublin and James Andrew Mary Murphy, 20, of London.

The largely Catholic Republic of Ireland wants to incorporate the six Protestant counties which form Northern Ireland and now are united politically to Britain. The IRA—banned in the Irish republic as well as in Britain—has repeatedly urged a terrorist campaign to unite all of Ireland.

GOP Chairman Says Ike Confident Of Party Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall quoted President Eisenhower last night as expressing confidence shortly before his heart attack that the Republicans will win next year's presidential election.

Hall, who addressed a party dinner, added his own optimism.

He has said several times it would be inappropriate to speculate whether Eisenhower will run again despite his heart attack.

He said Eisenhower expressed his cheerful views about the 1956 election a little more than two weeks ago as Hall was leaving Denver after the President's conference there with GOP state chairmen.

Eisenhower was quoted as saying that if the Republicans carry out their plan to double the number of party county committeemen and work to get out the vote, "we won't have to worry about 1956."

Hall pictured Eisenhower as enthusiastic at that time over the plan, suggested by New York Republican State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse, to double the number of official campaign workers by appointing an alternate from the ranks of the Young Republicans to every elected county committeeman and committee woman in the nation.

Hall said Eisenhower commented: "There, you've already doubled your force."

The national chairman said Eisenhower bade him goodby with "Len, be optimistic and keep smiling."

"And that, to me, is the spirit of the Republican party," Hall told the dinner group.

Baby Enjoyed Visit By Bear

THURMAN, N.Y. (AP)—Charley Bills, 14 months, is not likely to remember the day the black bear visited him. His mother will never forget it.

Mrs. Edith Bills said Charley suddenly began jabbering with enthusiasm in his play pen on the porch of their house in an isolated section near this Adirondack community the other day. She found him "ticking his finger out through the play pen slats, smiling and cooing."

A big black bear was standing nearby on its hind legs. "I grabbed up the baby and ran into the house and into a bedroom and slammed the door," she said.

"The baby didn't seem to be scared at all, just wondering what happened."

The bear just plodded away. When entering intersections at low speed shift to 2nd gear for power and better control.

ABC Officer J. M. Ward is shown above as he examined the 400-gallon filter box on what may be the largest still ever found in this county. The unit had apparently only recently been moved into its location on the Old Clarks Neck Road and no liquor had been run off. (Reflector Staff Photos).

Aerial Leaflets Announce Baby

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Leaflets floating down from an airplane over Texarkana yesterday read: "It's a Girl, Sheila Kay McCall, Five Pounds Eight Ounces, Ten Fingers Ten Toes, Mother OK."

The mystery was cleared up when it was learned that Mrs. Joe McCall gave birth to a first child at St. Michael's Hospital and the father, a private pilot, was just advertising.

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal court jury convicted Frank Boyd, 36, a substitute clerk in the main post office, of stealing 50 cents from a letter. Judge John P. Barnes sentenced him to a year and a day in prison.

147 Complaints Of Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's Committee on Government Contracts reported today that it received 147 complaints in the past two years of hiring or promotion discrimination because of race color or creed.

The committee, headed by Vice President Nixon, said it had disposed of 71 complaints and is still working on the others.

It said many more complaints would have been filed but for a general "reluctance" of people to do so.

The committee seeks to enforce the anti-discrimination clause which are contained in most federal government contracts with private firms. The complaints were filed by various organizations and individuals against firms in the utility, aircraft, auto parts, in refining, chemical, construction and machine tool industries.

Of the 71 cases closed, the committee said, "corrective action" was taken in 21, no violation was found in 21, lack of jurisdiction resulted in dismissing 16 and the remaining 13 were dismissed because of inadequate information.

The committee said there has been "improvement in compliance" in a number of the 76 cases still pending. It said that cases are not closed until the committee is satisfied with a contractor's general compliance as well as with results achieved in connection with the specific complaint.

Mystery Water Dampens House

WINDSOR, Vt. (AP)—The mystery of the water in the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Waterman was not a career solution today.

The Watermans have been forced to take refuge in a trailer in their front yard.

The water in the form of dew, mist or fog dampens everything in the eight-room house except the walls and ceilings.

The Watermans have lived in the house for nine years but not until two weeks ago did water begin to plague them.

Claim Shipment Of U. S. Wheat

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Yugoslav government says the United States is going to ship it 300,000 tons of American surplus wheat.

The government's Weekly Economic Review said last night the wheat agreement was reached during the recent visit of Robert Murphy, U. S. deputy undersecretary of state. The Review added that Murphy assured the Yugoslavs they would get considerable quantities of other American surplus farm products.

President Tito's government was reported especially interested in importing cotton.

House-Cleaning Turned Up Gems

NEW YORK (AP)—House cleaning can turn up all sorts of things.

Last Thursday Mrs. Milton Unger told police she had placed six velvet cases of gems worth $35,000 in a bureau drawer some 10 days previously but couldn't find them that night.

Police said Louvinia Richardson, a maid, reported finding the gems under a mattress in the Unger apartment yesterday.

INCLUDING NAMES makes it easier to identify vacation pictures. This one for our 1955 album shows the schooner Joseph Conrad, now used as a training ship for Sea Scouts at Mystic Seaport, Conn.

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newfeatures
Now that most vacations are over they are being relived through pictures, color slides and movies. These vacation pictures can tell a much better story if there is drastic pruning and elimination of bad or mediocre shots; if the others are identified or titled and if all are arranged or spliced in coherent sequence.

In black-and-white photography there is the greatest range for possible presentations of the complete vacation picture story. One of the worst ways is to carry a handful of loose prints around in a pocket, wallet or handbag until they get mislaid or too dog-eared to show. One of the best post-vacation goals is a separate photo album for permanent reference.

The latter should be well planned and requires thought and time. After elimination of the poorer pictures, better ones should be selected for enlargements. The album pages should be laid out like picture stories in newspapers or magazines. Don't crowd the pictures and if a picture is good, give it emphasis by enlarging it to full page size or by isolating it on a page by itself. Keep incidents or episodes together on one or several page units or by mounting them on distinctive color art paper as borders.

Take full advantage of pictures with self-contained titles, names, signs or other means of ready identification to start your picture story units. For variety you can also add mementoes of the places visited, like hotel stickers, play-books, menus and photo postcards. Before a photo album of this nature is finally assembled, many camera fans have occasion to show some vacation pictures when visiting friends and relatives. It is practically impossible to maintain a story-telling sequence of separate pictures when they are passed from hand to hand. If it is desirable to show photos in sequence, the easiest method is to number the prints plainly on the front. People instinctively try to keep the numbers in order.

Another method is to form a long, continuous picture strip of contact prints or small jumbo enlargements. This is done by joining prints with adhesive tape. They not only attach adjacent pictures, but act as a hinge so that a whole strip folds accordion-like to the size of one picture. These picture strips are easier to look at if the print are either all horizontal or all vertical.

Still another way to keep some order in viewing is with a loose leaf album with pages of cellophane pockets. The pictures are easy to arrange, easy to change and give a better preview of what the permanent album can look like.

With color, and stereo slides, again it is in your best interest to eliminate inferior pictures before submitting them to a captive audience. Take the trouble, also, of getting them in proper order and correct position to avoid making apologies for an upside-down or reversed slide.

To protect slides from fingerprints and scratches in handling, use cellophane covers which come in all sizes for all slides.

It's a good idea to identify your very best slides with a distinctive mark or spot of adhesive color tape. Then when you have a blue-ribbon showing or when time doesn't permit a full run, you can easily select those with unusual interest or color without fumbling.

Home movies require the most drastic editing for best audience reception. This is one phase of photography which permits you to add footage afterward to make your story more interesting or informative. For instance titles can be shot at home from block letters, hand lettering or from travel folders and maps. Instead of just a still picture however, actually show a hand assembling the blocks or making the lettering or tracing a route on a map.

To show transition or travel, take some close-up footage of your car traveling along a road; the wheels turning; the metered amount adding up on a gasoline pump; a gas station attendant wiping your windshield; clothes falling into a suitcase or valises being piled into the car trunk. Any of these can be spliced into your finished film to indicate a change of scene.

Japanese Beef Said Orient's Big Treat

By JIM CARY

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese cattle, smaller than their American counterpart, lead a life that would make a Texas steer blush. But you should taste the steaks they produce!

Dubbed affectionately with such girls' names as Hanako and Iko, the cattle are part of the Japanese farm family. They live right in the house. Rooms are built around their stall to take advantage of their bodily warmth in winter.

During the day there's not much to do but loaf in small pens, gaze contentedly at the serene Japanese landscape or graze in tiny pastures.

The food's good too — occasionally rice and plenty of barley, wheat and bran.

With only one or two animals to care for, the farmer lavishes great attention on them. They get a gentle but brisk rubdown every day with handfuls of straw. Farmers say this rubs the outer layer of fat right into the meat where it belongs.

This goes on for six years — that's right, six years — and then comes the payoff.

If the farmer did his job right, the meat will come out a deep, glossy red — deeper than American beef — rimmed with a thin layer of fat. Throughout there will be flecks of "fallen frost," or fat.

Now you're in for a treat. In a top Tokyo meat market, you pay 70 cents to $2 a pound, depending on grade, and carry your haul home, making certain not to bruise it en route.

Soak it for two hours in soy sauce, sprinkle well with garlic salt and then lap it on a grill, glowing with a deep mass of cherry-red charcoal.

The result is one of the greatest treats of the Orient. Some say your life will never be the same.

REPORT TO THE NATION — This picture of the President was made last July as he prepared to address the nation by radio and TV before leaving for Big Four conference.

Fastest Dog Is Flying Mascot

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Fritz leads a dog's life — except when he's flying.

Major Fritz is a German shepherd dog and mascot for the 146th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron of the 11th Fighter-Interceptor Wing, Pennsylvania Air National Guard. He's been shot at in the air during a tour of duty in Korea, he's had to make two emergency parachute jumps from transport aircraft and once made a cross-country flight outside a plane — by riding in a specially constructed under-the-wing fuel tank.

He's probably the world's fastest dog, too, because his present owner, Lt. Lynn A. McKinney, a pilot with the 146th, flies a Republic F-84F Thunderstreak, atomic-bomb carrying jet fighter-bomber that holds the transcontinental speed record of 62 miles an hour. Before going into the service the dog acquired a taste for flying when his former owner an airlines pilot, took him along on transoceanic flights.

Treating tobacco plant beds in the fall is usually more successful than in the spring.

Newsboy Training Has Approval Of Governor

By ABE RIBICOFF
Governor of Connecticut
AP Newfeatures

The first time I carried a newspaper bag it was backbreaking work. My route was big. The papers were heavy. I was only 10 years old. It didn't seem that I could carry the load.

Then I discovered that by shifting the bag from shoulder to shoulder or by using my hands to help hold up the load the burden could be lightened. It no longer was an unbearable weight.

This is one of life's most important lessons—that a burden doesn't have to be intolerable. There are ways that every burden of responsibility and every burden of a busy job can be shouldered without being oppressive.

Because I was a newsboy, I learned this lesson when very young. It has remained with me ever since. It has helped me shoulder my burdens as a father, as a lawyer, as a judge, as a legislator, as a Congressman and even today as governor of Connecticut.

man faced with production problems, as a father faced with family emergencies, or as a governor faced with a flood disaster, he accepts the job and the responsibility as a matter of course—the same as he did when the papers had to be delivered in the midst of a snowstorm.

Fuzzy Protest To Interruptions

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—The late World Series has caused me to stop shaving. No, I'm not letting my beard grow because I lost a bet. Rather, my beard is a soundless, fuzzy protest against the commercials that marred the presentation of this national institution on television.

Now that I've stopped wanting to look sharp or feel sharp or be sharp and have given up using either the light or the medium or the heavy razor, I'm taking my baseball coverage next season in the daily paper. The beautiful, steady flow of a news story has never looked so good to me as on these recent days following a World Series game. Nowhere in any news story has my concentration been jarred by a paragraph to the effect that Pee Wee Reese or Hank Bauer shaves with a —

If I was looking and listening as intently as I believe, it sounded to me as though Casey Stengel has ordered his Yankees to shave only with a you know what. Casey Stengel is a gentleman I have long admired from a distance; he strikes me as a guy who can inspire other guys to do the impossible. But I'm a sad judge of human character. See Ten Years Of Divided Germany

By TOM REEDY
WARSAW, (AP)—Polish informants indicate here the Russians plan to keep Germany divided for at least a decade.

One government source commented in an informal conversation: "Reunification may be possible, but in 10 or 15 years." This suits the Poles fine. A 2,000-mile tour of Poland by this correspondent made clear that Nazi Germany's conquest of Poland and extermination of six million out of a prewar population of 34 million turned this generation of Poles against Germany.

was the work of Germans. Almost every family in Poland has been touched by personal wartime tragedy. The legacy from the Nazis has shifted to the Germans the traditional Polish hatred for the Russians. The Poles do not bother to qualify which kind of Germans — East or West, Nazi or Christian Democrat.

60 million in the West and 18 million under Communist rule in the East is regarded as much less of a worry. Warsaw officials admit that the forces of destiny require Germany to be fitted together eventually. But they argue that in 10 years more, Poland will be so solidly entrenched in its western territories that the 1945 Oder-Neisse border will be generally accepted in world councils.

This, they claim, is also Soviet strategy. East German Communists attending the World Youth Festival here in July were embroiled in various incidents. An angry crowd threatened physical violence when the Germans tried to give candy to Polish children in the streets. Police had to break up several rows in night clubs.

Examples of anti-German feeling around. In a hotel in Zoppot, an angry girl stormed out of the bar because the waitress spoke Polish with a German accent.

Ignazy Krasticki, a former noble, told how 40 people in his house were shot, and added: "The Germans made me a Communist, not the Russians."

Egyptian Arms Sales Felt Part Of Soviet Trade Drive

By RICHARD O'REGAN
VIENNA (AP)—Western diplomats said today Czechoslovakia's arms deal with Egypt conceals a subtle Soviet trade offensive. These diplomats believe Russia hopes by economic penetration to win Middle East and Balkan countries away from the West.

Quietly, Russia and her satellites have strengthened their position in Egypt, Turkey, Greece, Israel, Iran, Afghanistan and Yugoslavia with new trade ties in recent months.

The diplomats, student of Russian and satellite trade, draw this picture:

During the past year Egypt has signed agreements with Russia, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland and Romania.

Besides weapons from Czechoslovakia, the Communist countries are sending Egypt industrial machinery, automobiles, machine tools, chemicals and petroleum. Such deals will permit the Communists to send technical personnel to Egypt to set up industrial installations and train local people.

But Egypt is not alone. Middle Eastern export to the Soviet bloc have increased almost 57 per cent over 1953. At the same time, these countries imported almost 26 per cent more from the Communist world.

The general Soviet pattern is to exchange Communist bloc industrial equipment and petroleum for agricultural goods and raw materials like phosphates, iron, bauxite and pyrites.

Country by country, western sources gave this summary of how trade is being stimulated:

Turkey—In 1953 Turkey sent only 74 per cent of its exports behind the Iron Curtain. In 1954 this had jumped to 16 per cent, with imports increasing similarly. This year Turkey has signed agreements with Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and East Germany in addition to renewing treaties with other satellites. The Communist nations are providing Turkey with tools, machinery and finished products in exchange for agricultural products, some of which are hard to dispose of elsewhere.

Greece—Trade, particularly imports from the Soviet area, increased during the past year. The Soviets are reported making an effort to persuade the Greeks to send more than the present 7.1 per cent of their total exports to the Russian bloc.

Yugoslavia—Trade relations with each member of the Soviet bloc in Europe have been resumed as a result of the Kremlin's new attitude toward Tito. But the 1955 agreements do not measure up to the 1948 days when 50.7 per cent of Yugoslav exports and 45.6 per cent of her imports were with the Soviet area.

Afghanistan—Russia's success here is most noticeable, probably due to the country's isolation and proximity to the Soviet Union. Russia has extended several credit loans for the purchase of industrial equipment. The Soviets are building roads and taking Afghan wool, hides and fruit in exchange for petroleum, textiles and chemicals.

Iran—Russia is taking agricultural products in exchange for industrial and manufactured goods.

Israel—Exports to the Soviet bloc increased from 3.4 per cent of the nation's total in 1953 to 5.2 per cent in 1954 and it is believed it will be greater in 1955.

Lebanon—there has not been much change over 1953, but not for want of trying by Russian and satellite negotiators.

Memorial Honors Town's Founders

BEMENT III. (AP)—This town was founded a century ago. Three young men, Joseph Bodman, L. E. Wing and Henry P. Little paid the government $1.25 an acre and donated the land.

Bement's first real house was built for Bodman in 1855 and it still stands on its original site.

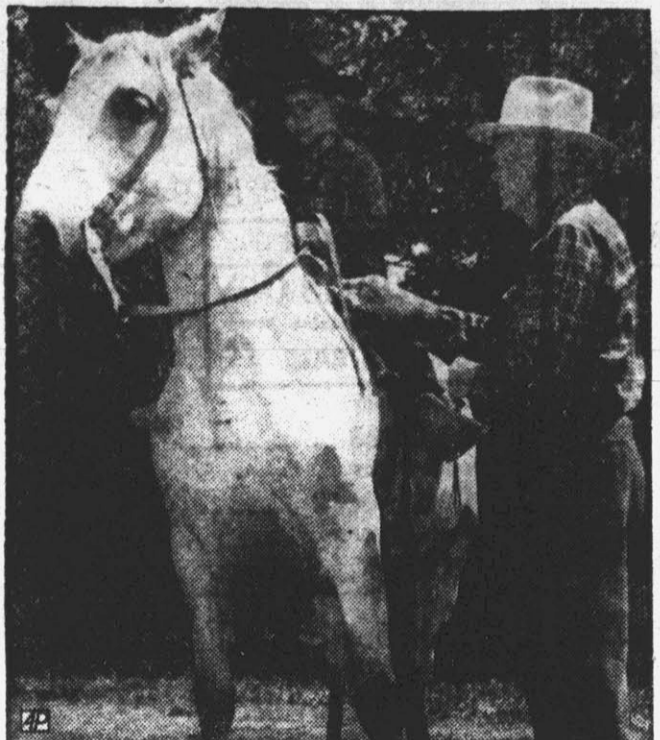

F. E. Bryant first cousin of poet William Cullen Bryant, moved to Bement in 1856 and became a leading merchant, establishing the first bank and serving two terms in the Illinois General Assembly. It was at his home, now preserved as a memorial by the state, that Lincoln and Douglas met in 1858 to plan their debates.

There were many relics for the centennial celebration. Among them was Bodman's bath tub and a chain used by Steve Hawks in switching freight cars with a yoke of oxen a century ago.

Theoretically a car that can stop in 40 feet at 30 mph should be able to stop in 360 feet at 90 mph, but the shortest distance a driver has stopped in actual tests is 480 feet.

ELECTION VICTORY SMILES—Ike and Mamie are all smiles as they greet cheering, singing crowd in grand ballroom of Hotel Commodore in New York City early Nov. 5, 1952, as national election returns showed his election as President of the United States.

Survey Based On Public's Feet

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—Officials of the new Clinch Park Zoo let visitors' feet do their surveying. Wherever heavy pedestrian traffic left paths between animal exhibits, sidewalks were built.

"Letting people choose their own paths should save a lot of unnecessary traffic on the grass," explained Parks Supt. Gerlad Williams.

Sherman Adams Isn't Big, But Politically He's A Heavyweight

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON—A gray-haired, square-jawed fellow who tips the scales at only 150 pounds has moved into the presidential headquarters at Denver to take charge during the convalescence of President Eisenhower. His name is Sherman Adams.

Buyers-On-Cuff Regarded Still Fairly Safe Bet

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The millions who buy on time—are they still good risks?
Some 1,000 finance men from all over the country are meeting today in Boston to discuss such matters. And in Washington there's headwagging over the steadily rising total of consumer debt.

But leaders of the firms that make the loans maintain that the vast majority of American families who buy on the cuff are still good risks—just as they've always been.

Roughly one half of American families make some installment payment each month—on house, car, appliance or personal loan. Whether that's good or bad depends largely on the individual family. Generalizations, or averages, can be quoted without proving too much. Credit executives say delinquencies still hold at about one per cent of total loans outstanding.

Compacities represented at the Boston meeting of the National Consumer Finance Assn. deal exclusively with cash installment credit—lump sums paid back at regular intervals. They expect to make more than three billion dollars in cash loans this year.

This is a modest portion of consumer credit, which according to latest Federal Reserve figures totals $32 billion dollar, with the installment phase of it topping $2 billion.

This credit and its rapid rise this year to record highs admittedly is one of the bright spots of the retail side of the business boom.

George F. Johns, a division chairman of the Associated Credit Bureaus of America, says: "Retailers are keeping their bad debt losses to less than one half of one per cent. As long as they maintain that small loss percentage, there seems to be no reason to believe that there's any great danger in mounting consumer credit."

At Boston today Selby has praise for the ordinary American family's budgeting ability. He says it prides itself on meeting its obligations and "is the best judge of whether it has extended itself too far."

Concern centers largely in what might happen if the incomes of the debtors should be clipped by some general and sharp downturn in business. At the moment no such downturn is in sight, nor is any expected. And the finance companies can say without contradiction at present: the ordinary American family knows what it's doing—and is still an excellent risk.

Fishermen Say Fish Remember

TOKYO (AP)—The fishermen in Tokyo say they think fish have memories and they're put out at the U.S. armed forces. The United States lowered anti-submarine nets at the entrance of Tokyo bay during the Korean war. The fishermen said the nets kept fish from entering the bay.

Recently the nets were removed and eager Japanese fishermen cast their lines. No bites. Now the fishermen are demanding compensation from the Japan Procurement Agency, the go-between for U.S. armed forces and the Japanese government.

They claim the fish are staying away because they remember the net was there.

stag emaner, Adams has shifted from Washington into his accustomed place of authority near the President.

This single action, more than any other perhaps, has dramatized the decision by key administration officials to keep things moving as nearly as possible along accustomed lines pending the President's return to active duty.

He's one of the most interesting figures in government, this man Adams, whose actual size doesn't reflect his heavyweight influence. It is generally agreed it would be difficult to say where Adams' influence at the White House ends and the President's begins in the day-to-day decisions of government.

The reason for this lies in his position as the President's unofficial "chief of staff" and in the fact that the President obviously places complete trust in him.

Almost everybody who sees the President during working hours must arrange it with "Sherm," whose official title is assistant to the President. Adams is the man who sees Eisenhower from day to day more than anyone else. He interprets the President's wishes to Cabinet members and to others. He is in a position to encourage or discourage a course of action proposed to the President.

Adams has said he regards himself merely as an instrument to relieve the President of as many burdens of his office as he possibly can.

He works long hours, usually arriving at his desk at 7:30 am, every weekday. He rarely shows up on the Washington cocktail circuit.

One Washington hostess has said: "What can you do with a man who gets up at 6:30 and goes to bed at 8:30?"

It probably is significant that the 5-foot-8 Adams once successfully bossed more than 600 lumberjacks in the Vermont woods. And he made his authority stick.

In one brief span of time, a log knocked out his front teeth; a horse kicked him in the face, fracturing his frontal sinuses; and a piece of pulp wood fell 60 feet, smacking him behind the left ear, and partially deafened him.

A less determined man might have become discouraged with the lumber business at this point, but Adams went on to become one of the company's top officials. He entered politics in 1940 and served two terms in the New Hampshire Legislature and one term in Congress. He served two terms as governor of New Hampshire.

Adams was one of Eisenhower's early supporters for the presidency and helped mastermind his nomination and election. Then he moved into the White House with Eisenhower.

Adams tries to be as anonymous as possible but he long ago was pegged as a potent influence in government. And there's no sign this influence has waned.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four German shepherd dogs, which at a command will jump through a plate glass window, are being used in an experiment that may prove the solution to the shortage of police officers in many of the nation's communities.

The experiment, first of its kind in city police work according to Commissioner Marguerite C. Johnson of Dearborn, Mich., is being conducted in her city of 120,000.

Instead of having two policemen on a beat, we can send out a dog and an officer," she said. "The dog, if commanded, will jump through a plate glass window, flush out a suspect and disarm him, enter a burning building to search for victims, scale a 14-foot fence and stand guard."

Mrs. Johnson, who is the nation's only woman police commissioner, is attending the 62nd annual International Assn. of Chiefs of Police Conference here. A grandmother, she also is commissioner of the Fire and Communications Department.

"So far," she said, "we think the experiment is terrific."

"The dogs, who also travel in patrol cars, could save many officers' lives," she said. "If a man is armed with a knife or gun or is holed up somewhere, the dog will find him, flush him out, disarm him and then guard him until the officer arrives."

"And officers get no sass when they are patrolling with a dog. Everybody respects them."

She recalled how a dog held four men at bay while an officer left him and walked down a long block to call for a patrol car. When he returned, she said, the men hadn't budged an inch.

Commissioner Johnson brought one of the dogs, Sgt. Orvie, with her to the convention. Like all the dogs, he is perfectly gentle unless commanded by his officer or trainer to flush out a quarry or attack.

Sgt. Orvie registered at the convention by sticking his paw dipped in ink on an application blank.

Japan Is Constant Target For Disastrous Typhoons

By JIM BECKER
TOKYO (AP)—Japan is the bull's-eye at which from one to three dozen disastrous Pacific typhoons are aimed each year.

October is when most of them slam home.

When the typhoons rip into densely populated Japan, thousands of houses are blown away, scores of persons are crushed by flying debris and drowned in flash floods, huge waves splinter fishing craft and thousands of acres of sorely needed rice plants are destroyed.

Damage from a single storm can top 100 million dollars.

Typhoon Louise, this year's most violent, took at least 42 lives last week during its rampage through southern Japan. Another 300 were injured. The storm's howling winds tore down a high-tension wire and started a fire that destroyed the center of Niigata, a city of a quarter million.

After Louise howled out to sea, nearly 300,000 persons were homeless.

On her way up "Typhoon Alley" from Guam, Louise also flattened the American base on historic Iwo Jima and took a pass at Okinawa, where the United States maintains a large garrison.

Typhoon Marge howled to a stop today on Japan's doorstep after keeping 88 million Japanese on edge for days.

And new typhoons are brewing in the South Pacific, gathering steam for the charge to the north.

When full grown, Pacific typhoons are twisting toros that whirl winds of 75 to 175 miles an hour around a hollow center. They cut paths as wide as 250 miles. They dump torrents of lashing rain—sometimes as much as a foot in a few hours.

Typhoons are called hurricanes in the Western Hemisphere. They act exactly alike and pack the same destructive power, with the edge, if any, probably going to the typhoon.

"Typhoon Alley" in the Pacific runs from Guam and the Philippines through the East China Sea, over Okinawa and up the Japanese island chain.

Some storms blow themselves out harmlessly over the ocean. But an average of three to six a year streak right up the island chain.

They have plagued Japan for centuries.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interior Department announced yesterday that North Carolina will get $242,139 for wildlife projects and $86,667 for development of fish resources in fiscal 1956.

The state supplies 75 per cent of the funds for such projects and the federal government 25 per cent.

Automation For The School Room

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Automation has hit the grade school student, at least in Dayton. Time was when they could break loose to go clean the erasers. Now machines do the job.

School officials here say most buildings now have standard electric eraser cleaners or easily operated vacuum machines made by shop teachers, or maintenance crews.

Now the chalk dust goes into the vacuum bag, instead of Junior's lungs. And gone are the days when, if you were lucky enough to get the assignment, you could adjourn to the fire escape to beat the chalk out of the erasers.

The 1956 Dodge

One of the newest, most exciting automobiles to appear on the American motoring scene in recent years is the glamorous 1956 Dodge Four-Door Lancer hardtop. All of the youth and vigor of true hardtop styling has been skillfully combined with the comfort and convenience of the four-door sedan. While the car shown above is in the Custom Royal series, the same body style is being offered in the lower priced Royal and Coronet series.

Nixon's Friends Gather To Answer Gov. Knight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Friends of Vice President Nixon are at his side today with sharp retorts to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for bringing a California Republican party feud, smoldering for more than a year, into the open. The governor touched off intra-party fireworks yesterday by stating that, if President Eisenhower doesn't run next year, he intends to head the state's delegation to the GOP National Convention even if it means an open fight with Nixon. The Nixon camp retaliated swiftly with statements by Rep. Carl Hinshaw, chairman of the state's GOP House members, and V. John Krenbiel, Los Angeles County Republican chairman. Both criticized the governor for making his remarks in a Sacramento interview while President Eisenhower is ill. Rep. Hinshaw accused Knight of "fantastic pretensions as a bona fide contender for the office of president." Control of the delegation is considered vital to any Californian with presidential aspirations. It will be second in number of noninating votes only to New York. Traditionally in California, the governor heads the delegation. Hinshaw said bluntly: "In full recognition of the fact that controversy among California Republicans at this time is most undesirable, I nevertheless feel strongly that the amazing antics of our Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in connection with his fantastic pretensions as a bona fide contender for the office of president of the United States should not go unrebuked." "Except in the ambitious dreams of Mr. Knight he is something of a political joke in national politics and it will prove most unfortunate for the Republican party in California and in the nation if his unseemly and almost indecent haste to exploit the unfortunate illness of President Eisenhower should result in creating a false impression of his real standing." Gov. Knight, in his interview, had reiterated that his first choice as a GOP nominee is President Eisenhower but that if the President doesn't run he will seek control of this state's convention votes as a favorite son—and only nommal-candidate. Krenbiel said in his statement: "Gov. Knight by his conduct in injecting partisan politics while the President is confined to his hospital bed forfeits any right he may have had to enter the national picture. He certainly doesn't belong in the class of such outstanding men as Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland."

Homes Interest Russian Experts

BOSTON (AP)—A delegation of 10 Russian construction experts—in Boston on a tour of American cities—switch from private homes to multiple-unit developments today on the last round of their visit. Apparently most interested in methods and material to speed Soviet building, the tourists yesterday focused their interest and cameras on single-unit dwellings. The Russians purchased a prefabricated door an accordion-type fabric door, a preassembled double window and door. Charles E. Bragg, managing director of the host Home Builders Assn of Boston, said the Russians were surprised or impressed by: 1. The fact that open, airy homes with so much glass could be lived in comfortably in the cold, New England climate. 2. The high quality of plaster and concrete used in American housing developments compared with that used in Russia. 3. Negro and white workmen side by side on construction jobs. The Russians asked for blueprints at a development where a three-bedroom ranch-type home with all-electric kitchen and radiant heat sells for $14,100. Delegation head I. K. Kozullia told newsmen that the U.S.S.R. government does most of the building but encourages and give subsidies for private building. Albert Oamer, Russian interpreter, explained that the emphasis in Russia is on rapid and inexpensive construction because the demand for housing is so great. In America, he said, esthetic aspects are emphasized to please the buyer and sell the house.

FOR LAWYER FEES CHICAGO (AP)—Police seized Kenneth Clifford, 21, and two other men yesterday after two West Side groceries had been held up. Police said they admitted the hold-ups and a dozen other robberies in the last three weeks Clifford, on bond awaiting trial on a charge of statutory rape, told police he was trying to raise money for attorney fees.

Doctor Decides Not To Shave

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Michael J. Plesse, 67, with his sights set on spending 30 days in jail without food, now says he won't shave either. The retired Tarpon Springs dentist has spent much of the past two days in prayer and reading a prayer book. His only nourishment has been coffee and soft drinks. He was ordered to jail Sept. 26 for contempt of court after he refused to pay alimony and created a scene at a judicial hearing. He says his former wife, a Yugoslav, married him so she could become a U.S. citizen.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

Ethel returned and for a moment she stood beside the worktable. One hand touched it with a lingering caress.

"Perhaps," Lois suggested, "you will be willing to help me. Probably no one is as familiar with Mr. Brindle's method of work as you are. We'd be so grateful."

"Well," Ethel's lips twisted in a wry grimace. "Any work that is done you'll do. Mrs. Brindle won't lift a finger if there's anyone to do it for her."

"Well," Lois said cheerfully, "that's what I'm here for."

"Don't you mind," Ethel asked, "when someone else gets the credit?"

Lois laughed. "That's the number one question asked of ghosts. The answer is no, I don't mind." She added in her warm, eager voice, "But do please think about it and let me know something about Mr. Brindle's way of attacking his columns. It would be a help because people are interested in things like that. And I know, of course from the way he wrote, how highly he thought of you."

A dull red stain mottled the piteous face. "He was—he was like sunshine. You know that line: 'You came and the sun came after.' I don't know who wrote it but he always made me think of it. When he came into a room it brightened." She struggled for expression, tried to speak, gave it up. After a moment she walked to the Dutch door so that her face was hidden from Lois. She said abruptly, "He made me feel attractive."

"What a wonderful thing—to go through life without making enemies," Lois said and heard Ethel draw in her breath sharply.

Something moved by the window and Joe Hattery, lifting a pane of glass, smirked. "The guy who could do no wrong," he said.

Ethel wheeled and went out of the cottage. As he used the putty knife Joe began to whistle.

Lois returned to the photograph album, grateful that the pictures were arranged chronologically. There was Roger at fifteen, already very big, towering over other boys. Roger and a small, scrawny looking lad who stared up at him with worship in his eyes. Underneath was written, "Roger and Albert." This must be Albert Kibbee, Roger's graduate from high school, Roger on a bicycle, Roger with Albert again. Roger and a tall girl sitting on a fallen tree, laughing. Underneath was written, "My beloved Jane, the day she promised to marry me."

Lois lingered over that picture more rapidly. There were pictures of the relationship between those two surprised her. They were not touching each other but in their expression there was a completeness for which she had not been prepared. They belonged together, she thought. In some essential way they supplemented each other. What puzzled Lois was a sense of recognition, of familiarity, which faded little by little.

She began to turn the pages more rapidly. There were pictures of townspeople, later of men and women famous in their various fields, and always—of course, Roger and Albert, fewer of Jane than none of Jane. And at last a picture of Roger in formal morning dress, smiling down with a kind of protective tenderness at Carol, who was extremely lovely in trailing white satin and a filmy wedding veil. Under it, "My sweet little wife on our wedding day."

The pictures ended there. Lois closed the album and pushed it away, looking unseeing at the wall above the table, thinking of the contrast between the magnetic look exchanged by Roger and Jane and his protective, amused tenderness for Carol. Not the usual story of a successful man discarding an aging wife for a pretty, younger one. There was no rupture in this second marriage of his. Strange.

There was a tap on the door. "Come," she called without looking around. Joe Hattery set something down on the floor with a bang.

"Brought you an electric heater." His eyes slid over Lois, traveled around the room, rested on the couch lingering on the hole in the frame.

"Thank you," Lois turned her back but Joe did not leave. He wandered across the room, absently lifted a cushion and let it drop again. Lois wished that he would go. She hated having him hover behind her like an evil bird.

"I guess," he said, "there's a lot of money in writing."

She made no comment.

"The first Mrs. Brindle's done well, hasn't she? Made a pot out of those articles."

"She's a fine writer," Lois replied, hoping that he would go. "That's what I figured." She heard shoe leather creak as he shifted position. "Successful. Costs quite a bit to stay at the inn."

Hours later, when she found herself straining to decipher the printed pages, Lois switched on the big desk lamp. She straightened up, the back of her neck aching, but still so absorbed that she was only dimly aware of her discomfort.

What a gift the man had had! After a somewhat fumbling beginning, in which he groped his way toward his own style and subject matter, he had handled his material with a vividness that impressed her by its cumulative effect. He had the rarest of abilities, that of communicating his own excitement, his own warm interest, in daily life and the people around him. True, he had made then, a little more than lifelike, endowed them with qualities they had not possessed. Albert the dreamer had had more than a touch of St. Francis; Bessie might have stepped out of Dickens; Ethel faithful and devoted and helpful, bore no relation to the passionate, pockmarked woman who had hovered at the worktable; Joe, the unfortunate, was no reasonable facsimile of the insinuating bird of prey who had wanted to tell her something and had not dared. Carol, the child wife—oh, no, no!

And yet—she reached once more for the book of pictures and looked at the one which ended the book: Roger smiling down at his bride with protective tenderness. And yet he had believed what he had written. That was why his writing had carried such conviction. Until those past few months and, increasingly, the past few weeks. Then the writing was no longer easy, no longer exuberant. He had tried too hard striving to recapture a magic that was gone. Somewhere he had lost what most of us lose in youth, the sense of wonder. He seemed constantly, with unutterable effort to be attempting to reanimate himself. And he sounded tired.

Let's translate these Chevrolet victories into your kind of driving.

You've got to have faster acceleration to win on the tracks. And that means safer passing on the highways. You've got to have better springing and suspension. Again, safer and happier motoring for you. You've got to have big brakes that act fast and smooth... and easy, accurate steering. More things that make your driving safer.

But it's more fun to try these things out than just to talk about them. So come in and let's take a ride.

Every checkered flag signals a Chevrolet victory in official 1955 stock car competition—not only against its own field but against many American and foreign high-priced cars, too!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market was an irregular affair today with price changes narrow. In the early afternoon, prices moved either way between 1 and 2 points at the outside. Only a few strayed more than a point.

Trading was at the slowest pace in around a month. Yesterday's total was a low 1,920,000 shares.

Steels and motors were mixed most of the time. The aircrafts, coppers and chemicals were definitely lower. Railroads, oils, and the movie issues were higher on balance.

Among higher stocks were Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Boeing American Telephone, Fabco Products, New York Central, Phillips Petroleum and Loew's.

Lower were General Motors, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft United Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, General Electric and Sears Roebuck.

CHICAGO — (USDA) — Salable hogs 11,000; market 15-25 lower early on barrows and gilts, but bulk sales 25 lower, moderately active at decline; sows uneven mostly 25 lower; bulk mixed U.S. No 1 to 3s 190-200 lb butchers, 15.25-15.50; few decks mixed No. 1 and 2s 190-220 lb 15.60-15.70; 57 head lot U.S. No 1s 210 lb uniform in weight at 15.75; few lots mixed grades 160-180 lb 14.50-15.25; sows in larger lots 500 lb and lighter 13.75-15.00; few small lots up to 800 lb and above as low as 12.75.

Pitt NCEA Chapter Meets In Farmville

By EDWINA HAYMES
Reflector Staff Writer

A panel discussion on methods of reporting students' progress was featured at the first meeting of the Pitt County chapter of the North Carolina Education Association for this year last night in Farmville.

Panel members included Frank Fuller of East Carolina College, moderator; in the place of Dr. Alan S. Hurlburt, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, who was unable to be present; Mrs. Hilda Garrenton of Bethel, representing parents; Mrs. Ina Venters of Chocod, representing elementary teachers; Mrs. Lou Nelson of Belvoir, representing high school teachers; E.F. Johnson of Ayden, representing principals; and Cliff Simpson, Farmville High School senior, representing the students.

The panel generally agreed that a uniform form of reporting was necessary, but a number of different ideas for the type of report card were presented.

Mrs. Garrenton suggested numerical reporting of grades, rather than the A,B,C,D method currently employed. "We would like to know the numerical average," she said. "With the present system there may be a number of A's, but whose is the highest?"

Know Meaning of Grade

Mrs. Venters said the important thing is "to be sure that we know what the grades mean." She expressed the opinion that the present report cards stress academic rating too much, and suggested that they should be more diagnostic, showing a comprehensive analysis of emotional, intellectual and social growth as well as intellectual progress.

Actual numerical averages were advocated also by Mrs. Nelson, who suggested that the progress of the pupil be emphasized as much as his regressions.

Johnson suggested that a questionnaire be distributed to the parents to determine what type of reporting they want. "The main purpose of the report card," he said, "is to give parents insight into the extent of the pupil's progress. The parents are the ones who can tell us how the report cards can be made more helpful."

Student Cliff Simpson expressed satisfaction with the present report card and said he believes it "reports clearly, concisely and easily the scholastic and social progress of the student to the parents."

ECC Schedules New Radio And TV Programs

Three series of radio broadcasts and two television programs have been scheduled by the Carolina College as additions to programs recently being presented under the sponsorship of the college, Chairman Rosalind Roulston of the Campus Radio-TV Committee has announced.

Half-hour programs of music featuring student music organizations and talented singers and instrumentalists among faculty members and students have been scheduled over three radio stations in Eastern North Carolina. These programs, tape recordings produced on the campus under the supervision of Dr. Larry Eckles of the English department, are being broadcast each Sunday as follows: WISP in Winston, 6:30-7:00 p.m.; WHED in Washington, 7:30-8:00 p.m.; and WHTT in New Bern, 7:30-8:00 p.m.

A new TV program entitled "Question" is scheduled to begin later this fall with the opening of WTTN, Channel 7, in Washington, N.C. Forums on topics of current interest will have as participants members of the faculty and staff at the college and will present "clash of opinion" discussions of controversial subjects in education and other fields.

Now being arranged is a weekly sports commentary, which, according to plans, will be presented over radio stations in Kinston, Wilson, and Greenville. James W. Butler, alumni secretary and director of sports publicity, is in charge of these broadcasts.

The weekly college television program "Let's Go To College" will in the future be presented over WNCN of Greenville each Sunday at 1:30 p.m. instead of at 1 p.m. Next Sunday's program, Oct. 9, will be based on Alumni Homecoming Day, staged October 8 on the campus.

At present the college is presenting over WNCN-TV of Greenville a course in "Shakespearean Drama," which is taught by Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of the faculty and is offered for credit. East Carolina faculty members are featured on two additional programs presented over the local station, "This is Your Business" with Dr. E. R. Browning and Dr. James White of the business education department as commentators, and a program sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association, with Frank G. Fuller of the education department as speaker.

County Fair To Open Its Gates Here On Monday

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair (Pitt County On Parade) will open next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Frell's Broadway Shows again will be the attraction of the Midway. A free high aerial act and fireworks will be featured each night.

Manager Norman Y. Chambliss of Rocky Mount and Mrs. Martha Forrest, entry clerk, are on duty daily in the main exhibit building.

Next Saturday morning at Five Points between 10 o'clock and noon, the "candy man" of the Pitt County Fair will give away bags of candy (some with prizes in them) to children. This will continue as long as the candy lasts, a Fair official stated.

On Tuesday white children of the Greenville schools will be admitted free to the Fair Grounds, Negro school children of Pitt County will be admitted free Wednesday, and the white children of Pitt County will be admitted free Friday.

School teachers will issue tickets to the children.

Greene Boards Endorse Drive

SNOW HILL — The Greene County Board of Education and the Board of Commissioners at a meeting Monday, approved resolutions endorsing the campaign to bring the new Presbyterian college to Greene county.

The resolution, drafted by County Attorney Walter G. Sheppard, sets forth the advantages Greene county has to offer. It endorsed the efforts of the citizens of the county in making application for the locating of the new Presbyterian college in this county. The resolution also commended it, with the Greene County Education Foundation, to the people of Greene county as worthy of their whole-hearted support, an official stated.

Funeral Sunday For Jarvis F. Anderson

Jarvis Ferdinand Anderson, 58, died at the home of his son, Worth Anderson, 410 Greene Street, Wednesday at 3 a. m.

He was born in Pitt County, the son of the late Mary Crawford Anderson and Lawrence Anderson. In 1917 he was married to Cottie Waters, who died in 1938. In 1939 he married Nannie Lee Little, who survived. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be from the home of his son, Henry Worth, 410 Green Street, Sunday at 2 P. M., and interment will follow in the family plot in House cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nannie Lee Little Anderson, of the home; by the first marriage, one daughter, Mrs. Rubell Aldred of Greenville; four sons, Rudolph and Henry Worth Anderson of Greenville, Lawrence Anderson, U. S. Navy, stationed at Norfolk, Va., Clifton Ray, Wayne and Eddie Anderson of the home; 13 grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. Maggie Foskey and Mrs. Geneva Harrison, of Greenville, Mrs. Jennie Everette of Vanceboro; two brothers, Zeb Anderson of Ballards Crossroads, and B. Charlie Anderson of Bell Arthur.

Almanac health department: The common cold is still flourishing. About 90 per cent of the entire U.S. population will get at least one cold this winter. But two out of every three persons will get the sniffles three times before next summer.

The ordinary cold remains one of America's most expensive ailments. The nation's annual toll of 500,000 colds, it is estimated, will cost more than five billion dollars counting medical expenses and time lost from work, or $10 a cold.
