Conferees Stress Teacher Shortage, Advise Incentives

By HERB ALTSCHULL WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House conference on education today called on the American public to remember that there is a tremendous shortage of teachers who "work with our most precious resource—our children." The call for attempts to get more teachers came on a day when the conference seemed almost certain to go strongly on record in favor of federal aid to schools, particularly for buildings. The report on teachers listed three things for every community to keep in mind: 1. Teaching must have prestige comparable to other professions. 2. The salaries must be high enough to keep teachers in the classroom and not permit them to be lured to other fields where the pay is better. 3. The teachers' job must be presented in such a way so it will attract talented people to the profession. The conference also came up with this definition of what it is looking for in the nation's classrooms: "A good teacher is one who has an active interest in children and youth; has a broad educational background; is professionally qualified; is competent; possesses good physical and mental health; has a good moral character; manifests a desire for self improvement; can work constructively with other professional workers, parents and the community; and is proud of teaching as a profession." Last night's session proved to be long and wearing. Discussion table chairmen, sitting in two teams of eight until 2 a. m., simmered down the views of 136 round tables which had discussed school finance during the evening. Each of the two teams designated one of its members to refine the findings further for final presentation to the conference tonight. Team No. 1 reported: 1. More than 2-1 sentiment among participants at 83 round-table discussions in favor of some increase in federal aid. 2. A large majority in favor of construction aid. 3. A narrow majority opposing federal aid for school operation, which would include purchase of textbooks and teachers' pay. Team No. 2 reported: 1. More than 70 per cent of participants in the other 83 round tables in favor of some increase in federal aid, with a small minority opposed to federal aid for education in any form. 2. Almost all tables, as distinguished from participants, in favor of some federal aid for construction. 3. A substantial but smaller majority of tables in favor of some aid for current expense operation. Thus federal aid for school houses building was strongly popular but there was about an even split on aid for operation. Tables represented on Team No. 1 reported a predominant view that all states should be eligible for federal aid but that provision should be made to insure that the money would be distributed within the states to the poorest school districts first. Team No. 2 found about an even division on whether federal money should go only to needy states. Both teams reported sentiment in favor of federal control of educational policies. Team No. 2 found general agreement that new federal money should be administered by the U. S. Office of Education and channeled through state educational agencies, rather than directly to localities.

Younger Set Jams Sidewalks For Long Parade

Ayden Throngs Greet Santa

AYDEN—Herds of screaming youngsters welcomed Santa Claus to this Pitt County town yesterday as the bearded gentleman from the Northland arrived in a blaze of tooting bands and gala floats. By 3:30 p. m., a half hour before the scheduled start of the parade, the younger set, plus a liberal sprinkling of their elders, were jamming the sidewalks and spilling over into the street. Leading the parade was Ayden Mayor Corey Stokes in a Highway Patrol car driven by Opl. C. E. Whitfield. Then, in rapid succession, came floats, bicycles, old and new model cars, the parade Queen and, at long last, Santa himself. The Queen of the parade, Miss Betty Lou Cannon, an Ayden High School senior, was elected prior to the festivities by a vote of high school seniors. She wore a long white evening gown and rode alone on one float. Her "King" was Cecil Hemby, also of Ayden. Nippy weather failed to dim any of the crowd's enthusiasm, particularly for the floats, specially constructed in Florida and brought to Ayden through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, its president, Alex Ross, and Mayor Stokes. Arrangements for Santa's appearance were made by the Jaycees and parade co-chairmen Bill Stroud and Charles Deal. The bands, too, with their marches and Christmas music, seemed to be a crowd-pleasing factor. Farmville High School, Ayden-Winterville, the Negro band and Greenville's musicians added their talents to the festivities. At the close of the parade, judges selected five dollar first prize and $2.50 second prize winners in four divisions, old model cars, ponies, and boys' and girls' decorated bicycles. The prizes went to: cars, Ernest McFarland, of Louisburg, in a 1934 Reo, and Dewey Harris, of Washington, in a 1914 Ford; ponies, Henry A. Pierce Jr. and Lynn McLawhorn and Carol Lou Braxton; bikes, Lewis Tripp and Bobby Sanders; Negro winners were Leslie Moore and Henry Davis Jr.

Hodges Claims Support For His 'Voluntary' Plan In His Report

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges asserted last night that some Negro leaders are working for his voluntary school segregation program and said "I believe their number will grow." The governor said these Negro leaders have said that they believe their people prefer separate schools in equal facilities are maintained. The governor added that these leaders did not wish to be given publicity because they did not want to be pressured by "professional agitators." Hodges made his statements in a radio and television report to the people on his first year as governor. He moved up from the lieutenant governorship last year following the death of Gov. Wilham B. Umstead. The governor told his listeners he is "opposed to mixing the races in our schools. I think the overwhelming majority of the people of North Carolina are also opposed to mixing white and colored children, and that any sudden change in our enrollment pattern without due regard for local conditions would impair or destroy our public schools." Hodges declared that a special session of the Legislature will be called to deal with the school problem "if the present program should result in conditions not acceptable to the state." He said that in spite of "loud professions" of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and the "unfavorable reaction" of other Negro groups, he feels the state's Negro citizens will realize that their real friends are the white people of North Carolina. Hodges reviewed the accomplishments of the 1955 Legislature and touched on one of his favorite subjects, expanded industry for North Carolina. He said the 1955 Legislature did "an over-all good job." The state's financial condition, he added, is good. One way to help the plight of the farmers, the governor continued, would be to provide more local processing plants where farmers can sell their products. Another, he said, is to "secure additional and expanded industries."

Hold Ayden Man For $40 Hold-Up

AYDEN—A local man has been arrested and charged with armed robbery in connection with the Nov. 23 hold-up in which a local scrap metal dealer was robbed of approximately $40. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said this morning that Alvin Earl Jones, 25, of Ayden has been jailed and charged with the robbery. Jones, whose bond has been set at $1,500, will receive a preliminary hearing before Judge C. V. Cannon in Ayden Recorder's Court Monday. Jones is charged in connection with the robbery of approximately $40 in small bills from A. J. Rosser, who operates a scrap metal yard on the outskirts of town. Tyson said Rosser has identified Jones as the masked man who came to the rear door of his combination office and living quarters Thanksgiving and relieved him of the money at gun point. Jones was arrested by Deputy Sheriff N. H. Byrd. Sheriff Tyson said Byrd received valuable assistance from Ayden Chief of Police J. A. Jones and other members of the Ayden police department in conducting the investigation of the robbery which led to yesterday's arrest. Rosser told officers on the night of Nov. 23 that he had just finished supper when he heard a knock at his door. After checking the front door of his home he opened the rear door and was confronted by a masked man with a gun. The bandit instructed Rosser to turn around and removed his wallet containing the money from his rear pocket. He then ran out the door and into the darkness. Rosser immediately called Ayden police who in turn called the sheriff's department. An intensive investigation of the robbery has been carried on by deputies and Ayden police since that time. Bloodhounds were used in the search on the night of the robbery but the animals were unable to pick up the trail of the lone bandit. The victim of the hold-up was unharmed by the masked man.

Santa Arriving Here Tomorrow

Santa Claus is coming to town tomorrow. He will arrive at 5:30 p. m. to take part in the annual Santa Claus Parade, sponsored by the local Merchants Association, and will ride in the procession on a float decorated with a sleigh with the traditional "eight tiny reindeer." The parade will form at Ninth Street and Dickinson Avenue, move down Dickinson to Five Points, up Evans Street to the armory where it will disband. Evans Street will be cleared of cars by the Police Department for the procession. Accompanying Santa will be 10 marching bands, 12 floats and a bevy of youngsters in costume with decorated bicycles, ponies and other pets. An AFROTC unit from East Carolina College, Girl and Boy Scouts and members of the Greenville High School Monogram Club will also participate. Prizes totaling $93 will be awarded for the best costumes, decorated bicycles, dogs, ponies and other pets. All children competing for prizes must have an entry number. Deadline for obtaining these numbers at the Merchants Association office is 5 p. m. today. Children who do not have numbers are invited to march in the parade, but they will not be eligible for the prizes, to be awarded on the courthouse steps immediately following the parade. Christmas lights will be turned on just prior to the beginning of the procession and later scenes will be taken from the floats and placed at Elm Street Park to form a Christmas Lane. Jack Whitchard and James L. Harris Jr. will serve as chief marshals for the parade, with professor James W. Grimes of C. M. Eppes High School in charge of line-up for the Negro children. Dan Saiged is chairman of the overall Christmas program for the city.

Benson Reveals 6-Point Program

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today announced a six-point program for dealing with the acute farm situation. He said it will be presented to Congress in January. In a speech prepared for a meeting of the Republican National Committee, he said President Eisenhower had recently approved the plan. It includes: 1. Stepped-up surplus disposal and expansion to export surplus use of wheat and grazing land. 2. A vigorous purchase program to remove glut. 3. Enlarged soil conservation and incentive payment program, especially in drought areas. 4. Expansion of the rural development program for low-income farm families. 5. Stepped-up research emphasizing lower production costs, new uses for farm products, and expansion of markets. 6. A speed-up in a 19-state Great Plains program to increase use of wheat and grazing land. Benson said the program now in preparation, was not ready for discussion in detail. "It will be no nostrum, no one-shot remedy, no cure-all," he said. "It will be constructive." Answering repeated attacks by Democratic leaders he said farm proposals of Adlai Stevenson and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York have reached "judicious proportions."

HONG KONG (AP)—A fourth GI Turncoat who decided to come home after living in Red China failed to arrive here today as expected. U. S. consular officials waiting at the border between China and the British colony said Richard R. Ferguson, 22-year-old son of Mrs. Portie Howe of Aiken, Miss., was not on the daily train from Canton. They said there was no indication when he might arrive. The Chinese Red Cross said Peiping was releasing him at his own request.

March Of Dimes Chairman Picked

Garlan F. Batley, principal of Grimesland School, has been named for continued contribution to the March of Dimes to care for those children who contract polio and for those who already have the disease. One of Batley's three children, six-year-old Cecilia, had polio when she was two years old and spent six months in the Central Carolina Convalescent Hospital in Greensboro. Batley said she is now well, "from all outward appearances," and started to school this year. The March of Dimes chairman has been principal of the Grimesland School for three years. Prior to that he served as principal of the Bell Arthur School for four years. During World War II he was a first lieutenant in the Air Force with duty in the European Theatre and Saudi Arabia. He is president of the Pitt County Ruritan Club and the Grimesland Methodist Church. Last year he served as local March of Dimes chairman for Grimesland.

Parade Traffic Plans Set

Final plans for traffic control during Greenville's annual Christmas parade have been completed, Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs said today. "Every available man from all three shifts will be on duty to prevent traffic jams. Spectators, Gibbs added, must not park their cars except in regular parking spaces. No persons, he continued, will be allowed to leave or park their cars in regular traffic lanes in order to watch the parade pass. The parade will form on Ninth Street at Cannon's and Bush McGowan's Warehouse and will move out at 5:30 p. m. It will continue down Dickinson Avenue to Five Points, through Five Points and down Evans Street to Second Street. At Second, one unit will turn to the right and one to the left. The bands will disperse and load up in the block of Evans between First and Second Streets. "No Parking" signs, Gibbs continued, will be placed on Evans St. from Five Points to Second Street prior to the parade tomorrow. Positive no parking, the chief said, will be allowed in this area during the parade. Barricades, to prevent traffic from flowing into the parade route, will be placed at the following locations: East Ninth and Picklen Streets, to prevent traffic from coming into the area where the parade is forming. Tenth and Clark Streets, to reserve space for the bands to assemble. Detour sign and barricade at Evans and 10th Streets. Barricade or rope across Ninth Street at the intersection with Dily Innes Avenue. Barricade at West Fifth and Pitt Streets to prevent traffic from running into Dickinson Avenue during the parade. Barricade at Eighth and Washington Streets to keep more traffic off Dickinson Avenue. Ropes and flares across Third Street at intersection with Evans.

Humber was also elected chairman of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, as both organizations met in Raleigh. Mrs. J. H. B. Humber's election as president of the art society occurred at the board of directors meeting which followed the annual membership session yesterday morning. Resolutions of Respect
The members of the Wesley Philathea Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, wish to pay tribute to the memory of our most faithful and beloved member, Mrs. Willy Brown, Miss Lili Wilson and Mrs. Milton White.

They loved their church, their community, their families and their fellowman and were loyal in their efforts to do the will of Our Father by leading a helping hand to those in need.

With their going, we are deeply saddened, but at all times we realize that God knoweth best, and we are resigned to His will.

Our sympathy goes out to the members of each family in their bereavement.
Therefore, be it resolved first, that we cherish their memory and always keep in our minds the example they set for us in Christian living. Second, that a copy of this be sent to the North Carolina Christian Advocate. Third, that a copy be placed in the minutes of our Wesley Philathea Class and a copy to the family. Committee:

The meeting was adjourned with the members reciting the club creed.

The Bible says the ark was made of gopher wood, which many translators believe to be cypress.

Following dessert and coffee, the president, Mrs. Herbert Lee, called the meeting to order and the recording secretary, Mrs. Richard Worsley, called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Old business and details for the club's Christmas party were completed. Cards tables were then set up and everyone enjoyed an afternoon of bridge. After scores were tallied prizes were given and books exchanged.

Members enjoyed having as guests Mrs. Cameron Dudley, Mrs. E. J. Maloney, Mrs. Ray Masten, Mrs. Jack Minges, Mrs. Herbert Paschall, and Mrs. E. W. Turcotte.

Grimesland Still Has Many Hurdles

Now that a majority of Grimesland's voters have cast their ballots in favor of selling their municipal power system to Carolina Power and Light Company, the complications of when and how loom foremost on the Grimesland scene.

Before the vote was taken last Saturday, Greenville's Utilities Commission had informed an attorney for Grimesland that the Utilities Commission felt it would be "impractical and improper" to release Grimesland from the remaining 13 year of the 20-year contract it has with Greenville to furnish power.

Meanwhile Carolina Power and Light Company officials have stated that the company would not purchase the Grimesland electric system until such time as it was released from its contract with Greenville.

Pressure For Federal Intervention Is Unending

A subcommittee report at the White House education conference had advised the federal government to keep its fingers out of local school affairs.

That's about the best advice on public schools that's come from Washington in a mighty long time. The Reflector hopes some of the federal officials have sufficient wisdom to heed it.

The federal government has done more than enough dabbling in state and local affairs without trying to get its fingers in public education at the grass roots level. By various and sundry methods—including the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in schools—some officials apparently are determined that public education in the United States will eventually be brought under the direct control of the centralized state.

Individuals in this group will only shrug their shoulders at the advice that the federal government keep out of local school business. We may rest assured they will continue their efforts to stretch the tentacles of statism into local schools as has been done in the case of other areas of local government functions. Whether or not they succeed will depend entirely upon the determination of the people to keep public education free of the fetters which federal control would impose upon it.

Out of the White House education we cannot expect a panacea for the many problems which now face the public schools throughout the nation. There will, however, come some sound suggestions, and likewise unsound suggestions which may be latched on to by many rank and file citizens as well as the bureaucrats. The job of picking the sound from the unsound, the good from the bad, will be the job of state and local school officials who exert a tremendous amount of influence when it comes to framing public opinion concerning school policies.

If the conference accomplishes nothing else, it can be marked a success if the suggestion that the federal government keep its hands off local school affairs gains sufficient public support to become a reality.

Drawing A Political Line Is Most Difficult

Drawing a line between what will be discussed and what will not be discussed in a political campaign is indeed a difficult if not an impossible undertaking.

This talk about a gentlemen's agreement between the Democrats and Republicans to block off campaign discussion of critical foreign policy issues appears to us just so much talk. In the first place, we don't think either the Democrats or the Republicans would agree to leave out of the campaign discussion a matter of such importance. Even if top party leaders agreed, there would be many speakers on both sides who would stray away from the straight and narrow path to bring the issue into discussion.

Then there is another consideration. Should either party enter into an agreement to remove from the realm of campaign discussion issues which are vital to the welfare of the country? After all, the voters depend to a great extent upon the campaign for their evaluation of the opposing policies of the two major political parties in the various fields of government. To remove any of the phases of government operation from the list of debatable issues would leave a large segment of the public virtually ignorant of the pros and cons in the matter.

While foreign countries sometimes have difficulty evaluating statements of party leaders in a major American political campaign, there have been few if any incidents in which the nation's security or its relationships with other countries have been jeopardized by campaign statements.

The nation's foreign policy both under the Republican administration and the previous Democratic administrations will be debated in the 1956 campaign just as surely as the farm program, government spending and the hundred and one other items concerning the operation of the federal government.

Frankly, we think the voters of Grimesland made a mistake in deciding to sell their electrical system which over a long period of years has been a revenue-producing operation for the municipality. From profits of utilities operations, Grimesland has been able to finance many town projects which either would have been left undone or would have had to be financed out of higher taxes.

If the sale of the system is consummated, the $126,000 sale price which has been set will give the town a financial cushion to fall back on; but once the money has been spent on municipal improvements taxpayers within the corporate limits of the town will find themselves facing an increasing tax burden.

Whether or not the Grimesland electric system is transferred to new owners in the near future remains a matter of conjecture at least for the present. The voters of the town have indicated their desire to sell the system. Certainly they would prefer to close the deal now rather than having to wait a number of months or perhaps a year or two. Carolina Power and Light Company has agreed to purchase the system, and certainly that company which in our opinion has shown an increasingly keen interest in gobbling up small municipal systems would prefer to have the transaction signed, sealed and delivered as soon as possible.

On the other hand the position of Greenville Utilities in the situation is certainly understandable. The local Utilities Commission entered into the 20-year contract to furnish Grimesland power six years ago. Since that time an appreciable amount of Greenville Utilities funds have been spent to improve the service of the Grimesland system, and additional investment has been made to assure an adequate supply of power to furnish the Grimesland needs for the 20-year period. One could hardly expect Greenville Utilities to readily tear up the contract which has 13 more years to run and try to absorb the resulting financial loss from its other operations.

Smooth Start For Education Session

By LYNN NISBET
WASHINGTON, D.C. — From the viewpoints of interest, attendance and smooth working sessions the White House conference on education got off to a good start.

By Monday night there were eighteen hundred and thirty-seven accredited delegates registered, representing every state and all the territorial possessions. Besides these delegates there were more than five hundred "observers", almost as many members of official staffs and, illustrating the nationwide interest in the project, more than two hundred reporters.

The first general session Monday night heard a televised address by President Eisenhower and an in person address by Vice-President Nixon. The picture of the President got more applause than the person. The appearance of the number two man.

On the stage were four members of the cabinet and about a dozen other top federal officials. The course of the conference was charted in the several sessions Monday night, and maintained throughout—no resolutions or generally approved conclusions, no discussion of racial or religious issues, but completely free discussions of the six topics included in the original agenda at each of the 180 state adopted eleven participants each. No two persons from one state were seated at the same table. The chairman of each group had been designated, but there was no further attempt to direct or control debate within the prescribed limits.

Despite the limitations there were inferences at most of the tables that the private or parochial schools perhaps should share to greater extent than present in transportation funds. Health, education and other non-curricula services provided out of tax money.

The nearly three thousand people attending the conference represented about every race and every religion to be found in the United States. Each state adopted its own plan for naming delegates. Numerous comments were heard around the hotel lobby and the news room about the percentage of Negroes in the southern states delegations. It appeared that the states which maintained segregated educational systems gave more recognition to the Negroes than did some of those which have insisted upon integration for many years.

One delegate from a midwestern state observed that the separate but equal doctrine apparently afforded more real equality than the integrated systems.

Another notable item was the presence of former North Carolinians in delegations from other states. Prominent among this group were Kenneth Royce and Ralph McDonald.

People from other states have their eyes on North Carolina. There were numerous questions about the state's approach to the segregation issue, and most of the questioners had commendation for the way our State is dealing with the situation.

Also there was much interest manifested by university people in Gordon Gray's resignation as UNC president and his likely successor. As had been forecast, majority of the conference personnel is directly connected with field of professional education.

Your reporter took time off to visit Capitol Hill and found very little activity at top levels. Tarheel members of the Congress, like their colleagues from the other states, are in their home balliwicks or on special committee assignments throughout the world. Their Washington offices, however, are functioning with secretaries and clerical assistants keeping telephones and typewriters busy handling routine matters for constituents.

There is discernible change in emphasis and tempo from that which prevailed in previous months. Congressional staffers are conscious of the fact that in just about a month another session will begin, and that a lot of material must be prepared between now and January 3. The more acutely conscious of the impending primary and election. There is manifest interest in who may be in the race and who will get nomination for Governor and Lieutenant Governor and for President and Vice-President. There were casual inquiries about prospective court tests for other state-wide offices, for judgeships and for membership in the General Assembly. But for the staffers in the congressional offices there is one paramount question: What is the situation in our district? Is anybody likely to run against our "boss"?

For The Campaign Ahead

A Story From Out Of Korea

When Jack Edwards started his column which once appeared in this space he told one war story and then promised to tell no more.

And to my knowledge in all the years that Jack conducted his column for the Reflector he never told a war story after that.

Jack was right. In the last 30 years the war stories which have come out of World War I, World War II and the Korean Conflict, if counted up, would make the national debt look small.

However, let's face it. I was in the army. War stories? I got a million of them. I refuse to make any such promise as Jack, so here we go with War Story Number I.

The trucking unit to which I was assigned had pitched its tents near a Korean village that covered an area the size of Winterville. It had a population approximately that of Greenville, which just goes to show how much land each person gets in Korea.

The boys in that unit were a rough and tough bunch. It was a combat zone, they reasoned. There was no reason for state-side spit and polish which characterizes permanent army installations.

But the first sergeant was also rough and tough. "This unit is going to shake up," he told the men. "We'll beautify the areas around these tents. You men will wear your fatigue jackets with every button buttoned. Those trucks will be washed and shined up whenever possible. And until those orders are carried out your monthly liquor ration will be withheld."

That ended the matter as far as the first sergeant was concerned and the men fell to carrying out the orders in good army spirit along with the supply sergeant slept in the company's supply tent which had just been outfitted with a wooden floor and a wooden counter at the front over which supplies were passed out for awhile with no liquor ration forthcoming. Then in the quiet of one night the entire company was awakened by an ear splitting explosion. Officers and men rushed from their tents and stopped in horror when they saw the supply tent blown to shreds. Two men had been sleeping in that tent. What sort of condition would they be in after an explosion like that?

But then a dazed and coughing figure emerged from the destroyed tent followed by a second figure. It seems a hand grenade had been tossed through the door of the tent but had hit the counter and fallen in front of it. Shrapnel ripped through the top of the tent but the wooden counter had protected the occupants sleeping behind it.

The next day the first sergeant announced that the liquor ration was being restored. Within a month or two he was rotated home, easily one of the luckiest men ever to serve in the United States Army.

"Aggressive owners and managers invariably had some controls (formal or informal) which gave them the information they needed, while many who used no systems at all other than the information carried in their hats and who scoff at the need for formal controls, appear to be satisfied to do what often appeared on the surface to be a mediocre job."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
UP THE LADDER

The legend has come down across the centuries of two Jews who had returned with their countrymen to Jerusalem at the end of the Babylonian Exile. The temple had been destroyed, the walls of the city had been cast down. Most of the houses had been burned or demolished. One of the returned exiles went bitterly over the destruction of the city which he and every other Jew loved with immeasurable devotion. But the other man laughed and clapped his hands in glee. "Why do you laugh?" asked his companion. "Because," replied his friend, "by this very demolition which assures us that God is true to his threatnings, we know that the same God will be true also to his promises and will restore Zion to her beauty and glory."

John Ruskin once boasted that he grew up in a home where every promise and every threat was carried out without faltering. We live in a universe presided over by a God on whom we can depend. What He promises, He fulfills: what He threatens, He inflicts with severity.

"We rise by things that are under our feet. By what we have mastered of good and gain. By the pride deposited and the passion slain. And the vanquished ill that we hourly meet. "Heaven is not reached at a single bound. But we build the ladder by which we rise. From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies. And we mount to its summit round by round."

Why Some Stores To Stay Small

By ELMER ROESSNER

The astonishing fact that most smaller stores do not make use of merchandising records is indicated by a study by graduate students of the New York University School of Retailing.

The study was limited involving only 161 stores in northern New Jersey and Westchester County, New York. If the situation disclosed there prevails in other sections, small business is worse off than it knows.

Lack of merchandise records can result in excessive ordering, with resulting mark-downs, or shortages, with resulting losses of sales.

"The impression was gained that smaller stores often remain small because they do not utilize scientific retailing methods either in theory alone or in practice," the researchers reported. "There were numerous incidents in which stores which had been established ten years ago and longer were still doing less than $100,000 while their competitors, who had been established a much shorter time, had gone beyond that figure. While it is realized that volume is dependent upon a great deal more than application of principles of merchandising certainly there is a correlation."

SHOE STORES DO BEST JOB

The study involved 60 women's apparel stores, 36 men's apparel stores, 4 men's and women's, 17 children's wear, 23 shoe stores and 21 home furnishing stores. The researchers found that unit controls or other merchandising records were used most widely in shoe stores and next in apparel stores and home furnishing stores. Unit controls were used least in children's wear stores and in stores of less than $100,000 annual sales.

The study, which was conducted with the assistance of Fairchild Publications, also concluded that "Merchants who kept no merchandise controls at all or who kept what appeared to be very informal records often expressed the desire for more extensive information about their sales systems were widely in every case, there seemed to be lack of knowledge that suitable procedures for finding this information were in use. Most merchants expressed the feeling that such systems were too expensive or time-consuming for their operations, yet few appeared to be actually aware of what was involved."

"Aggressive owners and managers invariably had some controls (formal or informal) which gave them the information they needed, while many who used no systems at all other than the information carried in their hats and who scoff at the need for formal controls, appear to be satisfied to do what often appeared on the surface to be a mediocre job."

DOLLAR RECORDS MAINTAIN FD

While most of the merchants neglected merchandise controls, all but six kept sales records for comparative basis. Three or four stores kept such records on a daily basis; one out of 10 kept them on a weekly basis and one out of eight used a monthly basis.

One reason for this is that so many organizations provide calendars for this purpose. The Bureau of Advertising and the American Newspaper Publishers Association prepares an Annual Timetable of Retail Opportunities giving seasonal breakdowns for 18 store types and more than 50 merchandising categories and a calendar of selling opportunities. This is available from member newspapers, which include a majority of dailies.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association, 100 W. 31st St. New York, publishes an elaborate calendar for its field. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, 1615 H. St. N.W., Washington, D.C., also published a trade promotion planning calendar which, with its booklet of promotional days and weeks, sells for 50 cents.

But none of these are much good unless the merchant maintains records and enters comparable figures on his calendar.

Few United States companies blanket Latin America as does the United Fruit Company. None makes a more astute attempt to raise the living, educational and agricultural standards of the people in its operational areas.

For years it has maintained free primary schools, providing teachers and buildings. It has given assistance to Latin governments' farm improvement programs, and made its own technological information readily available. It has sought to stimulate housing standards continent-wide by providing its native employees with far better dwellings than local custom demanded.

Now it is going farther. This month it launched a standing endowment whereby each UFC employee-parent will receive $1000 for each child under age 19 he sends through the third and fourth years of an English language secondary school in the United States or Canada. It anticipates at least 100 students from Guatemala, Honduras, Panama, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Colombia, Dominican Republic and Cuba will participate this school year alone. They will get free transportation on the company's steamships.

It is easy to discount these benevolences as in United Fruit's selfish interest—to develop company loyalty to obtain efficient future employees, to weld through sentimental good company relations with Latin governments.

But if that limited line of thought is followed, let it also proceed on to the fact that good American relations to the south are also to the selfish interest of the United States. We believe nothing will contribute more to the essential good neighbor policy of the future than a constantly larger stream of rank-and-file Latin Americans coming to the United States, learning to understand us, and teaching their offspring yet unborn that we are not a "colossus" to be feared. From such beginning, the multiplication of generations should take care of tomorrow's continental goodwill.

Other Editors Are Saying... Road To Latin Goodwill

Senator Clifford Case, A 'Favorite Son'

By WILLIAM M. McBride
Ray Tucker is on vacation. While he is away there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by William M. McBride, Editor Emeritus of The Herald-News, Passaic-Clifton, N.J.

PASSAIC, N.J. U.S. Senator Clifford P. Case may be the "favorite son" candidate of the New Jersey delegation to the Republican National Convention if President Eisenhower is not a candidate for re-nomination next year.

The practical politicians who will select the delegates-at-large and district delegates to the San Francisco convention realize that an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, is to be expected if the President runs. But it's an open fight for the Presidential nomination, they believe the young, able and personable senator is a good long-shot to bet on.

Case is an Eisenhower man, 100 per cent. ONE OF FIRST FOR IKE RE-

was the first Jerseyman in Congress to call for Ike's nomination when the General was in command of the NATO forces. His voting record as Sixth District representative in the lower house, 1945-1953 aligned him with the Republican left wing. As executive director of the Fund for the Republic before his election to the Senate, he attracted national attention. Whether Case could go to San Francisco with the support of all or most of the New Jersey GOP delegates depends upon what the fighting Republicans—without leadership since the death of Senator Robert A. Taft—are able to do before next spring. An effort is now in the making to bring together many influential Republicans who feel they are disfranchised as long as they are represented by Case and H. Alexander Smith, the senior Senator. ELECTED BY SLIM MARGIN Case was elected last November by a plurality of 3,379 over Charles R. Howell, a Democratic Congressman. The vote was Case

861,528, Howell 858,158. Taft Republicans say that a shift of one vote in each of the state's 3,998 election districts would have elected Howell. They argue, reasonably enough, that many right-wing Republicans voted for Case, only in the belief his vote would be needed to organize the Senate as a Republican body in support of the President. Case was elected but the GOP lost the Senate. Fred Hartley, Jr. co-author of the Taft-Hartley act, who had retired from Congress, undefeated, polled 7,025 votes in the Case-Howell election, although he was not a candidate. His name was not on the ballot. The Hartley votes were write-ins. More "throw-away" votes went to Henry Krajewski, a Secaucus pig farmer and tavern keeper, who had run for President in 1932 as candidate of the "poor man's party." Krajewski polled 35,421 votes for Senator, more than 10 times the Case plurality. Presumably, Krajewski got many protest votes that might have gone to Hartley had the ex-Congressman's name been on the ballot. Few voters know how to write in names on the voting machines in use in the populous counties. RESULTS OF PAST In the Eisenhower-Taft primary, one of the two Congressional districts in Bergen County, New Jersey's No. 1 GOP stronghold went for Taft and one for Eisenhower although Senator Taft had previously asked that his name be left off the ballot. It is felt that he did not have a fair chance in New Jersey because former Governor Driscoll, then an aspirant for Vice Presidential nomination, had thrown the weight of his influence in Eisenhower's favor. In the industrial area of which Passaic is the center and where the CIO is a strong, 14 out of 16 municipalities produced Taft majorities. Two went for Eisenhower by less than 100 votes. The Taft Republicans in New Jersey are numerous but unorganized. Because they are unorganized, Senator Case may speak for New Jersey when the San Francisco convention opens.

War On Rodents Starting Today

A county-wide campaign to get rid of rats and mice began today. The campaign is being sponsored by the Pitt home demonstration clubs, which are urging all persons to cooperate with them and put out rat poison so that the rodents will not migrate.

The campaign is one of ten phases of the Pitt County Progress Program being sponsored by Greenville Farmer's Day, Inc. and all home demonstration clubs are participating in this category.

In preparation for the campaign, L. C. Whitehead, specialist in rodent extermination from N. C. State College, spoke to representatives of the clubs on the most effective methods of getting rid of rats. The specialist suggested that for this campaign, when housewives and inexperienced persons will handle the poison that the safe anticoagulant type of poison be used. This requires many days of repeated feeding and is effective for all kinds of rats and mice, he noted.

The poison is mixed with cornmeal and the specialist said it is safe for persons with children and pets, as so well fed child, cat or dog, will eat dry cornmeal in a quantity that will harm him.

As an additional protection however, Whitehead demonstrated how to make a bait station from an empty Prestone can, a large oil can or an old stove pipe. The cans may be cut with a canopener at either end large enough to slip a lid of poison inside, but he cautioned that the hole should be narrow enough so a cat cannot get in. This poison should be replenished for two weeks.

The home demonstration clubs are urging that all persons in the county cooperate by putting out poison during this campaign so that rats and mice cannot migrate. It was pointed out that an anticoagulant poison may be obtained in many local stores under trade names.

Left No Will On $2 Million Estate

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Cora Nidever, 85, who made an oil fortune on 80 acres of barren land she inherited, left an estate in excess of two million dollars, including $1,827,350 in cash.

She died a week ago after a long illness. A childless widow, she left no will. A petition for letters of administration lists seven nieces and nephews as legal heirs.

Mrs. Nidever inherited the property near Coalinga, Calif., from her mother Mrs. Hester Binkley, who had homesteaded it at the turn of the century. Oil was discovered in 1939.

Sees Brighter Outlook For Coal

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coal fortunes diminished for a time by competition from other fuels, is on the way back to prosperity on a wave of industrial expansion, a coal industry expert said last night.

J. E. Forsythe of New York, general manager of the Keystone Coal Buyers Manual, predicted that by 1970 coal production would have increased 100 per cent to an output of 800 million tons a year.

Plating and coinage are two of the oldest uses of the metal nickel.

Strong Signs Point To Request Aid In Building New Classrooms

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—There were strong indications today that the President's White House Conference on Education will recommend federal aid to the nation's schools, at least for building new classrooms.

But if it's as vague on that as it was yesterday on why there are not enough classrooms, it will leave the question high in the air.

Federal aid for schools is the hottest question facing the men and women who came here from the 48 states and territories for this meeting which ends today. It's possible they'll explode over it.

But they were far from explosive yesterday when they sat around 168 tables, exchanged ideas on why they don't have enough schools, and then approved a report which was a consensus of what they felt and thought.

That report was so careful, and long-winded, it looked like a diplomatic pronouncement by the State Department at one of those times when it wants to make a statement for the record without being very positive about anything.

This was what the report said: "No state represented has a demonstrated financial incapacity to build the schools it will need during the next five years. But, with the exception of a few states, none of the states presently has plans which indicate a political determination powerful enough to overcome all of the obstacles."

Boiled down, this said: No state represented at the conference had shown it couldn't afford to pay for the classrooms it needed. Just because they hadn't shown they couldn't afford it, this didn't mean they could afford it.

Then the conference left the door open for itself by adding another sentence: "Some territories and a few states may need outside financial assistance."

With that, addition the conference got itself on record as saying that if the states ever got around to building the schools they need, some might be able to pay their own way and maybe some couldn't.

But the report wasn't clear at all when it said: "With the exception of a few states, none of the states presently has plans which indicate a political determination powerful enough to overcome all of the obstacles."

Who was being shy, at there?

The home-state politicians? Or the people back home for not putting enough heat on their state and local politicians to get the needed classrooms?

Report Glacier Opposes Trend; Still Advancing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The effects of the great glacial ages were reviewed when scientists reported finding a glacier still advancing or at least holding its own, unlike most of the world's great ice masses.

The Ohio State University team said solid ice on the glacier moved about half an inch per day at the surface. The team reported after an expedition which studied part of the great Greenland ice cap. A final report is due later.

Dr. Richard P. Goldthwait, OSU geologist who led the team, said advance of the ice edge is the result of increased snowfall due to warmer weather which results from encroachment of the sea in nearby areas.

The group camped about 40 miles north of Thule Air Force Base in northwest Greenland, about 1,000 miles from the North Pole. The study was part of a program sponsored by the snow, ice and permafrost division of the U. S. Army Engineers.

At least one automobile is owned by 71 per cent of U. S. families.

Train Engineer Succumbs On Run

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 30 (AP)—The engineer of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad's passenger train, the Nebraska Zephyr, suffered a heart attack last night.

The engineer, E. M. Peck of Galesburg, died shortly before the train reached Monmouth.

The fireman, J. J. Wilson, also of Galesburg, halted the train and another engineer, V. M. Daniels of Burlington, who was riding to Galesburg, brought it on into Monmouth.

Little All-American Team Chosen By AP

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
 NEW YORK (AP)—The Associated Press' Little College All America football team for 1955, made up of representatives from 11 different colleges that won a total of 75 games is named today with a line that averages 210 pounds to the man and boasts the country's leading scorer in the backfield.

Nate Clark of Hillsdale College in Michigan, is the terrific touchdown tallier. He led the collegiate players of the entire country with 144 points and is the only junior among the backfield foursome that also includes Gene (Great) Scott of Centre College, Dave Burnham of Wheaton and Charles Sticks of Trinity College at Hartford, Conn.

Up front are ends Charles Schultz of all-winning Alfred and Richard Doolin of Hamline, chosen in the second draft of the professional football draft by Baltimore Monday.

The tackle slots are manned by Charles Gibbons of Rhode Island, who will display his ability in the Refrigerator Bowl Sunday, and Vincent Vidas of Drexel's unbeaten team.

Steve Myhra of North Dakota University, and Wike Robinson of Pepperdine at Los Angeles are the guards, flanking Lubert (Duke) Cook of Trinity at San Antonio, Tex.

These players are from college towns that won 76 and lost 16 while being held even in two others. Eight of them competed during the season on teams that came through without defeat. But the losers weren't overlooked. Donlin's Hamline squad did not win a single start on its seven game program.

In those seven starts, however, the 6-5 senior caught 41 passes that were good for 480 yards and two touchdowns.

Clark gathered his 24 touchdowns for a Hillsdale team that romped through nine opponents by an average score of 34.9. The 21-year-old Negro was a star his freshman year at Hillsdale but tapered off during his second season. He attributed it to excess weight and spent last summer working on a blast furnace in an iron foundry. He melted himself down to 195 pounds — and the national scoring title.

Among those on the honorable mention list were: Robert Warring, ton of Presbyterian and George Rice of Wolford tacks; and, Dan Abraham, Newberry, and Ken Webb Presbyterian, backs.

Grimesland And Bethel Cagers Halve Twin-Bill

Playing host to the Bethel high school cagers last night, Grimesland's girls dumped their female visitors 61-30, but the hometown boys were less fortunate, suffering a 56-34 setback.

Tucker, a forward for Grimesland, racked up a total of 26 points to lead her squad to victory in the opening game. The winners got off to a running start, doubling the score in the first quarter and never losing sight of the lead.

Top scoring honors among the boys were divided between Latham of Bethel and Elks of Grimesland, who collected 15 markers each. Bethel, like Grimesland girls in the opener, took command of the game in the first period and never were behind.

DeMarco Stopped In 12th 'Trader Chuck' Barbers Trucks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If Chuck Comiskey keeps on making deals for the Chicago White Sox, they'll soon be calling him "Trader Chuck" around the American League.

The White Sox vice president in charge of player swaps — since Frank Lane resigned as general manager and shifted to the St. Louis Cards — pulled another "name" deal yesterday.

By returning Virgil Trucks 36-year-old right-handed pitcher, to Detroit for outfielder — third baseman John (Bubba) Phillips, Comiskey completed his third major league trade.

His first move was to send infielder Bobby Adams to Baltimore for outfielder Cal Abrams. Then came the "big one" — Shortstop Chico Carrasquel and outfielder Jim Busby to Cleveland for outfielder Larry Doby.

After trading Trucks to Detroit, Comiskey quickly followed with a cycle by purchasing shortstop Luis Aparicio from Chicago's Memphis farm of the Southern Assn. Aparicio, 21, is the man the Sox expect to replace Carrasquel next season.

Some baseball people thought the Trucks-Phillips swap "was only the prelude to another deal between Detroit and the New York Yankees. The two clubs talked business yesterday, after the arrival of George Weiss, Yankee general manager but made no announcement. The Tigers want a young infielder from the Yank farms — Herbie Plews, Bobby Richardson or Dick Carter. The Yankees are interested in pitcher Ned Garver and possibly Trucks.

Bucky Harris, Detroit manager, said yesterday he expected Trucks to be a regular starter. The former Tiger was traded away to St. Louis after pitching two no-hitters in 1952, had a 13-8 record last season with the White Sox.

Champion Basilio Says Hand Injured

By BOB HOOBING
 BOSTON (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the immovable welterweight champion, looked forward to Johnny Saxton today while nursing a sore left hand he acquired in his destruction of rugged Tony DeMarco Basilio, the 28-year-old Canastota, N. Y. gamewarrior, rallied DeMarco's stinging punches last night to repeat his June technical knockout of the Boston challenger in the 12th round.

The time was 1:54—just two seconds longer than it had taken him to Syracuse six months earlier. Both fighters weighed 145½ for the nationally televised title scrap at Boston Garden.

After he had knocked down DeMarco on an eight count with a smashing right to the jaw, then flattened him for good with withering combinations in the 12th, Basilio revealed he had hurt his left hand in the second round.

That sore hand may make the patient Saxton wait even longer for his title shot. Saxton, who lost the championship to DeMarco here April 1 has since waived his contract return-bout priority for both of the Basilio-DeMarco slugfests.

DeMarco, calling on his long-range power, took charge in the early rounds and had Basilio wobbling into his corner in the seventh round. It took a near superhuman effort by the ex-Marine from upper New York state to keep from going down for the second time in his professional career.

After he survived the staggering left hook, Basilio grew stronger as he unleashed a battering body attack on a weary DeMarco tiring just as he had done in punching himself out last June.

DeMarco was ahead in rounds on all the officials' cards. Referee Mel Manning had it 6-3-2 on rounds for Tony, Judge Joe Santapio 6-4-1 and Judge Joe Santoro 7-4. The AP had it 5-4-2 for DeMarco.

Buc Traveling Squad Set

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
 Reflector Sports Editor

The East Carolina College basketball traveling squad is just about settled, according to Head Coach Howard Porter. Porter will carry 12 men to Guilford Saturday night as the locals open the 1955-56 season.

A tentative first five has been worked out and includes three regulars of last winter. Senior J. C. Thomas heads the trio. A Raleigh native, Thomas was the Buc's second leading scorer last season and an outstanding defensive performer.

Don Harris and Carvel (Nick) Nichols are two other sure-fire starters. Harris is the Buc's leading candidate for All-State honors and last season led the scoring with a 21.2 mark. Harris is a junior and Nichols a sophomore. The latter returns after a brilliant first-year campaign in which he led the team in rebounds and was third highest in scoring.

Cary's Guy Mendenhall, a 6-6 flank, is a likely choice to start at one of the other guards. The rangy sophomore started several games in 1954-55 at center. A freshman, Tim Smothers, has a good chance of breaking the starting five at center. At 6-5 and 195 pounds, he would be a good mixer with some of the big men in the conference.

Joe Plaster, the 6-8 stepple, and Freddie James, a swift little guard, both have better than average chances of moving into a starter's berth. Plaster is recuperating from a badly sprained ankle but is rounding into shape fast. He still lacks polish but can be mighty tough under the opponent's basket.

Marion Hales, Waddell Solomon and Maurice Everett are all lettermen from last winter who'll make the traveling squad. Everett, a 5-10 guard from Robersonville, is one of the best outside shooters and will be used against zone defenses right much. Hales, the 6-4 Wilmington boy, has shown much improvement in the pre-season drills and is a big help in the rebounding department.

Harold Ingram and Dick Little round out the first 12. Ingram is a holdover from last year's freshman team while Little is a frosh from Delaware Gap, Pa. The latter has shown a fine shooting eye and may become a star.

Porter has several other boys who are still in contention. Chesley Knotts, a 6-4 youngster from Wendell, he could very well step up.

There are also Harry Archer of Portsmouth, Va. and Joe Musgrave of Pikeville. Archer is a peppery little guard and Musgrave a 6-3 forward.

Riddick, Edwards Exceptions

By BILLY ARNOLD
 Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville high school's varsity cagers have been working long and hard under Coach Boley Farley's experienced eye during the first three days of this week.

Passing has been one of the main points stressed by Coach Farley in the opening sessions. The 1955-56 team is comprised of a large number of newcomers, with only two regulars returning, and passing is likely to be one of the G-Men's biggest drawbacks.

The starting quintet who will begin the Phantom season against AAA Goldsboro on December 6 is undecided at the present, however, five lettermen from last year's crew will probably have the best chance of securing first string berths. A likely line-up is as follows: Ike Riddick and Ray Hardy at guards; Tommy Key Norris and Jerry Drum at forwards; and big Harold Edwards at center position.

Flourish Practice

Greenville's style of play being a fast, running game, the team has been given plenty of instruction on the technique of moving the ball rapidly on the floor. The new Phantoms have not looked strong in this aspect of the game, but improvements are expected by Coach Farley. Riddick, an experienced floorman, will be called upon to lead offensive action when the Greensies meet Goldsboro. Big Harold Edwards will serve as an anchor for the whole process, using his height and strength for rebounds and his speed for racking up points.

Newcomers Angus Duff, Joe Wingate and Wayne Eldon have shown improvement during the past week and may work their way into a starting slot before the first contest. Charles Rumley, another newcomer, has come to light as a possible guard because of a fine display of speed in handling the ball offensively. All of the boys, according to Farley, are in need of extensive practice in their shooting accuracy.

Goldsboro Is First

Goldsboro, after a 50-80 season in 1954-55, is facing a similar problem of inexperience. The AAA Quakes will open their campaign this week in Washington with only three regulars in the first string line-up: Sonny Aycock and Larry Fredrick and form a strong scoring combination in close, with letterman Lee Coward directing the crew from the guard spot.

Tom Scott Takes Over Davidson Coaching Task

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Tom Scott, Davidson College athletic director, will take over as head basketball coach at the college Jan. 1, replacing Danny Miller, who has resigned.

Dr. John R. Cunningham, Davidson president, announced the resignation yesterday, explaining that Miller had taken a job as eastern North Carolina sales representative with National Container Corp., with offices in Salisbury.

Although Scott has coached in college and semipro ranks, present plans are for him to finish the Davidson season which begins tomorrow night, after which a new head coach will be named for 1956-57.

Miller will remain as coach through the Dec. 19-21 Carrousel tournament at Charlotte. He coached six years at Wingate Junior College, where his teams won 169 and lost 38, and is in his fourth year here.

"Between Us Folks"

By BILL ALDRIDGE

BACK AGAIN . . . Missed last week because I forgot that there would be no publication on Thanksgiving Day. Hope you all had a pleasant Thanksgiving. It is amazing what all we have to be thankful for when we stop and count our blessings.

SHOP TALK . . . Cliff asked me to call to your attention the many practical Christmas gifts that we have here at the store since it's only about three weeks before Santa comes. For the women, we have a nice selection of Revere copperware which makes a lasting gift. Yesterday we had beautiful canister sets of coffee, flour, sugar and meal to come in. Also a counter loaded down with pots, pans and many useful kitchen items. For the men, we have a complete line of hunting and fishing equipment. Our sports department is especially designed for the men and it's a fishing rod or a gun you might have on your mind our stock will answer your problem. For the kids, we have bicycles, tricycles, skates, football and baseball equipment, tennis rackets and BB rifles. For those who are interested in a radio, record player or combination we have a nice selection of the well-known Motorola line from which to choose.

TAKE NOTE . . . If you should be going through Emporia, Va., during the Christmas Holidays be sure and not go over fifteen miles per hour and do not passing within the city limits. A close friend of mine was fined $20.25 without deliberation. At the police station he was confronted by an unkempt JP smelling like a brewery and during the process of the case the police present snickered. Truly, no court dignity at all but sheer mockery and a racket clearly advertised. Emporia has had a bad name for some time and there have been many editorials in the papers regarding their type of justice. So please beware.

ONE FROM BURL DIXON . . . A man drove up to the filling station and asked for some oil. The attendant inquired, "What weight oil?" The driver said, "It makes no difference. I got good tires."

A REMINDER . . . Before buying your gifts be sure and take a look at EDWARDS HARDWARE. See you next week.

BE SURE TO SEE

 CHRISTMAS GIFTS.
 THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

Probe Extent Of Security Firings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators set out today to determine how many discharged federal employees actually were fired under the Eisenhower administration's security program.

Officials of government departments and agencies were called by a Senate Civil Service subcommittee headed by Sen. Olin D. Johnson (D-SO) to testify in two days of public hearings.

Paul H. Adick, subcommittee counsel, said an attempt was being made to find out how many employees listed as fired under the security program would have been dismissed anyhow under regular civil service procedures.

Democrats frequently have charged that Vice President Nixon and other Republicans made "a numbers game" out of reported security risk firings in the last election campaign.

After the civil service subcommittee's last series of hearings in September, Johnston said that testimony showed the figures given on the number of employees fired as security risks embraced many employees who would have been fired without any security program.

At the time Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission had reported 3,614 employees fired under the program, which was put into effect by executive order by President Eisenhower in May, 1953.

Young told another Senate committee earlier this week that the figure now is 3,683. But he said he makes no claim that all those fired were "security risks"—a term he said he avoids using.

Young is listed as the final witness for the subcommittee's present series of hearings.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 15 cases, seven of them involving motor vehicle or traffic law violations.

In the case of Richard Dickens Jr., Negro, breaking and entering and larceny at the premises of Zeno Whitehurst, 607 Fleming street, the court found probable cause and sent the case to Superior Court.

The following defendants were found not guilty: Lamb Tyson, Negro, Highway 43, assault on a female; Dan B. Forbes, Rt. 6, Greenville, hit and run driving, and Carlton Morris, 102 North Jarvis street, careless and reckless driving and vulgar and profane language.

Averell Harriman Termed 'Utility Man' Of Politics

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York was described by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) in sports language today as a "utility man" candidate for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

Harriman has said he is not an active candidate for the nomination although he expects to be New York's "favorite son" choice.

But Harriman's chief booster, Tammany leader Carmine DeSapio said yesterday the historical role of New York governors in party affairs "should dispel the idea that Harriman is only a token or favorite son candidate."

Sparkman, who heard DeSapio's talk to the National Press Club, said in a later interview he thinks DeSapio "is engaged in holding Gov. Harriman in reserve for whatever might happen in the pre-convention campaign."

"He has the governor in a 'utility man' role where he could be rushed into the contest at any time," he added.

Sparkman said he doesn't think Harriman's advanced status poses any new threat to A.P.I. E. Stevenson, the 1952 candidate whom Sparkman is supporting in his race for the 1956 nomination.

The senator said he couldn't imagine anything that might knock Stevenson out of his place as front runner except unexpected defeats in presidential delegate primaries.

Stevenson plans to visit New York next week to discuss financial and other campaign plans with supporters there. But it is considered unlikely that he will authorize any move now toward chipping his way into the state's 98 nominating votes.

DeSapio predicted these will be united behind Harriman in the early balloting at Chicago next August.

The New York vote represents nearly 15 per cent of the 688½ needed to win the nomination. But Stevenson was represented as being willing to bid his time with the hope that most or all of them eventually would come his way.

Sparkman served notice that if the Democrats are going to continue to claim the credit for peace, the Democrats won't be silent on this score.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said in Chicago yesterday that Republicans feel "it is perfectly proper when we talk around the country to discuss peace and prosperity." He said that, "left by itself, foreign policy will not become the important issue" of next year's campaign.

Book Fair Days At Grifton High School

By DAWN SMITH
GRIFTON HIGH SCHOOL
Hi Everybody,

I hope all of you had as an enjoyable Thanksgiving vacation as I did. In addition to the turkey and all the trimmings it was a wonderful opportunity to catch up on a lot of much needed sleep, not to mention the chance to "escape school legally." Seriously enough, we should all remember what Thanksgiving really is and be happy that we are in this country and in a position to be thankful.

Mr. E. B. Bright, principal of Grifton High School, has designated December first and second as Book Fair Days. The Book Fair is sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association.

The Fair consists of books placed on exhibition in the high school library. All money raised will be used for school library funds. No admission fee will be charged. The hours are:

Thursday from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.; Friday after the Christmas parade until 6:00 p.m.; then from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Books make delightful gifts for people of all ages. Won't you come out to the Book Fair on appointed days and select books as gifts for your friends and relatives? Everyone is cordially invited.

Santa Claus is coming to town Friday, December 2, at 2:30.

Several business firms are scheduled to have floats while others who are members of various clubs and organizations will represent their group by having a float in the big Santa Claus Parade.

In addition to many colorful exhibitions, the Grifton, Ayden and Vanceboro bands will be on hand to offer their contribution to the gala affair.

Friends of Carolyn Davis, former Grifton High School student and present student at St. Mary's College in Raleigh, were glad to see her home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Misses Argent Tucker and Phyllis Jackson, former G.H.S. students and present East Carolina College students, were in Grifton for the holidays.

Among those visiting relatives here for the holidays was Mack Lancaster, student at E.C.C. Pvt. Buck underwent a minor appendectomy Saturday. The sophomore class presented her with a get-well gift of a fluffy, stuffed dog. Everyone will be glad to see her back in school when she returns the latter part of the week.

G. H. S. had some happy juniors Monday morning when Mr. Bright made the announcement that their rings had arrived. Now they are strutting around school proudly sporting the pretty, blue-set rings.

Furniture Plant Damaged By Fire

HAZELWOOD, N.C. (AP)—Fire broke out in a lacquer storage area yesterday at the Unagusta Manufacturing Corp. furniture factory here, broke through the roof of the finishing section and leaped over a 10-foot fire wall to the adjacent main production section.

Both sections were consumed, with damages estimated at $750,000.

At least 75 per cent of the big plant's production unit was destroyed, according to R. L. (Pop) Prevost, Unagusta, president. He said the firm is 90 per cent insured.

A two-hour battle for control was waged by firemen from Hazelwood, Sylva, Waynesville, Canton and Clyde. They headed off the flames from four other areas—a dry kiln building, storage building, boiler room and lumber yard, containing goods and equipment valued at $200,000.

Destroyed were the two buildings with 250,000 square feet of floor space; expensive electronic and precision machinery; and about a half-million feet of kiln-dried lumber. Some of the machines were valued as high as $30,000 each.

No one was injured. About 250 employees were at work in Plant No. 2 when the fire broke out. The cause apparently was sparks from an electric machine, which ignited chemical fumes. During the blaze, explosions of 55-gallon lacquer drums rocked freight cars on nearby sidings.

Army's Reserve Trainee System Sees Slow Start

By ELTON C. FAY
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has enlisted slightly over 4,500 six-month trainees in the first eight weeks of the new reserve program. The figures were made public today by the Army in answer to an inquiry on progress of this phase of the latest of a long series of efforts to create a full-fledged reserve system.

These pre-draft age youths have volunteered for six months of active training, followed by 7½ years of reserve liability. Not all of them actually are entering training camps immediately. Many have been granted deferred status to allow them to complete high school and other studies.

The goal of the Defense Department is to have 95,000 trainees by next June 30, a beginning toward an eventual pool of 2½ million trained men who could be called to duty in another war.

Before the program began last Oct. 3, officials talked of getting 5,000 trainees to enlist each month. Officials of the National Security Training Commission, the group which is monitoring the program passed by the last Congress, concede now, however, that the six-month training phase of the program is off to a "slower start than we had expected."

But both commission members and Army officials insist that it is too soon to judge the success of the program.

Chairman David Sarnoff of the commission thinks one thing that has retarded the program so far is failure of parents and the eligible youths to understand the choices and advantages in completing their stint of military training early.

But he also comments that if the program "doesn't get off the ground" after a trial, it will be a matter requiring changes by Congress. Congress had declined

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

BACKACHES are probably more common in old houses at this time of the year than in newer homes. We have never heard of any survey to prove this, but we know a lot of men who are supposed to have reached their wisdom years and still think that shovelling coal into a furnace is just part of a householder's obligation.

Automatic heat, controlled by a thermostat through a thermostat, is considered by these men as something reserved for new houses. They don't realize until the time comes to try to sell the place that this is a convenience needed for their own home. Sadly, the more shovelling they do as years silver their temples, the sooner the time may arrive when the old house may be up for sale.

The Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers (IBR) tells us that there are millions of homes equipped with steam heat or old-fashioned gravity hot water systems still powered by hand-fired boilers. Conversion to automatic fueling -- gas, oil burner, or coal stoker -- is comparatively simple and economical in most cases.

A BOILER'S AGE seems to be a negligible factor in modernization. The IBR says that many cast iron boilers 40 or more years old are still providing good heat. With the addition of automatic firing, these can be made more efficient -- meaning that you'll get more heat out of the fuel you use.

The best way to go about modernizing a heating plant is to call in several reliable heating contractors and ask them for bids. Being experienced in their fields they will survey the job -- piping, radiators and all -- and tell you whether your old boiler is big enough to do a good job or whether it will be worth while to replace it. Sometimes the addition of baffles to an old boiler will step up its efficiency by increasing its heat surfaces.

An electric pump will convert a slower gravity-type hot water heating system to forced circulation. This helps the system to answer much faster with more heat when it is called for by a thermostat. Costs for conversions to auto-

Asian-African And Soviet Blocs Will Gain Most

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet and Asian-African blocs will be the chief gainers if 18 new members are admitted to the U.N. as presently proposed.

Latin America and Western Europe, with the Anglo-Saxon section of the British Commonwealth stand to gain the least in proportionate strength. These are the two quarters where the United States has its staunchest supporters. But in a pinch it can count on help from within the Asian-African group too.

So delegates expect that on big political issues the Americans' customary commanding majority would survive enlargement of the U.N.

Diplomats think the newcomers will line up like this:

Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Outer Mongolia and Romania with the Soviet group.

Ceylon, Cambodia, Japan, Laos, Libya, Nepal and Jordan with the Asian-African group.

Italy, Portugal, Spain and Ireland sometimes with Latin America, sometimes with Western Europe (the two groups often vote together).

Austria and Finland not consistently with any group.

Today the Soviet bloc is five countries out of 60 in the U.N., or one-twelfth.

If the new members all get in, it will be 10 countries out of 78, or more than one-eighth.

Lately, Afghanistan and five Arab U.N. members -- all but Iraq -- have voted with the Soviet group on cold war issues. If they keep that up and Libya and Jordan -- also Arab Leagueurs -- adopt the same policies, an Arab-Soviet combine would total 18 countries.

The Asian-African group will grow to 24.

'Winner' Loses For Violations

DENVER (AP)—For a time it appeared a 27-year-old bachelor was the winner of a furnished house and new car in a theater contest. But last night the contest committee disqualified the announced winner, Theodore Sacks, a pots and pans salesman from the Bronx, N. Y. It said he entered 1,296 ticket stubs and violated rules of the contest, conducted as part of a national movie poll.

Instead the judges announced the $14,950 house, furnishings valued at $8,000, a year's supply of foodstuffs, a new outfit of clothing and the car will go to the next person on a list of nine names, each to be checked for compliance with the rules. Next in line was Mrs. Herman Emperius of Alamosa, Colo.

With modern machinery, one American farmer can handle 80 acres of rice compared to two acres by Asiatic methods of hand tilling.

Faster Growing Areas Pinched By Credit Curbs

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Tighter money and costlier borrowing is likely to pinch first and most painfully some of the faster growing sections of the nation.

In most cases they have been making their growth on imported money. Their own economy isn't rich enough yet to generate the needed investments.

Those areas — the West and South and the Midwest farming states now seeking to diversify by luring industries — are competing keenly for the funds still concentrated to a large degree in the older financial centers.

Northern and Eastern money is building many of the homes, factories and even the schools and highways that give physical evidence of the postwar shifts in population and industry around the nation.

That is why these fast-growing areas have uttered the loudest squawks about costlier credit and scarcer money supply. The tighter money policy is aimed at braking the boom before it leads to runaway inflation.

How the economic makeup of various sections of the nation is changing and why funds have been flowing from the Northeast in record amounts in recent years can be seen in a number of examples around the land.

To house the thousands of Americans on the move has taxed the ingenuity of bankers and mortgage brokers in many states.

One is Arizona. The Bureau of Business Research of the University of Arizona notes that over the last five years newcomers have averaged more than 40,000 a year. They and those already there have needed new homes.

The bureau notes that "all the resources of all the banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies domiciled in Arizona are not large enough to support this volume of construction." So Arizona has called upon out-of-state institutions.

Financing new industries is another competitive struggle for outside money among the newer and faster growing regions.

Some states are sending delegations to the Eastern financial centers to seek out investment money.

Turkeys 'Smart' Claims Farmer

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Some people think turkeys are stupid, but "they're wrong," says John Eddy, whose turkey farm at nearby Grand Junction has served as temporary housing for some 100,000 turkeys in the past 18 years. "People always say turkeys are stupid for facing the wind instead of turning their backs to it," Eddy says. "The bird is just being smart. That way the wind presses his feathers close to the body, keeping him warm."

He says also that turkeys will not eat corn in hot weather because it raises their body temperatures.

A SAFE SAFE
IRVING, Tex. (AP)—Yeggs couldn't crack the safe at an automobile firm's office.

So they stole one of the company's new trucks to haul it away. The truck and safe were recovered—but not the $5,000 in cash and checks the safe contained.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market tilted to the downside early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Many fractional gainers in the active early phase of today's session slipped to losses which in some key issues stretched to around a point or more.

There was also a scattering of gainers running from fractions to a point in pivotal stocks.

The market opened on a note of strength, turned irregular and then faded as trading slowed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at $181 with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Sears Roebuck, Zenith, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide and Texas Co were all off a point or so.

Westinghouse, which was up more than a point early in the day, was off fractionally as news came that the company is settling down for a long strike and is starting salary cutbacks and layoffs.

The rails retreated generally with fractional losses by New York Central Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake Ohio.

Santa Fe was down around a point and Union Pacific nearly 3 points.

The chemicals division was mixed, as were utilities.

But oils still clung to the upside, with fractional gains by Standard Oil (N) and Sinclair while Texas Co. improved more than a point.

The airlines, too, showed a front of fractional gains by Pan American, American Airlines, United and Eastern Air Lines.

Volume for the day was estimated at around 2,500,000 shares compared with 2,900,000 yesterday.

Safety Award Goes To Greene County

AWARD FOR GREENE COUNTY—Greene County is one of five in North Carolina which has received a special award for its fatality-free traffic safety record during 1954. Pictured at the presentation of the award are (left to right) Snow Hill Mayor W. W. Exum, Patrolman O. E. McCullen, Greene County Sheriff Kirby Cobb, Chairman of the County Commissioners W. B. Gay, Norman Wooten, Lewis B. Scruggs and Joe Stone of the N. C. State Automobile Association who presented the award.

Greene County this week was presented a certificate of merit for "outstanding accomplishments in traffic safety" by the North Carolina State Automobile Association.

The framed parchment certificate was awarded in recognition of Greene's record of having no highway fatalities during 1954, one of only five counties in the entire state with such a fatality-free record. The others are Camden, Montgomery, Transylvania and Graham Counties.

At a ceremony held at the Greene County courthouse in Snow Hill, the certificate was presented to Sheriff Kirby Cobb and Bryant Gay, chairman of the county commissioners, by Lewis B. Scruggs, division sales manager of the N. C. State Automobile Association. Also present at the ceremony were Mayor Wilson Exum of Snow Hill and Norman Wooten and Joe Stone, N.C.S.A.A. representatives in Greene County.

POISONER NANNIE DOSS IS ENJOYING PRISON LIFE

MCLESTER, Okla. — Mrs. Nannie Doss, confessed poisoner of four husbands, says the Oklahoma State Penitentiary is "just like home."

The 49-year-old widow began a life sentence last May for feeding her fifth husband rat poison, and she's enjoying every minute of her prison terms so far. The matron in turn complimented Mrs. Doss for her "fine attitude in prison."

Mrs. Doss works in the women's building laundry and she said she enjoys "going out into the yard to hang up clothes."

Six months ago she suffered a light heart attack and was confined to bed for a month. She has now returned to duty in the laundry, doing light work.

Dr. Felix Adams, head of Eastern Oklahoma Hospital at Vinita, Okla., here and a newspaper reporter are the only persons who have visited her during her six months in prison.

Mrs. Doss said she receives occasional letters from two daughters in Lexington, N.C.

Mrs. Doss was arrested a month after the Oct. 10 death of her fifth husband, Samuel L. Doss, 56-year-old Tulsa man. She confessed putting poison in his coffee and a bowl of prunes, and told officers she had poisoned three other husbands.

She was declared sane and convicted of the Tulsa crime. In handing down a sentence, Dist. Judge Elmer Adams said it would be "poor precedent" to make her the first woman sentenced to death in Oklahoma.

Keep Those Long Johns Around

Suffering Eskimos! The thermometer skidded again last night to a season's low of a teeth-clattering 20 degrees.

That's a solid 12 degrees below the freezing mark and it's even lower than the mercury rose to a high of 43—some four degrees above the previous day's top mark of 39 degrees.

What about tomorrow? Well, the weather man says sleet or freezing rain will begin in the mountains tonight and move across the remainder of the state Friday. The precipitation is expected to gradually change to rain during the day.

He predicts not quite so cold tonight, however, with low temperatures ranging between 25 and 32 degrees.

But don't throw away the heavy woollens. Weather forecasters also say it will be somewhat colder over most of the state Friday.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Herman Hines of St. George, Ga., thought he saved the 66 cents bus fare to Macclenny when two strangers offered to drive him there. Instead, it cost him $76.

Hines told police the two men took all his money, stabbed him in the leg with a knife and threw him out of their car about 12 miles west of here.

Community Chest Drive To Extend Into Next Week

Climbing slowly, the Community Chest thermometer reached the $60,000 mark this morning.

Goal for this year's drive, which officials had hoped to complete by last Tuesday, has been set at $15,350.

Drive Chairman Ben L. Rouse said this morning that the campaign for Community Chest funds will be extended into next week.

He noted that a number of solicitors for the Community Chest still have not reported on their collections.

"It's not that contributions are lagging particularly but reports from solicitors are lagging," Rouse declared this morning.

He urged all solicitors to complete their tasks and turn in their reports as soon as possible in order that final tabulations may be made.

Rouse noted that a number of contributions have been received from individuals through mail. He expressed his thanks to those who have mailed in contributions and urged others who have not been contacted for donations to mail in their contributions.

All such donations may be mailed to Ben L. Rouse, Box 264.

Rouse issued another appeal to all local citizens for contributions to the campaign.

"Unless everybody gives the drive will not be a success," Rouse noted. Those who are giving are making their donations as high as last year's, Rouse declared, but additional contributors must be found this year if the goal is to be met.

Funds collected last year fell approximately 10 per cent below the goal. Last year's goal was also $15,350.

A number of organizations receive support from the Chest including: Boy and Girl Scouts, Charity Fund, King's Daughters, Service League, Teen-age Clubs, Travelers Aid, United Seaman's Service, and Carolina's United.

The largest part of the Community Chest funds are budgeted for local organizations.

Retail Sales In County See 41 Per Cent Increase

A 41 per cent increase in retail sales of Pitt County stores was recorded between 1944 and 1954.

French Election Campaign Opens

PARIS — France's election campaign got off to a booming start today only a few hours after Premier Edgar Faure's government dissolved the National Assembly.

The Socialists and backers of former Premier Pierre Mendès-France lost no time in opening their drive for votes in the nationwide election, expected to be set for Jan. 8. They turned their heaviest propaganda artillery against Faure and the dissolution.

The Cabinet decision to dissolve the Assembly—the first such move in the history of the postwar Fourth Republic—was announced last night. It gives Faure the early election the Assembly had denied him.

The Assembly handed Faure a vote of no confidence Tuesday, largely because of its opposition to his campaign for early elections.

The 318-218 vote, however, permitted use of a clause in the 1946 constitution providing dissolution of the Assembly by the Cabinet if two governments were defeated on votes of confidence by a majority of all members of the House within an 18-month period.

Mendès-France received a no-confidence vote last February, with more than half the deputies against him.

Third Wright?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An airmail letter mailed Nov. 19 from the African Gold Coast to "Wright Three Brothers, Invented Aeroplane, America," wound up at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base yesterday.

Its sender, Kwabana Addinkroh of Osenasi, noted in all brevity, "I am with due respect to submit herewith this, my humble letter, to forward me to your latest catalog for the continental mails."

"I have to be, sir, you obedient servant."

The base public information office began preparing at once a packet of aviation literature complete with pictures and descriptions of U. S. Air Force planes.

"We're glad to do this favor for the Wright brothers—all three of them," a base spokesman said, "but that's the first time I ever heard Orville and Wilbur had a brother."

Exchange Award Friday Evening

Some local citizens will receive the Exchange Club Book of Golden Deeds award tomorrow night when the club holds its annual Ladies Night at the Greenville Country Club.

The dinner meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30.

The Book of Golden Deeds award is presented each year to some individual who has performed an outstanding service to the community during the year. Dr. John L. Waters, chairman of the committee making arrangements for the program, said this morning.

The award winner is chosen by a secret committee appointed by the club president. Members of the committee are not announced and only they know the individual chosen as recipient of the Golden Deeds award.

Presentation of the award was made for the first time locally last year. The first of the Golden Deed awards went to Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin.

THE QUICKSILVER POOL

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
After a late and leisurely supper the party all piled into sleighs again and went jangling off along the Shore road toward home. Lora stayed close to Wade. He seemed glad to have her there within the curve of his arm as they nestled into the straw that was warmed with hot bricks supplied by the hotel.

She was comfortably weary, dreamily aware that the night had cleared and a big moon which had risen overhead was silencing the dark waters of the Kill Van Kull. A few lights sparkled on the Jersey shore and there was the sequin brightness of vessels and small craft anchored out in the Kill. The movement of the sleigh was smooth soft-flowing, and sleigh bells sounded elfin in the night.

"Comfortable, Lora?" Wade whispered, and she nodded her head against his shoulder. It was comforting to let all disturbing matters fade away and pretend again for a little while. Pretend that she was married to someone she loved and who loved her dearly. She quickly shut away the thought of the past and moved closer to Wade.

She was growing drowsy now. Wade's arm was around her and for a little while she could feel safe and protected. A make-believe safety, yet she held to the warm, comfortable feeling of it as she dozed.

Once when the sleigh jolted over a rutted place where the snow had been worn through at a crossing, her eyes flew open and in the brief interval of light from a lamp she saw that Adam, next to Serena on the other side of the sleigh, was watching her. She closed her eyes quickly, refusing to rise to any challenge in his. She could even be sorry for Adam tonight. Adam had nothing, no one. Only his own bitter self to live with. She snuggled more closely into the curve of Wade's arm. When the road grew dark she felt the touch of her husband's cheek against her own and was comforted.

March blew in tempestuously, melting the snow on tree branch and hillside, reducing Staten Island roads to a sea of mud. As far as Mother Tyler was concerned the status quo within the house remained exactly the same. The old lady still kept to her bed, refusing to have anyone but Wade, Peter or Ellie come near her, and occasional relapses over the presence of the growing puppy she read nothing but her Bible and she quoted her Lord's words often to Wade, giving them her own stern interpretation of criticism upon this household.

Lora had been only too glad to accept banishment, though at times it made matters difficult for the rest of the house. At least there had been some escape for Wade, since the night of the sleighing party.

He had attended a meeting of the Circle at Morgan Channing's house, but he had been thoughtful and guarded about what had happened.

Mrs. Tyler's bell rang often for Ellie, but one day Lora crossed the hall and opened the door which had been forbidden to her ever since Christmas.

A fire burned low in the sitting-room grate, lending some slight warmth to the bedroom beyond, and the air was stuffy with sick-room odors. The sitting-room looked unlivable in without the familiar figure in black in the chair before the fire. Jason Cowles' visage brooded from the wall more grimly than ever.

"Why must you take so long when I call you Ellie?" demanded Mrs. Tyler in peevish tones from the dim bedroom.

Lora went quietly to the door. "Ellie's hands are covered with dough, Mother, so I've come to see if I can help."

The old woman was a hulk beneath the mound of quilts and in the dim light from the shuttered window Lora could just see her eyes, dark and shadowed in a white face, staring at her balefully.

"I will not have you in this room," Mrs. Tyler quavered. "Where is my son? I have given orders—"

Lora went straight to the bed and stood beside it. "There's no one else home just now. Shall I get you some water? Or your medicine?"

Tears of weak rage blurred Mrs. Tyler's eyes. "I will not be mocked when I am ill. It is not good for me to be so upset. Go away and send Ellie to me at once—I am so miserably uncomfortable."

Lora ignored the outrage in the eyes that watched her, and felt beneath the bedclothes with a practiced hand. "Of course you're uncomfortable with everything bunched into a wad of wrinkles. I'll have you easy again in a jiffy."

She returned to the sitting room with no heed for the splutter of protest which followed her and came wheeling the big leather chair before her. Then she went to the bed, released the covers gently from the clutch of Mrs. Tyler's fingers, and flung them to the end of the bed. The old woman lay shivering in her flannel nightgown, gasping at the violation.

"Now then," Lora said, "let's move fast so that you won't get chilled."

She reached for the thin hands, ringless now, and pulled the old woman to a sitting position. "I'm too weak for this!" Mrs. Tyler wailed. "Go away you wicked girl!"

"Of course you're weak, lying in bed all this long time. But never mind that—I'm going to have you feeling better than you've felt in a long while. Come now—over to the chair."

"I'm going to faint!" cried Mrs. Tyler.

"That's all right!" said Lora. "I know just what to do for a faint. Quickly now—I won't let you fall!"

She gave all her support to Mrs.

Tyler's dead weight, half carrying her the few steps to the chair. Then she lowered her into it, quickly wrapped a quilt about her, tucked it around her bare feet, and turned her attention to re-making the bed. The old lady did not faint, but she watched her tormentor with eyes bright with helpless rage.

When the sheets had been pulled taut and every wrinkle banished, Lora turned cheerfully back to her charge. "I know how much you'd like to punish me, but you can't punish anyone when you let yourself go to pieces like this. If you want things your way you have to get up and fight for them. Now then, back to bed, and I'm going to give you the best back rub you've ever had. Fainting won't do you a bit of good."

Argentina's Reds Stirring Again

BUENOS AIRES AP—Argentina's Communists are stirring into renewed activity, but the government vows they don't have a chance to subvert this nation in the wake of Juan Peron's dictatorship. "The United States may rest assured communism will not be a problem," says Carlos Munis, undersecretary of interior. During his decade of rule Peron kept all opposition under tight control. His police jailed Communists. But the Communists survived. Although in last year's congressional elections they claimed only 101,726 votes, that represented a 42 per cent increase over their claims for the 1951 elections. Powerful democratic forces are at work in Argentina today, Munis says the best assurance that communism hasn't a chance is the type of men now running Argentina's government. He says Provisional President Pedro Eugenio Aramburu and his collaborators are prepared to act swiftly and forcefully against extremist threats from either left or right.

Scout Camporee Set For Onslow

Oscar G. Guiley, Leggetta, 1956 Camporee Chief for the East Carolina Council, and Sherman L. Parks, Greenville, Chairman of the Camporee Site Selection Committee, have announced that the 1956 Camporee will be held in Jacksonville, North Carolina, on the Onslow County Fair Grounds, sponsored by the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The East Carolina Council Annual Camporee is usually one of the largest single boy participation activities in our state with over 3,000 Boy Scouts and Explorers demonstrating their camping skills and Scouting techniques in a mess camp over a three day period. The administration of these test cities demand the supervision of highly skilled adult as well as boy personnel.

Mr. Guiley announced that there will be a planning meeting to receive suggestions from Troop leaders Sunday afternoon, December 4, at 3:30 P.M. to be held in the following meeting, a small group of Camporee Staff officials will summarize the suggestions and make final plans for publishing the 1956 Camporee booklet. All Scout leaders interested in the 1956 Camporee are urged to attend the meeting and share their ideas and suggestions.

Rescuer Didn't Want A Ticket

ST LOUIS (AP) — Harrie Londoff didn't hang around to claim credit when she saved from serious injury a boy whose hand caught in the rear bumper when he fell against a slowly moving car.

His shouts unheard, the boy ran as fast as he could to keep up Miss Londoff, in her car and noticing the boy's predicament stepped on the gas and overtook the car just in time.

Later when her identity became known Miss Londoff explained she left the scene hurriedly because she recently got two speeding tickets and realized that in making the rescue she was guilty of speeding and running a stop sign.

No Reply Yet On Enforcing Law

COLUMBIA — Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. still wants to know why the U. S. Justice Department will not take action in the Rev. J. A. DeLaine case.

He reiterated the question yesterday after first asking it last Friday. He said also he does not need to be instructed by the FBI in what the federal fugitive law says because "its meaning is clear."

DeLaine is the Negro minister who fled to New York City after a shooting incident near his Lake City home Oct. 10. He has said he fired at an automobile after shots first were fired from it at his house.

A warrant was issued for DeLaine and he later was indicted on charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. He has surrendered to New York police but announced he will fight extradition.

Timmerman said he had had "no reply" from President Eisenhower after "I publicly called" on him "to explain why the Justice Department refuses to enforce impartially the federal fugitive statute" against DeLaine.

Lacked Law On Drunken Driving

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — For several months of 1955, Montana had no law against drunken driving, a district court ruled. The Legislature repealed a section of law covering drunken driving and the governor signed the repeal into law March 29 although the substituting legislation did not take effect until July 1.

Judge Victory I. Fall confirmed the oversight in November by dismissing a charge of driving while intoxicated filed in May.

Too Much Stress On Trivial Items

BOSTON (AP)—A New York pediatrician says that parents place too much importance upon trivial actions—like finger sucking—by their children.

Dr. Harry Bakwin told the American Medical Assn.'s ninth clinical session that finger sucking by babies is no more a psychiatric problem than "gun chewing in children and cigarette smoking in adults."

Most such "behavior problems" are trivial, even when they seem of major importance, he said. The family doctor can handle them by giving "a few simple, commonsense suggestions," he said.

He warned in a prepared address that even more serious problems of childhood may not be psychiatric and "it is a mistake to assume that these usually arise from parental mismanagement."

Before blaming it on the parents, he said, the family doctor should make sure the child is not suffering from such things as minor brain damage, visual or hearing defects or chronic disease.

"There are so many behavior problems that the general physician must treat them (because) there are not enough psychiatrists," he said. "Unfortunately the general physician has been frightened by fear, engendered by the psychiatrists, that he may 'do harm' by the incompleteness of his knowledge."

Dr. Harold Jacobziner, assistant commissioner of the maternal and child care services of the New York City Department of Health, told the session that accidental poisoning of children isn't really accidental.

A recent study, he said, shows that poisonings occur in direct proportion to the degree of accessibility of the poisoning agent.

Out of 454 cases studied, Dr. Jacobziner said, 40 per cent resulted from agents available in open places and 16 per cent were

New Sterilizer Uses Ultra-Violet Light In Process

DETROIT (AP)—Development of a mechanical sterilizer which kills virus in vaccine with a "bath" of ultraviolet light was revealed yesterday by General Motors Corp.

At the same time Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit pharmaceutical firm and one of the major producers of Salk polio vaccine, said it already is using four such purifying units in an effort to produce a more potent polio vaccine.

GM described the device, known as a "centri-filmer," as "highly effective." The company said it has been used successfully in purifying blood plasma, rabies vaccine and ACH, a substance used in treatment of rheumatic arthritis and allergic eye and skin conditions, as well as in sterilization of a serum that wiped out an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease in Mexico.

Parke-Davis officials declined to comment on their tests with the centri-filmer on polio vaccine until more extensive experiments are completed, they said they were not using the device on Salk polio vaccine.

The device was developed jointly over the past seven years by General Motors research staff engineers and medical scientists from the Michael Reese Research Foundation of Chicago under the direc-

Educator Says Parental Blame Doesn't Hold Up

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The concept which places the blame for juvenile delinquency entirely on parents doesn't ring true to a noted Catholic educator.

This philosophy of excuse ignores the possibility that human selfishness may still exist, says Monsignor Daniel T. McColgan, executive director of Nazareth, a home for dependent children in Boston. He says delinquents must accept some personal responsibility for their offenses.

Speaking to the teachers institute of the Catholic Diocese of Richmond, Monsignor McColgan said a sense of guilt is necessary or there will be no reformation. He added that good human behavior and religion are intrinsically related.

Automobile Ends Dynamite Dream

SYLACAUGA, Ala. (AP)—L.H. Dillard dreamed he was on a river bank discharging dynamite. Boom! Boom! Boom!

The third boom knocked him out of bed and he picked himself up in the wrecked bedroom of his combination home and store which had been smashed by an automobile.

State Patrolman Bill Summerlin said William J. Goodwin went to sleep while driving down a steep hill. The car went down an embankment, hurred a ditch and crashed into the Dillard house at a point about 200 yards from the highway.

Ignorance Found Common In Court

PICKENS, S.C. (AP)—When a defendant pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws he insisted he didn't know the name of the person who sold him the whisky.

Circuit Judge Joseph R. Moss said the case reminded him of a similar one he had handled. The defendant in that case "did not know his own father-in-law," Moss remarked.

Probe Failure Of Religious TV-Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—A searching analysis of the general failure of organized religion to deliver its message effectively through television and radio is published today.

"The Television-Radio Audience and Religion" (Harper) bases its conclusions on the most comprehensive study of a major American city's viewing and listening habits ever undertaken. The city is New Haven, Conn., where a representative cross section of 5 per cent of the population was interviewed.

The National Council of Churches of Christ, U.S.A., conducted the study under the supervision of Yale Divinity School. The vast store of information gathered was shaped into book form by the Rev. Everett C. Parker, Dr. David W. Barry and Dr. Dallas W. Smythe.

Religious programs tend to be sixth in popularity among audiences, but TV stations grant only 1 per cent of total time to such programs. Advertising consumes one fifth to one fourth of all telecast time. Leading Roman Catholic programs have much larger audiences than leading Protestant programs. Three of five households listen or watch some religious program regularly.

Few local pastors seriously consider the impact of television and radio on their congregations. Family groups find programs based directly on the Bible the most interesting and useful of all religious programs. Audiences for Protestant programs are composed largely of persons in late middle age or older. Of 3,559 families interviewed only one person said he was brought into a church through the direct influence of a radio or TV program.

Today's revolution in communication has placed the church in a new kind of culture, the study appraisal of the problem is necessary. This reappraisal includes such matters as training clergy-men to be more aware of the new communications media in relation program concepts have generally to their church policies.
