Lengthy Period Of Convalescence Is Facing President

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower continued to progress satisfactorily today as he cheerfully resigned himself to a long period of recovery and convalescence, which may keep him out of the White House the rest of the year.

The 42-year-old Nixon, one of the men frequently mentioned in speculation over possible GOP candidates if Eisenhower bows out, found the chief executive in a gay mood when he visited him with Sherman Adams Eisenhower's chief deputy.

These things became clear as the aftermath of a Sunday news conference at Lowry Air Force Base, Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted Boston heart specialist, speaking for himself and the President's bedside doctors, said:

Nixon said the President showed a "vital interest" in national and international problems and specified "several subjects" he wanted to talk to Cabinet members about. He didn't name them.

Seventh-Graders Study Indian Lore

JoAnn Buck and Edith Nelson, impersonating Indian squaws, sit outside their wigwam with their "papoose." The wigwam, as well as Indian clothes, toys weapons and other objects were made by the seventh grade students.

Seventh grade students at the Stokes-Pactolus school have recently completed a study unit on American Indians and their way of life.

They drew pictures of Indian clothing and made replicas of war weapons, tools and toys. They also make shakers and totem poles, representing Indian religion. Various individuals gave reports on specific tribes, including Navaho, Cherokee and Mohegan.

Mrs. Musselwhite said the main objective of the project was "to stir interest and to help the students develop the ability to work together and to use self-initiative in solving problems."

Separated Him From His Beer

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Gertrude French Garwin, 33, and her husband, affectionately known as "Junior," languished in county jail here today, as remorseful—said the jailers—as anybody you ever saw.

Junior wanted "just one more beer" yesterday and Gertrude objected. But he entered the Little Wheel drive-in minus Gertrude's approval.

She drove their car through a storm door first, in her attempt to stop Junior—but missed. So she made a circle, knocked down 12 feet of wall and drove 22 feet into the barroom, scattering some 20 customers.

Still Junior hadn't put that bottle down. Gertrude jumped out of the car, grabbed a plank and began swinging it at Junior. She hit him once, detaching him from the brown bottle.

The number of U.S. women employed as household servants declined from 2 million in 1940 to 1 1/2 million in 1950.

Dr. Humbert Speaks On Need For Mental Clinic

"America today is our most literate nation, yet we have the highest percentage of mental illnesses," said Dr. Walter Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer, in his talk to the Greenville Woman's Club Friday afternoon. Dr. Humbert, who was introduced by Mrs. Wm Reading, chairman of the Welfare Department, spoke informally on the origin, need and operation of the newly-formed Pitt County Mental Health Clinic, which will open about January 1.

He pointed out that none is exempt from mental illness. In explaining the Clinic, he said that all people of Eastern North Carolina may come to the Clinic. The Clinic is not for people who are insane, but for anyone who is "uncomfortable." In defining Mental Health, Dr. Humbert emphasized that it is the state or condition in which a person, child or adult, feels comfortable. Patients may be referred to the Clinic by doctors, educators, ministers, schools, or individuals. Dr. Humbert said that most mental illness starts from "situations in the home. One of the great tragedies today, in America, is that our educator and intelligence have brought this high rate of mental illness.

In closing his talk, Dr. Humbert asked that everyone cooperate with the Board of Directors of the Mental Health Clinic, by joining the membership, and helping in any way assistance is needed.

In the business session which followed, Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell presided. Committee reports were heard, in which an appeal from the Home A Home committee, headed by Mrs. L. M. Buchanan, was made to give clothing and household effects to needy families in Greenville. Mrs. Alton Barrett was announced chairman of the Red Cross Drive, to be held in March; Mrs. J. A. Piver was asked to head the volunteer workers for the TB sale. Mrs. Shackell announced that the club would be one of the five sponsoring organizations for United Nations Day, which will be observed on Monday, Oct. 24, at 8:00 p.m. in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. She also announced the District meeting in Columbia on Wednesday, Oct. 12, and asked all who could attend to call her. The Certificate of Honor for the Greenville Woman's Club, which was awarded at the Club Workshop in Windsor in June, was presented to the club. # Fire Prevention Is For Every Person

There are only 52 weeks in the year, but there are at least three or four times that many special designations for weeks during the year. There are so many in fact, that much of the significance for special recognitions during a specific week for a particular effort has been lost.

Among other things, the week now upon us is Fire Prevention Week. This week has been set aside for particular efforts on the part of the public to prevent fires which annually causes losses amounting to billions of dollars.

In Greenville this week firemen will inspect stores, business houses and public buildings to gather information which will be of aid to them if they are called to fight fires in those buildings at some future date. While these inspections are going on, the firemen likewise will offer suggestions to proprietors of these buildings for removing potential fire hazards. In some cases these suggestions will be accorded the follow-up action they deserve and many fire hazards will be eliminated. In other cases, unfortunately, suggestions of the firemen will be promptly forgotten after the firemen leave to go about duties elsewhere.

Firemen this week are making special efforts to help business operators avoid costly fire losses before they occur. It behooves those in charge of the business houses which will be inspected to cooperate with the firemen's efforts in every way possible.

The fact that business houses and public buildings have been singled out for inspection this week does not mean that firemen are not likewise interested in preventing fires in homes. It would of course be impossible for the small number of firemen in Pitt County to inspect all the 14,000 homes in the county for fire hazards this week. They are depending upon individual home owners to do their own inspecting and remove potential fire hazards in their homes during the week.

Like many other efforts of this kind, fire prevention has not been taken seriously enough in the past as the record of fire losses will verify. During this week, The Reflector urges every home owner and every proprietor of a business establishment to eliminate fire hazards which might cause the loss of his or adjoining property.

New Approach Needed To The Farm Problem

Come the 1956 presidential election, the farmers of the nation might well find themselves holding the balance of power which will determine whether the Democrats or Republicans will control the federal government.

The nation's two major political parties are keenly aware of this fact as the present pre-campaign speech making vividly points out. This fact puts the farmers of the nation in a strong bargaining position in the months between now and next summer. If the agricultural interests of the nation are to take advantage of this opportunity which presents itself, they must not wait until election time to assert themselves.

Planks of the campaign platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties are now being formed. With an eye to the 1956 election, leaders on both sides of the political fence are most anxious to please farmers of the nation. It presents the farm interests of the nation a rare opportunity to dictate strong farm planks in the political platforms of the two parties. It presents a rare opportunity to commit party leaders definitely to the kind of farm program which farmers need and want.

During the past few years, farmers have found themselves in a position less than enviable so far as the relationship of farm income to national income is concerned. In recent months a great deal has been said about the declining farm prices since the Republican administration came to power. In their own interest, however, farmers cannot now fail to remember that the decline in farm prices began long before the Democratic administration of former President Harry Truman went out of office.

While the farm program under the Democratic administration was more forceful than what the GOP has offered, declining prices during the Democratic administration points up that the farm program even then was inadequate.

Obviously if the farmer is to regain his rightful place in the national economy he must not merely have a new program which is better than the present Republican farm program. He must have a farm program which is likewise better than the one which even the Democrats carried out during the final couple of years they controlled the administration.

The Law Enforcers Can Not Save Lives Alone

Maybe it is the nip in the October air, or perhaps it is the hurry of the busy fall season, but whatever the reason October has begun with a fatal influence upon North Carolina's drivers.

With the month but seven days old, the state had counted 36 traffic deaths, and the toll has mounted daily since then. The highway death toll in the state which this year has constantly run ahead of the comparable period of last year has been boosted even higher. While Wake County has gained attention by leading the state with more than 45 deaths so far this year, many other counties have likewise seek their traffic toll rise alarmingly.

Pitt County is one of this group. During 1954 Pitt had one of its safer years so far as highway fatalities were concerned. Only seven people died in traffic accidents. So far this year, with more than three and one-half months remaining, Pitt has recorded 13 traffic deaths. Unless the trend changes during the remaining months of the year, this could well be one of the worst 12 months on record for the county so far as highway deaths are concerned.

While law enforcement officers will be greatly concerned with preventing accidents during the remaining months of the year, their efforts alone cannot prevent the county from increasing its highway toll. Certainly they will keep a closer check on speeders, and careless drivers. We should expect more arrests and less leniency on the part of the officers who patrol the highways. In spite of all their efforts, however, the number of officers in Pitt County cannot keep every mile of highway under surveillance at all times.

In a large measure the number of traffic deaths Pitt suffers during the remaining months of this year will depend upon the degree of caution exercised by the individual drivers.

Responsibility for keeping the county's traffic toll from going higher does not rest upon the law enforcement officers alone. It is shared equally by every person who gets behind the steering wheel of a motor vehicle.

The Parade Means 'O' Without Spectators

Pitt County went on parade here today as the 1955 county agricultural fair opened. Unlike other parades, this one doesn't move. The people have to come to see it.

At the fair this week the exhibit halls will be filled with displays ranging from livestock to daintily hand-made frocks showing a cross section of the thousands of items produced in Pitt County. This year, as in past years, the exhibits will depict the broad base of Pitt County's prosperous agricultural economy.

Like other parades, the one at the fairground north of Greenville will be of little consequence if an audience does not come to view it. Both the number and quality of the exhibits on display at the fair justify the time it takes to see them.

The Biggest Owner Of Tar Heel Acreage

By LYNN NIBBET
PUBLIC LANDS Approximately ten percent of the land area of North Carolina is owned by Federal, State and local governments. The official records list 31,422,080 acres of land in the state.

The General Services Administration reported earlier this year that Uncle Sam owns 5.21 per cent of this land, or 1,637,000 acres. This is in national forests, parks, recreation areas and military establishments. The same source says the Federal government owns 20.5 per cent of all land in continental United States. The State of North Carolina has fee simple title to more than 15,000 acres, almost half of it in the Caledonia farm. The rest is distributed in tracts of five to several hundred acres at the 80-odd prison camps throughout the state.

HIGHWAYS - Accurate figures on highway commission holdings (other than prison-administered) are not available. A detailed inventory is in progress. The land owned in fee simple upon which administrative buildings are located amounts to only a few hundred acres. Most of the rights of way are held under easement deeds with reversion clauses when not used for highway purposes.

RIGHTS OF WAY - James S. Burca, statistical engineer for the highway commission, has made some intelligent estimates on acreage in rights of way, which vary from 60 to 260 feet in width. Assuming an average of secondary and 388 square miles in 100 feet right-of-way for primary roads and 60 feet for secondary, he comes up with report that there are 203 square miles in paved primary highway rights of way, 245 square miles in paved secondary roads, and 190 square miles in unpaved secondary—all outside of incorporated municipalities. That adds up to 834 square miles or 533,760 acres of land.

SCHOOLS - The constitution vests in the State Board of Education title to all marsh and swampland not definitely owned by somebody else. Boundaries of these lands are vague and private titles often confused and overlapping. Aggregate acreage reported is anywhere from 100,000 to a million acres. Efforts are being made a clear the record on this point.

VALUE - No estimate of value is attempted with respect to any public owned lands. The State parks division has 17,729 acres in ten parks and seven historical sites. The parks also include 17,729 acres of water most of which is in Phelps, Jones and Singletary lakes management areas. The State parks division is in process of transfer to the department of archives and history. The commercial fisheries division has about 30 acres at the old section base near Morehead City. EDUCATIONAL - Aggregate lands controlled by the various educational institutions, including experimental farms jointly administered by Central Experiment station, State College and the department of agriculture, runs to 12,340 acres, according to budget bureau records.

FRISONS - The prison department has 15,500 acres, almost half of it in the Caledonia farm. The rest is distributed in tracts of five to several hundred acres at the 80-odd prison camps throughout the state.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MADE NEW

There has been much discussion over the origin of the word "sincere." One explanation is that it comes from two Latin words "sine" meaning "without" and "cereus" meaning "wax." It is said that in the pottery shops of ancient Rome, a card bearing the words "sine cera" often placed above the kiln and vases, meaning that they were without wax, that is, not patched up old vessels, but newly made.

A vessel old, complete not newly made and not a broken old thing patched up with wax—that may be the meaning of the word "sincere" is derived. If it is, it speaks volumes. For the Bible is clear in its teaching that God's grace is not something designed to patch up our lives, to make them over. Human plans for the betterment of the world always involve patching the worldly philosophy holds that the best we can expect to do with humanity is to keep it from getting out of hand altogether. Evil, it is therefore contended, is something to be regulated. The idea is not to stop evil at its source—that would deny someone his pleasure—but to patch up the victim after Satan has manhandled him. Jesus Christ came into the world for the purpose of making people new. "If any man is in Christ he is a new creature." Christianity knows nothing about the patching up process and has no interest in it.

Dim View Of Private Debts

By ELMER ROESSNER

A dim view of size of current personal indebtedness is taken by Jules Backman, New York University professor and nationally known economist. Writing in the university's economic magazine, "Challenge," Dr. Backman says the high level of personal debt poses a threat to the nation's future prosperity.

Consumer credit and mortgage debt, he observes, has increased from about $24 billion at the end of 1945 to about $110 billion now. During the same period other types of private debt including stock market credit, farm credit and business borrowing, have increased from $134 billion to $250 billion making the total private debt around $360 billion now.

Credit spending so stimulates business that many merchants can't understand the distress about it. To some it seems that anybody opposed to more credit is a cloistered egg-head, if not an outright enemy of business. Dr. Backman explains the economist's viewpoint clearly. He writes:

"When consumers spend beyond their incomes, they obviously stimulate the economy to the extent of their borrowings. For example, a family earning $100 per week may spend a considerably larger sum as it refurnishes a home, buys a car, a television set or a refrigerator. At some future date the family will have to spend less than its current income if it is to repay the loan. During the period when purchases are made, the economy is stimulated. When repayments are made, this stimulus is lost. "When large numbers of families are going into debt, the economy is stimulated, as it was in 1962 and 1963. When repayments exceed new loans as was true to a small extent early in 1964, then recessionary tendencies may develop in the economy."

Notebook On Life

The Woman Who Won't Quit

CHICAGO (AP) - A frail little woman faithfully each evening at 6 o'clock leaves her tiny flat in the bustling, noisy North Clark street neighborhood around Division Street.

The streets are swarming with cars and buses taking hundreds home from work. Lincolns and taxicabs head east for the Gold Coast and south to the nearby Loop.

Mrs. Ann Brookhouse, 36, walks a few blocks to Chicago Avenue to catch a bus. Some days she climbs into her old car to make the four-mile trip to the Cook County Hospital.

At the hospital she goes to Ward 22 on the second floor. "Hello, John, how are you tonight?" the tiny woman asks as she walks to the bedside of her husband, John, 36. There is no answer. He has been unconscious for nearly 20 months. His eyes are open and he looks around the room but physicians say he hears nothing or, at least, doesn't understand what is said.

But Mrs. Brookhouse talks to her husband. She tells him about their children, John Jr., 15, June, 13, and Alvina, 12.

She straightens his pillow, holds his hands and chats with him. Mrs. Brookhouse hasn't missed going to the hospital a day since her husband was beaten into unconsciousness on Feb. 13, 1954. Brookhouse, a cab driver, was found beaten and bleeding at the rear of a West Side church. He had been robbed of $18.

He has not made a sound except his breathing or an occasional grunt or yawn. He has had two operations. Physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

Not Mrs. Brookhouse, who says: "The day I'll give up is when I bury John."

She had to give up her job as a waitress because of poor health but she's looking for another one. "I have my prayers and I have my family and John," she said. She added: "I wouldn't miss a day at the hospital even if I had to crawl there. John would know if I missed visiting him."

A nurse in Ward 22 told a reporter: "We're sure he doesn't really see or hear anything. But then maybe Mrs. Brookhouse sees something we don't."

Wall Street Collapse Was Due

By ROGER W. BABONS
BABSON PARK, Mass. - What has happened to our good friend President Eisenhower has been the match to set off the explosion which has been due for some time. Those of you who have followed this weekly column will remember that I have often noted five "sticks of dynamite" which were awaiting something to set them off.

FIVE REASONS FOR THE COLLAPSE
1. BUYING BY INVESTMENT TRUSTS, PENSION FUNDS, AND INSTITUTIONS. The money has come into these so fast that the fund managers felt they must invest it. Furthermore, they naturally turned to the biggest companies.

2. TREMENDOUS BUILDING OF HOUSES. It exceeds that of previous years. The money is well spent, both to house the owner and help the twenty-seven industries which benefit from the building of every house. Home purchasers however, should have been made to put up more money of their own, and not buy houses on shoestrings.

3. GREATLY INCREASED INSTALLMENT PURCHASING. I do not criticize the purchasing—even on installment—automobiles, electric refrigerators, washing machines, modern kitchens, and other things which improve the efficiency of the home; but buying TV sets, with hardly a down payment may be questionable.

4. MILITARY EXPENDITURES A GREAT FACTOR. To the extent these are paid for by taxes, they are not too serious; but they cannot be depended upon. Furthermore, although necessary, the expenditure is uneconomical.

5. POOR YIELDS OF STOCKS after payment of taxes, except in the case of Pension Funds, Institutional Investments, and other reasonable purchases. Low yield may be the greatest factor. After most investors deduct the income tax from their dividends, the yield is altogether too small to run the risk of buying stocks.

What the market will do from now on? I forecast that most major dips will go lower than the preceding dip. Yet, each dip in due time will be followed by an upward movement. It probably will not reach as high as the preceding upward movements. What will really happen to the stock market will depend upon general business, which in turn determines employment. Employment determines retail sales, which supply the factories with orders, thus completing the economic cycle.

President Eisenhower's health will be a great factor in determining the immediate future of business. Many large undertakings have been held in abeyance pending a decision from President Eisenhower as to whether he will run again. This work will doubtless be held up until it is known who the Presidential candidates will be. Perhaps this means that the contracts will not be signed until after the election, if they are signed for some years to come.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT WOULD LIKE TO DO

Intimate friends of President Eisenhower and his wife have known that he does not like the details, the public speaking and entertaining demanded by the Presidency. He enjoyed being General of the Army where his work was largely confined to thinking and planning. Others carried out the details. No one opposed his holding such a position would add greatly to the Administration and give the country faith.

WHEN MANUFACTURERS AND MERCHANTS TELEPHONE ME ASKING WHAT THEY CAN NOW DO TO PREVENT A BUSINESS DEPRESSION I REPLY: "SPEND MORE MONEY ON ADVERTISING." As stated above, future business and prosperity depend upon retail sales at the grass roots level. To stimulate these sales, two things are better: More advertising and better employee relations. I hope that every businessman and wageworker will do his part along these lines during these critical weeks.

Justices Don't Want Warren In Politics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON - Although Chief Justice Earl Warren is reported to be President Eisenhower's preference for the Republicans' 1956 Presidential nomination, the California's colleagues and leading members of the American bar are urging him not to re-enter politics. They believe that, it would be a blow to the high tribunal's lately retrieved prestige. Warren will not consent to run. Ironically, Franklin D. Roosevelt was partly responsible for this attitude, which may deprive the GOP of its most attractive and strongest candidate. The late President plunged the court into a political morass from which Warren and his associates are trying to extricate it.

His formal statement that his permanent retirement from office-seeking was "irrevocable" under any circumstances shows how deeply he feels. Indeed his renunciation was generally regarded as unnecessary and gratuitous for it came in response to a newspaper poll showing him to be the most popular among the men mentioned as possible nominees. Most public figures disagree such expressions of opinion.

HOPE OF FELLOW JURISTS Although his fellow jurists maintain a judicial silence, they hope that he will not step down in answer to partisan pressure and exigencies. Even the Democratic politicians named to the court by F.L.R. and Harry S. Truman want it to remain aloof and above politics.

F.D.R. INFURIATED JUSTICES Roosevelt also infuriated the nine jurists by forcing semi-political assignments on them. He named the late Justice Robert H. Jackson as a member of the Nuremberg tribunal that tried German war criminals. He dragged former Justice Owen J. Roberts out of retirement to head the investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster.

He frequently called Justice Frankfurter and other members into consultation on nonjudicial matters in short Roosevelt looked upon the court as an arm of the Executive branch of the Government. Not in many years had the highest judicial body in the land fallen so low in the public mind and especially among lawyers and litigants.

PRECEDENT The late Chief Justice Fred Vinson fixed the precedent which Warren plans to follow. When the Kentuckian was advanced as a possible Presidential candidate, he flatly refused to permit his name to go before the convention. Chief Justice Warren observed the steady deterioration of the court as Governor of California and a former District Attorney. He set out to restore its prestige as soon as he donned the black gown and robe of office.

He found that he headed a body of squabblers—and dissenters, who as many as six justices writing a separate opinion in a single case. He strove for unanimity, and there were fewer dissents at recent sessions than in many years.

OPINION AGAINST SEGREGATION His insistence on writing the opinion against segregation in the public schools emphasizes his determination to stay out of politics. He knew that his ruling would be interpreted in a political light, an interpretation he framed for himself only so that it would have greater force and effect. He placed the court above Party.

College Stages Big Program For Returning ECC Alumni

Alumni of East Carolina returned to the campus Saturday to participate in events marking the annual observance of Homecoming Day at the college.

Campus residence halls, gaily decorated in the college purple and gold and featuring the East Carolina Pirate symbol made a colorful background for the occasion. The trophies presented each year by the Industrial Arts Club for the most attractively decorated dormitory went to Fleming Hall for women, with Cotten Hall for freshman women, and Saly Hall for men as runner-ups.

Baxter R. Ridenhour of Durham, president of the East Carolina College Alumni Association presided this morning at a meeting of the Alumni Council. Alumni Secretary James W. Butler gave a progress report of activities in the Association.

Discussion centered attention upon a campaign during October, November, and December, 1955, to increase membership in the Alumni Association and upon alumni publications as means of furthering interest in and loyalty to the college.

A gala afternoon parade, moving from the East Campus through downtown Greenville, attracted hundreds of spectators. Donald Umstead of Leaksville, president of the college Student Government Association, and Bruce Phillips of Raeford, student chairman of Homecoming Day activities, worked with a large group of assistants in planning the event.

Miss Jobil Lassiter, freshman from Virginia Beach, Va., appeared as Homecoming Queen in the parade. An attractive brunette she acted as sponsor for the Student Government Association.

More than thirty women students, chosen by college dormitories and student organizations as their sponsors, occupied decorated cars and shared honors with the queen.

Among more than a dozen elaborately decorated floats top honors were awarded to Gamma Theta Upsilon, geography fraternity; the EPO service fraternity; and the Association for Childhood Education International, campus organizations.

The East Carolina Marching Band, with Herbert L. Carter of the faculty as director, and bands from six Eastern North Carolina high schools provided music for the parade. Marching in their brightly colored uniforms were ensembles from Greenville, Williams, Washington, Farmville, Robertsonville, and Tarboro.

Cadets of the East Carolina Air Force ROTC were presented by cadet officers, the Color Guard, and an honor drill squadron.

Social events of the alumni celebration included a Pre-Homecoming dance Friday night, with music by Boyd Reburn and His Band; and today a buffet luncheon in the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House, with members of the Greenville-Pitt Alumni chapter as hosts and hostesses; a tea given in honor of visitors by students living in Cotten Hall; reunion dinners by the Veterans Club and other campus groups; and the annual Homecoming Hop.

Scheduled for the evening was a North State Conference football game between East Carolina and Elon.

East Carolina Defeats Elon 13-0 Before 7,000 Fans

East Carolina finally shook itself loose from its offensive shackles and proceeded to grind out a 13-0 North State Conference victory over Elon here Saturday night.

The win was the second in five starts for Head Coach Jack Boone's Pirates and was the fourth straight defeat for the hapless Christians. The game was homecoming for the locals and was played before some 7,000 screaming fans in College Stadium.

With a couple of light-footed half-backs—namely Emo Boado and Bobby Perry—leading the way, the Pirates were motivated to their best offensive showing of the season.

Early Score
East Carolina scored in the late stages of the second period on a play from reserve quarterback Milton Collier to Perry. The play covered 21 yards and climaxed a 68-yard march. It took the inspired Pirates just 13 plays to travel the distance.

Collier converted true and East Carolina held its first advantage in a ball game since the opener with Norfolk NAS back on Sept. 10.

In the fourth period, East Carolina tallied again. Quarterback Dick Cherry kept and spun down the line and through tackle for the final two yards and the touchdown. Collier's placement was wide to the left.

Elon Threat
Elon made its most serious threat in the early minutes of the game. After an exchange of punts, E.C.C. picked up a first down to the line and Boado fumbled on the next play and Tom Shepperson of Elon recovered.

With the ball on the Pirates' 46, Whitney Bradham raced to the 30 for a first down. Kerry Richards dove to the 26 and then down to the 17 for another first down.

It looked like the Christians were going to break in the scoring column at his point. However, the ECC forward wall stiffened and held them on a series of downs at the 15.

Collier Leader
In the Buck's first drive, Collier was at the helm. The Portsmouth senior sent Boado and Perry scampering on every other play and the fleet duo carried the pigskin down to the Elon 24.

Bobby Gay relieved Boado and bulldozed his way to the 31. Collier tried a jump pass to Bobby Conway but it was knocked down. On the next play, Collier hit Perry in the right flat. The Greenville sophomore caught the pass high in the air and was hit immediately. He didn't go down, however, and regained his balance to scamper into the end zone.

Just before the half ended, Boado pulled the best run of the game. With the pigskin resting on the Pirates' 32, he went off right guard, broke momentarily to his right and then back to his left. Richards hemmed him in at the 15. The jaunt covered 53 yards and brought the entire crowd to its feet.

Perry Intercept
The second Pirate score was set up by Perry's fine interception and run-back of Richard Whitney's pass. Perry stole the aerial on his own 36 and romped back to the 48. Perry then cut to the 42 and Boado moved it to the 30. Boado spun to the 25 and Perry almost got away as he ran to the 13 and a first down. Fullback Harold O'Kelly muscled his way to the 7 and Cherry went to the 1 but a backfield-in-motion penalty nullified it, setting the Pirates back on the 12. Boado almost regained the yardage by stepping to the 7. Cherry then belted off to the left for the score.

Strong Attack
A previously weak offensive team, turned into a powerful attacker. The Pirates gained 262 yards on the ground and 39 via the air ways. The locals' defense was also formidable, allowing Elon's highly-touted offense only 109 yards on the ground. The Christians picked up an additional 40 in the air.

The Pirates had many defensive standouts. Lou Hallow, as usual, played a bang-up game at his line-backer post. Ken Burgess of Burlington was truly sensational with his performance at guard.

Jerry Brooks of Rockingham and Ray Overton also turned in good games. Charles Smith, Dick Monds, J. D. Bradford, Waverly Chesson and Ray Pennington also stood out.

Clemson Back Sets Pace For ACC Scoring Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Billy O'Dell, chunky hard-running Clemson halfback, continues to hold the Atlantic Coast Conference football scoring leadership today but backs from Duke. South Carolina and Maryland are close behind.

Clemson dropped its first game of the season to Rice 21-7 at Houston Saturday night. O'Dell plunged from the one for Clemson's lone score. It was his fifth touchdown of the season and ran his point total to 30.

Close behind O'Dell are Bob Pascal of Duke, Mike Caskey of South Carolina and Ed Verab of Maryland, each with 24 points. Duke's Bernie Blaney is fifth with 18 points.

Verab scored twice Saturday as Maryland, the No. 1 team in the national Associated Press poll, dropped Wake Forest 28-7. It was the Terps' fourth straight victory of the season and their first conference game of the year.

Frank Tamburello quarterbacked the Terps amassed 237 yards rushing and 151 yards passing. The four Maryland touchdowns came on short plunges climaxing drives. Tamburello scored one, Fred Hamilton one and Verab two. Wake Forest managed its touchdown in the fourth period on a pass from Nick Consoles to Dick Daniels.

William and Mary proved no match for Duke as the Blue Devils won their third straight game 47-7. Duke rolled up 22 first downs, 309 yards rushing and 70 yards through the air, with quarterback Sonny Jurgensen completing four of five passes he attempted for 63 yards. He also passed to Blaney for the first score, the play covering 30 yards.

Rice missed scoring in only the third quarter in rolling over previously undefeated Clemson 21-7. The Tigers lost their ace quarterback, Don King, who was injured early in the second half, but it was sub Charlie Bussey who directed the Tigers on their 93-yard drive for Georgia, on the rebound after its loss to Clemson the week before, stopped North Carolina 28-7. The Bulldogs, defensive giants in 1954, showed that power for the first time this year in holding the Tar Heels to only one yard rushing. Georgia took to the air for its first two touchdowns and took advantage of North Carolina mistakes for the others. Dick Young passed to Jimmy Orr for the first two scores.

North Carolina scored its touchdown in the first period when Jack Maulsby blocked a Georgia punt and end Will Fry picked it up and ran 23 yards to score.

Penn State handed Virginia its third straight loss, a 26-7 defeat suffered in the rain. The Nitany Lions racked up two touchdowns in the second quarter and were never headed. Virginia's big fullback, Jim Bakhtiar, sparked the Cavaliers' offense while quarterback Whitey Clarke sneaked over from the three in the second quarter for the only Virginia touchdown.

South Carolina scored three times in the first half to drub Furman of the Southern Conference 19-0. A fumble set up the first Gamecock score with Mike Caskey plunging over from the one. Two other first half drives resulted in touchdowns with Carl Brazell and Bill Tarrer carrying over one each.

North Carolina State, the conference's other member, had an open date.

The standings, conference games first and all games following: Maryland (1-0, 4-0); Duke (1-0, 3-0); Clemson (1-0, 3-1); North Carolina (1-1, 2-2); South Carolina (0-1, 2-2); Virginia (0-1, 0-3); North Carolina State (0-2, 0-3).

The schedule for Oct. 15: Duke at Ohio State, Maryland at North Carolina, VMI at Virginia, Wake Forest at North Carolina State (N), Clemson, open, and South Carolina, open.

Stranahan Proves Point Picking Up $3,000 Check

By LOU PANOS
BALTIMORE (P)—Frank Stranahan, who explained he became a professional golfer because it "means more" than playing as an amateur, clutched a $3,000 check today to prove his point.

The 33-year-old strong boy from Toledo Ohio picked up this little convincer yesterday as the victor's booty in the $17,500 Eastern Open over Baltimore's municipal Mt. Pleasant course.

He couldn't have chosen a more dramatic spot for his initial victory as a pro after years of successful campaigning in the amateur ranks.

It was the last tournament on the 1955 trail mapped out by the Professional Golfers' Assn. and Frank didn't clinch it until he dropped his final putt in the 72-hole event.

That stroke gave him a 1-under-par 71 for the last round and 280 for the route, enabling him to finish

one ahead of Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor Pa.

"Ah it's wonderful," said Fran. Besides winning the world amateur four times and a flock of other amateur titles, he had actually beaten the pros in four open tournaments dating back to the 1945 Durham Open.

But he remained an amateur until a year ago, and this was his first successful bid for cash that went with a crown.

"Playing as a pro means more to me because I know I'm out there every day trying to beat the best there is," he said.

"As an amateur you may play in an open tournament with the pros, but you are not really competing with them. You know you don't have to beat them, that you just have to beat the other amateurs to win.

difference in the world. Then you know it's going to be tough because there are at least 50 really good players up against you every time you go out there."

Ed Oliver, the veteran from Le-mont, Ill., finished third with a 72-282 after lying one stroke off the pace going into the last 18. Fourth money went to Fred Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., who carded a 71-283.

Massey Cops Greenville Golf Medal Tourney, Webb Tourney Runner-Up

Molt Massey was up to his old tricks—winning local golf matches—yesterday as he copped the Greenville Golf and Country Club Medal Tournement championship.

Massey, well-known in this area for his fine golf game, was match champion at the local club in 1954. Runner-up in the medal tournament was Bob Webb. He has also been a tournament winner at the club.

One of the best matches of the day was played in the first flight division. Don Conley finally won but after he was forced into a sudden death playoff with Bob Masten, Conley won the playoff on the second hole.

Dan Wright was second flight winner and Ed Harris took third flight honors.

After the tournament, the club officials presented to Dick Evans a trophy for winning the Junior Championship in a tournament held earlier this year.

Lucian Bryan Jr. was medalist winner in that tournament and was also presented a trophy. Wesley Topping was runner-up.

Babe Zaharias Tries Nine Holes

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Babe Zaharias, recovering from a second attack of cancer, felt so good when the doctor told her to get some exercise she played nine holes of golf.

The Babe, named woman athlete of the half century, played with her friend Betty Dodd and shot a 40 yesterday. Betty had a 38.

Mrs. Zaharias had putted a little but it was the first time she had taken to the links after her recent operation.

Midgets Battle To 0-0 Deadlock Over Weekend

A couple of midget football teams battled to a defensive deadlock over the weekend as the Whites and the Golds ended up 0-0. The Golds led offensive action, gaining 5 first downs to the Whites' 2.

The game was a constant story of long marches, then fumbles or interceptions. Both teams threatened more than once but couldn't find that spark that would break through for a score.

Outstanding for the Whites on offense were Jeff Fountain and Donald McArthur. The entire White defensive squad played good ball.

Bass, James, Speight and Whitley were the big guns on Gold offensive and Coach Williams, Cox and Hall stated that every player was strong on offense.

These two teams lead the Midget League in games won to date, both boasting one win, one tie. The Reds and the Blues follow in that order. The Reds hold a 1-1 slate, and the Blues have a 0-2-0 record.

Betty Jameson Wins Richmond Women's Open

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Betty Jameson of San Antonio won the $5,000 Richmond Women's Open Golf Tournament yesterday, posting a 71 for a 220 total in the 54-hole contest. She took down $900.

Mary Lena Faulk, who needed a par five on the 501-yard 18th hole to tie, shot her third stroke into a trap and finished second with a 221, winning $630.

This tournament ended the season for the touring women.

Patty Berg ended as top money winner with $14,492.34 collected in 22 of the 28 tournaments. Louise Suggs won $13,736.40 and Fay Crocker won $11,796.17.

New Prospective Starters Emerged In G-Men's Inter-Squad Game Friday

By BILLY ARNOLD
Greenville high school's rugged inter-squad contest last Friday afternoon, during an open date period, brought forth plenty of results according to Phantom coaches.

Several new prospects for starting positions stood out in the 48-minute battle last week. The game was staged without the services of quarterback Jerry Drum, who had previously been a regular. Drum was absent most of the week with a virus sickness but will be expected to be in condition for this Friday's Elizabeth City Northeastern Conference tilt.

However, a perky sophomore smoothly popped out of nowhere last weekend to stage a brilliant performance at the signal-calling slot.

and may very well edge Drum out of his position. Mack Roebuck is the young man's name.

"New Boys Are Eager"
Assistant Coaches Vaughn Fowler and Stanley Jones, who were in charge of the trial match while Head Mentor Guy Lewis was scouting Elizabeth City, were enthusiastic about the new material that had cropped up.

"The new boys are eager," stated Jones, "to play ball and some of them are pushing their way into starting berths."

Line Coach Fowler put forth the idea that the Phantom regulars begin to lose interest in football, thinking that they had their particular positions sewed up. He destroyed all such notions, however, with this remark: "On Guy Lewis' squad, there is no such thing as a first stringer. The younger boys defeated our veterans because they wanted to play ball more, and many of these boys will put our regulars on the bench."

Still Searching
In other words, Coach Lewis' words, "We are still searching for that winning combination that will play together as a unit." If the heretofore "first stringers" won't measure up to that conception of a unit, then Lewis and his assistants will delve into the reserves and find boys who will.

Roebuck, the new sophomore quarterback, joined forces with another unsung reserve, John Ed Arnold, to snare the spotlight for the winning squad last Friday. Arnold, a junior halfback, ran well, according to the coaches, and performed kicking chores for his team. Other outstanding newcomers were Billy Boyd Cox, a freshman, and guard Barney Barrett. Barrett has seen only limited action with the Phantoms thus far this season, but has blossomed into a tiger at his forward wall spot during the recent renaissance that has descended on the Greenville camp.

Starters Are Unknown
The starting players for the coming year with Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets are unknown as of the present time, and much will depend on this week's practice performance.

However, this much is certain: Coach Guy Lewis will have his best eleven men on the green next week when his squad enters its fourth loop game. As one of the Phantom coaches put it, "There may be some surprises."

Rugged Foe For Red Devils

Farmville's Red Devil football machine, having suffered a 12-7 defeat under the bludgeonings of Robersonville's tough single-wing attack, last Friday night, prepared to meet another Conference foe this coming weekend.

Contentines, boasting a rugged team of giants, will invade Farmville territory, in search of a Coastal Conference victory. Red Devil Coach Elbert Moyer stated today that the contest will be "a tough one." Moyer commented on the forthcoming game that Contentines has one of the largest teams, man for man, in Class A ball. "They probably average 175 pounds all together. These boys also play a hard single-wing type football, using sheer power. We'll have our hands full," he said.

First string guard Mark Owens, who was injured in the first quarter of the Robersonville match, is having serious knee trouble and may not see action Friday night. His actual condition is not yet known, but Coach Moyer stated that if he was unable to play, the loss would be a great one.

Disco Back
Fullback Johnny Dixon, absent last week because of a hip bruise, will be back in uniform for the Red Devils and will provide the power running that has been needed. In the backfield with Dixon will be the sensational Mack Holmes and Carroll Wooten, a converted tackle.

Wooten played his first game last week as an offensive back and scored Farmville's only touchdown, also adding the extra point.

Holmes and Wooten were outstanding on defense for Coach Moyer's squad against Robersonville's Rams. The two linebackers accounted for 69 per cent of all tackles.

Metcalfe Says Nixon's Chances For Presidency Are Very Slim

Vice President Nixon's only chance to receive the GOP presidential nomination next year will be if President Eisenhower dies and Nixon becomes president, John C. Metcalfe, Washington news analyst told the Pitt County Executive Club, Friday night.

The veteran correspondent and news analyst told his audience the national and world situations are inseparable, and the illness of President Eisenhower is having a serious effect upon both.

Commenting on the vice president's chances of receiving the GOP nomination next year, Metcalfe asserted the Republicans do not trust Nixon, but the vice president now is weighing his words carefully for he feels he has a chance at the nomination. Metcalfe pointed out, however, that Nixon has no money and no organization to wage a campaign for the nomination.

The news analyst likewise asserted that Republicans had put all their hopes in President Eisenhower as the candidate for next year and his illness has left the party in chaos. The Republicans, he said, cut their campaign time by six weeks in getting the date for the national convention, and likewise will find the convention site of San Francisco a handicap without Eisenhower in the running for the nomination. Among possible GOP candidates he listed the names of Nixon, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and others.

Since President Eisenhower's illness odds have shifted to 6-5 for a Democratic victory in next year's election, and the odds are 3-2 that Stevenson will be the Democratic nominee, Metcalfe said.

Turning to international affairs, the speaker told his audience the nation's international policy will be seriously affected by President Eisenhower's illness. The progress which has been made in relations with the Soviet Union is largely due to President Eisenhower and the

Lightning Plays Confusing Trick

KENNETT, Mo. (AP)—Lightning, on a playful spree caused little damage but a lot of confusion in this southeastern Missouri town.

One bolt hit a tree, coursed across the wet grass, up a drain pipe and into and out of Mrs. A.W. Garrett's kitchen.

Another bolt struck the radio at the fire department headquarters and smacked Marcus Williams, the driver, out of his chair. He arrived at the Garrett home still a little groggy. Neither bolt caused fire and neither Mrs. Garrett nor Williams was hurt.

confidence in him which Kremlin leaders have. The members of the cabinet will not be able to carry out the program without the President's personal direction. For that reason, Metcalfe said, he expects little tangible progress to come from the Foreign Ministers meeting in Geneva.

The speaker predicted a switch in Kremlin policy with emphasis being placed on trade in an attempt to build its relationship with small western nations and cripple trade nations into a false sense of security.

Metcalfe termed the new policy "indirect aggression."

J.H. Waldrop of Greenville, president of the Executives Club presided at the meeting which was the first of the group in this new series. Dr. G.G. Dixon of Ayden served as host for the meeting and Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, introduced the speaker.

Siren's Screech Slows Drivers To Safe Speed

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Those screeching sirens heard by resort-bound motorists in this Lake Erie area do not signal the approach of pursuing police cars, but the end result is usually just about the same.

Sandusky police were faced with the problem of controlling motor vehicles on a private roadway over which they have no jurisdiction. The roadway connects the mainland with Cedar Point, a beach resort on the lake shores.

They provided seven groupings of dual spaced tapes and accompanying sirens. Now, when a motorist in a hurry for a swim gets going over 35 miles per hour and passes over a tape, the sirens begin screaming and drivers are reminded to slow down.

The system was installed after the death of two children on the road during the early spring and summer.

Feels Redskin Lore & Legend Near Lost

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Redskin lore and legend may be almost lost in a generation, warns an Indian leader, who places much of the blame on TV and radio.

The viewer with alarm is Gilbert Connor, who has the blood of Nez Perce chiefs in his veins. Born to a Presbyterian minister and his Indian wife, Connor is the grandson of Chief Okuli, brother of the great warrior Chief Joseph.

Connor, who is 58 and has a face that could have come off a nickel, was enlisted to help hire Indians for a Jeff Chandler western, "Pillars in the Sky." The movie was shooting near his home of Pendleton, Ore. He also is portraying a Christianized Indian leader in the film and is working here on his first visit to Hollywood.

He is an authority on legends of the Northwest Indians. The trouble is, he complained, that the younger generation of redskins has little interest in perpetuating the old stories.

"We've had radio on the reservation for 28 years and now we've got television," Connor explained. "Whenever the young folks have free time, they watch TV or listen to the radio. They don't take the time to listen to the old stories."

"It's too bad, because the old chiefs of the Northwest can still tell the old legends that have been handed down from generation to generation. But as the chiefs die the legends die also. Few of them have been written down."

Hollywood has helped sustain some of the Indian lore, he observed. He said movies have become more sympathetic toward the Indians in recent years. "Broken Arrow" started this trend.

"The young Indians see Indian movies and they feel proud of themselves for five minutes," he said. "Then they forget. The fact that they were part of one of the earth's great civilizations means nothing to them. Soon there will be none of us left who know the old culture."

Connor, now a rural mail carrier, says seven young Indians leave the reservation for every five that stay. And of the five that remain, only one would be a full-blooded Indian. The American natives face the problem that has troubled many races in world history: how to keep the blood pure.

The result of the introduction of foreign blood, he said, was further loss of identification with Indian traditions.

"The young Indians never dress up in the traditional costumes except for occasional celebrations," he said. "Most of the time they wear blue jeans."

Old Plant Bed Cover Is Useful

TRENTON — Don't throw away that tobacco plant bed cover after fumigating? It could come in very handy in case of a hurricane.

Jones County Agent J.R. Franck says that Raymond Harrison, of Trenton, Route 2, saw the wind blow the top of his packhouse off during Hurricane Ione, thus exposing the tobacco to the elements. The quick-thinking Harrison grabbed up the old plastic covers and spread them over the tobacco piles, preventing severe damage to his tobacco.

Stand-by Blood Centers Urged By Civil Defense

VACUUM BOTTLE, tube and needle substitute giving a pint of blood as well. Blood by the millions of pints would be needed to fight effects of burns, bleeding, shock and radiation if the United States were hit by enemy bombs and missiles.

FCDA specialists have found that the 20-bed blood center is the most efficient, and economical of expert manpower. It is small enough so that a physician, osteopath, dentist or veterinarian—the center director—could supervise the staff of some 40 medical technicians and nurses and 60 volunteer workers, or double that number on a 24-hour basis.

It is also small enough, FCDA feels, so that any town, township or county with a population of 10,000 or more could man such a center without hampering other civil defense emergency activities. Smaller units could join together to form a center.

Although rural blood centers and donors would probably be called on in an emergency to aid injured find that their help was needed in a neighboring town or county. Fall-out—the deadly radioactive dust which might blow from a nuclear blast downwind over the countryside—would bring with it radiation sickness. This causes injury to the blood system when rays from fallout impair the ability of human bone marrow to replace vital blood cells.

Blood in enormous quantities—so important in treating victims of shock, hemorrhage or burns with the bomb damage areas—would be essential in treating radiation sickness.

Stockpiled enough blood collection equipment and supplies to draw more than 3,750,000 pints of blood. By the end of 1955, FCDA and the states are scheduled to have sufficient material to draw some 7,500,000 pints—enough for 5,000,000 casualties, figuring an average of 1½ pints per casualty.

Why can't "deposits" of whole blood be placed in the blood bank just as blood derivatives, plasma "expanders" and supplies are stockpiled?

Whole blood is highly perishable, and can be stored under ideal conditions for only three weeks. For that reason, whole blood will always be in short supply at the start of an emergency. But blood "expanders" chemicals can be used to tide casualties over until more blood is collected.

The Red Cross is working with FCDA to build up a supply of blood derivatives.

To get whole blood, the main problem is to set up enough improvised blood collection centers to supplement regular Red Cross volunteer centers.

When you rub it on, VapoRub quickly relieves muscular soreness. At the same time, VapoRub's medicated vapors bring relief with every breath. Even if 58 cities were hit as simulated in Operation Alert 1955, more than half the centers would be obliterated. So even less than the 2,900,000 pints mentioned above would be collected.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration is counting heavily on rural and small town dwellers to pitch in to meet this post-attack threat of sky-rocketing demand for blood and less means of collecting it. It's both a manpower and material problem.

FCDA specialists figure that 105,000 trained volunteer workers will be needed by blood centers after an attack to collect blood at the rate of more than 47,000 pints an hour. This is the amount needed to care for 5,000,000 casualties in the first three days.

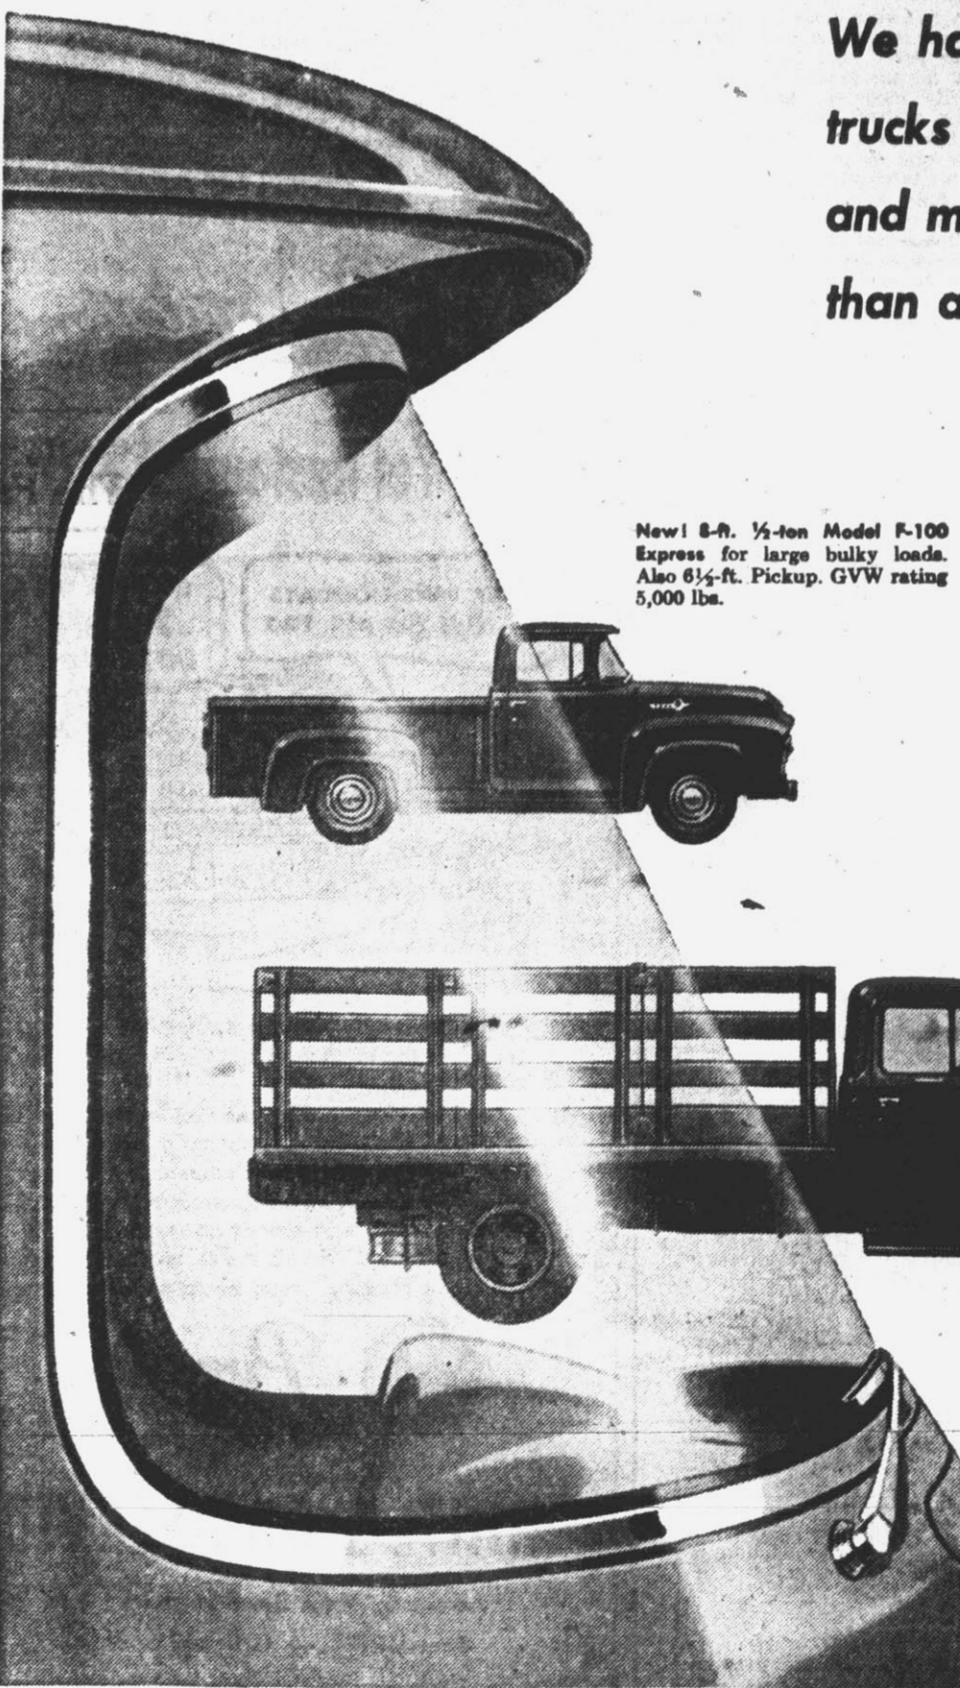

Most of these volunteers must come from rural support areas, since the permanent and improvised blood centers must be located outside potential damage areas.

The FCDA experts are counting on improved evacuation techniques to reduce the casualty load in an actual attack from this year's 5,000,000 simulated "casualties" to 5,000,000. This goal is a calculated risk, a compromise between the equipment that available funds will buy, and the worst possible casualty situation that could befall the country.

At the moment, Federal and State defense agencies together have

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—A wave of selling broke on the stock market today at the start of the third hour and hammered prices down severely.

It was the second spell of weakness encountered by the market during the day. The first in the initial hour was a quiet decline, and it was followed by a partial recovery from the lows.

Within a short time, the decline was resumed and broadened until it swamped the high speed ticker.

All divisions of the market were depressed by the selling, and there were losses of 1 to 4 points everywhere. The greatest decline of any leader was around 9 points.

The high speed ticker fell behind in reporting the flood of offerings and lagged as much as three minutes in reporting dealings on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

DuPont was one of the hardest hit of the leaders. It fell around 9 points at one time.

Among others badly hit were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, RCA, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, Aluminum Ltd., Reynolds Metals, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Nickel Plate, Standard Oil (NJ), Royal Dutch Petroleum, Eastern Air Lines, and Distillers Corp.

Chiang Continues To Talk Return

TAIPEI, Formosa (U)—President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China told units of his armed forces today "I hope you will remember the humiliation of our defeat in 1949 and prepare yourselves for the counterattack."

Chiang addressed military units after a big parade celebrating "Double Tenth," the 10th day of the 10th month of the Republic of China's 44th anniversary.

During the parade three huge U.S. B-36 intercontinental bombers from Guam flew over the flag-decked streets, a birthday tribute by the Far East Air Forces.

Foreign dignitaries in the reviewing stand included Herbert Hoover Jr., U.S. undersecretary of state; U.S. foreign aid chief John B. Hollister; and U.S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin.

The three conferred with Chiang before the parade. Hoover earlier had said Nationalist China plays an important part in the free world's effort to seek a world-wide peace. He praised Chiang as "our good and loyal friend."

In his address to Nationalist soldiers, Chiang said:

"When the orders for the counterattack are given, you will begin the task of delivering your kinfolk on the mainland."

Chiang said a message to the nation yesterday that conditions were "fast ripening" for an assault on the mainland. He added that a counterattack "should start with a revolution on the mainland."

He took issue with arguments that such an attack would involve the United States.

"We neither expect our ally to participate in it nor ask him to assist us against his own interests," he said.

Carolina Tel To Build Two-Story Structure In City

Construction of Greenville's second telephone building, a two story brick and concrete structure on the corner of Fifth and Fifth streets, is expected to begin within the next few weeks.

This was disclosed today by Frank Harrington, local manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, who stated that the new building will house all of Greenville's long distance facilities and, in addition, will provide space for the telephone company's business office. The structure now on the building site which houses television microphone receiving equipment will be made an integral part of the new building.

Scheduled to be completed during late summer or early fall of next year, the building will face Fifth Street and will be 60 feet across the front and 70 feet deep. Including the basement, the completed structure will have a floor space of approximately 14,000 square feet and will be about the same size as the present building on Dickinson and Washington Streets, the manager stated.

Upon its completion, new and extensive long distance facilities will be installed in the new building. Switchboard positions will be installed on the second floor while related long distance facilities will be installed on the first floor. Access to equipment for receiving microwave television signals will be from the first floor of the building. This microwave receiving equipment is necessary for transmission of network programs to Television Station WNCN, Manager Harrington explained.

The first floor of the new building will also provide office space for the Company's business office which is presently located on Cotanche Street.

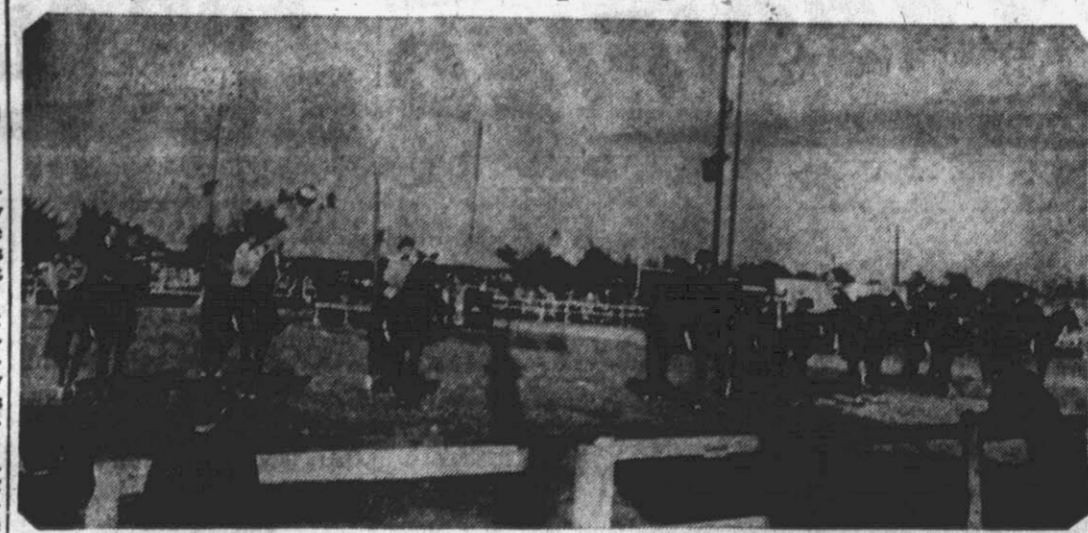

Completion of the new building and installation of necessary equipment will thus provide additional space in the Dickinson-Washington Street building and enable the Company to further expand its local telephone exchange facilities. Manager Harrington stated that the Company is planning to install an additional 400 lines and 700 terminals (telephone numbers) this year in the existing building. Still further expansion of local dial facilities is planned when additional space is provided by moving out present long distance facilities.

Public Asked To Join Observance

Local citizens have been asked by Mayor W. W. Whedbee to take an active part in the nation's observance of Fire Prevention Week, beginning October 9.

By proclamation, Mayor Whedbee has set aside this week for the annual observance of a week devoted to fire safety. This program is a national effort, also proclaimed by President Eisenhower, in which Greenville will cooperate with cities and towns throughout the country.

Whedbee reported that property losses resulting from fires last year reached a national total of $870,984,000, and a local total of $101,455,32.

In his proclamation the mayor has called upon all city departments to assist the Fire Prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce "to make this year's Fire Prevention Week in Greenville the most effective on record for the city."

Bound Over To Superior Court

Willie Taylor, local Negro, was bound over to Superior Court under $1000 bond this morning on charges of attempted breaking and entering.

Taylor was arrested shortly before midnight Saturday by officers W. E. Peterson and C. E. Warren after the two went to Pollard's Grocery on Broad Street in response to a call. There the officers reported, they found Taylor, a bottle in one hand, attempting to forcibly enter the building. One glass pane had already been smashed, apparently with the bottle, the officers said.

Although many people find the whippoorwill's call pleasant at a distance, it sounds harsh when heard at close range.
