

President Invites Russia Match U.S. Efforts

Conciliatory Hope Voiced

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower today invited Soviet Russia to match American conciliatory efforts at Geneva and lay the groundwork for the peace and progress "for which the whole world longs."

If the "new spirit" evidenced at the summit conference at Geneva three months ago is real Eisenhower said, the foreign ministers will seek solutions for the reunification of Germany and clear away other barriers to peace at the four-power conference opening tomorrow.

The President spoke out in a statement issued from his sick room on the eighth floor of Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where his progress toward recovery from a heart attack was reflected yesterday in the publication of the first close-up photographs since his seizure Sept. 24.

Garnett D. Horner Washington (D-C) Star reporter, representing the combined press here, said the President's checks were "rude" and "flesh firm," and that his eyes sparkled. His voice was strong Horner reported, and "his manner is relaxed but spry and chipper."

The President voiced hope Russia will respond in the same "genuinely conciliatory and accommodating" spirit to the proposals the United States will submit along with Great Britain and France and with which the Republic of West Germany has been kept abreast.

The President's statement followed two conferences here with Secretary of State Dulles before the latter's departure for Europe and a letter to the Cabinet backing Dulles up 100 per cent in his negotiations at Geneva.

"The world hopes," the President said, that the conference he attended at Geneva did, in fact, create a "new spirit" which will make possible future solutions of world problems.

He repeated his belief that the "acid test" will come at the new conference when the foreign ministers tackle "concretely" the problems which, if unresolved, "create tension and danger."

reunification and on increased contacts between East and West. And he hoped the foreign ministers would clear away some of the misunderstandings that have arisen over the disarmament issue.

Asserting he and Dulles "think alike with respect to these matters" which they have reviewed together the President, said of the proposals of the Western nations: "These will be designed to promote a peace of justice, with increased security and well-being for all. They will reflect a genuine spirit of conciliation and accommodation if the Soviet Union responds in a similar spirit, much progress can be made. That is my personal hope, and I am confident it is the hope of the American people."

"We shall all of us follow with eagerness the developments at Geneva, for they will go far to demonstrate whether the 'spirit of Geneva' marks a genuine change and will actually be productive of the peaceful progress for which the whole world longs."

The President also conferred yesterday with Secretary of the Interior McKay and Sherman Adams the President's chief deputy.

In the Adams conference, the President accepted the resignation of J. Hayden Aldredge, veteran member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective Oct. 31. And he received a recommendation from Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey for the appointment of Russell C. Harrington of Providence, R. I., as commissioner of internal revenue. Harrington's appointment, succeeding T. Coleman Andrews, resigned is expected shortly.

McKay said the administration will submit proposals for the Upper Colorado and the Frypan-Arkansas Dam projects to the next Congress.

As to whether Echo Park will be included in the Upper Colorado project, he said "We will take what Congress gives us."

McKay said he didn't discuss politics with the President since he thought it "inappropriate."

He said he would press for the nomination of Wesley D'Ewart former GOP congressman from Montana, as assistant secretary of interior in charge of land management in the face of opposition from Sen. Murray (D-Mont).

Russell To Ask Limit On Flying

Would Curb Unlimited Defense Dept. Trips On Military Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today the Senate will be asked to consider limiting the use of military planes by Pentagon officials as an outgrowth of the furor over transporting three senators home from Europe.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee and is a senior member of the Appropriations Committee, criticized in an interview what he said "looks like a deliberate effort to shoot at the Senate."

He said he found "no excuse" for the Defense Department's original statement that it was sending two passenger planes to Europe, at an estimated $20,000 round-trip cost, to bring home Senators McClellan (D-Ark), Stennis (D-Miss) and Chaves (D-NM).

The Defense Department said last Thursday, in response to questions, that it was specially dispatching the planes because it had no regularly scheduled flights which could fetch the senators on the dates they wanted to return. It said the department must by law provide transport in this case where the three Appropriations subcommittee members "are traveling on committee business."

All three senators denied requesting a special flight, however, and an indignantly McClellan and Stennis returned Monday on a regular Military Air Transport Service (MATV) flight Monday instead of the plane sent for them.

Then the Pentagon issued a public apology to McClellan and Stennis, extended yesterday to Chaves. It said the senators neither knew about nor asked for the special flight, and that its plans for the special trip for Chaves had been canceled.

Russell said: "I think it is about time Congress was putting a limitation on the use of planes by those directing affairs in the Defense Department. They have got 35 flying down there, most of whom couldn't be elected to anything, who can order up a plane and fly anywhere in the world they want to go."

"There aren't any news stories about how much these trips cost the taxpayer. I think we should constantly limit their use of these planes and publicizing every trip they make overseas and how much it cost."

Russell said the matter is certain to be laid before the Appropriations Committee by the Senate.

The Georgia senator himself has just completed an inspection of Air Force bases in Spain and England and a tour of Russia.

Smiling Molotov Arrives In Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flew in today for the Big Four conference, smiling on his broad face. He was the first of the four foreign ministers to arrive.

Molotov landed in a silver Soviet-U.S. transport plane with an American Air Force navigator at the controls. He was met by Wang Ping-nan, Communist China's ambassador to Poland; Andre Domagala, Swiss government chief of protocol, and other Swiss officials.

This is Molotov's third Geneva conference in 18 months. Speaking into a loudspeaker system after he strode from his special plane, Molotov said: "After the Geneva conference of the chiefs of government, we have often heard of the spirit of Geneva and it is our understanding that any action in the spirit of Geneva signifies a collaboration tending towards an improvement of international relations and a reinforcement of peace."

"One expects from the participants of this conference that they will make every effort toward finding agreeable solutions to the questions which interest everyone to the point of the success of the conference. People sincerely hope that it will put an end to the cold war and contribute to the improvement of relations between nations."

"The Soviet delegation on its part will do all in its power to see that the conference achieves positive results corresponding to the aspirations of the peoples."

Visiting 'Brass' Help Reservists Mark Birthday

Rear Admiral G. C. Crawford, commandant of the sixth naval district, and Brig. Gen. F. C. Croft, commanding general of the Marine Air Station at Cherry Point, were honored guests last night at a meeting celebrating the sixth anniversary of the Greenville naval reserve unit.

Approximately 60 naval reservists of the Greenville unit and other units in this area attended the dinner meeting held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Gen. Croft, who was the principal speaker at the meeting, congratulated the local reserve units on their sixth birthday and paid tribute to all military and naval reserve units declaring that in the last two years in which the United States has been engaged, there have been more reservists than regulars in the armed services. The reservists, he said, were in a large measure responsible for the victories.

The Marine General reviewed the present reserve program and training programs which are being offered through reserve units.

Concerning modern advancements in military transportation, Gen. Croft asserted that in the not too distant future helicopters will replace trucks in the movement of both troops and supplies in battle areas. Great strides in helicopter development have been made in the past few years, he said, both in the speed and weight-carrying capacity of the craft.

Lt. Cmdr. F. E. Lansche, commander of the local naval reserve unit, presided at the meeting. Admiral Crawford used a sword in the traditional cake-cutting ceremony in the celebration of the reserve unit's birthday. The cake was prepared for the occasion by two former navy cooks and presented the unit by Diener's Bakery of Greenville.

Four Wounded In Border Clash

JERUSALEM (AP) — Four Israeli policemen were wounded and two reported missing today after an Egyptian military force penetrated into the El Ajja-Nizana demilitarized zone, an Israeli military spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the Egyptians occupied an Israeli police post at Beeratayum close to the Sinai border during the attack but later withdrew.

'Talent Search' For Scholarship Program

50,000 Pupils Take Exams

CINCINNATI (AP) — A nationwide talent search got under way today in 10,000 American high schools. The prizes are $50 four-year college scholarships for the country's most promising seniors.

More than 50,000 youngsters are taking examinations in their high school that will narrow the field for the scholarships. It is the official start of the biggest privately financed scholarship program in the history of American education.

The National Merit Scholarship Corp., set up last summer with a 20-million-dollar grant from the Ford Foundation and a $500,000 grant from the Carnegie Corp. of New York, is conducting the program.

Besides scholarships financed with its own money, the corporation is administering scholarship given by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and Time, Inc., publishers of Time and Life magazines. The corporation said other business organizations are planning eventually to take part, increasing the size of the program in future years.

The students competing were picked by their local principals as the most promising 5 per cent of each senior class. The 4,000 seniors who survive this first test will be eligible for a second examination Jan. 14, 1956. Top scorers on the January test will be screened by a board to pick the scholarship winners.

The winners will receive from $100 a year to $2,000 a year to attend any college of their choice. The amount depends entirely on financial need rather than how the youngsters finish in the examinations.

All the candidates are taking the same two tests, designed to show their ability to take advantage of advanced education.

Baby Found

NOFOLK, Va. (AP) — A 21-year-old Negro woman has been arrested on a charge of "illegally retaining" a three-day-old Negro girl from her crib in a hospital.

The woman, Jacqueline Wright, denied she had taken the baby from the hospital and insisted it was her child. She told police she gave birth to the baby Sunday and was identified by a North Carolina midwife.

The infant, Evelyn Heckaday, was taken from her crib in Norfolk General Hospital Monday afternoon. Acting on a telephone tip yesterday, police found an infant in the Wright apartment. It was identified as the Heckaday child and returned to the hospital unharmed.

May Ask 20 Per Cent Reduction Of Leaf Acreage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Benson may ask "enough" legislation to make a 20 per cent cut in next year's flue-cured tobacco acreage.

The secretary already has asked for the maximum cut of 12 per cent allowed by law and it was indicated in tobacco state congressional circles he will ask that the law be amended to allow a bigger slash.

The reported agreement among farm leaders of the main flue-cured states—the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida and Virginia—is that a reduction greater than 12 per cent cannot be avoided.

The 1955 allotment of 1,007,100 acres yielded a crop of more than 1 1/2 billion pounds of tobacco.

R. Flake Shaw, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, said last February that the national tobacco program "is skating on the thinnest ice in recent years."

Officials of the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. have estimated the corporation will hold under government loan 672 million pounds of tobacco by next January. Fred S. Royster of Henderson, N.C. has not been enough per cent cut would report from the office of Sen. Scott (D-NC) yesterday posed the problem of who should take the reductions in acreage.

Bill Whitley, an aide to the senator, pointed out that greater acreage reductions, if each farmer has to take his own share of the cut, should make tobacco raising unprofitable for small growers.

"It is bad weather conditions could cut down the 1956 crop," he said. "The weather was ideal for the contract in the five main states. Farmers in South Carolina got up to 2,000 pounds per acre from land that previously produced only 1,200."

Place Order For Thirty 550-MPH Jet Airliners

CHICAGO (AP) — Thirty 550-mile-an-hour jet airliners costing 175 million dollars have been ordered by United Air Lines from the Douglas Aircraft Co.

Delivery is scheduled to start in March 1959. U. A. President W. A. Patterson said yesterday he said they will begin flying between principal American cities and Hawaii by November 1959.

United is the first domestic airline to order jet transports and the contract is the largest jet airliner order yet placed with a single aircraft manufacturer.

The UAL planes, Douglas DC8s, will carry 112 first-class passengers or 140 tourist passengers at cruising speeds of 550 to 575 miles per hour.

GRISONOR DIES

GREENSBORO (AP) — Gilliam Grisson, elderly North Carolina Republican leader and one-time gubernatorial candidate, died last night at a Greensboro hospital.

Ask 'New Ideas' Of Businessmen

DES MOINES (AP) — Two Republican members of the Senate Agriculture Committee were on record today with appeals to the nation's businessmen for aid in solving the problem of farm prices.

They cautioned that continued reduced levels of agricultural income could do nothing but undermine the industrial economy and possibly destroy the government's ability to remain solvent.

Senators Thye of Minnesota and Mundt of South Dakota declared there is need for "new ideas" on how to keep agriculture prosperous.

Both said policies of the GOP administration are inadequate to do the job.

Their appeals were made at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon last night attended by members of the Senate committee which came here on a nationwide tour seeking suggestions for halting declining farm income.

Calling farming the "sick child of our economy," Mundt likened today's federal farm program to a Model-T car. He said it would not meet the needs of a "jet-propulsion age."

Thye told the luncheon that it would be best for all concerned if adequate farm solution could be found in time for the coming session of Congress to act. He said no good would come of Democrat and Republican "battling one another's brains out" over who is responsible for agriculture's present plight.

Lausche Says He Will Run In '56

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio said today he will run for elective office in 1956, but that he hasn't decided on which one.

He declined again to comment on boasts he has had for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Boarding a plane for Columbus, he told newsmen: "There are at this time two courses open to me. These are either running for re-election as governor of Ohio or for the United States Senate."

He said "I am going to run for elective office in 1956, but I have not made up my mind as to which one."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said yesterday Lausche would be a formidable presidential candidate "because he represents a middle of the road viewpoint in the Democratic party."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said Lausche might easily attract Southern support if a deadlock develops at next August's Democratic convention.

Caretaker Found Dead In Street

The death of a man found lying in the middle of E. Third St. last night has been ruled due to natural causes by Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

Rouse said this morning that no inquest will be held in the death of Jim S. Simpkins who lived on E. Second St. behind Greenwood cemetery.

Simpkins was found by a motorist last night around 10 p.m. as he lay in the middle of the dirt street. The motorist called police and investigation confirmed Simpkins was dead.

Torture Blamed On Ousted Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Juan D. Peron, Argentina's ousted dictator, stood accused today of ordering the torture of political prisoners during his regime.

Former prisoner, Dr. Alfonso Nunez Malnero, has told an Argentine court both Peron and Miguel Vignola, main Peronista judge for investigations, were responsible for Nunez Malnero's arrest and torture.

He said he had heard persons tortured on the third floor of the Central Police Station. He said the victims declared that Peron personally ordered the tortures.

Nunez Malnero demanded that Peron be extradited from Paraguay, where he is an exile interned by the government for political statements, and be tried by Argentina on criminal charges.

An investigating commission is probing methods used by the Peron regime against political prisoners. The commission is composed of three army majors who were imprisoned for four years themselves for alleged participation in an unsuccessful revolt against Peron on Sept. 25, 1951.

The commissioners and Juan Vidio Zabala, new director of national prisons, told a news conference that terms of torture and corruption pervaded prisoners during the Peron regime.

The treasury announced yesterday Secretary Humphrey is recommending Harrington's appointment to President Eisenhower at Denver, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said the recommendation would be acted on in "a short time."

Airmen Safe In Jump For Life

KENDALL, England (AP) — Eleven U. S. airmen were reported safe today after parachuting from their B29 near here. Two port engines conked out over the Irish Sea, but the big craft took the men 50 miles inland.

The four-engine bomber, assigned to the U. S. 53rd Weather Reconnaissance Squadron, was on a training flight from the American base at Burtonwood.

Employees Of City, County And State Are Casting Votes Today

City, county and state employees located in Greenville and other towns of the county are voting today to decide whether they want to coordinate their retirement system with federal social security.

City employees are casting their ballots in the election at City Hall where City Clerk H. H. Duncan is to act as elections clerk.

County employees voted at the court house. Teachers vote at their respective schools. State employees cast their ballots at their various departments.

In order for state employees and teachers to come under the integrated retirement system it must be approved on a state-wide basis.

The city, county and other municipalities in the county vote as individual units, however. Thus, employees of one town in the county could approve the new system while another town turned it down.

Certain groups of public workers are not eligible to vote in the referendum since they were specifically exempted in the federal act which made the integrated retirement system possible.

Firemen and municipal policemen are not eligible to come under the new plan. Nor are highway patrolmen and other law enforcement officers. Those groups have systems separate from the regular retirement program set up by the state.

However, employees other than officers of such organizations as the highway patrol may cast their ballots in today's election.

If the state retirement system and social security are integrated it will mean no major increase in cost to either the employees or their employing governmental units.

Across the state some 65,000 state employees are expected to vote. More than 50 county employees are eligible to cast ballots and in the county schools around 500 teachers and other school personnel are expected to vote in the referendum.

UNC President's Report Re-Stirs Speculation

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Fresh speculation that Gordon Gray will retire as president of the University of North Carolina has arisen from Gray's 1954-55 report on the university.

The report issued yesterday to Gov. Hodges and the trustees praised Dr. J. Harris Purkay, the university's acting president, and suggested that the institution might benefit from the administration of an educator.

Gray was granted an indefinite leave of absence last July to become assistant U.S. secretary of defense for international security affairs.

In the report, Gray also suggests more flexibility in use of funds for the university, tells of a special five-year plan under study whereby students might earn both the A.B. and B.S. degrees, and touches on the problems of WUNC-TV station.

Gray said he feels the trustees should give "constant review" during coming months to the situation which makes him an absentee president. Rumors in Washington and North Carolina last week were that his resignation would be brought up formally Nov. 14 at a meeting of the trustees' Executive Committee in Raleigh. Gray's office has commented that the resignation has remained before the board since it was offered.

It does occur to me at this time," said Gray, "that a resignation from the administrative supervision of a noneducator might be a healthy thing for the university. Clearly, Dr. Purkay's experience qualifies him as an educational administrator."

Turning to other administrative matters, Gray commented that university officials, rather than the Bureau of the Budget, should control merit increments and promotion funds.

Moreover, he went on, it was hoped that the Budget Bureau's power to shift and reallocate funds among schools according to necessity would be given to the new Board of Higher Education.

The bureau's fiscal control, Gray contended, makes it difficult to hire the younger faculty members says are needed to increase enrollments. Under the present setup, he declared, "the prospect of securing proper advancement for a younger man is dubious."

Further, in finance, Gray deplored the General Assembly's plan for self-liquidating building programs. He pointed out that this would add higher room rents to the increasing cost of higher education. "In a relatively poor state; this is not desirable," the report said.

Gray said that curtailments had been made to meet a funds reduction of about 50 per cent imposed by the Legislature on WUNC-TV. He expressed his belief that the station is "moving toward lasting educational service to the state."

The joint degree plan, he reported, is now under consideration of the University Council on Undergraduate Education. A student would be required to go to Chapel Hill or the Woman's College three years, then to N.C. State for two years' specialization in a major area. Two undergraduate degrees would be awarded.

The plan, commented Gray, "offers one way of combining in full measure a liberal arts and specialized education."

Gray said that one of the university's "most vital tasks" during the coming year is development of re-admission tests. He told of "gratifying results" from the program for superior freshmen which went into operation last year.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 26, 1925

The time may come: When someone will not be extolling the "good old days."

When oldsters will not be viewing with alarm the goings-on among the young people.

When a man gives up his automobile and explains that he cannot afford one.

When somebody will not be prophesying that the world is coming to an end.

When a "business conference" means a business conference and not a game of golf.

When cynics will not be knocking the church and the church will not be knocking the world.

Yes, the time may come. But we don't expect to live to enjoy that millennial dawn!

Mrs. Moore Gives Illustrated Talk On Flower Arrangements

"Flower Arrangements for the Home" was the theme for an illustrated lecture given by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore to members of the Greenville Garden Club on Friday, October 21, at the club house.

Mrs. Moore was assisted by Mrs. Rufus Keel and Mrs. Sam Mitchell. The four basic principles in arranging flowers—design, scale, balance and harmony—were discussed. These points were demonstrated in the lovely arrangements prepared by the committee.

Preceding Mrs. Moore's talk, Mrs. K. W. Cobb, chairman of the horticulture committee, gave a talk on "timely hints for the garden." She had arranged a table with a display of Garden magazines from which to order bulbs garden scissors, different types of fertilizer available in Greenville. She urged the members to plant bulbs to beautify Greenville and to the bulb show in the spring. Also on display were two beautiful posters made by Mrs. Lynwood Worthington urging citizens to make Greenville "a city of sunshine" by planting bulbs.

Mrs. Vance Perkins presided over the business session. She welcomed the guests, Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell. She also welcomed and introduced the new members, Mrs. J. Howard Moye, Mrs. L. P. Bixham, N. L. Garrison, L. M. Buchanan and J. Harvey Tripp.

The secretary, Mrs. K. N. Guthbert, read the minutes of the executive board and the following recommendations were passed on: First, that the Greenville Garden Club continue to sponsor the civic improvements which they have been sponsoring; second, that the Christmas show be held at the club house this year; third, that the horticulture committee give timely hints on gardening at each meeting; fourth, that the members plant bulbs in preparation for a bulb show in the spring.

Report of garden calendars and finances were given by Mrs. J. E. Phelps.

Mrs. H. R. Rogers, chairman of the Sheppard Memorial Library Committee, gave a most interesting report of the progress of library gardens. Her committee, consisting of Mesdames P. E. Wells, H. L. Rivers, Sam Mitchell and Ralph Garrett, were given a vote of thanks for their work.

Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale, chairman of the Shrubbery Sale, announced Mr. Kenneth Sprunt from Orton Plantation would be at the club November 18 for sale of all kinds of shrubs. The Christmas Show dates have been set for December 10th and 11th.

Club members were invited to workshops on flower arranging and Christmas decorations at the home of Mrs. Perkins. The dates will be announced later.

Delegates to the district meeting Oct. 25 at Tarboro were to call Mrs. Rufus Keel, Mrs. J. B. Smith or Mrs. Sam Mitchell for reservations.

Amid a setting of fall flowers, leaves and fruit refreshments were served in the Sally Southall Cotton Parlor.

The table was covered with a lace cloth centered with an arrangement of fall leaves and fruit and an antique fruit stand.

Mrs. J. B. Smith served tea. Open-faced sandwiches, cheese trays and dainty cookies were served by the chairmen of the hostesses committee, Mesdames J. L. Winstead, J. B. White, W. L. Hall, W. C. Harris, J. L. Fleming, Van Fleming, Lynwood Worthington and Vance Perkins.

Other programs will include a talk by Dr. Lucile Charles on the two years of travel and research work which she has just completed in Switzerland and other European countries, January 10; a movie of Shakespeare's "Richard III" in the auditorium of the Joyner Library on campus, February 14; a discussion of creative writing by students of Dr. Martha Pingel of the college faculty, March 13; and a report by students of the English department on their experiences as student teachers, May 8.

Two social events are included among activities of the club. A Christmas party in the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House is scheduled for December 6. A picnic on April 17 will take place at the college fireplace on the East Campus.

The October meeting of the Lydia Wooten Class of Jarvis Memorial Church was held on Monday night at 8:00 at the home of Mrs. M. W. Maxwell, class president, 1806 E. 6th St., with Mesdames Annie Carter, Charles Fye, T. F. Smaw, James A. Piver and Emma Bell as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Maxwell presided. Mrs. James Piver gave the devotional. She read the fifth chapter of St. Matthew, which includes the Beatitudes. Her subject was the United Nations and inasmuch as it was United Nations Day (Oct. 24) she had in her thoughts on this with the Beatitudes. "Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God." She read a lovely poem, "Wait Deep In October," and closed with a prayer for the peace of the world.

Mrs. Carter, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll.

The committee on drapes for the classroom reported that they were being made.

Some discussion was had concerning further improvements for the classroom. Mrs. J. L. Simmons and Mrs. Nannie Brown were appointed to report on the cost of a picture for the room.

Dues were collected and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Piver.

The Year Book was brought up to date.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming was welcomed as a new member.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whiteley were welcomed as guests. Mr. Whiteley, of the National Carbon Company showed some very interesting and beautiful pictures in color. One of the Whiteley hobbies is photography and many of the scenes were made here in Greenville. Others were made in Washington, D. C., Richmond, Chattanooga, Wilmington, Bath, and many other places equally as lovely and interesting. The program was enjoyed by all.

During the social hour delicious refreshments of gingerbread with lemon sauce, candy corn and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Gives Rotary Program
ROBERSONVILLE—The Girl-Chorus of Robersonville High School under the direction of their teacher, Miss Jeanine Taylor, entertained the Rotary Club at their October meeting.

Miss Patsy Warren sang a popular song and the chorus, composed of Miss Warren and the Misses Betty Ann Rogerson, Grace Coltrain, Kay Bullock, Joyce Long, Dot Moore, Sharon Keel, Judy Phelps, Carolyn Rogerson and Linda Bullock, rendered several semi-classical numbers.

The Rotarians appreciated the excellent musical program.

The Farmer Remains In Center Stage

For a while at least the line-up of candidates for 1956 national party convention will be the big issue. While this pre-convention goes on, there will be a number of other issues which crop up and receive the steady attention of hopeful candidates.

By no means the least of these issues will be that of the farm program.

Neither the Democratic nor the Republican party has given the farmer the kind of farm program he really needed during the past eight years. To be sure, the farm program offered by the Democrat has come closer to meeting the needs of farmers than the program offered by the Eisenhower administration. Nevertheless, it is becoming obvious that farmers would find it unsatisfactory economically to accept a farm program like that under President Truman's administration.

Since 1948 farm income in the United States has fallen steadily. The farm income of the nation has dropped 36 per cent since 1948 while personal income has increased 46 per cent during the same period. These figures point up sharply the fact that farmers are not maintaining their relative position in the national economy.

The fact that the number of people engaged in farming operations is gradually decreasing could perhaps justify a portion of the decrease in farm income. On the other hand, farmers who are remaining at their jobs are making larger investments every year in mechanical devices to replace the old hand labor which required many farm workers who have since turned to industry for employment. Farming always has been and still is an important segment of the American economy. What is good for the farmer may not be good for the nation as a whole, just as what is good for General Motors is not good for the nation as a whole. Nevertheless, if the national economy is to continue to grow, the farm economy of the nation must prosper.

The national economy as a whole cannot long remain at a high level if farming economy is allowed to go to pot. History has taught that bitter lesson in the past few decades.

There are few domestic issues at stake in this county today which are more vital to the welfare of the nation as a whole than this question of what will be done to stabilize the nation's agriculture. Not only the farmers, but the national economy as a whole, needs a positive, strong farm program to stem the alarming tide of constantly falling farm prices and income.

Work of Congress Shows War's Cost

By LYNN NISBET
WAR COSTS — It is axiomatic that war is costly, and that major part of the taxes paid by people of the United States, and perhaps all other countries, goes to pay the expenses of war—past, present and prospective. It naturally follows, although many people have not thought through to that point, that a large part of the energy of government officials is also devoted to matters pertaining to war and its effects. Congressional committee hearings and reports in the Senate and House on these subjects have been widely publicized. Very little publicity has been given to the day-by-day activities of congressmen and their clerical staffs.

John Lang, secretary to Rep. C.B. Deane of the eighth district, gave your reporter a breakdown the other day which was confirmed by several other secretaries of the routine work when the "ess" is not in session. Almost two-thirds of all the correspondence and work is connected with wars.

BRJ KDOWN — at least 60 per cent of the office correspondence deals with military matters. About 15 per cent has to do with agriculture. Matters related to processing civil claims accounts for about 10 per cent, and another 10 per cent is devoted to obtaining or retaining jobs for constituents. The letters are per cent for miscellaneous items which run all the way from the absurdly ludicrous to deadly serious problems.

Many of the letters are pathetic, a very few are merely vicious. A large number express appreciation for assistance rendered, but some demand to know why the congressman continues to draw his pay if he isn't going to serve his constituents better. It is general policy of North Carolina congressmen to acknowledge all letters, perform the requested services if possible.

MILITARY — Some of the letters in the military classification seek intervention in behalf of "scis" relief in draft status of young men, or for payment of uniformed personnel to higher rank. A few ask help in having war prisoners returned. Preponderant majority deal with adjustments in government insurance, hospitalization of veterans, GI educational provisions and such.

AGRICULTURE — Anybody who thinks a congressman's correspondence about agriculture deals only with real farming ought to read our mail, said one secretary. Sure there are a lot of letters about the total "farm program," about parity support, acreage allotments and production quotas for the big money crops. Big livestock growers and processors ask for information and assistance. There seems to be increasing interest in tree-farming, pulpwood and timber production.

But a surprising lot, perhaps more than half, of the letters in this file are from town folks interested in back-yard vegetable gardens, flower culture and insect control, most of them requesting special bulletins, research reports and other publications dealing with the special problem.

CIVIL CLAIMS — The civil claims category, according for an estimated 10 per cent of all correspondence covers a diverse field. It includes personal injury for which the federal government is claimed to be responsible, damage to property or alleged undue seizure of land for forests, parks or military reservations. Large part of it has to do with retirement and income tax refunds and similar disputed financial adjustments. In some phases the civil and military related matters overlap.

"We don't bother too much about categories," said Herbert Lineberger, secretary of Rep. Woodrow Jones, "we just try to give our people adequately and fairly without assuming steps in the defense or prosecution attitude."

JOBS — The congressional secretaries agreed that about 10 per cent of their time and effort goes to obtaining jobs, keeping jobs or getting promoting steps for jobholders. That runs all the way from part-time fourth-class postmasters and federal building elevator operators to ambassadors and cabinet members. There is a unanimous agreement that this part of their work perhaps causes more headaches to congressmen and staffer than any other, because most other activities when results here please one person they get her money back—or make the cow give milk. Another congressman had constituent who demanded that he be gotten out of jail, because he had been jailed for a debt of one dollar and since the congressman was unanimous agreement that this part of their work perhaps causes more headaches to congressmen and staffer than any other, because most other activities when results here please one person they get her money back—or make the cow give milk.

MISCELLANEOUS — The five percent miscellaneous group is really a honey. One woman wrote her congressman that she had bought a cow which gave water instead of milk, and wanted him to help get her money back—or make the cow give milk. Another congressman had constituent who demanded that he be gotten out of jail, because he had been jailed for a debt of one dollar and since the congressman was unanimous agreement that this part of their work perhaps causes more headaches to congressmen and staffer than any other, because most other activities when results here please one person they get her money back—or make the cow give milk.

PERSONAL ATTENTION — Many of these requests can be handled the matter. And this departmental messages. Many others require personal appearance of the congressman or an authorized secretary before the board of commission or committee handling the matter. And this kind of service goes on when the Congress is in recess as well as when it is in session, and whether the congressman himself is in Washington or not.

It means hard work and long hours for the secretaries, but they seem to like it. Any of them will scrap harder to keep his or her job than to get one for somebody else.

The Horsepower Fore The Cart

by Edwina Haymes

Today's Lesson On Inflation

The little boy stood in front of the candy counter with the penny in his hand. He looked from one kind of sweet to the other, pointing at a few and holding up the penny on top. Each time she shook her head. "Nothing for a penny," she said. Even the peppermint sticks were a nickel apiece.

Disappointed, the little boy closed his fist around his wealth and marched out of the store. Across the street he paused before another candy counter. Again he looked and again he selected. Again there was nothing for a penny.

Now the light was gone from his eyes, though they shone with a tearful gleam. He bit his lip and looked down at his penny. He decided to try one more time. In the third store he stayed a long time. He looked carefully and eagerly at all the gilded goodies. He walked slowly down the counter and pointed at each kind of candy, always holding out his penny. Each time the salesgirl shook her head. When he reached the last container he glanced up pleadingly, but the girl again nodded a gentle "no."

Notebook On Life

The Piano Tuner's Big Pitch

By HAL BOYLE
CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Al Rockwell lets others worry about international discord. But he can't get a dying craft, he started a piano repair shop. The five per cent of America's pianos are out of tune. He is afraid he is rearing a generation of young piano players who won't know middle C from the sound of chipmunks scampering across a tin roof.

Rockwell, a professional musician for 35 years, has tuned more than 8,000 pianos himself. He is launched on a one-man crusade to create a world in which all pianos are not only tuned properly—but kept tuned. He ever writes letters to the editor or the subject.

Rockwell first became interested in piano tuning—or, rather, the lack of it—while playing reed instruments with a traveling band at the age of 17. On theater circuits he ran into every type of piano imaginable, most of them out of tune.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THEY DISLIKE IMPROVEMENT! A friend of mine picked up a hitchhiker one day, a man well past middle age who for 18 years had worked on the campus of a large university. Yet this man who had spent 18 years on a college campus could not read or write, and he was rather proud of the fact. He declared that he not only could not read and write but that he never wanted to learn. "If I learn to read and write, my life will be ruined. I will be writing me to do my work and they'll find it."

The stately spires of the academic buildings rise up from this beautiful campus. For 18 years this man has cut grass, trimmed hedges and edged sidewalks, and tens of thousands of students have passed him carrying their textbooks and chatting gaily about their experiences.

There are thousands of people who have the same philosophy. This man has, only they are not so frank about it. They dislike improvement because it involves effort and they don't intend to make that effort. Let others get the honors—they will take ease instead and live their lives as they want to live them.

New Knowledge Today Of Inside Russia

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Although not pretending to be oracles, State and Pentagon experts believe that they have today a more complete and exact knowledge of Russian conditions and intentions than at any time since the Iron Curtain was lowered in our faces. The Anglo-American Intelligence service and allied agencies are operating at top efficiency.

There have been many more Communist "defectors," including Army personnel and secret MVD police officials than Allen W. Dulles, head of our Central Intelligence Agency, can reveal. They have given us invaluable information on conditions within Russia and the satellite areas, as well as on the Soviet's internal spy system.

More foreigners than ever before have been permitted to visit Russia. Members of Congress, businessmen, newspaper correspondents, even a U.S. Supreme Court Justice. Although their movements were circumscribed, a right questioning of them on their return, and an analytical check of their observations, furnishes a fairly definite mosaic of the Communist scene.

Old Racket Apparent In Business

By ELMER ROESNER
Big business, it seems, should not complain. Chairman Constance M. Keefe, wife, nephews and in-laws on their payrolls. Big corporations are in the same racket.

More than half the important companies in the United States have close relatives of top management in executive positions, a study by the American Institute of Management discloses.

The Institute suspects the practice may be illegal and may account for poor showings by some companies. It holds that nepotism may cause three basic corporate weaknesses:

1. An artificial limit is placed on the choice of men for top positions, defeating programs for executive development.

2. Choice of executives is made on the basis of criteria completely unrelated to the actual interests of the business.

3. The rights of stockholders are subverted and the public character of the company is denied in the interest of personal advantage of the family.

Of 2,000 companies surveyed, only 27 had a stated policy against family preference in executive posts.

If nepotism is bad for big corporations, it must be worse for small companies. A fat salary tossed to the chairman of a company may be an infinitesimal part of the income of a big corporation, but even a moderate salary paid the owner's wife's brother may be a heavy drain on a small concern.

"I'd have to support the loafer anyway—I might as well get some work out of him," is a common excuse for keeping a relative on a payroll. But the saving may be small compared with the fact that the action may discourage other employees or drive them to other businesses in search of advancement; in countenancing an unfair situation it discourages employee honesty, and the cost of poor decisions by the relative.

Many owners strive to place sons and other heirs in line to managerial succession. This is natural. But whatever the effects on the business or the heir, the practice may be bad for the economy. The country may lose a prospective engineer and gain an indifferent plant manager; it may be denied a poet or a doctor and get, instead, a greengrocer.

CONTEMPLATE NEW RECORD
When gas men get together you can expect of course, gas. At the recent convention of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, delegates heard these predictions: Production of natural gas will set a record this year. The number of gas utility customers also will set a new record. Consumption of gas will exceed the previous high by 9 per cent.

Sale of most categories of gas appliances will set new records. And 1956 will be even better than 1955.

ANTI-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE BILL WORRIES CORPORATIONS
Many big companies are quietly rushing up on the prospect of a bill introduced in Congress by Representative James Roosevelt (D., Calif.) which would make it unlawful for a manufacturer to restrict dealers from selling products of other manufacturers. The bill has been unanimously endorsed by the House Select Committee on Small Business and referred to the Judiciary Committee, which has not yet taken action.

All That's Needed Now Is Some River Traffic

If any boats too large to pass under the Grimesland drawbridge come up the Tar River, they will find a full-time bridgetender on duty to open the draw and let them through.

For a while it looked like the full-time bridgetender at the Grimesland bridge would be removed. Announcement by the Corps of Engineers that the proposal to remove the bridgetender is "impractical at this time" has removed the possibility that the part-time tender proposal will become a reality any time soon.

After the new bridge at Grimesland was completed, the State Highway and Public Works Commission requested the Corps of Engineers to grant permission for the drawtender at the bridge be removed. The Commission proposed instead of a full-time drawtender it be allowed to make arrangements to open the bridge to water traffic at specified times on notice.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce, The Reflector and other interests in Pitt County set up a howl at the proposal. They asked for a hearing before any such action was taken. So far there hasn't been a hearing and it now appears that there will not be one.

If any water traffic can be developed on Tar River between Greenville and Washington, there will be a full-time drawtender at the Grimesland Bridge to let the boats through. Now that we've succeeded in having the bridgetender at Grimesland retained, perhaps we are morally obligated to put forth more effort to develop water traffic on the river so he will have something to do.

Senator Scott Offers A Promising Proposal

Sen. Kerr Scott has come up with what sounds like a real honest-to-goodness brainstorm on how to cope with agricultural surpluses, namely to permit farmers to stop producing cotton or tobacco for periods of 5 to 10 years without losing their basic allotments.

Somehow, the thought that any considerable number of farmers went right on producing in those two crops principally for the sake of not losing their allotments just eluded us; and we'd suspect it has eluded many others as well.

Maybe the Senator's idea isn't original with him. Maybe he got it from some of the farmers he has been talking to since Congress adjourned. At any rate Mr. Scott deserves considerable credit for bringing it up in a message to the State Range.

"I have talked to a number of farmers," Scott said, "who are interested in other types of farming than they are in tobacco and cotton farming, and yet those farmers are forced to plant tobacco and cotton in order to retain their allotments which keep the resale value of the farm high."

That's the whole pitch in a nutshell. Relax a part of the restrictions of freedom of choice that have been circumscribing agriculture, and the way is clear to cutting into those big farm surpluses and maybe even raising hopes for improved farm income.

There's no way of telling just how far this idea can go . . . who should know about it, and who could touch off the fuse to get results. But we like the whole idea, and hope Sen. Scott will raise and re-raise the suggestion at every opportunity.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Acting President's Troubles

(Wilson Times)
The role of "acting president" is not always a glamorous one. And Richard Nixon is finding out the hard way that such a position is beset with many pitfalls. A man who has responsibility should also have authority. Mr. Nixon now finds himself in a position of having the authority.

He presides over cabinet meetings. And his opinions must be made known. They must be made known because it is an accepted fact that there is a division of opinion within the Eisenhower cabinet. And regardless of what side Mr. Nixon takes in any controversy the other side is likely to be peeved and uncooperative. But more than that the "other side" knows now that any decision made by Mr. Nixon is not necessarily final. They know that President Eisenhower, despite his illness, could step in if he wishes and change the picture. Mr. Nixon knows that too. He knows that when he speaks out on any subject, his opinions may not necessarily be those of the president. And thus he is placed in a responsible position and also an embarrassing one at times.

The Messiah To Be Presented On December 11

East Carolina College's annual presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" will take place Sunday, December 11, at 3:30 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. Dr. Elwood Keister of the music faculty, director of the oratorio, has announced.

Rehearsals for the program, which ushers in the Christmas season at the college each year, will begin Thursday, November 3, at 8:15 p.m. in the Austin auditorium and will continue each Thursday through December 8. Dr. Keister has issued an invitation to those who wish to sing in the oratorio to be present for the first rehearsal. Auditions are not required of choir members.

Last year more than two hundred college students, high school students, and others in and near Greenville sang the oratorio under Dr. Keister's direction. An audience of approximately 2,000 people from various localities in Eastern North Carolina attended.

Shower Honors October Bride

ROBERSONVILLE—Friday from 8 o'clock until 10 Miss Naomi Bryant and Miss Blanche Stalls honored Mrs. Elbert Ray Bryant of Windsor with a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Farmer of Robersonville.

Early in the evening the October bride was presented a pink carnation corsage to complement her medium blue suit.

The hostesses greeted the guests in the hall and directed them to the living room which was bright with fall flowers.

Mrs. Bryant unwrapped the packages as her friends arrived and handed her the gifts. The many useful gifts for her apartment were immediately displayed.

Crackers, pickles, cookies, punch, mints and salted nuts were served to the forty callers.

Ada Cherry Class Plans For Christmas At Prison Camp

The Ada Cherry Class met on Monday night at the home of Miss Maude Lanier on East Fourth Street. The president, Mrs. W. H. Taft, welcomed the 85 members present. Mrs. W. T. Smith gave the devotion with the theme being "Learn of Me."

Mrs. Ed Credle, secretary, read the minutes and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. T. Smith.

Year Books were distributed and discussed. The Prison Camp project was talked about and plans made for Christmas with Mrs. Lacy Harrell as chairman. Several volunteered to help her.

The program was turned over to Mrs. Hoover Taft, group chairman who introduced Mrs. F. A. Jordan. Mrs. Jordan gave a most interesting talk on her hobbies which included making of hooked rugs, crocheting stoles, painting of china, etc. She brought samples of her work, which were admired, and were discussed informally.

Delicious refreshments carrying out the Halloween motif were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Leslie Jones, Hoover Taft, Sam Roberts, Robert May, W. T. Smith, Alf Forbes and Miss Maude Lanier.

Bucs Search For Left Half; Game Is Near

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

Coach Jack Boone was busy yesterday rebuilding his backfield for the Appalachian game here this weekend. With both his first string halfbacks out for the season, he has to come up with somebody quick if East Carolina hopes to stop the highly-touted North State Conference defending champions.

Bobby Perry is insured of a starting berth at right half and before the remaining two games are over may be used at both halves. The good-looking Greenville speedster was the individual running star against East Tennessee last week.

Question Mark

The left half is the question mark. Boone yesterday shifted fullback Harold O'Kelly there and alternated Bob Maynard and Bob Lilley at fullback. O'Kelly, however, isn't in top condition. He bruised his back in the last game.

Boone has a couple of other backs who likely will run some from the left spot. Washington's Charlie Bishop is one. The little junior has come along, according to Boone, and does a fair job on offense. Delywan Suggs, a freshman, is the other.

The Pirates will be without end Bill Helms again. The big Monroe junior re-injured his knee and can't engage in heavy work. J. D. Bradford of Fayetteville, last week's starter, will open at right end.

Yesterday's hour-long scrimmage was otherwise pitched to his fit. There's still keen competition for positions along the forward front.

Boone had his first two units running against a third team directed in Appalachian defenses by Coach Smith and Malory. The regulars moved the ball well and Dick Cherry and Milton Collier hit on their passes.

Should the game go something like last year's, the Pirates aren't worried about moving the pigskin, just stopping it when it's in the Apps possession.

Two Speedsters

The Mountaineers employ a tricky split-T and have great running backs in Jim Ollis and Aubrey Elam. The former is a senior and leads the team in scoring with 33 points in five games. Elam holds what is probably the longest punt return in conference annals with his 100-yarder against Lenoir Rhyne this season.

When behind and desperate, the Mountaineers break out into a spread formation. The wild formation, which sends players scattered from one side of the field to the other, wrecked East Carolina last year in Boone. The Mountaineers scored twice from it.

In this regard, the Pirate coaching staff is expected to emphasize defense the rest of the week. A lengthy defensive scrimmage was on tap for today.

Baylor, Wichita 'Punished' For Code Violation

CHICAGO (AP)—The universities of St. Louis, Baylor and Wichita have been penalized for violating the NCAA's athletic code.

A one-year probation was handed to St. Louis by the 18-man council, the NCAA's policy-directing body. The lesser punitive measure of a reprimand was given to Wichita and Baylor.

The probation, which places St. Louis under surveillance, was for a violation in offering a prospective athlete more financial aid than the rules of the Missouri Valley Conference and NCAA permit.

The reprimand more or less a public slap on the wrist, was given to Baylor for providing transportation to the prospective athletes on a campus visit.

At Waco, Tex., Dean Abner McCall of Baylor said that the athletic staff is expected to emphasize defense the rest of the week. A lengthy defensive scrimmage was on tap for today.

Brennan Labels Navy 'Toughest' Foe For Season

SOUTH BEND Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame Coach Terry Brennan says Navy will be the "toughest football team" his Irish will face all year and his biggest worry is over Middlemarch.

"I can't understand how we've been pegged a one-touchdown favorite over an undefeated team," said Brennan. "Personally, I think Navy should be the favorite and if nothing else the game should be even."

Navy has a 5-0 record and is ranked fourth in the AP poll. The Irish have won 4 of 5 games, losing to Michigan State and are ninth in the poll.

"Our scouts tell us Navy hasn't changed its offense from last year but this team executes its plays better," Brennan said. "I'm sure this will be the toughest football team we'll face all year."

"There's no doubt about Navy's superior depth. They've been able to condition their reserves while piling up big scores in three games. We've had tough games and not much chance to test our reserves."

Brennan praised Navy's great quarterback George Welsh but could find no consolation in the fact that Notre Dame beat Purdue, a team spearheaded by another excellent passer, Len Dawson.

"You can't compare the two men because each works off a different attack," said Brennan. "Navy uses its flankers and throws from the split T while Purdue's passing is much like that used by the pros—man up the middle."

SHORTSTOP STUDYING

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Bob Stegmeyer, Rice's star shortstop of last spring who signed last summer with the Charleston, W. Va., Senators, is back in school. He will report back to the American Assn. team after graduating next June. At Charleston he batted .260 as a utility player.

White Sox Get Doby For Cleanup Chore; Trade Off Chico, Busby

Youngsters Spark Phant Sessions

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville high school's Phantom footballers went through a wide variety of drills yesterday in preparation for their coming meet with rugged Smithfield eleven Friday night, here in Greenville.

Coaches Guy Lewis, Vaughn Fowler, and Stanley Jones sent their charges into a mixture of offensive, defensive techniques, as well as physical and mental exercises. A short skull drill ran lightly over Phantom plays and causticities prepared the boys for the heavier work of the afternoon.

Hudson Returns To Drills

Little Peter Hudson returned to practice yesterday after a short absence due to a virus infection. The husky guard joined Angus Duff, Harold Edwards, Howard King, Jack Calhoun, Edwin Wilkerson, Ken Whickard, Ike Riddick and Kelly Barnhill in line work. Head-on tackling exercises covered a few minutes of the session, and then followed a scrimmage which previewed passing and running.

Not present at the practice field yesterday was outstanding end, Billy Johnson, who suffered a kidney injury in last week's New Bern contest. Line coach Vaughn Fowler stated yesterday, "We will miss him in that defensive line." He also said that it is doubtful that the senior terminal will play anymore.

Upperclassmen Shine

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors are drawing the praises of the Green coaching staff this week as they are beginning to outline the order members of the squad. Billy

CHICAGO (AP)—Sluggish-hitting Frank Lane is gone, but the Chicago White Sox finally may have nabbed their long-sought cleanup batter in outfielder Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians.

Late yesterday, they traded slumping shortstop Chico Carrasquel and light-hitting outfielder Jim Busby for Doby in a straight player deal.

Doby, 30, a long-ball swatter with a .291 average last season, was covered by Lane in big before the trade-minded general manager moved to the St. Louis Cardinals. It was Sox Vice President Chuck Comiskey who finally landed him.

The Sox finished third in the American League race for the past four seasons. Conceding such problems as pitching and infield weaknesses, the big drag for the Sox was lack of a fencebuster.

"Doby should be the cleanup man missed since big Gus Zernial was traded away in 1951.

Doby, with a lifetime major league batting mark of .286 in eight seasons, last season slugged 26 homers, 17 doubles and 5 triples, all despite an ailing wrist.

In New Orleans, Doby learned of the trade, and said: "I have enjoyed every year playing for Cleveland. It is a wonderful organization. I hope I can fill the bill for Chic and I think I can."

The departure of arraqueel who batted .256 and drove across 52 runs last season, was no surprise. Once regarded as "another (Phil) Rizzuto," the man from Venezuela was a hot-and-cold player. Chico, who is 37, probably will be replaced by rookie Luis Aparicio from Memphis, although Jim Brickweser and hustling Carl Peterson will push him.

Busty batted .259 last season.

UP UP goes East Carolina College end J. D. Bradford for an aerial. The big Fayetteville senior will be at right end for the Pirates this week against Appalachian, here.

"When they left, Baylor paid them 6 cents a mile transportation expense one way," he said. "This money was provided from the Ex-Student Assn. fund. According to the rules, 6 cents a mile was allowed for the transportation of athletes if the ex-students paid the money. But it was handed to the coach by a Baylor coach. That is the reason for the trouble."

Wichita's reprimand came on a violation of paying transportation costs of one prospective athlete to the campus.

In Wichita, the university in a statement said an "investigation disclosed the violation did occur two summers ago and the matter has been properly dealt with by the president and athletic director."

At St. Louis, Athletic Director Ed Hickey said the penalty resulted from the activities of an alumnus without the knowledge of the university.

Olson Breaks Up Camp On Hearing Fight Postponed

CHICAGO (AP)—The International Boxing Club figures it will take Sugar Ray Robinson, who suffered an ankle injury, a month to get well and back in shape for his title fight against middleweight champion Boon Olson.

The IBC postponed the Chicago Stadium fight scheduled for Nov. 4 to Dec. 9 because of Sugar Ray's injury.

Robinson, the IBC said, sprained his ankle while training Sunday and tried to work out yesterday but couldn't because of the pain.

At his Greenwood Lake, N. Y., camp, Robinson said, "I am at a loss for words. I'm so disappointed. I was in excellent condition."

Olson broke camp and planned to go to his San Francisco home for a layoff of several weeks.

Slip Of The Tongue Could Be 'Tip Off'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Perhaps it was just a slip of the lip but Joe L. Brown, the Pittsburgh Pirates' new general manager, may have let the cat out of the bag on his choice of a field manager.

Brown told a news conference following his appointment yesterday that "my big challenge is to find a player-manager." Notice, he said, player-manager.

He corrected himself a few minutes later explaining, "What I meant to say was a field manager. I wanted to differentiate between one on the field and one in the office."

Now any young man—Brown is 37—might under similar circumstances say the same thing and perhaps mean something else. It could be that Brown just let it slip.

But Bobby Bragan, field pilot at Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, is a playing-manager. And Bragan is considered a top choice for the job.

Bragan, who will be 37 on Oct. 30, is known as a sound aggressor and a manager. He has been under the wing of Branch Rickey for the last 10 years. He succeeded, since he played under Rickey at Brooklyn from 1943 to

N. C. Retail Sales Show Vast Gain Over Period Of Six Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau said today that the first results of the census of business in May 1954 to be analyzed by the bureau's new electronic brain showed that retail sales increased in North Carolina by 44 per cent over 1948.

That was a sizeable gain over the national increase of about 31 per cent for the same years as indicated by the Census Bureau's monthly retail trade sample surveys.

The report on North Carolina retail trade came out about five months earlier than usual because of the use of Univac, the electronic computer and analyzer. The electronic brain was installed at the bureau to digest results of a detailed study made early this year of business activity throughout the nation in 1954.

Questionnaires were sent to businessmen throughout the nation by the Census Bureau in January and February of this year and replies were received in the next three to four months.

Results for the retail, wholesale and service trades are being analyzed first by states. The Census group of states have been selected for the first run, and that North Carolina happened to be taken for the first state. The bureau said there was no particular reason for the selection.

A second electronic brain will soon begin analysis of information obtained in the business census from manufacturers.

The Census Bureau said that it expects to finish an analysis of retail trade in all states by the end of this year. There will be some delay, following today's report on North Carolina retail trade, while difficulties encountered in running off the North Carolina reports are overcome.

This will be followed by state by state analysis for wholesale and service trades, and manufacturers, with the national summary for all aspects of business expected to wind up no later than mid-1956.

The figures for North Carolina indicated that in 1954 retail sales there totaled $3,230,610,000. That

High Class Thief Took Autographs

BRISTOL, England (AP)—A high-class autograph hunter was blamed by police today for the theft of a book containing the signatures of Queen Elizabeth II, Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The 56-pound book belonging to the Church of England Children's Society vanished from a railroad station where it was to be picked up for exhibition at a church bazaar.

Called "The Princess Elizabeth Birthday Book," the volume was launched by the present Queen at the age of 12. People are invited to sign their names on the page (it has 265) of their birthdate and then are expected to contribute annually to the children's society. It earns the society about $7,000 a year. An official described the book as "irreplaceable."

was an increase of nearly a billion dollars over retail sales of $2,241,969,000 recorded for 1948.

The results showed the largest gain — 75 per cent — during the seven years for sales of gasoline filling stations, followed by a 55 per cent gain for sales of automobile dealers, and gains of 48 per cent each for food stores, eating and drinking places.

Retail clothing and general merchandise groups showed increases of from 22 to 24 per cent. The Census Bureau said that within a few days, it would have available a breakdown of the North Carolina retail sales report for all counties, and all places of 2,500 or more population.

The incomplete results made public today showed that among the nine largest counties of the state Mecklenburg County led with retail sales in 1954 of $267,595,000. Of this, $284,173,000 occurred in Charlotte.

Air Force Says New Planes May Look 'Unusual'

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, busy for seven years trying to scotch legends about flying saucers, wants the public to know those weird looking aircraft which folks will see soon won't really be saucers.

They just look and act something like 'em.

The Air Force last night issued what has become a sort of annual report on the flying saucer situation, saying again it has found no evidence of flying saucers.

But this time it attached to the new and voluminous (318) report a statement by Secretary Donald A. Quarles. It said some aircraft of novel form are coming along but there will be nothing "supernatural or mysterious" about them.

One will be the vertical-rising model, now at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., test center for jet aircraft. The Navy already has flown a similar aircraft, the Convair TO-1, but this is powered with a conventional propeller.

Another strange plane, still in designed stage, is being developed by the Canadian firm of Avro, Ltd., which has a contract with the U.S. Air Force. This design, Quarles said, "could result in a disc-shaped aircraft somewhat similar to the popular concept of a flying saucer."

Avro officials have insisted their product isn't a flying saucer. Gas exhausted through a system of ducts would spin an outer rim of the disc to propel the aircraft vertically into the air; the gas blast then would be diverted from the disk and to the rear to provide forward thrust, like any jet plane.

The air secretary also said, presumably with allusion to reports of Soviet saucers, that "we must recognize other countries also have the capability of developing vertical-rising aircraft, perhaps of unconventional shapes. But, he insisted, "we are satisfied at this time that none of the sightings of so-called 'flying saucers' reported in this country were in fact aircraft of foreign origin."

The Air Force told of investigations of 4,834 reports of sightings of "unidentified flying objects" (UFO) since 1947.

Part of the new report contains a summary for the January-May period of this year, when the Air Force received 131 UFO reports.

It said evaluation of the 131 reports showed that balloons accounted for 26 per cent; planes 21 per cent; stars, meteors and other astronomical objects 23 per cent; "other" (mirages, kites, fireworks, contrails of high-flying planes) 20 per cent. Insufficient information on which to make evaluation 7; unknown 3 per cent.

Quarles said he felt "certain that ever the 3 per cent could have been explained as conventional phenomena or illusions if more complete observational data had been available."

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

Lois lay with closed eyes, listening to the leaves stirring with the breeze, feeling the sun warm on her face. Sick at heart. How could I have been such a fool she thought, believing he was in love with me. Responding like a naive girl! And he's trying to sidetrack me. But what an unforgivable way to silence me. How could he?

She drifted into an uneasy sleep. Somewhere a door opened and closed. High heels clicked over the floor. Carol's voice said, "you here, darling? Where's Mrs. Fleming?"

"Asleep on the terrace, I'm typing Elnor's advertisement."

"How kind you are! I couldn't get along without you, Shandy." So, when in the magnolia soft voice made Lois open her eyes, I must of them know I am awake, she thought. I'm not supposed to hear this.

Shandy hit a few more keys on the typewriter and pulled out the page "that's the lot. I thought I'd put on in all the New York papers."

"Thank you. I've said that to you so long, so often. Just thank you. But at last you know I'll be able to thank you better now, differently—after all these years you've waited."

"Steady, Carol," Shandy said quickly warningly.

"Anyhow," she ignored the interruption, "anyhow, darling, something rather—frightening has happened. We'd better not say anything, just at present."

"Say anything about what?"

Carol's voice hardened imperceptibly. "About the fact that we are going to marry."

Lois stumbled to her feet. I've got to stop them, she thought, appalled.

It was already too late. Shandy was standing at the Dutch door and his face was horror-struck when he saw that she was awake.

Lois turned without a word and crossed the terrace. Shandy had left the gate unlocked when he came in. She went through and closed it behind her. She walked blindly, eager only to put as much distance as possible between her and the man and woman in Roger's cottage. Poor Roger, she thought in a kind of outrage, and was surprised at her own partisanship for the man who would not stay dead. Poor Roger.

It was her stricken pity for him that led her to Albert, Kibbee's cottage. There, at least, she would find a loyalty that had never wavered; a loyalty touched with hysteria, perhaps, but one on which Roger could have relied.

The door was open and Bessie sat crumpled in a chair her eyes empty as she stared at the wall. Over night the precarious balance between middle age and old age had been altered. Bessie's face sagged, the very texture of her skin seemed to have changed. The sturdy body had collapsed on itself.

Before Lois could turn away, Bessie looked up. Her voice, like her eyes was dulled, but habit asserted itself. "Come in, Mrs. Fleming." She got to her feet and bustled around, straightening an ornament that had already been arranged with military precision.

"Am I disturbing you?" Bessie shook her head. "I was just sitting here," she said, as though surprised by her own inactivity. "Let me make you some tea. You could take a cup to Albert." She lifted her apron to wipe away an imaginary spot of dust from a bowl on the table. "He won't let me in. Maybe he'd take it from you." She stood looking aimlessly at Lois, a woman ill at ease when she was not busy but with her occupation momentarily stripped from her.

"Clyde's gone off," she said. "He's been away all morning. He can't get over frightening Paula. I could shake that girl though I realize she was too sick to know what she was doing. But Clyde can't seem to understand that's all there was to it. He thinks no one likes him, not even Albert." She added flatly, "It's not good for him. You're lucky not to have anyone Mrs. Fleming, I can tell you. It's terrible to love people and not be able to help them. It's just plain awful."

When the tea had been prepared, accompanied by fragrant cinnamon toast, Lois took the tray Bessie had fixed with anxious care and tapped at Albert's door.

"Who is it?" inquired the reedy voice.

"Lois Fleming." When he had unlocked the door she set the tray on a table beside his bed, filled a cup for him and stood hesitating.

He ignored the tea. "Sit down," he said. There was none of the eagerness she had seen in him on her arrival. "Mrs. Fleming," he demanded, ignoring the tea "why are you doing this?"

"Doing what?" she asked in honest surprise.

"Stirring things up. Doc was here yesterday when I had the attack. He told me that you are a troublemaker, trying to hurt Roger's reputation."

Lois was so angry for a moment that she could not speak. Then she said quietly, "I haven't the slightest intention of stirring things up, as Dr. Thomas says. But even if I did, it would be better than covering them up. There is no possible justification for the way he has behaved, either as a physician or a friend. He ought to lose his license for it. He knew as well as the rest of you, better than most of you, that Roger Brindle did not kill himself. For him to say so is a contemptible lie. That's what I call stirring things up, Mr. Kibbee. Leaving a scar on Roger Brindle's reputation. I came here to try to get a picture of the man and to give that picture to the people all over the country who loved him. All I have met with is evasions. Dr. Thomas is deliberately covering up the fact that his friend was murdered and at the same time attempting to make me believe that Mr. Brindle was responsible for his own death.

Albert sat bolt upright in bed. "But I thought," he said, shocked and bewildered, "Roger's heart failed. I don't understand any of this."

There was no indication that he was in danger from another collapse. He was alert, intent ready for action. Perhaps, Lois thought,

"I thought you knew," she said in apology. "I thought all of you knew I am sure Mrs. Brindle does because she was so afraid to have me use the gas fireplace."

"Was that—that did it?" She nodded.

Swear Word Or Not, 300 Stage Strike In Britain

SWINDON, England (AP) — Is "bleeding" a swear word in Britain. Just like its relative "bloody?" No, says June Woodwards. Yes, says the management of the Plessey Engineering Co.

So now 300 workers are on strike. June, a 17-year-old employe of the company, admits she referred to the "bleeding clerks" when her pay envelope was short 5 shillings (70 cents).

Her boss called it cussing and fired her. Her workmates agreed with June that it wasn't and walked out.

"The company said it may not be regarded as a swear word in London but that it is a 'swear word in Swindon,'" June told newsmen.

In bleeding London, the bleeding Cockeys can hardly utter a bleeding sentence without using "bleeding."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was somewhat lower in the early afternoon today with a few stocks making a good advance.

Prices were down around 2 points at the outside while gains of a point or a little better were seen.

Trading was at a moderate pace but it didn't approach yesterday's 1,950,000 shares that changed hands in a lower market.

Today's decline was the second straight after seven advances. Brokers were inclined to regard it as a breather.

Aircrafts were lower as were the principal motors, rubbers, radio-television and electrical equipments. The rest of the market was mixed.

Lower were Lockheed, North American Aviation, RCA, du Pont, Boeing, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Pacific, Johns-Manville, General Motors and Goodyear.

Higher were Bethlehem Steel, United Aircraft, Union Carbide, Schering Corp., Sylvania Electric, Texas Co. Southern California Edison, and Houston Oil (including a block of 1,100 shares up 3/4 at 132).

U. S. Steel after the close yesterday declared a dividend of 65 cents as against 50 cents in the previous quarter. It had closed off 3/4. Today it opened at 1/4 at 86 5/8, 5,000 shares, and it held around 56 most of the time.

RALIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices mostly steady. Tops of 14.25 at Goldsboro; 14.00 at Hamilton, Beaufort, Tarboro, Enfield, and Rocky Mount; 13.75 at Mount

Briefly... Masonic Dinner Set For Nov. 3

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A loan company manager was unable to persuade a traffic court judge yesterday to give him "three or four days" to raise a $425 fine for 17 parking tickets. Jack B. Cody identified himself as manager of Liberty Loan Co., whose slogan is "help you on one day up to $250 or more on just your name."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Purchasing officials of 36 states have agreed on standard specifications for the hot dog, as well as for hundreds of other meat products. They adopted the standards yesterday at the opening meeting of the national assn. of state purchasing officials. All 48 states are expected to follow suit. Standards for the lowly hot dog are set forth in four single-spaced typewritten pages.

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — After 13 years, the Army finally caught up with 49-year-old Ted D. Jackson, father of seven children. Military police picked up Jackson, a used car lot mechanic at his Louisville home Monday night. He had been carried on Army records as a deserter since Feb. 27, 1942. "Jimmie, it's over," police quoted Jackson as saying.

HENDERSON Ky. (AP) — A new giveaway program makes its debut at the polls Nov. 8. Each voter here and in Henderson County will receive a ticket entitling the voter to a chance on a 1956 automobile. Spokesmen for both the Republican and Democratic parties approved the plan.

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Police will hit the jackpot twice today—once when they break up 666 confiscated slot machines and again when the scrap is sold to a metal dealer. Judge Joseph P. Goddard of Kenton Circuit said after court costs are paid, money from the salvage would be placed in the police and firemen's pension fund.

BOSTON (AP) — The Associated Master Barbers and Beauticians of America are on record today as favoring a nationwide standard haircut price of $2. The group also recommended at its annual convention last night that beauticians adopt a minimum $5 fee for work involving a haircut shampoo and hair set.

LAKEWOOD, N. J. (AP) — Bouquet or brickbat? A letter from the Lakewood board of education thanking Mrs. Eugene Axelrod for a cake has her wondering. Seems Mrs. Axelrod recently gave the cake to board members for a post-meeting snack. The thank-you letter commends her cooperative spirit—"of which your cake was concrete evidence."

DETROIT (AP) — A nervous robber apologized to taxicab driver Edward Grzywnowicz for taking his wrist watch and $8 in cash yesterday. For 30 minutes the robber told of his financial troubles. Then it was the cabbie's turn to talk. He would at least like to have the wrist watch back. It was a graduation present from his mother. He got it back, plus 50 cents "for cigarettes and coffee because you look nervous and probably need it."

Plan Showing Of Education Films

Three films on education will be shown over television station WNCN tomorrow and Friday in preparation for American Education week November 6-12.

Announcement of the showing was made today by Miss Mary Thomas Smith, president of the local unit of the N. C. Education Association. The films are being sponsored by the local NCEA unit, the city Parent-Teachers Associations and the American Legion, which is also sponsoring organization for American Education week here.

The films were produced by the National Education Association in affiliation with the state associations.

The first showing will be tomorrow at 11 a. m. when the film "Teachers of North Carolina" will be presented. Tomorrow night at 10:30 "Secure the Blessing" will be shown; and Friday at 5:30 p. m. the third film, "Mike Makes His Mark," is scheduled for presentation.

Miss Smith said the film depicts the status of teachers in North Carolina today, "something of what teaching is all about," and a school in action—meeting the challenge of potential delinquency.

families that own such pianos can afford to have them tuned, but they can't afford to buy new ones.

Students come from all over the country to attend Rockwell's school in this small mountain town. The course, based on a technical system developed by Oliver Faust, a German musician, takes six months. Rockwell has turned out some 300 graduates but sees no end to the present shortage of competent trained piano tuners.

He isn't happy about the situation and won't be so long as he thinks even one child is learning to play on an out-of-tune piano.

"Only tone-deaf musicians can play tone-dead instruments," he said gloomily.
