

Come Home From Russian Prisons

With 10 years of Russian captivity behind them, the faces of these German war prisoners mirror varying emotions during welcoming speeches at West Germany's Friedland Camp. Many of them had been Russian prisoners since the end of World War 2. They were freed during the weekend in accordance with agreements won from the Soviets by German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on his recent visit to Moscow. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Frankfurt.)

St. Peter's Catholic Church Scene Of Saieed-Gooding Rites

St. Peter's Catholic Church was the scene Saturday morning of a nuptial mass which united in marriage Miss Lorraine Gooding and Lt. Mitchell Lee Saieed, United States Air Force.

The bride is the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Amie Kerrigan Clark of Santa Ana, Calif., and the groom is the son of Mrs. John Saieed Sr. of Greenville and the late Mr. Saieed.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles J. Gable performed the double ring ceremony, and Miss Janet Watson presented organ music of selections from Bach. For the wedding the church was decorated with altar baskets of white gladioli and mums with green foliage, and white candles. The altar rail was entwined with ivy.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Austin B. Marshall of Triangle, Va., wore a waist-length dress of white lace over tulle, fashioned with a boat neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was attached to a circlet of white flowers and tulle. She carried a white prayer book showered with orchids.

Miss Marguerite Bisgard of Carlsbad, Calif., was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She was gowned in a waist length dress of dark green antique taffeta with matching hat and shoes, and she carried a bouquet of mixed fall flowers.

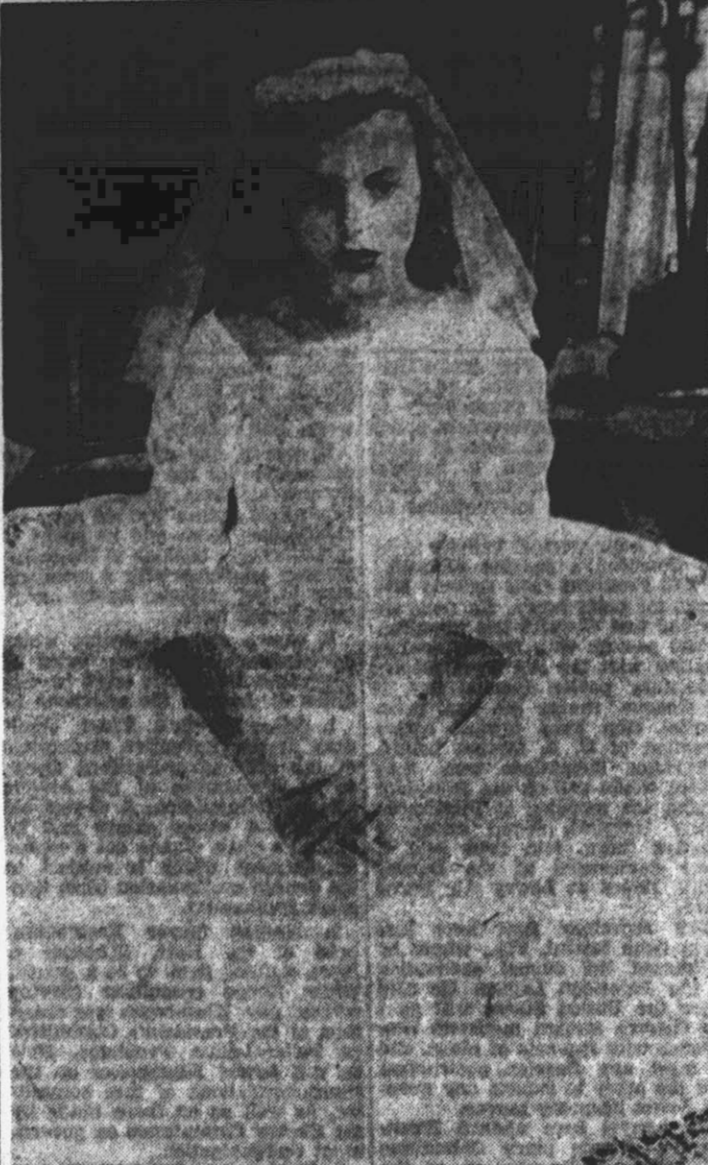

Alfred Earl Saieed of Burlington served as best man for his brother, Usher; were John Saieed Jr. and Daniel Saieed of Greenville, brothers of the groom; Bob Thorburn of Akron Ohio, and Franklin Brown of Greenville.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Saieed chose a teal blue lace dress with which she used navy accessories. Her corsage was of white roses. Mrs. Austin B. Marshall, aunt of the bride, was gowned in a Dior blue dress of pongee, with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of fallman roses.

Immediately following the ceremony Mrs. Saieed entertained at a wedding breakfast at her home on West Fourth Street.

The home was decorated throughout for the occasion with arrangements of white gladioli, mums, carnations and tuberoses.

Mrs. Saieed greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line composed of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Miss Bisgard, Alfred Saieed and Mrs. S. G. Marshall, grandmother of the bride.

Breakfast was served buffet style from a dining table laid with a hand-crocheted cloth over white linen and centered with an arrangement of mums and carnations. Mrs. A. M. Moseley and Mrs. Lottie Butler poured coffee from a silver service at each end of the table, while guests served themselves to ham, chicken salad and accompaniments in silver dishes. The bride's table, on which was placed a three-tiered wedding cake, was laid with a hand-made lace cloth.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Daniel Saieed and Mrs. John Saieed Jr. Approximately 125 guests were in attendance.

For traveling the bride changed to a charcoal brown suit with tangerine and brown accessories. Her corsage was the orchids lifted from her prayer book. Following a honeymoon to unannounced points the couple will be at home in Shelby, N.C., where Lt. Saieed is stationed with the Air Force.

The bride is a graduate of New Bern city schools and attended East Carolina College. The groom received his education in the Greenville city schools and was graduated from East Carolina College with a Bachelor of Arts degree. In college he was a member of Phi Sigma Pi fraternity and served as president of the Student Government Association.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farr, Wilson; Mrs. Robert Thorburn and Robert Thorburn Jr., Akron, Ohio; Mrs. Frank Sproul, Mrs. Annie Shields and Miss Mary Catherine Shields, New Bern; Mrs. Nazera Frieja, Massachusetts; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wade, Springfield, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. John Saieed, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Saieed and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Saieed, Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan, Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Caddell, Durham; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bradford, Silver City; Mrs. S. G. Marshall, Tommy and Joe Marshall, Triangle, Va.

Hawaii Is Topic For Program Given Before Lector Book Club

For the first fall club meeting, Mrs. R. W. MacKenzie was hostess on Tuesday afternoon, October 4, to members of the Lector Book Club at her home on Rotary Ave. Receiving with the hostess for the afternoon was a former charter member, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, who is now returning to active membership. Amid a setting of Hawaiian music and the many lovely souvenirs acquired while traveling in Europe and a year's stay in Hawaii, Miss Wilson was most attractively dressed in a Japanese kimono and slides. Each member of the club and Mrs. Christine Wells, guest for the afternoon, was greeted with the Hawaiian "Aloha."

Mrs. Travis Flanagan, acting in the absence of Mrs. Howard Waldrop, club president, presided over the business and minutes of the afternoon.

Program leader for the afternoon, Mrs. MacKenzie presented Miss Wilson as her speaker. Choosing Hawaii as her topic, Miss Wilson asked, "Where in all the world is there such a paradise as Hawaii? Set like a chain of emeralds in the sapphire blue of the Pacific are Kauai, Oahu, Molokai, Maui, Kahoolawe, Nihoa, Lanai and the island of Hawaii. Oahu is probably the most popular island since it has the capital city of Honolulu and Waikiki Beach.

"Hawaii is referred to as the melting pot of the world. You can find a varied mixture of Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Samoan and naturally Hawaiian. Its people are exceptionally friendly, carefree, and happy, which is a typical manner of the Hawaiian Islands.

"The three biggest industries in Hawaii are sugar, pineapple and tourism. I have had the pleasure of visiting all the islands, but I would like to tell you about Oahu. Its largest city is Honolulu, which is like our cities on the mainland. Oahu also has its natural harbor, Pearl Harbor, making it a central fueling base for the Navy. There are two large ranges of mountains, the Waianai and the Koolau. These are covered mostly with dense forests of bamboo, koa monkey pod and tropical plants. Driving over the Koolau range one can see for miles around overlooking the country below extending to the ocean. It is one of the greatest tourist attractions of being part of Hawaii's history. Other special attractions are Pearl Harbor, Punchbowl Cemetery, many Buddhist and Shinto temples, Chinatown, the Bishop Museum, Academy of Arts, parks and the beautiful drive around the island.

"Hawaii, known as the 'Big Island,' is remembered for its beautiful flowers and active volcanoes. I had the pleasure of flying over and actually seeing the state of eruption of Kapoho volcano. It was a rare and exciting experience which I'll never forget. For miles you could see streams of red-hot lava pouring down the mountainside like fiery fingers reaching down. As we flew over Kapoho we could see fountains of lava shooting at times over 500 feet into the air. It was certainly a thrill of a lifetime witnessing one of nature's wonders in action and a beautiful sight if it weren't for the damage it caused.

At this point Miss Wilson told of the casual custom and dress of the Hawaiian people. In detail she described their feast or luau, as it is called, which is similar to a picnic explaining how the natives sit on mats and eat mostly with their fingers a menu consisting of Kalua pig, sweet potatoes, and fish wrapped in "ti" leaves and cooked on a bed of hot coals for eight or ten hours. Served with this are tropical fruits, Hawaiian nuts and coconut chips, and conducted a quiz program. Mrs. Charles Flanagan won a beautiful Japanese fan. She also displayed many articles of clothing and trinkets she had brought home with her from the fabulous Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. MacKenzie served delicious apple pie with ice cream and hot coffee. Books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Credit Women Plan Bosses' Night

The Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club met Saturday morning at the Olde Towne Inn, Mrs. Thomas Coghill presiding. Final plans for Bosses' Night on October 19 were made. Mrs. Louise Wilson was elected to fill a vacancy on the Board of Directors, due to the resignation of Mrs. Mildred Hardee. Mrs. Wilson will be installed with the other officers at the annual installation dinner.

Mrs. Coghill read an invitation from the Concord Credit Women's Breakfast Club to attend their Bosses' and Installation dinner. Several members of the local club will go to Tarboro on Monday night to discuss plans for organizing a new Credit Club in that town.

An announcement was made that shortly the club would begin a Better Reading course, to be supervised by Miss Emma Hooper of East Carolina College. This reading course is the Dixie Council project for 1955-56.

Divisional School Board Ass'n Meeting Set Here October 14

Attorney General William B. Rodman of North Carolina, and Dr. D.J. Rose of Goldsboro, past president of the National School Board Association, will be principal speakers at East Carolina College Friday, October 14, when the Eastern Division of the State School Board Association will meet on the college campus.

Dr. J.K. Long, director of the department of education at East Carolina and chairman of the association's program committee, has announced that Dr. Rose will speak at 2 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium, and Mr. Rodman at a dinner meeting scheduled for 6 p.m. in the North Dining Hall.

Approximately 300 people are expected to be present. Members of county and city school boards and of district committees, superintendents and principals in public schools, and others who are interested are invited to be present. "School Board Problems and Responsibilities Today" will be the general theme of the meeting. In addition to the two major general sessions here Friday, six discussion groups will meet at the close of the afternoon program to discuss topics of significance in public education and of particular interest to school board members.

Topics under consideration will be: How can school board members help teachers to feel that "this is my community"? How may school boards and teachers interpret schools to the community? The school board's responsibility for the instructional program; The relationships of school

The Woman's Division of Christian Service of Methodism's Board of Missions has adopted a "memorial" or petition, to the forthcoming General Conference of the Methodist Church, asking for the eventual abolition of all racial barriers within the Church. It asks that the General Conference, the Church's law-making body, "reaffirm the determination of the Methodist Church to remove from its own body every trace of discrimination and segregation based on race, and thereby make possible a national and worldwide fellowship without racial barriers in any form." The WDCS is also petitioning the General Conference to establish in local Methodist churches (about 45,000 of them) a new "commission" which will express for that local church its concern in the areas of world peace, economic and social relations, and in temperance; and it is recommending that the Conference "explore the possibility of preparing, in cooperation with the National Council of Churches, a new hymnal representative of the 'world church.'"

Mrs. Tucker Entertains Club

GRIFTON—Mrs. Jack Tucker was a gracious hostess on Friday night when she had as guests for supper and bridge members of her contract club and additional players for four tables. The home for the evening was decorated with a variety of early fall flowers. As guests arrived they were served a delectable supper buffet style. Later at cards, Mrs. J. L. Quinerly and Mrs. Robert Mewborn were high scorers and were remembered with attractive baking dishes. Others playing were Mesdames H. P. Quinerly, Alton Chapman, Thurman Williams, Dewey Wall, J. W. Short, L. L. Mewborn, Richard Nelson, W. I. Bissette, Misses Hazel Patrick, Marie Chapman, Louise Mewborn and Bert Johnson.

Bible Words for Today

ROMANS 12:2—"Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect." (RSV)

Pressure is constantly being brought to bear on us to bend our ways of thought and behavior and attitude to the pattern of the group, with little concern for whether that pattern is right or wrong. Whole nations of people are being enslaved because they find it easier to conform than to resist. And the future of freedom lies continually under threat of the common fallacy that because an idea or philosophy or practice is popular it must be right.

The Christian Gospel demands that we be different. It challenges us to open our lives to the will of God, as we find it so clearly manifested in Christ Jesus; to accept no lesser standards than the laws of right and wrong which He has incorporated into the universe from its very creation; to receive gratefully the love with which He has reached out through Jesus to make new people of us, and by the power of all that to change for God the pattern of life about us instead of being changed by it.

N. C. Industry Keeps Cheerful Growth

North Carolina has far outstripped its southern neighbors in total number of employees engaged in manufacturing.

The state had 453,700 individuals performing duties in manufacturing during August, the U. S. Department of Labor reports.

None of the other eight southeastern states—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia—even came close to the Old North State. Georgia was the nearest competitor with 329,200 thousand employed in manufacturing plants.

Here's something else to cheer about. From July to August 29.1 thousand workers were added in manufacturing plants in the nine-southeastern states. Of that number 18.3 thousand went on payrolls of plants in N. C.

But that's the bright side of the picture. Only 114.1 thousand of the state's industrial workers were employed in plants which produce durable goods. It's still tops for the nine states but Georgia with 111.5 thousand, Alabama with 106.5 thousand, and Tennessee with 104.2 thousand workers did not lag a great distance behind us.

A whopping 339.6 thousand industrial workers in his state during August were employed in processing non-durable goods. That includes the seasonal tobacco re-drying plants such as those that operate in Greenville and use large amounts of labor, but only for a few months each year.

The number of workers producing durable goods rose in the state from July to August—but only by about 600. Last year during the same period the rise was 2,800.

Even that doesn't look so bad, though. For the entire, nine-state area employment in durable goods plants fell by 9,700 employees. Most of that came from Alabama which lost 13,500 during July-August period, a loss attributed to labor disputes in that state.

All in all the state compares well with its neighbors.

No comparison is needed to determine that North Carolina is still far behind the big industrial states of the nation, however.

That alone should make every citizen lend his efforts to Operation Bootstrap, a campaign designed to bring more industry into the state and to increase the number of small home industries thus providing a better standard of living for every North Carolinian.

Political Wind Shifts And Harriman Emerges

The outlook on the Democratic presidential candidate scene has taken a sudden change during the past few days leaving us with the impression that the powers that be in the national party are considering changing horses before they get too far out in the stream.

Since the 1952 presidential election Adlai Stevenson has been recognized as the titular head of the Democratic party. There has been little doubt at any time during the period that he would be the party's presidential candidate in 1956. To be sure there have been and still are other hopefuls, but Stevenson has held the upper hand.

Now the scene is beginning to change.

Stevenson received the nomination in 1952 with the blessings of President Truman who contributed to the nomination of the former governor of Illinois. Most people had taken for granted Stevenson still was the choice of Mr. Truman. In the past few days, however, Mr. Truman has begun to praise Gov. Averell Harriman of New York who three years ago was forced to take a back seat to Stevenson.

On the heels of Mr. Truman's statement which pointed to a shift in the political wind, Gov. Harriman, who heretofore had asserted he was behind Stevenson, announced he feels he has "no obligation" and is not "morally bound" to support Stevenson for the Democratic nomination next year.

In typical political doubletalk, Gov. Harriman said, "I am for Adlai, but I never said I would support him in a convention."

All of which, to us at any rate, points to the fact that Averell Harriman may soon emerge as the leading contender for the Democratic nomination in spite of the fact that Stevenson has held the limelight for the past three years. If the heavyweights of the national organization begin to move to Harriman, it will of course influence the feeling of other party members down the line.

While many rank and file party members have misgiving about Stevenson, there is no doubt in our mind that the former governor of Illinois is and will continue to be much more popular with the average party member than Harriman. The Southern Democrat particularly will be much happier with Stevenson as the party nominee than with Harriman.

Atlantic Beach Taking Troubles On The Chin

If ever a resort has had a rough year, it is Atlantic Beach.

Hurricanes Connie, Dianne and Ione practically ruined half the summer for the popular resort so far as vacationers and business operators there are concerned. As if the damage from those three hurricanes were not enough on the heels of horrible Hazel a year ago, the loss of business added to the crippling effect.

But that's not all. Last spring a fire destroyed one of the hotels at the beach along with other business facilities. Some of the buildings were re-constructed but the hotel which was estimated at a $100,000 loss was not. Early yesterday morning another fire swept through the center of the amusement area of the beach destroying property valued at another $100,000.

It has been a bad year for all the beaches along the Carolina coast; but with fires destroying what hurricanes failed to smash, it has been a particularly costly year for Atlantic Beach.

East-West Dividing Line Still Disputed

By LYNN NISBET

EAST - WEST — Despite the hours of conversation and millions of words about the east-west division of North Carolina for political purposes, there is still no agreed upon dividing line. The only legal recognition is found in the alignment of Superior Court divisions. The two-division line prior to the 1955 Legislature and the line between the two eastern and two western divisions enacted then are the same, with one exception. The old division put Scotland county in the west, the new line-up rates it in the east.

The line as presently drawn starts at Virginia and runs southward between Person and Caswell, jumps to the line between Alamance and Guilford, Chatham and Randolph, Lee-Hoke and Moore, Scotland and Richmond. This divides the state almost exactly in area. It approaches equality in population, but gives the west heavy odds in Democratic voting.

The 1950 census gives counties east of this line a total of 1,981,701 population and 305,243—or an advantage of about 85,000—in favor of the west. Election returns for 1952 show that counties east cast 344,062 votes for the Democratic governor, while counties west cast 453,243—or an advantage of more than 100,000 votes for the west. If the line had been drawn just as straight but so as to put Caswell and Moore in the east (as was originally intended) the population factor would have been evened out. Even then the voting strength of the west would have been much greater.

This matter is of interest right now chiefly with respect to the office of Lieutenant Governor. Traditional rotational rotation would give the office to the east for the next term. Majority of the prospective candidates hail from the east, but there are several in the near-west who have manifested interest in the office.

NEW NAME — Another name can be added to the growing list of prospects. William E. Horner, publisher of the Sanford Herald, is being talked-up by some of the politically minded folks in this part of the state. He is talking himself. Several times member of the General Assembly and twice a close contender for Congress in the eighth district, he knows his way around in politics and probably will not get into the running unless he figures odds in his favor.

Arthur Kirkman of High Point, railroad executive and Guilford county senator, is showing much more interest during the past few days. Kidd Brewer, Raleigh business man, is an avowed and active candidate. Jo Eagles of Wilson and Alonzo Edwards of Hookerton act like real candidates. Dr. David Rose of Goldsboro, Philip Whitley of Wendell, Pou Bailey of Raleigh and Raph Scott of Alamance can be put in the "dark in waiting" class.

KEY — Current sentiment around capitol square is that key to the situation is in the hands of Eagles or Edwards. It was noted a few weeks ago that pressure was being put upon Edwards not to run so as to leave the "farm vote" open for Eagles. Within the past week or so, beginning with the YDC meeting at Durham, there has been a switch in pressure. There is some effort now to persuade Eagles not to announce. So far as your reporter can ascertain neither of the prospective candidates has shown inclination to yield to pressure. Although neither has formally announced, it is obvious that right now the balance is in the running. That situation does not displease some of the mid-state folks, who see an opportunity to east a Piedmontier into high place if the eastern farm vote is split between candidates.

Something Rotten In Denmark

(Rocky Mount Telegram) The problem of junketing Congressmen remains just that—a problem.

On the one hand, travel abroad is educational and broadening and Congressmen are thereby aided in their deliberations about America's world-wide commitments when they go and see conditions for themselves.

On the other hand, the widespread junkets of so many Congressmen, many of whom have no business whatever in the areas where they visit and many of whom are bent solely on pleasure, is creating a first-class problem in U. S. relationships abroad.

The huge number of Congressmen loosed overseas annually takes our diplomatic staffs, who are expected to look after them, until they hardly have time for anything else. The problem is further complicated by the fact that some Congressmen make asses of themselves by kicking up their heels in a manner they would not dare anywhere inside the USA.

A few years ago Representatives and Senators abroad, supposedly on government business, would draw their expense money from our embassies in foreign counter-part funds linked with U.S. aid.

The lavish use of these funds for parties, souvenirs and gifts resulted in so much criticism that Congress finally passed a law requiring travelling Congressmen to turn in an expense account to appropriate committees so their fellow members could keep a check on their foreign spending. Thus those on legitimate business would not be classed with the junketeers.

Now—you guessed it—the Representatives and Senators are protecting each other by keeping secret a check on their foreign spending. This those on legitimate business would not be classed with the junketeers.

If the law is written so that it permits Congressmen to keep their expense accounts secret, then it is an abominable law which ought to be revised. Congress should be as accountable to the American people who elect them as anyone else.

It would be a simple employer who required no accounting from his employees about how the firm's money was spent on travel and expense accounts.

And it would be a silly employer who tried to convince the boss that he need not bother about how the firm's money was being spent.

Cotanch, Cotanche, Coutanche

Somebody has goofed.

At least, that's the way it looks as far as a couple of street signs on Cotanche Street are concerned.

The next time you run out of something to do, why not take a ride along Cotanche and see just what we mean. Of course, if you don't do it in a hurry then perhaps the signs will be changed.

Anyway, the point we're trying to make is in reference to the spelling of the name "Cotanche." If you travel from the river toward Winterville everything goes smoothly until you get to the intersection of 10th and Cotanche.

Then, there it is. Horror of horrors, Cotanche spelled without the "e." At 11th Street, the situation is apparently remedied but then again at 14th there's the error again—"Cotanch".

Just how long this throwback on Greenville's spelling ability has existed could not be immediately determined. Maybe it'll be changed soon and yet—gruesome thought—suppose "Cotanch" turns out to be the proper spelling after all?

BULLETIN: The worst has been realized. An authoritative source has just reported that neither "Cotanche" nor "Cotanch" is correct. It seems that the correct word is "Coutanche" and comes from a family by that name which once lived in Bath.

Are you afraid of the dark? Well, some folks are and some aren't. The best, or at least one of the best answers to that problem was given sometime ago by woman who lived alone on an isolated Virginia farm.

Friends used to be quite concerned for her safety since she didn't own a gun and refused to buy one. Finally, after many years of living in happy solitude, the reason came out.

Said she, "When I was younger I used to lie awake half the night concerning myself helplessly with all the real and imagined sounds in the night."

"Then, one evening, I came to the conclusion. Just what, I decided, would anything want with me in the first place. And in addition, if anything were to get me, when it found out what it had it would surely turn me loose."

Naturally, as all good stories end, she lived happily ever after.

Conspiracy Against Killjoys

When you see somebody happy, do you secretly want to see him miserable?

Do you stir in everyone you meet a desire to serve you as a painbearer?

To be warned. There is a gigantic conspiracy against you. It is a massive scientific plot to make the human race live longer. Its goal: To raise the average life span to 100 years.

The books, magazines and newspapers are full of advice on how to live to be old.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A LAND OF BEYOND

One of the great world heroes of a generation or more ago was the Norwegian, Fridtjof Nansen. He dedicated his life to humane endeavor. He was probably best known for his polar expeditions during which he made valuable scientific observation, although he did not reach the North Pole.

During the latter part of Dr. Nansen's life he threw himself wholeheartedly into a war against war. He felt that Europe was in danger of becoming a pile of ruins with no one the gainer.

"A civilization that sets up power as its aim and ideal," he declared, "cannot possibly achieve progress for humanity. It must inevitably lead towards

But this is the worst kind of news to you, isn't it? You would rather hang crepe than holly. You'd rather cry than laugh. Life never leaves you breathless, but you wish it would—because breathing is only a nuisance. Your biggest regret is that you weren't born dead.

Is there no help for you? Can a group of rascally scientists force you to live to be 100? Not if you don't want them to!

Here are a few sure-fire tips on how not to live to be old:

1. Develop your present non-winning personality to the utmost. Fight down any temptation to praise or approve of anyone.

2. Nansen served as High Commissioner of the League of Nations for ten years, giving most of his time to the repatriation of prisoners and the protection and assistance of refugees. He supervised the release and restoration of a half-million prisoners scattered over Europe.

Just before his death he said: "We all have a land of Beyond to seek in life. Our part is to find the trail that leads to it. A long trail, maybe, but the trail comes to us and we have to go. And there's a whisper of the night, wind, there is a star a gleam to guide us, and the Wild's calling, calling."

Struggle For Control Of GOP Is Begun

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Despite public professions of political deference to President Eisenhower's wishes and intentions with respect to the Republican Party's 1956 candidate and program, a three-cornered and fierce struggle for control of the GOP has already begun. Its intensity results from the general conviction that Ike will now bow to his wife's desire that he live the life of a quiet gentleman farmer at Gettysburg.

The politicians are showing a nice sense of the proprieties of the public's benefit, but they fool nobody save themselves. Within a few hours after the unhappy news from Denver, whenever two of them met by chance or arrangement, they fell into a discussion of the proprieties of the public's benefit, but they fool nobody save themselves.

Stassen, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and Governor Christian A. Bjerger of Massachusetts.

In these politico-economic circles, it is generally conceded that any of the men listed above would carry out Eisenhower's policies with hardly any change. There would be assurance of a conservative program with respect to business, industry, finance and labor, and a fairly liberal attitude on social and human problems. Foreign loans and grants to strengthen the economy of the Western world would also be continued.

Tinkering With U.S. Economy

By ELMER ROESSNER

The U. S. Department of Agriculture abetted by Congress, is one of the busiest tinkers with the American economy.

The workings of the crop support program are well known. In effect, it takes money from taxpayers and housewives and gives it to farm operators, some of whom are poor families and some of whom are wealthy corporations.

The Department "fixes up" the economy in other ways. At the moment, it is trying to get people to eat more pork. A big supply of hogs is coming to market this fall and winter and unless demand goes up, prices will go down. So Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and his flocks are boosting pork.

Americans simply can't eat more pork in addition to their regular meals or obesity will become more of a national shame than it is now. So if the Department's campaign is successful, as people buy more pork they will buy less beef, veal, lamb, chicken, cereals and other foods. The government will therefore be taking sales and profits away from other food growers and processors and giving them to hog raisers and packers.

Farmers and packers have every right to promote pork in every legitimate way; in a free-enterprise economy they are to be marketed from raisers of sheep and growers of Cornish Rock Hens. But when the government steps in to "adjust" competition, it is using taxes paid by sheep men and game breeders to reduce their potential sales.

DEPARTMENT TRIED TO TINKER WITH CANDY Some time back, when the sweet potato crop was larger than demand Agriculture scientists began tinkering and came up with yam candy. Now we haven't seen much yam candy in the stores lately, but suppose that it had become a national sensation. Then it would have cut into the sales of fruits to confectioners—and fruit taxes helped pay for the yam research and subsequent ballyhoo.

In dozens of other ways the Department is promoting products that can gain greater sale only at the expense of others. And people eat so much pork they have no appetite left for chicken, then the Department will put on a campaign for poultry.

People in the Department will tell you that these projects are directed by Congress and that Congress votes the money and often spells out the purposes for which it is to be used. That's true. It is true also that most Congressional agricultural actions have their origin in recommendations originating in the Department itself.

BOOK TEACHES THE EFFICIENT LIFE There is a wealth of ideas for businessmen in "How to Gain Extra Hours Every Day," a new book by Ray Josephs (and published by Dutton, New York, at $2.95). Mr. Josephs offers thousands of suggestions on organizing work, doing things faster and eliminating needless time at home and office. And after 184 pages of this, he suggests seven things to do with that extra hour. One of them (what a slick fellow Jay Josephs is!) is to read his earlier book, "How to Make Money from Your Ideas."

DO-IT-YOURSELF IDEAS FOR MOST PLANT THEFTS Employee stealing is a constant problem, according to a survey by Mill & Factory. Of 195 companies responding, 88 per cent reported losses up to $5,000 a year. Only 11 per cent said they experienced no thefts at all.

Production workers were held mostly to blame and loss of tools, hardware and other small portable objects were most common.

The reasons given for thefts are curious: "do-it-yourself" projects got the greatest blame, followed by "the pack-rat complex."

Only a third of the companies suspect resale of the stolen goods.

DRIVE-IN BANK WINDOW RESISTS ALL BUT CHARMS A drive-in bank window, just shipped to the Societe Congolaise de Banque de Stanleyville, Belgium, is constructed to withstand arrows, spears and darts as well as bullets. No Football, But No Lack Of Good Times

By ROSEMARY EAGLES

The guys and dolls of Greenville High missed having a Friday night football game but everyone seemed to be having fun.

The National Honor Society had the Friday night dance date at the gym. The girls appeared in their new fall party dresses, plus crinolines of course! Many of the boys were wearing smart sport coats.

Those with an eye for fashion glanced Ann Hamric's way. Her green taffeta princess style dress had a low cut back and a high neckline. Carol Ann Tadlock whirled in a pink iridescent princess dress. Lou Ficklen looked very chic in a full black frock with a fashionable wide collar and a contrasting white bow at the neck.

Memrie Mosier threw an after-dance party at her home. Around forty of the younger set enjoyed dancing, eating, and just talking.

Sylvia Satterthwaite had a get-together at her home. Those who enjoyed the refreshments and dancing were Margaret Moye, Mike Riddick, Susie Pope, Bob Thompson, Olive Morrill, Tom Chrisman, Ronnie Morton and Carolyn Evans. Others were Sarah Ewell, Don Conley, Betsy Karanaz, David Rosevers, Lois Simmons, and Sally Beard.

Students Come Home Many boys were home from various colleges this weekend. From State came Tommy Saleed, N. C. Hardee, Dewey Griffith, Jimmy Perkins and Jimmy Hendrix. Those from Carolina were Pat Sawyer, Edgar Moore and Billy Bost.

Billy Dunn and Marilyn Bestedt were home from Campbell and Norma Basnight from Woman's College, to name a few. Grayson Waldrop spent a thrill-packed weekend in Raleigh. Friday night she went to the Raleigh-Wilmington football game. Saturday she saw Duke beat William and Mary and attended fraternity dances that afternoon and night. Olive Morrill made a whirlwind visit to Washington, D. C. and took in a few sights.

Larry Powell, a former Greenville Phantom gridiron star, and sister Janet Powell, a '55 graduate, were in town during the weekend. Larry is now a starter for the R. J. Reynolds High football team in Winston-Salem.

Coach Kittrell Visits Bill Kittrell, former Greenville High football and track coach, and his wife Florence arrived from Augusta Friday. He stated that his Georgia team had won five games but that he was missing all of his North Carolina friends.

Saturday night, many of the high school crowd rooted for the East Carolina Pirates during their homecoming game against Eion. The OHS band marched in the afternoon parade and performed with five other bands during the half-time program. Seen at the dance site the game was Anna Cartner, now of New Bern, and several GHS students and graduates.

Seniors Invade ECO A group of hometown seniors joined 2,500 other seniors from North Carolina and Virginia for High School Day at East Carolina College last Thursday. The program provided them with a guided tour in the morning and a tea dance in the afternoon with music by the Collegians.

Juniors and seniors are busy preparing for the rough times ahead by selling magazines and stationery. The Juniors, headed by President Jerry Howell, must bear the expense of a successful Junior-Senior dance. Orman Whichard is vice-president. Madelin Coleman, secretary, and Dennis Harris, treasurer.

The seniors, led by President Lelia Davenport, are selling stationery in order to sponsor several projects, including a school gift. The remaining officers are vice-president, Preston Cannon; secretary, Jo Hendrix; and treasurer, Don Conley. Staff Works On Tau Jo Hendrix and Betsy Karanaz were elected during the first senior class meeting to edit the 1956 Tau. Associate editors are Lelia Davenport and Patsy Moore. Completing the annual staff are Linda Whichard and Pat Beatty, typists; art editor, Jane Berryman; Dale Brooks, photographer; Gaye Clapp, circulation manager; Don Conley, business manager; Kaihryn Johnson, advertising manager; Susie Pope, assistant advertising manager; Mike Riddick, sports editor; and Rosemary Eagles, literary editor. W Ward James, senior English teacher, is the advisor.

Home Inspection Day Tomorrow

Tomorrow has been set aside as Home Inspection Day during Fire Prevention Week.

Home owners will be asked to inspect their homes and remove fire hazards.

Thursday will be designated as Clean-Up Day for garages, yards and alleys, and persons are requested to place all rubbish at the curb so the street department can pick it up.

Activities during the week are being sponsored by the local Fire Department and Chamber of Commerce. It has been proclaimed Fire Prevention Week here by Mayor W.L. Whedbee.

Fire prevention material has been distributed in the schools, and films are also being shown there. In addition, fire drills are being conducted this week in the schools under the direction of the Fire Department.

Fire prevention films have also been made available to local civic clubs, and were shown in the county schools last week.

No Cutrates For Honeymooners

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's nationalized railroads are giving reduced rate tickets to students and newsmen, but that does not mean honeymooners can expect the same benefits.

Answering a suggestion in Parliament that, newlyweds be given the same privilege as students and journalists, a Railway Ministry spokesman said: "The railways are not in charge of honeymoons."

Moving Day At Jane's Shop

Ah yes it's moving day for us... With all its ups and downs... We're toting stock two doors away... coats, sweaters, frocks and gowns... wee tiny things from baby clothes... to teen's accessories... and here and there a little frock... that brings back memories... Nostalgic thoughts that naturally... accompanies our mind... when pulling up the roots of years... these treasured ties that bind... for instance... here's a little suit... just like t'were yesterday... When some dear mother picked a gift... for her young son's birthday... and there's a teenage dress just like... the one that daddy got... for daughter dear who's now grown up and fitting out her tot... It's memories of things as these... that makes one reminisce... of fine, good friends who's helped us grow... on moving day as this... and folks it's you to whom we owe... our thanks throughout the years... your kindly patronage remains... in our hearts... most sincere... We wish to and settled down... drop in at our new store... just one thought more make your welcome warm... and folks... just one thought more... we wish each one of you to feel... that Jane's Shop is your own... We're proud to say it is because... of you that we have grown... and every spark of light that beams... from out our welcome door... means "Howdy Folks" come right on in... and visit at YOUR store....

Michigan Moves Into No. 1 Spot

Overhaul Terps On Basis Of Big Win Over Army

The Associated Press Michigan, bidding for its first national title since 1948, moves into the No. 1 spot this week with a 21-11, overwhelming Maryland's mighty Terrapins, who fell to the runner-up role.

Michigan proved its comeback as a national power by humiliating Army 28-3 Saturday. It was the third game of the season for the unbeaten Wolverines and it convinced the nation's experts.

The Wolverines had a healthy 200-point margin in the poll over Maryland, which gathered a 4-0 record by whipping Wake Forest, less imposing than the previously unscathed Army machine, 28-7.

Oklahoma, with its winning string now stretched to 22 games, remained in third place, followed by a general shakeup that listed Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Texas Christian, Navy, UCLA and West Virginia in that order.

In realigning the top 10, the nation's sports writers and broadcasters gave Michigan 30 first-place votes — nearly four times as many as the Wolverines picked up last week. Adding points on a 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., basis, Michigan wound up with a total of 1,628 after a count of the 191 ballots.

Maryland, which held the No. 1 position for two weeks, collected only 45 firsts (the Terps had 88 a week ago) and a 1,457-point total. Oklahoma was awarded 21 first-place votes and totaled 1,360 points.

Notre Dame moved up a notch, shifting places with Georgia Tech. Wisconsin jumped from ninth to sixth, displacing Army, which tumbled to 18th.

Texas Christian took a step up from eighth, where Navy took over after being 12th last week. UCLA, the preseason choice but already hung up by Maryland, slipped from seventh to ninth. West Virginia, up from 11th, replaced Southern California, which was displaced from 10th, by Washington 14, in 10th. The Trojans slipped to 16th.

Phillies Bring Up Rookies; 4 Players Sold

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies trying to get back in contention in the National League baseball race, have disposed of four more second line players and brought up four rookies.

The latest to go were Tom Casagrande, $40,000 bonus pitcher whom the Phils gave several trials; outfielder Mel Clark, catcher Jim Commanc and pitcher Thornton Kipper, all of whom put in brief stints with the Phils.

Casagrande, with Louisville of the American Assn. last year, was sold to the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League and is now eligible for the player draft. The other, all were with Syracuse for most of last year and their contracts were sold outright to Syracuse's Phil farm club.

Also sold to the Chiefs was pitcher Paul Penzo who was with Reidsville in the Carolina League last year.

Coach Named For N. C. Bowl Team

CHALOTTE (AP)—Bob Jamieson of Greensboro High will coach the North Carolina team in the Dec. 3 Shrine Bowl football game here against South Carolina.

Picker teams of high school seniors will meet in the annual Shrine charity contest.

Jamieson, whose team won the North Carolina Triple-A title last year, was a Shrine staff assistant in 1942.

His aides and the South Carolina staff will be announced later.

Trabert Slated Go 'Pro'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Amateur tennis champion Tony Trabert is expected to turn professional today.

Promoter Jack Kramer said the signing, awaits only completion of attorneys studies of the fine print in the contract and "I don't expect anything to hold the deal."

Kramer expects not only to bring Trabert, the U. S. and Wimbledon champion, into the pro ranks but also the Australian Davis Cup ace, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall. Snaring this trio, rated as the world's three best amateurs, would constitute the biggest pro tennis raid in history on the simon pures.

Kramer's attorney and Trabert's brother Marc, a Cincinnati lawyer, were going over a few revisions each side asked in the proposed contract. Marc Trabert flew here yesterday.

The promoter declined to give the actual amount offered Trabert but said the amateur king will get more than Australia's Frank Sedgman did when he turned pro. Sedgman got a $75,000 guarantee against percentage of the gross that carried him somewhat above that figure.

Kramer said publicity over the Sedgman offer "cost me, as Tony just had to look back at the news stories to see how much Sedgman got. Naturally, he asked for more, and will get it. From now on I'm playing it like they do in baseball. Let there be speculation only."

As for Hoad and Rosewall, Kramer said he has had several telephone calls from Australia, "which lead me to believe that the two will sign." Reports are that Hoad and Rosewall have been offered $50,000 each.

Boone Figures Pirates In Line Now For Some Wins

Boxer-Manager Feud Is Ended

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight Vince Martinez and Manager Bill Daly have buried the hatchet after a family feud that prompted an investigation of an alleged "boycott" of the Paterson, N.J. boxer by the managers' guild.

Under terms of the new five-year private contract, the manager's share of 33 1-3 per cent will be split between Daly (23 1-3 per cent) and Anthony Martinez (10 per cent), the fighter's father.

Daly still is suspended in New York state for failure to testify at an inquiry into International Boxing Guild (managers) affairs by the New York State Athletic Commission. However, he says he is willing to appear at any time whenever asked by Chairman Julius Helland.

In the meantime, Daly is taking aim on the welterweight title held by Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., with an offer of a $75,000 guarantee for a Basilio-Martinez match in Los Angeles next summer. Basilio is defending his championship against Tony DeMarco at Boston Nov. 30. If Basilio loses, the offer stands for DeMarco.

Daly broke bread with the Martinez clan, father and son, yesterday in a Paterson, N.J. restaurant when he announced the new contract. Their former contract expired March 9, 1955, but they had "broken" a year ago. Martinez had two fights last year after the break and two more this year after the contract expired. He boxes Lesley Felton of Detroit at Providence Monday.

Coach Jack Boone was a well-pleased mentor following his East Carolina team's 13-0 North State Conference victory over Elon here Saturday night.

The triumph snuffed a three-game losing skid and dispelled any hopes Elon ever had of winning the conference title.

Boone commented after the game that it was a matter of time for our "We have a lot of new boys on our club this year and we have felt all year that we would be all right once they got to playing together," he explained.

"I believe last Saturday was it. Our new boys appear to have caught on to our system, and I think all we needed was to get a couple good touchdowns behind us."

Line Factor

Insofar as specific factors in the game in which the Pirates exhibited their finest offense, Boone had this to say:

"Our line was outcharging Elon's all night and I think that was the biggest factor. Then, too, we were getting continuity in our attack for the first time this season."

The win did little to strengthen the Pirates' North State standing. Their 1-2-0 record is good enough for a fourth place tie only. Appalachian has a similar 1-2-0 mark.

There's a big switch in the league race this season. The 1954 cellar claimant, Lenoir Rhyne, seemed to the top boy last weekend with a smashing 28-13 win over Appalachian's defending champions.

The Bears, champions in 1951 and 1952, climbed into sole possession of the conference's No. 1 spot with their victory when Catawba, who shared the top rung last week, fell before a strong Western Carolina team 20-6.

WC Second

Right now Western Carolina's Catamounts are in second place.

Coach Tom Young's club chucked up its second straight conference win. However, the Catamounts have a tie with East Tennessee which counts in loop action to mar their record.

Elon has dropped two conference games in a row and four over-all contests. The Christians were picked 1-2 with Appalachian before the season started.

Guilford, the remaining team in the loop, bowed to outsider Hampden-Sydney, 7-6, last weekend. The Quakers are yet to play a conference game.

E.C. vs W.C.

East Carolina is at Western Carolina this weekend in the loop's big rematch. Guilford will be the next foe for Lenoir Rhyne. Catawba is host to Appalachian and Elon plays Newberry to round out the card.

The standings:

CONFERENCE GAMES

Team	W	L	T	Pts	Opp
Lenoir Rhyne	2	0	0	1,000	33 19
W. Catawba	2	0	1	853	34 19

E. Carolina	1	2	0	333	26 20
Elon	0	2	0	000	0 32
Guilford	0	0	0	000	0 0

*The games count half game won, half game lost in conference. Western Carolina tied East Tennessee in game permitted to count in conference.

Phants Set Yellow Jacket Defenses

By BILLY ARNOLD
 Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Guy Lewis' Greenville Phantoms underwent a hard session of defensive drills yesterday, practicing fundamentals and studying Elizabeth City's offensive attack.

Lewis traveled to last week's Yellow Jacket contest in the hopes of finding any possible weaknesses in the powerful black and gold outfit. Yesterday, he concentrated through-out the practice drill on trying to construct a defense that will hold the coming weekend opponents.

Skull Drill

Sessions began yesterday afternoon at the end of school and were opened by a few words from Coach Lewis, concerning the approaching battle. After this, the squad assembled in the locker rooms for a short period of skull-practice, in which the head mentor skinned over a run down of the Elizabeth City offense.

The Green Terrors then took to the field and were treated to a tentative calisthenics drill with Co-captains Harold Edwards and Pete West pacing the team. A 45 minute scrimmage followed, featuring defensive reaction to Elizabeth City running and passing plays. Line Coach Vaughn Fowler and End Coach Stanley Jones made several shifts in the forward wall of the Phantom aggregation on an experimental basis, and the results seemed to point to a stronger defensive front.

Two former ends, Harold Edwards and Billy Johnson, were placed in the Greene's side slots and added size and strength to the position. The ex-tackles, Pete West and Howard King, moved over a step into guard posts. Robert Howell and Ike Riddick formed the terminals.

Line Tough

Running against this tough, experienced line proved disastrous even for such a hard-proving fullback as big Billy Semons. Semons and fellow backfield mates, Arnold, Kelly and Rose-buck, cracked the Phant frontal time and again, only to be dumped hard and heavy.

Line Coach Vaughn Fowler stated after the drills that the coaching staff was still searching for a defense that will stop the Jackets, therefore, no position is yet cemented by any player.

Drills closed with approximately 300 yards of windsprints for the young athletes.

Ayden Stressing Offensive Drills

Coach Stuart Tripp's Ayden Tornados will stress offensive attack throughout the greater part of this week in preparation for the coming Pamlico County non-conference scrap that will take place Friday night.

"I'm string tackle Jim Simons was injured last week in the Williams-ton contest and may not see action against the approaching Pamlico foes. Final reports will be made Wednesday by physicians and the verdict will be known then."

"If Simons is still with us," stated Coach Tripp today, "we'll be at top strength for the first time since our opening game." Two previously-injured backfield stars, Tommy Edwards and R. L. Collins, will be in the best of condition by Friday and may add that scoring spark that may make the Tornado offense click as it did earlier this season.

Impressed By Defense

Coach Tripp was enthusiastic about his team's defensive play against Williamson last week and is expecting the same stubborn quality from his chargers when they battle Pamlico. "Our boys played great defensive ball during the entire game last Friday. The long touchdown pass play that Williamson pulled was actually the only time they were able to make much advancement. Of course, they also scored on one of our fumbles," he pointed out.

Dan Bateman, Collins, Bert Tripp and Latham Dennis are several of the stalwarts who will lead the Tornados into the fray Friday.

"We intend to concentrate a lot on offense this week," said Coach Tripp. "We have been moving the ball well on the ground and now we're going to try some passing, with Lindy Dunn and Edwards doing the throwing."

Blue Devils Will Face Real Test Against Ohio Staters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's Blue Devils, one of the Atlantic Coast Conference's two unbeaten teams, this Saturday face what Duke Coach Bill Murray calls his squad's first real challenge.

Duke, 1955 Orange Bowl champion, plays at Ohio State, defender of the current Rose Bowl title. Although Murray likes the showing his men have made in their three victories this season, he adds he doesn't know how they'll stack up against a team like Ohio State.

Asst. Coach Tommy O'Boyle, who has scouted the Buckeyes this season, calls them one of the nation's best, solid both on offense and defense, big, tough and fast.

Other ACC teams are sticking to the conference backyard. Virginia is at home to Virginia Military Institute, a Southern Conference school, and the other two tilts are neighborhood games.

Maryland, still rated tops in the nation by the Associated Press poll, is at North Carolina. Asst. Coach Steve Belichick of the Tar Heels has informed his club that his scouting reports indicate Maryland possibly is the nation's finest. This hardly came as news to the Tar Heels, who also were told by Coach George Barclay that they losing Saturday to Georgia, 28-7.

Maryland planned its first scrimmage of the week today. End Bill Walker, whose foot injury kept him sidelined last week, was back for yesterday's light workout. Meanwhile, two other varsity line-men were hobbled. Guard George Kolarac, who may yet play Saturday, has a slight ankle sprain; and tackle Al Wharton's old leg injury has been acting up since the victory over Wake Forest.

Virginia, winless in three games this season, plays its homecoming game this Saturday with VMI. The Cavaliers had a rough workout yesterday, with Wilson Tinsley, a former quarterback, running well at fullback. MVU has lost four games this season. Against a common opponent, George Washington, VMI lost 25-6 and Virginia lost 13-0.

Wake Forest's Demon Deacons, losers by wide margins in their last two outings, will try to un-track against a N.C. State squad which hasn't won on this season. The Deacons worked out behind locked doors yesterday, with emphasis placed on defense.

The Wolfpack, which rested last Saturday, has been working for a week already getting set for Wake Forest. Pass defense was stressed yesterday, with some attention to Deacon offensive formations.

The two other ACC teams are idle this Saturday, and have almost two weeks to prepare for their clash with each other Oct. 20. Clemson's Coach Frank Howard worked halfback Jim Coleman at quarter yesterday to strengthen his reserve. Varsity signal-caller Don King sustained a knee injury against Rice, leaving Charlie Bussey the only other regular quarterback.

South Carolina suffered few injuries in its 19-0 victory over Furman last week. Tackle Tommy Addison was expected to take things easy due to a hip bruise, but Coach Rex Enright said he thinks Addison will play against the Tigers.

Footballer Dies Of His Injuries

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Max Campbell, 18-year-old high school student, died today of injuries received in football scrimmage Sept. 8.

Death came as students and adult committeemen were completing plans for a "Max Campbell Week" next week to raise funds to meet soaring hospital and medical bills.

The boy had been hospitalized with a broken neck and severed spinal cord since his injury. Only a few hours before his death his parents had agreed to public disclosure of a physician's diagnosis that the youth was totally and permanently paralyzed in the arms, legs and lower portions of the body.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARBUTNER, Real Estate Editor

AUTUMN to a lot of people, means the football season or the duck hunting season, going home in the dark with the end of daylight saving time. But for the average householder, it's the season when you can get up in your attic without roasting alive or freezing to death to see why the house was so hot all summer.

It's a time when you can examine the insulation above the ceiling and check on the ventilation of the space above it. This is a little chore that can save you a lot of money and keep your house more comfortable the year-round.

A tightly sealed attic space used to be considered good insulation to keep a house warm in winter, until moisture problems from condensation began to appear and the superheated air in that space in summer made rooms below almost unlivable.

Nowadays roofs are engineered on the principal of the tent fly—that extra sheet of canvas used by campers to keep a tent permanently shaded from the sun. A snug, well-insulated ceiling keeps the heat in during the winter and the heat out in the summer. The roof merely sheds the rain.

So it's important to see that you have enough insulation up there on top of your ceilings and enough ventilation to keep the space dry in winter and cool in summer. There's an old rule of thumb among builders to provide ventilating openings of 1 square foot for every 300 square feet of attic floor area. Screening such openings with insect mesh calls for the space dry in winter and cool in summer. Well, this rule might be all right in the winter, but experience has shown us that it is very inadequate in the summer. If you ever stuck your head up in

Signed 11,000 Thank-You Notes

DENVER (AP)—The White House says Mamie Eisenhower so far has signed more than 11,000 "thank you" notes acknowledging part of the "tens of thousands" of get-well messages President Eisenhower has received.

And she intends to go on signing more—and means to see that every message gets a reply, James C. Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, said yesterday.

Hagerly said he checked the statement about more than 11,000 signatures with Mrs. Eisenhower herself before making it public, and he later reiterated the figure.

Hagerly didn't say so, but a big share of the replies Mrs. Eisenhower has received to all get-well letters. The latter are prepared for her signature by a secretarial staff.

The First Lady has been at the hospital since a few hours after the President was hospitalized Sept. 24.

"It is, of course, impossible to answer personally all of the mail, which right now totals tens of thousands," Hagerly said. Form cards are being prepared to acknowledge messages which do not get a personal reply.

Both the President and Mrs. Eisenhower are deeply grateful for the thousands of "get well" wishes and prayers for recovery that have come from people throughout the nation and the world," Hagerly said.

He reported that Mrs. Eisenhower—who has had a heart condition herself since childhood—is feeling "fine" and bearing up well.

Canada Favors Closer UN Ties

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomats looked today for Canada to urge closer U.N. ties for the proposed atomic-for-peace agency than those suggested by the United States.

They predicted Canadian Delegate Paul Martin could take this stand in his appearance in the atomic energy debate before the U.N. Assembly's top Political Committee this afternoon.

The United States, with British support, has insisted that the body should be similar to an agency and not too closely linked to the U.N.

Observers recalled that Canada's Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson and other Ottawa government leaders have stressed repeatedly that the U.N. should not be bypassed when the proposed atomic agency is finally set up.

The United States, Canada and seven other powers have drawn up a draft statute for the agency and distributed it to all governments for comment. The draft has left open the question of U.N. ties.

India and a number of smaller countries want the agency subject to recommendations of the U.N. Assembly.

French Assembly Again Debates Algiers Policy

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly turned its attention to troubled French North Africa today for the second time in less than a week, opening a three-day debate on Premier Edgar Faure's plans to suppress nationalist violence in Algeria.

With the Communists the only faction favoring the Algerian nationalists, Faure was expected to win a grudging endorsement for his policy of military action against the terrorists and guerrillas.

The Assembly has approved home rule for France's other North African territories, the protectorates of Tunisia and Morocco, but unlike them Algeria constitutionally is a part of France itself. The bulk of the deputies neither want to let the territory go nor give its eight million Moslems the same rights that the 1,200,000 residents of European origin enjoy.

The Algerian French, for example, elect 16 deputies to the French National Assembly while the Moslems—more than six times as numerous—name only 12.

Of strong sentimental factor in Faure's favor was his withdrawal of France's delegation to the U. N. General Assembly after it voted 28-27 to debate the Algerian situation. The walkout was widely popular in France, and the deputies would be reluctant to repudiate the government on any question connected with it.

The grim daily reports of terrorist activity in Algeria continued to flow across the Mediterranean. At Boudjerah a dozen rebels armed with Tommy guns and rifles shot down a native municipal councilor in the market square. At Douar Suhlala 15 terrorists set a grocery store afire and cut a 17-year-old girl's throat. Near Marnia the bodies of three kidnaped Moslems of French citizenship were found under a pile of stones, their throats cut.

The scientists H.T. Gilkey and D.R. Bahnlfeith, found that a 5-room bungalow completely insulated with mineral wool in Atlanta, Ga., could be heated in winter for $35. Another like it, without insulation, cost $97.

The insulated house was air conditioned in summer for $67 and the house without insulation called for $117.

The same house was built in Jacksonville, Fla., New York City, Dallas, Oklahoma City, St. Louis and Pierre, S.D. The insulated house in each area showed substantial operating and equipment economy over the uninsulated model.

In each case, by spending $240 on complete mineral wool insulation from $700 to $900 was saved on the year-round heating and air conditioning equipment. Practical Builder trade publication, commenting on the experiment, concludes that "the annual savings in cooling and heating would pay for the insulation in less than two years."

AEC Chairman Concedes Doubt On D-Y Validity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission has conceded publicly for the first time that "there may be a question as to the validity" of the Dixon-Yates contract.

He said in an Oct. 7 letter made public yesterday by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) that any cancellation payment to the Dixon-Yates power group is being held up while the question of validity is studied intensively.

Both Edgar H. Dixon and Eugene A. Yates, heads of the two major utility companies involved, renewed their contentions that the now-abandoned contract was a valid one.

Anderson, chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, said in a statement that AEC now appeared to be moving toward the position he has maintained all along. He has contended it never was a binding obligation on the government, and that no cancellation fee was due Dixon-Yates.

The AEC consistently has maintained heretofore that the contract became legally effective some time last winter.

The contract was negotiated by AEC last year at President Eisenhower's direction. It called for a 107-million-dollar plant at West Memphis, Ark., to supply power to the Tennessee Valley Authority to replace TVA electricity and used elsewhere by AEC.

On July 11 this year the President directed that the contract be terminated and the AEC has been conducting negotiations looking toward a final settlement of the contract since that time. If it is binding, the government is obligated to pay costs incurred by the Dixon-Yates group. There have been estimates these could run to several million dollars.

Strauss wrote Anderson last Friday, "It appears on the basis of our study thus far that there may be a question as to the validity of the contract. "Under these circumstances," he said, "the commission has decided to hold in abeyance the negotiation of the major aspects of a settlement with the company until our analysis has been completed."

TIGHT SQUEEZE SEATTLE (AP)—To accommodate more cars outside the Port Commission's headquarters painters laid out one set of parking lines so close together the average-size driver can't squeeze out of his car once it's parked. One port official said "We're either going to have to get broader parking strips or thinner commissioners."

Van Fleet Notes Big Retaliation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet says the United States will retaliate with atomic bombs if the Communists invade South Korea.

Under terms of a treaty between the United States and the Republic of Korea, the retired former United Nations commander in Korea said, "an attack against Korea is an attack against the United States."

The general, who recently returned from Korea, made the statements yesterday at a question-and-answer session after a talk to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Store Sales Are Riding High In Autumn Months

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—Merchants are enjoying a very pleasant autumn. Store sales ride high above a year ago. Chains and mail order houses report booming business in September. Shoe sale volume is up. Diamond merchants say their sales are setting a new record. But the textile and garment industries—which should be happy about this—have found something else to worry about.

The free-spending American consumer appears very tempting to manufacturers and designers overseas. And they are moving in fast. Italian, French and English garment makers are invading the American market with clothing for men as well as women. German, Belgian, Italian, French, English garments for boys and girls have flooded in during recent weeks.

The textile industry is worried about the flood of garments and cloth from abroad. In this case the appeal is to the American consumer is mostly one of price—foreign labor rates are lower.

The American Cotton Manufacturers Institute says Japanese fabric sales to U.S. buyers in August totalled 52 million yards. This topped total sales of 48 million yards for all of 1954.

The Institute estimates that total this year will reach 75 1/2 million yards.

Japanese cotton wearing apparel has had an even greater sales increase in the United States. Last year Americans imported $87,525 worth of these garments made in Japan. This year, according to the Institute, the import value will rise to $9,123,328.

The National Assn. of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers says there is a 10 per cent increase this year in the amount of cotton shirts and blouses imported from Japan.

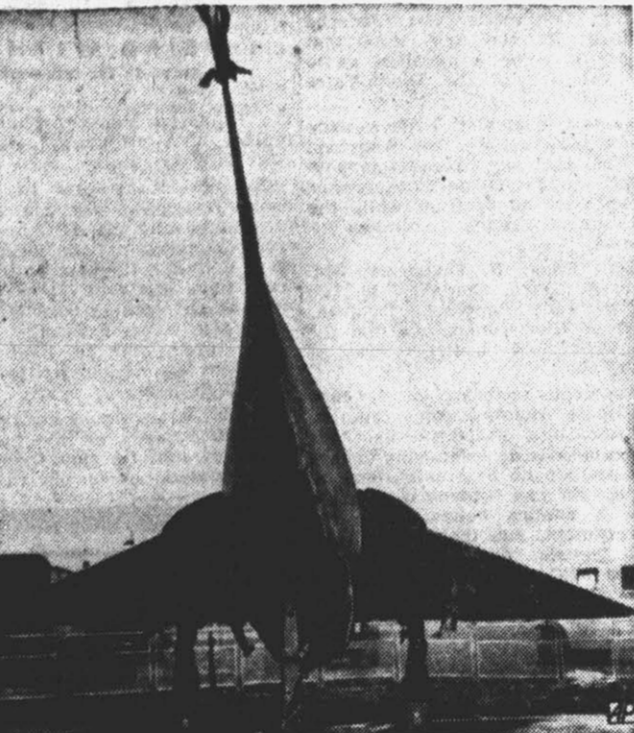

American shirt manufacturers naturally worry about this competition. But they also report production gains. The association says production of business shirts in August was up 8 per cent over a year ago, and sport shirts output gained 16 per cent.

Imported men's suits and women's gowns are mostly in the luxury class. Here, style is more of a selling point than price.

The buying spree in this country sustains the increase in imports. But outcries from American manufacturers are expected to increase too, especially after Congress reconvenes.

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—The Mexican army clamped tighter controls over flooded areas of Tampico today in an attempt to check widespread looting.

Army commanders prohibited removal of any property from the flooded zone for a period of eight days.

Amputee Cleared In Dad's Death

DETROIT (AP)—Russell Wireman, 26, a double amputee, was released by police yesterday after being held for questioning about the death of his father.

Police said an autopsy showed Christopher Wireman, 67, died of a heart attack.

Detectives quoted young Wireman as saying he had argued with his father but denied there had been any violence.

Wireman lost both legs in a railroad accident when a boy. He propels himself on a small wheeled platform.

Tired Old Platitudes Are Still Politicos' Big Crutch

By DON WHITEHEAD
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Time: the Present. Place: a political campaign classroom. Event: a gathering of candidates taking a course in political speechmaking in preparation for the campaign next year. The teacher calls the class to order. "Gentlemen, we are gathered here to discuss the tired and time-tested phrases—all sound as a dollar (laughter)—which may at first seem old-fashioned, but which we find by scientific means to be as effective in these days of television as they were in days long past. "Now, I shall call on Mr. Man Who to come to the platform. He will speak as though you were an audience of voters—and I shall correct him and give him pointers where necessary for the benefit of all Mr. Who." Mr. A Man Who arises and comes to the platform. He clears his throat, adjusts his glasses, assumes a confidential air, and begins: "Ladies and gentlemen, (pause) Everyone who has known me knows that I never have shirked a clarion call to duty. You can depend on that as surely as you can depend on the sun rising in the East and setting in the West. And it mazes me humble. "As my dear father used to say when he bounced me on his knee, 'The race goes to the strong, son.' But I also took to heart the words of my sainted mother who told me every night after I said my prayers and she had tucked me in bed: 'Always remember, son, the meek shall inherit the earth.' "If you elect me, I promise I will hew to the line—and you know my opponent can't even plow a straight furrow! (laughter) "I promise you, my friends, that I'll let the chips fall where they may. I'll treat friend and foe alike without... without..." Teacher (prompting): "Without fear or favor." Mr. Who: "Thank you. (resume)

ing) With your help I'll go down the middle of the road and leave no stone unturned to give you the kind of government you expect and the kind of government every American citizen... Teacher (sharply): "Please, Mr. Who! Must we go over this again? It's 'every red-blooded, 100 per cent American.'" Mr. Who: "... That every red-blooded, 100 per cent American so richly deserves and which you will receive from me because I will regard it as a sacred trust. "I have known poverty, friends. I know the value of a dollar and I know that a penny saved is a penny earned. I know that the salt of the earth is the horny-handed son of toil. But his rough, gruff ways must be softened by the tender, loving gentleness of the wife and mother who keeps the home fires burning. "And I say again, if elected I shall keep my shoulder to the wheel and march side by side with you to a better government. I thank you." (loud applause) Teacher: "Thank you, Mr. A Man Who! That truly was inspirational. And next week we shall hear a discussion: 'Keep your ear to the ground and your eye on the ball—but watch the straws in the wind.'" "Goodnight!"

Strike Ties Up St. Louis Transit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All streetcars and buses in St. Louis were tied up today by a strike of AFL operators of the Public Service Co., forcing about 200,000 persons to walk or hitch a ride to work. The strike was voted unanimously by some 1,400 union members last night. The union rejected a 12-cent-an-hour wage increase across the board, to be granted over a 27-month period. That was the recommendation by a special mediation panel set up July 12 to end the prolonged deadlock. John Rowland, recording secretary of the union, declared the new wage recommendation was "worse" than previous company offers. The 12-cent hike compared with an across-the-board increase of 26 cents an hour which had been asked for the AFL Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, Local 788. After the old contract expired last March 1 and the union turned down two offers by the company, the special three-man panel took over. Affected are 1,921 bus and streetcar operators now receiving $1.87 an hour and 544 nonoperating union employees, some receiving more and some less than the operators.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. James William Winsor, 21-year-old bride of 10 days, lay injured on a Hagerstown, Md., street for half an hour last week after an automobile accident. An ambulance crew finally arrived, explaining it had just returned from a false alarm. Franksters had summoned the ambulance to a highway out of town, leaving a catsup-spattered dummy at the designated spot. Mrs. Winsor was taken to Washington County Hospital, then transferred to University Hospital in Baltimore for treatment of head injuries. She died in the Baltimore hospital yesterday.

College Question Program Slated

East Carolina College's new TV series "Question" will begin Sunday, October 16 over Channel 7. Scheduled for each Sunday at 5 p.m., programs will feature "clash of opinion" discussions based on topics of current interest, and will be televised through the facilities of WTNH, Washington, N.C. Because of widespread concern about the work now being done in the schools on the first of the three R's, "Can Your Children Read?" will be discussed on the opening program. Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina, and four specialists in the field of reading instruction will appear as members of the panel. Participants will include Mrs. Betsy West, special teacher of reading for the Greenville school system; Dr. Keith Holmes, director of East Carolina's Reading Laboratory and Clinic; and Dr. Woodrow Flanary and Dr. Eva Williamson, members of the department of education. To be presented October 23 as the second in the "Question" series will be a program on "How Can the United Nations Handle Walkout Countries?" Five members of the college department of social studies will take part: Dr. W.E. Marshall, Dr. Howard Clay, Dr. Kathleen Stokes, Dr. James H. Stewart and Dr. George Pasti.

CHAPTER TWENTY

Bessie Kibbee must have been on the lookout because she opened the door of the green cottage and slipped outside before Lois could knock.

"Albert's all keyed up," she said in a low voice, "but don't let him wear himself out. He wanted to get up and dress for you but I hid his clothes."

Albert was the greatest disillusionment Lois had encountered.

He was a small man with a head too heavy for his scrawny neck, a fine forehead but a receding chin.

"Thank you for coming Mrs. Fleming," he said in a reedy voice and she wondered why on earth a man with such a voice had attempted to speak from a pulpit in bed he was propped high on pillows. Lois took the chair that had been pulled up beside him.

"Ever since I heard about the biography of Roger," he began eagerly, "and that you were coming to work on it, I have wanted to talk to you. There is so much about him that no one else can tell you. I was his oldest friend and I knew him as no one else did."

His eyes held hers and Lois caught a glimpse of the man whom Roger had loved. They were a child's eyes, deep blue, clear as a phrase of Mozart. As he talked, Lois thought of Shandy's story at the inn whose portrait had been done by so many artists. The picture Albert painted of Roger was in fresh primary colors, as bright as those of Botticelli's Springtime, with the candid sweetness of a poem by George Herbert's Perhaps, after all that was what Albert resembled not St. Francis but George Herbert last of the gentle saints to walk the earth. And through his words emerged the heart-warming story of a man who brought sunlight with him; a man who, in his thirst for affection and approval had given both to others with a lavish hand.

Roger had been a lonely boy. Albert told her a story he had learned from one of his teachers. "She's an old lady now and runs the library here." Shortly after his mother's death, Roger had wandered, lost, through the garden of his parents' home. The teacher and some friends had been passing the house, talking of his mother's burial. The words had carried to the small child, who cried out, in anguish and denial, "No, no, not in the ground!" With his toy spade he had begun to dig frantically, furiously, hysterically trying to find his lost mother.

"I remember my first meeting with him," Albert said, a tender smile curving his lips. "I was a little fellow, a runt without any physical courage, and Roger, even at fifteen, was six feet tall and powerful. He had the gentleness of a person so strong he never had to fight. I came on him in the woods. I wanted to climb a tree but I was afraid. So we did our homework together and then Roger helped me climb a tree to the top-most branch that would bear our weight. And I wasn't afraid at all because Roger was there."

He was silent for a long time, his eyes shining as he relived that moment. "You know Roger brought me and my wife together. I'd been fond of Bessie for a long time but I'd never dared ask her to marry me if Roger hadn't encouraged me."

Dreamer? Lois asked herself. Fanatic? Idealist? What was Albert really? A perfectionist, at any rate. It must have been difficult for Roger Brindle to live up to such a picture. No wonder he had sounded so tired toward the end. So desperately tired. Tired enough to turn on the gas? she wondered.

The door opened and Clyde looked in. "Lunch is ready."

"Don't disturb me," Albert said sharply. "I want to talk to Mrs. Fleming without interruption."

Clyde withdrew, his sensitive face flaming.

"Sorry Albert said. That boy seems to have no consideration at all."

He spoke of his son as though he were a stranger. Lois thought, and then realized that Clyde had been away from home so much that he was almost as much of an outsider as she was herself. No wonder Bessie Kibbee had resented Roger and thought the time had come for Albert to give some of his devotion to his own boy.

"I forget—what were we talking about?"

In spite of his protests Lois got to her feet. "Another time. I promised not to tire you. Oh buy the way, Jane Brindle wants so much to see you."

"She had no right to come here. She forfeited that right." The little man sat erect, the muscles of his scrawny neck tight. "I'll never see her. Tell her that."

There was no one in sight when Lois passed the big house and went out between the heavy gate posts onto the country lane that led to the village.

She was walking to the village in search of Dr. Thomas, the family physician who had signed the death certificate, the genial "Doc" of Roger's column.

Why would anyone kill Roger? If it weren't for the bullet hole in the wind-uppane and the frame of the couch it could be accident or suicide. But though, as Shandy Stowe had reminded her, no one had been shot, the bullet hole meant intention. And who would kill America's best-loved man?

So strong, Carol had said; so weak, Jane had implied; so happy so despairing. Like sunlight, Etche Hattery had declared; a chaser of women, Bessie had stated bluntly not attempting to conceal a smoldering dislike for the man who by all accounts, had supported her and her husband all their married lives. So wonderful, Paula Case had said; nothing against him, Shandy had commented. What was Roger then? He gave people who they wanted. On that one point, at least, they had all agreed. But surely that was no motive for murder.

Unless, paradoxically, he had given too much. With three women apparently in love with him—his wife, his wife's niece, his secretary—the emotional temperature must have run high. And if women loved him, the men who loved the women must have hated him. Bessie had spoken bitterly of Paula, chasing older men and giving no attention to Clyde; Joe Hattery had obviously been hostile to him; and Shandy—Shandy who, Jane believed still loved Carol—

Egyptian Writes Of Life In Soviet

CAIRO (AP)—Life in Russia—as seen through Egyptian eyes—is being detailed in the newspaper Al Akhbar. The articles are written by Aly Amin, one of a group of Egyptians on a press mission to the Soviet Union. He and his twin brother Mustafa Amin own the biggest publishing house in the Middle East.

Writing a visit to Tashkent where a Moslem population predominates, Amin wrote: "Except for the language I might have been in rura Egypt. People spat in the streets, a s a g r a n t s crowded the sidewalks, houses were built of mud and flies were everywhere, even in the operating rooms of the hospitals.

"Despite all this we were told by the authorities there was no typhoid or malaria fever in the country."

Writing from a town on the Black Sea: "This is the summer resort of the Soviet leaders who come to rest from the Communist propaganda—which never rests the year round."

"It has been told there are 48 sanatoriums in this city, for the miners, laborers, army, journalists and so on."

"Residents are chosen by the labor syndicates who also pay their upkeep. A week in one of these sanatoriums must cost $150. Many of the laborers wore silk pajamas and their hands were soft. Apparently in this country the laborers do their work with their brains. The sanatoriums are filled with beautiful women."

In another article Aly Amin wrote: "The opera house of Kiev looked like any other opera house in Paris, London or New York. Outside sleek cars looked like a d d i l l i c a, packards or chryslers."

'Ghost City' If Trend Continues

VIENNA (AP)—This Alpine nation of seven million has the lowest birth rate among countries of the world. Despite scientists are appealing to the Austrians to do something about it.

Statisticians say Vienna will be a ghost city in 140 years if things stay as they are.

Only eight live births per 1,000 inhabitants were registered here last year. The whole of Austria averaged 14.5 births compared with 18.7 in France and 20.5 in the United States.

The president of the Austrian Family Council, Dr. Hans Schmitz, says 42 per cent of Austria's married couples are childless. He blames economic and social conditions.

Schmitz says low wages force husband and wife to go to work if they wish a Western living standard. Despite double earnings, a child would mean for many their giving up the little luxuries that make life pleasant after a day's hard work.

Contraceptives are widely used, Schmitz asserts.

Schmitz has proposed an increase in children's benefits, more tax reductions for families with children and a building program for large flats and homes.

U. S. Will Be Stepping Up Its Rocket Flights

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the 18 months from July 1957 through December 1958 the United States will launch more than twice as many high-altitude rockets as it has fired in the past 10 years.

About $1,700,000 has been budgeted for this effort, in addition to the 10 million dollars or so expected to be spent during the same period on the much more ambitious but closely related, space satellite project.

The details of the U.S. rocket research program during the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year were discussed in a speech to the American Rocket Society here last week by Dr. Homer Newell, acting superintendent of the Atmosphere and Astral Physics Division of the Naval Research Laboratory.

The laboratory has been assigned all the rocket projects, including the satellite program. Six to 10 satellites about the size of basketballs are to be rocketed to altitudes of 200 to 800 miles in an attempt to get them then to orbit for months or longer around the earth.

Newell said that during the 1957-58 period the United States will launch:

1. A dozen Aerobee rockets from White Sands, N.M., and another 33 from Ft. Churchill, on Hudson's Bay, just below the Arctic Circle in Canada. More than 140 Aerobees have already been fired, to altitudes as high as 123 miles.
2. A number of Nike-Deacon combination rockets, also at Ft. Churchill. The 25-foot-long Nike is the Army's standard anti-aircraft missile. Its power plant is attached to the Deacon rocket to give the latter added range.
3. Four dozen or more Deacon-Skyhook balloon combinations, off Greenland and northern Canada in the Arctic, a like number from ships in the Pacific off San Diego and another four to six dozen from ships on a track south from the equator to the antarctic. The Skyhook balloon carries the Deacon to a height of many miles, from which the rocket is launched. The combination is called the Rockoon, and more than 30 of them have been launched, to as high as 60 miles.
4. Hundreds of Rockets — three-inch rockets and other small types launched from jet aircraft at high altitude, in the Chinoteague, Va., area.

Big Gift Was Only Temporary

PLAINVIEW, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Tomko bought two heads of cabbage at a supermarket and got a big gift temporarily.

She had barely reached her car before three store employees came racing after her to retrieve a small package mistakenly dropped in her grocery bag.

The package contained $6,000 in store receipts which a messenger was supposed to take to a bank.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today was unimpressive, with prices generally steady and volume moderate. The market opened with a slight decline, but recovered in the afternoon.

Prices spread over a range of about 2 points in either direction with most changes small.

Trading was active as a pace better than yesterday's 3,100,000 shares traded in a sharp recovery market.

Steels and rails were mostly higher while the chemicals diversified and rubbers were lower. Other major divisions were mixed—motors, copper, oils, aircrafts, airlines, and motion pictures.

Among higher stocks were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Boeing, Phelps Dodge Aluminum Lt. New York Central, Texas Co., and United Airlines.

Lower were Republic Steel General Motors, Goodrich, United Aircraft, American Telephone, DuPont, Reynolds Metals, Baltimore & Ohio, and Standard Oil (N.Y.).

The market started sharply lower, and it looked as though it might be the fourth session of decline. Within a few minutes, however, it started to rally vigorously. Before the end of the first hour, prices began to fall back from their best, and the entire market turned mixed.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee was confronted with a docket that contained 21 cases for trial, 14 of them involving drunkenness.

Drunk: Juanita Powell, Negro, 1108 Pitt street, $10; Levi Green, 1916-A South Pitt street, 30 days or $15; William O. Larry D. Purvis, Negro, Bethel, driving drunk, 90 days, suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for two years unless and until he makes restitution for property damage, in which event he shall not operate for 12 months.

THE CROWD GATHERS—Girls, girls and more girls, that's what the advertisement said and that's what most of the folks in the above photo apparently turned out to see. Some however, were camera shy and headed for other portions of the fairgrounds as soon as the flash bulb went off. (Reflector Photo by Bob Hilldrup)

Patient Robbers Waited 12 Hours

NEW YORK (AP)—Five patient robbers took over a Brooklyn restaurant at gunpoint yesterday and held employees at bay, waited nearly 12 hours for the manager, from whom they stole about $6,000.

The robbers forced the cook to serve them meals during the siege.

Around 2:30 a.m. the five took a cook and two porters by surprise at Tappan's Seafood Restaurant on Sheepshead Bay. The three employees were the last ones on the job and were just about to leave.

When told that only the manager and the combination to the safe had he would not be in until noon, the leader of the robbers announced, "Okay, we'll wait." The restaurant is not open Mondays. The gunmen had the restaurant workers lie on the floor with tablecloths over their heads. During the morning they were joined by a laundryman and his helper, an electrician and three helpers and an exterminator.

Rather than keep guard over so many people, the robbers decided to lock them in the refrigerator. To help them keep warm in the 40-degree temperature, the robbers gave them whisky, cigarettes and coffee.

When manager Peter Chahales, 34, arrived, the robbers got him to open the safe then locked him with the others.

The cold room captives were finally freed by Chahales' father Nick, 66, whom the robbers had tied up outside rather than put a man his age in the refrigerator.

SUN. Never read poetry, see a new play or associate with children. All these things are like deadly poisons to your sense of gloom. They make you feel younger.

Any man who follows these 10 simple rules, I guarantee, won't live to be old. But he'll feel old all the time, older than Methuselah.

And if you're a born killjoy, isn't that the way you really want to feel?

Messick Named To C-of-C Board

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College was appointed an ex-officio member of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors when that group met last night in its monthly session.

The Board also passed a motion to the effect that it will appoint a special committee to investigate and assist in any project of mutual interest to both the college and the city.

Upon recommendation of the Industrial Committee the Directors voted to ask the N. C. Utilities Commission to act favorably on the application of the Texas-Ohio Gas Company for a franchise to serve eastern North Carolina with natural gas.

The Board further voted to reaffirm its project against removal of dretenders at the Washington and Grimesland bridges to the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Leonard P. Bloxam, chairman of the Industrial Committee, reported that during the past 45 day his committee has handled six industrial prospects for the city, providing them with full information on Greenville.

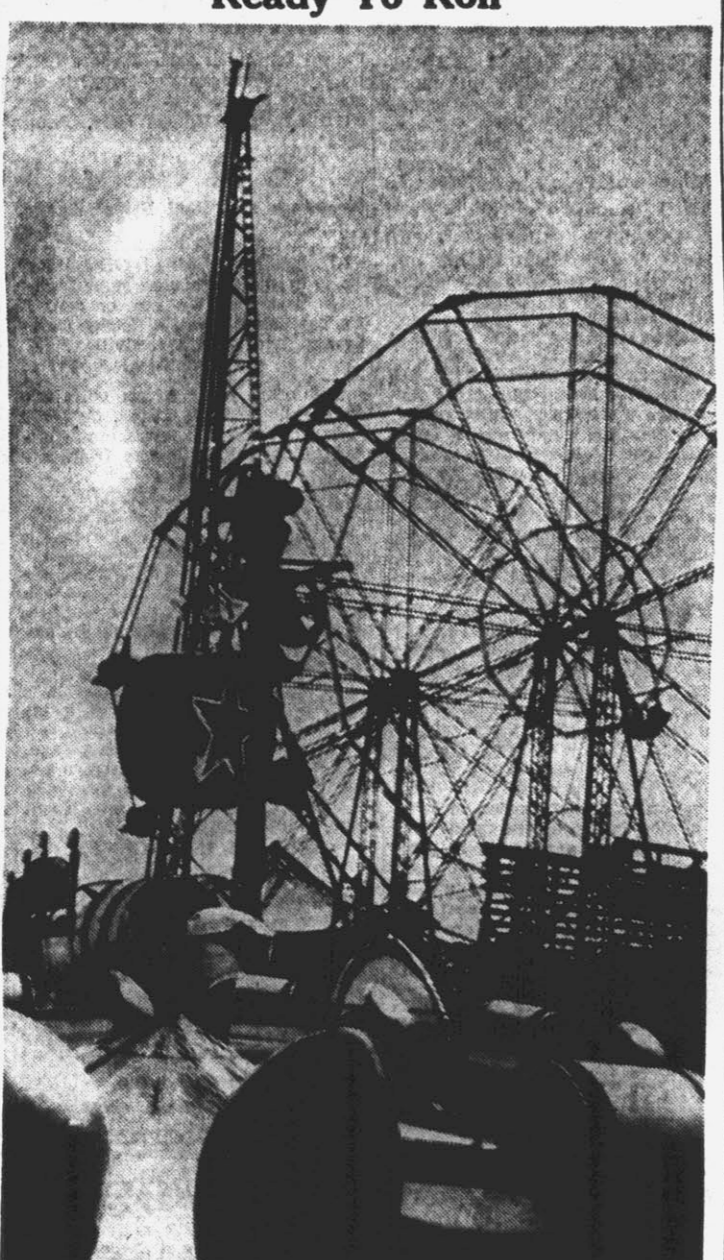

Ready To Roll

DURHAM (AP)—The growing problems of water supply and stream sanitation will be discussed at a special panel session during the 4th annual convention of the N. C. League of Municipalities here Oct. 23-25.

Executive Secretary Davetta L. Sneed said today the entire afternoon of Monday, Oct. 25, would be devoted to a study of policies and procedures leading to a satisfactory solution of the water-shortage problems of municipalities and to the reduction of stream pollution.

Steadily growing municipal populations, the coming of many new industries and the recent drought years have intensified these problems for North Carolina's cities and towns, Mrs. Sneed said.

One of the principal speakers on the panel will be J. R. Armstrong of Washington solicitor for the U. S. Department of the Interior. He will review the entire field of water resources problems and discuss federal plans for solving them.

Again Denies Any Engagement

NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Truman returned today from a two-month vacation in Europe — and once more denied that she is engaged or expects to be.

She was wearing a diamond sapphire ring, which she said her parents had given her as a college graduation present. She said it was what probably touched off engagement reports.

Giving Dinner For Exhibitors

Exhibitors in the Pitt County Fair's purebred livestock show and their dads will be guests of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce at an annual barbecue dinner tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at Respass Brothers Barbecue House.

At this time the 4-H and Future Farmers of America exhibitors will receive the prize checks, and the Grand Champion Trophy to the winner in that class will be awarded by Drum's Hatchery and Feed Store.

The program will feature talks by two farm youths, Horace Corbett of Farmville on "4-H Club Work Builds Good Citizenship," and Ronald Whitehurst of Stokes, on "What FFA Means to Me."

Daniel Saleed, chairman of the Chamber's Agricultural Committee, which sponsors the dinner, will preside; and Chamber president Bancroft Moseley will deliver the welcome, to which Larry Dilda, Farmville 4-H club member, will respond. Entertainment will also be provided during the evening.

Atomic Tests In Nevada Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new series of Atomic Energy Commission tests has been scheduled on the Nevada desert about Nov. 1—but this time there may be no atomic explosions. An AEC announcement indicated the tests will aim at learning whether atomic weapons can be accidentally detonated by fire or by nearby explosions of bombs or artillery shells.

If nuclear weapons prove safe under such circumstances, as believed, the only explosions presumably will come from more conventional devices.

Everything is free, everyone welcome, no obligations. Come to Saint Gabriel's Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The Matrons Social Club will meet Wednesday night with Mrs. Julia Bernhill on W. Fifth St.

Rev. P. H. Mumford requests all class leaders to be present tonight at 7:30 to arrange for the Quarterly Conference Thursday night. This is the last quarter for the year, so please see that annual reports are correct so the secretary can correctly record them.

The Ruff and Ready firemen will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 for an important meeting.

Funeral services for Miss Lillian Armwood, 33, who died last Thursday at her home, will be held at the home Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. Rev. Rook will officiate. Burial will be in Cooperfield Cemetery.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Armwood; four sisters, Miss Ella Armwood of Baltimore, Mrs. Nellie Mae Donkey, Newark, N. J., and Misses Pauline and Maybelle Armwood of New York City; four brothers, James Armwood of Philadelphia, and John, Matthew Jr. and William, all of Greenville.

Only God can make a tree, and only God can establish a true religion. And that true and universal religion has been in existence since 33 A.D. Because God guaranteed it would never fail to do His work (Mt. 16:18). God cannot be indifferent to the souls He died to save so He wants you to receive all the help and blessings which His Church has to give you. Obedient to His command to teach all nations, everything which He taught, we cordially invite you, your family, and friends to a series of discussions and instructions on these truths where Throughout both the morning and afternoon program many talent numbers and skits were presented. These numbers included a skit, "Dragnet" by the Griffon chapter.

Present for the meeting were 694 FFA members, thirty-nine parents and 40 guests, for a total of 815. This number represented 55 schools and 17 counties in District 1.

Ayden Girl Presides At District FHA Rally At Elizabeth City

Jeanette Worthington of Ayden, vice president of the North Carolina Association of the Future Homemakers of America, presided at the District 1 Rally Saturday at Elizabeth City.

Highlighting the morning program was a talk by the Rev. W. W. Finlator, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Elizabeth City. The Rev. Mr. Finlator chose as his topic, "Something Old, Something New." Throughout his talk he brought out the idea that people are a part of their past and that their past colors their present lives in some way. He closed with this challenge: "The Future is Unlimited—Your Future is in your hands."

"Future Unlimited," a dramatization by the Oak City and Plymouth chapters gave a foresight into the unlimited future of the girls as future homemakers. Various home-making scenes were acted out in the background while a fortune tell-

Lonely Old Man Learns He Is Heir To Fortune

NEW YORK (AP)—The search for heirs to a vast fortune has brought wealth and his first visitor in a long, long time to a lonely old man in a Georgia state institution.

"I was his first visitor in 42 years," said a court-appointed guardian yesterday as the county surrogate here announced that Clifford L. Cunningham, 73 of Mill-Jedville, Ga., is one of 26 participants in the estate left by Polish Count Robert Mankowski.

Each will get about $56,585.

The search for heirs has been going on since Mankowski died in 1917, and will get 1 1/2 million dollars of his 7 1/2 million dollar estate be divided among his American mother's descendants.

Most of the fortune developed from New York City real estate holdings which the family bought early in the 19th Century.
