Benson Appeals To Public For Suggestions

Asks For Farm Ideas

CLEVELAND (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson appealed to the public today for ideas on how to help solve farm problems of overproduction, surpluses and declining grower pri - and income.

These problems appear likely to become major issues in next year's election.

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the National Grange, Benson promised that every letter will receive a personal reply and every suggestion will be considered except on the suggestion that the government return to high, rigid price supports. Some Democratic critics of the Eisenhower administration farm program urge restoration of the old support program.

Benson conceded, however, that flexible price supports—a feature of the administration program--"are not and never will be enough" to boost farm prices in the face of present surpluses. He said nevertheless that such supports can be helpful and should be used.

In Washington yesterday Benson told newsmen that the government's 18-member National Agricultural Advisory Commission is working on proposals that the administration sponsor a "soil bank" plan under which farmers would get government payments for taking a part of the land out of production and building fertility on it for the future. This program would retain flexible supports.

In an obvious thrust at his political critics, the secretary said in his speech no farm program "should ever be manipulated to serve partisan political purposes. Agriculture is too vital to be used in such fashion."

"I have faith," he said, "in the wisdom of our farm people. They are not easily stampeded by demagogues. The farm vote cannot be bought with unsound programs or the promised abandonment of programs that are sound."

CLEVELAND (AP)—The National Grange has served notice that it will fight any taxation "which restricts or penalizes the operation and services of farmer co-operatives."

Delegates to the 10th annual convention of the Grange yesterday expressed opposition to such taxation in approving a report by a committee on cooperative activities headed by Herbert R. Hoopes of Bel Air, Md.

"The grange will oppose any taxation, credit or public policy which restricts or penalizes the operation and services of farmer co-operatives and the farmer's right to reinvest his margins from co-operative operations back in his association for maintenance and expansion of needed facilities and services," the report said.

Delegates also went on record as opposing a recommendation of the Hoover Commission to abolish the Rural Electrification Administration.

President Firmly Supports Benson

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The storms and cares of office take a little recess today in that big white country place on the rim of Gettysburg battlefield.

President Eisenhower has some work to do. But at the same time his three lively grandchildren are coming with their parents, Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower. And it's Thanksgiving Eve, with a family holiday in prospect.

The farm problem which bothers the Republicans cropped up again yesterday in the wake of Cabinet and National Security Council meetings 22 miles away in a mountain lodge at Camp David.

Eisenhower, through his press secretary, made it plain he's still standing behind Secretary of Agriculture Benson—just as he was 25 days ago when he issued a declaration of support from his Denver hospital room.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty didn't say in so many words that administration farm policy might not change in the future, or that Benson was assured of continued support, but there was no backing down from the Oct. 29 expression of complete confidence in Benson.

Hagerty did say that Eisenhower "is the only one who appoints or removes a Cabinet official," and at no time has he "entertained any suggestion whatsoever of the secretary of agriculture being replaced." Benson has been the target of attacks on farm prices and policies.

Eisenhower's chief assistant Sherman Adams was due in with a briefcase full of business today. Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief heart specialist at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, was expected too for the President's weekly detailed physical checkup.

Hagerty flatly denied a published report that the President's brother Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower recently intervened to save Benson's job.

Hagerty boiled over a bit when newsmen pursued the question.

Denying Benson ever has offered to resign—although many Democrats and some influential Republicans are after his scalp in the controversy over farm price drops—Hagerty told a news conference with pointed emphasis:

"Will you also quote this? That you fellows are trying to make a case where no case exists, as far as the President is concerned; and he is the only one who appoints or removes a Cabinet official, and no one else."

Said Hagerty: "Such a thing never happened."

"You told us in Denver," a reporter said, "that the question (of Benson's resignation) never came up."

"That is not what I said," Hagerty replied. All he said in Denver, he went on, was that the President supports Benson completely.

"I meant," he added, "that we were backing him in Denver The President completely supported the secretary—has completely supported the secretary, and the latest time that he has was my (Oct. 29) public statement, after the secretary saw the President in Denver.

"I think that ought to answer it."

Expanded Airline Service In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Expanded air service for several North Carolina cities was in the offing today, following action by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) granting new routes to two airlines.

Charlotte — which already has Eastern Air Lines trunk service—was placed on two new trunk lines to be operated by Delta Airlines, Inc., and Capital Airlines, Inc. Other CAB authorizations yesterday made Asheville, N.C. a key point on three new north - south Capital routes.

The board amended Delta's certificate to authorize service beyond Atlanta to New York-Newark by way of Charlotte, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Charlotte also will be an intermediate point on two Capital routes between Asheville and northern points.

The board said Southern route changes for Capital will improve service now provided Charlotte and Greensboro-High Point as well as Chattanooga, Tenn. It also said Capital "should be able" to provide better service for various North Carolina cities through the extension of its routes from Washington to New York.

One new Capital route includes Asheville on a run between New York - Newark and New Orleans. Another—with New York-Newark and Asheville as terminal points—includes Rocky Mount, Raleigh-Durham, Greensboro - High Point, Winston - Salem, Charlotte and Hickory. The route has segments beyond Asheville to New Orleans and Memphis.

Asheville also is a terminal point on a third Capital route, with Norfolk and Newport News-Hampton-Warwick, Va., on the other. Intermediate points are Elizabeth City, Rocky Mount, Raleigh - Durham, Greensboro - High Point, Winston-Salem, Charlotte and Hickory. Alternate sections beyond Asheville go to New Orleans and Memphis.

CAB refused requests from Charlotte and Greensboro - High Point that they be designated midway cities. The board said this was not needed to provide approved service from these communities to the Northeast. It means no airline will be able to originate flights at those cities under the present setup.

The various lines will plan schedules for service to the cities mentioned on the new routes. The CAB's action simply authorizes them to fly to those points.

Old N.C. Gold Mine May Open For Tungsten

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — The old Phoenix gold mine about six miles southeast of Concord may rise to prominence again, this time as a producer of tungsten.

The main 600-foot shaft has been pumped free of water and officials of the prospecting company report finding "highly encouraging" traces of scheelite, a source of tungsten and tungsten compounds.

The Carolina Tungsten Mining Co. also has begun work toward making the 170-foot shaft of the adjoining Furniss property usable again. Actual mining operations for tungsten in the Furniss mine will begin next week Hal Lackey, secretary and general counsel of the company, said.

Tungsten is as heavy as gold and has the highest melting point of any of the metals. This makes it much in demand for alloying steel and other purposes where hardness and resistance to heat is desired.

The company has been at work at the two shafts since the first of this year. The big jobs thus far have been restoring timber supports and pumping water. The Defense Minerals Exploration Administration is expected to provide a loan for extensive exploration on the bottom level of the Furniss mine as soon as it can be reached

The bottom 70 feet of the Furniss shaft still is under water, and next week's operation will be at the 100-foot level.

Company officials said they are obtaining bulk samples from five levels of the Phoenix mine to determine whether indicated reserves of gold and tungsten justify building a concentrating mill and treatment plant.

"Results of the bulk sampling at the Phoenix and the quantity of tungsten at the Furniss mine may justify erection of a mill," Lackey said.

The Phoenix was an important gold - producing mine for many years, up to 1889. In 1902 the Miami Mining Co. acquired the two properties and explored them, but closed down after about two months. A new 60-foot shaft was sunk on the Furniss property in 1931 but it later was abandoned.

Speedy Trial For Murder Of Baby

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A 17-year-old Hayesville housewife today faced the prospect of a speedy trial on murder charges, after signing a statement that she cut the throat of her baby born out of wedlock and hid the body.

Mrs. Epsie Dean told sheriff's deputies here yesterday she became pregnant while her 22-year-old husband, Herve Dean, was serving in the Army overseas. She said she hid the infant's body in the attic of an Enka apartment last month for fear her husband would learn of it.

Dean, who was recently discharged from service, has disclaimed any knowledge of the birth or the slaping. He is charged with suspicion of murder.

Mrs. Dean, held without bond on murder charges at the Buncombe County jail here, may be tried at the Dec. 12 term of Superior Court here.

The child's body was found in the apartment house attic last Thursday.

Governor Back At Desk Again

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. and Mrs Hodges returned to North Carolina today after a vacation cruise to Bermuda.

They had planned to arrive in Wilmington yesterday but stormy seas delayed the docking of their ship until around 6:00 a.m. today

This afternoon he and Mrs. Hodges will fly to Charlotte where they will participate in a Thanksgiving Day parade.

The Bermuda trip was made aboard the Swedish-American liner S. S. Stockholm.

30,000 Americans Thankful In Korea

By GENE KRAMER

WESTERN FRONT, Korea — More than 30,000 American soldiers will observe Thanksgiving camped in the bleak hills of Korea guarding the 2½-year-old armistice.

The 24th and 7th Infantry divisions, grouped just south of the armistice zone, are providing nearly one pound of turkey for each man with such trimmings as shrimp cocktail and oyster dressing.

Most of the troops, just back from strenuous field maneuvers will eat in their own Quonset mess halls. But dinner will be taken to a few on duty in bunkers and outposts overlooking the demilitarized zone and Communist North Korea.

On the lips of many, like Lt. Ed Fallon, were sentiments such as "thank God it is not a shooting war." Fallon, 22, was a former minor league baseball player at Spokane, Wash.

Many soldiers said they were thinking about happier past and future Thanksgivings at home Many were helping support Korean orphanages.

Some soldiers many in late teens and early 20s, were troubled this Thanksgiving with a feeling that Korea has been forgotten by the folks at home.

Cpl. Tells J. Lalonde, 16, of Kankakee, Ill., was on duty at a sandbagged bunker peering through a powerful telescope over the demilitarized zone. He said:

"We are forgotten. If it wasn't for mail, I don't know what we would do. The first two days is interesting here but after that, all the same."

Refuse To Buy 2 Coker Varieties

RALEIGH (AP) — The head of the German Cigarette Manufacturers Assn. told the Raleigh News and Observer last night his organization objects to two new varieties of U.S. flue-cured tobacco — Coker 139 and 140.

Rudolph Schlenker said in a trans-Atlantic telephone interview from Hamburg, Germany, that "We do not want these tobaccos and will not knowingly buy them Unless you can sell us something better, we will go elsewhere to buy."

Schlenker told the News and Observer the two varieties "have no flavor, are not oily enough, and are like paper."

German manufacturers depend on American tobaccos to furnish the flavor and aroma for their blends. Because of high prices, Schlenker said, the percentage of U.S. tobacco used is limited

Meanwhile, W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist with the State Department of Agriculture, said "There's nothing wrong with any of this tobacco that a short crop wouldn't cure."

He added that "there was light tobacco in all varieties this year—perhaps a little more in the Coker varieties than in others, but the new varieties were in the spotlight and undoubtedly got a lot of undeserved blame."

Dr. C. Hoy Rogers of Hartsville, S.C., who developed Coker 139 for the Coker Pedigreed Seed Co. said, "If there's anything wrong with our tobaccos we want to know it. So far, we've seen no evidence of discrimination on the part of buyers, and we've received no complaints from the leaf men of the buying companies."

Dr. Rogers said "139 is being blamed for all the troubles that come up during the past growing season." He added that there was a strong demand for this tobacco last year "but the 1955 season was very unusual, with adequate moisture almost everywhere. We have not had a year like that since 1938, or possibly 1918."

The North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation's tobacco conference was told Monday that Coker 139 and 140 are being recommended by North Carolina State College for planting in 1956.

Real Seamanship At Texas Tower

BOSTON (AP) — Thirty-seven visitors, marooned by storms on a man-made island for five days, were headed for the mainland today after daring seamanship helped in their transfer to a tugboat.

With the 37 who were marooned since last Thursday on the Texas tower 110 miles off Cape Cod are 15 workers who will be on Thanksgiving leaves or whose jobs are completed on the tower.

The nervy seamanship was on the part of Capt. Patrick Carlough, an Aleutian Indian who skippers the tug El Sol.

He held the 174-foot tug almost under a corner of the great platform of the Texas tower for an hour and a half in the face of 25-foot waves, the wrong tide and strong winds.

"The tide was wrong, but I couldn't wait," the captain said. "It was getting late and breezing up.

"I had to take the tide on the wrong side, the port bow. The right tides to approach the triangular tower came after dark."

He had only two hours of daylight left in which to complete the transfer of men from the tower to the tug in a huge basket swung by a crane.

The skipper said the wrong side of the tower for his operation seemed calmer "and I figured the wind 20 to 30 m.p.h. was stronger than the tide."

A huge hawser was first hauled to the tower platform from the tug, but that parted in minutes as the vessel rolled and pitched in the open ocean.

The unloading then was accomplished without tieing up, and with only a stern anchor since both bow anchors were lost in recent storms.

In groups of four to seven, the men climbed in a 10-foot basket and were lowered by the crane to the deck of the tug. Several basketloads tipped over on the tug's deck, but the men scrambled out unhurt.

Associated Press photographer J. Walter Green was in one basket that tipped over, but he never lost hold of his camera, film and other equipment.

Crane operator Tom Barrett, 6-4 and 230 pounds, handled the long crane as if it was a light fishpole as he swung the men down onto the bobbing tug. It was 100 feet from the platform of the Texas tower to the deck of the tug.

The 37 visitors, including Navy brass, went to the tower on an inspection trip last Thursday and were to remain only a few hours. Storms kicked up, however, and stranded them there while the tug El Sol sought more sheltered water.

Judge Criticizes Justice Warren

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — A South Carolina circuit judge has charged U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren with "prejudice or ignorance" for granting a stay of execution in the now - completed Arthur (Fat Eye) Waitus case.

Judge J. Henry Johnson also told the Cherokee County grand jury Monday that the Supreme Court "didn't have a particle of jurisdiction in" a Georgia case involving a marsh - type island in the Savannah River

Johnson praised the Georgia Supreme Court for what he said was "in effect, telling it (the court) to go sit on a tack" as far as the case was concerned.

Referring to the Waitus case, Johnson said:

"The distinguished chief justice of the United States, either through prejudice or ignorance, granted a stay of execution in the 'Fat Eye' Waitus case in Georgetown County . . . my information is, without a single piece of paper before him And, the Supreme Court of South Carolina wrote asking why it was granted: then down came an order vacating the stay.

"The chief justice of the Supreme Court," Johnson continued, "was not learned enough in the law to know what he was doing when he granted it in the first place, or he did it through bias and prejudice."

(Waitus, an illiterate Negro fisherman and stevedore, later died in the electric chair for the strangulation death of a Georgetown white woman.)

Grimesland Votes Saturday On Selling System

GRIMESLAND — Local citizens will vote Saturday on whether or not they wish to sell their municipally-owned electric facilities.

The town now purchases electrical current on a wholesale basis from Greenville Utilities and in turn distributes the power for resale through its own system.

Voters will actually be deciding whether or not they wish to sell the system to Carolina Power and Light Co. when they go to the poll Saturday.

Citizens will be able to vote "yes" or "no" on the following question when they receive their ballots:

"Shall the qualified voters of the Town of Grimesland approve the sale to Carolina Power and Light Company of the Town's electric distribution system for the consideration and upon the terms and conditions contained in a Sale Agreement between the Town of Grimesland and Carolina Power and Light Company, dated October 11, 1955 and duly approved by the Board of Aldermen of the Town of Grimesland, copy of which is on file as a public record in the office of the Town Clerk?"

Grimesland now has a 20 year contract with Greenville Utilities for the wholesale purchase of power That contract has approximately six years remaining at present.

In September Grimesland requested that Greenville Utilities release the town from the contract for a price to be agreed upon.

Greenville Utilities Commission took the matter under consideration and in a letter dated October 21, advised representatives of the town that it would be "impractical and improper" to release Grimesland from its contract.

It was noted that a considerable amount of money had been spent to make an inter-connection with Virginia Electric and Power Co. at the Greenville plant and "additional improvements of the feeder circuit through the Town of Greenville which serves Grimesland" had been made. In addition, the town was informed, voltage regulators for the circuit had been purchased and were due for installation.

However, the Greenville Utilities informed Grimesland representatives that it would be "more than glad to discuss the purchasing" of the Grimesland electrical system or to work out a feasible operating program with the town if it so desired.

Polls will open for the special election at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and are to remain open until 6:30 p.m.

The polling place will be located in the town hall. Between 160 and 170 voters are expected to be eligible to cast their ballots in the special election.

Registrar for election is Miss Annie Buck. Judges are Jamie Dail and Caroline Jackson.

Three Survey Reports Given To League Of Women Voters

Three reports in connection with the city-wide survey being conducted by the local Provisional League of Women Voters were given at the organizations regular meeting last night in the Council room at City Hall.

Mrs. R. S. Moye spoke on the town's characteristics; Mrs. Jake Hadley discussed the work of the Pitt County Department of Public Welfare; and Mrs. James Poindexter reported on city housing.

Mrs. Moye brought out the highlights of Greenville's rapid growth, noting that twice the courthouse burned, destroying all records, but after each disaster pertinent facts were immediately gathered from local citizens who knew the history of the city and the records were once more compiled and placed on file.

Mrs. Hadley pointed out that public welfare in the county is controlled by the county Board of Welfare, which hires as administrator the Superintendent of Public Welfare. Public welfare in the county, she stated, includes services to children, aid to the blind, assistance to the needy aged, and financial and other services to people in need. She emphasized that the department provides services as well as financial assistance to people in trouble.

Mrs. Poindexter said the Civic and Public Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has appointed a special committee to study sub-standard housing in Greenville and the League of Women Voters has been invited by them to appoint a committee to work with the Chamber committee on this project.

Mrs. Moye announced that on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 2 p.m. Bill Norwood will interview Mrs. M. P. Bailey Jr. on television station WNCT regarding the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. R. P. Rogers reported that plans are underway for a membership drive and pointed out that a minimum of 30 members must be on roll before the provisional league may apply for league status.

It was also announced there will be no meeting of the league during December. The Kinston League of Women Voters is being invited to speak on the state agenda at the January meeting.

Mrs. Samuel Sewall, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Michael Luskin, president.

Few Could Live Long Enough For Courses

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—With the possible exception of Methusela nobody could live long enough to take all the courses offered by Yale University. The curriculum of 1,450 courses and a student would need more than 350 academic years to go through all of them, reports President A. Whitney Griswold.

About 14 million tons of U.S. hay, one-eigth of the crop, was sold in 1954.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Critcher, on Dickinson Ave., was the scene of a quiet but beautiful wedding this morning when their daughter, Helen, became the bride of Mr. J. Charles Whiteford Jr. of Wilmington. The ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and most intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The Board of County Commissioners of Pitt County have appropriated $500 to co-operate with the State and Federal governments for the protection of her timberlands from fire. There are now five counties in eastern North Carolina which are now giving attention to this work.

Odd Bookmarks Found In Volumes

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Some people use very peculiar book markers. Just ask Dan Healey, director of the Harrisburg Public Library.

Among items taken from returned books are:

A 100-year-old marriage license, a social security card, an unopened letter, pads of paper and a picture of a curly-haired girl under a Christmas Tree.

But the thing that baffles Healey is how anyone could clip a flashlight in a book and forget it.

Greenville Garden Club Plans For Annual Christmas Show

The Greenville Garden Club held its second meeting of the year Friday Nov. 18, with the chairman, Mrs. Vance Perkins, presiding. After the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report the various committee chairmen gave excellent reports of their activities.

Mrs. K. W. Cobb, chairman of Horticulture, reminded the group of the fine articles in the newspapers concerning pruning, planting and other garden hints. Mrs. H. R. Rogers reported on the work being done on Sheppard Memorial Library grounds.

Attractive Christmas candles were displayed and Mrs. L. A. Stroud donated a beautiful candle for the Christmas Show. The dates for the Christmas show are Saturday, Dec. 10th, and Sunday, Dec. 11th, 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. and will be at the Woman's Club. A silver offering will be taken. Committees for the show are: Chairman, Mrs. Vance Perkins; Table, Mrs. J. L. Winstead; Favors, Mrs. John Carrington and Mrs. C. C. Hilton; Sweets, Mrs. James Phelps; Mantels, Mrs. R. V. Keel and Mrs. J. B. Smith; Special Arrangements, Mrs. K. W. Cobb, Mrs. W. T. Kyzer and Mrs. K. B. Pace; Wreaths and Swags, Mrs. S. H. Mitchell.

Visitors were Mesdames Lawrence Smith, George Staples and Clara Moye Shackell. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames Alton Barrett, Claude Gaskins, R. V. Keel, Frank Taylor, E. L. Willard, J. H. B. Moore, M. L. Wright, J. M. Basart, P. K. Andresen and Hugh Ragsdale.

Men Demanding Facial Make-Up

By JAMES BACON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A facial make-up consultant to many movie stars today disclosed that she does a brisk business in cosmetics for men.

"It's not what you think," said French-born Aida Grey. "These are virile men, some of them husbands of famous movie stars. Others are famous stars themselves."

She disclosed no names but told how she got started on the unusual sideline in her salon.

"I noticed that some of my feminine customers kept coming back too soon for refills, so I asked why."

Without exception, the girls answered: "My husband uses it too."

Now she prepares the stuff for both Momma and Poppa.

"This is a town where a face is a fortune," Miss Grey says. "Men realize it as well as women."

In fact, she hints that some American men realize it more than their wives or girl friends. With some U. S. girls, skin care is a lost art, she claims.

"Many American women, like Cinderella, change back to drabness at midnight because their make-up job is left on the coat lapels of their dancing partners. In Europe, where skin care is a ritual, the girls go all night and still look great, even at breakfast."

The facial expert declared this is because American women apply make-up without first removing fatty acids from their face. The acids dissolve the make-up.

"In the use of cosmetics, American women are among the most skilful but in skin care among the worst offenders."

Miss Grey said face powders in such bizarre shades as green, orchid and blue are now on the market to revitalize cinderellas under night lights.

"Blue powder will give brunettes a pink look while green will give a creamy cast to redheads and brownettes. The orchid cast is right for silver blondes. All the shades will bring cinderella back to life at midnight."

Some Hunger In This Land Of Plenty

For what have we to be thankful at this season?

Just look around you. Every American truly lives in a land flowing with milk and honey. The abundance of material things is matched nowhere on the face of the earth. Yet, within a five-mile radius of every court house, every city hall, every church, there are those who are cold, hungry and needy.

There is no reason for any person in this great nation to lack for any of the necessities of life. Yet there are those forgotten people in every community who barely subsist for lack of assistance from their fellow men who daily dip their hands into the horn of plenty.

In the United States today people have reached the highest standard of living ever known. It is a far cry from the standard of living of the pilgrim fathers who began the American tradition of a Thanksgiving observance Their little group had been depleted by illness and death. their meager suplies were sufficient for only a few days, they knew not what tomorrow would bring in this wild new world to which they had come. Still their mud and log hovels glowed with the warmth of praise and thanksgiving for the blessings they had received.

How much more we have to be thankful for than they.

The nation's economic prosperity has reached a new plateau. Year after year the harvests have brought forth much more than is necessary to feed and clothe the people of this nation. Our piles of surplus commodities, both necessities and luxuries amount to millions upon millions of tons. Not only have we been blessed with material things in this nation, but priceless fredoms which are the envy of mankind everywhere are taken for granted here The fredom to worship, the freedom of speech and assembly from fear and if we were only better stewards of the material things, freedom from want would be universal throughout this great land.

Thanksgiving Day, 1955 is indeed a day for every American to look to the Almighty from whom every gift comes, and give praise for the abundance in which we live.

All The Growers Can Do Is Follow The Experts

There are a great many ruffled feathers throughout the tobacco section of North Carolina over the announcement that Coker 139 and 140 varieties of tobacco will not be recommended for planting during the coming year.

The high yielding tobacco variety was widely planted this year, and farmers in most cases were highly pleased with the quantity of tobacco the variety produced. Most also were satisfied with the quality of tobacco produced by the variety. Many farmers who planted the variety this year, and many additional farmers already had made plans to plant the variety next year.

Certainly North Carolina State College would not have dropped the Coker varieties from its list of recommended varieties had agricultural officials not felt that it was in the best interest of tobacco farmers to plant other varieties. Officials pointed out that the variety did not have the flavor and aroma expected by many domestic and foreign companies who use flue-cured tobacco in their products. Obviously it will not be in the interest of tobacco farmers to grow in large quantities a type of tobacco for which there is little demand.

As we see it, farmers have little choice but to follow the recommendations of the agricultural experts at State College. Farmers will not be helping theselves by emphasizing the production of a pale, slick tobacco when there is little demand for that type leaf. Many farmers will be reluctant to switch from the high yielding Coker 139 and 140 to other varieties which produce fewer leaves, but in the interest of tobacco growers and themselves in particular, it seems the wise course for them to follow during the coming year.

More Polio Vaccine Is Fine; Should Be Used

More good news has come on the polio vaccine front as authorities have announced that methods have been devised for making more easily larger quantities of the vaccine with few if any bad batches showing up during manufacture.

The announcement means that the manufacture of the vaccine can be increased appreciably and thus the quantity of vaccine available can meet the demand for this polio preventive. At the same time the alterations in manufacturing procedure, according to the announcement, will obviate the possibility of bad vaccine getting to the public as was the case soon after the serum was approved.

All this points to the fact that the vaccine which for months has been scarce will soon be plentiful. If the people throughout the nation will make use of the vaccine, paralytic polio in this country in a relatively few years can be relegated to a position comparable to that of small pox, diptheria, typhoid and other diseases which once cast a black shadow across the nation.

The mere fact that there is plenty of vaccine for everyone to be inoculated against polio will not in itself prevent epidemics of the disease which has killed and crippled literally thousands. Almost universal usage of the vaccine must be realized before polio can be given a secondary position among the dreaded diseases, and efforts turned to other facets of medical science.

Farm Delegates In A Serious Mood

By LYNN NISBET

FARMERS — The farmers took over the capital city the first of this week with more than one thousand representatives of the N.C. Farm Bureau attending the annual convention.

It was a serious-minded crowd. There was no immediate evidence of lack of prosperity. The delegates came in good automobiles and wearing stylish clothes. Many of the cars and most of the clothing were new models. Tobacco, which is the mainstay of the state's agricultural economy, was profitable this year. A big crop with 90 per cent parity rigid support of selling price yielded almost record-breaking gross income. Producers of other crops also fared well in the overall balance between production and market prices.

The serious-minded stems from the knowledge that cost of production was comparatively higher than selling price, and that the price squeeze between cost and income is narrowing at geometric progression. It was tighter this year, and thoughtful farmers expect it to be worse next year. Beyond that they are hopeful but extremely uncertain.

Naturally major interest centered in the tobacco situation. When the commodity conferences assembled Monday morning there were three or four times as many people in the tobacco group as in all the others combined. The other groups included cotton, dairying, field crops fruits and vegetables, livestock, peanuts and poultry.

Surprisingly enough the poultry conference was the smallest of all, with only 20 attendants, including only two or three honest-to-good poultrymen who derive major part of their income from the production of poultry. The others were employes of Federal-State agricultural agencies.

$125 MILLION — The surprise element stems from the fact that the poultry industry in North Carolina is presently the second largest source of farm cash income, accounting for some $125 million this year with no foreseeable limit on expansion. This big time business is made up of many small operators, for most part without coherent organization or common purpose. There is nothing like Tobacco Associates or Stabilization Corporation, or Peanut Council or a big co-operative like the Cotton Growers.

One of the major items emphasized in discussions was the need for co-operative activity among poultrymen to hold and expand their markets. Also emphasized was importance of quality production, with recognizable grades and standards, the substitution of efficiency for the current attention to quantity without relation to cost of production

STATISTICS — Some facts were brought out in the discussions and resolutions which may surprise many North Carolinians First is the second place of poultry products in farm cash income. Next is that the southeast has taken the poultry business of the nation away from the west and northeast, and North Carolina has pioneered in that change. And, while it is conceded that the southeast dominates the broiler-fryer segment of the poultry business North Carolina derived more income from eggs than from poultry meat last year.

This state is now exporting poultry meat and is at the point of entering the export market for eggs. Geographically the state is strategically located for export, because of overnight delivery to the concentrated population centers in the Middle Atlantic, New England and Ohio Valley states There is possibility for increasing the export market, but a major need is for consumer education in the state to provide local markets for more poultry products.

COMPETITION — North Carolina poultrymen face keen competition for the export trade, and to some extent in the home market. Besides the normal competitors in the poultry business, there is evidence that big labor unions in the packing plants of beef, pork and other "red meats" are waging an intensive publicity campaign against poultry products for food Opinion is held in some quarters that main purpose of this campaign is to bring poultry products under Federal inspection laws, with result that processing would be concentrated in large plants where unionization would be easier to accomplish.

Some types of government inspection is recognized as needed and inevitable for poultry products. Sentiment voiced inspection law enacted by the recent Legislature, with considerable endorsement for a stricter Federal-State system, and for the Egg Marketing Act of 1955.

PROMOTION — Further promotion of the poultry industry was recommended by resolutions calling for expanding research and wider dissemination of information about diseases affecting poultry, more study of feed efficiency and good business management, and more complete consumer educational processes about the economic and nutritive value of poultry products as basic foods

In all these areas the idea was to obtain fuller cooperation among Federal, State and private enterprise agencies for the expansion of industry which gives promise of taking up some of the slack which will inevitably follow further reduction in acreage allotment for basic price support crops.

At the same time the poultrymen made it very plain they want just as little government control over production quotas and prices as possible.

Beach At Its Best In A Rain

The flag, rain-sodden and heavy, clings lonesomely to the pole. Depressing weather, you say, and yet, it makes me want to go to the beach.

"You're nuts," some folks might well say to the idea of going to the beach in such weather. Well, say I, maybe that's true, but I still think it's fine beach weather.

Let's add up the pros and cons. What place, this side of you-know-where, is hotter or more miserable than the beach in summer. And then there're the crowds and crowds of people, swarming in from every side and bringing with them the commercialism of hot dog stands, shooting galleries, and all the rest of the "attractions."

Ahhh, but in the winter, now that's a different story. It's not so cold at the beach as one might imagine. You stand on the porch of your cottage and look down the long, curving line of sand, pure and patterned only by the wind and waves.

The sky is gray and overcast and a slight wind churns the breakers as they roar in along the shore. Inside, a fire built from driftwood pops and crackles cherrily in the grate. The house itself seems to creak a little as if it's happy to once more have human occupants after the long, lonely silence of the ball.

Sand has drifted around the front steps but you don't mind that as you walk down from your porch and out across the dunes to where the dying waves rush in to your feet.

You walk and walk along the beach, the wind blowing in your face. You look back and see your footprints, a single line of human blemished, etched into the sand.

And then you pass the long lines of the concession stands, their gaudy paint beginning to chip from the weather. They stand there, lonely and silent, with only a faint remembrance of the clang and clamor of last summer's throng.

The sun begins to set, though you can't see it, and the grayness of the ocean darkens into night. And you turn back toward your cottage.

The wind has picked up and you feel tiny grains of sand spatter against your face. You walk and walk, wondering just how you came to wander so far.

Then, out of the fast-falling night, you see the tiny glow of light from your cottage.

Inside, you pull off your sweater and seat yourself before the fire. The house has a warm and cheery feel and you sit there quietly, at peace, listening to the wind and the waves as they wander through the night.

You still don't like the idea? Well, I wish I was there right now.

Knowledge In Morning Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Things a columnist would never know if he didn't open his morning mail:

That American women are using less perfume now than they did eight years ago.

odorant sales climbed 9% per cent between 1947 and 1953.

That acids in even the fairest skin are harmful to a pearl necklace. It should be sent to a jeweler once a year to be cleaned.

That during some fall and winter months as many as 15 million Americans may catch a cold in a single day.

That Metropolitan Opera tenor Kurt Baum, an amateur heavyweight boxer during his days as a medical student in Prague suffered a broken nose in a practice bout with Max Schmeling. Kurt claims the removal of a nasal bone as the result of the injury made his high notes more resonant.

That some 30 herbs are used in making a topgrade vermouth, including the flowers of "wormwood," and such other fancy-named plants as sweet marjoram, angelica and blessed thistle.

That the National Dog Welfare Guild believes one way to keep your boy from running with a wolfpack of juvenile delinquents is to give him a pooch to care for.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A PERFECT DAY

Will tomorrow be a happy day?

It is hard to predict the future. Yet without the aid of a crystal ball, we can generally foretell a happy day, and bring about the fulfillment of the prophecy by a simple formula — a day in which we try to bring happiness to others. There is no surer way to bring happiness to ourselves.

In case you want to try out the idea, here are a few easy suggestions:

Express sincere gratitude to someone who has done something for you recently, and let him know that you hope to do something for him.

Go out of your way to praise someone for a job well done. Make your praise intelligent and specific—commendation from someone who knows what he is talking about is always worth more.

Make an effort to help someone who needs it, whether it be your neighbor carrying a heavy box, or a motorist asking directions.

Plan for your family, or someone in it, a pleasant surprise—an outing, a little gift, a special treat or favor of some sort.

Take time out to ask God in prayer to help you help others, and watch for his guidance in the ways that present themselves.

And when you come to the close of such a day, see if it is not the end of a perfect day.

Ethical Dealers Unhappy

By ELMER ROESSNER

In the stretch of what looks like their biggest year in history, most auto dealers are unhappy. Their discontent is caused by the fact that a small minority of dealers have loused up the business with misleading advertising practices and questionable financial deals.

In consequence, ethical dealers have lost profits and prestige.

The situation is so serious that Frank H. Yarnall president of the National Automobile Dealers Association took the unusual step of baring his own organization's woes before another organization, the American Finance Conference.

He denounced advertisements of "discounts, allowances, free all-expense trips and deals that are wholly impossible unless there is some hidden charge which would give the dealer enough gross to fulfill the offer." These hidden charges sometimes include double charges for taxes, double charges for insurance and "packing" of the financing charges, he said.

Honest dealers, trying to compete with such extravagant offers, are sacrificing much of their profits, Mr. Yarnall said. Profits for the first nine months of this record-breaking year may be only 2.6 per cent of sales before taxes, he said.

FANTASTIC OFFERS

Mr. Yarnall cited two almost incredible advertisements. One dealer wrote a TV spot offering a used-car for $595 cash. Then he offered to accept the used car as a down payment on a new and larger car at such a discount that the purchaser could drive out of the agency with $1,105 in cash as "change." Just what means the dealer intended to use to get his money plus a profit back never came out; a Better Business Bureau persuaded the dealer to cancel the commercial.

"Here's another one," Mr. Yarnall said. "A nineteen-hundred and fifty-six popular car, a six-passenger sedan, was advertised at nine-hundred and ninety-five dollars, all taxes paid. Power equipment was available at extra cost. The power equipment in this case was the motor."

TOO EASY CREDIT

Excessively long installment terms and offers of "no down payment" are also creating unfair competition for ethical dealers, he said.

"What would be the result if there were any real dip in our economy within the next twelve to twenty months? You know better than we that repossessions would be quite a problem in this event," Mr. Yarnall said, pointing out that both finance companies and dealers whose contracts compel them to share losses would be heavily hit. "Beyond that," he sadded, "the effect on the purchaser would be to wipe him out completely. He would have no equity to use to acquire another car then or at a later date."

While "no down payment" is frequently offered, relatively few cars are sold on this basis, especially to those who can't afford a down payment, he said. Soft credit has so alarmed dealers that may of them actually desire a return to Regulation W, under which the government regulated credit terms.

CINDERBLOCKS, YES; STARCHED SHIRTS, NO

Last year, Congress took away the tax exemption of spaghetti factories, knitting mills and other competitive businesses owned by universities. Now the Internal Revenue Service has interpreted the law as it applies to an unnamed university owning a radio station, a cinderblock plant and a laundry.

The radio station and cinderblock plant profits are taxable the IRS holds, but because the laundry is operated primarily for the convenience of students, officers and employees, its income is not.

Others Say . . .

LAKEVIEW, ORE., EXAMINER: "the well being of the people lays along the road of profit and business and the people's own continued control over government. It does not lay along the road of big government, and government control over the people."

Other Editors Are Saying . . . More Nurses Now?

(Kinston Free Press)

The nursing picture in North Carolina is brighter now than it has been in some time and it will continue to improve, according to R. Ross Porter, Duke Hospital superintendent

This is welcome news to the nursing profession, to the medical profession and the general public. It indicates that North Carolina now has more students (some 3,000 in all) in its 34 nursing schools than any other state in the South. More nurses are staying in their home communities now than they did during World War 2, and more married women are remaining in the nursing profession, at least on a parttime basis.

This marked improvement in what has been a constant source of concern to the State Nurses Association for the past several years can be attributed in large measure to the constant pressure that has been placed by the association on eligible young women to enter the field. Scholarships have been offered and more will be made available in future to encourage more and more students to take up the noble profession of caring for the sick.

This is fine as far as the picture for the whole State is concerned, but it does not mean that much more cannot be done than already has been done. In Lenoir County, for instance, the nursing school which flourished here for many years has not even been re-opened since the completion of renovations at Lenoir Memorial Hospital some months ago. As far as we are able to ascertain there are no immediate plans to re-open this important institution.

Many fine nurses have been trained at this local institution. Better training can be given in some aspects of the profession in small groups than can possibly be offered when large classes are the rule. The local school and others could be added to the whole state effort to provide more nurses and it should be as soon as possible.

Nevertheless, the current progress is encouraging and those responsible for improvement in the nursing picture as a whole deserve the thanks and appreciation of the entire public.

The Sole Qualification Is Vote-Getting

Ray Tucker is on vacation. While he is away there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors Today's column is by Dwight Marvin, Editor of The Record Newspapers, Troy, N.Y.

By DWIGHT MARVIN

TROY N.Y. — under the present machinery of the American political setup party names reach from the Presidency, and Congress down to the corner, the town road commissioner and the village president. Does this make for progress?

The city in which I live and work has had a Republican mayor for 12 years. This month it elected a Democrat to succeed him. The campaign was fought, as municipal campaigns should be fought, on local issues. It really didn't make any difference how the respective candidates voted on Election Day, 1952

The city has $200,000,000 assets if we consider the assessment roll. Its annual budget approaches $5,000,000. It is in reality a corporation with substantial assets and substantial income The man elected as executive director—for that is what a mayor is—ought to be a man of experience and of capacity.

Was any such man nominated for the office? Certainly not. Neither of the candidates had any background for such a big job. Each was picked by the party leaders because he belonged to a group which carried a national party name and was popular enough to get the votes. Those were the only factors the leaders considered.

SHACKLES OF NATIONAL PARTISANSHIP It seems to me that we ought to find some way to escape from the shackles of national partisanship when we are dealing in the management of local affairs. What difference does it make how the mayor votes for President, Congressman or Governor? The city problems have nothing at all to do with those of the larger units Indeed, the mingling of national with municipal affairs has no value to the city. It is merely a way for the bosses—leaders, they like to be called—to keep their organizations intact.

Perhaps the best point about city-manager methods lies in its challenge to these artificial factors. A city manager is a professional corporate official trained in the work of managing developing and improving civic machinery. He should be extremely careful not to let partisanship intrude in his work.

CITIES SHOULD BE RUN LIKE CORPORATIONS Yet, even with city-manager communities, the commissioners too often feature their politics; and the man who runs for the position of mayor—more or less of a figurehead job—in most cities represents a party. All sorts of schemes have been invented by the reformers to avoid this—listing candidates alphabetically, permitting no mention of partisan registration and many more. But still the commission usually degenerates into a division on national party lines.

If the students of civics can find a solution for this problem they will serve the country handsomely. For it would mean that cities would be run as corporations, not as adjuncts to a divisive partisanship. It would be possible to conduct their affairs on a business basis instead of compelling the use of incompetents, sinecures and the like to reward and keep in line members of the parties. These hangers-on are themselves not interested in national party affairs nor in municipal betterments. What they want is salaries without any work more burdensome than making friends who will "vote right" on the big day.

RECENT MAYORALTY CANDIDATES In my own city one of the candidates has started life as an alien, enrolled as a Democrat and, receiving a good political job, became a Republican I do not believe he made these moves because of the tariff, the foreign policy of either party or the attitude of the President on any major issue. He was merely a cog in a big machine And the other candidate was the manager of a building in a nearby city, with a group of janitors under him. But he was hereditarily Democratic and therefore according to the party leaders, available.

We have had plenty of adroit thinkers who have exercised their talents in working out plans for society, political or otherwise. We have had the cumbersome proportional representation — which is partisan—the single tax, the various oddities formulated in California and in Western Canada. Who can supply a proper formula to separate the bones task of running municipal corporations from the very different task of running the Federal government?

Bethel High School Sees Active Week

By DURWOOD WHITE
Bethel High School

The Bethel Beta Club recently initiated three new members. They are John Edward Whitehurst, Tommy Cooper and Bobbie Garrenton. The Beta Club plans to attend the State Convention in Asheville and is proud that they have the North Carolina State president of the organization, Bryan Latham, in their club.

The Bethel Future Business Leaders of America Chapter is also very active and plans to send a large delegation to the State Convention in Winston-Salem. They too have the North Carolina State president of the club in their chapter—Durwood White. He plans to attend the S.B.E.A. convention in Florida over the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Future Teachers Chapter of Bethel recently named their chapter after Mrs. Edna Earl Baker, county supervisor. In naming the chapter for Mrs. Baker, the members felt that they were honoring a person who has given the best of her thought, her words, and her deeds for the advancement of education.

The Thanksgiving assembly program was given by the Junior Glee Club and the eighth grade today. The program consisted of selected readings by the eighth grade and the glee club presented appropriate Thanksgiving music. Miss Carolyn Willis is director of the choral club.

The Bethel Future Farmers of America Chapter is very proud to have received the top honors in the "Tool Identification Contest" held in Winterville Friday, November 18. Sam D. Dewar, agriculture director at Bethel, stated that the department is very proud of their participants in the contest, Tommy Whitehurst, Churchill Briley and John Edward Whitehurst.

Mrs. Lucille Mayo, sponsor of the Bethel Future Homemakers of America chapter, announced today that her chapter will sponsor a Mother-Daughter Banquet in the home ecomics classroom on December 6. The meal will consist of turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, string beans, sweet potatoes in orange halves topped with marshmallows, a relish dish, coffee, cream, rolls, butter and orange dessert cake a la mode. The program will consist of special music and an after-dinner speaker. The Christmas theme will be emphasized throughout the banquet.

Suggests GMC Be Broken Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Tennessee auto supply wholesaler has suggested that the huge General Motors Corp., which engages in a wide range of manufacturing activities, "should be broken into single separate and distinct operations."

The proposal, which he would apply also to "other giants," came yesterday from John W. Duke of Nashville during testimony before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee in its study of GM.

Duke, who said he sold more than one million dollars worth of auto supplies — including some GM products — last year, said it would be "unfair" to single out GM. He said other giants of the transportation manufacturing industry also should be "divested of their finance business, intermingling of directorships and ownership in dealerships."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), presiding over the hearing, indicated he was not in sympathy with Duke's proposal. Instead, O'Mahoney restated his belief that all corporations doing interstate business should be required to obtain federal charters and thus come under direct federal supervision.

Duke said that in his opinion GM is violating federal antitrust laws engaging in false advertising, and is so powerful it could put all independent competitors out of business.

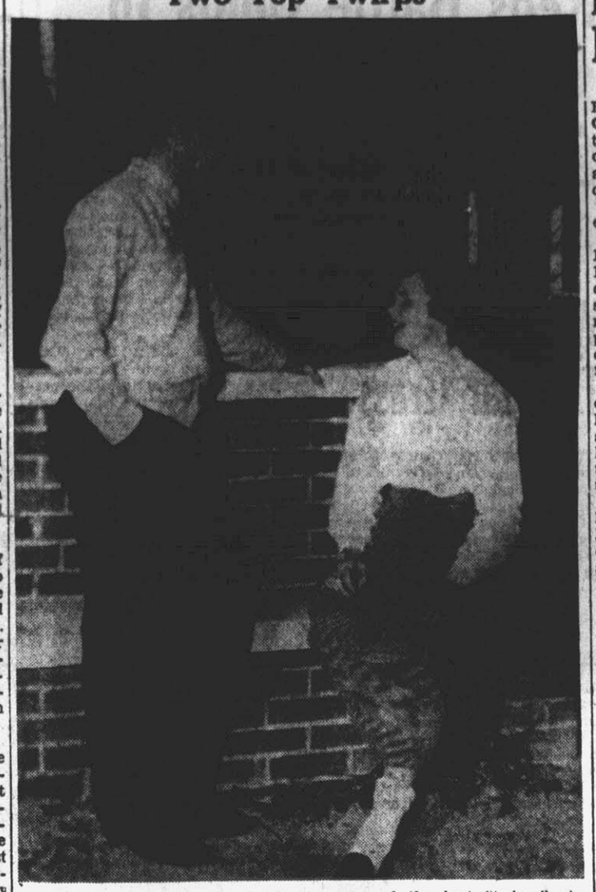
'Dumpy' Waits For Her Owner

OMAHA (AP)—A little black and white mongrel dog sits glumly beside a "no dumping" sign where somebody dumped her.

Named "Dumpy" yesterday by residents of the area—the sign is at the entrance to a county sewage disposal plant—the friendly little tail-wagger seems determined to hold her ground, apparently believing whoever left her is going to remember that sign and come back for her.

She had been there four days yesterday.

Two Top Twirps



Betty Sugg and Charles Smith were named the best "twirps" at Greenville High School by the Student Council this week. This means that Betty and Charles, both juniors, were the best participants in Twirp Season, held recently at the high school. During Twirp Season the girls assume the role of the boys in asking for dates and taking care of the expenses. They must also open doors for the boys, help them off with their coats, and in general show them all the courtesies they would like extended to them during all the other weeks of the year. Season On Quail, Rabbits, Wild Turkeys Opens Thanksgiving Day

The season for hunting quail and rabbits and wild turkey (gobblers and toms only) opens Thanksgiving Day (November 24). The season closes January 31.

The bag limit on quail is 8 birds, possession, 16; rabbits, 5, possession 10, wild turkeys, bag limit, 1, possession, 2.

County Game and Fish Protector J. O. Teel today reminded sportsmen and others that they must have hunting licenses. He also reminded that it is against the law to use an automatic shotgun unless it is plugged so that it will not hold over three shells.

The game law enforcement officer warned hunters against shooting game birds or game animals before sunrise and after sunset and being careful with fire in woods.

Teel said the most important warning the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission has for hunters is to be sure that a fellow-hunter isn't in line of your fire when shooting at game animals or birds. He suggested that hunters obtain free from any person authorized to issue hunting and trapping licenses booklets containing the rules and regulations.

Specialists See Continued Rise In Living Standard

The cost of family living in 1956 is expected to continue at about the present level, and living standards in general will continue to improve.

These facts were pointed out by two specialists from N. C. State College at a meeting here yesterdey for county agriculture workers and educators. Approximately 25 persons were present for the illustrated talks by Miss Mary M. Lee, clothing specialist, and Charles Williams, farm management specialist, in the auditorium of the county agriculture building.

Ther discussion was entitled "Family Living Outlook for 1956."

Student Acts As Part-Time Mayor

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The new part-time mayor-elect of nearby Ashville is a 24-year-old student who commutes to Ohio State University

Richard B. Bozman, a freshman majoring in engineering, was named mayor after a recount of ballots. A write-in candidate in the Nov. 8 election, Bozman beat attorney Harry L. Margulis by 18 votes. In the first count he was 30 votes behind.

The mayor of Ashville, a town of 1,300 population, gets $250 a year salary.

Bozman, a four-year Navy veteran, said his first municipal job "shouldn't really take up a whole lot of time." It won't interfere with his studies, either, he said.

Rotary Salutes Departing Member In Monday Meet

Monday night was designated Dr. B. McK. Johnson night at the Greenville Rotary club in honor of the dentist who has been a resident of Greenville for the past 33 years and a member of the local civic club for a number of years.

Dr. Johnson is moving his residence to Wallace.

Several Rotarians including Dr. K. B. Pace, Dr. Howard McGinnis, J. H. Rose, J. B. Kitrell and J. H. Waldrop paid high tribute to Dr. Johnson for his contribution to community life of Grenville during the past 33 years, and to his work with churches, civic, community and professional organizations.

Dr. Johnson expressed to members of the club his appreciation for the honor accorded him at the meeting as he told his audience, "Greenville has been good to me, and I have tried to give the community something in return."

Speaker at the meeting was the Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church. Speaking on the need for a better community spirit, the minister told the Rotarians that today with all the advantages of life, people are less satisfied and there are more lonely people than was the case many years ago. There are more lonesome people in communities today than at any other time in history, he said, and attributed it to the fact that newcomers are not made to feel a part of the community as they were in years past.

"Our inner happiness and satisfaction has not kept pace with our outer progress," Rev. Upchurch said. Fundamental causes which separate people within a community, and the people of the United States from other nations, he said, are indifference to the needs of others, pride, and ignorance of other people and their problems.

The spirit of the Thanksgiving season, he asserted, should bring people closer together in attitude and humility. Emphasis must be transferred from the physical to the spiritual.

Rev. Upchurch was introduced to the club by Rotarian Ercell Webb who had charge of the meeting.

PHANTOM BANQUET—Greenville high school footballers are shown above enjoying a Thanksgiving banquet given in their honor at the Elks Club last night. Phantom Banquet Features Talks By ECC Grid Coaches

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina football coaches Jack Boone, Jim Mallory and Earl Smith were featured guests last night at a Thanksgiving supper in honor of the Greenville high school football team by the local Elks Club.

The 25 fellows were given their fill of turkey with all the trimmings after an invocation by GHS Principal O. E. Dowd. Scrappy Proctor, member of the Elks Youth Committee, welcomed the Phants and introduced Coach Boone, who was making his fifth appearance at a Greenie football banquet in five years.

Football Is Rough: Boone

Coach Boone addressed the squad on the importance of hard work. "Football is a game that requires hard work and sacrifice," said the ECC mentor. 'Anything that is worth doing is going to take sacrifice and enthusiasm. Once a boy loses that will to play football, he is no longer any good to his team or himself on a football field. But a boy who wants to play is willing to take the rough work and all the bad with the good, in order to play. Football is hard work and a boy has got to love it to play."

Boone congratulated the team for its enthusiasm and spirit in the face of a tough season and said he was looking forward to watching them perform next year.

East Carolina line coach Jim Mallory was the next speaker. The lanky instructor stressed the importance of a "will to win." He said "Perhaps some people will say that today there is too much emphasis on winning. Maybe there is, but I believe that a team must always want to win. Of course, you can't have a perfect season every year, but you must never be satisfied, never stop trying and working for it. There is always room for improvement and improvement only comes from hard work. There is no shortcut to success, boys, and a team must work to win.

Smith Stresses Desire

"I've heard it said," opened assistant coach Earl Smith, "that Greenville's biggest drawback is little boys on the football field. But size does not determine a good ballplayer. If you'll check the records, you'll find that the boys who really loved their sport and really were the most outstanding, were the little men of the game. They are the ones who loved football enough to work a little harder, put forth a little more effort. It's that desire that really determines who will play."

The coach wound up a short speech by urging the smaller boys to develop their speed and to continue to work toward forming a stronger desire. He closed out the meeting by observing that "If you boys put away as much food during the rest of this year at you have tonight, Greenville won't have to worry about having big boys."

BOONE TALKS—ECC head grid instructor Jack Boone was the principal speaker at the Phantom Banquet last night. He praised the squad for its determination despite a rough season.

Sprained Ankle Getting Better Says Robinson

By JACK HAND

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—The first thing all visitors to Ray Robinson's camp ask is "How's the ankle?" The stock answer is, "I don't favor it a bit."

A sprained right ankle had forced postponement of Robinson's bid to win back his middleweight title from Bobo Olson from Nov. 4 to Dec. 9.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, Robinson's personal physician, was on hand to examine the 35-year-old former welter and middle champ.

"His ankle is perfect," said Dr Nardiello. "He could fight tomorrow if necessary. He would have little trouble boxing 15 rounds. In fact I think Ray could box 20 rounds if he had to."

Sugar Ray sat on a rubbing table with a white towel draped draped around his shoulders. He wore a wisp of a mustache and a bright smile.

"Ray, what have you found the most difficult thing to do on your comeback?" a writer asked.

"Finding my confidence in myself again," he answered. "It's not too hard being confident when everybody believes. But after the Jones fight (a Jan. 19 bout with Ralph Jones, only defeat in his six comeback fights) I began to wonder. Were those people with me just giving me the old razz, trying to make me feel good?

"They say fighters never know when they're finished. You begin to wonder if you'll know when you're finished or keep on listening to your friends who say 'You're just as good as ever.'

"When I started this comeback I told all the fellows that there was going to be a setback, somewhere along the way. I can feel those things, just like I had a dream the night before I fought Jimmy Doyle (June 24 1947) that I was going to knock him out and that he was going to die.

"After the Jones fight, my wife, who never wanted me to fight to start with, she encouraged me most. I began to feel myself when I beat Ted Olla and Garth Panter

Danish Fighter May Give Vince Toughest Battle

The young Paterson, N J boxer rates as slight favorite off his record in the nationally televised (ABV) 10-round bout (10 p.m., EST).

In his last fight, Christensen (ABC) 10-round bout (10 p.m., EST).

In his last fight, Christensen gave away more than 10 pounds to Ralph (Tiger) Jones a bonafide middleweight and a good one, and lost by one point.

The Dane is slower than Martinez and isn't considered a hard puncher but throws a lot of punches.

His overall record is 27 victories in 36 fights, nine by knockouts. Martinez has lost only three of 47 bouts with 23 knockouts.

BC Grid Mentor Signs New Pact

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Mike Holovak, head football coach at Boston College since 1951, pocketed a new four - year contract today for a reported salary of approximately $10,000 a year.

The 36-year-old native of Lansford, Pa. whose original five-year pact was due to expire at the close of the season, signed the new contract yesterday.

Blaik's Defense Might Highlight Army-Navy Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Knowingly or not, Coach Earl Blaik of Army struck a blow at Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz's pride and joy when he said the Cadets would go into Saturday's interservice game with the better defense.

Defense was Erdelatz's specialty as assistant coach of the San Francisco 49ers before coming to Navy and he still talks about it.

He always beams when statistics show Navy among the country's defensive leaders, as it usually has been.

He obviously was taken back somewhat, therefore, when shown an Associated Press story quoting Blaik:

"I think we've got a better defensive team than Navy and I'll be surprised if we don't show it Saturday."

The first reaction of Erdelatz was: "We don't concede anything to Army on defense. I don't think we ought to take a back seat—the game hasn't even started yet."

He noted then that Navy last year went into the Army game with the best defensive record in the nation, a position which the Cadets occupy this time.

It was a scoring contest with Navy winning 27-20.

Navy now is third in total defense, having been scored on by only three of eight opponents, and it would surprise hardly anyone if Erdelatz comes up with some new arrangements for Army.

Last year, Blaik said after the military classic that Navy had exploited a linebacking weakness in winning. Asked if he was planning the same approach Saturday, Erdelatz said, "Army doesn't use that defense any more."

Little League Founder Fired

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Carl E. Stotz who founded Little League baseball in 1939, has been fired as commissioner of the nationwide organization which promotes baseball among boys 12 years of age and under.

Peter J. McGovern, president of Little League, Inc., relieved Stotz of his post yesterday in an aftermath of a suit filed against the organization by Stotz.

Stotz filed an attachment petition in Lycoming County Court here Monday preliminary to a $300,000 suit for breach of contract against Little League.

The organization filed a $130,000 bond yesterday to regain access to its offices which had been padlocked after Stotz filed his petition.

Stotz, who said he would detail all particulars of his charges against the league with the formal filing of his suit, contended that he and volunteer field personnel "no longer have a representative voice in Little League policy decisions." He said that over a period of time his contract was breached.

McGovern said it was "regrettable" that Stotz "has been unwilling to accept decisions which the board of directors felt were in the best interest of boys who play Little League baseball."

McGovern added that Little league headquarters would remain open and continue normal activities during the litigation and that local Little League franchises would not be affected.

Reds Battle Golds In Midget Bowl Tomorrow

Two midget football teams, the Reds and the Golds, collide tomorrow afternoon at College Stadium in the annual Thanksgiving Day Midget League Classic. The event is sponsored by the Greenville Exchange Club and the Recreation Department.

The Gold team smashed a rugged Blue squad two weeks ago to earn their berth in the holiday affair. Coached by Fred Williams, Lem Cox and Ken Hall, they have been the top team in the midget league regular season play and will be favored to take the tilt tomorrow. Randy Bass and Roy Jones, two speedy halfbacks, will be expected to lead the assault against the strong Reds. Bill Kimbrogh and Burt Aycock are expected to spark line play.

Red gridders, instructed by Warren Carroll and Lynn Barrier, are not to be discounted from the possibility of emerging the loop champions, as is indicated by their 3-2-1 season record. Fullback Don Joyner will join forces with halfbacks John Adams and Larry Roberts to present a fast attack that has been outstanding all year. The Reds downed the White eleven 19-0 last Thursday to win a spot in the big game tomorrow afternoon.

Both teams are strong in offensive ground power and have large squads, which provide plenty of depth at each position.

Red roster: Buddy Bass, Perry Rogers, Emmett Koonce, Joey Robertson, Bill Wade, Morton Johnson, Ken Joyner, Jim Robards, Bob Hughes, Larry Roberts, Don Joyner, Jack Conway, John Adams, Jim Henderson, and J. G. Proctor.

Winterville Bows To Bear Grass

Winterville's Pitt County Conference champion boys were nicked by outsider Bear Grass, 65-64, in a thrilling basketball game last night.

Coach Blaney Moye's quint put on a great comeback drive in the second half after trailing by eight points. In the final period the Winterville club scored 22 points to the visitors' 14 but the latter's early lead proved one point too much.

Jack Sawyer, Winterville's All-Conference performer, played the outstanding game of his career, scoring 34 points and playing great defense. Roberson and Peaks had 20 and 18 apiece for Bear Grass.

The Winterville girls won their game, however, by 29-28 in another thriller.

B. Evan's 14 points paced the winners. Cowan had 11 for the losers.

Spartan Coach Warned By Note

EAST LANSING, Mich. —Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty received a threatening letter prior to last Saturday's Marquette game warning him against beating the Warriors by more than six points, it was revealed today.

Daugherty and his home were guarded by plain clothes officers last week.

The letter told Daugherty if he did not follow instructions "something terrible would happen."

"I didn't take it too seriously, figuring it was a crank letter," Daugherty said. "I turned it over to campus police and they insisted on the police guard arranged with cooperation of state police.

"I didn't want to say anything about it before the game," he said, "figuring it might worry the players. But that was one reason I wanted a few more touchdowns when we only led by six points at the half."

Grifton Cagers Dumped Twice In Double-Header

Grifton's hard-luck cagers were dumped again last night by Southwood in a non-conference twin bill played in Southwood.

The Grifton girls put up a stout fight but better balanced scoring by the Southwood sextet made the difference.

Dawn Smith, the pretty Grifton sharpshooter, took high scoring honors in the game with 48 points. She received very little help however, from the other two forwards, while Grant and Brooks were getting 33 and 22 apiece for the home team.

In the boys tilt, Southwood piled up a 31-12 halftime advantage and coasted to victory.

Johnson had 16 points for the winners for high scoring honors. Grifton's Jackson had 14.

Grifton's next home game will be with Southwood next Tuesday night.

Bethel And Chicod Divide Loop Frays

The Bethel girls could do nothing to stop the high-flying Chicod sextet last night and the latter romped to a 44-29 Pitt County Conference triumph.

The Bethel boys, a strong contender in their division evened things up in the second game, winning easily 79-13.

Chicod's one-two punch of Wilson and Mills canned 19 and 17 points apiece to pace the winning girls. Briely had 18 for Bethel.

The Bethel boys had a field day in beating the Chicod five by a 66-point margin. Chicod didn't score a single point in the third period while the winners were racing for 24.

Vance Taylor's 18 points were high for the game. Manning added 16 for the winner's cause. Haddock and Ross had three apiece for the losers.

Dodger President Claims 'Delight'

lyn Dodgers President Walter O'Malley says he's delighted with plans drawn so far for a giant indoor stadium for his world champions.

The proposed stadium, a story plastic dome affair, is the brainchild of R. Buckminster Fuller, a visiting lecturer at Princeton University's School of Architecture.

Some have questioned how serious Dodger officialdom was about such a project, while not doubting Dodger determination to find a more up-to-date home setting than Ebbets Field.

But in a conference here yesterday with Fuller O'Malley looked at a model of the dome and said: "I am delighted with the work that has been done."

Real Heartbreaker Of Television Screen

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A girl friend of mine has a favorite television program which she enjoys watching while lying on her side drinking from a bottle. Her sultry expression when she watches the fellow has moved me to get in touch with the guy and try to learn what he's got that I haven't.

When this heartbreaker comes on the TV screen he very cleverly uses another name — disguises himself with drooping mustachios. He has taken the name "Captain Kangaroo."

All right, Captain, it's time we exposed you. Your true name is Bob Keeshan and you have a nice wife and three children at home in West Islip, N.Y., and what are you doing breaking hearts at 8 a.m. every Monday through Friday over CBS-TV?

Here's the way this guy operates: My girl friend, an early riser, insists on stretching out in front of the TV set and gazing at the captain with eloquently liquid eyes as he points out this thing and that. Her eyes fasten on a object and, as if Captain Kangaroo knew her unvoiced question, he says: "What? The name of that funny little animal? Why it's a honeybear—from South America."

The fact my girl friend is just 2 years and 3 months old and the fact her drink is milk has nothing to do with the situation. I'm jealous.

On the other hand, my girl friend's mother is crazy about Captain Kangaroo. (What a homebreaker this character is.) It used to be that her youngest daughter was always under foot at that crucial morning hour when she was trying to shove Pa off to the office and get the older kids off to school.

My girl friend's mother says that Captain Kangaroo is a wonderful influence on kids aged 2 to 8.

In person Captain Kangaroo explains that he rises at 4:30 a.m. every morning to drive 40 miles into town to keep his date with my girl friend. He's a pleasant, relaxed fellow without any fancy theories on what kids are or should be. Instead of theories he has three children, aged from 9 months to 4 years.

"I just tried to hold one child—any child—in mind," he says. "I want to entertain and maybe instruct him or her a little. I merely try to be a friend who comes in the door."

Well, Captain, you win. You are a friend and the door is open every weekday morning to you.

Russian Interest In Middle East Is Nothing New

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Russian interest in the Middle East is nothing new.

Nearly 200 years ago the czars tried to expand the sphere of Russian influence southward through the old Ottoman Turkish Empire.

Palestine was governed by the Moslem Turkish sultans. The big powers found it useful to maintain the shaky Ottoman Empire intact, but each sought a foothold with the Sultan's blessings.

France, Britain and Russia extended their influence by becoming "protectors" of minorities in the empire, and particularly by protecting their rights in the holy places in Palestine.

The French set the pace as far back as 1935, reaching again to become guardians of the holy places and protectors of Catholics in Ottoman lands.

Claiming to be spiritual heir of the Orthodox Byzantine Empire, Russia tried to counter French influence by becoming protector of Eastern Orthodox Christian communities in the Middle East. Fights between Catholic and Orthodox priests over their conflicting claims in the Holy Sepulchre and the Church of the Nativity developed into international conflicts between Russia and France, and sometimes Britain.

The problem of holy places and minorities gave Russia a continuous weapon for intervention in the Middle East until the Bolshevik Revolution. Then the Communists renounced the church and lost their weapon. But Russia began a Middle Eastern comeback during World War II by reviving the Orthodox patriarchate in Moscow. The Soviets began active support of Orthodox communities in the Middle East. They reclaimed church property in Palestine, Lebanon and Syria which had been owned by czarist Russia.

The Russians began paying compensation for Orthodox property confiscated in Russia during the antichurch era. And Russian financial help became almost indispensable to many impoverished Orthodox bishoprics spread through the Middle East.

This Russian help has brought an increasing number of Orthodox bishops into the pro-Russian fold.

There is also a violently anti-Russian clique of Orthodox priests in Lebanon, Syria and Palestine. Many of these consider Greece the "spiritual motherland" of the church and fight against Russian infiltration.

Doctors Refuse Calls To Homes, Fact Crackdown

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesia's overworked doctors are refusing to make calls at private homes, and the Provisional Parliament's Health Committee wants the government to punish them.

There are only 1,500 physicians in all the 3,000 islands of this republic with a population of 82 million. Doctor's offices are hopelessly jammed from dawn until midnight.

Physicians say they couldn't get out to a home needing medical assistance if they wanted to. So, those who are ill must be transported to the crowded offices and wait for hours before they can be examined and get treatment. Scores of doctors even refuse to answer urgent telephone calls.

Now the health committee is considering proposals that government doctors refusing aid be denied promotion and that private doctors who fail to minister to the sick lose the right to practice.

Ine answers to everyday insurance problems*

By Herb Lee

QUESTION: Our store lease, which was signed in the depression 1930's, has ten years to run but could be cancelled if the building burned down. New quarters would cost us many times our present rental and I've heard there is insurance which protects against that kind of loss. Will you explain it?

ANSWER: Probably you refer to Leasehold Interest insurance. It is excellent protection and you should consult a competent insurance agent about it.

If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.

Place Of Honor For Col. Bliss

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A brief and simple military ceremony guided Lt. Col. W. W. S. Bliss to his final resting place yesterday in Ft. Bliss National Cemetery.

The body of the scholarly Army officer, which has lain in an all-but-forgotten grave for more than 100 years, was reburied in a place of honor at the military post named in his memory.

Bliss's body was brought here from New Orleans, its previous resting place.

Bliss was a noted military theorist and linguist. He served under Gen. Zachary Taylor in the Indian Wars and the war with Mexico. He later married Taylor's daughter and was personal secretary to Taylor when Taylor was president of the United States.

Plans To Build Floating Chapels And Schools

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A gospel boat preacher embarked on a trip to the lonely bayou country of Louisiana today, his goal to establish a chain of schoolsand chapels mounted in barges.

The Rev. Maurice N. Rivard, a 44-year-old French Canadian says he will minister to "breed leery of strangers" in the bayou country because "that's where I'm needed."

Few, if any, preachers have worked full time among the French-speaking people there.

The Rifards and their two boys, Paul, 6, and Ernie, 8, arrifed here from Chicago in January all but broke. Now their project fund has been replenished by interested church groups and others. Their 19-foot gospel boat also has been improved.

The Rev. Mr. Rivard was ordained as a minister last year by the nondenominational Association of Fundamental Ministers and Churches, Inc.

Lucky, Lucky And Unlucky

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—One of the competitors in the second International Game Fish Tournament los his upper plate in the Atlantic Ocean. "I'm lucky, though," he said. "I have another set at the hotel."

When he took his spare teeth out of a case, he dropped them on the rug. "Lucky they didn't hit the solid floor," he said. As he reached down to pick up the spare set he stumbled and stepped on them. They were shattered.

Too Bad!

Teddy certainly has difficulty with his reading. Even the other youngsters can't understand why he fumbles along so. He's really a bright boy; it's defective vision that makes him read so slowly, lose his place, and make mistakes. If his vision were corrected, he would be able to read and study as well as anyone.

No Poles Found In Pulaski Club

WILLIAM BURG Va. (AP)—The first Pulaski Club, established here about 1779, has no Polish members. According to local tradition, the club was founded soon after a visit by General Casimir Pulaski. Reputed to be the oldest social club in America, its members still meet at the Cole Shop on Duke of Gloucester Street. Now a book shop, the Taliaferro-Cole Shop was built prior to 1782 and bought in 1804 by Jesse Cole who operated it as an apothecary, post office and general store. The inner sanctum of the back room was given over to members of the Pulaski Club.

Membership was not lightly won. Men of leisure with a thorough knowledge of local affairs and talent as conversationalists might sit on the fringes in the outer shop for months — even years according to legend — waiting patiently until their presence was recognized. Once their talents were recognized they were awarded a chair near the iron stove in the smoke filled room to enjoy the companionship of good conversation.

Every fine afternoon the club still meets on the benches in front of the shop.

Woodpeckers Got Together In Pen

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A New York animal dealer, preparing a shipment of birds to the zoo here, should have known better when he packed two great spotted woodpeckers in a crate separated from each other by a wood partition.

The partition had a hole in it, and the woodpeckers — friends, no doubt — were together when the shipment arrived.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

When Morgan Channing and her blond companion came into the supper room Lora's interest quickened as if she were attending a play. Wade, who was beside her, could not escape these two now, and she wondered what the unpredictable Morgan would do if she came face to face with him.

The encounter followed almost at once. Wade had not seen the two step into line behind him. Reaching toward a bowl of potato salad, he jostled Murray Norwood's arm and turned at once in apology. The flare of color to his face when he saw Morgan so near at hand was more than Lora had expected. She watched him, startled now, for the first time putting some belief in the things his mother had said.

Morgan spoke before Wade had completed his apology to Mr Norwood. Her manner was easy as that of a lady who meets an old friend whom she has seen no longer ago than yesterday, but Lora found the look she turned upon Wade less casual.

"Good - evening, Wade. May I present Mr. Norwood? I think you and he may have a number of interests in common."

Wade set down his plate and took the other man's hand. He looked as if he wanted to ignore Morgan, but could not do so without being conspicuous. He spoke to her restrainedly, managing an exchange of pleasantries with Norwood before they started on about the table. Morgan had veiled the quick intensity of her first look and now seemed a little contemptuous and amused. This belied Mother Tyler's belief that she still wanted Wade, Lora thought. Surely a woman could not love a man and look at him so scornfully. At least she—Lora—could not.

In the dark early hours of the morning, when they drove home through falling snow they had little to say. Obviously Wade was lost in memories of his own and wanted no breaking through on her part.

Lora went up to her room and lighted a candle. There, where she had left it in the middle of the floor the garnet-hued gown burned like a dark flame. She picked it up and hung it away in the wardrobe sadly. The green dress she carried back to Virginia's room to replace in the wardrobe there.

In the light from the candle she carried she saw with a start that Wade lay across the bed. When he heard her he sat up.

"I must ask you not to come in here again," he said, and his tone was colder than she had ever heard it.

She did not speak to him at all. She drew her robe close about her and hung the green gown away as quickly as she could. She did not look at him again as she turned and went out of the room, her shadow swaying up the wall as she moved. There was nothing in her now of pity or gentleness. She felt only a despairing impatience for the man on the bed, and she did not in the least care whether or not he knew it.

In spite of he. few hours of sleep, Lora awoke while it was still dark on Christmas morning. For a few moments she lay quiet and warm beneath her quilts, feeling the weight of unhappiness pressing her down. She could not recall in the fog of sleep why she must feel unhappy, but knew only that despair lay waiting to engulf her as soon as she could remember.

Then recollection of the party and the ending last night swept back. But now she put the memory aside. Today was Jemmy's day and neither she nor Wade mattered. Lora dressed and gathered up her packages and stole softly downstairs through the still, cold house. It wouldn't hurt to start a fire, even though it was early. She set her parcels down and knelt before the hearth in the parlor. The kindling responded with a lively snapping and when she was sure the blaze had caught fire she returned to distributing packages beneath the tree.

Before long she heard a creaking on the stairs and a moment later the door opened a crack and Jemmy looked in uncertainly.

"Come in by the fire and get warm," said Lora cheerfully, as though he had never stormed at her last night because of the green dress.

Relieved he sidled into the room in his nightshirt his own arms filled with tissue-wrapped packages. Over one arm hung a long red and white striped stocking. He distributed the parcels beneath the tree and then turned to her doubtfully.

"I didn't know if I was supposed to hang up a stocking. Of course, I don't believe in all that chimney stuff, but I thought—"

"Of course you're supposed to," Lora said, "but it should have been hung up on Christmas eve. Don't make such a mistake next year. Now you'll have to scoot back to bed while somebody fills it. It's much too early to be up for good anyway."

When she heard the stairs creak again she busied herself stuffing his stocking. The little paperweight with its snow scene went into the toe and on top of it went an orange with a green ribbon tied about its plump sides. Next a loose handful of nuts and a small packet of sweets, a little calendar with a bright angel pictured on it, and right at the top, hooked over the stocking edge, the wishbone she had saved, graced with a big red bow.

By the time she was done the unhappy weight which she had awakened had lifted a little and she hummed to herself as she stood back to examine the effect of her work. The packages looked gay and inviting, and by spreading them out to the best effect she had accomplished an illusion of plenty.

Third—on ride, this new SPECIAL is more than great—what with all-coil springing, and torque-tube stability, and a new deep-oil cushioning, and a whole new front-end geometry that adds a wonderful "sense of direction" to the car's travel.

Fourth—on room, luxury, interior finish—there's never been a Buick SPECIAL like this before. From the big, broad seats to the stunning new instrument panel—there's new decorator smartness and quality throughout.

But get the picture on price, and you have the biggest reason why this sizable automobile is so extra special a buy.

For this Buick comes to you at a figure so close to those of the most widely known smaller cars, the difference in price is small change.

So—come in and see and sample this beauty. You'll find it, we firmly believe, the biggest package of automobile at anywhere near its budget price.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

Salvation Army's Advisory Board Has Quarterly Meet

Christmas plans of The Salvation Army in Greenville and the re-election of the officers of its local advisory board were major matters before the quarterly meeting of the advisory board Tuesday afternoon.

B.D. Johnston, manager of the Greenville Belk-Tyler store, is chairman of The Salvation Army Christmas committee, and serving with him are Mrs. Cora Powell and the Rev. J. Malloy Owen. The officers re-elected to serve in 1956 include James W. Butler, chairman; J. Hicks Corey, vice chairman; J. Herbert Waldrop, treasurer; and Lt. B.T. Lewis, Salvation Army corps officer, secretary. Chairman Butler presided at Tuesday's meeting.

A report of the property committee was heard from William H. Watson, and Lt. Lewis reported that during July August and September The Salvation Army here had provided 47 lodgings and 77 meals for transients, 17 food orders, 13 fuel orders, and 35 household items for local families.

A letter from the commanding officer at Fort Bragg was noted, expressing appreciation to The Salvation Army for hospitality and meals provided 26 Fort Bragg soldiers assigned this area in the hurricane relief efforts in the early Fall.

The annual meeting of the board will be held in February, with Col. Rose, Carolinas divisional commander, of Charlotte as speaker and the University of Georgia, a wives of board members as guests.

One Secretary OKs New Keyboard Idea

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The secretaries' reaction to a radical change in typewriter keyboards ranged today from cries of horror to the comment:

"Well that's one way to get a new typewriter from the boss."

One secretary, Miss Barbara Henley, doesn't see anything new in the keyboard on which the government has started tests in hopes of improving the efficiency of its thousands of typists.

She began using the revised keyboard 17 years ago in an experiment.

"The ease of typing and accuracy are astounding," she said. "And it only took me about three weeks to switch over in 1938."

She uses a specially built typewriter. In speed tests, she said she reached 138 words a minute on a the revised, or Dvorak, keyboard compared with 50 words and many inaccuracies on a regular machine. On an electric typewriter with the special kyboard, she hit 150 words a minute.

Miss Henley's comment may bring hope to other gals who look on a possible change with pessimism.

"My first reaction was to think of all the girls over 25," said Miss Ruth Ruth, secretary an an electric company. "What will they do? Half would need to go back to school."

In general, the typewriter keyboard hasn't been changed in more than 80 years. The revised system, devised by August Dvorak of the University of Washington, puts the vowels on the second row where a typist's fingers normally rest. Other letters most frequently used also are changed.

Mrs. W. A. Dorrance and other secretaries at an insurance company agreed the present keyboard is like an old friend and they wouldn't like to see a change.

Miss Ethel Hoehn, who heads a local chapter of the National Secretaries Assn., commented: "There is room for progress. Anything that lessens work for the secretary gives her more time to other tasks in the office."

When Miss Marguerite Reiter heard about the revised system, she quipped:

"A new keyboard? I haven't learned the old one yet'

Over Half Of Receipts Came From Light Fund

GRIMESLAND — Over half of Grimesland's general fund receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955 came in turn-over from the municipal light fund.

The official audit of the town's books for the 1954-55 fiscal year showed that total receipts amounted to $13,031.04. Of that amount $8,500 came in turn-over from the electric fund.

The big turn-over was a jump from the preceding year when only $600 was turned over to the general fund. Most of the $8,500 was appropriated to finance curb and gutter work on town streets, according to city officials. Approximately one-third of the amount will be returned as property owners are assessed for their share of the cost.

The audit report, prepared by an independent auditor showed the following breakdown of receipts for the fiscal year which ended last June:

Taxes collected, $1,432.98; privilege licenses collected, $132.50; intangible tax—state, $63.95; beer and wine—state, $324.77; Powell Bill funds—state, $1,562.65; ABC Board, $838.15; auto license, $76.00; paving assessment collected, $21.43; arresting fees, etc., $53.00; turnover from electric fund, $8,500.00; penalties and interest, $25.61.

In addition the town had $4,455.73 in cash on deposit July 1, 1954, the beginning of the fiscal year, giving a total of $17,486.77 in general fund operating revenue for the fiscal year.

Electric Fund

Total receipts for the electric fund during the fiscal year were $55,917-.01. The cash balance as of July 1, 1954 was $20,621.61, giving a total of $76,538.62.

Included in the disbursements from the light fund were $1,300 for a recreation program, $100 for the rescue truck fund, $118.45 for chairs for doctor's office, and the $8,500 turnover to the town.

General operating expenses amounted to $49,137.88 for the electrical operations. Administrative expenses came to $4,257.98. The cash balance on hand for deposit as of June 30, 1955 was $634.18, funds on deposit amounted to $12,465.13 and the petty cash fund came to $25.00. The total of all disbursements was $76,538.62.

The audit also showed that receipts from sale of electric current rose from $49,585.52 during the 1953-54 fiscal year to $54,464.42 for 1954-55.

The price of electrical current purchased also rose from $23,906.80 to $28,120.28. Turn-over to the general fund in 1953-54 was $600 and in 1954-55 it rose to $8,500.

Grimesland's tax rate is presently set at 50 cents per hundred dollar evaluation.
