Accused Traitors Win Freedom

Three former U. S. soldiers, who once renounced their homeland for life with their Communist Chinese captors, show little emotion in San Francisco after a Supreme Court ruling freed them from the Army guardhouse at nearby Ft. Baker. The court held that civilians cannot be tried in military courts for offenses committed while they were in military service. Left to right: Otho G. Bell of Hillsboro, Miss.; Lewis Griggs of Jacksonville, Texas, and William A. Cowart of Dalton, Ga. They refused repatriation at Panmunjom, Korea, in January, 1954. But last summer they changed their minds and came back to the United States after the Communist set them free. The Army was holding them for court martial on charges of betraying their government. Annexation Topic To Head Business At Council Meet

Lakewood Pines annexation will top the order of business for the City Council when it meets tonight in City Hall at 8 o'clock. Representatives of the residential area, located on Evans St. Extension south of Greenville, have asked the city fathers to take the area into the city. The group has been told by the Utilities Commission that the commission will install water lines to the area if it is annexed by the City Council.

City fathers have also been told by the state attorney general, that the method of annexaion is legal.

A second major item to come up for study tonight is the proposed rerouting of N.C. 43. The Highway Commission was asked by the city to re-study the highway route through the city. Presently the highway follows Fifth St., Albermarle Ave., Tenth St. and Charles St.

The Highway Commission had proposed changing the highway to Boyd Ave. and 14th St. City fathers now wish to study other routings.

Councilmen must consider a request by J. Sam Fleming, Inc., a junk yard in North Greenville for moving the yard. It is presently located on the east side of N. Greene St. Operators wish to move across the road to property adjacent to the railroad.

Other old business to come up before the city fathers tonight includes complaints of noise and overcrowded parking conditions in the vicinity of the new college dormitory on Tenth St.; consideration of a request by the college Student Government Association for a traffic light at a Fifth St entrance to the campus; the appointment of a member to the Board of Adjustments; and the question of employing a full-time city engineer.

Under new business for tonight's meeting, the councilmen will hear a request by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for certain changes in the city's parking meters.

Discussion of the lease renewal for a lot now being used by the city as a parking lot will come up tonight. The lot is located at the corner of Evans and Second St. It was leased for one year.

The major street plan, recently approved by the city Planning Board is also on the agenda for tonight. The plan calls for a system of boulevards surrounding the city. Each of the boulevards would have a 100-foot right-of-way. It also includes a system of primary and secondary feeder streets connecting the boulevard system with inner portions of the city.

Councilmen are to be asked to prohibit parking on one side of Wade St. and they will hear a claim by J.F. McLawhorn for damages to his automobile as a result of a collision with a protruding manhole.

German Problem Threatens Geneva Paralysis

Total Disagreement

GENEVA (AP) — Total East-West disagreement over unification of Germany threatened today to paralyze progress on every issue at the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Two of these issues are disarmament — to be taken up today— and proposals to lift some Iron Curtain barriers to trade, travel and information.

But Western diplomats said only a radical twist in Soviet policy restoring the friendly atmosphere of last July's summit conference could brighten prospects of accomplishing anything on these questions.

The world's hopes for ending the atomic arms race greatly depend upon a spirit of confidence among the great powers. Such a spirit, encouraged at the summit meeting led some Western officials to believe new impetus to disarmament could be given here.

In words that sometimes crackled with anger, and at other times seemed sorrowful, the Western ministers yesterday told Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that loss of confidence was one of the most serious results of the Soviet policy on Germany.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles said bluntly:

"I am wondering again whether an agreement with the Soviet Union is worth much."

This was after British Foreign Secretary Macmillan charged Russia had "repudiated" the summit conference agreement to negotiate on reunification of Germany through a free vote.

"With one blow he struck down all high hopes that had been formed," Macmillan said, adding that Molotov did not realize the deep effect of his German declaration on world opinion.

Molotov made it clear Russia will never agree to unification of Germany unless it is by means which would make sure the communization of the whole country.

Unshaken by the verbal pounding, Molotov announced he wants to bring up further proposals on Germany and European security.

He then called for the reduction of foreign troops in Germany "by say 30 per cent," and reduction of total armed forces of the four big powers by a number equivalent to the troops withdrawn from Germany.

He also called for a nonaggression treaty between the 15-nation Atlantic Alliance and the Warsaw Pact bloc of Russia and her six European satellites.

Unofficial estimates were that Molotov's proposal would reduce Soviet forces by 150,000, U.S. forces by 125,000, the British by 50,000 and the French by 30,000.

British and American press officers said Molotov also had proposed a reduction in the strength of "the armed units" of both East and West Germany, but Soviet Press Officer Leonid Ilyichev denied it. The Russians never have admitted that the 110,000 East German "barracks police" are a military force. West Germany has 20,000 frontier police.

The Western ministers showed not the slightest interest in these propositions.

Eisenhower Re-Emphasizes No Help In Arms Race

Offer Egypt Aid, Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has focused the United States search for Middle Eastern peace once more on economic aid and a military willingness to guarantee security.

At the same time, he emphasized yesterday that while the United States will continue to consider requests for arms for self defense, it will not "contribute to an arms competition in the Near East."

Stepping personally into foreign policy affairs for the first time since he fell ill last September, the President issued a statement at Denver renewing his endorsement of "the economic and security contributions which this country was prepared to make," as outlined by Secretary of State Dulles last Aug. 26.

In a New York speech, Dulles proposed then:

1. Loans to compensate refugees, develop water resources and irrigate arid lands in the middle east.

2. U.S. participation in formal treaty commitments to guarantee the embattled borders between Israel and her Arab neighbors, if the two sides agree on a permanent peace.

Those points also got simultaneous attention overseas. In Geneva Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan considered the possibility of raising money to help Egypt harness the waters of the River Nile.

Egypt already has pending before the World Bank a request for a loan for a high dam at Aswan.

In London, Prime Minister Anthony Eden echoed Dulles' August offer to guarantee the frontiers once the Iraelis and Arab states agree to a permanent peace.

Eden accused Russia of creating additional danger in the Middle East by shipment of arms and said "it is fantastic to pretend that this deliberate act of policy was an innocent commercial transaction."

The Russian radio has made that statement with reference to Czechoslovakia's shipment of arms to Egypt, and Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is reported to have made a similar reply to Dulles' protest about the move.

Eisenhower's statement made no direct mention of the arms shipments, but after referring to U.S. and U.N. efforts to promote peace and "minimize violence in the area," he said with obvious reference to Russia:

"I hope that other nations of the world will cooperate in this endeavoer, thereby contributing significantly to world peace."

Pitt SHP Troop At Full Strength

Pitt County's Highway Patrol is finally operating at full strength, Troop A commander Capt. S.H. Mitchell announced yesterday.

The addition of two men, one a November 1 graduate of patrol school at Chapel Hill, brings to seven the number of men now available for highway duty.

Those added to the force here are Richard Tayloe, now stationed at Grifton and J.B. Surles, formerly stationed in Greene County, now in Greenville.

Tayloe and Surles bolster Pitt's patrol staff which formerly consisted of Opl. Carl E. Whitfie' and Pfc.'s D.E. Perry, D.L. Minshew, W.E. Whitehurst and James W. Boykin.

In announcing the addition of Tayloe and Surles to the Pitt County staff, Mitchell also released the names of 10 other patrolmen assigned in Troop A.

Those assigned to posts in this troop which includes all of northeastern North Carolina, are in District 1, W.E. Brown, Littleton; Bill McDonald, Halifax; J.E. Lee, Weldon. District 3, J.E. Blackman, Rocky Mount. District 4, McRay Bland, Washington and C.F. Patton Aurora. District 5, in addition to Tayloe, A.S. Harris Hookerton; J.A. Crumpler Kinston and B.A. Baker, La Grange. District 6, D.S. Moore, Jacksonville.

Bland, who goes to Washington, is a former resident of Greenville and Crumpler, who is stationed in Kinston, is a former police officer in Farmville.

Sixty-three patrolmen were graduated November 1 from school at Chapel Hill and now are assigned to duty throughout the state.

President's Last Day At Hospital

DENVER (AP)—Today is President Eisenhower's 48th and last full day in Fitzsimons Army Hospital. Tomorrow it's off to Washington and a joyous "welcome home" reception.

The mood at the hospital on this final day—among the doctors, nurses and all the others who have cared for the 65-year-old President—is a joyous one, too. They are all delighted—and so relieved—that his damaged heart is mending well.

Eisenhower undoubtedly is happiest of all, although his wife is feeling mighty good about the way things are going.

With check-out time just a day off, the President's business agenda was being kept light to assure as much last minute rest as possible. He had no official government visitors scheduled today except for his chief aide, Sherman Adams.

Departure from the hospital is fixed for about 8:30 a.m. MST tomorrow and 30 minutes later he will take off for Washington aboard his private plane, Columbine III.

His doctors agree that the President could have left the hospital a few days ago if he had been willing to be carried aboard the plane. But he insisted that when he did leave he was going to be able to walk up the 19-step ramp.

Now he is able to do that. Yesterday he walked up and down a 20-step flight of stairs at the hospital a half dozen times.

In going up the ramp to his plane at Lowry Air Force Base here, Eisenhower will pause on about the seventh step at a microphone in place there and address the nation briefly on television and radio. He probably will express thanks for the prayers for his recovery and for the tens of thousands of "get well" messages he has received.

He also plans another brief informal talk on arrival at the Washington airport.

There will be a "welcome home" reception there and greetings from crowds along the route from the airport to the White House, which Eisenhower left Aug. 14 for a Colorado work and play vacation. He was stricken in Denver Sept. 24.

After a weekend of rest at the White House, the President will travel on Monday to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., for further convalescence.

Reveals 2 More Quota Violations

The names of two more persons penalized for planting in excess of their legal tobacco allotment were announced today by James Meredith, secretary of the ASC here.

Those listed by Merdith were J. A. Lee, of Route 5, Greenville and L. E. Stocks, of Route 2, Ayden.

Lee, meredith said, was alloted 29.30 acres but planted 35.34 acres, or 6.04 acres in excess. He has been required to pay a penalty of 6.8 cents per pound on the tobacco, or a total of $2,910.54. Pending final action, Lee's acerage for 1956 will be reduced 6.04 acres.

Stocks, Meredith reported, was alloted 8.80 acres and planted 10.25 acres. His excessive acerage amounted to 1.45 acres and he paid $439.04 in penalty at the rate of 5.6 per pound.

Stocks' acerage, pending final action also, will be reduced 2.06 acres for 1956.

In additional to the penalties, the two have been issued red merketing cards. These cards means that any tobacco sold with them is not eligible for government price supports.

Adlai Expected Announce Plans Next Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP) — The long expected announcement that Adlai Stevenson will seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year apparently will come Tuesday.

The 1952 nominee's press aide, Roger Tubby, said yesterday Stevenson will make a statement on "the Democratic presidential nomination" to newsmen at 3 p.m. EST that day. The statement will be for release at 6:30 p.m. EST.

It has been assumed for months that Stevenson, a former governor of Illinois, will make the race. His speeches throughout the country have sounded like those of a candidate, he has conferred with many party bigwigs and he has begun assembling a staff.

Earlier there was speculation Stevenson was saving his announcement — one way or the other — for a four-day series of meetings of party leaders from throughout the nation opening in Chicago Wednesday. But some leaders, including former Presidnt Truman, urged him to let his decision be known in advance of the meetings. The Tuesday statement would accomplish that.

Stevenson may confer this weekend with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, also a likely aspirant to the Democratic nomination.

Stevenson's office has announced that such a conference is upcoming at an undetermined date. Both men are scheduled to attend an Israel bond drive dinner in Chicago Saturday night.

Beaufort Bridge To Be Closed

RALEIGH (AP) — The bridge on U.S. 70 betweeen Morehead City and Beaufort will be closed to highway traffic beginning at midnight tonight until further notice, the State Highway Commission announced today. Repairs to the bridge's draw span made the closing necessary.

The commission advised travelers to Beaufort to take Highway N.C. 101 at Cherry Point.

No Indictment In Till Kidnap Case

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — Two white men today were free of all charges in the celebrated case of Emmett Till, the 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy who disappeared while vacationing on his uncle's farm in Mississippi.

A Leflore County grand jury yesterday declined to indict white half-brothers Roy Bryant, 24, and J. W. Milam, 36, on charges of kidnaping Till from the cabin of his sharecropper uncle.

Less than a month ago, a trial jury in a neighboring county found the two half-brothers innocent of murdering Till on grounds there was reasonable doubt about identification of a battered body pulled from the Tallahatchie river.

"The question now arises," said Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins of the NAACP in a statement in New York yesterday, "since Mississippi jurors have determined that Milam and Bryant did not kidnap and murder young Till, who did commit the crimes?"

Wilkins said the grand jury action, which cancelled $10,000 bonds posted by the two men, "comes as no surprise to anyone acquainted with the administration of justice in Mississippi."

Till's mother Mrs. Mamie Bradley of Chicago, commented "just about everything has run out on me now. I don't know what to say. I don't see how they could fail to indict those men."

She said she was thinking of filing a civil suit but had no money, and further action would be up to the NAACP. Mrs. Bradley was in a recent tiff with the Negro organization which dropped her from a proposed fund raising tour of 11 western cities for demanding a $5,000 fee or one-third of the proceeds, plus expenses.

At the murder trial, she identified the body as her son. Defense witnesses, including a doctor and an undertaker, disputed the identification, ontending the body was in the water too long to be Till.

The all-white, 20-man grand jury called four men who testified for the state in the murder trial. They were Till's uncle, Mose Wright; farm hand Willie Reed, a Negro who worked on a plantation owned by Milam's brother, Leslie; Sheriff George Smith and Deputy John Ed Cothran.

Milam and Bryant were reported to be working in cotton fields near the courthouse while the grand jury was considering the kidnap aspects of the case. They could not be reached for comment.

"That's the end of the case as far as this county is concerned," said Dist. Atty. Stanny Sanders, after the grand jury decision was announced.

Arrest Suspect In Break-In Of Service Station

Sheriff's deputies yesterday arrested Wadie Tucker, 19-year-old Negro, in connection with a break-in of the Charlie Mills Station at Haddock's Crossroad Monday.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Tucker will be charged with breaking and entering and larceny. He is currently being held in Pitt County Jail and will be tried at the December term of Superior Court.

Tucker's address was given as Winterville Route 2.

The sheriff said the station was entered by way of a window. A quantity of cigarettes and some tools were taken from the building. All told the goods were valued at $35, the sheriff said.

Tucker was arrested by Deputies N. H. Byrd and Loyd Manning.

Driver Cited In 3-Car Accident

An Orton Drive woman has been cited with failing to keep a proper lookout in connection with a three-car collision on Second Street at noon yesterday.

Margaret Ruth Johnston, 30, of 227 Orton Drive was cited after the vehicle she was driving was involved with a car operated by Jesse Lee Grimes 35, Negro, of 1402 Colonial Avenue. A third car, parked at the time and owned by Charles Yohn of 2702 E. Third Street, was also damaged.

Investigating officers placed the total damage at near $500.

Benson Proposal Stings CIO Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther has accused Secretary of Agriculture Benson of using "antiunion propaganda" in an effort to "cover up the deficiencies of his own farm program."

Reuther said this yesterday in challenging the agriculture secretary to a one-hour television debate on farm policy and prices.

The CIO chief apparently was stung by a reference Benson made to him in a telegram rejecting a House Agriculture Committee request that he make known now administration recommendations for new farm legislation.

Telling Chairman Cooley (D-NC) administration plans would be sent to Congress after it reconvenes in January, Benson suggested the House group may want to consult Reuther "whose appearance before your committee drew such high praise from you earlier this year."

Benson said "inflexibly high operating costs" are largely to be blamed for farmers' economic troubles and he suggested that Reuther might be "helpful in suggesting means of checking the advancing cost of foods and services the farmer must buy."

In the past, Benson has contended higher labor costs are partly responsible for boosting prices of things farmers buy.

In his statement yesterday, Reuther repeated earlier contentions that union wage increases have not justified price increases. He called on Benson to join an appeal for a congressional investigation of price "gouging."

Meanwhile Benson told a news conference he wants his department to have the greatest possible leeway in selling surplus farm goods to other nations. In this connection, he indicated—as he has before — that he favors sale of government-owned surplus commodities to countries back of the Iron Curtain. Although officials said the law prevents this, Benson said study is being given to recommendations for changing the law.

Benson said he felt the government's program for exporting farm surpluses has moved along in a competitive manner with only a minimum of friction with other countries. He reported the disposal of $10,300,000 in surplus commodities through all channels during the first nine months of this year —a one-third rise over the corresponding 1954 period.

Benson revealed that he had sent Cooley a telegram asserting that recommendations "aimed at strengthening and improving the present agricultural legislation" will be referred to agriculture committees "in the usual way."

WRITE-IN WINNER

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Napoleon Bonaparte Triplett wasn't a candidate and didn't even know his district had a constable. But he was elected to the office on write-in votes, Tuesday. He said yesterday he would use his authority to crack down on speeding in his neighborhood.

Cooperation Leads To Arrest Of Marylander For Break-Ins

Cooperation between various law enforcement agencies in Eastern Carolina and police of the Baltimore County area in Maryland yesterday led to the arrest of a man believed to have been involved in 47 break-ins in Baltimore and at least two break-ins in Wilson.

Placed under arrest on various charges was Ben Locke of Baltimore. Locke has recently been rooming in Greenville.

The arrest of the man involved the work of a highway patrolman, suspicious of Locke after he was involved in a wreck near Wilson. the Pitt County sheriff's department, SBI agents, Baltimore police and other law enforcement organizations.

The super police detection work all began when Locke attempted to outrun Highway Patrolman C. J. Cole near Wilson Sunday afternoon. Locke's vehicle was involved in a head-on collision with another car during the course of the chase.

The patrolman became suspicious of Locke as he checked on his background and talked to the Baltimore man. Patrolman Cole decided to call in the SBI on the case.

SBI agents W. C. Wilson of Rocky Mount and Clyde Fentress of Washington found that Locke was rooming on the outskirts of Greenville. They called in the Pitt County sheriff's department and the officers entered Locke's room here.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said that around 15 silver dollars were found in Locke's luggage along with approximately $15 in quarters.

In addition there were several gold coins and a quantity of old foreign coins, the sheriff said. Officers also found a number of rings in the luggage.

All told, the sheriff said, officers found items valued at approximately $70 in the room.

Baltimore police were notified and yesterday Lt. William R. Powell and Sgt. Ross Gagliano of the Baltimore County police arrived here.

The sheriff said the Baltimore officers have stated that Locke was involved in a ring which was suspected of 47 breaking and entering cases in the Baltmiore area.

The officers said that the gang had been broken up and between $30,000 and $40,000 in stolen goods had been recovered. The two identified part of the loot recovered from Locke's room as being from the Baltimore jobs.

In addition to the charges of breaking and entering brought by Baltimore police, the sheriff said Locke will also face two charges of breaking and entering in Wilson. He is now being held in jail in Wilson.

Outdoor Drama Said Effort To Make Past Come To Life

The outdoor drama is an attempt to get the "tone, mood and color" of history and to make the past "come to life," Kermit Hunter author of "Unto These Hills," "Horn in the West," and other works, told an audience of approximately 200 people at East Carolina College Tuesday night.

He spoke in the Joyner Library on the campus under the auspices of the English Club, the East Carolina Playhouse, and the Creative Writers Club, student organizations.

In his talk Mr. Hunter advanced the idea that the outdoor drama has as one of its purposes a reaffirmation of the dignity of man, the values of democracy, and the belief that the world will "keep going" because we have faith.

Discounting the idea that the drama is a sermon, he indicated that the outdoor drama in exemplifying moments in American history avoids the "too scientific, too materialistic" approach characteristic of many modern writers and rejects their idea that "man is lost."

"North Carolina," he said in discussing materials for the drama, "has more solid materials as a basis for writers than any other place I've ever seen." He cited a number of incidents in state history from the time of the Regulators to the present day which he said present a challenge to the writer.

The outdoor drama, he pointed out, is now "in a state of flux." At present, he said, "we are just beginning to experiment, to find our way around."

Five outdoor dramas are now in operation in various parts of this country, he said. "A drama in every state in the union might be a help to democracy."

An additional project undertaken by the Parents Club is that of furnishing a flag and flagpole for the school.

Opposes Mayor Opening Mail

DENVER (AP)—Colorado's attorney general was called upon yesterday to settle this problem: Does the mayor of city clerk of Frederick (pop. 599) have the right to open the mail? Clerk Ira N. Thompson advised the state official that "the new mayor" — whom he did not further identify — had been opening letters addressed to the town, whereas previously the clerk had done it. Atty. Gen. Duke W. Dunbar consulted lawbooks, found nothing helpful, and said it is up to the town trustees to decide.

Mrs. Wynne Hostess To Homemakers

ROBERSONVILLE — Thursday night of last week when Mrs. Mack Wynne was hostess to the Homemakers Club, her house was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. A vase of pink roses adorned the television, red gladioli were on the coffee table, a bowl of white mums attracted attention to the desk and a huge arrangement of large yellow and oragne marigolds centered the dining table which was covered in lace

After the routine business matches were piled on top of a Coca-Cola bottle. Several members successfully disposed of their matches. Mrs. Harvey Roberson was the winner when they cut for the prize. The award for the contest also went to her. Games were played during the remainder of the social hour.

The hostess served a congaled fruited lime salad, with cookies, salted nuts and tea.

The next meeting will be Thursday night, November 17th. at the home of Mrs. Henry Everett.

Going-Away Party Honors Mrs. Taylor

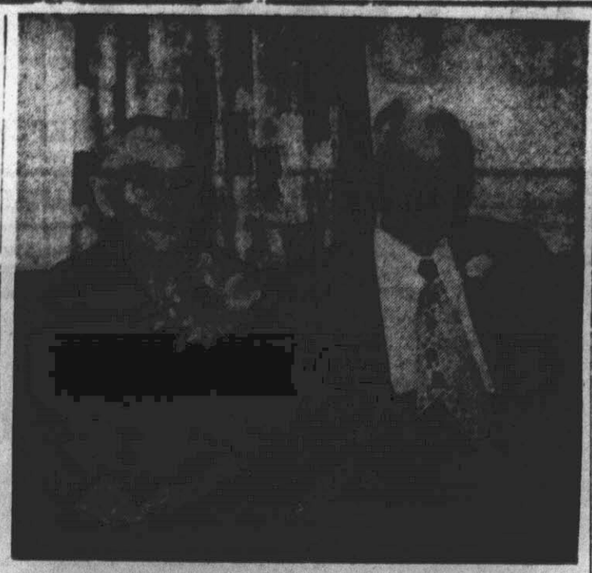
ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Gladys Bailey and Mrs. Elliott Taylor honored Mrs. Nellie Taylor with a going-away party Monday evening at the home of Miss Bailey.

At 8 o'clock the ten guests took their places at the three tables set up for samba.

Mrs. Clayton Keel and Mrs. Harvey Roberson joined the group for refreshments which consisted of crackers, pickles, cookies, candy, salted nuts and Coca-Colas. After a brief intermission the game continued until 11 o'clock.

The honoree received many nice and useful gifts from her lifelong friends.

Mrs. Taylor left the following morning for Darlington, S. C. to make her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Caddell.



Reception Honors Couple On Sixty-Fifth Anniversary

An exceedingly rare celebration was held on Sunday afternoon, November 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Boyd on Elm St. when Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Reel, parents of Mrs. Boyd, were tendered a reception on the occasion of their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary. Both Mr. and Mrs. Reel are in good health notwithstanding the natural toll of the years.

The home was beautifully decorated with seasonal flowers. Mrs. Fenner Corbett and Mrs. J. C. Boyd served from the three-tiered wedding cake as Mrs. Raymond Reel poured the punch. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Boyd, little Barbara Boyd receiving the gifts. Mrs. Helen Jones registered the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammond arranged the gifts, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wood bade the goodbyes.

To Mr. and Mrs. Reel were born 10 children, five boys and five girls. The boys are Clen of Winterville; James H., Fair Bluff; John C., Morehead City; Laurie, Grimesland; and George of Madison, Fla. The girls are Estelle of Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. D. C. Moore, Ayden; Mrs. Roman Buck, Vanceboro; Mrs. Lucy Lancaster (deceased); and Mrs. Woodrow Boyd of Greenville.

In addition to the many friends of long standing, Mr. and Mrs. Reel were glad to welcome their 33 grandchildren and 31 great grandchildren.

"EASTERN CAROLINA'S SHOPPING CENTER"

District Director Is Visitor To Lakewood Pines Garden Club

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club held its November meeting on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. F. F. Hendrix. Lovely floral arrangements, brought by Mesdames K. G. Harris and A. T. Bilbro, containing roses and chrysanthemums graced the living room and the dining room table. The hostess served delicious hot ham biscuits, cinnamon buns and coffee during the social period before the start of the meeting.

Mrs. R. G. Culbertson presented a most interesting and informative program on "Foundation Planting." She defined this to mean not only the shrubs and plants up near the foundation of the house, used to soften its lines, but also plantings going outward to include part of the yard in our modern, informal homes of today. The needs of the family should be considered first: amount of privacy desired, outdoor eating area, play area for children, etc. Then thought should be given to the practical side of upkeep for the whole area, and too ambitious a program should not be undertaken, but only what can be cared for properly.

Mrs. Culbertson went on to state that the contour of the house and yard as well as direction (sunny and shady areas) help decide what to plant. Some native trees and bushes should be kept for bird life as well as beauty, and that the native plants give a good hint as to the type of other plants that will do well in that location. Ground-cover plants should be used on sloping areas, tree roots protected after grading. Pictures were shown of evergreen and deciduous shrubs, and the speaker told how to contrast sizes and types to give a satisfactory overall effect.

Mrs. R. W. Lowe, presiding, welcomed Mrs. R. C. Forney to her first meeting with the club, and then introduced Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge, Director of District 10 of the Garden Club of N. C., who was guest for the day. Mrs. Daughtridge discussed the point system which the club must follow to get on the honor roll and encouraged everyone to work toward that goal. She then displayed unique and intriguing Christmas decorations which she had made out of gourds, acorns, spools, pine cones, egg shells and chicken wire. This stirred up enthusiasm among the group for their own Christmas workshop which will be the regular December meeting.

Mrs. Lowe told about the very successful workshop held recently at Mrs. J. T. Barnhill's, attended by fourteen members. Many lovely arrangements were made out of fresh flowers and foliage as well as from a wide assortment of dried materials, driftwood, etc., which had been gathered over the summer. Photographs were passed around showing the ladies at work and their finished products. It was a morning of fun and learning for all who attended.

Mrs. R. P. Heller told about the beautification program being planned for the new Elmhurst school. The Garden Club voted to cooperate with the P.T.A. Grounds and Play Area Improvement Committee on this project, and will start by donating bulbs for the children to plant outside their classrooms.

At the recent meeting in Tarboro of the 10th District, Garden Club of N. C., Mesdames R. W. Lowe, R. P. Heller, F. F. Hendrix, R. G. Culbertson, O. M. Marshburn and N. C. Pierce represented the Lakewood Pines club. It was announced that the Farmville, Lakewood Pines and Greenville Garden Clubs will serve as hostesses to the district meeting next October.

When results were checked at the close of last school year, Fountain led all of the other schools of the county school system from the standpoint of the quality of instruction. Standardized tests were given in the larger type schools in Reading, Arithmetic and Spelling in order that a scientific comparison of teaching results might be secured. State Superintendent Allen in seeing the standing of each of the classified schools said that Fountain could justly be called a Pyrenean Spring or a "Fountain of Knowledge."

Capacity Crowd At Homecoming Services

A capacity crowd was present for the Homecoming Day Service at Reedy Branch Church recently, when the church celebrated its 155th anniversary.

Following the regular morning worship service, at which the pastor, the Rev. Henry Melvin, spoke on "Stones of Meaning," luncheon was served on the church lawn. In the afternoon a program of music was presented by the Reedy Branch choir, members of the Smith family and a delegation from Mt. Olive College. Special feature of the day was 84-minute film on "How the Bible Began."

Dr. Messick Speaks At Winston-Salem Session

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College, speaking Tuesday in Winston-Salem before the North Carolina College Conference, outlined for the group of educators a project in personal and family living sponsored by the American Social Hygiene Association.

Dr. Messick is now serving as chairman of the Central Atlantic Regional Teacher-Preparation Project in education for personal and family living. Included in the area are Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia.

"The American Social Hygiene Association has for many years," he explained to members of the College Conference, "sought to aid school and other groups in projects dealing with the improvement of personal and family living.

"For the past two years," he continued, "the organization has been concentrating on a program for pre-induction education in colleges to prepare teachers who are going out into the field not only to improve their knowledge and activity in personal and family relations, but to learn how to carry over into their teaching the ideas which will help public school students to live more wholesomely and happily." Assistance from teacher, he stated, is needed to supplement parental and religious guidance.

Outlining the work done by the Central Regional Committee, Dr. Messick discussed suggested means by which colleges can orient their prospective teachers toward more effective work in the field covered by the project.

Special subjects, he explained, in which personal and family living could be taught or in which they could be correlated include the language arts, teacher education programs, health and physical education, science education, human development, fine arts, the humanities, agriculture, home economics, and vocational guidance.

The population of the world increases about 100,000 a day, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Giant Strides But, Long Way To Go

During the past eight years, Greenville and Pitt County have carried out a building program for their public schools unsurpassed in the history of public education in this county.

Whether or not the pace of spending can be continued remains a matter of conjecture. It behooves the people of the county, in the light of the need for more physical facilities for education, to pause for a moment and review the progress of the past eight years.

During the period the two school administrative units of Greenville and Pitt County have put more than four and one-quarter million dollars into their school building programs including the expenditures planned for this year and projects under construction. Of this amount $3,405,000 has come from local funds, and the remaining three-quarters of a million dollars has come from state funds provided for schools.

Surveying the school situation throughout the county at the present time, it is difficult to visualize it as it was before the building program was begun following World War II. Perhaps the most logical way to get a clear picture of the situation is to review briefly what has been accomplished in the building program.

In the Greenville administrative unit the following new structures have been built:

South Greenville School, plus an addition to this school built last year; a new building at West Greenville School, two separate additions to Third Street School, Elmhurst School; and the new senior high school which is now under construction and improvements have also been made in the schools which already existed in Greenville.

For the above work, the city school system has made a capital outlay of some two million dollars. Approximately $1,750,000 of this amount came from local bond issue funds, and the remainder from state funds.

In the Pitt County school system capital outlay for buildings and equipment during the period has totaled some $2,273,000 of which more than $1,600,000 came from county and local district funds. With this outlay the county system has been provided with 121 additional classrooms plus a number of gymnasiums, cafeterias, and other auxiliary facilities in addition to a complete renovation of practically all the older schools in the county.

In the white schools of the county units, expenditures have amounted to $870,000, broken down as follows:

Belvoir-Falkland $60,000; Bethel $4,000; Stokes $46,000; Pactolus $145,000; Grimesland $120,000; Chicod $40,000; Grifton $124,000; Ayden $30,000 plus an additional $300,000 which has been authorized from a local bond issue; Arthur $20,000; Farmville $180,000 and Fountain $16,000.

For Negro schools in the county expenditures during the eight year period have amounted to more than $922,000 with the following distribution:

Belvoir-Falkland $46,000; Bethel $45,000; Stokes $61,000; Pitt County Training School $80,600; Grifton $62,500; Ayden $79,000; Winterville $80,500; Arthur $10,000; Farmville $225,000 and Fountain $67,500.

Pitt schools have come a long way during the past five years, primarily through the outlay of local funds which came from either school district bond issues or the county's capital outlay fund. In spite of the progress which has been made and the support given schools by voters who have approved bond issue after bond issue, there is still a long way to go before the need for school facilities in the county will be met.

Whether the school districts of the county can continue to put on half million dollars a year into the capital outlay fund for schools remains to be seen. If the school needs are to be met, however, it is apparent that the pace must at least be kept up for several more years. It is quite likely the annual outlay for schools will have to be increased if Pitt schools are to meet the needs of a growing number of students who need adequate facilities for their educational program.

N. C. Libraries Are Growing Resource

By LYNN NISBET

BOOKS — On June 30 there were nearly seven million books in public libraries in North Carolina, including educational institutions and others of limited use. For operation, maintenance and expansion of these libraries there was spent for the last fiscal year a little more than four million dollars.

In other words each of the four million people in North Carolina spent an average of nearly one dollar for the use of a book and a half in public libraries.

The report of the North Carolina Library Commission shows breakdown of location and distribution of library books as follows:

In public libraries maintained by counties and municipalities, and combinations of them, there were 2,834,662 books. These same libraries had total circulation of 10,154,584, which means that on an average every book was taken out to be ready nearly four times during the year.

In libraries at universities and four-year colleges for white people there were 3,004,446 books, and in junior college libraries there were 250,538. Negro university and college libraries reported 389,513 volumes.

Special libraries, including the State Library and Supreme Court law libraries at Raleigh, the libraries at Federal and State hospitals and military posts, county court houses and business firms, which have trained librarians in charge reported 297,435 volumes.

That adds up to a grand total of 6,776,594 books. To that number must be added several thousand more in county court houses and business firms which do not have librarians in charge and keep no records. Furthermore, some of the libraries with record-keeping personnel failed to report on number of volumes and circulation. A safe bet is there are more than seven million library books available.

DILEMMA — In some respects the Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public recreation parks, golf courses and swimming pools, confronts local communities with more serious problems than integration in the public schools.

The decision does not affect privately owned facilities, and many people had cherished the idea that when the inevitable segregation ban was decreed the problem could be solved by selling the public parks to private operators. That device can still be used in some places. In a great many others it cannot because of provisions in grants and bequests for public recreation. The situation at Raleigh is typical.

The City of Raleigh operates Pullen Park as a recreation center open to the public under terms of the will of the late John Pullen. Some years ago State College sought to exercise right of eminent domain and take over some of the park area for college use. It developed that if the property was ever abandoned for its originally designated purpose of a public park, title would revert to the Pullen heirs.

It appears now that the city cannot dispose of the park property by sale or lease for any purpose than public recreation It can, of course, abandon operation and the Pullen heirs will take over as fee-simple owners. If they want to operate the park as a private enterprise, presumably they can do so, but with no recovery by the city of the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent in developing the park.

Information is there are many other cases comparable to this where land has been given for specific public park use, with title reversion if such use is not continued. There are golf courses and gymnasium facilities coming under the same head.

TAX EXEMPTION — There is another phase of the private ownership matter that disturbs the people who insist upon maintaining segregation. That is the question of whether exemption from taxes constitutes sufficient "public" support to bring churches church-related and privately owned schools, hospitals YMCA and YWCA facilities, and similar institutions under the segregation ban.

So far, institutions like Atlantic Christian College, Duke University and Hospital, Presbyterian Hospital at Charlotte and other denominational and privately operated facilities, are not included in court orders banning segregation. But to the extent that they are exempt from local advalorem taxes Federal and State sales and income taxes, they are "publicly supported".

The next logical step will be to bring them under the ban or to put the property and income on the tax books as privately owned businesses. There would seem to be little question about the ban already applying to Oxford Orphanage and similar institutions to which the State has made token contribution out of tax moneys.

Most of these quasi-public institutions have regulations governing acceptance of applicants for admission that can be used to prevent racial integration without violating the law as interpreted by the judges. Some of them do not, and even those which do have such safeguards may find them challenged in the courts within the next few months.

Too Preoccupied, So Drivers Bear A Burden

A youngster on his way to school in the morning is interested in almost everything along the way. Apparently he's in no particular hurry to get there. At lunchtime, if he lives close enough to get home, he's in a hurry to get something to eat; but again on the way back to school he is occupied with other thoughts. After school is dismissed in the afternoon, he is really in a hurry to get in every possible minute of playtime before dark.

He has little time to give to thoughts about speeding automobiles, busy intersection, highways or heavy automotive traffic.

These school children do not realize it, but they cause a great deal of concern to many safety-minded individuals. On foot and on bicycles, too many of them take for granted the motorist is going to look out for them when they dart into the street or weave back and forth across the highway on a bicycle. Most motorists fortunately, are quite conscious of youngsters in the vicinity of schools. Others are not quite as cautious as they should be.

The burden for preventing traffic accidents where children are concerned is on the motorist. A youngster enthusiastically at play gives no thought to the curb line which separate a safe play area from the danger zone of the street. Even those who have been introduced to the back side of a hair brush for running into the street often have a lapse of memory.

In this age of more and more automobiles, more and more children and more and more bicycles, motorists and parents alike should pay more attention to traffic safety particularly in the school zones where children are heavily concentrated.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUBLASS

Question Those Convictions

No doubt you have some very strong convictions about certain matters — political, religious, social, economic. Have you ever tried dragging your strong convictions from the very bottom of your subsconscious and laying them out, as it were, on the table before you and then asking yourself, "would I be willing to believe precisely the opposite of this if the opposite could be proved true?"

Try this as an exercise to cultivate broad-mindedness. Take some conviction about which you feel absolutely sure, imagine its opposite, and then ask if perchance that thing might be true. Some would say that an exercise of this sort would weaken one's convictions. But if we have to keep our convictions under lock and key all the time lest we lose them, then we do not have much of a hold on them nor do they on us. You will find actually that you will strengthen every right conviction you have if you try this exercise. And what is equally important, some false aspects of a right conviction will fall away, and a few convictions that you have no business holding will disappear.

Most people think that broad-mindedness means getting to the place where one thinks like everybody else and never criticizes. Broadmindedness consists in being willing to face the consequences of questioning the deep-seated convictions in our lives.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Going All The Way

(Henderson Dispatch)

Voidance of park and playground segregation by its decision announced Monday means that the United States Supreme Court has burned all bridges and is going all the way in striking down racial barriers in public facilities. Even before the school decision eighteen months ago the court had banned segregation on public carriers.

The court would hardly have been consistent had it ruled otherwise than it did in this instance aftert he definite stand taken on school integragtion This latest decree makes the policy almost all-inclusive as to institutions and activities that are wholly supported by public funds.

Dispute and controversy engendered in the South by the school decision last year will be intensified as a result of this newest ruling. It might mean that playground and recreational facilities will lose some of their support, or else that all such will from here on be operated without racial distinction. It will, of course, be much simpler for thise who object to the plan to cease patronizing these e tablishments. As to the schools, there is no alternative for children seeking an education but to attend classes already in operation. There is no likelihood that the public school system will be abandoned, whereas patronage of parks and playgrounds is not compulsive for any one.

In one of several decisions bearing upon the issue the Supreme Court upheld a lower court which had ruled that the theory of "separate but equal" facilities for white and Negroes was dead. The principle indeed was established in the school decree last year, and the stand announced Monday was only adhering to the previous position that had been taken.

If there have been those who hoped for a softening of court directives they can now no longer anticipate such moderation. The high tribunal is driving straight ahead over the course previously charted. States and local communities have no alternative but to comply, unless they are of a mind to resist, and it is clearer than ever now that nothing is to be gained by that policy, other than sheer defiance of the judiciary, which will be futile. At least no other satisfactory procedure has been devised that would receive approval and command respect of constituted authority.

The court has repeatedly been direct and specific and continues to hew to the line. Only further litigation will result from ignoring the rulings that have been handed down.

Idea Behind The Buddy Poppy

"Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

We've heard these words before. We hear them every year about this time when the Veterans of Foreign Wars have their annual Buddy Poppy sale.

The little red paper poppies made by the hospitalized veterans go on sale here Saturday, and between now and then we'll probably read and hear a great deal about what the proceeds from the sale will be spent for. In general, besides helping out the national and state VFW rehabilitation service and the veteran who makes the poppy, one-half of the Buddy Poppy receipts will be used for local welfare work to help care for our own needy and disabled veterans, their families and the families of those who didn't come home.

And that's why we're interested in this drive. What finer, better way to honor the dead than by helping the living, needy individuals around us?

Now we're not against erecting monuments or hanging plaques or handing out medals. We need these objects as visible reminders of our nation's historic figures and events. But we have other reminders, too—men with one arm or one leg, or none at all, and rows of little white crosses on some far-away hill.

Pretend for a moment that you're a soldier going off to battle. Would you rather leave with the knowledge that if something happens to you the folks in your home town will honor your memory with a statue on the courthouse lawn or by helping out your widow and your orphan if they are in need?

Disabled veterans in hospitals all over the country have made the poppies for this annual sale. They have made them to help themselves and to help their buddies and the families of those buddies, some who didn't come back and some who came back but left part of themselves over there.

Now the rest of us have the opportunity to show our appreciation, though it be in a small way, to those who have done so much for us, and at the same time to aid our less fortunate fellow beings.

There can be no better way to honor the dead.

Obedience School For Wives

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments by a pavement Plato:

Would obedience schools for wives make for happier marriges in America?

The question has been raised by a reader who wisely chooses to remain anonymous.

"Obedience schools for pets have worked out very well," he wrote "So why not an obedience school for pet wives?

"Such schools could teach most wives some things they badly need to learn, such as self-discipline and the willingness to carry out a man's orders without barking back.

"What do you think of this idea? Wouldn't it restore to the average husband the prestige he once held as head of the family? If you hear of such a school, please telegraph me at once. I want to enroll my own wife as the number one trainee."

Frankly, the proposal at first glance sounds fine. The ordinary husband can think at once of many ways in which his wife might benefit from attendance at an obedience school.

"She could, for example, be taught to get up off the sofa and say "hello" whenever he returned home from work. She could be taught to take off his shoes and fetch his slippers.

She could be taught not to interrupt him when he is telling his favorite joke at a party. She could be taught not to show up at breakfast with her hair in wire curlers, looking like a fugitive from the electric chair. It might even be possible to teach her when it was all right to talk to her husband and when she should bring him his newspaper and let him read it in silence.

There is even a bare likelihood that she might be coerced into letting him handle the spending of his own paycheck, although this could well force 7 out of 10 American families into bankruptcy in six months.

The list of things a well-run obedience school could teach a dutiful wife to help make her husband's lot more cheerful is well nigh endless.

However, the idea of obedience schools for wives, while it sounds highly logical, is basically impractical. The big flaw in the proposal is this: Where would you get the teachers?

You couldn't use women as teachers. No wife with any spirit would let another woman teach her how she should behave toward her own husband.

No, the teachers would have to be men. But consider what kind of a man it would take. Women know they are smarter than the average man, and they would merely sit in class and throw spitballs at a male instructor of only average brains or charm.

The teacher would have to be really extraordinary. To duty-break a stubborn willful wife he would have to have the physical magnetism of a hypnotist, the wisdom of Socrates, the oratorical appeal of Clark Gable, the skill of Demosthenes, the daring of a wild animal trainer.

Let us suppose such a teacher could be found. What then? Well, no wife would want to return to a dull husband after studying under a professor like that. They'd all fall in love with teacher and want to spend the rest of their lives in obedience school.

That seems to rule out the possibility of obedience schools for wives.

The question naturally arises then: "How about a few obedience schools for husbands — wouldn't they improve matri-

Automobile Industry And You

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the biggest questions about 1956 is whether the auto industry can sell as many cars as it is selling this year.

Whoever you are—whatever you do—the answer will affect your pocketbook in some way.

If the industry can maintain the 1955 pace, payrolls of manufacturers, suppliers, retail agencies repair and service organizations and thousands of satellite companies will stay fat. Taxes will pour into the government and dividends will flow to stockholders. There is almost no business that won't receive some of this money for goods or services and no worker whose employer does not benefit in some way from the billions of dollars the auto industry spins into circulation.

Manufacturers, from January 1 through October 29 this year, assembled a total of 6,474,531 passenger cars for the domestic market. It is reasonably certain to turn out another million before December 31—a record for this or any other world.

CHANGING MARKET AHEAD

The industry can easily make as many cars next year. But whether they can be sold is a large and potentially ominous question.

These are the reasons it will be difficult:

Prices for 1956 models are generally higher than those of 1955 models. There is an average increase of between 2 and 4 per cent.

Credit is tighter and terms are tougher. The rise in interest rates and growing caution among bankers is making it difficult for those with substandard incomes to obtain financing.

Design impact is not as great as it was with 1955 models. There have been some innovations on 1956 models—more push buttons, safety belts and other improvements—but they have less dazzle than new lines and multiple colors of 1955 models.

Introductory dates of 1956 models were advanced, giving the industry the benefit of two new lines in something less than 12 months, which tends to increase this year's sales totals. It may not be possible to advance dates much more without losing benefits already gained.

ON THE OTHER HAND—

There are, however, some glimmers of hope. The number of Americans of car-owning age is increasing. And, as Arthur Dietz, C.I.T. president pointed out the other day, the number of families earning more than $3,000 a year—hence moving into the car-buying class—is increasing enormously. Some expansion and rehabilitation of the highway system is certain, and this will encourage additional car-buying. Safety drives may cause states to require more scrapping of delapidated cars.

The biggest hope for the auto industry—and you—may lie in more aggressive selling. Despite the impressive sales total, the industry has not yet returned to the "hard sell" of prewar days.

A random citation: A New Yorker reports that since he bought a new car in 1950, not one serious effort has been made to sell him a new model, even though he took the car back to the dealer regularly for service. Even when he inquired about 1955 models last spring, no attempt was made to make a sale.

That aggressive selling can work has been demonstrated by R.E. Dumas Milner, owner of six General Motor agencies in the South and Southwest. Each day every one of his salesmen must make five personal calls, send 25 postcards to prospects, mail 10 postcards to satisfied customers, make 20 phone calls, put on three demonstrations, make three appraisals pass out 25 business cards and check with the service department for leads. Each salesman must also keep five "bird dogs" working. A "bird dog" is a tipster who looks for prospects.

At his present rate, Mr. Milner's organization will make sales totaling $60,000,000 this year—an all-time record for a single dealer.

Italians Block Developing Of Oil And Gas

By RAY TUCKER

ROME — Important American oil interests have been subjected to shabby treatment by Italian politicians with leftist leanings. In fact, these anti-Americans inside and outside the governme.. merely smile and shrug their shoulders when charged with being pro-Communist at heart.

This problem was one of several reasons—all dealing with Italy's continued adherence to the Western Coalition—why Secretary Dulles made a special trip to Rome on his way to the Geneva Conference of Foreign Ministers. He wanted the latest lowdown on this generally untold story from our able Ambassadress Clare Boothe Luce. Dulles cannot be too confident or happy over her report of anti-American feeling.

Oil and natural gas are being discovered in the Po Valley to the north, in Sicily, and now in the "boot" at the southern tip of the Peninsula. From an economic and military standpoint, a secure supply of these two fuels can be of great value to Italy and the Western powers.

Italy has no large-scale coal resources, and has had to buy coal for industrial use at high prices because of transportation costs. In fact, many millions of our considerable postwar financial aid has gone for the purchase of this vital commodity. And yet, because of this political and leftist opposition, many of the newly found oil wells remain capped and unused.

BUSY ANTI—AMERICANS In short, American taxpayers buy coal for Italy, but the Italian government refuses to permit private American capital to finance the profitable development of these natural resources.

Two anti-Americans in the oil controversy are Pietro Nenni and Enrico Mattei. Nenni is head of the Communist Party, which has a strong representation in Parliament. He opposes American development on Moscow-inspired, ideological grounds.

Secretary Dulles' special side trip to Rome spiked Nenni's planned propaganda campaign against us showing that the Italians, in their own way, still respect Uncle Sam, even if they do not love us.

DULLES SPIKES RED'S PLANS Dulles arrived here simultaneously with Nenni's return from Moscow, and the Italian politician had been well briefed by the men in the Kremlin. He was told to blast the American oil interests, and to make a bid on behalf of the Russians. It is the same sort of deal that Moscow has made with Egypt at the eastern end of the vital Mediterranean Sea. If the Reds can get a foothold here, they will control this key waterway.

But Dulles' visit and his expressions of American interest and friendshhip for Italy blanketed Nenni's report of Moscow offers in the newspapers, except for the scantily circulated Red Press.

Dulles hit the front pages in the respectable and widely-red newspapers. Nenni got scant coverage. It is an ancient political and diplomatic trick, but the Dulles-Luce blackout has worked, at least for the moment. It helped to strengthen, as designed, our bargaining position at Geneva and in future negotiations with the Soviet.

ANOTHER OPPONENT OF U. S. Our other opponent, Enrico Mattei heads the government's oil monopoly which handles petroleum problems. He would, of course, lose a great deal of power and prestige if U.S. interests were permitted to explore, produce and market Italy's oil potential.

But Mattei and Nenni have powerful support behind them. As is true of almost every European country on the American relief roll, Italians are envious and suspicious of us. All resent the necessity which makes them dependent on our dollars.

The face-to-face bumping into this fact by the delegation of representative Americans on this pioneer flight of Trans World Airlines' new service from California to Europe, has been hard to accept.

ADVERSELY IMPRESSED The important members of Congress on the trip, who carry great weight on the Appropriations and Armed Services Committees of the House, have been impressed by this discovery. They will make their views known at the January session, when the question of more foreign aid comes before House and Senate. I shall report their reaction in a subsequent column, and at their request.

OLD OIL DEVELOPMENT MEASURE The heart—and heat—of the oil dispute concerns a petroleum development measure that has been kicking around the Roman Parliament for several years. As originally framed, its terms would have invited the nationalistic spirit whipped up by Nenni and Mattei, and which the government seems unable or unwilling to check, the bill now discourages U.S. interests. It demands a 60 per cent royalty for Italy whereas even the rapacious Arabian potentates in the Middle East are content with 50 per cent. The amended measure also contains restrictions on withdrawal of profits and levies high taxes. On these terms, American capital will not be forthcoming.

AMEASSADRESS LUCE MAY RESIGN As these facts indicate, we are not doing too well in Italy, despite Dulles' emergency visit. To make things worse, Ambassadress Luce may have to resign soon because of ill health. Although she gave our delegation a delightful reception at her charming villa, she had to retire early because of a severe cold.

Court Order To Keep Mouth Shut

DETROIT (AP)—Because he can not keep his mouth shut when he's alone, Stubby is going to have a sitter — by court order. Stubby is a 10-year-old mongrel dog.

Neighbors complained that for several years Stubby had set up persistent barking whenever left alone by his owner, Miss Mollie J. Conner. One neighbor, Arnold Benes, suggested a dog sitter whenever Miss Conner left home. The judge agreed. So did Miss Conner.

Red Mites Enter Playoffs With Hard-Running Eleven

The Red Midget team turned on the steam near the end to climb to second place in regular season play. The club, coached by Warren Carroll and Lynn Barrier, will now go into the playoffs with a good chance of winning.

Because of injuries in school of some of the key players the Reds were handicapped at the start of the season but fought hard throughout to become runners-up. They compiled a 3-2-1 record.

With a squad of about 20 boys, the Red team is drilling daily for the action next week. Coaches Warren and Barrier feel they have a good chance of going all the way in the playoffs.

The Red offense has been paced by Larry Roberts, John Adams and Donald Joyner in the backfield, while up front the playing of end Jimmie Robards, guards Bill Wade and Bill Moye has opened up big holes for the backs to trot through.

Roberts, a hard-running fullback, has been the big gun. He is regarded as one of the best backs in the league. His defense is also outstanding.

Other defensive stars are Ken Joyner, Wade and Robards.

The Red club has been using a modified T formation to great effectiveness. The system calls for an unbalanced line and gives them a lot of power on the off-tackle series.

Mostly a gorund gaining eleven, the Reds does dely some on passing. Quarterback James Earl Henderson does most of the throwing.

The Reds will lose John Adams, Buddy Bass and James Earl Henderson this year because of the age limits. However, the team will have many veterans back and should again be strong.

The roster:

Buddy Bass, center; Perry Rogers, tackle; Emmett Koonce, center; Joey Robertson, tackle; Bill Wade, tackle; Morton Johnston, guard; Kenneth Joyner, quarterback; Jimmie Robards, end; Bob Hughes, end; Larry Roberts, halfback; Don Joyner, fullbark; Jackie Conway, tackle; John Adams, halfback; James E. Henderson, quarterback; Bill Moye, guard; J. G. Proctor, halfback; John Watters, end; Ned Cain, halfback, and Danny Cain, halfback.

Warren Carroll and Lynn Barrier, coaches.

In the girls game, Betty Cooper paced the Bethel attack with 14 points. Geraldine Keel and Ann Briley scored six each for Bethel while Haislit, with 21, led the Oak City scoring.

Hal Edwards 'Out' In Wilson Game

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Yesterday, the Greenville Phantoms stressed offensive drills in practice, putting the final touches on their attack in heavy equipment.

The session opened with calesthentics, then went on to basic fundamentals. A twenty-minute period of work on the blocking sled prepared the linemen for the scrimmage that was to follow, while the backs ran through simple warm-up maneuvers. The scrimmage was a signal drill, without heavy contact work, as the Phant first team reeled of plays which will be used against Wilson, here, Friday night.

Edwards Definitely Out

Injured end Harold Edwards "will definitely not play," said Coach Guy Lewis today. The 170-pound terminal is suffering from a bad ankle which has plagued him throughout most of the season. Edwin Wilkerson, a junior, will take over Edwards position on both defense and offense.

WILKERSON

Wilkerson will team up with Ike Riddick at the end spots and may form the receiving end of a possible passing attack. Sophomore quarterback Mack Roebuck will assume the hurling duties if the Phants do decide to travel by air.

Other linemen who will see action Friday night will be Jack Calhoun at center; Barney Barrett, Kelly Barnhill and Peter Hudson at guards; Angus Duff, Howard King and Roy Martin at tackles. Ken Whichard and Albert Crawford are two reserve standouts who may also get into the fray.

Phantoms Lose Halfback

Coach Lewis announced today that halfback John Ed Arnold wilfully dropped off the team for several reasons that Lewis said were "not clear." The Green mentor stated that Arnold would definitely be a loss to the team. "He would have made up a regular halfback and a good ballplayer had he stayed with us," claimed the coach.

Arnold had been battling nip-and-tuck for starting halfback honors with Robert Howell, according to Coach Lewis. His absence now will give an open field to Howell, who, incidentally was last week's starting half.

"Between Us Folks"

By BILL ALDRIDGE

ALL OVER BUT THE SHOUTING . . . I don't know about you folks but I have had enough of paint to last me for some time. It's all over now but the shouting. Many thanks for the wonderful turnout and hope you enjoyed it. $1923.00 was the amount of cash in the money bowl. The winners are as follows: 1st Prize—Boys or girls bicycle, William Tingen (1926.00), Rt. 5, Box 30B, Greenville, N. C. . . . 2nd Prize—Any room in house painted free, James D. White ($1908.32), 1015 Washington St. . . . 3rd Prize—$25.00 in trade, Mrs. W. R. Wall ($1903.32), Ayden, N. C. . . . 4th Prize—Folding ironing board, Miss Josephine Saad ($1900.56), Greenville.

YOUR SUPPORT NEEDED . . . The Greenville Little League needs your support. As it stands right now there is some doubt if we will have the Little League next year, according to a card which I received in the mail. So please make an all out effort to help this worthy cause. This is one of the best ways that I know to help mold the character of our youth.

ABOUT TOWN . . . Hated to see East Carolina lose to the University of Tampa even though they were defeated fair and square by a superior team. Those Tampa boys were just too fast. As one spectator put it, "those Tampa backs ran like swamp deer." Their broken field running was the best that I have seen all season. . . . Greenville was really on the go last week-end. . . . Attending the Washington Redskins and Duke-Navy games were Jimmy Warren, Booger Scales, Warren Aldridge, Dick Worsley, Les Garner, Graham Jefferson, Jim Lanier, Dale Gidley, Charles Howard, Jr., J. B. Spillman, Jr., Polly Williams, Jimmy Sutton, Ben Rouse, Gene Ward, Jack Whichard, Ed Harris of Home Builders, Ed Harris of Flanagan's, John Howard, Hoyt Narron, Blanton Little, Ford McGowan, Bob Kirkland, John Saleed, Sid Dunn, Clark Stokes, Craven Hughes, John Biggs, Bill Taylor and Bob Lang. They went as a group in a club car with Sid Dunn acting as coach and Bob Lang, the water boy. . . . Our fair city was graciously represented at the Ice Capades in Raleigh by these charming ladies—Ella Frances McGowan, Sybil Harris, Jane Worsley, Betty Kittrell, Dot Aldridge, and Betty Pais. . . . Coastal Refrigeration Co. has moved into their new location out on Hooker Road. Their show room is very attractive and fits in with their scheme of operation. The company is comprised of Roger Collins, General Manager, Phil Moore, Sec. & Treas. and George Respess, Vice Pres. and Service Manager. Wonder why Phil spends half his time between the job and the telephone? His Dad said that Phil had started backing up to get his pay check. . . . Colds are on the rampage around town and like other business establishments we have been hit also. I have been out two days and Cliff had to give up Monday afternoon for the same reason. Hope the boss will be back soon. . . .

See you next week. . . .

Tax Collector Holds 20 Player Contracts

RICHMOND Va. (AP) — Two more player contracts have been added to the Richmond Virginians' assets to be sold here Nov. 14 to satisfy a federal tax claim of $79,218.68 against the Triple-A International League baseball club.

The federal tax collector said yesterday the government now holds the contracts of 20 players with the addition of shortstop Allan Richter and first baseman George D. Lewis.

Richter was obtained by the Virginians from the St. Louis Cardinals. He played the past two years with Rochester, the Cards' International League farm club. Lewis was purchased from Plainview, Tex. of the Class C West Texas-New Mexico League. Neither has played with the Virginians.

The government seized the contracts of 10 pitchers, four outfielders, three infielders and a catcher on Nov. 1. Also acquired were the Richmond Club's International League franchise and its playing equipment.

The Richmond club, headed by Harry C. Seibold, owed the government taxes for admissions for 1954 and withholding and social security taxes for 1954-55, according to tax officials.

Saxton Easily Decisions Tiger

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Saxton was set today for another shot at the welterweight championship he held for only six months.

The slick shooting Saxton, throwing lefthanded darts all the way, sped to a unanimous decision over Ralph Jones last night in a 10-round bout. The verdict was never in doubt.

The word before the fight was that Saxton would get a date with the winner of the welterweight title bout Nov. 30 between champion Carmen Basilio and Tony De Marco. Saxton, who won the crown from Kid Gavilan, lost it less than six months later to De Marco.

Saxton gave away 10 pounds to Jones. The former welter titlist came in at 148½ pounds to Jones' 158½ and capitalized on his mobility to the fullest.

Under the 11-point California scoring system Referee Fred Apostoli had it 56½-53½, Judge Jack Downey 57-53 and Judge Eddie James 56-54. The Associated Press card showed 57-53.

Saxton used a rapid-fire left to annoy Jones flicking it in his face, then crossing a right.

DeMarco Claims In Better Shape

BOSTON (AP) — Stiff-punching Tony De Marco shrugged off Welterweight Champion Carmen Basilio's prediction of a solid victory and pronounced himself "ready" today for their 15-round title bout Nov. 30 at the Boston Garden.

"I'm not interested in predictions—I'll be ready," said the Boston slugger who held the crown only 70 days before dropping it to Basilio in Syracuse, N.Y., last June.

De Marco, a modest 23-year-old battler who lives in the North End just four blocks from the Garden, said he "expected a tough fight just like the last" but refused to make any predictions.

"I naturally believe I'll win, but I'm not going to go for a knockout like I did last June," De Marco said. "This time I intend to fight him each round. If I see a chance for a knockout, I'll go for it. If I don't I'll fight him every round."

De Marco, who won the title on a 14th round TKO from Johnny Saxton and then lost it on a 12th round TKO to Basilio, was not disturbed by the champion's statement in Syracuse that "I'm going to beat De Marco convincingly."

"I want that title back," the Boston belter said. "I've been training hard, but no harder than for my last fight with Basilio. But this time I'm in better condition."

Told that Basilio thinks he is in better condition than when he won the title last June, De Marco said: "I'm also in better condition now, even though I haven't been training any harder than for my title defense against Carmen. That little nose operation (for a deviated septum) really has improved my breathing."

The ex-champion said the operation has improved "my endurance and I find I can put much more mileage in both sparring sessions and in roadwork."

Miss Hayman Is Prize-Winner In Table-Settings

Miss Eugene Hayman, East Carolina College home economics student, has been named one of 38 winners in the first nationwide Creative Table Setting contest sponsored by Lenox, Inc., of Trenton, N. J.

Miss Hayman, who competed with high school and college girls throughout the country, was awarded four five-piece place settings in the china pattern she used in her entry.

Miss Lilah Gaut, associate professor in home economics at East Carolina, received a piece of Lenox giftware as a prize for submitting the winning contest entry.

Entrants were asked to create an original table setting on blanks provided by Lenox. Each girl selected a theme, chose the type table on which to create her setting and coordinated china, silver, glass and accessories in an original table setting.

Judges for the contest were Sigana Earle, director of homemaking education for "Seventeen" magazine; Betty Furness of television note; Elizabeth Kinbrough, daughter of lecturer-author Emily Kinbrough; Paul McCobb, industrial designer; and Patricia Esterbrook Roberts, author of "The Book of Table Arrangements."

Although Australia is 200 times as large as Formosa, each has a population of about 8½ million, says the National Geographic Society.

Work Is Started On Grimesland Annual

By MELVIN BOYD
Grimesland High School

With loud noises from the typewriters and many frustrated glances, the annual staff with Melvin Boyd, editor; Audrey Pierce, business manager; Becky Mills and Joseph Padgett, assistant business managers in charge of the circulation and sales of the annual, got off to a rip snorting start. Nancy Scherer, Gene Paramore and J. D. Boyd are typist.

After the soliciting of the ads, which is the ground work of producing an annual, we are now in the process of typing them on proof reading sheets.

The Grimesland High School FHA club, under the supervision of Mrs. Josephine Ross, observed National FHA Week in the following ways.

An attractive bulletin board with the caption "What We Are Working Toward," was arranged by the girls. An improvement project is being carried out by the girls in beautifying the grounds around the Home Economics Department.

Citizenship Day, Foreign Nations Day and Home Appreciation Day were observed by all members. The week was ended by the club attending in a group the Salem Methodist Church. The club gave an arrangement of red roses, its national flower, to the church. With these accomplishments a very successful and educational FHA week was ended.

MELVIN

The future GHS basketball prospects look good as Garlan Bailey, principal, coach for the girls and Bob Williams, coach for the boys, began putting their teams through the paces in preparation for their first practice game, November 15 at Chicod High School.

They began last week, whipping the boys into shape by having them to run many laps around the school ground every day. The girls, too, have many strenuous exercises.

In addition to this, the halls of the high school resound every morning with loud cheers from the cheerleaders. They had very much tough competition. Roe Ann Elks is the Chief with Irene Cayton, Barbara Mills, Janice Hudson, Frances Elks and Peggy Arnold are assistants.

The Beta club held its monthly meeting at 7:00 o'clock in Barbara Mills' home on November 2. Nancy Scherer, president, presided over the meeting.

Spelling, one of the most needed subjects in high school, is being taught in regular class sessions in the English Dept. The improvement and results have been good.

Three former students from Grimesland are enrolled at Oak Ridge Military Institute. They are Earl Hardee, college freshman, and Will Faucette and Bruce McLawhorn, high school juniors. Clarence Elks is a high school senior at Carlisle in South Carolina.

The 40 percent of last year's graduates, who are attending ECC this year are, David Boyd, Lindy Edwards, Donald Furguson, Jo Ann Heath, Joy Lewis, Nicki Mills, Edna Stokes, Janice Tucker and Ruth Tucker.

The second year typing class has started a new budget that has to do with the typing of office forms. A budget is a series of problems assigned at one time. They are learning to type such forms as telegrams, telefax and inter-office forms.

This Week's Menu

Monday: Hot dogs, french fries, chili, cookies, finger rolls, milk.

Tuesday: Corn beef hash, snaps, beets, slaw, hush puppies, fruit cup, milk.

Wednesday: Beef roast & gravy, cream potatoes, peas, carrot strips, biscuits, jelly, milk.

Thursday: Sausage patties, buttered rice, turnip salad, apple sauce, hot rolls & butter, and milk.

Friday: Vegetable soup, peanut butter & Honey sandwiches or pimento cheese sandwiches, chocolate cake, crackers, milk.

Ministers Don't Ask For Shaves

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—Emil Rusterholtz modestly admits he probably has got closer to the minds of three of the Big Four foreign ministers than any man alive.

"But," he said, "I still don't know what's in their minds."

A Geneva barber, Rusterholtz has cut the hair of V. Molotov, John Foster Dulles and Harold Macmillan.

Like many barbers, Rusterholtz has political ideas and likes to discuss them with his customers.

"I tried some conversation on Mr. Molotov," he said, "but all I could get out of him, through an interpreter, were expressions about the beauties of Geneva—scenic not girls."

Rusterholtz is uncertain why three of the foreign ministers singled him out to cut their hair. He believes one of Geneva's top security men, also a customer, may have been responsible.

Admitting he was on delicate grounds, Rusterholtz said he has been unable to get a shave by any of the ministers.

"It may have something to do with a straight razor," he said. "When I suggested a shave, all declined, but Mr. Molotov was more emphatic than the rest. He didn't need an interpreter to answer 'nyet.'

"All tipped, but let's put it this way. Mr. Dulles is extremely generous."

Television Seen As Big Boon To Mentally Ill

By CHARLES MERCER

CEDAR GROVE, N J. (AP)—"Television is God's gift to the mental hospital patient."

So says Dr. Joseph G. Sutton, Overbrook Hospital, the largest county mental institution in New Jersey. There are now about 50 TV sets installed in wards where 1,850 patients live.

"Since we've completed installation of a set in each ward," says Dr. Sutton, "There is one definite generalization I can make: Patients are calmer. We haven't had disturbances such as we used to have sometimes on some wards."

Visit a woman's ward and you'll see 30 or 40 women sitting about in comfortable chairs watching soap opera. Some seem entranced by the program and others appear only mildly interested. Theirs are the reactions you would expect to see in an equivalent number of women outside the hospital.

Go to a men's ward and you'll see 20 or 30 men sitting around watching a variety program. Several laugh approvingly at jokes, as if cued by the performer on the screen. Others look as bored as a jaded television critic.

"It's difficult to find much difference between the tastes of the hospital audience and the general viewing audience," says Dr. Sutton. "Here the men are especially fond of ball games and the fights. The women like home programs. The older folks enjoy the look-up and lift-up type of program.

"Variety programs are general favorites. But there seems to be little interest in heavy drama programs. Subtlety, character development, the ramifications of story plot—that sort of thing fails to hold interest."

He specifically named the Ed Sullivan show, the Arthur Godfrey programs and "The $64,000 Question" as among the most popular with patients.

Music is the most beneficial entertainment TV brings to patients, he believes. "Its soothing effects, even the effects of hill-billy music —the most popular form here, cannot be over-emphasized."

Price War On Cracker Front

Cut-rate crackers coming in from New Orleans were blamed for the price crack.

Street Names To Fit Poor Spellers

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—This capital city of Oregon has too many bad spellers to risk naming a street after the Finnish composer Jean Sibelius, the city planning commission has decided.

B.O. Sundman of Helsingfors, Finland, asked the commission to use that name for a street. Commissioner Robert Powell said the commission recently changed the name of a street which residents found too difficult to spell. And even that one was easier to spell than Sibelius.

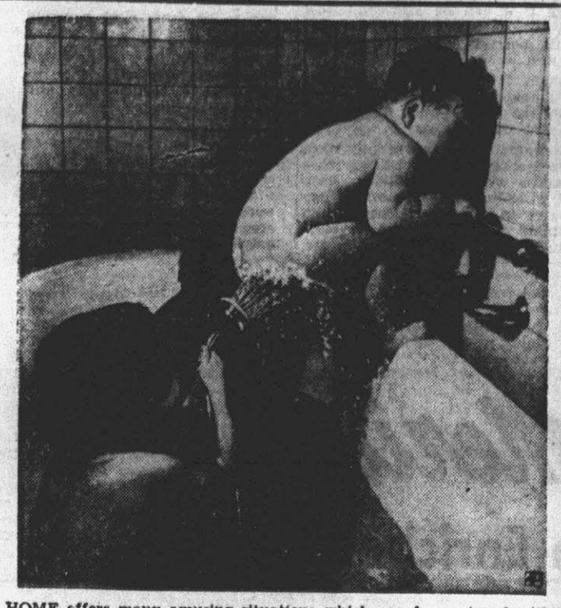
Camera News



HOME offers many amusing situations which can be captured with a ready camera. This is by Dr. P. Wolff and appears in the new Leica Manual. It was taken with one electronic flash off the camera to stop action and get better modeling. The light tile walls reflect light into the shadows.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A batch of new photo books are at hand covering a wide range of interests from camera manuals to home movie tricks, from how-to-do-it to inspirational stories of famous photographers. When read carefully and applied intelligently, these books can inform and inspire camera fans to do better work.

Most important among them is "Leica Manual and Data Book" by Willard Morgan and Henry Lester (Morgan & Lester, Publishers). First published in 1935, its text and pictures have been revised for this 13th edition. This is not merely a listing of the latest in equipment, accessories and materials available, but a thorough probe into the whole system of 35mm photography.

Even without a 35mm camera, a fan would get an education in photography in general by reading the extensive chapters on taking pictures outdoors and indoors, developing, enlarging and printing and on color. The authors have gone back to fundamentals to insure better understanding.

At the back of the book they have included a separate section of tables and formulas for ready reference. Here you'll find depth of field, lens, filter and copying data as well as the formulas for stop, fixing and hardening baths, reducers, intensifiers and toners.

Perhaps it's just a coincidence that a new book from Britain looks at 35mm photography from another camera viewpoint. Entitled "The Contax Way" by H. Freytag, this was originally published in Germany in 1938 and translated into English a year later. Focal Press Limited first revised the English edition in 1953. Now the fifth edition reaches this country through the American Photographic Book Publishing Co. From a practical standpoint I believe its usefulness to American camera fans is somewhat limited by its references to equipment, materials and some films not readily available in this country. It's also hard to avoid comparisons. The Morgan and Lester book is far more thorough and much better printed.

"How to Do Home Movie Tricks" by Julien Caunter is another British importation (Focal Press Ltd. from American Photographic Book Publ Co.) which is readily adaptable, however, in this country. As its name implies, it explains some of the camera magic which the amateur movie fan can accomplish. Some of the effects described in detail: fast and slow motion, reverse actions, stop motion, animated cartoons, superimposition, ghost images, photographs coming to life and tricks with threads and mirrors. Some of these methods would add zest to any home movie.

On the inspirational side, we have "Famous Photographers Tell How" by Carlton Brown, a Fawcett publication in hard cover for book stores and paper bound edition for newsstands. Here are back stage chats with eight photo specialists and some clues as to how and why they achieved top ranking in their respective fields.

The men interviewed and their specialties are: Hal Reiff, fashion photographer; Max Desfor news; Hy Peskin, sports; Jerry Cooke, magazine; Ewing Krainin, travel; Irving Haberman, television publicity; Homer Page, documentary and Ed Feingersh, illustrative.

Their experiences prove there are no secret formulas for success. In general, they all started from the bottom, grounded in the basics of photography as darkroom assistants after school or self study. They progressed in technical ability by harnessing active minds to constant shooting under all conditions.

The final book at hand is "Retouching Negatives and Prints" by Kitty West, one of the Modern Camera Guide Series (Greenberg publisher). This should interest the more serious photographer who may wish to go into commercial portraiture. Its general principles might also be useful to average camera fans to remove occasional blemishes or spots on their pictures.

Soviet 'Colony' Is Better Off

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Veteran Western diplomats here say Russia treas Romania "like a colony, to be exploited."

But things in Bucharest, though poor by Western standards, look better than the same things in Moscow.

That doesn't mean Ro- are prosperous or glowing with happiness, nor t... to talk to Western visitors. This is one of the most difficult countries in which to make contact with the people. Some Westerners think the Romanians are afraid to complain about conditions in their country, but other experienced observers figure the easy-going Romanians are too smart to complain about something they can't do anything about.

Western diplomats say things have improved here recently, even though the Romanian economy is controlled and exploited by the Russians.

Some Romanians can beat the high prices on food by getting one meal a day at low fixed prices in factory canteens. But when they go out to shop for other necessities, it's difficult to see how they can beat the fantastic prices.

Romania now is producing more of its own consumer goods, but one still may have to wait a month or so for a new model radio or stove if it can be afforded. Most clothing produced here is still pretty poor by Western standards, as well as expensive.

About 25 per cent of the country's arable land is socialized in collective farms, state farms and peasant cooperatives.

Romanian officials recently have been talking a lot about doing more business with the capitalist West. But what can the Romanians pay or give in exchange? The oil and uranium go to Russia and Western ers say even timber is hard to get.

Costlier Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The turkey for the Thanksgiving dinner is expected to cost from two to six cents more a pound this year than in 1954.

An Agriculture Department spokesman attributed the increase to a smaller crop and later marketing.

The housewife's demand is scheduled to be as strong as ever with continuing high incomes in a growing population.

A record 66 million turkeys were grown last year. This year's crop is expected to add up to only 63,100,000.

SYNOPSIS

Newly married Lora accompanies her husband Wade Tyler, to his family home on Staten Island after nursing him back to health from a serious wound he received while fighting as a Union soldier. She meets Wade's autocratic mother, Amanda Tyler, and Jemmy, son of Wade and his dead first wife, Virginia. Wade forbids Lora to walk up the hill near the house but offers no explanation. Amanda attempts unsuccessfully to forbid Jemmy to call Lora Lorie.

CHAPTER FOUR

A brisk walk up and down the lane freshened Lora. She regained the house and let herself through the front door. The dim, chilly hallway was silent and she found herself instinctively tiptoeing toward the stairs. Then moved by a whim, she paused with one hand on the newel post. So far she had been faced by so many closed doors that she had seen little of this house. The front room opposite the library must be the parlor, and there was no reason why she should not look in and see what the room was like.

She opened the door softly and blinked at the thick gloom. Not only where the shutters closed, but heavy draperies had been pulled across the windows, shutting out any seepage of daylight and turning the room to shadowy night. Lora remembered the candle she had seen on the hall table with a packet of friction matches beside it and she got it quickly. The stricking of a match sounded all too loud in the quiet hall, but she lit the candle and went into the dark parlor.

The draperies were of wine-colored velvet and most of the furniture was dark, well-polished walnut. From the wall above the mantel a portrait looked down at her.

Thinly her candle lighted the face of the man in the picture and for a moment she thought it was a portrait of Wade. But the full-lipped mouth was more sensual, perhaps a little cruel, and there was none of Wade's likeable appeal in the portrayed gaze. One sensed something robust and hearty, but no great sensitivity.

This then must be Wade's father. It was difficult to imagine the grim old lady who held court in the rear parlor as the wife of this florid-faced man with the stamp of easy living upon him.

Someone whispered from the doorway and she looked about to see Jemmy beckoning to her insistently.

"What is it?" she asked.

He put a finger to his lips and tip-toed into the room. "Ssh! Grandmother will hear you. You'd better come out quickly. You're not supposed to come in the parlor," Jemmy whispered. "Grandmother only opens it for company and on Sundays. We'll be here tomorrow. But if grandmother catches you now she'll be angry."

"I don't see why she should be," Lora said gently, remaining where she was. Then she went on not waiting for further objection. "That portrait over the mantel must be of your grandfather. Do you remember him, Jemmy?"

Jemmy stared at the picture and shook his head. "He died when Papa was only 10. And you know what—he was thrown from a runaway horse he was riding when he'd had too much to drink. Aren't you afraid of her?"

"Your grandmother? Why should I be?"

"My mother was afraid of her Sometimes I had to protect Mama from Grandmother."

"There's no reason to be afraid," Lora told him. "We have to remember that your grandmother has had considerable trouble in her life." She glanced briefly at the portrait. "And that she can't move around like other people. Perhaps we'd be irritable sometimes too, if we had to sit in a chair all day long and couldn't leave the house."

"I think she could leave it if she wanted to," Jemmy whispered, glancing cautiously behind him. "I heard the doctor tell her one time that there wasn't anything wrong with her that her own will couldn't cure. But she got so angry she sent him away and she won't have a doctor in the house any more."

Sunday came all too quickly, and with it a sense of restraint that made past solemnity seem almost frivolous. As Jemmy had prophesied, they spent the entire morning in the parlor. Shutters and draperies were not opened, but at least a lamp and candles pierced the gloom and a fire in the grate pushed back the chill air for a small radius. Mrs. Tyler's chair was placed at the center table on which rested the huge Bible and she read with keen eyes that needed no glasses the words of the text.

Lora sat on the slippery hair sofa beside Wade, her hands folded tightly in her lap trying not to fidget.

"Thank you, Lord, for smiting down the enemies of our beloved Union. Bring victory soon to our forces and let the evil ones go down in helpless defeat!"

The prayer was very long and once or twice Lora could not help the squeaking of the sofa beneath her. When it finally ended she released a sigh of relief without ralizing it and Mrs. Tyler looked at her sharply.

"Lora, I do not sense in you a proper reverence on the Lord's day."

There was a blazing light in Mrs. Tyler's eyes. "There is only one God and I will suffer no disrespect to Him in this house."

Mrs. Tyler turned to her son. "Wade, we have finished our prayers. Will you help me back to my sitting-room, please? Then I trust you will take your wife aside and explain to her the customs of this house. I do not feel strong enough at the moment."

To Lora, she had never seemed less weak, but Wade pulled his crutch into place and stood up. He did not glance Lora's way again as he helped his mother wheel her chair into the hall. Lora stayed where she was, struggling against indignation which rose frighteningly within her.

She had no opportunity to talk to Wade, for he drove away from the house immediately after noon dinner.

When Lora realized he had gone she went into Mrs. Tyler's sitting-room, feeling that the quicker certain matters were cleared up the better. But Ellie was helping to make Mrs. Tyler comfortable for her nap and it was plain that the old lady meant to talk to no one At least Lora managed a question about Wade.

"I saw him drive away," she said. "I wish he had taken me with him. I'd have loved a drive, and I imagine Jemmy would too. Do you know where he has gone?"

Mrs. Tyler looked up from slipping her arms into the sleeves of a lavander wrapper. "You would not have been welcome. My son has gone to visit his first wife's grave. It would hardly be appropriate for you to accompany him."

"Why would it not?" Lora asked. "I have only the kindest feeling toward Virginia." Ellie was helping Mrs. Tyler to the bed in the small adjoining room, and Lora followed them to the doorway. But Mrs. Tyler did not answer until Ellie had gone scuttling off with a frightened backward glance for Lora. Then the old lady lay back upon her pillows and fixed Lora with a gaze in which there was nothing but open dislike.

"I should think," she said "that it would be very plain to you that Wade is still in love with Virginia."

Lora swallowed against a dry throat before she spoke again. "I understood that when I married him. I have not fooled myself or Wade. But I will not believe that I mean nothing to him. I'm sure that he needs me now."

South Viet Nam Chances Improve

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's chances of surviving any Communist aggression are 7 to 1 in its favor—that's the opinion of Gen. John O'Daniel, commander of the U.S. Military Aid Mission here.

A year ago there were long odds against the young nation.

The potential of its new national army has changed the situation.

"Iron Mike" O'Daniel is leaving his post here this month and will be replaced by Lt. Gen. Samuel Williams. He said in an interview that man for man the national army would give an outstanding account of itself should the Communist Vietminh in the North launch a military attack against the South. But he pointed out that the Vietminh army outnumbers the Southern force of 170,000 men 2 to 1.

The high morale and combativeness of the Viet Nam army have been credited in large measure to the joint French-American training mission which O'Daniel has headed since February.

He observed that as the situation becomes more stable in the newly proclaimed Vietnamese Republic, it may become eligible for direct participation in the Southeast Asia Defense Alliance.

Viet Nam does not belong to SEATO but she and the neighboring states of Laos and Cambodia are expressly covered by it.

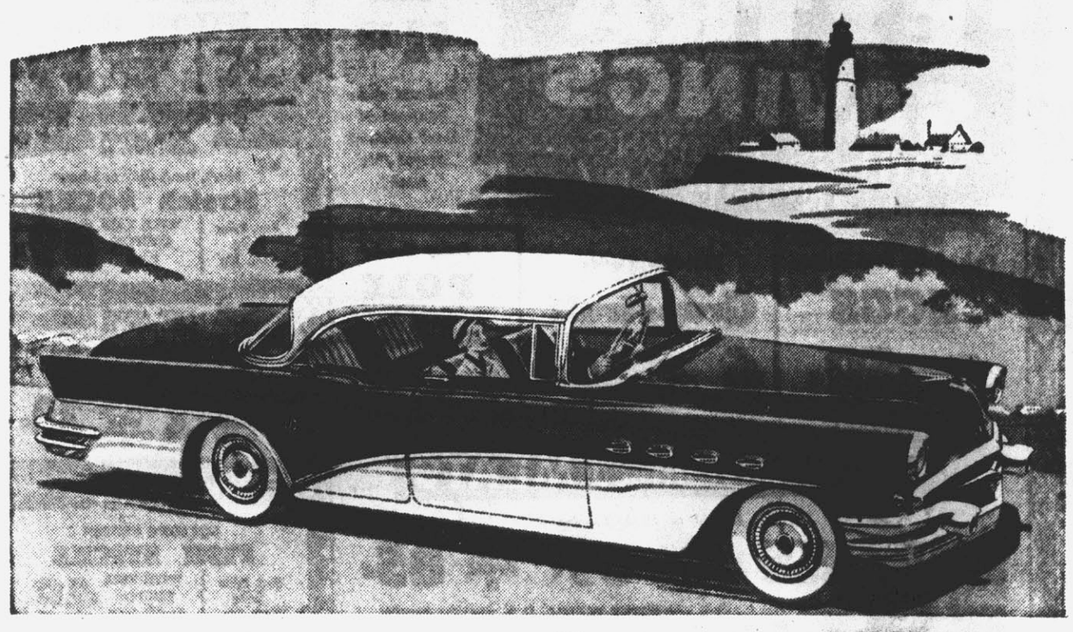
For '56
New Sweep-ahead styling
New Sizzle to match



WHAT YOU SEE pictured here is Buick for 1956—and from the gleam of that "V" grille to the sassy slant of the tail fins, you can see it has no equal for gorgeous good looks.

But what you see from the curb is fully matched by what you feel at the wheel—and that's gospel.

For this Buick gets its zoom from a mighty 322-cubic-inch V8 engine lofted to a new record high in power and compression—and from a spectacular new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

What's new in the '56 Dynaflow is this: in the first inch of pedal travel—and not with wide-open throttle—your Buick moves from standstill to cruise with silk-smooth, instant and certain getaway.

But comes a sudden need for safety-surge action to get out of a tight spot—and you floor the pedal to switch the pitch of this airplane-inspired transmission. Instantly and smoothly, you're at full-power acceleration—a thrill beyond words.

There's a lot more we could tell you about these great new Buicks—about brilliant new interiors, a superb new ride with a safer "sense of direction," and new safety features everywhere you look.

But the best way to get the whole story of the best Buick yet is right at the wheel of one of these '56 beauties. So drop in this week and do just that.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Reds Making A Calculated Gamble In The Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Communism, flushed with recent successes, is making a calculated gamble in the Middle East.

The signs point to this conclusion: Moscow is gambling that short of touching off World War III it can mark the United States permanently with the stigma of colonialism — and therefore nail down a formidable bridgehead in the Arab and Moslem world.

The policy has element of blackmail. The Soviet Union demonstrates it can, at will, raise cain in the Arab East. It makes no bones about the goal: To shatter Western defense alignments. Some nations, hoping that would be the full price, may be panicked into deserting the cause of anti-Communist unity. The Soviet Union perhaps can head off chaos for the time being.

But Moscow has given much ground for suspicion that in her eyes the alternative to chaos and war is simple: Let world communism extend its sway without putting p any unified resistance.

Storm clouds are gathering over a vast, parched slice of this uneasy world. Even with the most energetic of Western countermeasures, the prospect seems at best to be crisis after crisis; at worst an explosion which could lead ultimately to the big war nobody wants.

This is the other side of the "Spirit of Geneva" coin. Soviet policy now plainly attempts to exploit tensions across 3,000 miles of Asia and Africa, all the way from Pakistan's borders to French North Africa.

Here, in effect, is the sort of ultimatum expressed by Moscow radio recently:

"Only a cessation of the policy of setting up military blocs, a cessation of interference in internal affairs of the states of the Near and Middle East, and respect for their right to decide their own affairs independently, including questions of their security, can put an end to the tension in that area and secure a calm and stable peace for its peoples."

In plain language, this means that only a breakup of the Baghdad Pact, linking Nato to Eastern outposts of the anti-Communist defense line in Pakistan, can offer hope that the Middle East will avoid a dangerous, chain-reaction war.

The Soviet Union long ago began its drive to smear the United States as the leading colonial villain. The drive has taken root. It is echoed daily and violently in the Arab world. It was boosted at the Asian-African conference in Indonesia.

The campaign took advantage of a chink in American armor. While attempting to demonstrate that the United States was neither colonialist nor imperialist, American leaders were forced by circumstances in many cases to support colonial powers.

Even in the balmy air of the Geneva spirit, the Russians continue to depict "the colonizing approach of the Western powers to the Arab countries."

While Western attention is focused on the immediate danger of an Arab-Israeli war Soviet activity is farflung.

Afghanistan swarms with Soviet technicians. Communist bloc arms are being offered that country as well as Egypt. Afghanistan is engaged in a bitter quarrel with Pakistan.

Syria, where the extreme left is growing in strength, is reported entertaining Soviet overtures for an arms deal.

Saudi Arabia has confirmed a Russian arms offer.

The Yemen has concluded negotiations for a new pact with the U.S.S.R.

Egypt, building her offensive power, seems eager to start a band wagon movement among Arab nations to follow suit. Here is a straw in the wind:

The official Cairo radio reported Oct. 27 that the Soviet military attaches met with Lebanon's defense minister and chief of staff and proposed to supply arms under "very satisfactory terms." The broadcast quoted a "responsible source" that the proposal was welcomed by Lebanon.

In Beirut all Lebanese sources deny the arms offer and describe the attaches' visits as courtesy calls. Lebanon has important trade connections with the West and it is unlikely such an offer would be accepted at this moment. But if the other Arab states accept such arms, Lebanon might be pressured into going along.

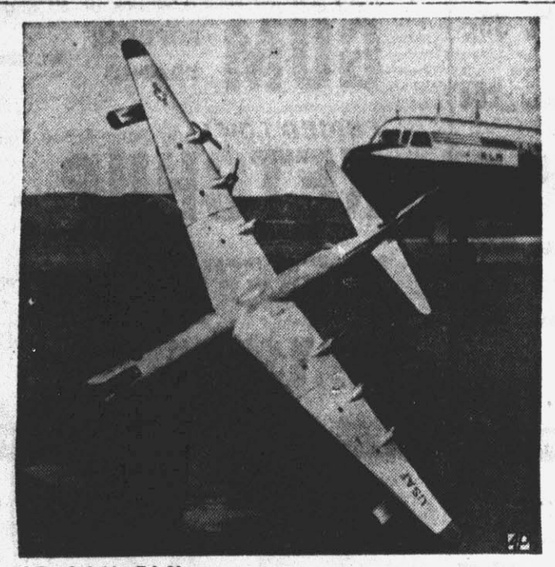
Communist activity in the Arab world is not confined to the Middle East area. Cominform propaganda and Red help try to keep in ferment the situation across the Arab Maghrib—the North African coastal countries. This tends to aggravate any divisive tendencies among the non-Communist nations.

The intense Soviet-Communist activity throughout the whole area is explained, at least in part, by Iran's recent adherence to the Turkish-Iraqi (Baghdad) pact, closing the gap in the anti-Communist line. But the Soviet drive had its beginnings long before that.

Present indications are that Moscow is anxious to keep the situation from getting beyond a point where it might blow up in the Soviet leaders' faces. The U.S.S.R. remains unready for a big war, although its leaders see much to be gained by political and economic offensives short of a shooting conflict.

Diplomatic observers say the Moscow campaign to stir up tension in the Middle East has been deliberate and well planned.

The big question remains: Can a war in the Middle East, in today's circumstances, remain localized?



IT CAN FLY — Helmut Appelt holds his 16-pound model of B36 bomber in Stuttgart, Germany. Wingspan is nine feet, nine inches. It has six tiny diesel engines with propellers and two rockets for takeoffs. Appelt says it will fly for six minutes at 30 miles per hour while attached to 75-foot cable.

M. Monroe Outlines Her Terms To Moviemakers

NEW YORK (AP)—Marilyn Monroe says she intends to be a permanent resident of New York, but will go to Hollywood for occasional movies.

In a rare interview, she also disclosed:

That she considers herself free of her film contract;

That she is willing to return to work at 20th Century-Fox—under conditions;

That she doesn't insist on doing straight dramatic parts only.

The scene was the Edwardian room of the Hotel Plaza. Marilyn came to breakfast, dressed in a black skirt; brown jersey top, tweed coat and a fuzzy white tam atop her honey-blonde hair. Despite dark glasses and no make-up, her entrance attracted the stares of others in the room.

She seemed to talk more freely than I ever heard her do in Hollywood. She was especially enthusiastic about New York.

"I love it here," she remarked. "I lived in California all my life; now I plan to stay here. The California climate is wonderful, but I love to see the seasons."

Marilyn came to New York a year ago, following her divorce from Joe DiMaggio. She announced plans to study dramatics here and produce pictures for her own company. Her studio declared she is still under contract and has sought her return.

She discussed her return to work, a matter in which 20th-Fox is extremely interested.

"I'm willing to go back to work—as long as I can get what I want," she said. "It's the same thing I've always wanted. I want to work with good directors, ones I can learn from. I want a variety of roles in good stories. And I want to make pictures for my own company.

"Money has never been an issue. The studio can afford to pay me."

She reported her own company is negotiating for a story to film. But is she free to work?

"I have no contract," she said flatly. "There are good reasons why my contract with Fox is not valid."

The studio doesn't see it her way, and the matter is up to the courts.

She is being asked to return to the studio for "Bus Stop." She said she'd like to do the role—if she gets her terms.

Her best acting role, she said, was the one that started her off to fame—in "The Asphalt Jungle." She made it plain that the pictures she doesn't want to do are ones like "Pink Tights" and "How To Be Very, Very Popular." She was suspended for refusing those two.

Window-Polisher Is A Real Expert

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Leroy Henderson, a new janitor at the Wyoming statehouse, can really polish windows.

A short time after cleaning one of the capitol building windows, Henderson noted some boys running through the yard. He stuck his head out to yell to them — forgetting the window was still shut.

He was cut around the forehead, but not seriously.

SNAGGLE-TOOTHED CHERUB CLUBBERS:—Five charter members of the Snaggle-toothed Cherub Club at Oklahoma City show how they got into the unusual organization—by losing their front teeth. Their second grade teacher in school, Mrs. Grace Cochran, formed the club to teach the seven-year-old youngsters some dental hygiene and get some fun out of it. Front row, left to right. Weekend To See Prices Down On Meat Items

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lower prices on a wide selection of meats will be offered by the nation's food stores this weekend.

Generally, beef and pork prices continue at around the lower levels reached in recent weeks. A number of stores will be offering smoked hams at marked down prices, and there will be specials on loins of pork, a favorite Sunday dinner item.

Chuck roast will be cheaper in many markets and some will trim pricetags on round steak or roast, prime ribs and porterhouse steak.

Frying chickens will be a popular feature, with unsuaully low prices posted in some areas. Legs of lamb will be widely advertised for the weekend. Here and there, you'll find lower prices on veal chops, pork chops and veal legs and shoulders.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture passed the word along this week that your Thanksgiving turkey will cost two to six cents a pound more this year than in 1954. The reasons: a smaller crop and later marketing. However, the USDA looks for a strong demand for the birds because of high in comes and growing population.

If those high incomes continue, the housewife should have no complaint about the price of food next year. The government has reported that prices will be about the same as this year. There'll be plenty of meat. And while some kinds may go up slightly this will be offset by lower prices for pork.

Foods in plentiful supply are usually reasonably priced. Here's the Department of Agriculture's list of such foods for this month: Pork, beef, broilers and fryers, turkey, potatoes, cauliflower, rice canned tuna, milk and dairy products, apples, dates cranberries, grapes, winter pears, raisins lard and vegetable fats and oils.

Egg prices generally will be lower this weekend, with reductions ranging from one to four cents a dozen. Butter shows little price change.

From the produce men comes word that beets, potatoes, onions, turnips radishes and cabbage are outstanding buys this week. Rated as good buys are cauliflower, red cabbage, beans, peppers, iceberg lettuce, spinach, sweet potatoes and artichokes.

Some vegetables are higher than a week ago, including cucumbers, peas, carrots and tomatoes.

Worthwhile buys in fruits include oranges and grapefruit, avocados, apples (although they're a little higher), limes and Emporor grapes. Honeydew melons are up in price this week.

Chestnuts Face Alcoholic Fate

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—The Romanians think they have found an industrial use for the horse chestnut, now scattered along the streets of this capital.

The newspaper Steagul Rosu reports experiments to extract industrial alcohol from wild chestnuts, substituting for important quantities of corn and potatoes as raw materials.

MINIATURE SPEEDSTERS — Hot rodders from 4 to 14 roll around 30-yard oval "Jelly Bean Bowl" before race in Lawndale, Calif. The two-horsepower motors cost from $350 to $500 each, can reach top speed of 30 miles an hour. Six to eight cars enter each race.
