Disclosed Buffer Plan Abandoned

GENEVA (AP) - Highly placed Western officials at the Big Four conference said today the British government, in response to American urging has abandoned its plan for an East-West buffer zone as it was originally put forth.

These officials said Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov thereupon was trying to breathe life into an already dead Trojan horse by his sudden support of the idea of a semi-demilitarized zone along the East-West frontier.

The proposal was first put forward by British Prime Minister Eden at the July summit conference here. The United States, however, feared the Eden plan would freeze the division of Germany and fix the present status of Soviet satellites in Europe.

As a result of a shift in the British position two or three weeks ago, the informants said, Britain, France and the United States now support the creation of a buffer zone only after Germany is unified.

They said Molotov apparently hoped to put Britain and Russia on the same side of one issue at least, and thus divide Britain and the United States by his adoption of the earlier British plan.

Fresh evidence of Molotov's basic opposition to German unification, except on his own terms, came in a report from an off-the-record briefing of Communist bloc correspondents by Leonid Ilyichev, the Soviet press officer here.

Some of those present quoted Ilyichev as saying "there will be no German unification" at this conference. The Soviet delegation later denied he had said it.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Pinay returned to battle with Molotov over German unity and European security today after a one-day recess in the conference because of the All Saints Day holiday in France.

Secretary Dulles used the interlude to confer in Madrid with Generalissimo Franco.

Dulles said his conversations there were "most interesting and most satisfactory." Spanish Foreign Minister Alberto Arjao said they had discussed the entire international situation and found themselves in "complete agreement."

On the Middle East diplomatic front it was reported on excellent authority that Molotov had told Israeli Premier Moshe Sharet as well as Dulles and Macmillan that the sale of Communist arms to Egypt would continue. But he was said to have promised this flow of weapons would not be allowed to "hurt" Israel.

In this talk with Sharet he was understood to have said that the submarines, jet planes, tanks and guns were going to Egypt from Czechoslovakia because the United States and Britain had organized the Baghdad Pact.

This pact links the "Northern Tier" states of the Middle East—Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan—into a defense system which is strongly disapproved by Egypt, Syria and some of the other members of the Arab League.

Molotov apparently intends to leapfrog the "Northern Tier" by getting cozy with these Arab opponents of the pact.

Western diplomats think that at some point he will make a direct approach to Dulles and Macmillan to cut Russia in on Middle Eastern power politics, heretofore a Western preserve, by citing Russia's newly developed "interests" in the area.

(The New York Times in a Washington dispatch said Afghanistan also is expected to accept a Czech offer of arms.

Airliner Crash Kills All 44 People Aboard

By GORDON G. GAUSS LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) - A four-engine DC6B New York-to-Seattle United Air Lines plane crashed on the windswept northern Colorado plains last night in near freezing weather, killing all 44 persons aboard.

The disaster was the airline's second in this area within a month. Unlike the UAL crash which killed 66 persons Oct. 6 when a plane smashed into Medicine Bow Peak near Laramie, Wyo., this accident happened over comparatively level country a few miles east of the Colorado Rockies. The Medicine Bow Peak crash was the worst commercial air lines disaster in United States history from the standpoint of lives lost.

Chief Gilbert R. Carrel of the Colorado Highway Patrol said he was advised an explosion occurred on the plane before last night's crash.

Wreckage and bodies were strewn for a mile over a plowed field and a pasture six miles east of Longmont. The scene was about 32 miles north of Denver's city center and about 30 miles east of scenic Rocky Mountain National Park.

The crash time was fixed at 9:03 p.m. EST by Jake Heil, farmer on whose land the wreckage was scattered.

The plane left Denver about 10 minutes earlier and was 20 minutes behind schedule, United Air Lines reported. A company official said it was on course toward Cheyenne, Wyo. He said the DC6B had a cruising speed of about 300 m.p.h. and was capable of carrying 64 passengers.

Thirty-eight of the victims were passengers, including two UAL stewardesses, in vacation. The crew consisted of Capt. L. H. Hall, pilot; 1st officer D. A. White, co-pilot; S. F. Arthur, pilot-engineer; and Peggy Stedward and Jacqueline Higgs, stewardesses, all of Seattle.

The flight No. 622, originated in New York at noon and made a stop at Chicago before it landed in Denver. It was due to stop in Portland before completing the trip to Seattle.

bodies were covered with tarpaulins by rescuers.

A young Catholic priest moved through the area administering the last sacrament, guided only by a flashlight.

Heil said he and his family heard "sort of an explosion" and added "Then we ran outside and it looked to us like a skyrocket. It sounded like the motor was still running after the first explosion. Minutes after the plane hit there was another explosion."

He told his story to Jim Matlack, copublisher of the Longmont Times-Call and one of the first outsiders to reach the scene.

Jack Meyer, head of rescue operations for the airline, said the bodies were being kept at the crash scene until arrival of Dr. George Kiedra, UAL medical director, from Chicago. After that, arrangements called for transfer of the bodies to mortuaries at Greeley, Colo., 17 miles northeast.

Initial efforts to determine the cause of the wreck were launched under lights of portable electric plants as tumbledeeds blew across the scene.

Among the victims were two executives of the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors. James Straud, 51, of Lansing, Mich., general sales manager for the Western United States, and Carl F. Deist, 33, of San Francisco, regional manager of the Pacific Division.

Also aboard were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Lipka of Pittsburgh. Lipka, 38, was sales manager of the American Corp., a chemical combustion engineering firm.

The vacationing stewardesses were Barbara J. Cruise and Sally Ann Scofield, both of Denver.

As they could determine, no bodies were burned.

A 13-year-old farm boy, Charles Dalpra, was at his home some five miles away and suddenly saw a "red flame" in the sky. He told a reporter "it kept getting bigger" then he heard a noise. He held his father, Gilbert Dalpra, who added he first thought the youngster "was imagining things."

Coroner H. Ross Adamson of Greeley was an early arrival but declined to hazard an immediate opinion of the wreck's cause. Carrel said at midnight all bodies had been recovered.

Jack Meyer, head of rescue operations for the airline, said the bodies were being kept at the crash scene until arrival of Dr. George Kiedra, UAL medical director, from Chicago. After that, arrangements called for transfer of the bodies to mortuaries at Greeley, Colo., 17 miles northeast.

Initial efforts to determine the cause of the wreck were launched under lights of portable electric plants as tumbledeeds blew across the scene.

Among the victims were two executives of the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors. James Straud, 51, of Lansing, Mich., general sales manager for the Western United States, and Carl F. Deist, 33, of San Francisco, regional manager of the Pacific Division.

'Balanced Use Of Water' Is Goal Set For N. Carolina

RALEIGH (AP) - North Carolina must move toward a program for balanced use of water, says "all of our people," Gov. Hodges said today.

The governor reminded some 275 Soil Conservation Service workers that they will play an important part in the solution of water problems.

Hodges said the state's philosophy "should be one of sharing an abundance of water—no, a shortage of water. The trend of the times in water needs is clear."

Hodges pointed out that a water program must include things such as soil conservation, cleaning up pollution and provisions for expansion of irrigation. He said he hopes industries and municipalities will cooperate voluntarily for better pollution control.

"Frankly the pressure for conservation of our water resources and the need for pure water will not leave any choice in the future for industries, communities or any one else," he declared.

Hodges paid tribute to Hugh Hammond Bennett, the Anson county native who served as the first chief of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. He said the country needs "more men like big Hugh Bennett who loved the land more than personal fame or fortune."

Doctors Set Target Date For President To Leave Hospital Nov. 11

DENVER (AP) - President Eisenhower's doctors, satisfied with his recovery progress, have picked Nov. 11—one week from Friday—as a target date for letting him out of the hospital.

The tentative decision, subject to review at a full scale medical consultation this weekend, was made known by the White House as the President arranged to confer today with Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Mitchell is the eighth Cabinet officer to come to Denver for a hospital conference with Eisenhower since the chief executive's Sept. 24 heart attack. The other two members of the Cabinet—secretary of Commerce Weeks and secretary of Welfare Folsom—may visit him here next week.

James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, said Fitzsimons Army Hospital physicians have discussed with both the President and Mrs. Eisenhower their tentative plans to let him fly back to Washington Nov. 11, Veterans Day.

Hagerly told news conference late yesterday "it's a good guess those plans will hold. But he added there will be no final decision until the hospital doctors and the President's physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, have conferred this weekend with Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted Boston heart specialist.

White will arrive Saturday or Sunday for his fourth examination of the President since he was stricken. At the time of his last visit, Oct. 23, White said Eisenhower would be able to leave the hospital sometime in the Nov. 8-12 period if his recovery continued to go as well as it has.

The possible time of discharge was narrowed a good bit yesterday when the White House announced that President Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala will visit Eisenhower at the hospital, Nov. 9, a week from today.

When he does travel back East, Eisenhower will remain in Washington for a few days of rest before going on to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., for further convalescence. The farm is 28 miles north of Washington.

Mrs. Eisenhower will observe her 60th birthday Nov. 14, and Hagerly said there's been some discussion of having the President and the First Lady arrive at Gettysburg in time to celebrate the anniversary there.

Meanwhile, the big question of the President's 1956 political plans dropped up here again.

Newsmen told Hagerly that Dr. Snyder, the chief executive's physician, had been quoted as saying Eisenhower will be in no position to fly before Jan. 1 whether he will seek reelection.

Hagerly said he had talked to Snyder and the physician simply was "trying to repeat exactly" what Dr. White, the heart specialist, said in his Oct. 23 news conference here.

Antarctic Draws More Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) - A growing U. S. interest in the South Polar region has developed tentative government plans for a "permanent unit for antarctic activity."

Retired Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, a veteran of polar expeditions, was designated today as "officer in over-all charge" of all U. S. antarctic activities and was directed to prepare plans for a permanent program.

The disclosure was made in a letter to Byrd signed by Robert E. Robertson, deputy secretary of defense. Robertson said he was acting by direction of President Eisenhower on the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Navy.

Byrd told a radio audience in September the area "is becoming more and more important where world strategy is concerned." He noted that the Soviet Union already claims "a good deal" of antarctic territory. He also advocated the establishment of permanent human settlements there.

"Trick Or Treat For Child Relief Nets Over $400" About 200 children who started out on a "trick or treat" solicitation of coins Halloween for the United Nations Children's Fund, collected $413.73. Chairman Mrs. Jake Hadley announced today.

Peron Leaves Paraguay; Flies To Nicaragua

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) - Juan D. Peron, deposed president of Argentina, stepped aboard a plane at Asuncion's airport today for a flight to Nicaragua, the government press office announced.

Peron left from the Gen. Stroessner Airport, accompanied by another man. His companion was not his aide, Maj. Ignacio Cialetti, who was the only member of the entourage to accompany him from Buenos Aires a month ago.

He was seen off by several Paraguayan officials, none of them of Cabinet rank. Informed officials said the trip was arranged at Peron's own urgent request.

Peron had driven to the capital during the night from the country estate near Villarica, 150 miles away, where he had been interned.

He told Paraguayan officials shortly before his departure: "I do not plan to leave the Americas."

Hodges Outlines Hurricane Work

RALEIGH (AP) - A program aimed at protecting the state's coastal area from hurricane damage was launched by Gov. Hodges yesterday.

The governor predicted it would cost millions of dollars and stated federal, state and local governments should share in meeting the costs.

He was joined by Sen. Sam J. Ervin and Rep. F. Ertel Carlyle in saying that disaster insurance is "absolutely essential" and the federal government should provide it if private industry doesn't.

State Civil Defense Director Edward Griffin told the three rehabilitation groups present for the meeting that a program of levee and dike construction is necessary along the state's critical rivers and waterways.

He called for a 10 million dollar construction program of jetties along the state's entire beach front to protect and stabilize the Outer Banks. "Our main line of resistance against the ravages of the Atlantic Ocean."

Hog Cholera In Pitt Is Fading

Hog cholera, which has killed an estimated 1,000 animals in Pitt County during the past several weeks, "seems to be slowing up in this area," Pitt County Farm Agent Sam Winchester said.

The outbreak of cholera, which apparently began in the wake of wet weather brought by early fall hurricanes, has ravaged herds of hogs in many eastern North Carolina counties.

'Trick Or Treat' For Child Relief Nets Over $400

About 200 children who started out on a "trick or treat" solicitation of coins Halloween for the United Nations Children's Fund, collected $413.73. Chairman Mrs. Jake Hadley announced today.

The Halloween project was sponsored by the Greenville Council of Church Women. Twelve Protestant churches participated.

The young people soliciting told householders they "were not seeking something for themselves, but were after coins to provide money to help sick and crippled children in war-torn countries."

Council To Face Weighty Problems

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

City councilmen will wrestle with such heavy problems as needed drainage projects, fire equipment and a sub-station, recreation needs and other improvements tomorrow night when they meet for the first work session to consider a bond issue.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

A bond issue has been under consideration by the city fathers for some time for financing needed capital improvements. After such a bond issue is approved by the council it must be submitted to the citizens for a vote.

Growing Trade With Reds Seen

CHARLOTTE (AP) - Billion-dollar trade business between the United States and Communist countries might well be predicted within the next three years by Capus M. Waynick.

The former ambassador to Colombia and Nicaragua, speaking yesterday to Charlotte Rotarians, said the United States can no longer depend upon its international market built up through the competitive system.

Britons Speculating On Future Of Townsend; Has Job Offers

By HAL COOPER LONDON (AP) - Britons turned today from sympathetic thoughts about Princess Margaret and her blighted romance to speculation about the future of Peter Townsend, the man who loved and lost.

Margaret, after making her decision not to marry Townsend, an RAF group captain and divorced father of two children, spent yesterday in seclusion with Queen Mother Elizabeth at their London residence, Clarence House.

Admitted Prowler Re-Enacts Intrusions Of Woodward Estate

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) - A prowler has re-enacted on a Long Island estate the two intrusions that Mrs. William Woodward says had her upset and nervous on the night she shot her wealthy sportsman husband to death.

Police took Paul W. Wirths, a convicted burglar, to the sprawling Woodward home at dusk yesterday. They said he had admitted breaking into the garage and bathrooms of the estate on two occasions several days before the shooting.

Nobel Prize Is Shared By Two U.S. Physicists

STOCKHOLM (AP) - Two U. S. scientists today jointly won the 1955 Nobel prize in physics. They are Dr. W. E. Lamb of Stanford University, and Dr. P. Kusch of Columbia University.

They will split the prize money—equivalent to $36,720—for their work in correcting an error made by a Briton who previously won the Nobel prize.

Moldy Corn Said Causing Death Of Some Animals

RALEIGH (AP) - Moldy corn has caused the death of some swine in Eastern North Carolina. It also can cause death in cattle.

Dr. J. C. Osborne, head of N.C. State College's veterinary school, said yesterday the moist weather following the hurricanes was ideal for the growth of mold on corn which was knocked on or near the ground.

Only certain kinds of mold will cause death in livestock, he stated. If farmers must use the hurricane hit corn, Osborne advises farmers to test each area in a field with only a few head of swine or cattle for five days, rather than expose an entire herd to the danger of moldy corn.

He said if the tested animals appear to be in satisfactory health at the end of five to seven days, the possibility of encountering severe losses when the grain is fed goes into the field is greatly reduced.

Although her doctor's reports have indicated steady improvement in her condition, he said yesterday she would forbid the striking blonde widow to leave her bed to attend her husband's funeral in New York City.

Mrs. Mitchell Is Honored At Tea

The Executive Board of the Greenville Garden Club honored Mrs. Sam H. Mitchell, new director of Tenth District of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, at tea on Saturday, October 29, at the home of Mrs. Vance Perkins.

Mrs. Mitchell was presented a corsage of yellow mums by the hostesses.

The guests were greeted at the front door by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and presented to the guest of honor. In the receiving line were Mrs. K. W. Cobb and Mrs. Victor Wells.

Mrs. John Carrington and Mrs. H. E. Rogers invited guests into the dining room, seated at the dining room table, Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale poured spiced tea.

In the dining room the fall motif of red, yellow and green was carried out in the arrangements and refreshments.

The table was covered with a white Chinese cutwork cloth over green, centered with an arrangement of yellow and white daisy chrysanthemums and red roses in an antique crystal compote accented by green tapers in crystal candelabra.

Dainty open faced sandwiches, in shapes of leaves, were served from a silver platter at one end of the table.

Mesdames Lynwood Worthington, Tige Gardner and Sam Weeks served cheese straws, cookies, nuts and glazed cakes to the guests.

Three new members were special guests—Mrs. L. P. Bixham, Mrs. N. L. Garrison and Mrs. Harvey Tripp. Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Hallowell.

Guests included members of the Greenville Garden Club.

Scout Recognition Dinner For District Set Nov. 10

The annual Recognition Dinner of the Pitt District, East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held in Farmville, Thursday, November 10, at 7:30 o'clock.

Plans for the dinner have been announced by James B. Mallory, Camping and Activities Committee chairman. The dinner will be staged in the Farmville High School lunch room and a number of program features are scheduled.

Principal speaker will be Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College and currently serving as president of the East Carolina Council. F. D. Duncan, also of Greenville, is district chairman.

The recipient of the Green Band Award for 1955, a recognition of the Pitt District for outstanding service to youth, will be announced at this meeting. Wyatt Brown, member of the East Carolina Council and prominent Scoutmaster of the Pitt District, will recognize the contributions to Scouting of the Den mothers.

All Eagle Scouts of former years and those also presently identified with Scout units are especially urged to attend this dinner. Chairman Mallory said today. These Eagle Scouts will have special recognition at this dinner.

Dr. John M. Mewborn of Farmville is in charge of the local arrangements for this Scout activity.

Attending Design School
Tyson's Flower Shop will be closed Wednesday and Thursday while Mrs. R. A. Tyson is attending the Southern Retail Florist Christmas Design School in Charlotte.

Fall Theme Used In Decorations For Book Clubs

BETHEL—The Book Exchange Club met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Highsmith and Mrs. A. L. Whitley as co-hostesses. Mrs. Highsmith's home was decorated with bouquets of mums and attractive dried arrangements.

During the short business meeting, Mrs. L. G. Manning presided and Mrs. Highsmith, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. The members exchanged books.

Mrs. Norman Moore was introduced who showed pictures of several European countries which she took while she and her husband were in Germany. The slides were described and questions were answered by Mrs. Moore. The pictures of interest were the castles along the Rhine River in Germany, Berlin, the Swiss Alps, Arch of Triumph in Paris and a few in Copenhagen. The group enjoyed this visual program very much.

For the social hour, the hostesses served ice cream loaf cake, nuts and coffee. Each was remembered with a Halloween favor before departing.

Eleven members and one guest met on Friday at one o'clock in the home of Mrs. Ralph Carson for the Saltwater Tucker Book Club. Variegated hues of chrysanthemums were used in the house for decorations.

The dining room table was adorned with a lovely arrangement of yellow and purple flowers flanked by yellow candles.

The luncheon menu consisted of chicken salad, snap beans, parsley potatoes, sweet potato souffle, cranberry salad on pineapple, apple pie a la mode and coffee.

After the delectable meal, Mrs. W. C. Whitehurst Jr. presided at the business meeting. Due to the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Alton Carson read the minutes which stood approved. Books were then exchanged.

Mrs. Carson introduced Mrs. Robert Davis who had as her topic for the afternoon "The Life of Helen Keller." Her wonderful and true experiences were related in a most pleasing manner. She also brought out the dependable companion of Miss Keller.

Sectional Council Of Salvation Army Held; Divisional Commander Attends

Lt.-Col. Robert Rose and Mrs. Rose of Charlotte were in Greenville Monday for a sectional officers' council with Eastern Carolina Salvation Army officers. Col. Rose is divisional commander of the Salvation Army in the Carolinas.

The meeting was held at St. James Methodist Church in Forest Circle. The morning session was a period of devotion and worship. Col. Rose used as his subject, "They Gave Themselves to the Lord."

Women of the church served luncheon to the 25 officers at the meeting.

Shortly after noon the Salvation Army group held an open-air meeting at Five Points.

The afternoon session was devoted to discussion of plans for the coming year's activities. The meeting closed with a period of meditation, prayer and praise.

Lt. and Mrs. Ben T. Lewis, in charge of the local Salvation Army post, were hosts to the visiting officials.

Overpaid Tax Fare By $99

BOSTON (AP)—There's a $100 bill waiting at police headquarters for the man who overpaid his taxi bill by $99.

Cab driver William Epstein of Revere gave the $100 to police yesterday with an explanation of how he got it.

He said a man handed it to him for a 65 cents fare. Neither noticed the denomination, so Epstein returned 35 cents change and drove off.

Later he discovered it was a $100 bill and not a $1 bill. Police said they are holding the money for its rightful owner.

Air Service Isn't Going To 'Happen'

A joint airport which will bring first-class air service to this section of North Carolina isn't going to just happen. Before this urgently needed facility becomes a reality it is going to take a lot of hard work not only by leaders in the movement but by all the citizens of the various towns involved in the project.

Most individuals who have paused to consider the potential which such a facility would offer this section are well aware of what it would mean. It would open a broad new field of rapid transportation for Eastern North Carolina. This transportation in turn would be an important inducement to industries which are seeking sites for new plants and those already in the area which are contemplating expansion programs.

Without adequate air service, Eastern North Carolina cannot expect to enjoy the economic growth through industrialization which the remainder of the state is experiencing. And unless the joint airport principle is followed, no town or city within this geographical area can hope to gain good air transportation.

In a nutshell, the matter boils down to one thing:

The Biggest Prize Yet Is Good Government

Give-away programs have a place in the entertainment business, radio, TV and the like; but such programs don't have a place in connection with elections.

It was last week that officials of Henderson, Kentucky announced every person who cast a ballot in that county in the November elections would receive a ticket on a new car to be given away. This week Jackson County, Kentucky announced it would give away to voters free tickets for 26 turkeys to those who cast a ballot on election day.

If the give-away program to get people to the polls is successful in bringing out more voters, it probably will be continued in those counties and spread to others. If it follows the pattern of the give-away programs of the past, the prize will have to be increased constantly to keep up the participants' interest. The nation's most publicized give-away programs began with a few silver dollars for the correct answer. Eyes popped when the ante went to $64 for the correct answer. Although the value of prizes gradually increased, the give-aways lost out with the public. Then with a big bounce, the give-aways came back with the $64,000 jackpot which again attracted public attention.

Will the give-away programs to get voters to the polls follow the same trend?

Good government should afford the conscientious voter all the incentive he needs to take off the few minutes required to cast a ballot in an election. What prize could be more important to the citizenry of a community than good, honest, progressive government insured by the leadership of capable officials? Indeed! Good government cannot be measured in terms of a new car. Thank-giving turkeys or even $64,000 jackpots for the lucky voter.

Tourist Gold Is Really A Year 'Round Resource

There is no such thing as the end of the tourist season in North Carolina. To be sure the number of tourists change from month to month during the year, and the areas of the state they frequent most depends upon the season. But from the hottest day of mid-summer to the coldest day of winter, North Carolina is literally crawling with out-of-state visitors.

Like other businesses, the tourist trade has its busy and slack periods during the year. The summer months provide a bustling tourist business from the mountains to the sea. As summer gives way to autumn, the pace of tourists slackens, but North Carolina still attracts visitors in smaller numbers. When the summer sun gives way to chilly breezes, and frosty nights make a blanket welcome, North Carolina's mountain and piedmont regions become a parade of nature's splendor. The majesty of Tar Heel Autumn attracts thousands, who leave thousands of dollars in their path as they visit in the state.

Surprisingly enough, the state's beaches are not deserted with the coming of autumn. Visitors have long since learned that the shifting of the wind from South to north brings to the Tar Heel coast its finest fishing season, and from the Virginia line to Southport anglers line the beaches. As the weather grows colder other tourists and sportsmen are attracted to North Carolina by its unsurpassed hunting areas. In the mountains deer, bear, grouse and other game attract the hunter. Along the coast ducks and geese congregate in one of their favorite wintering grounds in the Atlantic flyway. Sportsmen from many states follow the migratory birds to North Carolina.

Winter finds many tourist taking up temporary residence in North Carolina because of the mild climate of the state. When spring comes the cycle begins anew.

In its tourist industry, North Carolina has found a year-round business with its natural resources and enviable climate have made possible. In spite of its present importance in the state's economy, Tar Heels have just begun to scratch the surface of this gold mine.

Either Eastern North Carolina's communities must band together and seek adequate air service through joint airports; or the area must indefinitely remain without this needed form of transportation.

Obviously a few people in a few cities of this section cannot alone bring about the construction of a joint airport. But if these leaders in the movement receive unqualified public support in their efforts to acquire air service for the section, their task will be made easier. The section can reasonably expect that within a few years a major airport will lie within our midst, and commercial air service will be available.

The previous attempt to create a joint airport in this section of the state did not fail because the idea was un sound. It failed because the people of two of the eight local government units involved in the project failed to give the program the support it deserved.

Are we destined to make the same costly mistake again? Or have we finally learned our lesson?

The Department of Conservation and Development has thrown its support behind the communities of this area which are willing to seek anew a joint airport. That support can mean a great deal. Yet it will mean nothing unless the people of the communities involved are willing to take the lead in the establishment of the facility.

With adequate air transportation, Eastern Carolina's industrial development can move into a higher gear. Without adequate air transportation, this section will plod sleepily along while the remainder of the state enjoys increasing payrolls, a broader economic footing and a higher standard of living.

Sectional Rivalry Everywhere You Go

By LYNN NISBET

SECTIONAL — Last week at Wayneville a well-informed and public-spirited woman who has contributed much to the cultural and educational life of her community wondered why "folks at Raleigh" devoted all their attention to Eastern Carolina and ignored the west.

A few weeks earlier your reporter visited the coastal area and a prominent lawyer-politician wanted to know if there was some way to get equitable consideration for the east instead of spending all the State money in the west.

At the highway commission meeting this week the project of facilitating radio communication was approved for the four eastern divisions — where emergency needs seem most likely to occur — and officials said if the experiment proved worthwhile there the same kind of radio service would be installed all over the state, with the far western divisions given second priority, because after the hurricane area emergencies were more likely to occur in the mountains.

A state-state commissioner observed sotto voce that the Legislature means not many people heard him that proceedings are according to precedent. "The east and the west get everything — and the piedmont pays for it," he said.

State officials who are concerned with development of North Carolina as a whole are not greatly disturbed about this sectional rivalry. In fact they like it, so long as it is kept within reasonable bounds of putting North Carolina first, sections second, and then competition among the communities within the sections for supremacy. The idea is to get as much as possible for the South, as much of that as possible for North Carolina, then as much as possible for each section and every community.

PAY ROLLS — One troublesome thing is that by the time the capital is reached, the money is analyzed there already out of date. Easterners are still quoting statistics showing that 95 per cent of the industrial development in North Carolina is west of Raleigh, only 5 per cent east of the capital. That ratio has been changed within the past five years in favor of the east. Anyway the territory east of Raleigh represents only about one-third of total state area. That eastern third has gained proportionately more in the past five years than the rest of the state.

The desire for industrial development is based on the benefits of weekly or monthly payrolls putting money into circulation. Exact figures are not at hand, but well-informed authorities say the U.S. Marine Corps civilian and military payrolls at Cherry Point and LeJeune are bigger than any industrial payrolls in the west. If you add Port Fragg and Pope Field, which are counted definitely in the east, but actually are west of a north-south line drawn through Raleigh, the eastern third of the state probably exceeds the western third in payroll spending money. The middle third, usually designated as the "industrial piedmont," bounded roughly by Durham on the east and Gastonia on the west leads in payroll for industrial workers.

TAXABLES — The urge for industry in the east and the west is based on desire for installations that will contribute to community service by property taxes. The multiplied millions of dollars invested in military establishments, national forests and parks pay no property taxes to local governments. The State benefits from sales taxes — including gasoline, and from income taxes paid by caterers, merchants and others who serve the public. Tax-wise the military posts parks and national forests are fruitful for the State of North Carolina. But mostly they are liabilities for counties in which are located.

OVERALL — That is why the State of North Carolina has progressively for the past quarter century assumed responsibility and relieved the counties of support of public schools and public roads. Gasoline and general sales taxes paid by visitors to the mountains help to build roads and school houses on the Outer Banks and taxes paid by visitors at Nag's Head help to maintain the schools and roads at Fontana and Hixwase.

Every so often some of the mid-state big cities come up with claims they have paid such and such big sums into the sales tax fund or the gasoline road fund. Actually, the communities did not pay the taxes; mercantile establishments there just collected it from folks who came from all parts of the state. You want to be finicky about it and apply the rule that base of collection is the source of tax money, Greensboro must be credited with all Federal income taxes and Raleigh with nearly all State local collections. On the same basis Durham, Winston-Salem and Reidsville should be credited with almost half of all cigarette taxes paid by the people of the whole country, and Detroit must be given credit for almost all of the automobile taxes paid by North Carolinians.

Obviously Federal taxes must be collected and distributed over all 48 states, and State taxes must be collected and distributed over all the 100 counties. Sectional rivalry is everything, as long as it contributed to overall development.

Other Editors Are Saying ... Unions Oppose Public Power

(Henderson Dispatch)

It appears that the unions in organized labor prefer private enterprise to public ownership of industry and of property generally. The official publication, The Record, of the Utility Workers Union of America, recently carried an editorial supporting the idea of private ownership. The labor publication recognizes the benefits to its own members under the prevailing system. It was vigorous in its opposition to public ownership of the power industry, as nearly every one does except those who favor a socialistic state. If government is to own, operate and direct business, it will also do the same as to employees in business. That has been the record of history. It has been the road traveled by dictators, who trample the unions along with all the rights and privileges of other individuals in any country where that type of government is allowed to gain control. Where government dominates its citizens instead of serving them, the results are tragic and disastrous. Yet there are many in this country who advocate such a system, and a great deal will be heard of it in next year's political campaign.

The labor publication, The Record, which comes to us by way of the Burlington Times-News, discusses private versus public ownership in this manner: "We have not recently gone through a period which should have a profound effect upon us. We have seen how European governments, through seemingly innocuous acts, took over control of industry and business. It was then but a routine measure to control the labor relationship was born. From there it is but a simple matter for the dictator to control religion and education. "It took a devastating and costly war to reawaken us to the fact that the state was created for the people and not vice versa. "Was not the monster of the Communist Empire created by the philosophy of state ownership? Were not the people of Russia and Asia told that under a new kind of philosophy they would own everything in the state, only to suddenly awaken and find themselves owned by the state? "It is true that we in the light and power field are assuming the brunt of the fight to preserve our traditional free enterprise system wherein working men and women freely organized can bargain to achieve social and economic improvements, rights which are denied to workers in state owned plants."

Will Rip Take Another Nap?

Yessir, It Was Time To Go

I'm a sucker for a soft touch. Let any lame person come along playing the violin and I'll drop a coin in his cup.

Or just sit on the street corner selling pencils and I'll buy one. Why at home I've got pencils all over the place. Hundreds of them. Comb? If I ever go bald you can sell me the only man in Greenville with more combs than strands of hair.

Yes sir, I've bought pins, cards, imprinted with the Lord's Prayer, banners proclaiming "God Bless our Home", lockets, hand made wallets and dozens of other trinkets for which I'll never have any use if I live a hundred years.

I guess when I see a beggar on the street I just remember the words: "But for the grace of God there go I."

Notebook On Life

With Wilbur, It Was Love

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. (AP)—Wilbur Peeble, America's most average husband, came home, sat down on the sofa, and pulled off his shoes.

He wiggled his stockinged toes, as he stared at them with the intent look men give their feet when they hurt.

"Boy, am I glad this day is over," he said loudly.

His wife, Trellis Mae, looked up from the desk where she had been scribbling busily.

"Oh you startled me," she said.

"Are you home?"

"No, stupid, I mean Princess Margaret Rose and Capt. Peter Townsend. He wants to marry her but she told him no on account of she has to put duty ahead of love on account of he's divorced and she is a member of royalty and she can't marry him because his first wife is still alive."

"So what?" yawned Wilbur.

"So it sounds pretty flimsy to me. She keeps him dangling for two years, then they enjoy 18 days together and then she tells him to go. Mighty fishy."

"Old King Henry VIII, when he wanted to marry a new wife, didn't worry about divorce. He just lopped off the head of his old wife."

"Not a bad idea," murmured Wilbur.

"What did you say?"

"I said—that a batty idea," backtracked Wilbur quickly. "But what's all this about a petition?"

"Well, the ladies of our club met today and voted unanimously to inform the British ambassador that we thought Margaret Rose's attitude was strictly un-American. I'm supposed to draw up the petition."

"You mean the British government?"

At any rate that all illustrates this story.

One day I was walking down Evans St. when I passed a gentleman talking to a blind man who was soliciting on the sidewalk.

"Hey," called the gentleman to me. "This man is blind and he wants to move on down the street to a better location. How about leading him if you're going that way."

Here was a wonderful opportunity to help an unfortunate. It sort of brought back my scouting days when I strove to fulfill the scout motto: "Do a good turn daily."

"Sure," I replied and took the blind man by the arm.

We walked down the street for a short distance and I asked:

"How far would you like to go?"

"Anywhere along here will be all right," he replied. "I'll stop right here."

That was near the Fourth and Evans St. intersection.

I led the blind man to the building nearby and, bursting with pride for living up to my boy scout training I prepared to leave.

"Oh by the way," he said, "I need something to sit on to keep my trousers clean."

Pointing to a nearby trash can, he continued: "Would you hand me a piece of paper out of that can."

Even a sucker will move on when he realizes he has been taken. I moved on.

Employees Can Offer New Ideas

By ELMER ROESSNER

New ideas may not be the life-blood of American business but they surely amount to a lot of copules. The prosperity of many companies is based on the ability to get fresh ideas, recognize new ones and act.

One of the richest sources of ideas available are employees. They know the products and the facilities, hence their ideas usually have a sound basis. Companies with incentive systems are getting very good results.

The National Association of Suggestion Systems cites these recent, successful ideas:

Mrs. Veronica Hartnett, 25, a Swift stenographer, suggested a new way to handle and select new ideas and was awarded $5,775. Frederick Olney told General Electric some radar adjustments could be made better with a toothpick than a screwdriver and got $225. Louis R. Morone came up with 35 ideas in six years and Ford awarded him $10,888.33. James C. Morris pointed out that a lot of metal could be saved by eliminating unneeded area in a roof bolting plate; Tennessee Coal & Iron paid him $5,000.

Dealers users and volunteers often come up with ideas. Sometimes this category can be pretty wild and sometimes they make trouble. But if an idea is worth money, it is worth buying.

The Lewis Corp. maintains a staff to handle the 300 ideas volunteered every month. One man offered a gadget to be attached to a vacuum cleaner to help barbers get hair out of customers' necks. Others have proposed ways to clean venetian blinds pick up hairpins, remove dandruff and catch flies. The company is cautious, however, and all ideas it thinks have merit go through the legal department which usually suggests the inventor get a patent before discussing the idea.

Quite a few companies are afraid of suits for piracy, and some of them send volunteered ideas back unopened. One concern has a rule that all registered mail be returned over unopened to its lawyers. The other day a new girl accepted and then opened a registered letter. Inside was a blank sheet of paper. Now if the company launches a new idea, how can it prove it wasn't in that registered letter? How can it prove it didn't steal the idea from the sender?

It probably can. Meanwhile, the attorneys are waiting, waiting. TOP ADVERTISING BUDGETS FOR AUTOS AND SOAP. General Motors leads all companies in advertising expenditures, the annual Printers' Ink survey shows. GM invested $74,338,271 last year. The next eleven, in order, are:

Procter & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, Ford General Foods, Chrysler, General Electric, Lever Bros., Gillette, Reynolds, General Mills, and American Tobacco. American Tobacco spent $17,663,577 and the rest appear between that figure and $5,135,501 spent by Procter & Gamble.

The expenditures cited cover only newspapers, magazines, Sunday magazines, supplements, farm papers, network radio, network television and business publication, and do not cover billboards, matchbooks, car cards, local radio, etc.

MIRACLE DRUG RAISES FOREIGN POPULATION

Pork production, now so high that the government is buying some to keep the price up, may become even greater.

The use of an antibiotic in a sow's diet during gestation results in one or two more surviving pigs per litter, N.R. Ellis, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, told scientists assembled in Washington.

The drug—in this case Aureomycin—did not increase the sow's fecundity, but resulted in stronger offspring.

FOOD SUPPLEMENT POURS ON CALORIES

Most people have trouble with too much weight, which has led to the success of low-calorie foods and drinks.

But some are underweight, perhaps 30,000,000. And for them a high-calorie food supplement has been devised by Schenley Laboratories. It is said to be pleasant to eat from a spoon and can be used as topping on fruits or desserts and in many baking and cooking recipes. In clinic tests of the substance (MorCal) some persons gained for the first time in their lives.

Non-Voting D. C. Knee-Deep In Politics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Although legal residents of the District of Columbia have no vote, the local politicians at Washington are engaged in a Stevenson-Harriman struggle around the labor vote for the Presidential nomination by the Democratic Party next year. Unable to protect himself against his friends, the New York Governor may be presented to the nation as an ultra-radical in next April's primary here.

The controversy centers around filling a vacancy as Democratic National Committeeman for the District of Columbia. Stevenson and Harriman rosters have advanced various claimants for the position. Senator Estes Kefauver's representatives are keeping out of the present fight but they may try to elect their own man next year, when the term of the temporary incumbent will expire.

Harriman defeated Kefauver in the 1952 primary, and the District's six delegates voted for him or the first two ballots switching to Stevenson on the third.

LEFTIST CANDIDATES A leading Harriman candidate for the National Committee job is Tudor E. Dudley. A lawyer, he is assistant director of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Dudley's activities in trying to round up the labor vote for F.D.P. and Harry S. Truman were frequently discussed on Capitol Hill.

Another Harriman prospect, although he says that he will back Dudley in a showdown, is Joseph I. Rauh, Jr. Rauh is national chairman of the American People for Democratic Action, which represents a decidedly leftist faction of the Democratic party. It is frequently called the "Roosevelt annex." It has supported so many radical programs that conservative Democrats have urged that it go out of business.

Its support of a candidate or legislation is sometimes described as "the kiss of death."

STEVENSUN'S PROXY Stevenson's only proxy in the District of Columbia battle is J.C. Turner, secretary of the Maryland-D.C. American Federation of Labor, a far more conservative group than the CIO or the Americans for Democratic Action.

But it is believed that the Harriman forces will be able to elect their man unless the New York Governor decides that such radical representation would hurt him in the more important combat at Chicago. He may side-step this showdown with the man he is supporting, at least nominally.

Like Stevenson, Harriman has lately begun to take on the coloration of a conservative, figuring that the convention delegates and the voters may be in a cautious mood next year. He has indicated that he will not press for a "loyalty oath" at the convention or for FEPC legislation or any of the other Roosevelt-Truman theories he advocated as a member of their diplomatic and Cabinet household.

Harriman's enemies, however, will publicize the fact—they are doing so now—that his backers in the Nation's Capital, a political show window, are adherents of the leftist faction of the Democratic Party.

REPUBLICANS ANXIOUS The Republicans are so anxious to cling to President Eisenhower as their 1956 Presidential candidate that they will relieve the man in the White House of many seemingly essential duties and responsibilities, if that will induce him to run again. It is another reform which Ike's illness may be laterally produce in the government.

They have promised to enact legislation freeing him of the physically arduous task of signing army, Navy and Air Force commissions, many public documents and orders. This is a job peculiarly hard on a man afflicted with bursts. They will give him as many new aides as he wants, who will substitute for him in dealing with Congress, the Cabinet, the National Security Council and all other Executive agencies.

In short, the stricken GOP will relieve, renovate and remake the Presidential office, if Ike will only agree to lead them to victory once more, as they believe that only he can. It is one of the most remarkable tributes ever paid to a political leader. But it shows how hard up they are for a sure winner, without Ike.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 40 cases, an unusually heavy docket for a Monday session of court.
Drunk: Ben F. Gwaltney, 30 days in jail or pay $10; James Killbrew, Negro, $10; Baker Hopkins, $15; Cary Tucker, Negro, $10; Baker Hopkins, $10; Emma Stepps Griffith, 30 days in the women's division of Women's Prison (to be served concurrently with another charge); Hoyt C. House, Negro, $10; James L. Harris, Negro, $10; Lewis C. Parker, Negro, $10; Marion Forbes, Negro, $10; Charlie M. Bullock, 30 days suspended on payment of $25. The judgment provides that he is to pay $10 to James R. Gurganus and remain of good behavior a year. Gray Hardee, Negro, 30 days or $10.
Jane Daniels, Negro, disorderly conduct, 30 days in jail.
The case in which Chris Henderson was charged with assault was dismissed on payment of costs.
Ben E. Gwaltney, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, was given 30 days (consecutive), suspended on payment of $15.
Nine cases of larceny of tires from Sutton's Service Center against William R. Smith, Negro, and four cases against Willie Junior Hardy, Negro, which were sent up to Superior Court at a recent session of Police Court, were remanded to Police Court. On recommendation of Solicitor Ell Bloom, the court gave Smith a total of 49 months on the roads and Hardy eight years. Hardy, however, paid out and was released.

J. L. Stokes, trespass, prayer for judgment: continued on payment of costs and he is not to visit the premises of Hazel Sawyer.
Allen Smith, Negro, was found not guilty of aiding and abetting in larceny.
Assault with a deadly weapon; Hercules Daniels, Negro, (knife) on Homer Hudson, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of costs, and he is to pay $76.50 medical bill. Homer Hudson, Negro, (bottle), 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of costs and $37.50 medical bill.
James Washington, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to possess any intoxicating liquor for two years. He was placed on probation for two years.
Ruby Bass, drunk, 30 days in jail, capias not to issue until 3 p.m. She left town.
Affray: James Bradley, Negro, and Robert J. Carney, Negroes, each paid $10.
James Braswell, Negro, disorderly conduct, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted and he is not to molest Louise Moore.
Tommie Griffin of Williamston, driving after his license was suspended, 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $200 and costs. For driving drunk the court gave Griffin 12 months on the roads (consecutive) to be suspended on payment of $500 and costs, and the court recommended that his license be permanently revoked. ### Two Arrested On Liquor Charges

Two Greenville Negroes were arrested early last night and charged with possession and transportation of non-tax paid whiskey.

Taken into custody at Pactolus were George Horne, 46, of 701 Wyatt Street and Henry Taylor, 48, of 1507 Clark Street. The two were arrested by county A&C officers H. E. Lilley and Walter Taylor.

Horne and Taylor were occupying a 1950 model car in which was found 12 gallons of bootleg. The liquor and car were seized and the defendants lodged in jail here under $300 bond each.

An average of 19 million bank checks are written daily in the United States, with an average face value of $300 per check.

Chief Justice's Daughter Elopes

LAS VEGAS, Nv. (AP)—Nina (Honey Bear) Warren, 22, daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren, and Dr. Stuart Brien, 33, Beverly Hills, Calif., physician, unexpectedly flew here from Los Angeles early last night and were married.

The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace John Mendoza in a penthouse suite of the Riviera Hotel.

The elopement was a surprise because the couple obtained a marriage license only two days ago in Santa Monica, Calif. It is the first marriage for each.

Best man for the single-ring ceremony was Saul Bihari, president of Modern Records Co., Los Angeles. His wife Linda, a friend of Nina's since high school days, was matron of honor.

The blonde Miss Warren wore a dark blue dress. The hotel had decorated the suite with flowers and after the ceremony brought in a big wedding cake.

Miss Warren, born in Oakland,

Calif. and known to intimates since childhood as Honey Bear, is the youngest of three Warren daughters. Her father was elected three times as governor of California. She was stricken with polio in November 1950 but recovered fully from paralysis of the legs and attended UCLA.

Writer Questions 'Soft Schedules' Of Terps, Sooners

Editor's note: Ed Danforth, sports editor of the Atlanta Journal, made his Wednesday column available to the Associated Press. It is his praise of Jim Tatum and Bud Wilkinson as fine football coaches but blasted Maryland and Oklahoma for their "soft schedules."

In his daily column for Wednesday Danforth wrote:

"Maryland and Oklahoma currently lead 1-2 in the Associated Press football ratings. The Terps are highly regarded by the eager newsmen in the AP poll.

"Oklahoma and Maryland are undefeated this season. They often are at this point. Everyone who has watched them play has marvelled at the power and precision of their operations. Obviously, Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma and Jim Tatum at Maryland again have done a fine job of coaching.

"Just how good Oklahoma and Maryland are is open to challenge. They usually play and are now engaged in soft schedules unworthy of their resources.

"The Sooners for years have dominated the Big Six-Seven conference which is slow company as college football goes. In 1947-48, coach Wilkinson's teams have won 43 conference games and tied 2. Not a defeat by home folks in that stretch. In the same period his teams won 70, lost 7 and tied 3.

"No one can challenge coach

Wilkinson's ability, but one may wonder, how his team would get along in say, the Southwest Conference or the Southeastern.

"I would say that there are four teams right now in the Southeastern, any one of which could walk through the Sooners program. Those four would be Ole Miss, Georgia Tech, Auburn and Mississippi State.

"It is a shame that such a fine football team as Oklahoma has does not play a first rate schedule that would give them some real exercise.

"Oklahoma this year looks like Rocky Marciano in a Golden Gloves tournament.

"Maryland is not in a much faster league than Oklahoma. The Atlantic Coast Conference is a shade faster than the Big Seven year in and year out. Clemson is the only rugged conference rival on the Terps' slate."

Danforth said teams on Oklahoma's schedule to date have a combined record of 21-43-2 — 328 and Maryland's foes stand 31-30-2 — 508. He wrote that Oklahoma plays none of the nation's 20 top teams and that Maryland meets two UCLAs, one Syracuse, No. 18 UCLA plays three of the top 20, he added, and Notre Dame plays five.

"Duke had a gruesome sequence of Ohio State, Pitt, Tech and Navy. How would Maryland have fared against them?"

Tornadoes Host To Tarboro In Non-Loop Game

Coach Stuart Tripp's Ayden Tornadoes play host to Tarboro Friday night in a non-conference tilt. The Tornadoes have completed their regular conference schedule, ending with a 2-1 record, and are hoping to find up the season with some victories outside the loop.

Ayden has been practicing on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling this week and have also been doing an offensive passing attack. Quarterback Lindy Dunn has been doing most of the throwing in drills and will command the Tornadoes against Tarboro.

Filling the other backfield slots will be Tommy Edwards at fullback, James Willis, and R. L. Collins at halfbacks. Morry Jolly and Bobby Johnson will be Dunn's key targets at the end posts and will alternate with Bill Vanderford and Lester Stocks. The latter two are defensive stalwarts and will be depended upon greatly Friday night.

"If we can keep Tarboro from running around our ends," Coach Tripp said today, "we have a good chance of beating them." Vanderford and Stocks have done good work at the terminal positions on defense throughout the year and Tarboro will be their biggest threat.

Only one injury troubles the Tornadoes at present, but it is a serious one. Coach Tripp stated that first string guard Ike Baldrice is still out of uniform due to a kidney injury and will definitely not play Friday night. Bobby Smith is slated to fill in for Baldrice.

The game is expected to be close, according to Tripp, who said, "They have a little more speed than we do, but the weights are equal and it should be a well-matched contest."

Gamecocks Given Chance To Win Over UNC Old Rivals In Oyster Bowl

By THE ASSOCIATE PRESS

While the guessing game continues concerning football bowl opponents for New Year's Day, a couple of Atlantic Coast Conference teams get together Saturday in a regional contest called the Oyster Bowl.

Played at Norfolk, Va., the Oyster Bowl originally was played between high school teams and only in recent years grew up to the college level. The opponents this year — North Carolina and South Carolina — have won only three games between them, so it couldn't exactly be called a pointer for New Year's games. But it continues an old rivalry.

South Carolina, winner of two games this season, is figured to have a good chance to take another of those infrequent victories from North Carolina. The Gamecocks have won only five games and tied four in 30 games with the Tar Heels.

North Carolina, with a rougher schedule than the Gamecocks, has won only one game in six played this season and has taken four successive pastings scoring only 21 points in those four games to the opponents' 126. The Tar Heels' sprits, however, were reported high yesterday as practice began in earnest for the Oyster Bowl.

Meanwhile, the Maryland Terrapins, running the inside rail as ACC Orange Bowl candidate, worked to speed up their game against LSU. Coach Jim Tatum said his defenders—whose record is tops in the nation—must move a little faster to get set for the Tigers, who figure huddling before running a play is so much wasted time.

Terrapins may need to lower its sights a bit to ward off a breadbasket blow from Virginia Tech. Clemson plays Maryland next week, and could gain national recognition as well as a strong claim on the ACC title by pulling an upset. But Coach Frank Howard warned the Tigers yesterday that an upset also could come this Saturday at Roanoke, Va. Tech upended Clemson 18-7 last year.

Twice-beaten Duke plays once-beaten Navy at Baltimore, and although the two teams have lost much prestige through their defeats, a corking battle is in prospect. The Blue Devils still minus quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, went through a rough, spirited workout yesterday. End Jerry Koucourek was declared unlikely to play Saturday due to an ankle injury.

Another rugged season was held at Virginia, whose Cavaliers travel to Pittsburgh in their accustomed underdog role. This looks as the season's roughest opponent for the Cavaliers, who are having one of their leanest of recent years. With halfback Herb Hartwell out for the rest of the season, fullback Jim Bakhtiar likely will carry an even heavier offensive load.

Wake Forest probably will be missing a couple of players when it plays host to William and Mary. Jack Ladner is not counted on to see action Saturday and center Joe Dupree, also injured, missed practice yesterday. The Deacons practiced offensive passing yesterday and brushed up their running game.

North Carolina State opens a fresh record book at Boston this Saturday when the Wolfpack plays its first game of football with Boston University.

'Hurricane' Slips In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson has replaced France's Charley Humes as the No. 1 middle weight contender and Cuba's Nino Valdes has moved ahead of Hurricane Tommy Jackson in the heavyweight class.

These were among the many changes made in the monthly rankings released today by Ring Magazine, the boxing publication.

Robinson, who meets middleweight king Bobo Olson in a title fight in Chicago Dec. 9 was second a month ago. Humes was dropped to third because of inactivity. Rocky Castellani advanced to second.

Jackson's loss to Jimmy Slade dropped the Hurricane from third to fourth, reversing positions with Valdes. Slade unranked for many months, vaulted to fifth place among the contenders. Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Bob Baker of Pittsburgh remained as the top two contenders.

Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, who gets a shot at Moore's 165-pound crown in London Jan. 10, advanced from fourth to third among the contenders. He is behind Floyd Patterson of Brooklyn and Willie Pastrano of New Orleans. Harold Johnson of Philadelphia was demoted to fourth.

In the welterweight division, former champion Johnny Saxton of New York has replaced Ramon Fuentes in second place.

Archie Moore Claims Second Chance Pledged

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore is sure he's going to get another shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano next June "because Rocky told me so."

"The night of the fight, Rocky told me 'you deserve another chance,'" said Moore yesterday. "I'm going to hold him to his word."

"Who else is he going to fight? That Hurricane Jackson man eliminated himself the other night, losing to Jimmy Slade."

Moore was in town to agree to terms for a light heavyweight title defense against Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, at Earl's Court, London, Jan. 10. But all he wanted to talk about was Marciano.

Somebody asked if he thought he had been hurt by Referee Harry Kessler's extra counts over Marciano, Sept. 21, after Rocky already was standing up in the second round.

"I got a ton of ammunition this high," said Archie, raising his hand up around his chest. "Do you know I can hit the speed bag five times in one second? How many times do you think I could have hit Rocky in those three or four extra seconds that Kessler gave him?"

No rematch has been signed, as yet.

No terms were announced for the Moore-Pompey match, Archie's fifth defense of his 175-pound crown. It was understood the split will be 40-20 with the big share going to the champ along with a probable guarantee.

ECC Announces 21-Game Slate

A 21-game schedule for the East Carolina College basketball team for the 1955-56 season has been announced by Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of athletics. The Pirates will play 10 home games, and 11 on the road.

The Pirates, coached by Howard Porter, now beginning his 10th season as basketball mentor at East Carolina, will open with the Guilford College Quakers at Guilford College on December 3.

Two North State conference foes, Catawba and Lenoir Rhyne, will come here for home games before the Christmas holidays. They play here on consecutive dates, Catawba on December 9 and Lenoir Rhyne on December 10.

The full schedule: December 3, Guilford, at Guilford; 4, the Phillips '66', Oiler, in Wilmington, N.C.; 9, Catawba, in Greenville; 10, Lenoir Rhyne, in Greenville; 15, Appalachian, in Boone.

January 6, Belmont Abbey, in Belmont; 7, Elon College, in Greenville; 10, High Point, in High Point; 12, Guilford College, in Greenville; 14, Lenoir Rhyne, in Hickory; 15, Western Carolina, in Cullowhee; 19, McCrary's, in Greenville; 27, Appalachian, in Greenville.

February 2, Atlantic Christian in Greenville; 4, McCrary's, in Asheville; 8, Catawba, in Salisbury; 11, Elon, in Elon; 14, High Point, in Greenville; 16, Belmont Abbey, in Belmont; 18, Atlantic Christian, in Wilson.

Coach Porter's crew has begun workouts in building a squad for the upcoming season.

Tatum Isn't Kidding Over The LSU Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Coach Jim Tatum isn't kidding this week about considering Louisiana State a dangerous opponent of his No. 1 Maryland football team.

In a rare move, he is holding secret practices.

"The closed door" policy adds weight to an otherwise weekly expression of concern over the opposition.

Tatum and his staff are convinced of LSU's threat to their undefeated record from reports by Eddie Teague who scouted them. What's equally important to Maryland is that the players are impressed, too.

"They're big, rugged and bruising," reported Teague. "They're in a class with UCLA and Baylor (considered to be Maryland's two best victims)."

"For the first time this season, they'll outweigh us. In addition, they move fast. Hustle is their most important asset."

This time, Maryland isn't going by the record which on the LSU side shows only an opening victory over Kentucky.

"The only game they were really beaten was Texas A&M, 26-0," states Teague.

They tied Rice, lost only 7-0 to Georgia Tech, 18-14 to Florida and 29-26 to Mississippi.

"Paul Dietzel, the LSU coach, has said publicly his purpose is to pour the pressure on in the second half and that's exactly what they've done," said Teague.

Teague admitted he had issued warnings to the press almost every week about the potential of Maryland's foe. "This time I mean it," he said.

Tatum believes him, otherwise he wouldn't go into secret session, evidently to cook up something new. So far this season, he hasn't come out with anything radically different and has been content to coast when he can. Maryland has scored 15 of its 23 touchdowns in the first half of its seven games and substitutes have played early and often.

Dietzel said at Baton Rouge the squad he will take to College Park is in "the worst physical condition of the season" after the rugged loss to Mississippi last Saturday.

DeMarco, Ryff In Ring Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two lightweights with a reputation for roughness Paddy De Marco and Frankie Ryff, will cuff each other tonight (10 p.m. EST) in a scheduled 10-round fight at the Coliseum and on a television network (ABC).

The winner undoubtedly will make a pitch for a shot at the 135-pound title held by Wallace (Bud) Smith. De Marco held the title for eight months last year while manager Charles Black of Ryff said his boy is "ready now" for the championship try.

While Ryff generally is viewed as a fancy boxer, Orlando Zulueta has a different opinion. After Ryff beat him, Zulueta said he was "the roughest and dirtiest fighter I ever met — even worse than Paddy De Marco."

Fites Last Nite

By The Associated Press

SACRAMENT, Calif. — Larry Salas, 129, Monterey, Mexico, stopped Pete Aguirre, 132, Los Angeles, 10.

HOUSTON, Tex. — Paul Jorgensen, 126, Houston, outpointed Kay Campuche, 128, Mexico City, 12.

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Star Gony 139, Philippines, stopped Bobby Sanders 140 1/2, San Francisco, 10.

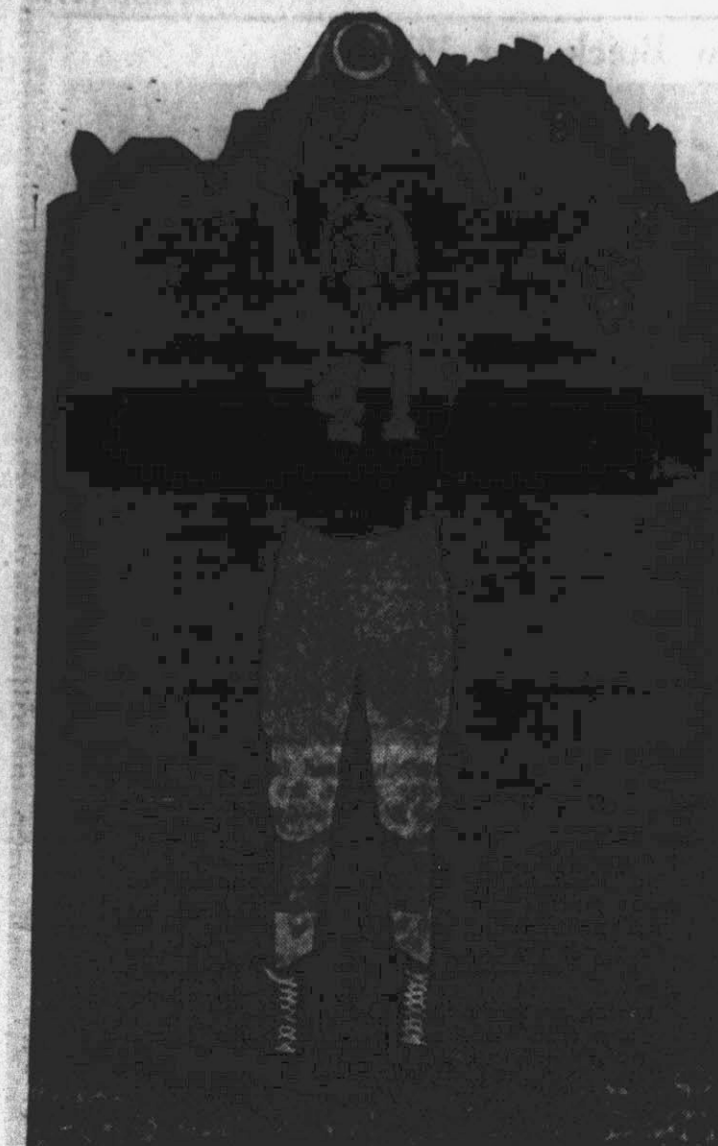

HARTFORD, Conn. — Larry Boardman, 138, Marlboro, Mass., stopped Dennis (Pat) Brady, 141, New York, 10.

No Complaints From Britishers

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The weather had cooled off a bit and the Britishers are playing well.

So said Dai Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team, as he led his group out on the Thunderbird Country Club course for another practice round today.

There were no complaints, either from Capt. Chick Hepler of the 10-man American outfit which meets the British Saturday and Sunday in the biennial international matches.

Pirates To Face Big Tampa Team

The East Carolina Pirates are sparing no horses in getting themselves ready for big Tampa University here this Saturday night in the final game of the 1955 season.

Yesterday, under the direction of coaches Jack Boone, Earl Smith and Jim Mallory, the Bucs sprinted through two hours of offensive scrimmage in which the entire attack was thoroughly checked and polished.

Dick Cherry's the Pirates' candidate for Little All-America honors, led the practice session from his quarterback post. The Washington Bombshell tossed strikes after strikes to his ends and halfbacks in the passing drills. Later he commanded Bobby Ferry, Harold O'Kelly and Bob Maynard in a successful land attack.

200-pound senior from Johnstown, Pa. He led the Spartan ball carriers in 1954 with better than seven yards per try as a fullback. This season he's been shifted to half because of his tremendous speed.

Bill Minahan, 170-pound senior quarterback, is the man best remembered by the Pirates. He personally wrecked the Pirates last season with two touchdown passes. The Spartan fullback is Bob Gambrell, who weighs 185 and faster than he looks. He is the leading scorer on the club and a hard man to stop in the Tampa split-T attack.

A couple of 200-pound ends, Bill Selick and Dick Harte, handle the flanks admirably. Starting tackles are Bob Lovely, 6-2, 225 pounds of tiger, and huge Tom Mahlin, 6-5, a 275 pound giant. The No. 3 tackle is Nello Rimoldi, who tips the scales at 235.

Junior Henry Garcia and Ed Duray are the frontline guards, Garcia weighs 230 and Duray 215. Senior Tom Greene, a 215 pound workhorse, is the starting center.

Claim Robinson May Head Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Add another rumor to the winter baseball game: Jackie Robinson will call it quits with the Brooklyn Dodgers and take a job as manager of Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League.

A Vancouver newspaper, The Province, published the report as "a possibility" yesterday.

Robinson thought the idea of "any right proposition" along that line, would be fine. But as yet he's heard nothing from the Vancouver club itself.

Jackie, who hasn't yet signed a contract for 1956 with Brooklyn's world champions, told the Associated Press from his home in Stamford, Conn., that "as far as I know right now, I'll be playing with the Dodgers again next year."

G-Men In Offensive Drills

By BILLY ARNOLD

Reflector Sports Writer

For Greenville high school, yesterday was a day of offensive drill, as the Phantom coaches prepare their charges to meet a rugged Goldsboro team. Friday night in Goldsboro.

As always, the starting lineup for the non-conference tilt had not been announced by Coach Guy Lewis and won't until game time. There may be some changes since last week. However, the Green squad which downed Smithfield 20-7 this past weekend will probably get the nod again.

New Backfield Strength

The Greenville backfield that ripped through Smithfield defenses last Friday is a comparatively new one, a product of the coaching staff's experimenting with positions. The new crew showed surprising strength on the ground and has possibly gained back some of the land power that it lost earlier this season. Big Billy Sermons, a mainstay in the Phantom backfield, has been a regular since the first game and is the only ball-carrier who still remains of the four who began the year.

Teaming up with Sermons last week were sophomore Mack Roebuck at quarterback, Pete West and Johnny Arnold at halfbacks. Robert Howell, an underclassman, has been doing well in drills this week and may see plenty of action at a halfback slot Friday night.

Linemen In Good Shape

Last week's starting line is in good shape and will probably fill the same positions against Goldsboro. Ends were Ike Riedick, Harold Edwards and Billy Cox; tackles were Howard King and Angus Duff; guards were Barney Barrett and Kelly Barnhill, and the center was Jack Calhoun.

The forward wall under the supervision of Vaughn Fowler and Stanley Jones, have been undergoing hard blocking drills on the sled this week to improve their blocking in the line. Coach Jones expressed the belief that the Greenvies would show up well against Goldsboro and stated that the boys have "a little more confidence in themselves than before."

Same Club Back

What's more, they've got practically the same club back. It's reported that they're even better. Last year they had some transfers and service men who were ineligible who are on the present club.

The Spartan offense is paced by halfback Tom (Spook) Spack, a 6-4,

By RAE FOLEY

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

Shandy admitted Mrs. Thomas, who had flung a polo coat over a cotter's nightdress and tied a scarf over her hair whose lumps indicated his curls beneath.

"Where's Doc?" she demanded. "Upstairs," Shandy said. "He's all right. Mrs. Thomas. I'll take you up."

For a long moment she looked at Caro, in the blue satin negligee, her hair turned and went up the stairs without a word, moving Shandy, thought, like nemesias.

Unexpectedly Carol ran after her, caught her arm. "Helen will do everything we can to make him comfortable, you know."

The doctor's wife shook off her hand. "You killed Roger," she said deliberately, "so you'd be free to get Doc. I'm not blind I've watched you for months and I knew as well as you did that you could wrap the poor besotted fool around your finger. But he's my husband. Before I let you have him I'll tell everyone you killed Roger Brindle. I intended to wait, to let Doc come to his senses. Though I did think it my duty to inform Jane Brindle. I wrote to her that there was something mighty queer about Roger's death."

"So that's why she came," Carol cried. "Helen, you left that anonymous letter for me when you and Doc came to take me to the service."

"I thought it might stop you from thinking you'd got away with it," Mrs. Thomas pushed Carol aside and went up to the room where Ethel stood waiting.

Carol came slowly down the stairs to Shandy. "What happened to Roger?" she demanded. "At first I thought it was suicide. And I couldn't bear to have any one know. That he hadn't been happy with me, I mean. Of course, I knew it wasn't his heart. The place was full of gas. But when I knew he'd been killed I thought you did it."

"Revenge?" he asked her. "Jealousy? Desire for you? No, Carol. Neither you nor Roger mattered enough."

"Do you like Mrs. Fleming better?" "I like her better, Carol. Do you have a black velvet dress?"

"She blinked in astonishment. 'What on earth are you talking about?'"

"Have you?" "I had a black velvet negligee. Shandy, you're crazy. What on earth—"

"When did you wear it last?" "I have no idea. Months ago, I suppose."

"What did you do with it?" "It was getting shabby so I gave it to Beatie Kibbee. There was so much material I thought she could turn it into a dress or something." Carol looked at him her mouth partly open. At last she said, "You didn't kill Roger. You didn't—like me enough. When he made no reply she went on, groping her way. But someone killed him and tried to kill Mrs. Fleming and shot Doc tonight. And the Thomases both think I did it. Only I didn't, Shandy."

Her eyes seemed to grow bigger while he looked at them, bigger, almost sightless. And fear was a growing in her face. "I don't know what to do," she said, her voice shaking. "Roger always told me what to do."

"But where is Beatie?" Shandy said suddenly. "The Kibbees must have heard that shot. Where are they?"

And he was afraid for Lois, alone in Roger's cottage. He left Carol and ran out into the darkness.

After the brilliantly lighted house the garden seemed very dark. In spite of his driving sense of haste, Shandy waited for a moment to let his eyes adjust to the night. And while he stood still he was aware of cautious movement.

Sound is deceptive in the dark and he held his breath to help him listen, trying to determine the direction.

And then, on his left, someone moved. The intruder was unexpected, startlingly close so close that Shandy heard clearly a sharp, gasping breath. A stone grated, rolled under a heel.

Step by step they advanced. The intruder would move a few feet and Shandy would follow. Forward and backward, side to side, they shuffled, along the paths, across the lawn through the hedges.

There was a curiously leisurely pace to this phantom pursuit. As though the thing Shandy followed had no objective at all, as though it moved just ahead of him as aimlessly as some disembodied ignis fatuus.

For what appeared to be endless time he played a kind of shifty hide and seek. Then he put on a burst of speed, his fingers brushed a sleeve and then the intruder swerved, doubling back toward the big house, and at that moment Shandy knew who it was.

No one else loomed so big. It was Clyde Kibbee whom he was chasing.

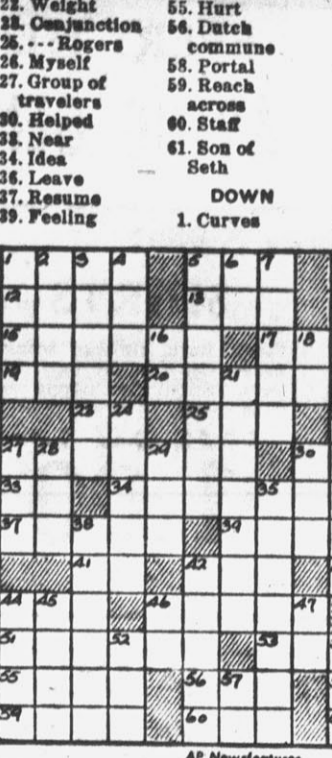

Shandy could feel the familiar constriction in his muscles which meant he could not run much farther. He stood still, heard the thud of running feet as Clyde attempted to circle around him, dived forward in a tackle and brought the other down in a heavy crash. The side of his open hand moved in a sharp, chopping motion and Clyde lay still.

Shandy dragged the unconscious said grimly. "Roger killed, you nearly killed Dr. Thomas shot—"

"No," Lois said. "Not Clyde. He

"He hated Roger," Shandy told her. He blamed him because he had no home life and because he thought Roger stole his girl and because Albert Kibbee carried his hero worship so far he couldn't see his own son. And he was in the garden tonight after that attack on Doc.

"Can't you see he had no reason to harm Dr. Thomas? And he'd never have done anything to frighten Paula. He's been a decoy, Shandy. No, please let me call Jane."

Shandy capitulated. And Lois was right. There had been two people in the garden.

One-Third More Earnings Among Corporations

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—The average American corporation is making one third more money this year than last. Six out of every seven corporations so far reporting their net profit after taxes in the first nine months of this year show increases over the like period of 1954.

Some have more than doubled their earnings. Many have set all-time highs for the period. A number have increased their dividends on the strength of their excellent showings.

These conclusions are drawn from a study of the earnings statements of 451 corporations, big and small, representing most major industries.

Combined, the 451 corporations had $6,561,611,121 in profits left over after setting aside that much or more for payment of U. S. corporate income taxes. In the first nine months of 1954 the same 451 companies had combined profits of $4,924,023,330.

This year's gain over last was 32.9 per cent. In the 1954 period many businesses were touching bottom of a mild recession, but even so corporate profits for the entire year of 1954 managed to pull ahead of 1953 by four per cent. Only 62 of the 451 reported smaller earnings this year than last. Five of the 451 operated at a loss. In the 1954 period 18 of the same 451 companies had gone into the red.

Corporate reports are flowing in peak volume now, and this first sampling of the 451 early birds can be only an indication of what the final totals will be when several hundred thousands have reported.

The 44 railroads in the sampling had particularly pleasant results to report. The average increase for all 44 was 58.6 per cent.

The 30 utilities had a combined increase of 9 per cent—continuing the slow but steady gains of this growing but regulated industry.

The 374 industrial corporations in the list show a combined increase in profits of 33.6 per cent over the first nine months of 1954.

Most spectacular gain was made by the group of seven coal companies—up 181.3 per cent this year. Steel companies showed striking gains. The 31 in the group averaged 84.9 per cent higher, with many doing much better than the average.

The nonferrous mining and metalworking companies gained 48 per cent. Sparked by General Motors' record showing, the motors group averaged 55.7 per cent higher than last year. Fourteen auto equipment suppliers did even better, up 91.5 per cent.

Airlines were averaging 87.9 per cent better profitwise than the year before. The squeeze on profits in the food industry finds seven of the 21 so far reporting down from last

Principals Hear ECC President

Elementary education in seeking its proper role is now having its hour of decision. President John D. Messick at East Carolina College told school administrators attending the Conference of the Division of Principals, North Carolina Education Association Wednesday morning of this week in Durham.

Describing elementary schools as "the largest single public enterprise of the American people," he pointed out the importance of their role in laying the foundations of education for children in a democratic society.

Not only is elementary education now vying for position, he said, but also it is trying to answer many difficult questions affecting progress. He mentioned the problems of financial support, space for an ever-increasing number of pupils, shortage of adequately trained teachers, and determination of the best methods and techniques of teaching. The cost of education per pupil in the United States is $244.24, he pointed out. In North Carolina at present it is only $175.62, he stated. The elementary school, he said, occupies an important place in our modern educational system because "it provides the foundation for all that is to follow."

Its aims include initiation of the "process to educate the total personality," training toward civic responsibility and economic efficiency, and establishment of the bases of good human relationships.

Declaring that the public school is the "laboratory" of the democratic process, Dr. Messick stated that teachers and administrators have as their responsibility "the designing of an elementary school program which will insure to every child the common learnings and the finding of his place in a democratic society. This means," he said, "that each of us must realize that the public school is an enterprise common to our democracy—publicly controlled and publicly supported in such way as to perpetuate this way of life for generations to come."

Find Fragment Of Historic Ship

EAGLE HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A rotting chunk of wood is all that remains of the once proud steamer Illinois, famed as the first ship to pass through the Soo Locks 100 years ago.

The 90-foot long piece of wood, apparently a cross beam, was found near the tip of upper Michigan's northernmost point, the Keweenaw Peninsula.

The Illinois, which passed through the locks in 1855, went down in 1864 after striking a reef outside Eagle Harbor.

Fisherman Just Fueling Around

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Lt. Paul Smith as a Coast Guard helicopter pilot has lowered many gallons of gasoline to careless fishermen whose boats ran out of fuel.

The other day Smith was fishing 15 miles offshore when his boat ran out of gasoline. His co-worker and friend, Lt. John Vukic, dropped the fuel for Smith's idle boat—in ill-concealed mirth.

Four-Day Delay On Texas Tower

BOSTON (AP)—A television dealer went to a Texas Tower to install a TV set.

The tower is a huge station in the process of completion 110 miles off Cape Cod.

Darrell Roberts expected to complete installation in two days but foul weather made it impossible for a tug to take him off for six days.

CLOTHED AGAIN

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Eugene Stone returned to his home to find that thieves had stolen all his clothing—didn't sleep a change of socks. Friends gave him a shower of clothing—enough ready to wear for a change and money to select some others.

Robersonville PTA Carnival Is Success

The Halloween Carnival sponsored by the Robersonville Parent-Teacher Association was a financial success and netted the two local schools $2,740. Voting fees for kings and queens accounted for more than $1,600 of this sum, an official stated.

Robersonville High School drum majorettes and the band led the parade. School children of various grades, in costumes, were in the procession. Then followed the kings and queens representing the 12 grades.

The parade, witnessed by a great crowd, ended at Bailey's Warehouse, where food and drink stands and carnival concessions were patronized. There were booths for contests and games for the young people.

Lee and Craft presented the "Show of Shows" and the kings and queens participated in various skits. Following the voting, the following kings and queens were crowned: Elementary School: Jack Cochran and Bonnie Brown.

High School: Wiley Rogerson and Pam Coe.

A dance followed the carnival and climaxed the profitable Halloween Carnival.

The following is a list of the kings and queens:

Mrs. C. B. Martin's first grade: Mort Hurst and Cassandra McRorie.

Miss Minnie Cochran's first grade: Jack Cochran and Bonnie Brown.

ment not only has to deal with the Mau Maus but also faces the problem of handling the Minerva Literary and Gin Rummy Society. "I'll have nothing to do with the petition, Britain has enough woes." "But poor, poor Capt. Peter Townsend—my heart bleeds for him," cried Trellis Mae. "Mine doesn't," said Wilbur. "In a way he's better off. If she'd said yes, there'd always be gossip that he was merely a poor boy who stole the key to a woman's favor and fortune. "Now he's free to make a million dollars on his own. He could get at least a half million writing his memoirs, '18 days in the wrong castle,' a quarter million starting in a Hollywood movie on his life, and another quarter million lecturing to women's clubs and turning out magazine articles." "Oh Peter Townsend would never stoop to such things," objected Trellis Mae. "After all, he's royal, too, in his own way. He was a hero in the Royal Air Force." "Well, I'd stoop to 'em," said Wilbur. "Nobody's give me the runaround and get away with it." Trellis Mae looked at him curiously. "Supposing I was a princess and you wanted to marry me but there were rules against it and I said I couldn't marry you—well, what would you do?" "I'd do like I did before," said Wilbur. "Like I did when your old man said I wasn't making enough money to support us both, and your mother said she couldn't bear to see you leave home and you said maybe we'd better put it off a while, and I told you that people can't just go on through life putting off love and I dragged you out of the house and married you." Trellis Mae's eyes misted. She tore up the petition to the British government, came over and sat in her husband's lap, ruffled his hair and kissed him. "Wilbur, sometimes you act like a gruff old bear," she said, "and bears get hungry. What would you really like for dinner?" "Dinner," said Wilbur, a king at home with his queen in his castle.

Stevenson Expected To Join In Risky California Primary

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson may put most of his primary eggs in a California basket in his expected race for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination. Stevenson is reportedly ready to announce his candidacy at a caucus of Illinois Democrats in connection with a three-day national party rally beginning in Chicago Nov. 17.

While he probably will not be prepared to discuss campaign details, then, associates said Stevenson has decided to enter selected primaries, of which the June 8 California contest could be the most critical. The former Illinois governor won the 1952 nomination without venturing into contested state primaries. But friends said he recognizes the necessity of fighting it out next year with some other potential aspirants for the nomination and welcomes the chance to show what he can do as an intensive campaigner. However, the Stevenson strategists will pick their own battlefields. They intend to pass up the March 13 New Hampshire primary, where Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee trounced President Truman before the latter announced in 1952 that he wasn't running again.

Kefauver, who reiterated today he hasn't made up his mind whether to run next year, can be expected to enter the New Hampshire lists. His friends also are eyeing the April 3 Wisconsin primary, the May 8 Ohio test and possibly the May 29 Florida contest. The word from the Stevenson camp is that he will permit his name to go on the March 20 Minnesota ballot, where he has pledged of party organization support, but will stay out of Ohio and Wisconsin. There is some talk of a Stevenson entry into Florida, where Kefauver got only 5 of the state's 24 convention votes in 1952. But unless both go in there, Stevenson's major collision with Kefauver and other hopefuls now appears likely to come in California. Since Gov. Averell Harriman of New York has said he won't enter any primaries, Stevenson and Kefauver appear to be the only aspirants with nationwide appeal likely to fight it out at the ballot boxes. State Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown California's top Democratic vote getter, is busy organizing a delegation there pledged to Stevenson. Kefauver has done nothing to halt a "Kefauver for President" group in the state that plans a slate of delegates for him. Kefauver carried off California's 68 votes in his unsuccessful 1952 bid for the nomination and is supposed to retain strength there today. Stevenson's aides think they can dispose of Kefauver as a contender for next year's nomination by defeating the Tennessee senator there.

Nobody'd Guess Grace Kelly Has Diet Problem

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Diet-conscious citizens may be happy to learn that Grace Kelly has weight problems, too.

This was disclosed during a call to the set of her first picture in over a year. "The Swan." It was late morning, and she offered some celery and carrot sticks. On her makeup table was a box of dried apricots. Nearby were some graham crackers.

She admitted that she does have to diet now and then.

"My mother is German," she explained. "And you know how the Germans love to eat. We all grew up with pretty healthy appetites."

How does she keep the Kelly curves under control? It starts with oatmeal in the morning.

"Oatmeal is best," she remarked munching on a carrot stick. "I have to get up at 6 to be at the studio on time. Oatmeal keeps me from getting hungry until 11. If you get hungry before that, then you get started on the doughnut routine, and that can be dangerous."

She has a light lunch, but usually succumbs to a big dinner. And sometimes she backslides with a heavy dessert, as she did at the City of Hope Dinner honoring the Los Angeles publishers. "Then I pay for it all week," she sighed.

She likes exercise but gets little while she's working. When she's in New York, she does a lot of walking.

She plans to return east next spring. Under her MGM contract, she is allowed a leave of absence to do a play. She's looking for one now.

Women Of Poland Are Not Happy Over Status

By TOM REEDY
 WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Communist Poland is a young man's country today, and not all the women are happy about the way things are run.

Men 20 to 45 hold almost all jobs the party controls. Prime Minister Josef Cyrankiewicz, 45, has held top office seven years. Chief editors are in their 30s. Thaddeus Krachowsky, 36, supervises Orbis Corp., the state's version of the American Express Co. He operates night clubs, hotels, ticket agencies—and travels to the West frequently to pick up new ideas.

To hold an important job two things are important: youthful vigor and a record of having resisted the Nazis. Party membership helps but is not necessary; there are only 1,000,000 members in the 27 million population.

The young party member differs from the Communist one seen in East Germany. He spends his first earnings buying a good necktie. The East German Red feels that he has to show his social leanings by throwing away his necktie.

The Pole, be he Communist or not, is finicky about his appearance. He understands the suit technique and at New Year's time much of Warsaw trots around in dinner jackets.

The Polish women have their doubts. One well-educated 26-year-old commented:

"The Polish man today thinks he is an almighty. He thinks it is enough to kiss our hand publicly when we start to dance and when the dance ends. That's as far as his etiquette goes."

"All this talk of the emancipation of women is nonsense. Surely, we can work in jobs but unless we are married, we cannot get a decent place to live and certainly no place where we can entertain a caller."

"Do the men do anything about that? They are busy strutting around and getting drunk. Every time we see an American, or an Englishman or a Frenchman, we discover that the Polish man of today has lost his manners."

Bachelor girls have to double up in single-room dwellings while the men get the pick of apartments regardless of marital status.

A young party official commented: "The women expect us to get everything done at once. We've been busy and we haven't any time for fancy things. The women blame us because there are not so many good dresses and coats and shoes in the shops. They forget that not long ago there weren't even any shops."

However, the battle of the sexes is going politically and socially, the cities and villages are teeming with kids. Somebody is getting along with somebody else.

Many Chores Seen Open To Television

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—What is it that watches the baby, catches shoplifters, helps the doctor, the preacher and the teacher, and even keeps an eye on the gambling tables in a certain Reno establishment?

Why, television, of course. Closed-circuit television.

Rather quietly, with a word here and a hint there, the closed-circuit TV age has suddenly descended upon us. What is closed-circuit television? Don't bother with the technicalities. Just think of the TV camera as an extension of human vision, able to perceive and transmit to selected viewers miles away or in the next room scenes and information that cannot otherwise be readily seen.

"This is the point," says John R. Howland. "If I can see in that other room it's going to save me time or effort or money."

Howland is general sales manager of Dage Television Division, Thompson Products Inc., of Michigan City, Ind., a major producer and pioneer in closed-circuit TV. A year ago there were about 100 such installations in the country. Today there are about 1,500. By the end of 1956 there will be 5,000, says Howland.

Here are not just some of the things closed-circuit TV is capable of doing. Here are some actual compliments:

Department stores in certain cities have installed cameras which keep an unobtrusive eye on shoplifters. Banks are using the system to speed signature verification and customer balances between drive-in tellers' offices and centralized accounting divisions.

Churches are using it to televise services to overflow crowds, thus doing away with the need for two Sunday morning services.

Closed-circuit TV is making enormous strides in higher education. It's used in lectures to huge classes, in teaching operating techniques, and even to enlarge microscopically small objects in laboratory courses. At Penn State, for example, about 4,500 students are being taught in part with the aid of the method.

In hospitals closed-circuit TV keeps a watchful eye on baby areas, narcotic cabinets, and even back doors. It teaches operating techniques to nurses who cannot crowd into a sterile operating room. In certain hospital wings patients can be watched in case of a nurse shortage.

In a Reno gambling casino there's a camera installed in a chandelier to make sure that the proper money ends up in the proper pockets. The Potomac Railroad Yard in AEL.

CORN, Okla. (AP)—John Edwin Vogt won't forget the hurricane season for a long time.

No he wasn't hit by any of the big blows. His friends keep ribbing him about three hurricanes around his house.

His wife, Hilda, and two daughters, Brenda and Janet, bore the names of three 1955 hurricanes.

Mother Love Of Frustrated Dog Showered On Toy

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A frustrated French poodle called Mandy is showering a toy with mother love.

And the unresponsive toy—a rubber poodle about the size of a pup—has Mandy questioning her mistress with whines and deep, brown eyes asking for sympathy.

Petite Mandy was to have been a mother last Saturday. Showing all signs of expectancy, Mandy ran through the house of her mistress Mrs. Muriel Carpenter, building nests of clothes and rags.

"When the weekend passed, we were worried," Mrs. Carpenter said. "Finally, yesterday, we took her to the veterinarian. He X-rayed her and said despite the symptoms, Mandy was not going to have pups."

Dr. J. H. McCabon, the veterinarian, said the reason for Mandy's condition is not quite understood but it has to do with hormones. He said she'll either mother inanimate objects or perhaps, like others, nurse another sort of animal—such as a cat or chicken—until the phase passes.

"Mandy, of course, doesn't know all this," said Mrs. Carpenter. "All she knows is that she's built nests and waited for her pup. And now she has a pup, a strange one it's true, but it's hers."

"She carries it in her mouth and whines. It always has to be near her. Then she'll pick it up again, and look at me with her deep, brown eyes and whine."

Mrs. Carpenter says Mandy won't go to bed without the little toy. Sometimes it's under her, sometimes alongside. She licks it and shows obvious displeasure if anyone else touches it.

Mandy used to bring the pink rubber toy to people to play tug of war, as dogs are prone to do. But that is a forgotten past.

"Now the toy has come to life," Mrs. Carpenter said, "and no one is going to tug at Mandy's puppy."

Top Resort City For 400 Years

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Kashmir, despite political unrest and the unsettled Indian-Pakistan dispute for its control, is still India's top tourist attraction. A record 40,000 tourists visited Kashmir valley last season. There were only 1,490 foreigners, the rest Indians.

It has been the Queen of summer resorts in India for 400 years. It was first discovered by the Moghul emperors. The British preferred nearby, easily-accessible Simla, 200 miles north of Delhi for their summer capital; but went to Srinagar for a real holiday.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

University Will Share Studies

BOGOTA (AP)—The University of the Andes arranges to have some of its 600 students divide their studies between the university here and the universities of Texas, Illinois and Pittsburgh in the United States.

It's part of a program to provide better technical training.

President of the University of the Andes is Alberto Lleras Camarero who was president of Colombia from 1946 to 1948.

"It's almost impossible to study technical courses here," Lleras said "particularly engineering. By sending our students to the United States we give them the advantage of advanced technical facilities and a splendid academic atmosphere."

Inspiration By Pastor's Phone

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP)—The Rev. Dale E. Oliver has instituted a unique telephone inspirational program.

Known as "Inspiration 340" Rev. Oliver provides recorded words of cheer and faith from his study at the Evangelical Free Church. By merely dialing the number, residents are greeted by messages like the following:

"Hello! We're glad you called yesterday but a memory, tomorrow a promise, today an opportunity. Make the most of it. The Evangelical Free Church reminds you that families that worship together are happy families. Read your Bible every day. Thank you."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—Stocks wavered irregularly lower today in a rather quiet market. Prices generally were from around 3 points lower to fractions higher, and many leaders were unchanged.

Trading was moderate in the neighborhood of yesterday's 1,800-2,000 shares.

It was the third day of quickly selective markets with few lights to break the monotony of regular trading.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway, Houston Oil, Distillers Corp., Consolidated Natural Gas, du Pont, International Paper, Pabco, General Motors and United Aircraft.

Higher were Republic Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, RCA, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric, Santa Fe Railroad, and Paramount Pictures.

RALEIGH (U)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady, farm price 1.8, f.o.b. plant price 1.94; Raleigh eggs steady, a large 53-55. Asheville fryers and broilers steady, farm price 1.8, f.o.b. plant price 1.94; eggs steady, a large 48-50.

RALEIGH (U)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 3¢ higher. Tops of $15.00 at Hillsboro, Beaufort, Goldsboro, Mount Gilead, Mount Olive, Elizabethtown, Siler City.

Says GOP No One-Man Show

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (U)—Rep. James P. S. Devereux (R-Md.) told the Washington County Young Republican Club last night the feeling in the capital is "The Republican Party is strong enough and virile enough not to have to count on any one individual."

Devereux said if President Eisenhower "is able to run, that would be fine, but it would be better to have a well president resting on his farm at Gettysburg than to have a sick man who might not be able to carry on through the campaign."

Philipinos Lining Up For Another Political Fight

MANILA (U)—Filipinos, who love a rousing fight whether in the cock pit, ring or political arena, are choosing sides in the hottest senatorial election campaign of the nine-year-old republic.

At stake are the popularity of their flamboyant young president, Ramon Magsaysay, the political climate during his next two years at the nation's helm and the warmth of U.S.-Philippine relations.

Hordes of candidates are fighting for nine seats in the 24-man Senate. Senators are elected nationwide. Balloting is next Tuesday.

With the campaign in its seventh week, political arguments have been blamed for at least 13 deaths. Troops have been moved into 13 potentially critical provinces.

The big fight swirls around Magsaysay's effort to bounce his severest foreign policy critic, Sen. Claro M. Recto.

Magsaysay won the first round. He seized firm control of the Nationalist party machinery in August and blocked Recto from the state.

Shut out in his own party, Recto breathed defiance, denounced Magsaysay as a dictator and found a berth as "guest candidate" on the ticket of the Liberals, the main opposition party.

With nationwide balloting for senators, Magsaysay has to drive Recto all the way down below ninth place to keep him out of the Senate.

The job is a big one—too big even for a president of Magsaysay's immense popularity, most of his opponents and supporters agree.

But Magsaysay bluntly announced he would stake his political future on the outcome.

Almost from the day Magsaysay took office, Recto stormed at him, cudgeling too close to the U.S. foreign policy line. Magsaysay won on issues time after time.

Mrs. Nellie Langley, 1500 W. 4th St., died in a Philadelphia hospital Sunday after a lingering illness. She was the widow of the late John Langley and the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mack Chaney.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at St. Peter's Baptist Church with Rev. E. H. Harris officiating. Burial will follow in the St. Peter Cemetery.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Lucy Sampson and Mrs. Ella Riley of Philadelphia, Mrs. Laura Joseph of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Ada Lee of the home; three sons, Bennie, Lester and David Langley of Philadelphia; three sisters and three grandchildren.

At Fleming St. School tonight at 7:30 there will be a recreational meeting. Recreational Director Warren Carroll will preside. Citizens interested in recreation are invited to attend.

The Senior Choir of Selva Chapel will meet Thursday night at 8:00 for rehearsal at Mrs. Lena Bradley's.

The St. Peter's Pastor's Aid Club will meet Sunday at 4 p.m. with Mrs. Martha Boyd, 213 W. First St.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Simpson and daughters, Jean and Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Moore and son TerRhee, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Barnes and sons, Jimmie and Donnie, saw the Ice Capades in Raleigh Monday night.

Rehearsals for "The Light of the World," a Christmas candlelight cantata, will be held every Tuesday evening at 8:00. Members of the Gospel Chorus, the Senior Choir and a T. V. Choir of York Memorial Methodist Church will present this program December 4th.

Card of Thanks We wish to thank the friends and the community for the kindness and flowers that were sent during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Jennette Vines.

Her Daughters & Sons

The Amiable Social Club met on Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Hattie Mae Forbes. The next meeting will be Nov. 3 at the home of Mrs. Willie Mae Smith, 1209 Fleming St. The club has two new members, Mrs. Jessie Hardy and Mrs. Bernice Terrell.

Jury Weighs Drunk Driving Testimony

Superior Court jurors were still deliberating at 11:15 a.m. today in the case of Capt. Franklin P. Redmond, former commander of a Greenville National Guard unit, who is charged with driving drunk.

A host of character witnesses, several of them members of Redmond's former unit, were summoned to testify in his behalf.

For the state, city police officer Charles D. Doss testified that he was acting as desk sergeant the night of March 13 when Redmond was brought to the station. Redmond, Doss said, staggered as he walked unassisted up the hallway.

Doss also said that Redmond told him he had had "four or five beers and a couple of shots of whiskey."

The National Guard officer was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for a blood test at his request. A witness, W. N. Clark, Negro, of 805 Sheppard Street, who was at the hospital when the captain was brought in, testified that it was his opinion that Redmond was "not drunk."

Another Negro hospital employee, William Taft, testified to the same effect. Other witnesses called in Redmond's behalf included city fireman Bob Blanton along with J. F. Baker, Route 1, and Robert Rea and Ralph Heidenreich, members of C Battery of the National Guard here.

Redmond was brought into the police station about 12:30 a.m. Blanton, in his testimony, said he saw Redmond between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. at an armory dance and that he did not appear to have been drinking.

Meanwhile, court attendants were still awaiting a ruling in the case of Robert Crain, 24-year-old ex-marine charged with receiving stolen goods. Crain was tried yesterday morning.

In other cases an instant capias was ordered issued for Joseph E. Taylor charged with speeding 65 miles per hour. Taylor failed to appear in court for trial yesterday.

Roger Cannon pled guilty to simple assault and prayer for judgment was issued upon payment of costs. The case of Ervin Lee Evans, charged with drunk driving, was declared a mistrial and will be reset for a later date.

Local HD Women Plan Attend Nashville Meet

Pitt County Negro Home Demonstration clubs will be well represented at the 11th annual Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs at Stone Creek School in Nashville Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Negro County Home Agent Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart and Assistant Home Agent Miss Julia Evans will be accompanied by the following Pitt county club members: Mrs. Maggie Strong, president of Pitt County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, Mrs. Estelle Edwards, Mrs. Decie Pollard, Mrs. Jennie Williams and Mrs. Rebecca Chapman of the Galco club, Mrs. Jessie Payton and Mrs. Willie Hawkins of the Grimesland club, Mrs. R. Sharpe, Miss Elizabeth Sharpe, Miss Geneva Sharpe, Miss Lucinda Atkinson and Miss Rosa Sharpe of the Sally Branch club, Mrs. Amelia Rogers of the Bruce club, Mrs. Betty Stevenson, and Mrs. Rosa Harrison and Mrs. Rosa Leggett of the Pachtos club.

The Nash County Negro Home Agent is Mrs. Margaret Wade, formerly assistant Pitt county Negro Home Agent.

President Mrs. Fannie E. Harrison of Nash county will preside over the one-day session and introduce the speaker.

A 29-year-old Greenville man has been arrested and charged with operating under the influence and hit-and-run as a result of a two-car collision on Boyd Avenue near Dickinson Ave. last night.

City police officers J. W. Jenkins and J. B. Cannon spotted a car operated by Lyle L. Gnagey, of 903 College View Place, while the two were enroute to the scene of the accident. Gnagey's car, damaged to the extent of $500, was stopped and he was placed under arrest.

Police are charging that Gnagey's car is the one that struck a parked 1955 sedan owned by Dalton Mitchem, 28, of 1210 Dickinson Ave. Damage to Mitchem's car was estimated at $1000. The accident took place shortly before 9:30 p.m.

It will be at the council's discretion to determine the method of financing for all the recommended items.

"The proposed methods of financing have been suggested here," Hughes said of the Planning Board's six-year study. "If the projects are to be financed differently from this, it's up to the council to decide how they are to be financed and they also must decide when the work is to be done."

Achievement Day Program For HD Women Thursday

Home Demonstration Club women throughout Pitt County will gather for the annual Achievement Day Program in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The program, which will begin at 10 a. m., will feature a summary of Home Demonstration activities during the year, and recognition of outstanding clubs and club members. In addition, the new County Council officers will be installed.

Special guests will be Miss Lorna Langley, Northeastern District agent, who will bring greetings and a few brief remarks.

A summary of 1955 club activities will be presented by Mrs. Russell Britt of the Seven Pines club, County Council vice president, assisted by Mrs. Robert Little of Simpson, Mrs. A. C. Turnage of Ballards, Mrs. Norman Savage and Mrs. Wiley Waters of Renston-Nobles.

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Shepard Memorial librarian, will present a special reading award to the club whose members have reported on the largest number of books during the year. In addition, four club members will receive reading certificates, and 87 women will receive perfect attendance awards.

Mrs. James Allen, County Council president, will present special awards to the club scoring the highest number of points and to the club which has turned in the highest number of individual reports during the year. An attendance award will go to the club having the largest percentage of its members present for the Achievement Day program.

Special features of the program will be a report from Mrs. Robert B. Starling and Mrs. Alton Moore on their recent study-tour of the United Nations, and music by Angela Santana of Cuba and Natividad Sesena of Madrid, Students at East Carolina College.

Following luncheon at Respress Brothers Barbecue Stand Lella Davenport, Winterville-Grandville 4-H Club members, will give an account of the music workshop which she attended at Catawba College this summer.

Driver Arrested As Result Of 2-Car Collision

A 29-year-old Greenville man has been arrested and charged with operating under the influence and hit-and-run as a result of a two-car collision on Boyd Avenue near Dickinson Ave. last night.

City police officers J. W. Jenkins and J. B. Cannon spotted a car operated by Lyle L. Gnagey, of 903 College View Place, while the two were enroute to the scene of the accident. Gnagey's car, damaged to the extent of $500, was stopped and he was placed under arrest.

Police are charging that Gnagey's car is the one that struck a parked 1955 sedan owned by Dalton Mitchem, 28, of 1210 Dickinson Ave. Damage to Mitchem's car was estimated at $1000. The accident took place shortly before 9:30 p.m.

It will be at the council's discretion to determine the method of financing for all the recommended items.

"The proposed methods of financing have been suggested here," Hughes said of the Planning Board's six-year study. "If the projects are to be financed differently from this, it's up to the council to decide how they are to be financed and they also must decide when the work is to be done."

Council To...

As a result, he noted, some sewer lines are now inadequate for carrying off a heavy deluge of water. "We need more outfalls and major canals need to be enlarged," Hughes declared.

Other items running into big money must also be considered by the council tomorrow night, however.

The Recreation Commission is asking for items totaling $50,000 which they give immediate priority. Given second priority by the commission are items totaling $40,500.

For the fire department the six year capital improvement program recommends that a $16,000 high pressure fire truck be purchased through bond issue during the fiscal year 1956-57. The program also recommends the purchase of a second such truck and the construction of a sub-fire station in the eastern section of the city during the 1960-61 fiscal year. The second truck would also cost $16,000 and the sub-station cost is estimated at $18,000.

In addition there is a recommendation for the extension of First Street—a $40,000 job, the widening of Pitt, Eighth, Evans, Cotanche and Greene streets, and the construction of a dual lane drive on Elm St.

Only the First St. job is recommended for bond issue, however. The other street work funds would come from the general fund, Powell Bill monies, and assessment, according to the six-year plan.

All told the study recommends that improvements totaling $219,050 be carried out by bond issue during the next six years. That does not include an item for $205,000 for construction of swimming pools which is not expected to be considered at present.

Nor does it include all the drainage projects which were brought
