

Explosion Starts Fires, None Killed Jet Falls Between 2 Homes

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A navy jet fighter collided with another at 20,000 feet over Richmond today and crashed and exploded in a fashionable residential area setting two homes afire.

The pilot who was flying blind on instruments with his canopy hooded ejected himself and made a safe parachute landing several miles away.

Lt. Edward R. Bristol of Virginia Beach, flying the escort craft, made it back to his Oceana Va. station. There the Navy disclosed the crash was caused by a collision in flight — a fact of which the downed pilot apparently was unaware. The Navy said one of the planes brushed the other's tail controls.

The housekeeper in one virtually destroyed home suffered burns and an infant, cut off by flames and smoke on an upper floor, was rescued by a brickworker who scaled a porch to reach the nursery. Other than the housekeeper there were no reported injuries.

Ens. Robert Ammann, 22, the pilot landed unscathed 15 minutes after the bailout on a North Richmond road several miles from the crash area. Unaware of the collision his aircraft carried with it out of the cold overcast skies.

"I was flying at 20,000 feet when something went wrong," said the Dallas, Tex., pilot. "I don't know what happened. The plane was uncontrollable and I bailed out. It was an ejection seat. It took me 15 minutes to land."

The plane smashed into a concrete driveway between the homes of Benjamin Dennis III, an oil company executive, and Thomas Walton, a food service executive. The immediate explosion and flare of flame fired the houses and scattered wreckage of the plane for 100 yards or more.

In a matter of moments flame and smoke enveloped the Dennis home occupied at the time by Mrs. Dennis, the housekeeper and her four children. Three children were quickly shepherded to safety. But the youngest — month-old Charles — was in his nursery crib on the second floor and when the frantic mother rushed back flames already licked up the stairway.

"I rushed out and yelled for help," Mrs. Dennis said.

Leland McCauley, a brickmason employed nearby, heard Mrs. Dennis cry.

McCauley shinned up a drain-pipe to a lower level roof, smashed a window with his fist and felt his way through the smoke to the baby's crib. He climbed out the window and handed the baby down to safety. McCauley was given first aid for minor cuts on his hand.

The Dennis' housekeeper, Pearl Johnson, 36, was in the kitchen when the plane hit and tried to get out. Her clothes caught fire, she said, and "I fell and banged my head and I just didn't know what happened." She was hospitalized for her burns and the baby went along also for a checkup.

Grisley Find Solves Woman's Disappearance Skeleton Found In Cement

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — A woman's skeleton, chipped by police hammers from a concrete tomb in the home of a respected family of seven, has started a bizarre investigation.

The grisly find solved the disappearance 29 months ago of Mrs. Barbara Alexander, 27. But in turn it led to new and macabre puzzles.

Mrs. Alexander's body, the hands clutching a rude cross at the chest, was found in the basement of the east Casper home of her husband James, 48, a former schoolteacher here.

"The body was pointed out to us by the person who buried it," said Natrona County Atty. Ray Whitaker. "That person was Mrs. Rose Alexander."

Rose Alexander is James' first and also his present wife. Married some years ago, they had two children and later were divorced. Whitaker said Alexander then married Barbara Alexander, who had two children by a previous marriage and one by Alexander. All the children lived at the Alexander home here.

Rose Alexander, in a statement to officers, said Barbara's death was accidental. No charges have been filed.

Barbara Alexander vanished in July 1953, but, for reasons not explained, her disappearance was not reported by Alexander until "about nine months later," the county attorney said.

Asked by the missing woman's parents at Hardin, Mont., to continue an investigation, police questioned the present Mrs. Alexander. On Monday, Police Chief C. J. Carter said, Mrs. Rose Alexander signed a statement relating these details:

She went to the Alexander home in 1953. Barbara came to the door and stumbled against a pile of bricks. The bricks toppled, killing her. Rose, shocked and frightened, dragged the body into the house and returned several days later to bury it in the basement.

Alexander was building the home, and the basement was unfinished. Carter said the body apparently was placed in dry cement, then was wet down and covered with dirt and a concrete floor.

Where was Alexander at the time his wife was killed? Where were the five children? Police say they do not know.

Sometime after the incident, Rose Alexander returned to live with her former husband.

Alexander resigned as a shop instructor at Casper High School last spring, and in August he and his family moved to Worland, Wyo., where he works as a machinist. The home here was left unoccupied.

Acting on Mrs. Rose Alexander's statement and at her direction, police began drilling in the basement Monday night. At first they were unsuccessful. Then the Alexander's pet dog, a St. Bernard, came to the basement and whined over a spot in another corner.

Officers dug there, and within minutes unearthed the body.

Alexander identified a wedding ring on the hand of the dead woman as one he had given Barbara. Police permitted Alexander and his wife to return to their home overnight.

Hints Attending Nat'l Convention To Face Threat Byrnes May Challenge Demo Leader

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — James F. Byrnes, South Carolina's former governor-senator - representative, has hinted he may go to the 1956 Democratic National Convention to challenge former Democratic National Chairman a Stephen A. Mitchell.

A Mitchell has said he will object to the seating of Byrnes and other Southern Democratic leaders who supported President Eisenhower in 1952 if they should be delegates to the 1956 Democratic convention.

Byrnes previously has said he had no plans to try to be a delegate. But he told a Greenville civic club yesterday that "if anything would change my mind it would be the threat by the former chairman of the Democratic party that the national convention will refuse to seat any delegate elected by the Democrats of any sovereign state on the grounds they are obnoxious to him."

"I do not know Mr. Mitchell personally, but from all I have heard of him certainly he is obnoxious to me."

Byrnes warned the club members against what he said were dangers of federal aid to education.

He said "control of our schools" would be threatened seriously.

He charged that the "real object" of the recent White House Conference on Education was "to promote sentiment for the enactment by Congress of a bill providing federal aid for education in public schools."

Byrnes said, "If we embark on this school program it will be but a short time before our textbooks will be selected by bureaucrats in Washington."

"If we object and do not accept the federal aid we will then be paying federal taxes to aid other states while receiving no aid in this state."

"When a bill on this subject is offered in the next Congress, it will be considered in an election year," he noted. "No such bill will pass the Congress without providing some control by the federal government."

"We cannot place the responsibility for education in the federal government without giving that government power. Supervision and control will follow every federal aid appropriation."

Byrnes called on a radio and television audience to which he also spoke to urge congressional representatives to oppose any federal aid to education move.

Byrnes also restated an appeal for independent thinking and action on the part of Southerners in political matters.

Quota Of 110 Pints Set For Bloodmobile

A quota of 110 pints of blood has been set for the schedule of the American Red Cross bloodmobile for its visit to Greenville and Pitt County on Thursday, December 8.

Sponsored by the Cadet Corps of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College, the bloodmobile will be at Wright Building on the campus from 11 o'clock a.m. until 5 o'clock p.m.

Accompanying the bloodmobile will be a staff of Red Cross workers from the Tidewater Red Cross Blood Center in Norfolk, Va. and members of the AFOTC Cadet Corps.

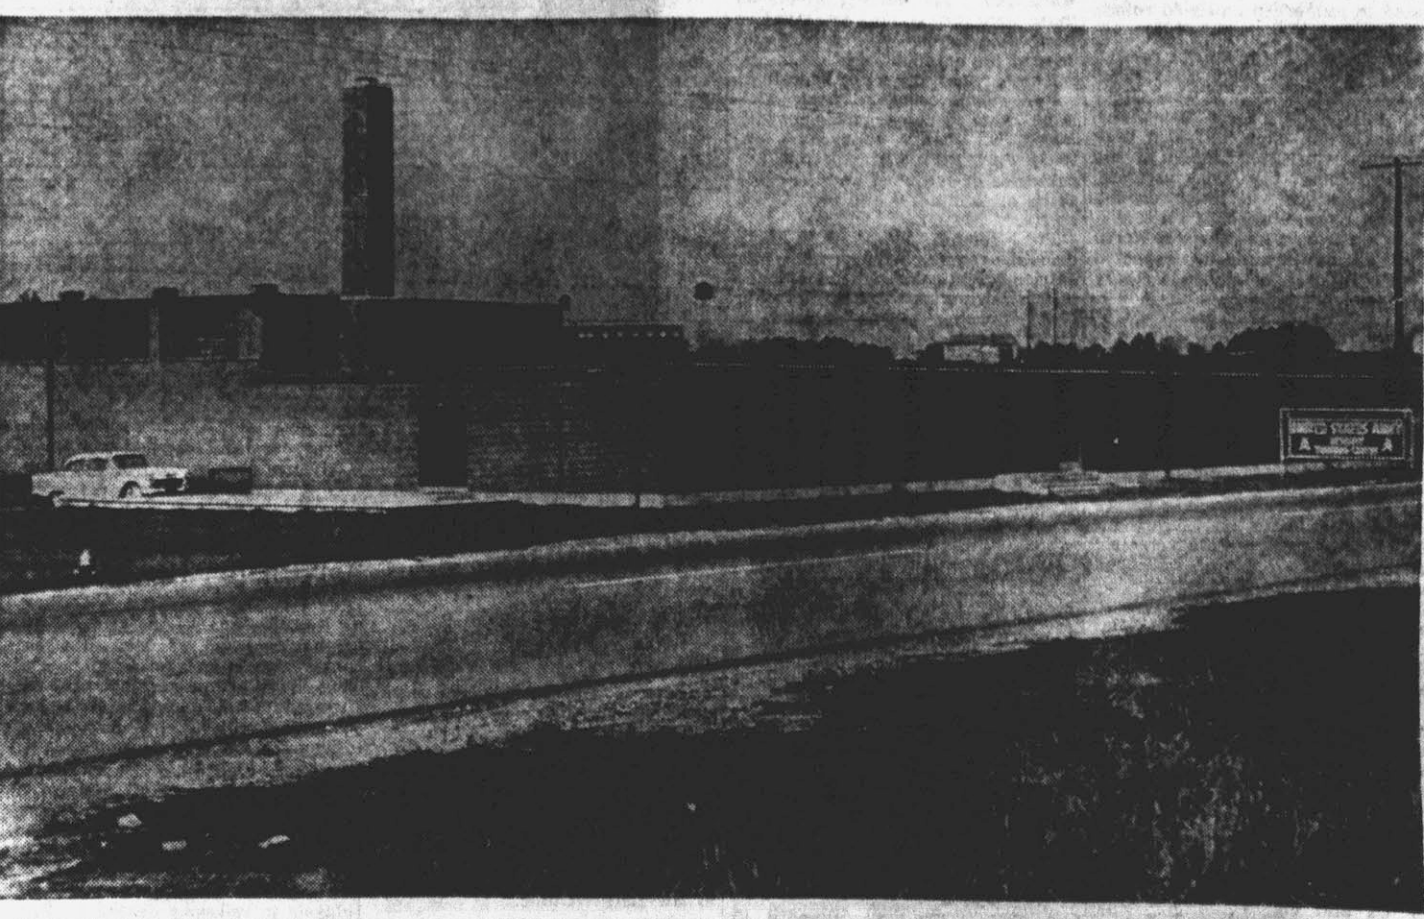

Lt. Col. Lewis J. Partridge, commanding officer of the East Carolina College AFOTC, said that a year ago the Cadet Corps quota of 140 pints was reached, and the members of the unit hope to attain the 110-pint quota Thursday.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Pitt County Red Cross chairman, and other chapter officials urged blood donors to support this project and give a pint of blood in the current visit of the bloodmobile to the county.

AFOTC detachment of East Carolina College is sponsoring the Red Cross Bloodmobile operation in Wright Auditorium tomorrow. Shown here accepting the sponsorship of the program from city bloodmobile chairman Lester Turnage is Lt. Col. Lewis J. Partridge, professor of an science at ECC and Capt. James M. Crane, detachment project officer of the drive. A quota of 110 pints of blood has been set.

Site For $160,000 Army Reserve Armory To Be Asked Of City Council New Armory Scheduled For City

Pictured above is the Raleigh Reserve armory which is somewhat similar to the new armory planned for Greenville. This city's building will be smaller than the one shown above however. The Raleigh armory is a 400-man unit while Greenville's will be a 200-man armory. Construction is expected to begin sometime between July, 1957 and June, 1958.

County Fair Ass'n Reelects Averette

The Pitt County Fair Association Inc., at its annual meeting last night, re-elected Larry Averette of Greenville president and treasurer for next year.

Manager Norman Y. Chambliss' report of the Pitt County Agricultural Fair was a success last October and that prospects for 1956 are gratifying.

The directors re-elected the three vice-presidents, Frank Taylor of Greenville, Charles S. Edwards of Farmville, and A. F. Rowe of Ayden, and re-elected Norman Y. Chambliss manager. Willard T. Kyrzer was elected secretary and Lester E. Turnage assistant secretary.

The board re-elected the Executive Committee, J. H. Moye, Ed Harris, Ford McGowan and Lester Turnage of Greenville; Dr. Paul E. Jones and Charles S. Edwards of Farmville; and C. E. Hart of Ayden.

Manager Chambliss' report shows that attendance at the Pitt County Agricultural Fair this year was close to 40,000. The manager's report also shows that the fair paid out $3,697.17 for premiums and that the exhibits of agricultural products, livestock and poultry and the arts and crafts filled all available exhibit space.

The directors outlined and discussed plans for additional improvements at the Pitt County Fair Grounds during the coming year.

Routine Session Awaiting Council

The City Council will face one of its lightest agendas of recent months when it meets at City Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The councilmen will be faced with the renewal of the recently expired one-year lease on a parking lot at Evans and Second Sts.

Last year the city leased the lot for $30 per month but property owners now want $50. City Manager James S. Hughes was told to offer to lease the lot at $30 per month with the lease to be renegotiated at the end of the present fiscal year.

Hughes will report on the negotiations tomorrow night. It will be the city manager's last City Council meeting in Greenville. He recently resigned, effective Dec. 31, to accept a new position at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Councilmen will also consider the leasing of a small portion of airport property, cut off from the remainder of the airport by the new highway, to the Pitt County Fair Association.

In addition they will hear a request from the U.S. Army Reserve for donation of an armory site and a request for annexation by four residences on N. Elm St.

The city fathers must also consider a request by W. E. Thurash for the transfer of a cemetery lot.

Two churches, Grace Free Will Baptist and Phillips Christian, will ask for relief from the payment of paving assessments.

The confirmation of the appointment of Mrs. Lillie B. Little to the Library Board will be considered by the councilmen at the meeting. Mrs. Little was appointed by the County Board of Commissioners.

Little Change In Defense Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fourteen years after Pearl Harbor the United States is still faced with the necessity of spending more than 35 billion dollars annually for defense—more than five times the amount for the year just preceding the Japanese attack.

On this anniversary of American entry into World War II, Pentagon fiscal officials were putting into final shape a budget estimate for the next fiscal year which Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson says will show no "major" change from the current year's spending figure.

Wilson, emerging from a conference at Gettysburg with President Eisenhower yesterday, said he thought military spending in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 could be held at about 34 1/2 billion—but it would be "pretty tough" to do.

The fiscal year in which Pearl Harbor occurred, including six months of the war, saw a defense expenditure of $23,572,000,000. Even before that, the budget had begun to climb as the nation built up its armaments. It had mounted from $1,559,000,000 in the year ended June 30, 1940, to $6,071,000,000 the following year.

Wilson has indicated that he expects Pentagon spending to level off, if no major changes occur in the international situation, at about the current rate for the next several years.

The estimates of defense spending that appear in the Pentagon budget are not all the money that goes to armament.

There is in addition a sizable sum perhaps as much as two billion dollars, for atomic weapons. For reasons of security, the precise annual cost of nuclear weapons production is never made public but about $1,910,000,000 of items labeled as "major national security" are tabulated in this year's atomic budget totals.

Emphasis for the last three years has been on new weapons, particularly air-atomic power. Indications are that this will be even greater in the forthcoming budget.

As new weapons begin to accumulate Pentagon planners hope to reduce the annual outlay for the older, more conventional equipment.

President And Advisers Review Economic Health

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower reviewed the state of the nation's economy today with his special advisers in that field.

He conferred with Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and economic aide Gabriel Hauge. They arrived at the President's post office headquarters at 8:45 a.m.

This review of the national balance sheet took place against the background of a virtual certainty that defense spending next year won't fall much, if any, below the present 34 1/2 billion dollar level.

Secretary of Defense Wilson after conferring with Eisenhower yesterday, gave out the word that defense outlays would be around that figure — although he conceded it would be "pretty tough" to hold to that amount.

The conference with Burns and Hauge was only scheduled appointment, Eisenhower had today

Clement Attlee Quits Labor Party Leadership

LONDON (AP) — Pipe-smoking Clement Attlee, the mild-mannered Socialist who directed creation of Britain's welfare state, resigned today as leader of the Labor party.

A three-cornered fight for the top post in the British opposition party appeared shaping up among the deputy leader, Herbert Morrison, 67; 49-year-old Hugh Gaitskell; and Aneurin Bevan, 58, fiery Welsh leader of the party's left wing.

Bevan was given almost no chance, however, against Morrison or Gaitskell, both followers of Attlee's moderate policies. Morrison's age could count against him.

Characteristically, the 72-year-old Attlee almost slipped out of the party leadership he had held for 20 years — a record in modern British politics.

He handed in his resignation at a closed meeting of Labor members of Parliament, which lasted less than half an hour. His colleagues saluted him with "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Attlee was visibly moved. His lips quivered.

Age and ill health were responsible for his retirement from the minority leadership in the House of Commons. The man who served as Britain's Prime Minister from 1945 to 1951 had found direction of the party's opposition to the Conservative government, an increasing burden in recent months. Labor's defeat in the general election in May might have speeded his decision.

Last summer he suffered a slight stroke. He recovered, but found himself more and more fatigued as he conducted the party's parliamentary battles, often through all night sittings.

It was generally assumed Attlee would accept an earldom and move up to the House of Lords. He may become leader of the party in that more leisurely chamber.

Attlee's retirement from Labor's top post came eight months after his political adversary and wartime leader in the coalition government, Sir Winston Churchill, quit the chairmanship of the Conservatives at the age of 80.

Health Director Cites Progress In Pitt's Drive Against Disease

Facts and figures on progress in eliminating disease and the conditions that breed disease in Pitt County were reviewed by Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert for the Greenville Unitarian Fellowship at a meeting in the City Council room, City Hall.

On the credit side, Dr. Humbert pointed out that the fight against malaria, typhoid, pelagra and botulism has been 100 per cent successful, with malnutrition and tuberculosis decreasing.

He outlined the greatest need at present for the county including a mental health clinic and proper sewage and sanitary garbage disposal.

The health director noted that draining swampy places and praying have eliminated native malaria, while chlorinated water, clean milk, the building of sanitary privies and a better sewage system have served to make typhoid "virtually extinct."

He said the low incidence of pelagra may be due to the high mineral content of collards, so popular in our diet. Botulism has disappeared with refrigeration.

Dr. Humbert stated that malnutrition is decreasing "although we have an iron deficiency in the soil." This is being alleviated, he pointed out, by the use of refrigerated vegetables from iron-rich soil areas, "but it can also be licked by the use of blackstrap New Orleans molasses." He noted that the Red Cross has found many blood donors deficient in iron, even among the well-off.

Use of new drugs and prompt operations and hospitalization have caused a decrease in the number of tuberculosis cases, according to Dr. Humbert. "Often patients are returned to normal life in less than a year, while previously it took six to ten years, if the patient lived that long." He said the goal now is to locate the new cases early and give immediate treatment.

He said that to help fight malnutrition, which is one means of spreading tuberculosis along with overcrowded housing, surplus food lunch programs have been set up in a number of the schools.

He noted that Pitt County now provides "good pre-natal and post-natal care" for residents and that 90 per cent of venereal disease cases are among sections "where sex standards are very low."

Dr. George Pasti, program chairman for the evening, expressed appreciation to Dr. Humbert for his talk, and "for your leadership in building up conditions that will help to wipe out TB, alcoholism, venereal disease, low morals, juvenile delinquency, ignorance and lack of self-respect."

Building Is Expected In '57-'58

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Construction of a $160,000 U. S. Army Reserve Armory will begin here during 1957-58 if present plans are carried out.

Major Archibald C. Marcareau, officer in charge at the local army reserve headquarters, said this morning that the City Council will be asked to donate a site for the 200-man armory at its regular monthly meeting tomorrow night.

The major said preliminary investigations have been carried on recently to select a site for the new building.

When the building is completed it will house the 3015th Reception Station and the 382d Engineer Co. In addition the eastern North Carolina Reserve Advisory Area headquarters, which is headed by Major Marcareau, will have its offices in the new building.

Presently the two units and the area headquarters are housed in a building located on Picklen St. The local reserve has been in that location since 1950.

Authorization for construction of the new armory is determined by the strength of the units which will use the building. Major Marcareau said. The two units in Greenville now have a combined strength of 123 officers and men, which is enough to qualify the town for the construction of the armory, according to the major.

A number of North Carolina towns were recently "proved as sites for reserve armory." Major Marcareau said. Rocky Mount has received final approval and a site for the new building has been donated by the city. But the town on the armory for that city is expected to begin sometime after July, 1958.

Cost of the Rocky Mount building which will be similar to the one planned for Greenville, will be approximately $158,000. Greenville is next on the list after Rocky Mount.

Unlike National Guard armories, which are financed with 75 per cent federal funds, 15 per cent state funds, and 10 per cent local, the reserve armories are financed entirely by federal funds. Reserve units do not come under state control as do National Guard units.

Major Marcareau said that the reserve and National Guard cooperate in the use of armories, however, and reserve units are making use of National Guard armories when it is possible to add additional space to house the additional units.

That proved impractical in Greenville's case since two National Guard units are now using the armory located at Evans and Second Sts. The National Guard building, which is crowded into a business area of town, offers no room for expansion.

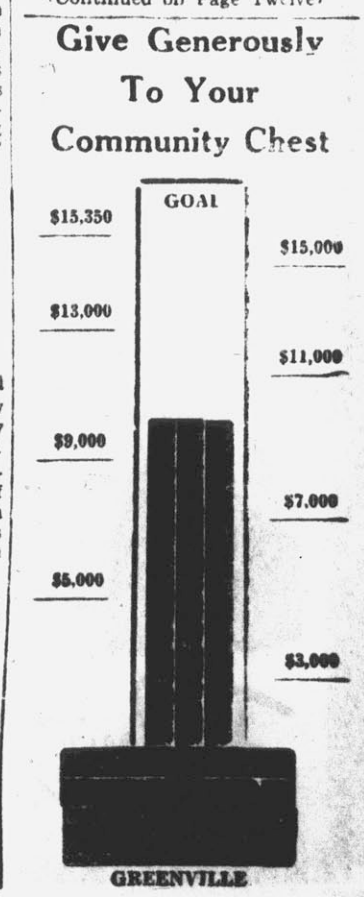

Approval for the construction of the reserve armory has been granted by the North Carolina Military District headquarters in Raleigh and by Third Army headquarters in Atlanta, the major noted.

Even though the two reserve units now have sufficient strength to justify an armory, the units are expected to grow still more in coming years.

A recent reserve law change requires that all persons drafted after the last Congress approved the changes in the draft law, serve three years in an active reserve unit upon completion of their two years active duty. After the three years ready reserve they are transferred to complete a six-year obligation.

Those who fail to join organized reserve or National Guard units can

Coeds Making Out With Basics

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)—Be neat in class and save your glamor until the men are around.

This is what the girls at Randolph-Macon Woman's College here say about clothes. And if the girls are the same the country over—as they're said to be the world over—this should be just about the way most students in girls' colleges handle the problem of dress.

Unlike coed friends, they have no boys in the classroom to impress. So they make out very well wearing seersuckers or blouses and skirts with white socks, loafers or tennis shoes, from day to day. And when date time comes, they put on those sensational numbers they've been able to buy with money not needed for campus logs.

Here's what the girls here like: For casual dating, basic variable wool dresses and jumpers which can change appearance entirely when worn with different accessories or matched sweaters and skirts or cashmeres and good tweed skirts.

For formal occasions: Party dresses ranging from the full-skirted bright-colored, scooped neck taffetas to slinky black sheaths; short evening gowns instead of long formals.

For in-between affairs: Beaded or pearl-encrusted white sweaters with dressy skirts.

For a weekend at a neighboring school: A suit for the trip and the same, a wool dress for the fraternity party after the game and the supper that night, and a dressy dress for the evening affair.

For sports and relaxing in the dormitories: Bermuda shorts.

Holiday House
ROCKY MOUNT—Roses and Cherubs Tell the Story of Christmas All Through the House will be the theme of the Holiday House sponsored by the Rocky Mount Garden Club this year.

Members of the club will decorate the entire house of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Minges, 917 Sunset Avenue, in Rocky Mount. This large and spacious home will be attractively decorated in red, green and gold colors, carrying out the chosen theme.

The Holiday House will be opened to the public on Wednesday, Dec. 14, from two o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock that night.

The Garden Club will also hold its annual Christmas bazaar at the Holiday House. Christmas greenery and decorations will be on display and can be purchased by visitors.

Women from all sections of North Carolina and Virginia are expected to visit this Holiday House in Rocky Mount on Wednesday.

Radio-TV Director Is Guest Speaker For Club Book Club

The Clio Club was graciously entertained on Tuesday afternoon, November 29th, by Mrs. Lawrence Smith at her home on Library St. Mrs. Smith, the president, called the meeting to order and welcomed members and guests. During the business session the club voted to sponsor a family for Christmas. Mrs. O. E. Dowd, Miss Jane Hadley and Mrs. Agnes Barrett were appointed to serve on this committee.

When introducing the guest speaker, Miss Rosalind Roulston, Mrs. Barrett pointed out that "we were indeed fortunate to have with us someone who had such a breadth of experience on the stage, on radio and on television and who now holds the position as director of radio and television at E.C.C." Miss Roulston spoke on "What Television Is Doing For Us and Our Children." She discussed the surveys that were being made by television associations, by churches and even by individual groups. It has definitely been established that television is the outstanding medium for influencing the greatest number of people. What is done with it depends on the viewers and what they want. It is the responsibility of each individual to make his voice heard.

The club was invited to the dining room which was cleverly decorated to carry out the idea of North Carolina Pine. A delicious salad course was served by Mrs. Luther Moore. Mrs. Bob Lang poured coffee. After an exchange of books and a brief social hour, the club adjourned.

Spanish Student Gives Club Program

The End of the Century Club held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, with Miss Mary Harding co-hostess.

The president held a short business session then turned the meeting over to Mrs. A. D. Frank who had the program for the afternoon.

Mrs. Frank presented Natacha Sesena, a student at East Carolina College. Miss Sesena is from Madrid, Spain, and gave a very entertaining hour on Spanish life, its customs, religion, and politics.

Following this delightful and interesting talk the hostesses served a salad course, dessert and coffee.

Work Of Coffee Shop Explained To Service League Members

The Greenville Service League met Monday morning, Dec. 5th, at Elm Street recreation center. Mrs. Howard Moyer called the meeting to order and the service prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Moyer presented Mrs. J. T. Little who explained in detail the beginning and the work of the Coffee Shop for benefit of the new members and to refresh the older ones. She said that the Coffee Shop would be five years old in February and that the League should be proud of the service they have rendered. She explained there could not be a project in the hospital for personal profit. Merchandise in the shop is sold at a nominal profit. A percent of the profits goes to the Laughing-house Hospital Bed Fund. According to the contract the League assists with any social activity connected with the hospital. A full set of books are kept and are credited once a year. She reminded the members that when they signed for work in the Coffee Shop they were working willingly for a Christian service to their fellowman. She closed by saying "This is not a Christmas program but remember if we act in accordance with One whose Birthday we commemorate this month we will do much to bring His Peace on Earth."

Mrs. William Wright secured workers to assist with selling TB seals in the post office during the week of Dec. 15-17. A most gratifying report from the chairman of the house-to-house canvass of the Community Chest was given by Mrs. Carl Wade. The total at present is $1,020.

The finance chairman, Mrs. David Evans, thanked Mrs. Bob Thompson and Mrs. Ed Rawl and their committee for a splendid bridge tournament. She also thanked those members who sold Christmas wrapping paper and books at Brody's and Overton's. Plans were made to sell again on a pretty day. Eight calls were answered during the month of November by the Emergency Charity Committee. Mrs. R. H. Evans expressed a wish that all could see the conditions and the gratitude arising in her project. Volunteers were secured for work on Christmas baskets.

The Coffee Shop holidays for Service League workers will begin Dec. 18 and extend until Wednesday, Jan. 4. Mrs. J. T. Little said that a wide assortment of Christmas toys had been ordered and reminders were being made to decorate the hospital for the Yuletide season. Mrs. R. C. Stokes reported that

State Officers To Visit Church

ROBERSONVILLE — A Church Visitation Team, consisting of Mr. Tom Hill, missionary; Mrs. H. H. Settle, executive secretary of the North Carolina Women's Fellowship, and Mr. Frank Wibral, state director of Rural Church and Men's Work, will be at the First Christian Church, Robersonville, Wednesday night.

Mrs. Hill, a missionary to India under the United Christian Missionary Society, is home on a furlough. In India, he works at the station at Darjeeling.

A covered dish supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. This will be followed by two conferences, Mrs. Settle of Greenville meeting with the women and Mr. Wibral meeting with the men. Then the groups will come together for an address by Mr. Hill.

Methodist Students Hear Tarboro Pastor

The Reverend W. Carleton Wilson, pastor of St. James Methodist Church of Tarboro, discussed "Your Religion Real Through Thinking" Sunday, December 4, at a vesper service held by the Wesley Foundation organization of Methodist students at East Carolina College.

Basing his remarks upon the theme "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he," Mr. Wilson emphasized in his talk the influence of one's thinking upon all aspects of one's life.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were guests of members of the Wesley Foundation at an informal supper party preceding the vesper service.

The League had taken care of six patients during the month of December.

The Layette chairman reported one layette had been delivered during the past month. The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Greenville on Thursday, Dec. 8th, at the Wright Building from 11-4 o'clock. The workers were reminded of their time to be there, also to be prompt.

Mrs. Moyer wished for each member a very Merry and Happy Christmas and announced the next meeting would be on the second Monday in January.

Installation of a new chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America at the New Hanover High School, Wilmington, was carried out Tuesday morning by student members of the organization at East Carolina College. The Wilmington chapter, made up of 287 members, is the largest to be organized to date in North Carolina.

Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina department of business education, state FBLA advisor, and five student members of the college chapter participate in the installation ceremony at the New Hanover High School. Mrs. Julia Bray Florentino, faculty member at the high school and an alumna of East Carolina, is faculty sponsor of the newly formed FBLA chapter.

East Carolina students who assisted in the installation ceremony in Wilmington are Bobby Mann of Newport, vice president of the college chapter, who acted as installation official; Julia S. Joyner, Snow Hill; Louise L. Tyndall, New Bern; Ann Smith Durham; and Diana Johnson, Asheboro.

Seek Source Of Paratyphoid; 37 Cases Reported

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—State and local health authorities continued their search today into 37 cases of paratyphoid fever in an effort to pin down the source of the outbreak.

The cases have been reported throughout the greater Lancaster area. Most of the victims were children. Three were reported in critical condition today.

Dr. Oscar Davis, county medical examiner, said the only common factor thus far in all cases is that the victims' milk originated at the same dairy. The owner has agreed to suspend bottling while the probe is made.

Dr. Davis said at least two days investigation will be necessary before the source can be determined for certain. Samples of ice cream, milk and similar food products are undergoing analysis.

Elderly Couple Freed By Peiping

HONG KONG (AP)—Another American couple, Louis Henkel and his wife Louise, arrived aboard the steamship Soudan from Communist China today. It was his 69th birthday.

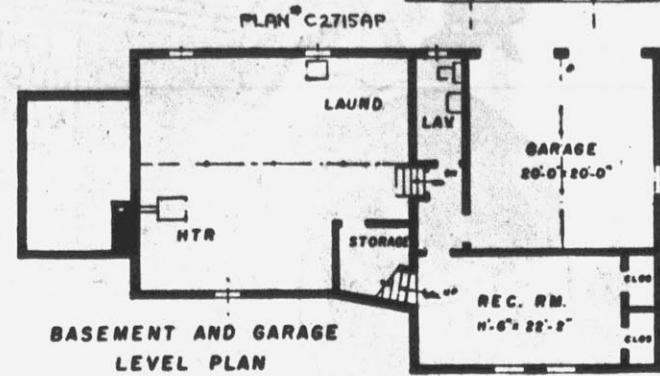

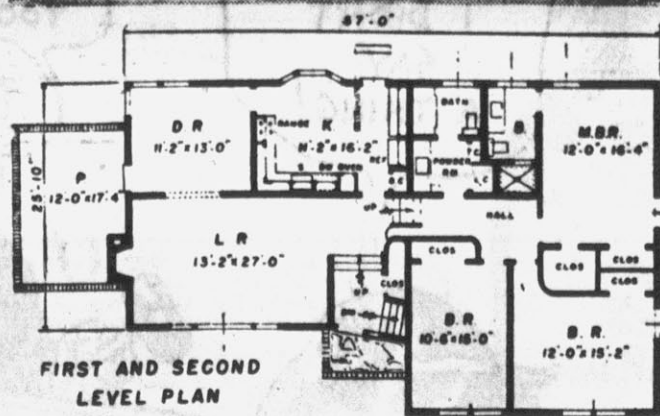

Henkel and his 70-year-old wife are en route to join their son Victor at his home in Sandy Hook, Conn. The Henkels looked very fit on their arrival.

Henkel has been a trader in hides and skins in China since 1906. Mrs. Henkel is a native of Bremen, Ill.

The Red government granted the couple exit permits Oct. 12 but they waited to catch a ship. Henkel said he and his wife had been living comfortably in the Shanghai apartment they had occupied for 20 years.

CARTOONIST AILING — Los Angeles (AP)—Cartoonist Jimmy Murphy, 63, creator of "Toots and Casper," remained in critical condition today after a second heart attack. He entered St. Vincent's Hospital two weeks ago after the first attack.

Movie-Goers Vote James Dean Tribute

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The late James Dean, emotion-torn hero of "East of Eden," and Jennifer Jones, Eurasian doctor of "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," have been named the top movie performers of the year by the first Audience Awards poll.

An estimated 15 million fans also voted "Mister Roberts" the best picture and Peggy Lee ("Pete Kelly's Blues") and Tab Hunter ("Battle Cry") and "Track of the Cat" the outstanding new personalities.

The first mass polling of moviegoers produced results that could have important bearings on the

Contractor Held To Faulty Bid

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was a tough break for contractor Jerry Artukovich, but Los Angeles County is sorry it can't give him the $100,000 he forgot to list in his estimate on a flood control project.

Artukovich explained to county supervisors yesterday that through an estimator's mistake equipment rental was listed at $20,000. It should have been $120,000. Artukovich explained.

But County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy told the supervisors that Artukovich's plea to change the total cost of $1,089,935 to $1,189,935 after the deal had been made "involves the very principle of competitive bidding."

Artukovich was held to his original bid which was guaranteed by a $100,000 performance bond.

Bangle Day Observance Set

Bangle Day for tuberculosis patients will be observed in the city Saturday, and in the schools on Friday.

In the schools each student will wear the red double barred cross as "the symbol of hope for TB patients." On Saturday the Girl Scouts will sell the bangles downtown.

James Walker is chairman of the project for the city schools, and Paul Clark of Winterville for the county schools.

Also in connection with the tuberculosis seal sale currently in progress, the Altrusa Club will sponsor a television program over WNCN Saturday at 1 p. m. According to Mrs. J. B. Spilman, executive secretary of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association, the program will feature the local Christmas Seal children, with a $10 prize offered by the club to the first person in the county who calls in during the program and identifies the two children. Mrs. Spilman said Greenville citizens will not be eligible for the prize.

She announced that, in addition to the mailing seal and bond campaign, the Service League will have the seals for sale from booths in the post office during the week December 12-17.

Funeral Monday For Jonathan C. Taylor

ROBERSONVILLE — Jonathan Carter Taylor, 73, who died at Park View Hospital in Rocky Mount last Saturday, was buried last Monday. Rev. Wilbur T. Wallace officiated. The Masons had charge of graveside services. Burial was in Robersonville Cemetery.

Mr. Taylor had been a deacon in Robersonville Christian Church since 1921 and he was a member of Stonewall Masonic Lodge. He was a son of the late Henry and Sallie Keel Taylor of Pitt County.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sadie Beverly Taylor; one daughter, Mrs. Willie B. Everett and three grandchildren. One sister, Mrs. Silas House of Robersonville, also survives.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor had planned to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on December 4.

Trade Accords Are Close To Home

Normally the people in Pitt County do not pay too much attention to trade agreements made between the United States and other nations. For the most part they have the mistaken idea that international agreements are far removed from the economy of this agricultural county.

We use the term "mistaken idea" because that is exactly what it is.

With each passing year the economy in Pitt County becomes more closely tied to the world markets and the trade agreements made between the United States and foreign countries. The reason is that approximately one-third of the nation's flue cured tobacco crop is sold to

A Victory Won, But Still No Lasting Peace

It was shortly after noon 14 years ago today that Americans listened with unbelieving ears and read with unbelieving eyes initial reports of the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor. It was the staggering blow which plunged America into World War II with all its military and civilian strength aimed at an objective... victory and the lasting peace which it would insure.

In due course the victory was achieved, and the military forces of the warlords of both Europe and Asia were crushed under the might of the Allies. It was a costly victory; but the endless struggle for liberty and freedom is always costly.

The peace? Well in a measure we have had peace since the end of World War II, but at best it has been a uneasy peace pockmarked by sporadic outbreaks any one of which could have led to another global conflict. In spite of improved conditions throughout the world since the end of World War II, and of the easing of international tensions, there remains a tedious balance between peace and war. The dream of a lasting peace in which all men would live under freedom and liberty for which so many gave their lives has not yet become a reality.

Those who gave their lives on battlefields from the stinking Pacific Islands to round the world to Normandy gave their all to assure the dream would come true. To the lives they tossed the torch and though it has flickered at times during the ensuing decade, the living have kept it burning.

But the dream of a stable, lasting peace has not yet become a reality. Whether it will, only time will tell. It suffices to say that those who set out to win the victory did their job and did it well. Those who remained to effect the lasting peace which was to follow victory cannot yet boast of a job well done. Years of work still lie ahead if the goal is to be achieved.

Demonstration Of Poor Taste, Poor Thinking

Wake Forest College students who staged the demonstration supposedly in behalf of a bigger athletic program for their school did little to help the athletic program or the reputation of the student body at the institution.

The torchlight parade in which the students carried signs reading "Down with (president) Tribble" and other slogans indicative of contempt for administrative decision made with regard to the college's athletic program were bad enough. Burning in effigy the outstanding president of the college was even worse.

Obviously the students who participated in the demonstration were victims of mob psychology. In retrospect many participants probably regret their part in the demonstration. Certainly there is little justification for the charges of students that a concerted move is underway to de-emphasize athletics at Wake Forest. On the football field this year the Demon Deacons weren't as potent as in years past, but in that respect they were no different from many other former football powers around the country. They remained one of the leading teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and certainly showed no signs of playing way over their heads.

A college at which athletics was being de-emphasized could hardly produce a baseball team which last season won the national intercollegiate crown. A college which was deemphasizing athletics would hardly turn out the caliber of basketball teams which have represented Wake Forest for the past several years.

Apparently a few leaders among the student body wanted some excitement and decided a demonstration over something would provide it. Instead of being copycats and staging a panty raid, they aimed for the scalp of the president of the institution for no valid reason.

The incident certainly has resulted in nothing constructive. And it has definitely degraded the reputation of the Wake Forest student body.

foreign nations. If those countries are able to carry on a profitable trade with the United States, it increases the opportunity for American tobacco to be sold in world markets. If high tariff barriers on either side of the ocean restrict trade too greatly, potential markets for American tobacco—including Pitt County tobacco—are likewise restricted.

Leaders of the tobacco industry in this country are at the present time anxiously awaiting word from the Philippines on the disposition of a pending increase on the duty on tobacco imported to the Philippine Republic. During the past several months strenuous efforts have been made to affect an easing of those duties, for they will have a direct effect on the quantity of American tobacco which is sold to that country.

The outcome of negotiations now being carried on the international level could have a very real effect upon the economy here in Pitt County.

This Philippine situation is only one among many similar situations. Countries which sell profitably their products in the United States are in much better position to purchase American tobacco than other countries. But if this nation throws up trade barriers which prohibit the selling of foreign products here, it likewise diminishes the sale potential abroad for American tobacco.

Pitt County, though we feel far removed from the international level where trade agreements between countries are negotiated, has a real stake in federal policies which govern trade between the United States and other nations. The situation commands more local interest in what is being done on the national level so far as trade agreements are concerned.

Recognition Among Foreign Specialists

By L. A. NISBET
RECOGNITION — A group of government officials from NATO countries visiting the United States under joint sponsorship of the Federal State and Defense departments, devoted four of the 20 days included in the entire visit to North Carolina—at Chapel Hill, Durham and Raleigh.

Shorter visits were scheduled in New York City and Albany, Boston, Des Moines and Norfolk, and a longer stay in Washington where emphasis would be on the defense angle.

Accompanied by representatives from the sponsoring Federal departments the visitors called upon Governor Hodges and other State officials and had lunch at State College with members of the Council of State and other government officials.

Numerous groups of specialists from other countries have visited North Carolina—educators, agriculturists, scientists and professions, Russell Gruman, director of extension at the University, said this group is unique in that its concern is for the whole area of governmental administration—high-brow for politics. He surmised that one reason for the longer time spent in North Carolina especially at Chapel Hill, was because of interest in the Institute of Government.

The schedule arranged by the folks at Washington indicates national and international recognition of the efforts being made in North Carolina toward perfecting the processes of democratic government. Less official and publicized, but no less actual, recognition was accorded North Carolina's educational system at the recent White House Conference on Education.

PROTECTION — There will be argued before the State Supreme Court next Tuesday the appeal of Emma Simpson from a sentence in Robeson County superior court of 25 years in the penitentiary after conviction for second degree murder of her husband.

In most respects the case is routine. A Negro woman and a male friend were accused of killing her husband in an argument over money. There are peculiar aspects which show how the office of the Attorney General is as diligent to protect the rights of the ignorant and the unfortunate as to sustain convictions of the guilty.

Emma Simpson and Northrup McNair were jointly indicted for the murder of Danzy Simpson. At the trial presided over by Judge Henry Stevens the defendants were prosecuted by the solicitor and assistant solicitor of the district and a privately employed lawyer. Defendant McNair had two good lawyers, but defendant Emma Simpson had no money to hire a lawyer and evidence showed she was relatively ignorant and unfamiliar with court procedure.

The case against McNair was not pressed and he was put on the witness stand to testify against his co-defendant. Emma was convicted and sentenced to 25 years in prison. She gave notice of appeal as a pauper and the court assigned counsel.

The main question now, in fact about the only issue, since no procedural errors seem to have occurred in the original hearing, is whether Judge Stevens should have assigned counsel for the defendant in the first trial. When criminal cases come to the Superior Court, the Attorney General is generally found supporting the decision of the lower court. In the instant case the conclusion of the brief prepared by Wade Bruton, senior assistant attorney general and signed also by W.B. Rodman as attorney general, is pertinent. It reads:

"The State has no desire to avail itself of technicalities in cases such as this, and does not take the position that the failure to provide counsel should be a ground for reversal of the conviction. It should be determined that counsel for the defendant should have been provided."

TOUCHY — This involves the delicate matter of judicial discretion in cases such as this, and does not take the position that the failure to provide counsel should be a ground for reversal of the conviction. It should be determined that counsel for the defendant should have been provided."

The appellate courts seldom go beyond or behind jury findings of fact. They are alert to see that lower courts observe the provisions of law. With obvious reluctance they sometimes overrule the exercise of discretion on part of judges at lower levels. That is a very "touchy" matter, because it has nothing to do with facts or law. It involves only the personal opinions of the several men who occupy judicial offices. The system under which our state courts operate gives this advantage to the Supreme Court. Opinions there must be agreed upon by a majority of seven justices, whereas in the Superior Courts only one man exercises the discretion from which appeals are taken.

Dinner With A 'Stranger'

It was a Saturday evening and I had caught a train in Washington, D.C. headed for a weekend home in the good old North State.

I took a train which left during the middle of the afternoon. It meant that I would arrive in Raleigh rather late that night so I journeyed to the dining car for my evening meal.

The train was crowded and I encountered a long line at the dining car. Finally my turn came and I told the head waiter I was alone.

Would I mind sitting at a table with a couple and other gentlemen? No, that would be fine. I soon found myself sitting next to a distinguished looking man and across from a middle-aged couple. We chatted as a group for a short while and soon I became engaged in a conversation with the gentleman next to me.

A business man, I guessed to myself, returning to Raleigh after completing his transactions in Washington.

I was wrong. He was in Washington on a temporary government assignment, he told me.

He returned to North Carolina practically every weekend and usually flew from National Airport to Raleigh-Durham Airport. This weekend all flights had been grounded due to heavy snow in the Washington area, however, and he took the train instead.

I still did not know the stranger's name so I began asking point blank questions.

"Are you from Raleigh?" I asked.

"No, I'm from Chapel Hill," he replied. "My car will meet me at the station and I'll go on to Chapel Hill tonight."

"Well," I said, "You must be connected with the University."

"That's right," the stranger stated.

"Are you on the faculty?" I persisted.

"Well sort of," he answered. "I'm president of the Greater University."

It was Gordon Gray, who only recently resigned as president of the University of North Carolina.

He surrounded his mountain chisel with mirror glass, then announced that any man who climbed it would have his daughter's hand.

Well, knights and princes from far lands came and tried to surmount the hill of glass. But one after the other they only climbed until they were tired, paused to admire their reflection in the mirrored glass, then lost their strength and slid down hill to defeat.

They strove and departed, year after year.

And year after year Otis, the local milkman, came to the bottom of the hill and sent his wares to the top of the hill in a lowered silver bucket, and never tried to climb the hill at all. And after many years, when all the princes had failed, he looked up and saw the fair face of Alva, the golden princess smiling down at him. She was a princess, but she was lonely, and the milkman was there to see.

One day Otis slipped a note among his milk bottles in the silver bucket, and the note said: "I love you, dear princess. Slide down the hill to me tomorrow night and we will elope."

The message went up the hill in the silver bucket. There is some doubt about what happened afterward. Some say the princess slid voluntarily down the hill of glass to her waiting lover. Others say her father pushed her.

But they all lived happily ever after.

Effects Of Cold War On People

By ELMER ROESSNER

A blond bulk of a man bellows in Madras, halfway around the world. So someone in your family may work overtime next year. The rasping voice of another man echoes across Lake Geneva. Someone you know may get an unexpected contract.

The fading away of the Spirit of Geneva and the hate-mongering by the Soviet road show in India are having effects on American economy, politics and home life.

For a while it seemed as if the Communists wanted peace—a cool peace rather than a sizzling friendship, but still a peace. Then it developed that your Uncle Sam had been the victim of the old badger game at Geneva.

During the weeks of false hopes, it looked as if defense spending could be slowed a bit; the draft could be slowed and there were better chances for a cut in income taxes. And now—

RESULTS OF THE RED. X1 While definitive announcements have not been made in fact, plans are probably not yet complete—reports from Washington indicate that the defense program will not be curtailed as much as had been planned earlier. Some projects, such as radar screening, guided missiles and atomic warfare defense, may be stepped up. This may keep defense spending at present or even higher levels.

Industry has been somewhat concerned about defense cutbacks. Now it looks as if new orders will offset cancellations and some plants will be unexpectedly busy in 1956.

The effects on politics have already been disclosed in Washington dispatches. That precarious marriage—bitterness and foreign policy—was headed for the divorce courts earlier this year. Now for the sake of the child—the United Front Against the Reds—the romance has been patched up.

There seems to be a tacit agreement between the government and the opposition to refrain from any further quarrels, so-called as an election issue.

Apparently, the Democrats (and Republicans) dislike the communies more than they dislike the Republicans (and Democrats).

COMPETITION, GLOBAL KIND Maintenance of the defensive pace will have many other consequences. Employment will be kept up, with little drop in overtime. There may be less relaxation of raft quotas than some young men hoped. Continuing high demand for steel and other defense materials will tend to keep prices up.

The necessity of meeting Russian challenges the world around may provide a handy though partial, solution of the farm problem. We learned after World War I, and again after World War II, that we cannot buy friendships overseas with gifts.

Nevertheless, as long as Russia is offering aid in the form of purchases from India and other neutrals, we will have to compete. Giving more of our huge surplus of farm produce may keep us, at least, from losing friends and provide a way to channel government funds to farmers. And whether giving food away wins friends or not, we can never hoard our surpluses as long as there is a hungry child in the world.

NEW APPROACH TO RELATIONS? Since we know that gifts do not buy friendships, now that a few more of the chips are down there may be a re-examination of our policies in this area.

The Russians have gained friends in India, Ceylon, Burma and other parts of Asia by offering trade instead of gifts. We might offer rare bargains in surplus foods. Selling them instead of giving them would save Oriental face. But no matter how cheaply we sold, the action would be futile unless we bought as much from their countries. This would bring up the recurring problem of foreign imports competing with American factories and workers. We may have to solve THAT problem some day.

In addition, we may have to take a new attitude toward cultures of the people we want as friends. We cannot regard them as heathens and expect them to like us. And we may have to examine our immigration policies. We cannot tell people they are not good enough to live with us and then expect them to do for us.

There seems to be nothing solid to hold on to any more. Like every other grade-school graduate now over the age of 40, when we were young we laboriously learned certain axiomatic truths—truths, that is, that were immutable and incontrovertible and unchallengeable. For instance, a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. Or, matter is indestructible. Then along came Albert Einstein some years ago to demonstrate that the axiom about a straight line was axiomatic only in a Euclidean universe. And now we have Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence of the University of California telling us of the discovery of a new atomic particle, the antiproton, which can annihilate matter as we know it.

The nature of the new particle generated in the Berkeley Bevatron is really quite simple and easy to understand when shorn of the technical verbiage in which the announcement of it was couched. Actually, we surmise, the same effect or one somewhat similar to it, can be achieved right in the kitchen sink with the aid of a lemon-juice strainer and an old-fashioned rotary egg beater and the seed of a good-sized avocado or alligator pear. All that is necessary, if we understand the process correctly, is to calculate the centrifugal force of the beater, making allowances, of course, for mean solar variation and deviation, multiply by the coefficient of means, square centrifugal force and add just a tiny touch of being an expert extrapolator. There is no need to make a mystery of it.

As you all can see, this addition to our knowledge of the world we live in is extremely important—and, well, important. There is no use trying to turn the clock back to the remembered, innocent days of our youth when an axiom was an axiom. Anyway, we shouldn't be at all surprised if the Atomic Energy Commission having annihilated matter, should now turn its attention to obliterating time. We sometimes can't help wishing, though, that they'd just leave our little old solar system alone.

Stevenson Had Cool Reception In South

By RAY TUCKER
MIAMI, Fla., — Alai E. Stevenson's current quest for Southern friends, delegates and votes has not been a howling success. Although given a friendly welcome on his glad-handing mission, national and state political leaders stayed away from his presence.

The reasons for their absence apply to Democratic big wigs in almost every other Southern state. For one thing, Florida and three other commonwealths voted for President Eisenhower in 1952, and he ran up sizable totals in areas which he did not carry. Governors, Senators, Congressmen and local officials seeking reelection next year dare not antagonize the hundreds of thousands who "still like Ike."

In Florida, for instance, Stevenson opposed Stevenson. Sen. James V. Thompson, who is running for reelection next year, is a staunch Eisenhower supporter. Stevenson expressed a desire to meet Smathers at Gainesville where he addressed University of Florida students. Smathers did not appear.

SENATOR'S PREDICAMENT Smathers' predicament applies to Southern politicians generally. Besides not caring to alienate Eisenhower voters, he does not aim to affront the 285,000 citizens who voted for Senator Estes Kefauver in Florida's 1952 Presidential primary, which the Tennessee lost to Senator "Dick" Russell of Georgia by only 82,000. Kefauver also wants the nomination next year.

As a result, Stevenson was met at various airports only by town and county Democrats. He drew chuckles and laughter with a characteristically witty speech to his campus listeners, but few of them are eligible to vote. He delivered a conventional address on the need for more housing before the American Municipal Congress at Miami, but most of the men and women in the audience were from non-Southern areas.

Grifton Hostesses Entertain At Bridge

GRIFTON—Mrs. Becky Worthington entertained on Friday night at a pretty party at her home on Cannon Blvd. with her contract club members and invited guests to make up four tables for bridge. Attractive decorations were noted in the home with a color note of pink predominating. The buffet held a fruit arrangement flanked by tall pine tapers in a silver candelabra. The buffet table was covered with a cut-work linen cloth and held pink tapers in wrought iron holders. The auxiliary tables were centered with miniature Christmas trees. A delicious ham supper was enjoyed, followed by coconut cake and coffee as dessert.

During the bridge games Mrs. David Parker and Mrs. Albert Tyson scored high for club members and Joe Goolsby high among the visitors. The consolation went to Mrs. Heber Wade. Mrs. Worthington remembered Mrs. Robt. McCotter and Mrs. John Bullock with gifts for their assistance in serving. They were also her supper guests. Others were Mesdames Wilbur Murphy, Walter Murphy, Paul Bradley, John Coward, Jerry Insoce, Tom Gower, W. I. Blissette, Robert Mewborn, C. L. McClaine, James Hudson and Miss Ruth E. Smith.

The home. Guests were invited into the dining room where the table was overlaid with a lace cloth and held a beautiful center arrangement of red gladioli and white carnations in a silver candelabra with epergnettes.

After the delectable supper, bridge was played at five tables. The high scorers among the club members were Miss Hazel Patrick and Mrs. J. L. Quinerly. The visitor's prize went to Mrs. Joe Goolsby and Mrs. C. E. Stone. Others players were Mesdames Marie Chapman, Bert Johnson, Louise Mewborn, Mesdames L. L. Mewborn, H. P. Quinerly, Dewey Wall, Thurman J. Williams, Jack Chapman, L. D. McCotter, Alton Chapman, Robert Mewborn, Johnie Smith, John Groet, Tom Gower, Robert Forney and E. M. Glenn.

Mrs. Roger Johnson entertained on Thursday night at a delightful dessert bridge for members of her card club and invited players for three tables. Chrysanthemums and potted plants made pretty decorations in the playing rooms. The highest scores were compiled by Mrs. W. E. Raspberry and Mrs. Walter Patrick for club members and the visitor's prize went to Mrs. David Parker. Others playing were Mesdames Roy Jackson, Woodrow Smith, Edward Hart, Milton Hart, Glendel Tucker, Mark Phillips, Ben G. Tucker, Julius Chauncey and Hunter Shackelford.

At the refreshment hour the hostess served spiced cake with ice cream and coffee.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
December 7, 1925

The teachers of the Vines House and college delightfully entertained the Dorcas Class of the Methodist Church at the college last evening. The rooms were beautifully decorated with holly, tapers and shaded lights carrying out the spirit of Christmas. A doll for Christmas and a purse with money was planned to be sent to the adopted orphan of the class. It was suggested that a family be taken for the purpose of making Christmas a happy one. The following officers were elected for the coming six months: Ruth Haskins, president; Almeta Mallison, vice-president; Beulah Westmoreland, secretary; Ruth McGowan, treasurer; and Rosalyn Bryan, reporter. The hostesses served a delicious ice course.

TIME BOMB

TOKYO (AP)—The Soviet Union presumably exploded its hydrogen bomb at 1 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, Nov. 22 near Lake Baikal, Siberia, the Central Meteorological Observatory announced today. Japanese government weather experts based their presumption on "abnormal pressure waves" observed Nov. 22 at 30 observatories throughout Japan.

Rival Nat'l League Managers Upset By Trade Between Brooklyn, Chicago

By JOE REICHLER
CHICAGO (AP) — Rival National League managers were charged and embittered over the trade between Chicago and Brooklyn that sent hard-hitting third baseman Ransom Jackson to the world champion Dodgers for reserve third sacker Don Hoak and spare outfielder Walter Moryn.

The transaction announced last night caused eyebrows-raising among baseball people who were "not in" on the deal. "That the Dodgers got much the better of the deal, one NL manager, expressing surprise that the Cubs would consent to such a deal, growled:

"Those Dodgers were going to be tough enough to beat as it was. But who's going to stop them now? Last year they had seven men in the lineup who could hit the ball out of the park at any given time. Not they've got eight. And with Don Newcombe on the mound they have nine."

Cub Personnel Manager Wid Matthews, who made the swap with Brooklyn Vice President E. J. (Buzie) Bavasi, announced there will be a "tail" to this transaction sometime next week. The "tail," reported in Russ Meyer, the veteran right hander, who will report when the Cubs have gotten down below the 40-player limit to make room for him. The Cubs released Walker Cooper and the 42-year-old catcher was expected to sign with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Farmville Cagers Take Two Wins Over Winterville

Farmville high school basketball squads took a double-header last night from Winterville in County Conference play. The boys won 53-40; the girls racked up a 42-30 victory.

For the female winners, Jane Joyner earned high scoring honors with a total of 19 points. Barbara Evans of Winterville paced her team with 12 markers. The Farmville cagers had little trouble with their visitors and commanded action throughout the contest.

Bill Farrior led the boys with 19 points and Tommy Wainwright added 12 for the winning cause. Bob Sawyer dropped in 17 for Winterville.

Mother Entered Leprosarium To Protect Family

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mother of two healthy children has gone voluntarily to the Marine leprosarium at Carville, La., for treatment, partly through the unfounded fear she might possibly infect her husband or children.

Dr. George M. Uhl, Los Angeles city health officer, said the woman "could not possibly transmit leprosy, since she is a biologically negative case."

"She has been under the supervision of the Health Department for years," said Dr. Uhl, "but the disease has not been arrested and she has become progressively crippled, with several numb areas on her body."

Dr. Uhl said her decision to submit to hospital care was inspired by the hope of obtaining a new treatment as well as by her fear.

Gopher Shrugged Off Bombing Try

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Harassed by a pesky gopher, farmer Paul Thomas dropped a concussion bomb into the varmint's hole.

But, he said, the gopher pushed the bomb, with fuse burning, back out. Thomas quickly picked it up and hurled it away. The bomb exploded, igniting a hay pile.

Firemen saved the house and barn but 12 tons of hay was destroyed. Thomas claims the gopher still peers out the hole.

Deacs Promise No 'Walkaway'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina State had the jump today on another Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship. But Wake Forest had served notice the race is still to be run and will not be a walkaway.

The Deacons plumped in basket for basket last night during the first half at Winston-Salem. The score at halftime was 45-45. Wake Forest also outshot State from the floor, 30-27.

If it had not been for the unerring foul shooting of Vic Molodet and his teammates, State would not have gained out its 91-90 victory. Molodet, plying in 16 of 16, has not missed in his last 28 tries. The "Pack" sank 36 of 40 in what may have been an ACC record-setting performance.

Molodet paced State with 28 points while Cliff Hafer had 21. Lowell (Lefty) Davis racked 20 for the Deacons and Jim Gilley 19.

At Charlottesville, the Virginia Cavaliers built on a skinny halftime lead to take an interconference victory over Hampden-Sydney, 82-63. Virginia's Bob McCarty led all scorers with 22 points, and teammate Bob Hardy made 15.

Russ Holcomb paced the visitors with 20. After an evening of idleness to night, ACC teams take the floors tomorrow night in two interconference tilts. Clemson, winless in two games, travels to Georgia and Maryland, winner of its two starts, is host to William and Mary.

The remainder of the week's schedule:
Friday—South Carolina at Duke, North Carolina vs Georgia Tech at Charlotte.

Saturday—South Carolina at North Carolina; Wake Forest at Maryland; Georgia Tech at Duke; Virginia at Richmond; Eastern Kentucky at N.C. State.

Crippled Phantoms Down Goldsboro 53-50 In Opener

Billy Johnson Tallies 23; Edwards, Riddick On Bench

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

A scrappy Greenville high school basketball team, playing without the services of veterans Harold Edwards and Ike Riddick, came from behind in the last seconds of play to defeat the AAA Goldsboro Quakes last night, 53-50, in the Phant season opener.

The G-Man quintet that started off against their much taller opponents, were Wayne Eldon and Tommy Norris at guards, Billy Johnson at center, Ray Hardee, and Jerry Drum at forwards. Only one of the five starters, Hardee, had played varsity ball previously, however, Johnson scored 23 points.

Greenville moved to a quick lead in the first quarter on the accuracy of center Billy Johnson's free throws and Norris' long set shots. The visitors seemed stunned at first, were unable to muster an attack and fell behind, 23-17 at the end of the period. Big Bob Bizzel, a 6-5 junior, paced the Goldsboro team of defense and kept the Greens within safe scoring distance.

Quakes Pull Ahead
Recovering from the initial shock, the Quakes fought back furiously, dumping in 15 markers in the second quarter. Larry Fredrick played outstanding defensive ball at his Blue forward spot and was a leading factor in holding Coach Boley Farley's crew to 11 points. At halftime the lead had changed hands and Goldsboro was ahead, 34-32.

Third quarter play was characterized by an amazing display of defensive basketball on the part of the visiting Quakes. The Big Blue virtually snuffed out Greenville scoring, allowing their hosts only 6 points during the entire period. Bizzel and Fredrick continued to lead Coach Charlie Lee's cagers in scoring, and Lee Coward, a guard, was a standout on defense.

GeMen Triumph
The AAA squad held a slight advantage upon entering the final period of play, and seemed to be getting stronger as time passed. The Phants, playing more on determination than polished skill, continued to hack away at the nets and with mere seconds remaining, Johnson tied the score 48-48 with a free throw. Another Johnson foul shot put Greenville ahead by one point, and the 6-2 senior sank a field goal to lengthen the margin.

Goldsboro's Bill Moore made it 51-50 with a push shot with only 16 seconds remaining in the game. A personal foul gave Greenville Wayne Eldon two trials on the free throw line, and the peppery junior made both shots count. The score remained 53-50 and Greenville racked up its first win of the season, and without the aid of its two most prominent stars.

Surprise
Coach Farley, commenting on the fray, said, "The boys really surprised me. They played hard when they were ahead and even harder when behind. I'm proud of every one of them."

Sophomore guard Mack Roebuck, Bobby Edwards and Bub Wingate also saw action for the Greens and gave a good account of themselves. Roebuck was the most-called upon sixth man on the Phant bench.

Edwards and Riddick suffered sprained ankles last week as result of earlier injuries during football season and will be out of action for an uncertain length of time. Coach Farley said it was possible that they might be ready by next weekend. But I won't play either one of them until they are in condition and out of danger."

Three Duke University football teams have had undefeated seasons—1898, 1891 and 1920. Two others, in 1938 and 1941, were undefeated in regular season play but lost in the Rose Bowl.

ECC Swimmers Meet N.C. State This Evening

East Carolina's high-flying swimming squad meets the nation's top AAU event team, North Carolina State, in Memorial Pool tonight at 7 o'clock.

Coach Raymond Martinez' crew has already started off their season with a pair of wins over Wofford and Davidson and a defeat at the hands of a powerful Clemson team. Martinez has improved his club tremendously during the first sessions of practice this year, and says that his boys "will give State as good a battle as any team they'll meet this season."

The Pirates, who last year lost every match except one, have bounced back for this 1953-54 campaign showing signs of being one of the top squads in the East. Bob Sawyer, a freshman, is one of the best in the state, according to Martinez, and the breast-stroke team of Jack Koebberling and Frank Moore will give the Wolfpack a hard battle. The duo is undefeated in three contests.

Ken Migette and Frank Lusk will be the top Buc divers tonight and Martinez has shown confidence that these two will also be a tough pair for the country's champions to swallow.

A large crowd is expected to see the 10-event meet at the gym pool and there will be plenty of seats provided. The contest will be free of charge.

UNC Council Is Mum On Actions

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina Athletic Council met behind closed doors last night and kept mum on its actions.

The council had been expected to decide whether it would recommend that football Coach George Barclay be retained.

Barclay's contract expires Dec. 31 and it has been rumored it will not be renewed. Most prominently mentioned as a possible successor has been Maryland Coach Jim Tatum.

Following last night's meeting, Chairman A. W. Hobbs said the council's deliberations were not completed and he had no comment on any action taken. He said a date for the next meeting had not definitely been set.

Pirates Meet Top Cage Team Thursday Night

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

The East Carolina College Pirates will be going against one of the greatest amateur basketball teams in our nation's history Thursday night in the Phillips "68" Oilers.

The mighty Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla. have been one of the winningest cage groups in the world since 1920. In 28 seasons since then they have won 1,050 games and lost only 131, a mark bettered only by the magnificent Harlem Globe Trotters.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates will get their look at the world-renowned Oilers in a big doubleheader at Wilmington's new Brodgen Hall. The Pirates will play the Oilers following the Wilmington-Lumberton high school preliminary. The second game will start at 8:30 p.m.

The 66'ers last season won the National Industrial Basketball League crown, by a three-game margin over the Peoria Cats, who tied the 66'ers in the 1953-54 chase, the only time that the Oilers haven't won the undisputed crown since they entered the NIBL in the 1948-49 season.

Win Streak In Effect
Last season, the Oilers put together their two longest winning streaks in two years, 10 in a row to open the season, and 12 in a row, including four games in the successful quest of the National AAU championship. That winning streak was still in effect at the start of the 1953-54 season.

During last season only one team, the Milwaukee Allen-Bradleys, defeated the 66'ers more than once as Phillips posted a 30-7 record.

For the first time in the history of the NIBL, a player captured the Most Valuable Player award for the second time. Chuck Darling, Phillips' superb 6-9 center, not only won All-NIBL honors for the third time in three years, but was also voted by his opponents as the most valuable player for the second consecutive season. He lost out in the scoring race by five points to Milwaukee's Grant Wittberger. In winning the 1954-55 scoring championship, Wittberger also became the first player ever to win that title twice. Darling captured the honor in 1953-54.

On the Phillips' roster, besides Darling who was All-America at Iowa, are such notables as Jim Buchanan of Nebraska, regarded as one of the finest two-handed outside shooters in the business; Arnold Short, who scored 1,394 points in three seasons at Oklahoma City U.; and Bob Mattick, 6-10 All-American at Oklahoma A&M.

The Oilers have other outstanding collegiate stars, including 6-8 Bill Hougland of Kansas' NCAA champions, 6-4 Joe Walsh of Stanford, 6-7 Ron Rivers of Wyoming, 6-7 Chet Nee of Oregon, 6-8 Burdette Halderson of Colorado, and 6-8 Rip Gish of Western Kentucky.

So far this season, the Oilers have played 11 games, winning all 11, of course, to run their win string to 23 games. They've beaten AAU giants King Motors, Denver Central Bankers, Wichita Vickers and the University of Texas. They play McCrary Eagles tonight in Salisbury. Phillips always put on a great show and a big representation from Greenville is expected to make the trip. Tickets at the window will be $1 students and $1.50 adults.

Belair Stable Is On Auction Block

NEW YORK (AP)—Nashua, 3-year-old champion and leading money winner of 1953 whose earning power still is estimated at more than $500,000, no longer will run under the familiar white-and-red dotted colors of the Belair Stud.

The first step in the dissolution of the famous stable, rumored since the death of William Woodward Jr. Oct. 30, was taken yesterday when executors of Woodward's estate placed Nashua and 61 other thoroughbreds up for public sale.

The executors called for sealed bids by Dec. 15.

Second on the list of world moneywinners, Nashua is topped only by Citation, who won $1,088,760. Nashua has earned a total of $945,415 as a 2-year-old and 3-year-old. He won $752,550 this year.

The champion colt has been turned out in a paddock at the Calborne Farms in Paris, Ky. and is booked for a number of winter races in Miami and Santa Anita.

Utilities Offer To Buy System In Grimesland

Greenville Utilities has asked Grimesland officials to consider selling their electrical system to Greenville on terms similar to those offered by Carolina Power and Light.

In a letter to Grimesland's attorney Albion Dunn, City Attorney R. B. Lee asked the town's legal representative to discuss with the Grimesland town board the question of whether they would consider selling the system at the same price offered by Carolina Power and Light Co.

Lee described the letter, written on instructions from the Greenville Utilities Commission, as a request for information only. He said the request is not a legal offer to purchase the electric system.

The city attorney said no reply to the letter has been received. Grimesland citizens voted Nov. 26 to sell the system to Carolina Power and Light Co.

CP&L has offered to pay the town $125,000 for the system. However, the electric company has stipulated that Grimesland must be free of a 20-year contract for the purchase of power from Greenville Utilities before the contract for the sale of the system is signed.

Grimesland Utilities has informed Grimesland that it would be "improper and impractical" to release the town from its contract at present. The 20-year contract still has 13 years to run.

The November election in which Grimesland citizens decided to sell the system climaxed a long fight in the eastern Pitt County town over the municipal electrical system.

One group has bitterly opposed the sale on the grounds that the revenue is needed to maintain the town's low 50 cents per hundred dollar tax evaluation and to finance needed municipal improvements.

THE QUICKSILVER POOL

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
Lora overslept the next morning. When she opened her eyes, bright April sunshine burnished the window panes, birds proclaimed the day, and the air was alive with the tinkle of spring.

She yawned widely and stretched to her very finger tips. Last night's unhappy ending reached out to possess her mind but she would have none of it. Today she would laugh at Wade if he gloomed (tease Jenny lovingly coax a smile from Mother Tyler).

Unfortunately her brave plans began to go awry almost at once. She came downstairs in her new gown of dove gray, to find Mrs. Tyler and Jenny already at breakfast. The boy was not eating and his grandmother was obviously in a towering dudgeon.

"I am sorry to be late," Lora apologized, slipping into her place.

"Has Wade overslept too?" Jenny threw her a tragic look and began to fiddle with his porridge spoon.

"Eat!" said his grandmother and Jenny forced the spoon to quivering lips.

"Has something happened?" Lora asked. "Where is Wade?"

"That," said Mrs. Tyler coldly, "is what I should like to know. My son has never turned against me with thoughts he would not share until you came into this house, Lora. Perhaps you had better tell me where it is that he goes in the evening and why he is so often out of the house all day long."

"He doesn't tell me, either," Lora said mildly. "I believe he is working on some effort that has to do with the war. Why don't you ask him yourself?"

"I have no wish to try," said the old lady, inconsistently. "At last he has come to his senses about one thing this morning. Jenny's mouth trembled uncontrollably. He set down his spoon and ran out of the room and up the stairs."

Mrs. Tyler began an indignant complaint, but Lora did not stay to listen. She set her napkin down with a hasty "Excuse me," and hurried after Jenny.

Sure enough, he was being sick in his slop pail. She held his head gently, supported his small convulsed body until he was quiet again. Then she helped him to bed, drew off her shoes, and pulled the quilt over him.

"It's Hamlin," he said after a futile effort to stop his tears. "Papa says he has to go. This morning Ellie must have left Grandmother's sitting room door open and Hamlin got in there before I was up. I guess it was a place for him because he's never allowed there, and he must have thought it was fun. He didn't mean to do anything bad Lorie."

Jenny gulped and Lora patted his arm gently.

One of the shawls you and Papa gave Grandmother for Christmas was on a chair and Hamlin dragged it down and played with it all over the room. He chewed a hole in it and tore it in some other places. Grandmother heard him and rang and rang the bell, but Ellie—as busy in the kitchen and she didn't come right away. And then I heard the ringing and the barking and I came running down, right after Papa."

He choked back a sob and went on. "Grandmother was furious when she saw her blue shawl and she said Hamlin would have to go. I tried to explain that he didn't know any better because he is a very young dog. But—but Papa wouldn't listen. He said this was enough and Grandmother was right. He—he called Peter in and told him to take Ham out and get rid of him—to give him away at once."

Lora held the small hand tightly. "And then what happened?"

He sat up in bed to tell her despairingly. "I fought Peter when he came in. And when Papa held me, I—I kicked him and I bit him on the hand. But he didn't do anything to me. He just looked at me in the most awful way and said I'd done more damage in my life than bed, drew off her shoes, and pulled the quilt over him. Then he told Grandmother he was going out and he didn't even stay for breakfast. Lorie—what did he mean? Did he mean my mother and—the turtles?"

"No, darling," she said quickly. "Of course he didn't mean that."

"I'd rather have him thrash me than look at me the way he did."

She held him close, and for once he did not rebel at the embrace, but sobbed with his face against her neck, words still spilling out.

"Don't let them take Hamlin! He's my family, Lorie. He's all I've got. The Union doesn't sell families like the South does with slaves. Lorie you will help me?"

"Of course, I'll help you," she whispered, her lips close to his ear. "You've got me, you know. And you've got your papa. All mothers and fathers get cross with their children sometimes, and sometimes the children get cross at them."

"It's not like that!" cried Jenny knowingly. "He hates me. I know he does. And I hate him too!"

She could feel anger tightening in him, pulling him taut. Gently she pushed him back upon his pillow.

"You can't help me if you keep this up. And I'll need your help if we're to save Hamlin."

He quieted a little and stared at her darkly.

"First I'll have to talk to Peter. But I can't do anything unless you stop crying and try to get a nap. Never mind school today. You just rest now. And this afternoon we'll talk about what can be done. Make plans. We'll work things out somehow, Jenny. You know I'll stand by you."

It was a relief to find that Mother Tyler had finished and had been wheeled back to her sitting-room. When she had eaten, Lora went in briefly to let her know that Jenny would stay in bed this morning, and that she was going to take some fruit to Adam Hume, who was down with the fever again.

There was a gleam in the deep-set eyes as the old woman regarded her. "Have you seen what that dog has done?" She reached for the ragged shawl from the table next to her.

"Yes, I know," Lora said. "I'm very sorry. But I think Jenny is being torn much more seriously than your shawl and I think he is more important."

"Fortunately my son does not place my feelings so low on the scale of his consideration," Mrs. Tyler broke in. "He has ordered Peter to get rid of the dog. Something which should have been done long ago. What I can't understand is how he can be visiting Morgan's house these days, as Ellie tells me he is. He knows how dangerous and destructive she can be."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)— Sagging railroads and higher aircrafts today created a mixed stock market.

Prices in the early afternoon were spread widely from around 5 points lower to 3 points higher, but most changes were small.

The pace of trading was in line with that of recent days and hit a rate of about 2,500,000 shares for the day.

Selling in the rails came with weakness in Santa Fe Railroad which fell around 5 points after directors declared an extra dividend of $3 as against $2 last year, but took no action to split the stock.

Aircrafts were helped ahead by a few leaders. Chance Vought was up around 3 points on the announcement of a 100-million-dollar order for Navy jets. North American and General Dynamics, both heavily interested in atomic energy, were in demand at higher prices.

Douglas Aircraft, up 3% yesterday, was neglected today after the official announcement that Eastern Air Lines would buy 165 million dollars worth of jet transports from the company.

Nine To Select UNC President

RALEIGH (U)—Victor S. Bryant of Durham will head a nine-member committee of University of North Carolina trustees charged with finding a new president for the university.

The special committee was appointed by Gov. Hodges yesterday to find a successor to Gordon Gray, whose resignation was accepted last month.

Bryant headed the committee which selected Gray to succeed Dr. Frank P. Graham as university head after Graham accepted appointment to the U.S. Senate.

Gray, Winston-Salem millionaire, is now assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

Bryant's committee will screen candidates and make recommendations to the full board of trustees. Meanwhile, Dr. James Harris Purks Jr., university provost, is continuing as acting president of the university.

Other members of the committee are: Kemp D. Battle of Rocky Mount; Horton Doughton of Statesville; Mrs. Albert H. Lathrop of Asheville; Dr. Shahan Taylor of Greensboro; Dr. Harvey Mann of Lake Landing; Rudolph Mintz of Wilmington; W. Frank Taylor of Greensboro; and Mrs. Charles W. Tillett of Charlotte.

Inquest Tonight In Highway Death

A coroner's jury will hold an inquest tonight into the death of Bennie Lundy Chambers, of Route 6, killed Saturday when he apparently walked into the path of a truck on NC 11 just north of the city.

The driver of the truck which struck Chambers, Willie Preston Willis, 32, of Williston, was released without bond for appearance here tonight.

The inquest is scheduled for the court house at 7:30.

Paying Extra To Acquire Pennies

RUTLAND, Vt. (U)—The Killington Bank and Trust Co. is giving $1.05 for every $1 brought in—and claims that's good business.

The bank inserted a newspaper advertisement yesterday calling attention to its bargain in money. The only proviso is that the $1 brought in must be in pennies rolled in wrappers.

The reason for the bargain is a shortage of pennies.

The P.T.A. of Fleming St. School met last Tuesday night with a large crowd present.

The president, Mrs. Emma Mays, presided.

After the devotions, the minutes of the previous meeting were read, received and adopted.

New members were admitted and the president cited many reasons why parents should come to P.T.A. meetings and were urged to attend each one. She stated that it was for the welfare of the child, and that it was possible for the teacher and the parent get to know and understand each other better.

Many committees were appointed. Mrs. B. C. Terry was made program chairman.

Mrs. M. B. Godette and her committee, Mrs. Magnolia Daniels and Mrs. Lucile Hines, did a very good job of entertaining last night.

Each grade parent was cited and the grade having the most parents was given a prize. Class 1A, Mrs. Godette, teacher, was the winner, with most parents present for two consecutive meetings.

The committee had a lovely Christmas decorative scene, and served the group a delicious repast.

The Celebrity Social Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Doris Hines, 1818 S. Greene St., tonight at 7 o'clock.

The club is sponsoring a chitling dinner Saturday night across from the Blue Moon.

Pride of East No. 524 Order of Eastern Star will hold a regular meeting Thursday night at 7:30. Election of officers will take place.

Announcement
Mr. and Mrs. John I. Shivers announce the engagement of their daughter Amy to Charles Lee Taylor.

The wedding will take place at the home of her uncle, the Rev. T. T. Shivers, at 610 Centennial St., Greenville, on Monday, Dec. 26, at 4 p.m., and the reception will follow immediately at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. L. R. Taylor, 200 Tyson St.

All relatives and friends are invited to be present.

No invitations will be sent in the city.

The Amiable Social Club will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Emma Whitehurst, 802-B Tyson St.

Saying Goodbye To His 5 Wives

SALT LAKE CITY, (U)—Carl Eugene Jentsch today had a week to get his affairs in order and say goodbye to his five wives. Next Tuesday, he begins a five-year sentence imposed because he married more than one woman at a time.

Jentsch, 54-year-old electrician who earlier had pleaded guilty to charges of "unlawful cohabitation" was given the sentence in second district court here yesterday.

He is the first man to be sentenced since Utah recently began a new crackdown on polygamy.

Jentsch maintained he was following the true beliefs of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church in practicing plural marriage although the church outlawed polygamy in 1890 and has excommunicated people who continue the practice.

Funeral Thursday For Mrs. James P. Nichols

FARMVILLE—Mrs. Ada Freeman Crawford Nichols, 76, wife of the late James Paul Nichols, died at the home of a son, George Crawford, Rt. 1 Farmville, about 3 a.m. Tuesday. She had been in declining health 12 years and was critically ill the past week.

Funeral services will be held at Farmville Funeral Home Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. D. W. Alexander, Free Will Baptist minister of Bethel, will officiate. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Mrs. Nichols had been a member of King's Crossroads Free Will Baptist Church over 35 years.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Bill Craft, Rt. 2 Goldsboro, and Mrs. Frank Mooring, Rt. 2 Walstonburg; five sons, George Nichols, Rt. 1 Farmville, Hester Nichols, Greenville, Take Nichols, Rt. 2 Greenville, Roy Nichols, Rt. 1 Maclelland, and Earl Nichols, Rt. 4 Greenville; one sister Mrs. Bessie Tyson of Fayetteville; one brother, Tobe Freeman of Watha; and 18 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Pupils Present Yule Program For PTA Session

A Yuletide program entitled "Christmas Around the World" was presented by the Elmhurst students last night at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting at the school. Shown here are the children who depicted in drawings "The Twelve Days of Christmas," and the school glee club which rendered the musical background for the pageant. (Reflector Photo by Edwina Haymes).

A Christmas program presented by the school children highlighted the Elmhurst Parent-Teachers Association meeting last night in the school auditorium.

For a capacity audience, students from the third through the seventh grades presented a musical pageant entitled "Christmas Around the World."

Depicting the various countries were: America, Mrs. Margaret Stancliff's sixth grade; France, Miss Frances Marshbourne's third grade; Holland, Mrs. Esther Tetterton's third grade; England, Mrs. Annette Carter's third grade; Mexico, Mrs. Sarah Stark's fourth grade; Russia, Mrs. Marilyn Ferguson's seventh grade; and Germany, Miss Lillian Purvis' fifth grade. Seventh grade students of Miss Elizabeth Hyman presented the Nativity scene.

Ray Caravan and Don Joyner were the readers, and the school glee club rendered the Christmas music. Soloist David Nobles, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Nobles of 304 Ash Street, sang "Morning Star," with the glee club as chorus.

More than 100 children in costume took part in the program. Mrs. J. H. Rose was director of speech and Mrs. Marion Polk directed the music. Mrs. Howard Hodges read a poem, "A Christmas Wish," and introduced the program.

During the business session, it was reported that 735 plates were sold at the family night supper for $539.50 profit. Mrs. James W. Griffith Jr. reported that the bake sale netted $116.80. This money will be used to purchase three bicycle racks and two basketball goals for the school. In addition, $20 will be used to buy balls.

It was announced that the Lake-wood Pines Garden Club has offered to landscape the school grounds and has donated bulbs for the children to plant.

The president, Mrs. Sam B. Underwood Jr., appointed a nominating committee composed of Mrs. Henry Harrell, Ed Harris and Mrs. Ashley Hudson.

Mrs. Harrell, in a report from the membership committee, revealed that there are at present 403 members of the Elmhurst P.T.A.

There will be no meeting of the organization in January.
