Party Climbs Medicine Bow Peak For 65 Crash Dead

LARAMIE Wyo. (AP)—Skilled climbers fought bitter cold and winds on a snow-covered mountain today to retrieve the bodies of 66 persons killed yesterday in the worst commercial airline crash in U.S. history.

Their goal was the near-perpendicular south face of 12,000-foot Medicine Bow Peak, where a United Air Lines DC4 crashed within an hour after leaving Denver for Salt Lake City and San Francisco. The flight originated Wednesday night in New York City.

Expanding oil and fuel left two huge scars on the granite wall, helping a swarm of military and civilian search planes to spot the wreckage.

After Mrs. L. E. Turnage pronounced the benediction the hostess served a delicious frozen fruit salad course with dainty sandwiches, baked nuts and coffee to 15 members and one guest.

The Harris home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers.

MR. JAMES SKINNER PICKLEN 1909-1955

Mr. James Skinner Picklen passed to his reward Saturday evening, September 17th, 1955. The funeral services were conducted by the Pastor in the Church Sanctuary Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, September 19th.

Mr. Picklen united with the First Presbyterian Church by profession of faith on March 21, 1909. He has served his church faithfully as deacon, trustee and ruling elder. Special leadership was rendered our congregation by Mr. Picklen as chairman of the Educational Building Committee and a leader in the civic, educational and business affairs.

Through the diligent use of the talents which God gave him, he has been a leader of outstanding influence in his community and state in civic, educational and business affairs.

With faithful attendance upon the service of his church and liberal contributions to her causes, with wise judgment and sincere interest in the life of the church, Mr. Picklen has been a blessing to his church and a means of building the Kingdom of God. He has been instrumental in assisting many college and seminary students in their education. In this day many will rise up and call him blessed for his benefactions.

This statement by the session and diaconate is the record of our sincere appreciation of Mr. Picklen and a recognition of his devoted service to his church for many years.

We express to the members of his family our deepest sympathy in their bereavement, and assure them of our prayers for sustaining grace in their affliction, and commend them to the God of all grace who "comforteth us in all our afflictions," having himself been afflicted for us.

A copy of this statement is to be sent to the family of Mr. Picklen and "The Daily Reflector," and a copy spread upon the records of the church.

Junior Club Makes Appeal For Clothing

The Junior Woman's Club held their regular business meeting Wednesday night, Oct. 5, at the Woman's Club, with the club president, Mrs. Thomas Vicars, presiding. The meeting opened with the club praying to Club Collect together.

The different officers and committee chairmen gave their reports for the past month. Mrs. James Davenport reported on the results of the Day, of which proceeds go into the Watson Memorial Fund. A vote of thanks went to Mrs. Donna Tabor, to the High School Band, and to the general public for help making this a successful occasion.

Mrs. Carl Albee made an appeal to the club, as Welfare chairman, to help in replenishing the nearly empty clothing closet shelves at the Welfare Department. All types of winter clothing are urgently needed.

Mrs. James Davenport reported on the progress of the Women's Club Thursday night, Oct. 27, from 5:30 p.m. until 8:00 p.m. Adult tickets will be $1.00 and children twelve years of age and under will be 50c. Each person will be served "all you can eat." There will be several door prizes with a ham as grand prize. Those who buy tickets do not have to be present to win.

The meeting was concluded with the hostesses Miss Hilda Speight and Mrs. Hoyt Narron serving refreshments.

Square Dance Club To Resume Meetings

The Greenville Square Dance Club will inaugurate the coming season with a dance featuring Mr. John Brendie as caller. The dance will be held Monday, October 10, at 8:00 p.m. at the Elm St. Park recreation building. Anyone interested in square dancing is cordially invited to attend. There will be instruction for beginners and fun for all.

Mr. Brendie, currently recreation director at State Hospital in Raleigh, has had considerable experience in square dance calling. He has conducted several Swap Shop sessions at Fontana Village and last year was one of the callers at the Southeastern Square Dance Festival in Atlanta.

Greenville Square Dance Club officers for the coming season are: president, Charles McCandlish; vice president, "Cotton" Guice; secretary, Carolyn Heller; treasurer, Harriette Rillica. The club meets every Monday night at 8:00 and welcomes anyone interested in square, round or folk dancing.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

How spiritual understanding of divine law brings freedom from discord of every kind will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon "ARE SIN, DISEASE, AND DEATH REAL?" is the Golden Text from Romans (8:2): "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

The importance of coping with sin is emphasized in selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy including the following (315:18): "The likeness of God we see sight of through sin, which beclouds the spiritual sense of Truth; and we realize this likeness only when we subdue sin and prove man's heritage, the liberty of the sons of God."

Readings from the Old and New Testaments of the Bible will include Christ Jesus' parable of the prodigal son (Luke 15).

President Charles V. Wilkerson, who presided, announced that arrangements had been made for elevating the Kiwanis miniature railroad track at Elm Street Park and improving the service for the children next summer. R. E. Dick Rogers is chairman of this committee.

Chairman Dr. Stephen R. Bartlett, Jr., announced that special entertainment has been provided for the annual "Kiwanis Ladies' Night" banquet at the Moose Temple next Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Other guests last night were past President John T. Barnhill, Vice-President J. Ed Waldrop, and directors, J. Dixie McGlohon, Franklin Steinbeck, Rev. L. W. Topping, Elbert H. Bennett, James W. Brewer, Dr. Howard Gradis, Jr. and R. E. Rogers, and public relations Chairman Chester Walsh.

Books Reviewed For Inter Se Club

Mrs. F. D. Duncan was hostess to the members of the Inter Se Book Club for their first meeting of the year on Tuesday, Oct. 4. Arrangements of fall flowers were used as decorations.

Mrs. E. H. Williford, president, welcomed all back following summer vacations. The meeting was opened by members reading the Club Collect. After a brief business session, Mrs. Williford presented the new books of the club. She gave a brief review of each book and urged the member to "at least become acquainted" with the books and authors.

Mrs. Sam Underwood Jr. reported on her hobby, "Outdoor Sports," which proved to be interesting and amusing.

A delicious salad course with coffee was served by the hostess, after which the meeting adjourned.

Fire Department Report Is Made

Greenville firemen rolled out their trucks for five box alarms and seven telephone calls to local fires during September. Fire Chief George Gardner reported today.

In addition the fire fighters were called out for one false alarm during the month and a truck was dispatched to rural areas four times.

The department's rescue unit answered 16 calls last month. The report showed that the volunteer firemen's payroll amounted to $78 last month. For the fiscal year beginning last July the payroll for volunteer firemen has been $195.

Journalist Metcalfe To Address Club Tonight

John C. Metcalfe, executive editor of the "Best Teller" Syndicate and noted journalist, will be featured speaker when the Pitt County Executives Club meets tonight at 7 o'clock in the North Dining Hall at East Carolina College.

Metcalfe, whose subject will be "Where Are We Going in World Affairs," is scheduled to present an analysis of problems behind the scenes in the nation's capital.

Recognized as a keen analyst on world affairs, the newspaperman is currently writing weekly analytical articles from Washington which appear in more than 125 newspapers in the United States and 18 foreign countries.

He is former Washington diplomatic correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune, Time Magazine and Worldwide Press Service. He has covered a number of international conferences in the United States, Europe and Latin America and is credited with first revealing the secret Yalta agreement.

Metcalfe is also recognized as the first reporter to focus national attention on the problem of subversive activities, and he was retained by the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice as an expert witness in this field.

He specialized in journalism at the University of Notre Dame, and has been a visiting lecturer on international affairs for the University of Minnesota and the University of Kansas. He is also head of the Department of International Relations at the Mercersburg Academy.

Metcalfe holds a number of awards, including the National Headliners Plaque, Norway's St. Olav Medal and the Chilean Legion of Merit, all for journalistic achievement. He is a member of the National Press Club, Overseas Writers Club, White House Correspondents Association and State Department Correspondents Association.

He has delivered more than 2,500 professional lectures in the past 20 years, appearing before audiences in all 48 states and Canada.

ROBBERY TIP

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cabbie Lou Takacs is happy he got that five cent tip. Shortly after a fare handed him five pennies for a tip, Takacs was held up by a gunman who robbed him of $10. Police arrested a suspect who protested his innocence. But Takacs remembered one of his tip pennies had been blackened and had a dent in it. Sure enough, it was in the suspect's pocket.

The Pitt County Medical Society held an interesting meeting at the Beverly Hotel in Ayden last night. Dr. Grady Dixon of Ayden and Dr. W. W. Dawson of Grifton were hosts. Dr. Yoder of the State Sanatorium explained the tuberculosis clinics which are being held in the county this week. Those present last night were Drs. Hemmingsway, Garretton, Wooten, Massey, Johnston, Wilson, Frizzelle, Dickinson, Nobles, Pace, Sumnerell, Smith, Laughinghouse, Greene, Outland, Ellen, Dixon, Williams, Skinner and Schultz.

Red Oak News

The annual Harvest Auction Sale and Supper will be held in the Red Oak Community Building on October 19th. Mr. Reginald Alston, who has been our auctioneer at all our Auction Sales, will be with us again this year.

A meeting was called for 11 members of the planning committee and a nice menu was planned. Fried chicken, potato salad, snap beans, candied yams, pickles, hot rolls, individual pies and coffee will be served.

We are asking every member of our church to give wholeheartedly of their services and means for this Harvest Sale and help to have one of the best sales we have ever had. The funds derived from the Auction and Supper will be placed in the Educational Building fund.

We hope our many friends all over Pitt County, who have so generously helped us in the past, will support us again in this undertaking.

Proclamation

Whereas thousands of Americans lose their lives each year from fires that could be prevented; and

Whereas great social and economic losses to our city result from the destruction of homes, business enterprises, industries and natural resources;

Therefore, I, W. L. Whedbee, Mayor of the City of Greenville do hereby proclaim the week beginning October 9, 1935, as Fire Prevention Week.

I call upon all departments and agencies of the city government to participate actively in a campaign for improved fire safety. The fire department and the schools of our city can provide effective leadership in the activities of Fire Prevention Week, and I urge them to work with the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and other organizations for a successful program.

I earnestly request every citizen of the community to take part in relieving hazardous conditions and making our city a safer community in which to live and work.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Greenville to be affixed.

Done in the city of Greenville, this 7th day of October, nineteen hundred and thirty-five.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Opening gambit, if you want to be charmed, "Dylan Thomas in Wales," by John M. Brinning, first of a two-part series, in the October Atlantic Monthly about Brinning's personal recollections of the late—and great—Welsh poet, Dylan Thomas, who met a tragic death here in the U.S. a little less than two years ago. . . . Brinning's articles are part of a book, "Dylan Thomas in America," soon to be published. . . . If the one we mentioned above is a sample, it will be a wonderful book—full of intimate personal accounts of just what kind of a man Thomas was and the life he led—replete with puns, port and poetry. Who could ask for anything more?

Light in the Dark

After being inside Europe, inside U.S.A., inside Russia, etc.—is there any place he hasn't been inside?—John Gunther has gone inside Africa, and his book about it, unaccountably called "Inside Africa," has just come out. . . . According to what we can learn, this is one of his best and biggest—and after all, why shouldn't it be—Africa a pretty big place to be inside of. . . . There is still hope, concludes Gunther, for Africa, who writes:

"Much of Asia has been lost; Africa remains. But Africa lies open like a vacuum, and is almost perfectly defenseless—the richest prize there is on earth. . . . And again, "Africans want our education and technique, our mode of life and standard of living, but not our domination or exploitation." For which we can't say we blame the Africans. . . .

Anybody Speak Polish?

There's one of three prizes totaling $1500 for you in it if you do. . . . The Mickiewicz (what a job for the compositor) Centenary Committee, c-o the Embassy of the Polish People's Republic at 2640 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., is offering the awards to the three people who can do the best job of translating at least 100 consecutive lines from the poem "Pan Tadeusz," which Mickiewicz and everybody else considered his greatest work. . . . And you don't know who Mickiewicz is—or was? We'll tell you a great Polish poet who died in 1855, and hence the Centenary celebration. . . . The significant thing about which is that he was dedicated to the cause of freedom for Poland, and here we have the Communist Poles making a big thing of him—pretty inconsistent, maybe, but anyway, here's your chance to get a chunk out of that $1500, and what do you care where it comes from? . . .

News and Features

Davis Grubbs, author of "Night of the Hunter," movie of which just was at the local cinema, has just written a new book called "A Dream of Kings" about love in West Virginia during the Civil War, soldiering with Stonewall Jackson, and all that. . . . Not on the Best Seller lists, we'll still pick it as one of the outstanding novels of the year, because we think that the book really has it. . . . And speaking of the best-seller lists, we note Herman Wouk's "Marjorie Morningstar" is right up there in Number One position this week, on its third appearance among the top choices. . . . Coming up: "Call to Honour" later

Christian Church Announcements

At the Christian Church Sunday morning the solo will be sung by Stephen Parish, a student at East Carolina College, and he will use Harker's "How Beautiful Upon The Mountains." This will be in keeping with the annual observance of the Week of the Ministry in which the Disciples of Christ pay tribute to the office of the Christian ministry.

At the close of the morning service there will be a very important business meeting in which the congregation will be asked to endorse a recommendation of the board of officers of the church to organize and sponsor a new congregation in Greenville. Considerable thought has been given to the proposal and an offer of excellent and spacious grounds for another church has been made. The organization of another congregation would be effected after the building project now under way at the Eighth St. Church is completed.

The Christian Women's Fellowship will meet Monday at 8 p.m. and the subject will be "You and the United Nations." This will be in the form of a little play enacted by members of Circle 8. The youth organizations will meet Sunday evening for a light supper at 6:00 followed by a program of study and worship.

this month, by General Charles de Gaulle, the first volume of the saga of the love affair between de Gaulle and France. . . . Published there last year, it created a sensation, and has helped the general to regain some of his lost political prestige. . . .

And also in October: "The Last Wilderness," about the Olympic Peninsula that juts out from the western edge of Washington State, by Murray Morgan, reporter laureate of the Northwest, and author of "Skid Row" and "The Dam." . . . And looking way ahead, we have it from The Literary Guild that their January selection will be "Island in the Sun," by Alec Waugh, about troubles in the West Indies. . . .

These Literary Guild books certainly travel far afield—next month will be "Castle Garca," by Nicholas Monsarrat, set in the French Riviera, and this month: "The Tontine" has you wandering all over the place. . . . If you can get through the two volumes and 900-odd pages, that is, which we haven't, as yet—but maybe someday. . . .

The Local Scene

Last Wednesday the first presentation of the East Carolina Film Club wowed the spectators—Alec Guinness in "Kind Hearts and Coronets," which certainly mixed people up trying to find out who Alec actually was. . . .

And next Tuesday week, October 18, you folks who are anxious to learn something about your City's government will have a chance to meet it first-hand. . . . The provisional chapter of the local League of Women Voters is sponsoring a forum where, among others, City Manager Hughes and Utilities Supervisor Bloom will be present to explain to all and sundry the function and government of their respective areas. . . . The place: Courthouse Auditorium. The Time: 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18. The price: nothing. Who's welcome: everyone. . . .

The choir will meet for rehearsal Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The nursery for little children during the 11 o'clock church service is sponsored by Circle No. 5, Mrs. I. B. Koonce, chairman.

September 26-October 23 is Church Extension Season. During these weeks everyone throughout the Presbyterian Church, U. S., is observing this as a time of rededication to the evangelistic and extension enterprise of the church.

October 16-23 will be observed as a Week of Prayer and Self Denial for Church Extension. The offering during Sunday School and church on October 23 will be used in the erection of new churches, the building of needed Manse, and the improvement of present facilities.

"You Can Witness" was written by William H. McCorkle. It encourages the church to emphasize evangelism and gives valuable information on this subject. "Go and Witness" . . . "Make Disciples of All." Dr. J. E. Gayhart will be in the church October 14 at 8:00 to speak in connection with Church Extension.

The Fall Rally of the Men of Albemarle Presbytery was held in the Fellowship Hall last Monday night, October 3. F. Backer Johnson was elected vice-president of the Men of Albemarle Presbytery for the coming year. There were approximately 215 men attending the supper meeting. Sincere appreciation is expressed to each person who helped to make this meeting a success.

Presbyterial will meet in New Bern October 18th and 19th. Dr. Bernard Boyd and Dr. Wade DuBose are two of the principal speakers. All women are urged to attend this important meeting. Contact your circle chairman if you plan to attend.

"Man to Man," a new thought-provoking religious TV series, began its broadcast over WNCN-TV October 2 and will be broadcast each Sunday at 1:15 p.m. This is a 15-minute program produced by the Film Commission of the National Council of Churches. Such speakers as Dr. Ralph W. Sockman and Dr. John A. Redhead Jr. will speak in simple direct terms concerning their convictions about the problems that confront men today.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

An Army Was Mobilized For Action

It was by no coincidence that 5,000 rioting demonstrators converged on the small Perfect Circle Corp. plant in New Castle, Ind., Wednesday. It was obviously a well planned union move which amounted to mobilizing an army to attack the plant and the 100 workers who had refused to join the strike against the plant.

Such mob tactics may be expected of trouble makers determined to intimidate or cause bodily harm to a designated group of people. Certainly responsible American citizens who enjoy their freedom and respect the rights of other men are not expected to organize or participate in such outrageous activities.

Those responsible for the demonstration in which eight persons were shot should be severely punished through the courts regardless of their position. They have shown clearly they of unworthy of positions of responsibility now or the future.

The small piston ring plant normally employs about 250 persons. UAW officials ordered a strike by workers at the plant last July when trouble arose between the union and management of the plant over contract agreements. Following a demonstration several days ago in which 55 pickets at the plant were arrested on riot charges, the plant discharged 35 workers including some local union officials. Wednesday's riot by the imported 5,000 demonstrators was caused by this act.

There is no question in our mind but that union officials ordered the importing of the army of 5,000 demonstrators to do exactly what was done in New Haven on Wednesday. Among the thousands of demonstrators, reports on the scene said some apparently had been recruited as far away as Kentucky and Tennessee to take part.

Regardless of who is responsible, such attempts at mob rule cannot be tolerated in a democratic society where one's rights and privileges likewise carry with them the responsibility to respect and protect the rights and privileges of others. Certainly those who caused the riotous demonstration had little regard for the democratic principles by which America lives, and by which organized labor has attained its present position in the society and economy of our nation.

The Real Losers Have Been Cumberland People

Few grand juries in North Carolina have ever undertaken a more serious and demanding task than the special Cumberland County grand jury charged with the responsibility of determining whether there is "corrupt government in the county."

For more than a year a running fight has been carried on in Cumberland County between the Board of Commissioners and the Sheriff. Charges and counter-charges in the open battle have been aired from the country stores of Cumberland to the stately halls of the State Capitol in Raleigh.

Each side has won battles, but neither so far has been able to claim victory.

The Reflector feels that the people of Cumberland County have been, are—and unless this matter is resolved—will continue to be the real losers in the battle that is raging in their county. On the one hand the sheriff of the county has asserted other officials including members of the Board of Commissioners are participating in illegal businesses and other forms of corruption so far as the county government is concerned. The commissioners, on the other hand, promoted legislation in the recent General Assembly by which the sheriff of the county lost just about all his authority except the authority to wear a badge and serve subpoenas and other papers.

Cumberland County's citizens by now have pretty well divided themselves between the two feuding camps. The fight has become so bitter that a person on either side can hardly be expected to believe what a person from the other side says. And obviously each faction is saying a good deal about the other.

It will be no easy task for the grand jury to determine whether there is actually corruption in their county government. It will be difficult for the grand jury to pick the truth from the half-truths or untruths they may hear from witnesses called to testify before them.

Nevertheless, the primary responsibility for clearing the atmosphere in Cumberland County now lies with members of the grand jury. How diligently they pursue their task will in all probability determine how far they get with the new investigation.

Good government for Cumberland county may rest upon the outcome of the investigation.

Just Another Promise That Seems Forgotten

Maybe Republican leaders have long since forgotten their 1952 campaign promises about cutting federal payrolls and reducing the number of people employed by Uncle Sam. Maybe they've forgotten their assertions that the federal government could be operated with much greater efficiency and fewer employees.

If Republican leaders have forgotten, certainly taxpayers have not. During August the ranks of federal employees increased for the seventh consecutive month. Although all the August increase was attributed to the hiring of new civilian employees by the armed forces, it brought to 2,385,077 the number of civilians on the federal payroll.

During its early months in office the Republican administration made a great to-do about the number of employees it was lopping off government payrolls. It couldn't say enough about the "dead wood" it was cleaning out of federal personnel. But oddly enough, we've heard little of this talk from the administration in the past year.

Now, apparently the trend has reversed. Instead of doing the job of running the government with less people, the Republican administration has reversed itself and is now doing the job with an increasing number of employees month by month.

Responsibility Of Press Is Big Issue

By LYNN NISBET
FREE PRESS—Observance of Newspaper Week elicits reports of many clichés about freedom of the press. Actually, newspaper people are much more concerned about the responsibility of the press than about its freedom. Honest newspapermen know that if they meet the responsibilities, common freedom will be assured; if they fail in this obligation the press is not entitled to the freedom guaranteed by the constitution.

A lot is heard, too, about the power of the press. There are those who cautiously question whether the press really has any power now, or whether it is comparable to influence exercised a few decades ago. It would seem certain that aggregate circulation of more than one million newspapers every day in North Carolina constitutes a powerful medium of influence and a mighty weapon.

Newspaper editors and publishers regard themselves as custodians of a cherished public trust, not a free imple owners of the vehicle of power. In discharge of his trusteeship they have led the fight for the people's right to know what their governments and elected officials are doing. The slogan for the 1968 Newspaper Week is "Your Newspaper—Fights for Your Right to Know."

There are occasions when untimely publicity about government actions may be detrimental to the public good. There are unscrupulous newspaper men who deliberately distort facts and incompetent reporters who inadvertently give erroneous stories. These unfortunate incidents are used as argument for complete secrecy as to public business, except such authorized statements as officials may care to release.

That raises the question of comparative importance, whether it is better to have official secrecy than to risk unfortunate publicity.

ANSWER—The answer is found in a study of recent history. It is of common knowledge that Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy, Fdjo in Japan and Peron in Argentina gained autocratic power by first muzzling the free press. Where are they and their governments now?

It is historic that advocates of secret government Woodrow Wilson effectuating his policy of "open covenants openly arrived at," and the world endured a second global war. Most political observers now concede that many of our present international troubles stem from secret agreements negotiated at Teheran and Yalta.

CONTINUING—The right to freedom of information is as old as the fight for freedom in action. Many battles have been won and lost, but the war goes on. Gradually, through the centuries, there developed the American concept of a free press. Despite sporadic efforts of individuals in high places and selfish cliques, the press in America remains free to far greater extent than anywhere else in the world.

No freedom is absolute. It is axiomatic in democratic philosophy that the person's freedom stops where another person's rights begin. Newspaper folks recognize limitations upon their freedom.

CONSTITUTION—In that connection it is worth while to review the constitutional provisions about a free press. Article I of the Bill of Rights in the Federal Constitution, the first amendment adopted, reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government; for a redress of grievances."

It is noted that the guarantee here enunciated for a free press does not give the press any rights accorded to all citizens and groups.

STRONGER—The North Carolina State Constitution is even stronger in its guarantees and limitations. Sec. 20 of the Declaration of Rights in the State Constitution reads: "The freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and therefore ought never to be restrained; but every individual shall be held responsible for the abuse of the same."

Attention is directed particularly to the responsibility clause. Pursuant to its provisions the legal laws were enacted, largely at the instance of newspapers, which afforded protection to every citizen and official against false or malicious statements in newspapers.

Our courts have held in numerous decisions that criticism of public officials is not imputed, cannot be classified as contemptible libel. The statutes afford ample opportunity for every citizen, public official or private voter, to collect damages when false statements are published or motives impugned without actual damage.

These statutory provisions, enacted in the spirit of the constitutional guarantees of freedom and editors, do not in any degree infringe upon the right of the people to know—or the obligation of the newspapers to publish the truth, however unpleasant it might be to the limited number who want to "put something over on the public."

Other Editors Are Saying . . . We Have About 700 Feet

(The Publishers' Auxiliaries)
There is one vehicle for every 700 feet of every lane in both directions of all streets and highways in the United States.

We weren't ready too surprised when this statement appeared in a recent issue of Automobile Facts, a publication of the Automobile Manufacturers Assn.

It's pretty apparent that there are a lot of automobiles and trucks around, but we were glad to have the figures on exactly how many in relation to available space.

This figure, of course, plays a significant part in our economy—in our entire way of life, for that matter. It must be kept in mind when considering highway accidents, the appalling death toll on the roads, the traffic congestion in cities, the parking problem—and possibly the need of evacuating a city under threat of an atomic bomb.

And of course the automobile industry provides a huge prop in the nation's economy.

And McGraw Hill Publishing Co. comes up with the fact that the number of vehicles in the United States has reached the amazing total of 37,593,376, which is 65 percent of all the registered cars, buses and trucks in the world.

That's a vehicle for about every three persons in the nation.

That means the automobile is having an extremely significant role in America today, more than ever before. Robert and Helen Lynd who published their sociological study "Middletown" in 1929, pointed out that, even in the '30's, the automobile had brought tremendous change in American life. If the Lynds had been able to look into the future they might have added a footnote, using a phrase of a pretty popular jazz singer of the same period: "You ain't seen nothing yet."

How much more will the automobile change us, as a nation? What is its relation to the modern time-saving machinery? Washing machines, garbage disposal units, television—more things to play with, more things to go more places to, go more places to see? This time, but we hope all of us can manage to keep a certain calm perspective and sometimes sit down and read an old book—i.e., one published before 1955.

O. Henry Would Be Amazed

This business of exposing the Cisco Kid is long overdue.

I've been waiting for him to show his true colors over television, but always he appears as a "Robin Hood of the West" . . . honest, brave, an advocate of law and order.

Everybody who knew of the Kid before his televised shenanigans, knows him for what he is. Alas, a new generation is in the scene, and I risk as it undoubtedly is, prone to remove a halo.

The man who knew the Kid used the name O. Henry.

The heart of the story deals with how the Kid contrived to have a Texas Ranger kill a girl (by mistake) while Our Hero fled the scene.

"The Cisco Kid had killed six men in more or less fair scrimmages, had murdered twice as many (mostly Mexicans) and had winged a larger number whom he modestly forbore to count."

The writer further notes the subject of his story was aged twenty-five, but a careful insurance company would have estimated the probable time of his demise, at say twenty-six.

"He killed for the love of it," wrote O. Henry, "because he was quick-tempered—to avoid any reason that came to his mind would suffice."

Nice guy to hold as a hero. The heart of the story deals with how the Kid contrived to have a Texas Ranger kill a girl (by mistake) while Our Hero fled the scene.

"It had been one of the Kid's

Notebook On Life

She Can Rent Out A Mosquito

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—If you ever want to rent a mosquito—and, pray tell, who doesn't?—Lorraine D'Essen is just the young lady for you.

Mrs. D'Essen, a comely hazel-eyed woman in her early 30s, has one of oddest jobs in this oddest of all possible worlds. She is an animal talent scout.

In three years she has built up a $100,000-a-year business locating specially trained animals for the movies, television programs, advertising agencies and industrial firms.

Her casting bureau for animal actors now can draw on 750 furred or feathered creatures "reg-in size from a sneezing mouse to a dancing elephant.

"So far I haven't had a call for a tightrope-walking trained whale," muses Mrs. D'Essen, "and, frankly, I'd just as soon I never do."

If she does get such a call, she might rise to the emergency. Her failures are few.

One example of the crises that arise almost daily in her unusual career: A studio sent a hurry-up call for a mosquito—in the middle of February.

"I finally located one in Florida, and had it flown here," recalled Mrs. D'Essen.

"The mosquito had had no special training, but proved a great natural talent. The scene called for a close-up of him biting a man's hand. He went through his role as if he had spent his life before a camera. The scene didn't require a single retake."

For this one performance the studio paid $100, making the mosquito perhaps the highest paid insect in history.

"What did we do with him?" said Mrs. D'Essen. "We turned him loose in the studio. I didn't feel like sweating him. Who wants to sweat a $100-a-day performer?"

Her animal actors average $100 an appearance, whether it is for a moment, an hour, or a full day. Elephants, whose upkeep is more expensive, get the top rate—$750.

Mrs. D'Essen rents some of the animals from other trainers, keeps many of her own on a 31-acre farm at Gillette, N.J.

They often remain overnight in her four-story old brick home in Greenville Village.

"We have an animal United Nations there," she said. "Right now we are keeping an American crow, a llama from Peru (he is named Lucky and has a girl friend named Linda), an English sheep dog, two great Danes, a wombat named 'Mr. Wimpole' from Australia, a Siamese cat and a Yorkshire terrier called 'T.B. Eliot.'"

"Each is a real character personality. If you take the trouble to understand his personality, then he usually will take the trouble to understand yours."

Findings In Survey Of Merchants

By ELMER ROESSNER

Some merchants are underestimating the size of their market by as much as 50 per cent, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association concludes after a survey of 24 leading merchants in Worcester, Mass., chosen as a test town.

Sixty per cent of the retailers questioned overestimated their own share of available business and underestimated the volume local competitors were taking away from them, the researchers said.

"Some merchants are losing sight of the long-range objective of planning to get all the business that is available to them in their own local trading areas," said Edward H. Burgess, retail director of the Bureau of Advertising.

In a step toward remedying the situation, the Bureau has pronounced a "market target dial." It is a wheel that can be turned to show monthly expenditure per family in ten types of retail stores and the percentage of total sales made in each month. The types are furniture, women's wear, men's wear, department, watch and jewelry, appliance, auto accessory, hardware and shoe stores. The reverse of the dial is another one by which a merchant, knowing the number of families in his trading area, can calculate the monthly expenditures in each of the ten lines.

The dial is incorporated in the fifth annual "Time Table of Retail Opportunities," published by the Bureau. This gives seasonal breakdowns for 18 store types and more than 80 merchandise categories, plus seasonal fluctuation in newspaper advertising for 91 key commodities. In addition, it contains a calendar of selling opportunities.

This calendar notes the special opportunities in each coming month. For instance, in November there are opportunities in promoting toy openings, Thanksgiving needs, Election and Armistice Day sales and men's suits and overcoats. It is Christmas in December, and in January the Time Table lists Christmas, New Year's, Valentine's Day, and Children's Books Week, November 13 to 19; Diabetes Week, November 14 to 20; Bird Cage Week, November 20 to 26; Prosperity Week, November 28 to December 3; Author's Day is on November 1 and Thanksgiving on November 24.

RADIOACTIVE HAZARDS CONCERN LAWMAKERS

Hazards of atomic energy in situations are becoming matters of growing concern.

An "atomic compensation act" to provide for fixed damage payments to the public and a fixed limit of liability for companies, has been suggested by William M. Cousins, Jr., assistant director of the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Meanwhile, 16 states have passed laws recognizing the safety and health hazards of atomic power and requiring employers to provide for the protection of workers and the public. Eleven states have declared damage to the health from radioactivity to be an occupational disease under workers' compensation laws.

Connecticut, apparently fearing atomic counterparts of "Typhoid Mary," has provided for the isolation of persons whose bodies contain radioactive material making them a hazard to other California and New York have provided rules for the disposal of radioactive wastes. California requires examination of faces, hands and clothing of all atomic energy employees at the end of each working period and prohibits eating or smoking in workrooms.

LIQUOR DISPENSARIES HIT BY EXPENDITURES

Bourbon redevelopment is becoming a more frequent problem in American cities, the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials reports.

Clearance projects hit places selling bourbon and other beverages two ways: the association says. Sometimes it starts customer; sometimes it means the tearing down of a tavern or store.

In some cases, this means the end of the business because many communities are refusing to grant new liquor licenses.

They must and will feather their own political nest.

ACTED TO PRESERVE CONFIDENCE Financial and business leaders have labored feverishly behind the scenes to preserve confidence, presumably on suggestions from their high-placed associates in the Administration. Their reaction is ironically reminiscent of their attempt to soften the 1929 crash at the behest of Herbert Hoover.

Key's friends in the automobile industry notably Henry Ford, quickly announced that they would proceed with multimillion expansion plans in 1929. The late Henry Ford announced after a conference with Hoover that he would raise wages and not reduce his working force. It won him a Pulitzer Prize, but he soon found that he could not keep the peace.

This is not only the politicians who are worried. The business world figures that it has lost its first White House friend in the Hoover years. And it shares the Republican M.C.'s fear of the future.

Boyhood of Jesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 2:41-52.

Every year Jesus' parents made the pilgrimage from Nazareth to Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of the Passover. When He was 12 years old, he was taken with them. After the Passover, Jesus stayed in Jerusalem, unknown to His parents. Thinking He must be with others in the company, they sought Him among kinfolk and acquaintances. Going back to Jerusalem searching for Jesus, they found Him in the temple. He was surprised when Mary questioned Him, saying He was about His Father's business. Jesus returned with His parents to Nazareth. He grew in stature and in wisdom, and was "in favor with God and man."

MEMORY VERSE—Luke 2:52.

Boyhood of Jesus

AS HE GREW IN STATURE, CHRIST BECAME FILLED WITH WISDOM

Scripture—Luke 2:41-52.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. WE KNOW nothing about the childhood of our Lord from the time He was taken to the temple in Jerusalem to be circumcised and recognized as the Christ by Simeon and Anna, until He was 12 years old. Luke tells us only that "The Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."

Three days of anxious searching were finally ended when they visited the temple. There they found the Boy, sitting in the midst of the learned doctors, "both hearing them, and asking them questions."

The perfect Boy, the perfect Man. Our children will not be without sins, as they are human beings with faults and temptations that must be recognized in childhood and corrected so that they grow up to be fine men and women, good citizens and a credit to their upbringing. It is sad that there are so many whose homes are broken by divorce; sometimes made tragic with cruelty, abuse and neglect. These things lead to what we call "juvenile delinquency."

Injury-Riddled Pirates Relax On Eve Of Elon Contest

Boone, Mallory And Smith Map Out New Lineup

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

An injury-riddled East Carolina College Pirate football team wound up serious drills yesterday for Elon here Saturday. Only a light pre-game workout was scheduled for today.

Coaches Jack Boone, Jim Mallory and Earl Smith have spent one of their most hectic weeks during the past five days. First, they were confronted with finding a working offensive combination. Then, several key players went out with injuries, making the job even harder.

The biggest loss is halfback "Injun" Jim Henderson. The fleet Portsmouth junior sustained a shoulder injury in the Lenoir Rhyne game and hasn't recovered yet. It is feared that his playing days may be over.

Henderson is unable to move his left shoulder and cannot stand contact at all. He had been counted on to head the offense. He turned in fine games against Norfolk Navy and West Chester before the injury.

Big Order

A replacement at left half has been the big order of the week. Gary Mattocks, reserve quarterback, has been alternating with Bobby Gay there. Mattocks was a halfback in high school and ran well against Catawba last week.

Boone has also said that Bobby Perry, a Greenville boy, might be moved up to right half and Emo Bosco, regular right half, moved over into Henderson's spot.

The forward wall will be intact except for first string end Bill Helms. The Monroe junior hasn't been able to do anything since he twisted his knee against West Chester. His substitute last week, Tommy Waggoner, is also out with a bruised side.

Bradford To Start

Boone has disclosed that J. D. Bradford, regular left end in 1954, will get the nod in Helms' position. His mate at right end will be Ray Pennington, a smooth pass-catcher and able defensive man.

Jerry Brooks of Rockingham and Waverly Cheson of Washington will anchor the tackles. Charles Smith and Ray Overton, a couple of 200-plus boys, will play behind them.

Paul Popov and either Ken Burgess or Dick Mondis will start at the guards. The competition is so keen at right guard between Burgess and Mondis that Boone is still uncertain even at this late date who the starter will be. Don Larimore and Joe Mayo will stand ready to relieve the first trio.

Louis Hallow and Tom Mixon are the first line centers. Hallow is the starter and the Pirates' best bet for All-Conference honors this season.

The game will be played at 8 p.m. with a huge crowd of alumni expected to be on hand to celebrate the Pirates' homecoming.

Warren Carroll
At LL Meeting

City Recreation Director Warren Carroll left this morning by plane from Raleigh for a New York meeting of Little League baseball officials.

Carroll, one of Little League's top organizers in North Carolina, will return tomorrow. The meeting, during which plans for next year's season will be discussed, is a forerunner of regional meets scheduled during coming months.

The University of Mississippi has blocked at least one punt each game against Vanderbilt since 1951.

Tom Shepperson, a rugged 185-pounder from Danville, Pa., stepped into the breach at fullback for the Elon Christians after Bob Stauffenberg suffered a broken arm in the opening game at Mississippi Southern. Shepperson, who has shown fine form as a kicker, drives from fullback with terrific force and breaks into the secondary with the all speed of a halfback.

Annual City Golf Championship Is Underway Today

The 3rd annual Greenville Golf Championship (Medal Play) gets under way today and will end with presentation of trophies in all Flights Sunday afternoon at 5:00 p.m. by David Mosler, president of the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

W. L. Allen, defending champion and six-time club match play champion is a strong favorite to make it three in a row and take permanent possession of the championship trophy.

His strongest challenge should come from Ben Harrison, this year's runner-up in the Spring tournament. Also gunning for the low score will be Errell Webb, Doc Massey, Reynolds May, Simon Moyer and Molt Massey—all past champions.

There are four flights and no qualifying round is needed.

The course is in excellent condition and it is thought it will take 149 to win.

Tournament Chairman Simon Moyer said he expected around fifty participants.

The public is cordially invited to watch the tournament and presentations on Sunday.

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS
LOS ANGELES—Rory Calhoun, 157, White Plains, N.Y., knocked out Sonny Gill, 157½, Pasadena, 1.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Bobby Lane, 155 Miami, knocked out Al (Kid) McCoy, 150, Macon, 8.

PHILADELPHIA — Jake Jasoto, 144, Philadelphia, outpointed Bobby Downs, 141 Philadelphia, 8.

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Micelli, 150, New York, outpointed Ramon Fuentes, 156½ Los Angeles, 10.

Phantoms With Open Date On Hand, Playing Inter-Squad Game Today

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Today, the Greenville Phantom football squad, enjoying an open date before their contest with Elizabeth City next weekend, will play an inter-squad game.

Assistant coaches Vaughn Fowler and Stanley Jones have divided the team into two huge sections for the match. Fowler, who handles line instruction for the Greensies, is in charge of approximately 13 boys who are predominantly seniors. Jones' crew are the younger members of the Green unit, juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

Riddick, Edwards Dress

Back into uniform for the first time in quite a while, is giant Phantom end, Harold Edwards, a 6-2 All-Conference candidate. The big flanker suffered a painful leg injury in the Greenville team's second trial and has been out on doctor's orders. Ike Riddick, hurt last week, will also step back into either end or quarterback slot.

Both of these fellows are seniors and, therefore, are slated to perform with Fowler's outfit, if they play at all. Fowler is reported to have the outstanding linemen, whereas Jones will play the top Green backs into play for his squad. The purpose of this inter-squad contest is to give the Greenville mentors a chance to shift their boys at various positions, and also, to give every boy a chance to demonstrate his ability. The ones who show up well will probably get the starting berths against Elizabeth City.

Drum Is Sick

First string quarterback Jerry Drum, a shifty pass and kick man, is sitting out the afternoon encounter because of a virus infection. The elusive senior signal caller has been the key figure in Greenville's aerial attack and has started every game thus far at this position. His condition is expected to improve enough that he will be present when his team travels to meet the Yellow Jackets.

Taking over quarterback chores in Drum's absence, is a flashy sophomore speedster named Mack Roebuck. The exciting newcomer has seen action in several games this season, but only for short periods of time. Should Roebuck take over starting honors next week, he will be a surprise package for Elizabeth City linemen, who are familiar with the long arm of Drum. While Mack is green and not as smooth as the regular Green quarterback, he is a much faster ball-carrier and could be dangerous to unsuspecting opponents.

Shining Line

Linemen expected to shine on defense this afternoon are Howard King, Pete West, Peter Hugson and Wade Jordan. Angus Duff, usually a defensive stalwart, should be outstanding in this department over the week. Billy Johnson, the Phantoms' top threat to enemy punters (he has blocked three), will mate with Edwin Wilkerson at ends for opposite teams. Johnson is a senior, Wilkerson a junior.

Head Coach Guy Lewis will not be present for the fray. He and Marshall Tatum will take in the Elizabeth City contest tonight, in hopes of learning some information that will aid their plan of attack next Friday night.

GREENVILLE CO.—CAPTAINS Harold Edwards and Pete West will lead their Phantom teammates in an inter-squad contest this afternoon that may determine the starters in next week's Elizabeth City scrap. Edwards returned to drill this week after a two-game layoff caused by an injured leg.

Ayden To Meet Williamston Hi

Ayden's Tornadoes travel to Williamston for an important non-conference match with the Green Wave tonight, at the Williamston high school stadium.

Ayden mentor Stuart Tripp is lamenting the probable loss of halfback Tommy Edwards, one of the key Tornado offensive threats. Edwards suffered a twisted ankle in last week's 6-0 defeat at the hands of Coastal Conference foe, Farmville. R. L. Collins, another top Ayden back, will not be in the best condition, as he is still having knee trouble. Quarterback Lindy Dunn, a shifty ball handler and commander of the Ayden attack, will attempt to hold the cripple backfield together.

Defensively, the Tornado squad is one of the best in eastern class A ball. Latham Dennis and Burt Tripp, two husky linemen, will lead the detail against Coach Roger Thrift's offensive drives.

Drills this week have featured hand-off plays and downfield blocking in the Ayden camp.

Medics Work Overtime To Fix Deacs For Steamroller

Wake Forest's Deacons, clobbered unmercifully last Saturday by West Virginia and faced with the almost impossible task of defending against Maryland tomorrow, had the medics working overtime today in an effort to get front line men ready for action.

Coach Tom Rogers looked at his cripples at the start of yesterday's practice and commented: "I don't see how we could have worse luck."

The Deacons, who were impressive in their first two games this season, have been short on ends all year. Now, because of the latest plague of injuries, Rogers has only one experienced flanker in condition to play.

End Ralph Brewster turned up yesterday with a cut eye that completely closed the orb. Tommy Whims, another flanker, turned up with an old leg injury. Tom Laddner, a star in the early games, went out earlier in the week with injuries.

And if these woes weren't enough, Rogers was greeted with the news that tackle Bob Bartholomew, an All America candidate and one of the chief hopes against

Medics Work Overtime To Fix Deacs For Steamroller

Maryland, had suffered a recurrence of an old leg injury and may not be able to play.

The Deacs whipped Virginia Tech 13-7 in their opener and then humiliated South Carolina, 34-19. Last Saturday they were whacked 46-0 by West Virginia.

Rogers surveyed his cripples and told sideliners, "About all I can say now is that we'll field the best 11 men we've got against Maryland."

Elsewhere, bad news popped up in North Carolina's camp as the Tar Heels ended preparations for a traditional rival — Georgia at Athens. Dave Reed, the soph sensation at quarterback in two earlier games, turned up with a sore head. Coach George Barclay said, however, he hopes Reed will be able to play.

Duke counted several injured, too, as practice ended for their home opener against William and Mary. One starter, tackle Sid DeLoach, and three top flight reserves were on the sidelines. The latter included Tom Topping, a heavy tackle; end Jerry Kocourek and guard Charlie Klinger.

Jackson Meets Pudgy Rex Layne

DETROIT — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, who is being eyed as a possible candidate to become Rocky Marciano's next victim, meets Utah's pudgy Rex Layne tonight in a nationally televised 10-rounder from Olympia Stadium. NBC will carry the bout at 9 p.m. EST.

The fight is being billed as an elimination of sorts, to get a contender for Marciano's next heavyweight title defense, although Layne has been all but eliminated already by virtue of three losses to Bob Baker.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

The door opened and Bessie Kibbee came in carrying a big tray. Lois hastened to clear off the table.

"That's too heavy for you," she promised.

Clyde took Paula for a drive and that Joe is never where you want him." Bessie removed covers and Lois laid lamb chops, creamed potatoes and peas, hot rolls and mint jelly, a tossed salad and lemon-meringue. There was also a frosty cranberry shaker.

"Shandy fixed it," Bessie explained. "Said you used to like beef cocktail. Know what? It's the first time Shandy has gone anywhere. He came over, all dressed-up. It takes Jane Brindle to work miracles. If only Albert would see her—"

"She seems nice."

"Jane is just plain good," Bessie assured. "No one like her. But she's Albert's blind spot. I can't imagine what I got into him. Yes, of course, I can too. It was Roger. And where Roger was concerned—"

She mopped her face. "You sit down and eat while it's hot. And drink your cocktail right away."

"There's too much for one person," Lois exclaimed. "Won't you join me?"

"I've got dinner to fix for Albert and Clyde and I've asked Paula Case to come. Carol's going out. But I'll sit a spell. No telling when the youngsters will get back." She sat down while Lois poured a cocktail and refused one for herself. "Albert can't hardly wait to talk to you. But there's one thing, Mrs. Fleming; Albert's saint himself, you'll find that out soon enough, and he sees people in a kind of unworshipful way. Roger was no angel, whatever they'll tell you around here. He was lusty. He liked women Carol would scalp me for this bug he was nothing more than a chaser. He liked to drink, though he tried his best to keep people from finding out."

Slipping the ice-cold cocktail with its tang of lime, Lois blessed Shandy. Tired from her engrossing reading, her mind was at rest and did not follow Bessie closely, though she watched her with interested eyes, a trick she had learned in dealing with "authors" who had what she termed circular minds, which surrounded a point instead of going straight to it. She had learned not to interrupt, not to try to shift focus, nor to hurry them; for often out of the rambling came invaluable information she could obtain only by indirection.

"Albert," Bessie went on, "is a dreamer. He creates things in his own image and believes they are true. He's just too idealistic for a practical world. Sometimes I think he'd have been better off if he'd spent as much time building himself up as he did Roger. Say what you like, Albert made Roger. I always thought so; I always will. But now it's time for the dead to bury their dead and for Albert to give some thought to the living. Right now I believe he's thinking more about Roger than he is about his own son. Of course, he hardly knows Clyde yet, and he—"

Lois took time to see anyone's good qualities I always say, Clyde needs love; he needs to be important to someone. And the only girl around is Paula, who doesn't love her's alive. Girls who go chasing older men—"

"Well, neither still to get and Clyde will want some shirts ironed before tomorrow. Never a free moment." She nodded to Lois. "But I guess you're the same way. Conscientious. Know what? When I came in I was betting you'd be hard at work. Well, sometimes I think the clinging vine's better off but I don't know. We have to be what we are, I guess."

After dinner, Lois lit a cigarette and went out onto Roger's walled terrace. She was so steeped in his work that his presence seemed to inhabit the place still, filling the big chair in front of the table walking in this small cleared space, which he had had to fence in to obtain privacy. A friendly ghost, but an uneasy one.

When the sun set the air became cool chilly for comfort and she went indoors, pacing restlessly up and down the room. In time she discovered that she was really cold and slipped on a sweater. She felt oddly disturbed. Not about the work itself. There was ample material for four colorful articles. What disturbed her was the man who refused to stay dead whose presence was so palpable in the room. She remembered how the impression of his head had remained in one of the down cushions when she first arrived. And the frame of the couch had a bullet hole in it.

That was what was bothering her then. Might as well take it out and look at it. Something was wrong here. Not just the bullet hole. After all, as Shandy had pointed out, no one had been shot. There were all kinds of innocent explanations for bullet holes. Some of them took into account Ethel Hattery's smashing the windowpane or Shandy's removing the bullet in that surreptitious way.

She plugged in the electric heater and in a few moments felt warm, more relaxed. But not at ease. She found herself fidgeting, moving uneasily. Something about the cottage made her nervous. Surely, she chided herself, she wasn't superstitious that she feared the place because Roger Brindle had died there. It was the uncurtained windows that made her feel insecure, as they do most women. But no one was looking at her. Nervous, the doctor had said. Nervous. She needed a rest, that was all.

She glanced at her watch. It must go to bed, she told herself, but she made no effort to move. The windows were becoming an obsession. No one was outside. No one could be.

By an effort of will she forced her attention away from them. But someone had stood outside one of the windows recently and fired a bullet through the glass. Someone—she got up and went over to the couch. She found the hole near the top, a small hole that she could cover with her little finger, the hole that had so fascinated Joe Hattery a few hours earlier.

She stood in front of the couch, her hands thrust into the pockets of her sweater, lower lip caught between her teeth. Attempted murder? But Roger Brindle had not been shot. No one had been shot. It didn't make sense. She took the cushions off the couch and found the mechanism that opened it into a bed. She undressed quickly, pulling over her head the chiffon nightgown Aunt Barbara had sent on her birthday. It fell over her head in a filmy cloud of accordion pleats. Indecent, she thought but becoming. A gown like this is wasted on a widow. Those windows! A little more of this and I'll run screaming up the hill to Shandy.

She unplugged the electric heater, switched off the light, opened the window. And heard a dry twig snap.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles M. Whedbee disposed of 17 cases, 12 of them involving violations of motor vehicle and traffic law violations.

Carlisle Smith, Negro, 1503 Railroad street, driving drunk, 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs, and the judgment provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a year. The court also recommended that Smith's operator's license be revoked for a year.

Clinton E. Murchison, Negro, Rt. 5, Greenville, allowing a non-licensed operator to drive a motor vehicle, fined with court costs. Willie J. Payton, Negro, Rt. 5, Greenville, taxed with costs for not having a driver's license.

No operator's license: Joe D. Mayo, Kingston, and W. G. Williams, 200 North Summit street, each was called and failed to answer. Instant capias were issued for them.

Arthur Council, Negro, Rt. 6, Greenville, paid costs for improper passing.

Failure to yield right of way: Thad H. Hodges, Washington, was found guilty of failure to yield right of way. D. E. Branch, Winterville, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs.

Speeding: Marcas M. Briley, Bethel, called and he failed to answer. An instant capias was issued for him. Lloyd O. Lancaster, 209 Ridgecamp street, and James D. Lamar, Camp Lejeune, each was called and failed to answer. Instant capias were issued for them.

Drunk: Bryan G. Worthington, Winterville, failed to answer and an instant capias was issued for him. George G. Clark, 1011 Evans street, continued to Earl L. Speight, 1000 Colonial avenue, $10; Jesse L. Stancliff, Winterville, $20, costs deducted.

Hungry Ants Are Found Causing Short Circuits

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hungry red ants, with a taste for plastic insulation have been traced as the culprits responsible for a mysterious series of short circuit failures in San Fernando Valley traffic signals.

Manager Lloyd Bratt of the Los Angeles Traffic Department said there have been 56 short circuits in six weeks, mostly along heavily traveled Lankershim and Ventura boulevards.

Electricians were mystified. Motorists were confused.

Finally, Bratt related yesterday, investigators found that the red ants, burrowing down through 10 inches of crushed gravel in wire-conductor boxes placed near the signals and chewed the insulation off the wires.

In many places insulation had been stripped from the wires for several inches.

Army Warring On Black Market

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army reinforced today its campaign to wipe out minor black marketing of soldiers' families in West Germany.

A military summary court here fined the wife of a master sergeant $100 for having sold illegally two cartons of American cigarettes to a German. Her black market profit was less than $4.

If she does not pay the fine within six months, she will be placed under confinement for a maximum of 30 days. Her name was not released.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF 1.9 ACRES

Under and by virtue of an order of re-sale, occasioned by raise of bid obtained at previous sale September 14, 1955, made by the Superior Court of Pitt County in that Special Proceeding entitled "Jessie Brewington and others vs. Billie Warren Brewington and another," the same being No. 6027 on S. P. Docket of said court, the undersigned Commissioner of the court will on Friday, October 14, 1955, at 12 o'clock noon before the court house door in Greenville, Pitt County, N. C., offer for sale to the public by auction to the highest bidder for cash a small tract of land adjoining Elmhurst and near Forest Hills Subdivision, in Greenville Township, Pitt County, N. C., more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at an iron stake in an Old Public Path, the dividing corner between the Jessie Brewington land and the Rutha Moore land, said beginning corner being located 394 feet easterly from Forest Hills Subdivision eastern line, and 948 feet from the old Bridge Crossing over the Forbes Branch in said Old Path; and running thence westerly with said Old Path, S. 74 W. 323 feet to the Charles Ormond land; thence with the Charles Ormond land line S. 11-30 E. 90 feet, S. 31 E. 101.5 feet, S. 45 E. 101.5 feet and S. 19 feet to Forbes Branch, the present center of U. S. Highway No. 264; thence down the run of Forbes Branch (formerly) to the southeast corner of the Jessie Brewington land; thence with the dividing line between the Rutha Moore land and the Jessie Brewington land N. 11-40 W. 264 feet to the beginning stake in said Old Path, the same containing 1.9 acres of land, more or less, as shown on the map of the same, designated as Tract No. 2, as surveyed and platted by J. M. Dresbach, R.S., in May, 1951, which map is duly registered in Map Book No. 5 at page 80 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, and further being the same and identical land conveyed to Rutha Moore by Malachi Keys and wife by that deed dated March 9, 1877, duly registered in Book H-3 at page 91 of Pitt County Registry; subject, however, to the right of way of U. S. Highway No. 264 which includes a small portion thereof in the southwest corner.

The bidding at this sale will begin at $3200 and highest bidder will be required to deposit 10% of bid, pending confirmation by the court.

This September 26, 1955.

Where's the smart place to put your savings?

Today millions of Americans will tell you that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association. They'll give you three good reasons why this is so . . .

1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.

So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.

And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.

Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it's a mighty good place to do business!

Real Program Was Interrupted

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—John W. Williams giving his appliance store a coat of paint one evening, heard a voice in a grocery store door demand:

"Let's have the money — and don't waste time. This is a stick-up!"

He figured his friend, Grocer Gaylord W. Shiveley, was watching television. Williams, a crime-prone felon, decided he'd take a break and go next door to watch, too.

At the door he was accosted by a young man holding a handkerchief over his face, making off with the store's receipts.

Realizing he had come face to face with the real thing, Williams jumped the man and with Shiveley's help subdued him. Leonard O'Neal Jr., 21, was charged with assault and robbery.

RAID TERRORISTS

VFW District Meet Held In City Sunday

Jim Wallace, Department Junior Vice-Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Gastonia, and Mrs. Virginia Lowery, Department Auxiliary President of Pembroke, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Second District held in Greenville on October 2. Elvy Forrest, Second District Commander of Greenville, presided at the joint session of the posts and auxiliaries.

Welcome were extended the delegates from Kinston, Washington, Farmville, LaGrange and Pink Hill by the local commander, J. B. Bass, and auxiliary president, Mrs. Arthur M. Andrews. Mr. Wallace and Mrs. Lowery, in their addresses, emphasized the importance and value of the Veterans of Foreign Wars as an organization. "We are thankful to do a little for those who gave their services to protect our freedom we enjoy today," Mrs. Lowery said. She urged advertising the organization in the local community by the services rendered its people.

Wallace asked that the delegates sell membership to those who are eligible to join the organization by stressing benefits received by cooperative efforts. "It is worth our time to be a member of the VFW to insure our widowed wives and orphaned children of a home at the National VFW Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.," he declared.

Commander Forrest recognized other special guests which included John Lowery, husband of the State President; Hugh Matlock, Past State Team Captain of the Military Order of the Cooties from Kinston; Cleve Cox, department membership chairman of the First Division of Washington; Mrs. Carrie West, chairman of the N. C. Cottage at the National Home of Greenville; and Mrs. Carrie Fickett, Second District Auxiliary President of Pink Hill.

Following the joint session, the posts and auxiliaries held their separate meetings. Mrs. Fickett presided at the auxiliary meeting. Mrs. Arthur M. Andrews gave the report of the activities of the local auxiliary since the date of the previous district meeting. These activities included refreshments, prizes and money to VA hospitals, door prizes given at the District Banquet at the time of the National Encampment in Boston, donation to the Emergency Flood Relief Fund, purchasing of a flag and history records for local schools, ordering poppies, lingerie project, donation to the VFW memorial building fund and assistance to a local needy family, a hospitalized veteran and an injured Peruvian pilot.

Mrs. Carrie West reported that the various districts in the state have been assigned one of the five North Carolina children and cottage mother for special remembrances. Each auxiliary in the Second District will remember all persons in the N. C. Cottage twice yearly. The Greenville auxiliary will have charge of the project in November. Auxiliary members were urged to obtain their blood type for filing with state headquarters. Membership plans were outlined by Department President Lowery.

Following the close of the sessions, supper was served to the guests and delegates.

Timely Exit In Auto Accident

MUSKOGON, Mich. (AP)—Gilbert Dias, 40, suffered only minor hurts when he was tossed out of his auto in a collision.

But his car went on to jump a curb, smash two chairs on a lawn, barge through a fence, crash through a garage wall and knock a parked car through the opposite side of the garage.

Odd Job Man Is Big Hose Reeler

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Patrolman Gene Dalton saw a length of three-quarter inch hose across the street. Apparently placed there by youngsters, he took it to city hall. Before he finished he had some 800 feet of it in the back of his car.

"If you think that isn't hard work, try it," he said.

Moose Discuss Yule Program

Plans for the annual Christmas program for local underprivileged children were discussed Wednesday by the local Moose Lodge civic affairs committee.

The group discussed the home visitation and survey program, transportation problems and finance and publicity for the Christmas party.

Plans were formulated outlining areas of individual responsibilities for the program.

Lt. Col. Lewis J. Partridge is chairman of the committee. Other members present last night were Captain James G. Barnett, Loey Harrel, Alton Buck M. G. Martin and John Behr.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (N)—The stock market eased lower today under the moderate pressure of midday selling.

Most major divisions were lower. A few without the decline, but these stocks were not especially in demand.

Losses went from 1 to 3 points in a number of instances. Gains usually were fractional.

Despite a pickup in activity as prices dipped, the pace of trading was unusually slow, and it was right around yesterday's 1,690,000 shares, lowest since Aug. 22.

Principal divisions involved in the decline were steels, motors, copiers, oils and railroads.

Among declining stocks were Bethlehem Steel, American & Foreign Power, General Motors, Chesapeake & Ohio, Phillips Petroleum, Royal Dutch Petroleum, Union Carbide, International Nickel, Glenn Martin, Westinghouse Electric, Reynolds Metals, and General Electric.

American & Foreign Power backed down today after hitting the top spot in the most active list yesterday up 3/4 at 47. The company is expanding in the atomic energy field in South and Central America.

Phillips Petroleum opened on 2,600 shares off 1/2 at 77 1/2. It was second most active yesterday up 3/4 on merger and split rumors in wall street.

Yesterday's market was quietly lower. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 80 cents at $170.30.

Owner Of Still Site Under Bond

Turner L. Andrews, on whose Pitt County farm one of the largest stills ever discovered in this area was found Wednesday, was placed under $500 bond yesterday after a hearing before the U. S. Commissioner in Washington.

Trial for Andrews has been set for the next term of Federal Court in Washington later this month, ABC officer J. M. Ward said here today.

Andrews is charged with possession of an unregistered distillery and possession of property intended for uses in violation of the internal revenue code.

His farm, on which the giant 750-gallon capacity still was found, is located in the Clark's Neck section near Grimesland.

District Rotary Official At Meet

BETHEL—Frank Rubie of Washington, District Governor of the 79th District, and Wilbur Corbett of Wilmington, were guests of the Rotary Club here Tuesday evening.

The address was given by Gov. Rubie who spoke on "Rotary and its Ideals". Twenty-eight members were present.

President T. R. Andrews, Jr. presided. The Board of Directors met with Rubie and reviewed the year's work.

Former German Officers Freed

By WOLF HEYEN
CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany—Twenty-three former generals in Hitler's Wehrmacht and one retired rear admiral began their first day of freedom here today after 10 years in Russia as prisoners of war.

Their return was marked by an emotional exchange between Gen. Walter von Seydlitz-Kurzbach 68, who helped establish the Soviet-sponsored National Committee for Free Germany in Moscow during the war, and other returnees.

Seydlitz-Kurzbach declared that only German-Russian friendship can save world peace and called West Germany's military alliance with the West "5 years of occupation by the Western Powers."

The other liberated generals said they had snubbed him on their train in Moscow. A former medical officer, who had served under him at Stalingrad, appeared at the welcoming ceremonies at Camp Friedland and shouted out:

"Hundreds of thousands of our comrades lost their lives on account of you!"

This referred to the wartime surrender appeals Seydlitz-Kurzbach, his commander Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus and others of the Free Germany Committee made to German troops still fighting.

"I have done nothing wrong," the general, highly emotional, replied. "You can put me before a court."

"One of the men released with him commented to reporters at the camp:

"Through his desertion appeals, innumerable German soldiers became captives and suffered a terrible fate. He knowingly took soldiers falsehoods, in radio talks and leaflets, about the treatment awaiting them in Soviet prisons."

Survived Gales, Fire Razes House

A summer cottage at Hickory Point, property of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Overton of Greenville, survived three hurricanes without damage but burned to the ground last night.

Mrs. Overton reported this morning that the frame building, only a year old, was a complete loss.

The fire is estimated to have started about 9 p. m. and by the time trucks from the Aurora Fire department arrived about 8:30 the blaze had consumed the cottage. The fire was finally extinguished around 9:30.

Origin of the blaze was not known, and an investigation was being made today.

No one was at the cottage at the time of the fire.

Jaycees To Sponsor Drive For New School Bus For Out-Of-Town Trips

Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce members last night agreed to sponsor a drive to raise funds for the purchase of a new school bus to be used by Greenville High School for transportation of the school's organizations to various out-of-town functions.

And to start the ball rolling the Jaycees voted to recommend to the club board of directors that 100 per cent of the proceeds from a birthday calendar sale which the club is now conducting go toward the purchase of the $5,000 bus.

GHS principal O. E. Dowd had appeared before the club's board of directors at a previous meeting to request that the Jaycees consider taking the fund-raising job as a project. The present bus owned by the school was described as being in too poor condition to make regular out-of-town trips.

Dowd said this morning that the high school faculty and students "deeply appreciate the interest the Jaycees are taking in the bus project and are delighted that the club has agreed to sponsor the campaign."

"Of course, we will work with them and do anything we can to help in the drive for funds," Dowd said.

The school principal said that plans are to get a bus which will be sufficiently large to handle transportation for any of the high school groups. Plans are to purchase the chassis locally and have the body built to order by a High Point manufacturing company.

The new bus will have more seats than the present school bus and an extra gear. Preliminary plans also call for installing reclining seats.

Dowd said the vehicle will be used largely by the athletic teams at the school but will be available for all Greenville High School groups.

Once the bus is purchased, a plan is to be worked out whereby each organization which uses it will pay a fee based on mileage for use of placed in a bus fund and used for maintenance and replacement of the vehicle.

Dowd pointed out that no school funds can be used for the purchase of such a bus and therefore the money must be raised necessarily through such a project as the Jaycees are to conduct.

The high school's first bus for outside activities was purchased in the late 1930's after a fund-raising campaign. When World War II began that bus was sold and the money placed in war bonds. Around 1947 the bonds were cashed in and the school board placed an additional amount with it for the purchase of the present bus.

Since school funds were used, the vehicle was used by all the schools in the city in addition to athletic teams and other organizations at the high school.

Under present plans for the new bus, however, the vehicle will be used exclusively by the high school.

Jaycees are now working on plans for conducting the fund-raising drive.

Her current favorite is the bird, known as "Ole Crow," who makes one of the fattest livings of anything in feathers as the talking trademark for a firm that makes a well-known Kentucky beverage.

"Ole pronounced 'oh-lee' is the member of a crow family that has spent four generations in captivity," said Mrs. D'Esse.

"He has a vocabulary of 14 words (none are four letters) and can mew like a cat."

"He has been given an honorary college degree, owns a 36-by-36-inch Texas ranch, is an actual stockholder in a distillery, and loves to go to cocktail parties."

"Ole" won't eat crow for anybody. But he does love to dine on baked chicken, apple pie and ice cream, and cheesecake. At cocktail functions he is limited to an aperitif consisting of two drops of bourbon in water.

"If he takes three drops, he gets higher than an eagle," observed Mrs. D'Esse.

She has one tip to people who want to get along with dogs. "Never pat them on the skull," she said. "A dog hates this worse than you do a stranger who suddenly slaps you on the back."

"As a matter of fact you should never try to pet a dog until he comes up to you first."

than 900. Five thousand dollars was spent to purchase additional equipment for the x-ray unit at the Health Department. In addition, two teachers were sent to summer school at North Carolina College in Durham, health workshops were conducted throughout the county and educational material was mailed into 8,000 homes.

"We need to recognize our situation," Bundy declared, "and we must have an aim. We have a good program, but let's don't be satisfied that it is good enough or big enough. We must keep building our program to keep building lives for others. It all boils down to what each individual will do. Let's put each TB sale over this year and keep our program going, going, going."

Special Guests

Bundy was introduced by Dr. Marshall who recognized a number of special guests including Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt Health Director and his wife; Mrs. Lettie Blibro and Mrs. Earline Coghill, representing the Credit Women's Breakfast Club; Mrs. R. E. Perry, Tyson, from the Altrusa and Business and Professional Women's clubs; Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Sheppard Memorial librarian; Mrs. Cora S. Powell, Merchants Association secretary; Mrs. Ercell Webb, from the Service League, and Mr. Webb; and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, Woman's Club president.

Other guests were City Manager James B. Hughes, Mrs. Hughes, County Commissioner Vance Perkins and Mrs. Perkins, Miss Julia Fisher, superintendent of nurses at the Health Department; John P. Moss, Health Department sanitarian, and Mrs. Moss; Mrs. Novella M. Williams and Mrs. R. E. Perry, also of the Health Department; Dr. Anne Huizenga, John T. Marston, Mrs. Roy Coburn, Mrs. J. B. Spillman, Jr. and Mrs. R. A. Thorne of Farmville and Mrs. R. A. Fountain of Fountain.

Mrs. Percy B. Upchurch gave the invocation.

Autopsy Reports For Two Babies

Autopsy reports have been received in the details of two Pitt County Negro infants, Coroner Griffin Rouse said today.

William Lee Spencer, four months, whose death was reported Tuesday, died from bronchial pneumonia and meningitis. The child had been left in a car while his parents picked cotton in a field nearby. When they returned about 4:30 p. m. the child was dead.

The second child, Hattie Jane Parker, three and a half months, died Wednesday. The autopsy showed her death was due to strangulation stemming from some milk she had drunk.

No inquests are scheduled in either death, the coroner said.

Meanwhile, in another case, the coroner ruled that the death of Lilian Armwood, 38, Negro, of Pitt Street, was due to a heart condition. She died last night, Rouse said, and no inquest will be held.

Colored News

James Thomas Holliday of 1308 West Third Street has been awarded a diploma for successful completion of a 108-week residential training program in electronic technology and nuclear instrumentation at DEVRTY Technical Institute in Chicago.

Holliday is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Holliday and is a graduate of C. M. Epper High School. He began his training for television-radio-electronics in June, 1953.

The Senior Choir of Mt. Calvary will meet at the church for rehearsal Saturday at 8 p. m.

There will be a program at South Greenville School Sunday, Oct. 9, at 4 p. m. There will be gospel singing, duncans, quartets, clarinet and piano selections. The public is invited. The program is given in the interest of the school. There will be a small admission charge.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS, REPORT ALL BURNED OUT STREET LIGHTS IMMEDIATELY TO YOUR POLICE.

THREE O'CLOCK IS IT? WELL, DON'T TELL ME WHAT TIME IT IS—BRING ME MORE COFFEE—AND GO BACK TO BED.

YES, MA'AM.

WHY, THAT DIRTY OODLES—!! I COULD—!!

THE LOOK ON HER LITTLE FACE WHEN I TOLD HER THE TAPE SHE BURNED WAS A BLANK! OH—AHAH—HAH!

SHE WAS SO MAD, OODLES, THE BOYS COULD HARDLY GET HER IN THE CAR.

WHILE THE CAR THAT BROUGHT MRS. VULCAN HOME IS BEING FOLLOWED— WE'RE DOING OKAY, SAM. THEY'RE DRIVING SLOWER, AS THOUGH THEY'RE CONVINCED THEY'RE NOT BEING TAILED.

NOW, SWITCH ON JUST THE LEFT HEADLIGHT.

WHEN WE REFUSED TO FOLLOW THEM AROUND THE BLOCK—THEY SEEMED SATISFIED.

AFTER WE PASS THIS TRUCK, ILL TURN ON BOTH DIMS.

THEY'RE DRIVING A LONG WAY OUT—FOR HOODLUMS.

SOME OF THESE HOODS HAVE FINE SUBURBAN HOMES, TRACY. YOU NEVER KNOW.

AND IN THE GANGSTERS' CAR— WE'RE TURNING HERE! READY?

YEAH.

GET GOING!

THEY'RE GOING VERY SLOW. TURN THE LIGHTS OFF, SAM, AS WE ROUND THIS CORNER.

20TH CENTURY DAVY CROCKETT MOVES INTO SHAWMUT PARK

Local officials were scratching their heads and trying to figure out a legal method of dislodging 65-year-old Yucca Spooner from his cozy little hide-away in Shawmut Park. Mr. Spooner, referring to an ancient city ordinance, 345-23, claims he has a perfect right to reside amongst the pines and willows of the city park. Thus far, nobody has been able to prove him wrong—or make him budge.
