Exiled Peron Predicts More Changes Are Forthcoming

Lonardi Unseated In Argentina Coup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, leader of the September revolt which overthrew Juan Peron, was ousted yesterday as provisional president of Argentina.

Peron was named army chief of staff when the revolutionary government took over in September. Aramburu took the oath of office at Casa Rosada, the government house, late in the afternoon and immediately named a junta to help him rule the country.

"The only chief of the revolution was and is General Lonardi," Uranga said, "and the reason to General Lonardi will not go unpunished."

Lonardi's seven-week-old government was plagued by political and economic problems after 10 years of Peron rule. United in opposition to Peron, differences in the revolutionary ranks came into the open soon after he was overthrown.

President Goes To Gettysburg And Farm Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower left Washington today for a six week stay at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

It is to be a period of recuperation that may well determine his plans as to whether he will seek another term.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, who was celebrating her 56th birthday, the president left by automobile on the 80-mile trip.

Eisenhower looked so fit and relaxed that it is reported he never would have guessed he was taking it easy.

Mrs. Eisenhower was wearing a blue princess coat with matching blue shoes and a matching hat.

The president was in a brown suit. Since the day was warm, he did not wear a top coat.

When someone yelled, "Happy birthday," the president took off his hat and greeted his wife.

For the first time since he was stricken with his heart attack on Sept. 24, Eisenhower went to work this morning.

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower rode together in the back seat of the automobile with a Secret Service man and the chauffeur up front.

The president's health is considered good that his physician will not go to Gettysburg until later.

Responsible For The Whole U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—You go abroad and the first thing you know you are responsible for your country.

When A. Boyd Campbell, Jackson, Miss., president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce was here last May for an International Chamber of Commerce meeting, he met Reiko Sakamoto, who had a beef.

The pretty 19-year-old student at Sacred Heart College told him she had received a pair of shoes from the United States, each of a different size.

Campbell took them back with him and exchanged them in New York City.

The new shoes have arrived. "And they fit, too," said Miss Sakamoto happily.

Russians Reject 'Package' Deal

GENEVA (AP)—Russia has refused a 4 to 13 package deal on U.N. membership, Western officials reported today.

V. M. Molotov is insisting that Outer Mongolia be included in Communist countries to be admitted to the world organization, making it a deal of five Soviet satellites for 13 Western-sponsored nations.

The Soviet position was reported to have been made clear in a two-hour talk yesterday between Molotov and U.S. Secretary Dulles.

The Western powers were reported to include Albania, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, and Cuba. The United States Dulles said Molotov is prepared to abstain from voting against the admission of four Communist states—Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Albania.

Speaking of Outer Mongolia, however, one American informant said, "How can they expect us to accept as qualified for U.N. membership a country which doesn't seem to have an ambassador in Moscow?"

2. Britain is willing to accept all five of the Soviet candidates.

3. France considers the whole deal should be put on the shelf as long as the Algerian item is still on the U.N. General Assembly's agenda.

An announcement by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the U.N. in New York yesterday that the United States had dropped its opposition to Albania, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, came about 12 hours after Dulles completed his talk with Molotov.

Lodge said the United States would also abstain on Outer Mongolia's application, but that he doubted that that country would get the necessary seven votes on the Security Council anyway.

He acted more quickly than U.S. officials here expected he would—apparently to get the American position on the record before the Russians could grab the play.

On return, Lodge expected Austria, Italy, Finland, Ireland, Portugal, Spain, Japan, Cambodia, Ceylon, Jordan, Laos, Nepal and Libya would be voted in before the end of the present U. N. General Assembly meeting Dec. 16.

It was reported here, however, that Dulles in his talk with Molotov also objected to including Albania as well as Outer Mongolia in the deal.

His Mother Was One Of Victims

Had Insured Mother For $37,000 At Airport Prior To Fateful Flight

DENVER (AP)—The arrest of a Denver man for sabotaging a United Air Lines plane in which his mother died was announced today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

John Gilbert Graham, 23, whose most recent job was helping his mother operate a drive-in restaurant here, will be arraigned this morning, the FBI said.

The FBI said Graham took out $37,000 worth of insurance on his mother, Mrs. Daisy King, at the Denver airport while the plane in which she was aboard the plane en route to Alaska.

Forty-four persons died in the Nov. 1 crash of the UAL DC6B in a sugar beet field 32 miles north of here near Longmont, Colo.

Witnesses reported the airplane appeared to explode, and official investigators subsequently confirmed that something "foreign" aboard the ship was responsible for a "bomb-like" blast.

The FBI said U.S. Asst. Donald Kelley of Denver had authorized the filing of a complaint against Graham.

Graham had been working with his mother in a drive-in restaurant in Denver, helping to pay off the balance on $4,500 in checks the youth had found among a Denver concern. Mrs. King had paid $2,500 of the loss at the time young Graham received a five-year suspended sentence on conviction of the forgery in 1951.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington the formal charge in the case is violating a section of the federal code which makes it a crime to sabotage a national defense facility or materials. The code lists commercial airplanes among such facilities.

The FBI announcement said Graham was born in Denver in 1932. He was placed in an orphanage following the death of his father in 1935. He later lived with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Earl King, until he was 15 years old.

He was charged in Spenard, Alaska, and since the death of his stepfather has assisted his mother in operating a drive-in restaurant in Denver.

In September 1951 Graham was arrested in Lubbock, Texas, on an illicit liquor charge, and received a 60-day jail sentence.

In November 1951 Graham was convicted on forgery charges in Denver, growing out of the forgery of 42 checks for $100 each drawn on a Denver concern. He received a five-year suspended sentence in a state court in Denver and was placed on probation. His mother made restitution of $2,500 and Graham has been making monthly payments on the unpaid balance which has now been reduced to $105.

Ex-Secretary Of Labor Succumbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Martin P. Durkin, the Democrat who was President Eisenhower's first Secretary of Labor, died yesterday after a long illness.

The 61-year-old union leader had been president of the AFL Plumbers Union—had been incoherent much of the time since he was stricken with a brain tumor 14 months ago.

Durkin resigned from the Eisenhower Cabinet Sept. 10, 1953 after serving seven months. He attended Eisenhower had violated a pledge to seek T. H. Hartley law changes which Durkin had recommended. The President replied that he never had broken a promise to anyone.

Found Family Of 5 Shot To Death In Their House

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Police in suburban Shorewood early today found a family of five shot to death in their home, with four of the bodies afloat.

The victims were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Buckethal and their three children.

Police said that earlier this morning they had discovered a fire at Buckethal's plumbing shop in Milwaukee. When they went to his home to report the blaze they found smoke coming from the building. Officers broke into the house and found the bodies. They said the wife and three children apparently had been shot and then covered with oil which was ignited.

The bodies, he said, were "burned to a crisp." They were found in upstairs rooms. The children had been shot in the forehead.

Fuel Tank Aboard Radar Picket Ship Explodes Three Die In Shipboard Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire exploded a fuel tank aboard a Navy radar picket ship at dawn yesterday, killing three men and injuring two others. The fire was brought under control six hours later.

The stricken ship, the Searcher, was on station at sea 126 miles southeast of here. Navy and Coast Guard vessels rushed to her aid. An amphibious plane flew three of the most severely injured men to New York City. One died on the way to the Naval Hospital at St. Albans, Queens.

The bodies of the two others killed in the blaze were "completely carbonized," the Navy said. The Searcher had recently started a new tour of patrol duty off the Atlantic Coast east of Cape May, N. J.

A converted Liberty ship, she is crammed with expensive radar equipment. It cost four million dollars to outfit her for this job.

Because of her long periods of patrol duty, the picket ship carried large supplies of fuel oil. The fire broke out in the starboard tank and roared with intense heat through the engine room on the second deck and the midship superstructure. The Navy called the damage moderate.

Lt. Comdr. William E. Chapline, pilot of a rescue plane, said, "The paint was all burned off by the engine room, an evidence of the intense heat."

After the fire was extinguished, tugs began to tow the powerless 416-ton vessel to port. She was expected to reach New York by this afternoon.

The Searcher's captain is Lt. Comdr. James A. Paulick, 32, who lives at Newport, R. I., where the Searcher is based. His hometown is Minneapolis.

The fatally injured man who died aboard was identified as Dennis Cook, a fireman, of Milligan College, Tenn.

The Navy announced that "presumptive" identification of the two other dead was made on the basis of the ship's muster. It withheld the names pending positive identification.

The two injured men are Calvin H. Crisp, 27, a boiler tender, whose wife, Sally Jo, lives at Newport, R. I., and Leonard Terry, fireman, whose wife, Ellaquay lives at Memphis, Tenn.

Will Sound Out Farmer Opinion

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee will sound out the opinion of Tar Heel farmers and farm leaders at a hearing here tomorrow on the government's farm program.

Approximately 50 persons are expected to testify before the committee, according to State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine. The group will offer suggestions for improving the farm program.

North Carolina Sen. Kerr Scott is a member of the committee, which is touring the nation to get grass roots opinion on the farm program. Rep. Harold Cooley of Nashville is scheduled to sit in on the hearing as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

Ballentine, who has assisted Scott in arranging the hearing here, said, "The future of the entire farm program depends on the information the committee gets at these hearings throughout the nation. If the committee is interested enough in coming to North Carolina, then I think we ought to give them as much information as we can."

France, Germany Will Try New Saar Solution

BONN, Germany (AP)—France and West Germany have agreed to seek a new solution for the Saar problem.

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced in a joint communique yesterday they would tackle the problem in cooperation with the new Saar government to be elected Dec. 18.

They said the solution would be sought in the light of the referendum of Oct. 23 in which Saarlanders voted two to one against "Europeanization" of their rich borderland.

This anti-Europeanization vote is now accepted by the French as showing clearly that the Saarlanders want eventually to return to their German fatherland.

The French and German governments, in seeking a new solution, hope to eliminate the coal and steel basin as a cause of friction in their goal toward European unity.

Pinay had a three-hour talk with the 75-year-old Adenauer. It was the first major conference for the chancellor since he became ill on Oct. 7.

No hint of the probable nature of the new solution was given. In the negotiations which led to the rearmament of West Germany in alliance with NATO, France and Germany agreed to "Europeanization" of the Saar. A commissioner appointed by seven West European allies was to be placed over the Saar which would have its own internal government. France would retain its economic hegemony over the area in lieu of World War II reparations, and to balance her coal and steel production against Germany's in the European coal and steel pool.

Pro-German parties defeated the Europeanization pact, however, and the pro-French premier of the Saar, Johannes Hoffmann resigned.

Falkland Man Hurt In Tractor-Car Crash

A 72-year old Falkland man suffered a broken shoulder and the loss of his artificial leg leg Saturday night when the tractor he was driving was involved in an accident on NC 222 just west of Falkland.

Claude Adams, the tractor driver, was treated and released at Pitt Memorial Hospital following the 6 p.m. accident. Also treated and released was the driver of the car which struck Adams, Arvid Randolph Kelly, of 202 Meade Street and his wife, Velma Kelly, 39.

Adams was headed toward Falkland, State Highway Patrolman D. L. Minshew said, when Kelly's car, also traveling toward Falkland, struck him from behind.

The left wheel and axle of the tractor were sheared off and tossed into a field some 120 feet away.

Minshew estimated damage to the car at approximately $500. The tractor was a total loss.

No arrests had been made yesterday pending a further investigation.

THREE INJURED—Claude Adams, 72-year old resident of near Falkland, suffered a broken shoulder and the loss of an artificial leg when this tractor, which was driving, was struck by a car on NC 222 early Saturday night. Occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Randolph Kelly, of 202 Meade Street, were treated for shock, cuts and bruises at Pitt Memorial Hospital and then released. (Reflector Photo by Bob Hildrup).

Note Possible Scandal In Commodity Credit Corp.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional investigators have turned over to the General Accounting Office reports of some Commodity Credit Corp. practices which they said "may have serious and possibly scandalous proportions."

The statement is contained in a 300-page report made by the staff of the House Appropriations Committee on major activities of the Agriculture Department.

The report, dated Dec. 29 1954 and still locked up in committee files, hinted at what it called "favoritism in awarding contracts and culpable negligence" in purchasing supplies. It said there is sometimes an attitude in handling stored crop surpluses that since "only government-owned commodities and taxpayers' dollars are involved—why worry?"

The report was prepared primarily for the committee's information, and became available indirectly.

Its major criticism was directed at the Commodity Credit Corp. The department's major agency to handle surplus crops and the CCC's operating agency, the Commodity Stabilization Service.

The report dealt generally with activities in which it said "deficiencies warranting the attention of the committee" were found and cited what it called "numerous instances and examples of such deficiencies." It emphasized that the objectionable conditions do not exist in all activities of the department and praised the "great ma-majority" of department employees as "loyal, conscientious and generally competent."

"From observations to date," the investigators said in their synopsis, "there is no assurance that the corrective actions warranted by administrative shortcomings will be initiated independently by the department."

The report did not state the period of time covered by the investigation but said many of the practices criticized occurred in 1952, 1953 and 1954.

In connection with CCC storage procurement practices, the investigators said that in July 1953 and April 1954, the CCC advertised for bids for the erection of storage facilities in Iowa and Illinois and did not give the entire contracts to the low bidder in each case. Had the low bidders been awarded the work, they said, the possible savings to the government would have been $620,831.

In March 1954, they said, 17 bids were received for the purchase of 300 ventilating fans for installation in mothball ships used for grain storage purposes. The bids were narrowed down to three from companies in Indianapolis, Chicago and Allentown Pa., with the Allentown company indicated as the low bidder considering the quality of the product.

The investigators said an unidentified CCC official, referred to as "Mr. B.," contacted the Indianapolis bidder and permitted him to change his bid to bring it more in line with the Allentown offer. The Allentown bidder was not given an opportunity to revise his estimates, and the contract was awarded to the Indianapolis concern. The report did not name the firms or individuals involved.

As an example of what they called "culpable negligence" and "unorthodox procedure," the investigators said the CCC grain division authorized the purchase of 375,000 gallons of calking and coating material for storage bins.

Despite indications early in 1953 that the material was not satisfactory and had to be removed after being applied, they said, it still was being purchased as late as June 1954.

Martha Says No More Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
NEW YORK (AP)—Return to the movies? Martha Raye says "I'll never go back!"

There was a touch of bitterness as she said it. Now one of the queens of TV, she knew how it felt to be washed up in Hollywood.

Martha soared to fame with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns in "Rhythm on the Range." For a couple of years she played in one comedy after another. Her cavernous mouth, her "Oh-Boy" became national trade marks.
"Then they tried to make a glamor girl out of me," she recalled between preparations of her NBC TV show. "They tried to emphasize my legs (which are plenty all right—Ed. Note)."

"That was ridiculous. I was no glamor girl; I was a comedian." Miscast as romantic star, she watched her career slide downhill.
"Then one day they put a yellow slip under my dressing room door," she said. "I was fired. That was how they did it—no speeches, no goodbyes. I packed my things and left."
"For a year I hung around Hollywood, trying to find work. I couldn't find any."
"I'd invite people to a party. They didn't even have the courtesy to call and say they weren't coming."

That was 1938. In the years following, she did "Navy Blues," "Hells-a-Poppin'," and Abbott and Costello picture and two wartime films, "Pin-up Girl" and "Four Jills in a Jeep." Her last picture was "Monsieur Verdoux" with Charlie Chaplin. It was not a success.
Martha played night clubs through the years, then dipped into TV when it came along. She was a hit from the start.
"You can't imagine what it did for me," she remarked. "After the Hollywood experience, I had lost my confidence. I thought I was finished."
Far from finished Martha now possesses one of the relatively few long-term contracts in TV. NBC signed her up for 15 years. She only has to work for the next five years. After that she can quit and collect the money, if she wants to.
"That contract means a lot to me," she said. "I'm 39 now—I mean really 39, not the Jack Benny kind. The next 15 years are important ones in my life. It's so great to be able to know I'll have security for the next 15 years."

standard of housing consistent with our national wealth and opportunities.

The interdenominational Church Peace Union notes with approval that in many U. S. communities, church groups discuss such subjects as the United Nations or German reunification. "There may be relief committees seeking money, clothes or jobs for refugees and hopeful immigrants overseas, or books and magazines for foreign schools and libraries," says the Union. "Survey your community's resources. Find out what is being done to further international understanding, what could be done, where volunteers are needed. Many churches and synagogues are and should be sources of information on community action. A national organization like the League of Women Voters, 1026 17th St., N.W., Washington, D. C., or the Foreign Policy Association, 345 E. 46th St., New York, N. Y., may have a nearby chapter with such information. Two fine examples of community action in world affairs are the Minnesota World Affairs Center and the Detroit International Institute."

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The Honorable Isabel Catto, of Great Britain, is the newly-chosen president of the World Young Women's Christian Association. She succeeds Miss Lilace Reid Barnes who held the post for eight years.

In a message to the women of the Methodist Church across America the Woman's Division of Christian Service, of the Board of Missions, has commented to them the activities and interests of the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs (CCIA), an arm of the World Council of Churches. To the individual church woman the Division says: "Concern yourself with the issues on which the churches have set it on and competence to act. Familiarize yourself with what has been done by the CCIA and tell your neighbors and others about it. A less cynical attitude in international affairs can result from a widespread understanding of the legitimate part that the churches can play in international affairs. Support the positions of the churches in your community so that they can become realities. We cannot, for example, urge better race relations in other parts of the world unless we remove the beam from our own eye. We cannot deal with the problem of poor housing in Asia and Africa unless we are willing to develop a

Public Recreation May Be Set Back

If there were any question about the desire and intent of the Supreme Court to eliminate segregation in every area of public life, the decision handed down concerning parks and playgrounds should have answered the question.

The most recent decisions reaffirmed a lower court decision holding racial segregation illegal in public parks and playgrounds, and ordered Negroes admitted to public golf courses. Indeed, it should not come as a surprise of the high court at a later date seeks to extend its authority over public institutions to private enterprises as well.

Just as the Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation in public schools poses a very real threat to public education in many states, one new decision poses an equally important threat in public swimming pools, golf courses, play and recreation areas in many states.

Many who are opposed to the intergration of races in schools feel that public school education is too important to be abandoned even as a last ditch stand against the announced federal policy. Yet these same people do not accord recreation areas a rank of equal importance with schools. Indeed, recreation areas are not as important as public schools.

Although the Supreme Court decision regarding schools slowed the building program of school facilities to some degree, the pressing need for more school buildings has been recognized by most people. As a result of the recognition of the need for more schools, building programs have continued and more local funds for school building has been made available through bond issues.

It is extremely doubtful that public reaction to increasing recreation facilities will be the same as it is toward building more schools in view of this most recent decision by the Supreme Court.

In short, it is our opinion that state and local recreation programs throughout the South will suffer much more during the next two years than the public education program has suffered since the staggering school segregation decision was handed down in May 1954.

National and state parks cover a great deal of area, and afford fine recreation sites for vacationers. Yet for practical every-day use, public recreation facilities provided by local government are the ones which are important. Obviously these are the ones which will be most adversely affected should attempts at forced intergration result in these areas and the program conducted through them be abandoned. It is likewise obvious that the abandonment of these locally owned and supported recreation areas mean a great deal more to more people than the state and federal parks.

Instead of providing better recreation facilities for a minority, the Supreme Court decision may well result in denying to all people in many states the use of the most important recreation facilities which are now available.

New Divorce Looms In State Agencies

By LYNN NISBET
DIVORCE—There is evidence that grounds may be laid for another divorce action affecting State agencies, in addition to separation of prisons from highway administration.

The increasing emphasis which has been given to industrial promotion, specifically to the division of commerce and industry in the department of Conservation and Development, has led some observers to believe that activity might be separated from other departmental functions and set up as an independent department.

Appointment of William P. Saunders to replace Ben E. Douglas as C&D director has added evidence that emphasis on industrial development, which was adopted by the late Governor Umstead as a major objective of his administration, and continued by Governor Hodges as the No. 1 goal, will be continued or increased. Saunders has a phenomenal record as a successful industrial builder, and while he has manifested interest in total balanced development of all the State's resources, his experience has been in manufacturing and processing textiles. His appointment has been widely commended as fitting into the industrialization program. It is not suggested that he will consciously neglect other phases of the department. Rather, he is expected to retain primary allegiance to his first love.

It is known that Governor Umstead gave some thought to separating functions of C&D and that Governor Hodges has concurred in the idea. It is pointed out in support of the plan that none of the dire consequences predicted by opponents of divorcing wildlife resources from C&D have materialized. To the contrary, the department seems to have fared better under separate management.

FAR FLUNG—Activities of the C&D department are diverse and far flung. Many students of government operations regard it as the most important state department in relationship to the total economy. There have been complaints that it is too big, and that the diversity does not permit unified and concerted operation in all divisions. Besides the name itself is cumbersome and in some degree contradictory. All of that leads to conclusion that perhaps the phases of conservation of forests, water and marine life should be given distinct administration from the development of commerce and industry.

There would be some overlapping, as there is between C&D and Wildlife and between both and the Department of Agriculture. None of the problems appear insuperable.

DEGREE—Further suggestion has been made that the divorce not be complete but a sort of separate maintenance status be established for the commerce and industry division comparable to that of commercial fisheries.

For many years after the department was organized with the old geologic survey and the fisheries commission as its nucleus, the commercial fisheries division retained almost complete autonomy. It is still to much larger extent than other activities independent of the Raleigh office. Headquarters offices are maintained at Morehead City and the division chief has the title of commissioner, with almost as much power as the old time fisheries commissioner exercised.

That degree of independence given the commerce and industry division would alleviate some of the feeling among other divisions that C&D is being unduly favored at their expense.

SUPPORT—The entire personnel of the C&D board and department fully supports the industrial development program. In fact the other divisions have attempted to gear their activities to aid the main purpose of building more industry in North Carolina. Occasional differences of opinion arise as to the definition of "industry."

That question arose last year in connection with applications of nurserymen for government loans. Applications were held up for weeks while the departments of agriculture and commerce at Washington were determining whether a nursery, growing plants and shrubs for sale, was a farm or a small business enterprise. Those concerned with promoting travel business feel that a motel or a recreation park is just as much an industry as is a knitting mill or a furniture factory. It is conceded that North Carolina needs more of all these facilities. Differences arise as to most effective methods to handle the promotion.

There is growing belief that the interests of all might be better served by separating top level administration from the more independence to conservation on the one hand and development on the other.

Another illustration of efficient operation through partial independence without complete separation is the working of the highway patrol as an almost completely autonomous unit of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE CHURCH SPIRE

We read in the history of one of the New England towns that mariners requested the people in a certain village to build a church with a tall spire which could be seen far out at sea. They needed this to guide them into the harbor.

Sailors used to guide their ships into New York harbor by the spire of Old Trinity Church, but that spire is shut in now by the canyon walls of high office buildings. This is indicative of the way in which the material things have crowded out the spiritual in modern life.

Whether to guide ships or to guide souls, we have to have the Church toward which the mind and soul of men turn in expectancy. The good need the Church in order to grow better; the evil need the Church in order to break the bondage of bad habits; the doubting need the Church for in the Word of God are incontrovertible truths upon which the soul may rest, and the Church is the custodian of these truths. Young man and young women need the church that their lives may be molded after the pattern of God's high destiny for them. Parents need the Church in these days when raising a family and keeping children unspotted from the defilements of the world seem particularly difficult. The aged need the Church that they may find comfort and a quiet harbor after a long voyage.

The church spire—symbol of our needs and of God's provision for them.

Caution In Use Of Resources

By ROGER W. BARNES
BABSON PARK, Mass.—We have approached the stage where we must consume our reserves of natural resources with more caution and wisdom. Unfortunately too many of us have looked upon these vast resources as nature's gifts, to be used as desired. Our minerals and forests have therefore been used too freely, although we have achieved one of the highest standards of living.

Through our skillful utilization of coal, iron, aluminum, copper, and other raw materials, our work has been made easier. We have more leisure, and we may follow cultural pursuits. However, this leisure, to be meaningful, should include pursuits which add to our spiritual values and not just those which further our pleasures or promote more technical achievements.

Natural Resources May Be Depleted

The wisest industrial leaders have begun to look to the time when some of our precious natural resources will be depleted. With plans for solar atomic, and geothermal power still only in development stages for war or peacetime uses, we especially need to conserve our resources so that we may make the best possible use of them. We should, therefore, be more careful of our ore, forest, and all reserves which are already replenishing. Our woodlands by reforestation, and are using better methods of soil enrichment, fertilization, and cultivation so that each acre of farm land will yield more efficient crops.

We have also realized that we must search for new and additional reserves of natural resources, not only here, but also all over the world. More countries will then be able to develop their own industries and agriculture, so that most people may benefit therefrom. Each country will produce those items which it is able to turn out most efficiently. Then, these products will be exchanged so that all industries may be used to the best advantage, not even where.

The UH: Goal

The ultimate goal of the wise use of natural resources is to raise the standard-of-living, and it is important to keep this goal in mind. Moreover, it is just as important to emphasize the building up of spiritual resources as of physical resources. Our nation's true power is in its spiritual strength.

Therefore, in our attempt to conserve natural resources in order to attain material well-being, we must emphasize the dignity of the individual. This country has become the richest nation in the world. We have proved our leadership in industry. We must now show our leadership by being as good as our spiritual and other human resources.

How To Develop Spiritually

Most readers are asking for a practical method of developing this nation spiritually. I, of course, am very happy with the example which President Eisenhower has set us by attending Church services regularly and trying to make Sunday different from other days. I also appreciate his opening his Cabinet meetings with silent prayer. Certainly the habit of family prayers, under which I was trained, was a great factor in my life. I believe that Bible reading in the public schools should be retained. When I think of my ancestor, Reverend John Rogers, who was burned at the stake February 8, 1555, for translating and distributing the Bible I feel ashamed of myself for the little effort I am making to increase Bible reading, especially the reading of the modern Condensed Bibles such as the "Bible of the Bible," or "Reeve's Brief Bible."

When admitting students to Babson Institute, we do not ask whether they are Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Hindu, or Moslem, but we are greatly interested in their character and hope they pray to the Universal Father. The nation must, however, go even further; we must see that our corporations are led by men of character. I forecast that when auditing of corporations will report statistics to stockholders indicating the character and health of the leading executives just as they now give financial statistics. This is perhaps the most important thing we can do to assure continued prosperity and avoid a severe

The Lesson: Relaxation Needed By Executives

We trust that never again will a thoughtless voice be raised against or in criticism of relaxation by chiefs of state. Whether it be a President or a Governor involved, people must now know a very special genius is required to bear the burden of responsibility imposed on our executives.

Mr. Truman had many critics of his poker-playing hours; Mr. Eisenhower has had many critics of his time on the golf links. That is all over and done. The fact remains that no man could be expected to carry responsibilities for a multitude without an occasional respite.

Clear-thinking at moments of decision is essential, and most executives know full well they cannot be at their best after days, weeks and months of unremitting strain. For this reason they delegate authority and responsibilities for the hordes of problems and duties that beset their office. The executives' own, very special genius, is applied to the fundamental questions of policy and statecraft.

Big business men know this; so do the best in governmental or military service. But in the office of the presidency or governorship it is easy to be trapped and borne down by the strains. Relaxation, on a golf course, at sea, fishing, over a card table . . . or just quiet stretches of reading fiction, is essential as proper food and drink for our nation's executives.

They fill all-important roles in the lives of Americans who rely on the soundness of their judgment. When that genius of sound judgment is impaired by overstrain, everybody suffers.

So Russians Confuse? Girls Can Do It Too

Most newspaper editorial writers today will take up their pens and turn out thundering editorials condemning the Russians on their stand at the Geneva conference concerning Germany.

No us. Today we are going to discuss what is to us a very interesting subject.

We are going to talk about girls. Girls are very interesting. They come in every size, lots of different shapes and with varied hair and eye colors, skin complexions and foot sizes.

Girls are interesting people with whom to talk. Lots more fun than boys. They don't say anything world-shaking as a rule but what they do say just naturally holds our attention.

One can stand at their front door and talk for hours before wishing them good night.

Yes sir, girls are sure fun. But they are unpredictable, too. Sometimes you can ask them for a date and they'll say: "I'd love to go." Other times they'll say "I wouldn't be caught dead on a date with you."

Really its all very confusing. Russians come in all sizes, too. They are unpredictable. They have different hair and eye colors and different complexions.

But Russians are only half girls. It's all very confusing.

Opinions In Brief

DILLION, S.C., HERALD: "A dollar is worth only as much as it will buy. As the price of commodities goes up the value of the dollar goes down. As wages increase, there is a corresponding increase in commodity prices. Likewise, as wages decrease and buying power diminishes there is a corresponding decrease in prices. This is due to the proper functioning of natural economic laws. Man-made laws never have and never will be able to change these laws. And so how will profit labor if wages are increased say 15 per cent and the cost of living rises 15 per cent? Economists who try to argue otherwise are merely throwing up a smoke screen to conceal the real facts."

DELANO, MINN., EAGLE: "There's always free cheese in a mousetrap but we don't think the mice that get it are very happy."

'Promotion In Depth' Idea

By ELMER ROESSNER
Deeper instead of broader promotional drives may be the surest way to increase sales in this era of intense competition. Harold S. Barnes, director of the American Newspaper Publishers Association's Bureau of Advertising, told a meeting of advertising men in New York.

Mr. Barnes, natch, was plugging newspaper advertising. But regardless of self-interest, he was able to marshal convincing evidence.

By "promotion in depth" Mr. Barnes meant intensifying campaigns where acceptance will produce the best results.

"Here's the best rule we know for quick increases in volume and profits: Farm where you can get forty bushels of wheat to the acre and not where you get only ten," he said. "Sell and advertise your product where the most people already want to buy it."

PROOF OF THE DEPTH THEORY

Mr. Barnes' evidence: Rheingold, concentrating its sales and advertising effort within an 85-mile radius, has become the fifth biggest seller of beer in the United States.

Old Judge Coffee, with concentrated promotion became the largest seller in the St. Louis market, and three other local or regional brands outrank best-selling national brands there.

Monsanto Chemical, concentrating advertising for an unknown detergent in 165 metropolitan areas, quickly made it a ranking brand.

Duncan Hines Cake Mixes promoted market by market, dominated or came close to equaling the competition in every one.

U.S. DATA AVAILABLE
Showing how much states vary in markets, Mr. Barnes said that on the Pacific Coast the average family in towns of under 2,500 population buys 68 per cent more cake mix than the average family in cities of more than 500,000; that 15 per cent of the U.S. families buy 70 per cent of the sea food, and that Middle Atlantic, East North Central and Pacific Coast states, with half the nation's population, buy two-thirds of its carpets and rugs.

At almost the same hour Mr. Barnes was speaking, Robert W. Burgess, director of the Census Bureau, was telling a group of business paper editors that Census figures on population and income are of invaluable aid to marketing and promotion men. He said that if businessmen will study their Lists of customers in relation to population and income in various areas, they can determine whether each area is being profitably exploited.

Census Bureau statistics on population and income of the 147 major metropolitan areas in the United States, boundaries and characteristics of those areas and additional information on market capacity are available at nearest Commerce Department field offices.

These data can be useful to manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers' agents and advertising agencies.

Notebook On Life

Around The World On Scooter

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Three years ago Countess Dagmar von Bernstorff decided to become the first countess in history to go around the world on a motor scooter.

"The end is now in sight," said the pretty, blue-eyed, 26-year-old German aristocrat.

She and her first cousin, Dieter Ebel, who has acted as her bodyguard, escort and chauffeur, have scooted 63,000 miles—counting hitchhikes aboard ships—since they set out from Munich Sept. 22, 1952.

Their extraordinary journey had as its basic purpose the collection of folklore and folk music for educational and travel programs which the pair write and produce for a radio station in Baden-Baden.

In addition to a vast store of cultural material the countess and Herr Ebel, who looks like a movie star, collected seven flat tires and one traffic ticket for scooting on the wrong street in Rome. The countess also collected eight marriage proposals. "Most of them were in Pakistan," she said, smiling. Visiting husbands are always popular in Pakistan.

Their vehicle, a two-wheeled, 4 1/2-horsepower Vespa scooter, pulls a single-wheeled trailer in which they keep their clothing and recording equipment.

The couple have had many exciting adventures during their trip which has carried them across 30 countries and 18 of the United States.

In southern Greece they were attacked by a pack of wild dogs. "Because we were not allowed to carry guns," recalled Ebel, "we had to ward off the dogs with a cake of soap wrapped in a stocking, which we swung like a black-jack."

In Turkey they were caught in an earthquake. In Iran they became lost in a snowstorm. In Indonesia they scooted straight through a camp of outlaws.

"The outlaws were so surprised to see us come riding out of the jungle on a scooter they left their guns at their sides," Ebel said.

The couple started out with $700 have earned about $6,000 giving lectures or writing articles. They earned their passage across the Pacific on a Honduran freighter. The countess worked as a quartermaster, Ebel as an able-bodied seaman.

Later this month the couple hope to work their way across the Atlantic on an Italian vessel, then scoot the last lap home. So far as they know no one before, countess or not, has ever girdled the globe on a motor scooter.

Here are a few of their impressions of the United States: "We always thought New York City was in Jew Jersey."

"We always thought New York City was in Jew Jersey."

"We had the wrong idea about the United States. We thought it would be noisy, with everybody honking his motor horn or whistling at girls on the street. It isn't that way at all. You have a quiet country."

"We found family life here much stronger than we expected. We are amazed to see how few houses have fences. It is quite thrilling to see so few fences."

"Your man in the street may not be so familiar with international affairs, but he seems to know everything there is to know about domestic politics."

Politicos Recognize Moderate Trend

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The apparent shift of the American people to a politico-economic middle path—the so-called "middle of the road" philosophy—will be recognized by the strategists of both major Parties in nominating candidates and framing platforms next year. On the doors of Republican and Democratic headquarters hangs the warning: "No radical or imitation thereof need apply."

No alteration in a cautious but not too conservative program will take place if President Eisenhower decides that his health will permit him to run again. For he has fixed the pattern. But if he should retire the more likely substitutes must model themselves after him. Otherwise, they would be repudiating the first Presidential record the GOP has had a chance to hand up in more than 20 years.

NO REVISIONISM AMONG GOP POSSIBILITIES More specifically an examination and analysis of other possibilities discloses no advocate of even a modest change in the Administration's general policies. Nixon-Knowland-Warren—Knight—Hertel-Lodge—Dunphy, so the last runs, and there is not a revisionist in the group.

Oddly, Chief Justice Warren is the most liberal, and he insists flatly that he is out of politics. Moreover, in the most recent polls Vice President Nixon is running ahead of the fellow-Californian.

DISCOUNT CHANCES OF EXTREME NEW DEALERS On the Democratic side, the recognized leaders already discount the chances of the two more extreme New Dealers—namely, Governor Averell Harriman of New York and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. In view of the latest developments it is generally expected that Adlai E. Stevenson will be renominated on an early ballot.

Although the Chicago lawyer felt compelled to spread himself on farm and labor policies in 1952 largely because the shadow of Harry S. Truman fell upon him, he is no radical or reformer. His friends insist that he would seek no fundamental departure from Ike's slight modification of his predecessor's programs, if he were elected.

STEVENSON'S STAND Stevenson, as is true of every other Democratic prospect would advocate a higher minimum wage figure, 90 per cent instead of flexible parity support prices, greater consideration for public power schemes, and larger Federal expenditures for health, education and highways. And on these questions many pro-Ike Republicans agree with him.

But he would work for no politico-economic revolution. If so, he would not have the support of so many Southern Senators who opposed him four years ago. It may be significant that he has talked at length with them recently and presumably assured them that he was not a leftist.

And many of his new Dixie friends have voted for most of Eisenhower's domestic and foreign policies.

CONTEST OF PERSONALITIES

In short, the 1956 campaign will be a "cold war" rather than a hot conflict. It will be a contest of personalities rather than principles. It will convince many skeptics that the two Parties are "as alike as two peas in a pod."

The Republicans will not—in fact, they dare not—demand destruction of basic New Deal reforms. They will contend as they always have, that they know how to manage the Government more efficiently and economically. That was the basis of Ike's 1952 plea.

The Democrats will pose as the pall of "the little fellows," and will make another "gimme" appeal. But they have no new slick or revolutionary ideas up their sleeves.

And the man mostly responsible for this, meeting in the middle of the road is Ike Eisenhower!

Ayden Homecoming Proved Gala Event

By JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON

Ayden High School Homecoming at Ayden High on Friday was a gala event. The parade got underway at 2:45 p.m. Many people expressed the opinion that this was the best Homecoming parade ever held in Ayden. The float on which Queen Jeri Jolly, sponsored by Sunny Smith, and her ladies: Connie Dunn sponsored by Lindy Dunn and Betty Craft sponsored by James Willis, rode, was indeed lovely and placed first among the floats. The eight grades under the direction of Mrs.

LaRue Evans and Tommy Craft are to be commended for doing such an excellent job. Floats were also entered by Miss Maggie McGlohon and Mrs. Irma Worthington's sixth graders, Mrs. Marie Jolly and Mrs. Jessie R. Elks' fifth graders, Mrs. Singleton's second year French class, and Mr. May's world history class.

The Ayden - Winterville High School band, under the direction of George Starling, led the parade. The rhythm band dressed in their maroon and white uniforms were spectacular as they performed under the direction of Mrs. Rosa Little.

The following football players and their sponsors rode in convertibles: Jeannette Worthington sponsored by Bobby Johnson, Betty Lou Cannon sponsored by Jim Simons, Mary Alice Barrow sponsored by R. L. Dorman, Carol Caviller sponsored by Lathan Dennis, Joyce Jolly sponsored by Clarence Mills, Francine Cannon sponsored by Dan Bate-man, Dot Spence sponsored by Les-lie Stocks, Peggy Wood sponsored by Billy Guthrell, Velma Garris sponsored by Billy Vandford, Annette Willoughby sponsored by Ikey Bal-dree, Barbara Worthington sponsored by Tommy Edwards and Brenda Davis sponsored by Horton Jolly.

The Ayden High cheerleaders rode with Pierce Surrell in his 1914 Buick. Other old cars were driven by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Allen. Ayden's fire truck certainly added color to the parade. Mr. Johnson, the principal, Mr. Tripp and Mr. Craft, the coaches, Corey Stokes, the mayor, and members of the local School Committee followed Patrol-man Whitehurst who led the parade. The decorations on the front am-pus by the Tri-Hi-Y and the Hi-Y were appropriate and showed that there are some real artists at Ayden

High. The Tornadoes were shown catching and stewing the Beaufort Sea Dogs.

During the half period Friday night, the FHA with Mrs. Elliott and her two practice teachers, Mrs. Ginn and Miss Dixon, had charge of the procession of the sponsors and the crowning of the queen. The Ayden-Winterville High School band per-formed at the beginning of the half and played appropriate music for the procession. Jeri was crowned by our principal, Mr. Johnson.

Carol Lynn Johnson acted as mistress of ceremonies. After the game everyone enjoyed the dance at the American Legion Hut. Thanks to Mrs. C. C. Little and members of the Beta Club for the attractive decorations and the delightful refreshments.

This homecoming at Ayden High was just perfect. The weather was beautiful, a big crowd attended the dance, and the Tornadoes won.

Even though this was a happy occasion, there was a note of sadness prevalent among the senior play-ers—Sunny Smith, Lathan Dennis, Bobby Smith, Bobby Johnson, Jim Simons, and James Robinson—and cheerleaders—Connie Dunn, Carol Lynn Johnson, Kay Braxton, Betty Lou Cannon, and Jeri Jolly—because this was their last football game at AHS.

E. F. Johnson, our principal, at-tended the State Principal's Confer-ence in Durham November 1-3. There were about 800 present who participated.

Mrs. Nan W. Manning, Ayden High math teacher, was among some 100 teachers in North Carolina's junior and senior high schools who participated in a Mathematics Teachers Conference during the weekend of November 4 and 5 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

American Education Week was observed at our school and a num-ber of parents visited us. At chapel period on Wednesday, Miss Susie Dixon and Mrs. Harris' seventh graders gave an interesting and in-formative program about hats. This program completed a unit they have been studying. After the program the parents were invited to the classrooms to enjoy the exhibits and refreshments.

Miss McGlohon's sixth graders also invited their parents to a pro-gram in the homeroom one day dur-ing the week. Mrs. C. C. Little's English class had a very good exhibit: "Schools Yesterday and Today," in Bonnie's Beauty Shop window downtown.

Music Educators National Confer-ence will celebrate its fifteenth anni-versary in April, 1956, in St. Louis, Missouri.

As a part of this observance there will be a National Orchestra, Na-tional Band, and National Chorus. Each state has been given a quota of twenty students for the chorus.

North Carolina held its auditions for its quota in Greensboro, Novem-ber 8. Ayden High School has two students who were given auditions. Bonny Rutledge was chosen as one of the first sopranos to represent North Carolina at the conference.

Cloyce Braswell was chosen a first bass alternate. We are very proud of them.

Jeannette Adams, Ayden High senior, has been chosen Citizen of the Week by the student council and fellow students. Jeannette was awarded the honor on the basis of her consideration of others, citizen-ship, neat appearance and her school work. Congratulations, Jean-ette!

Porter Grooming Youthful Basketball Squad For ECC

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

With the football season tucked away for another year, Coach Howard Porter's basketballers move onto the East Carolina sports scene.

The astute mentor has been directing his 1955-56 candidates, which include eight lettermen, through daily workouts since Oct. 10.

Porter, who piloted the Pirates to their first North State Conference title in 1953-54, looks to the new season with his usual amount of optimism. He naturally won't say how he thinks his club will fare but readily points out that almost all the league teams will be improved.

He sees Atlantic Christian, defending champion, and Lenoir Rhyne to be as strong, if not stronger. He also thinks High Point will be considerably improved. He saw them work out last week at a coaches clinic in High Point.

Gulford will also be tougher, according to Porter. As will Catawba and Elon. The only club he doesn't concede improvement to is Appalachian. They lost almost their entire first team which was predominantly seniors.

About his own club, Porter says, "It's too early to make a good analysis. We have a young bunch (guard J. C. Thomas is the only senior) and will have to count on freshmen a lot. Naturally, freshmen are going to make a lot of mistakes."

The eight lettermen returning provide a pretty good nucleus for a contender, however. There's Don Harris of Laurinburg, All-North State Conference last year as a sophomore. He led the club in scoring with a 21-point average and was outstanding in every department. Thomas and Nick Nichols are two of the finest in the league. Porter is banking on Thomas to run the team, to act as field general like graduated Cecil Heath did last year.

Nichols is much better, according to Porter. He's gained a lot of weight and looks much improved," the coach said. Nichols, as a first year man, was the team's third highest scorer and leading rebounder in 1954-55.

Other holdovers include Guy Mendenhall, 6-6 center, Freddie James, crack shot guard, Maurice Everette, Waddell Solomon and Marion Hales.

One of Porter's highly-regarded frosh, Big Joe Piaster who stands 6-8, is out with a sprained ankle. He has been out for a week and Porter states he doesn't know when the big man will be back.

Some of the other frosh are showing up well, Porter explained. He cited Tim Smothers, 6-6 from Reidsville; Dick Little, 6-3 from Pennsylvania; Chesley Knotts, 6-5 from Wendell; Joe Musgrave, 6-3 from Pikesville; Harry Bevin, 5-10 from Elizabeth City; Ace Warren, 6-0 from Portsmouth; Jim Cunningham, 6-2 from Portsmouth; and Harry Archer, 5-10 also from Portsmouth.

The Pirates open their schedule against Guilford there on Dec. 3. The first home game is with Catawba on Dec. 9.

Terps Seem Sure Bet For Bowl Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland today was practically assured of a chance to avenge its 7-0 loss to Oklahoma in the Miami Orange Bowl on New Year's Day of 1954.

The Maryland Terrapins proved they are the class of the Atlantic Coast Conference by spotting Clemson two touchdowns last Saturday and then rallying for four touchdowns and a 26-12 victory.

At the same time, Oklahoma toyed with Iowa State, 52-0.

Oklahoma was the No. 1 club in the nation in the last Associated Press poll, and Maryland was No. 2.

Reserve strength paid off for Maryland, which proved again that one good football team can't beat two good teams.

Undeclared Maryland now has won nine games this season, and completed its league season with victories over Wake Forest, North Carolina, South Carolina and Clemson. Only the formality of a vote by directors of the ACC remains before Maryland is chosen for the Orange Bowl, which will be played Jan. 2 because New Year's Day falls on a Sunday.

In other games for ACC clubs last Saturday, Duke defeated South Carolina 41-7, Notre Dame whipped North Carolina 27-7, Wake Forest took Virginia 13-7 and VPI defeated North Carolina State 24-26.

The schedule for next Saturday is Clemson vs. Auburn at Mobile, Ala.; Wake Forest at Duke;

G-Men Emerge From Friday Game Without Any Injuries

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Guy Lewis stated today that his Greenville Phantoms didn't suffer a single injury in Friday night's scrap with the AAA Wilson Cyclones here at College Stadium.

Drills this week will see the same boys running at first-string positions, with possibly one or two exceptions. Coach Lewis said that several freshmen and sophomores turned in fine performances last week and might push their way into the starting eleven on the strength of their play against Wilson. Practice this week will help to determine that, according to the youthful mentor.

Despite the 44-0 plastering the Phants took for their sixth defeat of the season, the Green coaching staff, composed of Lewis, Vaughn Fowler and Stan Jones, praised their linemen for improved defense work last weekend. "Our tackling in the line was much better than it has been all year," said Lewis, "and we're pleased with the forward wall from tackle to tackle."

Phants Meet Roanoke Rapids
Greenville will close out its season next week in Roanoke Rapids as they tangle with one of the best Yellow Jacket teams ever to come from that school. The contest will be a conference affair, and Coach Lewis' crew will be fighting for its second Northeastern loop victory.

Thanksgiving Day Game Is Big One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Thanksgiving Day game at Hickory between Lenoir Rhyne and Catawba today loomed as the big one of the season in the spirited North State Conference.

Lenoir Rhyne rolled up its fifth straight conference win Saturday with a 28-0 drubbing of Elon. The victory assured the Bears of at least a tie for the conference championship, Catawba, meanwhile defeated Guilford 35-20.

Catawba, tied for second place, has been defeated twice in league play, one of those defeats coming from Western Carolina. Since then it was reported that Western Carolina used a scholastically ineligible player. In such cases, conference rules leave any forfeiture up to the offending school.

The Catawbas have said they will announce their decision at the December meeting of the league directors.

In other Saturday games Appalachian turned in a surprising trouncing of Presbyterian College 35-6 while Tampa overwhelmed Western Carolina 48-0.

Only two games are set this Saturday. Elon is at Guilford and Appalachian invades Tampa. East Carolina, the other conference member, has completed its schedule.

The standings, conference games first:
Lenoir Rhyne (5-0, 7-0-1), Catawba (3-2, 5-4), East Carolina (3-2, 4-5), Appalachian 2-3, 6-3), Western Carolina 2-3-1, 2-7-1), Elon (1-4-0, 2-7-0), Guilford (0-3, 0-6-1).

Pirate Aqua-Men To Hold Intra-Squad Swim Meet

Coach Raymond Martinez, East Carolina swimming instructor, announced this week that the Pirate Aqua-Men will sponsor and participate in the first annual intra-squad swimming meet on Friday, November 18.

"This will be the first event of its kind here at East Carolina," Coach Martinez stated, "and we hope to make it an annual thing. The meet will be billed as the 'Thunder Bowl' match and a prize trophy will be given to the winning squad."

All events will see competition in the meet. Action will get underway at 7 p.m.

Martinez said, "The team will be arranged into two even sections with Dickie Denton and Frank Moore acting as captains. We haven't actually divided the squad as yet, but we do plan to have equal strength in both sections."

A large crowd is expected to attend the intra-squad meet with everyone invited. It will be the last public appearance of the Buc team before the actual ECC swimming schedule starts, December 2, in Davidson.

Veterans on the Pirate aggregation are Ted Gartman, Phil Weaver, Farland Tuton, Ronnie Rose, James Cumming, Joe Wallace, Claude Tyson, Bill West, Dickie Denton, Ken Crocker and Frank Moore.

Newcomers who will also see action are Bob Sawyer, Harold McKee, Jack Kobberling, and Graham Anderson.

The event will take place at the East Carolina College swimming pool, located in the gymnasium.

Club For Sale To Highest Bidder

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The never dull saga of Richmond and International League baseball reached another stirring climax today. In a move unprecedented in baseball history, the government made ready to sell the club to the highest bidder in default of payment of back taxes.

In keeping with the uncertainty that has surrounded the Virginals ever since they entered the Triple-A league in 1954, nobody was quite sure this morning whether the auction ever would come off.

The tax lien was $79,218.68 and if Richmond owner Harry Seibold could plunk down the money before 2 p.m., there would be no sale.

Draft Check-Up For Johnny

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Podres faced a physical examination today. The baseball world wondered whether he would pitch to the next two years for Uncle Sam or the World Champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The husky mining-town lad, with the whiplash arm and the weak back, was rejected for military service three years ago. Late last month, still flushed with his World Series success, Johnny got the surprise word to report for a new Selective Service checkup.

He and 14 other upstate New Yorkers were to take the three-hour physical at the Army Recruiting Station here. A Selective Service spokesman termed the examination "routine" and said, "All rejects get the same treatment."

THE QUICKSILVER POOL

SYNOPSIS

Newly married Lora accompanied her husband, Wade Tyler, to his family home on Staten Island after nursing him back to health from a serious wound he received while fighting as a Union soldier. She meets Wade's autocratic mother, Amanda Tyler, and Jenny, son of Wade and his dead first wife, Virginia. Amid the growing tension between Wade's mother and Lora, the bride learns that Virginia died by drowning in a pond near the Tyler home. Lora finds Wade mourning for Virginia and asks him to tell her what she was like.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Wade did not open his eyes but his fingers tightened about Lora's arm and then relaxed. His words came slowly, faltering at first, then more quickly as memories crowded upon him. It was not of Virginia he spoke, however, but of his own childhood in this house. "I can remember how different it was. When I was a little boy and my father was alive, that is, the house was always filled with his friends. There were always loud voices and people laughing, and sometimes until late at night. Mother never cared for his friends any more than they cared for her, and she withdrew from them. On Sundays, she made me keep the Sabbath with her in the same way Grandfather Jason used to keep it—with prayers and quiet and all the shutters closed. But we had to keep it by ourselves in the sitting-room downstairs because my father would have nothing to do with gloom and solemn voices. He was a very hearty and popular man and I wanted with all my heart to be like him. But he was always so confident, so sure of himself, and that was a quality I lacked."

"Can you remember your grandfather?" Lora prompted. "He died before I was born," Wade said. "But I feel as if I'd grown up in the same house with him. Mother must be greatly like him. She wanted me to care about the shipping business and take an active interest in the bank as I grew up."

"Didn't your father mind what she did with you?" Lora saw the twitch of a nerve near the corner of Wade's mouth. "I was ill a great deal as a child. I wasn't my father's sort, much as I'd liked to be. He should have had a boisterous, active child, and since I was neither, he lost interest in me. I lived inside my own head too much to suit him."

"Virginia gave me back my belief in myself," Wade said. He fell silent and Lora reached out with cool fingers to stroke the place between his eyes that sometimes throbbed with pain.

"Be like this always," he murmured. "Be the way she was."

For just an instant she wanted to snatch her hand away, but she controlled the impulse. She sat quietly beside him until he fell asleep.

At supper, Wade entertained them with an amusing story of the company cook and the ingenious way in which that inventive Irishman could eke out rations when the larder was low. And he told a story of a young drummer boy and how he had saved them all from danger early one morning when the enemy had tried a surprise attack.

The latter story appealed to Jenny and she watched his father wide-eyed and without the look of veiled resentment which he usually turned upon him. There was even a grudging admiration in the boy's eyes and, observing him, Lora knew the truth with a sudden flash.

Jenny's attitude toward his father was a shell of self-protection and nothing else. At the moment Lora's attention was upon him; his small person betrayed his secret for anyone to read. But only Lora recognized that here was a small boy who longed to love and admire his father and to be loved and admired by him in return.

When there was a pause in the talk and they were still smiling over Wade's antic account, Lora drew a breath and plunged into the matter, nearest her heart.

"What are we going to do about Christmas?" she asked. "It's only two weeks off and Jenny and I have some plans."

Jenny's eyes sparkled. "Papa, do you suppose we could have a Christmas tree?"

"What nonsense," said Mrs. Tyler before Wade could speak. "I see no point in going to such fuss and bother. That is too worldly a way to celebrate Christ's birthday."

Wade put out his hand and covered his mother's. "I can remember how much fun we used to have at Christmas parties. When I was Jenny's age I thought a Christmas tree was the most wonderful thing in the world."

"Oh, please let's have one!" Lora cried.

Mrs. Tyler shrugged, but her sense of well-being held and she seemed not to regard this as a major rebellion. "I can see you're all against me. Very well, if Peter can find a tree, I will offer no objection. But understand—there is to be no mess about the house either before or afterwards."

"I'll clean up everything," Jenny promised.

Lora winked at him secretly. "I have some ideas about presents. Let's go in the library after dinner and ah, everyone out, Jenny."

They worked in the library until Jenny's bedtime, and then Lora went upstairs with him. She heard Wade and his mother talking in the rear sitting-room but she had no desire to join them.

At Jenny's door she paused, holding her candle high. "Call me when you're ready and I'll come tuck you in," she said matter-of-factly.

The solemn look came into his eyes, turning them to midnight blue in the dim light. For just an instant she thought he was going to move away from her as he had the night she had come to this house. But she was his friend now and all day long he had been accepting her in small ways. If it was the memory of his mother kissing him good-night, tucking him beneath the covers that made his eyes darken, he did not at least hold this against Lora now.

"All right," he said briefly, and vanished into his room.

Jenny went into her own room across the hall and released her breath in a long sigh. What a strange day this had been, with its moments of rebellion and of happiness, too. She had a feeling that Jenny already considered her an ally and was beginning to like her.

His voice reached her thinly through the door she had left ajar and she hurried across the hall to find him snug in his narrow bed. "Toes warm?" she asked.

Just his nose stuck out over the edge of the quilt. "Warm as toast, Lorie, do you think we can really get a tree?"

"We're certainly going to try," she assured him. "And I'll have a surprise for you Christmas morning, too. A special surprise from me."

She wished she dared to lean over and kiss him. But she knew better than to rush things. So she said goodnight and took her candle away leaving him to dream she hoped would be happy ones.

Prime Minister Nehru 66 Today

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is 66 today. Fifth thousand New Delhi school children were marshaled to supply a birthday ovation to their "Uncle Nehru."

But that celebration will be overshadowed four days from now, by the arrival of Soviet Prime Minister Bulginin and the elite of Russian leadership, on a three-week state visit.

At home an almost complete absence of political opposition attests to the power of Nehru's leadership as he enters his 67th year.

Indian Communists who once formed the most vocal of Nehru's opposition have been virtually silenced by strong Moscow support of the prime minister and his policies.

He remains almost a one man government, making all major decisions guiding this country's policies at home and abroad. He appears to thrive on it.

He still opens his day with yoga exercises, then leaps into a work schedule which frequently extends through 18 hours. When he tires, a visit to Indian crowds invariably serves as a tonic.

He still faces a host of unsolved problems: Improvement in living conditions for his people, education, growing unemployment resulting in part from a never-ending climb in population.

One of his greatest problems is one Nehru studiously refuses to discuss. It is the selection of a successor to take over his work. The lack of a political challenge to his leadership has been accompanied by a lack of aspiring candidates for the top job he holds. If the lack of an apparent successor worries Nehru he keeps it hidden. Associates say he aims at at least 10 years more of active political life.

Gulf No-Nox Gasoline burns clean. Note the black deposit, on plate at left, caused by the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the part which Gulf refines out in making New Super-Refined NO-NOX. But see how clean new NO-NOX leaves the plate at right. Now—in your own car—see how new NO-NOX can give you more miles per gallon in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

Gulfpride Select Oil works clean. Here's why: Most conventional oils are refined only to the stage shown in A. But New Gulfpride Select is further refined by the Alchor Process—removing up to 15% more of the carbon-formers, in B... C contains the new super-refined oil that gives you more miles per quart because it has natural viscosity (body)—contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market was sharply higher today with the bulk of the strength centered in the blue chip issues.

Prices in the early afternoon were up 1 to 3 points in most areas of the list and some gains were even higher.

Trading was swift throughout with the pace right around 2,500-3,000 shares for the entire day. Friday's total with the market strong was two million.

General Motors was the big feature of trading. It was slow in reaching the tape because of reluctance of sellers to part with their shares at a reasonable price. Last week the stock was up 4 points and hit the top of the most active list three out of four times. Today stockholders were asking between 3 and 4 points above the Friday close. The stock opened near the end of the first hour up 2 1/2 at 52 1/2 on a block of 40,000 shares, and right after that it pushed up some more.

Du Pont, which owns better than 60 million shares of GM common, started today on a block of 2,000 shares up 5 1/2 at 24 1/2, and held fairly well to that figure.

Union Pacific, up 3/4 Friday, jumped ahead 8 points at the start.

Search Goes On For 10 Fugitives

RALEIGH (U-S-D-A) — A search continued today for 10 convicts who escaped their way out of the Stanly County close security prison camp Saturday night.

State Prisons Director William F. Bailey said a guard had been dismissed and that an investigation was continuing. The 10 prisoners escaped while guards presumably were patrolling the buildings and grounds, Bailey said.

He reported that J. S. Morgan, a night guard, had been dismissed for what he called negligence. Bailey identified the fugitives as follows:

James E. Brooks, 28, Spartanburg, S.C., serving 7-10 years for forgery; A. W. Broadwell, 27, Mocksville, 18 months for breaking and entering and larceny and 12 months for escape; John D. Crocker, 25, Elon, 7-10 years for larceny and six months for escape; Frank Austin Deik, 21, Charlotte, 3-5 years for breaking and entering; Joe Harvey Ennis, 20, Concord, 12 months, plus eight months for car theft; Henry Gilmore Jr., 26, Orange, Tex., 7-10 years for breaking and entering; Jack W. Swaringer, 37, Chimney Rock, five years for larceny; Norman Paul Whitted, 34, Asheville, 8-10 years for breaking and entering and car theft; David Kolonehskie, 25, Cherokee, 10 years for breaking and entering, four months for escape and 12 months for assault; and Jake Lankford, 41, Canton, 25-30 months for robbery and nine months for escape.

$1 Million Goal In Sale Of Stock

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — North Carolina Jaycees hope to sell one million dollars worth of stock in the state's small industries program to help finance new businesses in the state.

A goal of $500,000 was set for the Jaycees but Bill Henderson of Reidsville told a quarterly meeting of the Jaycees' board of directors here yesterday that the group hoped to reach one million dollars.

The plan was submitted by Gov. Hodges and includes the selling of two million dollars worth of bonds to be used to float loans to small industries in North Carolina.

Gov. Hodges and U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. attended the meeting. Hodges said the plan will help raise per capita income in North Carolina.

Ervin spoke on issues facing the next session of Congress. Of these problems, he said, the farm problem is of great importance to North Carolina because one of every three North Carolinians lives on a farm. He said the establishment of small industries should help raise the per capita income of farmers.

Greene Countian Reviews New College Inducements

SNOW HILL — The committee working to bring the new Presbyterian college to Greene County, encouraged by the trustees' statement of requirements, is moving ahead rapidly to complete the fundraising part of the campaign.

"We believe that the requirements put us head and shoulders above the 16 other communities bidding for the college," said H. Maynard Hicks chairman of the fund-raising drive. The trustees of the new school, meeting in Raleigh last week, set out in detail the requirements a community must meet if it expects to get the school.

"We note that the trustees want a community distinguished sufficiently as a population center, capable of providing a representative enrollment of day students", Mr. Hicks declared.

"Among the competing communities which one matches what we have to offer as a center of population in Eastern North Carolina, which the college is planned to serve? Within the community of Greene and the four surrounding counties—Pitt, Wilson, Wayne, and Lenoir—live 250,000 people. Within not more than 35 minutes of us are four cities ranging in size from 18,000, to 25,000 and containing all necessary urban facilities such as
