30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
December 20, 1925

On Monday evening at her home on Evans Street, Miss Hannah Dixon delightfully entertained at four tables of bridge in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowen, who were recently married. The home was decorated with holly, mistletoe, Christmas bells and a large Christmas tree. Upon arrival the guests were welcomed by the hostess and invited to the library and drawing room where the tables were arranged. Mr. Watt Long, making the top score, was presented a useful gift. Mrs. Bowen, guest of honor, was remembered with an attractive Slumber Pillow. Miss Ernestine Forbes, who on yesterday celebrated her birthday, was presented a night set. After a tempting salad course had been served, Mr. James Little, representing Santa Claus, went to the Christmas tree and presented each guest with an attractive gift. The party was one of the most delightful events of the season.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

"The message of the Christian faith is to bring wholeness to life, and the road to be traveled is long," said the assembly of United Church Women (National Council of Churches) to church women across the nation. "The world is not whole; in many places it is broken into tiny fragments—broken by us who are its citizens. While we often give lip service to the dignity and worth of all God's children, we frequently deny to minority groups in every state of the United States the rights and privileges enjoyed by the majority. This inevitably links us with all those other countries which are faced with the consequences of a refusal to accept all persons as the children of God, destined to be free and to enjoy wholeness of life. We recognize that our domestic policies and practices with regard to human rights are inevitably interwoven with our foreign policy. Upon all of us as church women and as Christian citizens lies the responsibility to act that all groups within our communities will be assured of equality of opportunity, freedom from fear, and equal justice before the law. We recommend that church women interpret by personal and group witness every attempt in their communities to promote the integration of minority groups into the life of the church and community, and that church women work consistently with courage and dedication to spearhead these efforts."

Reports from Korea indicate that the Korean Methodist Church has doubled in membership (40,000 to 85,000) in the last four years—due to the work of its women. In the area of evangelism, for example, the Korean church women are urged to read the Bible daily, offer early morning prayer, preach to families in which only one member was a Christian, and to visit in army hospitals. Reports from its Women's Missionary Society's finance committee in Seoul show that Korean women give to about as many special offerings as do Methodist women in the United States. They observe the Week of Prayer, the World Day of Prayer and a Missions Sunday. On Mother's Day they give to a home for retired Christian workers.

Christmas Motif Used For Meeting Of Homemakers

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Will Beach was a charming hostess on Thursday night when she gave a Christmas party for the Robersonville Homemakers Club. Her lovely home in Hamilton was cheerful with the Christmas motif. The dining table covered in lace was centered with an arrangement of glass balls.

A beautiful snow scene attracted attention to the buffet. This consisted of a large Santa Claus riding in a sleigh drawn by eight reindeer, flanked by pine trees. A white church and several little figurines completed this decoration.

A log fire in the brick fireplace, blue lights in the windows and a large tree aglow with lights made a cordial setting for this occasion.

Four cards were passed around for each member to sign. These were then addressed ready to be mailed to sick friends.

Mrs. Beach entertained with several contests. Mrs. George Ross was the most successful in unscrambling words. The musical contest was won by Mrs. J. P. House and Mrs. Walter Swindell was awarded in the Christmas contest. Mrs. Ross excelled in the word-building, using Jesus' Birthday. Guessing boxes were passed around before and between the contests. The best guessers were Mrs. Mack Wynn, Mrs. R. E. Grimes and Mrs. Swindell.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Best Fleming, presented the gifts under the tree.

At 11 o'clock Mrs. Beach served a congealed fruited salad, salted pecans, cake, chocolate drops, and Christmas candy. A holiday corsage was on each plate.

The front room was bright with a pretty Christmas tree.

After the arrival of the last member, the group drew for partners and took their places at the card tables in the living room and dining room.

At 10 o'clock the hostess served crackers, pickles, cookies, nuts, egg nog, fruit cake and Coca-Colas. Dishes of candy were left on the tables during the games.

Names were drawn at a previous meeting. After the third progression, Mr. Coburn passed around the presents which were under the tree.

A beautiful potted plant was among the gifts. This was later taken to Mr. Larry Williams, a member of long standing who has been in Park View Hospital since Nov. 20th.

A Jet Plane For Every School Child

Every school kid should have a jet plane to play with. We aren't kidding. We're serious. It wouldn't be necessary for each kid to have a personal plane, but certainly each school should have a plane for the kids to look at, climb over, and tinker with. It would be amazing the interest in science and aviation which would be stimulated among the youngsters if every school had its own jet plane.

Leaders of industry, national defense officials and educators all have voiced concern over the lack of young people in public schools today who are preparing themselves with adequate backgrounds for careers in science, engineering and other jobs which are becoming increasingly important to the national defense and the national economy.

Youngsters in elementary and high schools today, these leaders say, are passing up the essential courses in algebra, advanced mathematics, chemistry, physics and related subjects. Very few of them are finishing high school with sufficient backgrounds in science, mathematics and related courses to successfully pursue highly technical courses in their college education.

As the atomic age develops, the United States and other countries throughout the world will need many, many more highly skilled technicians. As industry makes further progress with automation in this country's vast production lines, it will take a broader background in science to prepare workers for the jobs of the future.

So far attempts to impress upon today's school children the need for more emphasis on scientific courses has not met with the degree of success which has been desired. Obviously greater efforts in this direction must be made.

But back to our jet plane. The Air Force has countless surplus jets a decade old which are deteriorating on landing strips and in junk piles. Their period of usefulness as flying machines has long since passed. Yet these planes could prove invaluable as educational toys for school kids, expensive toys, yes. But better they be used to interest youngsters in preparing themselves for the future than serving no useful purpose at all.

It wouldn't make any particular difference to the school kids if the control panel, motor and other parts of the plane were dummies rather than the real thing. It would make little difference in the purpose the planes would serve in interesting the kids in preparing themselves for the future.

We believe the Air Force would supply schools with such planes if school officials would set the wheels in motion.

Long, Hard Row To Hoe For Adlai And Estes

Now that Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver has tossed his coon-skin into the Demo presidential ring along with Stevenson's topper, the real race for the nomination has begun.

Stevenson has a head start with political leaders in many states already having pledged him their support for the 1956 nomination. Kefauver, on the other hand, contends he has more of the "popular support" from the rank and file members of the Democratic party throughout the country.

While each of these two candidates will dwell primarily on boosting their own popularity during the pre-convention activities, there can be no doubt that each regards the other as his most formidable opposition at the present time. Neither will be able to entirely leave out personalities in campaign speeches. Each may be expected to take digs at the other as the early year campaigning moves into high gear.

Kefauver contends that he was a victim in 1952 of a stop Kefauver movement which prevented his nomination at the convention. Although he asserts he will have no part of a stop-Stevenson movement this year, there are indications on the national political scene which would indicate such a move is in the making.

It is not entirely out of the realm of possibility that Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Kefauver in their all-out fight against each other for the nomination may leave the way open for a third or dark horse candidate to receive the Democratic nomination as a compromise candidate. The developments within the high levels of the Democratic party between now and convention time next summer will depend to a great extent on the heat of the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign and the extent to which each seeks to degrade the other.

Both Kefauver and Stevenson have time to make lots of friends before the convention. By the same token, both have ample time to make many new enemies. At the present Stevenson is expected to follow the "moderate" line while Kefauver is expected to lean more to the left wing of the party.

It is going to be a long, hard battle for both these announced candidates for the Democratic nomination. Either, or both, may pass the popularity peak before the convention actually opens and the nomination machinery goes into full swing.

Reason For Safety Plea During Yuletide Season

At this season of the year there is almost as much written for newspapers about highway accidents as there is about Christmas joy. And with good reason.

Each year highway tragedy mars the otherwise joyful season for hundreds of families. For many of these families there is death which come at Christmas. For countless others there are injuries and long periods of hospitalization and convalescence. Much as we hope that the approaching holiday season will be different from those of the past in this respect, there seems little reason to really believe it will.

Highways will be jammed with automobiles taking families to spend the holiday season with relatives. Most drivers will exercise the extreme caution the situation demands. A relatively small percentage of holiday drivers, however, will throw caution to the wind in their hurry to reach their destination. Some will drive too fast and fail to make a curve. Others will pass on a hill and take people to their deaths. Some will take that one drink too many and wind up in a tangle of twisted steel and shattered glass. Still others will drive too long and fall asleep at the wheel . . . never to wake up again.

The Reflector urges the people of Pitt County to take particular caution while driving this holiday week-end. A little extra precaution can literally mean the difference between life and death . . . the difference between a happy holiday season and a tragic one.

Hodges Not Facing Very Much Rivalry

By LYNN NISBET

POLITICS There have been few developments on the political front in North Carolina during the past few weeks. That suggests the possibility of rapid action within the near future, and makes it hazardous to attempt discussion from 24 to 48 hours in advance.

Governor Hodges is in very much the same position that President Roosevelt was in 1940. There is no more precedent for a Governor succeeding himself in office than there was for a President to serve a third term. As was the case with Roosevelt in 1940 there are a lot of people who do not like the idea of unusual long tenure for a Governor. Some opposed the idea on principle, some because they do not like the incumbent. But now, as then, on the different levels the incumbent is so strongly entrenched there appears small chance anybody will seriously challenge his re-nomination.

A number of folks who thought about running for governor this year when it looked like an open field have apparently abandoned the idea. Henry Jordan, former highway chairman; "Big" Ballentine, commissioner of Agriculture; and former Lieutenant Governor, Thad Eure, secretary of state; Monroe Redden, former congressman from the 12th district; Ben Douglas, retiring C&D director and others had been thinking hopefully to 1956 as the time they might attempt the gubernatorial nomination.

Anyone of these might have been willing to enter the primary against Luther Hodges, seeking to move up from the Lieutenant governorship to the top office. None of them seems interested in taking on incumbent Governor Hodges in a race. Each of them has too much statewide political prestige to risk in a contest with the odds so strongly against them.

RACE ANYHOW—There is rather general belief among political analysts that there will be a primary for Governor with some lesser known candidate challenging Hodges. Trial balloons have been sent up in behalf of Charles Chatham, insurance executive and former commissioner of insurance; Beverly Lake, Raleigh attorney and former assistant attorney general; Basil Whitener, solicitor of the fourth district and former State North Carolina judge. None of these balloons have gotten very high, and it is likely that others will follow.

There is further belief that the gubernatorial primary will be influenced by activity or lack of it in other races. If there develops a race for general assembly in office there is more likelihood of a contest for governor, and for all elective offices. Many people do not like the idea of a Governor getting in by default. They think he will make a better official if he has to fight for the job. The suggestions that there will be no really serious challenge but there will be a primary are not as contradictory as they appear on the surface. Several politicians who have declared their purpose to support Hodges for re-election still hope he will have opposition. Primary activity is essential in keeping local organizations together.

COUNCIL—So far there has been heard no suggested opposition for most of the members of the Council of State. Edwin P. Wake, legislator, has not abandoned the thought of seeking the office of State auditor now occupied by Henry Bridges, and T. G. Jones remains the only commissioner, has been investigating the chances against Frank Crane, commissioner of labor. Here again contests for any office may prove contagious and bring races all over the map.

What remains the possibility that the race segregation issue may get into the contests for Governor, Attorney General and Superintendent of Public Instruction. Incumbents in these offices have sought to maintain a moderate and middle-road attitude which is not satisfactory to extremists on either side.

Some observers would not be surprised to see candidates announce platforms of vigorous refusal to integrate schools regardless of supreme court decisions. And there will be no great surprise if Negro candidates get into the field with just as violent platforms calling for immediate abandonment of segregation.

Several municipalities have Negro members of the governing bodies, and there have been colored candidates for the Legislature. So far as your reporter has been able to check there has not been a Negro candidate for State office since the primary was inaugurated 40-odd years ago. The segregation issue is apt to be emphasized more on local and county level than in state-wide contests, but there are signs it may figure in the big time events to greater extent than seemed likely a few months ago.

That prospect involves concentrated efforts for mass registration and voting. Not to the greater degree than North Carolina has experienced before. It could mean that many equally important issues might get lost in the emotional upheaval.

Reason for wanting more candidates next year is a diversified ideas is to prevent over emphasis on one point.

Other Editors Are Saying... Working For The Railroad

(Wilson Times)
Wilson is out to get the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad general offices. They are offering them all the facilities the city and county command. And if the offices remain in North Carolina, Wilson should have as good a chance as any other city.

The board of directors, at the meeting in New York, decided to move the general offices from Wilmington to a more centrally located position in relation to the railroad's business.
The Coast Line owns valuable property here. It has approximately 60 acres on the main North-South tracks on the main highway artery, 301. The general offices employ approximately 2,000 people. Think what this would mean to Wilson. (With 2,000 employees, you can multiply this figure by four, the average family size, and you have a population increase. This would bring in more retail establishments and facilities of every kind. It is estimated it could mean a population increase of as much as 15,000.)

Wilson, Mayor of Wilson sent a telegram to Champ Davis, president of the coast Line, offering everything Wilson has to offer. Jack Maynard City Manager, followed this up as did the Chamber of Commerce, that held a special meeting to consider what should be done, in our efforts to get this enterprise.

In the letter the Chamber of Commerce wrote to the Coast Line, it was pointed out that the facilities are here, power, the contemplated expanded water and sewerage system, and the school building program. Bonds for the latter two have already been voted on. Then no city can offer more than the general offices and fuller religious education program.

We hope the Coast Line is not going to leave North Carolina. It has always been considered a Carolina railroad and we speak of it with special pride. The news release says it is going to a more central location. We can understand why it would leave Wilmington, for that is no longer in the center of the Coast Line business. But Wilson is, it is on the main route.

One thing is certain, we are not going to make the mistake our forefathers made. Wilson had the chance to have the railroad shops that went to Rocky Mount. But some of our satisfied citizens then, objected, and one of the reasons given was because of railroad smoke. Another reason we have heard was that the land the Coast Line wanted could not be bought. In other words some of the founding fathers were not farsighted. The shops went to Rocky Mount and that city has outgrown Wilson because of the railroad shops.

That is not the case today. We know that growth is necessary if we are going to prosper. And no industry could be more desirable than the general offices of the Coast Line. Wilson wants it, the industry, and is working to get it. If we do not succeed and the general offices go somewhere else, it will be because the Coast Line thought the location better off in another city. We know we have as much to offer as any other city in this state.

No $300 Camera For Me

I almost bought a camera the other day.

There's nothing unusual about that. Camera stores will tell you that people come in every day and buy cameras to snap pictures at grandma's 80th birthday party or to take baby's picture. You can buy a little camera that will do the job for $10-$20.

But it was a little different in my case. I almost bought a $300 camera—and I have absolutely no use for such a thing personally.

It all happened like this: I had an appointment to take a picture for the paper late one afternoon, so I grabbed up one of the Reflector's Press Graflex cameras and headed for the front stairs of the building.

Just as I got to the head of the stairs, however, I dropped that $300 camera. I stood horrified and watched it roll down step-by-step, and believe me it didn't miss a single one.

All sorts of surprising noises emit from the Reflector office and folks who work here usually don't pay an attention. But that camera made such a racket everyone ran to the stairs to see who had fallen.

They arrived just in time to see the thing roll dead at the bottom of the stairs—right at the boss's feet.

Shortly after it hit the bottom step so did I.

"Hee, Hee," I said to the boss. "It isn't hurt too bad. We can wire these parts back together and it'll be good as new."

"Oh, its all right, Taylor," the boss said with a sort of forced smile. "I'll tell you what I'll do. This is a $300 camera but since it's damaged a little I'll sell it to you for $250."

Nobody Knows Mademoiselle

By EDDY GILMORE

ARMENTERIERES, France (AP)—Most of the people in the hometown of one of the most talented and libeled ladies of song—Mademoiselle from Armentieres—never heard of her and those who did wish they could forget it.

The first seven citizens of this city between Lille and St. Omer, in the northeast corner of France, almost on the Belgian border, who were asked about the fabulous female of World War I, could furnish no information.

KINGDOMS AND EMPIRES
Caesar's motto was "Aut Caesar, aut Nullus"—Either Caesar or nobody. He must be put first and furthermore he must be kept first! On this mighty loyalty the Roman Empire was built.

Christianity is scarcely different from this. It takes as its motto, "Either Christ or nobody." The last thing Jesus ever tried to do was force people to accept his teachings. He recognized the fact that many would disagree with him and oppose him. He told them to go right ahead in their opposition. But what he warned them never to do was to straddle the issue. He was tolerant of other points of view but he was never tolerant of compromise.

WASHINGTON—The prosperity forecast for 1956 by government and private economists will not be denied by labor-management strife, despite suppressed and expressed fears over the effect of the newly merged AFL-CIO union. The bosses in the shop and in the iron office are closer together than even they admit or realize.

"Make the tree good and the fruit good; or make the tree corrupt and the fruit corrupt." "No man can serve two masters, for either he will love the one and hate the other or else he will cleave to the one and despise the other."

Few situations in life are "either-or" but the Christian life certainly is an either-or proposition. There can be no second-grade Christians. There is no such thing as a half-way commitment to Christ. We cannot be Christian part of the time and something else once in a while.

"Caesar or nobody"; "Christ or nobody"—on such mottoes are kingdoms and empires built.

"Several persons, he said, 'have claimed to be the original mademoiselle of this song that went 'pinkey, pinkey parlez vous'."

"Hinky dinky, parlez vous," I corrected him.

and cosmopolitan, while here in Armentieres, we are dull and provincial and our girls well—"

At last, a man driving a team of brown horses hitched to a beer wagon said that if we would ask at the corner bistro for Monsieur Guy Grandjean, he might know what we were talking about.

Monsieur Grandjean, fortunately, was in his inn. He was short and grey. He had watery blue eyes, a drooping grey mustache and a nose the color of wall paper pink. He saddened visibly when he heard the question.

"Please, monsieur," he said, "don't sing the song about her. You are an American. That is nothing against you, but I've heard enough of that song about the Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

"Tell him," I told the interpreter, "that I don't want to sing the song. I just want to know what he knows, or what, any citizen of this town knows about someone who in certain circles, must be about the best known woman in France."

Monsieur Grandjean tightened his lips.

"Several persons," he said, "have claimed to be the original mademoiselle of this song that went 'pinkey, pinkey parlez vous'."

"Hinky dinky, parlez vous," I corrected him.

Finally, in accord with President Eisenhower's philosophy, Uncle Sam bitened to keep the balance even between the two groups. Although he heads a conservative, pro-business Administration, Ike will not show favoritism or antagonism toward either side.

He has, however, sided with Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell in the latter's tiffs with Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, who is the most anti-labor member of the Cabinet. Mitchell believes the unions should engage in politics Weeks does not. The Bay State also favors an "open shop."

New Sales Records As Usual

By ELMER JOESSNER
Retail sales in the week ending Saturday probably set a new record. Think nothing of it! This is a year for new highs. We're setting new marks every month, every week, every day. Forget 1953. There nvr was a 1933! Chicken in every pot! Hh, there's an egg in every glass of beer!

Farm income is down, below the record set in 1951. The number of new housing units started off; there will be about 3,000,000 starts this year compared with 1,396,000 in the record year of 1950. A few industries aren't doing as well as they did in some preceding year.

Outside of that, anything is real George. Most of the country is armpit deep in prosperity. HERE ARE FIGURES ON THE BOOM

The gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced in the country—will probably be about $386 billion. Right now it is at an annual rate of about $330 billion.

In 1953, the best previous year, it was $364.5 billion and back in 1929—when it was $104.4 billion—that's what that happened then?—it was $104.4 billion.

Personal income, even after the drop in farm income, is setting a new record too. It will probably total $303 billion for the year. Last year it was $287.4 billion which was the previous top.

Corporate profits are setting a record. They may be close to $45 billion this year before taxes. The nearest they ever came to that figure before was in 1961 when they were $39.9 billion.

Sure, the risks get richer! But in this new dispensation the working stiff gets richer too. Total wage and salary payments this year will be in the neighborhood of $210 billion, almost five times the corporations' profits. The best previous year was 1953, when the total was $198.5 billion.

There are more people working now. And pay rates appear to be higher, too. Average weekly earnings in manufacturing industries was $78.69 in October and the average wage was $1.91 an hour. The best previous year was 1953, when the total was $74.64 and $1.81. In 1953 they were $71.69 and $1.77. In 1944, at the peak of war production, they were $46.08 and $1.02; back in 1929 they were $23.29 and 63 cents. We've come a long way.

POPULATION AND JOBS TOO
The population has set a new record this year and we'll start 1956 with 166,500,000 fellow Americans. On this table, there will be constant records until we find out what's causing it.

Employment this year reached a new high of 65,488,000 in August. It was off seasonally in the next three months and rose with Christmas employment this month. It will fall off a bit in January.

Almost everywhere we look we find new records. Industrial production in October was 142 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Electric power output has been running 210 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Consumer credit is at a record. It reached $26,953,000,000 by October 1 and has undoubtedly passed 27 billion since then. Never did so many o's so much!

Corporate pension funds reached a new high. Stock market prices topped the 1929 peak, and then went on up. Output of steel and non-ferrous metals, reached a new high in October, and steel will actively rise in November. School enrollment set a new mark in September. Advertising expenditures are setting a new mark this year. So is spending for packaging. Investment in research and spending for electronic brains.

Most of the early, out-on-the-limb type predictions for 1956 have been for even greater prosperity next year. Records are so high now that it will take a lot of work imagination and guts to exceed them.

But let's try, huh?

Labor-Management Scene Is Peaceful

bert Hoover could endorse that doctrine.
Moreover, Meany never went out on strike in his many years as a plumber. As a union executive, he never organized a strike or hung a picket line around a factory. He has achieved success and climbed to his present position through co-operation and negotiation with management.

The nation's great industries, which set the pattern in this field—steel, automobiles, coal, railroads, textiles—are not spoiling for a fight or work stoppages. They raked up their most profitable year in 1955, and they would appreciate more of the same in 1956.

They have firm contracts for automatic raises, based on cost of living increases. The modified guaranteed wage movement is spreading. In postwar years, industry has shown itself more responsive and sympathetic to workers needs and security. They have found it to be good business.

EXCELLENT RECORDS Charles R. Sligh, Jr. board chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, has never had a strike at his four furniture plants in the Middle West. Cola G. Parker, NAM's new president, has had only one strike during his 45 years with a great paper corporation, and that was a wildcat affair disowned by the parent union.

Finally, in accord with President Eisenhower's philosophy, Uncle Sam bitened to keep the balance even between the two groups. Although he heads a conservative, pro-business Administration, Ike will not show favoritism or antagonism toward either side.

He has, however, sided with Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell in the latter's tiffs with Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, who is the most anti-labor member of the Cabinet. Mitchell believes the unions should engage in politics Weeks does not. The Bay State also favors an "open shop."

BIG LABOR, BIG INDUSTRY, BIG GOVERNMENT The new AFL-CIO union, in Meany's thinking, is the answer to and result of postwar economic and political changes. It enables Big Labor to deal on more equal terms with Big Industry and Big Government. But the new alignment of the forces responsible for the public welfare and economy imposes greater and sobering responsibilities on all three groups.

Ironically, it now turns out that the rigid mechanical restrictions of television were responsible for the bitter Meany-Sligh exchange at New York, with some assistance from inquisitive reporters.

NAM SPOKESMAN SURPRISED Sligh was surprised at the conciliatory tone of Meany's opening speech. But the NAM spokesman had framed his reply in advance, given it out to the press, and affixed it to a teleprompter. Instead of delivering a new and impromptu talk, welcoming Meany's offers of co-operation, he stuck to his original composition.

It contained all the old charges that labor sought political-economic power which would amount to a nationwide monopoly—an indictment which Meany had just denied.

Even so, Meany did not show or express any resentment. It was not until he was pressured by reporters to discuss Sligh's attack in detail that he uttered his "third labor party."

Christmas Program Held At Grace FWB Church Sunday Night

Young people of Grace Free Will Baptist Church presented a Christmas program in songs, poems and narration Sunday night.

The church choir rendered the musical selections, while the Sunday School pupils portrayed various scenes from the Christmas Story.

The ladies auxiliary of the church is conducting a week of prayer this week, and services are being held each evening at 7:30 with the men of the church as speakers.

On Wednesday night there will be a Christmas Tree program at the church with gifts for the Sunday School children to be distributed.

Mrs. Hadley Hostess To Lector Book Club

On Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 13, Mrs. Herbert Hadley was hostess to the Lector Book Club at her home on the Ayden highway. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Howard Waldrop. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Winslow this year.

Members of the club voted to help needy patients in the local hospital share their Christmas cheer this Yuletide season.

Mrs. John Collins Jr. read a story by Mrs. Helen Doss, wife of the Reverend Carl Doss of California.

"When they tried to find a sister for their adopted son, Donny, they made a startling discovery. All the regular babies at the adoption agencies were spoken for, but nobody would adopt the little orphans of mixed blood. Don's first sister was an 'undoptable' Eurasian baby named Laura. Next came Susie, 'undoptable' because of a disfiguring birthmark, which the Dosses had removed. Then a Filipino-Spanish boy named Teddy, and Rita, a little Mexican-Indian girl. Five children seemed enough to Carl and Helen, but Donny kept insisting, 'How about getting a boy the size of me?' Over Carl's protests, Helen wrote the agencies again. There were no boys the size of Donny, they informed her, but there was a charming Mexican-Japanese baby named Timmy. Timmy, of course, joined the family, but still Carl and Helen Doss could not be satisfied. They next adopted Alex, a tiny Burmese baby. By this time their home was getting a little crowded, but Carl was fortunate enough to be transferred to a larger parsonage. With a few extra rooms, the Dosses started all over again. Unable to choose between three children the agencies wrote to them about, they took all three at the same time, and finally two little Hawaiian sisters. With a family as large as theirs, the Dosses found many problems to cope with and many tears to turn into smiles, but they both felt it has been well worth the effort when they look upon the happy faces of their children from all over the world united as one family."

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Hadley served a delectable dinner with coffee. Mrs. Simon Moyer Jr. was guest for the afternoon.

Extra Work Day Was Unexpected

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Donald Gelling grabbed his gun and keys and hurried to the courthouse. Someone said he saw another someone inside the Lake County Courthouse on a holiday and Gelling was determined to get that so-and-so prowler or else.

Inside he found State's Atty Robert C. Nelson who said he thought it would have been a good day to catch up on his work undisturbed.

Ruth Mitchell Wanted Adventure, And Found It

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Ruth Mitchell wanted adventure—and she got more than she bargained for.

Now a blonde, vivacious and youthful-looking grandmother, the sister of the late Maj. Gen. Billy Mitchell was one of the pioneer women airplane pilots, heard her own death sentence as a prisoner of the Nazis, faced starvation in German prisons, and now has lived to see wide recognition of her brother who she says, died of a broken heart after his outspoken advocacy of air power led to a court-martial at the height of his career.

Ruth lives in London these days, in a flat she swears is haunted by the ghost of Lord Byron, a former tenant. Currently she is touring the United States in connection with the motion picture "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell."

This loyal sister has refused many honors in the past because she felt the world had not given proper recognition to Gen. Mitchell. But now that Congress has voted to strike the 1925 court-martial from his record and is expected to restore his rank as a major general, and now that a motion picture has been devoted to his story, she feels that justice has been done.

Ruth Mitchell was born in Milwaukee, educated abroad, married an Englishman, William Van Breda, and had two children. Her son was killed in World War II.

After the death of her husband Ruth took up a career of photography and writing, went to the Balkans shortly before World War II to cover the marriage of King Zog of Albania, and stayed four years—most of them in prison.

Says she:

"All the women in those prisons expected to die, and I think all the rest of them did. We were starved, tortured and beaten. . . . But I wouldn't have missed the experience for the world. It taught me the heights of courage to which the human soul can reach."

Skunks sometimes share a burrow with a rabbit or a woodchuck.

Knows Somebody Hard Times For Coming Or Going Ceylon Commies

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. John Fredericks has given up talking over Sunday School lessons with her daughter. The little girl came home and said, "The teacher told us that before people are born they are dust and that they return to dust when they die. Is that true, Mommy?"

Mrs. Fredericks replied that if it was taught at Sunday School it was true. "Why do you ask, honey?"

"Well," the youngster drawled "I just looked under my bed and someone is either coming or going."

COLOMBO (AP)—Ceylon's Communist party — on the rocks financially since Premier Sir John Kotelawala damned the flow of "Red gold" into the island — appealed today for funds to save its headquarters.

The party bought the 10-room house in Colombo suburb 10 years ago for about $10,000, a big price by Ceylon standards. A circular today said the building will have to be sold "to finance party work unless more money can be raised."

An adult with normal mentality may become insane, but he can never become feeble minded.

Abandon Annual Policemen's Show

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The annual Los Angeles police shows are now a thing of the past, by unanimous decision of the Police Commission. The commission killed off the shows yesterday on request of Chief William H. Parker, who said:

"We are attempting to bring the police service to the highest professional level and we can do this if we do not engage in selling. He added that an informal poll in the department showed that many officers objected to the annual ticket selling task. And he said the police relief, retirement and other agencies benefiting from the shows can find financial aid elsewhere.

Big Changes In 'Jour De Noel'

By PETER BUCKLEY
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (AP)—Villagers of Island of Orleans Parish will attend Midnight Mass this Christmas Eve in a modern stone church.

For more than 200 years parishioners in the village near Quebec have worshiped in a little wooden church built in 1717.

Time at last caught up with the St. Lawrence River Island. The church has become a museum. Horse-drawn sleighs, with bells linking, will still bring villagers to Mass this Christmas Eve, but they will share parking space beside late-model cars.

With the spread of English influence, sweeping changes have come over the "Jour de Noel" throughout Quebec province in the last few decades.

New Year's Day, until recent years, was traditionally reserved for visits to neighbors and relatives, the giving of presents and hospitality. Now it is still a time to visit but Christmas has become the day when Ferre Noel (Father Christmas) makes his trip from the North Pole.

One tradition that has hung on, although considerably deflated, is the "reveillon." On Christmas morning after Midnight Mass, they gather around the Christmas tree—another innovation—for the exchange of gifts followed by a meal. This meal nowadays is inclined to be a modest affair of sandwiches, or a cold buffet and fruit cake or cookies.

The Christmas Day dinner itself is almost a duplicate of that enjoyed in English-speaking families—stuffed turkey, baked potatoes, vegetables and dessert, usually pie. There is little of the strictly French tradition in the meals.

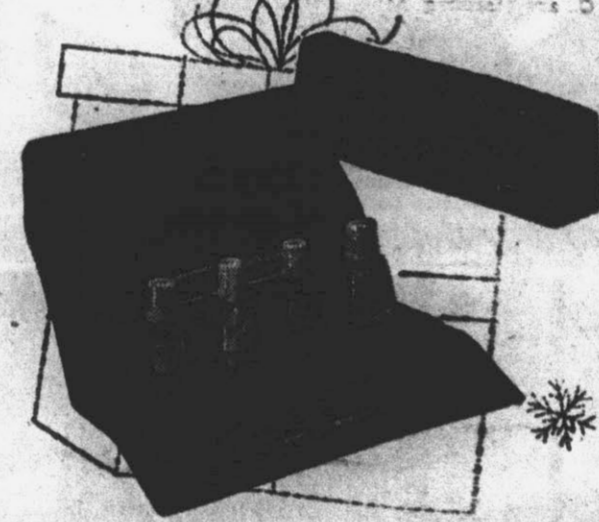

Although bald eagles often eat mammals or birds, they prefer fish.

PIRATES TO RECEIVE BIG TEST IN TOURNAY... Coach Howard Porter's East Carolina Pirates have surprised a lot of folks with their early season success...

Whether the Pirates' progress has been merely coincidental... that mean having good night when an opponent is off...

Both East Carolina and Elon, the North State's second placed club... the only other undefeated one are entered and there is a distinct possibility that these two may meet...

The pairings haven't been released but it's doubtful if the two will be in the same bracket... the finalists will have several good ball clubs to thridle...

There will also be Pfeiffer, of Georgia, Erskine of South Carolina... Georgetown of Kentucky and the Parris Island Marines competing...

NORTH CAROLINA COULD SET PRECEDENT THIS YEAR... The state of North Carolina has three outstanding, nationally recognized basketball powers in State, Duke and Carolina...

The question could and likely will be answered in the forthcoming Dixie Classic... All three teams will be competing and will share the true journey spotlight...

A lot of Tar Heels also feel that Carolina has a better club than State or Duke... Coach Frank McGuire surely has the best club since he came to Chapel Hill...

Duke and State, now, have many veterans on their clubs... State has three seniors and two juniors in its best combination...

No matter what the outcome of the Classic, between now and then the Tar Heel state can set a precedent by having State, Duke and Carolina rated in the nation's top ten...

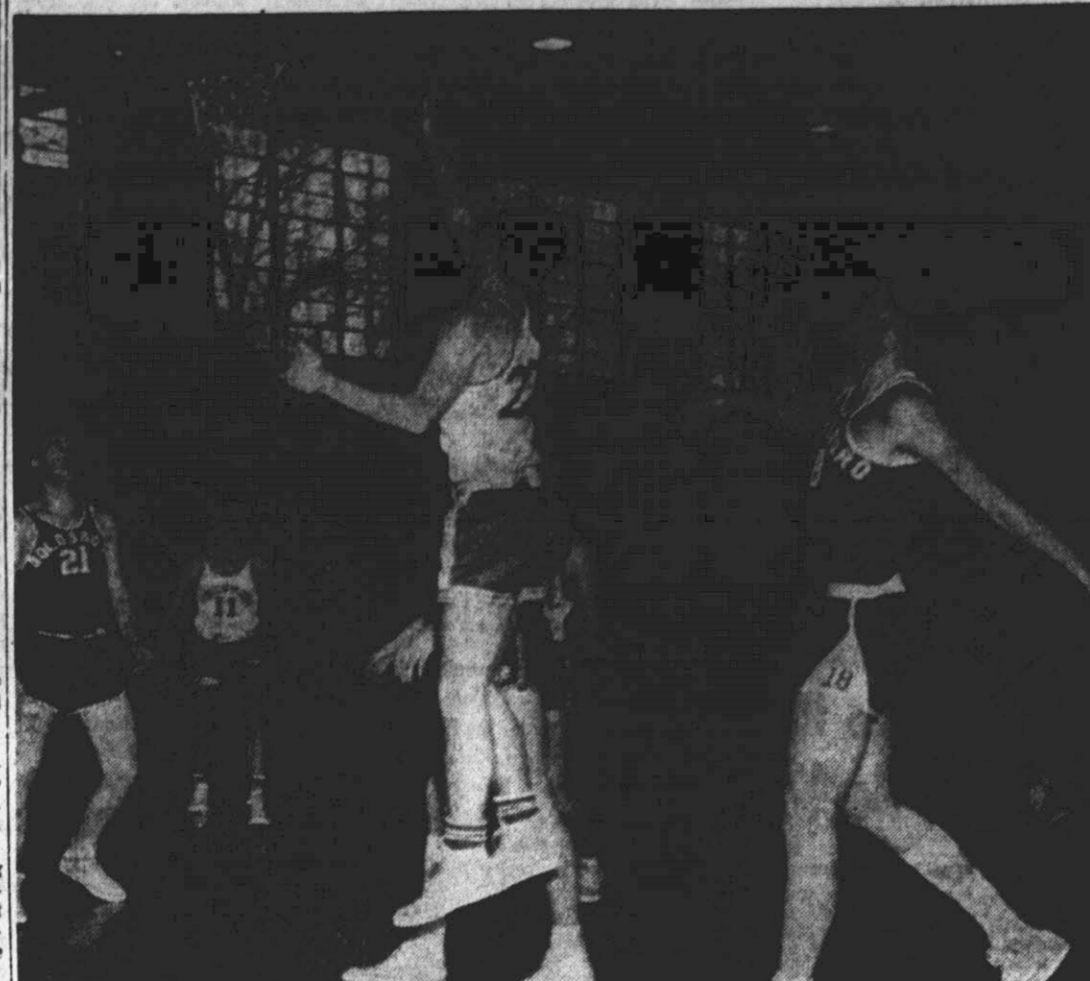

JUST NOTES: HOFFMAN PLAYING BALL AT SHAW... Saw Charlie Hoffman, former East Carolina basketball player, in Raleigh Saturday doing a little Christmas shopping...

In nine seasons as basketball coach at N. C. State, Everett Case has never been beaten by Clemson or South Carolina...

NORRIS DRIVES—In the photo above, Greenville, Tommy Key Norris is shown dropping two points on a nice play from the side. Also in the action are Goldsboro's Larry Frederick (21) and Sonny Aycock (18)...

POILED—Ray Hardee's drive is stopped short on a nice play by Goldsboro's Sonny Aycock in the photo above. Hardee scored 10 points but his club was beaten by the bigger Quakes.

Scoreboard table with columns for player names and statistics (FG, FT, PF, TP). Includes players like Boddie, Coward, Ellis, Aycock, Combs, etc.

The Phantoms were scheduled to meet New Bern of the Northeastern AA Conference Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. The loser will play the loser of the Washington-Clinton game...

The game today was close most of the way, with Goldsboro pulling ahead in the final minutes. Ray Hardee threw up the first basket he tried, Frederick of the Quakes related and that's how it went...

Goldsboro held a slim 16-14 edge at the end of the first eight minutes and was ahead by three at halftime, 30-27.

During the first half, Greenville held its only lead, 20-14, as Riddick and company got hot. In one streak there, Ike Riddick, Hardee and Jerry Drum hit baskets in succession.

Guard Ike Riddick did all he could to turn the tide of victory Greenville's way, collecting 15 points on six field goals and three charity tosses.

Goldsboro stretched their advantage after intermission with little Jerry Ellis doing most of the damage. At the 3:17 mark, Goldsboro was in front by 47-41.

Wayne Eldson's bucket moved the Phants within six points and Riddick hit from the outside to make it 49-45. Sonny Aycock, although closely guarded, pushed in a short one for the final margin.

Goldsboro had four men scoring in the double figures, with Ellis' 13 leading. Moore had 10, Aycock 11 and Frederick 12.

Besides Riddick, Hardee and Johnson for Greenville broke the double figures barrier, Hardee with 10 and Johnson with 11.

Height was the big difference. Coach Bo Farley's tallest man was Johnson, who stands only 6-1. Harold Edwards, 6-4 center, did not play his ankle apparently still plagues him and Coach Farley didn't want to risk a re-injury.

Both teams were guilty of faulty ball-handling and poor shooting. Coach Bo Farley's tallest man was Johnson, who stands only 6-1.

Fiore-Poirier Fight Sizzler

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmine Fiore and Gene Poirier battled 10 furious rounds to a draw last night at St. Nicholas Arena.

The Fiore-Poirier scrap was a sizzler with Fiore, the 12 to 5 favorite, piling up an early lead.

The 23-year-old Niagara Falls welter closed with a rush to get the draw. Referee Fesey Della, scored it 4-4-2 with four points for each.

A crowd of 900 paying $1.446 booted the decision. There were no knockdowns.

49'ers Shopping For New Mentor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers were in the market for a new coach today after firing one a year ago for failure to win a National Football League title.

Couch Norman (Red) Strader, hired on a three-year contract last Dec. 23 to replace Lawrence (Buck) Shaw, was "relieved of his coaching duties," effective immediately, by owner Tom Morabito.

"There was a little dissension, some resentment," Morabito said. "In a nutshell, the players were playing under Red and not for him. It was a case of incompatibility."

'Nothing Can Stop Willie' Says Badly-Beaten Fighter

N.W. ORLEANS, La. — A badly battered Rex Layne, once regarded as the most promising heavyweight in a decade, today predicted nothing can stop Willie Pastrano from going all the way to the championship "if he takes his time."

But Willie Pastrano, the New Orleans middleweight turned light heavyweight, turned heavyweight, showed little inclination last night to take his time as he breezed to an unanimous 10-round decision over the mauler from Lewiston, Utah.

Pastrano, who weighed in at a well-packed 185 pounds, danced jabbed his way into serious contention for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown and all but eliminated the fast-fading Layne from the picture.

"I can't see anybody stopping Pastrano if he only takes his time," sighed the 208-pound Layne, basking a deep, raw gash over his left eye. Willie's target for last night. "He's the fastest I've ever seen."

Instead of hollering "bring on Rocky," however, Pastrano is considering a return to the light heavyweight ranks for another meeting with Detroit's Chuck Spelser.

"Everybody wants me to meet Spelser again," he said with a look at manager Whitley Esmealt. "I'd like to go wherever there's the most money."

Pastrano brought the crowd to its feet several times by abandoning his deft toe work to swap slugs with Layne. And at one point, he even sent the big boy into full retreat with a fifth round volley that opened the cut. The wounded eye bled every round thereafter.

Referee Frank Kercheval had Willie in front 7-3-1. Judge Pete Giaruso saw it 5-3-2 and Judge Eddie (Kid) Wolfe had Pastrano the winner 7-1-2.

North-South Grid Squads Hold Workouts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — North and South football squads, preparing to meet in the Orange Bowl Monday night, planned two practice sessions today, with particular attention to passing.

Coaches Bernie Crimmins of Indiana and Art Lewis of West Virginia used Freddy Wyant (West Virginia) and Jim Miller Wisconsin) as passers with Gene Kaphan (Notre Dame) doing most of the receiving.

Jim Troglio (Northwestern) and Lou Mele (Utah) will do the kicking for the North squad.

Only 21 of the North's 24 players reported for the first workouts yesterday and the squad will not reach full strength until Thursday with the arrival of Army players Pat Uebel, Ralph Chesnauskas and Don Hollender.

The South squad, under coaches Wally Butts of Georgia and Rex Enright of South Carolina, was at full strength.

Offensive signal calling was by George Welsh (Navy) and Nick Consoles (Wake Forest) with Harold Burnine Missouri) and Ron Beagle (Navy) snagging passes.

"We've got some men that can get free and some passers. Now all we have to do is develop our protection," said Butts. "That will take care of one phase, but it takes a strong running attack to keep the other team honest."

A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH SEBERT

Linda Thornton's strongest memories date from her tenth wedding anniversary, an occasion for her being made sharply aware of the disappointment felt by her husband's family over her failure to produce an heir. The Thorntons—old Jasper, his wife Seretha (Ma'am)—and their clan are the most influential people in Valhalla, Mo. All their hopes are centered in their son Alan, Linda's husband. Thornton-bred hospital in Valhalla. The other Thornton son, a thin left hand and is seldom mentioned. A widowed daughter, Margaret, has a son, Silas—ab Army flier—and young twins, Jim and Ann. Seretha's brother, old Uncle Arthur Merritt, and his silly wife, Aunt Flora, also live at the Thornton farm—Fiddlers' Green.

Seretha plans a dinner party for the anniversary and, s h a p p y about not having a child—nor a husband for much of the time due to his hospital duties—Linda asks herself, Why celebrate a marriage like that?

CHAPTER TWO

Pad and pencil at hand Linda ate her breakfast and talked to the cook. This done, she moved on to other tasks. This was the day, Saturday, to arrange new flowers throughout the house.

"I had to get the glads and some fern from the city Miss Linda," the gardener told her, his eyes apologetic. "Please don't tell Ma'am. She expects so much..."

Linda reassured the old fellow. He kept the grounds and the little greenhouse beautifully; if Ma'am expected more, it was too much Linda took a flat basket of flowers back to the house, to the dining room where the banquet top had already been placed upon the table, and Jacob waited on her decision as to the cloth and china which she wanted used. He too spoke to her as "Miss Linda." She was never called Mrs. Thornton, even downtown. Mrs. Alan sometimes, but more often Miss Linda. Seretha was Mrs. Thornton. Well, what matter? She helped the butler spread the satiny cloth, then asked for paper and towels to protect it while arranging ago, and this dissolved Aunt Flora into tears. "Don't weep, Flora," he begged. "That's all done and gone."

"It's not, though," claimed Aunt Flora in a suffocated voice. "Just yesterday—I saw you pat her hand, and bend your back and scrape your feet..."

"Oh, for the good Lord's sake, Flora!" cried her exasperated husband. "That was just manners, and you know it! I'm too old for it to be anything else! And you're too old to think so. I can't get into trouble with a woman, and just as certain you're not in danger from any man!"

To announce her immunity from amorous involvements was the unforgivable sin with Aunt Flora. She rose, weeping, from the table, and stumbled toward the door; defiantly Uncle Arthur said no word to detain her.

Her arm comfortingly circling her shoulders, Linda led the old lady to the little morning room. "Don't you ever trust any man, Linda," sobbed Aunt Flora, sinking into the depths of an armchair.

The morning went swiftly, crowded with innumerable household tasks. Toward noon, Jacob came to the kitchen to tell Miss Linda that Dr. Alan was on the phone. Linda looked up, smiling radiantly, and the Negro smiled too, happy in her pleasure.

Ruby and Jacob watched the swift manner of her going. "She sure love her man," said Jacob contentedly.

"Ev'body love Dr. Alan?"

"Ev'body ain't his wife," Jacob pointed out.

"What an arrangement that would be!" laughed Ruby.

Linda spoke softly into the phone, and leaned back, smiling, pleased to hear her husband's firm voice. He talked exactly like his father—Alan was like Jasper!

Her smile trembled in Linda's voice as she answered his inquiry as to how she was, and was she busy?

"What's funny?" he asked.

"Nothing, really." But she told him, quickly, of the jealous quarrel between the old folks.

"They haven't heard then of Miss Little Mae's accident?"

"Oh dear no. Did she have one?"

"Yes. She was brought in this morning, about eight. I'm afraid her hip is fractured."

"I'm so glad you are there to take care of her," Linda told him.

"Thank you, darling, but she's more likely to be Ernest's patient. I have to go to Kennerly. That's why I called you. I'm starting in ten minutes, I hope."

"But, Alan!" Kennerly was seventy-five miles from Valhalla. And if he was going to operate there—the things he knew had come into her mind. "I am afraid I shall be late for dinner. I'm terribly sorry to do this, Linda, but—"

"Don't worry about me! I feel sure I can celebrate even a wedding anniversary alone. But you, mother, Alan—"

"Ma'am won't like it," he agreed, his dry tone indicating to what extent Seretha disliked any disruption in her plans.

"Can't they get someone else, Alan? Kennerly is nearly a hundred miles away—"

"It's seventy-five—and they do

Two Gift-Giving Days For Cubans

By PHIL MANGELSDORF

HAYANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuban parents face two present-giving holidays during the Christmas season. Children receive gifts from Santa Claus on Christmas and from the Three Wise Men Jan. 6.

Until recent years most Cubans followed only the Latin-American custom of showering toys on their children Jan. 6, the feast which commemorates the Three Wise Men's presenting gifts to the Christ Child.

Traditionally, Christmas in Cuba is a religious and family celebration. Members of the family gather late Christmas Eve, known as "Noche Buena" or the Good Night, for a feast of young roast pig, black beans and rice and fried bananas.

Then off they go at midnight to an old cathedral or to a modern air-conditioned church to attend the Misa del Gallo or the Mass of the Rooster.

Before the last war only the more wealthy among Cubans had adopted the United States-type Christmas. Now it has spread to others. As early as mid-November Christmas decorations go up in stores, and shop windows are filled with a gift suggestions. Imported evergreens are sold from sidewalk stands.

The Cuban government this year will distribute 200,000 food packages—each of which will include $1—so the poor can hold their family dinners on Christmas Eve. The dollar will be used to buy a young tender pig for roasting.

On Jan. 9 the government will distribute truckloads of toys to poor children.

Peaky Sagebrush Has Some Value

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—Ranchers of the West have spent a lot of money and effort getting rid of sagebrush. But two researchers from Oregon State College say that ranchers who kill sagebrush that doesn't have a good grass cover under it may be the victims of something even worse.

That's rabbitbrush, a hearty range perennial that moves in quickly when other vegetation is killed. Overgrazing, fire and cultivation have encouraged its spread until it has now become a major range threat in some areas. Cattle won't eat it.

W. W. Chilcote and C. E. Poulton, O.S.C. range experts, say sage can keep rabbitbrush in check.

11 Airmen Known Dead In Two Mid-Air Collisions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Four Air Force planes collided in two separate accidents over Florida yesterday and brought death to 11 airmen. Three other airmen were missing.

Eight men died when two B47 jet bombers collided over the outskirts of Tampa. Flaming wreckage showered the countryside. One of the planes was from MacDill Air Force Base at Tampa and the other from Pinecastle AFB near Orlando.

A few hours later an F86D Sabre jet smashed into a B29 bomber in the air over Fort St. Joe, about 200 miles up the Florida west coast, and killed three fliers. Three others were missing. Both planes were from Tyndall AFB at Panama City, Fla.

The Tampa planes fell dangerously close to a trailer park. Terrified residents said they thought an earthquake had struck. One plane exploded on contact and the other seconds later.

Spokesmen said the accident apparently occurred when the MacDill plane was having trouble with its landing gear and the Pinecastle craft flew underneath to take a look. This is often done.

Then both must have hit a down-draft, causing them to collide. Two crewmen tried to jump to safety, but their chutes failed to open in the sport space to the ground.

The wreckage fell about half a mile from the trailer park and set fire to a pine thicket. Thirteen children were left fatherless in the holiday season tragedy.

A portion of the B29 bomber wreckage fell about five miles west of Fort St. Joe, on busy U.S. 98, and barely missed a dozen beach houses.

"The planes collided with a very bright flash that lit up the sky," said Highway Patrolman Clyde Leroy Pfeiffer. "After the first explosion, they separated into two smaller balls of fire, then they exploded again."

"The main part of the B29 fell on the highway. A smaller part fell in the water just off from the beach and the main part of the smaller plane crashed in the woods about a quarter of a mile north of the highway."

"Three bodies were found on the highway near the fuselage of the big plane."

Witnesses said two or three parachutes were seen after the crash. Search parties went into the wooded area north of the highway to hunt wreckage of the jet.

Unofficial reports said the jet was acting as an interceptor on a simulated bombing run by the B29 and that the pilot apparently misjudged the distance between the two planes.

MacDill AFB listed its dead as Capt. Robert B. Harris, 34, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was flying the plane; Capt. Samuel Brier III, 30, of Clearwater, Fla.; Maj. Frederick A. Clark, 36, of Fort Worth, Tex., and 2nd Lt. Kenneth H. Teragawachi, 23, of Honolulu.

Pinecastle's dead were: Maj. Samuel L. Castleberry, 36, Adel, Ga., pilot of the plane; Capt. Robert Chamberlain, 39, of Spruce, Mich.; Capt. Arthur H. Miller, 31, of Lakeland, Fla., and Capt. Lynn E. Hunter, 39, of Berkeley, Calif.

The three men killed at Fort St. Joe were identified as 1st Lt. Michael Lewis Cappola of Ansonia, Conn.; 2nd Lt. Arthur F. Sewickley of Struthers, Ohio; and T. S. Lester Strickland of Panama City.

Airman 2.C. Dorland W. Wallace of Tyndall was listed as one of the two B29 crewmen still missing. The names of the other bomber crewmen and the jet pilot were withheld until next of kin were notified.

Jennifer Surprised By Salute From Film Fans

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The actress who was selected for the most popular performance of the year was just as surprised by the honor as was some of Hollywood.

Some 15 million moviegoers voted in the Audience Award poll and Jennifer Jones came out on top for her role in "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing."

"It was a real surprise," she says, "and a very nice one. It was a big thrill for me."

In some ways, the Audie made more of an impression on her than the Oscar she won in 1944 for "Song of Bernadette."

"It was just starting in the business then," she explained. "When you're young and ambitious, you don't fully realize some of the wonderful things that happen to you. You take them a little for granted. Now I realize the value of such things and appreciate them more."

Miss Jones said it was especially pleasant to be honored by the public after having had many flops. What's this—star admitting she has had flops?

"Oh, sure," she said disarmingly. "I've had them—perhaps more flops than hits. It's discouraging to do something you hope is going to please everyone and then find out they don't like it. But there's one good thing—you always find someone who likes a picture you have done, no matter how big a flop it is. That's the strange thing about the movies."

At present she is at work again. This has been her busiest year in films: she has done three—"Many Splendored," "Good Morning, Be-Do," and the present "Man in the Gray Flannel Suit."

Wounded When Bullet Explodes

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (AP) — Elk hunter Ted Tracy of Butte, Mont., riding between two brothers in their hunting vehicle, was shot in the arm without a gun being fired.

A rifle cartridge in his side jacket pocket exploded, ricocheted off his chest and entered his left arm. The muscles were torn badly and one artery and several nerves were severed by the slug.

Santa Can Tell Good From Bad

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP) — Leland Branch, who is in his 18th year of playing Santa Claus in the Safford stores, never has any trouble separating the good children from the bad.

For the rest of the year, Branch is the county juvenile probation officer.

Seventy Families Asking For Help

Seventy families have applied to the Salvation Army for Christmas cheer this season, according to Lt. B. T. Lewis.

Lt. Lewis said these families include both white and Negro. Two of the families, one white and one Negro, recently lost all their belongings in fire, and the Army is collecting furniture for them as well as clothing, food and toys.

Anyone wishing to help any of these needy families have a merry Christmas may call Lt. Lewis at 234. He said he is clearing his list of the needy with the Welfare Department to make sure there are no duplications.

The lieutenant reported that thus far approximately $500 has been raised through the mail and through the kettles to help unfortunate families at Christmas. This is about $200 short of the amount raised last year, and he said "the need is just as great, if not greater." All money now will be used to help the needy for Christmas.

Former Pastor Killed For Seducing Wife

WEATHERFORD, Tex. (AP)—The mother of four children has backed up the accusation of her husband, charged with killing their former family pastor, that the minister "committed adultery with my wife."

Mrs. Walter Vaughn of Denver City, Tex., told a reporter that the Rev. Chester Stevens "made his way into my home under the pretense of help at my pastor. It was just pretense. It wasn't for the purpose of doing good."

Her husband, a slightly bald, thin man of 47, was charged here last night with firing six shots that instantly killed the Baptist minister in the front yard of the latter's home Saturday. A bond hearing for him was set for today.

Vaughn, looking tired and grief-stricken, told reporters: "Why, he came into my house under false pretenses and he committed adultery with my wife. My wife told me... I trusted him completely."

Asked about her husband's statement that the minister came to the Vaughns residence for the purpose of committing adultery and did commit it, Mrs. Vaughn said "yes, it was true."

The Vaughns were members of the Denver City Baptist Church where Rev. Stevens was pastor until two months ago when he became pastor of the Harmony Baptist Church near here.

Vaughn gave this account of the shooting:

He said he drove to Weatherford Saturday and saw Stevens in town. He lost track of the minister but got directions to his home at a store. Stevens drove up to his home and got out of his car. Vaughn got out in the yard and started firing a .22 pistol he had bought for his wife after she told him about an affair with the preacher.

Vaughn said "he went all to pieces" and didn't remember actually shooting the minister.

Vaughn said he did not know of Stevens' death until he was told about it in jail last night.

Showing no emotion he said "I don't think any man should be sorry for protecting his wife and home."

Vaughn said he had served as a Sunday school teacher in the Denver City church but that Ste-

On Friday night the Ace of Clubs had their Christmas party at the Silo Restaurant in Greenville.

First Steps For Legless Child

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—The little blonde girl toddled slowly toward the gaily decorated Christmas tree — her first steps with her artificial legs.

And with these steps the future looked brighter for 2-year-old Cynthia Ann Inman of Sherman, Texas, who was born without arms or legs.

The lesson in learning how to use the artificial limbs was a special present for Cindy, as she is called, and for her mother Mrs. Vida Inman, 31. At most, Cindy took only four or five steps at the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation here yesterday.

But it was enough for a start, and enough to spark the hope that she won't grow up helpless.

The people of Sherman have the gratitude of Mrs. Inman for their contributions to a "See Cindy Walk" fund.

This is Cindy's fourth trip to the institute. She'll return with her mother when Cindy is 3½ to be fitted for artificial arms by the rehabilitation experts.

Mrs. Inman said she was anxious for her husband, Lloyd, a power company lineman, to see the progress made by Cindy.

Korea Vets Fight For PW Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two North Carolinians, both former prisoners of war during the Korean War, denied to the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission yesterday that they ever collaborated with the enemy.

Daniel L. Wheelers, 29, of Rocky Mount, and Perry M. Walker, 29, of Mount Olive, met in May, 1951, after they were captured in North Korea. Both were POWs for about 28 months.

The two have been denied their claims for $2,500 a day during captivity. The claims were voted by Congress for all Korean War prisoners except those who collaborated with the enemy "voluntarily, knowingly and without duress."

Andrew T. McGuire, general counsel for the commission, said his opinion was that the two had no right to see any of the data sent to the commission by the Army or to learn the names of the informants against them.

Wheelers and Walker demanded to confront their accusers.

The two are among 250 former POWs who the Senate Constitutionality Rights subcommittee says are being denied the $2,500 a day benefits on the collaboration charges. Both would receive about $2,100 each.

Col. Hubert E. May, Nashville, N.C., a law partner of Rep. Cooley (D-NC) told the commission that Wheelers and Walker were given honorable discharges, both are receiving disability compensation for the Veterans Administration, both received back military pay after they were freed but the Army now has furnished information to the Claims Commission which caused their cash benefit claims to be cut off. Walker also had attended school under the GI Bill.

The charges against both are the same. They allege that the two made propaganda recordings for the Chinese, attended voluntary study groups, wrote propaganda articles, attempted to influence other prisoners to believe in Communism, signed peace petitions for the Chinese, cultivated friendship of Chinese camp officials and received special privileges, such as whisky and better care.

Both men said they did not know where the charges originated and flatly denied most of them.

The charges against the two were sent to them only after they appealed the commission's decision, stopping their benefits.

The Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee is to hold hearings for the 250 men to determine if they are being called traitors without proper trial.

After returning to the home of Mrs. Chester Hart, which was very attractively decorated in a Christmas setting, gifts were exchanged.

The hostess served a sweet course. Mrs. Wilbur Dunn was recipient of high score, wrapping Christmas paper. Second high, candy was given.

Guests included Mesdames Dunn, McCormick, Stokes, "Ma" Edwards, Raymond Cox, Joe Tripp, Tucker Tripp, Chester Hart and Clarence Hart.

Finder Will Get Ride In Sleigh

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—George Locher's open sleigh has been found.

Locher told sheriff's deputies Saturday that his 60-year-old sleigh a high-runner two-horse model, had been stolen.

A neighbor told Locher today she had spotted the sleigh only a block from where he had left it, tipped over but not damaged.

Locher, who had promised a free ride to the finder and his family, said they'd soon be dashing through the snow.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined in the early afternoon today, but the aircraft were strong.

Aircraft had the best gains in the list going to around 2 points. Losers throughout usually were no greater than a point.

The sag in the market wasn't very great in any area, and in many major divisions there were key stocks trading unchanged to slightly higher.

There was little or no general news to affect the market, and corporate news was not of a start-line nature.

Gimbel Bros. raised its dividend payment to 25 cents from 20 cents paid in previous quarters. The stock sold high immediately, but then fell back to a modest loss.

Among declining stocks were Southern Railway, Loew's, Ana-

Moose Lodge steering committee for the March of Dimes campaign in the city was appointed and held its initial meeting last night. The campaign will begin January 1.

The Moose Lodge has accepted responsibility for the polio drive in Greenville, and the steering committee was officially appointed at the regular lodge meeting last night. The committee met and organized immediately following the lodge session.

Steering committee members and their assignments for the campaign include Dr. Howard Grady, chairman; Eli Bloom, special events; C. E. Williams, roadblock; J. E. Collins, schools; Maj. E. J. Maloney, East Carolina College; Luby Stocks, Mothers March; Dan Saied, special gifts; Ford McGowan, coin boxes; Jack Wallace, publicity and promotion; and Henry Coleman, secretary-treasurer. D. D. Hoggood is also a member of the steering committee.

Chairmen Speak
J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Carlan F. Bailey, county campaign chairman, were present for last night's session and outlined for the committee the needs of the foundation and previous methods of obtaining funds. Craven Hughes, Moose Lodge governor, also attended the meeting and promised the plans to convert a million-dollar downtown warehouse into a million-dollar merchandise mart, making Detroit the third city in the country to have such a mart. New York and Chicago also have such marts.

Rose told the group that "It is necessary for us to raise just as much money this year as we did last year." He pointed out that during 1935 the local polio chapter has spent $3,309.81 for patients who had polio prior to this year. "This proves that there will be a continuing need to take care of children who have been crippled by polio, and in spite of the Salk vaccine there will still be cases of polio."

In addition to these expenditures, the Pitt County chapter sent to the national chapter $1,401.03 to purchase Salk vaccine for free administration to school children.

Research Requires Funds
"The national organization is going to continue to need money for continued research and for continued purchase of Salk vaccine because there will be hundreds of thousands of children in the nation who will not get the vaccine unless it is distributed by the national organization," Rose declared. "It is also true that the Salk vaccine is not yet effective in 100 per cent of the cases," the chairman continued. "More research must be done in order to perfect a vaccine that will be effective in all cases where it is administered. It is going to take money to continue to carry on this research and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will continue to pour money into the research program and will have to continue to work until polio is completely licked in America."

Next meeting of the steering committee has been set for December 29 at the Moose Lodge.

Program Of Christmas Music For Rotary; Next Meeting Set Jan. 2

A program of Christmas music under the direction of Henry Coleman, chairman of the music committee, highlighted the meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club last night.

Mrs. Henry Coleman was guest soloist for the program and the piano accompanist for the vocal selections. A Rotary quartet composed of Coleman, J. W. Overton, J. H. Rose and Bancroft Moseley sang several numbers.

Mrs. Coleman sang for the group "You'll Never Walk Alone," and "O Holy Night." She joined the Rotary quartet in singing "Silent Night."

Among the numbers rendered by the quartet were "O Come All Ye Faithful," a special arrangement of "Away In A Manger," "Deck The Halls," and "Silent Night." At the request of the club Mr. and Mrs. Coleman joined in singing one of the favorite Christmas Carols as a duet.

It was announced last night that the Rotary Club will not meet on December 26. Its next regular meeting will be on January 2.

He said some of their sons must have heard about her for he'd had many inquiries from veterans of World War II.

He added that Armentieres was not so far as he knew occupied by American troops in World War I, but by the British. He said that over the years he has been telling people that no one of her description ever lived in Armentieres.

At this point I asked the interpreter to interrupt him. "He speaks of her 'description,'" I said, "Obviously he never heard all the words."

"No matter," said Monsieur Grandjean, "I am tired of the subject. And if there ever was such a person she probably came from some place such as Clermont-Ferrand."

"If you are going to guess," I said, "Toulouse would be better."

"No matter," he said, "she is not here now and I doubt if she ever was here."

"No monument to her?" I asked. "No little plate on any house?" "Monsieur," he gasped, a little shocked at the suggestion. "Do you know the words of this song?"

I told him I did. Most emphatically. He held up his hand in protest. "Monsieur, if you please. You promised not to sing."

Calmed and assured by the interpreter, Monsieur Grandjean answered a lot of questions about the lady whose name came so lightly to the lips of so many American soldiers of the first world war.

He said a lot of the veterans had returned to France on trips after the first war and after the second. He explained that many traveled to Armentieres to inquire about the mademoiselle.
