Christmas Weekend Accident Toll Now Up To 769

New All-Time Peak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The loss of life in traffic accidents in the nation's long Christmas weekend broke all holiday records.

The final tabulation today showed 597 traffic deaths. There were 67 deaths in fires and 105 from other accidental causes. The over-all toll was 769.

"How much longer," asked the National Safety Council, "will a civilized nation endure such mass mayhem?"

It expressed the hope that the staggering statistics will flash a go-slow signal to motorists in the New Year weekend.

The old record for traffic deaths during any holiday period was established during the longer four-day celebration in 1952. It was 556.

The 1955 Christmas weekend also set a new record for the number of accidental deaths of all types during a three-day Christmas period. The former record was established in 1950. It was 734.

The counting period for the Christmas weekend this year began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday. It is reckoned as three days, although the actual time was 78 hours.

The all-time record for accidental deaths of all types was set in the three-day Independence Day holiday period this year. The total was 805.

The National Safety Council had predicted 560 Americans would be killed in motor mishaps during the 1955 Christmas holiday period.

Said Council President Ned H. Dearborn:

"We may have dreamed of a white Christmas but we have made it black with a record of death, destruction and disaster on the highway by which no American can be anything but depressed, ashamed and frightened."

"We can only hope that the shock of this tragic and needless toll will have a sobering effect over the New Year's holiday and throughout 1956."

On Dec. 1 when the nation observed the second annual Safe Driving Day, there were 69 traffic deaths in 24 hours. In the first 10 months this year traffic fatalities have averaged 162 per day.

The Associated Press for purposes of comparison, made a survey of traffic deaths during a non-holiday period—the weekend of Dec. 9-12. The count showed 560 fatalities in the 78-hour period.

In the two-day Christmas holiday in 1954 covering a period of 48 hours—there were 392 traffic deaths, 63 killed in fires and 60 killed in miscellaneous types of accidents, an over-all total of 515.

Weather conditions at the start of the long weekend made driving hazardous in many sections of the country. The death list mounted steadily, with around 150 fatalities in the final 24 hours.

In Chicago, where 14 persons were killed, there were more than 2,500 auto accidents, and 92 persons were arrested for drunken driving.

In Los Angeles, 8 persons were killed and 644 injured in 919 accidents, and 158 persons were arrested for drunk driving.

Dionne Ties Are Strained Says 'Papa'

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP)—The parents of the Dionne quintuplets said today they didn't get even a Christmas card from the four surviving girls this year.

"All our other children either call home or called us on Christmas Day," said Oliva Dionne, the father. "But not the quints. They didn't even send Christmas greetings to their brothers and sisters."

"A lot of people have asked me why the girls are not home for Christmas," Mrs. Dionne said. "I have given this thing a lot of thought and we decided it would be better if we didn't try to camouflage things any longer."

"We have seen it growing for a long time now. We suspected that outsiders were trying to influence the quints some years ago, and we were sure of it by the way they acted after they left home, and then more so when they reached their 21st birthday and came into their money."

Dionne declined to identify the "outsiders."

Two of the quintuplets, Yvonne and Cecile, are training as nurses at Montreal. Marie and Annette have been undergoing hospital checkups lately, but the father said he was informed they are fully recovered. Each came into almost $250,000 when she reached 21 last May.

Dionne said his wife was heart-broken over the turn of events but blames "the outsiders" and not the girls.

Believe Soldier Stayed In Bank

PAYETTEVILLE, Md. (AP)—A young soldier who authorities picked a strange place to spend his Christmas holiday was to get a preliminary hearing here today before U. S. Commissioner T. L. Hon.

Sgt. C. Donald J. Ohap, 22, is believed to have spent Christmas day in a branch bank building at nearby Ft. Bragg. He was held without charge after today's hearing.

Ohap was arrested by military police Sunday night, armed with a .45 caliber automatic pistol. He was hiding in the attic of the one-story frame building.

The FBI says Ohap has admitted taking a small quantity of coins that belonged to the manager of the Malheur Village branch of the First Citizens Banking and Trust Co. of Fayetteville.

But the bank safe had not been entered, although the dial had been punched off.

Ray J. Abbaticchio Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI's Charlotte office, said the Whittier, Calif., soldier had admitted taking a brace of pistols from the armory of the 7th Special Forces at Bragg. Ohap is a member of the outfit.

State Of Union Message Slated For January 5

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message will go to congress Jan. 5, two days after the lawmakers convene.

The White House announced this today as the President conferred in his office with Secretary of State Dulles and Gen. Nathan F. Twiss, chief of staff.

Press secretary James C. Herty declined to disclose the purpose of that conference.

The State of the Union message will be read to the Senate and House this year by clerks because Eisenhower still is recovering from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

For the last three years the President has personally read to the lawmakers the message which outlines the administration's legislative program.

Strenuous Life Grows With Age

BALTIMORE (AP)—Osborne O. Heard, 68, has been making embryological models at the Carnegie Laboratory in Johns Hopkins Medical School for 42 years. At 48, he took up mountain climbing. At 61, he climbed the Matterhorn. At 65, he plans to retire. Then he will move to Idaho's northern panhandle, so he and his family can devote their full time to climbing and outdoor living.

Baked Hacksaws Soon Obsolete

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The day is passing when it will pay a slave to have a hacksaw blade baked into his gift birthday cake. In jail cells produced here, the hexagonal bars contain an insert of special tool-resistant steel.

The hacksaw goes through the first one-sixteenth inch of the prison bar, and after that it just doesn't go.

ORDERLY BIRDS

COMANCHE, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Max Renas has the oddest, most orderly bunch of birds that ever roosted in a living room. The 300 birds are made of wood, turquoise, silver, and shells, and a dozen other materials.

Surrounded

This wide-angle air shot shows Marysville, Calif., surrounded by water with the Feather River in the foreground and the Yuba River in the background (Dec. 24). The bridge in center is filled with cars evacuating the city over the only exit. Yuba City is in the extreme foreground. (AP Wirephoto).

Most Rivers Receding; Yuba City Area Washed A Second Time West Coast Counts Up Flood Toll

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Swollen anew from more heavy rains, the flooding Feather River today washed for the second time over desolated and evacuated Yuba City, peach growing center in north-central California.

Most other rivers in California and Oregon were receding after loss of at least 41 lives in a disastrous week of almost incessant rain and high water.

California's toll: 29 dead and at least 18 more presumed dead.

Oregon: 12 dead and 3 missing. The Oregon dead included a family of five crushed in a mudslide that buried their home at the coastal town of Remote.

At Yuba City, the rampaging Feather surged through a half-mile break in levees south of the town of some 7,800. Several areas where the water had dropped were flooded again. However, the water was not expected to rise to its previous heights. Little additional damage was expected in the city—almost empty since its evacuation last week.

The Marysville Levee Commission estimated the flood crest would reach the Marysville-Yuba City area by early afternoon and that the water would begin receding again.

Ellsworth Sunker, national Red

Cross president, predicted between 4,000 and 5,000 families would look to his organization for "long-time" aid. He said he had assigned 115 trained disaster staff men to the flood district.

The delta area, where the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers join east of San Francisco Bay, and Yuba City were the remaining danger spots.

Yuba City, almost abandoned since its Feather River levees broke Saturday, faces another crest today. Joe W. Sanders, civilian defense coordinator, said water probably would return to earlier high marks, six feet up some walls.

The intensively farmed delta, laced with small streams in the last stretch before floodwaters pour into the bay and on to the Pacific Ocean. So strongly have the floods been running that the Golden Gate was brown yesterday.

Three islands were flooded in the delta yesterday. Levees were sandbagged to save others.

Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, and high Army officials set out on a two-day tour of northern California areas ravaged by floods.

"I intend to go out and get my feet wet," Peterson told Gov. Goodwin Knight yesterday at a conference called to discuss federal aid.

Because of lack of water and sanitation residents have been barred from returning to Yuba City. Dr. F. P. Wisner, health service director, declared, "We have to keep these people out of town lest a runaway health hazard be invited." He plans typhoid inoculations.

Some had revisited their homes, trying to salvage property while the city was two thirds out of the flood. Those who attempted an early cleanup probably will have to take out the mud again after the latest crest.

The Weather Bureau predicts mostly clear skies today.

Communications improved and except at Yuba City the death tolls became more solid. There were 8 dead in the Eureka area, 12 at Yuba City, 5 at Santa Cruz, 3 at Colfax and 1 each at Santa Rosa, Stockton and Susanville.

Some cars are still under water at Yuba City and authorities fear several persons were trapped in them while trying to escape. Six more persons were presumed dead in the Eureka area and 13 more at Santa Cruz.

One highway across the Sierra was opened yesterday and conditions improved on most other roads.

Southern Pacific got its trains through the Sierra again but the Western Pacific said two landslides and a washout in the Feather River Canyon would keep its east-west trains on detours until tomorrow. It will be weeks before the Northwestern Pacific can reopen its line from the San Francisco Bay area to Eureka.

Four communities near Eureka still were isolated. They were Weitchpec, Orleans, Pelly Creek and Starwyn Flats.

Officers connected the two and Chief Boone said that Greene admitted entering the pool room the preceding night. The chief stated that Greene admitted the break-in, under questioning, to him and Deputy Sheriff N. H. Byrd.

Thomas changed his mind about signing the bond and Greene was taken to Ayden and jailed on an additional charge of breaking and entering and larceny.

To further complicate matters, Greene's mother, who was no longer out on bond since the dimes were confiscated, was returned to her cell on the disturbing the peace charge.

Later Mrs. Bowen was recognized and released, however. She will be tried in Mayor's Court Friday night.

Chief of Police J. A. Jones of Ayden said Greene will receive a preliminary hearing on the breaking and entering and larceny charge before Ayden Judge C. V. Cannon. His bond has been set at $500.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A continuing gradual increase in use of cigarettes was forecast last night by the Agriculture Department, which estimated this year's output at 414 billion smokes.

That compares with 402 billion last year, 423 billion in 1953 and 435 billion in 1952. The department said consumption of king size, filter cigarettes made substantial gains this year.

One of the factors said to be working toward increased consumption in 1956 is the prospect that incomes will continue at high levels.

Argentine Nabs Peron Plotters

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine officials say they arrested more than 50 military and civilian supporters of ex-dictator Juan Peron in raids over the Christmas week end.

One soldier was killed and a noncommissioned officer and a civilian were wounded during one of the roundup.

Informed sources said the plotters were linked with a conspiracy reported last week to embarrass the government of Provisional President Pedro Aramburu with strikes, sabotage, arson and other troublesome tactics.

San Luis province, some 500 miles east of Buenos Aires, and Tandil, about 200 miles south of the capital, were listed as the centers of the latest unrest.

The shooting occurred on the estate of a former Peronista congressman in San Luis. Other arrests were made at the Tandil headquarters, an anti-aircraft base in San Luis province and at an air base 30 miles from San Luis city.

In a separate action the Aramburu government froze the Argentine assets of 98 foreign and domestic companies, including the Argentine assets of 98 foreign and

Holidays Pleased Everyone

By IVA LOU BRUNSON
 Chocod School
 "Merry Christmas" and "See you next year" were the words of the students of Chocod Thursday afternoon as we left school for the holidays. Every one was happy and full of merriment as the high school turned out for a big Christmas party in the gym. There were gifts for everyone and refreshments for entertainment. There was dancing and singing. We heard from our own quartet, "The Four Christmas Bells," and our boys choir for added entertainment.

Beta Club members enjoyed a party Monday night at the school. Singing Christmas carols and dancing were part of the fun.

The FHA girls also had a Christmas party, as did the faculty and the ninth grades. Superintendent D. H. Conley was a special guest for the faculty party.

Our annual Christmas program was presented last week by the junior and senior glee clubs. Hazel Wilson was narrator for the scenes depicted by grammar grade students. Mrs. Frances Madry directed the program.

Sybil Worthington's home was filled to the brim with guests Friday night as they enjoyed her Christmas party.

Another group of merry-makers ended their caroling Friday at Iva Lou Brunson's home. After refreshments they all gathered around the piano for more singing.

The students of Chocod wish you a Happy New Year!

Holiday Wish, Then Kills Self
 HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (U.S.)—Nathan L. Murray Jr. wished his estranged wife a "Happy New Year" during a five-minute conversation over a cup of coffee last night and then shot himself after telling her, "you need the insurance money anyway."

Murray, who had been separated from his wife, Nancy Jane, for about two years, drove here from his home in Savannah, Ga., in a newly-purchased car. The shooting occurred just minutes after he had knocked on the door of her trailer home.

Police Sgt. Paul Binger said Murray, who was 24 years old, died in Sanford Memorial Hospital a short time after the shooting.

Camera News

"BAND" by Edwin Stein, Madison, Wis., strikes an eye-catching note in design when seen this way. Turn it sideways and see how it was taken. It won a $100 prize in the 1955 popular photography contest.

AP Newfeatures
 I've just had a private, advance look at about 150 contest-winning black and white photos which won fairly large amounts in savings bonds. So many among them were good but not exceptional, that I want to urge you to get into the photo contest frame of mind and be prepared for the best one.

Almost every camera fan has one or two better-than-average pictures because of plain luck or a burst of skill. Put a special folder aside for "Good Shots" so that you can keep track of the negatives. Make enlargements and see just how drastically you can crop, leaving only the principal subject; matter with no extra details.

I guess more camera fans would be inspired to enter competitions if they were able to see all the photos that won a previous contest. Some would inspire them because of their excellence; others because the photographer had done as well or better. If you'd like to indulge in the popular game of second-guessing, you'll find the winners of the $25,000 annual photo contest in Popula Photography's December issue.

High school camera fans have an immediate opportunity to test their desire for competition. Announce contests of two major contests are a hand aimed at the youngsters.

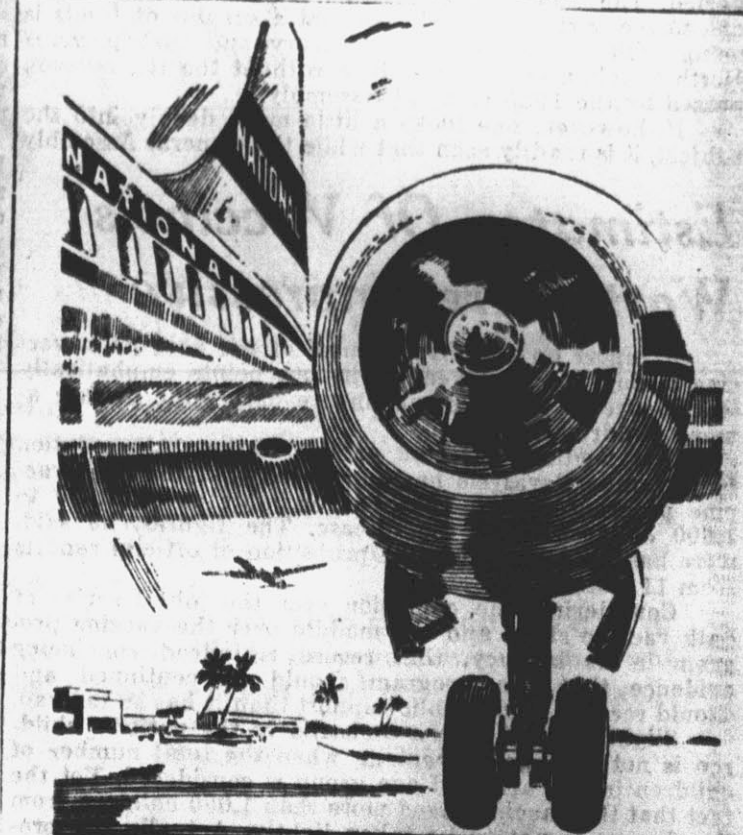

One is sponsored by Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. and entry blank are available at camera stores. Any number of black-and-white prints on any subject matter and in any size may be submitted. The contest is open now and closes on Jan. 31, 1956. First prize is a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond, second prize a $500 Bond, third a $250 Bond and the next five will each get a $100 Bond.

Besides these major awards there are 100 other chances to be a winner. Awards will be announced before school closes in June and the winning photos will appear in Popular Photography at that time.

Secondly, there's the Eleventh Annual (1956) National High School Photographic Awards. This event, sponsored by Eastman Kodak, offers over 250 prizes totaling $5,000 in cash.

Pictures will be judged in four classes: 1. School Activities (including Sports). 2. People and Activities (outside of school). 3. Pictorials. 4. Animals and Pets. Each class has its own group of winners with $300 in cash for first, $200 for second, $100 for third and $50 for Special Award. In addition, 60 others in each class will receive Honorable Mention awards of $10. Entries in this contest will be received from Jan. 1, 1956 to March 31 and the winners will be announced in May, 1956. As in the past, a selection of prize-winning prints will form a traveling salon available on free loan for exhibition at high schools art galleries and libraries.

Furniture Association To Meet Tonight

Greenville Furniture Dealers Association meets tonight at 7 o'clock at the Silo Restaurant.

Wives and a number of employees have been invited as guests, chairman Robert Elks said.

POLICE HELP DINNER

BORGER, Tex. (AP)—A group of Future Farmers of America got help from the police department for a feast of roast pig. Police officers chased the little porker through a residential district before capturing it. When nobody claimed it plans were made for a big dinner.

Holidays Pleased Everyone

By IVA LOU BRUNSON

"Merry Christmas" and "See you next year" were the words of the students of Chicod Thursday afternoon as we left school for the holidays. Every one was happy and full of merriment as the high school turned out for a big Christmas party in the gym. There were gifts for everyone and refreshments. For entertainment there was dancing and singing. We heard from our own quartet, "The Four Christmas Bells," and our boys choir for added entertainment.

Beta Club members enjoyed a party Monday night at the school. Singing Christmas carols and dancing were part of the fun.

The FFA girls also had a Christmas party, as did the faculty and the ninth grades. Superintendent D. H. Conley was a special guest for the faculty party.

Our annual Christmas program was presented last week by the junior and senior glee clubs. Hazel Wilson was narrator for the scenes depicted by grammar grade students. Mrs. Frances Madry directed the program.

Sybil Worthington's home was filled to the brim with guests Friday night as they enjoyed her Christmas party.

Another group of merry-makers ended their caroling Friday at Iva Lou Brunson's home. After refreshments they all gathered around the piano for more singing.

The students of Chicod wish you a Happy New Year!

Holiday Wish, Then Kills Self

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—Nathan L. Murray Jr. wished his estranged wife a "Happy New Year" during a five-minute conversation over a cup of coffee last night and then shot himself after telling her, "you need the insurance money anyway."

Murray, who had been separated from his wife, Nancy Jane, for about two years, drove here from his home in Savannah, Ga., in a newly-purchased car. The shooting occurred just minutes after he had knocked on the door of her trailer home.

Police Sgt. Paul Bungert said Murray was 24 years old, died in Sanford Memorial Hospital a short time after the shooting.

"BAND" by Edwin Stein, Madison, Wis., strikes an eye-catching note in design when seen this way. Turn it sideways and see how it was taken. It won a $100 prize in the 1955 popular photography contest.

I've just had a private, advance look at about 150 contest-winning black-and-white photos which won fairly large amounts in savings bonds. So many among them were good but not exceptional, that I want to urge you to get into the photo contest frame of mind and be prepared for the next one.

Almost every camera fan has one or two better-than-average pictures because of plain luck or a burst of skill. Put a special folder aside for "Good Shots" so that you can keep track of the negatives. Make enlargements and see just how drastically you can crop, leaving only the principal subject matter with no extra details.

I guess more camera fans would be inspired to enter competitions if they were able to see all the photos that won a previous contest. Some would inspire them because of their excellence; others because the photographer had done as well or better. If you'd like to indulge in the popular game of second-guessing, you'll find the winners of the $25,000 annual photo contest in Popular Photography's December issue.

High school camera fans have an immediate opportunity to test their desire for competition. Announcements of two major contests are a hand aimed at the youngsters. One is sponsored by Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. and entry blanks are available at camera stores. Any number of black-and-white prints on any subject matter and any size may be submitted. The contest is open now and closes on Jan. 31, 1956. First prize is a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond, second prize a $500 Bond, third a $250 Bond and the next five will each get a $100 Bond.

Besides these major awards there are 100 other chances to be a winner. Awards will be announced before school closes in June and the winning photos will appear in Popular Photography at that time.

Secondly, there's the Eleventh Annual (1956) National High School Photographic Awards. This event, sponsored by Eastman Kodak, offers over 250 prizes totaling $5,000 in cash.

Pictures will be judged in four classes: 1. School Activities (including Sports). 2. People and Activities (outside of school). 3. Pictorialia. 4. Animals and Pets. Each class has its own group of winners with $300 in cash for first, $200 for second, $100 for third and $50 for Special Award. In addition 60 others in each class will receive Honorable Mention awards of $10. Entries in this contest will be received from Jan. 1, 1956 to March 31 and the winners will be announced in May, 1956. As in the past, a selection of prize-winning prints will form a traveling salon available on free loan for exhibition at high schools art galleries and libraries.

No matter what photo contest camera fan would like to enter winning pictures are never judged by the photographer's equipment. Don't be discouraged if you have only thing that catches a judge's eye is the subject matter and how it's presented. If it has impact, imagination, an unusual angle or tells a story simply and quickly, send it off. The rewards are well worth the effort.

More Than Bare Figures Tell Story

Year to year comparisons of figures often give a misleading picture of what is happening in the particular situation for which the year-to-year figures are being compared.

Take state tax collections for example. So far during this fiscal year collections of state taxes are running considerably ahead of those for the previous comparable period. The fact that collections are higher might lead one to the mistaken conclusion that a surplus of funds is being built up in the state treasury and that perhaps North Carolina could have done without the tax revision passed by the 1955 General Assembly.

If, however, one looks a little more deeply into the subject, it is readily seen that while the General Assembly did intentionally make provisions for more tax money to be collected by the state this year, it did so to compensate for additional state expenditures which were likewise approved. By the end of the biennium state coffers may be in somewhat better shape than they were at the end of fiscal year 1955, but it is too early yet to tell exactly how much surplus money there will be.

A similar comparison may be made on a local basis where total collections of taxes for Greenville are running higher now than at the same time last year. In considering these taxes this year, and therefore total payments for any given period may be expected to run higher than during the same period a year ago.

For another example of these comparisons, we may look at statistics on highway accidents and fatalities. The rate has climbed during 1955. It has climbed alarmingly over figures for 1954. Yet it must be realized that this year the number of miles traveled on state highways by motor vehicles is likewise higher than last year. With more people traveling more miles, the number of accidents, deaths and injuries would be higher than last year if ratio of miles traveled to accidents remained the same.

We cannot shrug off the staggering highway accident toll of 1955 with the mere excuse that more accidents are happening merely because there are more cars on the highways. The situation demands more intensive efforts to bring down the number of accidents and the accompanying injuries and deaths.

Nevertheless, when comparing year-to-year statistics, one must not overlook the altered circumstances which time. Underlying factors must be taken into consideration if a true picture of conditions are drawn from the might statistics on a given situation in a given period of comparison.

Estimates Of Vaccine's Worth Are Impressive

A report on the effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine during the first year of its use points emphatically to the success of the serum in preventing the disease among children.

The medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has announced that the Salk vaccine program during 1955 has probably saved 1,200 to 1,300 children from the disease. The figures, he said, were based on a nationwide projection of official reports from 11 states.

Considering the confusion over the initial series of Salk vaccine shots and the muddle over the vaccine program in its infancy, that record is indeed convincing evidence that the program should be continued and should receive more public support than it has so far had.

Slightly more than a thousand of the nation's children is not a large percentage when the total number of children in the affected age group is considered. Yet the fact that the vaccine saved more than 1,000 children from the disease is not to be taken lightly. Actually the program has not yet reached its stride. During 1955 few if any children received the full series of shots which has been recommended to give immunity to the crippling disease. Most of the youngsters had received only the initial injection of the vaccine when the polio season reached its peak during the summer months.

It is of importance, however, that the report shows that hospital admissions of polio patients dropped 52 per cent among 8-year-olds and 40 per cent among 7-year-olds during 1955, based on the projected reports. That compared with a 17-per cent decline in polio cases for the total population.

Where it has been given a chance, the Salk polio vaccine has done a good job of preventing or lessening the effect of the dreaded disease. The report should encourage parents whose children have not received the vaccine to see that they are vaccinated with the Salk vaccine between now and the time the polio season reaches its peak in 1956.

Disaster Insurance Is Truly A National Need

Some form of disaster insurance must be worked out in a cooperative program between the government and private enterprise to afford adequate protection for those in the flood and hurricane areas along the Atlantic Seaboard.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee is studying suggestions for a federal insurance program to provide protection against flood, wavewash and other natural disasters which are not normally covered by private insurance companies. In Raleigh recently Sen. Lehman of New York pointed out that estimates of damage in recent floods and hurricanes caused damaged which has been estimated from $750 million to more than one and one-half billion dollars.

In North Carolina alone, according to Insurance Commissioner Charles Gold, four hurricanes in the past two years caused more than $300 million damage and less than 10 per cent of the loss was covered by insurance. In North Carolina as in other areas, the greater part of the loss to adverse elements were suffered by individual citizens and small businesses rather than large corporations.

Frankly, we would prefer to see private insurance corporations provide the needed coverage for the areas affected by hurricanes and floods. Yet, with the risks involved, it is doubtful whether private companies could provide the necessary coverage. In that event, the suggestion of Hugh H. Murray of Raleigh, past president of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents, that the problem be solved through "intelligent cooperation of American free enterprise and the government" offers a sound basis for getting to the roots of the situation.

Something must be done to provide insurance protection for property which lies in the path of hurricanes and floods. Projects to prevent or lessen damage caused by these natural disasters already have begun in many areas. This is certainly a partial answer to the problem; but it obviously is not the total answer. A concerted effort to continue the building of these buffers against the elements, backed up by a sound, adequate insurance program, could afford many individuals and small businesses throughout the affected areas an appreciable degree of assurance they would not be completely wiped out financially by one harsh blow from fickle Mother Nature.

Campus Rebels Are Now 'Conservative'

By William Henry Chamberlin
(Wall Street Journal)

Time was a generation of more ago, when the campus rebel in American colleges and universities followed a generally leftist mental pattern. There are still student rebels but they have changed a lot.

The old-style rebel gripped about compulsory chapel and got into trouble with the dean's office by taking frequent cuts. He was a likely candidate for membership in a Socialist or, at a later date, a communist-front student organization.

He would eagerly attend the lectures of a professor who enjoyed the reputation of being a radical with broad free-wheeling ideas about making over the social order. The professor stood still higher in the esteem of the campus rebel if some crusty old trustee of conservatism views had left off a verbal blast in his general direction.

Today's rebel is as different from his predecessor as a crew cut is from the long hair of the German poet or artist. For instance, in the post-war years there has been a marked revival of concern with religion among students of all faiths. The tendency now is not to tear religion apart, but to search for underlying spiritual values and to question the infallibility of agnosticism.

Criticizing the Collectivists There has also been a change in the climate of opinion in the fields of politics and economics. It is a straw in the wind that the most widely published book expressing the dissatisfaction of a recent undergraduate was a vehement criticism of the economics taught at a well-known eastern university too collectivist and of the religious atmosphere as too lukewarm. This was certainly a novel way of incurring the censure of presidents, deans and other high academic authorities.

And yet there is a certain logic in the changed goal and direction of today's campus rebel. The average college student is pretty much absorbed in his studies and his extra-curricular activities. But there is always a questioning minority that takes ideas seriously, that approaches the academic status quo with an attitude of criticism. This is a healthy attitude, provided it does not freeze into a pattern of bigotry or fanaticism.

Fifty years ago, even thirty years ago, individualism in economics was the status quo, the accepted attitude. It was the collectivists, the socialists, the advocates of more or less state intervention for the supposed benefit of the people, who enjoyed the aura of being trail-blazers prophesying the future, who attracted an audience among student non-conformists.

But now collectivism, at least up to the limits of the New Deal and the welfare state, is the new orthodoxy at most universities and colleges. It is the individualist outlook that possesses the attraction of novelty. At a time when statist liberalism to use a somewhat scrambled semantic term is the accepted dogma, conservatism begins to take on the character of forbidden fruit.

attractive precisely because it is often officially disparaged and discouraged.

So it is not altogether surprising to learn that a new organization known as the Intercollegiate Society of Individualists, a grass-roots student movement with very limited financial resources, has built up a membership of some 3,500. It is a country that numbers its students in the millions, but nonetheless a sign of changing times.

One result of the activities of this organization is the launching at Yale, under student auspices, of an Independent Library. This is well stocked with books and pamphlets advocating individualist attitudes, the kind of publications which seldom get much display in ordinary bookstores.

Change of Pace A similar reference reading room, supplied with books and articles which present the conservative viewpoint has been opened by the New Conservative Club at Harvard. This organization is bringing to Harvard speakers of the type of Republican Senators Bridges and John Marshall Butler and Representative Velde of the House. Un-American Activities Committee. "Liberal" student organizations have been sponsoring and supporting addresses on the campus by such figures as Adlai Stevenson, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia, and Owen Lattimore.

The Harvard young conservatives hope to provide a little better balance in the ideas and viewpoints placed before the students. They have also worked out a rather thoughtful set of principles summing up the conservative outlook, some of which might appeal to adult as well as student conservatives. The principles are as follows:

That the mind and heart of man dwell within the framework of divine law. That society owes the individual the safeguarding of certain rights, which are best preserved by firm limitations upon governmental authority. That the right of private property is fundamental to a truly free society, which idea is best expressed today by the principles of free enterprise. That the experience of history is a valuable guide for present action; and, consequently, that in meeting new problems a society should retain the spirit of the traditions and institutions which it has evolved, adapting them rather than experimenting anew and discarding them only for grave cause.

There is no disposition on the part of this new generation of rebel campus conservatives to repress or interfere with the expression of differing viewpoints. They have just become a little tired of the predominance, sometimes approaching monopoly, of expression enjoyed by the advocates of varying degrees of collectivism of seeing the case for conservative and individualist values go by default.

Insofar as they succeed in redressing the balance, in enlarging the academic market-place of ideas, they will be performing a useful service—for their opponents as well as for their sympathizers.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
EVER THIS

Almost a hundred years before our lord had been crucified, the great conqueror Pompey accorded the citizens of Rome the greatest spectacle of triumph they had ever witnessed. For two whole days the procession went by what we would call today the reviewing stand. A thousand castles had been taken, and 900 cities. Kings and chieftains walked in chains, and behind them came thousands of captives soon to be sold into slavery. Pompey had conquered the world. Everything of any value was in the hands of this mighty man.

But this was only in appearance. To be sure, Pompey himself would go on to greater glories. He would be known as Pompey the Great. But already the Roman Empire had begun to crumble. The triumph of a Babe in Bethlehem, less than a half-century after Pompey died, would begin a new era, and this Babe, grown to manhood and nailed to a cross, would become a greater King than all the Pompeys of history rolled into one. The boasted glory of Pompey and those who came after would give way to the glory of a spiritual order which Jesus called the Kingdom of heaven and which He founded securely upon the earth.

Thus do many of today's fads become tomorrow's trash. Thus do the great become small and the inconsequential rise up to places of glory. Thus does the hand of God put down princes from their thrones and exalt them of low degree. And thus—ever thus, for God is behind it all.

Tax Law Purpose Distorted

By ELMER ROESSNER

Perhaps one of the most absurd suggestions to emerge in recent weeks is the proposal that teachers be given income tax concessions. Arguments for its are, on the surface, quite plausible. We need teachers like crazy. States and school districts can't afford to pay them what they're worth. In fact, nobody could.

So, as a sort of tip it has been suggested we waive taxes on what they earn teaching. Beguiling idea isn't it? Underpayment of teachers is scandalous in some areas. A tax concessions would be the equivalent of a raise without boosting local or state taxes.

PIE-IN-THE-SKY IDEA Suppose we adopt the plan. Teachers would not have to pay taxes on their earnings in that profession. Presumably, they would have to pay on dividends, profits from oil wells and the like. They would make selling vacuum cleaners and scrubbing floors after school hours.

Then the total receipts by the Federal government would be decreased by exactly the amount that teachers were benefited.

Eventually other taxpayers would have to pay just that much more. So why shouldn't taxpayers be assessed enough to begin with, so that teachers can be paid what they're worth? It's no harder to pay local school taxes than Federal income taxes. GOLD STARS FOR EVERYONE

Let's suppose that arguments here prevail—not a not unprecedented situation—and that teachers are granted tax concessions.

Then when barbers need more money, why shouldn't the government give them a tax exemption to head off an increase in prices? The trim of our hair is almost as important as the trim of our mind, and in some occupations, that's even more important. And we need doctors even more than teachers, so why shouldn't they have tax concessions, too? And look, buddy, you like to read this column, don't you? How about me?

Of course we have precedents for giving benefits to the underprivileged. There are already concessions for the aged, the blind and the married. Then why not some for teachers and us who can't spell?

Teachers the blind and the aged surely deserve special consideration. But income tax may be a dangerous way to aid them. Once we start making concessions—and, glory be, we already have—we start to shred away the basic and democratic idea of income taxes. Income taxes have worked fairly well so far, and far better in this country than in almost any other, because they have been applied in a democratic fashion, with no favoritism for royalty or for communists.

But once we try to apply them with the Marxian idea of "from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs," then we convert the income tax system into an instrument for economic leveling of the population, a knout for whipping people into conformity.

Notebook On Life

Members Of A Large Family

By MARVIN SOSNA

Ventura Star-Free Press VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Three weeks ago Betty and Herb Smith were just two polio patients in adjoining iron lungs at Ventura County General Hospital. Their two daughters, Judy 2½, and Debby, 5, were kids looking forward to Christmas, as all kids do.

Today, the Smiths are "members of a family that extends throughout the United States. There are scrapbooks bulging with letters and greeting cards, newspaper clippings and messages of good will.

America reached out to shake hands with the Smiths after an Associated Press story brought them nationwide attention. The story was told Dec. 8 and two days later the first trickle of friendship started.

There was a woman in Little Rock, Ark. who sent a short-message of cheer and a check to buy toys for Judy and Debby. From New York City, Butte, Mont., Chicago, Abilene, Kan., and Kansas City, Mo., came greetings and best wishes.

And in Minnesota a couple who also had been stricken with polio five years ago and recovered wrote a letter to the Smiths.

In Spokane, Wash., Ernest Hix,

Betty Smith's father, saw the picture of his daughter in an iron lung. Friends called him and people he had never known let him know they were on his family's team.

Packages began to arrive, laden with such things as ties and homemade preserves. People promised to pray for the Smiths. A map went up in the hospital isolation ward. As each letter or message arrived, a pin went into the map to show the letter's origin. Nurses read each message to the couple, put the pin in the map and found room for the card or letter on the wall that faced the mirrors on their iron lungs.

No one really knew what had happened to the Smiths until their folks arrived for the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Hix, who was caring for the children, met her husband at 8:05 p.m. Christmas Eve. He had come down from Spokane, where flood-cancelled rail schedules. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, came from Santa Maria, Calif.

They saw the pin-speckled map and the thousands of messages from 31 of the 48 states.

"It almost seems as if we're in a great family," the elder Smith said.

Betty cried. Then she smiled.

Opinions In Brief

Trading stamps? George Leventhal, Cleveland hardware dealer, has them beat. He gives postage stamps.

When he started losing business to competitors who gave trading stamps, Mr. Leventhal began offering a 3-cent stamp with every dollar purchase. Customers can use them on mail or the store will redeem them at face value. Mr. Leventhal said he checked with the Post Office and found the plan is legal.

"Nobody has to paste them in a book or get a book full before getting the value out of the stamps," said the enterprising enterpriser.

One of our spies (a hearing ear dog) reports that the salesman in a local department store told a shopper that a certain rug was of viscose rayon.

"Viscose?" exclaimed the woman. "Haven't you got a peaceful one?"

Crops Are Still Tops In South

By ROGER W. BABSON

RICHMOND, Va. — Southern agriculture has come a long way since the days when Dixie was largely a two-crop country. Besides cotton and tobacco, she now raises a wide variety of valuable farm products, the sale of which greatly enhances the nation's total farm income.

The Old Reliables

The bulk of the domestic cotton crop is grown in the South. This year's indicated total-U.S. output is surprisingly large in view of the sharp cut in plantings last spring. Would it not be the government loan, this ability of southern farmers to get more out of less would wreak havoc with cotton prices this season. However, with prices supported at a good average level, the white staple will add materially to Dixie's farm income during 1955-1956.

Tobacco has long been a major crop in the South. Millions of Americans smoke, and now with women unfortunately smoking, the number is bound to increase. As the scare over possible lung malignancy from smoking appears to have subsided, this year's above-average U.S. tobacco crop should have no difficulty moving into consuming channels at a fair price. Incidentally, I am told that increased use of filter-tip cigarettes should sharply boost demand for lower-grade tobacco. However I am not an expert on smoking problems!

Sugar, Sweet Potatoes, And Rice

A sizable amount of sugar cane is grown in the South, principally in Louisiana and Florida. This year's indicated crop of 7,056,000 tons is well above average, but is by no means excessive. The sweet potato crop also is in view of the sharp cut in plantings last spring. Would it not be the government loan, this ability of southern farmers to get more out of less would wreak havoc with cotton prices this season. However, with prices supported at a good average level, the white staple will add materially to Dixie's farm income during 1955-1956.

Rice is a fairly important crop in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas. Although the 1955 crop is well above the ten-year average it will by no means prove burdensome, since the outlook for U.S. consumption and exports is excellent. Prices in fact, are likely to average somewhat higher over the longer term.

Golden Harvest

Your morning glass of orange juice or grapefruit juice probably originates in Florida, Texas, or Arizona. Pending a sudden freeze, I expect an early and seasonable orange crop for 1955-56 of around 67,000,000 boxes—down about 3 per cent from the year-earlier output. Florida's Valencia crop should be in the vicinity of 39,000,000 boxes—up 10 per cent from a year ago. Arizona and Texas should produce an additional 1,000,000 boxes. Florida tangerines should be around 4,600,000 boxes—down 1.0 per cent from last year. A good total output of grapefruit is indicated in Florida, Texas and Arizona, but at a wickedy low price.

The processing end of the citrus industry has forged ahead rapidly. Demand for canned and frozen products this season undoubtedly will be a fact favorable to prices of fresh fruit. I forecast further growth for the processing division of the South's citrus business, but I urge that quality be maintained at a high level.

Other Miscellaneous Products

The South is a major producer of fruit and vegetables for winter consumption. Given a favorable weather, the outlook for the season ahead is good. I must also mention peanuts, pecans, and tung nuts, which contribute to southern prosperity. The pecan crop this year is short, but the peanut crop is close to average. The South's teeming forests are a major source of raw materials for the naval stores, the lumber, and the booming paper and pulp industries. I expect a good demand for these products, allowing for the usual seasonal variations.

Although Dixie is not without its agricultural problems—particularly cotton—research, know-how, and patience should solve most of them over the longer term. The progress already made augurs well for the future. The South has also made great strides on the industrial front. A strong agriculture, plus booming factories, will be a combination hard to beat.

Gov't To Retain Conservative Trend

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's ability to change the philosophy, the trend and the direction of the Federal government by the mere power of appointment of policymakers is a curious and healthful factor in our political system. It makes it responsive to the popular mood, which even Stevenson labels as "moderate."

Should Stevenson be elected next November, and assume office in January of 1957, he would be surrounded by Eisenhower appointees in every important Federal agency. He will be hemmed in by GOP conservatives or moderates. Under the famous Humphreys decision by the Supreme Court in Coolidge's day, they can be removed only for cause—malfeasance or misfeasance in office.

GOP MODERATION Candidate Stevenson, in view of his recent remarks on "moderation," might be entirely willing to carry on with Ike's ideas. In fact, the susposition that he will not depart from the GOP moderation kind of government explains why Harry S. Truman, Governor Averell Harriman, Governor G. Mennen Williams and Senator Estes Kefauver are ganging up against the Chicago lawyer. Strange as it may be to believe, they think that Stevenson is too conservative, and that his election would mean only a shift of personalities, not policies, at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. DICTATORS' VISITS DISCOURAGED It did not get into the international news dispatches, but European two minor dictators—Generalissimo Franco of Spain and Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia—told Secretary Dulles on his recent visit to their countries, that they would like an Eisenhower invitation to Washington with the usual White House and Capitol Hill welcomes. Dulles discouraged the idea. It would not do, he argued, to show off our dictator friends in a re-election year.

TOKYO—Japan's most sensational kidnap of the year was sentenced to four years imprisonment.

Tadachiko Miyasaka, 37, was convicted of kidnapping the six-year-old son of famed comedian Tony Tani for two million yen (about $100,000) in 1953.

The judge explained he was lenient because Miyasaka did not harm the child. The prosecution had demanded eight years.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
The Woman's Auxiliary of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church has made the first gift toward the establishment of a fund of about $750,000 for the establishment and erection of a headquarters building in Geneva, Switzerland, for the World Council of Churches. The gift is made in memory of Elizabeth Sibley (Mrs. Edwin A.) Stebbins, Rochester, N. Y., an Episcopal leader who has "life-long devotion to the ecumenical movement."

"In our American tradition of the separation of church and state, we have a tradition which few of us would wish to disavow," says Mary Alice Jones of Nashville, Tenn., director of children's work for the Methodist Church. On the other hand, this tradition is being interpreted by many persons to mean that the schools must be non-theistic, and this in turn raises grave questions in the minds of many thoughtful parents. They do not believe in parochial schools, they believe in the public schools, but they do wish their children to have their education rooted and grounded in a view of life and the universe which presupposes the reality of God. A vigorous minority of American citizens seem at the present time to be determined to deny to the majority of Americans this right. . . . As church workers, our primary concern is to help children respond to the Christian faith. The answer to the criticism of the public schools today is improvement."

The Board of Missions of the Methodist Church will seek to enlist 480 young men and women in 1956 to serve in its mission projects in 33 foreign countries, the United States and its territories. The 1956 missionary call was issued through the Office of Missionary Personnel, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y. The Board will seek about 100 single men or couples and 250 single women for lifetime service as missionaries to countries of Asia, Africa and North and South America. For special-term foreign service (three years), the Board will need 50 single men and women. For lifetime home mission service, the Board will need 30 persons, mostly women; and for special-term home mission service (two years) the need is for 50 persons.

Welsh's Passes Spark South To 20-7 Triumph

By MERCER BAILE
MIAMI (AP)—That Welsh beat us with his passes," said Pat Biscaglia, the Notre Dame guard, after the South whipped the North 20-7 in the Mahi Shrine's All-Star football game last night.

Coaches and players on both squads agreed with the unhappy Irish star.

George Welsh, Navy's passing quarterback, was the standout performer in the eighth annual clash between the Rebels and the Yankees. The 5-foot-10, 165-pound aerial expert gave the 42,179 fans a sample of the accuracy which made him the nation's leading passer of the 1955 regular season. He completed 12 of 20 throws for 164 yards while directing the Rebels to their sixth victory in the series. The North has won once and one game ended in a 21-21 tie.

Opposing coaches saw two turning points in the game. Georgia's Wally Butts thought it was the South's goal line stand early in the second half when the North appeared headed for a touchdown which could have tied things up 14-14.

"That defensive stand was the turning point," said Butts. "It took the fire out of the North."

The North had worked down to the nine when Bill Dooley, Mississippi State guard, crashed through and dumped quarterback Freddy Wyant of West Virginia for a 10-yard loss.

North Coach Art Lewis of West Virginia figured the turning point came on the very first play of the game when halfback Bobby Moss of West Virginia fumbled and South Carolina's Joe Silas recovered on the North 31.

On the next play Welsh hit his navy teammate, Ron Beagle, All America end, with a touchdown pass.

"The teams were well matched," said Lewis. "If it hadn't been for that fumble the score might have been reversed."

In addition to his scoring loss to Beagle, Welsh collected the second South TD on a three-yard sneak and set up the third by passing for 62 of the 80 yards in that drive. Bobby Garrard, Georgia fullback, the same's top rusher with 66 yards, scored the final touchdown on a one-yard slam. He also made good on two of his three conversion tries.

The North touchdown resulted from a 51-yard march climaxed by a 38-yard pass play from Wyant to Don Dolleder, Army end.

The South line gave Welsh good protection and he found excellent receivers in Beagle and Harold Burnine of Missouri. Wyant, a southpaw, collected 113 yards on 6 completions in 21 tries but he was the pinpoint accuracy of Welsh, Notre Dame's Gene Kaphan and Hollender were Wyant's main targets.

Fullbacks did most of the running. Pat Uebel of Army got 60 yards and Dick Fitzgerald of Notre Dame got 27. Place second on third behind Garrard in rushing average.

Welsh was voted the South's most valuable player in a press box poll and Hollender won the honor for the North.

State, Duke And North Carolina Rank In Top Ten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This week's national basketball rankings have shown the Dixie Classic directly into the national spotlight.

North Carolina State, North Carolina and Duke all made the top 10 in the Associated Press poll. And they're all entered in the classic.

The tournament will get under way Thursday in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh, N.C.

N.C. State dropped a notch to third place behind top-rated San Francisco and Dayton. The Tar Heels climbed from sixth to fourth. Duke jumped all the way from 14th to eighth place.

All three of the Atlantic Coast Conference powers are unbeaten this year and the Wolfpack is protecting a 20 game winning streak that spans two seasons. North Carolina is 5-0 and Duke is 6-0.

But something should give in the classic, which annually plays to a full house during its entire run.

The Wolfpack is favored, but it will get a severe test.

The opening round pits Wake Forest against Minnesota, Oregon State against N.C. State, Duke against Wyoming and North Carolina against Villanova.

All other conference teams will see action this week in three other tournaments.

Clemson and South Carolina, tied for sixth in the ACC standings, will take part in the Gator Bowl Tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., beginning tomorrow. Virginia, sealed in the loop's basement, will play in the Richmond, Va., Invitational, which also starts tomorrow. Fourth-place Maryland will host the Mid-Winter Festival at College Park, Md., beginning Thursday.

Peaks Will Play In Bowl Contest

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—There's good news in the Rose Bowl camp of the Michigan Spartans. They're playing the Michigan State Spartans in the Jan. 2 bout with the UCLA Bruins.

Sports fans are better acquainted with the Spartans' progress of the Bruins' injured tailback Ronnie Knox than with the comeback of Peaks, but the latter could be the more important factor.

The 198-pound Michigan State back has proved a powerful runner, good blocker, occasional passer, receiver, strong defensible and a specialist on the quick kick and all its variations.

"In top physical shape, he's the best all-around man in our backfield," said Sonny Grandelius, who coaches the backs.

Peaks was leading ground gainer for the Spartans last season and again this year before he was wrecked by a knee and turned an ankle in the Oct. 15 victory over Notre Dame.

He missed one game, was in for only a single play in another and never was in top form for the rest. Still he was the Spartans' third leading rusher for the year.

"Peaks is a slow bear, but he's 100 per cent now," said the team physician, Dr. James Feurig.

On the UCLA side, Knox drilled with the No. 1 UCLA squad for the first time yesterday. He's the team's leading passer and punter although, hampered with injuries much of the season. The latest was a broken bone in his ankle suffered Nov. 12 against Washington.

"He's still favoring his leg and isn't 100 per cent," reported Coach Red Sanders. But physicians have said Knox should be in good shape by the bowl date.

When the two teams last met in the 1954 Orange Bowl the ratings for the regular season were reversed. Oklahoma won 7-0.

Both squads will hold two workouts today, tomorrow and Thursday. Wilkinson also will show his squad movies of Maryland games for the first time today.

San Francisco Is First In Ratings

The Associated Press
The San Francisco Dons, aiming for the all-time major college record for consecutive victories, tightened their grip locally on the No. 1 ranking in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll.

For the third straight week sports writers and sportscasters named Phil Woolpert's West Coast team as the nation's top college basketball team.

The 96 first-place votes on 149 ballots. On the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., San Francisco received 1,366 points.

The remainder of the top 10 underwent a shuffle for the second straight week. Dayton, fourth a week ago, jumped to second on the strength of victories over Utah and Kentucky in the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

Three Dixie teams—North Carolina State, North Carolina and Vanderbilt—ranked 3-4-5 in this week's voting. Iowa, Utah, Duke, Illinois and Oklahoma City completed the top 10.

North Carolina State turned back Brigham Young for its eighth straight triumph but dropped a notch to 1-1 in the West Coast, despite an 87-76 loss to Iowa State, advanced three places.

Graham's Passes Pace Top Offense

By BOB MYERS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The reign of the Cleveland Browns in professional football remains unbroken.

The Browns and their tremendous defensive platoon crushed the Los Angeles Rams yesterday 38-14. It was the second straight year they have won the National Football League title and the third time they've hit the jackpot in six straight appearances in the blue ribbon game of pro football.

Despite the top-heavy score, the Rams were hardly disgraced. Few of their supporters ever thought they'd get in the title game in the first place.

A whopping record crowd of 87,685, $5,693 paid, witnessed the struggle in Memorial Coliseum.

Out of the gross receipts, including radio and television, of $504,257, a net of $431,538.98, the players received: $3,508.21 for each winning Brown—$2,316.26 to each losing Ram.

Cleveland led off with a field goal and followed up with five touchdowns.

Seven times Cleveland intercepted passes turning one into a quick touchdown that, as matter ended, might well have been the crusher.

Defensive halfback Don Pau snaggled the Norm Van Brocklin pass and raced 6 yards for a touchdown that sent the Browns into a 10-0 lead.

Quarterback Otto Graham closed out his magnificent football career with a dazzling performance.

He scored two touchdowns personally, and passed for two others—to Dante Lavelle on a 50-yard play and to Ray Renfro for 35 for another.

"He's the greatest," said Brown Coach Paul Brown.

Of seven interceptions, Cleveland cashed in for points on four.

Halfback Ken Konz intercepted one and soon after Lou Groza kicked a 26-yard field goal.

Tom Janes bagged one and Graham and Lavelle hit for their 50-yard touchdown play.

Center Sam Palunbo snagged another and Graham led the club 36 yards and scored from the one.

Konz's 24-yard punt return set the stage for another tally with Otto sweeping right end 15 yards for a touchdown. And all the while the big Cleveland defensive men were pressuring Van Brocklin, and later Billy Wade, into hurried or ill-fated throws.

MARYLAND EXPECTS BOWL WIN WITH HEAVIER LINEMEN
MIAMI (AP)—Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma arrived in Miami for next Monday's Orange Bowl game with Maryland discussing his football theories of relativity.

He applied them both to the bigger Maryland team, and his faster Oklahomaans, still the most talked about difference between them.

Greeters of both squads yesterday couldn't get over the comparison of Maryland's giants with the trimmer Sooners. One of them remarked about it to Wilkinson, but the reaction was scholarly rather than fearful.

"Maryland is a bigger and stronger team," Wilkinson admitted. "But size is not always all important. It may be only of relative importance."

At the same time, the coach of the nation's No. 1 football team said there also was a relativity about the speed of such as his halfback, Tommy McDonald.

"He's not the fastest as far as sheer speed," Wilkinson claimed. "But he gives that impression from the way he moves. One reason may be that he's the fastest off the ground after being tackled and back into the huddle."

"Also, he's a great competitor," Coach Wilkinson showed he still doesn't appreciate the emphasis upon Oklahoma's being the No. 1 team since it is a psychological incentive No. 3 Maryland to knock 'em off.

Wilkinson shuddered and winced upon hearing an Oklahoma booster sounding off on an amplifying system about the No. 1 ranking at the airport reception last night for the squad.

When the two teams last met in the 1954 Orange Bowl the ratings for the regular season were reversed. Oklahoma won 7-0.

Both squads will hold two workouts today, tomorrow and Thursday. Wilkinson also will show his squad movies of Maryland games for the first time today.

East Carolina, Phantoms Place In Tournament Play

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina College and the Greenville high school Phantom cagers made their presence felt in the pre-Christmas tournaments in which they performed during the holidays. ECC wrapped up fourth place in the Parris Island Tourney in South Carolina by defeating High Point in their final game, 83-53.

The G-Men took the consolation prize of the Tobaccoland Tourney with a 55-57 win over Clinton.

Coach Howard Porter's crew opened their action in South Carolina with a victory over a highly-regarded Georgetown, Kentucky team 86-72. In the second round of play, Pfeiffer upset the Bucs in a 76-74 overtime win, dropping them into consolation bracket. Their 83-53 triumph over High Point, a North State rival, secured the fourth slot for the local college cagers.

Variety Of Leaders
The Buccaneers were paced by a variety of leaders, having a different top scorer in all three contests.

J. C. Thomas, captain and the only senior on the squad, bucketed 27 markers in the first bout and played an outstanding floor game. Don Harris, junior forward from Laurinburg, racked up 21 in the Pfeiffer loss and Guy Mendenhall scored 18 in that final victory.

Coach Porter commented today that the above-mentioned boys played well and cited sophomore Nick Nichols for fine performance during the three-day tourney.

East Carolina will open their 1956 half of the basketball season here in Greenville with a non-conference tilt against Belmont Abbey on Friday, January 6.

Riddick Paced Phantoms
Unlike the Pirates, Greenville high school, participating in the first annual Tobaccoland Tourney, was paced in the scoring department by one man. Senior guard Ike Riddick, making a tremendous bid for All-

Conference and All-State honors this season, turned in efforts of 15, 20 and 21 points against Green opponents.

The G-Men opened the first round of Tobaccoland play with a 51-46 loss to Goldsboro's AAA Quakes. Roaring back, they trounced New Bern, a conference foe, 70-65 to earn a semi-final match with Clinton. In a hectic overtime contest, Coach Booley Farley's charges posted a 58-57 win to cop the consolation crown and third place in the Tournament rankings.

GHS will meet the New Bern Bears here in Greenville at the local high school gymnasium on Tuesday, January 3, in a regular Northeastern loop game.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

BOSTON, Mass.—Folks, you don't realize how lucky you are, because unless your thermometer hit 6 above last night you were warmer than we were up here in historic—but frigid—Boston. The place is full of stalled cars, red ears and stuffed-up noses—for climate, give us Greenville, N. C., any month of the year.

Seen en route
Somewhere in Delaware we looked up in the sky and saw what appeared to be a Christmas tree suspended in mid-air about fifty feet above the ground. Coming closer, we spied the outlines of a TV antenna mast, and then realized that some enterprising decorator had festooned the top of it with Xmas tree lights to make it look like a tree.

People certainly are finding more and more uses for this TV business. Aside from winning $64,000, we can think of very few better ways to put TV towers to work than fixing them up with lights for the festive season.

Yankee Landmark
We drove up here with two of our student friends from Princeton, N. C., and were very anxious to show them the things people ought to see as we made our way along. Driving up the Hudson River on the edge of New York, we told them that there was a most important landmark in that particular area. When they eagerly asked us what it was we said, "Grant's Tomb." The boys, for some reason that we couldn't figure out, did not stop to take a look.

Comparisons
Whenever you're away from home, you always like to make comparisons between what you have and what people have at the place you happen to be visiting. For instance, Boston is jumping with bookstores and Chinese restaurants, of which Greenville has very, very few. On the other hand, although the stores are much bigger, they sell pretty much the same stuff—at the same prices—that our stores do. . . . And it's an awful lot easier to shop on Evans Street or Dickinson Ave. than it is in New York, where it took us exactly two hours to buy one game for our small niece—and then we couldn't get it gift-wrapped.

Information Please

Last week we mentioned publication of the new edition of "Information Please Almanac," which has just come out in a paperback edition priced at a dollar, and very cheap indeed for what you get. We happened to have one where we were staying, and immediately we turned to the section labelled "Education," since we are vaguely interested in this subject.

One of the pages containing lengthy statistical information showed, among other things, how much each state spends per year on each student in its elementary and secondary school systems. . . . North Carolina puts out an even $170 per pupil which, we were somewhat nonplussed to discover, is less than almost any other state pays. . . . The only others which do not spend as much as we do are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, and Tennessee. Even though we seem to be devoting an awful lot of money to our schools, apparently we're still not doing such a terrific job, comparatively speaking. . . . And if you think North Carolinians are the only ones who are worrying about their schools, you're wrong—people all over the country are worrying about the same thing, so maybe someday something will be done.

The Futures
"Island in the Sun," Alec Waugh's new novel about passionate folks in the British West Indies, will be reviewed in these columns soon—it's the February choice of The Literary Guild. . . . The Guild's March selection will be another Civil War story, "Jubilee," by John Brick, about a regiment of volunteers from New York State who marched with General Sherman. . . . "The Hearth and the Stranger" is a novel by a brand new author named N. Martin Kramer, and is coming out in January. The publishers claim that it's going to be sensational.

AMATEUR HAIRCUT
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Charles N. Jeter was fined $50 for cutting off his wife's hair after trying her to a bed with stockings and adhesive tape. He offered no explanation for his action.

There are more than 28 million people in the United States who play a musical instrument, says the American Music Conference.

SUGAR BOWL QUEEN:—Pretty Miss Dawn Hebert, 19, sophomore political science major at Newcomb (Tulane University) will reign as queen at the 22nd annual Sugar Bowl football classic on January 2, 1956. She is the daughter of U. S. Congressman F. Edward Hebert of New Orleans. (AP Wirephoto).

Burt Is Faring Pretty Well For A Circus Man

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Some folks were inclined to laugh at Burt Lancaster during his early years in Hollywood.

"The guy's a former circus acrobat," they scoffed. "After a picture or two he was directing his directors and talking about producing his own pictures. Haw."

Seated behind a desk in his tastefully decorated office, Burt today can have the last laugh. He and partner Harold Hecht now have the most vigorous independent producing company in the film industry.

Their first few films, including one directed by Lancaster, have made millions. Their "Marty" is high in the Oscar contention. And they recently completed the promising "Trapeze" in Paris, starring Burt, Gina Lollobrigida and Tony Curtis, with Carol Reed as director.

Not a bad record for the ex-acrobat. What's more, he has reached the point where he will work only when the project excites him. He reasoned for two reasons: 1. To establish themselves as a personality on the screen. 2. To make money. Fortunately, I have achieved the former and money is no longer a great concern. I have been very lucky with our company and have established on a basis whereby the money will be coming to me over a period of years.

"So I'm going to cut down on my film schedule. For one thing, I want to work more into the production end of the business. We have six pictures set for the future and I want to take an active part in their planning. I may take producer's credit on one of them."

"There's another reason I want to slow down on film acting: I want to get acquainted with my family. They're at the stage now when they think their father is pretty hot stuff, and I feel I should spend more time with them. They were in Paris two and a half months, but I was also there three months without them. I don't want to have any such absences again."

Burt, who is getting plaudits for his role with Anna Magnani in "The Rose Tattoo," said he probably won't act in another picture until the fall of 1956. It will be an ambitious undertaking—George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Deciple."

Four Wrecks In City Reported

Four wreck reports from holiday accidents in the city have been filed by city police. No injuries were reported.

At 2:30 Sunday morning a two-car collision at Dickinson and Boyd Avenues did $800 in property damage to cars operated by Henry Williams, 44, of Greenville and Leo Eisenhammer, 25, of Ayden. No arrests or injuries resulted.

Some $275 in property damage was done at Fourth and Elizabeth Streets about 7:45 p. m. Sunday when cars operated by Willie Wilson, 32, of 1014 W. Fourth Street and Walter Frank Gray, 27, Negro, of 803 Vanderbilt Street collided. No arrests resulted.

Saturday, about 10:20 p. m. another Dickinson and Boyd Avenue wreck did $200 total damages to cars driven by Ray Lee Everett, 49, of Route 2 and Joyce Bunch, 23, of Village Drive. Everett was charged with no operator's license and operating under the influence.

A 6:45 p. m. Saturday some $475 damage was done when cars driven by Maggie Castellone, 17, of Route 2, Winterville and James Brewington, 28, Negro, of Greene Street were involved in a collision. Miss Castellone was cited for failure to stop for a stop sign.

Repairman, But Not For TV Set

BALTIMORE (AP)—The television set was on the blink, so Mr. and Mrs. Armand M. Beard put in a call for the repairman.

Later, Mrs. Beard was talking on the telephone to her daughter-in-law. She mentioned that the $5,500 ransom last July.

Just then, the door bell rang. Beard admitted a man carrying a small bag.

"Where's the patient?" the visitor asked.

"Over there," said Beard, pointing to the TV set.

The man with the little bag couldn't do anything about it. It was a doctor who had come to the wrong house by mistake.

Hammarskold Evades Newsmen

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dag Hammarskold, Secretary General of the United Nations, caught newsmen off guard yesterday and pulled a fast disappearing act.

Arriving here for a rest, the Swedish diplomat quietly stepped from his plane and hid from the waiting reporters and photographers while his aide rented a blue and white car.

The aide then wheeled the car up to the rear of the airport terminal and Hammarskold ran for it. He hurried his luggage into the car and away they went.

The aide said Hammarskold was "here for a rest" and didn't "want any publicity."

FIRE DESTROYS HISTORIC INN:—Fire destroys the centuries-old Wayside Inn, at Sudbury, Mass., immortalized by poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The Inn was restored to its natural beauty by the late Henry Ford. The blaze devoured the rambling wooden structure and its contents of valuable antiques, despite the efforts of a half-dozen firefighting units. (AP Wirephoto).

Not Apathy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—It's not apathy which causes many people to shrug off the vital issues of the day, says Dr. Arthur G. Bills, head of the psychology department at the University of Cincinnati. It's really adaptation, the protective reaction against over-stimulation.

That is why so many people continue to drive at reckless speed in the face of a mounting death toll; to ignore calls from the blood banks, and to give civil defense only passing thought, he says.

"When persons are constantly subjected to horror scenes or highly emotional situations they will become impervious—removing the objectionable scenes from their consciousness."

Prosperity has something to do with it, too.

"People become more selfish, more bent on pleasure at all costs," he says. "They lose the fellow-feeling as they lose the need for help from others."

Glaring Error in Window Pain

LA MESA, Calif. (AP)—A homeowner got a low bid from an unemployed glazier to replace a picture window. Paid him the money and told him to buy the glass and install it.

The owner came home to find the glazier gone and the window installed. There was one glaring error—the glass came a foot short of reaching the window.

Will Direct His Troopers By Air

DENVER (AP)—State patrolmen will be out in force on Colorado highways during the New Year's weekend, but patrol chief Gilbert Carrel won't be among them.

He'll be above the expected heavy traffic, directing operations from a patrol plane over the Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Denver and Greeley areas.

"It's a lot safer up there," Carrel commented wryly referring to an all-time record of 418 traffic deaths in the state this year.

Will Give Away Practical Joke

DALLAS (AP)—J. C. Owens, who found a 4-months old lioness with a holly wreath around her neck tied to his front porch, is going to be just as generous as the unknown practical joker who gave the pet to him.

Owens announced today he will give the Christmas gift to a high school boy in the neighborhood who has had more experience in caring for pets than Owens has.

Belgian Prefers Bachelorhood

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—"Freedom is a great and wonderful thing and should not be too easily surrendered a woman," a young Belgian farmer says.

In fact, he adds, any man who marries before 25 in Belgium might be laughed at.

Camille Schouppe, 29-year-old bachelor, also says American girls seem prettier than Belgian lasses, but in a "false and painted way."

Schouppe, studying farms here as a farm youth exchange student, says he's delighted with American food—all but the bread which he describes as nothing more than "puff." He says a loaf of Belgian bread weighs about three pounds.

The great part of the diet in Belgium, he says, is bread and potatoes. And on Belgian farms, the favorite drink is beer. However, he adds, beer is consumed as a refreshment, not an intoxicant. He says there are still fines for Belgians who can't handle the stuff.

He says the average farm in Belgium is 4.4 acres, which makes many American farms seem wealthy and vast.

Schouppe came here from his uncle's farm about 16 miles from Brussels.

PROFITABLE SEWAGE

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Beaumont expects to take in $3,000 to $4,500 a year, selling dried sewage for use as fertilizer. Supt. Joe Dust of Beaumont's new sewage treatment plant said he has received inquiries from cities over the nation about its operations.

Juvenile Applicant For Highway Patrol

WAKEFIELD, Mich. (AP)—Michigan state police, campaigning to recruit 200 new troopers got this application:

"My name is Randy Seppala, 7 years old, of Mass. Mich. I want to join the Michigan state police."

Police said Randy's application will be considered—in 1969.

Monkey Business On A Railroad Journey

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Monkey business developed on a railroad trip when a monkey escaped from its express cage. It rode the rods of a baggage car 49 miles between Missoula and Drummond. Finally cornered at the passenger station and recaptured the monkey was sent to its mates at the U.S. Public Health Laboratory, Hamilton, Mont.

VANDAL SHOPPERS

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Careless handling of merchandise costs retailers thousands of dollars each year, reports Elsie Bamesberger, extension specialist in consumer education at Pennsylvania State University.

In grocery stores, she says, customers pinch fruit to see if it's ripe and burrow under the top berries in a basket to see if the bottom ones are good. Housewives are justified in inspecting the conditions of goods, she adds, but urges careful handling by customers as if they were going to buy the article.

Late Christmas On Canyon Ledge

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Christmas came late for Donald Ellison of Tucson. The 23-year-old airman spent 24 hours on a two-foot ledge, fighting off sleep so he wouldn't tumble into a canyon.

Ellison was rescued yesterday by a four-man team using ropes. After his leg muscles unkinked, he was all right.

It all began when Ellison, his wife, and another couple drove into the rugged Catalina Mountains as their Christmas turkey simmered in the oven and went for a walk.

Ellison took a shortcut and suddenly found himself on a tiny ledge. A sheer rock wall led upwards and there was a 175-foot drop to the base of the cliff.

Frozen with fear, he crouched down and faced the cliff.

"I didn't sleep. I caught myself doing twice but got hold of myself before falling off. I was scared," he said.

Rescuers got close to Ellison early yesterday but couldn't get him off. Then two newspapermen, reporter Dean Prichard and photographer Jack Sheaffer of the Arizona Daily Star in Tucson, got within 100 feet.

They shouted for help and two more men came. They lowered ropes and let Ellison down. His legs were so weak from crouching for 24 hours that they buckled un-

VETERAN LIGHT

BOSTON (AP)—The Nantucket Shoals lightship, off the coast of Massachusetts, has been operating for 122 years. The first lightship in American waters, says the National Geographic Society, was one stationed off Norfolk in 1820. Its light burned fish oil and quickly blew out in high winds.

Americans Win Soviet Ovation

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP)—The first major American theatrical troupe to visit Russia since the Bolshevik Revolution won a 10-minute ovation last night at the end of their opening performance of "Porgy and Bess."

All 2,400 seats of the Palace of Culture were filled for the Negro company's first performance in Russia of the American folk opera by George Gershwin and Dubose Heyward.

It was a homecoming of sorts, for the Gershwin family originated in Leningrad, and Alexander Smallens, here from America to conduct the production, was born in this city. Before the performance, Smallens and Mrs. Ira Gershwin, sister-in-law of the composer, were introduced from the stage.

Much of the audience found the English language and the unfamiliar music a barrier at first but enthusiasm mounted as the evening progressed. At the final curtain the applause went on so long that the orchestra drummer joined in and some of the cast did impromptu turns.

Moscow radio termed the premiere a great success. Seats for the Leningrad engagement are at a premium. The company will open in Moscow Jan. 10, with jammed theaters in prospect there also.

Car Stocks In Dealer Hands Are Running High

By DAVID J. WILKIE

AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT—The nation's auto industry will wind up 1955 with the heaviest year-end retail inventories in its history.

Authoritative sources predict the total will go above the 800,000 unit mark. Virtually all will be 1956 model cars which have now been in production for approximately two months.

New car stocks in dealer hands jumped from 569,000 on Nov. 1 to more than 709,000 on Dec. 1. The year-end tabulation will not be completed until about mid-January. There appears little doubt, however, that another 100,000 units will be added to the stocks on hand.

What this portends for the industry's manufacturing and merchandising divisions is somewhat difficult to forecast. The manufacturers took note of the higher stocks by slightly reducing their production schedules. They halted much of the Saturday overtime work.

The inventory increase, of course, reflects a lag in retail deliveries. No car maker will admit a decline in demand for his particular make of car. It is obvious, however, that no manufacturer would have voluntarily reduced his output had retail sales continued at near top levels.

It has become something of a tradition in automotive history that new car sales fall off during the period from November through February. But a decline does not usually develop at the start of a new model year.

Probably it should be noted that the lag in retail new car deliveries has not been of major proportions. Factory output has been of near record volume.

The factories built about 518,000 and sold 576,045 new cars in October. They rolled out 745,500 and sold an estimated 515,000 in November. Unless additional production cuts are made factory output for December will be heavily in excess of retail deliveries, although it will fall short of the November assembly total.

If year-end dealer inventories do top 800,000 units a slower production pace probably will be set for January and February. Some industry experts say the inventory volume can be leveled off to the traditional one-month requirements by the simple expedient of eliminating overtime for a few weeks.

There still is a difference of opinion among industry authorities as to what constitutes a month's normal inventory. Before World War II the most commonly used figure was 400,000. Now they say half a million units is a comfortable inventory.

Manufacturers and dealers still do not see eye-to-eye on the subject of market possibilities. Probably something may be said for both sides in this situation. Certainly the dealers did a tremendous job in cleaning out their stocks of outgoing 1955 models during September and October.

They did it with price cutting but considerably less of the "blitz" selling technique they indulged in late in 1953 and 1954. Generally neither manufacturer nor retailer wants to see a revival of the "profit-sacrificing" sales promotion stunts of those years.

So it's a fairly reasonable guess that January and February production will be geared rather closely to indicated retail demand. After that assembly plants could be expected to again set up production marks.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

A good year in home building has just been completed and another good year looms ahead. In spite of all the fuss and feathers over credit restrictions, more than a million new homes were built in 1955 and more than a million seem certain to be built in 1956.

Building plans of all kinds now on the drawing boards and contracts already awarded have prompted the Departments of Commerce and Labor to estimate that 1956 construction expenditures will set a new all-time high perhaps 44 billion dollars—a jump of 4 billion or so.

Your house and my house will bolster that big outlay, aside from the Joneses' new house, because of the repairs and changes we will make. The new year has been earmarked as home modernization year—and that is more than just a slogan.

Manufacturers and processors of building materials and equipment have organized to make concerted drives "to restore obsolescent homes and bring other aged homes up to modern standards... and prevent the birth of new slums."

Such is their stated aim. Considering, we'll all undoubtedly fall into line.

Meanwhile, definite new trends in houses have taken shape during 1955. So this is one occasion when looking backward and forward at the same time can be more profitable for homeowners and prospective homeowners than just rubber-necking.

The most apparent trend of 1955 was toward informality and outdoor living. The family room became one of the biggest features in most new designs. The formal living room was pushed farther in the direction of the extinct parlor.

It seems that people began to realize they are building houses for their families to live in—not primarily for entertaining company.

Bigger homesites became the rule. Not because of an ascendancy of the ranch house (split levels made a big showing) but because of the demand for elbow room. Nearby land became prohibitive and often unattractive. Good roads and better cars opened new vistas.

While garden columns and garden advertising expanded more glass was used in houses—window walls, sliding glass doors, glass jalousies. Glass became scarce and we'll see an even greater demand for it in 1956.

Now the building industry realizes that everybody can't have a new house every year and that the upkeep of some 45 million older houses involves about as much as the construction of one million new houses. So powerful organizations have been formed to encourage us to fix up our houses in 1956.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has sponsored Operation Home Improvement. The National Assn. of Plumbing Contractors is promoting package remodeling, wrapping up the services of carpenters, electricians, plasterers and painters along with those of the plumbers. ACTION, which stands for the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods, is behind the whole idea as a nationwide non-profit organization. The National Retail Lumber Dealers Assn. is bidding for a star role.

What does it mean to you and me? Well it is supposed to mean that it will be easier to keep our houses abreast of the times in durability, equipment and livability on a reasonable budget arrangement. Both the plumbing contractors and the lumber dealers are making every effort to wrap up financing for a complete job so we won't have a flutter of bills coming in from every man who does a stint.

We'll see how it works out.

U.S. crop losses due to insects, diseases, hail, weeds and other causes are estimated at $8,300,000 annually.

NO WINGS -but a wing-ding take-off!

And at only part throttle - with Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo?

Of course, you don't get wings with this sleek and stunning new '56 Buick—but you can get the nearest thing to them.

It goes under the name of Variable Pitch Dynaflo, because it uses the principle of the modern plane's propeller.

But the 1956 version of this great transmission goes airplanes one better now.

It's all as simple as it's thrilling.

At take-off, a pilot sets the pitch of his propellers for all-out acceleration. Aloft, he switches to cruising pitch for top mileage.

You can do that, too, in a '56 Buick. Just floor the pedal and you switch the Dynaflo blades to high-performance angle. That gets you going instantly at full-power sweep. Then, just ease up on the pedal, and you switch to cruising pitch—and a lot better gas mileage.

But now you get something a pilot doesn't get—a new quick get-away response even without switching the pitch. A sizzling new take-off at only part throttle. A wonderfully solid new take-off that you use in all your normal driving situations. And you get it with Dynaflo smoothness—plus another boost in gas mileage.

Why not come try it?

Why not get the feel of it by taking the wheel? And there's no better place than right there to learn about the great new record-high horsepower, the sweet new ride, the superb new handling, and the long list of safety features that make this, literally, the best Buick yet.

Drop in on us soon—this week would be fine—and let this sweep-styled new beauty show you what pure automobile can do.

New Drugs Promising Help To Mentally Ill

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ATLANTA (AP)—New drugs work like a kind of mental penicillin for some mental illnesses and "the blues," medical scientists reported today.

There are five of these drugs, all acting as tranquilizing or calm-down medicines. They sometimes bring dramatic results. They may help explain what goes wrong in human minds to cause sicknesses and the blues.

Encouraging results with these drugs were described at a symposium of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, largest science meeting of the year.

With them, "psychiatry seems to have entered a new era, in a way similar to the era in medicine following the discovery of penicillin," said Dr. Nina Toll, Middletown, Conn., psychiatrist.

In office practice, she reported good results from one drug (trienel), on patients ill for a long time, and not helped by other usual treatments. The drug helped them talk out and understand their troubles and rekindled interest in life, she said. Those who had had hallucinations still heard voices "but began to realize it was part of their illness."

Two other soothing drugs, reserpine and chlorpromazine, brought dramatic results when used together, said Dr. Werner Tuteur, clinical director, and David Lepson, staff psychologist, at Elgin State Hospital, Elgin, Ill.

Given to 12 highly disturbed women who were destructive, bellicose or untidy the drugs made them quieter, friendly and calmer. Six have gone home to relatives who once feared to be with them. The women are continuing to take the drugs. One is working, earning $90 a week; another sings in a church choir.

Dr. Herman Denber and Dr. Elia G. Bird of Manhattan State Hospital, New York, said chlorpromazine improved more than 80 per cent of 1,300 men and women mental patients, or whom nearly 200 were sent home.

Another drug, meprobamate, helps combat the depression or blues that send some people off on alcoholic binges, said Dr. Richard C. Proctor of Winston-Salem, N.C. Twenty of 26 patients stayed free

Explorer Record Kentucky Cavern

ATLANTA (AP)—Spelunkers—the explorers of caves—have discovered the world's largest known cave in Kentucky, with more than 32 miles of passages, the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science was told today.

It is the Floyd Collins' Crystal Cave, which actually turns out to be a nucleus of a cave system of record-breaking extent, said Roger W. Brucker and David B. Jones, Yellow Springs, Ohio; William T.

Austin, Cave City, Ky and Brother G. Nicholas, FSC, Cumberland, Md.

Exploration has uncovered many miles of cave passages, including connections between Crystal Cave and other nearby caves.

"Passages already surveyed or explored in the system now total 32 miles, making it the largest known," the explorers said, and there are probably yet undiscovered passages. The second largest cave is Holocho, in Switzerland.

The Floyd Collins Cave was named after a young explorer who was trapped in the cave—and died before rescuers could reach him.

The Japanese beetle, first detected in this country in 1916, has now been found as far west as the Mississippi Valley.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads were strong while motors lagged today in a slightly higher stock market. Prices in the early afternoon ran to around 2 points higher, or a little more in some cases, to between 1 and 2 points lower at the outside in key areas.

Business was considerably better than Friday's 2,000,000 shares. The market was quietly mixed on Friday before the three-day recess for Christmas.

Railroads had their strength based on estimates of good earnings while motors suffered from predictions of a dip in 1956 production.

Predicts Extra Votes For GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich) predicted today his party will draw a bigger vote from organized labor's ranks in 1956 because "there is a tendency for people to vote their pocketbooks."

He said he hopes and expects President Eisenhower will seek reelection, but that he does not, a GOP standard bearer pledged to continue the Eisenhower program will win.

"It would be folly of the first order for the Republican party to nominate someone who would go contrary to the program the public has accepted, which is the Eisenhower program," Potter told reporters.

He said a newspaper survey in industrial Detroit recently indicated that about 20 per cent of voters who cast their ballots for Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson for president in 1952 would vote for Eisenhower in 1956 if he and Stevenson are the nominees.

Potter termed that evidence that "the lugubrious of a Republican depression has been exploded." The fear factor that has influenced many of the laboring men to vote the Democratic ticket has been exploded.

"There is a tendency for people to vote their pocketbook," he said, "and the laboring man today has a fuller pocketbook than he ever had in history. He can look forward to further improvements in his economic well being."

Calls No Inquest In Apparent Suicide Friday

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse today said that P. T. Anthony, 43, of 551 Evans Street, died Friday of a self-inflicted gunshot wound and that no inquest would be held.

Anthony, Rouse said, apparently shot himself with a pistol at his home about 6:30 p.m. One bullet which brought death, entered his head.

The shooting occurred in a bedroom of his home, Rouse said. Relatives, the coroner added, apparently were at a loss to explain the shooting.

GM Unveils New Turbine Car

General Motors has built and successfully tested this new experimental gas turbine-powered passenger car, Firebird II. To be shown publicly for the first time at the General Motors Motorama of 1956 in New York, Miami, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Boston, the Firebird II is designed as a four-passenger family car for highway use. General Motors has no plans, however, to put it into production.

Adlai Supporters Looking For A Running Mate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supporters confident that Adlai E. Stevenson will win the Democratic presidential nomination were reported quietly canvassing the field today in search of a vice presidential candidate generally regarded as "liberal."

Stevenson himself apparently is taking no part in this move. But some of those closely associated with the former Illinois governor when he ran in 1952 and who are working for him now have been discussing possible candidates with the aim of offering what they call a balanced ticket.

Their view, as explained by one of them, is that Stevenson has chartered the middle of the road as his course and will carry a "moderate" label into the Chicago convention next August.

This is calculated in part to make him more appealing to southern delegates than in 1952. It also is geared to what Stevenson himself has said is the spirit of the times and, by inference, the best vote-catching appeal in the November election.

But there are signs that some elements of the Democratic party—particularly organized labor—believe that "moderation" easily could drift into stagnation of social gains, which Stevenson has said should not be allowed to occur.

To offset this, some of Stevenson's supporters think that if their candidate wins the top place on the ticket, it will be more important to have a vice presidential nominee who bears the label of "liberal" than it will be to satisfy geographical and other considerations.

In this connection they have been discussing such men as Governors Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, former Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut and others.

15-Year-Old Is Called As Expert

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Expert witnesses often are called upon in court, but rarely has one been as young as Clark Woodrow, 15. The defendant in a damage case, called him to establish the hour at which darkness began on Aug. 30, 1954, date of a collision between a locomotive and an automobile.

The company wanted to establish that the 8:15 p.m. accident happened prior to total darkness. Woodrow, who for several years has studied Southern West Virginia weather, testified that darkness began at 8:44 p.m. on the date in question.

Necessity Paid Bridge Repairs

LYONS, Mich. (AP)—The old bridge spanning the Grand River has been repaired and a private company picked up the tab. The condemned bridge remained that way at first because there was a dispute over whether it was the responsibility of the village of Lyons, the township or the county or the state.

The company said it would pay the $100 needed for repairs because it was unable to get supplies across the bridge and its employees also used it.

Industry Expects Keep Up Its Peak Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks says a survey by his department shows that most major industries expect to continue operating during the first half of 1956 at peak levels or close to them.

Results of a year-end survey which Weeks made public last night said that record output is foreseen by such industries as iron and steel, aluminum, automobiles and trucks, construction and lumber.

The iron and steel industry was said to expect that the first half of the new year will be "one of the highest, if not the highest" production periods on record. Aluminum shipments, Weeks said, probably will run about 18 per cent above the first half of this year and 7 per cent above the last half.

An output of 4½ million autos and trucks was forecast in the first six months of 1956. That would be a record for the first half of any year. The aircraft industry was reported to have a 13½-billion-dollar backlog of orders.

Injured (total) 178

Airport Surplus Items For Sale

Several items of surplus equipment at the Pitt-Greenville Airport are being offered for sale by the Airport Commission.

C. W. Harvey Jr., chairman, said that the commission will receive bids on three trucks and five gas tanks which are no longer needed for the operation of the airport. The vehicles include one fire truck, one gas truck and one lighter truck. The equipment is now being advertised for sale, with all bids subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Several Alarms Summon Firemen

Grease burning on a grill filled a downtown restaurant with smoke early Friday morning.

The fire took place at the Mary Ann Soda Shop at Five Points about 5:30 in the morning. Firemen extinguished the blaze with booster lines from a high pressure truck but the restaurant was filled with heavy smoke.

The restaurant was later delled, was reopened for business later in the day.

Firefighters were also called to three grass fires Friday and one on Christmas day.

There were also grass fires yesterday plus a call to a burning auto on Evans St.

Still Investigating Odd Case Of 'Drugged' Girl

A Negro girl, found in a stupor condition behind the airport Saturday afternoon, was released from Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday morning.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the girl had given her name as Lou Eason and her age as 24 years old.

She was found, partially clothed, at the sand pit behind the City-County Airport by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips who were in the area looking over a tract of timber which was for sale.

The couple, upon discovering the girl, went to a nearby rural paved road for assistance. There they found Highway Patrolman J. B. Surles who returned to the scene with them and summoned the Greenville Fire Department rescue truck by two-way radio.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the girl told officers that she is from Tarboro and had been staying with a family north of Greenville since last summer.

The sheriff quoted Miss Eason as saying the last thing she remembers prior to awakening in the hospital was being in an automobile at a service station between Greenville and Bethel.

Sheriff Tyson stated that the girl admitted taking several drinks during the evening. However, she told officers she did not know who else was in the car at the time.

Doctors stated that the woman was heavily sedated when brought to the hospital. Later examinations showed no proof of anything more than alcohol being present in her system, medical authorities declared.

There were no cuts, abrasions or bruises upon the girl's body. It has not been definitely determined whether or not the Eason woman had been raped.

Miss Eason was found with her clothes in a disheveled condition at the sand pit site. The area in which she was found is entered by a winding path leading from the Prison Camp Road.

Sheriff's department deputies, assisted by other law enforcement officers, are continuing their investigation of the affair.
